NEW BRITISH NOTE IS COURTEOUS BUT FIRM IN DEMANDS

WILL INSIST ON PAYMENT OF DEBT IF FRANCE CONTINUES POLICY.

FLATLY REJECT FRENCH DEMANDS FOR PRIORITY

Condemns Ruhr Occupation As Unjustifiable and Urges Fixed Liability.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Great Britain's note to France and Belgium notable this time for its lucid and vigorous statement of the nation's attitude towards war debts and reparations, was delivered tonight.

The note insists that Germany's liabilities be fixed after an examination by an expert commission and makes it plain, curtly and firmly, that if France and Belgium persist in a policy which makes the payment of reparations impossible, Great Britain will expect France to liquidate its obligations to England in order to aid the British government in making the payment of war debts to the United States.

England in the note flatly rejects the Franco-Belgian demand for priority on reparations or the ground that Great Britain owing to unemployment is suffering more keenly than they.

BERGDOLL KILLS MAN ATTEMPTING TO KIDNAP HIM

ANOTHER IS WOUNDED BY THE NOTED DRAFT EVADER IN GERMANY.

TWO MORE ARE HELD IN CONNECTION WITH AFFAIR

Town Seen in An Uproar Over the Spectacular Event of Saturday.

By Universal Service.

BERGACH, Germany, Aug. 11.—

Grever Cleveland Bergdoll, United States draft evader, today shot and killed Carl Schmidt, a German engineer, and wounded a man named Roger, said to be an American soldier, who tried to kidnap him and carry him out of Germany.

The police are holding a man booked as Lieutenant Griffith, said to be an American army officer, who is supposed to have been in charge of the attempt to capture Bergdoll.

Lieutenant Griffith was arrested in front of Bergdoll's hotel, where the shooting occurred, when a mob of Bergdoll's sympathizers threatened him. Griffith was driving an American army automobile bearing the shield of the United States. The three men drove up to the Kronenberg Hotel, where Bergdoll was staying and asked for Bergdoll, saying they were friends. Bergdoll was gone armed with an automatic pistol when an attempt was made to kidnap him a year ago.

Schmidt and Roger entered the draft evader's room, loud words were followed by shots and Bergdoll came running out, his hair disheveled and his face marked by blows and scratches.

Attendees of the hotel found Schmidt's body lying on the floor. A bullet had pierced his heart, killing him instantly. Roger was badly wounded, but is expected to recover. The town was soon in an uproar over the spectacular event.

Bergdoll went to the police station and expressed regret over the death of Schmidt and the shooting of Roger, but declared his intention to defend himself in the attempt to kidnap the refugees.

Goed to Switzerland.

Believing secret service men were still after him, Bergdoll fled for his life to Switzerland, Bavaria, Austria and back to Switzerland. He was driven to a train station last January, which Bergdoll promptly departed upon his return to Eberbach.

Mr. Bergdoll, the fugitive mother, has been almost constant litigation with the government in an effort to obtain from the alien property custodian what is called a huge estate. The contract is reported to have been spent in a vain attempt. On July 18, she was granted passports to visit Germany to visit Groves, but although she had booked passage, she either never sailed, or, as a nameless passenger, had plans to return to Philadelphia, for it has not been definitely established whether she sailed.

NEW FIRST LADY COMFORTS GRIEF STRICKEN WIDOW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The first act of the new first lady of the land today was one of deep sympathy.

As soon as the bereaved widow of President Harding arrived at the White House the wife of President Coolidge called upon her. It was to assure her again that she was in no hurry to give up her tenorship of the executive mansion.

Every facility of the hospital of the president was promised Mrs. Harding. She was told to feel at liberty to call for anything. Mrs. Coolidge talked with her sympathetically as she had done during the trying ordeal of the funeral. Then with an affectionate farewell and a promise to return often Mrs. Coolidge went to her work.

Returning to her hotel suite, she summoned her secretary, Mary Handolph. This business like secretary appeared with baskets of letters and note books.

Mrs. Coolidge still has no plans to leave the White House. She is in no haste to go there. It was made plain. She has too much real work to do just now to think of anything else.

TOWN AMAZED AT TROOP MOVEMENT IN ILLINOIS CASE

EIGHT UNITS OF NATIONAL GUARD ENGAGED AT HILLSBORO.

PEOPLE REFRAIN FROM ADVERSE DEMONSTRATION

Feeling Bordered On Military As Result Campaign For Public Square.

HILLSBORO, Ill., Aug. 11.—

With a feeling somewhat of amazement Hillsboro residents today found themselves in the midst of a small army of about 500 khaki-clad, steel-helmeted soldiers as a result of a strike of several hundred workers at the plant of the American Zinc Company.

Everything was calm here after one man had been shot the night Friday morning near the plant. Then suddenly about noon today the soldiers began to arrive and by tonight there were eight units of the guard encamped on a farm near the outskirts of town and two more units on the town square. The machine guns arrived except the 12th Infantry from Effingham.

They were expected tonight. With the memory of the Kerrin fight still in their memory, Sheriff Charles E. Hill, Dan Dinnen of De-center, representing the government, and Colonel Albert Callahan of Delavan, representing the adjutant general, decided as Mr. Dinnen expressed it, "that they had better have troops to prevent bloodshed than to have them after the blood had been shed."

There was no adverse demonstration. The residents of Hillsboro, still a little surprised, received the soldiers good naturedly for the most part. The march on the town square on Saturday morning was on a parade, not a demonstration. The marchers were called last night and early this morning were on the move.

The soldiers were encamped tonight on the farm of C. O. Richardson, a resident of Hillsboro. The company of C. O. Richardson was the first to go on guard duty.

DEATH OF HARDING LOSS TO BASEBALL SAYS JOHNNY EVERS

By JOHN J. EVERS, Written Exclusively for Universal Service.

Baseball suffered what was probably its greatest loss when the news of the death of President Harding was flashed throughout the world. He was a real lover of the game, not that type of fan who for political purposes, comes to games.

President Harding kept an accurate account of every play on his score card at every game he attended. When he had opportunity he would go to parks, even in winter, when the weather was so cold that there was some doubt about playing. He attended at the Yankee Stadium. Only 5,000 turned out that day.

During one of the White Sox visits to Washington last season, a game was played for the benefit of charity and the late president came with Mrs. Harding and A. D. Laska. Just before the game started, Mr. Laska rose over to get drunk for his wife. I was honored with an introduction to the president and his wife.

After my name was given him by Mr. Laska, he said:

"Oh yes, I have seen Evers play a few times. He is a real player. Yes, baseball's loss is greater probably than any other individual business or sport in America."

The country, plunged in sorrow, has naturally not given much thought to the great series between the Giants and Reds, which otherwise would have attracted great attention. Will it, it is thought, be the greatest series yet seen in the history of the game?

The outstanding feature of both leagues has been the wonderful all-around work of Frank Frisch of the Giants. Frisch, possibly at the present time, is the most valuable asset in baseball.

I was amused to read the articles of some critics who seem to persist in calling attention to the many players who are "about to pass away." Keeping at it, as they do, they are bound to eventually guess right.

They have been wrong about four years now in the case of Eddie Collins. By Cobb, Zig Spiker, Jack Dumbert, Buck Wheat, Grover Cleveland Alexander and Walter Johnson.

And now, the latest. He is Maranville. Maranville is a real player. Maranville is a real player. Maranville is a real player.

The retirement of Charley Hollocher, shortstop of the Cubs, was no surprise to me. His health was very poor during my stay with the Cubs in 1931. But the attitude of Judge Landis was quite surprising. If he was quoted correctly when he said that he had no request for retirement from Hollocher, certainly he should be held responsible for any breach of the baseball rules.

It is a matter of such poor health that he cannot take active part at a large salary, should it be necessary before he can go in search of renewed health to make application? Baseball law is absolutely necessary, but it should not be drawn too fine. And I hold no brief for Hollocher in saying this.

COMMISSIONERS MEXICO CITY ARE OREGON GUESTS

By WILLIAM F. FLYTHE, Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11.—The American and Mexican commissioners who have been negotiating the recognition agreement between the United States and Mexico were the guests of President Obregon tonight at a farewell dinner in Chapultepec Palace.

The function was informal, owing to the death of President Harding. Final comparisons and examinations of the text of the minutes of the recognition conference are being made by the conference secretaries. Only slight verbal changes have been made, and as each correction necessitates the rewriting of a complete page, the work is long.

Already there is marked evidence of a changed feeling here towards the United States, as a result of the achievements of the conference, and an era of prosperity is looked for. This will permit the establishment of a Mexican bank of emission, assuming better order and an era of greater security as well as promoting the stability of the government.

Commissioners Warren and Payne have received each a handsome escarp from President Obregon as tokens of the president's esteem and admiration as American delegates.

NO IMMEDIATE RELEASE OF POLITICAE PRISONERS

DUBLIN, Aug. 11.—It was officially announced today that there will be no immediate release of political prisoners.

Kevin O'Higgins, minister of home affairs, so informed a delegation of transport workers who called for release of the prisoners and demanded freedom of speech and of the press for the coming election.

The minister said the government has evidence that the republicans are preparing to renew their onslaught on the economic life of the country. In the circumstances, he said, it was not proposed to release immediately and indiscriminately those who have challenged the people. He did not feel such a step would be conducive to the freedom of the elections.

BANK AT BRADLEY, OKLAHOMA, ROBBED OF $1278 IN CASH

CHICKASAW, Okla., Aug. 11.—

The bank at Bradley, a village 15 miles north of Chickasaw, was robbed this afternoon and robbed of $1278.

One bandit entered the bank while the cashier, Roy Smith, was in a neighboring business house when the holdup was staged. A girl who was alone in the bank was with them, escaped with minor injuries. A broken leg. They were on their way to Galveston on a vacation trip.

A considerable quantity of gold and gold certificates was overlooked by the bandit.

The robbers drove out of town without attracting attention.

MR. NEFF'S POLITICAL FORTUNES.

They are lining up, slowly, for next year's political contests in Texas. Governor Neff, if he escapes being nominated for president or vice-president, and if the University of Texas escapes his being elected its president, is to oppose Morris Sheppard for the United States senate, according to the early depositions.

One of the Davidson boys, probably Lynch, is also grooming to run for the senate, and the other one, T. W., now lieutenant governor, will run for governor, unless present signs point away.

Alvin Owsley Jr., of Denton, is also grooming to run for something, probably the senate, and is assured in advance of the support of some Wichitans whose judgment is pretty good on most matters.

Adjutant-General Barton, R. E. Thomson, of El Paso, and Lewis T. Carpenter, of Dallas, also are said to be casting hopeful eyes on the seat Neff will vacate.

Texas ought to be willing to pay most any price to keep Neff out of the University presidency, but there are evidences pointing fatally to the intention of the regents to put him there. A senatorial toga is a pretty steep price, but it is worth it, in that instance.

Some Texas editors think the Texas democratic delegation will be instructed to cast a complimentary vote for the governor, but that such instruction will merely camouflage a McAdoo delegation.

Looking the situation over thus, a year in advance of the primary, it would seem that the democratic party in Texas is almost as poor in material as it is nationally—which is considerable.

IN WORDS OF ONE SYLLABLE.

A member of The Times staff came in for quite a bit of chaffing recently because of his use, in a news story, of an unacquainted word; those who troubled themselves to consult Mr. Webster's well known publication found that the word had been correctly used.

The writer in question, of course, should have used a word that would have saved readers a search for the dictionary, but he explained that no simpler word fitted the case quite so aptly, or conveyed just the same shade of meaning.

There is no merit in unfamiliarity with the dictionary. If the average newspaper reader could be made to pry into one daily, he would write better business letters, make fewer mistakes in spelling, rapidly acquire a better grip on the language.

If he is a salesman—and nearly everybody is to some extent a salesman—he would find that the fluency and forcefulness, which selling talks require, came more readily to him. The reader who trains himself to learn the meaning of every unfamiliar word he encounters soon finds that the process is its own reward.

But newspapers are written for the mythical "man in the street" who seldom has a dictionary on his person. Consequently, newspaper writers should "write down" for him and not "up" to the dictionaries.

We are not apologizing for the use of the word in question; but after this, the staff will endeavor to avoid equiprobability.

FOR THE NEXT WAR.

An automatic rifle that shoots 60 shots per minute, with relatively little recoil, has been perfected by an employe of the government's arsenal at Springfield and has met a series of tests imposed by government ordnance officers. It is four inches longer and about a pound heavier, than the old Springfield rifle, and is expected to fill the need of a one-man portable machine gun. It solves a problem upon which ordnance engineers have been at work ever since breech-loading fire-arms came into use.

Its value as a weapon is yet to be determined. We are told that old fighting equipment will be of little use in the next war; that waves of ether will be controlled to destroy ammunition before it can be fired; that gas will be used with such deadly effect that firearms will be useless. When the pressing of a button can destroy a city, of what use will rapid-fire rifles be?

We are told, also, that at the present rate of disintegration, there won't be any United States army at the end of four years; we are told, still further, that there won't be any more wars. But if there is another war, and we have an army, and the infantry survive chemistry and electricity and scientific weapons and does get into action, sixty shots a minute will be a great advantage over fifteen.

MR. BERGDOLL AGAIN.
Attorneys for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll are reported to be negotiating with the department of justice for terms under which their client may return to the United States, serve his 5-year sentence, and then enjoy his $1,500,000 fortune. A fugitive in foreign lands, the wealthy draft-dodger is getting weary, and now five years in Lavenworth is preferable to the present sentence he now follows.

that his sentence will be shortened, or special privileges shown. There are enough Hapsodolites, stily sentimentalists, hokum peddlers and hypochondriacs in the country to bring quite a bit of pressure on officials to be nice to Bergdoll. There are plenty of jelly-brains to protest that he has been punished enough, and that the war is over, anyhow. Bergdoll ought to come back and take a chance.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HEAVEN.
No matter how beautifully heaven may be described to us, there shall always remain within our consciousness an eternal mystery as to where it is, and as to what it is.

Long ago I ceased to worry about heaven as some place beyond life. Rather did I begin to realize that heaven is a place that we build for ourselves right here and now.

I think of my mother in heaven—but when I do, I think of her in my heart and in the hearts and lives of those to whom she was so dear.

If God walks around in this world—as I believe He does—then this must be His heaven, where He loves to be.

I believe that every time we do an act, or speak a word, or write a thought, we plant a seed that will in time flower and scent with great fragrance this heaven of ours.

Bring the smile to a baby's face, start the blood to warming a discouraged human being, or lend a hand that shall lead one who has become weak from stumbling, and you may be well assured that you are a regular citizen in a beautiful heaven.

I wouldn't want to go to a heaven where the street were of gold and the people sat around "on flowery beds of ease." I would like to see great activity in the heaven that I would live in—where children would be fed decently and where every man would have his chance to perform in fit and useful manner.

Wherever I see happiness I see heaven. Wherever love breeds, there you will find heaven—whether it be in the center of some rude hovel or in the palace of some king. Heaven is for all.

There is no selfishness in heaven. It is a place of understanding where the universal spirit rules in the heart supreme.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE POSE OF ANNABELLE.
Miss Annabelle now quits the store To spend two weeks along the shore. And she'll pretend to be while there The daughter of a millionaire.

With dainty grace she'll walk, A touch of pride will mark her talk, And on the beach she'll be as fair As any maiden strolling there.

Not in a bitter way I tell This little pose of Annabelle, But just to show that birth and place Have no monopoly of grace.

Reverse the game, and let's suppose The rich man's daughter selling shoes— Would any guess to find her there Her father was a millionaire?

We judge by what we think we see And what to us appears to be, And Annabelle will gain renown She couldn't hope to win in Iowa.

For two short weeks they'll think her there The daughter of a millionaire, Which proves, to make an epigram, Our facts are often based on sham.

Now had her father prospered well, All would be proud of Annabelle; Had failure found the rich man's door, His child had labored in the store.

Thinking her what she seems to be, Her beauty and her grace they'll see, Which blindly they would pass right o'er If they should meet her in the store.

And so I smile at Annabelle, And so her little sham I tell, To show how oft the thing called worth Is but the accident of birth.

Finds Our Boasted Tolerance Of Today Is Largely a Sham

By THOMAS K. MARSHALL

When the matter of speaking was upon earth, the little company that gathered around him left upon record a fair tale which he might not have more orthodox than he was himself. The best beloved of His disciples is recorded to have called Him "Master" and to have said: "I have been overlooking the good of any one who followeth not with us. This is beautifully proclaimed to be a tolerant age, but it differs from no other age in this proud boast. We tolerate that which we agree; otherwise we are intolerant. It is in our nature to be intolerant of error, of error in church or state for opinions which run counter to the orthodox mind. Copernicus could not this day be tolerated of the church, which we are leading. Although neither Galileo nor Copernicus could this day be known authoritatively to be wrong, their statements would subject them to intellectual assault.

I am myself an old-fashioned orthodox Presbyterian. There is not a thing in the Bible that I cannot do and do not believe. My conception of God is that of a being omnipotent and omniscient. Therefore there is no fair play in the world. I have made a reality. I fix no limitation upon the power of God. But if you desire to worship a smaller being, I know of no other way than to worship the subject. If he is casting out devils in His name it is none of my business to forbid Him. I am not a tolerant man, but I am a tolerant man. I am not a tolerant man, but I am a tolerant man. I am not a tolerant man, but I am a tolerant man.

But it will be a sorry day when law modifications are left to the judgment of the criminal rather than to the common sense of the law-abiding citizen. I have in mind the espionage cases and the demand on President Harding for general amnesty. I am not called upon to defend the wisdom of the war legislation under which convictions were made. It is not my business to defend the wisdom of the war legislation under which convictions were made. It is not my business to defend the wisdom of the war legislation under which convictions were made.

The president of the United States conducted a very personal study of the cases and formal investigation by the department of justice, to pardon some of the prisoners and to withhold clemency from others. What was the result? Did his mercy and love for justice inspire gratitude and praise? What appreciation of his act has been expressed? It seems to me that abuse of the president became more violent than it was before he granted any executive clemency. Credit for his clemency was denied him; appreciation of the time and patience was not voiced; no word of thanks was uttered anywhere, so far as I know. General amnesty was sought and nothing less would suffice.

I cite this as an illustration of the spirit of intolerance with reference to the law and his penalties. What do we care about the law if it is not the kind of law that we ourselves believe ought to be? Measure up to the terms of our intolerant spirit, and above all let us tolerate for a new system of lawmaking. Let the laws be made by the people, and not by the legislature. Let the laws be made by the people, and not by the legislature. Let the laws be made by the people, and not by the legislature.

Spooks depict which fall off the city of London—about one square mile—in the month of June was 14 tons. Knowledge of coming weather changes by means of a barometer is attributed to atmospheric pressure on their nerves.

Years ago a man named Holt came through here with a medicine show. He had a small son named Paul, and when he went on his way he left the boy with a boarding woman, where he was to live until he schooling was finished. For some years the father sent money for board and clothes but the entire community adopted and enjoyed making his life pleasant. Any other boy might have been spoiled by the attention and affection of Paul and enjoyed making his life pleasant. He pitched for the high school team during his last year, and when he went to the State University he continued pitching. But he studied hard, also, and made good without benefit of favoritism. Business men at the university took an interest in him after a time, and he was given many social advantages. The remarkable thing is that he remained unspoiled to the end. The year he finished at the university he was captain of the football team and president of the student body. His character and professors agreed with the opinion of the people here at home, that with his great charm and natural ability he would make a great mark in the world.

Influential friends offered him opportunities to get started after his graduation, but he declined them, and of their offers appealed to him. He is pitching now for a fourth-rate bush league ball team and gets $200 a month.

"I never get sick but what you boys come out and see me," he said, "I'm about one of her folks that had the same symptoms and died in spite of all the doctors could do."

CARPENTER WRITES OF HELSINGFORS CAPITAL OF FINLAND

Queer Features of Daily Life and Business Activities as Witnessed in City of Two Hundred Thousand

A City of Two Hundred Thousand Heated by Porcelain Slaves—How the People Look—The National Bath House—The Women Massacre—An Educated Nation—Finnish Illiteracy Versus American—Bank and Business—Cooperation Which Benefits the Farmers.

HELSINGFORS, FINLAND—I want to show you the booming capital of the Republic of Finland. At the close of the World War Helsingfors took on a new lease of life and it is now one of the live, up-to-date cities of Europe. It is farther north on the globe than any other world capital. Its latitude is that of Hudson Bay, and it is nearer the North Pole than Emporia, Stockton or Christiania. Nevertheless the climate is pleasant and people can live well here all the year round.

Just how well they live will surprise you. My hotel is the Kamp. It is a building of five stories, facing an avenue park four hundred feet wide and with stone pavements on either side and green lawns and trees in the center. Entering, one finds much the same lobby as at home and the dining rooms are commodious. I am fortunate in having the bridal suite, which is on the second floor over the entrance. It contains a bed, a bureau, a desk, a chair and a toilet set. The room has two full length mirrors in which I can see every angle of the room. The walls consist of a parlor, then an entry, then a bathroom with a tub six feet in length with a shower overhead.

Every morning, for the first time since the war, the hotel is not heated by furnaces, hot water or steam, but like most of the homes of the city, by great stoves burning wood. The stove fills one corner of the parlor. It is half again as high as my head and has an oven three feet square which is the height of a chair from the floor. The oven has brass doors and when the wood is put in and lighted, these doors are closed and it gives all the effect of a grate. The stove is beautiful and I am told it cost four or five hundred dollars. It is of porcelain and is very white with pink and gold decorations as gorgeous as any dish in your cupboard. It does not look out of place in a room with a piece of furniture. The wood is brought in by a boy six feet tall but still wearing knee pants, and a blonde haired girl in a white apron, black dress and yellow kid shoes, makes the fire. She tells me to leave the door open until the birch wood has burned to a white ash. After it is closed and the brick walls inside the porcelain will keep the room warm all day. Similar stoves are used throughout Finland, but the cheaper ones are of plain mortar and bricks, costing twenty dollars and upwards. It seems strange to think of a city of two hundred thousand people being heated with wood, but this is so of Helsingfors and of Stockholm and of every city in Sweden, which has four hundred thousand population, and of every city of Finland. Even the government buildings are heated with wood, and today upon going into the court yard of the foreign office, I found it filled with a pile of birch sticks, containing many hundreds of cords, the fuel supply for the winter.

Breakfast in a Helsingfors. But the "waffle" is not in breakfast. Sit down with me and see how we suffer in this far northern city. You must excuse my pajamas. Here in Europe one usually breakfasts in his room upon rising and he can have his coffee served in bed if he chooses. The meal is about the same as all the great capitals, consisting of what the French call "Cafe Complet," a roll with some butter and coffee or chocolate as one pleases, or usually order marmalade or jam and two eggs. In addition, our Helsingfors breakfast is brought in on a silver tray with a silver coffee pot and a pitcher that holds half a glass of cream. The cream is excellent and the butter is good. The eggs are fresh from the farm. They are eaten from the shell. You break off the top of the egg an inch down, and scoop it out with a spoon as big as the end of your thumb. Every thing is counted. The Paris breakfast has two rolls, three balls of butter and coffee. Here four slices of white bread, a roll and two pieces of toast. Each of us gets six lumps of sugar, a thick pat of butter as big around as a dollar. The breakfast napkins are paper as is common in Europe since the world war, when the hotels using paper tray cloths as well. The breakfast have described costs as each fifty cents.

A Walk Through the Streets. Let us now go out on the Esplanadgatan and take a look at the people. It is about noon and the pavement is filled with men and women as well dressed and good looking as those of Washington or Boston. The faces of the people are rosy. They look healthy, hardy, and both men and women are well developed. The Finns are famous for their love of athletic sports. Every school has its physical exercises and at the last Olympic games, the Finns came next to par athletes who were the winners.

The crowd is more polite than that of our cities. There is more hat tipping and bowing and scraping. Soldiers in grey uniforms go by and all salute as they pass. We can see the difference in conditions. The well-to-do and upper classes wear the same clothes as ours, but the peasant women have shawls over their heads in place of bonnets or hats, and their skirts are so short one can see the tops of their boots which often go half way up the calf. They remind one of the peasant women of Russia and they have the same coarse embroidered bands of them carry blitted bags filled with vegetables. They are servants returning from market. How many more see on the street. The school boys wear caps and the school girls as well. The soldiers have military caps, and the officers long grey coats reaching to their high topped boots. The common laborers wear caps, and the farmers have the same headgear, high boots with their trousers tucked in at the top.

The street traffic of Helsingfors is not unlike that of a Russian city. The vehicles are drawn by horses with high boys rising over their collars. There are numerous "drossies," and only now and then an automobile. The roadways are kept clean by women in short skirts, and they sweep the dirt into the baskets with brooms made of twigs.

The City Market. Walking down the Esplanadgatan, we soon reach the market place, a walled harbor filled with ships, with large and small, and especially with skiffs and boats which have brought fish to market. The chief market place of the city is on the harbor, and the buying goes on both on the boats and on the streets. The market place is covered with booths and wagons, and men and women push carts about filled with vegetables, flowers and fruits. There are crowds buying and selling, and from ten until twelve o'clock the scene is a busy one. The market closes as the clock strikes twelve and then every skiff is agog picking up the scraps left at the market. At the same time men come out with hose and flood the streets, while sprinkling carts run back and forth, and the street sweeper sweeps the dirt into the street.

look at the harbor. Helsingfors is built on a peninsula running out into the sea and the bay is guarded by islands. We passed the red granite walls of the old fortress of Sveaborg on the island of the same name, as we came in, and anchored under the shadow of a magnificent Russian church with crosses and domes, standing on a rock perhaps one hundred feet above the edge of the water.

On one island nearby we could see the pavilion of the Yacht Club, and on another a popular restaurant, open to the winds and waves. On the shore rising above the harbor is Observatory Hill surrounded by a luxuriant park, and there are other parks here and there. The town has some great churches, a Greek Catholic Cathedral, a University with several thousand students, and public and private schools of every description.

About the Schools. The common school system was introduced into Finland more than seventy-five years ago, and at the time of our revolution, the Finns passed a law that no one could be married until he had learned Luther's Catechism. At that time parents who did not teach their children to read were fined, and when

Peter the Great ravaged the country, the fugitives who fled to the woods carved the alphabet on their dinner tables and the walls of their children.

Today there are less than 25,000 people in Finland over fifteen years of age who cannot read and write and that in a population of a little more than three millions. We have, roughly speaking, more than seven people in every hundred who are illiterate. Finland has only seven in one thousand who are illiterate.

I have visited some of the schools here in Helsingfors, and I am told they are almost equally as good throughout the republic. There is no home which is more than three miles from a school house, and there are people's high schools in all the farming districts. Nearly every town has its associations of the young people who study travel and history, and every locality has its choral society and athletic association.

Most of the school houses have gymnastic halls, and some of the newer ones have shower baths. The government prepares all the plans for the school buildings and the country schools have gardens for teachers and pupils. Many of the children along the lakes go to school upon the water. The school houses have places for snowshoes and bicycles. Nearly every home has a telephone and the children help each other with the lessons over the phone.

Finland and Sweden. In going through the streets one hears several different languages spoken. The Finnish which is growing more and more popular, was a barbarous tongue when the Russians took possession of the country in 1809, the higher classes then using the Swedish. But soon after that the Swedish scholars in Helsingfors began to study the Finnish and to teach the folk. Since then the Finnish language has become more widely known and it is now crowding the Swedish to the walls. There are now two hundred and seventy-four newspapers published in Finnish and only about one hundred in Swedish. There were formerly seven newspapers, which printed the Finnish and Swedish in parallel columns. In the University of Helsingfors there are three academic languages, Finnish, Swedish and Latin. The street names are printed in the two languages and public documents are used in both.

Cooperative Stores. An interesting feature of business in the cooperative stores of which there are one hundred and twenty in Helsingfors, some sixty-five per cent of their members being laboring people. They pay the regular prices but get a percentage on all that they buy. Cooperative stores are to be found in every part of the country.

In cooperation Finland is patterning after Denmark. Not only the farmers but the town people have their cooperative societies. The farmers have five hundred cooperative dairies and three hundred clubs for the purchasing of farm machinery and tools. There are more than seven hundred egg selling societies and the farmers are more and more every day eliminating the middle man. They are selling their own products both at home and abroad and are growing rich by it. This same movement is being pushed in all Scandinavia and I understand it is common in the new republic south of the Baltic. Is it not about time our own farmers should wake up and take notice?

Butter and cheese are sold in the Helsingfors market by a sturdy woman just in from the country. Finland is famous for its dairy products, and is beginning to export them to other countries.

American goods sold, and like the cities of Sweden and Norway, the town has an American way. There are a number of large banks, some more than eighty years old. There is a National bank which issues the Finnish marks, a currency which now runs into the billions, but which has a more or less stable value. There are savings banks almost everywhere, and every parish has one. The depositors in such banks now number about one for each family of the republic.

High Gravity Trend Is Found In Moran Field

Special to The Times: MORAN, Texas, Aug. 11.—Here at Moran there is a great deal of significance attached to the new findings which have been reported, a million north of Moran in section 47, Blinn Asylum lands, J. This new well, which is being drilled to a depth of 2,800 feet, is flowing by half-inch heads through a ten-inch casing into the Humble pipeline which has been laid out here in Moran and is found to be at almost the identical depth, which was 2,100 feet, that it was found at Moran in section 106.

At the present time the plant is running 6,200 barrels of crude oil daily with five stills, and it is stated by the officials that the plant will be running full capacity some time in the next few weeks.

Tulsa Expects Oil Fraternity At Homecoming

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 11.—Oil men have often been characterized as the most clammy people on the face of the earth. The big families of Kentucky mountaineers and the clan of the Scotch Highlands are indifferent and careless of each other by comparison. Now at last they are to have the opportunity of proving it to the world in general, they claim, at the great "Homecoming of the Oil Industry" which will be held in Tulsa, Okla., the week of October 1 in connection with the International Petroleum Exposition and Congress.

JOHN O'NEIL TO DRILL TEST SOUTHWEST OF HENRIETTA, CLAY COUNTY

John O'Neil has a derrick up and most of the machinery on the ground and will spend in some time during the week. The test is to be located four miles west and one mile south of Henrietta in Clay county, where he has secured a lease on 1,100 acres on a structure in that part of the county. It is expected he will encounter the Petrolia gas sand in the neighborhood of 1,100 feet, which is located in semi-wildcat territory, will be watched with interest, as from a geological standpoint, the topography of the area looks promising for a well.

By JOHN GOULD.

The derrick-like towers which recently began to punctuate the skyline of the refinery district in North Wichita are very significant structures, far more so, probably than are the tall chimneys which are scattered about the average passer-by. Their significance lies in the fact that they represent, for the three refineries at which they have appeared, a refining process that will add 50 per cent to the yield of gasoline from crude oil.

Applying that 50 per cent to the crude production of Northwest Texas, the significance becomes more apparent. Wichita and Archer counties produce about 50,000 barrels of crude daily, and each barrel of that crude, by using the refining methods, of yielding 14 gallons of gasoline, or a total of 1,100,000 gallons daily. If the new refineries, by using the process, were to be applied to the entire production, the gasoline production could be increased to 1,650,000 gallons daily. By using the refining plants are able to obtain 22 to 25 gallons of gasoline, instead of 14 to 17, from a barrel of crude oil.

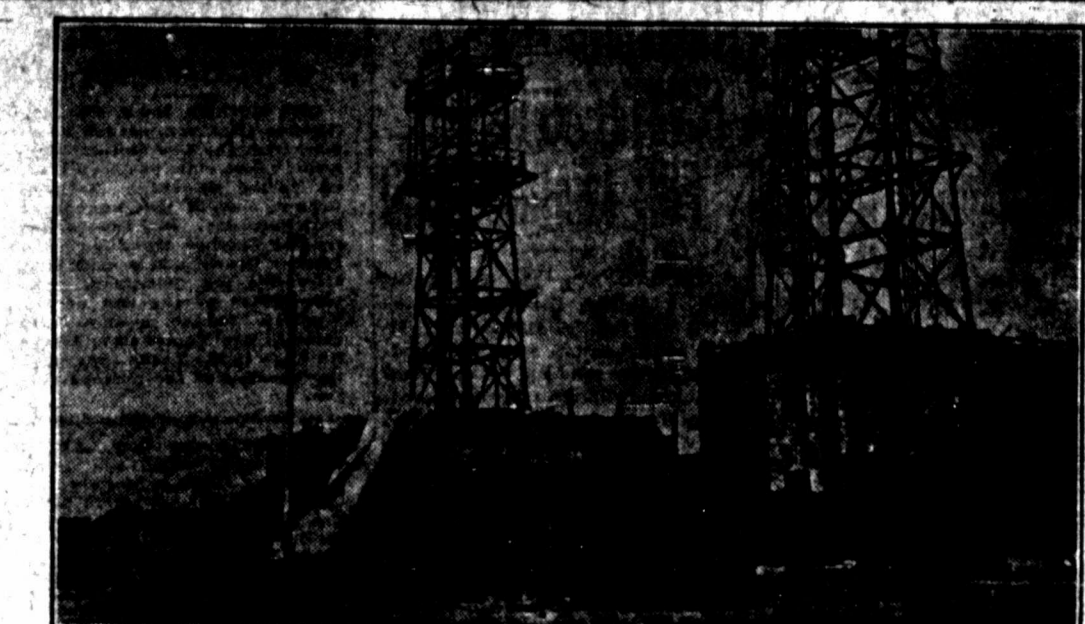

Approximately a million dollars is being spent by the three companies mentioned, in providing the new facilities. The Texhoma company is putting in four units, the Panhandle two, and the American is putting in two units, with two more under contract. A total of ten units.

The cracking process supplements, but does not supplant, the "skimming" process which is now employed in each of the several refineries in Wichita and neighboring counties. It begins where the skimming leaves off, using as its raw material the residue from the crude oil that is now sold as fuel oil. The terms "skimming" and "cracking" are used for reasons not clearly understood by most technical minds, but perhaps the ensuing comparison of the processes will make them more nearly understandable.

Northwest Texas crude oil contains only a negligible proportion of the elements of which lubricating oil is made, and the extraction of those elements has never been found commercially profitable; as a result, refineries have contented themselves with the production of gasoline and kerosene, selling the residue for fuel oil, and the process of getting out the gasoline and kerosene, "skimming" is abandoned at which of the plants that line the highways through North Wichita. This process to express it simply, consists of boiling the oil out, or distilling it.

The cracking process, by which this remaining gasoline is obtained, is a chemical process, and it is to be applied to the still that is at a higher temperature than 600 degrees Fahrenheit. The heat is supplied by a furnace, and the vapor that is produced is condensed in a condenser, and the liquid is collected in a receiver. The vapor that is not condensed is sent to a separator, and the liquid is collected in a receiver. The vapor that is not condensed is sent to a separator, and the liquid is collected in a receiver.

What was until a few weeks ago one of the most active spots in north Texas, having in the neighborhood of 100 wells drilling in various stages of completion, resulting in the bringing in of wells with almost daily regularity, the fields to the south, east and southwest of Electra are practically devoid of oil field activity.

denser and is cooled into gasoline. The gasolines thus formed is not ready for use, however, and must be run again through the skimming stills before it is marketable.

Drilling Activity in Wichita County At Lowest Ebb Since Curtailment Program Inaugurated by Producers

The end of the week finds Wichita county's most important and chief industry, like the German mark, at its lowest ebb. The curtailment program, which was inaugurated about a month ago in an effort to hold production down to normal, is beginning to show up by the almost deserted fields from the drilling standpoint. Very little unnecessary development is under way in any of the pools, and what is being done is the finishing up of tests which had been started before that period, and the drilling of a number of offsets in the proven areas in the Clara district and south Electra. In the latter pool a number of wells have been drilled to the sands and shut down rather than bring them in until the production can be cared for. Other companies have made new locations on their immediate leases, but will delay operations until such a time as the market for the crude output takes a more favorable turn.

What was until a few weeks ago one of the most active spots in north Texas, having in the neighborhood of 100 wells drilling in various stages of completion, resulting in the bringing in of wells with almost daily regularity, the fields to the south, east and southwest of Electra are practically devoid of oil field activity.

Several such plants are in operation in Oklahoma, the Empire company having successfully employed the new process. The Dutch Shell Corporation has used the process for some time in its Illinois plants.

The process is one of several which "crack" the oil, and is known as the Dubbs process. In 1911, Jesse A. Dubbs obtained patents on a process similar to that described here, and endeavored to bring it into use, but it was defective in some particulars. Dr. William Burton, later president of the Standard of Indiana, worked along the same general lines and developed a cracking process which now bears the name of the Burton process and which is used in cracking plants of the Standard Oil Company.

Results of Many Experiments. Mr. Dubbs continued working on his patents, gradually overcoming the defects. During the early days of the method it was tried by the Roxana company, which nearly wrecked its refinery when something went wrong. J. Ogden Armour of the well known packing company later became interested with Mr. Dubbs, helped him to finance the process, and is still a factor in the organization which handles it. The Dubbs patents are now owned by the Universal Oil Products Company of Chicago, in which Mr. Armour is a stockholder. M. A. Grandy of that company is in charge of the installations being made here. It is Peteresen of Chicago is district superintendent of the installations.

The Texhoma decision to install the new process was made after an exhaustive investigation of its feasibility and of its adaptability to conditions in this field. J. H. Joyce of the company's engineering staff was in charge of the investigation. Results of the process will be watched with interest by owners of other plants in this and neighboring counties. It is probable that the next few years will see a number of "cracking" installations made at Texas refineries, and that the example set by Wichita Falls plants will be generally followed.

A-B-M producer to the west. With the exception of a number of wells in the river bed to the south of Grandfield near the bridge, activity in the Burk Burnett fields is practically at a standstill.

Shaw and Rathke Encounter Third Producing Sand for Archer County On Wilmot Tract at 1779 Foot Depth

WICHITA DISTRICT PIPE LINE RUNS AGAIN DECREASE

The pipe line runs in the Wichita Falls district for the week ending Saturday, August 11, showed an average of 76,235 barrels daily, a loss of approximately 1,000 barrels over the figures of the previous week.

The principal factors in the gradual falling off in the daily runs are the drilling curtailment program now under way and the lack of new flush production to take the place of the decline in the output from the old wells.

Archer County in the past week showed a loss of more than 500 barrels daily, due to the failure of the pipeline companies to receive the oil and the failure of a number of companies to complete their wells now on top of the sand, which will be finished until some arrangements have been made to take the crude.

Electra and Burk Burnett fell off to some extent, showing very little change in their runs of last week. Below are the daily runs from the district by pools:

Electra, 25,350 barrels daily.
Burk Burnett, 11,250 barrels daily.
Archer County, 11,250 barrels daily.
Idva Park, 1,115 barrels daily.
Petrolia, 125 barrels daily.
Henrietta, 145 barrels daily.
This week's total, 76,235 barrels daily.
Last week's total, 77,235 barrels daily.
This week's loss, 1,000 barrels daily.

Number of New Wells Completed in Archer County, But Week One of Quietest Seen in Recent Months

New developments in the oil industry for the week ending Saturday were few and far between in the different sections of Archer county. The efforts of the operators to keep the production down until the market for their output assumes a more favorable turn by the cutting down of all unnecessary drilling has practically closed down the greater number of tests, with the exception of several wildcats now under consideration in the proven areas as well as the wells now drilling reach the pay, operations are shut down and left in that condition to await a market for the oil.

Despite these conditions, a number of wells were finished. The Texas Company No. 10, which is offsetting the Wynne well, was placed on the pump a few days ago and is making 150 barrels from the pay. The same company is now running the No. 11, which is offsetting the Wynne well, and is making 150 barrels from the pay. The same company is now running the No. 12, which is offsetting the Wynne well, and is making 150 barrels from the pay.

GRAHAM OPERATORS ARE STILL SITTING STEADY IN BOAT

Special to The Times. GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 11.—Oil operators in Young county are moving the "watchful waiting" policy. In the older field in the vicinity of South Bend, which is 10 miles south and west from Graham, the deepening of shallow wells is a very attractive proposition. Some wells which were moderate producers for the past two years from the shallow sand are yielding heavy production of oil and gas from the 4,000-foot level.

TEST NEAR FREDERICK MAKES GOOD SHOWING

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 11.—What looks like the making of a good producer is the showup made during the test of a well in the Dunbar farm, about six and one-half miles northwest of this city. The well, which is being drilled to a depth of 806 feet, which after being penetrated a few feet, showed plenty of oil, and is being tested at a pressure. When the pay was reached drilling was suspended until casing was run, which is being bailed to the well, and preparations for bailing the test will start some time during next week.

The test is located about 150 feet northwest of the Fred-Till test, which was put down two years ago, after experiencing troubles of various kinds, was finally abandoned.

Olympic to Show Scenes From Life of Mr. Coolidge

The Olympic theater is fortunate in securing for showing next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a single reel subject that every Wichita resident should see. "Our New President" is the picture in which the life and political career of Coolidge in his home and political life and a number of scenes of our new first lady of the land. The picture opens with scenes of the president at work on his farm, the old Coolidge homestead in Massachusetts. He is seen working in the fields and performing other farm duties. Then in Washington he is seen at his desk in the thick of the political duties and numerous other scenes of his official and home life.

The Mortgage Investment Co.

Capital $200,000.00

Have opened for business in their new location on the ground floor of the Staley Building, the space formerly occupied by Howell & Howell. This company is successors to Covington Brothers Farm Loan & Investment Company, a company that has been doing a successful loan business, for a number of years in Texas and Oklahoma.

Most of the South Bend field in the Oil City district, where two years ago this district is the discovery well came in on the Owen farm for 300 barrels, around which more than 250 producing wells have since been drilled. Operators are now rather quiet. One of the big Phillips Petroleum Company's casing-head plants in the center of activity for this immediate locality. Two miles to the north, near the old town of Bunker, is another casing-head plant, the original well, built by Fred B. Foster and later taken over by the Phillips people, which too, is doing considerable business.

As we move south and east another Phillips Petroleum Company casing-head plant is being drilled in the field. In this pool, where more than 200 wells have been drilled to date, we still find more oil activity. Several drilling wells are nearing the sand and will shortly be shut down until all conditions are right. In the center of the field, in the vicinity of the Bunker and the Gulf No. 1 setting casing on top of the sand at 1,900 feet, offsetting the Bunker well, is being drilled south of Graham. It will be remembered that this well came in on the 30th day of last March for 2,000 barrels. This prospect is being watched with keen interest by operators. It is believed by geologists that this well is one of the best structure in this part of the state. However, the next few days will tell the story. Many wells north of this well have been drilled, and have reached the top of the sand. No effort will be made to bring them in at present.

375 BARREL WELL COMPLETED NEAR ALBANY BY HUMBLE

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Aug. 11. Much interest is being shown by oil men and others in this county in the new well that has been brought in about five miles north of Albany in Shackelford county. It is the Humble Oil Company's Parsons No. 1, in survey of Blinn Asylum lands, which is reported making 375 barrels daily. Well came in unexpectedly from a pay at 1,600 feet. Battling Simmons of Henrietta won a technical knockout over Hall-Grisham of Wichita Falls in the fifth round of their scheduled ten-round bout when the Gob's seconds threw in the sponge in the main event of the American Legion boxing show at Lake Wichita Saturday night. Grisham had taken severe punishment during the five rounds of their fight, and a polar plexus blow in the fourth helped to put the Hall-Grisham out of the fight.

For the most part, however, the bout was a series of giving and taking hard punches by both men. Grisham had Simmons groggy several times during the fight, the terrific punch of the latter saving him from a knockout. During the third round Simmons repeatedly ran into Grisham's left and received much punishment. Simmons tipped the scales at 132, and Grisham at 145.

Another comedy on the program was the fourth round bout between Rattlesnake Kid and Battling Nelson. Nelson was continually on the defense, and his ability to fall down at the psychological moment saved him from being hit. At the end of the scrap Rattlesnake Kid challenged any negro boxer in Texas or Oklahoma. The only other fight on the program was a contest between Stewart Maupin and Dick Layfield, 118 pounders, who went to a draw.

It was announced that the main event for next Friday night would be between "Country Boy" Lance of Galvestone and "Dago" Ryan of Dallas, top rounds scheduled. The Burk Burnett post of the American Legion also announced that the first Burk boxing card would be presented Tuesday night. It was asked that all local legion members give their support. The fights Saturday night were refereed by "Harp" Roy Thomas and Haug, both of Wichita Falls.

New Sensation in Welter Class is Brought to Light

BY BILLY EVANS

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—A new star has been burst forth on the pugilistic firmament. Jimmy Jones of Youngtown, O., at the expense of Dave Shade of California, has won the welterweight title, which has been carefully preserved in camp for years since Mickey Walker won it from Jack Britton. Fistic fame has been thrust upon Jones almost overnight. His decisive defeat of Dave Shade in this city of Boston, in a ten-round affair, has not only won him the title, but has also established him as one of the biggest upsets of the year. Dave Shade, the fighter whose Champion Walker studiously avoided, until the New York boxing commission became so peeved that it forfeited the welter title to Shade, so far as New York state is concerned, was used by Jones as a stepping stone to fame.

When you consider that Shade, a popular favorite in Boston, and picked to win at odds of 3 to 1, was handed the wrong end of the decision without a murmur from a single fan, it is evident that Jones clearly won the battle. Over a year ago Jones met Shade at Canton, Mass., in a ten-round affair. Jones was national figure in the fight game because of his showing.

Griffith, Bigbee, Rawlings, Cooper, Philadelphia, Aug. 11.—Chicago and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader Saturday, the locals taking the first game, 5 to 4, in ten innings, and the visitors winning the second, 6 to 4, in ten innings. The Lookout

It won't last but another day or so like Saturday for the Spudders to be flung for second place, with all hopes of a pennant gone, and considering themselves fortunate to lead that high. The Cats are now seven full games ahead of the hopefuls, with only 40 left to go.

Carlson hurried a perfectly good ball game, but not quite so good as that turned in by Lefty Augustus Johns. Johns has whipped the Spudders twice this season and both times it was his bat as well as his pitching that turned the scales back to go.

Speaking of luck, there seems to be one ball club now making a good fight of it that is endowed with more than its share of it. The Spudders had the Steers whipped just as nice as you please until the ninth inning. Then Steers' Morphy makes a hit and scores. A moment later, Skinner and Simmons do the well known Alfonso-Gaston beside Waino's easy fly that would have scored a run had it not been for the Steers.

Another fine example of the fortune in which the Steers are playing was the second game of the series with the Spudders, in which Grigby sprained his ankle and the Steers were treated to a doubleheader. The Steers were again victorious, but that is not the only instance where the Steers made the breaks for the Steers.

When he comes time for the election for the player voted the most valuable in the American league, it is likely that Babe Ruth will pole the leading vote. To our way of thinking the Bambino has been the most valuable man in the league this season. He has been so far more service to his club than the season's work which he has done in the American league. He has also been manager of the Indians, the most valuable piece of baseball property in the game, but he has not been included in the names that are to be engraved on the baseball memorial in Washington.

Dempsey's Ability to Use Both Hands Will Give Him Advantage Over Firpo Solely Righthander

By DAMON RUNYON. Universal Service Staff Correspondent. SARATOGA, Aug. 11.—The Dempsey-Firpo bout "dopes" about as the Dundee-Criqui fight turned out. Criqui, a strong hitter with his right hand, was out to ribbons by Dundee with a left hook. Firpo corresponds to Criqui. Dundee has a better left hook than Dundee-Criqui, despite his sorry showing against Dundee, he proportionately to his size a harder hitter than Firpo with his right hand. The Frenchman proved his hitting power in a score of fights before he came to America, to win and lose the featherweight title.

WHEAT HIGHEST PRICE IN SEVERAL WEEKS

Market this morning. People who had sold during the middle of the week in hope that the drought in the southwest would be broken were evidently alarmed by today's weather and advanced their material. The wheat market was heavy earlier in the week, raised 3 points. German marks dropped 30 points over the holiday to 45 cents a bushel in Berlin, but the other foreign exchange showed slight improvement. Demand sterling was up a cent to $1.82. French francs advanced 23 points to 45 cents.

Chicago Grain Market. CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—The Canadian wheat market, which has been the focus of attention since the outbreak of the wheat strike, showed a slight advance in price today. The highest price level in several weeks was reached. The market was active and the price of wheat advanced 3 points to 88 cents.

Weather. The weather here today was clear and sunny. The temperature was in the 80s. The wind was from the south at 5 to 10 miles per hour. The humidity was 70 percent.

Wichitans Registered in Various Colorado Resorts May Attend Big Old-time Cowboys Reunion 14-17

Many Wichitans who are summering in the various Colorado and nearby states resorts will undoubtedly attend the big old-time cowboy's roundup, or rodeo, which opens for three days in Colorado Springs Tuesday.

The days of the old Chisholm trail and the other historic Texas highways over which swept northward the epic migration of herds of longhorns numbered by the tens of thousands will be recalled when the old-timers gather, and there will be many notable cowboy characters of the old days at the gathering.

Among those who will be Major Gordon W. Little, the famous "Fawcett Bill" of Wild West show fame, the Oklahoma boomer, trapper, Indian interpreter, and partner of Buffalo Bill, Major Little is spending the summer in the Pikes' Peak region, and is to be a distinguished guest.

Another guest will be Andy Adams of the Spotted, guest of honor of the rodeo. Adams is author of "The Log of a Cowboy," characterized by Emerson Hough as "the epic of the cowboyman."

In the Pictures

Left to right: Miss Lucille Dabney, of Dallas, is the attractive guest of Miss Burch Murphy, and was the honoree at a very lively party Burch and Mrs. W. W. Murphy, her mother, planned and gave Friday. Miss Dabney and Miss Murphy are shown in the double cut.

Little Miss Mary Lynn Gibbs is the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Gibbs, of 1703 Polk. Don't you think Mary Lynn and Little Betty Hardison make good Sunshine Garden babies? It is too bad that both of them have just moved from Wichita Falls to new homes elsewhere, as they had many friends here. Betty is C. H. Hardison's little girl, and the Hardisons moved to Houston last week.

Library Reader Sketches Some Of Delightful Books in Great "Non Fiction" Field at Library

By "A READER." In browsing among the book shelves of our public library it has often been a cause of wonderment to me that the great majority of the patrons of the library are missing so much fascinating reading material in the non-fiction departments. The way I know they are overlooking this material is because I see the same books on the shelves week in and week out, with their covers spick and span, as they came from the printers.

The fiction department "needs a wash," but the books of travel, biography, or reminiscence are as full of adventure and romance as any novel that ever came to hand, and why should real happenings to real people make less interesting reading than the imaginings of some "fictional" writer?

"Crowding Memories" For instance, all who take pride in American literature will find in that wonderful volume of choice friends every one a man of talent, which included James Russell Lowell, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Emerson, Longfellow, Thomas Bailey Aldrich and several more, and of whose meetings together the wit and wisdom thus called forth a hundred interesting volumes might be written. There are two books in our library touching intimately the doings of that remarkable coterie that are well worth reading. They are "Crowding Memories" by Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich, and "The Days Before Yesterday" by Lord Frederic Hamilton. Judging by the number of novels each year in which characters and scenes are pictured among the aristocratic and rich of the old world, and the amount of space in the newspapers given over to pictures and gossip of such people in contemporary life, I conclude that most of us enjoy reading about them. In "The Days Before Yesterday" the author's interesting account of the experiences of a man who is a member of one of the great families of England, trained in the diplomatic service of his country in many delightful capitals, thrown from childhood with those who "occupy high places in letters, arts, politics and society and able to tell of it all with simplicity, humor and charm.

The "Glad Girls" of Mrs. O. C. Johnson's class at the Floral Heights Methodist church stay glad by very natural methods, one of which took them on a bunch party to Cedar Park pool for a swim and sunrise breakfast Monday morning of last week.

Take Care of Your Baby This Summer—Household Helps—Good Cooking

While Wheat Is Cheap, Make Your Own Bread; Bakery Products Still Bringing Almost War Level Prices

Housewives! Now is the time to make the best of a golden opportunity.

Wheat prices are as low as they were before the war. Yet bread and rolls and cakes are still almost at the war level of prices. It's hard to make the baker reduce his charges.

But you can do it sooner by refusing to buy his bread and cooking and making your own. Besides, it's so much cheaper.

Realizing this, The Times has asked the NEA to furnish you with some helpful recipes for home baking. Here they are. Just buy the flour and go ahead.

During the war, while we were conserving wheat for our allies, the American housewife learned the value of other grains and found that it was a saving of time to serve simple fruit desserts with no nuts or cakes or puddings.

But now we need to conserve every household to go into her kitchen early in the morning and bake the delicious bread and rolls she has formed the habit of doing without.

Bread is essentially a carbon hydrate, although entire wheat bread contains mineral matter, protein and fat, as well as starch to supply energy. It is the perfect food. White flour bread is lacking in fat, but combined with butter or rich milk it makes the perfect food for grownups or kids.

It may not be fashionable to serve bread at dinner, but a small amount of bread will reduce the cost of living and not lower the diet. More bread and less meat will make healthier families during the summer months.

Serve toasted bread sticks with the soup; serve broiled and creamed bread on toast. Toast absorbs the delicious juices of broiled meats that are usually wasted on the plate. Crispy toast points add to the flavor of a creamed dish and also make it possible to lessen the amount of meat.

Wheaty Nutritive

It's rather interesting to know that the department of agriculture of our United States has figured that there is more nutritive value in 10 cents worth of bread than in 10 cents spent for any other food. So for our sakes we should use more breadstuffs.

And for the sake of our farmers, the "backbone of the nation," who feel that the bottom is dropping out of the price of wheat, we should use more breadstuffs. If the American farmer reaches the stage when he decides it does not "pay" to raise wheat we will pay for our flour as we never have before.

These white flour rules for breads, pies, cakes, etc., should start you to baking again. But always let your dessert do its share toward the food value of the meal. Many puddings are a full meal in themselves.

A fresh fruit shortcake served with milk or cream furnishes much nourishment. Such a dessert requires a salad of crisp fresh vegetables with bread and butter, a starchy vegetable and, if you must, serve meat for dinner, a small amount of fish, lamb chops or thin slices of cold roast beef.

Shortcake

Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons butter, water to make a soft dough.

Sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder. Rub in butter with tips of fingers. Cut in water with a knife. Divide dough equally. Put half in pan and pat smooth. Spread lightly with softened butter.

Roll remaining dough lightly on a floured board and cover dough in pan. Bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven. Split and fill with berries or sliced and sugared peaches or apricots. Serve with sugar and cream. Butter and water makes a tender shortcake than lard and milk.

Dumplings

One and one-half cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, milk to make a soft dough.

Sift baking powder and salt with flour. Cut in milk with a knife. Drop from a teaspoon into a kettle of boiling fruit that is half cooked. Cover tightly and keep at the boiling point for twenty minutes. Apples or peaches are delicious with these dumplings.

Three cups water, 1 cup sugar, 1 lemon, 8 apples, 1 tablespoon butter. Put water, sugar, butter, grated rind and juice of lemon in a porcelain kettle with a tight cover. Bring to the boiling point and add apples pared and cored and cut in quarters. Simmer till half done. Then boil rapidly and add dumplings. Do not lift the cover for fifteen minutes after dumplings are added.

Cup Puddings

One and one-half cups flour, 11 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, milk, berries or sliced fruit.

Sift baking powder and salt with flour. Beat egg slightly and cut into flour mixture. If necessary add more milk to make a soft dough. Fill buttered cups about one-third full of fruit. Sprinkle with sugar and cover with dough. Steam half an hour. Serve with sugar and cream.

Swedish Roll

Two cups scalded milk, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 beat cake, 1 cup lukewarm water, 2 eggs, 1 cup currants, 4 tablespoons shredded citron, extra sugar and butter.

Scald milk and pour over sugar, salt and butter. When lukewarm, add eggs well beaten. Stir in flour to make a medium batter. Beat with a slotted spoon for five minutes. Add flour to knead. Knead until smooth and elastic. Put in mixing bowl, cover with a cloth and let rise in a warm place till more than double its bulk. Roll in a rectangular shape to 1 inch thickness.

Spread with softened butter, sprinkle with sugar, currants and citron and roll like a jelly roll. Cut in slices an inch thick. Put cut side down on a buttered pan and let rise till very light. Brush tops with 1 tablespoon sugar dissolved in 3 tablespoons milk and bake in a hot oven for twenty or twenty-five minutes.

Delicious cinnamon rolls are made by this rule without eggs. Use recipe just as for the Swedish roll, leaving out the eggs, currants and citron. Spread with softened butter and dredge with 1 cup sugar mixed with 1 tablespoon cinnamon.

Blueberry Pudding

One-third cup sugar, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 2 cups blueberries.

Cream butter, stir in sugar, sift 1 cup of the flour over berries. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder.

One Kind of Hat That Will Look Well Under Any Adverse Condition

By MARIAN HALE, NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, July 31.—When your thoughts turn to midsummer millinery, your eyes light on something like these—and you fall.

For there's something irresistible about cloche brims. It may not be entirely new or it may not look particularly exciting, but it is smart. You can put it on in the dark, or without a mirror, or under any adverse circumstance, and know what you look like.

It comes as near being the universally becoming model as there is. In Paris the brim has become so small it is scarcely visible. One gets the impression of a little black straw or felt dome having been erected over a pretty face, practically concealing the hair.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PREPARES GUEST CARDS TO ASSIST TOURISTS

Automobile tourists and out-of-town shoppers who unknowingly violate the new traffic regulations of Wichita Falls, will be given consideration and treated as first offenders, according to a plan agreed upon Saturday between chamber of commerce officials and George H. Hodgins, chief of police.

The chamber of commerce has prepared guest cards to be distributed to visitors by the automobile tourist information bureau, gasoline filling stations and retail stores. These cards welcome the traveler to Wichita Falls and advise him that if he is arrested for a traffic ordinance violation, he will be shown special consideration as a stranger unfamiliar with the regulations in force here and will be treated as a first offender by the police department, upon presentation of his guest card.

"DOWN EIGHTH STREET"—By Jane Tramp

Eight is a nice road to travel. It has up hills and down hills (the other side of an up-hill is a down hill—roads and life and everything. Don't rail at me for mentioning it; we seldom do remember it in life)—and a nice curve or two, and only a few bad spots.

"Don't you hear your engine laboring?" Her who can turn on a dime asks. I do. I am. I step on some more gas.

"You didn't give it enough of a start," she says patiently, and I seem to recognize a reiteration. "You have to give it more gas on the start, before you get to the hill."

I wonder if there's anything in the world in good machinery that doesn't stack up parallel with life? Or if there's anything that does stack up parallel—er than motoring?

Just glance around at the folks who didn't give themselves sufficient preparation for their uphill climb. The ambition was there, and the stick-to-it-iveness, as we call a certain dogged quality of persistence for want of a better word. But they didn't calculate well. They weren't willing to get ready first.

"I don't see why John doesn't get ahead faster," says somebody's young wife; "he has lots of ideas, and is crazy about his work, but it just seems as if somebody else always gets promoted ahead of him."

"We thought Jim would make good in his grocery business," says a gray-haired dad, "but he hasn't worked it out like we hoped. He sticks to it, and we know he's doing the best he can, but it ain't going well."

The trouble with John and Jim and seventy per cent of the rest of us is that we want to follow the brilliant path of genius instead of the patient road of training, and our extras don't stack up that way. We're just ordinary folks, and we've got to calculate by inches; we've got to build out road to success step by step, and clear the entrance first.

For genius has the start of us. We can't take the hill without forethought. We have to get ready for it by painstaking effort. John should have gone to school longer. Some of us can do without school, but most of us, with just this short life time for the goal of dizzy success that the present generations set, need all the learning we can assimilate. If we had two lifetimes we wouldn't have to cram, but we haven't.

We have to give the motor plenty of gas before we reach the incline. Jim probably needed a year of office work, and the contact with people that it provided, or several years of training as a clerk, and maybe assistant buyer. We can't jump into business management just because we get a business to manage. It takes more than that.

There are men on every hand, and women, too, who need to work with people before they took up their profession, or vocation. In fact, most of us could have stood a year or two "waiting on trade" in some of the various walks of life, to wonderful advantage. It would have been the little extra impetus we needed to keep our engines from laboring mid-way up the incline.

"She is a wonderful business manager; knows the books and the business and everything. But I can't leave her here to meet people," says a man who is on a "still hot" for an office manager. It's work that women—the trained women—step into smoothly, as a rule. But the woman who had almost grown up in the business with him had not been in a position to develop the social side of her job for her work, and hadn't known the hill she was to take before hand—as she wasn't prepared. The motor would have responded to the best of its patient ability, but the chug-chug-ing would have been heard for blocks.

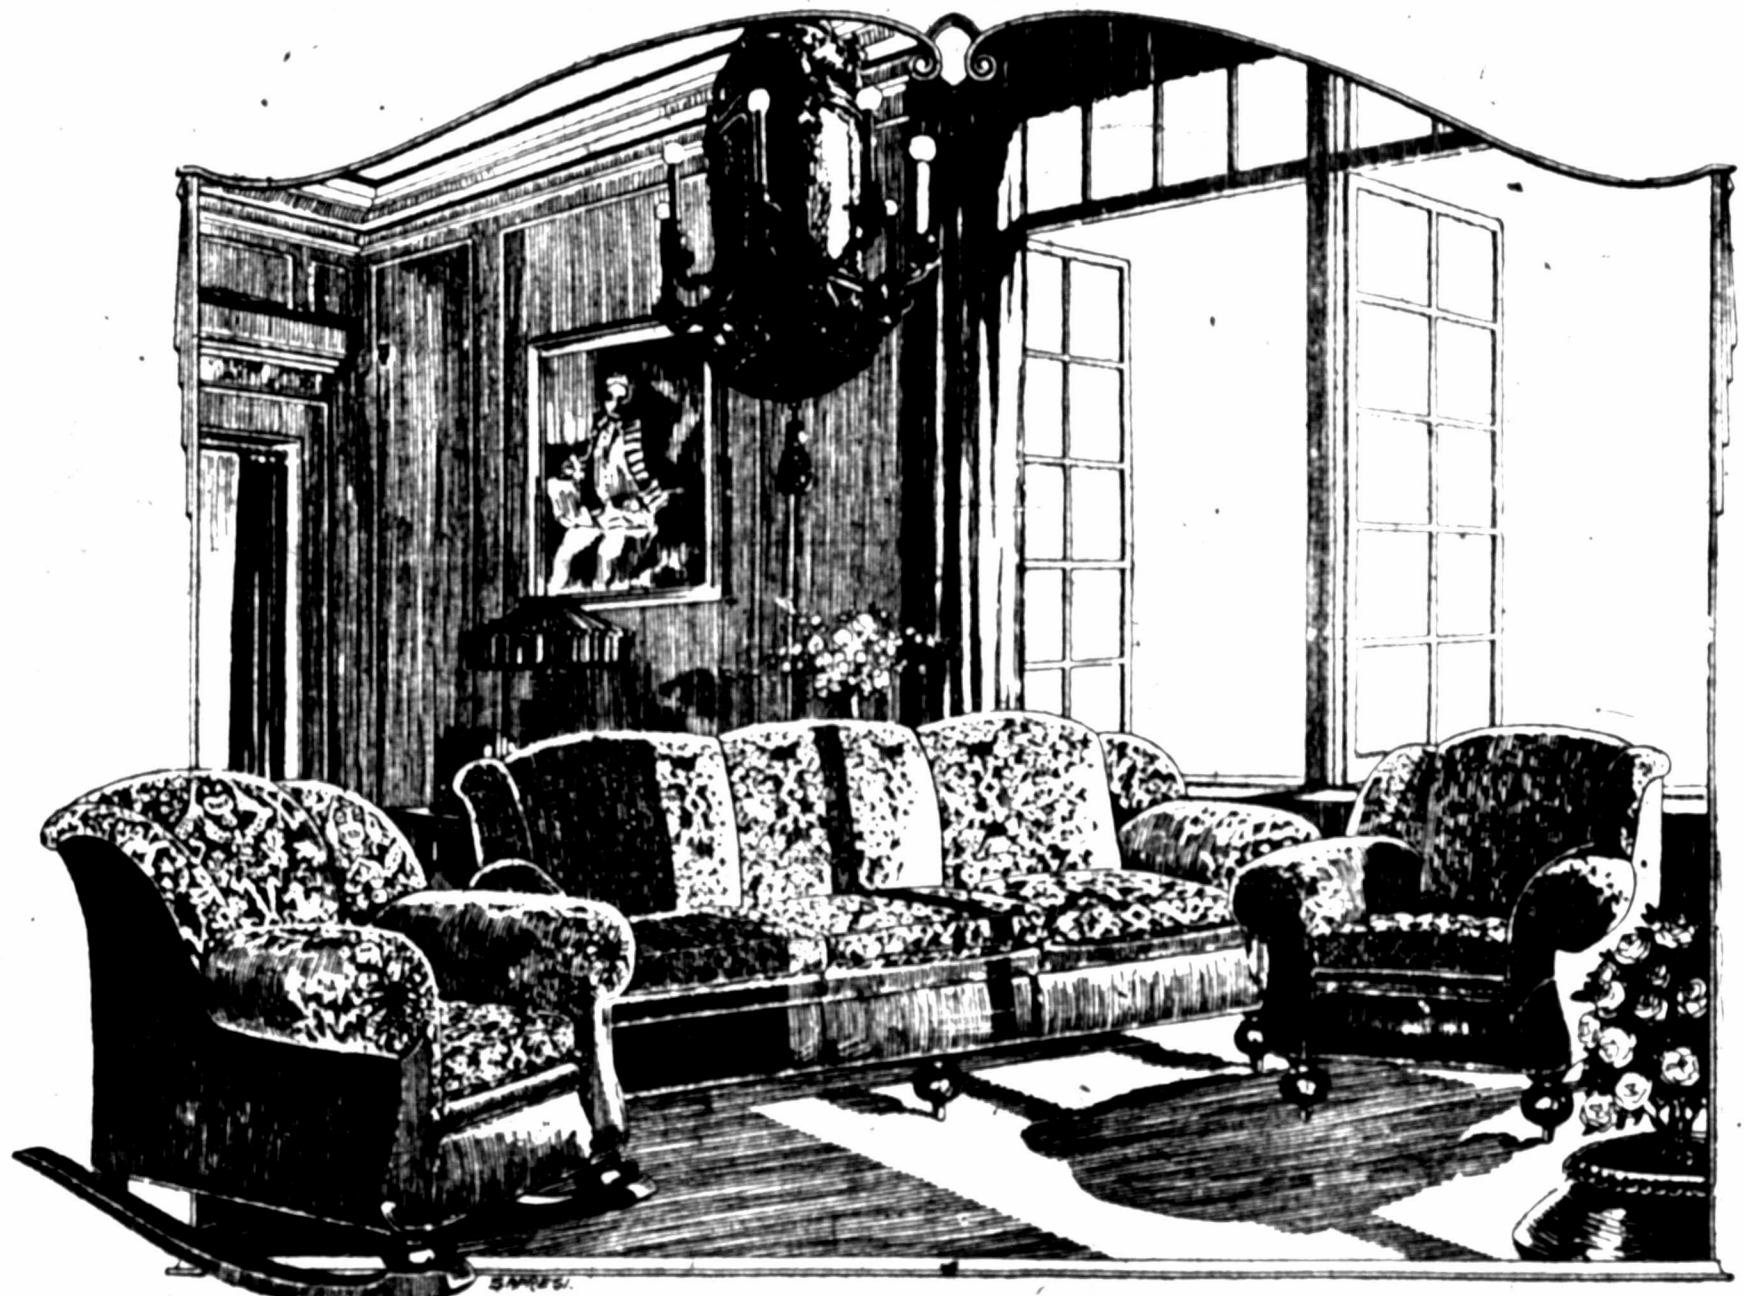

"U-m-m-m; you don't need to empty the tank on it," says Her-who drives-from-the-right. "All you need is a start."

Being pretty much of a good idea, as Little Benny says. Some of us who aren't guilty of carelessness in the matter of our pre-hill preparation spend entirely too much time on it.

Showing that while one lemon before breakfast may be a good thing, half a dozen lemons might be entirely too many!

LEGION RALLY IS HELD AT GRAHAM THURSDAY NIGHT

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 11.—The Legion-Daniel Post No. 34 of Graham, held a grand rally on the evening of August 9 at Shawnee Park.

The Tourist camp was converted into a regular army camp. The national stoves provided for the use of tourists were requisitioned by the "dough boys" on which their "show" was prepared in genuine army style.

Several hundred ex-servicemen from Graham and Young county participated in the festival which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The band stand was decorated with appropriate flags and banners. Stacks of rifles and other military equipment were very much in evidence.

The Graham band furnished music for the occasion under the leadership of Dr. J. T. Spencer. The service was brilliantly lighted and altogether, produced a very pleasing effect.

Senator Joe Burnett, of Eastland, delivered the principal address of the evening which was well received. The Post is putting on a drive for membership and it is thought that much good will result from the meeting.

Require Reading Bible in Schools Of Young County

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 11.—Acting upon the request of County Superintendent H. H. Avants, the Young county school board at its regular monthly meeting for August passed a resolution requiring the reading of the Bible in all schools under the supervision of the county superintendent's office.

This will be made a part of the curriculum for the county. The details of the work are left to the discretion and supervision of Mr. Avants.

Local school men believe this action on the part of the Young county school board to be the first of its kind taken by similar boards of education in Texas. It is the opinion of Superintendent Avants that Young county schools can best serve the interests of the boys and girls by teaching them a proper reverence and regard for the Bible and things religious.

It is along these lines that the work will be given by the faculties of the various schools. Secularian comment and teaching will not be permitted, but general reading for inspiration will be the keynote of the work.

The Young county school board is composed of Edgar McLendon, Graham, chairman; A. C. Golden of Murray, Dan Orr of Graham, H. S. Thomas of Newcastle and M. M. Barnett of Loving, members.

Chief of Police George Hodgins declared last week that the public has had plenty of warning in regard to the requirement of driving at night with two headlights and the tail light burning and that from now on leniency will not be shown in respect to this violation of the law.

"The law calls for two headlights, making the road visible for as much as 500 feet, and a tail light, and the public has been notified repeatedly to see that cars are properly equipped in this respect," Chief Hodgins declared.

"If you don't want to face the Judge, get all wiring and connections fixed before appearing on the streets of Wichita Falls, as these excuses will not be accepted in the future," the chief stated.

INDUSTRIAL GAIN IN MANY LINES

Starting Gains Registered in New Textile Plants While Steel, Cement and Paper Mills Expand.

Headed by the vast textile program of the past six months, the south is continuing its marked industrial expansion which has been so much in evidence for the past year. Iron mills, cement plants, fertilizer mills, extensive paper making developments, sugar refineries, woolworking establishments and many general lines are included in the list for the present survey.

Sugar Refineries.

One of the most important developments in the sugar industry of the south is the huge plant of the Texas Sugar Refinery being erected at Texas City. Work is already far advanced on the plant, which is designed to have an immediate output of a million pounds of sugar annually and a half million of molasses. Buildings now in course of erection include a three-story office building, an eight-story power plant, a five-story refinery and additional buildings, all built on piling, for which 12,000 piles are required. The total floor space of buildings will be 400,000 square feet.

Carbon Black Plants.

The manufacture of carbon black from natural gas is assuming huge proportions in the southwestern gas belt. According to present estimates, ten million dollars will be expended in such plants in Oklahoma and Morehouse parishes, La., during the present year. Individual companies include a half million dollar plant for the Union Products, Inc., $200,000 in extensions to the Standard Carbon plant; a half million dollar plant for the Central Carbon company; $125,000 by the Century Carbon company, and $100,000 by the Southern Carbon company.

Other Industrial Developments.

Among other industrial developments of the period are a projected million dollar gypsum plant to be erected by the United States Gypsum company, at Sweetwater, Texas; a super-phosphate plant to cost a million and a half on the Hillsborough river, near Tampa, Fla.; the Southern Rock Asphalt plant, $100,000 plant at Flat, Ala.; road and sheet asphalt works at Nitro, W. Va.; a half million dollar plant for the manufacture of alcohol and by-products, also at Nitro; a two million dollar addition to the ship building and drydock of the Todd Dry Docks and Construction corporation, at New Orleans.

Textile Review.

The first six months of 1923 witnessed remarkable activity in the textile industry throughout the south, both in the production of yarns and cloth from established mills and in the building, addition and production of new equipment. The period was notable for several immense projects which were launched for the increasing invasion of the southern territory by northern manufacturers and for the increasing proportion in which the southern mills consumed new yarns over 100 northern mills. From information at hand, the new equipment added to the textile industry during the six months period is projected for immediate installation, is as follows: 563,862 new spindles, 12,942 new looms, approximately ten million dollars in new finishing plants, and a total capital outlay of about thirty million dollars.

On January 1, 1923, there were, by round numbers, 10,000,000 spindles and 245,000 looms in the southern textile district. Therefore the new equipment now in process of installation will increase this by three and a half per cent.

The present year is not an exceptional year for the favorable marketing of cotton yarns—in fact, it does not compare to the boom days during the war and up down through 1922. There is nothing that would account for this excellent construction record except the fact that textile manufacturing conditions in the south are so favorable that the section is attracting an ever increasing investment to the loss of other sections.

Greater Production.

More spinning even than the building record is the report of spindles activity for the month ending June 30, which shows that of the 10,977,800 spindles in southern cotton mills, 10,000,000 were active; while in other mills outside the south there were 18,000,000 spindles, of which only 12,000,000 were active. When the average time in which these spindles were engaged is taken into consideration, the advantage in favor of the south is still further emphasized. For while each of the active spindles in the north worked only 170 hours per month, or six and a half days, the southern spindles were operating 267 hours per month, or eleven hours per day. It will therefore be seen that the southern mills were producing 67 per cent more output than the northern mills, although having a lease equipment.

Textile Building Program.

The determined move on the part of Texas people to build cotton mills in their state has been rapidly pushing during 1923. According to the Texas Chamber of Commerce, mills have already been secured by the state in favor of the following cities: Breckenridge, Meza, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Dallas. Other cities having active textile committees at work are Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Greenville, Houston, Longview, Merida Falls, Marshall, McKinney, New Braunfels, Paris, Ranger, Rockdale, San Angelo, San Antonio, Seelyville, Texarkana, Texarkana, Tyler, Watazachie and Wichita Falls.

Mr. W. Robert, president of Robert & Co., engineers of Atlanta, and an associate of the Cannon cotton mill interests of North Carolina, has taken a leading part in the Texas textile development. In a statement prepared especially for this survey, Mr. Robert says:

"Nothing we have found, as experienced operators in textile development, will militate against a great textile industry in Texas, except in some sparsely settled locations. The state contains an abundance of labor that can be easily taught mill requirements; the natural resources are unlimited and the supply of raw material supply is the greatest in the world.

"I believe having wonderful public utilities and power companies scattered over the state, with well connected distribution systems, the state also possesses an unlimited quantity of oil, natural gas and lignite from which mills could produce their own power. There are very few sections where sufficient water is not available for large developments. There is also a limited amount of water-power, but this is not at all necessary for textile development, although it has been taken in great advantage in the southeast and in New England in the early days where fuel was not so cheap as electricity.

"The most enthusiastic interest in the development of cotton mills. Not only have many cities and towns organized active committees, but in numerous instances the money has been raised, organization perfected and everything is set and ready to go.

"The seriousness with which Texas views this whole industrial development can be better indicated than by the fact that some of the prominent legislators in conjunction with Judge Louis Carpenter, of Dallas, put a bill through the legislature to establish technical schools, to be patterned after Georgia Tech and Boston Tech. An appropriation of $1,350,000 was made to start with the institution in conjunction with the heart of the west Texas cotton country and one of its most important departments will provide for a textile course.

Financing Projects.

There are now 22 mills in the state. I predict that within five years, just this number will be doubled. It can easily be done without straining the labor situation.

Most Interesting of the Many Recent Announcements.

The most interesting of the many recent announcements relative to new construction is that regarding a chain of cotton mills to be erected between Charlotte, N. C., and Greenville, S. Mobilizing the $100 Men

THE huge gathering together of insignificant sums in the Liberty Loans showed for the first time the vast aggregate power of the small investor. The Fourth Liberty Loan, you may remember, brought in $6,992,927,100 in cash from 22,777,680 subscribers. Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury, reported that Olaf Hansen out in Minnesota has $100 and Max Goldstein of Baxter Street, New York, has $500 and John Smith of Los Angeles has $1000. Unless they are brought together into one place with thousands of similar sums and devoted to a single purpose, what big undertaking can these three small lots of money accomplish?

In many a Southern city are fine structures—hotels, apartment buildings, commercial buildings—erected largely with money gathered from the four corners of the United States, in lots of $100, $500 and $1000. The "hundred-dollar men" cannot afford to lose. They must put their money where it will be safe, so what is more natural than to invest it in Southern first mortgage bonds? The office of G. L. Miller & Company is a place into which small sums naturally flow, along with the big amounts, because the South has inspired a vast amount of faith and confidence among investors all over the land. These amounts of $100 and $500 form a substantial part of the millions which we annually provide for Southern building construction.

And when Southern business is depressed, as it was a year or two ago, the congregation of those hosts of dollars is a powerful force in setting in motion again the stalled wheels of industry.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas improvements in 1923, under way and planned, and including 55 new locomotives, 2500 new freight cars and 30 new steel passenger coaches, call for the expenditure of approximately $12,000,000. The Katy is making steady progress in the enlargement of its transportation capacity and the improvement of its service, as are the railroads generally.

American railroads have authorized expenditures in 1923 of approximately $1,100,000,000 for new cars, engines, trackage and other additional facilities. In no other year in the last decade have equal expenditures been authorized for railroad improvements.

Authorities agree that the railroads, to meet normal traffic growth, should expend in excess of a billion dollars a year for improvements. Average net operating income is less than a billion dollars a year. Requirements for expenses, taxes, rents, interest and improvements are regularly greater than gross operating revenues. Necessarily, new capital must be attracted to railroad investment to provide additional facilities and equipment required to adequately serve the public.

and betterments in 1922 exceeded net income by approximately a million dollars. Improvement expenditures were $5,113,495. Net income, after expenses, taxes, rents and interest were paid, was $4,117,477. Katy improvement expenditures in 1923 will exceed net income by a greater margin.

other enterprises offering investment opportunity. Continued expansion of railroad facilities is contingent upon a continuance of conditions under which investors may reasonably hope for a fair return from railroad investment. Such conditions may be maintained only through the cooperation and support of the public which the railroads serve.

New capital, necessary to enlarge transportation capacity, so long as revenues do not directly provide the funds, must be secured in competition with

The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines earnestly solicit this co-operation and support. Helpful suggestions, looking toward continued improvement in Katy service and Katy standing with the public, are always welcomed.

NASH ANNOUNCES COMPLETE LINE OF FOURS AND SIXES

With the announcement of a complete new line of four and six cylinder models, Nash Motors again has provided convincing evidence of its claims to value leadership. Though Nash prices are still maintained at the same low level, the fundamental construction and design of the cars have undergone marked improvements, including new and outstanding body creations, many appointments and practical conveniences have also been added and there is a definite and finer performance than is immediately apparent.

There are thirteen models in the new Nash line, open and closed cars, some on the six cylinder chassis and others on the four cylinder chassis.

The line thus offers the buyer a wide range to choose from. Particular interest is centered upon the new Victoria, the latest addition to the Nash enclosed line, having low on a full 17-inch wheel base, the Victoria is a perfect picture of motor car grace.

A conspicuous feature is the smartly tilted wind shield which broadens the driver's area of vision. And equally distinctive is the sweeping square deck with its low built in trunk. Aluminum bars mounted on the top of the trunk add to the car's distinctive appearance.

Practically every convenience of equipment comes with the Victoria. There is a rear vision mirror, vase heater, tape mohair upholstery, silk crepe, combination flush-type vanity and sunning set, and in addition the Victoria as well as other models in the new six cylinder line is equipped with automatic windshield wiper, a fine jeweled clock, low sweeping fenders, new instrument board with all instruments under glass, rubber filled running board and kick plates.

The passenger capacity of the Victoria is ample for four adults, and there is room for a child to sit behind the driver's seat. The auxiliary seat is broad and deep-cushioned and its convenient arm rest provides additional comfort.

Another Nash model that is creating quite a sensation is the beautiful six-cylinder Victoria sedan. Its windshield is also sloped with adjustable technique and its appointments are in complete and luxurious as those of the Victoria.

The body design of this new Nash sedan is distinctively beautiful and executed with a mastery and skill that ranks with the finest of the most expensive bodies built by custom made and foreign cars. The auxiliary seat is broad and deep-cushioned and its convenient arm rest provides additional comfort.

Among the new four cylinder Nash models the most interesting changes have been made in the Victoria. It is now finished in a rich maroon with shining black running gear and fenders. New headlight marks the radiator shell and the convenience of the driver is heightened by a simplified and beautiful gas and spark control. A cowling ventilator assures cool comfort in summer weather. Kick plates protect the feet from being marred by toe and heel in entrance or exit.

There is a wind shield wiper, heating system of increased surty and power, large sturdy built trunk that rides a skid at the rear, nickel-plated guard bars, and a score or more of other attractive features. All of the other new four cylinder models also have this new cowling ventilator, kick plates, more efficient braking system and new type gas and spark control. In the open models the doors now contain large pockets for storing the curtains.

The most striking advance in body lines that characterizes the entire six cylinder Nash are the new and distinctive fenders. Both front and rear fenders have a far deeper crown which gives them a more massive appearance.

The front fenders have been extended forward and curved farther down and in the front of the wheels. The apron starts at the very front of the fenders and is gracefully draped forward to meet the extreme front end of the frame side members. This construction accentuates the beauty of the car and also serves as a greater protection against splashing mud and water.

The rear fenders are extended farther back and farther down with a particularly graceful sweep to their rear end. They also afford greater protection and add materially to the smart appearance of the car.

The new six sport model is worthy of particular attention as it is finished in a beautiful shade of Spanish blue, upholstered in gray Spanish leather with every convenience in the way of equipment that a driver could desire.

The new Nash six instrument board is not only a work of beauty, but the instruments are arranged in the most convenient manner for the driver. The board itself has a dull satin finish with three neatly arranged assemblies under glass. The panels of glass are thoroughly illuminated by an individual electric light which may be turned on permanently or flashed on at the driver's will. A jeweled high grade clock has been added as standard equipment.

The six cylinder line comprises five passenger touring, sport model, roadster, five passenger sedan, four door coupe, on the 111 inch wheel base, seven passenger sedan, Victoria and seven passenger touring, on the 117 inch wheel base.

The four cylinder line includes Chevrolet, five passenger sedan, sport model, roadster, and five passenger touring, all on the 113 inch wheel base.

National Safety Council Endorses Movement Impress Motoring Public Importance of Brake Inspection

Realizing the importance of taking every possible means to reduce the number of traffic accidents, more than fifty cities have inaugurated campaigns to prevent motorists operating automobiles with defective brakes, to correct faulty steering gear, headlights and other imperfect equipment which constitutes a menace to the public at large.

According to carefully compiled statistics obtained from state registrars of motor vehicles, safety councils, and police authorities from coast to coast, today there are more than 2,000,000 motor vehicles being operated with defective brakes.

Following the example set by New York, which has a special squad of police operating under the auspices of its department of public safety, numerous other cities, towns and villages have instituted measures to induce motorists to have their cars examined.

In an effort to inform motorists of the importance of brake inspection, the national safety council has just issued a revised set of safety rules for motorists who are given advice how brakes should be used, tested and adjusted. Lecturers representing various safety councils are delivering addresses on the subject of brakes and braking before meetings of motorists, service stations and garage men. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, Automobile Club of America, Motor Truck Association of America, American Auto Association, American Motorists Association, Asbestos Brake Lining Association, National Bureau of Casualty & Surety Underwriters, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., International Traffic Officers Association, and other organizations interested in helping to solve the traffic problems of the nation now are engaged in country-wide educational campaigns to reduce the number of auto accidents, as the output of motor vehicles increases. Leading newspapers are cooperating in these movements also.

More than a million pieces of timely literature calling attention of motorists and pedestrians alike to the need of caution in driving and walking, to rules of the road, etc., are being circulated by the various associations interested in conserving lives and property. This publicity matter includes paid newspaper, trade, technical and class periodical advertising, painted signboards, window posters, booklets, automobile tags and appropriate slogans, which are being circulated by safety councils, automobile clubs, police commissioners, traffic experts, service stations and garages.

Prizes amounting to many thousands of dollars have been offered by the various automotive associations and the press for suggestions that will help solve the traffic problem which has become one of the leading worries of the hour.

That defective brakes are responsible for a large number of the automobile accidents generally is admitted and those interested in what is known as the brake inspection movement believe that this country-wide campaign's success should do much toward inducing motorists to have their brakes examined regularly by competent mechanics, thus preventing accidents.

Today there are several states with laws on the statute books calling for brake inspection. These ordinances are being enforced by state registrars of motor vehicles, state police and through volunteer efforts of safety experts, traffic police, etc., who are halting motorists every day and examining the brakes. More than a dozen cities already have staged "Test Your Brakes" weeks during which motorists were requested to have their brakes inspected without charge.

According to a survey just completed by a special research engineer, the failure of most states to exercise any direct supervision over operators of motor vehicles, or even to make any effort to determine the fitness of persons driving cars, and failing to induce motorists to have their machines looked over to ascertain if the brakes are in good condition, is one of the chief causes of the growing seriousness of the motor accident problem. In those cities and states where brake inspection has been in vogue for some time, a noticeable decrease in the number of automobile crashes has been reported. It is probable that as a result of a survey now being made by the expert in question that certain changes will be made in the present basis of automobile accident insurance rate making. It has been suggested that persons driving cars with brakes that are examined regularly by competent mechanics should get the benefit of a special discount on their insurance premiums.

During the past six months the police operating under the direction of the Bureau of Public Safety in New York City examined 34,738 brakes and obtained 1,500 convictions of drivers who operated machines with defective control apparatus.

The six cylinder line comprises five passenger touring, sport model, roadster, five passenger sedan, four door coupe, on the 111 inch wheel base, seven passenger sedan, Victoria and seven passenger touring, on the 117 inch wheel base.

The four cylinder line includes Chevrolet, five passenger sedan, sport model, roadster, and five passenger touring, all on the 113 inch wheel base.

OAKLAND CAR WINS THREE TROPHIES IN NOTED ECONOMY RUN

In recently winning the three trophies in the famous economy run from San Diego to El Centro and return, the Oakland six has corralled the winning cups of the four economy runs that have taken place on the Pacific coast during the last two years.

There are two economy runs on the Pacific coast each year—the Yosemite Economy Run and the San Diego-El Centro Economy Run. Oakland has cleaned up in both of these runs in 1922 and 1923.

The San Diego-El Centro run covers 147 miles, and was started at 8 o'clock in the morning. The heat in the valley through which part of the run was made was 111 degrees while the heat range at San Diego was 71 degrees. The car ran from sea level at San Diego to 4,900 feet elevation; then to El Centro, which is below sea level, and then back over the mountain range.

The Oakland six won the sweepstakes cup with 55.877 ton miles per gallon; won the sweepstakes for the greatest mileage per gallon regardless of size or weight of cars entered, with 38.25 actual miles per gallon; and the class cup in which it was entered with 54.424 ton miles per gallon.

But 4.45 gallons of gasoline and one-half pint of water were used and no oil. The record of 38.25 miles per gallon stood out strikingly as there were a number of smaller lighter cars entered in the race. The whole run was under official observation, and only stock cars were used. Not one mechanical adjustment was made on the Oakland during the entire run. Harry Neville, who piloted the Oakland six to victory in the previous economy run, was again at the wheel.

This is the weather when you should not deflate your tires. Most drivers imagine that hot weather and particularly hot sun will cause a dangerous increase in the pressure in the tires, so they let out a little air. This is bad practice as there is no danger of such excess pressure. On the other hand they make the tire too soft, so that it bends more than usual, heating it and doing more damage than if it had been left alone.

Announces New Models

FOURS and SIXES

These new Nash conceptions in open and enclosed car types are now placed on display with a quiet surety that they will exceed the expectations even of those who look for Nash to lead the way and who consequently set their hopes highest.

With traditional progressiveness Nash has developed a number of bodies and other outstanding improvements whose artistry and execution is as certain to command the professional concern of coachwork craftsmen and engineers as the admiration of the public at large.

With no justification in the way of increased manufacturing costs for a price advance Nash stands firm on current prices so that the important and expensive new car advancements relating both to engineering and equipment in reality constitute a price reduction.

MARVEL OF BEAUTY IS NEW RED BIRD OF OVERLAND CO.

Picture a long, gracefully lined car, painted a sparkling Mandalay maroon, with gleaming nickel trimmings, red Spanish grained upholstery and khaki top and the new Overland Red Bird is visualized.

This model fresh from the great Willys-Overland factories at Toledo, Ohio, is making a signal impression on the motorist who is looking for something that incorporates real riding with gratifying appearance.

And the restful riding qualities are definitely established. There is a wheel base of 104 inches and in spring base of 136 inches, which in collision with the famous Overland triple springs, make bodily contact anything but a mere fanciful turn of words.

The body is roomier, seats wide and deep, that allow the passenger to sit in them and not on them. There is a noticeable lack of freakishness and yet the style is graceful. In this type of touring car are showing in every contour of the design. Red Spanish grained upholstery gives interior beauty and the Mandalay maroon on the body is a subtle shade that sets off the sprightly make-up of the whole assembly.

The khaki top with red bindings and wells adds a flavor to the artistic taste displayed in this winning creation, that is so tempting to the eye and so perfectly and harmoniously attuned.

The radiator with bar cap is nicked, the drum head lamp rims are nicked, the wind shield standers are nicked and the frame in the rear carries window light is nicked as also are the scuff plates, door handles and bumper front and rear.

The bumpers are part of the standard equipment on the Red Bird along with 29 by 3 1/2 straight side Yukon Cord tires, spare plate, spare rim and tire carrier, wind shield wiper, speedometer and dash light and door grip.

Superabundance of power has been provided by a larger and more powerful motor that ably upholds the marvelous records made by the Overland engine for long mileage on the gallon of gasoline.

This notable acquisition to the Overland series is an auspicious addition, and one calculated to further promote the sound reputation of the Willys-Overland organization.

NORTH TEXAS DISTRICT CAMP MEETING WILL CLOSE SUNDAY NIGHT

The camp meeting on Fourth and Broad streets, held under the auspices of the district council of the Assembly of God, will close Sunday night. Large crowds were in attendance every night.

The key note of these services was sounded after night—“Back to the Bible”—and an endorsement for service. The evangelist sounded the note against any “ism” that tends to lead men away from the Bible as the word of God. “Back to the Bible” should be the slogan of every minister of God today, they declared.

Rev. H. G. Rogers of Tennessee scored the theory of evolution.

Last Sunday the Rev. P. M. Stokley of California brought forth a message of the gospel of divine healing.

Mrs. F. M. Stokley represented the Indian missionary work under the charge of Miss Olga Jean Aston in India. A liberal offering was contributed to this work.

Elder Herman L. Harvey of Springfield, Mo., was here in the interest of the central Bible school now under course of construction in that city.

There were many others present in this meeting from different points, Tennessee, Missouri, California, points in New Mexico and Texas were represented in this district meeting.

Different ministers preached in the day service, Rev. W. W. Hall's message, “A Passion for Souls” stirred the people to renewed consecration. Mr. Hall came here from Fort Worth. Miss Jessie H. Kaye of Haskell brought a splendid message which was enjoyed by all. Mr. Wm. Burton McCafferty, pastor of the local church on Fifth and Broad streets, gave an exposition of St. Paul's 13th chapter of first Corinthians, called by the apostle, “The More Excellent Way” and the hymn, “The Greatest Thing in the World.”

Walter Robinson of the Northwest Assembly of God brought a message that will be long remembered.

BUSINESS.

We Americans are tending to make a religion of business, comments Dean Inge of St. Paul's Church in London, after pondering over his visit to our country last year.

Books are published for the devotional exercise of the young business man, and sermons are preached to prove that the practice of the Christian religion usually leads to a handsome income.

This is the 1931 way of charging us with worshipping the Almighty dollar. But there is no reason why “being good” shouldn't pay handsomely.

N. M. A. Members Urged to Correct Cases of Recklessness or Ignorance Keep Auto Travel In Public Favor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Keeping the automobile in good repute, according to Fred H. Caley, executive secretary of the National Motorists Association, is the duty of every automobile citizen on the streets and highways, and the basis upon which the continued success of the motor car as a form of safe transportation depends.

“The good will of the public must be won and kept,” states Mr. Caley in a bulletin sent recently to secretaries of affiliated N. M. A. clubs throughout the country. “Every accident encourages criticism of the value of the automobile to humanity and of the desirability of motorists. It is not possible for any form of transportation to be absolutely danger free, but because of an irresponsible element in the human equation automobile travel threatens to lose its standing with the community. And it must be stopped.”

Mr. Caley declares that every motorist is responsible for what his brother motorist does, and N. M. A. members are being urged to proceed on the assumption that they can afford to allow even one evidence of recklessness or ignorance to pass asked for in this type of touring car are showing in every contour of the design. Red Spanish grained upholstery gives interior beauty and the Mandalay maroon on the body is a subtle shade that sets off the sprightly make-up of the whole assembly.

This notable acquisition to the Overland series is an auspicious addition, and one calculated to further promote the sound reputation of the Willys-Overland organization.

“The thing that keeps the prominent secret orders of the nation from being in the spirit of honor, the conviction that in the eyes of the world the actions of each individual member are influential in molding public opinion, is the N. M. A. official address. The touring fraternity of America must soon realize that to permit individual motorists to violate the common sense rules of safety and decency is to put a stigma on motoring in general.

“Some motorists need to be educated to a better understanding of their responsibilities, and act upon the advice of the more experienced. Here words, even the most caustic phrases, do not reach him. A more vigorous policy is necessary.

“It is not enough to sit by and complain about the foolish things which are being done to the discredit of drivers who try to be decent automobile citizens. Take the violator's number and report him to the police. Better still, jump out and publicly threaten to have him arrested. He won't get over the humiliate of it in a hurry.

“No motorist is justified in remaining disinterested during the commission of a violation. Let the violator know that he is on a par with the conventional lawbreaker and convince him that the stigma his act places upon motoring will eventually hurt his standing, his business and his freedom in motoring. It may be necessary to use your fists, but keep in mind that a broken jaw is preferable to a broken jaw.”

DR. MARTIN'S VISIT OF REAL BENEFIT TO WICHITA FALLS

By J. H. ALLISON.

A city better for his coming—the people greatly helped by his counsel—life made worth living—some of the expressions heard about the recent visit of Dr. Martin, physiologist, author, teacher, lecturer, who gave a series of lectures in this city recently.

Dr. Martin not only “preaches what he preaches,” but his very life and habits are an example worthy of emulation. There is nothing “faddish” or “frankish” about his teaching. He simply goes about doing good. The writer of this article has had the pleasure of his acquaintance for a number of years and has found him to be one of the few men of strong convictions who is always interesting. He has found out that to be healthy in mind and body is to be happy—that with the proper utilization of one's time and talents most any worthy desire can be accomplished and that service for one's brother brings our most comforting rewards—a rather strong statement to make, but everyone who heard Dr. Martin was surely benefited by his visit.

Our sister cities who are going to have him as their guest are to be congratulated.

No Affection for Mother Says Star Of 'Movie' World

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—“I have no affection for my mother.”

“Let the world condemn me if it will. Even a worm will turn in time—and I have turned.”

With these words Mary Miles Minter, motion picture star, today declared her intention not to accept a reconciliation offered by her mother and sister, but to press her suit in court for an accounting of the money she says she earned, but which her mother kept.

A short time before Miss Minter made this statement, her sister, Miss Margaret Shelby, had made an announcement denying the charge that their mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, who is ill at a hospital here, had refused to make an accounting of the money.

“We both love Mary dearly,” said Miss Shelby, “and no matter what she says we will not change our attitude towards her. She can come home any time and she will be received with open arms.”

Mary smiled when she heard of this statement by her sister.

“My mother is not in danger of death,” she said. “It is only a ruse to get me to call off the lawsuit for an accounting of my money. It amounts to several million dollars.”

“Oh, yes, I know mother and Margaret swear undying devotion to me. They should. I have been their meal ticket for years.”

“But I am through now. There can be no reconciliation. The breach is too wide. The hurt too deep. I am tired of selling myself even to my own family. From now on I am going to be free.”

On account of the heavy strain to which the bolts of a demountable rim are subjected it is advisable to make frequent inspections and see that all nuts are kept tight. If the threads of any bolts are worn, put in new bolts, as a serious accident may occur if the threads strip and the rim comes off.

The old system of road overseers and the working of roads by citizens as provided by law is to be reinstated in Kaufman county, Texas. It has generally fallen into disuse in recent years.

William Jennings Bryan's Weekly Bible Talk
STEPHEN, THE MARTYR

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

Stephen the martyr, was the first of a noble band and he set a worthy example to those who followed after him.

He had all the virtues that could be combined in one called to such heroic services. He was full of grace and power and wrought great wonders and signs among the people. Certain groups were formed to oppose him and counteract his influence. At first they thought that disputing with him would be sufficient. When they found that they were not able to resist the wisdom or prevail against the spirit by which he spoke, they charged against him. Then they sought him and brought him before the council. And all the members of the council, looking steadfastly on him, saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

Then follows a long chapter. Stephen's answer to the accusation of blasphemy, nearly all of it devoted to Stephen's review of God's dealings with the Children of Israel. He traced the history of the chosen people from the time that God called Abraham until the crucifixion of Christ, concluding with a stinging indictment of those who betrayed and murdered the Messiah.

A Famous Prayer
The text of our talk takes the total up at least a moment. How infuriated his auditors were. They were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth. But Stephen, filled with the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God.

His description of his vision increased the anger of his persecutors. They cast him out of the city and stoned him. Stephen, calling upon God and saying, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit," knelt down to pray, and said, "Lord, do not charge this sin upon those who are stoning me." It is worth while to note that the first mention we have of Paul, the great hero of the Christian faith, is in connection with the death of the first martyr. He was a young man and a leader among those who were persecuting the Christians. The first verse of the following chapter begins, "And Saul (afterwards Paul) was consenting unto his (Stephen's) death."

The Martyr's Influence
There are two important lessons to be drawn from the martyrdom of Stephen. First, the influence of the martyr. The doctrine that there is no forgiveness of sins without the shedding of blood has a wider application than is usually given to it. There is seldom a reform of real magnitude that does not begin with the shedding of blood. It is so difficult to weaken the people to the meaning and the menace of a wrong that the final tragedy of death, and that alone, seems to be sufficient to arouse them to action. That this is no new condition is evident from the fact that Solomon drew a distinction between those who were wise and those who were not, and those who learned only through suffering. He expresses the thought in beautiful language: "A prudent man conceals his anger, and hides himself; but the simple pass on, and are punished."

But the sacrifices made for ordinary reforms differ in many particulars from the sacrifices made by the Christian martyrs. The latter are linked together as kindred in a common cause, and their blood is traceable through many centuries.

Conquest Through Sacrifice.
Christ introduced into the world a new philosophy. He measured greatness by service. By the good one can do instead of by the authority he can wield. He set up this new standard for nations as well as for individuals. He proclaimed another new doctrine when he taught conquest through sacrifice instead of conquest through slaughter. The early Christians made more progress by patiently submitting to every form of cruelty—even to death—than they could have made had they relied upon the sword.

Christ's kingdom is founded upon love and sacrifice is the highest proof of love. It requires no heroism to enjoy for a cause, but it means something to suffer for a cause. Martyrdom is the strongest evidence that one can give of his sincerity. The love of his country is his willingness to die for it when necessary. For this reason the soldier has been honored throughout history. He has been able to divide honors with him because no other form of service has been regarded as so the same class.

Peace of the World.
While some have accomplished more by living for their country than others have by dying for it, they have not been able to attract the attention while living or hold the place in memory when dead. This respect which is compelled when one offers his own body upon the altar and pours out his own blood in proof of his devotion, gave the Christian martyrs a lasting ground from which to proclaim their message to the world.

Martyrdom was also proof of the progress they were making. Feeble protests are ignored, larger ones are ridiculed, threatening ones are resisted. The more threatening the fiercer the persecution. The foe of Christianity at once recognized the effectiveness of his weapons.

STEPHEN THE MARTYR—TEXT OF TODAY'S BIBLE TALK BY MR. BRYAN

(Acts 6:8-15; 7:54-60)
And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people. That there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia and of Asia, disputing with Stephen. And all the members of the council, looking steadfastly on him, saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.
