Next Number Due On Concert Series November 13

Boyce House, humorist and lecture-narrator, will be the next attraction on the Municipal Concert series being sponsored here by Coryell Municipal Concert Association.

Boyce House recently was the subject of an extensive article in Life Magazine which described him: "...with whoppers, all of them lauding the products of Texas, a gangling wide-mouthed man named Boyce House maintains his reputation as the States number one booster. This is no mean distinction in a state where everybody is either a booster or a social outcast. He has written a number of books of which three have sold more than a quarter of a million copies, he writes two newspaper columns, and he has given more than a thousand speeches in the last half-dozen years in addition to his regular weekly pro-Texas radio program".

Boyce House's jokes and sayings have been quoted in Readers' Digest, Coronet, John Gunther's "Inside U S A", and other periodicals. Bennet Cerf ("Try and Stop Me") says, "Boyce House tall tales of Texas have become tradition".

Mr. House, in his over one thousand speeches, has kept audiences laughing uproariously with his tales told in the inimicable House style. He is as Texas as Texas itself and though he is famous as a humorist, his presentation here will be valuably informative as he points out little known facts about the Lone Star State.

Boyce House will appear here on November 13 at the Municipal Auditorium, at eight o'clock in the evening.

Miss Alire Broalch of Crawford was shopping in Gatesville Wednesday.

Arnett Field Day Draws Over 500 And Kids Have Fun

The first "Field Day" of the rural schools was held at Arnett October 25 and proved a gala affair, drawing some 500 people, including teachers, pupils and patrons.

In other games, Purlmela over Coryell, Levita over Arnett and Mountain over Topsey.

In the semi-finals, White Hall beat Levita and Plainview, and Plainview won over The Grove. Mountain over Purlmela.

In the afternoon the pupils were called together and there was a flag raising ceremony, and Superintendent Ollie Little led the assembly in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Following this a musical was held.

Miss Ima Fellers, Mrs. Efton Carroll and Mrs. Sam J. Powell were appointed on a committee to make plans for the next meeting at which all rural schools are urged to take part. Patrons of the schools are also urged to be present and meet their neighbors in other schools.

Law is a Little Busy This Week: Accidents, Etc.

There were two wrecks, or accidents this week which were reported. The first was a side-swiping Saturday night between two pick-ups driven by Mayhew Watson and Floyd Hodges, both of Jonesboro-Turnersville communities. It was reported one got out with an injured arm and was treated at the hospital.

The second accident, a car with two un-named men in it overturned three or four times, on the old Waco highway where it connects with 36 east of Gatesville near Bigam school. A wrecker brought the car in, but no one was reported injured.

Two Hamilton boys confessed stealing two calves from the Hamilton Stock Fard and tried to, or did sell them at the local auction Tuesday. Sheriff Joe White and Deputy Eric Sharp and the sheriff and deputy of Hamilton county picked them up as they came back to the Auction barn for the check.

WASHINGTON NEWS
FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN
W. R. POAGE

Brussels, Belgium
September 20, 1947
Dear Friends:

Our Committee has spent the past several days in the "Low Countries" Belgium and The Netherlands. They were both occupied by the Germans and both suffered severely from this war, but the Netherlands suffered far greater damage. Both countries held rich colonial empires before the war—Belgium in Africa and the Dutch in the East Indies. There has been no disruption of the Belgium colonial administration, but the Dutch colonies were occupied by the Japs who in turn armed the natives at the end of the war. The future of the Dutch colonial empire is still a matter of speculation and debate. It is not, therefore, surprising to find that Belgium is at the moment enjoying a much greater degree of prosperity than The Netherlands.

Another factor which some claim to be the result of her better economic condition and which others claim is the cause of her prosperity is the Belgian free economy. There is less planning and control in Belgium than in any country we have visited. As soon as the war was over Belgium began to produce goods and to sell them at home and abroad. She allowed her people to buy anything they could. She made no effort to direct the expenditures of the individual. As a result, the Belgian working man could buy the things he wanted with his wages. He had a real incentive to work, and on the whole he worked hard and has produced well. Prices are high, but Belgium has full employment and in most lines is producing as much or more than before the war. However, her financiers recognize that they are on exceedingly thin ice inasmuch as the volume of goods produced and sold at home do not create any foreign exchange, particularly dollars, with which to pay for the food that Belgium must import. We were told by the Minister of Agriculture that if two wheat boats from the United States did not come through, Belgium would be out of flour. She has no reserve and she has practically no dollars with which to buy more. She needs to export goods in order to buy food she must have.

She cannot export more without reducing home consumption and that can only be accomplished by price control and rationing.

The Netherlands, on the other hand, has continued all war time controls on goods and prices. They have tried to increase their exports and in order to do so the yhave made it impossible for their people to buy more than the basic necessities of life. They have kept prices down but the result has been that many Dutch workmen have felt that there is no use of working any more hours than it took to get enough money to buy the food allowed them under the ration program. Industrial production is not up to pre-war and they, therefore, do not have the goods they need to sell abroad in order to earn dollars to buy food and feed. In addition, the Dutch have been forced to spend a large part of their efforts on repairing the damage the Germans did. At the very beginning of the war the Germans bombed the heart of Rotterdam and utterly destroyed a large part of the city. This was done in spite of the fact that there were no military installations there. There has been more substantial and permanent reconstruction here than anywhere I have been. The Germans demolished hundreds of blocks of The Hague to clear the land for defenses. This and other areas have been only partly rebuilt but it is a great strain on the resources of the country.

The greatest war damage resulted from the cruel and deliberate destruction of the dykes that hold the sea off large areas. Over hundreds of years the Dutch have beat back the sea and have erected great dykes to protect areas below sea level. They have pumped all rain and surplus water out generally by the use of great wooden windmills. These reclaimed areas included some of the finest agricultural lands in the country. As the Germans retreated at the end of the war they blew out many of these dykes and flooded thousands of acres with sea water. The Dutch have rebuilt the dykes and have pumped most of the water out, but much of the land was so poisoned by salt water that it will be years before it becomes productive again. This has added to both the food shortage and the difficulty of devoting all their energies to producing goods or export.

Farming in the Netherlands is carried on in a very intense manner. They grow great quantities of vegetables, potatoes, cabbage and sugar beets, but very little cereals. They grow a large part of the world's bulbs. The bulb business is all in a very small area of very poor sandy soil, but it involves one commodity that brings in needed dollars. They also have a very large nursery stock business centered in another part of the country. Very little of his nursery stock comes into the U. S. because of our plant quarantine restrictions. Before the war much of it went to Germany. Now there is no market. Dairy products constitute the largest single agricultural product. They use a larger cow rather similar to a Holstein. They have wonderful pastures and even in spite of the prolonged drouth we saw pastures running several head per acre. Right now their grass is all over-pastured and the stock is beginning to show it. They have no feed. They normally import much of their feed from the U. S. They are going to have to materially reduce their herds, which will have tragic results or years to come. Most of their milk goes into butter and cheese, and contrary to the practice of most other European countries, they put very little into barns. In fact, the cows are milked in the open in the pastures.

Your friend,
W. R. POAGE.

Texas Colleges Absorbing More Local Preppers

DALLAS, Oct. 23. (AP)—Texas colleges now can take care of nearly all the top schoolboy football stars of the state.

The more than 800 prep schools playing the game have been flooding the market. Outside states have been finding Texas a happy hunting ground.

But look for fewer and fewer to cross the Texas borders from now on.

There are 51 colleges playing football in the state this year—the largest number in history. 27 are senior colleges. The other 24 are junior colleges.

Competition for the schoolboy stars really is picking up. It's tough on the scouts who are doing more washing, churning and calf branding for the parents than ever before as they attempt to influence the fathers and mothers to turn their sons toward particular colleges.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

TEEN TALK:

DEAR JUDY:

Football games bring out the most unusual fashions. It seems the kids are not just wearing their hearts on their sleeves; this year's coeds have an entirely new angle—they're wearing their hearts on their eyes.

Latest on the campus hit parade is the wearing of goggles upon the frames of which are inscribed the names of current heart interests. These hep-specs come in some process plastic that takes to india ink or nail polish, and the kids do the painting.

Such jive talk as "slip me the skin" or "hey bob a rebob" and "he's a smart affair" adorn other rims. Some gals ujust stick to their own sororities.

Sloppy sweaters are not entirely out on the campus. Kids who couldn't make up their minds whether the style was in or out are wearing gobby sweaters which can be worn loose or by means of hidden laces in the back, they can be converted into form-fitting long-waisted sweaters

Ham Bones: Twin kids Bruce and Jay Colen at 13 are amateur radio stars. They broadcast from a rigged-up station in their bedroom and can be heard several hundred feet from their apartment. The kids made quite a bit of their own equipment, the rest they buy out of their allowance which they pool, or receive as presents on special occasions.

A broadcasting studio, on a small scale, might be lots of fun for kids who are interested in breaking into radio or television. Even if they can broadcast only to the next room, they might learn something about radio technique and if they really are interested could perhaps persuade local radio personalities to give them suggestions and criticisms.

Out at Normandy H. S. the St. Louis Courier reports that the boys are ughing and groaning at the "new look". Here are the reasons the Jacksons give:

They make girls look too tall and thin or too short and fat... The girls look as if they're tied up in sacks....

The dresses make 'em look as if they're a hindrance to walking...

But even at Normandy it seems the girls haven't quite made up their minds and some are in the 'way-below-the-knee' class and others are in the little-below-the-knee class—all of which puts them in the same boat as other students throughou the country.

To commemorate their founding, the Girl Scouts around the world will participate in "Seven Service Days". More than 30 foreign troops of Girl Scouts have come into being since the end of World War II including 2 troops in Saudi Arabia, and 11 in Japan. This is the international program for the period: Sunday, Attend church in uniform; Monday, Homemaking Day; Tuesday, Citizenship Day; Wednesday, Health and Safety Day; Thursday, International Friendship Day; Saturday, Out-of-Doors Day.

VIVIAN.

Jack H. Holcomb, 40, died in Fort Worth, October 10, 1947, and funeral services were held Oct. 13 at Gordon Avenue Baptist Church followed by burial at the Laureland Cemetery in Ft. Worth.

He was a postal clerk in the postoffice at Seminary Hill, a suburb of Fort Worth, and he formerly lived in Gatesville, where he, like Happy, was a baseball player and sportsman.

Services were held in Austin Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Capitol Heights Baptist church which he founded in 1936 and burial was in Memorial Park cemetery.

He taught school in Coryell County from 1907 to 1913, and was a veteran of World War I and in World War II served as chaplain for two years.

Uncle Sam Says

No farmer will question the link between this familiar September scene of filling up the silo and his United States Savings Bonds. Farmers must reckon with the future every moment of their lives. The crushed green corn stalks which they are storing away this month by tons will assure their livestock of winter feed. The Savings Bonds which they are also storing up will add to the security of their families.
