Baptist Revival In Full Swing Here This Week

The Baptist Revival, which began on Wednesday of last week is progressing nicely. Rev. B. N. Sheppard, of Tahoka is doing the preaching and he is delivering some wonderful sermons. Day services are held at 10:00 A. M. and evenings at 8:30. Good crowds have been attending and there has been several conversions and additions to the church. Rev. Sheppard is a very forceful speaker and expounds the Gospel in such a way that it can be understood by all. If you are missing these sermons you are missing a great deal in this life.

The choir, under the direction of Mr. Evans, is rendering some of the best singing that we have ever heard, and his special numbers have been the source of much favorable comment.

Water Tower Now Topped By Electric Light

Last week the "City Dads" had a large electric light placed on top of the water tower. This is a good advertisement for the town as it can be seen for several miles. It is understood that the top of the tower will be painted white or silver later on in order to better reflect the light.

W. M. U. Ladies Entertain Husbands

The lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Coker was the scene of much merriment on Monday night, March 26. The W. M. U. ladies entertained their husbands with a wonderfully arranged social. On arriving, each guest was requested to register his or her given name and throughout the evening each one was called by their given names. We were all boys and girls at a "big party." Mrs. Byron Griffiths, as entertainer, was at her best, and we think unexcelled when it comes to making folks have a good time. We had as honor guests, Rev. and Mrs. Williamson and Rev. and Mrs. Saffie of Plainview. At a late hour delicious refreshments of sandwiches, fruit salad, cake and coffee was served to the following guests as registered:

After the assurance of the best time in years the guests departed to their homes hoping to soon enjoy another treat of like nature. We wish to express our thanks to Miss Woods and Miss Mozelle Alup for entertaining the children in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alup.

Turkeys Bring Big Money To Local Raiser

What can be accomplished with turkeys, when given the proper attention, is shown by the report of Mrs. Clara M. Harre, of near Muleshoe. Mrs. Harre gave the Journal a report of her turkey business last week, which was the close of the season.

Beginning April 1, 1922, Mrs. Harre had 20 hens and 2 toms of the Mammoth Bronze breed. She raised and sold for breeding purposes, 211 turkeys. Besides these, 60 toms were sold on the market. The amount received was $1,624.77 or an average return of about $80.11 per hen on original flock. Mrs. Harre raises and sells for breeding stock nothing but the very best Bronze turkeys, and the figures prove that it pays, and pays well. Since her hens are all sold she had to return orders for 375 which she could not fill. She has on hand 24 fine birds for her own use for this year.

A. B. Conner New Head Experi. Station

College Station, Texas.—Change in the directorship of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A. & M. College of Texas, will become effective May 1 when A. B. Conner, acting director since 1920, will succeed Dr. B. Youngblood, resigned, as head of the station.

Dr. Youngblood, who has been director of the station since 1911, recently tendered his resignation, effective April 30, in order to give his whole time to cotton marketing research work with the U. S. Department of Agriculture for which he was granted leave in 1922.

The projects which I have undertaken with the department have developed beyond my expectations," Dr. Youngblood said in tendering his resignation. "Their further possibilities are so impressive and my friends in the Department encourage me to continue them. After careful consideration, it has seemed that the opportunity for greater usefulness to the people of my own state as well as of all other cotton growing states, lay in the Division of Cotton Marketing of this Department." The selection of Mr. Conner as the new director marks the final step in a chain of interesting important posts with the station that he has filled since June 1, 1914. Just after he had received his B. S. degree in agriculture from the A. & M. College of Texas. He took his M. S. degree in the same year.

From March 1, 1905 to Nov. 11, 1911, Mr. Conner was scientific assistant, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, in charge of foreign crop testing station, Chillicothe, Texas.

YL Is Winner In Interscholastic Meet General Report Shows

The Bailey County Interscholastic League meet was well attended last Friday and Saturday at Muleshoe. Teachers and parents showed a great interest in the work. The children from all the schools represented did well and showed that they had received much valuable instruction in preparing for the work.

There were eight schools represented. Four of these schools, Muleshoe, Bule, West Camp and YL, belonged to the High School Division. The other four schools, Fairview, Longview Progress and Figure Two, belonged to the Rural School Division. All of the above named schools complied with the general principles given in the League Rule book, and no school was disqualified for any reason.

YL was the high point school in both literary and athletic work. West Camp was a close second in literary work and would have been high point school in this work had YL not won the boys' debate by default. Out of the four divisions in declamations, West Camp won three first places and two third places.

Muleshoe and West Camp ran a close race for second place in the Meet. Muleshoe won the place by only three

Big Money Offered For Best Paintings

What is believed to be the largest prize money ever offered for a competition in art has been announced by the San Antonio Art League.

Through the courtesy of an anonymous member of the league, cash prizes totaling $31,500 have been posted for the best oils on Texas wildflowers, in two groups, and for oils on the themes of ranch life and cotton fields.

Prizes will be awarded in five classifications. Many are already busy transferring to canvases the glowing field of color now spreading in an ever widening pool of beauty across the prairies of Texas.

The prize money for 1923 is more than double that offered by the same anonymous donor for the second competition which ended in February of this year with Adrian Brewer of Little Rock, Ark. as the winner of the first prize with "In a Bluebonnet Year." The 4-fold artist, Woodruff of New Orleans, Abbott Graves and Alphas Cole of New York gave second place in the first group to William P. Silva of New York, and the Greek Bank.

There were nearly a dozen winners in the four groups, in addition to the ten "honorable mentions" each carrying a cash prize of $100.

Details of the 1923 competition, which offers twenty-one cash purchase prizes, in addition to ten "honorable mentions" of $100 each, may be procured from the American Art League, 4176 Metropolitan Museum, according to announcement from the League.

Longview News

The political pot has begun to boil earlier than usual in our part of the country. People are up with their work and have plenty of time to discuss various candidates and pertinent issues. Several candidates for the various offices attended a Pie Supper here recently. They met others, spent money liberally for pie, and all of them formally opened their campaign with impassioned orations. We appreciated their presence and expect to see one of them elected.

Our community is feeling the effects of spring. Everything and everybody is coming alive. Our Sunday School is making a determined drive for new members and has almost doubled in numbers the past two Sundays. A singing class has been organized with Mr. Mack Bell as president, and he says that the boys will be at Muleshoe Sunday to take part in the Convention.

Brother Booth preached here Sunday. He waived his appointment here Sunday night and he, Bro. Robinson and a number of others went to Watson in order to help organize a Baptist church in that town.

The people of our community are all highly elated over the showing the showing made by our boys and girls at the Interscholastic Track Meet. They are justly proud, the record will show ample proof if necessary. Lack of space prevents giving a list of all the participants, but a number of the outstanding contenders are here given:

- 1—Reece Young, 1st place in Senior boys' declaration.
- 2—Robby Johnson, 2nd place in Senior girls' declaration.
- 3—Lois Young, 1st place in Junior girls' declaration.
- 4—Vera May Bell, 1st place in Sub-Junior girls' declaration.
- 5—Fred Johnson, 2nd high point man in the county in all track events.
- 6—Dink Esary; W. D. McCarty, also winners in first places.

A number of the above mentioned contestants won first place in several events, notably: Reece Young, Vera May Bell and Fred Johnson. The success is due largely to the fact that the participants were faithful and strenuously at their various assignments. They were called on to do their best, and without exception every boy and girl responded to the limit of his or her ability. Much credit is due to the teachers, T. H. Dyer and Mrs. Lillian L. Dyer, who worked tirelessly in the highest praise of the children.

Thanks must also be given to the patrons and trustees of the school. Without their support and co-operation of all these elements, success would have been impossible.

The assistance and encouragement given by the trustees are deserving of the highest praise. It would not be fair nor just to minimize the value of their unselfish, untiring labors in behalf of the two schools in our neighborhood.

Indications Good For Big Day At Singing Convention

From all indications a big day is to be had next Sunday when the Bailey County Singing Convention meets here. It is said by officials of the Convention that people from all parts of the Plains as well as Oklahoma and New Mexico will be in attendance. Arrangements have been made for a big dinner, part of which is furnished by the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce. Officials also state that the people are bringing well filled baskets, and a real old-time get-together meeting of friends and neighbors will be had. You will also have some of the best singers in the country, so crank up "Lizy" or "Chevy", as the case may be, and come to Muleshoe next Sunday. All the folks will be here.

"Oh, no! I can't stand it! I'll tell you everything," she cried, frenziedly. "He got to the first of the stairs—Richard Fleming, I mean, was facing the detective, now, and he had the blue-print you've been talking about. I had told him Jack Bailey was here as the gardener and he said I screamed he would tell that, I was desperate. I threatened him with the revolver but he took it from me. Then when I tore the blue-print from him—he was shot—from the stairs—

"My Bailey!" interjected Beresford angrily. "I didn't even know he was in the house!" Bailey's answer was as instant as it was hot. Meanwhile the doctor had entered the room, hardly noticed, in the middle of Dale's confession, and now stood watching the scene intently from a post by the door.

"What did you do with the blue-print?" The detective's voice beat at Dale like a whip. "I put it first in the neck of my dress—it she faltered. "Then, when I found you were watching me, I hid it, somewhere else."

"Did you give it to Bailey?" "No—I hid it—and then I told where it was—to the doctor—" Dale swayed on her feet. All turned surprisedly toward the doctor. Miss Cornelia rose from her chair.

"That's rather inaccurate," he said with a tight little smile. "You told me where you had placed it, but when I went to look for it, it was gone."

"Do you realize the significance of this paper?" Anderson boomed, at once. "Nothing, beyond the fact that Miss Ogden was afraid it linked her with the crime." The doctor's voice was very clear and firm.

"I'd like to have a few minutes with the doctor alone," he said, solemnly. The group about him dissolved at once. Miss Cornelia, her arm around her niece's waist, led the latter gently to the door. As the two lovers passed each other a glance flashed between them—a glance, pathetically brief, of longing and love. Dale's finger-tips brushed Bailey's hand, gently, in passing.

"Beresford," commanded the detective, "take Bailey to the library and see that he stays there."

causally. "You haven't been trying to frighten these women out of here with anonymous letters so you could get in?"

"No. Certainly not." But again the doctor's air had that odd mixture of both anger and falsehood in it.

The detective named for an instant. "Let me see your key-ring!" he ordered. The doctor passed it over silently. The detective glanced at the keys—then, suddenly, his revolver glittered in his other hand.

The doctor watched him, anxiously. A puff of wind rattled the panes of the French windows. The storm, quieted for a while, was gathering its strength for a fresh unleashing of its dogs of thunder.

The detective stepped to the terrace door, opened it, and then quietly proceeded to try the doctor's keys in the lock. This located he was out of view, and Vells took advantage of it at once. He moved swiftly toward the fireplace, extracting the missing piece of blue-print from an inside pocket as he did so.

He threw the paper toward the flames with a nervous gesture of relief. But for once his cunning failed—the throw was too hurried to be sure and the light scrap of paper whirled and settled to the floor just outside the fireplace.

The doctor seized the moment with a savage promptitude and sprang. There followed a silent, furious struggle between the two. Under normal circumstances, Anderson would have been the stronger and quicker, but the doctor fought with an added strength of despair and his initial leap had pinned the detective's arms behind him.

Now the detective shook one hand and the doctor, with the revolver in vain, for the doctor, with a groan of desperation, struck at his hand as his fingers were about to close on the detective's hand.

"You won't tell me!" The doctor's voice was muffled. He inched, gingerly, cautiously, toward the other side of the table as he did so, and tapping it with the box of sleeping-powders he had brought from Miss Cornelia.

"That's rather inaccurate," he said with a tight little smile. "You told me where you had placed it, but when I went to look for it, it was gone."

the terrace. It halted the doctor on his way upstairs, drew Beresford on a run into the living room, and even reached the bedrooms of the women up above.

"My God! What's that?" Beresford panted. The doctor indicated the door. It was too late now. Already he could hear Miss Cornelia's voice above; it was only a question of a short time until Anderson in the billiard room revived and would try to make his plight known. And in the brief moment that resume of his position, the knocking came again. But feebler, as though the suppliant outside had exhausted his strength.

"As Beresford drew his revolver and moved to the door, Miss Cornelia came in, followed by Lizzie.

"It's the Bat," Lizzie announced mournfully. "Good-by, Miss Nellie."

"The doctor gave the slumped shoulders a little shake. "House yourself, man!" he said. "What has happened to you?"

"The doctor shot her a stealthy glance from beneath lowered eyelids. But when she looked at him, his face went blank again.

"Why didn't somebody ask his name?" queried Dale. The doctor took Dale's suggestion. "Silence from the Unknown—and that blank stare of stupefaction.

"Look at his papers." It was Miss Cornelia's voice. The doctor and Bailey searched the torn trousers pockets, the pockets of the middie shirt, while the Unknown, who had appeared, not seeming to care what happened to him. But search him as they would—it was in vain.

"Not a paper on him," said Jack Bailey, at last, breaking up. "A crash of shattering glass from the head of the alcove stairs put a period to his sentence. All turned toward the stairs or all except the Unknown, who, for a moment, half rose in his chair, as his eyes gleaming, his face alert, the most of bewildered apathy upon his face.

"The diminutive butler made a pitiful attempt at his gasp grin. "It—nothing," he hesitated. The Unknown relapsed in his chair—again the dazed stranger from nowhere. Beresford took the Japanese by the shoulders. "You've seen something! What was it?"

some water—or whisky—if there is any—that'd be better."

"Beresford had been looking about for the detective, puzzled not to find him, as usual, in charge of affairs. Now, "Where's Anderson?" This is a puzzle matter!" he said, making a movement as if to go in search of him.

"The doctor stopped him quickly. "He was here a minute ago—he'll be back presently," he said, praying to whatever gods he served that Anderson, bound and gagged in the billiard room, had not yet returned to consciousness.

"Unobserved by all except Miss Cornelia, the mention of the detective's name had caused a strange reaction in the Unknown. His eyes had opened—he had started—the haze in his mind had seemed to clear away for a moment. Then, for some reason, his shoulders had slumped again and the look of apathy came back to his face.

"The doctor gave the slumped shoulders a little shake. "House yourself, man!" he said. "What has happened to you?"

"The doctor shot her a stealthy glance from beneath lowered eyelids. But when she looked at him, his face went blank again.

door slammed shut in his face. At the same moment every light in Cedarcrest blinked and went out again.

"The door's locked!" he said, in bewilderment. "The key's gone, too. Where's your revolver, Beresford?"

"I dropped it in the alcove when I caught that man," called Beresford, cursing himself for his carelessness. The illuminated dial of Bailey's wrist watch flickered in the darkness as he searched for the revolver—a round, gleaming spot of phosphorescence.

"Light!" called Beresford, cheerily, in reply. He pulled the candle—lit it—the party blinked at each other for a moment, still unable quite to coordinate their thoughts.

"Bailey rattled the key of the door into the hall. "This door's locked, too!" he said, with increasing puzzlement. A gasp went over the group. They were locked in the room, while some devil was going on in the rest of the house. That they knew. But what it might be, that fact, it would take, they had not the remotest idea.

"But it was not until Miss Cornelia took the candle and proceeded toward the hall door to examine it that the full horror of the situation burst upon them.

"What happened thereafter no one afterward remembered the details. To be shut in there, at the mercy of one who knew no mercy, was intolerable.

A Benefactor

A physician who reaches out to benefit humanity leaves a record behind him that is worth while. Such a man was Dr. R. V. Pierce. His study along medical lines and his knowledge of the remedial qualities of herbs and plants led him to the discovery of his wonderful herbals. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is just the tonic required if a woman is borne down by pain and sufferings at regular or irregular intervals, by nervousness or dizzy spells, headache or backache. Favorite Prescription can be had in tablet form as well as liquid at your neighborhood store.

Fire is the test of gold; adversity, of strong men. For your daughter's sake, use Red Cross Blue in the laundry. She will then have that girlish, well-groomed appearance that dainty admirer—ADV.

One can be a good friend to lots of other men without intimacy. Dr. R. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. DON'T BROW BEAT! 1 cup Graham flour, 1 level teaspoon salt, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup sifted flour, 4 level teaspoons California Fig Syrup, 1 cup corn meal. Measure the meal and flour after sifting. Add salt and molasses and stir three times. Add molasses and milk. Turn into a hot oven, steam 34 hours. The water must boil constantly during the cooking.

Hesitate to jeopardize friendship.

MOTHER!

Child's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry, Mother! Even a fretful, peevish child loves the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

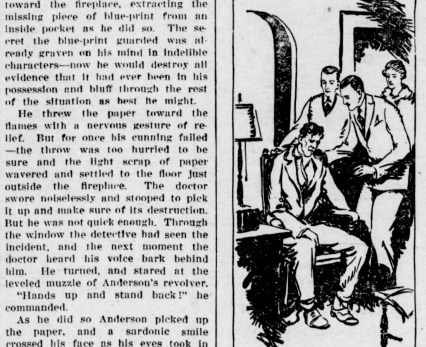

Horn Herald Coming of Early Locomotive

The earliest locomotives had nothing more in the nature of a warning of the engine's approach than a tin horn blown by the engineer at more or less frequent intervals, but under some circumstances this proved inadequate. The resulting volume of sound caused the steam whistles to be blown or of the engineer and the direction and force of wind.

On a spring morning of the year 1833 a farmer was driving a team of horses and a wagon to market with a load of butter and eggs and, being unfamiliar with locomotives, he lolloped on the track too long and failed to hear the warning signal from the tin horn whereupon the whole outfit was scattered over the landscape.

The bill which the company had to pay was regarded as staggering and Ashland Baxter who was director of the company concerned, paid a visit to George Stephenson at Alton Grange to confer with the great inventor to ascertain if something in the nature of an adequate warning could not be invented to keep people out of the track. The result was that Stephenson's steam whistle which was immediately adopted for all locomotives then in use and has continued as a permanent feature of all locomotives built in the mean time.

Fighting the Mississippi The levees on the Mississippi river have been the subject of legislation since the tin horn whereupon the whole outfit was scattered over the landscape.

Rouse Yourself, Man! He Said.

Good-by, everybody. I saw his hand, all covered with blood. He's had a good night for sure!"

But they ignored her. And Beresford hung upon the door. "Just what he had expected, what figure of horror or fear they waited for, no one can say. But there was no horror and no fear; only unutterable amazement at an unknown man, in torn and muddled garments, with a shriek of dried blood staining his forehead like a scar, fell through the open doorway into Beresford's arms."

"Good-bey," muttered Beresford, dropping his revolver to catch the strange burden. For a moment the Unknown lay in his arms like a corpse. Then he straightened himself, staggered into the room, took a few steps toward the table and fell prostrate upon his face, at the end of his strength.

"Doctor!" gasped Miss Cornelia, dazedly—and the doctor, whatever quail lay on his conscience, responded at once to the call of his profession. He bent over the Unknown Man—the physician once more—and made a brief examination.

"His faintness," he said, rising. "Struck on the head, too." "But who is he?" faltered Miss Cornelia. "I never saw him before," said the doctor. "It is obvious that he spoke the truth. Does anyone recognize him?"

All crowded about the Unknown, trying to read the riddle of his identity. Miss Cornelia rapidly revised her first impressions of the stranger. When he had first fallen through the doorway into Beresford's arms, she had not known what to think. Now, in the brighter light of the living room she saw that the still face, beneath its mask of dirt and dried blood, was strong and fairly youthful—if the man were a criminal, he belonged, like the bat, to the upper regions of the world of crime. She noted mechanically that his hands and feet had been tied—ends of frayed rope still dangled from his wrists and ankles. And that terrible injury on his head—his shattered and closed her eyes.

"Does anyone recognize him?" repeated the doctor, but one by one the others shook their heads. Crook casual tramp, or honest laborer unexpectedly caught in the sinister toils of the Cedarcrest affair—his identity seemed a mystery to one and all.

THAT CHILDISH THRILL

We are wondering how many parents around Muleshoe are taking the children into consideration while planning, or starting work on this year's garden. Somehow many of us forget, as we grow older, the things that gave us happiness in our younger years. Parents quickly lose sight of the thrill they used to get out of a few garden seeds and a few feet of soil entrusted to their care. Yet when reminded of it, they are as quick to realize that their own children would find the same privilege equally as thrilling. So why not set aside a few seeds and certain down or a special spot, in the garden for the children? Let them feel that they, too, are doing something to share the responsibility of providing the dining-table with life-sustaining food? It isn't expensive, it is far from being a waste of time, and anyone who knows the thrill that comes to a child permitted to have a hand in garden-making knows its value to them in contentment and happiness. Take the children into consideration—let them have a garden, too.

SPEND IT HERE

Any good town like Muleshoe stands for a wonderful amount of effort, energy and public spirit in past years. It is due to the energy and devotion of a host of people through the years since its foundation. They toiled to make a good community, and we get the benefit. When we are tempted to dwell on this or that defect it is better to think of all the comforts, advantages and attractive features and of business and working opportunities which we get the benefit of daily. A little more eye for the doughnut and less for the hole will always prove a big help. If your home town is good enough for you to live in, it is good enough for you to loyally support it and talk in its favor. If you expect your home town to support you, help support it by spending your money here at home where you earned it.

THE ESSENCE OF SOUND GOVERNMENT

"Faith in the ability of the people collectively to make sane, orderly plans for the future, is the very essence of continued national existence. We must stop lurching back and forth from one desired expenditure of money to another, and like grown men and women learn to stick to proportion and to plan," says Albert W. Twood in the Saturday Evening Post.

YOUR INTEREST IN "THE OTHER FELLOW"

No business today, regardless of how thoroughly it may be entrenched in the progress and prosperity of the country, can stand alone or fall alone. A loss of efficiency in one industry not only hurts that enterprise itself but slaws up every other key industry, shaking the credit foundations of the nation and causing unemployment, lower wages and eventually higher prices. The link between all industries, therefore, must be particularly close and dependent. The closer the relationship becomes, the greater the efficiency and progress that can be developed until we have an interrelationship of all business life that is the backbone of the nation's progress.

Mick "The Auctioneer" was a business visitor in Muleshoe Saturday.

Judge Presley transacted business in Amarillo Tuesday.

VOTERS ATTENTION

Saturday is school election day in the Muleshoe Independent School District. The term of office of the following named members of the Board expires at this time and Saturday's election will determine whether or not they are re-elected or others chosen for their places:

- LEVI PRESSLEY
- H. C. HENNINGTON
- R. M. KRAMER
- F. C. SKEETERS

These men have served our District conscientiously and well. They have given us a better school for less money than we have ever had. They have over the years of a District badly submerged in debt and are getting it on its feet where we can have full terms and pay as we go. The handling of our school is a big business and the tax payers should recall an old and very true statement that it is poor business to change horses in the middle of a stream.

Let's show our appreciation for their efforts by keeping them in. Let them complete their plans for getting the district on a sound basis—and then keep it there.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Bailey County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon L. McMannus by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Bailey County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Muleshoe, Texas, on the first Monday, June A. D. 1928, the same being the 4th day of June A. D. 1928.

then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 20th day of June, A. D. 1927, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 242, wherein John McKeen, the legally and qualified guardian of the person and estate of W. A. Milroy, non compos mentis, is Plaintiff, and L. A. McMannus is Defendant, and a brief statement of plaintiff's cause of action, being as follows:

Suit upon a certain promissory note in the sum of $2,400.00 dated January 1th, 1925 and due on or before 15 years after date, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, and payable in annual installments as follows: $200.00 January 1st, 1926; $300.00 Jan. 1st, 1927, and $300.00 each year thereafter beginning Jan. 1st, 1927 until all of said notes and interest has been paid, and providing that failure to pay any installment of interest or principal when due would at the option of the holder mature all of said indebtedness, and stipulating that ten per cent on the amount of principal and interest then due as attorney's fees shall be added if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection; that defendant did on Jan. 1st, 1929 pay to plaintiff the sum of $200.00 but has failed and refused to pay the installment of $300.00 due Jan. 1st, 1927, wherefore plaintiff has declared all of said indebtedness due and payable, less the sum of $200.00 heretofore paid.

Said note was given for a part of the purchase price of the following described land: Tracts Numbers 3, 4, 5, and 6 of the W. A. Milroy subdivision of the S. W. 1/4 of Sec. No. 32, in Block "Y", Johnson's Subdivision No. 2 of Bailey County, Texas.

That in the Deed of Conveyance to said property a lien was reserved thereon to secure the payment of said note; that said note has been placed in the hands of Mathews and Polly, attorneys, for collection and plaintiff has agreed to pay them ten per cent attorney's fees stipulated therein.

Wherefore plaintiff prays the Court that defendant be given legal notice and citation to appear and answer herein; that he have judgment for his debt, interest, attorney's fees and cost of suit, and for the foreclosure of his lien on the above described land and premises and that the same be decreed to be sold according to law, and for such other and further relief, special and general, as law and equity, that he may be justly entitled to.

Herein Fail Not but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Muleshoe, Texas, on this the 26th day of March, A. D. 1928.

Important Announcement to every owner of a Model T Ford

ON MAY 25, 1927, when Henry Ford first announced his plans for making a new car, he announced also that he would continue to make parts for the Model T Ford. He said: "The Model T Ford car was a pioneer. It blazed the way for the motor industry and started the movement for good roads everywhere. It broke down the barriers of distance in rural sections, brought people in these sections closer together, and placed education within the reach of everyone. We are still proud of the Model T Ford. If we were not, we would not have continued to make it so long." For twenty years, the Model T Ford led the automobile industry and it still serves more people than any other automobile. Over one-third of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords — an indication of the sturdy worth of the car and its value to people in all walks of life the world over.

The Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts for these cars "until the last Model T is off the road." That is a part of Ford service. That is what Henry Ford meant when he said: "We believe that when a man buys one of our cars we should keep it running for him as long as we can and at the lowest up-keep cost." Because of this policy a considerable part of the Ford manufacturing plants is given over to the making of parts for the Model T Ford. These replacement parts are made of the same material and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled.

Make it a point, therefore, to see the nearest Ford dealer and have him look over your Model T Ford. You may find that a very small expenditure will enable you to get thousands of miles of additional service, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

AVIATORS WHO DEFIED THE JINX

ARE you superstitious and do you believe that Friday, the 13th, is a jinx day? If so, you'd better begin worrying now, for there's such a day in the making.

WARRENSBURG, MO.—Thirteen holds no terror for Cooper Norman, center on the Warrensburg college football team.

Those who scorn the Friday the 13th superstition point to the fact that, if it were as unlucky as it is supposed to be, American history might have been vastly different from what it has been.

Mothers, Attention! A sign appearing in a doctor's office in St. Louis reads: "I treat all diseases, including children."—The Outlook

Washington.—Tempting the "Friday the Thirteenth" jinx, Maj. Gary L. Crockett, infantry, a student at the Army War college, Staff Sergeant Nels E. Swanson, Corporal B. A. Walsh and Private Emil Rastovsky of the air corps, made parachute jumps from a plane piloted by Lieut. R. Haven, air corps, over Bolling field here on the afternoon of Friday, Jan. 13.

And Americans are just as superstitious about it as any other people. Only recently a great railroad system announced that it had paid deference to the superstition by eliminating the number thirteen from its passenger trains.

As it turned out the Divine Majesty to whom the Hanoverian king wished to appeal for aid evidently decided not to take sides with that ruler against his rebellious subjects.

More recently than this example of Friday the 13th, being lucky rather than unlucky for the American people is the fact that the man chosen to lead our troops in the World War, Gen. John J. Pershing, was born on Friday, the 13th, and one of the greatest victories of his men was that at St. Mihiel which was won on Friday the 13th.

In fact, there are many people who not only scorn this superstition but never pass up a chance, as the aviators pictured above did, to defy this and other jinxes.

parties when it is discovered that there are likely to be only thirteen guests present. England has left thirteen off the number so much that they have dropped it from their vocabularies.

What is the unluckiest piece of money to own? No. It isn't the $2 bill. It's the quarter, say some folks, and here is why: There are 13 letters in the words "quarter dollar," the eagle has 13 feathers in his tail, 13 long feathers in each wing, 13 arrows in one foot, holds a branch with 13 leaves in the other foot, bears a ribbon in its mouth with 13 letters on it, the shield over the bird's head contains 13 stars and—there are 13 stars on the other side of the coin!

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MANY EYES

"Well," said the caterpillar, "spring is the beautiful time of the year when the flowers burst into bloom, the buds open, the leaves begin to appear, butterflies and crystaline creatures follow. Ah, the spring is wonderful."

"Well, neither of us think much of the winter," said the jumping spider, "for both of us sleep in the winter. I got all ready for my sleep last autumn."

"So did I," said the caterpillar. "I fuss a good deal before I am all ready. I have to see that I am safe and secure from other creatures who might disturb my winter's nap."

"I do some interesting things, you know."

"Tell me about them," said the jumping spider politely.

"I belong to the family of caterpillars which weaves its own chrysalis-cases out of hairs and wool from its summer's coats."

"Some of the families find some silk which they have grown within their selves which they use."

"Sounds very strange to me," said the jumping spider.

"It does sound strange," said the caterpillar, "but it is true."

"I am glad to hear about you," said the jumping spider.

"I have told you about myself, and now I must nap a little longer before I get up and get ready for the beautiful spring."

"I am not quite, quite awake yet, but I have begun to stir and soon, very soon, I will be very, very wide awake."

"But just before I take one more little nap, won't you tell me about yourself, the jumping spider, for I am sure you must be interesting?"

"In fact I know you are interesting. And I would like to hear you."

story before we both leave each other entirely.

"It is strange that we should have chosen our winter home so near each other."

"Hurry and tell your story, for I see you are really wide awake."

"Why wouldn't I be pretty wide awake with all the eyes I have?" asked the jumping spider.

"All the eyes?" repeated the caterpillar.

"Yes," said the jumping spider, "my name and the fact that I can jump amounts to very little when you think of my eyes."

"I will think of your eyes, but I think more about that so I can think more," said the caterpillar.

"I have been in this closely woven tent," said the jumping spider, "as you can see."

"It is here I have stayed all winter. As you see, I have a good broad nose. I would hate to have a little narrow nose, or, in short, any other nose than the one I have."

"It is nice to be satisfied," said the caterpillar.

"Both nice and sensible," said the jumping spider.

"Pray continue," urged the caterpillar.

"My eyes are very small in size, and they look like little beads," continued the jumping spider.

"But it makes no difference if they are small, for I have several pairs of eyes, I have."

"I feel very sorry for creatures who have only one pair of eyes. And so, you see, when I become wide awake I become very wide, for I have so many eyes to open."

"Ah, my, my, it is fine to be a jumping spider with all eyes, several pairs of eyes at least, and to wake up in the spring after a good, long, refreshing sleep," ended the jumping spider.

Lesson for April 8

THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS CHRIST (EASTER LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—Because I live ye also live again.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Comes to Life Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Christ Rises from the Grave.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus, Our Living Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of the Resurrection.

1. The Ministry of Love (vv. 1-9).

1. By whom (v. 1). Mary Magdalene, the mother of James and Salome. They brought sweet spices with which to anoint Him.

2. When? (v. 2). Early in the morning of the first day of the week.

3. Their perplexity (vv. 3, 4). They questioned as to who should roll away the large stone from the mouth of the tomb. To their surprise they found the stone removed.

4. The Angel in the Tomb (v. 5-8). Jesus knew that these women would come to the sepulcher with perplexed and unbelieving hearts so He had an angel waiting there to announce to them the fact of His resurrection. Note the angel's message:

1. "Be not afraid" (v. 6).

2. "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth who was crucified" (v. 9). This threefold designation with marvelous clearness shows (1) His humanity—Jesus, (2) His lowly residence—Nazareth, (3) His agonizing death—crucified.

3. "He is risen; He is not here. Behold the place where they laid Him" (v. 9). These words throw light upon His birth, humanity and shameful death. He who was born in lowly circumstances and suffered the shameful death on the cross, is now the conqueror of death. His resurrection gives meaning to His death. "If Christ be not risen your faith is vain, ye are yet in your sins" (1 Cor. 15:17).

4. "Go your way, tell His disciples and Peter" (v. 7). As soon as it was known that Christ was risen from the dead they were to tell it to His disciples. The disciples all needed this blessed news, but Peter especially, since He had utterly denied Him.

5. "He goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see Him" (v. 7). Christ had told the disciples that He would rise from the dead and meet them in Galilee, but their unbelief kept them from this blessed truth.

III. The Appearances of the Risen Christ (vv. 9-14).

These appearances had as their object the restoration of the disciples from their awful failure and discouragement and convincing them without a peradventure of a doubt of Christ's resurrection. Since His resurrection was to be the central theme of apostolic preaching, it was necessary that they have a certainty of knowledge as to this most important fact.

1. To Mary Magdalene (vv. 9-11). Mary's heart responded to the Savior who had graciously delivered her from sinners. Her sufferings were no doubt terrible. She was first at the tomb; her devotion was amply rewarded by being first to meet the risen Lord. Though her faith was weak she went at once and told the story to the disciples.

2. To two disciples (of the way to Emmaus (vv. 12, 13)). Luke gives details particularly concerning this appearance (Luke 24:13-25). Jesus had walked, talked and eaten with them.

3. To the eleven disciples (v. 14). Christ appeared to them while sitting at meat and reproved them for their unbelief. The fact that they steadfastly resisted the testimony that Christ had risen, and yet afterward were willing to risk their lives in the proclamation of this truth proves the genuineness of their faith.

IV. The Commission of the Risen Christ (vv. 15-18).

After the disciples were convinced of the truth of His resurrection, Christ sent them forth to "preach the gospel to every creature." What a glorious and supreme task is this. What a blessed issue to those who believe and how awful to them that believe not. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned" (v. 16).

V. The Activity of the Enthroned Christ (vv. 19, 20).

After giving the disciples their commission He ascended on high and from thence directed their feet. "Whosoever they went He confirmed their word. He does the same for His disciples today.

POULTRY

FOWLS PAY WELL FOR RIGHT CARE

With profits increasing from poultry it will pay to take good care of the producing hens this summer.

"It is poor economy to neglect the hens during the rush of summer work," says A. G. Oliver, poultry extension specialist for the North Carolina State college. "When the hens are neglected, profits are reduced. Less grain is needed under range conditions but plenty of mash should be supplied in the hoppers. Under average farm conditions where the hens have free range and production is decreasing, less of the scratch grain and more of the mash should be fed. This will force the birds to eat more mash and thereby stimulate egg production. Mash consumption must be encouraged to get high egg production. The mash is composed of whole grains finely ground and is more easily digested."

Mr. Oliver suggests that the hens be given equal parts of cracked corn, wheat and oats by weight as a scratch grain. If wheat is not available, one-third corn and two-thirds oats should be fed. For the average farm flock a mash made of equal parts of wheat bran, wheat middlings, corn meal, ground oats and fish meal is good and this should be kept before the hens in a dry place, at all times.

Feeding is one of the most important factors in securing eggs from the farm flock during summer. The hens may be kept laying and molting delayed by either increasing the amount of mash fed or by increasing the protein without increasing the amount of mash. If a flock of birds can be selected which does not stop laying until October or November, the chicks from these eggs will have a marked effect on the egg production of next season's flock, states Mr. Oliver. Early molters, on the other hand, will produce early molting chicks which work short hours and eat as much as the heavy producers.

Incubator Eggs Used as

Feed for Young Chicks
Infertile incubator eggs may not be a total loss when taken from the machine, according to tests of the Ohio agricultural experiment station. In fact they make a valuable addition to the ration for young chicks, market broilers and laying hens. It is found that before feeding infertile, desiccated and dried-in-shell eggs from the hatcher, the eggs should be boiled 30 to 40 minutes and passed through a food chopper, or coarse mill. The ground product is then mixed with about an equal weight of dry mash to absorb moisture. The mixture is fed daily to chicks after the first week in convenient amounts that will be cleaned up in 30 minutes.

For crate-feeding broilers for market, the poultry men mix 45 per cent of the cooked egg product to the dry feed mixture and add sufficient milk or water to make a feed batter just this much to be poured into the feed trough.

For crate-feeding broilers for market, the poultry men mix 45 per cent of the cooked egg product to the dry feed mixture and add sufficient milk or water to make a feed batter just this much to be poured into the feed trough.

Poultry Notes

Crowding or overheating causes weak chicks.

Guinea chicks are ravenous little creatures and for the first week they eat incessantly.

What have you in the way of meat on the farm that will bring to 10 or 20 cents per pound? Early broilers will do it.

Because of their insectivorous nature, guineas require a large proportion of animal food, also green food, and they must have plenty of water to drink.

Trapnesting is the only accurate method of determining the exact egg production of the hen. It is essential only for poultrymen doing careful accurate pedigree work.

Many an automobile is being bought on the farm and paid for with the profits from the farm flock.

In feeding poultry the heavy grain feed should come at the evening meal. The birds should have all the grain they will clean up at this time.

Sometimes a flock is slow about laying, even when everything seems right for eggs. If yours is lagging around that way, try wet mash once daily for a week or two. It often does the work.

A chicken incubator never feels worried when it hatches duck eggs and its offspring is swimming.

To hatch a desirable chick, hatching eggs should weigh between 24 and 26 ounces per dozen, and should be uniform in shape, size and color.

Beware of June hatched chicks. They never pay for their food, and are more liable to croup and cholera. Pen the setters up in the shade with food, water, and a vigorous young cockerel.
