Pearl Playing A Clean Slate So Far: Cove Today

That supreme test, seems to be the making for the Pearl Dragons today, when they meet the Copperas Coxie Sixtette at the Cove. Reason for that "supreme test" business is because, these two teams so far this year, seem apparently undefeated, and Pearl's record, just received today is: Pearl 32, Lometa 0; and Pearl 19, Oglesby 0; with stars for Pearl being E. J. Smith, Leo Fattner, and others, who they say are plenty fast. Ain't that just like Pearl? Remember Petty?

CENTEX FAIR AT CLIFTON TO BE OCTOBER 23, 24, 25

They told us about it Wednesday in a big way, that, was the Central Texas Fair.

Don't know how many were here, but R. L. (Bob) Baldridge, Editor of the Clifton Record, was heading the party, and then their colorful band. Arriving, just at noon, they joined the Gatesville Lions Club at luncheon, and further publicized what is beginning to be one of "the" fairs of Central Texas, in fact, we're a bit envious of their good fair.

Already stockmen we know are planning to "exhibit" and a good time is expected by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Graham and family and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stephen attended the funeral of their cousin, Jim Holland, in Mullin Thursday afternoon.

Cotton Still Below '40 Production Says Cotton Specialist

Only 5,710 bales of cotton have been ginned in '41 in Coryell county up to October 1, as compared to 7,428 up to the same date last year, according to V. R. (Happy) Lee, who represents the Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census for Coryell county.

This sounds a little bad as bales go, but the difference for '41 is in the price, which is so much better than this time last Fall.

CCC Camp Not To Be Effected By Reduction, Poage

LINE-UP, NO: STARTERS, NO: GAME, YES, CLIFTON TONIGHT

Get the old bus, and let's go to Clifton!

Tonight, Gatesville High School Hornets meet Clifton High School's Class A team tonight in that "Fair-minded city. It'll be the Hornet's second conference appearance, and it looks like they'll need help, not only probably from a "ball swabber" but from another, the so-called "12th Man" which, Mr. and Mrs. Rooter, means you.

Now, let's get down to cases, and there is no case, because Coach Pruitt, didn't even know who the "jury of eleven" was going to be yesterday afternoon at just about 3:30 p. m., and then, how should we know. He did intimate that the "benches" would probably be in, and then again, probably not, and left it right there. Maybe, there are just too many good ones on the club and he can't make up his mind which is the better, (or if more than two for the place), best. Still know a little grammar.

Anyway, gathering what we could, we found out this much, which we wouldn't say was a liberal education from Coach Pruitt, but which, fans, is just a "degree" of all we could get until 8 o'clock, graduation time at Clifton tonight.

NORTH EAST WEST SOUTH

A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

NAZIS ROLL ON

(By the Associated Press) The Germans were grinding forward toward Moscow Wednesday night from the northwest and west—slowly, and spilling much blood, but nevertheless without apparent interruption of consequence—and the Soviet admitted that the hour of extreme peril had struck.

EXTORTION BARRED

New York, Oct. 15 (INS)—David Bernstein, vice president of Loews Inc., today described to a federal jury how he had advanced $100,000 to Nicholas M. MERCHANT SHIP ARMS O.K.

51 PERCENT AUTO CUT

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Defense officials gave the automotive industry a double-barreled jolt Wednesday, ordering a 51 per cent cut in passenger car production in January, and warning simultaneously that materials shortage would probably force a much greater curtailment.

AIRCRAFT HEAD BALKS

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 15 (AP)—Major R. H. Fleet, Consolidated Aircraft Corporation president, said Wednesday that he would not sign a labor agreement reached last week with A. How to become A SKILLED DRIVER

OPERATING THE CLUTCH

Learning to operate the clutch without jerking or jumping the car is not easy. But remember, only skilled drivers are smooth drivers. They understand the clutch and use it correctly.

Try this procedure in your driveway or on an untraveled street: Drive the car at crawl speed. In low gear and with the engine turning over slowly, you can control the speed of the moving car with your left foot on the clutch pedal. Find the spot in clutch movement where the car crawls at one mile an hour. Clutch movement at this stage will be very slight. The important thing is learning to locate the spot where the clutch goes out. This point controls movement of the car. Practice the maneuver described above. It will help you to master the clutch.

Chapter One

"They're French—Paris—Paris!" crowed Collette, holding the dress triumphantly aloft.

"At least you can claim a success at something," Gertrude answered with vehemence.

"Something that even a German brain can appreciate!" was Collette's quick retort.

"Madame," Gertrude cried out. "Am I to be insulted like this. Is it a crime to be German?"

"Madame" was Madeleine Godard, lovely and youthful proprietress of the most exclusive dress shop in Stockholm. As she came on this childish flare-up between her two assistants, she thought for a second how it reflected the grim and savage struggle between opposing armies in France, not far away.

"Collette!" she spoke sharply. "I will not have this quarrelling. I don't want Frenchwomen here—"

"Hah!" Gertrude breathed triumphantly.

"Nor German women," she continued. "I want saleswomen. Ring for Anatole."

The bell brought Anatole, a sly looking little man with a wispy mustache, grumbling about his

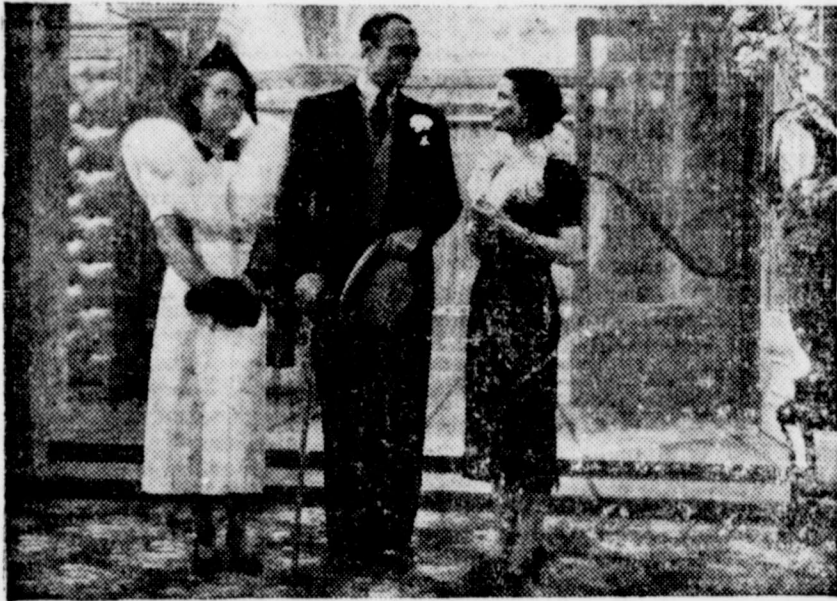

She selected a gown and swiftly swung it over the lamp, matching its embroidered pattern with lines on the map. Schaffer's assistant swiftly read off numbers, another assistant consulted the code book. A third raced the message to a chamber above looking out to sea, where an ingenious semaphore device flashed information of French troop movements to a waiting boat. On board the boat, the leaping spark of the radio relayed the message to expectant headquarters in Berlin.

The work was soon finished. Madeleine stated the price for her information. Major Schaffer protested, then yielded with grudging admiration.

"Thank you, Major. Good-bye, gentlemen," Madeleine spoke and was gone.

Madeleine's big sale for the following day was to a Baron, Karl Marwitz. He brought Lupita, a sultry creature from the Grand Hotel, to her shop. And Lupita had bought everything her pretty eyes lit on to the tune of 1,200 kronen.

Marwitz was a newcomer to Stockholm. He was cultivated, poised, darkly handsome, but about him there was an air of something sinister, unhappy. Madeleine could not guess that he had seen her at the

"Wrap up these models," Madeleine told him, indicating several in the group of new Paris dresses that had caused the quarrel between Collette and Gertrude. "We're going to the Countess Lindenstrom's."

Madeleine prepared to leave as Anatole gathered up the dresses she had pointed out. Just a short few days ago, the German U-boat officer had fingered them and smilingly remarked, "You might classify these as ammunition for the Stockholm frontier."

That was about the packet that had brought her back from Paris. The submarine had stopped the ship in the North Sea for routine inspection. One man had been taken off and Madeleine had seen the terror of the trapped in his eyes. She shuddered as she thought of the incident and the icy coldness in the officer's eyes as he questioned her about the frequency of her trips between Stockholm and Paris.

In ten minutes they were at the Countess Lindenstrom's. Madeleine was evidently expected. Doors opened swiftly before her and she was ushered through rooms and long hallways. At last she entered an impressive parlor chamber.

Major Schaffer greeted her. He was brusque, portly, and with a soldierly hardness under his roundness. His assistants were busy with maps, the removal of black code books from the wall safe, with setting up a lamp which revealed a map of Western Europe on the shade when lit. Their brief greetings were over.

"The latest Paris models?" queried Schaffer, indicating the box of gowns.

"The latest French designs," answered Madeleine, holding her stress on the last word.

Casino the evening before, where she had been accompanied by her English friend, Bob. Bob was a gentle, blonde youth who had lost an arm in France. He seemed to be just another drifter in Stockholm.

It was soon apparent to Madeleine that the Baron Marwitz's interest was not for Lupita, but for herself. When she bade him good-bye, it was with the realization that she would see him soon again. She immediately summoned Anatole.

"What do you know about him?" she asked.

Anatole was a mine of information on newcomers to the Swedish city. With spies and adventurers converging on Stockholm from every corner, the city had become a hotbed of intrigue. And a market had been set up for information, that most precious commodity in time of war. It was a popular cafe, the Cherry Garden. Anatole, a habitue of the Cherry Garden, had the information in a little book.

"Karl Marwitz," he read. "Traitor to the Fatherland . . . deserter . . . court-martialed during absence . . . cashiered . . . sentenced to death."

Madeleine examined the slip which told her further that Karl Marwitz had been a captain in the German Navy. "Funny," she remarked at last, "he doesn't look the type."

"What makes you think so?" Anatole asked.

"Instinct."

"Feminine instinct?" retorted Anatole, putting into the phrase all his contempt for that dubious weapon of woman-kind through the ages.

"No, professional," Madeleine answered. "See if you can find out more at the Cherry Garden about him."

We, the People, Think...

It isn't what any one man thinks that runs a Democracy. This country is governed by what we, the PEOPLE, think. What we THINK is based on what we hear and what we read. It's INFORMATION that gives us the power to run our Democracy.

Here are Congressmen A and B. A says we're in the War, whether it's been declared or not. He thinks we ought to send an A. E. F. to Europe tomorrow. B says we're NOT in the War. He thinks it isn't our war and we ought never to get in it.

Here's the American citizen. He knows what Congressman A believes and what Congressman B believes. He has read BOTH SIDES in the newspaper. He's ready to form his OWN opinion and say to the Congressmen: "This is our policy. This is what we're going to do!"

The citizens of a Democracy are the governors of Democracy. But to govern, they must know FACTS. It is the job of the newspapers to supply the facts that enable the citizens to run their government. That's why a free press is vital to Democracy.

Here are Grocer A and Grocer B. Grocer A wants to sell Red Can peaches for 10 cents, because they're better than Blue Can peaches, even though they cost more. Grocer B wants to sell Blue Can peaches, because even if they're not quite so good as Red Can peaches, they cost less.

Here's Mrs. American Citizen, shopping by reading newspaper ads. She reads what Grocer A and Grocer B say. Then she makes up her mind to buy Red Can peaches or Blue Can peaches. The ads give her the FACTS that enable her to form her own opinion . . . get the most value for her money. No one can FORCE her to buy!

So the American newspaper does its job on two fronts. It presents NEWS facts that make Democracy work in government—presents advertising facts that make Democracy work in business.

If you have any doubt that American newspapers do these things, just look at the dictator nations where the people lost, first, their right to know what was actually going on; second, the right to govern themselves. And they GAINED only the right to stand in line to buy what the "State" decreed they should have.

A letter from those of you who share our views will hearten us. A letter from those of you who disagree will chasten us. And newspapers, if they are to serve you well, need both the heartening and the chastening of an alert readership. Address the publisher of this newspaper.

Over 320 of America's leading newspapers are carrying this message today to their 10 million subscribers. Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York.

Well, Clifton's our No. 2, and right now, our No. 1 proposition, that is for the Hornets.

We're going to try to mud it over there, even if it has to be via Waco, and that's some trip.

Then there's the Sixettes, who will go to the bat as follows this week end: Copperas Cove at Pearl; Pottsville at Turnersville; Ireland at Flat; Oglesby at Lometa. We ought to begin finding out who's going to be the "champ" this year, after this week end. At least, they will be showing up a bit.

Now, let's look at the SW Conference, where the big boys play: TCU-A&M, Fort Worth; Texas-Ark, Austin, Baylor-Villanova, at Philadelphia; LSU-Rice at Baton Rouge; SMU-Alabama Poly at Birmingham.

Pickings: A&M, Texas, Baylor, Rice, SMU. What's yours? Picking Sixettes, how's this: Copperas Cove, Flat, Lometa, Turnersville. Well, what about the Hornets? That, fans, depends, but we'll stay with the home team, the Hornets, but, it's going to be close.

About a game-a-day. That's just about the way football is going in the county, what with six-man, GHS, GHS scrubs, GHS Jr. Hi and the State Juvenile Training School. We can't be all those places all those times.

For Travis Hagan, and football, we hate it that he got his leg broken, but, MORE accidents happen right in the HOME each year, than happen on ALL football fields and, well, don't bring up the high-ways. They're simply awful! If it was baseball, there'd be more injuries than in football. Goodluck, Travis.

Flat Yellow Jackets Take Turnersville Monday P.M. 14-9

And, they tell us, it was really close, but even the score is close enough, 14-9.

That's what the Flat Yellow-jackets got in their game with the Turnersville Buffaloes Monday afternoon at Flat.

Rain caused the postponement of the game Friday.

Taylor and Love were outstanding on defense, and Clary starred for Turnersville.

We wish we knew more.

Mr. Ward Burris,
Sports Editor, The Express,
San Antonio, Texas.

Dear Wardie:

I heard you a broadcastin' them feetsball perditions on the raddio a Thursday and it gived me a idea. I thought I'd see what I could do about broadcastin a feetsball game, so I got be a Express from last Sunday and turned to the Fordham-SMU game, and started out. Well Sir, there was a game up the field and down, and it went kinda like this:

"Pieculewicz replaces Noble at quarter for Fordham. (That put out the only guy I could say quick) Pieculewicz dropped back and shot a lateral to Filipowicz. Filipowicz then faded to his left and shot a short forward to Ritinski, and with Hudasek, Sabastenski, Sartori, Blumenstock, Santelli, Yackanich, Maryanski, Deconcini and Andrejco running good interference, Ritinski gained 13 yards and a first down."

Well Sir, the half was over and they was midway through the third period before I had got to the middle of the first quarter, a gittin all of them names out, so I decided to get my next experience in the great southwest. So if'n you want to have a amateur night some nite when you and John Steadham is a boastin' about them misses you are a makin', jest let me know and I'll help you out, but I ain't a goin' to broadcast no Fordham stuff.

And if that perlice department at San Antone don't get that stadium traffic fixed up, we are a goin' to apply fer 'em to move the Alamo Stadium to the wide open spaces at Langtry, where they ain't no perliceman to tell you where you can't park.

I'll be a seein' you Pal, and "Keep 'em Flyin'."

Yourn,
LOONY LUCY

WASHINGTON NEWS
FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN
W. R. PORGE

I know that you must be wondering why there is not more action on the floor of the House and Senate. Frankly, that is what many of the members are wondering. Many of them were home last month when they were asked to return to Washington at once. Most of us made all possible haste in returning, but three weeks have passed with out a single roll call in the House. Some of the members are restless and many of those who are close enough to afford it have gone home.

Of course, the real reason for the apparent inaction is the fact that the committees have not been able to agree on vital legislation on which they are working. The operation of the government might be compared to a football team. The President (through his leaders like the Speaker and the Majority Leader) calls the plays. The leadership knows that the Banking and Currency Committee has been unable to agree on a price-fixing bill. Therefore, they do not call that play. Instead, they now expect to get a report from the Appropriations Committee on the new Lend-Lease Bill next week and to take that up first. They may also get a report from the Foreign Affairs Committee on revision or repeal of the Neutrality Act before the price-fixing legislation is agreed upon by the committee. Other committees are also at work. For instance, my committee, the Committee on Agriculture, has begun hearings on the complete revision of the Farm Credit system. The proposal involves a complete reorganization of the farm loan banks. It is of vital importance to our people. I think there are many good and helpful features in the proposed bill. It may have some dangerous features. Many of our people think that it might, if passed, work an unfair discrimination against farmers holding stock in solvent bank like the Houston (Texas) Land Bank as compared with those whose loans are in less well managed banks of the system. I have raised this question and have been assured by Hon. A. G. Black, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, that the interests of our farmer stockholders will be safeguarded. I believe that this matter will be worked out satisfactorily, but I cite it to show the importance of these committee hearings to the people. After all, the details of most legislation are worked out in the committees and not on the floor.

I have had a tremendous number of letters and telegrams the past two weeks in regard to the location of the proposed army camp. Many of those who wrote were apparently under the impression that such camp would be located wherever the Congressman and Senator asked. This is not the case. These camps are being located, and should be located, where the trained officers of the Army decide they will contribute the most to our national defense. I have not felt that it was proper for me to try to tell the army where to locate a camp, and I have refrained from doing so. On the other hand, I have been glad to present all of the claims and advantages of each and every community in our district that has requested me to do so. I think the army is entitled to all of this information, and I have tried to help them get it: In doing so I have not sought to injure any community, but rather to enable the army to make the best possible selection. I have tried to keep down strife between various communities in our district as this strife can only jeopardize the chances of all Central Texas, and I sincerely feel that a camp in this area would fit into the entire program of national defense. After all, national defense is by far the greatest problem before us all today.

Yesterday I was privileged to attend a special showing of new arms and equipment at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, not far from Washington. We were shown all of the most modern rifles, guns, tanks, motorized equipment, etc. I was very much pleased at the quality of our equipment. Officers who have seen the German "blitz" told me that the American equipment was fully equal and probably superior to the Germans' in quality, and that if we could get sufficient quantities produced and in the hands of the Allies that there would be no question of stopping Hitler.—Again we come back to the vitally important factor of production, and of the cooperation of labor. As I see it, if our boys who are now training are ever required to fight, it will be because those who are working in our defense industries failed to do their part. I was also much pleased with the work of their army engineers. We saw them build bridges in a matter of minutes. The work of the engineers and the mechanics is of ever increasing importance to our army. Later we were privileged to see a demonstration of tank, dive bombers, antiaircraft guns, and parachute troops. This was most
