GILMARTIN, SECRETARY.

QUALIFICATIONS for a chamber of commerce secretary are not defined in any standard works on civics. It is difficult to find a hard and fast text prescribing the rules that will be in managing the office of a chamber.

So far that reason, when a man is put into the office of the local chamber of commerce, he is valuable or not, according to his horse sense. He must be able to find himself no matter what sort of "woods he gets into."

Jim Gilmartin has been acting as secretary of the local organization for the past month or so, and so far as we can see, for one who had had no previous practical training on the job, he comes about as near filling the bill as a city could ask.

He has secured many new members. He inaugurated a publicity campaign that put the Cisco "date line" in metropolitan papers.

He has secured the co-operation of the Humble company in the matter of good roads, and has that organization on the membership roll of the chamber.

He has practically landed a large engine manufacturing plant. He has arranged for a conference of officials of the chamber with one of the largest oil companies seeking a location in West Texas.

He went to Dallas and Fort Worth and obtained concessions in the improvement of the local union station.

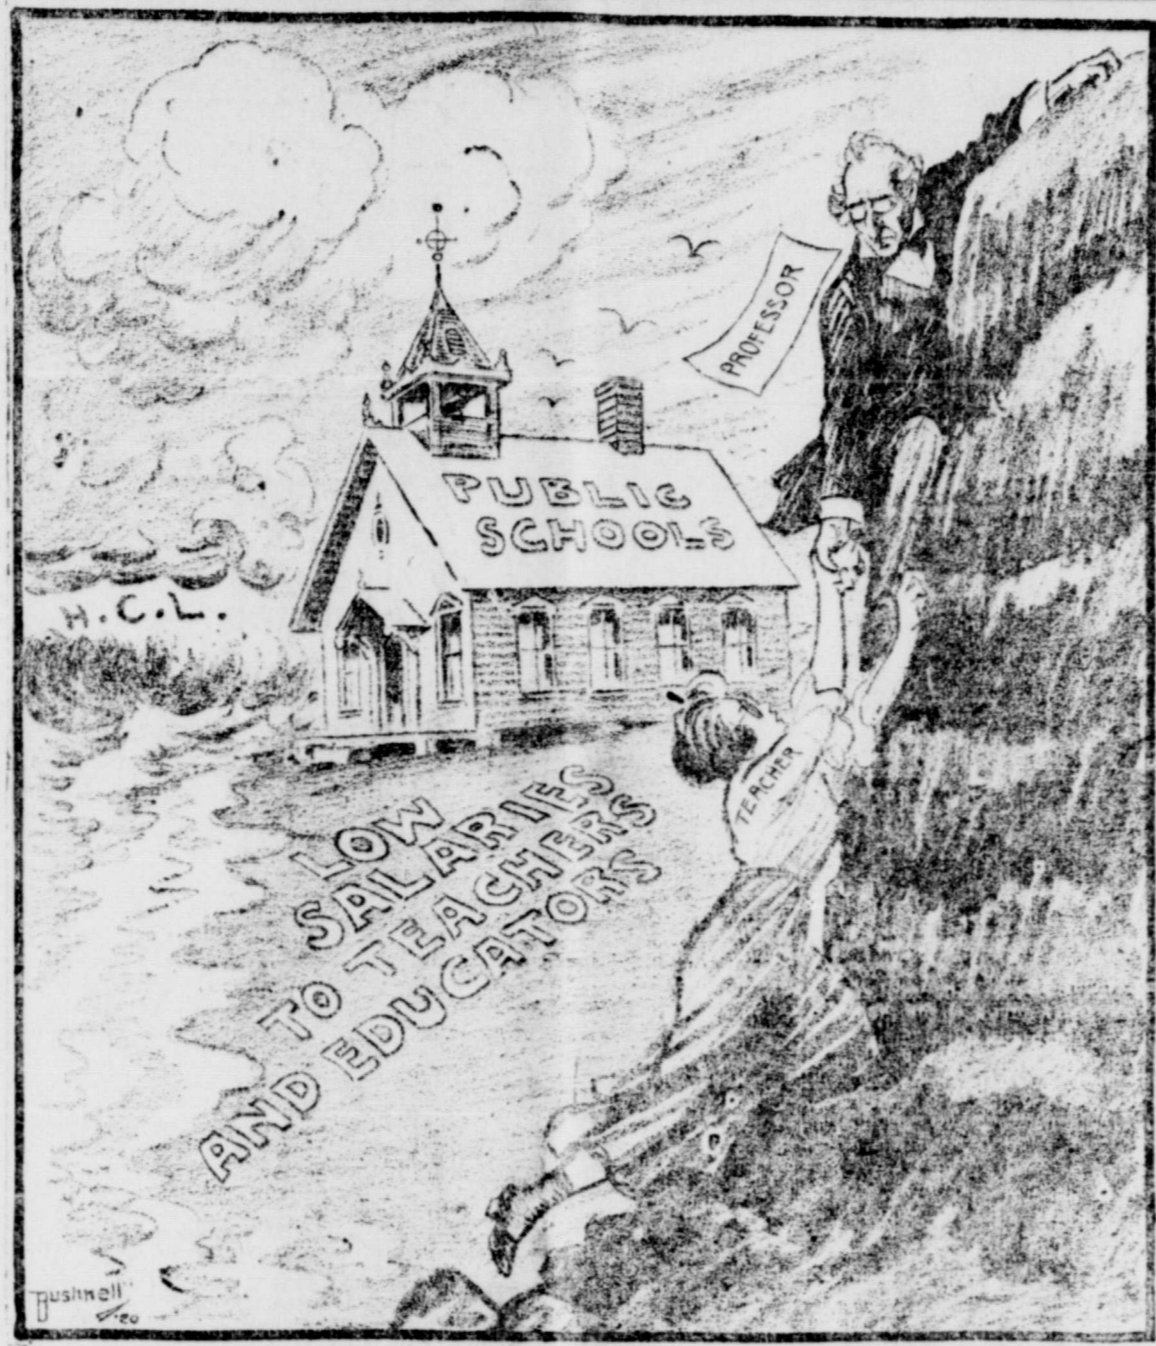

He has handled hundreds of details of the office in a very satisfactory manner.

In other words, Gilmartin comes about as near filling the office as any man could ask in the brief time he has been on the job.

He has not been selected as permanent secretary, a matter that is now pending before the directors, and soon to be settled. He should be. A man of his capacity, keen mind, energetic interest and possibilities should be used in Cisco.

Gilmartin has horse sense. He undertook a big work, and never for a minute has he been "lost" when it came to handling the problems of the most important position connected with the development of Cisco.

Three Held for Robbery. BRECKENRIDGE, March 29.—Three workers in the oil camps near Breckenridge, were arrested Friday charged with the hold-up of a gang of 29 negroes on the Ashburner beach near here. The robbers are alleged to have secured about $75 at the point of pistols. Four men were in the gang. James Walter Smith and Jim Plumlee were admitted to bail in the sum of $1000 each. Sam Mijca has failed to give bond.

SUMMER HOME PICKED KENTUCKY MOB GETS MINERS ACCEPT WAGE FOR THE PRESIDENT NEGRO FROM SHERIFF; INCREASE AS WORKING NEW ENGLAND COAST ENFORCE LYNCH LAW BASIS FOR PRESENT

Will Occupy Summer Cottage of Chas. R. Crane, Recently Appointed Minister to China.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Wilson will spend the summer at Wood's Hole, Mass., where the summer white house will be established on the estate of Charles R. Crane, the Chicago business man recently appointed minister to China.

Arrangements already are being made for moving the president and his family and a school party of the executive offices there for at least two weeks of June and all of July and August. The Crane's estate is an extensive country place which overlooks Buzzard's Bay and Vineyard Sound and is close by Martha's Vineyard, an island which figures in colonial history. President Taft and his family spent their summers at Beverly, Mass., not very far away.

The decision to take the president away for the summer, is interpreted at the white house as further evidence of the continued improvement in health which Dr. Grayson, his personal physician has been reporting. Up to a few weeks ago it had in fact been practically decided not to take the president away for the summer, because it was felt that he could be better cared for at the white house.

The plan to spend the summer on the New England coast, Dr. Grayson said, meant that the president could continue the program of motor riding, possibly some short yacht trips, probably on the Mayflower, and might even set in a few holes of golf if his improvement continued. The trip to Washington will be by train, the Mayflower going by later.

Last summer, like his first in office, the president spent in Washington. Others have been spent at Cornish, N. H. The first summer, which was a very hot one, the son put the white house offices out of commission, and announced that inasmuch as he was asking congress to stay in session in the capitol throughout the hot days, he would undertake it himself, and he did so.

He did not return from the peace conference at Paris last year until mid-summer and he spent the next few weeks preparing for his long speaking trip in the west, from which he returned "a very sick man" in due to the expression conveyed in Dr. Grayson's bulletin, and with a few oceanic motor rides of late, he has been confined to the white house grounds ever since last October.

Secretary Houston has a place at Wood's Hole near the summer white house and other beautiful estates are close by. Dr. Grayson decided to accept Mr. Crane's offer, it is said, because he wanted the president away from the oppressive heat of Washington in mid-summer and because he wanted him near the salt water.

Forty Men Take Grant Smith From Jail and Rush to Country; Officers Located Party.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 29.—Grant Smith, the negro who was taken from the sheriff and chief of police at Paris, Kentucky, last night by a mob was hurried to a telegraph pole six miles from Paris at midnight, according to a report received here early this morning from Mayeville.

Paris, Ky., March 29.—Grant Smith, negro, charged with criminal assault, was removed from the county jail by a mob of 40 men who placed him in an automobile and rushed him out of town. Members of the mob as they left the city, announced their intention of hanging the negro from a bridge at Millersburg, nine miles away.

Smith was brought to the Bourbon county jail from Cincinnati this morning for safe-keeping. He was arrested in Michigan last week charged with assaulting the daughter of a farmer.

The negro was arrested in Pontiac, Mich., and brought here today for safe-keeping. The train arrived shortly before 6 o'clock. As Sheriff G. W. Powell of Fleming county and Police Chief Fred Link of this city, were entering the jail with their prisoner, the mob rushed the officers, obtained custody of the negro and dashed out of town, ring leaders remarking they "would hang Smith from the first bridge they could find."

Members of the mob had been waiting in automobiles near the jail since early in the afternoon. As the officers and their prisoner were entering the jail a score of men jumped from their cars with drawn revolvers and ordered the officers to surrender the negro.

GOVERNMENT ACCEPTS UNION STATION TO BE OKLA. CONTENTION IN LARGER THAN PLANNED THE RED RIVER ISSUES C. OF C. IS ADVISED

TEXAS CLAIMS TITLE TO LAND "CONTRARY TO THE RIGHTS OF THE UNITED STATES" MOTION SAID.

MAY ENJOIN BOTH STATES WIRE OBTAINED RESULTS

Government Will Take Hand in Settling the Dispute; Oklahoma Agrees to Government Position Texas Attorneys Don't Agree.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The government in general accepted the contention of Oklahoma relative to the location of the boundary between that state and Texas in motions filed today in the supreme court asking permission to intervene in the controversy between the two states over ownership of oil lands in the Red river bed and that Texas be enjoined from granting title of permits to land situated north of the river's south bank. An opinion on the motion will be handed down tomorrow, Solicitor General King was informed.

The government also charged that Texas, "contrary to the rights of the United States and to the true meaning of the treaty of 1819 claims for herself sovereignty and political jurisdiction and for herself and its grantees title to the soil far north of the true boundary and to the line of mid-channel of the Red river."

Counsel for Oklahoma has approved the motion, Solicitor General King told the court in presenting the motion, but Texas authorities had agreed only in part.

The motion, in addition to its request for an injunction against Texas, asks the court to enjoin Oklahoma and Texas authorities alike from permitting any of their representatives from trespassing upon the contested lands or making any additional oil or gas wells and that a receiver be appointed to take charge of all the lands with machinery and tools now on them and to operate wells already sunk.

"The present uncertainties" the motion said, "as to the true location of the south bank at the date of the ratification of the treaty of 1819, the existing controversy between the states of Oklahoma and Texas, their attempts to exercise jurisdiction over the territory in dispute, and the measures taken by their officials and courts respectively to enforce their alleged rights and those of their franchisees, licensees and permittees are detrimental to the public tranquility in which the United States and all the states of the union have a deep interest; they impede, hinder and embarrass the United States, its officers and agents in the due administration and conservation of its own property and in the performance of its duties and obligations to its Indian wards."

Attorney General Clegg said he would be unable to come to this city but that he would be glad to sign any recommendation of the Casa chamber of commerce at Dallas.

Secretary Jim Gilmartin made trip to Dallas to ask officials to make station fully adequate.

Alterations to cost more than $25,000 are to be made shortly upon the Cisco union station, according to a wire received Monday evening by W. E. Morris, president of the local chamber of commerce, from James Gilmartin, secretary of that organization, who closed the project with the Texas Pacific company in Dallas.

The Texas Pacific had originally intended to alter the building to the extent of $15,000, having received a permit from the city commission covering that amount.

It was intended to alter the baggage rooms install a new lighting system and new lavatories, locate the telegraph and trainmen's room from the ticket office, and enlarge the waiting rooms.

While this extension on the part of the Texas Pacific was considered here to be at least a step forward, efforts of the chamber of commerce officials resulted in the promise of more extensive improvements.

Morris sent the following telegram to T. P. Mitchell, chief engineer of the Texas & Pacific at Dallas: "Have just looked over the blue print of passenger station. You must realize that they are making a grand and adequate improvement. It is made with very little additional expense which will beautify the interior and exterior of the building. Please wire when and where you can meet me preferably on the grounds here. Cisco union station is a grand and beautiful structure. What has been done at the hands of the contractor."

Mitchell responded that he would be unable to come to this city but that he would be glad to sign any recommendation of the Casa chamber of commerce at Dallas.

Following a long conference with Mitchell he returned that the T. & P. had stipulated to the extension of the chamber of commerce for further improvements, the only provision being the commencement of the work prior to the addition of any grand structure as that line has but a passing existence with the station.

The added improvements proposed include the extension of the waiting rooms to include what is now the roof of station in the rear of the station, and the addition of that of a restaurant, bar, refreshment and other vehicles.

"With the completion of this project the station will have been completely modernized and will be a structure of modern dimensions."

MEXICO PROMULGATES A NEW RULE FOR OIL MEN TO FOLLOW THERE

"Federal Zone." Prescribed Effects Only Certain Territory. No U. S. Interest Involved.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Invitation of the protection of a foreign government by oil companies operating in the "federal zone" in Mexico will lay the concerns open to cancellation of their rights under a decree issued March 12 by President Carranza.

The decree, which will be effective pending enactment of new oil legislation by the Mexican congress, prohibits any individual or company except Mexican, to hold concessions for oil development. It further states that "the installations and the concessions may be adjudged void in the case of failure to comply with the provisions for the drilling or payment of royalties or rental charges, violation of provisions relative to the transfer of the concessions, the admission of partners, or in case of practicing fraud against fiscal interests, or where they pray for the protection of other governments."

The federal zone to which the decree applies, include land within ten kilometers of all streams, twenty kilometers of all navigable streams and 50 kilometers of the sea coast. Producing oil wells have been drilled within this zone.

Contention of Government in Attack on Prohibition Says Constitution Gives Such Authority to Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—How far reaching and how far-reaching the constitutionality of the prohibition amendment to the constitution and part of the Volstead act, which have been filed with the supreme court.

Ellis Root and William D. Guthrie, attorneys for Christian Froese, a Newark, N. J., brewer filed a brief contesting the amendment is invalid.

Reply to the contentions of the Froese brief, the government defended both the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act. As to the latter, the brief said:

"In order to effectively enforce the prohibition against intoxicating liquors, congress had ample power to adopt the definition contained in the Volstead act as a means appropriate to such enforcement. The Volstead act is an exercise of the police and whatever hardships may result from the destruction or impairment of the value of property of beer, heretofore lawfully manufactured, it cannot be said that there has been such a taking of property or loss as requires compensation or that the resulting impairment of values is unconstitutional.

"It is said that the amendment authorizes congress to prohibit only intoxicating liquor, and that a beverage which does not contain large doses more than one half of one percentum of alcohol is not intoxicating. The contention is that congress being empowered only to prohibit intoxicating liquors, cannot extend its power to prohibit a beverage which does not contain large doses more than one half of one percentum of alcohol is not intoxicating. The contention is that congress being empowered only to prohibit intoxicating liquors, cannot extend its power to prohibit a beverage which does not contain large doses more than one half of one percentum of alcohol is not intoxicating.

"It is, of course, true that congress cannot extend its power to prohibit a beverage which does not contain large doses more than one half of one percentum of alcohol is not intoxicating. The contention is that congress being empowered only to prohibit intoxicating liquors, cannot extend its power to prohibit a beverage which does not contain large doses more than one half of one percentum of alcohol is not intoxicating.

Replying to contentions that the amendment had not been ratified properly by three fourths of the states owing to provisions in many state providing for a referendum vote upon such matters, the government asserted that "the only method of ratification mentioned is through representatives assembled either in the legislature or in a convention called for that purpose."

GETS A NEW WELL AND ADDITION TO FAMILY.

Anybody ever heard of a fourth trip-let?

A Cisco family has it. Monday evening, a fourth child was born into the family of J. W. Tripplitt, wealthy oil producer of this city. The baby is a boy and weighed 11 pounds. Simultaneously with the child's birth, Tripplitt was notified that the Hogg Oil company, in which he has a large interest, had succeeded a heavy show of oil and gas in the well on the M. J. and W. R. Eganer tract in the Deadwood field. The well is half a mile south of the famous Carruth well, which came in for 5700 barrels and at present is holding up at somewhere around 1500. The Hogg well got the lime at 2515 feet. Six inch casing is being set and the well will be drilled in within the next ten days.

Mr. Tripplitt is one of the most successful and best known producers in this section of the mid-continent field and his friends are congratulating him on his good fortune.

CAPITALISTS PLEASANT WITH CISCO.

A big party of capitalists from all parts of the United States spent the week end in Cisco looking over the fields here with the contemplation of extensive leasing.

The party was headed by Paul King of New York, formerly Harry Sinclair's right hand man, and A. E. Templeman, a big Dallas oil magnate.

The personnel included R. K. McDaniel, John Corin, George E. Lewis, Irving Matson, Emma Wilson, P. M. Vaughn, Howard C. Smith, L. P. Baubach and Harold Dinkwater, all of Denver; O. G. Frantz, of Tulsa; Joe Ladrop, of Ardmore; J. C. Clapton and Dan D. McAuley, of Fort Worth; L. E. McCluskey, of Toledo, and P. E. Workman, of Kansas City.

All were impressed and pleased with the prosperity in evidence on every hand in Cisco and were still better pleased with the oil lands which completely encircle this city.

This is the second party of influential oil men who have made a visit to this city during the past 10 days. It portends something—something big.

ANOTHER GUISHER AT LEXAVY.

Gushers are coming in one after the other up at Lexavy on the Cisco & Northeastern railroad.

Last Sunday the Sammie Oil company brought in a 2000 barrel producer on the No. 1 Thayer just outside the town. Only three or four days ago the field brought in an 1800 and a 2000 barrel well a little north of Lexavy.

There will be heavy drilling there this week and Cisco is the point from which materials for wells will be shipped. It's a great outlook.

EMPLOYEES CHICAGO STOCK YARDS GO OUT ON STRIKE

CHICAGO, March 29.—Nine hundred stock handlers, cleaners and loaders employed by the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, struck today, trying to get shipments to get from the stock yards.

If the strike continues packing company officers admitted they would be crippled to such an extent that their plants probably would have to be closed. That would threaten 50,000 employees out of work.

The men voted to strike Saturday at midnight in violation, it was said, of the agreement that all wage disputes be settled before Judge Alschuler.

The Chicago Junction railroad which handles the traffic of all railroads entering the stock yards, announced that no livestock would be accepted with the exception of horses and other railroads made the embargo general.

The men are demanding a wage increase of $5 a month. According to union officers, they now receive from $30 to $120 a month.

PERMIT FOR POSTOFFICE BUILDING IS ISSUED

A. J. King and R. L. Kay have received from the city a building permit for the new postoffice building across the street from the City and County News office on Main.

The building, which is to form the nucleus of a big hotel, is to cost $15,000, according to the plans.

MURDER BELIEVED JUNK; GAVE HIM 14 1/2 YEARS IN JAIL.

EASTLAND, March 29.—Jack Campbell was tried in the district court on a charge of having in his possession at his rooming house in Odessa intoxicating liquor. He denied the accusation strongly and fought the case hard.

But the sheriff had gone to his room when the liquor was there and had brought it away, so that both Sheriff Lawrence and his deputies could testify to the intoxicating qualities. But the defendant refused to admit that the liquor was in his possession and claimed that it all belonged to another man. He brought his wife and an employee of his cabaret, a dancing girl, who claimed to be in his room the night the liquor was placed in the room. These witnesses all said that a roomer came there with the liquor and had it in his grip, and that the defendant did not have anything to do with the contents. But the jury found the defendant guilty and assessed his punishment at two years in the state penitentiary.

An interesting incident connected with the defendant is that just as the jury went to the consultation room to decide the case the news came in that a deputy in the sheriff's office had taken charge of Campbell's automobile which had in it two cases of absolutely good whiskey. The sheriff, who is not easily deceived about this sort of property and easily recognized it. The chauffeur was in charge of the automobile, but the sheriff now has the contents.

New Tracks at Breckenridge.

BROWNWOOD, March 29.—The Santa Fe railroad is putting in three new tracks in the yards here for the purpose of relieving the congestion of freight cars, which has been quite noticeable during the past month.

The West Texas Pan-Hellenic society is to be organized in Cisco shortly. Stuart Williams, local real estate man and secretary of the Young Men's Business league is the spirit behind this movement.

Any member of a national Greek letter fraternity will be eligible to join the society, according to Williams, but high school organizations or those of a purely local nature will not be embraced.

French Modern Art on View in New York

THE collection of French art selected and sent to this country under the auspices of the French government has attracted much attention in two of the largest galleries of the Metropolitan Museum.

Claude Monet's "La Japonaise," one of the most striking canvases of the lot, was painted as long ago as 1875, before that noted painter identified his talent with landscape, and several other paintings have reached their majority, if the age of a picture can be so expressed.

Some few of them, such as "The Father," by Renoir, have been added to the collection from the galleries of New York dealers and are quite familiar to those of us who frequent such places.

General Tone Conservative.

As a whole the tone of the exhibition is decidedly conservative. Monet's "Japonaise" is not a Japanese at all, but a Parisian, the artist's wife, it is said, a blonde at that, decked out in a gorgeous Oriental robe in red and gold, with a grotesque figure of a Japanese dwarf peeping out from the folds. Yellow matting covers the floor, and the background is a blue wall, over the surface of which are scattered Japanese fans. It is a lovely composition, rich in color and solid in construction, a thing to remember. Albert Besnard's celebrated portrait of Cardinal Mercier, in which the prince of the church is shown standing before the figure of Christ crucified, dominates one wall of the gallery. It is familiar to most of us, if not the original at least its reproduction. Another echo of the war is found in the "Rabbi Bloch," by Levy-Dhurms, evidently the portrayal of an actual incident, a Jewish rabbi being shown in a burning hospital holding a cross before the gaze of a dying Christian soldier. It has little to recommend it as a work of art.

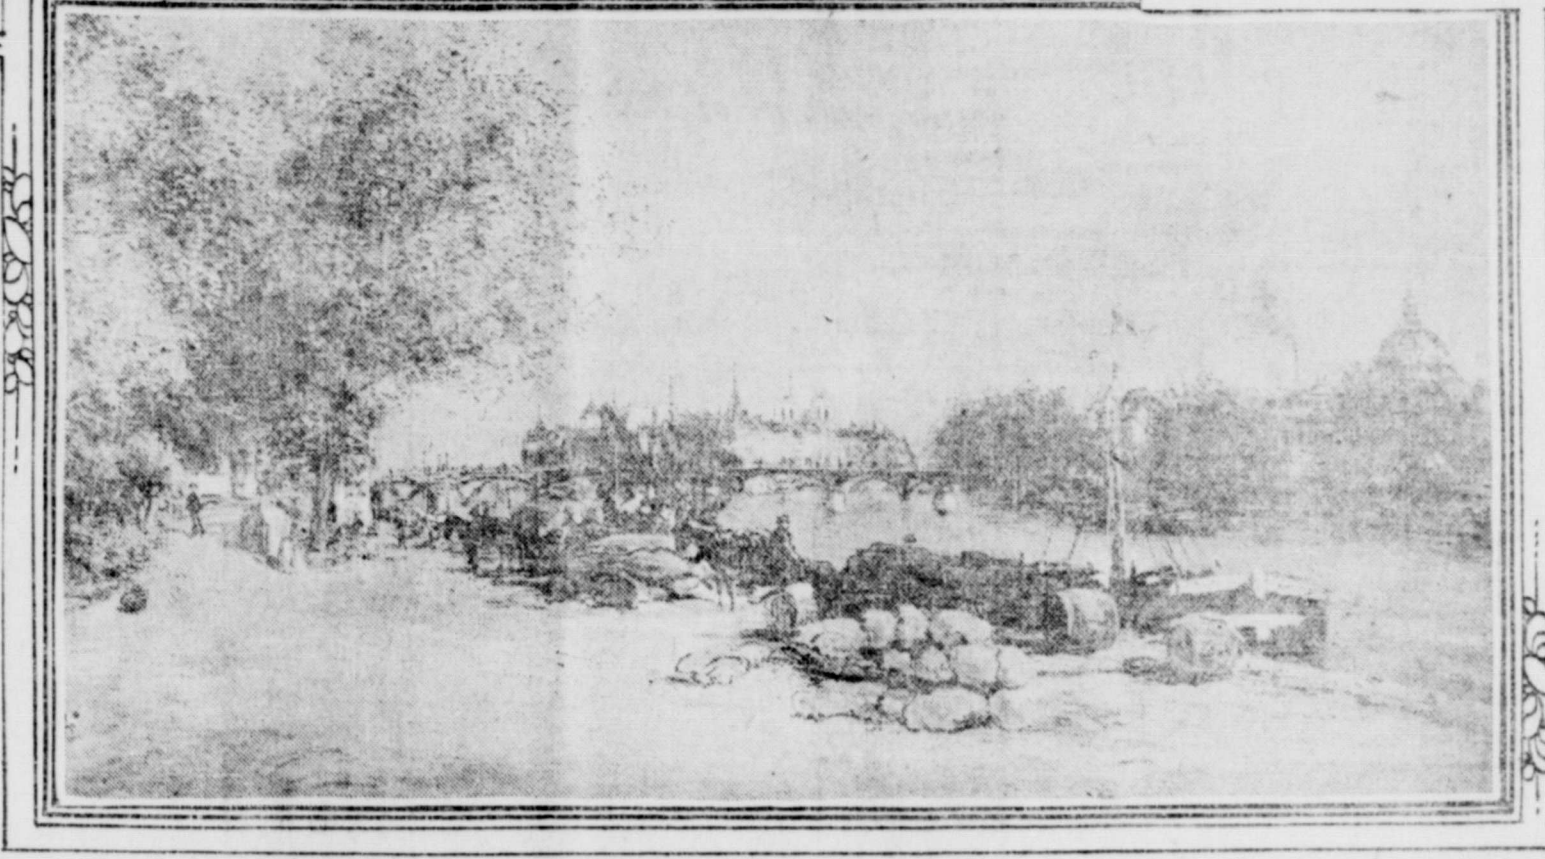

A Well-known Portrait.

The Renoirs are handsome examples. One, a "Mother and Child," dating from 1881; the other, "The Bathing," mentioned above, both fine in color and modeling.

Of the really younger artists, Georges d'Espagnat contributes the most noticeable canvas in his amusing "Young Mother and Daughter," which shows an intimate domestic scene, the maternal solicitude being exhibited in practical fashion by attention to the little one's nose. As a character study it is superb, and its color scheme is charming. The introduction of the toy duck adds much to the scheme of composition. The whole thing is very clever and amusing.

Takes Art Seriously.

In his "Landscape With Bathers," Albert Andre has combined the modern with the ancient by giving his nude classical poses and setting them in a modern landscape with a twentieth century washerwoman crossing ing the arched bridge with a bundle of clothes. Andre takes his art seriously, and there is much solid painting about this work.

The seated group of "Breton Girls Going to a Pardon," by Charles Cottet, does not show this painter at his best, and the "Versailles" of Bernard Boutet de Monvel is a Versailles with unusually leaden skies. Henri Martin's "Village in March" has a misty charm about its atmosphere, and "The Floral Fairy," by Camille Roche, attracts attention by its elaborate decorative pattern.

Gaston Baioude's "Picnic," with its straggling line of figures scattered over the grass, is painted in strong, harsh colors, and a similar note is sounded in "The Harvest," by Jules Emile Zingg. A particularly fine example of figure painting is the "Black Hair," by Carlo-Delaville.

The display includes a few examples of industrial art, shell carvings, book-bindings, figured papers, etc., among which are found some charming little studies of Japanese heads, done in monochrome water color and a touch of gold in the headresses by Rene Ploi, which are really very fascinating.

The Russian Stylistic Appeal

Whether exhibited on the stage, in the studio or the gallery the leading characteristic of contemporary Russian art is its stylistic appeal. These men work not analytically, but synthetically. Not scholastically, but sensuously. They have all gone back to the fountain of their country's aesthetic patrimony from which the artistic inspiration of Russia has flowed. Even the ikon mood of the early masters of Kiev and Novgorod and Moscow was a mood of intense, ecstatic feeling even though conventional in its expression.

This mood is felt in all of the best pieces of Anisfeld. Here is the Golden God, with its lacquered surfaces, glistening faces of jewels, luxuriant foliage, smooth skin. Here in "The Garden of Hesperides," his yellow birds glow as if lighted by strange under fires. Here is "The Golden Tribute," rich and heavy with notes of red and orange and browns. All of them are avowedly decorative canvases with a sumptuous romantic appeal.

But each of them carries in every color note and every line a reason why Anisfeld should not have tried his art, with its roots in Babylon, on a wood chopper's cottage, nor the "Land of Memory" when the memory must be that of a European and gray as dawn besides the grandeur of the memory of one of the modern Russians.

A Miniature Academy

EVERY season the "Thirty-Thirty" Exhibition at Macbeth's is something to which to look forward. It's a sort of miniature Academy—and, like an Academy, painters are not always careful to send new canvases. There were paintings by Weir and Dewey and Dainingerfield and Frieske and Miller and Nesbit and Dewing; by Carlsen and Ryder and Davis. It was a roll-call of the old guard, as well as an exhibition.

In the landscapes there was nothing of great novelty except, perhaps, Emil Carlsen's forester notes, so high in

Have Much in Common.
There three painters, Glackens,

Maurice Prendergast and Lawson, have much in common, and although their methods of work vary widely as the senate on the peace treaty, the group hangs well together.

Here we have Prendergast with his patchwork of color—a sampler in paint. Here Glackens, with his over-keyed colors and his soft drawing, and Lawson, with his well-constructed, even if a little hard, landscape.

With Prendergast and Lawson there is no quarrel, because each works in a purely decorative method. There is no effort here to be naturalistic, but Glackens tries to eat his cake and have it, too. Here is a man, a wonderful draftsman, who starts to play in the over-ripe colors of Renoir and compromises his drawing in doing it. It may, indeed, be art. It may be the sort of thing the world will pour its riches out for in 50 years, but viewed in the cheerless light of today, I must prefer his black and whites, where his drawing was sound to the colored stuff where rocks, trees, waters, figures are all of a makeup and the colors are those more found in a French pastry than on an artist's palette.

Attractive Color Patterns.

Now Prendergast frankly says in his painting: "Let us make a rich and attractive color pattern. We'll take humans and trees and such and use them, conventionalized, of course, and call it a job and an attractive canvas comes out of it—but Prendergast doesn't call these "life"—but Glackens does call his paintings life and there's the rub.

Take Lawson, for instance, with his rolling valleys and rigid houses. Here decoration is guided by an architect's fingers and strength and solidity result. The great trouble with modern art is its lack of strength or an appreciation of structural necessity. The artists have grown so used to taking liberties with form that they have given up entirely any allegiance to structural truth. Which is a pity.

There is a most interesting assortment of collections at the Knoedler Galleries under the charge of Mrs. Sterner. Here we find George Bellows with most wonderful cows and landscapes from never-never land. Bellows has become so advanced and so freed from art's laws that now he is painting with the childish naivete for which all modernists seem to strive. In the same gallery is grouped some of the work of Hays-Miller, filled with a strong sense of mysticism back of nearly all of them. There was a monotony of color schemes in Hays-Miller's work that was disappointing.

Albert Sterner's Paintings.

With Albert Sterner's paintings one felt no sense of monotony either in color or subject. He paints with a feeling of dash and assurance that seems to fit exactly the sort of human being he does—but in his "Convalescent" there is a quiet restraint and a dignity of treatment which makes this one of the most interesting canvases in the show.

In the rear gallery, far from Bellows' peculiar cows and more peculiar landscapes, are more grotesques, but these are beautiful because they have accepted the convention of make-believe and in the work by Erte the same swirl and dance of line is felt as we feel with Joseph's drawings.

The colors are conventionalized for reproduction. In fact, the whole exhibition is under the permission of Harper's Bazar.

Romain de Tiroff, known most widely by the pen-name formed by his initials, is a Russian, descended from many generations of navy officers. Born within the walls of the Naval School at Petrograd, Erte began to draw at the age of 5. At 15, while studying portraiture under Repine, he was contributing to Russian magazines. Then he started for Rome, but was waylaid by Paris, where Harper's Bazar, which alone publishes his work, first found him. Strongly individualistic, following no established school, Erte has developed steadily into one of the most imaginative and sure-handed of contemporary artists. His subtle color sense, his originality of design and his technique, which is, of its kind, well nigh perfect, make his work, especially fascinating to those interested in decorative art.

The work of Drian is splendid—strong line, grace of figure, interest of composition, which seems the inherent power of a Frenchman.

Feminine dress so seldom is portrayed with the degree of art which it deserves that when a man of such worth as Drian undertakes it, all art, as well as fashion, is the beneficiary. For although he has a pronounced flair for the delineation of the mode, Drian is not primarily a "fashion artist." Drian is, first of all, a masterly draughtsman. There is about his work a straightforward strength which shows that he knows not alone what he wants to do, but how to do it with the greatest economy of effort.

The rugged quality of his black-and-white approximates painting with the pen. In view of his rank among present-day French artists—he is probably the foremost portrait etcher of Europe—it is scarcely surprising that when Drian turns his attention to illustration, his influence is widespread and does much to raise the standard of magazine art. The drawings exhibited appeared in Harper's Bazar and are the only examples of Drian's work published in America during the past year.

Drian's work may be commercial art, but it is worth more to the pleasure-seeking eye than a wall full of modernists groping their way through dreary wildernesses of muddy paint and palsied drawing.

In the gallery of the Salmagundi Club, New York City, is an attractive display of recent works by Hobart Nichols, George Elmer Brown, Walter Griffin, Robert H. Nesbet, H. O. Vincent, George Obersteuffer, Guy Wiggins and Rudolph Evans.

THE GOLDEN GOD, BY BORIS ANISFELD.

The god is almost enveloped in the dim religious light of his temple. In the foreground the bright robes of his worshipers make brilliant spots of color in the original canvas.

Old Chinese Portraiture

THERE was a dignity about Chinese art of the great periods which was characteristic. It was the reflection of the effect of religion or philosophy on the souls of a people. Whether the ancestor worship and the somewhat static theology of the Chinese are better for contentment of soul than our more western questing after truth remains a question for serious journals such as the New Republic or Vanity Fair. The fact remains, however, that the more set the religion or mode of life—positive or negatively with regard to what we term goodness—the more serene and dignified the resulting art works of the people.

The collection of Chinese portraits, the property of Samuel T. Peters, now on exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum, New York City, show the effects of this settled acceptance of heaven, earth and one's walk in life. The portraits show another thing: That men and women the world over are much alike whether in the gorgeous robes of China or the unimaginative creations worn by men and women of the same weight of years in a New England village.

SALOME—WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

on account of the recent occupation by General Allenby and the British of the Holy City resolves, of course, around that fascinating yet fearsome personality, Salome, the sister of the Scriptures, who suffered death under the spotted shields of men when horror looks her spell over them.

The settings of "Salome" are gorgeous in effect and gargantuan in size, according to architectural precedent, but there is no belittling or overshadowing of the dramatic interest of the story in consequence.

The producer points to two factors which safeguards "Salome" against the common fault of other productions that strove for effect and thereby sacrificed atmosphere and dramatic unity.

Five thousand players were engaged for this super-picture. Eight hundred artisans alone were employed in reconstructing for the use of this picture the ancient city of Jerusalem.

SPORTSNAP SHOTS

The Olympic committee of the United States Football association has gone on record to the effect that the national body should send a team of 20 amateur soccer players, citizens of the United States, to Antwerp, for the matches, August 29 to September 3.

Jimmy Hickman, who was released by the Robins to the Toledo club of the American association, does not intend to play in that league next season.

Johnny Dundee claims that Benny Leonard can no longer make the lightweight limit, and in order not to complicate matters, John proclaims himself the lightweight champion.

As boxing is to be part of Yale's football training, it is plain to be seen that the Elis will have a real gridiron outfit next fall.

Bernie Neis, the Robins' sensational rookie, will be a regular next season at Ebbets field, is hitting the Yankees pitchers harder than he clouts the offerings of his teammates in the practice games in the south.

Mike (King) Kelly was one of the few big league players who made a success on the stage. No monologue stuff for Mike. He was assigned a regular part.

Arnold Stutz, formerly of Holy Cross college, will be retained by the New York Giants as understudy of Outfielder Benny Kauff.

WESTERN READOPTS DUEL UMPIRE SYSTEM THIS SEASON

CHICAGO, Ill., March 29.—The double umpiring system will be restored in the western league with the start of the 1920 season, President Kearney announced tonight. Joseph Becker and "Mike" Jacobs will be retained from last season's staff.

Zbyszko Wins Fall. NEW YORK, March 29.—Stanislas Zbyszko, Polish heavyweight wrestler, threw John Olin, of Finland, in a catch-as-catch-can contest here tonight in 53 minutes and 27 seconds with a combination body and toe hold.

Barnes Two Strokes From Top. PINEHURST, N. C., March 29.—At the end of the first 36 hole of the north and south open golf championship played here today, Jim Barnes, the present champion, was two strokes from the top at 148; Walter Hagen, six strokes from the top at 152, and Mike Bracy, seven strokes from the top at 153.

Manager Gleason of the White Sox believes he has another George Sisler in Faulk, the University of Texas player who is to join the Sox next June. Faulk is a clever pitcher and also plays a fine game in the outfield or at first base.

Recent bouts of Ed Lewis, the heavyweight wrestler, show the "Strangler" to be in much better condition than he was before his recent illness. Lewis is a logical opponent of Joe Stetzer for a championship bout.

The biggest varsity crew in Harvard history will meet Annapolis on April 24. Every man in the Crimson boat stands well over six feet, with the exception of Duncan, stroke, and Pteranz, coxswain.

If champion boxers continue to insist on no decision bouts, titles will be retained indefinitely by the present holders and a bona fide championship contest will be come a rare event.

So many American women swimmers have broken records of late that it would appear an easy matter to pick a team of star mermaids to represent "Uncle Sam" in the Antwerp Olympic games.

SPITE OF WAR RECORD NO QUARTERS TO MEN BRITISH COL. MUST WHO VIOLATED OATH STAND DEPORTATION SAYS NEW CHANCELLOR

Charles Glenn Collins Will Be Returned to England For Trial on Charge Stealing Indian Jewels.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Chas. Glenn Collins, former colonel in the British army, today lost his fight in the supreme court to prevent deportation to answer charges of having obtained valuable jewels in Bombay, India, by fraud. He was arrested in New Orleans two years ago at the request of British authorities, but escaped last September to be re-captured aboard an outbound vessel by American government agents.

NEW YORK, March 29.—British authorities in asking for the arrest in the United States of Charles Glenn Collins, were obligated to overlook an excellent record established by Collins as a lieutenant-colonel during the war. His career at Gallipoli was said to have been especially commendatory.

His activity as a soldier, however, interspersed several legal entanglements both in England and in the United States. In 1902 Miss Frances Zoltykoff while in London is said to have given Collins two Chinese vases valued at $60,000 which were subsequently lost. The vases recovered $1025 from Collins, according to reports.

Coming to the United States later, he attended a bankers' convention at Chicago and was arrested on a charge of forgery. He was later indicted for swindling a New York school teacher out of $222 but was acquitted.

He was arrested in New York in May 1918 and released in $1,000 bail for the alleged theft of a necklace valued at $85,000 from an Indian dignitary at Bombay. Failing to appear for hearing, a warrant for his re-arrest was issued and he was later captured in New Orleans and held for the British authorities.

In 1917 he married Miss Natalie Schenk of Newport, but was divorced the next year. Later he married Miss Amelia Wheeler, following three unsuccessful attempts at elopement. This marriage was unhappy and after annulment proceedings Collins married the divorced wife of a fellow army officer.

several hundred homes of mill workers were destroyed. The Swift & company fertilizer plant was described as a total wreck and damage to mills also was heavy.

The storm struck LaGrange about half an hour after hitting West Point.

Property loss near Alexander City, Ala., was estimated at nearly $36,000 while the loss in Alabama was expected to be increased as details of minor damage come in from isolated communities.

Macon, Ga., suffered heavy property loss and one negro woman was killed there while as far east as Washington, Ga., the storm caused damage estimated at $200,000. This was chiefly in unroofed buildings.

Many smaller towns in Georgia reported damage to buildings, notably Williamson, Hiramsville and Milner, one life being lost at the latter place.

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 29.—With their dead and injured being fully accounted for and the latter receiving every possible attention, Genoa, Raab's Corner and Swanton began tonight to emerge from the debris and wreckage caused by the tornado which struck here late Sunday night.

Two were killed and 14 seriously injured at Genoa. At Raab's Corner four met instant death and more than a score suffered injuries. There were no casualties at Swanton, although more than a score were injured.

LA GRANGE, Ga., March 29.—Thirty-six lives were dead, nearly 200 persons injured and property damage estimated at nearly two million dollars resulted in LaGrange and West Point from the ravages of the tornado that swept these two cities Sunday afternoon. It was learned today.

Of the 37 dead, 12 were white and 24 negroes and of the 200 persons injured, approximately 75 were white.

LaGrange storm casualties numbered 7 whites and 19 negroes killed and 60 white persons and 190 negroes injured. Five white persons and five negroes were killed at West Point with 25 white persons and an equal number of negroes injured.

Property damage in LaGrange, as estimated by Mayor S. H. Dunson and J. H. Edmondson, who is interested in several cotton mills here, will amount to between a million and a million and a quarter dollars.

West Point's property loss will total about three quarters of a million dollars, Mayor Mark McCullough estimated tonight.

Full reports of casualties had not been made to officials in either city tonight, it was said, and the number of deaths and injured may be slightly higher.

The known white dead in West are: Isom Easley, 75, confederate veteran; L. D. Askew, 59, president of the local school board and a prominent druggist; R. L. Horn, 40; Blake Henry, of LaGrange; Ben Aughton, 10.

The known white dead in LaGrange are: V. L. Hobson, 40; Mrs. Myrtle Clark; Frank Sacher, 5; Horton Haynes, 16; Mrs. Wood; Mrs. Smith; Mrs. Brooks.

It is estimated that two years are required for the gulf stream waters to travel from Florida to the coast of Norway.

CISCO CITIZENS CONTINUE RESPOND TO SCHOOL FUND

Mueller in Opening Speech, Devoted Much of it to the Recent Kapp Revolution; New Government Formed.

BERLIN, March 29.—Chancellor Mueller in a speech outlining his program, told the national assembly today that the reactionary elements in the army will be swept away with an iron hand. The new chancellor devoted half of his speech to the recent revolution.

No quarter will be shown to the military leaders who violated their oath, the chancellor said. The terms of the peace treaty were responsible for the reactionary sentiment still prevailing in many quarters in Germany, he added.

The chancellor said the government would oppose the French demand for allied occupation at Frankfurt, Darmstadt and other cities in return for the privilege of sending German troops into the neutral zone. The government will be continued, "does not propose to subject these peaceful communities to the terrors of occupation."

The new government was fully represented at today's session of the assembly. Gustav Noske, the former minister of defense, and Dr. Schuler, former minister of justice, occupied seats with their party factions. The assembly recessed two hours to permit the parties to prepare their responses to Dr. Mueller's speech.

BERLIN, March 29.—The national assembly met this morning with a large audience of the members. The galleries were crowded.

After introducing the new members of the government, Dr. Mueller, the new premier, said he considered a condition of the parties was the only solid foundation upon which German policy could be based.

The public prosecutor in a letter read to the assembly, requested the sanction of that body to prosecute one of its members, Deputy Traub, who was a participant in the usurping Kapp government. The assembly did not act on this request.

ESSEN, March 29.—Three workmen delegates are leaving for Cologne to ask the alms representatives to intervene in the Ruhr trouble and send the troops into the district. The leaders of the reactionary movement say the surrender of their arms meant their death warrants.

ASK SECRETARY WILSON TO HELP SETTLE SHIPPING STRIKE

NEW YORK, March 29.—Secretary of Labor Wilson was asked by the American steamship owners' association in a telegram tonight to aid in settling the strike of nearly 20,000 longshoremen affecting coastwise and gulf shipping from Boston to Galveston.

APPROPRIATE MILLION AND HALF FOR AERIAL MAIL N. YORK-FRISCO

Senate Puts Appropriation in Bill and Hopes House Will Agree to Amount; Via Chicago.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—An appropriation of $1,415,000 for aerial mail service from New York to San Francisco was written into the annual postoffice appropriation bill today just before it passed the senate and was sent to conference. The house rejected a similar proposal, but senate leaders were hopeful of seeing it adopted.

The route provided for is by way of Chicago and Omaha. Various proposals for southern routing were thrown out on points of order as was a motion by Senator Dill, democrat, South Carolina, to establish an additional route from New York to Atlanta.

As it passed the senate, the bill carries $182,900,000 for expenses of the postal service during the next fiscal year, an increase of about $1,500,000 over the house figures. The senate also inserted provisions for retention of the abandoned mail tubes in various large cities and for appointment of a congressional commission to investigate the whole question of mail transportation in congested centers.

Bennett, British minister to Panama with his staff, and Commander Sarzent, marine superintendent of the Panama canal board.

BOOZE DECISION IS EXPECTED BY MIDDLE OF APRIL PREDICTED

Court Took Recess at Conclusion of Arguments But Will Re-convene April 19.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A possibility that the supreme court might pass final judgment on prohibition questions not before it by the middle of next month, was seen by some observers today in the announcement that the court recess to be taken at conclusion of arguments on these cases, probably tomorrow, would extend to April 19, instead of April 12.

The opinion as expressed by those familiar with the court's procedure that a decision might be rendered immediately when the court re-convenes.

Further arguments on both sides of questions touching validity of the constitutional amendment and the enforcement act now before the court, were presented today. They were in connection with the original suit brought by New Jersey as well as appeals from that state and from Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Kentucky and Massachusetts cases, have already been argued and will be considered at the same time.

Elihu Root, representing Christian Feigenbaum, a brewer of Newark, N. J., attorney General Thomas F. McLean of New Jersey, in opposition to the constitutional amendment and Assistant Attorney General William L. Frierson for the government, addressed the court today.

Mr. Burke declared this alliance had not yet been completed. He added, however, that national headquarters had been moved here from Chicago, but that efforts to locate this headquarters thus far had proved unsuccessful.
