

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

Exploration Set In Fisher, Gaines Areas

Exploration has been planned for Gaines and Fisher counties.

Texasco Inc. will attempt to re-open the Bottenfield (Wolfcamp "B") field of Gaines County with the scheduling of No. 9-3 Tope Foster, 10 miles southeast of Seminola.

The project, scheduled to 9,300 feet, spots 3,288 feet from north and 1,895 feet from west lines of league 308, Dawson CSL survey.

The discovery, Texasco Inc. No. 5-2 Tope Foster, was completed in 1962, for a daily pumping potential of 122 barrels of 32.1-gravity oil through perforations at 9,362-9,363 feet.

Fisher Prospector

Delray Oil, Inc., San Antonio, will drill No. 1 W. W. Pyeatt, a 6,700-foot venture in Fisher County, five miles northwest of Sweetwater.

Location is 1,900 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 12, block 23, T&P survey, 3/4 mile northeast of the Sweetwater, Northwest (Strawn) field and 3/4 mile northwest of a 6,616-foot failure.

Discoveries Test In Lea, Chaves

Discoveries have been assured in Lea and Chaves counties, N.M.

HNG Oil Co. No. 1 Dogie Draw-Federal, Lea County wildcat, four miles southwest of Jal, flowed gas at the rate of 7.5 million cubic feet per day, from the upper Siturian.

Flow was through perforations at 17,248-17,260 feet, which had been acidized with 10,000 gallons. Choke size was not reported.

Drilled to 20,971 feet, it is plugged back to 17,993 feet, in 5-inch casing seated at 20,828 feet.

Testing continued at the project which spots 1,900 feet from south and east lines of section 8-26-36e, four miles south of the Jal, West (Fusselman) field.

Chaves Try

Franklin, Aston & Fair, Inc. of Roswell, was testing at No. 11 North King Camp Unit, Chaves County prospector, 19 miles east of Hagerman and four miles northeast of the depleted King Camp (Devonian) field.

It flowed gas at the rate of 1 million cubic feet per day, through an unreported choke and perforations opposite the Atoka at 9,138-9,148 feet. Testing continued.

Drilled to 10,265 feet, it has 4 1/4-inch casing set at 9,764 feet, and is plugged back to 9,250 feet.

Eddy Region Gets Permian Oil Strike

Gulf Oil Corp. has completed its No. 1-A Jones-Federal as a Grayburg-San Andres oil discovery in Eddy County, N.M., four miles southwest of Lake Wood.

Full Vote Possible By March

By EDMOND LeBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax cut principally for low and middle income persons will be pushed to a House vote if possible by early March, the chairman-designate of the House Ways and Means Committee said today.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., who is in line to head the tax-writing committee, told newsmen he will press for a one-year emergency tax measure "to put revenues back into the spending stream" and so boost the economy.

Larger range changes in the tax laws would be considered later, Ullman said, but some revenue-increasing measures, such as ending the oil depletion allowance, might be included in the emergency package.

Opposition Seen

Ullman said he would also probably propose some corporate tax relief, such as an increase in the investment credit. Under existing law, most businesses can take 7 per cent of their investment in equipment off their tax bill.

Ullman said he cannot now indicate the extent of the tax cut or the amount that would be saved by an individual. Much will depend, he indicated, on whether some revenue-raising measures will be included in the package or whether these will have to wait for more leisurely consideration.

Poor To Benefit

He said, however, that the individual tax relief would be directed mainly to the lowest incomes and taper off as middle incomes were reached.

"There is no reason to give tax relief to people who would put the money in the bank," Ullman said.

As for the dimensions of the cut, he would say only that he had previously described $5 billion as too little and $30 billion as too much.

Nationwide Oil Workers Walkout Slated Tonight

DENVER (AP) — Oil workers reported no new negotiating activity today after the president of the union announced he would call a strike tonight if new contracts were not reached with the oil companies.

A. F. Grospiron of the 60,000-member Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International union set a 24-hour deadline for reaching agreement on a new contract late Wednesday.

A spokesman for the union, Jerry Archuleta, said the Grospiron deadline had brought no reaction at the local bargaining level where each unit is conducting contract talks separately with the nation's oil companies.

Picketing continued today at some refineries in Texas and California where local unions decided to walk out Wednesday.

Grospiron did not say when he would make an announcement on the status of the negotiations.

Grospiron indicated that if a strike is called it would be against one or several companies. He said it would be "nationwide within short order."

The negotiations are being held by the 430 local bargaining units at refineries and allied industries across the country, but any proposed pact must be approved by the union's bargaining policy committee before local union members can vote on it.

Grospiron refused to call a strike at midnight Tuesday when contracts expired. He ordered negotiations to continue.

The union is seeking $1.20 an hour more in each of three years of a new contract and an immediate 50-cent an hour increase to offset rising inflation. The contract talks are also hung up on union demands for a cost-of-living escalator clause and pension and hospital insurance improvements.

Grospiron said the companies are offering 60 cents in the first year and 50 cents in the second year of a two-year contract. He said the union will not accept less than a three-year pact.

The average wage in the industry is now $5.96 an hour.

While most union members continued to work Wednesday, wildcat strikes hit two gasoline refineries and an asphalt plant in the Port Arthur, Tex., area and a refinery in El Segundo, Calif. About 8,000 workers were involved.

The negotiations involve Gulf, Texaco, Mobil, Shell, Atlantic-Richfield, Phillips, Continental, the several Standards and many smaller companies. Exxon, the nation's largest refiner, has only one plant covered by the union contract.

Employes Still Out At Two Refineries

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — A spokesman for the striking workers at the Gulf and Texaco refineries in this Southeast Texas area says the union "is still out and will stay out until we get what the hell we want here."

The spokesman, Floyd Forse, chairman of the Texaco plant union group, denied Wednesday night that the walkout at the two plants and at the Texaco asphalt plant in nearby Port Neches was a "wildcat strike."

Almost 7,000 workers walked off their jobs at midnight Tuesday while national representatives of their organization, the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCAUW) continued negotiations with industry representatives in Denver.

A spokesman for the union in Denver said the strike by the Texas locals had not been called by national leaders, but that no effort would be made to force the union members to return to work.

"This is a legal strike," Forse said. "We are authorized by the OCAUW."

Approximately 2,700 workers were out at the Gulf refinery, 4,500 at the Texaco refinery and about 500 at the Texaco asphalt plant.

While workers picketed the three installations employees of several other refineries in the area continued to work although the contract with the oil and chemical companies expired at midnight Tuesday.

Company officials said that supervisory personnel continued to operate the plants, although not at full capacity. They said some union members stayed on Wednesday to help shut down some of the units that could not be handled by supervisory personnel.

Saudi Arabia Will Purchase Jet Fighters From U.S.

By The Associated Press
Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, announced today it has concluded a $756 million deal to buy "several squadrons" of American jet fighter planes "to consolidate the kingdom's ability to defend its territory."

The announcement of the plane deal, made by the Saudi state radio, did not give the exact number of planes involved but said they included the Northrop F5E Tiger jet, a single-seat fighter built primarily for export.

A squadron is defined as larger than a flight, which usually consists of at least four planes.

Saudi Arabia is known to have three F5E squadrons at present. Last month it concluded an $860 million deal with France for some 200 tanks, 250 armored cars and a new surface to air missile system.

The U.S.-Saudi plane deal was concluded Saturday with a signing ceremony in Riyadh.

There was no way to determine whether Saudi Arabia would give the new planes to Egypt, its closest ally in the Arab world. But Saudi officials made frequent statements last month that the United States had agreed to sell arms to Saudi Arabia "without any conditions." (See PLANES Page 2A)

Ford Considers Supplemental Assistance To South Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration, responding to a South Vietnamese call for help, says it is considering supplemental assistance to the Thieu government.

State Department press officer Robert Anderson said Wednesday that President Ford and his advisers have the matter "under intense consideration."

South Vietnamese officials have asked for an increase in U.S. military aid to help counter the thrust of the Communist offensive that has resulted in the fall of Phuoc Long province.

Aid Sought

The Ford administration asked for $1.4 billion in military aid to South Vietnam for the current fiscal year. Congress authorized $1 billion — then cut the amount to $700 million.

The administration has been quietly preparing the way to introduce a $300 million supplemental request to restore the cut, which Congress made last month.

Some Aid Cut

Congress has similarly cut military aid for Cambodia approximately in half — compared to authorizations for the past year.

A $300 million ceiling was placed on U.S. aid to Cambodia, plus another $47 million worth of military equipment, which can be drawn from Defense Department stocks.

Since the Communist offensive that toppled Phuoc Long, ammunition, artillery and aviation fuel have been on short rations, according to the South Vietnamese.

against Viet Cong headquarters and Communist positions Wednesday north of Saigon.

The Viet Cong said the attacks caused heavy civilian casualties.

Attacks Repulsed

The Saigon command said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops attacked government positions 300 miles northwest of the capital, but that the attacks were repulsed.

In Cambodia, field reports said government forces retook a strategic hill outside Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian command said 16 Buddhist nuns were found in a nearby pagoda and raped and murdered by Khmer Rouge troops.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ousted Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. executive James Ashley demanded $400,000 from the company under a threat to "wreck the Bell system," a top Bell executive said today. The San Antonio Light quoted C. L. Todd, vice president and general manager of Southwestern Bell, as saying the company refused Ashley's proposal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing the highest unemployment in 14 years, Labor Secretary Peter Brennan told state employment officials today to speed $4 billion in emergency benefits to the nation's jobless. There are over six million unemployed in the nation at present.

Pessimistic Economic News Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Ford and the House Democratic leadership near the completion of their separate anti-inflation programs, pessimistic economic reports continue unabated.

Members of a 10-Democrat House task force, named by Speaker Carl Albert to draft an economic recovery program, were due to return to work today. The task force is developing recommendations, including a tax cut, for delivery to Albert next week.

Without disclosing what Ford's proposals may include, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen quoted Ford as telling the Cabinet Wednesday: "Ours is a good program. It is tough. It is fully defensible. It will give us the restoration of confidence that is essential for recovery."

Wednesday: — A record 813,600 persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance benefits in the week ending Dec. 28, the highest one-week total since the program started paying benefits in 1937 during the final years of the Depression, the Labor Department said. New claims filed last month reached more than 2.8 million nationwide.

If bankruptcy petitions continue at the current rate, there will be a record 231,969 such requests in the current fiscal year ending June 30, according to the administrative office of the United States Courts.

Layoffs totalling 2,048 workers were announced by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. (See ECONOMY Page 2A)

Fighting Erupts At Boston School

BOSTON (AP) — Extra police were sent to Hyde Park High School today after fighting broke out in the building.

The fighting erupted as classes resumed for the second day at the South Boston High School complex, which was closed for a month due to racial problems stemming from a busing dispute.

Watergate Trio 'Begins Living Again'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freed from prison after serving only part of their terms, John W. Dean III, Jeb Stuart Magruder and Herbert W. Kalmbach began today what Dean's wife called "living again."

The three men, key figures in the Watergate scandal, headed home — Dean and Kalmbach to California and Magruder to Bethesda, Md. — after being released by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who reduced their terms to "time served."

A spokesman for the Watergate special prosecutor's office said Dean and Kalmbach were continuing to cooperate in investigations, but that Magruder's cooperation was no longer needed.

"I'm just shocked. I'm still shocked," stammered Dean's wife, Maureen, at their home in Beverly Hills, Calif. "Mother called and said, 'John's free! John's free!' I'm just so excited. I can't wait to start living again."

Freed Wednesday

Dean, Kalmbach and Magruder were freed Wednesday after serving four, six and seven months, respectively, of their sentences for guilty pleas to felonies in the Watergate scandal.

Dean, 35, former White House counsel, began serving a 1-year term on Sept. 3. Magruder, 39, deputy director of former President Richard M. Nixon's reelection campaign, entered prison on June 4 to begin a 10 months-to-four year term.

Served Six Months

Kalmbach, 52, who was Nixon's former personal lawyer and a Nixon fund raiser, had served six months of a 6-18 month term.

All three had promised cooperation with the special prosecutor's office in return for acceptance of their guilty pleas.

Dean and Magruder were the first to disclose to prosecutors the genesis of the break-in and bugging of Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate complex of offices and apartments, as well as White House efforts to hide high-level involvement.

Chief Accuser

Dean became Nixon's chief accuser.

All three were prosecution witnesses during the Watergate cover-up trial, which convicted Nixon aide H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mifchell and campaign official Robert C. Mardian of helping in the cover-up.

The four are awaiting sentencing.

A fifth defendant, campaign lawyer Kenneth W. Parkinson, was acquitted.

Dean, Magruder and Kalmbach previously had asked for reductions in their sentences.

Magruder's wife, Gail, learned about his release from a neighbor, who rushed to her car as she returned from shopping.

"You're kidding me!" she cried, and burst into tears.

Then she gathered her four (See WATERGATE Page 2A) children, the eldest 14, and drove to a federal facility at Ft. Holabird, Md., where Magruder, Dean and Kalmbach were held to be near Washington during the cover-up trial, and picked up her husband.

No Plans
 "Thank God, I'm free!" Magruder exclaimed as he left. "I have no plans. I didn't expect to be out by now."

Kalmbach was at his lawyer's office in Washington, in the custody of a federal marshal, when his release was announced.

"He was astounded," said the lawyer, Charles A. McNelis. "He sort of welled up and swelled up and there were tears in his eyes." Kalmbach went to a nearby office to telephone his wife.

No Reason Given
 Sirica gave no reason for ordering the release.

"I did what I thought was right. . . I thought about it for some time," the judge said later.

The release leaves only one major Watergate figure, former presidential counsel Charles W. Colson, in prison. Still to be tried is Gordon C. Strachan, a White House aide charged with participating in the cover-up. Others are awaiting sentencing.

In a Watergate-related development, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell refused Wednesday requests by three broadcast networks and others who wanted to copy White House Watergate tapes for public broadcast and phonograph recordings.

Gesell said they had failed to come up with a plan to prevent commercialization or undignified use of the tapes, and he asked them to submit such a plan.

Banker Says Tall City Might Escape Effects Of Depression

Midland and the Permian Basin will be the last to feel the effects of the recession plaguing other parts of the nation, C. J. Kelly, president of The First National Bank, told members of the Midland Downtown Lions Club at their meeting held Wednesday noon in the American Legion Hall.

"And if the recession doesn't last too long, say two years or under, we could escape it to a large degree," he continued.

"Even if the city and area were pulled into it, it is reasonable to believe we would be the first to pull out of it."

Kelly was the guest speaker at the meeting, discussing the economic outlook for the Permian Basin in 1975 and beyond. He was introduced by Duke Jermerson, program chairman.

The speaker explained that due to the complex nature of financial affairs and to the recession-inflation situation, forecasting at this time is mostly a matter of guessing, "which any of you can do equally as well."

Discussing briefly the interest rate situation, he said there is no way to predict what rates will do this year. He added, however, that it appears now that short-term rates might go down a couple of points. The prime rate, possible will drop to about 8 per cent by the end of 1975, he said.

Discussing the economy at the local level, he explained that it all depends on the price of oil and gas. It would appear that prices will hold at least at present levels, unless there is too much government intervention.

"Guessing again, the price of a barrel of oil should be in the realm of $7.50 to $8.50," he said.

He predicted, however, that the government will continue to look closely at the petroleum industry, adding that it is almost a certainty that the depletion allowance will be eliminated entirely or reduced substantially. Whether or not there will be special provisions for the independent operator is not known at this time.

"We can hope for the best, but expect the worst," the speaker said.

Kelly said he doesn't expect that the federal tax structure will be increased this year. The rate for some persons may be reduced.

He predicted a federal budget deficit reaching $35 billion or possibly $50 billion.

Money may be expected to be reasonably tight or scarce in the Southwest, due to increased demand, while there may be an easing of the money situation in the major money areas.

Over-Reaction Risk
 "The greatest risk in 1975-76 will be over-reaction by the government in fighting recession in the face of inflation," the speaker said.

He said unemployment nationwide may reach 8 per cent while in Midland it is not likely it will exceed 4 per cent.

Kelly said the future of Midland will not depend on Dow-Jones averages, the price and purchase of gold, nor on interest rates, but rather on the attitudes of individuals.

"Most of what we have to fear is fear itself," he said. "We do not have a single problem which can't be solved by prayer and faith — if we are willing to work hard for it."

Zebra Zzyzzy Finds People Very Curious

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Zebra Zula Zzyzzy isn't answering his old telephone number any more.

The name, last listed in the Jacksonville telephone directory, was a little joke, a telephone company spokesman said. But it backfired on the customer who did it.

He was besieged with calls night and day until he gave up the number. The company wouldn't reveal the customer's real name or his new number. It's unlisted.

Prigmore Death Inquest Ordered

Lubbock Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy today said he is calling for an inquest jury Jan. 17 to consider evidence and "to make a decision" on the death Tuesday of Midland attorney Richard T. Prigmore, 40.

Prigmore, released Monday on two $10,000 bonds following his arrest by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was fatally injured when struck by a northwest-bound Santa Fe Railway freight train late Tuesday near Shallowater, northwest of Lubbock.

He died about 7:30 p.m. that day in a Lubbock hospital.

Prigmore was charged with interstate transportation of stolen property and with assault upon a federal officer.

An autopsy was performed Wednesday and LeCroy said this morning he is awaiting the results.

Prigmore was charged with interstate transportation of a Charles Russell watercolor taken in the April 14 burglary of the Midland residence of Mrs. Bennie Sue Thomas.

A man who identified himself to Oklahoma City art dealer Mabel Owens as "Joe Jackson" told her he would settle for a sale that would net him $6,500. That was on Dec. 6.

Mrs. Owens was instructed by the man to mail the check to an Odessa post office box number.

Prigmore was arrested Monday noon near Odessa's downtown post office, which had been under surveillance by the FBI and Midland police.

HOOKED RUG — This presidential seal hooked rug of 100 per cent pure English wool was made by President Ford's sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard (Ellen) Ford of Grand Rapids, Mich., as a gift of congratulations. Two Frozen Food Products Recalled

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Banquet Foods, Inc., has announced the recall of two of its frozen products which may contain under-processed bean sprouts and which could be contaminated.

The nationwide recall, on a voluntary basis, involved Banquet frozen chicken chow mein and frozen beef chop suey, an official said. The recall followed information received from Department of Agriculture authorities.

To date, Redecker said, there have been no consumer complaints as to contamination.

The two products are identified by package code numbers 2145 or P196. They were packaged at a Banquet plant in Milan, Mo.

Area Prisoners Freed On Parole

AUSTIN — Three persons sent to prison from the Midland area were granted paroles by Gov. Dolph Briscoe on recommendation of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Walter Leon Bond, sentenced in Ector County in 1971 to 10 years for five counts of burglary, was paroled to Ector County after earning credit for six years and one month of his sentence though time served and good behavior.

Cleburn Joiner, sentenced in Ector and Reeves counties in 1973 and 1974 to four years for intent to defraud by credit card and forgery, was paroled to Reeves County after earning credit for two years and five months of his sentence.

Pat Wayne Murphy, sentenced in Ector and Midland counties in 1971 to seven years for two counts of burglary, was paroled to Howard County after earning credit for six years of his sentence.

Wallace Appoints Negro To Cabinet

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace today announced the appointment of the first black member of the governor's cabinet in Alabama since Reconstruction.

Wallace said Jesse J. Lewis, a Birmingham weekly newspaper publisher, will take office Jan. 21 as the governor's coordinator for highway and traffic planning. The job pays about $22,000 a year.

Lewis, 48, is publisher of the Birmingham Times. He was one of the black leaders who endorsed Wallace last year for re-election for an unprecedented third term as governor. Wallace will be inaugurated Jan. 20 and officially begin the new term the following day.

Odessa Officer Earns Two High Training Awards

Gary Clingman of the Odessa Police Department has earned the two highest awards offered in academics and marksmanship during his training class at the Regional Police Academy in Midland.

Mickey Brown of the Midland Police Department said Clingman's performance marked the first time in the history of the school that one cadet has received both awards.

The academy was created in May 1973 by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, law enforcement personnel and local governments.

During his 12 weeks of comprehensive training last fall, Clingman ranked first in scholastic aptitude and marksmanship, scoring "perfect" in his marksmanship examination.

Kidnap Victim Opens Christmas Gifts

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — As a search continued for his abductor, 10-year-old Christopher Carrier returned home to unopened Christmas presents after a 12-day stay in the hospital.

A 24-hour guard continued at the boy's home Wednesday, and police said they were checking out "hundreds of leads from Lake Worth to Key Largo" for a man described by the boy in a composite drawing.

Christopher underwent surgery Dec. 27 for a bullet wound in the head, inflicted by a man who apparently left the fifth grader to die in the Big Cypress Swamp Dec. 20 after snatching him from within yards of his family's fashionable Coral Gables home.

A hunter found the boy wandering in the swamp, about 75 miles west of Miami.

Physicians said the wound could cause Chris to lose sight in one eye.

Police spokesman Dennis Koronkiewicz said: "Chris is very, very happy to be home. 'He's been away a long time. Today he opened his presents and played with his dog.'"

The Polaroid Corp. said it was deferring salary increases for its nonunion employees. Texas Instruments said it was laying off 9,000 world-wide because of a drop in incoming orders. The General Electric Co. said it would trim 800 jobs at its jet engine plant at Evendale, Ohio. The Westinghouse Electric Corp. said it will lay off 180 workers at its Cathode Ray Tube Division plant at Horseheads, N.Y., Friday.

Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lynn Townsend called for an immediate tax cut, saying "drastic action must be taken to restore consumer confidence."

Items Worth $1,425 Stolen

Mrs. H. W. Shaner, 201 Ridgela St., told Midland police officers Wednesday her home had been burglarized.

Taken were an adding machine, valued at $100; a sewing machine, valued at $400; two gold pocket watches, valued at $300 each; two sweaters, one valued at $30 and the other at $25; a $170 coat and a locked box containing a $100 coin collection.

Necklace Stolen

A turquoise necklace valued at $550 was reported stolen Wednesday from the residence of D'Anna McClintock, 4303 W. Andrews Hwy.

Expert Cites Oil Spill Damage Exaggerations

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Environmental damage caused by oil spills is widely exaggerated and there is no economic reason why offshore drilling should be stopped, a California oceanographic researcher said Wednesday.

"Oil spills won't pollute any great part of the world, but it is an international problem," said Willard N. Bascom, director of the Southern California Water Research Project.

"Therefore, I see no overall economic reason why offshore drilling shouldn't continue. We should accept this as modern living," Bascom told a civic club meeting.

He said he found little damage to beaches when he inspected an oil spill at Santa Barbara, Calif., although birds died after being covered with the oil.

Bascom said those deaths failed to impress him because authorities down the coast were killing the same species of birds, calling them pests.

Most of the oil from spills "floats away" from land or "sinks to the bottom," he said.

Bascom said man could not pollute the ocean if he tried. He said wild statements by non-qualified persons led to much of the furor about pollution of oceans.

However, Bascom said the nation has a substantial commitment to keeping the oceans clean.

Odessa Robbery Suspect Charged

ODESSA — Odessa police have charged Gary Henderson, 29, of Odessa with armed robbery in the holdup of a 7-Eleven store here this morning.

Henderson was apprehended 30 minutes after the robbery. He was being held this morning in lieu of a $100,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Jan Brock.

The clerk of the store said $15 was taken in the robbery.

War Straggler Boycotts Wife, Then Accepts Her

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Terao Nakamura, a World War II soldier who came home after hiding 30 years in an Indonesian jungle, boycotted his wife for more than an hour today after learning she had remarried.

Nakamura flew to Taiwan from Jakarta on Wednesday and met his wife, Li Lan-ying, who remarried almost 20 years ago.

Her relatives broke the news to him on a bus filled with journalists accompanying the couple to her home in southeast Taiwan.

The 55-year-old man was so angered he tried to jump out of the bus but was restrained. Then he put his wife off the bus when they reached her home and asked to be taken to his sister's home 20 miles away.

There he locked himself inside the house and went to sleep.

His wife, who had decided to leave her second husband and reunite with Nakamura, followed him in another bus and began a vigil outside the house, standing in the yard and sobbing.

Nakamura came out after about an hour and joined his wife and their son at a dance and banquet given for him.

Nakamura surrendered last month on an Indonesian island where he had fought for the Japanese. While he was missing in action, his wife married Huang Chin-mu, who is now 74 to her 57.

Court officials say her marriage with Nakamura is still valid. Huang reportedly agreed to give Li up in exchange for an old house and a water buffalo.

Wortham Named To President's List

ROSWELL, N.M. — Cadet Gary L. Wortham, son of Mrs. Mary Louise Wortham of 305 S. Lincoln St. in Midland, has been named to the president's list at New Mexico Military Institute here.

A second classman in his first year at the institute, he earned a 3.21 grade average during the 1974-75 semester of his freshman year. He was named to the president's list on the basis of his grades, military science proficiency and deportment as a member of the corps of cadets.

GE Fights Disability Claims By Pregnant Women Employees

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Pregnant employees of General Electric Co. should not be eligible for disability benefits because modern birth control methods make pregnancy almost always voluntary and not accidental, a GE lawyer argued.

Lawyer T. C. Kammbolt told the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday that GE's disability protection is designed for "sudden and unforeseen" illnesses and injuries.

He said that with modern birth control techniques, pregnancy would not fall in those categories.

Kammbolt's argument was offered in an appeal of a 1974 decision by U.S. District Court Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. that GE has engaged in sex discrimination against its more than 100,000 female workers by not paying them disability benefits for pregnancy and pregnancy complications.

In similar cases arguments were presented Dec. 9 to the 2nd Circuit in New York in a suit against American Telephone & Telegraph and Oct. 30 to the 3rd Circuit in Philadelphia in a suit against Liberty Mutual Insurance Co.

If the three circuits do not agree in their decisions, the question probably will go to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kammbolt presented figures showing that even without pregnancy coverage, the average female employee at GE received almost twice as much in disability payments for 1970 and 1971 as did the average male worker.

The suit was brought as a class action on behalf of all the company's female employees by the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers and by 43 individual employees at GE plants in Richmond, Portsmouth and Salem, Va.; Tyler, Tex.; Philadelphia, Pa.; and Ft. Wayne and Tell City, Ind.

GE has not provided figures on how much additional it would cost to include pregnancy coverage, but the plaintiffs cited figures showing the maximum amount for 1970 would have been about $3 million and the maximum for 1971 about $2.5 million.

Senae Committee Rejects Utilities Commission Idea

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A staff report giving a proposed state agency the power to regulate utility rates and service has been rejected by a 2-2 Senate subcommittee vote.

A fifth subcommittee member, Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, was sick with the flu, but an aide said Mengden, too, would have voted against the proposed state utilities commission.

Despite the rejection of the staff report, Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland, is expected to sponsor a bill to create such a commission in the legislative session which starts Tuesday.

Clower and Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, voted in favor of the staff recommendation Wednesday, but their votes were offset by Sens. Bill Meier, D-Eules, and Betty Anderson, R-Fort Worth.

The commission would regulate electric, telephone, gas, private water and sewer utilities.

Items Stolen In Home Burglary

Several items were reported taken in a Wednesday burglary of Mrs. Olga Mancha's residence, 1406 S. Belmont St.

She told Midland police missing items include a television set, valued at $200; a radio and tape player combination valued at $150; a camera, valued at $15; three record albums, valued at $12 and meat valued at $15.

Friday Deadline For Nominating '74 'Young Man'

Midland Jaycees today called attention to the fact that Friday is the deadline for filing nominations for Midland's "Outstanding Young Man of 1974" and the Jaycees' "Boss of the Year."

Larry Bell, project chairman, said nomination forms in both categories must be in the mail by midnight Friday.

"Outstanding Young Man" nominations should be mailed to the Distinguished Service Award Selection Committee, P.O. Box 876, and "Boss of the Year" nominations should be mailed to Midland Jaycees, P.O. Box 125.

Nomination forms may be had by dialing Bell at 682-5201 or the Jaycees office at 682-9952. Forms also may be picked up at the chamber of commerce office.

The awards will be presented at the Jaycees annual Distinguished Service Award-Bosses Night Banquet scheduled Tuesday at Midland Country Club.

Ronald Reagan Launches Second Career In Radio

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Seven stories above the corner of Hollywood and Vine, Ronald Reagan sipped champagne with friends, newsmen and fellow workers in Harry O'Connor's sound studio.

It was the kickoff of the former California governor's second career in radio, and everyone involved in the venture appeared pleased with the first day of recording.

During 10 shows recorded Wednesday for daily broadcast beginning Jan. 20, Reagan sharply attacked government bureaucrats, urged that private enterprise be allowed to compete with the U.S. mail service and called for repeal of fair-trade price support laws.

O'Connor, the producer of Reagan's daily five-minute "Viewpoint" political commentary program, said at least 100 stations nationwide will broadcast it.

Reagan, who ended eight years as governor just two days earlier, was relaxed and in good spirits for the two-hour taping session.

Reagan's long entertainment career began in 1932 as a radio announcer and sportscaster in Des Moines, Iowa.

About 20 newsmen and well-wishers crowded into the sound studio in the Hollywood Tower Building, long a landmark of Hollywood's most famous corner, and called for repeal of fair-

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The Communist offensive has spread to the Bong Son area of South Vietnam's central coastal plain, the Saigon military command reported today.

Brownsville Judge Restricts Number Of Penney Pickets

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — United Farm Workers Union members can picket or hand out leaflets at the J. C. Penney supermarket here, District Court Judge Filemon Vela ruled Wednesday.

But, the judge says no more than five union members or sympathizers can picket or hand out leaflets at one time. Operators of the supermarket had sought a permanent injunction against picketing by the union.

In December, the supermarket obtained a temporary restraining order to halt all picketing and boycott activities after union members demonstrated outside the supermarket in Amigoland Mall.

A union spokesman said the demonstrators were asking customers not to buy non-union grapes, lettuce and Gallo wines. The supermarket claimed the pickets were both disabling prospective customers and causing persons to shop elsewhere.

and 24 hours later attacked government positions on three sides of the district town.

Both attacks were repulsed, and a total of 177 Communist troops and 30 government men were killed, the command said.

The daily shelling of the Bien Hoa air base 15 miles northwest of Saigon also continued. Five 100-pound rockets were fired at it Wednesday night. A spokesman said four of them landed in a hamlet near the base, and a soldier was wounded.

The Viet Cong claimed that during its conquest of Phuoc Long province, which ended Tuesday with the fall of the provincial capital, about 60 government positions were destroyed and thousands of government troops were captured.

The government admitted heavy losses in the fighting but claimed the Communists also had heavy losses. Phuoc Binh, the provincial capital, had a 2,600-man garrison, but an undisclosed number of reinforcements were flown in during the fighting. So far only a few dozen have reportedly made it to government lines.

Hiroshima Mayor Yamada Dies At 76

TOKYO (AP) — Hiroshima Mayor Setsuo Yamada, who called on the world to scrap its nuclear weapons and free mankind of "the threat of suicidal ruin," died Wednesday of cancer-induced pleurisy. He was 76. Hiroshima was devastated by the first U.S. atomic attack in 1945.

Problems Doctors Face When Seeking Malpractice Insurance Now Crisis Issue, HEW Chief Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The growing problems that physicians encounter when seeking medical malpractice insurance is "a major crisis problem" facing the nation, according to Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

While medical malpractice insurance is not normally a federal responsibility, "we cannot sit by and watch a significant number of doctors be unable to get very necessary coverage," Weinberger said.

Premiums increasing. In addition, the rising premium costs are making medical care more expensive, he indicated.

Weinberger's comments came Wednesday at a meeting of insurance company representatives, state insurance commissioners and professional health associations. The session was convened to discuss threatened malpractice policy cancellations and skyrocketing premiums facing physicians as the result of claims against insurance companies.

Weinberger said physicians in at least seven states — California, Florida, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, New York and North Carolina — had been threatened with the prospect of not being able to renew their protective policies.

While sophisticated attorneys may be credited for heavy damage awards by juries, many of the claims are justified, Weinberger said.

Legislation Readied. HEW is preparing standby emergency legislation which probably would guarantee federal reinsurance for consortiums of private insurance companies if they experienced unexpectedly heavy losses.

Weinberger has promised the companies he would attempt to secure antitrust clearance for such a plan. Executives of seven major insurance companies writing 90 per cent of the more than $600 million worth of malpractice policies annually said they were losing money in many states.

Man Saves Two Lives In Car-Truck Collision

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A man credited with saving two lives in a flaming four-vehicle accident on a busy interstate says he didn't bother to stop and think about helping. He just did it.

"I just wanted to know if there was anyone in there, anyone who could be burned," Bruce Lanford said after the Wednesday accident on Interstate 95 between Fort Lauderdale and Miami.

Police said Lanford pulled a man from a burning truck, then flagged down a passing crane and got the operator to lift the truck off a car in which a critically injured woman was trapped.

"I've seen people burned in aircraft accidents," said Lanford, 35, an Air Force veteran. "I didn't want that to happen here."

Woman Critical. The woman, identified as Dora Weisberg, 63, of Hollywood, was listed in critical condition at Parkway General Hospital after five hours of surgery. A spokesman said she suffered a crushed chest, broken legs and head injuries.

State Trooper Jack Kelly said the woman apparently lost control of her car, crossed the median strip and struck a second car before swerving head-on into the liquor-laden truck. The truck hit a van and wound up on top of the Weisberg car, bursting into flames.

Lanford, a supervisor for a construction-barricade company, said that when he saw the collision he radioed his office to alert police and then ran to help the trucker escape through a window.

"By the time I got there the truck was already on fire and the man was trapped inside," he said.

Two Bandits Take $200,000 In Gems

DALLAS (AP) — A part-time dealer in diamonds surrendered stashes he valued at $200,000 to two gunmen at his office Wednesday.

Brad Boyar, 45, owner of an import firm bearing his name, said the intruders posed as clients asking an appraisal of a 1.28-carat diamond. While he was examining it they produced automatic pistols. "They just said it was a stickup and stuck a gun to the back of my head," he related. The cool robbers pulled out nylon strips with friction locks, bound him hand and foot, put him face down on the floor and proceeded to ransack his safe, Boyar said.

He said their haul consisted of uninsured loose diamonds and other gems worth $125,000 to $150,000 plus mounted stones valued at $50,000 to $60,000.

Referring to the nylon strips, Boyar said, "They could very easily have put one of them around my neck and I would be dead. I was scared . . . and I heard one of them pull the slide back on his automatic before they left. Boyar, a Delta Air Lines pilot who sells precious stones as a side line, said the bandits found him alone because he planned to move his place of business today. He had sent his secretary to oversee installation of telephones at the new location.

Both men were in their mid 20s, he estimated—one with dark complexion and brown hair, the other blond.

Boyar said the gunmen did not threaten him and they departed quietly, walking unnoticed down a corridor of office fronts in his North Dallas building. "I kept yelling loudly," he said, "and somebody came in and untied me about 10 minutes after they left."

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

His 'Ex' Married Her Brother

DEAR ABBY: My husband's ex-wife and I (his present wife) are the best of friends. I had nothing to do with their divorce. In fact, I never even met Ray until they were divorced. People seem to think that whenever there's a divorce, there's got to be someone waiting in the wings.

Ray never hated his ex-wife, and she never hated him. They just decided after five years that they couldn't make a go of their marriage, so they called it quits. (No children involved.)

After I married Ray, I met his "ex" and we became friends. My brother (who's a naval officer) came to town, and I introduced Ray's "ex" to my brother, and wouldn't you know, it was love at first sight! They were married New Year's Day in our home, and Ray and I stood up for them.

Everybody thinks we're the craziest people in town because we didn't let divorce make us bitter and backbiting.

Please print this to let people know that just because two people are divorced doesn't mean they have to hate each other.

LOVE AND LET LOVE

DEAR LOVE: Lovely! It's not every man who's lucky enough to marry a woman who has a brother for his "ex."

DEAR ABBY: They say in most marriages, you grow closer as the years go by. Not us.

After 20 years, there isn't much left to our marriage. We have three teen-age children, and after the last one leaves us we will have nothing. Some days we don't have even five words to say to each other.

If one of us should die, I don't think the other would miss much. He would miss his meals and clean clothes, and I would miss his paycheck.

Do we go on like this until one of us dies? Or do we go our separate ways and try to make new lives for ourselves? I am 45 and he is 50.

MARKING TIME

DEAR MARKING: If you both agree that there isn't much left to your marriage, why not talk about it? Try to remember what you saw in each other 20 years ago. Get some dialogue going. Communicate. Even if it's bitter and argumentative, it will clear the air, and perhaps signal the beginning of a new start. It's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, single and have been going with this guy I'll call Jim for four months. Jim is good looking.

Trick Is Cotton — Snacks Will Soon Provide Nutrients

By MARGUERITE SULLIVAN
 Copley News Service

LUBBOCK — Snack foods will soon be good for you.

Soon you can drink a Bloody Mary and get as much protein as you do from a glass of milk.

Before long you'll be able to eat a cupcake and drink an orange pop and have all your daily nutritional requirements.

The trick is cotton.

Not cotton you wear, but cotton you eat.

They both come from the same plant but until recently it was the plant's lint, with its characteristics to be woven into cloth, that received the most attention.

Today its food properties, which come from the cottonseed, are getting more of the limelight.

What's important is that cotton contains so much protein. From the cottonseed a flour can be made having 65 per cent protein.

The flour will be available in February when the Plains Oil Cooperative Mill in Lubbock turns the switch on its new flour mill. The mill will turn out more than 25 tons of flour daily.

Officials of the National Cotton Council of America, a national association for cotton producers and manufacturers, say the Lubbock facility will be the first commercial plant to produce the flour.

Until recently, the cottonseed was not edible by man. A dark gland in the seed, called gossypol, made one-stomached animals, such as man, sick. But for multi-stomached animals, like cattle, there is no problem. Consequently, much of the seed was used for cattle feed.

Removes Gossypol

In 1968, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's southern regional research center in New Orleans discovered a process which could take the gossypol out of the seed. The procedure, called the liquid cyclone process, is being installed for commercial production at the Lubbock plant.

The fluffy white powder that will be extracted will be used in a range of products from cakes and cookies to soft drinks, meats such as hamburger, cereals, breads, crackers, baby foods, candy and even whipped toppings.

You won't see the flour bagged on the supermarket shelf, said John Herzer, general manager of the Lubbock mill. Instead, it will be used primarily by the food industry to boost the amount of protein in its food.

Increases Protein

Add a tablespoon to a soda pop and it will have 2 per cent protein, he said. Put the same amount in tomato juice—the basis for a Bloody Mary—and protein will be increased from 0.9 per cent to 3.5 per cent, the same protein content as a glass of milk.

Cottonseed isn't the only protein supplement in the oilseed family. There are also soybeans and peanuts. Each have certain beneficial properties the others don't.

Cottonseed's asset is that it is light, has a sweet smell and taste, and doesn't impart a beany flavor as soybeans can.

Cottonseed extract also dissolves completely in slightly acid liquids, such as soft drinks. That means with the cottonseed juice added to it, soda pop of the future will have the same taste but offer more nutrition.

Many of the other oilseed extracts don't dissolve in acid solutions, said Margaret Harden, assistant professor in the department of food nutrition of Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Big Difference

The extra bit will make a big difference, Mrs. Harden said. Wheat flour has 12 per cent protein content, whereas cottonseed flour has 65 per cent.

"When we made wheat flour crackers and then added cottonseed flour, we found with just wheat the crackers were 9.1 per cent protein but with cottonseed flour added, protein was 40 per cent," she said.

Adding more cottonseed than 20 per cent is a problem in breads and cakes because the dough won't rise.

On the whole, breads baked with the cottonseed flour are heavier, more compact, have a rougher texture and a color similar to whole wheat bread.

"Replacing the 10 to 20 per cent of wheat flour in bakery products with cottonseed flour often yields a protein content higher than meat," said Herzer.

Meat Booster

The cottonseed flour also can be used to boost processed meat's protein. It is added to gravy, to breakfast foods, sausage and hot dogs and is good for topping because it can easily be whipped, said Wilda Martinez, head of protein products research in the oilseed and food lab at USDA's New Orleans facility.

There is a lot of cottonseed protein available.

"When cotton growers produce a bale of cotton per acre, they also are producing about 100 pounds of protein," said Herzer. "This is about four times as much protein per acre as a cow and calf beef ranch that might produce a 500-pound calf on two acres."

"Unit for unit, beef protein costs 10 cents compared to only half a cent for cottonseed flour. That is why we say cottonseed protein costs only a 20th as much as other protein."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Anyone Heard Of A Cigarette Purse?

By POLLY CRAMER
 Newspaper Association

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Not too long ago I saw a purse made of cigarette papers shown on a midday television program. I hope some reader can tell me how such purses are made.

MRS. L.K.

DEAR MRS. L.K. — This is a really new idea to me. What will you think of next? Surely some of our many readers will enlighten us on the subject and by so doing help the ecology problem — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with women friends who drop by, come in the kitchen door and set their purses on the kitchen counter or table and then go on in to put them down on the dining room table. Handbags are not clean on the bottom. One never thinks where they may have been put down before they are put on a clean table.

My second Pet Peeve is with the lukewarm cup of water one gets with a package of instant coffee in many restaurants. Since so many of us are now going the decaffeinated way it seems they could brew it and bring it to the table hot like any other coffee. — MRS. P.L.C.

DEAR POLLY — My suggestion for June whose covered plastic indoor garbage pail reeks with a bad odor is to put a layer of newspaper in the bottom and then several moth balls. The plastic or paper bag that actually holds the garbage can be removed without discarding the odor preventive until it needs changing. A GRANDMOTHER.

Polly's note — Frequently spray the inside of the can with a household disinfectant and remove the garbage bag at least once a day.

DEAR POLLY — My daughter, 5, keeps the spaces under the refrigerator, stove and washer free of lint and dirt and thinks she is playing. After wall-to-wall carpeting was installed I gave her a piece about 8 x 36 inches and she turns this upside down and pushes it under the appliances with her foot. She then does the "twist" for a few minutes and then retraces the carpet strip. When turned over it has an amazing amount of dust adhering to it. I easily dispose of this by shaking, sweeping or vacuuming. — CECILLE.

DEAR POLLY — When the preparation of a meal requires opening a can do not discard the can until after mealtime. In the meantime rinse and set the can on the stove, drop your cooking spoons, etc., in it. You will find you are saved from having to wash your spoon rest or that extra dirty spot on the stove or counter. — JUDY.

Pat Pearson, Joe Miller Wed In Formal Ceremony

BIG SPRING — Patricia Kim Pearson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pearson of Big Spring, formerly of Midland, and Joe D. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Miller Jr. of Big Spring, were married in a formal ceremony at 2 p.m. Saturday in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church.

Prior to leaving for a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple was honored with a reception in Big Spring Country Club. They have attended Howard County Junior College, and plan to continue their studies at Texas Tech University.

The bride wore a gown with a princess silhouette. Chantilly lace fashioned the bodice and bishop sleeves, with crystal pleat ruffling and bridal pearls accentuating the high neckline. A column of lace extended down the skirt front and encircled the hemline, which swept to a chapel train. She also had a Camelot cap of beaded Chantilly lace holding a fingertip-length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of white butterfly roses, gypsophila and Camellia foliage.

The maid of honor was Cathy Hinderliter of Portales, N.M. The bridesmaids were Ava D. Brown of Brownfield and Julie K. Miller, sister of the bridegroom.

Robert W. Sadler was the best man, and the bride's brothers, Greg, Steve and Brad Pearson, were the groomsmen and ushers.

Korean Meetings Continue

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — Hot war, cold war and now during detente, the Americans still meet briefly every day with North Koreans at this truce site in the bleak Korean demilitarized zone.

And every month or so the American-led United Nations Command or the Communist side calls a full-dress meeting of the Military Armistice Commission made up of the nations which fought in the 1950-53 war.

The meetings at this isolated collection of metal buildings where the armistice was signed usually turn into a propaganda forum with one side denouncing the other for alleged violations of the 23-year-old agreement.

Negotiating Channel

Despite their drawbacks, the meetings remain the main negotiating channel for Washington and Seoul in their dealings with North Korea, one of the most hardline of the Communist nations. Presumably the years of talking have contributed to keeping the peace.

Panmunjom has become a tourist attraction and is the one place visitors can see North Korean soldiers and get a glimpse of the uninhabited demilitarized zone. About 20,000 visitors took the 35-mile bus ride north from Seoul last year to visit the negotiating site.

"While Panmunjom has never accomplished much substantial," a U.N. Command officer recently said, "at the same time it has been effective in that we have talked. We have Panmunjom to let off steam."

For many people around the world the name Panmunjom came to symbolize the frustrating business of negotiating with Communist nations during the cold war era. Thousands of soldiers on opposing sides were killed during the two years of talking before a truce was agreed upon in July 1953.

Battle Lines Stabilized

During those two years of talking the battle lines stabilized, but Americans continued to die at such remote spots as "Pork Chop Hill," "Old Baldy," and "Heartbreak Ridge."

Eventually an armistice was arranged at Panmunjom. It came after the Communists agreed with the U.N. Command that North Korean and Chinese prisoners of war held in the South would have a choice in whether to return home.

Panmunjom grabbed world attention again in 1968 when it was the site of negotiations for return of the imprisoned crew of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo seized by North Korea. The seamen came south across the "Bridge of No Return" to freedom at Panmunjom.

The negotiating site now has become the center for Red Cross and direct low-level governmental talks between North and South Korea. The talks are stalemated, but the eventual goal is unification of the divided Korean peninsula.

Latin American Nations Urged To Hold Fire On New United States Trade Law

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico and Costa Rica have urged other Latin American countries to hold their fire against the new United States trade law.

Mexican Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa told newsmen he "lamented very much" that because of the law's restrictions on countries joining trade cartels, Venezuela and Ecuador plan to boycott a meeting Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is going to hold with Latin American foreign ministers at Buenos Aires in March.

Goal Listed

"One of the goals of the meeting is to achieve a dialogue and to tell the United States about our demands," Rabasa said.

Costa Rican Foreign Minister Gonzalo J. Facio also expressed disappointment because of the boycott, saying that "the trade law... must be analyzed carefully in the Buenos Aires meeting."

The trade law admits many manufactured products of developing countries to the United States duty free. But this is denied to members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, including Venezuela and Ecuador.

Authorization Given

President Ford is also authorized to suspend tariff preferences for countries that join other cartels or nationalize U.S. holdings without compensation.

Mexico could incur such retaliatory action on at least two counts, having recently joined coffee and sugar cartels. And because of its recent discovery of huge oil deposits, Mexico plans to become an observer member of the oil cartel.

Nixon Observes 62nd Birthday

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, secluded in his oceanfront estate once called the Western White House, observes his 62nd birthday today.

Rabbi Baruch Korff, among Nixon's staunchest supporters, was one of the few persons on hand for the occasion, and provided the freshest account in weeks of the nation's former chief executive.

In a telephone interview Wednesday, the rabbi described Nixon as "sad at the course of events" that saw him fall from the presidency in the Watergate scandal.

Nixon Heartened

But the rabbi, who founded the President Nixon Justice Fund to try to shore up his troubled finances, said Nixon has been "heartened by the expression of good will" flowing in from around the world for his birthday.

Nixon's birthday plans for today were simple, the rabbi said — just "a quiet day with Mrs. Nixon." Sometime during the day his daughters, Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox, were expected to call from their East Coast homes to wish him a happy birthday.

Word Picture

The rabbi, who has met frequently with Nixon since flying here from Massachusetts several days ago, drew a brief word picture of the former president: Nixon spends his days sleeping, reading, doing some work and resting at his beachfront estate, the rabbi reported.

Asked about Nixon's spirits, Rabbi Korff said, "It is hard to describe his spirits considering what he has endured and is enduring physically and emotionally. I would describe his spirits as compassionate. He is sad at the course of events."

Nixon, whose future plans never have been spelled out, is still recuperating from surgery for a phlebitis-induced blood clot in his left leg and from a near-fatal shock that followed the operation.

Occasional Visitor

A Nixon spokesman added in a separate interview, "He has an occasional visitor. He is not isolated. He spends some time reading and if I know the President he watched the bowl games on television."

Beset by mounting legal expenses since his resignation last August, Nixon recently mailed a check for $11,000 to pay his medical bills. Sources indicated this will pay the total bill outstanding. Nixon lacked medical insurance to cover the expenses.

Rabbi Korff said he had donated $1,000 to the "Nixon Justice Fund" as a birthday gift to help pay Nixon's legal expenses.

Nixon has made no public statement recently, but an aide said last week he was "angry" at the conviction of four of his aides in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Poor In U.S. Concentrated In South, New Report Says

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The nation's poor are concentrated in the South, according to a report released today by the Southern Regional Council.

The report also concludes that inflation is increasing rapidly in the South, worsening the problem.

In addition, federal government methods of computing poverty statistics fail to take into account the comparatively tougher effects of inflation on poor people, the study charged.

The study included Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Poverty levels established in 1964-65 by the federal government are updated each year to reflect changes in the cost of living by the increase in the total consumer price index.

However, the study noted that beginning in 1972, the proportionate price increases in items for which the poor spend their money were greater than in the total index.

"What this means is that since 1972 the number of actual poor has been understated and that, as inflation continues, especially in food prices, that number will continue to be understated," said the council, a research organization supported by grants from foundations and private citizens.

"Work is no guarantee against poverty," the study said.

"The majority of Southern poor, in fact, do work, but do not earn enough to raise their families' income above poverty levels," the study said.

The study said the South has only 25 per cent of the national population but 38 per cent of the nation's poor.

According to the study, the South's poverty rate of 21 per cent was twice that of the remaining 39 states, with poverty rates far higher among blacks than whites.

Richard Tucker, Met Tenor, Dies

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Richard Tucker, 61, a one-time synagogue choirboy who became one of the world's leading tenors with the Metropolitan Opera, died Wednesday, apparently of a heart attack. He was in Kalamazoo to appear in concert with baritone Robert Merrill when stricken.

Former Hospital Administrator Indicted

HOUSTON (AP) — John W. Hankins, former administrator of the North Central General Hospital, has been indicted by a Harris County grand jury on charges of stealing from the hospital.

Two other men also were named in the indictments returned Wednesday.

Hankins was accused of stealing $10,000. He was charged with altering the minutes of a 1972 directors meeting so he would illegally receive the money for professional services.

District Court Judge Garth Bates set bond at $2,600 bond for Hankins, who was terminated as administrator last July.

Norman A. Blower, 32, was indicted on a charge of stealing a hospital air conditioner and refrigerator. Blower was supervisor of construction for the 150-bed hospital until his discharge in 1972, investigators said.

R. H. Pears, a leasing agent for trailers, was indicted with Blower on charges of falsifying an invoice to disguise shipment of a private mobile home on a shipment of an office trailer bought by the hospital.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Osborne Pickett said the indictments ended a grand jury probe begun in November. The hospital has been in operation a year and has filed for a debt arrangement in federal court.

Shell Challenges FEA Rental Policy

HOUSTON (AP) — Shell Oil Co. has filed a lawsuit seeking to have a policy of the Federal Energy Administration regarding service station rental costs declared unlawful.

The company stated in the federal court petition Wednesday that the policy prevents Shell from passing along cost increases to station operators.

The FEA ruling last year regulates the rental charges on stations leased and sub-leased by Shell and prohibits the company from charging more than the rental rate charged prior to May 15, 1973.

The company, which leases about 10,000 stations, alleges the ruling is causing it to suffer a substantial loss in revenue.

Shell contends that the charges for rental bear no relationship to prices for gasoline. Rental charges are established in accordance with the value of various stations, the suit said.

Murder Suspect Sought

LEONIA, N.J. (AP) — Authorities are looking for a 12-year-old boy and a man who allegedly tied up six people, ransacked a house and murdered a nurse who pleaded for her life in a basement.

The assailants took Miss Fasching and Welby to separate parts of the basement. Welby said he heard her scream in terror and cry. "I thought you weren't going to hurt me."

The 90-year-old woman, Blanche Smith, was not tied up, Woodcock said.

Film Makes Baer Rich

Copley News Service. HOLLYWOOD — Max Baer, sharp-witted, good-natured, outspoken and very rich — was contemplating his recent good fortune and prospects for more of the same.

"Macon County Line," his first picture as a writer-producer, is making money hand over fist, which means Max is too. It's expected to bring in $40 million, of which Baer will get approximately $7.5 million, while his second production, "J. McCulloch," is expected to do even better.

Max makes no secret of the fact that immediately before the "Macon County Line" bonanza, he was in bad shape professionally, financially and emotionally.

Not even in his wildest dreams did he anticipate his present prestige and affluence.

"Did I dream I'd ever make $7.5 million?" said Max, repeating a question. "No. I never got that high. There's no way I could have smoked that much.

"After 'The Beverly Hillbillies' ended, I couldn't even get a job. I did two 'Love American Styles' and a 'Movie of the Week,' and that's all.

"I was thinking of trying to get a job selling cars. During that period, if I made as much as $5,000 a year, I would have thought I was on Easy Street. I would have been rolling."

So, with nothing else going for him, Max noted an interesting story in a newspaper, converted it into a movie script, and, with the help of a friend, Roger Camras, with whom he golfed, raised the money to produce a picture.

"We actually raised $100,000," Max said. "Most of the picture we made with my Shell credit card."

His next picture, "J. J. McCulloch," was made from another script Max wrote, getting his idea this time not from the paper, but "out of my head."

With Baer producing, directing and starring in the film, it cost $1.5 million, which Max himself invested.

American-International will release it in May.

"Now," Max said, "I'm writing a script for a picture about oil in Texas. I'm calling it 'Shamrock,' and it should cost about $5 million. If anyone else made it, though, it would cost $12 million to $13 million.

"There's no justice in this business," Baer went on to say. "But if you worry about that, you go crazy."

"Yes, I've noticed people are friendlier now than they were when I was unemployed but if they weren't my friends before, they aren't my friends now. I've shut the door."

"Emotionally, my lowest point didn't come when I was out of work. It came while I was doing 'The Beverly Hillbillies,' because I didn't like the show. But I thought I'd rather do that than do nothing."

"I like writing and producing, but I still like acting, too. I like it all, because I like the feeling of people knowing who I am."

"Actors who claim they hate being recognized are lying. For, if they really felt that way, they wouldn't be in the business."

All-Region Band Concert Set

The 4-A all-region band concert scheduled Saturday night in Lee High School auditorium will present works ranging from Sousa's "Pride of the Wolverines" to the overture to Hector Berlioz' "Beatrice and Benedict."

Participating in the concert, sponsored by the Texas Music Educators Association, will be top instrumentalists from Midland and Lee high schools, joined by those from Big Spring, Odessa and Permian high schools. The players were chosen recently in elimination events at the various high schools.

Conducting the Saturday night musical event will be Dr. William D. Revelli, director emeritus of the University of Michigan bands. Dr. Revelli, who currently serves as educational director for the Chicago Musical Instrument Co., and as editor of "Music World," is regarded as one of the top band clinicians and directors in the U. S. His keen interest in bands and band music takes him to all parts of the nation and elsewhere in the world in the role of guest conductor, clinician and adjudicator.

Dr. Revelli, who began his conducting career at Hobart, Ind., was named director of bands at the University of Michigan in 1935, and at the same time became chairman of the wind instrument department. He held these posts for 36 years until retirement in 1971.

From one band and a wind instrument faculty of one (Dr. Revelli), back in 1935 came a department of seven bands with a total of more than 500 members and a wind instrument faculty of more than a dozen nationally-recognized performer-teachers.

Dr. Revelli will arrive in Midland today and will be working with instrumentalists of the five participating high schools in clinic and rehearsal sessions at Lee High School Friday and Saturday, culminating in the concert Saturday night. The event will be open to the public at no charge.

In addition to the Sousa and Berlioz works, Dr. Revelli has programmed the "March of the Tripod" by Tull, the Praeludium and Allegro by Gianini, the "Blessed Are They" segment of Brahms', "A German Requiem," a "Gershwin Portrait," arranged by Robert Russell Bennett, the "Dama Finale" from "Estancia" by Ginastera and the "Testament of an American" by Reed.

Top instrumentalists in the weekend clinic and concert here will participate in an area clinic and concert scheduled at Lubbock Jan. 18. The all-state band event will be held at Dallas Feb. 12-14.

Art Exhibit Planned At Carlsbad Caverns

CARLSBAD, N.M. — Permian Basin artists are invited to enter paintings in the fourth annual art exhibit to be held at the Carlsbad Caverns National Park visitor center March 26-April 9.

The show each year features paintings representative of either Carlsbad Caverns or Guadalupe Mountains National Park, and announcement is being made now in order to allow artists sufficient time to

All area artists are invited to participate and they may work on paintings in either park between now and the time of the show without having to pay park entrance fees. Each artist may enter up to three paintings, and entries should be delivered to the park visitor center between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 noon on March 26 for registration and hanging. There is no registration fee.

The show was first held in 1972 as a means of celebrating the National Parks centennial and has continued as an annual event with interest growing steadily each year. The first year approximately 30 paintings were entered, and by 1974 the number of entries had grown to 106.

As in the past, park visitors viewing the show will be given an opportunity to cast ballots for their favorites, and ribbons will be awarded winners as determined by popular vote of park visitors.

Big Spring Chief To Attend School

A 1959 graduate from the FBI law enforcement school, Chisum will take the course under financing by the federal government.

HGO Sets Special Concert

HOUSTON — World renowned opera soprano Beverly Sills and equally-renowned opera conductor-director Sarah Caldwell will help celebrate Houston Grand Opera's current 20th anniversary season in splendid fashion when they join in a special concert here Wednesday.

The event will be in Jones Hall for the Performing Arts in downtown Houston and tickets are now on sale at the opera offices in Jones Hall, 615 that have been milestones of Louisiana St. The HGO telephone number is (713) 227-1297.

"The two ladies are planning what should amount to one exciting and historic concert even," said HGO general director David Gockley, who added that not even he was aware of all the festivity in the works.

"Although Sarah Caldwell and I have long since reached agreement on most of the program, she insists on maintaining an element of surprise," he said.

What is certain, adds Gockley, is that the program will include many of the arias from operas that have been milestones of Miss Sills' career. "She will perform selections from her five Houston Opera appearances and what should amount to one ex-over that have made her, in the words of Time Magazine, 'the singing actress without peer in all of opera today.'

"We anticipate a very special evening," said Gockley, "with the idea that it will serve both as a celebration of our 20 years in Houston and — more importantly — as a way of thanking our patrons for enabling Houston Grand Opera to become one of the leading companies in the U.S. today. It is their support which has allowed us to broaden the opera's outreach to the community through its student matinees, its free opera in the park, its Texas Opera Theater touring ensemble, plus the regular productions in Jones Hall."

Tickets to the gala benefit event vary according to seat location, ranging from $5 to $100, the latter constituting sponsorship status and entitling

Dance Horizons Continue To Widen For Ex-Permian Civic Ballet Members

Dance horizons are continuing to widen for various members and former members of Midland's Permian Civic Ballet.

Three former dancers in the company who are now enrolled in the National Academy of Dance at Champaign, Ill., will be joined by a fourth Midland dancer, Kerri McClatchy, when the school resumes classes next week.

The three already holding scholarships at the academy are Jill and Megan Murphy, daughters of Col. and Mrs. John H. Murphy, and Susan Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark. Miss McClatchy, the most recent recipient of a scholarship for study at the school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McClatchy.

Another former dancer in the Permian Civic company, Donna Ross, this month joined the Joffrey II dance company of the Robert Joffrey Ballet in New York City.

Miss Ross, a charter member of Permian Civic Ballet, was a featured dancer in several of the early productions of the company in 1969 and 1970, before going to Buffalo, N.Y., for study at the Ballet Center of Buffalo, where she also was a dancer with the Festival Ballet company. She was a guest artist with the Joffrey II company on its national tour two seasons ago.

This past fall, Miss Ross attended the University of Rochester at Rochester, N.Y. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Ross of Midland.

The National Academy of Dance, where the four younger Midland dancers will be studying this spring, offers a wide spectrum of dance instruction in addition to regular academic courses for its students. The academy is under the technical direction of Michael Maule, widely-known as a dance teacher as well as performer. He was one of the founders of the academy, which now draws serious students of dance from throughout the nation.

The Misses Murphy and Miss Clark have been seen in numerous Permian Civic dance concerts in recent years. Miss McClatchy had featured parts in the Permian company's "Christmas Gala" presented here last month, and also danced in several previous productions of the company.

Presley is reportedly in deeper privacy that usual because he is overweight and is trying to trim himself to his usual 180 pounds.

Presley reportedly has said he does not intend to appear in public until his weight is down, but some friends insist that he is not really fat.

'AM America' Seems 80 Per Cent Froth—Dull Froth

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Would everyone who likes that new ABC morning show called "AM America" please stand up? Thank you, sir. The rest of you, have patience. It could get better eventually.

Co-anchored by newsmen Bill Beutel and actress Stephanie Edwards, it seemed dedicated to the proposition that the average viewer has an attention span of .07 of a second. Oh, yes, "AM America." Well, on Tuesday, the show seemed slightly better. For one thing, it had no follow-up report on what to look for in the Burpee seed catalogue, a Monday feature.

Monday when I had the impression someone whispered every now and then about sharp fighting, gold and the CIA and quickly withdrew.

The withdrawal wasn't too wise when you consider, say, Miss Edwards' interview that day with Dustin Hoffman and Cleavon Little regarding a new Broadway show in which the two men are involved.

Hoffman told her it was a pleasure to "see you, hear you, smell you and hopefully touch you." It went sideways from there.

Retiring Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and former Attorney General Elliott Richardson checked in briefly and forgettably as "guest" commentators. Then came John Lindsay, another guest commentator.

Esoteric Performing Group Organized On WTSU Campus

CANYON — With the recent acquisition of several little-known musical instruments, including cornetto, cornettino and a set of five matched recorders, West Texas State University's music department has the nucleus of a new and highly specialized performance group to be known as the Collegium Musicum.

allowing Prince Hamlet to discuss the recorder both fondly and at some length.

The cornetto, so named because it was originally made from the horn of an animal, is also a woodwind instrument which was much favored in the Renaissance for the sweetness of its sound and its ability to blend with voices.

The ensemble is co-sponsored by Prof. Robert Krause, who is responsible for rehearsals, and Prof. Matilde Gaume, who researches for repertoire and related matter.

The recorder, a vertical flute tracing its ancestry many centuries back into history, has had its enthusiasts in every age. Queen Isabella of Spain and England's Henry VIII both included numerous recorders in their personal belongings, and Musicum, appearing first in Germany and later in the United States, were in fact characterized by their devotion to old music, particularly that of the renaissance and baroque periods.

The idea would be to make the government more directly accountable to our elected representatives and thus avoid future Watergates. Lindsay used that to ease into a criticism of President Ford's new commission to probe allegations of domestic spying by the CIA.

Originating in the musically fertile milieu of 17th Century German universities, early Collegium Musicum groups boasted such distinguished members as Kuhnau, Telemann and J. S. Bach. Out of early Collegium Musicums and other such associations — which were numerous — grew the concert societies of Europe, many of which still exist, and their American counterparts.

Additional Planned "We hope eventually to add viola da gamba, shawm, sackbut and lute to our instrumentation," Dr. Gaume stated. The viola da gamba and the shawm are distantly related to the 'cello and the oboe respectively.

Radio Shack Giving Big Hand To '75 American Song Festival

FORT WORTH — Radio Shack stores, across the nation, including those in Midland and elsewhere in West Texas, will serve as distribution centers for entry forms and information on the 1975 American Song Festival, according to an announcement by the Fort Worth-based chain.

Malcolm C. Klein, president of the American Song Festival, declared that "Radio Shack is one of the most aggressive marketing chains in the country. The geographical spread of stores will make it really convenient for aspiring songwriters to enter this year's competition."

for amateurs and professionals. Entrants do not have to know how to write music. All they need do is have their song recorded on a cassette tape.

DAMAGE PUT AT $2 MILLION— Grass Fire Is Blamed For Warehouse Blaze

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — In-surance and fire investigators believe a minor grass fire sparked a more than $2 million blaze which razed an Industrial Lubricants, Inc., warehouse on the city's north side Wednesday.

But they have no idea what touched off the grass fire, said Bob Boerner, treasurer of the Sigmor Corp., which owns Industrial Lubricants.

A dark, oily plume of smoke rose hundreds of feet from the warehouse as firemen battled the flames from just before noon into the night. By dusk the billowing black smoke had given way to a light, gray curtain filtering upward from the smoldering ruins.

Fully Insured

Boerner gave the estimate of more than $2 million damage but said the structure and its contents were fully insured. It housed cans of petroleum derivatives and various machine parts.

Connie Rhodes, a foreman at the warehouse, said firemen arrived before noon to put out a brush fire behind the firm.

All fire units except one had left when Rhodes said he noticed a four-foot high blaze inside the warehouse.

"The next thing we knew, it was spread all over the place," Rhodes said. "I believe this fire started from the brush fire."

More than 115 firemen using 23 pieces of equipment eventually responded to the blaze. Several firemen were taken to area hospitals, but spokesmen termed their injuries as "minor."

Some Explosions

Fire chief I. O. Martinez said small explosions hampered firefighters for a while as cans of flammable liquids popped open and fueled the flames.

Small cans which exploded peppered the perimeter of the area like mortars and police kept some 300 spectators back.

By mid-afternoon authorities pronounced the fire controlled and said it no longer posed a threat to nearby petroleum storage tanks at a neighboring Exxon petroleum plant.

Traffic backed up almost a mile in each direction as police closed down a lengthy section of Interstate 35 to let firemen run their hoses across the high-rivatives and various machine parts.

Fire Spreads

Martinez said quick response kept the flames from spreading to other buildings in the Industrial Lubricants complex or nearby petroleum storage tanks.

He said also that use of more than 100 firefighters and some reserve equipment kept the fire from spreading. "We kind've ganged up on it," Martinez said.

Postmaster General Klassen Quits Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Benjamin F. Bailar has been named to succeed Elmer T. Klassen, who is quitting as postmaster general after a barrage of criticism about postal service and rates.

"My only reservation in stepping aside is that it may appear I am yielding the battle to the critics of the Postal Service. Nothing could be less justified," Klassen said Wednesday in a statement accompanying his resignation.

The Postal Service's board of governors named Deputy Postmaster General Bailar to succeed Klassen in the $60,000-a-year position.

Stormy Tenure

Klassen, 66, became head of the agency Jan. 1, 1972, six months after it was removed from political control and turned over to business-type management. It was a stormy 3-year tenure.

A House committee said last year that the reorganized Postal Service "has failed to noticeably improve the quality of mail service."

In addition, the service's operating deficit has doubled and the cost of first-class mail has increased by 25 per cent, the committee said.

Probe Results Cited

A congressional investigation concluded last month that the Postal Service circumvented regulations and encouraged favoritism, inefficiency and waste.

The service had a deficit of $438 million in the last fiscal year, not counting $1.75 billion of government subsidies to cover normally money-losing services.

Rate Boost Seen

Klassen has said the postal deficit could double in the current fiscal year and predicted a boost to 13 cents in the cost of mailing a first-class letter by July 1. The rate rose last March from 8 to 10 cents.

Klassen, who gave no details of his future plans, is a former president of the American Can Co. His resignation is effective Feb. 15.

Bailar, 40, also was an executive of the American Can Co. before joining the postal Service in April 1972. He has been deputy postmaster for little more than a month.

Winter Storm Dumps Heavy Snow In West

By The Associated Press

A sprawling winter storm dumped heavy snow into the West today, triggered high winds over a wide area and sent up storm watches eastward into the Plains.

Up to a foot of snow fell in mountain areas and valleys of the intermountain region through Wednesday. Travel advisories were in effect for snow-covered roads, additional snow and blowing and drifting snow in parts of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico and California.

Watch Hoisted

A winter storm watch was hoisted for Minnesota, South Dakota, parts of Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado. A heavy snow warning was out in western Colorado, and a winter storm warning was up in northern eastern Arizona. Five inches of snow whitened Flagstaff, Ariz., overnight.

Gale warnings flew along the Pacific Coast from northern California through Washington. Sharply colder temperatures settled in behind the still developing storm.

Rain splashed over the Eastern Seaboard and spilled inland over the Appalachians as well. Fog thickened in parts of the South before daybreak.

Fair Weather Scarce

Fair weather remained a scarcity. Skies cleared along parts of the Pacific Coast and in scattered areas from Texas to Tennessee.

Unseasonable mildness clung to the eastern third of the country, maintaining overnight temperatures in the 40s as far north as New York and Pennsylvania.

Temperatures Given

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -3 at Cut Bank, Mont., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Woman Nominated To Serve On NLRB

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty S. Murphy is being nominated by President Ford as the first female member of the National Labor Relations Board, and the President says he will designate her chairman if the nomination is confirmed by the Senate.

Miss Murphy, 46, is a former NLRB attorney and has been administrator of the Labor Department's Wage and Hours Division.

Democratic Party Panel Opts For Less Rigid Solutions To Delegate Challenges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a lot of talk about the Democrats creating a rule book to govern party affairs, their new enforcement commission has opted in the direction of less rigid solutions to delegate challenges.

The Compliance Review Commission wrote into its rules Wednesday some provisions to allow proxy voting by members who may not even be present to hear the arguments they must decide.

Two efforts to prevent proxy voting and to require members to hear the evidence before voting were beaten down in the commission's first business session at party headquarters here.

Phyllis Segal of New York, moving to prevent proxies, said the commission could not act as a judicial body, as it purports to be, if members not even present at the hearings could cast absentee votes through blank check proxies held by political allies.

Motion Defeated

Mrs. Segal's motion to ban general proxies and allow only those which stated how the member votes on specific items was beaten 14 to 4 with 2 abstentions.

An 11-3 vote with one abstention defeated another motion which would have retained general proxies but would have banned proxies in votes taken on cases argued at the meeting in which they were cast.

The commission then adopted a rule allowing proxies "for either general purposes or specifically named purposes."

Another victory for this approach came in adoption of a rule which says that minority reports dissenting from state delegate selection proposals must carry the identification of those backing the dissent.

Don Fowler, South Carolina state chairman and head of the drafting committee, said this was included to give the commission some indication of the political clout of the group bringing the challenging—namely the NAACP and the AFL-CIO as groups which might be taken more seriously than an unknown individual.

A major thrust of the reform drive within the Democratic party has been to establish set rules for delegate selection in which challenges could be judged by a quasi-judicial body in preference to the purely political power decisions traditionally fought out on the convention floor.

In welcoming the commission members Wednesday, party chairman Robert S. Strauss reminded the group that "this body is not put together for the purpose of playing presidential politics. It is a judicial group that is expected to act judiciously."

The commission's other major decision was to tighten the drafting committee's proposed regulations to give the commission a stronger voice than its professional staff in the appraisal of the plans which states must get approved before sending delegations to the next presidential nominating convention.

The regulation adopted Wednesday will have the staff prepare an analysis of the state plans to assist the commission in deciding whether the states are in compliance with the rules. The earlier version would have had the staff make recommendations which the commission then would have voted up or down.

Probe Starts Into Natural Gas Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigation has been launched by the Federal Power Commission into natural gas cutbacks by Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Co.

The Houston-based firm is a major gas pipeline operating in states from Texas to New York.

The announcement came Wednesday as FPC hearings continued into gas curtailments by Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co., another major interstate pipeline.

The FPC, in both cases, is investigating massive natural gas curtailments this winter to industrial customers as a result of the national natural gas shortage.

The federal agency said the probe of Transcontinental Gas began because its gas curtailments this winter appeared to be "far in excess of projected amounts."

A number of Transco customers complained that the curtailments had produced severe economic hardships.

The city of Danville, Va., protested that the curtailment resulted in a 55.5 per cent cut of Danville's natural gas supply and Danville city officials said the action threatened some 10,000 jobs at the city's four major industries.

Public hearings in the investigation were to begin Jan. 27 and Transco was ordered to produce records.

The FPC said the records sought would include listings of Transco's over-all natural gas supplies, changes in production levels, storage inventories and all additions and withdrawals from those inventories for the past year.

Strike Looms Against Railroads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads, threatened with strikes against five major carriers later this month, say they have no choice but to resist what they say are unreasonable union demands.

The railroads responded after the Sheet Metal Workers International Association served formal strike notices Wednesday on the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Seaboard Coast Line railroads.

All Notified

All five carriers were notified they would be struck at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 24 because of lingering unsettled issues from the 1973 industry-wide agreement, portions of which have never been accepted by the sheet metal union.

Chief industry negotiator William H. Dempsey accused the union of trying to "whipsaw" the railroads into an agreement that would destroy the industry's multicarrier bargaining unit and "force capitulation to unreasonable demands by one carrier after another."

Dempsey said the railroads would retaliate by refusing to assign work to sheet metal workers on all railroads for the duration of the threatened strike.

Talks Resume

The strike notices were filed as representatives from all 17 railroad unions and the National Railway Labor Conference, the industry's bargaining arm, resumed joint contract talks for the first time since mid-December. The unions represent 560,000 rail workers nationwide.

The threat of a strike is expected to increase pressure to reach a settlement on both the carry-over issues with the sheet metal union and a new national contract with all of the unions.

Only the sheet metal union is legally free to strike as it technically is still negotiating issues that were settled with the other unions in 1973. The other 16 unions still are subject to lengthy mediation procedures under federal railway labor law, which include a 60-day cooling-off period before a walkout.

Commitments Claimed

However, J. W. O'Brien, sheet metal workers vice president, said he has commitments from other unions to honor his union's picket lines.

The unions are seeking an initial 20 per cent wage boost and a 15 per cent increase the second year, plus a cost-of-living escalator clause and other fringe benefits. They previously rejected an industry offer of a 9 per cent pay hike with 3 per cent more in each of the second and third years of a new contract.

Railroad workers currently average $5.77 an hour, according to the industry.

An 11-3 vote with one abstention defeated another motion which would have retained general proxies but would have

Justice Department Unit Confirms It Gave CIA Names Of Radicals In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department domestic intelligence unit provided the Central Intelligence Agency with names of between 9,000 and 10,000 U.S. radicals in 1970, a Justice Department official confirmed Wednesday.

James T. Devine, now with Justice's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said the names of domestic radicals were provided to the CIA with a request that the spy agency increase its surveillance of these people while they were on trips abroad.

It could not be learned whether the names supplied by the Justice Department were the same ones mentioned in a recent New York Times story alleging that the CIA conducted illegal domestic surveillance on antiwar activists and had the names of 10,000 Americans in its files.

personnel and property, Devine said.

"Quite a few of them were going overseas, particularly to meetings in Europe," Devine said. "We wanted CIA to increase their coverage of them there to see who they were meeting, what they were planning, whether they were getting foreign training in sabotage and other foreign support," Devine said.

Two Meetings

Devine said he had two meetings with Ober, one to turn over the list and another to discuss mechanics of CIA surveillance. "There were problems, because they weren't leaving from New York. Most were leaving from Canada or Mexico City and CIA had limited manpower," Devine said.

The CIA reports on foreign activity were channeled back to the FBI, Devine said.

Scientists Studying What They Believe May Be Long-Sought Cancer Virus

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Cancer Institute scientists are studying a virus found in the cultured blood cells of a leukemia patient that they believe may be a long-sought human cancer virus.

They are conducting additional tests on blood from the patient and other biochemical tests to seek further support for their conclusions.

If it is confirmed that the virus is of human origin and not a viral contaminant from an animal, medical researchers would have a powerful new tool to develop accurate methods of early detection of some forms of cancer and perhaps more effective treatments.

Not Contagious

The scientists emphasized that the presence of a virus associated with a form of leukemia doesn't mean the disease is contagious.

The findings of Drs. Robert C. Gallo and Robert E. Gallagher were first reported last month at a meeting of hematologists in Atlanta. A more formal report will appear in Science magazine Jan. 21.

"I think we're much more certain about this than previous virus isolates," Gallo said Wednesday.

"That this virus really is a contaminant is a possibility that has not been 100 per cent excluded," Gallo cautioned.

Intense Search

The search for a human cancer virus has been intense in recent years and several times researchers have announced what they considered strong evidence for such a virus.

But in most cases, the virus being studied eventually was proven to be of animal origin

France Revalues Its Gold Reserves

PARIS (AP) — The French government revalued the price of its gold reserves today to approximately $160 an ounce.

The previous rate was $42.20 an ounce. The change, primarily a bookkeeping operation to improve the government's credit rating, gave France a quick paper profit of more than $12 billion.

Running Club To Hold Meet

The West Texas running club will hold its seven and two mile January competition at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Highland Range Park located at North Concho Lake near San Angelo.

The seven-mile run will have divisions for high school and under, 30-39, 40-49 and 50 and over plus an open class. The two-mile run will have open, 30 and over and ladies divisions.

SMASHED BY BLAST — A fireman walks past a smashed car and air conditioner after a building exploded and burned in North Bay, Ont., Wednesday. At least seven persons were killed and 38 injured. Police say they have not yet determined the cause of the explosion. (AP Wirephoto.)

Public Hearing On Requested Milk Price Increase Could Be In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is looking with some favor on a request by dairy cooperatives for a public hearing on a proposal to boost the government's minimum price guaranteed farmers for milk sold on the fluid market, the kind on retail shelves.

John C. Blum, associate administrator of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, said late Wednesday he favored holding the hearing requested by the National Milk Producers Federation and will urge his superiors to schedule it soon.

The federation wants USDA to put a higher minimum floor price in the government's formula used to compute what farmers get for Class I milk sold for fluid purposes in the nation's 61 federal milk marketing order areas.

Patrick B. Healy, federation secretary, explained the proposal in a letter to Blum and asked the department to schedule a public hearing on it.

President Ford vetoed a bill last Friday which would have boosted the basic federal price support for manufacturing-grade milk an equivalent of about six cents a half-gallon.

On the same day Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced a compromise boost in the basic milk price support to $7.24 per 100 pounds from $6.57, which had been in effect since last spring. The new rate, which Butz said will stay in place during the coming milk marketing year which runs through March 31, 1976, represented about half the increase vetoed by Ford.

Adjustment Likely

Although the basic support increase — which was specifically for manufacturing-grade milk — will mean some adjustment in Class I milk minimum prices, also, that will not take effect until March because of a two-month lag in applying the adjustment formula.

Thus, the federation — which represents milk producer cooperatives nationally — wants USDA to install an artificial floor price in the Class I formula so that producers of that type milk can benefit immediately.

Blum, whose agency handles federal milk price regulations, told a reporter the request for a hearing on the proposal "seems rather a logical adjunct to what was announced last week" involving the higher price support of manufacturing milk, used to make cheese, butter and other products.

Price Translated

The formula price sought by the federation is $7.30 per 100 pounds. That would translate into about $9.40 per 100 pounds of Class I milk beginning Jan. 15 and through all of February.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., says he will introduce a bill to boost the basic milk support to 100 per cent of parity — $9.04 per 100 pounds for manufacturing milk against the vetoed bill's rate of 65 per cent or $7.69 per 100 pounds.

Lebanese Premier Denies Reports Of Extensive Military Aid By Syria

By The Associated Press

Lebanese Premier Rashid Solh today denied a report in the Beirut newspaper Al Yom of extensive Syrian military aid to Lebanon, including the stationing of one or more squadrons of MIG21 and MIG23 jet fighters in Israel's northern neighbor.

Solh urged the Beirut press to be "more accurate and careful." However, a Lebanese Information Ministry spokesman confirmed Al Yom's report that Presidents Hafez Assad of Syria and Suleiman Franjeh of Lebanon signed a mutual defense pact on Tuesday. The spokesman said the pact was "strictly confidential" and he did not know the details.

Another Beirut newspaper, An Nahar, said Lebanon does not plan to ask for Syrian intervention unless there is "a large-scale Israeli aggression" in the southeast part of the country, near the Syrian and Israeli borders.

Al Yom said that Syria would also provide Lebanon with tank-mounted SAM6 anti-aircraft missiles, shoulder-fired, heat-seeking SAM7's and "surface-to-surface missiles of Soviet make . . . to hit enemy warships which may violate Lebanese waters."

"Syrian fighter planes will provide Lebanon with air cover and will go into action at Lebanon's request when Israeli planes are detected in Lebanese skies," the report said.

"Lebanese personnel will move to Syria to receive training in the use of sophisticated weapons," and the two states will exchange military delegations, the paper added.

Lebanon, a noncombatant in the four Arab-Israeli wars, has never permitted stationing of another Arab government's troops on its soil.

Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres claimed Monday that Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon have been reinforced by Palestinian troops from Syria armed with sophisticated missiles. He warned that Israel would consider any attempt by the Syrian army "to take a foothold" outside Syria's borders as "the start of a confrontation and the extension of aggression."

Syria reacted angrily today to Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin's proposals for a separate settlement with Egypt. Damascus Radio charged Israel was trying "to dismantle Arab solidarity."

The Shah of Iran, making his first state visit to Egypt since 1962, called for Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab lands. The Israeli newspaper Hamodia expressed concern that the shah might cut off Iranian oil shipments to Israel.

Israel Sees Peace Only With Kissinger's Direct Intervention With Egypt Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel believes that another partial peace agreement in the Middle East can be produced only by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's direct intervention with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, diplomatic sources say.

Even though Israel has indicated a willingness to negotiate the return of strategic Sinai mountain passes, there has been no counteroffer or substantive response from Egypt, the sources said.

Pullback Sought

Egypt, relaying its views principally through U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts, was said to be "laughing off" the Israeli overtures. Instead of agreeing to discuss an end to the current state of belligerency, Egypt is now seeking an Israeli pullback in Sinai in exchange for reopening the Suez Canal, newsmen were told.

Israel understands last year's disengagement agreement already includes passage through the canal for Israeli cargo.

Diplomats giving this view of Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy also caution that Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon is not expected to be bringing further concessions when he calls on the secretary of state next Wednesday.

Not Stalemated

While Israel does not consider the negotiations to be stalemated, one diplomat who declined to be identified said: "A stalemate is when you put a period. We are in a semi-colon stage."

However, Israel also believes that the Middle East is not on the verge of war and that the outlook has actually brightened over the past few months.

Egypt was said to be both unwilling and unprepared to fight and Syria disinclined to attack Israel.

Firm Closes All Packing Houses

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — American Beef Packers, Inc., has closed all six of its meat packing houses and will keep them closed at least until next Monday, spokesmen said Wednesday.

A majority of the firm's 4,000 employees in four states have been laid off.

Company attorney David Pavel said the firm is "intending to continue in operation" and that the plants have been closed down this week to let things "clear up."

Petition Filed

American Beef, along with its wholly owned subsidiary, Beefland International of Council Bluffs, Iowa, Tuesday filed a petition for a reorganization and arrangement for debt paying under Chapter 11 of the federal Bankruptcy Act. American Beef is one of the nation's largest meat-processing companies.

Slaughtering operations have halted at plants in Council Bluffs, Oakland and Harlan, Iowa; Ft. Morgan, Colo.; Dumas, Tex., and Omaha. The plant at Dumas was closed Friday, the others Monday.

Feedlot operations at Minstare, Neb., and beef processing in Nebraska City continued Wednesday.

2,000 Workers Affected

Layoffs have affected more than 2,000 workers in the four states, according to another spokesman.

About 400 were idled in Omaha, 650 in Council Bluffs, 265 in Oakland, 200 in Harlan, 180 in Ft. Morgan and 450 in Dumas.

Frank West, chairman of the board and president of American Beef, said earlier the decision to file under Chapter 11 came "after it became apparent that the continuing negotiations between General Electric Credit Corp. and American Beef Packers for an extension and expansion of previous financial arrangements had been terminated Monday."

Not Informed

Robert Parker, secretary-treasurer of District Union 271 of Amalgamated Meat Cutters, said Wednesday the 650 packing house workers in the Beefland plant in Council Bluffs were not advised that layoffs were imminent.

He said there has been no official notice from the company of its intentions.

Beef Packers for an extension and expansion of previous financial arrangements had been terminated Monday.

Fifth 'Slasher' Victim Found

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A fifth victim has been found slain in the same deadly fashion, his throat slit from ear to ear, and police say a man who has been named the "skid row slasher" may be the murderer.

The latest victim, Casimer Strawinski, 58, was found sprawled on the floor of his low-rent hotel room Wednesday.

All five murders have occurred since Dec. 1 within a mile of each other in or near the city's skid row, not far from City Hall. The victims, all men, were apparently alone.

Police Lt. Dan Cooke told newsmen officials consider the murders "similar enough in nature to suspect that they were committed by the same individual."

"Life is cheap in this situation," Cooke said of the area where the murders took place. He said most of the men there "are just existing, not living."

Other victims were Charles Jackson, 46, Dec. 1; Moses August Yakanak, 47, an Eskimo from Anchorage, Alaska, Dec. 8; Arthur Dahlistedt, 54, Dec. 11; and David Perez, 42, Dec. 22.

Scientific Dreamer Devotes Half Of Life To Universal Alphabet

NEW MARKET, Md. (AP)—Thirty-six years and 5,000 hours later, Dr. John V. Atanasoff says he is still working on his lifetime dream: a universal alphabet.

Atanasoff, 71, has developed an alphabetic system which resembles Braille, the raised dots read by the blind. He says his system can be used to transcribe English or Russian just as easily as Japanese or French.

Atanasoff says his new alphabet drastically reduces the time necessary to learn to read and write and would at least double reading speed.

Atanasoff is not secretive about his system which is based on phonetic spelling and uses 35 symbols for transcribing English. The new system has been designed by its inventor to be scanned by electronic readers and requires only one-third the amount of space the standard alphabet does.

But Atanasoff and his wife, Alice, say that perfecting the system may take decades with no guarantee that it might ever be adopted by anyone.

Indeed, the retired theoretical physicist said: "I think my chances are damn poor, don't you?" Nevertheless, he says he continues to work on the project he started in 1939 so that someone may be able to pick up where he leaves off.

Atanasoff designed a computer for his alphabet in 1939 while he was an associate professor of physics and mathematics at Iowa State College in Ames, Iowa. He never patented the device and two other men were credited with its creation until a federal court ruled last year that the computer's father was Atanasoff.

The inventor has not assigned verbal sounds to match all the alphabetic symbols he has developed.

"I'm doing it on a very cautious basis because I'd like to have an alphabet that could be used for any language," he says.

Crude, Gas Projects Scheduled In Permian Basin Sectors Total 122

The Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico last week drew locations for 122 locations. Included in the applications for drilling permits filed last week were 26 wildcats and 96 development projects.

During the previous week, only 74 oil and/or gas projects were planned in the two-state area.

District 8 of the Texas Railroad Commission showed the most activity last week, with 12 wildcats and 47 pool tests slated in that area.

The San Angelo RRC office recorded six wildcat applications and four were filed with the Lubbock office. Southeast New Mexico also tallied four prospectors.

Most active in field expansion following District 8, was the South Plains area, with 26 applications, followed by District 7-C, with 12, and Southeast New Mexico, with 11.

Texas Instruments To Lay Off More Than 2,000 This Month

DALLAS (AP) - Texas Instruments says that a noticeable drop in incoming orders has forced a layoff of more than 2,000 workers throughout Texas between now and the end of the month.

In a statement released here Wednesday as part of preliminary 1974 report to shareholders, the company said the labor force cut is part of a worldwide reduction of 9,000 employees.

The company blamed layoffs on a drop in the number of incoming orders which fell below 1973 levels.

"We sincerely hope that this action will establish a stable employment level," the company said, "but that is entirely dependent on the rate of incoming orders over the next few months. While the overall economic uncertainties make financial planning and orderly operations difficult, we are confident of our ability to meet problems and grasp opportunities as they occur."

Dallas Hit Hardest

The company said Dallas, with a reduction of 1,650 workers, and Houston, with a cut of 400 employees would be the hardest hit of cities in Texas. A spokesman said 450 persons would be laid off at three plants in Lubbock. But the company would not specify how many workers would be laid off in other cities.

Late in 1974, the company announced a reduction of 1,000 employees in the Dallas area. While the sales for the last quarter of 1974 were above those of the same period in 1973, incoming orders dropped to $280 million, while sales billed for the quarter stood at $415 million.

Total sales for the year were $1.6 billion.

The backlog of orders dropped from $895 million at the end of September to $560 million at year's end, the company said. At the end of 1973, the backlog was $679 million.

The company said its worldwide employment figures dropped from 78,000 at the end of June, 1974 to 66,000 at the end of December.

The company's report said that net income per share for the year, according to unaudited reports, ranged from $3.90 to $4 per share, compared with $3.67 per share in 1973.

Houston Mayor Ponders Police Dossier Problem

HOUSTON (AP) - Mayor Fred Hofheinz says he is not sure what to do with police files he says have been gathered on political figures in the community.

He said Wednesday some of the files contain data about the sex life of the persons and some of the information on file was obtained by wiretapping.

Police Chief Carroll Lynn reported this week that an investigation of the police criminal intelligence division uncovered files on local political and business leaders unrelated to criminal investigations. Lynn said the files were compiled before he and Hofheinz took office last January.

"My instinct is to take all of the political intelligence files out of the criminal intelligence division and throw them on the desk for the news media to read," Hofheinz said. "But we have to worry about the liability of the city with respect to invasion of privacy."

Hofheinz has identified only himself and U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan as examples of the political figures who had been under police surveillance.

Councilman Jim McCorm said "smacks of polarization of the races" for the mayor to single out Miss Jordan. The mayor denied being responsible for singling out the black representative.

Hofheinz said he "merely confirmed" a televised news report saying one of the files was on Miss Jordan when he had been asked the question.

The Houston Post said it had learned that U.S. Rep. Bob Casey and former Houston school board member Gertrude Barnstone were among those on the list.

Lynn refused to confirm or deny names proposed to him as being part of the file, except for former fire chief C. F. Cook who has filed a suit asking for information.

Mrs. Barnstone, state and local head of the Women's Equity Action League, said she wanted to inspect her file.

"I'm just concerned now that they not destroy those files," she said. "It is just sick. But I'm glad they found out about it and will stop it."

And stretching out his hand toward his disciples, he said, "Here are my mother and my brothers! For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother, and sister, and mother."

Worthy Priorities

Clarence M. Kelley, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, believes, as do many other people, that the new year is a period of reflection...

While the law enforcement profession has accomplished much in recent years, the director is of the opinion that there are many inadequacies which have shackled the fulfillment of responsibilities.

Writing in the January issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, Kelley said, "There has never been a time in my more than 30-year law enforcement career when the profession has been better equipped to meet its challenges..."

Although Kelley didn't say so, it is this "growing appreciation by the public" which has done and is doing a great deal in Midland and elsewhere across the land to encourage law enforcement officers in their work.

Kelley went on to say that without these insights "into our responsibilities, I am certain that the great strides which have been made in law enforcement training, equipment, planning, research, technology, and personal selection would not have been possible."

But "there is still much left to do. Our maturing professional competence must be more efficiently harnessed to combat the continued growth of crime."

Kelley cited the more immediate priorities for law enforcement in the new year, as follows:

"Emphasizing creative management of police efforts... removing opportunities for crime by vigorous involvement in prevention programs... intensifying the search for more meaningful measurements of police performance..."

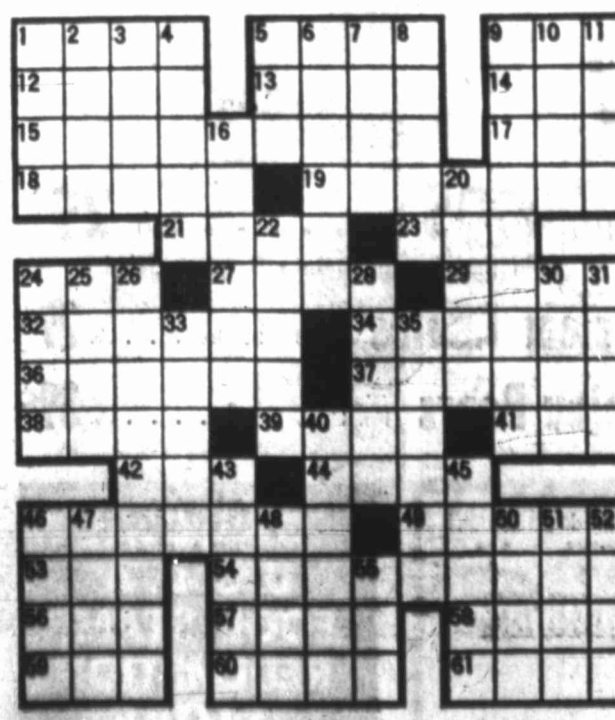

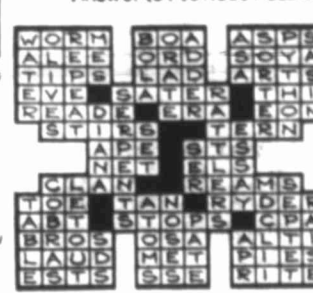

"Maintaining the confidentiality of law enforcement investigations... seeking responsible guidance from concerned experts in other professional disciplines..."

These are worthy priorities, indeed!

GESTURE OF DEFIANCE— Venezuela Resumes Ties With Communist Cuba

MEXICO CITY — When Venezuela reestablished relations with Communist Cuba, a bit of luster was wrested from the oil-rich South American nation's image.

For Venezuela, widely hailed as one of South America's two remaining democracies, took the action in defiance of the Organization of American States.

And, as Latin Americanist Winthrop Carty wrote recently, although "the OAS is plainly an imperfect instrument," it has fully justified itself over the years by maintaining regional peace.

It was in action on the complaint Venezuela brought before the OAS that the hemisphere's foreign ministers decided, by a 15 to 4 vote, to apply sanctions against the government of Cuba because of the Castro regime's acts of aggression and intervention against Venezuela.

Several times since then, most recently at a foreign ministers meeting in Quito, Ecuador, in November, efforts have been made to lift the sanctions on the Cuban Communist dictatorship.

But never have Cuba's apologists been able to round up the 14 votes that it would take. They had a dozen in Quito, but that was all.

Apparently, to judge by Venezuela's action, those nations that favor the Castro government now realize that, still Cuban-inspired terrorism still plaguing many Latin American countries, they may never be able to convince enough of their hemispheric neighbors that the Havana regime has stopped being a danger to peace and security of the Americas.

So, Venezuela, at least, decided to ignore the rules that the Latin nations themselves established, and to go it alone. Actually, Venezuela is not the first American republic to do so.

Mexico, for example, standing on the principles of non-intervention and respect for what is now termed ideological pluralism, voted against the sanctions in 1964 and refused to abide by them.

Snacking Really Beats Streaking

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Can snacking hold more appeal for college girls these days than streaking? Apparently.

The delicious thought of digging into a box of cereal recently overcame the urge of a group of students at the state university here to witness a streaking incident right under their dormitory windows.

As the streaking was about to begin, one hungry coed suddenly found a box of a natural-type cereal and headed back to her room — by herself, she thought. She was immediately pursued by a dozen other girls who abandoned the streakers for a chance to snack on the cereal instead.

She was so amazed that she wrote a letter to Quaker Oats, producer of the cereal, to tell them about it.

Fairs Attract City Folks, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — County fairs have been annual milestones of American history since the early 1800s when farmers first found time to get together, size up the fruits of each other's labor and have a little well-earned fun, the National Geographic Society says.

Most of the county fairs — some states have as many as 100 — are held for a week or 10 days in August or September. Those who "come to the fair" no longer come only from the country. Two-thirds of all Americans are crowded into 2 per cent of the land, and these city folks find summertime stirs their country roots or makes them want to sample life on the farm.

DON OAKLEY Ethnic 'Stew' Lacks Ingredient Of Humor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Within the space of a few days recently, two prominent Americans were guilty of making thoughtless and unnecessary comments about certain religious or ethnic groups.

First was Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who, following a speech, dropped some off-hand remarks about the allegedly excessive influence of Jews on the government.

Both men were called to the White House for a first-hand inspection of the carpet in President Ford's office, and both issued formal apologies.

This was as it should be. A remark or jest that may pass unnoticed if made by a private individual is simply impermissible in a public figure. Whatever the personal opinions an official may have about any group or minority in America, such opinions must not be allowed to enter into — or even appear to enter into — the conduct of his office.

Both episodes were particularly unfortunate in that neither Brown nor Butz apparently harbors the prejudices implied by their remarks. The general, it was all but forgotten in the ensuing furor, had directed the massive airlift operation which rescued Israel in the October War of 1973.

The terrible experience of the Nazi holocaust continues to brood upon the world's conscience and one of its legacies seems to be that racial, religious or ethnic humor which was once the stock in trade of many comedians is no longer considered to be very funny, if it is tolerated at all.

This, too, is unfortunate. We may have become oversensitized to this kind of humor. We have become superstitious and often see prejudice where none is intended. Humor is the heaven of life, and when people can no longer laugh at themselves or stand to have fun poked at their foibles and characteristics, they have lost something.

It makes all the difference, of course, who pokes the fun. For instance, the old Amos and Andy show, in which white actors played blacks and which brought enjoyment to a previous generation, could not be put on today.

Yet a current series in which blacks play black characters not greatly different from those of Amos and Andy is one of the most popular on television. Therein, in fact, may lie one of the reasons for the outcry that Butz brought down on his head. It was not just what he said, or seemed to say, about Italians or Catholics but the fact that he is neither Italian nor Catholic himself.

These days, it seems that the only minority that may be maligned with impunity by those who don't belong to it are the so-called WASPs — the white, Anglo-Saxon Protestants.

If any useful lesson is to be drawn from the Brown and Butz episodes, let it be this: There is no minority in this country that need apologize for itself. There is no race or nationality that need apologize for itself. There is no race or nationality that need apologize for itself.

TIMELY QUOTES

"I had to witness former President Nixon getting up before the American people and talking differently from what I knew the facts to be. It was very difficult to keep quiet. But I knew that there would be a day of reckoning." — Leon Jaworski, former Watergate special prosecutor, saying in an interview in People magazine that he was convinced of Nixon's guilt as early as December, 1973.

"Too much importance is given to the views of politicians, civil servants, agricultural researchers, economists, big business and other so-called experts. It is the decision of the world's farmers and the farmer alone which will affect supplies of food in the future." — Charles Munro, Canadian farmer, addressing the World Food Conference in Rome.

RALPH NOVAK Extra Diplomatic Nose Out Of Joint

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of the five or six small things in the universe we have to be thankful for these days is that the negotiators in international diplomacy are not as susceptible to incapacitating injury as, say, professional football players.

Otherwise we would be hearing news broadcasts like: "Good evening, diplomacy fans. The big news tonight is that a number of Big Power superstars are going to be out of action in the crucial, upcoming series of talks, while a number of others are going to have to negotiate with pain."

For the United States, Gerry Ford is reported to have his sprained pact-signing hand in a cast but he appears to have recovered from the pulled tongue muscle he suffered recently while trying to say "Fat chance" in Arabic during the crucial Mideast talks.

Ford's ace substitute, Hank Kissinger, meanwhile, has come up with torn lip ligaments because of excessive grinning during his recent appearances. Kissinger is also still hampered by the cauliflower left ear he incurred last season when he listened to too many whispered secrets.

Soviet stand-out Lenny Brezhnev also is hurting, having suffered severe hand cramps while holding his fingers crossed under the table during his last crucial outing. Having his fingers permanently crossed isn't expected to keep Brezhnev out of the lineup but his benched teammate Alexei Kosygin is still on the disabled list with an out-of-joint nose.

Let Employes Set Own Hours?—It Worked For One Firm

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Plans to expand the program. Bowers it probably will be extended to two or three times the current 250 participants, according to James L. Turrentine, vice president for employee relations.

It's destroyed the old adage that people don't work if you don't watch them carefully," said Jerome Perrone, manager of policies and practices who directed the experiment.

The program, which is rare in Connecticut but is winning some acceptance elsewhere, is working out so well at Pitney Bowes that it is being extended to two or three times the current 250 participants, according to James L. Turrentine, vice president for employee relations.

Flexible time allows employees considerable freedom in setting their schedules from day to day during the regular five-day work week.

They may start any time after 7 a.m. and may work up to 6 p.m. The only time they must be on the job is during the busy time when each department needs its full staff.

Each employee merely begins his or her workday on arrival by using a personal plastic "key" to start a clock-like timing device designed for the program by a New Jersey firm.

The desktop device records only the amount of time the person puts in during the week, not the daily amount.

During the trial period, Pitney Bowes found participants were absent less often, on the average of one hour per employee each month.

At that rate, extending the program to 2,000 employees earning the hourly average wage of $4.15 would save the company nearly $100,000 in three months, Perrone said.

A survey of participants showed 98 of them used schedule changes for leisure time, 92 to attend to personal business, 46 to avoid rush-hour congestion and 32 to spend more time with their families.

"Most people, believe it or not, will work their regular schedules anyway," Perrone said, adding that the important factor is their freedom to rearrange their schedule if they wish.

Flora was the Roman goddess of flowers.

Tarkenton's Sore Arm Ends Pre-Super Bowl Boredom

The Midland Reporter-Telegram

TC—THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1975

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Has Coach Bud Grant created another "issue," another smoke-screen to divert attention from the mounting pressures of a Super Bowl game, another way of psyching up his Minnesota Vikings? It looks that way. It appears he's found his new, improved version of "sparrows in the showers," and this time the sparrows seem to be roosting on quarterback Fran Tarkenton's valuable right arm.

Last year, when Super Bowl week was threatened with being enveloped by a mammoth yawn, Grant came up with an issue, what he called the Vikings' less-than-satisfactory practice facilities. Eventually, the whole thing was characterized by Grant's throwaway line about sparrows.

This week, too, was being underwhelmed by the ritualistic pregame practices and news conferences as the Vikings and Pittsburgh Steelers prepared for Super Bowl IX. Only briefly did something newsworthy surface.

First it was the viral infection that has hospitalized Pittsburgh defensive end

Dwight White for four straight nights. Then it was Turkenton's brief verbal swipe at Oakland's Ken Stabler and Miami's Paul Warfield, who had bad-mouthed both Super Bowl teams. Then it was the calf injury that is likely to keep Minnesota offensive tackle Charles Goodrum out of Sunday's National Football League championship game at Tulane Stadium.

Still, there was no focus for anyone's attention. There were no sparrows. On Monday, someone had asked Grant whether he had some more birds hidden up his sleeve — if he had another issue.

"It's gonna be a long week," he replied, "and if we can think of something, we'll let you know."

On Wednesday, he did... or so it would seem. Halfway through the daily briefing session Grant casually mentioned that Turkenton had a sore arm, much as someone might suggest that it looks like rain.

Perhaps it was merely another throwaway line, merely an observation, but probably not. Grant, like all pro football coaches and clearly more than most, is a tactician, a calculating man, not given to the idle observation, the off-handed remark.

Whatever it was, it worked. The balloon of boredom was burst. Attention was focused. Here, clearly, was an issue to be dealt with.

And Grant was ready to deal with it. "Everytime he gets a sore arm, he has a great day," he said, perhaps trying ever-so-cleverly to throw the Steelers ever-so-slightly off guard. "It's a good omen for us," Grant said. "I think he worries about it and he always seems to throw a little better with it. I'm sure if he's still sore on Sunday, he'll have a great day."

If that's the case, Turkenton's adrenalin was positively gushing all through the season. "I was hit on the shoulder in the first game of the season and it's bothered me off and on since then," he said. Despite it, he finished among the National Conference's passing leaders with 17 touchdowns and more than 2,500 yards.

But what about the soreness now? Nothing important he replied. "It's a little sore but it's okay."

NCAA Decides Inflation Isn't That Bad After All

From After Thought To Star Of The Show

Battle Scene

By Ted Baitle

Notre Dame and Texas were preparing for one of their Cotton Bowl meetings in Dallas a few years ago and Emory Bellard, the former San Angelo coach who fathered the famed Longhorn wishbone offense, had just been appointed head coach at Texas A&M.

Since Big D was overrun with sports writers from throughout Texas and even the far corners of the nation, a press conference was arranged and Emory patiently answered the endless questions.

No one doubted that he would eventually bring the Aggies a Southwest Conference championship. His credentials as a recruiter, organizer, offensive innovator and winner were beyond reproach.

When it was over someone remembered that Baylor also had a new football coach and he happened to be handy. So Grant Teaff was invited to the podium almost as an after thought. A few writers drifted off, those who stayed were impressed by his poise and the ideals he brought with him to the Baylor situation.

However, when it was over, the cynicism remained. After all, Baylor had gone through a long line of coaches ranging from good, bad to indifferent and it still added up to almost a half a century without a Southwest Conference football title.

After listening to Grant, one writer observed, "Another new face and high hopes, but no matter how you cut it, it's still the same old Baylor."

Not even the most naive among the press members that day, and there were a few of us, would have wagered that just three years later it would be Teaff and not Bellard who would be in the Cotton Bowl, if either was to make it.

But in three seasons, Teaff achieved the impossible. Baylor had its first SWC title since 1924 and perhaps, most remarkable, had bounced out of the basement, where the Bears finished in 1973, to do it. Grant's own progress was almost as dramatic... from a press-conference after thought, to the 1974 Cotton Bowl Invocation to 1975 coach.

Teaff already has won several coach of the year awards and before the Cotton Bowl game, Penn State's Joe Paterno predicted the Coaches' Assn. would vote him a similar honor.

"There's no question about it. Grant has done the greatest coaching job in the nation," Paterno said. "He should win the award hands down. There's no competition."

Of course the SWC title merely whets the appetite for Teaff and Baylor. If they needed any incentive for next year, it was to return to Dallas and make amends for that 41-20 loss to Penn State.

The Bears are young and could do it, but chances are that their chief opposition may come from Bellard and his equally young Aggies, who came so close this last season and with that memory certainly won't lack for incentive.

Colleges Ignore Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite its cries of anguish about inflation, the National Collegiate Athletic Association has concluded its 69th annual convention without taking any major steps to cut the rising costs of collegiate athletics.

Discussions in formal meetings and in hotel corridors for the past week have centered on the rising costs in sports but the convention, which ended Wednesday enacted only one measure dealing with inflation — a resolution to study the subject.

Under the resolution, the policy-making NCAA Council will convene a meeting by June to examine ways and means of curtailing operating costs through curtailing scholarships, cutting down on the number of coaches and limiting the number of expense-paid visits a high-school athlete can make to a campus.

Reject Proposal

The convention rejected a major cost-saving item which would have limited athletic scholarships in all sports except football and basketball to tuition and fees.

"Philosophically, this is probably the most unsound piece of legislation ever to go before the NCAA," said Mickey Holmes, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference. "This is a new concept, something people aren't used to, but maybe we are being too philosophical instead of being practical."

The convention also rejected proposals that would have prohibited a prospective athlete from making paid visits to more than four schools and would have limited to three the permissible number of in-person, off-campus recruiting contacts with a prospect.

Measures Sidetracked

Two other measures aimed at fighting inflation did not even reach the floor before they were withdrawn by their sponsors. One would have extended the football schedule from 11 to 12 games a year and the other would have returned football to the one-platoon system.

A third measure to extend the basketball season from 26 to 27 games also failed to receive the necessary votes for passage.

The convention delegates adopted a measure to prevent colleges from giving summer jobs to athletes who have not yet entered the school but rejected a proposal to prohibit a university from making arrangements for a loan for them.

The delegates did rule that no university or college representative can make contact with a prospect before the student completes his junior year in high school.

Strike Could Kill Olympics

MONTREAL (AP) — An air of confusion has settled over the 1976 Summer Games with Mayor Jean Drapeau offering one view and the Olympic Organizing Committee taking another on the key questions of where — and even if — the Games will be staged.

"We are going to have the Games in the installations as now planned, or there will be no Games," Drapeau said Wednesday.

But spokesmen for the organizing committee said other alternatives are being considered, including using the Autostade, home of Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Work on a proposed $380 million, 70,000-seat main stadium area, which includes the swimming hall and velodrome, has been suspended since Nov. 27 by a strike of iron workers. They install steel reinforcing rods in concrete and no structural work can be done until they return to work.

Lord Killam of Dublin, president of the International Olympic Committee, said in a telephone interview "there is anxiety" that the stadium, centerpiece of the Games, will not be ready for the July 17 opening next year.

The only point of agreement between all Olympic planners appears to be that Quebec Labor Minister Jean Cournmyer must act within days to bring labor peace to the main stadium project.

Esposito, Perreault Supply Punch For NHL All-Star Team

MONTREAL (AP) — Boston's Phil Esposito, the National Hockey League's top point producer, and Buffalo's high-scoring "French Connection" line of Gil Perreault, Rene Robert and Rick Martin will give the Divisions 3 and 4 team a potent offensive punch in the NHL All-Star Game Jan. 21 at Montreal.

The four players were among 12 named to the squad in balloting Wednesday by members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association. Of the dozen, four were from Boston, three each from Buffalo and Montreal, and two from Los Angeles.

Boston players picked, in addition to Esposito, were defenseman Bobby Orr and Carol Vadnais, and forward Johnny Bucyk. The Montreal representatives were goalie Ken Dryden, defenseman Guy Lapointe and right wing Guy Lafleur. And chosen from Los Angeles were goalie Rogatien Vachon and defenseman Terry Harper.

The only unanimous choices were Vachon and Orr, each collecting the maximum of 135 points.

Eight other players will be selected by Coach Bep Guidolin of the Kansas City Scouts. He got the job because he led Boston to the East Division title last season before taking over as Scouts' coach.

In choosing the remaining members of his 20-man squad that will face a team from Divisions 1 and 2, Guidolin must select at least one player from each of the five others teams comprising Divisions 3 and 4. They are Pittsburgh, Detroit, Washington, Toronto and California.

The closest balloting was at center, where Esposito, seeking his fifth consecutive NHL scoring title, edged Perreault, 107 points to 103.

Lafleur was tops at right wing, receiving 116 points to Robert's 90. Martin was the leading vote-getter at left wing.

Creighton Rally Overtakes Texas Tech As Raiders Bow, 51-45

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Doug Brooks scored 18 points as Creighton, collecting nine straight points in the second half, rang up a 51-45 basketball victory over Texas Tech Wednesday night.

Tech, playing a deliberate style, kept the tempo slow and pushed into a 41-38 lead with six minutes left when Creighton's youth movement took over.

chens put the Jays in front for good, 44-43, with a 20-foot shot. Charles Butler hit a free throw and another sophomore, Cornell Smith, took a basket on a goal tending charge and added two free throws. Freshman Rick Apke also was awarded two on goal tending.

Creighton, winning its fourth straight, hit 50 per cent from the field while the Red Raiders shot 44 per cent.

William Johnson had 12 for Texas Tech.

Rangers To Huddle With Fergy

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas Ranger pitcher Ferguson Jenkins and officials of the American League team were to huddle today to discuss the 25-game winner's 1975 contract.

Jenkins, who was to meet with club officials Wednesday afternoon, telephoned in that he was fogged in at Montreal and could not reach Arlington before midnight Wednesday.

Jenkins is reportedly unhappy with a money package that offered him an estimated $140,000 and is reportedly seeking $200,000.

Jenkins would not make public his money demands on the Rangers, who recently offered Catfish Hunter $2.5 million. Hunter rejected the offer and left Oakland as a free agent to go to the New York Yankees for $3.7 million.

Jenkins was edged in the Cy Young balloting by Hunter.

Oakland's Ken Stabler ... voted NFL's Most Valuable

Stabler Heads All-NFL

Ken Beats Out Metcalf For Most Valuable

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Ken Stabler of the Oakland Raiders was named the National Football League's Most Valuable Player for the 1974 season by The Associated Press today.

Stabler, who earlier this week was named the Offensive Player of the Year, also heads the All-Pro team announced Wednesday.

A left-hander who led the NFL with 25 touchdown passes during the regular season, Stabler was an easy winner in the AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters who cover the NFL. He received 36 of a possible 78 votes, easily outdistancing Terry Metcalf of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was second with 10. Minnesota's Chuck Foreman finished third with five.

Stabler led the Raiders to the American Conference Western Division championship, completing 57.4 per cent of his passes for 1,469 yards. Then he piloted Oakland past Miami in the opening round of the playoffs, eliminating the defending champions on a touchdown pass in the final minute of the game. A week later, the Raiders lost the AFC championship game to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A graduate of the University of Alabama where he learned his football under Bear Bryant, Stabler was the Raiders' second round draft selection in 1968. He was a reserve until 1973, starting only two games.

In 1973, he won the Oakland quarterback job from Daryle Lamonica, taking over in the season's third game and starting the last 11. Under Stabler, the Raiders were 9-2-1 that year and then 12-2 this season.

Joining him in the All-Pro backfield are running backs Otis Armstrong of Denver and O.J. Simpson of Buffalo. Armstrong was the NFL rushing champion with 1,407 yards and Simpson gained 1,125. Simpson, last year's MVP when he set an NFL rushing record with 2,003 yards, received just one MVP vote this season.

The All-Pro wide receivers were Oakland's Cliff Branch and Drew Pearson of Dallas with Denver's Riley Odoms named at tight end. The rest of the offensive line had tackles Ron Yary of Minnesota and Art Shell of Oakland, guards Larry Little of Miami and Gene Upshaw of Oakland and center Jim Langer of Miami.

MARYLAND HOLDS OFF DUKE— Gamecocks Nip Gobblers

By Associated Press

When it comes to poise, you can't beat Frank McGuire's boys.

Under their famous coach, South Carolina's basketball players have usually displayed cool in the face of fire through the seasons.

And Wednesday night, it was the same old story even with a young team.

"South Carolina is a poised basketball team, no doubt about that," noted Virginia Tech Coach Don Devoe after losing an 81-77 decision. "They got themselves in a position to control the tempo. They were super at the free throw line. Overall, they played it smarter, got it where they wanted it and kept it there."

Blow Lead
The 16th-ranked Gamecocks lost a 10-point lead late in the game, but hung on persistently to win behind Jack Gilloon.

In other games, fifth-ranked Maryland whipped Duke 83-77; No. 13 Marquette hammered Portland 87-57; 14th-ranked LaSalle turned back Memphis State 93-84 and No. 19 Providence turned back St. Joseph's, Pa., 82-68.

Gilloon hit a jumper with 1:27 left that broke a final tie, then added a driving layup that proved decisive as South Carolina beat Virginia Tech.

The Gamecocks, with Mike Dunleavy scoring 22 points, Gilloon 20 and Alex English 17, shot 50.9 per cent from the floor and hit 23 of 29 at the foul line for 12 minutes, pulled to within 73-71 with 2:15 remaining.

Shooting 62 per cent behind Maurice Ellis, Marquette built a 20-point lead at the half and went on to beat Portland with a 76-62 victory.

Ellis wound up with a game-high 26 points.

Charlotte Stadium On Drawing Board

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Richard Abraham has announced that his plans to build a 45,000-seat stadium near Charlotte have fallen through because he couldn't get a lease agreement with the Charlotte Hornets of the World Football League.

He said Tuesday that because he could not sign the Hornets, he has not approached the city for needed help or private investors whose commitments could help float a bank loan.

Abraham, 31, who announced six weeks ago that he planned to build the stadium, said he is going back to Boston, where his family has real estate and other business interests. He came to Charlotte two years ago.

Boost Streak
The Friars, boosting their record to 8-3 and breaking a three-game losing string, jumped in front at the start and led 42-35 at the half. St. Joseph's, absorbing its eighth consecutive loss after two opening victories, never was able to cut into the margin after intermission.

Syracuse routed Bowling Green 90-61 as Chris Sease collected 23 points and 11 rebounds. The Orangemen opened an early 16-4 lead and breezed to their eighth victory in 10 games this season. Adrian Dantley scored 38 points, including 14 of 15 from the free throw line, to help Notre Dame beat Davidson 89-73.

Elsewhere, Kent State trimmed Penn State 61-59; St. John's, N.Y., turned back Hofstra 74-50; Washington & Jefferson beat Navy 54-47; West Virginia defeated Massachusetts 89-85; Pitt smashed Youngstown State 88-62 and Pan American beat Arkansas State 89-73.

Navy Football Receives Blow

Navy Coach George Welsh expressed disappointment over a decision Wednesday not to allow Middle football players to defer active duty service commitments. The proposal was designed to help Navy recruit quality football players who were intent on a pro career.

George Allen
... always a storm center

Controversy, It's Just Allen's Style

Copley News Service

To put it rather mildly, George Allen is one of the controversial people in sports. It's all in his style. George has a way of polarizing the electorate. His backers call him a great coach, a winner. After all, he does have the best win-loss record in the National Football Conference. His critics label him everything from insincere to outright dishonest.

Allen stories abound. While there are tales of loyalty he will appreciate, not all favor the coach.

be some consternation in the front office.

There are the stories, which are public record, of Allen trading draft choices he had already traded. Gee, what a mistake, he pleaded. Those who have heard him lecture on the importance of detail had a difficult time swallowing his excuse.

There is the one about how he talked Tommy Prothro, then coach at UCLA, into taking George Jr. as a Bruin freshman quarterback. A perfect example of old pesty George, we were told.

This is a case where Allen was falsely accused. While young Allen was invited to join the frosh, it also is true that he did so without a scholarship.

Kept Distance
Any other high school quarterback could have gone out for the team, and had a little chance of earning a grant.

It should be written into the record that while George Jr. was quarterback at Palos Verdes (Calif.) High, George Sr. never pushed his case with the local daily. There are those who will suggest that was not characteristic. Nevertheless, the coach kept his distance.

If you wish to categorize Allen as a hard worker, you will be guilty of understatement. He's a workaholic. He firmly believes in the old adage that he who works hardest will succeed. This is fine. Where George gets himself in trouble is his theory that it is necessary to inform the local daily of this hard work. This explains all the signs identifying meeting rooms, etc., which he practiced at Anaheim Stadium for the Super Bowl.

Golf

Deane Beman, commissioner of golf, is worried about the British Open and what it is doing to the American Golf tour. "It destroys almost a month of our season..." The American tournament that is played opposite the British Open always has given up its top players. Now, with the British Open, being televised back to the U.S., it is giving up its gallery as well.

The British Open also raised its prize money from 50,000 to 75,000 pounds. "At one time," said Beman, "Only six, maybe a dozen Americans played over there, but last year upwards of 25 Americans played in the British Open."

Basketball

With Fordham, St. John's, Seton Hall and Rutgers leading the way, college basketball is making a strong comeback this season at New York's Madison Square Garden, once regarded as the Mecca of the college sport.

The recent Holiday Festival averaged 12,000 per session and Fordham enhanced the prestige of eastern basketball by knocking off national power, Southern California, during the tournament.

"I think the Garden has done a better job this year of scheduling local teams," said Fordham Coach Hill Wissel, whose team has a surprising 7-3 record. "And the fact that they've been doing so well got everyone excited."

Nighttime Bobsled Racing Scheduled

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The first nighttime bobsled racing in the nation will take place this Friday night at nearby Mt. VanHoevenberg, according to promoters.

A company has installed special high-intensity lights along the run, the only Olympic bobsled run in North America. A bobsled spokesman said the lighting will permit competition to continue past dusk and into the night until all runs are completed.

Entered in the two-man bobsled competition are the U.S. Navy team, guided by Capt. Paul Lamey, the U.S. Air Force and Marine Corps teams and private teams from the northeast and Canada.

Lake Placid has been designated the site of the 1980 Winter Olympics.

MHS, Lee Impress

Post Opening Night 5-4A Victories

Midland Lee and Midland High, the two teams the writers and coaches said would battle it out for the District 5-4A basketball title, made the prognosticators look good Tuesday night by winning their openers.

Perhaps Midland High, picked to finish second when the smoke clears in February, looked more impressive in beating Odessa Permian, 62-52, on the Panthers' home court. It was only the third loss in 21 games for the Panthers.

If the Rebels weren't quite as impressive, it was more the opposition's fault than Lee's. Odessa took a 2-15 record into the game and Lee had it sewed up by half time as Coach Paul Stueckler began emptying his bench.

Lee High, everybody's pick to repeat as district champion, reeled off its 12th straight victory to raise its record to 17-1. Lee's only loss came at the hands of Hobbs, N. M., and that later was avenged.

Four of Lee's starters broke into double figures in the 63-46 win over the Bronchos with 6-5 Junior Miller leading the way with 14 points.

Lee encounters more formidable opposition Friday at the Lee gym with San Angelo's Bobcats coming to the Tall City. San Angelo lost to Abilene Cooper, 53-50, in their district opener.

Midland will face Big Spring, a surprise 68-60 winner over Abilene, in Big Spring Friday. The Steers are 4-14 for the season, but can be dangerous, as Abilene discovered.

Virtually shutout inside by Permian's tight-knit zone defense Midland High went to its outside men to post a 10-point win over Permian.

Border Olympics Excludes Texas Southern Runners

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Southern and North Texas State have been excluded from the Border Olympics this year because of a cutdown in the University Division field.

"We're limiting ourselves to nine teams in the university division," said Carroll Summers, Border Olympics president. "It was a helluva decision to make."

Texas Southern, which has won 13 team titles, can no longer compete in the college division because TS is now a full-fledged university division school.

Shirley field, site of the Border Olympics, has only nine running lanes. Summers said to have more than nine university division teams would necessitate preliminaries in the relay events and Southwest Conference coaches are against it.

All SWC teams will compete except Arkansas. Lamar University was picked to fill out the division over NTSU.

"We picked Lamar because they've been with us the longest," said Summers.

NBA ROUNDUP—

Bucks Make Move

By The Associated Press
Here come the speeding Milwaukee Bucks... and there go the backtracking Philadelphia 76ers... again.

The Bucks, after a disastrous 1-15 start this season, mainly attributable to the absence of center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar because of injuries, won their 17th game in their last 24 starts, beating the Detroit Pistons 102-82 Wednesday night.

Although the Bucks, now 12-20, still are in last place in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association, the victory pulled them with three games of first-place Detroit.

Meanwhile, Philadelphia continued its losing ways in its long-time series against Los Angeles. The Lakers beat the 76ers 106-96 at Philadelphia for their 15th straight victory over them since 1971. The 76ers have not beaten Los Angeles in Philadelphia since 1969.

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics downed the Atlanta Hawks 104-96, the Washington Bullets whipped the Phoenix Suns 102-95 and the New York Knicks beat the Seattle SuperSonics 113-102.

points. Abdul-Jabbar's 23 points, Gary Brokaw's 22 and Jim Price's 20 in snapping the Pistons' six-game winning streak.

Brokaw, who came off the bench, and Dandridge combined for 30 points in the second period when the Bucks outscored the Pistons 35-17 and raced into a commanding 53-30 halftime lead.

Dave Bing paced the Pistons with 26 points, raising his career total to 14,541, putting him

D. E. Bramblett's CURRIED SALMON CROQUETTES

QUICK OATS

1/4 cup butter	1 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1/4 cup flour	Oil for deep fat frying
1/2 tsp. salt	Sauce
1/4 tsp. pepper	10 1/2 oz. can cream of mushroom soup
3/4 cup milk	1 cup light cream
1 cup 3-MINUTE BRAND OATS	1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 lb. canned salmon, drained	1/2 tsp. curry powder
1 egg, beaten

Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Cook over medium heat until mixture has thickened. Remove from heat and stir in oats and salmon. Cool thoroughly. Shape into eight croquettes. Roll each croquette in flour, then dip in egg and finally into bread crumbs. Heat frying oil to 375° F. Fry the croquettes until they are golden brown, (about 2 1/2 to 3 minutes). Turn the croquettes during frying. Drain on paper towels to remove excess oil.

Combine all of the ingredients for the sauce. Heat to boiling. Remove from heat and serve over the hot croquettes.

Hardy, Harney Prove Unsung Heroes

Miller Led PGA Money List, But Crenshaw Went Winless

By FRANK T. MARTIN
Copley News Service

The shooting resumes in Phoenix this week for the Professional Golfers' Association, but a glance back at 1974 shows for some of the touring pros it was a year of triumph, for others bitter disappointment.

Most everybody knows by now that Johnny Miller, with his $346,308 in tour earnings, was named PGA Player of the Year. But how many folks know that Paul Harney was named PGA Professional of the Year and that Bill Hardy won the Horton Smith Award for a half-century of service to the game of golf?

Harney is a prematurely gray, 45-year-old former tour player who now owns and operates a course on famed Cape Cod, not far from the home of the Kennedy family.

Harney's career has been remarkable as a player, a successful club professional and a citizen of the world. From 1967 to 1971 the Massachusetts pro was delegated by the U.S. State Department to travel three times to Southeast Asia as an unofficial goodwill ambassador.

Chairman Joe August of the PGA Special Awards Committee says the board of selectors was impressed by Harney's "quiet humor and outgoing personality. Both were influential in winning friends for the United States among key government and military officials in uncommitted nations at a time when the United States was heavily committed to a difficult military operation in that part of the world."

Yet Harney could stay in there with the big guns on the tour. He won several tournaments but left the tour when his growing family needed roots. A devoted husband and father, he served as head pro at Pleasant Valley Country Club in Sutton, Mass., until a year ago. Then he built the Cape Cod course.

Hardy, who didn't believe in changing jobs, retired recently as head pro at the fashionable Chevy Chase Club in Washington, D.C., after 49 years in the same shop. For years he toured the country at the PGA's request, lecturing on golf and helping to make it the nationally popular sport it has become in the last 30 years.

Hardy's specialty was club construction and repair. The current PGA manual on club repair and shaft-fitting is largely his work. It has become a constant companion of the young club pro learning his trade.

As for the 1974 tour, it was a great year for Miller, Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and a few others, but a shattering experience for some others.

Take Tom Weiskopf, who, in the late months of the 1973 tour, literally sizzled through tournament victory after victory.

But golf is a fickle maiden. It deserted Weiskopf in 1974. A tournament win always seemed just beyond his grasp. Yet he hung on to win $123,381 in tour money, a bridesmaid many times but never at the victory altar.

Crenshaw Nightmare

For Ben Crenshaw, 1974 was a nightmarish tour of course after course without a win, despite the predictions of experts that he was the youngster to watch from here on out. The Crenshaw swing was the same fluid movement which won him two tournaments late in the 1973 season and cast him in the role of a young crusader about to take on the old knights of the fairways.

But it simply didn't come out that way. Gentle Ben proved, however, he is coming back for more in 1975—but hopefully not more of the same. His game began to spruce up late in the tour and he took home $66,825 as his share of the 1974 tour loot.

Not Bad For No. 100

A lot of money for a loser, you say. But remember, the pros split up more than $6 million in prize money in 1974. Even John Jacobs, who finished 100th on the earnings list, won $18,170. For two other pro golfers, however, 1974 was a time of gladness. Al Geiberger, a tour veteran who for years had been plagued with illness but kept plugging anyhow, finally recovered the game that had won him the 1966 PGA championship.

He won the 1974 Sahara Invitational and finished among the leaders in enough tournaments to win $86,348 for the year. For Geiberger it was a victory over a stubborn stomach ailment that had threatened to end his golf career.

Big City Scares Catfish Hunter

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Catfish Hunter has been welcomed to the big city with open arms, this country slicker from North Carolina is aware that some of those arms can go right for the wallet while others may reach for the throat.

"In 1965 I was scared to go out of my room," Hunter said Wednesday during a whirlwind tour that included an appearance on a national television program, a photographic session at Shea Stadium and interviews with the press at a mid-town hotel. "Now, I'm scared to go into my room."

Among other things, Hunter flew into New York, at the Yankees expense, to introduce himself to the members of the press who didn't attend his New Year's Eve contract-signing party.

Made Decision

Hunter said he made up his mind to sign with the Yankees the night of Dec. 30. The next morning, Hunter told his wife that she would probably be a Yankee wife as he expected to sign a contract sometime that day in New York.

"Give me a call," she said as he walked out the door.

But Hunter's firm decision had weakened a bit Tuesday night, when he left the details up to the lawyers, who then spent several hours acting like lawyers.

But the lawyers soon ended their filibuster and Hunter, who said "he would have rather been anywhere else," affixed his Catfish Hunter on the Yankees dotted line.

Up To Yankees

Hunter wouldn't reveal the money package, saying "that was up to the Yankees" to disclose, but he did say in terms of straight annual salary, he wasn't making as much money "as five or six other pitchers."

Hunter said he would be paid $150,000, including deferred

Alamo Y To Introduce 30-And-Over Cage League

The Alamo YMCA announces the formation of a new basketball league for men, 30 years of age and older. By following a slow-down format, men are offered the fun and exercise of basketball without all the running.

One of the key rules is that a defense team getting a rebound must wait at least ten seconds before shooting. This allows men plenty of time to get down court and eliminates fast-breaks and wobbly knees.

Another rule makes the full-court press illegal, which will

Toronto Polices Vancouver, 6-4

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs had some trouble on their hands Wednesday night, but didn't have to call a cop. They had their own policeman — Lanny McDonald.

The speedy right winger has become the Maple Leafs' most aggressive checker in recent games and helped blow the whistle again when the Vancouver Canucks started to get tough.

"There's no way we're going to be chased out of our own rink," McDonald said after a fight-punctuated, 6-4 National Hockey League victory.

The game started out with a bang in the first period when Toronto's Dave "Tiger" Williams tangled with Vancouver's John Grisdale. Then two major battles broke out in the third period.

McDonald took on Vancouver's Ron Sedlbauer in one match and Toronto defenseman Brian Glennie got the worst of a fight with the Canucks' Greg Boddy. Dave Dunn also earned a game misconduct by going to Glennie's aid.

In the other NHL games, the Chicago Black Hawks beat the Pittsburgh Penguins 7-5; the Los Angeles Kings beat the Minnesota North Stars 4-2; the Atlanta Flames trimmed the California Golden Seals 3-2; the Montreal Canadiens played a 4-4 tie with the Detroit Red Wings and the New York Rangers stopped the Kansas City Scouts 6-1.

In the only World Hockey Association game, the Quebec Nordiques nipped the Vancouver Blazers 4-3.

Bill Flett triggered a three-goal explosion in the second period to help Toronto beat Vancouver. Flett's goal broke a 1-1 tie and Inge Hammarstrom and McDonald followed with scoring shots to help the Maple Leafs forge a 4-1 lead they never lost.

The victory marked the first time since Feb. 28, 1973 that the Maple Leafs have beaten the expansion Canucks. The Leafs had only one tie in eight games since that time before Wednesday night.

Black Hawks 7, Penguins 5

Defenseman John Marks scored twice and assisted on a third goal and scoring leader Stan Mikita passed the 1,200-point mark as Chicago defeated Pittsburgh.

Kings 4, North Stars 2

Flames 3, Golden Seals 2

Jacques Richard slapped in his eighth goal in 10 games and had two assists to lead Atlanta over California. The victory extended the Flames' unbeaten streak to eight games, a new club record.

Canadiens 4, Wings 4

Serge Savard's goal with 4:43 left to play gave Montreal its tie with Detroit as the Canadiens extended their National Hockey League unbeaten streak to 18 games.

Rangers 6, Scouts 1

Nordiques 4, Blazers 3

Serge Benis scored his 29th goal of the season late in the third period to send Quebec over Vancouver.

GREENWOOD TREKS TO WATER VALLEY—Area Cage Pace Picks Up

The Greenwood Rangers, fresh off of a thrilling 36-35 triple overtime victory over the AA Reagan County Owls, will join other area squads in loop play as District 11-B unfolds its colors Friday night.

The Rangers will travel to Water Valley Friday with their 13-9 season mark in the 11-B opener. The Greenwood girls, owning a 22-3 record, are also heavy favorites to win the 11-B cage crown and they will also play Water Valley Friday.

District 2-AAA and 3-AAA play is already under way. The Andrews Mustangs of 2-AAA draw the open date Friday, but will travel to Levelland tonight for a non-conference outing. The Mustangs, the defending district game of the year to Pecos, 70-60, Tuesday, so the Ponies are looking for a rebound victory.

Lamesa, who opened 3-AAA play Tuesday with a 67-37 thumping of Brownfield to run their winning streak to 19, will host Lubbock Estacado in a key loop outing Friday.

McCarney's Badgers, fresh from a victory over Alpine Tuesday and somewhat healthier than ever before after a rash of sickness and injuries, will host a tough Jal, N.M., team tonight. Tuesday the Badgers suited up 10 players for the first time this year.

HUNTING FISHING

BIG SPRING — The remarkable run on striped bass at Lake E. V. Spence continued during the week. Also, as in the previous week, several catches of white bass were reported, along with some black bass.

The largest striped bass were the 12½-lb. by Ralph Henderson, Idalou, and the 12¼-lb. specimen by Bill Flippen, Odessa, and Joe and Mark Phillips, Denver City.

The Monahans Mud Bugs will host the Permian Bass Club's January tournament this weekend at Oak Creek Lake with headquarters at Cal Stevens' lodge. Officers for 1975 elected at the December meeting were: Fred Myers, president; Rex Dowden, first vice president; Morris Huckeba, 2nd vice president; Jim Crowmover, secretary-treasurer.

Jenkins Texas' Top Pro

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Rangers finished 1-2-3 in the Pro Athlete of the Year balloting by the Texas Sports Writers Association with 25-game winner Ferguson Jenkins nipping slugger Jeff Burroughs and Rookie of the Year Mike Hargrove for the top honor.

Actually, Burroughs, who hit .301, had 25 homers and led the American League in RBI's, compiled more first place ballots than did Jenkins—26 to 25. However, Jenkins finished with 1,211 points in the preferential balloting to 1,180 points for Burroughs.

Hargrove of Perryton, Tex., received 22 first place votes and 1,046 points.

Nolan Ryan, Texas who is a no-hit pitcher for the California Angels, was fourth in the balloting.

Other finishers in the balloting included: Johnny Rutherford, winner of the Indianapolis 500; Drew Pearson, Dallas Cowboy wide receiver; Gordy Howe of the Houston Aeros; Dan Pasterini of the Houston Oilers; Riley Odoms of the Denver Broncos, golfers Lee Elder and Sandra Haynie; Dixton Talbert of the Washington Redskins; and Rudy Tomjanovich of the San Antonio Spurs.

Economic Laws Starting To Make Themselves Felt Again

By JOHN CUNIFF
 NEW YORK (AP) — During the past few years of economic disruption many people thought it best to anticipate more of the worst. Prices would continue to rise, values would erode, jobs would become insecure, debt would rise.
 But now that the worst is happening — a deep recession accompanied by sharply higher prices — you begin to detect, barely, some of the corrective pressures being exerted from those old rules of the market place.
 Supply and demand? While prices continue to rise there is growing evidence that the law still breathes and that it isn't going to expire either. Raw material prices have been dropping. Purchasing agents report the price cutting is becoming common. Retail merchants are offering sales as they find themselves with clogged shops and resistant buyers.
 While it looked for a while that the consumer would continue to chase prices to the sky, up, and price cuts now seem inevitable.
 Thus the law, which states that prices tend to fall as supply exceeds demand, seems to be exerting itself.
 Ford Motor Co. experimented with lower prices last fall but found the response weak, leading some marketing men to conclude that the prices weren't low enough or that the market had been wrung dry of sales for months ahead.
 While the failure of consumers to respond quickly to lower prices by Ford casts some doubt on the economic maxim, consumers are proving another point: they do have a more sensible, cautious attitude now seems to prevail, even though many individuals and businesses are badly overextended. In November, the reduction of credit outstanding was the largest on record for one month, some $483 million.

Why a librarian? "I want to eat," says Kevin Starr

Librarians Find Their Liberator

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — speculative life?

Picture the librarian — a meek, prim figure in mythical River City, prey for a Harold Hill-type of character to come along; or thin, stern lips compressed in a permanent admonition to keep it to a whisper.

Well, Kevin Starr sure isn't like that.

He has a round-nosed face, glasses so thick they look like a chunk from an ice house, sandy, matted hair, a beard and a thick body that belongs to a high school lineman — which he was.

Prodigy Of Politics

Kevin is the city librarian of San Francisco. He is 34 and a scholar. He is also a prodigy of politics, the pet of Mayor Joseph Alioto who appointed him to his $24,000-a-year post last June.

Why in the world would Kevin Starr, A.B., A.M., Ph.D. and M.L.S. — also the author of "Americans and the California Dream, 1850-1915" — want to be a staid librarian?

"I want," he says succinctly, "to eat."

He has a wife and two daughters and spent five years writing his scholarly treatise, which sold 7,500 copies and earned him $10,000, or an average $2,000 a year. Coupled with a modest salary as an associate professor of literature at Harvard University, this wasn't going to produce financial independence.

City Of Origin

Besides that, he had already concluded that there are "too many people in universities, all these millions doing virtually nothing—the work week is way down for the professoriat."

He returned to San Francisco, the city of his origin — as an aide to Alioto and then was moved into the library.

"Now," he says with typical ebullience, "I'm on my way to being a great librarian."

"The abandonment of the library to pure technocrats is analogous to the abandonment of education to technocrats. Why should people in the museum world, etc., be charged with the

Tammy Wynette Files For Divorce

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singer Tammy Wynette, who made the hit recordings "Stand By Your Man" and "D-I-V-O-R-C-E," has filed for divorce from singer George Jones on grounds of cruelty.

Miss Wynette, 32, and Jones, 45, were married in 1960 and made professional appearances together frequently, producing such top country recordings as "We're Gonna Hold On (To Each Other)," "We Go Together" and "We Can Make It." Both are members of the Grand Ole Opry.

Miss Wynette filed for a legal separation 16 months ago, but she and Jones reconciled less than a month later.

On Wednesday, court officials said she asked for custody of the couple's 5-year-old daughter.

"I dig politics. I like my colleagues at City Hall better than those at Harvard. I like their minds better. They're not as boring as academics."

And educationally, on a personal level, the political experience has been broadening. He knows now, for instance, that it costs $70,000 to install a couple of toilets.

Did His Homework

Starr went before the Board of Supervisors to plead on an esthetic level for more library facilities and all they wanted to know about was the cost for extra toilets. He had to go out and do his homework. He also learned the political facts of life.

"The police get attention for their needs," he says. "They have political clout. Why not the library? My job is getting these underfunded, undermanned libraries going again."

The whole of the city library system with its 27 branches has 12 million volumes. The Harvard University library has a million. Starr has no illusions about making his little niche the treasure of knowledge in the Western world.

Creates New Jobs

"The literate poor," he says, "use our libraries. About 29 per cent of the city's total population, mostly blue collar. That's still not as much as use the public library in Scarsdale (N.Y.)."

Since June, he points out proudly, he has created 80 new jobs with federal money.

He has not abandoned his own scholarly pursuits. He gets up at 6 every morning and works three hours on his second historical volume, "Americans and the California Dream, 1916-1976."

Kevin Starr is a product of that dream.

"We were just one notch below poor," he says. "I was raised in the Potrero Hill housing project. My father was blind. My mother was ill after a nervous breakdown. They were split up. I have needed glasses since I was six years old but never got them till I was 14, from a public health nurse. I had gotten rotten grades in school. All of a sudden I couldn't believe what I could see."

Earthy, Pragmatic
He went on to the University of San Francisco and then Harvard for graduate study and an eventual teaching job. "From Potrero Hill to Harvard," he shrugs, "is only a phase. You can go to Harvard and see the parameters of the universe."

His speech is sprinkled with Thomas Aquinas and Existence and Essence. He is also earthy and pragmatic and realistic. "I had an unholy terror," he says, settled in among his volumes, "this job would eat me alive."

He is responsible for 300 full time and 200 part time employees of the library system.

"People resent me," he acknowledges, "because I didn't work my way up through the ranks. I'm the only person in the library who doesn't have civil service tenure."
He doesn't look worried.

Arsenic Poisoning May Once Again Become Problem

By Dr. IRWIN J. POLK
Copley News Service

Arsenic is a deadly poison. Its use dates back to the time of the ancient Greeks and Romans who first tried it as a medicine. Finding that they lost more patients than they helped, they settled on the use of arsenic as a powerful poison. By the time of the Borgias, arsenic was a favorite poison and thereafter, history abounds with tales of the use of arsenic for murder by the men of state, the church and commerce. Indeed, arsenic is well known as a people-killer.

Nor is arsenic poisoning limited to ancient history. Just a few years ago, arsenic was found to be the cause for a mysterious illness detected in the American ambassador to Italy.

That lady, living in an old Italian villa, ate her meals daily in a room which had been painted with material containing arsenic. Enough flakes of paint fell into her food each day so that over the several years she lived in the villa, she was poisoned with arsenic. For arsenic is very poisonous, even when taken in very small amounts.

Symptoms of arsenic poisoning such as this are very subtle at the onset. They may include weakness, tiredness, loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting, and diarrhea, or sometimes constipation. As the poisoning progresses, the symptoms and signs become more obvious. They may include congestion of the nose and throat, sneezing, coughing and hoarseness. Sores in the mouth and skin rash can occur. Sometimes the skin becomes darkened, especially at the neck, eyelids, armpits and nipples. The liver may enlarge and there may be jaundice.

The skin may become hard and dry, especially at the palms and soles, and may go on to peel away in large sheets. Loss of hair or fingernails can occur. As the poisoning continues, nervous system signs occur which may include weakness of the muscles, pain without obvious cause, and may go on to complete stupor. These are all the things which may happen to the body after prolonged exposure to minute amounts of arsenic, beginning with digestive trouble, proceeding through skin sickness and ending sadly with nervous system disease. Make careful note of this: it may be important.

Arsenic poisoning may become a problem again soon. A recent report from the University of Kansas offers some frightening information in this regard.

They tested a group of cleaning materials, detergents with and without enzymes, and found arsenic present. In fact, there were significant amounts of arsenic in each of the preparations they tested. To follow this up, they checked the water in the Kansas area. They found that much of the river water contained measurable amounts of arsenic. As a result, the water coming into the purification plants also contained arsenic. The plant at Lawrence, Kan., however, was able to reduce the arsenic content of the tap water to one-tenth of the amount which came into the plant. At any rate, in Kansas, at least, there are measurable amounts of arsenic in the free water, and even in the tap water.

Humans beings certainly are a funny race. We use lots of water to keep clean. Then we add detergents to our water to keep even cleaner. Since there is no good way to get rid of the detergents once we've used them, we add enzymes to them. The enzymes are there to degrade and remove the detergents. (Never mind what you see on the tv ads.) Next it turns out that the enzymes and detergents are adding arsenic to the water we use, and reuse. So our desire for cleanliness may bring down upon us a plague of arsenic poisoning, slow, subtle and deadly. Arsenic, the private stock which may include weakness of the muscles, pain without ob-

City Of Garland Telephone Suit On Docket Today

DALLAS (AP) — The City of Garland claims that General Telephone Co. is overcharging its customers $100,000 a month and is bringing the company to court for a hearing. The hearing was set for district court today.

Garland attorney Earl Lutz alleged in the suit that the company has illegally raised its rates by failing to get city approval.

The suit is a continuation of a long struggle between the City of Garland and General Telephone. In 1971 General Telephone told the city the company was operating on a metropolitan area basis and therefore did not need Garland's approval to raise rates.

Garland sued and the company was ordered by the trial court to seek Garland City Council approval before the company implemented any rate hikes.

The two litigants went to court again in 1973 when General Telephone refused to divulge to the city certain data regarding Garland telephone rates.

The court ruled in favor of the city.

What's In A Name?—Lot$ Of $$

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two articles dealing with the varying amounts paid for prescription drugs — the range of prices between brand-name drugs and their generic equivalents.

By DREW DAVIS
Copley News Service

The scrawl on the doctor's pad is illegible. Armed with a prescription he knows little about, the average consumer neither questions the doctor's judgment in prescribing it, the pharmacist's role in filling it, nor the price he must pay for it.

From clinic to drugstore, the consumer is at the mercy of his doctor, the drug industry and the pharmacist. The confusion stems from a combination of factors, including manufacturing and labeling practices by the major drug firms, sales promotions and advertising undertaken by those manufacturers, unfamiliarity with prevailing drug prices and equivalency on the part of many doctors, and the wide variety of pricing systems employed by retail druggists.

Each prescription drug has three names: its chemical name, its generic name and its brand name.

For example, the chemical name of a well-known tranquilizer is 2-methyl-2-propyl-1,3-propanediol dicarbamate. Its generic name, or shorthand chemical name which any manufacturer can use, is meprobamate. It is sold by manufacturers under such trade names as Miltown and Equanil.

In the case of most drugs, the consumer can save money by requesting that his physician prescribe under the generic name, and that the pharmacist fill the prescription under that name, rather than under a brand name.

The average wholesale price of meprobamate under its generic name for 100 capsules, 400 milligrams, is $1.20. Equanil, a brand meprobamate manufactured by Wyeth Laboratories, wholesales for $7.06 for the same quantity, same strength.

The difference in wholesale price between the generic and the brand names is almost 700 per cent. The price spread on the retail end is nearly as great.

The confusion is compounded by the fact that, according to a U.S. Food and Drug Administration report, there are about 700 basic chemical drug compounds on the market.

However, these 700 compounds are sold under approximately 22,000 brand names, more than 30 names for each drug.

Drug manufacturers argue that brand names are a necessity to preserve quality, to promote ready identification, and to make costly new-product research economically viable.

To protect their products from duplication, drug manufacturers have sought the umbrella of brand names and patent law. Under patent law, no one may duplicate a new drug without the manufacturer's permission for 17 years. It is the exclusive property of the developer. To enhance the marketability of the new drug, it is given a brand name.

After the expiration of the patent, other manufacturers may chemically reproduce the drug, and market it under its generic name.

Leading manufacturers argue that drug quality is adversely affected by duplication, particularly by cut-rate firms.

"The drug firm's expenditures could not be justified without a means of realizing adequate returns on the investment," says a publication of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

"Trademarks commonly used throughout the industry to help protect authentic products against facsimiles provided a suitable mechanism."

Bioavailability
Another side of the issue centers on the concept of "bioavailability."

Bioavailability is defined as the amount of a drug's active ingredient that enters the patient's bloodstream.

The manufacturers argue that generic equivalents, drugs marketed under the same generic name, are not necessarily equal in bioavailability.

The dilemma for the doctor is a real one. With 22,000 drug names to choose from, it is nearly a physical impossibility for a physician to be aware of the full range of drug prices and therapeutic effects.

"Most doctors are not aware of drug prices," said Dr. Leslie Webster, chairman of the Northwestern University Medical School's Department of Pharmacology. "Most prescribe out of habit, and unfortunately sometimes out of influence by industry promotions."

Confidence In Name
Drug industry sources attribute this trend to two factors.

First, many drugs are under patent and available only under brand names.

Second, when the patent expires, and the drug becomes available generically, doctors who have used the drug have developed confidence in the brand name and do not want to change.

But the influence of advertising is also very real. The drug industry spends an estimated $1 billion a year on advertising and promotional considerations, including the distribution of free samples and medical supplies.

The development of knowledge in this vital field could increase the awareness of the medical profession, and reduce its reliance on the promotional gimmicks and pitches of the drug industry and its detail men.

Next: A drug is a drug is a . . . ?

Students Spurn Freebies

Copley News Service

A medical student is given a free stethoscope by a drug manufacturer's representative at a student convention.

A practicing physician receives a box of free samples of a newly marketed drug by a "detail" man representing the manufacturer.

Each year, the prescription drug industry spends more than $1 billion on advertising and sales promotions, according to a recent estimate.

With approximately 200,000 doctors practicing in the United States, manufacturers each year spend an average of $5,000 on each physician to persuade him to prescribe brand products.

The industry's promotional effort centers on the force of about 20,000 detail men whose job it is to brief doctors on the merits of drug products.

The drug industry contends that the purpose of the detail men is education-oriented, and not sales-oriented.

Despite this claim, Assistant Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Dr. Charles C. Edwards told the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association:

"Despite the contention that advertising is education, most of the drug promotion we see is designed only to sell, to motivate the physician to prescribe and the consumer to buy."

The influence of drug company promotions has even reached into the classroom, where future doctors are exposed early to the manufacturers' gratuities.

David J. Gullen of Tucson, Ariz., a medical student at the University of Arizona, is a past president of the Arizona Chapter of the Student American Medical Association. According to Gullen, the drug companies regularly dispense such giveaways as stethoscopes, tuning forks, notebooks and other school supplies to medical students.

The promotional gifts have sparked debate among students, many of whom feel it is "a form of bribery," Gullen said. There has been a recent trend among students to return supplies to the drug firms, or donate them to free clinics.

"It's too bad," said Dr. Leslie Webster, chairman of the Northwestern University Department of Pharmacology, "but advertising promotions are a very prevalent practice in medical school."

But the situation may soon reverse. Students are being encouraged by their professors to take drug costs into consideration in the prescription process, and the emphasis in the classroom is on the generic drugs, and not the brand names.

According to Gullen, more interests are encouraging students to prescribe generically, a habit that could carry on into private practice.

Clinical pharmacology, too, is developing as a separate academic discipline, that, according to Dr. Webster, could lead to more doctors questioning the research of the drug manufacturers.

Clinical pharmacology is the study of chemical levels in drugs and their therapeutic effects on the body.

The independent research of drugs has been neglected in the past, Dr. Webster said, "but a revolution is going on in this field."

The development of knowledge in this vital field could increase the awareness of the medical profession, and reduce its reliance on the promotional gimmicks and pitches of the drug industry and its detail men.

Presidential Politics To Be Hot Subject

Editor's Note: Presidential politics will play an important role behind the scenes influence on Texas legislators as they consider a number of urgent changes in state laws covering elections and campaign practices during the 1975 legislative session. Here, in another of the AP's pre-legislative stories, are the highlights of the expected legislative proposals.

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Presidential politics will be a hot subject for Texas legislators the next few months as they try to change some of the ground rules for the 1976 elections.

Whether Texas has a presidential primary in 1976 to help along the presidential ambitions of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D. Tex., will be one of the touchy proposals offered the 181 senators and representatives.

Also marked "urgent" on the agenda are demands that a permanent method of financing primary elections be found, that voter registration laws be changed to allow an easy purge of dead and out-of-state voters, and that something be done to make the new campaign reporting laws more palatable.

"Our election code is Fog Can Distort Motorists' Vision

NEW YORK (AP) — Fog can raise havoc with the average motorist's vision in more ways than one.

Pedestrians, trees and oncoming vehicles viewed through fog may look twice as far away as they really are, reports CIT Service Leasing Corp., which provides safe-driving information for users of its cars and truck fleets.

What's more, a motorist driving through fog may feel that he is going at only half his actual speed.

hopelessly confused," said Rep. Ed Harris, D-Galveston, chairman of the 1973 legislature's elections committee. "It is impossible to act under it without coming in conflict with some provision."

Many Sections Obsolete
"Many sections of our election code have been made obsolete and in direct conflict with court decisions," said Secretary of State Mark White, the state's chief elections officer.

The presidential primary issue got new attention recently with reports that Bentsen's office wanted a presidential primary in Texas to help him along if he makes a 1976 presidential bid.

"We should have had a presidential primary at least 20 years ago," said Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, one of at least two legislators who plan to introduce presidential primary bills.

Kubiak said he talked to Bentsen "about my bill two years ago and he indicated he was very strong for it at the time . . . I think it has a pretty good chance now."

Presidential Primary
Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, a long time fighter for election law changes, said he would again introduce a presidential primary bill, along with proposals to have the party primaries in September instead of May and to require voter registration by party affiliation.

"It looks better every year," Mauzy said.

Mauzy also hopes to correct what he thinks is an inequity caused by the new four-year terms for Texas governors. State law says the number of delegates elected to party conventions will be based on the last general election vote for governor. "Election returns four years old would be out of date and totally irrelevant," he said. He proposes that delegate strength be based in presidential election years, like 1976, on the last general election vote for governor, then in non-presidential election years base it on the last general election vote for president.

The Secretary of State's office estimates that thousands and thousands of names on voter rolls now belong to dead persons or those who have moved out of the precinct—maybe to register again, and again, in other precincts. The legislature will be asked to make a law change calling for an easy purge of the rolls. Every two years, before elections, a county tax assessor-collector would mail a postcard to each listed voter. If the card is not returned, the name is left on the roll. If the card is returned with no forwarding address, the name is stricken. If the card is returned with a forwarding address, another card is sent informing the voter he must register again with his new address.

Another suggested change would have the state finance primaries permanently along the same lines as the two-year bill passed by the 1973 legislature. Political candidates would continue to help pay for the elections with filing fees ranging from $50 at the local level to $1,000 for governor, U.S. Senator and other statewide jobs. The state would pay the rest of the cost.

The proposed bill would call for separate voting places for Democrats, Republicans and any other party holding primary elections. White, who often speaks for Gov. Dolph

Stationery May Be Status Symbol

NEW YORK (AP) — The quality of the stationery organizations allocate their executives may become a badge of office, the Cotton Fiber Paper Council says. The Commonwealth of Virginia, for example, now designates who among state office holders are entitled to 100 per cent cotton fiber content paper and envelopes, who gets 50 per cent cotton paper, who 25 per cent, and on along the line. The higher the rank, the better the paper.

The council predicts that with this trend stationery will join corner offices, private washrooms and company jets as symbols of executive suite status.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, Jan. 9, the ninth day of 1975. There are 356 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
In 1945, during the Pacific War, American forces invaded the Japanese-held island of Luzon in the Philippines.

On this date —
In 1719, France declared war on Spain.

In 1788, Connecticut became the fifth state to ratify the U.S. Constitution.

In 1861, Mississippi seceded from the Union.

In 1919, Grand Duchess Charlotte ascended the throne in Luxembourg.

In 1942, Japanese reinforcements were pouring into the Philippines at the beginning of the Pacific War.

In 1969, it was disclosed that the jobless rate in the U.S. in 1968 had dropped to just above three and one-half per cent — the lowest unemployment in 15 years.

Ten years ago: It was estimated that more than 500 persons suspected of being rebels had been executed by Congo government forces in Stanleyville in the six weeks since the city was retaken.

Five years ago: Paris officials said France had agreed to sell Mirage military jets to the revolutionary regime in Libya.

One year ago: President Nixon invited leaders of eight countries to a conference in Washington to try to deal with the world energy crisis.

Today's birthdays: Former President Nixon is 62 years old. Singer Joan Baez is 34. The coach of the Green Bay Packers, Bart Starr, is 41. Thought for today: Ask the young. They know everything. — Chinese proverb.

Common Cause, which calls itself the "citizens' lobby," says it will push for an amendment to the reporting measure that would set a limit on the amount of campaign contributions for state legislators, similar to the new campaign limits for presidential candidates.

However, the House Elections Committee vetoed such a proposal saying it would be "an incumbency protection act."

Parents Watch Children's Program

NEW YORK (AP) — One song that nightclub audiences love to hear Lou Rawls sing is one he's never made a record of. It's the "Alphabet Song" from "Sesame Street," the educational tv series for preschoolers.

Requests for the song come from parents of small children who have seen Rawls do his rendition of the tune on "Sesame Street" for its estimated nine million young viewers.

"This tells me," the rhythm-and-blues singer says, "that many parents watch 'Sesame Street' with their kids."

Rawls may soon get requests for another "Sesame Street" number. He has just taped a new song about emotions for the series entitled "Don't Be Afraid To Cry."

Dallas Citizens Join To Bail Out Debt-Ridden Mayor

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, THURS., JAN. 9, 1975-1D

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas citizens are beginning to rally around their personable young mayor, Wes Wise, whose financial woes are the talk of the town.

Wise, 45, a former television sportscaster, is serving his second term as mayor, a part-time post that pays $50 a week. He is up for re-election in April.

Gordon McLendon, a millionaire broadcaster and theater owner, has announced plans for a $10-a-head reception Jan. 30 to retire Wise's debts, estimated at approximately $75,000. McLendon himself has purchased $1,000 in tickets.

"I've known Wes over 20 years and I think he's worked like the devil," McLendon said. "I think the average person identifies with him very much. We are proud, not embarrassed, that we have a mayor who is obviously not on the take."

Wise's financial troubles sprang to attention last week when his battered, bumperless 1966 Volkswagen—estimated to be worth $50—was seized and sold at a sheriff's auction to satisfy part of a $30,000 court judgment obtained by two creditors.

Tavern owner Bill Martin, who said he didn't even know the mayor, bought the car for $700, then had it returned to Wise's home. "The whole thing's ridiculous," he said. "You know the guy has to be honest, driving a beat-up old thing like that."

Center, where he earns $2,900 a year.

McLendon said his plans for the fund-raising reception were conceived before the car incident. "I would suspect there are some political motives involved with relation to the car incident although I have no way of knowing," McLendon said. "If this thing is politics it has certainly backfired."

The $30,000 judgment against Wise stems from a defunct business venture he and an associate entered with borrowed funds. Wise offered to repay half, or $15,000, but the offer was spurned by the creditors.

The mayor said part of his financial troubles stem from his $50-a-week salary.

"Other mayors around the country have asked me how I can do it. Obviously, I couldn't," he said.

Seven Major Texas Cities Draft Plans For Mass Transport

Austin Bureau: AUSTIN - Officials of the seven major cities in Texas have drafted a plan for a $600-million state program of aid to mass transportation facilities, of which the seven would get 70 per cent. The plan also calls for increasing the State Highway Commission from three to seven members, and giving the governor the power to appoint the seven and remove them any time he wants to. Gov. Dolph Briscoe has proposed that the Highway Commission and the Mass Transit Commission be merged, but has not said he would increase its size or give himself the power to remove members.

State Financing: Briscoe has also said he would propose a state financing program for mass transit, but has put out no details of what he will propose. Representatives of Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Austin, El Paso and Corpus Christi drew up the proposal which would be put into bill form once the seven mayors and city councils have given their approval.

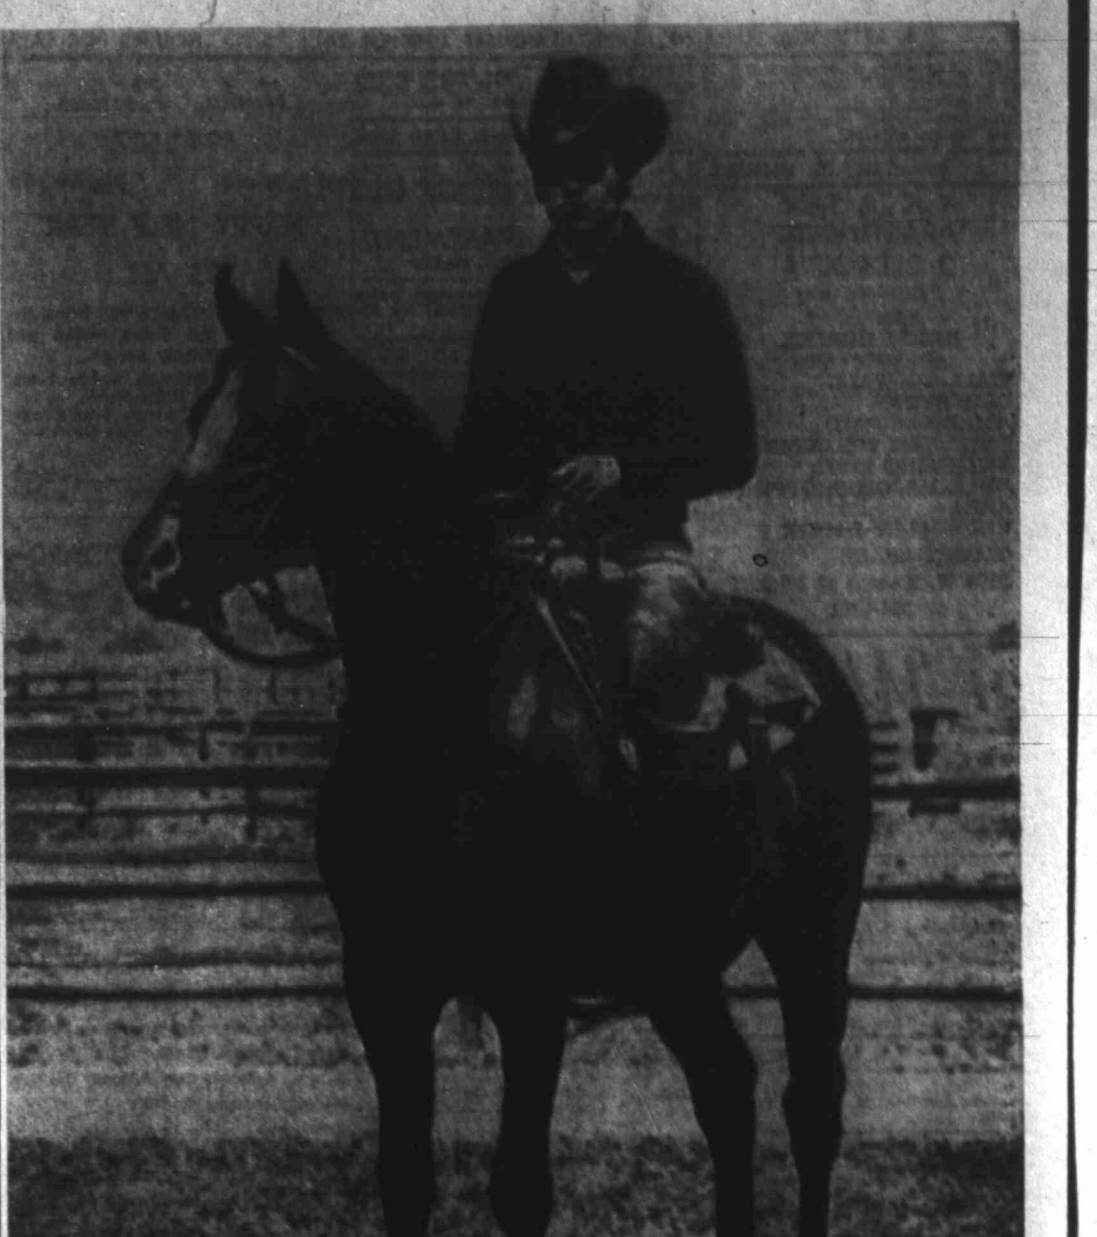

To Bolster U.S. Grants: The state money would be used to bolster federal grants just authorized by Congress. They total $142,726,000 in 1975, 1980 to the seven urban areas.

New Worry For World: Stability Of Soviet Leadership

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A world with more than enough to worry about has new reasons to be nervous with the spots of widely varying reports on the health of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The Soviet Communist party's general secretary may or may not be seriously ill. Soviet officials keep such things closely to themselves. But recent developments have suggested that in any case Brezhnev has been in some sort of political difficulties.

One way or the other, changes relatively soon in the hierarchy are inevitable if only because of its age. Undoubtedly the leaders recognize this and have been preparing for a transition, so perhaps this time it might take place without violent struggle. Thus, the reports fix world attention on the workings of the Soviet power structure.

Tenure In Question

At the same time the uncertainty turns global attention to the possible impact on such areas as Soviet-American and Soviet-Chinese relations, the Soviet role in the Middle East and Soviet domestic policy.

In some of these areas Brezhnev seemed recently to encounter trouble with his colleagues. That, coupled with an illness, could place his tenure as top man into question.

Brezhnev has been frustrated in the Middle East by a persistent Egyptian mistrust of Soviet intentions. He was set back, too, by the American trade bill that tied preferential treatment for the Soviet Union to eased restrictions on emigration. Since Brezhnev obviously had approved the "understanding" on that score, the vehement denial of it, laid now to "leading Soviet circles," suggests that Brezhnev may have been sharply criticized.

Party Rules Nation

If Brezhnev goes, for whatever reason, what might succeed him? The Communist party rules the nation. The apparatus that runs the party is headed by a 16-member Politburo whose average age is about 65. Its alternate members and the party secretariat also are overaged by comparison with leading groups in the West.

A formidable government bureaucracy of hundreds of thousands, long in office, runs day to day business of the vast nation of 250 million. This Soviet Establishment is so entrenched as to give the impression that it consciously protects its ranks.

U.S. Must Boost Steel Production

CLEVELAND (AP) — "To accommodate market requirements looking to 1980, the United States will have to increase annual raw steel production by some 25 million net tons," according to Robert G. Welch, president, Steel Service Center Institute. "This will require production capacity in the country of around 180 million net tons," he stated.

"Add to that the 25 million tons that is needed to balance, modernize and maintain existing facilities and the scope of the planning and investment that is required becomes apparent," said Welch.

"The plain fact is, world steel output must reach in excess of one billion net tons by 1980 in order to satisfy steel user demands. That translates to added world capacity of 315 million net tons over the next six years."

January Slowest Month For Patents

WASHINGTON (AP) — January may have been one of the slowest months of the year for inventors but the only significant invention recorded that month turned the world on.

Listing the major inventions by month, the Intellectual Property Owners Inc., a non-profit group interested in preserving a strong patent system, notes that on Jan. 27, 1880, Thomas A. Edison, the "Wizard of Menlo Park," received a patent for the incandescent electric light.

Just two years earlier, IPO points out, Edison patented another major invention that had a similar far-reaching effect on mankind — "a phonograph or speaking machine."

King-Size Barnacle

against younger potential leaders.

The government flows from nearly 90 heavily populated ministries. The cabinet of almost four score ministers and state committee chiefs is headed by a premier, one first deputy and 10 deputy premiers. The average age of all these leaders is, astonishingly, something like 63.

Last year, in a sudden burst of genial expansiveness, Brezhnev let it be known that when he wasn't in town, Mikhail M. Suslov presided at Politburo meetings. If both he and Suslov were absent, Andrei P. Kirilenko would preside.

Suslov, a dour ideologist and holdover from the Stalin era Politburo, is now 73. Thus, attention turns to Kirilenko, himself at 68 the same age as Brezhnev.

than Brezhnev has been enjoying in his recent years.

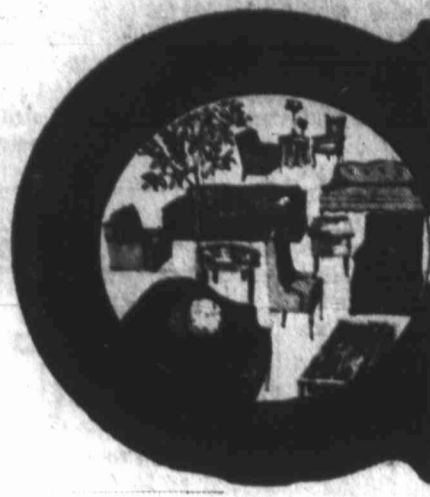

Kirilenko might, in fact, represent a sort of caretaker, in a collective leadership arrangement to bridge the gap between older and younger generations of leadership. His background would suggest continuity of Brezhnev's policies, perhaps with even a bit more internal repression than Brezhnev mediated out.

By education Kirilenko is a technocrat but his background in ideology has suggested dyed-in-the-wool, old-fashioned Stalinism. Also a member of the secretariat that runs the party, Kirilenko is intimately acquainted with its internal affairs, a plus for him.

Behind the better known figures of the Politburo are some others who are possibilities for the top party job. One is Fyodor D. Kulakov, a Politburo youngster at 57, who is also an agricultural expert, a point in his favor.
