Soldiers-Girls To Be Entertained With Street-Dance

Saturday night's the time, and it'll be a "Western Affair" with the girls macked out in western regalia and only they, and men in uniform will be admitted to the big street dance that will be held in front of the city hall.

Preceding this, there'll be a parade at 6 o'clock, and every boy, girl, man and woman with anything western is asked to "get it on" and get the nags out. We want to do this up brown.

Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock, according to City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy.

Music will be furnished by the 893rd jive band, which we are naming the "Hoodmen". All girls, 12 to 80 are invited, and the entire battalion of 1,000 men will be on hand to take part in the activities.

The street will be cleaned and a public address system will be installed, along with necessary police protection, which, the way things have been going, won't be needed.

Coffee and cakes will be given to soldiers and their girls.

The parade will start from South 7th, down near Davidson's home. Bring all the buggies, vehicles (horse drawn).

The scarcity of girls, (maybe it won't happen) seems to be the only draw back to a big night, but, we believe that's a false worry and that the girls will be there.

It'll be a grand night, if you make it so!

BOXING SHOW, PEARL, FRIDAY & SATURDAY NIGHTS: ENTRIES?

Pearl high school is going to start throwing leather, and it comes off Friday and Saturday nights of this week, according to a card received here.

Entries have been received from Ewing, Purmela, and Evant, and are expected from Gatesville and possibly Burnet.

Density and Weakness . . .

"Density of people is a great factor towards making a country belligerent," says a sociologist. Yea, verily.—St. Louis Star-Times.

Mrs. A. C. Schloeman and John Dayton Schloeman spent the week end in Denison, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Baynard Cole.

"Hoodmen" Furnish Fun, Saddy Nite

Just who entertained? That's the question—no, not a question, because everybody had a good time Saturday night at the gym. "Miss Coryell County" was introduced to "Pvt., Pfc., Corp., Sgt., and Lieut. Hood" all in one evening, and the Hoodmen, like all armies, "traveled on their respective stomachs the way of war by way of Old Fashioned Texas Barbecue and all the fixings at Raby Park at about 7 o'clock.

In the evening, starting at 9, the entertainment took on an athletic tinge, with a "light fantastic touch" prevailing, when the WPA-Community Recreation authorities put on what might be called a "western show", including square dances, and other oddities to these eyes from Connecticut, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania and other points east, and more recently, from Camp Meade, Maryland.

HOODMEN AISLE 'EM

Featuring George Thomas, who "mced" the Hoodmen's part of the show, who was formerly announcer at radio station WCAU, in "Philly", a crack orchestra of ex-professional artists gave 'em the jive, the sweet music, the martial airs, rounding out the evening's entertainment.

Personnel of the orchestra from Company (won't stick our neck out) included Pfc. Jack Williams, Pvt. Dick Richards, Pfc. Samuel Lillebridge, Pfc. Bob Smith, Pfc. Jackie Schwendt, Pfc. Bob Hall, Pfc. Tonly Allegrucci, Pfc. Bobbie Derr, Pfc. John Weilgos, Tech. Sgt. McClafferty, and Pvt. Bill Roberts.

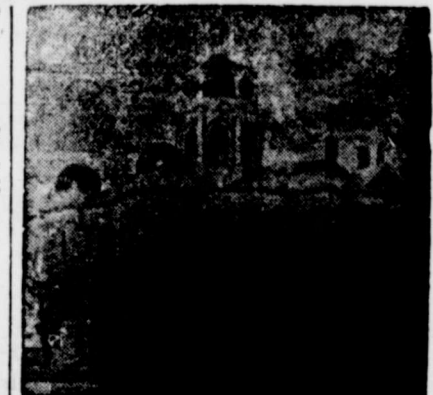

One of these boys proved to be the Bing Crosby of Camp Hood, another feature was a hot trumpet, and that little 'un was a rug cutter of the first water, not to mention his trumpet. Hardwood tapping was demonstrated in the approved professional by Joe Beath, picked 'em and laid them down.

Folks, it was one of the swellest things we've seen "Deep in The Heart of Texas", which was, incidentally, one of the hits of the show.

Waco's WPA Recreationers furnished the "caller", the square dance music, and some specialties.

"Curfey" was at 11:30, and that was "30", both for the Hoodmen, and the locals. It was a grand night!

Go Vote! It's City Election Day: Only Two In Contest

It's a pushover in the Mayor's, City Tax Assessor-Collector's and Alderman, Ward 2 races.

The only argument is in Ward 1, where two aspirants are out for the same place. Somebody's going to be disappointed.

In this race, it's Ernest Cummings vs. Rufus Brown.

So far, it's been a very quiet election—you barely knew who was running, and the card business (for printers) has been terrible.

However, regardless, and in spite of all this, you've got a democratic duty to perform in the Old American Way, so just heigh your little self down and vote for one or the other of these gentlemen. It's your day to VOTE!

Contracts Are Awarded For Camp Hood

Nine contracts for construction on Coryell county's Camp Hood were announced Saturday by Maj. G. R. Tyler, area engineer in charge of construction.

Contractors are: Areas 1 and 5 camp buildings construction, to Tankersley Trapp Associates of Oklahoma City.

Area 2 and 3 of the construction contract to Central Construction Co., Dallas.

Area 4 of the construction contract to Taylor & Byrnes, Fort Worth.

Clearing and side grading to R. F. Ball Construction Co., Fort Worth.

Electrical distribution system to Taylor Construction Co., Taylor.

Camp railroad system, Martin & Grace, Dallas.

Asphalt surfacing, sidewalks and streets, to Morgan Construction Co., Dallas.

Water and sanitary sewer system, H. B. Zachery Co., San Antonio.

All contractors have already established field offices and are moving in materials and equipment.

Already, about 1,000 men are working at different parts of the camp.

Out-of-camp contractors: Wiegand Bros., San Antonio; sewage disposal, McKenzie Bros., Williams & Whittle of Dallas; water lines from wells, to H. B. Zachery of San Antonio; power hook-ups for these off-the-reservation contractors to Industrial Electric Co., New Orleans.

Now Comes One More Egg: It's A Question "!"

Another egg—the old hen put a "?" on the end of this one. May be, she didn't know what it was all about, or may be she thought it was one of those "questionable" eggs you buy sometimes, and the question was a marning for you to take your own chances when attempting to make this egg a part of your anatomy.

You know, feed, clean pens, yards, and surroundings have more to do with an egg than almost anything. If you don't, get a stomach ulcer, and have to eat boiled ones, poached ones for six months—then you will be an "Eggspert". How do we know? Well, we didn't read it in any book, government pamphlet, or poultry journal—we experienced it!

W. A. Holt of Hubbard community on Tama Star Route brought us this "Eggzibit" in, and, well, it's another of Coryell Curiosities. And, something you don't see every day, that can be seen in the News window.

893rd Blitzes Thru Gatesville Twice Monday: To Temple

Gatesville got to see them twice!

Yesterday, Army Day, when the 893rd started toward Temple for a celebration of Army Day, the biggest Army Day in the history of Central Texas.

The route was Gatesville, McGregor, Moody, Belton and Temple and return, under the command of Major Samuel E. Mays.

Included in the celebration in Temple, was an address by Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage of the 11th Congressional District, who's address was carried over station KTEM, Temple, along with music of the 893rd "Hoodmen."

Included in the parade of some 200 vehicles including jeeps, motorcycles, truck gun carriers, radio cars, and medical cars, from a staff which included a reconnaissance company, a reconnaissance platoon, three complete companies, a transportation platoon and headquarters platoon and headquarters kitchen and maintenance section.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Leeson and sons of Abilene spent the week end with Mrs. John T. Post and other relatives and friends here.

Rain Was Biggest Event in County Since January 1

Coryell County got a ducking Monday, and, late as it was, it was more and more welcome than ever.

The official county precipitation was 1.84 inches, and was worth more than ——— to everybody in the county. Reports are that it was worth even more around Jonesboro, and other points.

River here was half banks at noon Monday.

CCC Corps' Ninth Anniversary: 4-H Week in U S A

Two new national institutions, the CCC and 4-H clubs of the nation are celebrating.

This is the ninth anniversary of the Civilian Conservation Corps, or was Sunday.

This week thruout the nation, 4-H clubs also celebrate their week.

As far as is known, or announced to the News, no celebrations of any character have, or will be held locally.

Both these movements have had a big place in the life of the country, specially during the depressing days from 1933 to 1936, and 4-H boys of Coryell county have made their marks, along with the girls in many endeavors, such as farming, cattle raising and other projects that have been both worthwhile to themselves and to their counties and country.

Chapter One

It is a night in the year 1883 in Brooklyn. Cedric Errol, youngest son of the Earl of Dorincourt, lies dying. He has incurred the wrath of his noble and wealthy father in England by marrying an American girl. They are living in humble circumstances. Mrs. Errol—"Dearest" to her husband and her young son—brings the news of the death to little Ceddie. That scene closes the prologue. The action skips two years to the early summer of 1885. It is Ceddie's birthday and his mother presents him with a new bicycle. Ceddie by this time is a well-grown little boy, slender but wiry in build, and handsome. He is dressed fastidiously in the fashion of the children of his day. Although he gives indications of a startling maturity of mind, he world, sits on Hobb's cracker barrel and drinks in all this wisdom very sagely. Hobbs is his preceptor, his guide, counsellor and friend, the fount of all wisdom. As for earls and marquises, Hobbs dismisses them all with a single eloquent phrase—"they're a bad lot." "Did you ever know many of them?" Ceddie inquires. "No, I guess not," Mr. Hobbs admits. "But I'd like to catch one of them in here, that's all. I'll have no graspin' tyrant sittin' around on my cracker barrels." Ceddie is properly impressed but remarks charitably: "Perhaps they wouldn't be earls if they knew any better." "Wouldn't they!" Mr. Hobbs rejoins. "They just glory in it. It's in 'em—that's what." Considerably mystified, Ceddie is considering this regrettable situation when Mary, the Irish servant is nevertheless all boy—sturdy and courageous. With his new bicycle, Ceddie rides gaily through the streets to show it to Dick, his bootblack friend, the old apple-woman and his grocer friend, Mr. Hobbs. He is accosted by a group of street gamins who try to take the bicycle away from him. A rough and tumble fight ensues in which Dick joins, siding with Ceddie. The two manage to give a good account of themselves, though outnumbered, until a policeman intervenes. At the grocery, Mr. Hobbs professes an enormous contempt for "earls and marquises" as he calls them—oppressors of the poor, arrogant in their pride of wealth and lineage. He tells Ceddie he wouldn't allow one of them to step foot in his store—"I'll be jiggered if I would," he declares emphatically. Hobbs, reading from an illustrated British periodical about the nobility, impresses upon Ceddie that these are very evil persons indeed. Ceddie, knowing no better and possessing a tremendous respect for Hobbs' knowledge of the great in Dearest's home, comes to the store looking for him. She tells the boy that his mother wants him at home. "There's some strange things happenin' to us," she tells the boy mysteriously. Hurrying home, Mary slips upstairs with Ceddie and dresses him up in his very best clothes. She combs out his curly locks. He hurries downstairs. A tall, thin, elderly gentleman is talking to his mother, who has tears in her eyes. She runs to her son and catches him up in her arms to kiss him. It is evident that she is greatly troubled. "Oh, Ceddie, darling!" she exclaims to the puzzled child. The tall old gentleman rises and looks at Ceddie with his sharp eyes. He rubs his thin chin with his bony hand and seems not at all displeased. "So this," he says at last, "so this is little Lord Fauntleroy." And thus begins a new and most amazing chapter in Ceddie's career. (To be continued)

Philippines, Jan. 14, 1942.

Dearest Aunt:

I wrote you a letter since I have been here and have not yet received a reply, but owing to conditions here, I suppose it is only natural to expect some delay.

So far, I've been lucky enough to escape any injury and hope that I can continue to do so. I don't think that there is any doubt as to the outcome of the war because there are two things that we have on our side, and that is God and the Stars and Stripes.

I wish you and Thurman would visit mother as often as you can and try to cheer her up as much as possible.

I know she worries an awful lot about me but I can't help it. God only knows that I would if I could.

I am only doing what every American should and wants to do—end this war as quickly as possible and try again to insure peace and liberty for God fearing and liberty loving people of the world. Love to all.

Sgt. James Melton Thompson, 59th Coast Artillery, A.P.O. No. 7, Philippine Islands.

This letter was very much "censored". Not even the town in the Philippines was given and G. G. Maxfield was the censor. It carried no postage.

Believe this fellow has some very good reasons for winning the war, and believes he's doing his duty and that EVERY American should go "all-out". That's our ticket, Soldier.

T. L. (Lester) Robertson, grandson of Mrs. A. B. Chitwood, Sr., is in the Navy and stationed at San Diego, California, and writes: "I like the Navy fine. Mrs. Walter Wiggins, cors.

The community was made sad last Friday afternoon when it was known that Mrs. G. F. Brown had passed away. Mrs. Brown was loved and respected by all who knew her and will be greatly missed by the community. She was laid to rest in the Gatesville cemetery last Saturday afternoon by the side of her husband, who preceded her in death several years ago. She is survived by three sons, all of Gatesville, and eight grandchildren. One son died when a small boy.

Mrs. W. G. Hord spent last week end in Gatesville with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Blanchard and Mrs. Walter Wiggins and Billy Paul visited relatives in San Saba and Richland Springs from Sunday until Tuesday.

The sing-song at the school house Wednesday night was enjoyed by a large crowd. Plans were made for the Bell-Coryell county Singing Convention which is to be held Easter Sunday. At the conclusion of the program, refreshments of grape juice and Ritz crackers were served.

The ladies will meet at the home of Mrs. W. L. Brown on Wednesday, April 8, to sew for the Red Cross.

Mr. Ward Burris, Sports Editor, The Express, San Antonio, Texas.

Dear Chum:

I seen where the Southeastern Pacific War College has got a new coach, Doug MacArthur, from little Bataan Prep School. I guess the old grads got tired a tryin' to hold 'em on the one-yard line, givin' them safeties, 'n' such, and wants a few touchdowns.

This Doug is no slouch as a defensive coach, but he goes in fer forward passin' too. He mixes up a little of the Minnesota shift, the double wing, the Notre Dame shift, the "T", and ain't above revertin' to the short punt—right in the seat of the pants, as them japs will find out. He believes the best way to beat 'em is to make more touchdowns than they do.

I seen too where he was given the right to select his own assistants. If they don't make good he'll farm 'em out to the Browns and Phils. He takes the new job at the same salary cause we ain't sold enough bonds to pay him what he's worth. He's a buildin' for next year, when he will gun fer the championship, but he promises to win a couple of games this year too. Let's give nine rahs fer good old Doug.

I ain't seen no umpires a joinin' up with the army yet; I guess it's because of their pore eyesight.

I heard the Phils had been in the cellar so long they was a goin' to call their ball park the Air Raid Shelter.

Uncle Tobias looks a little seedy today. He was sowin' some wild oats last night.

It shore takes a lot of pull to get along nowadays. Even a parachute jumper don't have much success without pullin' a string. I'll be seein' you pal. Keep 'em

Flyin'.

Yourn,
LOONY LUCY.

Misses Lee, Melton and Sasse Are Hostesses at Party for Recent Bride

Mrs. Wayland Holt, a recent bride, was named honoree at a party, which took the form of a miscellaneous shower, Thursday afternoon of last week when Misses Catherine Lee, Mildred Melton and Winola Sasse entertained in the home of Mrs. Carl Drake on East Saunders Street.

After games had been played, the honoree was directed to the gifts, which were hidden throughout the house, by clues found in balloons.

Refreshments of punch, cookies, and nut cups, holding Easter eggs, were served at the conclusion to sixteen friends of the honoree who attended.

Miscellaneous Shower Is Given at Jonesboro for Mrs. Wayland Holt

Complimenting Mrs. Wayland Holt, who was before her recent marriage Miss Margaret Rutherford, Mesdames W. C. Huggins, C. P. McAnelly, Harry Voss, and Hugh Walker entertained with a miscellaneous shower in the Walker home at Jonesboro Friday afternoon.

Several games, under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Watson, were played, after which little Gerry Kit Voss pulled in a small Army wagon loaded with gifts, which he presented the honoree.

Refreshments, carrying out the Easter theme, consisted of cake and punch. Forty-two guests registered in the Bride's Book.

The appropriation bill for the Department of the Interior has been before the House all week. It will probably be passed tonight. It has been severely reduced as compared with last year's bill. Everyone realizes that we must make drastic cuts in all of our expenditures that do not contribute directly to our war effort. It is interesting to note, however, that this appropriation bill has not received nearly as deep cuts either in the committee or on the floor of the House as the cuts that were given the Agricultural Appropriation Bill two or three weeks ago.

As I told you at that time, I supported and voted for some of the cuts in the agricultural bill, just as I have in this bill, because I know that you can't reduce expenses without cutting appropriations. However, I cannot but feel that all the criticism that is heaped on the farmer as a result of high food prices to consumers is a little unfair when I read that "measured in terms of consumer income, the same foods now require a smaller share of income than formerly, actually the smallest share in 29 years of record". As I have so often stated, I am ready to place a limit on all prices—farm prices, wages, food prices, manufacturers' prices, profits and all, but we should certainly let the farmer get his fair share of the national income before we accuse him of profiteering.

Recently, public attention has been focused on the "profiteering" of certain labor groups. The public has recognized very clearly that the man who makes planes and guns for our boys should be paid a fair wage for every hour that he works, whether it be the first hour, the fortieth, or the fiftieth hour, but that when that man says that he won't work more hours at a fair wage unless he is paid a 50 per cent bonus; then that man becomes a profiteer. I believe that that workman is entitled, just as the farmer is, to a fair wage, but he is not entitled to profit from the distress of his country.

It should not be supposed that all the profiteers are to be found in the ranks of labor. Certainly some of the Congressional investigating committees have, within the past week, exposed some of the most inexcusable and un-American practices among corporations that hold contracts to meet the needs of our country at war. It is true that the Federal income tax takes a large part of all corporate or private profits, but no matter what taxes we impose there will be some contractors who will take advantage of the government. I think it is clear that we must definitely limit profits—and I don't mean by that that we should expand the "cost-plus" system. To my mind these "cost-plus" contracts are absolutely certain to result in abuse and scandal. They should be abandoned, and the use of the so-called negotiated contracts should be restricted as far as possible. Our government will get lots more for its money if the contractors realize that they are going to lose when they load a job down with a lot of useless expense than it will when the contractor can make a profit out of every mistake and useless expenditure he makes.

The "cost-plus" theory just does not take into account the fundamental selfishness in human nature. It, actually puts a premium on waste. It is one of the practices dear to the heart of the bureaucrats that must go. There are too many people who are anxious to rob "Uncle Sam". We must not deliberately place temptation in the way of those who are not vicious but simply weak and selfish.

I think that the remedy for many of these troubles will be found in the pending Smith and Vinson Bills, which are now before the Committee on Military Affairs and the Committee on Naval Affairs of the House respectively. Their authors say that it will take at least two weeks to complete the committee hearings.

(These hearings must be completed before the House can act.) Mr. Smith and Mr. Vinson both believe, and possibly with some reason, that if the members of the House were to visit the people at home that when they came back the chances of passing the legislation would be enhanced.

On the other hand, many of the opponents of this legislation feel or say that they feel a few days "cooling period" would cause more members to vote against the legislation. There are, therefore, two strong groups who want the House to recess for a time. Personally, I think we should keep at work and that the committees should hurry up with their hearings and let us vote on these bills without delay.

I spoke in opposition to a recess, and am inclined to believe that we may have checked the move in that direction, but of course cannot tell until the issue comes before us. At any time our work here permits it, I expect to come home, but I shall continue to insist that we stay on the job as long as there is legislation ready for our action.

Whether you own a car or not, your loved ones are jeopardized daily by the reckless driver. If a standard driver's license law will minimize this danger in Texas as in other states, we need such an enforceable law just as quickly as we can get it.

Inter-Platoons Have Soft Ball League Going

They're at it already, these Camp Hood men have to have their sports, and why shouldn't they.

J. I. Fox of Company C, 893rd gave us the "dope" on their "opener" last week, when they opened their first of a series of inter-platoon games.

The Second Platoon nosed out the Third Platoon 6-4 in a fast one, featuring some of the boys who formerly played with New York City soft ball clubs. Umpires for the games are Sergeants for the Platoons, and Sgt. Costello managed the 2nd.

Box score for the first game was as follows:

Team	H	R	E
Second Platoon	8	6	3
Third Platoon	7	4	6

Pfc. Fox was formerly a printer in the Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C., where he worked eleven years. Thanks, Fox, for this information.

Men with the Colors!

According to "Nick"

Again, we're "ghost writers". And, it's still for the boys at Camp Hood, who haven't yet gotten "acclimatized", "orientated", "set-up" or whatever they may call it.

Talking to some of the boys, they want "horses"—they want to ride a horse—not necessarily a bucking bronc, but they want to "smell leather" and feel the warm hide of a horse under them.

Too, they're getting quite a bang out of armadillos, rattlers, possums, and other varmints that roam the colorful hills of Coryell county.

Talking about the hills, some of the men say Coryell county hills compare favorably in beauty (with the cedars) to the beauties of Kentucky, Virginia and Pennsylvania. And, we've called this part of Texas "The Alps of Central Texas".

Sports, yes, the inter-platoon soft ball season has opened, and as you'll see from another story, results have already been gained here.

More, more and more from the 893rd, and we're certain Lieutenant R. J. Albarano, Morale Officer, and his assistants will get lined up soon.

Mrs. Letha George of Detroit, Texas, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Bond on State Road, and other relatives at Pearl.

In the University of Texas library's 17,500-volume Newspaper collection, students and historians can trace almost a day-by-day record of the development of Texas from the original contemporary accounts since the day of Stephen F. Austin.

Your Farm Can Help

A farm "ground crew" waves a comradely salute to America's air forces while loading a truck with the kind of food that will help "keep 'em flying." The picture is from a popular U. S. Department of Agriculture poster entitled "Your Farm Can Help." And it's true that every farm in the United States can make a valuable contribution to the national victory program by producing more milk, eggs, pork, and vegetables, says the Department. A record production of these foods is needed to feed soldiers and sailors, keep families properly nourished at home, and give strength to Allies overseas.
