gatesville, Texas

Here it is October! '59s about gone.

Gone with it must be a lot of good old Coryell County folding money. "If it were not so," there wouldn't be so many college students, business college, and the like. Just look in this edition of THE NEWS, and count 'em, and we're sure that's not all.

In the 'bygones, when we went to 'college' (yes, we did, too) a course at BU cost $15, and we took 3 of 'em a quarter. Lab fees were about $5, but we didn't have much lab, and that was all except the college annual, which we bought the first year, and the last, was about $5. We wore a sweater and 'slime cap', and then continued wearing the sweater. Room, if we remember, was '12 or $15 a month, 5 flights up. All in all the 3 month expense was about —well, not much. We thought it was worth it then, and do now, but, we don't believe a one of these you've counted could make it on that little.

Now, we counted $131 and, of course, there's more, but you multiply 131 times what it takes to get into school now, and that'll show you that 'prosperity' was here, if it ain't now. It'll also show you there's a noticeable lack of old pewter changing hands around these parts the last month. The pewter's gone to college.

Another sign of prosperity is the cotton lint that is all over the downtown area. At two-bits or better a pound, the way they've been ginning here and at all other points in the county and out, Central Texas had oughta be on a boom. Maize is moving, yeah, just about everything's moving. Costs are high, but then, in what business, profession, or activity are costs not high. Maybe we'll get to skim off a little bit of the good, for ourselves, after costs, and, of course, taxes.

Now that Krushy's left, there'll be other things to worry about. Right now, both the city, county, and the school must be preparing 'pink slips' for the loving taxpayers. Then, there's car tax, and 'incom!' Out of one hot fire into another.

Watch out for Coral snakes! They're here!

MOON'S-EYE VIEW
It is disturbing to learn that

Russia beat us to the moon—all the more because victory will be turned to propaganda giving it false significance.

Make no mistake, the moon-strike has tremendous significance, but not as they would have it. To see the profounder meaning, take a look as though we ourselves stood on the moon.

From that serene perspective, national boundaries, ideological differences, and human strife no longer matter. From the moon's-eye view, the rocket's arrival is NOT a victory for one way of life over another.

It signifies, rather, the triumph of man and the mind of man—that which impersonal collectivism and gross materialism discount.

It points to the magnificence of what man can do when he puts

It attests, as all of science, that man achieves as he obeys the cosmic laws—hence a humility that ill befits the arrogant dictators.

It speaks for a dimension of creative intelligence that could not have been made by man himself—and thus affirms the Creator God whom Communists deny.

No, it is not a Communist triumph. It is a divine-human triumph declaring the glory of God the Great Books speak to Today...

WHAT OF chastisement's, poverty, illness, which fall upon the good outside of all justice... are they to be charged to past misdoing?

No. Such misfortunes do not answer to reasons established in the nature of things; they are not laid up in the master-facts of the universe, but were merely accidental sequents. A house falls, and anyone that chances to be underneath is killed, no matter what sort of man he be. Two objects are moving in perfect order — or one if you like—but anything getting in the way is wounded or trampled down. Or we may reason that the undeserved stroke can be no evil to the sufferer in view of the beneficent interweaving of the All... nothing is unjust that finds justification in a past history. — Plotinus, philosopher of the 2d century.

Of the gods we believe, and of men we know, that by a necessary law of nature they rule wherever they can. And it is not as if we were the first to make this law, or act upon it when made; we found it existing before us and shall leave it to exist forever after us. All we do is make use of it, knowing that you and everybody else, having the same power as we have, would do the same as we do. — Thucydides, Greek, 4th century before Christ.

With respect to that which happens conformably to nature, we ought to blame neither the gods, nor ourselves, nor anybody, voluntarily, nor unwillingly, nor for anything wrong anybody does. — Epictetus, Greek philosopher, 1st century AD.

LIBERTY LADIES CLUB MEET WITH MRS. CLOVIS BELVIN SEPTEMBER TWENTY-SECOND

Mrs. Clovis Belvin was hostess to the Liberty Ladies Club at her home September 22, and much in-terest was manifest in the two quilts quilted for a daughter, Miss Mary Belvin of Dallas. One, an intricate spider-web had been piec-ed by Mary's great-great-grand-mother Stansell, after her 100th birthday. The other, a beautiful brick pattern, was made by Mary's grandmother, Mrs. G. J. Baize.

Plans were made for the first Autumn all day meeting with Mrs. Milton Brown, Oct. 13, and she invites members and visitors to spend either the day, or the half-day as suits their convenience.

Mrs. Belvin served refreshment plates of sandwiches, pickles, po-tato chips, cake and punch to Mesdames Lucian Sanders, J. Frank Blair, L. C. Perryman, J. W. Laxson, L. A. EAST LANSING, MICH., FARMER: "One big cost of farming often overlooked. A last year's survey by Michigan Farm Bureau showed the average farm accident costs about $700 in property loss alone. Ten per cent of the 600 members surveyed had accidents during the year, with property losses totaling $70,000, medical bills amounting to $50,000,

PORTRAIT OF A CLOWN

"That's Old Weary Willie," says Emmett Kelly, world famous clown, as he makes a comical survey of his likeness in oils painted by the nationally acclaimed portrait painter Dmitri Vail, of Dallas, shown pointing to the canvas. The portrait, the first and only one for which Kelly has ever posed in person, will be shown in the Dmitri Vail Sixth Annual One Man Exhibition of Portraiture in the Lobby of the State Fair Musical Auditorium as one of the outstanding attractions of the Texas State Fair, October 9 to 23.

CATTLE TRAITS CAN BE DETERMINED

Progeny and performance testing of beef cattle is rapidly coming of age and has already progressed beyond the experimental state of the application of research findings in breeders' herds. Research findings by a number of colleges have shown conclusively that cattle differ in their ability to make rapid gains, to use feed efficiently and to develop desirable carcasses, and that these differences are heritable and transmissible from parent to offspring. Studies also prove that rate and efficiency of gain are rather highly correlated and brood cow performance is important to the total economy of beef production and is a repeatable trait.

In establishing an on-the-farm testing program, breeders must first decide what traits are to be measured and included in the selection program. Traits selected probably will be determined by the ease with which they can be measured, their heritability estimates and their economic value. Important points include pre-weaning growth rate, weaning weight, feed efficiency, and carcass quality.

But performance testing will not obtain the status it should in the cattle industry until a unified national program is established for all state organizations, Performance Registry International, and the national breed associations.

Experts in the cattle industry predict the steer of tomorrow will be reasonably wide over the top, deep bodied and will have more length than people have looked for in recent years. If the meaty steer has these characteristics, he also will be a fast doing, healthy, efficient steer for both the cow and calf, man and the steer feeder. This will result in a product the packer will enjoy processing because it will suit the consumer's demand.

COLUMBUS, WISC., REPUBLICAN: "The big laugh of the week should be labeled the House passage of a bill approving an additional 1c tax on gasoline so that the federal road construction program may go on. The 'big' catch comes in that the 1c tax is supposed to be in force for only 22 months, beginning with this September 1.

"Most of us have been around this world enough to know the folly of any tax put on by the Federal government getting so 'light' a treatment, even if so stipulated."

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY
THE CASE OF
THE EMERGENCY CALL

By Donald J. Sobol

"This is Authur Clark of 419 Overview Avenue. Send the police! Hurry . . ."

The telephone operator heard a shriek, and then nothing. She immediately notified the Grand Street Police Station, and Officer Murphy, cruising in a prowler car not two blocks from the Clark home, was at the scene within three minutes. Even so, he was too late.

Authur Clark lay dead in the foyer near a rangling telephone receiver. He had been stabbed twice in the back. Mrs. Clark was seated on the stairs, sobbing and incoherent.

"Clark must have been outside shoveling snow when he suddenly decided to call the police," Officer Murphy told Inspector Winters and Dr. Haledjian when they arrived. "The walk is nearly cleared, and a shovel is lying by the door. He must have seen something that frightened him but was stabbed before he could tell what it was."

"He certainly was bundled for this weather," commented the inspector, noting the galoshes, wool sweater, jacket, mittens, and scarf worn by the dead man. A stocking cap lay a foot from the body.

Under Haledjian's gentle urging, Mrs. Clark told her story.

"I was in the kitchen when Arthur charged in, flushed and excited. He told me to get upstairs and to lock myself in the bedroom. He was going to call the police, he said, because he'd seen Eddie Kilham in the neighborhood. "Kilham is the hoodlum my husband's testimony helped vict last year. He swore to Arthur. Since his escape from son, we've been terrified. I went upstairs just as Arthur dialed heard him say a few words that shriek; I found him like that."

"And that story," said Haledjian, "will undoubtedly bring to trial for murder, Mrs. Clark. HOW DID MRS. CLARK GET HERSELF AWAY?

because of Officer Murphy's unexpected rapid arrival, she didn't time to remove her husband's mittens. Wearing them, she could never have dialed the phone, as she claimed. Haledjian surmised that Mrs. Clark had impersonated her husband over the telephone; then summoned him inside and bed him.

PRISON RODEO STAR — Dale Robertson of TV's popular series, "Tales of Wells Fargo," returns to Huntsville on Sunday, October 11 to present a special show for the 28th Annual Texas Prison Rodeo. Robertson was one of the stars of the 1958 rodeo series which attracted upwards of 100,000 persons for the four Sunday performances. In addition to top TV and recording stars, the rodeo features convict riders who match wits with prison rodeo stock. The prison rodeo earns funds which are earmarked to give inmates rehabilitative services not supplied by the State Legislature.
