James Stone and Bill Barneson of Houston were week end guests of friends and relatives here. Benny Stone, who has been visiting here the past week, returned home with them.

CENTRAL TEXAS IN BID FOR HIGHWAYS ZEIGLER APPEARS BEFORE COMMISSION

Heading a delegation of 40 central Texans, Judge Floyd Zeigler of Gatesville, president of the Central Texas Highway Association appeared before the state highway commission last Monday and presented a proposed program for improvement of 854 miles of highways in the associations territory, which includes 29 counties situated between the Colorado and Trinity rivers.

Besides Judge Zeigler those making the trip and composing the committee were F. G. Blake, Cameron, H. B. Burks, Comanche, Judge Sam V. Stone, Georgetown, John Calhoun, Corsicana, J. Lambert Lain, Cleburne, Bibb Gilchrist, dean of engineering, A. and

M., George S. Buchanan, Marlin, C. A. Northington, Lampasas, and R. J. Potts, Waco.

Judge Zeigler reports one of the best receptions at the hands of the highway commission he has ever experienced, and briefly, some of the facts presented were: the territory represents 25,226 square miles; 916,795 population; 29 counties, vehicles registered, 199,584; and no large cities to boost the population.

The program suggested calls for 845 miles of highways and on a three year basis, the annual mileage to be constructed on the yearly program would be some 281 miles.

Historical relics from Franciscan missions between San Diego and San Francisco are on exhibition in the San Francisco building on Treasure Island. Rare old books furniture fashioned by the padres, and many other articles are being shown.

The world's largest relief map,

110 feet long by 100 feet wide, is on display in the Hall of Western States at the Exposition.

Treasure Island now has its own chickens that cross the road. Only they are not chickens, but quail.

A permanent stage is to be erected at the east side of the Court of the Nations on Treasure Island—the large plaza flanked by the California State Building Auditorium and Lake of the Nations. The plaza is newly paved and smooth as a dance floor.

Treasure Island's world famous flower gardens will be in full bloom when the 1940 Golden Gate International Exposition opens.

Bamboo tree on Treasure Island have electric "bed warmers" designed by General Electric to make them grow to desired heights.

The largest light in the world, 50,000 watts, will be lighted by General Electric at the Golden Gate International Exposition.

A WALTER WANGER production Directed by JOHN FORD

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Buck Rickabaugh, simple-minded but good-natured driver of the stagecoach to the frontier town of Lordsburg, N. M., in 1885, stops at Tonto, Ariz., to change horses. Passengers who are going on with him to Lordsburg (an overnight ride) are Mrs. Lucy Mallory, beautiful young Southern matron soon to become a mother; Mr. Peacock, timid liquor salesman; and U.S. Marshal "Curly" Wilcox, riding as shotgun guard. They are joined by Dallas, pretty blonde dance hall girl, and Doc Boone, kindly but drunken physician, both run out of town by the Tonto Ladies' Law and Order League. As the stagecoach is about to proceed on its journey, a cavalry guard draws up and announces that Geronimo, hated and feared chief of the Apaches, is on the warpath again.

Chapter Two

"Set down!" commanded Curly. Buck subsided into his seat; but the idea of driving the stagecoach through the Apache hazard appealed to him no more than before.

Curly stepped down and addressed the passengers in the wood pompously, settling himself none too gently between the two girls. "Anbody know where they're going?"

"Brother, aren't you aware of what's happened?" fluttered Peacock.

"We're all going to be scalped, Gatewood," explained cheerfully "Massacred in one fell swoop. It's that old Apache butcher, Geronimo — he's on the warpath."

"Geronimo?"

"Sure. Ranches burning all over the countryside."

"So Geronimo's on the warpath!" Gatewood pulled out a large handkerchief and mopped the perspiration from his face.

Curly's quest was rewarded sooner than he expected when a well-set-up, strikingly handsome youth in cowpuncher's clothes appeared at a bend with rifle in hand. Here was the Ringo Kid bound for Lordsburg as Curly had guessed, but forced to take the stagecoach when his horse went lame. Curly, backed by the detachment of cavalry behind, relieved Ringo of his Winchester placed him under arrest, and ordered him into the already full stage, where he seated himself on the floor.

He settled himself none too gently between the two girls.

coach. "Did you all hear what the Lieutenant said?" said Mrs. Mallory briefly.

"Well, me and Buck are takin' this coach through whether they's any passengers or not. Now who ever wants to get out can get out."

Little Mr. Peacock seized his sample case and reached for the door. But he reckoned without Doc Boone, who was not to be deprived of his traveling "oasis". Boone pushed the whiskey drummer back into his seat.

"Courage, Reverend. Ladies first!"

But the ladies chose to stay — Dallas because she had no place else to go, and Lucy Mallory because she refused to let anything stop her from getting to her cavalry officer husband at Dry Fork.

While Peacock was still vainly trying to convince Doc Boone that he should be permitted to abandon the trip for the sake of his wife and five children in Kansas City, a tall, straight, courtly-looking gentleman strode up to the coach. Known in Tonto as Hatfield, a professional gambler from somewhere below the Mason and Dixon line, he had for some time been watching Mrs. Mallory from the vantage point of a table in the Oriental saloon.

"Room for one more, Marshal?" he addressed Curly. "I'm offering my protection to this lady. I can shoot fairly straight if there is need for it." And he clambered into the coach, seating himself on the front seat alongside Peacock and Boone, facing Dallas and Mrs. Mallory on the rear seat.

At a meaningful look from Curly, Buck reluctantly picked up the reins and yelled to his horses.

"Hi there, Susy! Hi there, Billy! Giddy up! Git along!"

The stagecoach clattered up the main street of Tonto, bound for the open country.

At the outskirts of the town they picked up still another passenger — Mr. Henry Gatewood, Tonto's well-fed, self-important banker, very much the business man, who clutched a heavy black valise and vouchsafed a tremendous desire to get to Lordsburg (the nearest railroad station) as soon as possible.

"Fine-looking bunch of soldier boys back there," remarked Gatewood more and more tense. Hatfield worked assiduously at his self-appointed task as protector of the frail Mrs. Mallory, ordering Doc Boone to throw away his odoriferous cigar, defending the good name of the late lamented Confederacy, and snubbing Dallas.

Gatewood clutched his black bag and growled at every one; Peacock covered in his corner; Doc Boone happily tested the whiskey drummer's samples and snapped his fingers at the world; Lucy Mallory stoically endured the discomforts of her trip; Dallas kept her own counsel; and Ringo chatted affably with Boone, who, it developed, had treated his brother for a broken arm many years ago.

That brother, Ringo quietly informed the doctor, had since been murdered by the Plummers in Lordsburg.

At midday Buck pulled up his horses at the Dry Fork way station — a little adobe building with a rambling yard and a corral attached. Consternation seized the group when old Billy Pickett, the innkeeper, informed them that the soldiers they had expected to pick up as their convoy had been ordered to the next station at Apache Wells — Lucy Mallory's husband among them. The cavalry guard which had accompanied them thus far had orders to return to Tonto.

"No soldiers? Well, I guess we got to turn back," quavered Buck. "Yes," mumbled Peacock. "I think we should all go back." But Gatewood evidently intent on reaching Lordsburg at all costs, tried to bully the young cavalry lieutenant into going on with them.

"I call this desertion of duty, young man," he blustered loudly. "I'll take it up with your superior officers! I'll take it up with Washington!"

"That's your privilege, sir," returned Lieut. Blanchard quietly. "But if you make any trouble here I'll put you under restraint."

"I'll tell you how we'll settle it," announced Curly, the natural leader. "We'll take a vote. Everybody inside, now!"

And they all straggled into the inn — all, that is, except Doc Boone, who was already more or less firmly propped up against the bar!

JAMES CORYELL

From tradition of the Andrew Cavitt family and decedents, supported by notes, and records, furnished son, Volney Cavitt, and Newton C. Duncan, an old friend of the Cavitt's and Coryell, the following of their association with Coryell is offered.

James Coryell, hailing from Tennessee, had been in Texas for sometime before Andrew Cavitt joined him in 1835 for the purpose of searching out and locating desirable lands for themselves.

On account of the abundance of timber and water, the Leon River country appealed to them and they finally selected a location covering a nice part of that river valley and the mouth of a creek later to be known as Coryell Creek, and in what was later known as Coryell County, then infested with hostile Comanche Indians and unsafe for settlement by whites.

In the latter part of 1835, having completed arrangements for his land, Andrew Cavitt returned to Boliver, Tenn, for his family, consisting of a wife and seven sons, aged from fourteen years down, and in February, 1836, in company with Mr. Newton C. Duncan's family rejoined his friend James Coryell, at, or, near the Falls of the Brazos River at what was then Viesca, a frontier post and Sterling C. Robertsons Headquarters, where Fort Milam was located. Coryell being single lived with them there.

Their first thought was bread, so they cleared off the weeds on a Brazos Bottom prairie and with sharp sticks opened holes and dropped corn in and covered it and worked it with hoes by hand. Soon however they had to abandon their crop and join the other families in the flight from the Comanches and Santa Anna, who was pushing Sam Houston toward the Trinity.

His family reached Millican, where, on account of high water in the Brazos and Navasota Rivers, they halted and while detained there, word came from Sam Houston of the capture of Santa Anna and for them to return to their homes. In the meantime Andrew Cavitt was stricken with fever and on July 1st, 1836, died and was buried at Millican and his widow and boys had to return to Viesca alone. She stated that she found a pretty good crop of corn from this weed prairie planting. Coryell again made his home with the family and in the following spring, when wild honey was plentiful, he was killed by a band of Indians while out cutting a bee tree.

His party was poorly equipped and Coryell was sick or unable to make a "Get-away" and when he discovered they were surrounded by savages, he proposed to stand and draw their fire, when his companions with guns, could shoot with telling effect. He was hit by the first shot of the Indians and his companions returned the fire and both parties retired without testing the strength of the opposition. He was taken home, lingered a day or so and died and was buried near Viesca.

Mrs. Ann Cavitt, the widow, bought land at Wheelock, Robertson County, Oct. 19th, 1838, moved to it and died there January 26th, 1882.—Signed, J. F. Cavitt. F. E. S.

Shower Honors Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Brazzil

Misses Lucille Newsom, Bessie Faye Clemons, Fay and Reba Jones were joint hostesses when they entertained Thursday evening at the Jones home at Carden with a miscellaneous shower honoring Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Brazzil, who were married recently. Mrs. Brazzil is the former Miss Bonnie Joe Malone.

After each guest had registered in the Guest Book, the honorees were presented a shower of lovely and useful gifts.

Concluding the affair, the hostesses served lemonade and cake to approximately thirty guests.

Bridge Party, Personal Shower Is Fete Extended Bride-Elect

The home of Mrs. E. G. Beerwinkle on east Bridge was the scene of a lovely affair when she entertained Friday morning with a bridge party and personal shower in compliment to Miss Frances Mc-Coy, who will be married September 12.

A color scheme of pink and white prevailed in all decorations and other appointments.

Concluding a series of games, the hostess presented prizes to Miss Nelle Goodall, Miss Leah Dale Franks, Mrs. Emmett Stewart, and Mrs. Robert Scott, who held low scores at each of the four tables. The honoree was also presented a shower of lovely gifts.

A salad course was served to the sixteen guests. Favors were artificial wedding bouquets.

No-Host Affair Given By Younger Set

Last Friday evening a group of young people were entertained at Tippit's Skating Rink with a no-host dance. Table games and dominoes were also enjoyed during the evening.

Coryell Valley

Mrs. A. M. McCallister, cors.

This vicinity is still in need of a good rain. Everyone seemed to enjoy the cool wave last week. It reminded us that fall is near.

Rev. Hollis Yeilding is leaving very soon for Brownwood where he will enter college.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Kitley, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brashier were visitors in Gatesville Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kitley had as their guests Friday night the latter's mother and brother, Mrs. Sublefield and son, of Temple.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. McCallister, Bob and Dolly, and Mrs. Gus Veasey and son, Kenneth, were callers Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McCallister.

Mr. W. H. Brashier is in Weatherford this week. Mrs. Brashier and John L. and Linda are staying with Mrs. A. M. McCallister while Mr. Brashier is away.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Kitley were pleasant callers with Mr. and Mrs. Bud Payne of Coryell City recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Nichols of White Hall visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McCallister.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Payne visited Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Jess Kitley.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brashier and Ranzie Latham were business visitors to Gatesville Monday.

Mrs. Jess Kitley had as her guests this week her mother, Mrs. Carroll, of Gatesville.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kitley and Jane visited near Temple Sunday.

Since this letter was started this vicinity has received a nice shower, some hail and a small cyclone, uprooting trees but no other damage.

Mr. Cecil Divon is having his goats sheared this week.

Lots For Sale HIGHLAND ADDITION Gatesville

I have 30 lots in Highland Addition that have been processed for Federal Housing Loans, which I am offering for sale.

These lots have not been for sale, for the reason that the F. H. A. Authorities asked me not to make deeds until the plans for plat, restrictions, utility installations, etc., were approved by the F. H. A.

Last week the F.H.A. gave me a commitment for F.H.A. Loans on this property.

Loans for 100 per cent of improvements can be had by owners of these lots, provided the improvements do not exceed 90 per cent of the total value, (the lot serving as 10 per cent of the total value).

This makes 100 per cent loans available for improvements, including; house, garage, sewer disposal, water, lights, gas, shrubs and lawn beautification, etc.

This property is not restricted as to cost of improvements, but is restricted as to floor space and plans.

Why pay rent when you can own your own home, a NEW Home, for the same or less than you pay for rent. $14.00 to $28.00 per month will pay principal, interest, taxes, and insurance on a new home.

I prefer to sell to people who want homes.
Lots processed thru F.H.A. $200.00 and up.

NEWTON C. DUNCAN'S VERSION OF THE LIFE AND DEATH OF JAMES CORYELL

James Coryell, for whom Coryell County is named, came to Texas in 1828 or 1829 from Ohio, coming down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans, from there to the mouth of the Brazos and on to San Antonio. He remained at San Antonio some time, and the next I knew of him he had joined a company under Bowie, going to hunt the silver mines at San Saba. This I think was in 1831. Coming back from this trip he stayed in San Antonio awhile then he came to that part of Robertson's Colony near where the town of Marlin now stands. While staying in that part of Texas he made his home with the family of Mr. Andrew Cavitt (father of Mr. Volney Cavitt). In 1835 Mr. Coryell went with Mr. Cavitt and they located the land still owned by the Cavitts in Coryell County, also locating for Mr. Coryell on what is now Coryell on what is now Coryell Creek. After this, in the fall of 1836, Mr. Coryell joined a company of soldiers under Capt. Thomas H. Barron. I knew him personally at that time, having come with my mother from Tennessee in the early part of 1836.

The Indians had troubled us so much that we had all gone into Robertsons headquarters at Viesca. While there, Coryell, with some companions, had gone about half a mile on the road to Perry Springs, on what is now Perry's Creek, where there lived a lawyer named Judge Albert G. Perry. Here they had found and cut a bee tree and were sitting eating the honey and talking. Mr. Coryell had told the other men that he could not run if the Indians came as he had been sick and was not able to run. In a short time they heard the noise of sticks breaking, when they looked they saw twelve Caddo Indians right near them, too near for them to try to get away. Mr. Coryell rose to his feet. One of the guns in the party was empty, one failed to fire. Coryell's was the only one left. The men who had no guns ran. Three of the Indians took aim at Coryell and fired at the same time. Coryell fell grasping some bushes and pulling the tops off as he fell. He was scalped by the Indians, but it is thought that he wounded one of them, as the feathers from his cap were found, also some blood. Mr. Berry, an old friend of Coryell's, stood and snapped his gun, trying to fire until he saw the Indians pull Coryell down and begin to scalp him, then Berry ran and escaped, Coryell being the only one of the party killed. The party consisted of James Coryell, Sam Burton, Mr. Berry, Michael Castleman, Ezra Webb and one other whose name I do not remember.

Ezra Web was the first one of the part to reach the settlement. Coming to the house of Capt. Barron he found a crowd of ladies gathered awaiting the orders of Capt. Barron, as they were expecting to be ordered to the blockhouse for protection. Then Webb ran in with great haste, and fright, and breathless from his run, he fell on the bed, past speaking. The ladies gathered around anxious to know what had happened. After a little time he was able to whisper "Indians! Poor Coryell."

Coryell was truly a frontiersman, an excellent woodsman, an agreeable companion, a brave soldier, and an admirable gentleman, beloved by all who knew him. At the time of his death he was forty years old. A short time before his death, while out on a scouting trip, he explored a region of country now known as Coryell County, and being a man of acute judgement was struck with the beauty and eligibility of the country near the mouth of Coryell Creek. He there selected his headright of one quarter of a league which was located after his death by his executor and thus gave his name to that stream. So far as I know Mr. Volney Cavitt and I are the only two men now living who knew Coryell in 1837.

At this time Erath, with his little company had been withdrawn from the Little River fort and stationed with other forces, at the Falls of the Brazos, where it was deemed advisable to concentrate all the rangers in that section, as they could be more advantageously utilized against the numerous bands of Indians then constantly raiding that section of country. At that time, however, Capt. Erath, and most of his men, were absent on a scout west of Little River, all the rangers being out on scouts, and thus the Indians who fell upon Coryell effected their retreat without pursuit.

Newton C. Duncan had come to the Viesca settlement, from Tennessee with Andrew Cavitt in the winter of 1835-1836.

Approved by S. A. Cavitt who married a niece of Mr. N. C. Duncan.—F. E. S.

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

WHAT they promise in their advertisements, and what they deliver in their merchandise, are right there for all to see.

If they deliver what they promise, they make friends and steady customers. If not they make enemies, lose patronage and finally go out of business.

Those are the cold, hard reasons why honesty is the best policy—especially in advertising.

But the real fact is that advertisers as a class are humanly jealous of their good names. The trade-marks of manufacturers and the published recommendations of merchants are only accorded to products which they can offer you with confidence and pride.

WHY TROT TO WACO?

Our "finds" at ALVIS-GARNER COMPANY are the new fall bags and gloves that have just arrived. Being shown in swede and leather, these bags can be purchased in black or brown. Most of them have matching grosgrain handles; this is done so that the handles, which soil easily, will be attractive even after the bag begins to wear. The gloves come in swede and kinkid leather in matching colors with the bags. Then for the complete swede outfit, one can get the swede belts, all widths in almost any color.

A complete line of baby goods has just arrived at PAINTER'S Mothers will find attractive baby banks, baby books, in pink or blue morie taffeta, infants bath set with knit towel and cloth, and new dresses and gowns. Along with the new blankets came pink and white shawls, rubberized bags with different compartments in either pink or blue printed material. If you are hunting for a gift for a baby, the new knit gowns with draw string at the bottom come in gift packages. These garments are soft spun for baby's tender skin. Mentioned above are only a few of the many baby gift articles on display at this store.

On display with other sports ensembles at LEAIRD'S DEPT. STORE is the threesome outfit in corduroy. The skirt is seven-gored with zipper fastener, the slacks are also attractively made and the short coat is fitted with leather buttons and patch pockets. These can be purchased separately. They come in colors of brown beige, dusty rose, wine and green. The slacks are tops for the casual life, and the skirt and jacket combination is ranked high among high school and college students not because the combination is new, but because it has become the most popular ensemble on all campuses and because it is made of the new craze in material—corduroy.

For that "sport" look at the football games this fall, wear a fitted tweed coat over your sweaters and skirts or sports dress. These coats can be seen at JOE HANNA'S in different colors, either single or double breasted style. If you are not the type for a fitted coat, you can also get the stylist camel's hair coat—it is fashioned with a box pleat in the back and a wide belt that ties in front. Either of these will make you outstanding in the fashion parade at all games.

For any smart college student or traveler Samsonite luggage will be a prized possession. DAVIDSON BROS. is showing this nationally advertised luggage in three different sizes, the man's case, the wardrobe (with several hangers) and the overnite case. This brand new ultra-smart luggage can be had in rust or natural colors, leather bound. Its sparkling beauty in advance-style luggage will turn all eyes your way. Stylists say "They're the very last word!" Its covering resists scuffs and abuse, even with the strain of auto-travel it stays new looking.

around October 15 and continue to harvest after Santa Claus has come and gone? You can do it if you proceed like this:

Make a frame using one by twelve inch boards, three feet wide and twelve feet long. Spade up the ground to a depth of eight or nine inches with a fork. Open a trench in the center to a depth of eight inches and lay some sub-irrigation tile on the level at the bottom of it. Tile, tin cans, or pipe may be used for this. The next step is to place the frame around the trench. Mix fertilizer with the soil. Get some package seeds to have on hand by planting time.

Level the soil, lay in rows, and plant by September 15. Water the bed thoroughly. Cover frame with either cheese cloth, tow sacks, or cello glass. The frame garden is completed and is yours then for the luscious greens and juicy beets and carrots.

Mr. and Mrs. Odell Hughett of Lubbock are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Sandlin here.
