Executive Committee Votes to Put State Issues on Ballot

Hamilton County voters will have an opportunity to express their opinion on three questions in a referendum in the July 28 primary election, Bradford Corrigan, Democratic county chairman, reported last Wednesday afternoon.

A meeting of the county executive committee was held earlier in the afternoon, and members voted to have the three questions submitted to county voters.

Attending the meeting of the committee were Corrigan, as chairman, M. Robertson of Gentry's Mill, D. P. Sargent of Evergreen, Vada Lovelace of Jonesboro, A. A. Brown of Hico, Dan Haile of Olin, Jack Strubling of Hamilton 23, and Robert Kelm of Shive.

A drawing for places on the county election ballot was held and the candidates will be grouped as follows, Corrigan said: Congress, Omar Burleson and Dan Kralis; representative, 62nd district, Bill Shannon and Kai Segrist; district attorney, Truman Roberts and Howell E. Cobb.

County attorney, H. A. Leaverton and H. W. (Bill) Allen; sheriff, W. W. (Woody) Young and Ed Frost.

The three questions to face voters at the election are concerned with racial integration. No. 1 is on the integration of pupils in state schools; No. 2 is on racial marriage; and No. 3 is on the question of interposition by states in questions dealing with federal control.—Hamilton Herald-News.

Former Hicoans Sell Colorado Lodge Recently

The sale of Buffalo Lodge, one of Colorado Springs' best known motor courts has just been announced by the owners for the past almost eleven years, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alexander and their son, Harry, Jr. The deal was effective June 25.

Mrs. Alexander is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Aycock of Hico and is well known here.

The Alexanders purchased Buffalo Lodge in the summer of 1945, prior to the ending of World War II, and have continuously owned and managed the property since that time. The lodge is one of the largest in all of Colorado, having 53 separate units, each with private bath and for many years was considered the largest all modern motel in the region.

In 1954, after already having made many improvements and additions to the lodge property, the Alexanders added a very beautiful swimming pool on the grounds overlooking Pike's Peak and the other mountains, the pool being one of the very first in the region and has proven a most welcome as well as helpful addition to the lodge's facilities.

In exchange for Buffalo Lodge property the Alexanders acquired a 33-unit permanent rental apartment property in Long Beach, Cal. which is now operated under management basis.

It Happened Here or Near

By E. E. DAWSON

A couple of lines from "The Palm of Life" keeps ringing in my memory.

"And departing leave behind them Footprints of the sands of time."

That may not be exactly a correct quotation, but that contains the idea just the same. And I am convinced that there is nothing truer than that statement of the poet. And it is akin to that Scriptural declaration that "whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." In another way it may be correctly stated that cause is always succeeded by effect. It is a physical law of the universe, and in like measure a spiritual law written into the very warp and woof of things.

Allow me to cite an example or two. Bob Jenkins spent a night with us not so long ago. Bob lives at Beaumont and has been there several years now. He said that he kept hearing the term "Coonie" (if that is the way to spell it) and he failed to gather the significance of the term. He asked a man whom he knew to be called a "Coonie" one day what the term meant and the man shrugged it off and said, "Oh, it's just a slang phrase used for fun." The man was not quite truthful in his answer. Bob learned later. Only recently did he learn that the term means that such a man, or woman or that matter, had negro blood in his veins, even though it might not be discernible in his coloration. You know Beaumont is a French name and was established, when I do not know, by the French. There was inter-marriage of whites and negroes and that mixed blood still persists in separating him who has it from the rest of his fellowmen.

Footprints of French fathers who gave no thought to the results of their improper marriages. How long it will take for the tides of time to erase those footprints none can tell.

The first stop will be at the O. H. Brummett ranch. Other stops scheduled for that morning will be at the place of H. W. Sherard, where Hico FFA boys will exhibit their stock; George Golightly's Bosque Valley Angus Farm; across to John Golightly's Hereford ranch, and then to James Youngblood's ranch.

The tour will have lunch in Hico before continuing to the northern part of the county. In the afternoon the tour will visit Tom J. Thompsons, Sam Watta, Dr. C. B. Cathey, Stiles Circle S. Ranch, and Jack Strubling.

All business and professional men of Hico are invited to go along on this tour, according to Dr. C. B. Cathey of Hamilton, secretary of the association, as well as breeders of registered and commercial cattle.

The tour annually draws top interest from various persons throughout the county, and a large crowd is expected to join the group next Wednesday morning at Hico.

Funeral Services Held Recently in New Mex. For John Meador

Funeral services for John U. Meador, 73, of Carlsbad, N. Mex., were held June 7 at 3 o'clock in Artesia, N. Mex. Mr. Meador was a pioneer resident of Hico.

A retired farmer and merchant, Mr. Meador died June 6 in Carlsbad. He was born Dec. 18, 1882, in Texas, and had been a Carlsbad resident for about seven years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. John Meador, Carlsbad; a son, J. H. Meador, Loco Hills; three daughters, Mrs. R. D. King and Mrs. Fanny Bedford, both of Artesia, and Mrs. Charles Weir of Loco Hills; two brothers, W. R. Meador of Santa Fe; F. C. Meador of Kerrville, Texas; five sisters, Mrs. J. T. Hammer of Dexter, Mrs. T. J. Block of Albuquerque, Mrs. Virgie Davis, Estancia, Mrs. Frank Loeschke and Mrs. A. D. Knick both of Amarillo; eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. Meador will be remembered in Hico by many of the older residents.

Modern Facilities at CPS Testing Laboratory

(ED. NOTE: The following is being reproduced this week, courtesy of Community Public Service Company's monthly magazine, "The Communicator." We think readers will find the story as interesting as we did. All photos are by Reed Studio, Hico, engravings courtesy of Community Public Service Co.)

The rubber gloves and rubber blankets with which the electric lineman protects himself against shock while working on "hot lines" stand between him and serious burns or possible sudden death; they must be kept in perfect condition at all times. Gloves must be tested every 60 to 90 days and rubber blankets every six months. So, the CPS testing laboratory for rubber goods, at Hico, is an important factor in the Community Public Service setup. Recent improvements have placed it in tip-top condition.

The laboratory, which has been in Hico since 1942, is now housed in a brick building adjacent to the Hico power plant and is fully equipped with the most modern gadgets for testing. Andrew McFadden, Hico power plant operator, is in charge of the work.

McFadden tests approximately 600 gloves (330 pairs) and 25 rubber blankets per month, from all towns in Community's electrical system.

Each morning Andrew sorts out the current batch of gloves and enters on a test sheet the number of each glove, last test date and other information. Each glove is then put on an air block and blown up for visual inspection. If McFadden finds a crack or other obvious defect, he junks the glove. If he finds none, he submits it to a voltage test.

To do this, he fills the glove almost full of water and places it in a water tank with an electrode inside it. Voltage is then applied and brought up gradually by means of a "Variac" to 10,000 volts. This voltage is maintained for 60 seconds, during which McFadden opens a disconnect switch to get a milliamperage reading. If this reading is above 9 milliamperes for a 14-inch glove or 15 milliamperes for a 16-inch glove, the glove is unfit for use and is discarded. If the reading is satisfactory, it is recorded on the test sheet.

The glove is now removed from the test tank and placed on an air-drying rack. The new drying rack, shown in accompanying photo, dries the glove in about 45 minutes. The gloves are then packed in a special shipping container, a cylindrical aluminum receptacle closed by a metal screw (to insure safe transportation), and shipped back to their sender.

Three copies of the test sheet on each glove are made. One copy is returned with the tested glove, one goes to Safety Director W. J. Millican, in the General Office, and one is kept in McFadden's file.

Shipments of rubber goods are tested and returned daily. All sizes of rubber blankets are tested by McFadden, from the large square type to small split-type blankets, as well as the new rubber "button jackets."

In blanket tests, the blanket is first examined for defects visual to the eye. If no flaws are detected, it is laid flat in the test tank, a half-inch wet felt pad is laid on top of it and an electrode is placed on top of the pad. Voltage is applied gradually up to 10,000 volts for 60 seconds. If the milliamperage reading exceeds 5 milliamperes per square foot, the blanket is junked.

Blankets are also returned in specially built cylindrical shipping containers.

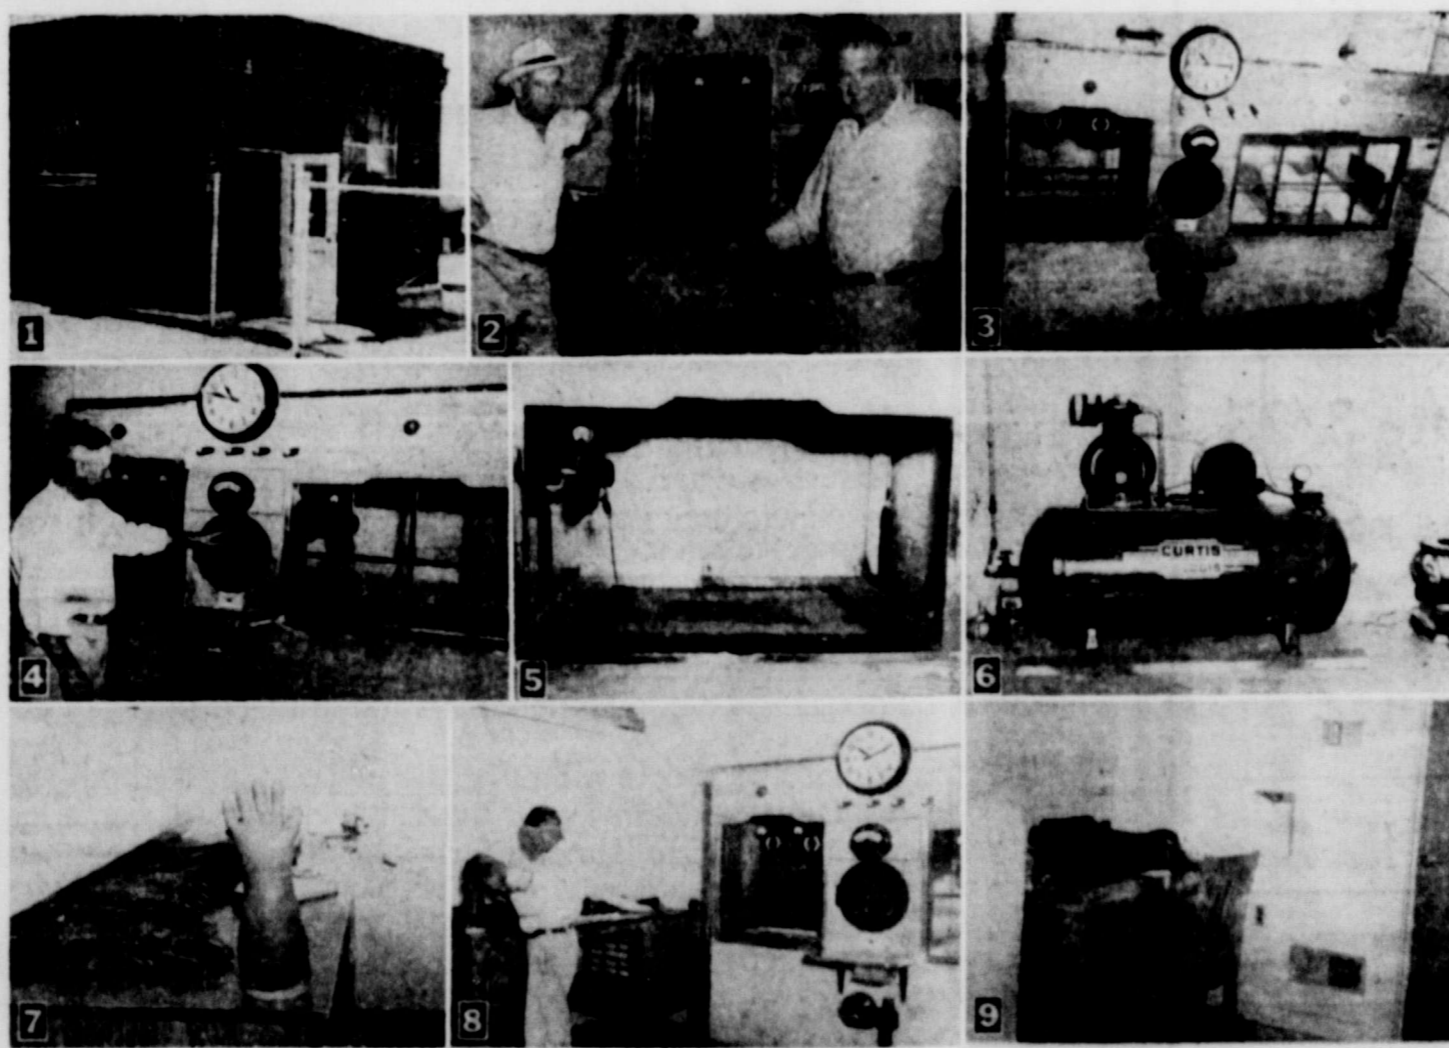

The test station equipment at Hico was installed by Plant Operator McFadden and Hico serviceman Milton Dunlop, under the supervision of Hico Manager O. L. Davis. The test structure itself has a frame of angle iron with welded joints. The panel, of three-eighths inch plywood, is attached to this metal frame.

The equipment, shown in accompanying photos, includes: glove test tank, four hot sticks which are connected to 10 kv. disconnect switches behind the front panel, voltmeter, a "Variac" which enables operator to apply voltage from zero to 14,500 volts by turning a hand wheel and observing the volt meter, blanket test tank, a 60-gallon, 6.75 cfm. air compressor, to furnish air for the glove drying rack and the glove test air block; air block, for visual inspection of gloves, and an air glove-drying rack which will dry 25 pairs in 45 minutes.

There are two windows in the test station, which may be raised or lowered, but these windows must be tightly closed during tests or the test units will not operate. Floor of the laboratory is covered with vinyl tile. A thermostatically controlled electric heater provides heat for the laboratory in winter and a one-ton window air-conditioner cools it in the summer.

When the windows are open even a fraction of an inch, all electric equipment in connection with the test panel is automatically killed out, as a safety precaution.

IMPROVED GLOVE-TESTING LABORATORY AT HICO—These are views of the testing station where rubber gloves and rubber blankets used by electric linemen throughout Community Public Service Company are checked out by Andrew McFadden as described in accompanying story. (1) Entrance to test laboratory, adjacent to CPS power plant at Hico. (2) Hico Manager O. L. Davis, left, who planned and supervised construction and equipping of station, and Andrew McFadden, plant operator, who is in charge of rubber goods testing. (3) The "heart" of the test station, showing glove test tank at left and blanket test tank at right. Between tanks, note (directly under clock) protruding handles of four hotsticks which are connected to 10 kv. disconnect switches behind panel, voltmeter and "Variac". (4) McFadden operates Variac as he tests blanket in test tank at right. (5) Close-up of blanket test tank with 48-inch blanket in test position. (6) Air compressor which provides air for glove test air block and glove drying rack. (7) Rubber glove inflated on air block for visual test. (8) McFadden makes visual test. Note storage bin, for boxes of gloves at operator's right. (9) Desk where test reports are typed up. Note electric wall heater. Laboratory is also equipped with 30-gallon electric hot water heater, one-ton refrigerated air conditioner and small electric refrigerator. Glove drying rack is shown in separate picture.

FORCED AIR GLOVE-DRYING RACK—This new piece of equipment in the CPS glove testing station at Hico will dry 25 pairs of rubber gloves in 45 minutes. It recently replaced an old rack which required three hours to dry gloves. Note drip tray under rack added to standard equipment by O. L. Davis and Andrew McFadden, to prevent messy floors.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD MONDAY FOR INFANT

Little Harold Davis Holley arrived at the Hico Hospital Friday afternoon, to bless the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Holley and his three little sisters, but they enjoyed his presence for only a short time, as he passed away Sunday morning. The baby had been ill since birth, seemingly of respiratory difficulties but had seemed to be improving, until he suddenly took a turn for the worse and died shortly afterwards.

The little fellow weighed 6 pounds and 12 ounces. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in Hamilton, with Rev. Wesley Jones, pastor of the Fairy Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in the Littleville Cemetery.

Besides his parents and 3 sisters, the baby is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Yates of Hamilton and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs.

Holley, also of Hamilton, and a host of other relatives. Jesus has taken a beautiful bud out of our garden of love. Borne away to the city of God, home of the Angels above. Full blooming flowers alone will not do, some must be young and ungrown. So the frail buds he is gathering too, beautiful gems of his throne.

So to the parents may we say think of your dear one as a part of God's Heavenly bouquet. May God bless and comfort you in this time of disappointment and sorrow.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. LACKEY

Again this community has been saddened in the passing of Mrs. Emma Lackey of Hico, who resided in the Fairy community for many years prior to moving to Hico a few years ago.

Mrs. Lackey possessed a very sweet personality and to know her was to love her. She numbered her friends by her acquaintances.

She will be greatly missed by her loved ones. She suffered greatly during her illness but bore it with patience.

May God bless and comfort her children and other loved ones in the loss of this good Christian mother, who has been an inspiration to those who knew her during her lifetime. We hope to meet her in the great beyond where there will be no more pain, heartaches and sorrows. Many from here attended the funeral service at Hico.

Those from here attending funeral services for little Harold Davis were Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers and Carolyn, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Jackson and family, Mrs. Carl King and Lynn, Mrs. Chester Wood and Nelda, Mrs. W. E. Goyne and Lynda, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hanes, and the writer.

Jimmie Don Sellers, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers is expected to undergo surgery today, Friday, at Memorial Hospital in Waco to stabilize a bone in his right foot, due to the effects of polio. He is expected to be hospitalized about three days and will have to wear a cast on his foot for three months. He would appreciate hearing from all of his little friends, or others who would care to write.

Mrs. Scott Blakley and Lera Jane went to Fort Worth Sunday where they will visit in the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Liectt and other relatives for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McCoy and family of Burleson and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Liectt of Fort Worth spent the week end here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McCoy and other relatives.

A large number of relatives and friends from here attended funeral services for Mrs. Willis McAdams on Wednesday afternoon at the Cranfills Gap Baptist Church.

We received a nice letter a few days ago from Mrs. Myrtle Patterson of Grand Prairie, stating she had been ordered to bed for a month by her physician. We sincerely hope she will soon be feeling a lot better.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers and family spent Sunday in Dublin visiting in the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Allison and Darrel.

Mrs. Oren Brown and children of Brownwood have been visiting with her father, J. J. Jones Sr. and brother, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jones Jr., and family.

Crops and grasslands are turning up in many parts of this section. Gardens have not been very good since insects have been so numerous.

We have been able to secure the services of Mr. Dewey Massengill and son to help some on the cemetery, and Mr. Massengill promised us he would try to get back and help some more just as soon as possible. Our funds were running very low, in fact not enough to complete the work. We have received the following donations since our last annual cemetery working, which has made it possible to continue the work thus far and we think there will be sufficient funds for about 24 more hours. We don't like too much having it completed and will greatly appreciate your help. Those making it possible to work the cemetery this time are Willard Leach, Hico, $5; O. E. Whitson, $1.00; W. E. Goyne, $5.00; Mrs. Edna King, San Angelo, $5.00; Mr. and Mrs. Rob Hutton, Hico, $5.00; Cone Patterson, Fort Worth, $5.00. Some $21.00 was received at our last meeting. We wish to thank all for your thoughtfulness and hope to soon be able to complete the work.

Birthdays which we failed to receive for June are Mrs. J. E. Blakley, June 14; the late Jeff D. Patterson, June 12; Cone Patterson, June 1; and Wayne Pittman of Mesquite, June 23.

Abolishment of The Evil Progressive Income Tax

Open Letter to the Merchant, Working Man, Barber, Doctor, Lawyer, Professional Man, Farmer

In my opening announcement, I proposed abolishment of the progressive income tax. I suggested its replacement with a flat rate on income plus a Federal sales tax. Not only will this form of tax encourage greater investment, greater risk, harder work, and larger incomes for all—it would increase tax collections by the government.

The replacement of the income tax is practical both economically and politically. Unless such a program is enacted in time, the progressive income tax will fulfill the prophecies of Karl Marx by destroying the free capitalist system.

The present tax law sets a top limit on what any man or woman can earn by work, by risk, by inspiration. So I propose to substitute a flat rate tax on incomes of from 10 to 15 or even 22½ per cent. I suggest that the present system of exemptions be retained and increased to $1,500 for each person. Thus a family of four with $6,000 income would pay no income tax.

The Gallup Poll shows that the American people believe such a tax system would be fair for all income groups.

The history of the taxation proves that when you reduce taxes you end up with increased revenue. I will tell you more about this before July 28th.

This is because people try to earn more, risk more, work harder because they can keep more. But in the process of earning more, they pay bigger taxes even at lower rates.

This can be supplemented also with a Federal Sales Tax on everything sold at retail except food, rent, housing. This would make the low income group exempt from income taxes they paid by controlling their spending on fancy clothes, fur coats, perfumes, etc.

The wealthy tax payer would pay higher taxes even at the same rate because he will spend more. But he has the same choice as his low income neighbor. He can reduce his own taxes by buying a $2,000 car instead of a $10,000 car. If he wants to live up and spend his big income, he pays higher and higher taxes for what he buys.

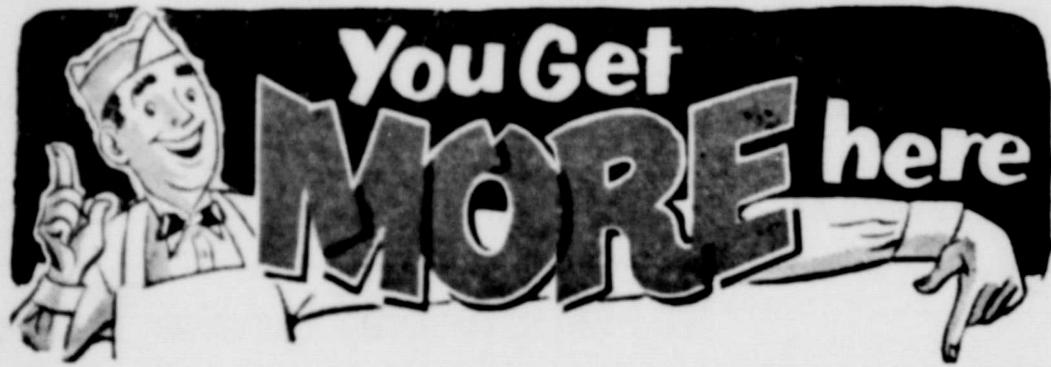

All of the low income people will pay little or no taxes. Nobody will have to fill out the complex and annoying tax forms now used. No agent will come knocking on your door two or three years later with a demand for more tax with interest plus penalties.

This would end the system that causes Americans to refrain from working harder, earning more, and risking more because the more they earn, work, or risk, the higher their tax rate goes.

We also will have a right to do as we please with our money. Now we are slaves to an income tax law that can take 100% of our income if the government desires and give it all away to our foreign friends.

I will have much more to tell you about this before July 28th.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
 A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

One of the cardinal principles of American law is that a man is considered innocent until proven guilty by proper legal proceedings. Practically everyone pays lip service to this ideal, but many fail to realize that the right to be represented by counsel is a logical and essential corollary of that theory of justice. There is a good deal of criticism of attorneys representing defendants in criminal cases. Much of this criticism is unjust.

Should lawyers defend in court persons whom they know or have good reason to believe are guilty of the crimes charged against them? A recent scientific sampling of the attitude of the public in Texas toward lawyers and law problems shows that more than half of all persons interviewed thought it was wrong for a lawyer to defend such a person.

Such an attitude is rather startling to thinking citizens and members of the Bar. Surely the justest criminal has a right to a fair trial by the law of the land. Such a trial he cannot have without a competent attorney to see that a fair jury selected and that only lawful evidence is introduced against him.

With reference to this feeling on the part of a sizeable portion of the public, a certain District Judge who tries many criminal cases, and who served eighteen years as a prosecuting attorney before his election to the Bench, recently offered the following comments:

"The result of this survey is no surprise to me, in that during my eighteen years of prosecuting, this feeling has been made known to me by hundreds of persons.

"The feeling on the part of the general public in this regard is brought about to a great extent by the sincere efforts on the part of the defense counsel to see that his client receives the benefit of every legal safeguard to which he is entitled. These legal maneuvers are often misunderstood by the layman as an unethical effort to defeat justice, by delay of the trial, and by taking advantage of certain defenses that to the layman appear to be trivial technicalities.

"Attorneys are the only ones who can correct the erroneous feeling of the general public regarding the defense of one who appears to be guilty as charged. We attorneys should emphatically state to the inquiring person that it is one of the cardinal rights of the individual in a democratic society to be considered innocent until his guilt is established beyond a reasonable doubt by legal and competent evidence.

"The public must be brought to the realization that all who are charged with crimes are entitled to the expert counsel and aid of an attorney, and that the sworn duty of such attorney is to see that each pro-active legal right, to which the accused is entitled, is afforded him."

Now and then a lawyer will overstep the bounds of his duty in defending those charged with crime. When that happens, the legal profession is even more indignant than the public generally, and appropriate disciplinary proceedings are instituted where warranted.

Washington

"As It Looks From Here"

This will be the last newsletter of the weekly series for this year. Except for obvious reasons, this column would continue until the Congress adjourns this session, which is now expected to be nearer the latter part of July than the middle, as has been hoped for.

An effort has been made through this column each week to comment upon those things behind the scenes in Washington not usually reported in the daily press. Many times the "little things" between the headlines become most significant, and often the action behind the headlines is more important than the event which makes the black type.

This generally has been the intent of this column, and thanks and appreciation go to those who have written me their reaction to many of them. It will be continued at the appropriate time.

As is usual in every session of the Congress, highly important legislation comes late in its deliberations.

At the present time, the so-called Federal Aid to Education, or more properly defined as Federal Aid to School Construction, is being debated.

Then will come the Postal rate increase, and likely public housing.

Two measures embodying extremely different philosophies are the so-called Civil Rights Bill and a bill known as HR 3, by Smith of Virginia, which redefines States' Rights. The Smith Bill was discussed in this column last week. I support this measure wholeheartedly, and have been doing everything possible in getting it up for a vote.

The Farm Bill passed by the Congress, will raise farm income by $2 billion if the Administration will carry out its provisions effectively and conscientiously.

An incident occurring recently reminds me that the Navy is not too different from what it was when I served in it during World War II. The Navy, like the other branches of the Armed Forces, is concerned with the defense of our Nation, but it has a problem of such importance that the Board of Policy has submitted the matter to the Secretary of Navy for a decision.

The question is, "Should the Navy modernize its equipment and put zippers on the traditionally

SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICER TO VISIT HAMILTON

Social security reports are due in July from housewives in Hamilton county who employ domestic workers, according to Al Bracken, manager of the Waco district office. Social Security Administration. Housewives are required to make these reports during July on household workers paid as much as $50 in cash wages in April, May and June. This is the sixth quarterly report due since the new law covered household employees without regard to the number of days worked. Reports are sent to the District Director of Internal Revenue at Austin.

Work of cooks, maids, housekeepers, gardeners and other workers in a private household counts toward eligibility for retirement or death payments under old-age and survivors insurance if they are paid at least $50 cash wages by one employer in a calendar quarter. If the household employee works long enough to be insured, benefits are payable in old age or to certain survivors in case of death.

The Social Security Field Representative, Mr. Ed Winslow, will be in Hamilton at the County Courtroom between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and noon on July 11.

Grand Jury Meets In July Session Monday

Only one felony charge was brought before the July session of the Hamilton County grand jury, which convened in district court Monday, July 2, sheriff's office attaches said last week.

The case is a charge of theft over $50 and was filed against Van Williams of Odessa. He was charged in justice court and bound over to the grand jury several months ago.

The youth is alleged to have stolen some personal property from the home of a Jonesboro farmer, after he accepted a ride from the farmer and worked for him a few days.

Sixteen Hamilton County men were summoned to appear before Judge R. B. Cross for possible service on the grand jury last many-button trousers of enlisted men."

The Secretary has promised to take the matter under immediate advisement.

A well-known Senator said the other day, "Even if you have the best aim, you still have to pull the trigger."

WANT ADS

Results are big!

By John C. White, Commissioner

One huge gasoline price sign plus one small fraction of a cent sign equals one angry automobile driver.

Every auto owner has seen them. A gas war flares in an area and filling stations erect tremendous signs with letters four feet high advertising their cutrate prices. Then in the upper right hand corner of the sign, barely visible to the naked eye, it that awful fraction "9-10ths".

This type of advertising—while not actually misquoting prices—violates the intent of the Texas Weights & Measures Law.

Weights and measures standards, administered by the Texas Department of Agriculture, are aimed at guaranteeing buyers a full amount of goods for their money. There is also a clause which regulates certain types of advertising. This clause is much abused in Texas.

The weight of the contents of any packaged commodity such as pre-packed meat, tinned goods, bread loaf and similar foodstuffs must be clearly marked. The law also books no trifling with attempts to mislead the customer on prices of these commodities. Yet, on gasoline sales, many attempts are made to hide those "fractions" until the buyer has already been lured into the driveway.

Most of the filling station operators are unaware they are violating a state law with near-illegible signs. Their competitors do it—and so do they. As a result of a continuous campaign by the Texas Department of Agriculture, most chain stations and many individual owners have corrected their signs. But many of these signs still exist.

A clarification of advertising laws and more publicity for them will be requested next January when the Texas Legislature convenes. This is one of the points of a program being prepared by the Department of Agriculture. Three main objectives include:

1. A new poultry and egg inspection law to prevent Texas from becoming a dumping ground of inferior or diseased products from other states.
2. Heavier penalties for repeated violations of existing laws.
3. Strengthening of license requirements of agricultural firms operating under present laws in order to protect the legitimate operators and consumers.

These are but a few of the changes proposed by the Department. A full protective program is planned for legislative action.

COUNTY AGENT REPORTS

By E. R. LAWRENCE

Thursday afternoon there will be a meeting of all the dairymen of the county. The meeting will be in the REA building here in Hamilton and will get started at 1:45 and be over not later than 4:00. This will give you dairymen time to get home for the evening milking. Mr. R. E. Burleson, Extension Dairyman of the A & M College Extension Service, will discuss general dairy problems. Everyone interested in the dairy industry in any way is invited. Thursday afternoon, July 12, in the REA building, starting at 1:45.

Most of you have heard of the new method of cotton insect control by treating the seed before planting. A few growers have a few acres planted to this treated seed this year and they have obtained good results. John Melde, and Eric Seider of Aleman are two, and Bill Lawson of Hamilton. Their cotton treated, grew off awfully well and was ahead of cotton not treated. For a few weeks after coming up, there appeared to be a good control of the thrips, and an earlier and heavier setting of the fruit. We do not know just now what these treated plants will turn out in the end but we will watch.

The Registered Beef Cattle Breeders will have their annual tour Wednesday, July 11. This is always an interesting trip and those not making it miss seeing some good cattle as well as enjoying the fellowship of some fine cattle breeders. Lunch will be in Hico. Tour will make up in Hamilton and leave about 8:30.

Many corn crops are going into silos now and this is one of the better ways to save a badly burned crop. Silage is the nearest thing to a good pasture that one can have. The drier the corn the finer it should be cut and the finer it is cut the better it packs. Packing is one of the chief points in making silage. Run tractors or anything over it to pack, and after you have done a good job of this, spend another hour or so packing some more. If the crop being cut is so dry it has lost all moisture, then it might be advisable to add a little water in order to restore it and too, to help in the packing, otherwise, no water is needed.

Herbert Jeske, southwest of Hamilton, has made the best oat crop I know of. Entire crop average was 40 bushels to the acre. Herbert believes in breaking his land as soon as he can get to it after he has harvested a crop. He's building a new barn on his farm too.

Earl Stirman of Indian Gap built a stock tank six years ago and stocked it with fish Saturday a 16 pound catfish was caught in it. This tank has never been dry. Along with his fishing luck, Earl had a little bad. Some careless hunter accidentally shot and killed his bull. When hunting or shooting, if one knows the back stop, accidents like this won't happen.

Ed and Lynn Taylor, on the river north of Hamilton on the old Stephenville road, have a sight to see. They have about an acre of coastal bermuda grass that is shoe top high. The overflow this spring got the grass off to a good start and it is in good condition now, though it has produced 30 bales of hay.
