Youth A Good Student

The boys were preparing for a hunting trip when the gun was accidentally discharged. After calling a doctor the boys tried to bring their injured playmate to town. Car trouble was experienced a short distance from the house doctor arrived.

Ever-friendly and ever-industrious, Dannie was a favorite with his classmates in the Sonora elementary school. He was known for his scholstic work and was often with his schoolmates.

A Thorough Scout

As soon as he was twelve years old, December 18, 1934, Dannie became a member of Troop 19, Boy Scouts of America. He was troop scribe for a year and at the time of his death had advanced to the Sonora-Ozona Team rank of First Class Scout. His Scoutmaster, A. W. Awalt, told this week of Dannie's work at the Ranch District Camporee on the courthouse lawn a few weeks ago.

In the Signaling contest an Eldorado boy received his message from his fellow Scout and rushed it to headquarters. Dannie received quite correct so carefully studied and 6 to 2 scores. until he had it right then rushed it to the judges. Dannie won, the boy who had been hasty lost.

Besides his mother and father the boy is survived a brother, Harold Friess, Sutton county ranchman, and a sister. Mattie Mae, a high school student.

Water Bird Crashes in Sonora

Some species of heron, a water fowl, at 5:25 Thursday morning caused a short interruption in electric service here and considerable excitement in front of the W. C. Warren residence.

The bird seemingly struck two high voltage wires in front of the house causing them to come in contact with each other. Sparks fell in the Warren yard and reports like rifle shots were heard.

Mr. Warren carried the stunned bird into the yard. It soon regained its aplomb and was on its way. Homer Harris of the West Texas U'tilities Co. said that he had never heard of another such happening.

SHIPS GUIDED INTO HARBORS BY RADIO

U. S. Lighthouse Service Is Highly Efficient.

New Haven, Conn.-The United States lighthouse service has constituted an important factor in the economical operation of highly mechanized shipping whose objective has been the saving of time, according to R. R. Tinkham, chief engineer of the service.

Established in 1789, the service first operated twelve lighthouses and a few barrel buoys which previously had been maintained by the colonies as guides to the principal Atlantic ports. Since then it has grown to be the largest lighthouse service in the world. Most recent of its developments is the establishment of the radio beacon.

"Changes in the character and distribution of aids to navigation,' said Tinkham, "have been as pronounced as the changes in shipping. Not a few of the lighthouses that have effectively served the needs of sailing vessels and the slower light draft ships of former years have ceased to be of use to modern shipping and many of them now stand unlighted, austere monuments to a romantic period in maritime his-

Speed Demands Increased.

"Fast, deep draft vessels of today must be guided along traffic lanes and deep water channels specially provided and marked for them. There was a time when delays to vessels incident to vagaries of the weather were accepted as of little moment. Today, however, the saying of time is a diligently sought objective in the economical operation of a highly mechanized shipping. The development and establishment of modern aids to navigation has constituted an important factor in this transition.

Valuable aids to the mariner devised since the advent of the mariner's compass are the radio beacon and its complement, the radio direction finder aboard ship, Tinkham explained. Three radio beacon stations established in 1921 to mark the approaches to New York harbor were the first in the world.

Radio Beacons Synchronized.

"Today," said Tinkham, "the radio beacon is in operation at important light stations throughout the world, there being 127 such stations on the coasts of the United States. They have been synchronized into groups, accurately controlled by self-regulating electric clocks, so that adjacent stations, whether at lighthouses or lightships, will operate automatically on successive minutes and at the same frequency thus affording the mariner the opportunity for successive bearings with his radio direction finder by which he may fix the position of his

"On all lightships, and at the lighthouses located at critical points the radio beacon is synchronized automatically with the sound fog signal for distance finding. This is arranged so that at the end of each operating minute of the radio beacon, of the sound fog signal are transmitted simultaneously

By noting the difference in time signal and of the sound signal, perceived as an echo effect, an officer of a ship in the vicinity may determine his distance from the station with a high degree of accuracy.

Well, there' the resulttwo hopeless wrecks. What happened? The answer may be in the foreground. If that stop sign could only talk it might comment a little sadly: "How foolish it makes me feel when such things occur right here beside me. What do drivers mean ignoring me this way?"

Clear vision sometimes isn't really as clear as it seems. Perhaps the drivers could see no reason for danger until they saw each other. Then, of course, it was too late. One probably knew and depended on the stop sign. The other probably chose to ignore it.

HALBERT BIRTHDAY CAKE

A birthday cake that was bountiful with currency of the realm was enjoyed Tuesday by B. M. Halbert, Sutton ranchman, when he observed his seventieth birthday shaking hands with several old anniversary.

Seventy dollars, given by Mr. Halbert, was drawn for by children and grandchildren who received amounts of $3 to $10. Mr. Halbert said the next day that the birthday cake was made by two of his grandchildren-Betty Jo Bloodworth of El Paso and Rosemary Whitehead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie B. Whitehead.

The seventy dollars, Mr. Halbert says, was substituted for the candles which are customarily part of a birthday cake's decoration.

Mr. Halbert, born four miles from Burton, Texas, has lived here since in 1891 when he came to work for his uncle, R. F. Halbert, Hutcherson; father of R. A. Halbert, Sutton ranchman.

THE beauty of flowers is an attraction and a challenge to every camera owner. Frankly, good flower pictures are not easy to take and for that reason success brings more than ordinary satisfaction to the amateur photographer.

Proper lighting, a large image and patient work with the camera are the essentials of flower photography. The best camera to use is one with a long-extension bellows, enabling one to focus close to the flower, and having a ground glass focusing screen on which you can see the image before snapping the shutter.

But, if you haven't such a camera, good work may be done with ordinary folding or box cameras, provided a portrait attachment is used to obtain a large image. This supplementary lens, which comes with a table of focusing distances, makes it possible to work within arm's length of the subject. Always use a tape measure to determine exactly the specified distance between lens and flower. Panchromatic film gives the best rendering of the tone contrasts among the colors.

Flower pictures need to be vividly sharp: hence, a small lens opening should usually be used-f.16 or f.22 -or the smallest stop on box cam-

Wind is a problem, of course. At such close distances movement of the subject makes more difference. It is worth while to wait for a moment when the blossom is motionless. If you find the wind too blowy, devise a wind-breaker of some sort.

Hazy days, or when the sun is shining under light clouds, makes the ideal time for flower pictures. Direct bright sunshine is not desirable, but if you can't wait for better conditions, give your subject the protection of a cheesecloth screen. Better results ore obtained in the early morning or late afternoon when the ight is less harsh and comes from the side. This is especially true for cup-shaped flowers. Geological Fault in California Area, Say Experts.

Berkeley, Calif.-California seismologists have discovered a new geological fault on the Pacific coast which holds a threat of more earthquakes in the future than in the

The discovery of the fault was made as the result of three sharp quakes which occurred on July 6, 1934; January 2, 1935, and June 3,

The succession of quakes and other similarity of symptoms led seismologists to believe that the seat of the trouble must be in the region of Humboldt county and it was there that they eventually located the geological fault. An official report of the finding has just been made to the Seismographical Society of America. "Accurate location of the epicenters of these shocks," Dr. Byerly, seismologist at the University of California, stated, "showed that their centers do not lie along the prolongation of the famous San Andreas fault from Point Arena, but rather line up in a more or less north and south direction along a line between seventy-five and 100 miles out from the coast and extending from the northern to the southern border of Humboldt coun-

That shocks have an erratic tendency just like the symptoms of a disease, Dean C. Carder of the geodetic survey, declared and for reasons which cannot be explained the San Francisco bay region is having fewer seismic vibrations at present than during the period when the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge was being constructed, while since the Golden Gate bridge has been virtually completed, still fewer vibrations are being recorded than during the construction of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge.

Italian Amateur Shows Own 3-Dimension Films

Rome.—Three-dimensional results in film work, which cameramen have been seeking for more than 20 years, at last have been obtained, an Italian scientist de-

Although loath to disclose how he had obtained these results, the inventor, a thirty-one-year-old amateur, Ubaldo Magnaghi, declared that the spectroscope effects had been obtained solely by the use of

At a private projection of his films, the audience saw that he had succeeded in getting three-dimensional effects, not only of still life, but of moving objects as well, giving a realistic quality to the subjects not hitherto seen on the screen.

The results were all the more striking because Louis Lumiere, the Frenchman who lays claim to having invented motion pictures, has been working on this idea for a score of years and has failed. Lumiere has succeeded in showing pictures with depth, but the spectator is obliged to wear a pair of colored spectacles, each lens of a different color. Magnaghi's spectroscope pictures appeared more effective, however, and did not require any spectacles.

Magnaghi has been taking still and motion pictures for more than thirteen years, although he has never worked on ordinary size films.

Magnaghi said that he had produced his first spectroscopic films about three years ago, but only after years of experimentation.

Water of the Zuider Zee No Longer Contains Salt

Amsterdam, The Netherlands .-The fishermen of Marken island and Volendam learned from an official report that analysis of the water which for centuries used to provide herrings and other fish shows that it no longer contains salt. This, of course, is a natural consequence of the construction of the dike closing the Zuider Zee.

The alteration in the biological balance has caused the almost total disappearance of fish, bringing a plague of gnats.

The Zuyder Zee reclamation scheme is by far the biggest thing of its kind that has ever been attempted. By 1960, it is expected, it will have recovered 867 square miles from the waters, enough new land to support a population of 3,000,000.

England Finds It Has

Increase in Population London.—The popular belief that the marriage and birth rates of Great Britain are falling off and that the population is declining is disproved by the latest statistics issued by the registrar-general. In 1935, the last period of calculation, there were more marriages, more babies and fewer divorces. The marriage rate was 17.2 persons per 1,000 population, compared with 16.9 in 1934 and 15.3 in 1932. There were 598,756 births, an increase on the 1933 total. The population of England and Wales is now estimated at 40,645,000.

BOWLING NOW RANKS WITH MAJOR SPORTS

9,000,000 Americans Take Part in Pastime.

Washington, D. C. - New York city's sport thunderstorm is over. week. Recently completed is the mam-Bowling congress, which for 56 consecutive days rumbled along to somewhat of a record. With about 20,000 entrants and almost 1,000 hours' duration, this national contest set a new high score for size. Bowling may now be ranked as a major sport from the point of view of numbers participating. It is estimated that 9,000,000 Americans take part in the sport.

"'Bowling 'em over' is not the same sport which absorbed Sir cal College. Francis Drake's mind and muscle nel," says the National Geographic society. "He and his officers were whiling away that fateful hour with bowls, still a popular British pasconsists of hopefully rolling a lopsided wooden ball across the greensward in the direction of a white target bowl. Since the 'bowl' is designed oblate for bias rolling, for obliquely waddling to the mark in control of its swerving course requires skill.

Called Lawn Bowls. "In the United States this is called lawn bowls. Bowling is only its first cousin, for it stems not from England but from the continent. Its direct ancestor is the German version of nine-pins, kegelspiel, from which bowlers take their nickname of keglers. Bowling is now an indoor game of bombarding bottleshaped maple 'pins' with a fat bakelite ball. The miniature field of battle is a 60-foot glass-smooth 'alley' of maple or pine, shellacked and polished seven times for dazzling slickness.

"All New York city's rank growth of skyscrapers has not been able to crowd out bowling's traditional American birthplace — Bowling Green park. This tiny green oval, from which Broadway plunges into its noisy and dazzling career, three centuries ago served New Netherlands as a village green just outside the red cedar palisade of Fort Amsterdam. It was their outdoor market, and the supposed site of New York's foremost swindle-Peter Minuit's purchase, for $24 worth of dry goods, of all Manhattan island from Indians who may not have had a title to it.

"Presumably, the space had already proved satisfactory for bowling when it was inclosed, in 1732, for the yearly rent of one peppercorn-any trifling sum-as a private green. The iron fence, brought from England, could not protect this early sports center from violence. Here in 1765 riotous citizens protested against the Stamp act. On July 9, 1776, when the Declaration of Independence had just been read to the Continental army, a mob tore down the fine new leaden statue of George III on horseback and reduced it to good republican bullets.

Once Against the Law. of such long standing that they have worn a track across the map. Bowling Green is the name of eight towns and localities in the United States, a bay and a cape in Australia, and two villages in England. "One reason for the farflung use of this sport's name is that the game was given the stimulus of prohibition. A law in force until 1845 permitted only the landed gentry to obtain a license for bowls. and a bowling green became a symbol of distinction and special privilege. Soon after its rise to popularity in the Thirteenth century, the game was prohibited for fear it might detract from the following of archery, then so important as a means of national defense. Later, when it became the pastime of the wealthy, it aroused criticism because of betting.

"Even more than bowling has affected geography, geography's influence is seen on variations of the game. Standard bowling in northern and western United States is played with ten pins (adopted when the game of ninepins was once declared illegal) and a 16-pound ball 27 inches around, with two holes for finger grips. Duckpins, with larger followings farther south, uses smaller pins and balls, finger holes omitted from the latter. The number of pins differs for the varieties known as 'cocked hat' (3), 'cocked hat and feather' (4), and 'quintet' (5). The lawn bowls game is popular in resort sections wherever the climate gives an encouraging answer to 'weather permitting.

Homemaking is no longer just a matter of cooking and cleaning and picking up. It's a business—and an important business, as scores of families will tell you!

And running a business—any kind of a business—has to be done efficiently. That means calling in all of the modern aids—putting BUYING on a PURCHAS-ING basis—knowing what is best, what is fastest, what is most economical.

Consider what that means in the average home. Multiply that by the number of homes in the Sutton area—and you begin to get some idea of the vast size of this homemaking business right here in this community!

Then consider ALL the phases of homemaking; meal planning and preparation, cleaning, laundry; the care of children, the buying of supplies. And the extra activities—memberships in churches and clubs and civic organizations. Any way you look at it— it's a big job!

Home executives in the Sutton trade area have a trick or two up their sleeves, though. Little matters of budget stretching and time saving—and they've an ally in the advertising pages of The NEWS.

It's a "right hand man" in most homes. A means of keeping up with the community—a way of knowing where to buy: what to buy, how much to spend. A reminder, during busy week-ends, of the best places to shop, the easiest ways to

Write your checks this way:

- —ALWAYS write your checks in ink.
- —BEGIN at the left of each line.
- -FILL all blank spaces by drawing a line through the unused space.
- —AVOID flourishes in your signature. A simple, legible signature is the hardest to forge.
- -DESTROY all checks erased or marred in drawing. Mark the check stub "void." Never make out checks to "Cash" or "Bearer."
- —DO NOT SIGN BLANK CHECKS—

Courtesy when driving should find expression in a number of ways. Good sportsmanship on the road makes all drivers feel better-and quite often makes them safer too. In the above is shown just one of thoughtful practices which mark the courteous driver. It's just as easy to stop behind the cross-walk line as to stop out in front of it. And it makes pedestrian traffic easier and safer.
