WITH THE ARC

Mrs. J. H. Hamilton, chairman of nursing activities, reports the enrollment in the home nursing classes, which began Jan. 4, to be as follows: Gatesville High School, twenty girls; Jonesboro, twenty-eight girls; and Copperas Cove, seventeen girls. Mrs. Hamilton also expresses her appreciation for the interest in the adult home nursing classes. The classes will be offered if the required number is reached. She urges that all who are interested should contact her or the local Red Cross Chapter.

Mr. W. F. Stiles, chairman of the accident prevention committee makes the following report concerning the accident prevention course offered to the Coryell

County Teachers during the week of Jan. 28:

The Red Cross Home and Farm Accident Course, taught by Mr. Hilton Gilliam in the local schools, was concluded Friday, Feb. 1. Eight members qualified as instructors for the course. Besides the Gatesville teachers, one from Jonesboro and one from Mountain completed the course. There were twelve others who registered as visitors in the course.

Much vital information pertaining to the prevention of accidents and deaths in the home and on the farm was demonstrated.

The importance of such a program in our county is shown by surveys made by class members. From information obtained from vial statistics from the office of the county clerk, it was found that fourteen people were accidentally killed in Coryell County during 1945. Another report from the hospital revealed that a total of thirty people received, during November and December, treatment for accidents. Of these, the greater percentage was cuts. The startling fact revealed by this report is that over fifty percent of these accidents occurred in the homes.

Mrs. Oliver Dallimore Honored With Surprise Shower

Mrs. Oliver Dallimore, the former Miss Wavaley Hinesley and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hinesley, was honored with a surprise shower by Miss Freda Glass Tuesday night at 7:30 in the R. E. Kirkpatrick home.

The honoree was greeted at the door by the following guests: Waldine Swindall, Polly Ward, Wanda Stephens, Mildred Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Bill Hinesley, Mrs. E. R. Huey, Reba Jones, Beatrice McKinney, Nadine McCallister, Mrs. F. J. Battle, Mary Hinesley, Maxine Weaver, Dorothy Swindall and the hostess.

The dining room was cleverly decorated with a large doll, which was placed in the middle of the table and dressed in the traditional wedding gown.

Each guest wrote on a little card her advice to the bride. These cards were then read aloud by the honoree.

Mrs. Dallimore's niece, little Miss Linda McCallister, then led her to the bed room, where she found a large box filled with gifts.

The hostess, assisted by Dorothy Swindall, then served the guests a delicious refreshment plate consisting of: heart shaped sandwiches, olives, assorted nuts, candy mints, and Coca-Cola.

The couple will leave shortly for New Orleans, Louisiana, where they will make their home. Mrs. Dallimore was formerly employed by the Gulf States Telephone Co. in this city, and Mr. Dallimore has just recently received his discharge from the U. S. Army.

The bride wore a white wool suit with blue accessories and a corsage of rose buds.

Mrs. Bell, whose former home was North Carolina, has been employed by the War Dept. in Washington for the past three years.

Mr. Bell has recently received his discharge from the army after serving four years. He is now employed in the post office in Houston, Texas.

After a wedding trip to the Rio Grande Valley and Mexico, the couple will make their home in Houston.

Shelter

Mussolini is dead, Hitler is still missing and Hirohito is taking orders from an American soldier, but mortal craving for power appears to have survived World War II. Any individual who can find something that a great many people need, and figure out a way to keep them from getting it, has put himself in a "key position," able to make a lot of people suffer.

One thing people need acutely right now is shelter. Shortages of building materials and the scarcity of skilled workmen have combined to make housing about the rarest commodity in common use. It is an every-day necessity, too. People have to have a place to live and they will pay whatever it costs to get in out of the weather, or they will take whatever shelter they can afford.

Humming and Hawing

Comes now proposed legislation to protect home buyers and home builders from inflation, by governmental controls. Administration of rulings always brings delay, and more delay. Now we need housing, and more housing. Natural, competitive safeguards will provide better protection against inflation than rulings, as certainly as sturdy walls will keep out more cold than red tape.

The strategy is to fix ceiling prices on residential property, new and old, to allocate building materials and regulate the transfer of new real estate. Allocating materials means giving somebody a right to say who can build and who can't. A crafty "co-ordinator" with such authority could soon have a great many fellow citizens doing his bidding. America needs a V-B Day on bureaus.

Guessing at Prices

Ceiling prices on old residential property is an absurd idea. There is nobody in my state able to umpire the transfer of old homes in my town, much less yours. Such laws are only made to break. A legal ceiling on new home prices might be easy to express in a mathematical curve but its results would be bad. It would tend to cheapen construction and encourage jerry building.

Clamping down on the sale of vacant lots would surely be wrong in point of expedience. It would kill much precious time. Servicemen are coming home now, not after next year. They want places to live, no later than they can get wife and baby out of the in-laws' spare room. They are entitled to a home and ought to have it as fast as their local builder can meet their needs.

Pocketbook Care

I don't want to see today's new home makers (least of all servicemen) pay three prices for houses, but natural competition among builders would prevent it if they could get materials. Paying a premium for promptness in a time of emergency is a trivial matter compared to the "highway robbery" we are courting in shoddy houses, built cheaply to sell under a ceiling.

Government's moral obligations to home-seeking servicemen are three: (1) Help builders get good building materials quickly to make suitable, small homes, (2) Begin no public works to busy the building trades until the home need is relieved, (3) See that mortgage money is not carelessly thrown around. Bank loans ought to be easy on well-built houses and impossible on poor ones.

CALIFORNIA SEES EIGHT MILLION TRAILERS ON ROAD

LOS ANGELES — Sterling Gleason, public relations director for the Civilian Production Administration in southern California, says he is conservative in predicting that 20 million Americans soon will be "living in trailer homes".

Gleason's picture of post-war motor touring puts a trailer behind every four autos. It creates for the trailer industry, he says, the task of building eight million rolling homes.

The boom will be a little while getting under way, Gleason concedes, "because even Detroit turned out only four million autos annually before the war and material shortages are still a very real factor."

Gleason who spent several years traveling in a trailer before the war, bases his predictions on research conducted toward a master's degree. Mass production, he says, will bring trailer prices so low that almost any American family can afford one. "Trailers were selling as cheap as $300 before the war", Gleason says, "and manufacturers were a long way from assembly line methods."

Some Southern California factories are turning out trailers at a rate of one every six hours.

Gleason says the war punctured a trailer boom prematurely but predicts another is already in the making. "The manufacturers here, in Indiana, and in other parts of the country can't begin to meet the demand," he says.

"It won't be long before you'll see the biggest mass movement of tourists in history, and at least 20 million of them—probably more—will be dragging their trailers behind them."

Ex-Paratrooper Jumps 30 Feet In His Sleep

PORT CHESTER, N. Y. — (AP)—Tom Thomas, 36, a discharged paratrooper, dreamed that his jumpmaster gave the command to jump.

Asleep, he jumped from his second-floor bedroom window, plunging 30 feet into a narrow closed alleyway.

Unhurt, but clad only in summer pajamas, Thomas yelled into the near-zero night until his landlady threw down some blankets, pending his rescue.

Firemen worked 45 minutes to get him out. Then, over a cup of steaming coffee, the ex-soldier said:

"I could swear I heard the sergeant yell 'jump'."

Dutch Bulbs Coming Back On The Market

TORONTO —(AP)—Dutch bulbs will be plentiful in Canada and the United States by next September, says Anthony Roozen, who has come to this continent to make arrangements for resumption of the bulb trade.

Roozen, who was food controller for northern Holland from 1942 to 1945, said the bulb fields were never flooded but some were damaged by the explosion of abortive V-2 rockets fired by the Germans.

Toronto residents will see an advance showing of postwar Holland tulips this spring in Queen's park—the bulk of a shipment of 100,000 bulbs sent the Canadians by the Dutch as a liberation gift.

MEMORY IS VICTIM OF MODERN TEMPO

CINCINNATI, Ohio—Now if you forget to mail the wife's letter you can blame it on the tempo of modern life and think nothing much more of it—that is, if the wife doesn't find that letter in your pocket.

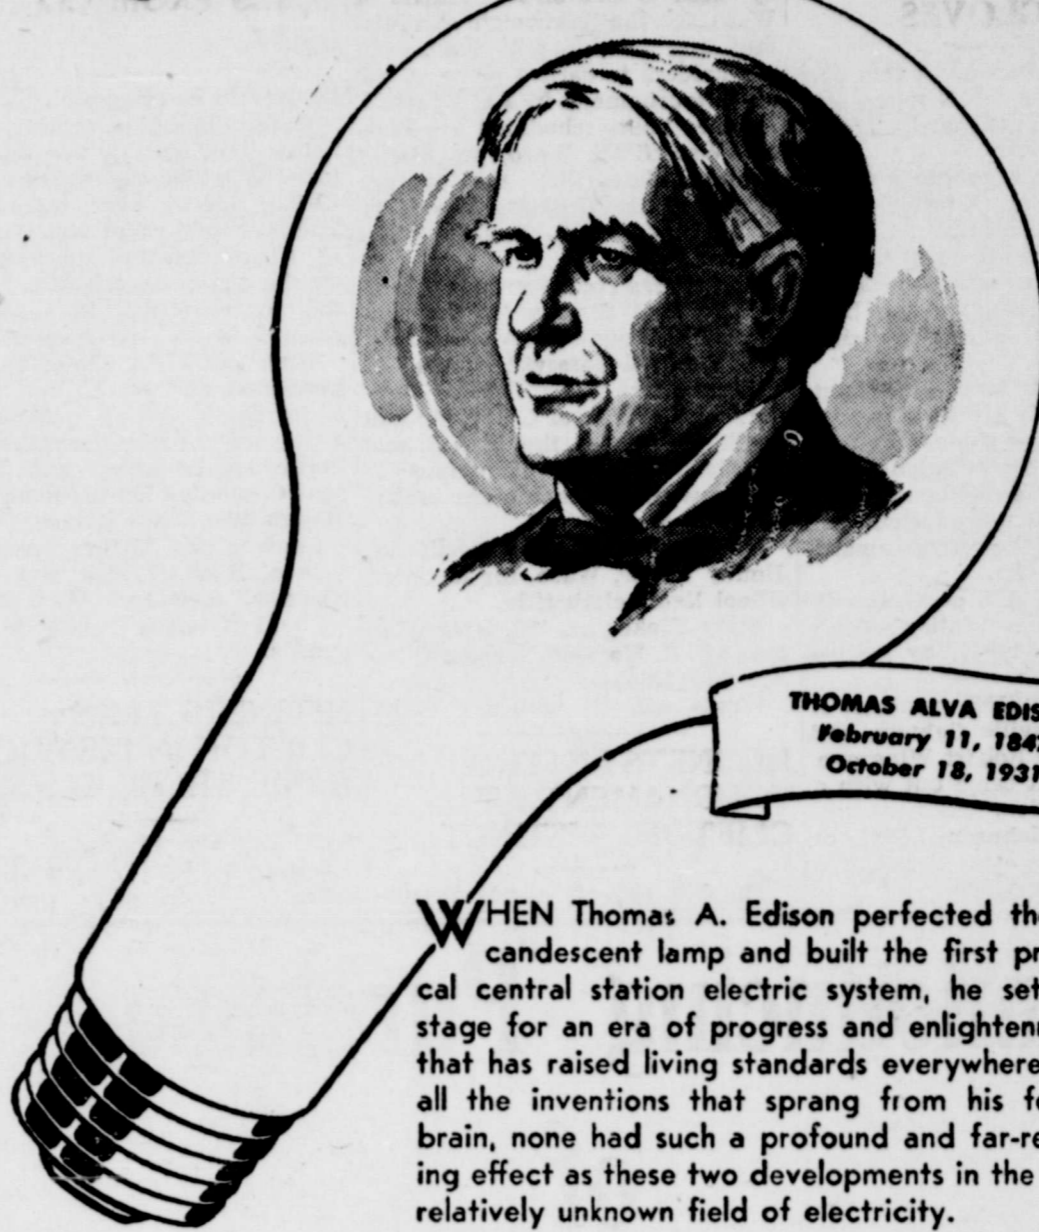

Dr. Arthur G. Bills says time has become so telescoped "and we have so many stimuli poked at us that the patterns of memory are broken up."

So, even if the wife finds that letter, Dr. Bills has an excuse for you that may work—at least once. It is "retroactive inhibition," which can be an intirely commendable affliction.

The psychologist demonstrates the workings of retroactive inhibition by teaching a person something, allowing him to sleep for one hour, then having him recite it back. A second part of the test involves the learning of something more, sleeping eight hours, and then reciting it back.

In both these phases memory works equally well, proving that mere passage of time cannot be blamed for forgetfulness. How-

He lighted the way to a higher standard of living

WHEN Thomas A. Edison perfected the incandescent lamp and built the first practical central station electric system, he set the stage for an era of progress and enlightenment that has raised living standards everywhere. Of all the inventions that sprang from his fertile brain, none had such a profound and far-reaching effect as these two developments in the then relatively unknown field of electricity.

Without electric light and distributed electric power, women would still be slaves to drudgery, men would labor longer to produce less, and the output of farms and industry, which is the real wealth of the world, would be but a fraction of what it is today.

So, on this 99th anniversary of Edison's birth, we again pay tribute to the man, who, perhaps more than any other, helped make the world a better place in which to live. Myriad lights turning night into day and the hum of motors in busy factories are lasting monuments to his genius.

ever, when the same individual is required to remain awak for eight hours after learning his lesson, he forgets 60 percent of it!

"That proves that retroactive inhibition is caused by the number of other things impressed upon the memory between learning and attempted recall," says Dr. Bills.

Moral: To remember to mail

GATESVILLE BOYS IN WACO GOLDEN GLOVES

Waco's Golden Gloves this year seems to be about half taken over by Gatesville boys, hardly any of which we know.

Harry Allen, a gangling unconcerned kid from Gatesville with an amazing punch in his long right arm, whaled the tar out of Rudolfo Castillo of Waco, before Jack Delaney, referee, stopped the bout. This was the Thursday night headliner.

Waco fighters won nine bouts and Gatesville 3, Marlin one.

Bill Melton was stopped by Clifton Thorn in a featherweight scrap. Bill went down for a 7 count in the 2nd, and a well placed clout had him groggy and the referee awarded a TKO to Thorn.

Joe Flores, 146½ of Gatesville eliminated College Station's entry Buddy Raiford, 148½, by getting a close vote.

Frank Garces, 153, another of the tough Gatesville fighters, had a close one with Robert Wingrove, 157½, Waco, but came out with a two-to-one decision.

And, Carl Johnson, 163, of Gatesville, lost a close decision to Curtis Brown of Waco.

Finals Tonight
Finals will be tonight, with Harry Allen to take on Ray Riddle of Waco, for the lightweight A division. The winner will then meet titleholders to earn a place at the state tournament in Ft. Worth.

Other bouts scheduled are Walter Waterfield, Waco, vs. Glenn Prater, Gatesville, the winner fighting Billy Williams, Waco, for the highschool welter-weight crown.

Joe Flores comes up again, and fights Floyd Simons for the senior welter-weight championship.

One All-Gatesville Bout
Frank Garces, 153 and Roy Henderson, 150, both of Gatesville will battle it out for the high school middleweight title, the winner to tangle with the champions of the A and AA divisions.

Thomas Scott, 133, Gatesville vs. Jimmy Fuller, Waco, for the high school lightweight title.

Steve Blakeway, 150, Gatesville, meets C. R. Moyston, Waco, for the AA class title.

Finals will be Saturday night.

FAMOUS U. S. ARMY DIVISIONS

2ND ARMORED DIVISION

"HELL ON WHEELS" was what they called the 2nd Armored Division in Sicily and France, and to the fleeing Germans it proved just that. It was the first American unit to reach the Elbe river in the dash across Germany and it became a part of the occupying force in the United States zone of the German capital. This division was one of the pioneers in the Army's armored command. Regular Army men who were picked for the Division when it was activated in July, 1940 were selected on the basis of their special skill and aptitudes. They had months of training in amphibious warfare. The 2nd Armored received a mass citation for the Belgian Croix de Guerre, being the first foreign division to be so honored by the Belgian kingdom.

The Division sailed for North Africa in September, 1942, its components at that time were: 41st Armored Infantry Regiment, 66th and 67th Armored Regiments and the 14th, 78th and 92nd Armored Field Artillery Battalions. It went into action in the attack on Casablanca in November, 1942, serving as part of the Western Assault Force. The Division as a unit was then placed in reserve, but some members of it took part in the campaign for Tunisia, integrated with units of the 1st Armored Division. In July, 1943, the 2nd Armored took part in the invasion of Sicily, landing at Licata and Gela and smashed a determined enemy until the final phases of fighting for Saselvetrano and Palermo. Late in 1943 it was transferred to England and went into training for the invasion of the continent.

The Division landed in Normandy on June 10, 1944, and went into action near Carentan. During July and August it swept across France and helped blast a way open for the infantry, pocketing many enemy prisoners below the Seine. In September it advanced to the north and claimed for itself the honor of being the first American division in this war to fight the Germans on Belgian soil. On September 18 it penetrated the German frontier and soon launched an attack against the Siegfried Line near Marienberg, Holland. In October and November it exploited its breakthrough of the Siegfried Line and captured more than 2,600 prisoners.

The forward advance of the 2nd was halted in December when it was hurled against the Nazis in their winter offensive and in a driving attack in eastern Belgium, December 23 to 28, it smashed the spearhead of the German Fifth Panzer Army and shattered elements of two of the enemy's crack panzer divisions. In the Ardennes Forest in battling in deep snows it inflicted enormous losses on Von Rundstedt's men. The battle continued until February when the Division rested, but in March it resumed the offensive, crossing the Rhine and hurling its strength on vital industrial areas of the Reich. It was prevented from driving on to Berlin by orders from higher authority and was halted at the Elbe when the Germans surrendered. Beside the honors given the Division by the Belgian government, the Distinguished Unit Citation was awarded Company H of the 41st Armored Infantry Regiment.

WIN TWO, THEN DROP ONE TO LAMPASAS: GAME THERE

By Harold Pennington

GHS Hornets, who already had two scalps on their belts from Lampasas, went over Wednesday evening and left one over there. It was a close one, however, the final count being 35-34, Lampasas.

High point for Gatesville was Necessary, and starters were Patterson and Ward, guards, Necessary and Anderson, forwards, B. Davis, center.

Although Mills County, with Goldthwaite as the county seat, pioneered in this, and won National recognition, it seems now, that the Coryell system is an improvement on the original, since school authorities are being referred to Coryell county by Mr. William, instead of any other county.

Georgia Shows How To Balance a Budget

ATLANTA — (AP) — It's the first time and it may be the last, points out state auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., but Georgia is completely out of debt.

Never before has the state had reserves to apply in full payment of bonds and other obligations maturing at a future date.

The state's peak debt was on Dec. 31, 1940, Thrasher said. $53,170,146. By last December 31, the debt had been completely eliminated.

Now the state has a current cash surplus of $591,230, which together with sinking fund reserves of more than $21,000,000, will completely liquidate obligations now outstanding.
