Wholesale Prices Drop Again

Further Relief From Inflation Trends Shown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Led by a big decline in prices of farm products, wholesale prices fell three-tenths of one per cent in January, the Labor Department reported today.

The report indicated further relief for Americans from the high inflationary trends of the past two years, since declines in wholesale prices generally result in falling consumer prices later on.

In a separate report Thursday, the Federal Reserve Board said the nation's factories, mines and utilities reduced their output by 3.6 per cent last month, the worst such showing since the Depression Era.

The Federal Reserve's industrial-output statistics showed that the downturn extended across the country, with declines posted in autos, consumer goods, business equipment and industrial materials.

Second Decline The January decline in the Labor Department's Wholesale Price Index marked the second straight monthly decline in overall wholesale prices. The index was down five-tenths of a per cent in December.

The department said prices of farm products fell 2.2 per cent in January, led by lower prices for grains, livestock and hogs.

Processed foods and feeds dropped one per cent in price, due primarily to lower prices for sugar and confectionery, the department said.

The Labor Department said its Wholesale Price Index in January stood at 171.8 of the 1967 average of 100, which was 17.2 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Contrast Cited By contrast, in November, wholesale prices were 23.5 per cent ahead of a year earlier. At 171.8, this meant it cost $171.80 to buy the same goods that $100 purchased in 1967.

The figures were adjusted for seasonal variations, meaning seasonally caused price changes were taken into account. On a seasonally unadjusted basis, overall wholesale prices advanced two-tenths of one per cent.

The Federal Reserve's industrial-output index registered its sharpest drop since December 1937, when the output index plummeted by 8.9 per cent. The index had dropped 3.1 per cent in December 1974.

The index now has declined by 9.5 per cent since last Sep. (See WHOLESALERS Page 2A)

BREZHNEV URGES RESUMPTION OF GENEVA TALKS Kissinger's Peace Efforts Hit

JERUSALEM (AP)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, under attack by the Kremlin and with prospects for a Sinai settlement still in doubt, wound up his talks with Israeli leaders today, had lunch with former Premier Golda Meir and flew on to Jordan.

As the day began, a bomb exploded in a field less than a mile from Kissinger's Jerusalem hotel, and police said they found two charred bodies in the field. Authorities had no immediate explanation.

In Moscow, Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, back in form after a 51-day absence from public view, lashed out at Kissinger's efforts to achieve a step-by-step Middle East settlement and called for the "speediest" resumption of the Geneva talks.

"Partial bilateral measures, as is known, have already been implemented in the Middle East," Brezhnev said. "Have they eased the tension in the area? Unfortunately not. Have they offered tranquility to peoples of the Middle East? No, they have not."

Taking off from Israel, Kissinger said his talks with Israeli leaders were "fruitful and positive." A senior U.S. official in the secretary's party said there still was only a 50-50 chance he can negotiate another Israeli troop withdrawal in the Sinai desert.

Kissinger told newsmen Thursday night his four days of talks with Premier Yitzhak Rabin of Israel and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt had not produced "concrete proposals, plans or (new cease-fire) lines, but rather a continuation of the considerations that were part of my exploratory mission."

Balloonists Planning To Get High On Hot Air At Bash

By GEORGE MASSEY Getting high on hot air will be the theme of the day Saturday and Sunday in the Tall City as more than 40 balloonists converge on the city to participate in the 2nd Annual Midland Balloon Bash.

Balloon pilots from at least eight states and Europe will be out to prove their skill at handling the 10-story, propane-heated envelopes above the plains of West Texas.

The aeronauts will inflate their balloons just before sunrise at sites preselected to give best wind conditions and release their holdowns at the signal of the balloonmeister.

Mike Choucalas of Balloon Promotions, Inc., said the multi-colored envelopes, carrying banners of advertising for local businesses, will be directed to some of the eight different sites at Midland parks, school grounds and other open areas surrounding the city.

Choucalas said the balloons will be in the air for approximately four hours. He said a flightpath over the city would be made if wind conditions would allow it. The balloon promoter said, "The pilots are at the mercy of the wind once they are in the air, as to the direction of their flight."

Choucalas said Clotaire Castanier of the French National Balloon championship team along with Don Cameron, the designer of the Cameron Balloons used predominantly in Europe, will be on-hand to participate in the Midland Balloon Bash.

High Sky More Than Slogan

HOT-AIR PILOTS—Mike Choucalas, center, promoter of the Midland Balloon Bash, confers with two seasoned balloon aeronauts, Don Barz, left, and Sid Cutter, both of Albuquerque, N.M. All three of the pilots are active in ballooning events on the national and international scene.

To Mike Choucalas of Midland, the land of the high sky is not just a slogan, it's a reality.

Choucalas, a native of Florida, came to the semi-arid plains of West Texas several years ago and found to his dismay that his previous activities in water sports were for all practical purposes "dried up."

But Choucalas wasn't without a recreational activity for very long; he discovered hot-air balloons. And there was nothing better suited for the flat, sky-limit country surrounding the Tall City.

Choucalas saw his first balloons while on a visit to New Mexico. He said, "I saw a whole regatta of the 10-story balloons in every color you could imagine floating past the mountain ranges near Albuquerque."

"I had to fly one," Choucalas said. "The first time it was like a guy getting behind the wheel of an expensive sports car."

Balloon fever took hold of Choucalas, and the ex-Florida water enthusiast became a Texan in the true sense of the word, bringing a "first" in the colorful new sport to West Texas and the Tall City.

Last May, Choucalas promoted the first Midland balloon race. He is the sponsor for the upcoming Midland Balloon Bash to be held Saturday and Sunday.

Choucalas said more than 40 of the giant balloons are scheduled to take off, carrying huge advertising banners for local businesses during the early morning hours both flight days.

The balloons and their crew members will be briefed on prevailing weather and wind conditions before takeoff and then move to selected launch sites around the perimeter of the city.

Choucalas said eight takeoff sites have been selected at city parks, school grounds and open areas in order that wind conditions on the flight days can be made to work for the balloon pilots. He said it has been planned that a flight path over the city would be used if wind direction allowed.

Choucalas said, "The aeronauts are at the mercy of the wind—once they are in the air." Whichever way the wind blows, that's the way we go, he said.

Balloonists Set To Soar

The Balloon Federation of America, and Bill Murtruff of Houston will be the federation-assigned safety officer for the event.

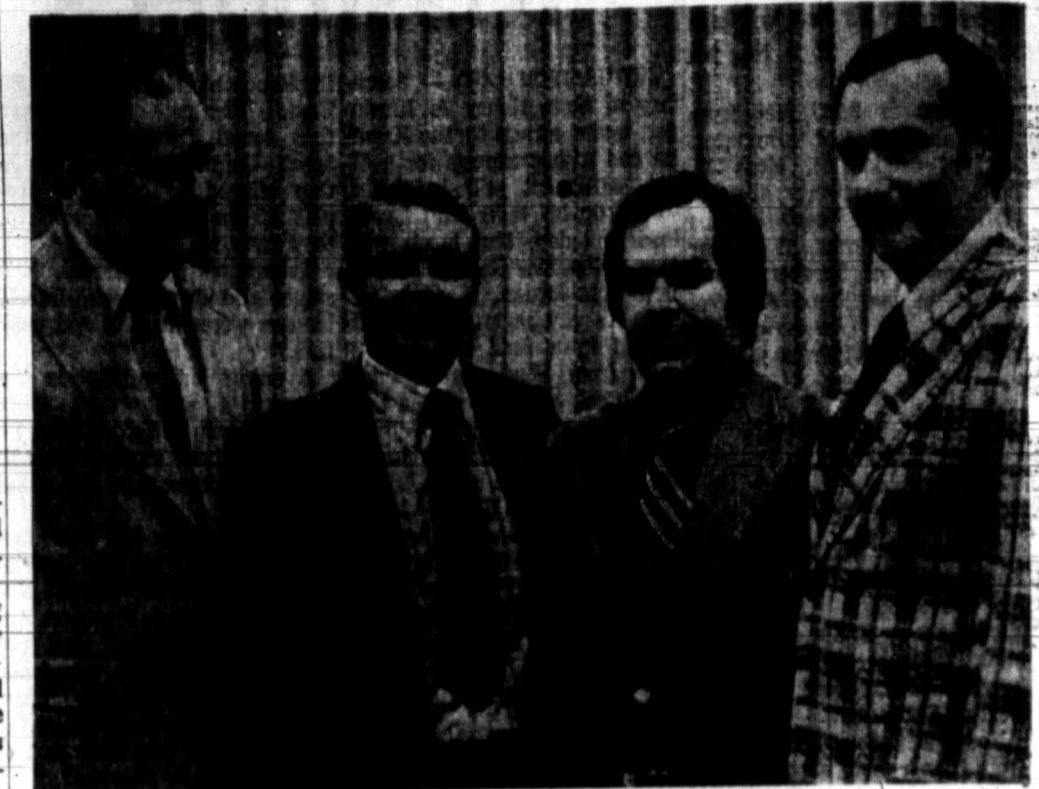

The Midland Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the balloon bash in which the aeronauts race to a "hare and hound" format. The pilots are awarded points for making landings as near to where the lead balloon touched down as possible.

The chamber is soliciting community support to sponsor the balloons to help defray expenses. Banners will be carried by the balloons giving the sponsor's names, and sponsors will have the opportunity to offer a free ride for one person.

Choucalas said that if the meet proves successful, Midland could become the permanent site of a Texas-New Mexico Governor's Cup Challenge Race to be held in the fall of each year.

Choucalas said the race would pit the top balloonists of each of the two states in competition for a trophy to be held at the governor's office in the capitol of the winning state.

Members of the Midland Balloon Club will be assisting in the operations at the take-off sites and balloon pickups. Propane gas is being supplied for the balloonists by the Starr Gas Company.

Wholesale Prices Decline Sharply

The figure was 8,000 higher than had signed up the previous week.

In other economic and energy developments Thursday:

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said in a Miami interview that President Ford's energy program will increase the price of gasoline by as much as 20 cents a gallon at the pump, compared to the administration's previous estimates of 10 cents a gallon. He predicted the price will start rising in April and reach 70 to 75 cents a gallon by July, going higher still if Ford's planned tariff on imported oil reaches $3 a barrel.

Jobless Lines Grow

In a New York speech to securities analysts, Ford said the $32-billion budget deficit he has projected for the next fiscal year can be financed. But he said he couldn't make the same promise if Congress adds to the deficit, and he criticized the House and Senate for inaction on his programs.

The Labor Department reported that unemployment lines continued to grow late in January as nearly 750,000 more Americans applied for jobless benefits in the week ended Feb. 10.

Grand Concert Saturday Night To Close Festival

DALLAS—Workshops, 51st annual convention here this week.

Presiding at business sessions are: Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, told the Senate Appropriations Committee he saw "definite and quite hopeful signs" of a decline in the inflation rate. He said the softening was detected in both farm and industrial prices.

The President disclosed that he will allow to become law without his signature a bill to freeze the price of food stamps throughout 1975 at their Jan. 1 level. Ford had wanted prices raised to save the government $650 million, but Congress instead voted by lopsided margins for freeze legislation.

National Emergency

Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons told a Washington conference of 750 union leaders that Ford should declare the recession a national emergency. He urged such measures as price controls, a $25 billion tax cut, gasoline rationing and more public service and construction jobs.

The stock market posted a single-day volume record as 35.16 million shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange. And an 11.89 gain pushed the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials to a six-month closing high of 726.92.

Hendrix College Receives Grant From Midlanders

CONWAY, ARK.—Directors of the Max and Enid Hendrix Foundation Inc. of Midland, Tex., have established the Max Hendrix Jr. Memorial Scholarship Fund at Hendrix College.

The income from the $10,000 grant will be used for scholarship awards to Hendrix students studying science and mathematics, economics and business or history and political science.

Max Hendrix Jr., who died in 1974, was a Certified Public Accountant in Midland, where he and his family lived since 1947. Hendrix, who was a member of the Permian Basin chapter of the Texas Society of CPAs, specialized in accounting work for drilling and oil exploration concerns.

Malone is vice president for Commercial Bank & Trust Co. where he serves as a commercial loan officer with added responsibilities in business development and credit cards. During 1973 he served as chairman of the Midland Area Sales Team, the industrial development branch of the Chamber of Commerce.

"We have had three successful campaigns for the United Way in the last three years," Malone observed. "With our healthy economy here I hope to see us make it four in a row."

Bybee added, "With Cecil Bybee and Ron Schwisow heading our campaign, I'm confident our results will be excellent."

Bybee is vice president of Magnatex Corp., a Midland-based diversified holding company. He is past treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce and presently serves on the chamber's board of directors. In addition, Bybee is a past president of the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation and is presently treasurer of The Museum of the Southwest.

Nylon Production Halted At Odessa

ODESSA—El Paso Products Company has announced that production in the nylon division of the company's Odessa plant has been temporarily suspended.

Company officials said the suspension was due to a "depressed state" of the national economy.

Nylon intermediates are manufactured at the Odessa facility.

Company officials said there would be no layoffs at the plant.

Confessed Miami Prostitute Pays $128,000, Jailed For Tax Evasion

MIAMI (AP)—A high-priced prostitute convicted of not paying federal income taxes on her earnings has been sent to jail for 60 days and given two years probation.

Carol Ann Citrin, 27, blonde, tearful and $128,000 poorer since she belatedly paid four years worth of taxes, was sentenced Thursday by U.S. District Court Judge Peter Fay.

"If I go to jail I just won't live," she told the judge. "I have to sleep 15 hours because I am a weak person."

Miss Citrin's mother, Edna Citrin, stood by her side.

"It's not as if she killed somebody," Mrs. Citrin said.

Miss Citrin, who once had 37 savings accounts in 15 banks, was found guilty last month of failure to pay taxes on $160,362 from 1968 through 1971. She told the jury that her mother had bequeathed her most of the money in a will, but it turned out that her mother was still alive.

Government witnesses included four of her clients and IRS agent Vernon Hampton.

Hampton said Miss Citrin told him that she collected fees of up to $2,500. Hampton said she never paid taxes because she was afraid IRS would want to know all her customers' names.

He said Miss Citrin had readily acknowledged prostitution as a source of income. He said she also claimed she earned part of the money as a stockbroker.

During the trial, Miss Citrin acted as her own defense lawyer, saying she wasn't about to pay for an attorney.

The judge repeatedly explained to Miss Citrin on Thursday that she could retain a lawyer any time and even told her how to appeal her case.

But Fay added, "I feel some period of incarceration is absolutely mandatory."

He sentenced Miss Citrin to one year in a "jail-type institution," suspended 10 months of the sentence and put her on probation for two years.

Fay told her that after the 60 days in jail "you must attain gainful and lawful employment. If you violate the terms of probation, then the probation will be revoked."

49 Midlanders Complete Course

Civil Defense Director Jack Chilcoat announced today that 49 persons from the Midland police, fire and public safety departments along with personnel from Midland Memorial Hospital have been certified as graduates of a Radiological Monitoring Course.

Chilcoat said honor students, those who made a 100 per cent score on their final tests, included fire department personnel George Woody, James A. Snider, Elva W. Cargile, Billy R. Robbins and Clyde J. Doyle.

Joe Carr of the police department also made the honor list.

The course was instructed by Barry Lister of the State Department of Health.

Lister said the city will receive 24 Geiger counters and dosimeters for checking radioactive material, one for each graduate of the course, at no cost from the state health department.

Chilcoat said the radiological monitoring course was necessary because of industrial uses of radioactive materials in this area.

Ector Grand Jury Due Report Today

ODESSA—Results of a district attorney's investigation on staff and faculty cooperative at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin was expected to be handed to an Ector County Grand Jury today.

Dist. Atty. John Green and a team of law enforcement officers questioned 40 employees of the university concerning the cooperative earlier this week.

The university co-op was started under past UTPB president Dr. B. H. Amstard for use as a recreational organization of staff and faculty at the upper-level school.

Green said Thursday the grand jury would receive all information relating to the investigation before coming to a decision.

Harris Poll Finds Most Expect New Coverup For CIA

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-three per cent of Americans surveyed for a Harris poll believe that a special investigation of the CIA headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller will end as another coverup.

Thirty-three per cent of the respondents believe the Rockefeller investigation will get to the root of any CIA wrongdoing, while 24 per cent were unsure, the Harris organization said Thursday.

"After Watergate, I don't think they'd dare another coverup, but I'll have to judge when their final report is made," an Albuquerque, N.M., teacher was quoted as telling pollsters.

The survey also showed that 49 per cent of those queried felt that President Ford was wrong to appoint Rockefeller to head the probe. Thirty-five per cent said a commission independent of the White House should have gotten the assignment. Sixteen per cent were not sure.

The poll surveyed a cross-section of 1,532 adults.

Andrews Council Studies Proposed Phone Rate Hike

ANDREWS—City councilmen here will continue their study on a pending telephone rate increase during a 7:30 p.m. session at city hall today.

The proposed rate increase has been made by Continental Telephone Company for a 46 per cent hike to present charges.

The council has suggested that half of the proposed rate increase would be enough, after a study by the city finance department.

Post Office Wins Safety Certificate

The Midland Post Office was awarded a certificate of commendation by the National Fire Protection Association in its 48th NFPA contest.

Postmaster David E. Holster said, "Only through the efforts of our concerned personnel could this award be received."

"It is given to those offices that have filed proper reports accurately and on time and have participated in a year around program of fire prevention including fire drills, posters and fire prevention safety talks."

Cold Front May Bring Some Moisture To Area

Another batch of frigid air by tonight, and the accompanying moisture was expected to spread into the South Plains by Saturday. Chances were seen for a few showers in other parts of the state Saturday.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 37 degrees at Childress this morning to 57 behind it; temperatures sagged at Galveston on the coast. Top into the 30s near dawn while readings stood in the middle 40s to 50s over the rest of the state.

Forecasters looked for the new blast of cold to move through New Mexico into Texas by tonight, and the accompanying moisture was expected to spread into the South Plains by Saturday. Chances were seen for a few showers in other parts of the state Saturday.

Gunman Captured After Hijacking Continental Bus

GRAY, Maine (AP)—A man armed with a revolver took over a Continental Trailways bus Thursday, forced the driver to change his route, then fired a half-dozen shots before being subdued, police said.

Authorities said nobody was injured in the incident, which took place as the bus, with five other passengers aboard, was on a run from Boston to Portland.

Police said the bus was headed north on U.S. 1 in Scarborough when the gunman forced driver Gary R. Clark to take a sudden stop, which forced the gunman to the floor, where he was disarmed.

The sheriff's department identified the gunman as Kenneth James Smith, 40, of Rochester, N.H. Smith was arrested on charges of kidnapping with a firearm and armed assault and battery, and was being held for district court arraignment today in Portland, police said.

16 Firemen Hurt As Flames Damage 110-Story Tower

NEW YORK (AP)—A fire in the north tower of the 110-story World Trade Center injured 16 firemen early today, officials said.

They said none of the fire fighters was seriously hurt. The 16 were treated for smoke inhalation and returned to duty.

About 30 persons were in the tower when the fire broke out. Authorities said the fire began shortly before midnight in the 11th floor offices of the B.E. Goodrich Co. and caused heavy damage there and in other locations in the northeast quadrant of the floor. The fire spread up and down electrical conduits to the 9th, 10th, 12th and 14th floors, causing minor damage there before it was brought under control.

The cause of the fire was not determined at once.

New York Bank Cuts Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP)—First National City Bank, the nation's second biggest commercial bank, today lowered its prime lending rate 3/4-point to 8 1/2 per cent, effective Monday.

It thus became the second major bank to drop the rate 3/4-point, the lowest in the industry.

Conservative Republicans Gearing Up For New National Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some conservatives, discontented with what they say are the liberal policies of the Ford-Rockefeller administration, are gearing up for a new national political party.

The talk of a new political party and criticism of both Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and President Ford dominated a conference Thursday sponsored by the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) and the American Conservative Union (ACU).

YAF claims to have a membership of 55,000 nationally. The ACU is based in Washington and lobbies on major legislative administration.

The four-day conference, attended by 500 persons, is entitled "1976 — What Direction for Conservatives" and is focusing on what some conservatives consider to be the President's "leftward drift" as indicated by his support for détente and conditional amnesty for Vietnam-era draft evaders and deserters.

Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., opening the conference, received a cheering, standing ovation when he called upon Ford to "make perfectly clear that Mr. Rockefeller will not control our domestic policies and is not acceptable for nomination as vice president in 1976."

Later in the day, Ford announced that he was putting Rockefeller in charge of the Domestic Council so that the vice president will play an important role in the administration.

Another conservative leader, who asked not to be identified, said there is fear that if Ford

Equal Rights Amendment Submission To Texas Voters In Election Opposed

AUSTIN (AP) — Both sides of the controversy surrounding the Equal Rights Amendment in Texas have said they oppose a House bill that would submit the ERA question to Texas voters in a statewide election in April.

The positions were stated Thursday when women from across Texas came to the capitol to honor Susan B. Anthony, a New York school teacher who fought for women's rights for over 50 years in the 19th century.

Martha Dickey, a spokesperson for the National Organization of Women, told a news conference her group opposed the bill sponsored by Rep. George Preston, D-Paris, because the voters of Texas already have expressed their feelings on the issue of equal rights.

ACU Chairman M. Stanton Evans said there should be a "new party" with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan at the top of the ticket and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace

Testimony In Hearing To Resume On Vesco Associate's Plane

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Testimony was to resume here today in a hearing in federal court involving a plane operated by an associate of fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco and allegedly used to take weapons to Costa Rica where Vesco now lives.

In testimony presented Thursday a former pilot for a Vesco associate said he flew the plane to Costa Rica with a shipment delivered to "Vesco's people", but he added he could not determine that any weapons were unloaded from his plane.

The hearing deals with the possible forfeiture of a plane owned by Rich Air-Son of Century, Calif. The plane was seized by U. S. Customs officials last summer at San Antonio International Airport. Officials cited federal statutes dealing with gun running as the reason for the seizure. Thomas P. Richardson, a Vesco associate and stockbroker from Los Angeles, was on hand when the plane was seized.

Federal officers have claimed that the $1 million sleek, Gates Lear Jet 25 executive plane was used for illegal exportation of guns to Costa Rica, where Vesco now lives.

Pilot David Miller, who now works for a commercial airline, said he made many flights to Costa Rica while employed by Richardson. Government lawyers zeroed in on a particular trip last April which began at Los Angeles, continued through Dallas, Tex., and Nassau, and ended at San Jose, Costa Rica.

Miller said "Vesco's people" met him at the San Jose Airport and took all of the cargo which, he said, ranged from "lasagna to bubble gum" and some ammunition.

Earlier he testified that while loading the plane he came across one open box which contained a weapon with "a big barrel and a stock." However, Miller said he never saw any weapons after he left Los Angeles and was unable to say if any were unloaded in Costa Rica. But he said unmarked boxes similar to the one in which he saw the gun in Los Angeles were on the plane when it left Nassau.

Richardson stayed at the Vesco "residence or compound" several days before he called Miller at his hotel room in San Jose and told him to ready the plane for the return trip which went via Brownsville, Tex. Miller said most of the cargo remained in Costa Rica.

Documents identified Vincent Stoner of North Hollywood, Calif., identified documents he said related to sales of weapons to Richardson on two days in April 1974. Included in the sales described

A co-worker gave basically the same testimony.

Two aircraft service workers from Van Nuys, Calif., Bernard Wilson and Jerry Scinto, said they helped load the aircraft and Scinto said he spotted a "tommy gun". They said they also helped load a quantity of ammunition onto the plane.

U. S. District Court Judge Adrian Spear said the government will have to prove their case "now" after hearing Richardson's "attorney complain about the six-month delay between the seizure and the presentation of the case."

"I CROWN THEE"—Mrs. Leo Merriman was photographed as her husband crowns her Valentine Sweetheart of the Desert Winds Chapter of Sweet Adelines, International, during a party held in the Chateau Apartments Clubroom.

Sweet Adelines Chapter Holds Valentine Party

The Desert Winds Chapter of Sweet Adelines, International, recently held a Valentine party in the Chateau Apartments Clubroom. Highlight of the affair was the election of Mrs. Leo Merriman as Valentine Sweetheart. Entertainment was derived from within the Sweet Adelines' own field of talent. Members brought their favorite sandwiches and dips, and special prizes were awarded throughout the evening by Mrs. Lloyd Pittman, mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Odell Biddy presided at the registry table. Guests attending were Nina Sharp and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gordon. Members and their husbands present included Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams, Mrs. Clara Gabbert, Mrs. Sandy Coffee, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pittman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coston, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Biddy, Mrs. Carol Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tomlinson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Odle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Merriam, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Story, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Hap Weaver, Sally Tharp, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Woolard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Morton and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Waddell. The Sweet Adelines, under the direction of Bill Cormack, is a group of harmony singers which performs for civic, social and charitable causes. Their charter with the international association was granted last year and they are preparing to compete in Oklahoma City, Okla., this spring with other chapters.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Don't Ring Down The Curtain On Your Old One

Dear Heloise: I have discovered a marvelously easy way to clean a vinyl shower curtain — the one item I seem to always forget until it has quite a film along the bottom. One day as I was putting it into my washer, I noticed my can of pre-wash soil and stain remover. I sprayed the shower curtain lightly along the bottom. I could hardly believe how beautifully it turned out. This is the easiest and best method I have found to wash my shower curtain with beautiful results. Mrs. John Schultz

Dear Heloise: Make your serving of beet greens a thing of beauty. I cook the greens from 3 to 5 minutes in my pressure cooker, drain, season to taste and add small cubes of a large beet for color. Makes it quite different. Mrs. Grace Ross

Dear Heloise: Before hanging clothes outside, I shake them out and put everything together. It saves time outside, plus no sorting. Just fold and put away. Janice Randolph

Dear Heloise: Pajamas often tear at the crotch seams. Just sewing the seams back together isn't satisfactory because the reason they ripped in the first place was because they were too snug. A flat patch is no good because of the fullness in the area. What would Heloise do? As soon as I asked myself that question, the answer was obvious. I got an old pair of pajama pants out of the ragbag, cut out the crotch area and stitched it over the torn pair. The fullness allowance was exactly the same, so no puckers! It was even the same color and does not show. Mrs. W. T. Whittington

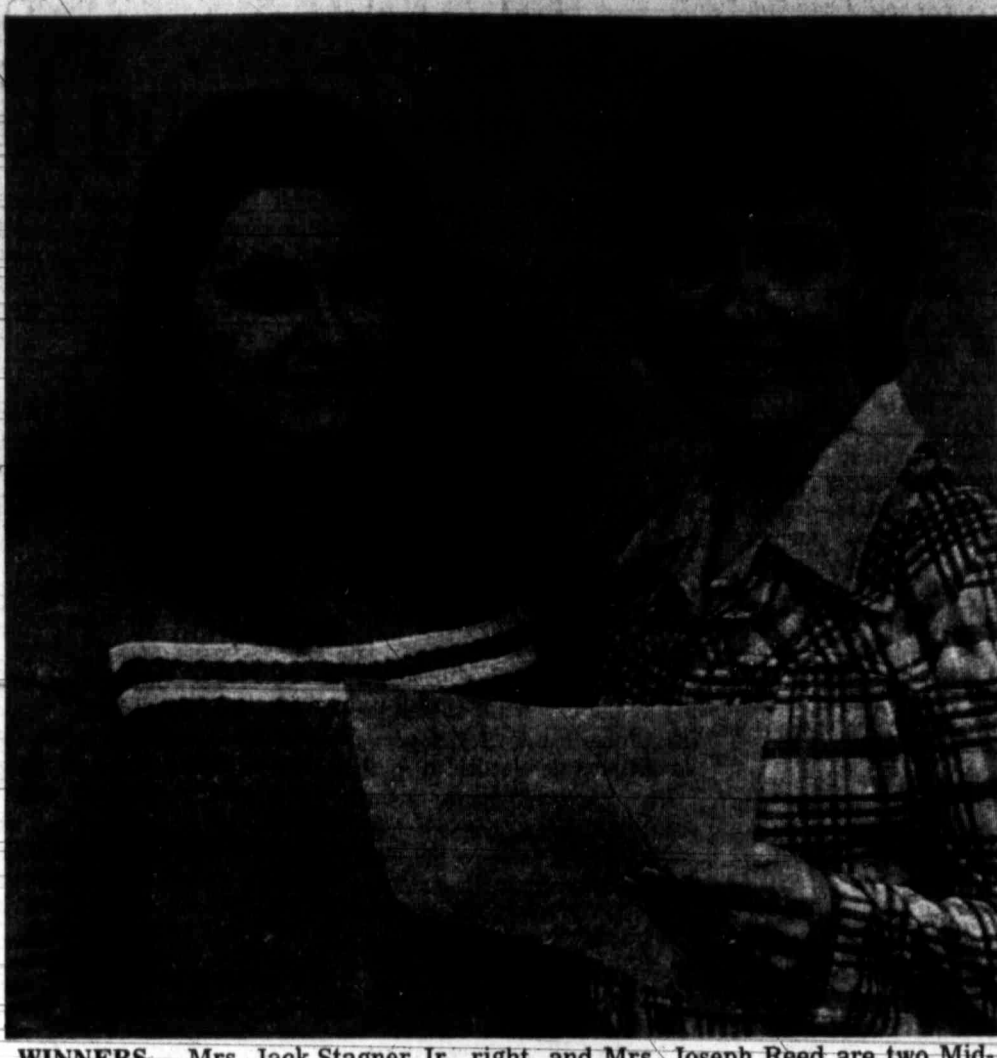

Dear Heloise: While trying unsuccessfully to find plastic garment bags for long dresses, I came upon the idea of buying a heavy-duty plastic drop cloth. I was able to make three suit bags out of one drop cloth. Mrs. Sylvia Zuhlik

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you try to force conditions to your will now, you are in for unpleasant, delaying conditions, but if you go along with the tide you make rapid, unexpected progress. Listen attentively to what those of different backgrounds suggest.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Use your intuition to help yourself today since conditions are rather difficult. Avoid wide remarks and live by highest principles.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't fail to keep promises made, or you get into trouble. Drive carefully. Try to please loved one more. Steer clear of troublesome person.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listen to associates' suggestions, since your affairs aren't going as well as you wish. Handle conditions wisely. Help others.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get needed work done, though try to go out for pleasure. Take no chances with one who has a peculiar sense of humor.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) Get out and have a good time; forget dreary chores. Show more affection for your mate. Avoid a foolish tangent.
VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Improve conditions at home and forget friends for today, since they are not in a good mood. Avoid arguments. Enjoy solitude.
LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Handle outside affairs carefully and put aside some public activity that has not been working out as expected. Be tactful at home.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Get busy on practical matters to increase money and remove worry. Take care of wallet while shopping. Avoid trouble.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't overwork or invest heavily or you could regret it. Accept some social invitation and listen carefully. Update self on world events.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not a good day for doing specialized work, since you feel nervous, so take it easy and await a better time for each. Get expert advice.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get together with fine friends for recreation and have excellent time. Being a lone wolf and fretting gets you nowhere fast.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget about new interest and concentrate on career and public matters that are important to you. Not a good run day at all.

Linda Wilson, Ronald Scott Exchange Marriage Vows

FARMINGTON, N.M. — Linda Gail Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wilson of Farmington, and Ronald Dean Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Scott of Midland, Tex., exchanged marriage vows Saturday in a candlelight ceremony performed by Jack Wheat, minister, in the Eastside Church of Christ here.

Mrs. Jack Wheat, soloist, provided wedding selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the gown worn by the bridegroom's mother at her wedding. The floor-length dress of white satin was overlaid with French lace encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestones. The bodice featured a scooped neckline and long, narrow sleeves caught to lace cuffs. Her shoulder-length veil was gathered to a crown covered with lace and seed pearls. She carried yellow and white carnations and baby's breath accented with yellow and white streamers.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Roy Miller of Farmington.

Following a Colorado honeymoon, the couple will reside in Midland, where the bridegroom is employed by Lock Construction Co. The bride attended schools in Farmington and Kayenta, Ariz. The bridegroom is a 1973 graduate of Lee High School, Midland.

Out-of-city guests included the bridegroom's sister, Angela Scott of Midland.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Dad, 74, Wheels Into Sun With 53-Year-Old Nurse

DEAR ABBY: Our whole family is in a turmoil because, after 52 years of marriage, our father has left our mother. They used to have their fights over the years but we never thought it would come to this.

Dad left Mother to go and live with a 53-year-old nurse he met three years ago when he was in the hospital. (Dad has been in a wheelchair for three years). The nurse came right into the house, packed Dad up and moved him out, and they drove off together.

Now that this has come out, everybody is saying they knew about Dad and this nurse all along. Dad is 74, and Mother is 73. Mother is so humiliated, she hasn't been out of the house since Dad left.

What do you think of this mess? How can we get Dad to come to his senses and go back to Mother? It's the talk of the town.

DEAR DISGRACED: Stay out of it. And you needn't feel "disgraced." A person can disgrace only himself.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow, not unattractive. A middle-aged physician (divorced) invited me to dinner at his home.

When I arrived, he fixed a cocktail, then the phone rang. I could tell by his conversation it was a woman. And she wasn't a patient. I sat quietly sipping my drink while he talked for 30 minutes! When he finally returned, he resumed the conversation with me, making no apologies for leaving me alone for so long.

About 10 minutes later a car drove up in front of his house and stopped. He said: "Let me see who that is." Then he went outside.

When he didn't return in 20 minutes, I took my wrap and purse and went outside to tell my host I was leaving. He was standing by the car, talking to a lady who apparently had come to see him.

I said: "Good night, I am going home." The lady immediately drove off. My host insisted that I go back into the house. I did, but only because I wanted to tell him off for his rudeness to me. Before I had a chance to say anything, he told ME off for having "embarrassed" him by coming outside.

Was I wrong? How would you have handled it?

DEAR MISTREATED: You were not wrong. I would have handled it much the same as you. Only I'd have said my goodbyes immediately after my host returned from his 30-minute telephone conversation.

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column. It's a kick to read about some of the stupid problems some of those fools who write to you come up with. I'm amazed at the number of women who write to say they're afraid of losing their husbands to another woman.

That's the last thing I'm worried about. I say: "The woman who steals my husband steals my troubles."

DEAR NOT: If that's the way you feel about your husband, why don't you just turn him loose, so there will be one less potential thief in the world?

DEAR DISGRACED: Stay out of it. And you needn't feel "disgraced." A person can disgrace only himself.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow, not unattractive. A middle-aged physician (divorced) invited me to dinner at his home.

When I arrived, he fixed a cocktail, then the phone rang. I could tell by his conversation it was a woman. And she wasn't a patient. I sat quietly sipping my drink while he talked for 30 minutes! When he finally returned, he resumed the conversation with me, making no apologies for leaving me alone for so long.

About 10 minutes later a car drove up in front of his house and stopped. He said: "Let me see who that is." Then he went outside.

When he didn't return in 20 minutes, I took my wrap and purse and went outside to tell my host I was leaving. He was standing by the car, talking to a lady who apparently had come to see him.

I said: "Good night, I am going home." The lady immediately drove off. My host insisted that I go back into the house. I did, but only because I wanted to tell him off for his rudeness to me. Before I had a chance to say anything, he told ME off for having "embarrassed" him by coming outside.

Was I wrong? How would you have handled it?

DEAR MISTREATED: You were not wrong. I would have handled it much the same as you. Only I'd have said my goodbyes immediately after my host returned from his 30-minute telephone conversation.

Rockefeller Seems To Have Voice In Policies

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller appears to be getting what many vice presidents are promised but seldom receive: a major voice in the formulation of administration policy.

President Ford announced Thursday night that he not only was designating Rockefeller to be vice chairman of the important Domestic Council but giving the two top staff jobs on the council to longtime Rockefeller aides.

The President made the announcement at a black-tie dinner honoring Rockefeller.

Created by President Richard M. Nixon to formulate policy and coordinate decisions, the Domestic Council originally was headed by John D. Ehrlichman and subsequently by Kenneth R. Cole Jr., who is resigning.

To succeed Cole as executive director of the council, Ford appointed James M. Cannon, 56, a former Newsweek magazine editor who has been a Rockefeller aide since 1969.

Cannon was chairman of the Rockefeller-created Commission on Critical Choices for Americans.

As deputy director, the President named Richard L. Dunham, 41, who was New York State budget director when Rockefeller was governor.

Following Rockefeller's installation as vice president in December, Ford promised him a major role in the administration. But his precise assignment was not made official until Thursday night.

As president, Ford is chairman of the Domestic Council, but Rockefeller was assigned by Ford "to oversee the work of the council" on a day-to-day basis.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said in a statement that Ford "considers the Domestic Council an integral part of the White House staff."

Ford has said earlier he regarded Rockefeller's staff as a part of the White House, and Cannon has been participating in the almost daily conferences of top presidential assistants.

In a memo distributed to reporters as Ford spoke to 1,700 diners who had paid $175 a plate to salute Rockefeller, the President defined the Domestic Council's duties in a way that suggested the council would continue the work of the Commission on Critical Choices that Rockefeller established after resigning as governor of New York. The commission studied various possible national policies.

Congressmen Planning Trip To Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six senators and seven House members are tentatively planning to visit South Vietnam and Cambodia next week as part of a delegation to judge whether additional U. S. military aid is needed.

The trip was suggested by President Ford to congressional leaders in the face of strong opposition to his request for $300 million for South Vietnam and $220 million for Cambodia in addition to funds already appropriated this year.

"I think the President made a fair request to Congress," he told a reporter. "We should take a close look."

He said he wants to talk to politicians, the military and citizens of varying points of view to get "all the information I can as to what is in the best interest of this nation."

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, said he is opposed to additional U.S. aid "at this time." He said he agreed tentatively to participate in the trip "to help guarantee that this viewpoint is represented" and that the delegation will not be totally under the influence of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and the U.S. State and Defense departments.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, said he is opposed to additional U.S. aid "at this time." He said he agreed tentatively to participate in the trip "to help guarantee that this viewpoint is represented" and that the delegation will not be totally under the influence of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and the U.S. State and Defense departments.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Thursday that the bipartisan congressional delegation is expected to include about 20 members. Departure is scheduled tentatively for Feb. 20 or 21 for a tour lasting about eight days.

Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., who voted against reducing the administration's request for aid to South Vietnam last year, said he is going on the trip without a preconceived position on additional aid.

Abuse Reportedly Kills More Children Under Age Of 5 Than Disease

By JOHN T. WHEELER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The 6 p.m. call to police reported a child dead in his crib. The call was not uncommon. There are tens of thousands of them each year in America.

But often — as the police in both small towns and large cities know — it is the first word of a much larger tragedy, a death that mars not only the immediate family, but society as a whole.

No Routine Death
When police arrived at the home of Dennis Di Rocco and his wife in Nutley, N.J., it took only one look in the nursery to see that this was no routine death. Headquarters was called, the coroner summoned.

Dennis Jr., 13 months, lay on his back; his face turned toward one of the protective cushions that ringed the inside of his crib. At his side was a rattle shaped like a large-nosed court jester.

A huge bruise covered most of one side of his face. There were cuts and other bruises — large and small, livid red to deep purple — over most of his body.

The coroner ruled: Death due to subdural hematoma, a large blood clot apparently from a blow that destroyed Dennis' brain.

From the Essex County, N.J., Grand Jury: Murder — indictments against both parents, Dennis Sr., 21, and his wife, Elizabeth, 23. She was only days away from delivering her second child when Dennis died.

30,000-50,000 Die
From jail, where each was held in lieu of $50,000 bail, the Di Roccas protested their innocence. Still proclaiming themselves blameless, the couple was found guilty of second degree murder.

And Dennis became one of an estimated 30,000 to 50,000 American children who died in 1974 as a result of child abuse. Approximately 45 per cent were under the age of four.

Many thousands of others are crippled, maimed, twisted psychologically or rendered mentally defective by child abuse.

Dr. Ray E. Helfer, a nationally recognized authority on child abuse, says the number of children under five who die each year because of this growing national problem, exceeds the number of children in that age range who die of disease.

Frank Ferro, acting deputy chief of the Children's Bureau in Washington, an arm of the Health, Education and Welfare Administration, says: "There are no firm national figures, but from what I know I have no reason to doubt such statements."

In the Di Rocco case, there were warnings.
At two months of age, Dennis had been brought with injuries to St. Michael's Hospital in Newark. The state Division of Youth and Family Services entered the case and fought successfully in court to have Dennis placed in a foster home for his protection.

During that action, it was noted that the child had been born a heroin addict because his mother was using the drug during pregnancy. He spent his first days suffering withdrawal.

The parents entered an additional treatment program. Dennis Sr. got a job as a grocery store clerk and the couple found a new apartment which Elizabeth kept neat and tidy, authorities said.

The parents petitioned the court for Dennis' return. Youth and Family Services vigorously opposed the move. But the judge returned the child to his parents, later citing a drug treatment center report of major improvement by the parents.

Two weeks after Dennis returned home, he was dead.
In New Jersey, the question was asked: How could it have happened; how could society fail thus when the danger was known?

Part of the answer appears to be that child abuse is a relatively new national concern, not yet accorded a formal place in national statistics.

In an article in the Bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine, Dr. Fredric Wertham, a psychiatrist nationally known for books on social issues, said: "There is an increasingly accepted opinion that these cases (apart from reporting) should be handled outside the law and legal procedures. This is considered a liberal view; and on paper it may appear that way. Actually, it is just the opposite; it is inhuman. It protects the perpetrators, not the victims. . . . If somebody murders a child, it is murder."

Dr. Wertham and others argue that the rejection of punishment is based on the incorrect premise that the parents are too emotionally disturbed to be exposed to criminal procedure. He says, however, that punishment would protect the child, and this should be the chief concern.

One study in New York, a state which has pioneered in research and legislation in the child abuse field, showed that 70 per cent of one group of fatally abused children had been reported to some responsible person or agency as being in danger before their deaths.

Most Parents Escape
With the exception of the small percentage of cases in which murder or manslaughter indictments are returned, there are no federal statistics on what happens to parents whose children die of abuse or neglect. Officials believe, however, that most parents escape legal action.

Millions of dollars have been spent in recent years by county, state and federal governments, and by private groups, to combat child abuse. Under the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act, passed by Congress one year ago, $4.5 million was spent in 1974 and $15 million has been budgeted for this year.

The National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse last year published the "National Directory of Child Abuse Services and Information," listing resources in every state offering help to prevent child abuse. And still death and injury from child abuse continues apparently undiminished.

While the experts disagree about how to combat the problem, they do agree on what parents, guardians, in-laws, grandparents, foster parents, even babysitters do when they abuse children. The list of injuries includes abrasions, cuts, amputations, burns, bites, fractured skulls, broken bones, scalds, ruptured vital organs, joints dislocated during torture, smashed teeth, eyes rendered sightless, whiplash of the neck during violent shaking.

Parents Anonymous, which has chapters across the country and in some areas receives federal support, offers a hot line similar to the hot lines for would-be suicides.

Case histories repeatedly tell of incidents during which parents attack their children, including throwing infants against walls, in front of relatives or friends. This is really a plea of "Help me; stop me," say the experts.

Anthony Moutone, head of the homicide division of the Essex County, N.J., prosecutor's office, sees the problem differently. Moutone, who had handled the Di Rocco case, recounted another in which a baby was dropped in a pot of boiling water that burned away the skin along the lower back, buttocks and legs. The child was tied to a potty seat and placed in its crib where it died during the night.

The parents defended themselves by saying their child was a persistent bed wetter, Moutone said. "Social and social workers are well intentioned (in these cases). But me, I probably never would return the children to the parents in most cases."

When Mrs. Di Rocco gave birth to her second son after being jailed, she asked to be allowed to breast-feed the baby. The second child was born addicted to methadone, a drug the mother had taken to fight her heroin addiction. Moutone succeeded in blocking the request.

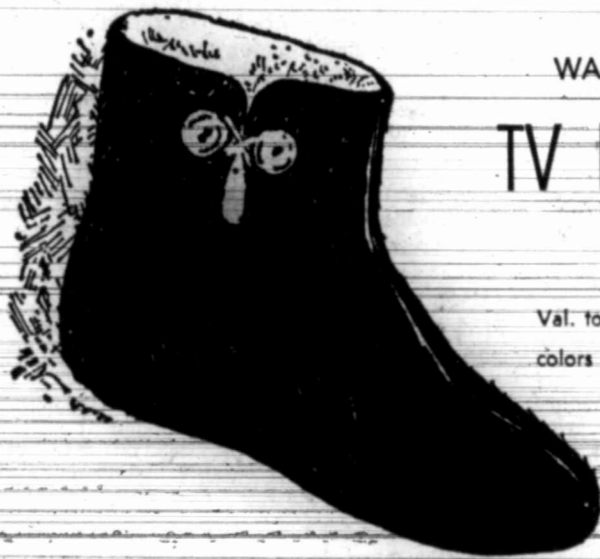

"I don't feel she should ever see the child," he said.
The new child entered life without a name, and officially still was Baby Boy Di Rocco when the Division of Youth and Family Services filed for permanent custody of the child.

Fed Credit System Now Under Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur F. Burns, the Federal Reserve Board chairman, maintains that allocation of credit by the Fed could wreck the economy. Some critics maintain that the failure to allocate already has.

Burns long has been in the position of protecting what he considers to be the purity of the Fed, the nation's central bank, from political taint. The Fed, he feels, must be above such considerations.

His critics insist that social desirability should be a criterion in granting credit. Without such a guideline, they say, credit simply goes to the highest bidder — often for an inflationary, speculative or non-essential use.

A challenge to the existing technique of dispensing credit to whoever bids the highest is now being made in Congress, by Democrats mainly, who feel credit over the past few years has been channeled in the wrong direction.

Housing, they say, is the most obvious illustration. Whereas potential homebuyers couldn't afford the high rates of interest in the past few years — and in many states usury laws prevented loans from being made at all — business could, albeit reluctantly.

With homebuyers lacking the ability to compete with various types of businesses that can afford 10 per cent or more, wouldn't it have been better to allocate?

It would be impossible, Burns told a House Banking subcommittee, to devise a leak-proof program of controls. "The ones who would probably suffer most are small businesses and homebuyers," he said.

Burns and others opposed to allocations, which would seem to mean most of the banking community, might have some points on their side, but the subject is bound to be thrashed about if not out, in Congress, in banking conventions, in public forums.

While the arguments over allocation are loaded with pros and cons from whichever direction viewed, that of proponents or opponents, they could also disguise what amounts to a challenge to the Fed's independence.

Too Much, Anyway!

Back in the first 25 years or more of this century, one million was just about the maximum figure a person read about—dollars, tons, germs, or what-have-you.

A person who had a million dollars was really wealthy, well beyond the realm of physical want.

And a government deficit running into the millions of dollars simply was too much.

But today, conditions have changed; values have changed, and no longer is "million" the descriptive term when it comes to government spending, budget deficits, and what-have-you.

Million has dropped by the wayside. Now it's billion which has taken hold, particularly in government.

The federal budget now being discussed is in the realm of $320 billion. The budget of the State of Texas runs into the billions.

Government, state and federal, thinks nothing of tossing a billion here, a billion there... and of increasing taxes to bring in additional billions.

But how many persons know just how much a billion is? Do you—really?

Perhaps if we understood better just how much a billion amounts to, we would have more respect for the term.

Arch N. Booth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, helps us try to visualize it.

"You know how thin a dollar bill is," Booth says. "Yet, if you were to pile one on top of the other until you had a billion, the stack would reach almost 68 miles into the stratosphere.

"If, instead of piling them up, you were to lay them end-to-end, those billion dollar bills would stretch out 97,000 miles. They'd go around this planet four times.

"And get this: Say a business had started out in the Year One, A.D. with a billion dollars of capital. If that business had lost a dollar a minute it wouldn't have gone broke until around the middle 1900s."

Almost unbelievable, isn't it? Yet Mr. Booth has given us some idea of just how enormous a billion is. This should give you a means of measuring those billions of your tax dollars government is tossing around.

It's all very clear, Mr. Booth... But really, just how much is a billion?

Big Lake Beards

Bicentennial committees across the land are coming up with various and sundry events and celebrations for this year and next... and over Big Lake way, it's a beard-growing contest.

Sponsored by the Bicentennial Committee of that neighboring Reagan County seat city, the beard-growing contest invites entries in various categories, including longest, best-groomed and best all-over beards. The latter category is open to moustaches, sideburns and mul-tonchops.

This falls well within the range of the Bicentennial's "no commercialism" angle... in fact it practically does away with razor blade sales in Reagan County.

Contest judging will be done during Big Lake's Independence Day Celebration, July 4-6. With regis-

Did President Nixon Restrain Kissinger?

WASHINGTON — We must all wish Secretary of State Henry Kissinger well as he tries to spur peace negotiations in the Middle East. But in the interest of clearing the record, we might also review the State Department's denial of Charles Colson's statement that Kissinger was eager to bomb Hanoi in December, 1972. Again, we are treated to Kissinger's marvelous ambiguity.

Colson, on national television, said recently that, in December, 1972, he saw a cable from Kissinger referring to the breakdown of negotiations with the North Vietnamese, which read: "Start the bombing immediately. These madmen have double-crossed us."

Colson also claimed that President Nixon, one year later, remembered the cable and remarked that Kissinger "really is unstable at times."

Well, naturally, Kissinger is furious over this. He told newsmen he "wouldn't dignify" the Colson remarks with a comment. A State Department spokesman announced that "the record does not support any part of Mr. Colson's statement."

Well, of course it doesn't. Kissinger was director of the National Security Council, not secretary of state, at the time. Moreover, the easiest way to ascertain the veracity of Colson's remarks is for the White House to produce the tapes and records of conversations and cables between Nixon and Kissinger.

It so happened that I was researching the same period in question and interviewed Colson extensively, on tape, about the December bombing. According to a transcript of that interview, Colson told me:

"Kissinger cabled Nixon Dec. 5, 1972, that 'things weren't going well with the North Vietnamese (who) were wailing on previous agreements they had entered into, that there were problems with respect to the prisoners... that Henry was advocating that the negotiations be broken off, and that the President go on national television and explain it, and that we resume bombing in the North.'"

Colson also told me that Nixon thought a national tv appearance would "make the negotiations more difficult," and: "His solution was to keep Henry negotiating. I know for a fact that he kept Henry negotiating for a longer period than Henry wanted to. The President wanted to go that extra mile with the North Vietnamese, before the bombing, and he did... It was about another week later that the President made the decision and ordered the bombing resumed."

Of course, all this is Colson's version on television (last week) and to me

A New Isolationism Develops In Senate

WASHINGTON (KFS) — If a new brand of isolationism were taking shape in the United States, Idaho is one of the first places you'd look for it. Even more than the rest of the Rocky Mountains, the state has sent a remarkable roster of isolationists to the U.S. Senate — William A. Borah, a leading "irreconcilable" foe of the League of Nations and pre-Pearl Harbor aid to Britain; leftist Glen Taylor, guitar-playing, anti-Marshall Plan, vice presidential running mate of Henry Wallace on the 1948 Progressive Party ticket; right-wingers Henry Dworshak and Herman Welker, anti-British and anti-NATO consorts of Wisconsin's Joe McCarthy; and liberal Frank Church, for the last decade a leading critic of U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

Now Idaho has produced another spokesman in this rather broad tradition — conservative Republican Sen. James A. McClure. In late January, McClure rose in the Senate to attack "that small minority desiring Middle East war" whose efforts "make a mockery of the principles on which this nation is based." The senator does not consider himself an isolationist, having supported wars like those in Korea and Vietnam fought to "help another country repel aggression." Even so, his escalating attack on those he calls "Vietnam doves, Middle East hawks" may signal an important new twist in the cavalcade of Twentieth Century "America First" politics.

To Secretary of State Henry Kiss-

Kevin P. Phillips

inger and other pillars of the foreign policy establishment, isolationism is a deplorable phenomenon. But as the late Professor Selig Adler wrote in "The Isolationist Impulse," that "impulse has been woven into the warp and woof of the American epic" since George Washington's farewell address. It has been a periodic technique for regrouping national strength and morale after unsettling overseas involvement.

Thus, conservatives who critically identify isolationism with the leftist anti-war behavior of the Jane Fondas, George McGoverns and Ramsey Clarks yet may harken to the new variety being enunciated by Senator McClure. After all, there is a second mainstream of isolationist heritage on their side of the spectrum — not the left-titling, international peace- and disarmament variety, but the nationalistic and anti-Eastern Establishment sort. Liberal isolationism has been dominant since the anti-Vietnam reaction of the mid-Sixties; now the tide may be turning again.

Right-wing isolationism (if we can call it that) appears to focus a new mix of patriotism, Nineteen-Sixties revisionism and traditional reluctance to undertake foreign wars applied to the Middle East. Bear in mind that the alleged basis of the increasing objection to the war in Vietnam was moral — Senators like Edmund Muskie and Hubert Humphrey who had helped blueprint the war in its 1965 to 1968 stage began appearing at anti-war rallies or backing anti-war resolutions in 1972 because of the "moral" outrage of the liberal-left. Even Sen. Henry Jackson clearly has renewed on the U.S. commitment to Vietnam. Yet as of 1975, they are all pro-Israel "hawks" with respect to the Middle East.

Senator McClure sees the transition from Southeast Asia doves to Middle East hawk as distasteful and hypocritical. To underscore his point, he criticized Johns Hopkins University Professor Robert W. Tucker, an "isolationist" opponent of the war in Vietnam, for a controversial article in Commentary magazine saying that it would be "feasible" to fight in the Middle East to secure oil supplies.

McClure commented: "On what does he (Prof. Tucker) make his 'moral' judgment? He bases it on the fact that the (Persian) Gulf coastal region, extending from Kuwait to Qatar, 'is without trees' and, therefore, 'does not bear even remote comparison with the experience of Vietnam.'"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — There is a 40 per cent likelihood that some nonentity, turned up by negative lottery at the tag end of one of next year's political conventions, will be catapulted ultimately into the presidency.

Of the 13 presidents in this century, only eight were elected to the office. The remaining five have been vice presidents who moved into the White House to fill a vacancy.

For years, the vice presidential nomination process has tempted the fates, with such accidental strangers to the nation as Charles Curtis, John Bricker and the incomparable William Miller.

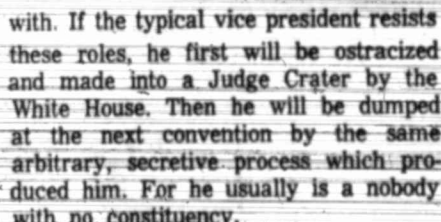

Lately, the fates have begun showing signs of distemper. Spiro T. Agnew would be president today but for his chance exposure as a bribe-taker. The haphazard nomination of Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., and its awkward withdrawal, made a shambles of George McGovern's 1972 campaign before it even began.

This pig-in-a-poke system not only invites hazards, it eviscerates the office once the candidate has been installed as vice president.

No vice president wants to be a Throtlebottom. But it would be unseemly for him to insist upon being the understudy to the President that he ought to be.

Why not? Because, selected as he was, plucked from relative obscurity, he is a mere creature of the President's. He has no stature of his own from which he can resist commands that relegate him to a mere flunky.

He usually winds up, therefore, as a propagandist for White House positions that need shoring up, or a hatchet man sent out to say things too undignified for the President to say, or a nomad on the chicken-and-peas circuit, making the speeches too unimportant for the busy man in the White House to bother with. If the typical vice president resists these roles, he first will be ostracized and made into a Judge Crater by the White House. Then he will be dumped at the next convention by the same arbitrary, secretive process which produced him. For he usually is a nobody with no constituency.

And so the typical vice president goes along, his native ability wasted, growing embittered and suspicious. And then one day disaster makes him president.

We have tempted fate long enough with a Russian-roulette approach to one of the most important selections we make as a people. What can be done about it?

We propose for exploration three alternatives, each with flaws but each with advantages over the present selection system:

1. Every aspirant for the presidential nomination might pick his vice presidential nominee no later than 60 days before his party's national convention. At the convention, the two would run as a ticket. The vice presidential choice, sought as a partner and playing a role in the convention victory, would emerge from the election, therefore, with more stature.

2. The runner-up in the presidential balloting might be declared the winner of the vice presidential nomination.

3. A constitutional amendment could provide that, after the presidential election, the president-elect would choose a vice president to be confirmed by Congress. The same constitutional amendment should confer specific duties upon the vice president of a nature that would insure his immersion in the nation's affairs.

All these plans would assure three advantages over the present situation: The choice of a vice president would be a protracted, deliberate process; the victor would run the full gamut of exposure; and, because of the manner of his selection, his personal stature and that of the office would correspondingly increase.

Each of these proposals also has disadvantages.

Proposal No. 1 would exclude presidential candidates from consideration for the second spot and would limit the maneuverability of presidential candidates as they move toward nomination and election.

Proposal No. 2 might place a personal rival or ideological opponent of the president's in the vice presidency.

Proposal No. 3 might pose unfair hazards to nominees being investigated by a hostile Congress. More serious, it would remove the vice president from the electoral process.

But we would like to open the dialogue on this question before the 1976 conventions. For one thing is clear: The present system is irresponsible, dangerous and in need of overhaul.

ASIA MEMO—

Dr. Nagai Studied And Taught In U.S.

By EDWARD NEILAN Copley News Service

There has never been a Japanese cabinet minister so conversant with American life as that country's present minister of education, Dr. Michio Nagai.

Nagai, 52, has been both a student and teacher at American universities. Nagai wrote a scorching evaluation of the Japanese education system a few years ago and continued to write authoritatively on education and other social and foreign policy issues in recent years as a member of the editorial board of Asahi Shimbun, Japan's largest and most prestigious newspaper.

This background made Nagai an obvious choice for the education portfolio in the cabinet of Prime Minister Takeo Miki, who has stated that close relations with the United States is the major element of Japanese foreign policy.

Nagai's knowledge and "feel" for the United States should not be confused with blind adulation of this country's institutions. As director of the Communications Institute, East-West Center, Hawaii, in 1972-73, for example, Nagai became thoroughly disenchanted with U.S.-style bureaucracy.

Whether he will find Japanese-style governmental bureaucracy any easier to cope with remains to be seen.

During a farewell party for Nagai at one of Honolulu's Japanese-style restaurants in the spring of 1973, he made some incisive comments about the East-West Center:

Wouldn't it be a good idea to have Asian languages used in some course instruction, rather than always English? Shouldn't more of the East-West Center's programs be held on the U.S. mainland? After all, Hawaii is not any more representative of the United States than Okinawa would be of Japan.

After graduation from Kyoto University in 1944, Nagai received Japanese postwar passport No. 3 and enrolled at Ohio State University in 1949, where he received his Ph.D. in 1953.

He returned to Kyoto University as an assistant professor (1954-58) and then became a professor at the Tokyo Institute of Technology (1958-70). He taught at Columbia University in 1959, University of California in 1965 and Stanford University in 1967.

In 1972 he was given a leave of absence from the Asahi Shimbun to take the job at the East-West Center.

If the United States had any government officials that understood Japan as well as Nagai understands the United States, we would be in good shape, indeed.

Three Texas Post Offices Busier Than Usual Today

By The Associated Press
 It's not quite as busy as Christmas, but Valentine's Day at the tiny Texas towns of Valentine, Loving and Lovelady is pretty hectic for their three postmasters.
 Quite a few people invest an extra dime to get a special postmark from one of the three towns, but the extra work doesn't seem to bother postmasters. Letta Kelley of Valentine, Robert Ligon of Loving and Jack Easton of Lovelady. "We look forward to it every year," said Easton. "It's something we enjoy doing."
 Easton said he has received 400 Valentine letters, "most of them from out of state, practically from all the states."
 Mrs. Kelley said when she arrived in Valentine 20 years ago, she received only 15 or 20 letters a year with requests that they be stamped and mailed with a Valentine postmark. "It's just gotten bigger and bigger every year," she said, and now the love messages total at least 1,000.
 Ligon said Loving has received about 100 Valentine letters each year since he arrived in 1958. He said letters this year from Pennsylvania and Ohio came even about 15 days before Valentine's Day, but for some strange reason about one-third the letters from Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Senate Votes Pension Improvements As Legislature Takes Long Weekend

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislators have wound up the first month of their 140-day session with the Senate voting improvements in a state employees' retirement system to which lawmakers also belong.
 The Senate and House quit at midday Thursday until Monday, when they go back to work on Abraham Lincoln's birthday, any changes the House might try to have.
 The Senate also voted 30-0 to appropriate $1,196,000 to pay rising state electricity costs through Aug. 31.

Love Field Fee Hike Under Study

DALLAS (AP) — City Manager George Schrader said Thursday he will ask the city council not to compromise on a major hike in landing fees proposed for Dallas Love Field.
 Schrader said he will request adoption of his original plan, which calls for fees to be hiked from 9 cents to $1.05 per thousand pounds for each aircraft landing at Love Field.
 The city council agreed to review the proposed landing fee increase after Southwest Airlines complained that the 1,000 per cent hike was an attempt to force the airline out of Love Field.

Storm System Series Drifting Over Western Half Of Nation

By The Associated Press
Snow, rain, freezing drizzle and fog plagued a broad area from California to Kansas today as a series of storm systems drifted over the western half of the nation.

Travel advisories remained in effect over most of Kansas for freezing drizzle mixed with snow. Similar conditions ranged north into eastern Nebraska.

Heavy snow and locally gusty winds with blowing and drifting maintained travel advisories in the Sierra Nevadas of California. Expectations of heavy snow brought alerts for travelers in western Colorado and northern and western Utah.

Rain and snow showers chilled an area from Southern California through Utah into Colorado.

Showers diminished over northern and central California, but rain lingered across the Plateau and into parts of the northern and central Rockies.

Snow flurries dusted the Great Lakes and ranged into western New York and New England. Travel advisories warned of snow squalls off the eastern lakes.

Fair skies were scattered from Texas into the Southeast and north along the Eastern Seaboard.

Arctic cold clung to much of country from the northern Plains to New England. Sub-zero temperatures were the rule from the northern Great Lakes to the Interior Northeast. Readings below freezing reached well into the South.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -8 at Limestone, Maine, to 72 at Key West, Fla.

Some other reports: Atlanta 36 clear, Boston 12 clear, Buffalo 22 snow, Chicago 19 mostly cloudy, Cincinnati 25 cloudy, Cleveland 14 snow, Dallas 54 clear, Denver 42 clear, Detroit 14 cloudy, Indianapolis 22 cloudy, Kansas City 22 cloudy, Los Angeles 58 mostly cloudy, Louisville 32 cloudy, Miami 65 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul 10 cloudy, Nashville 28 clear, New York 24 partly cloudy, Philadelphia 20 clear, Phoenix 63 cloudy, Pittsburgh 16 snow, St. Louis 29 cloudy, San Francisco 18 clear, Seattle 35 rain, Washington 27 clear.

Market Continues To Ignore World Around It

By CHET CURRIER
NEW YORK (AP) — With its booming rally since the start of the year, the stock market has once again demonstrated a seemingly illogical ability to ignore the world around it.

Unemployment is at its highest level since World War II. Inflation may have slackened a bit, but it's still a painful force. The effects of the recession are spreading from industry to industry.

And the outlook for corporate profits — traditionally the most tangible factor to which stock prices relate — is cloudy at best for at least the first half of this year.

But investors who shunned stocks during the comparatively rosy days of 1973 and early 1974, when many companies were reporting huge profit gains, now are suddenly buying them at a record-breaking pace.

On Tuesday, the rally that began New Year's Eve touched a new peak as volume reached 35.16 million shares, over three million more than had ever been traded in a single session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 11.89 at 726.92 — nearly 150 points above its December low.

The standard explanation for the divergence of the stock market and the current state of the economy is actually very simple.

As the late Gerald M. Loeb, a longtime market expert and investment writer, put it in an observation quoted in the Hirsch Organization's Stock Trader's Almanac: "Stocks are bought on expectations, not facts."

"The market is quite frequently a very logical thing," says Raymond F. DeVoe Jr. of Wall Street's Spencer, Trask & Co. "It's just that it looks three to six months ahead rather than at immediate prospects.

"The current recession, which is the worst since 1937-38, was reflected in the market's drop to a 12-year low last fall. Now the market is saying that recovery is ahead and we aren't going to have anything worse than a recession. Armageddon will be a little late this year.

"So it's quite normal for the market to be rising while the economy is slumping. In the past in situations like this, by the time the economy actually turns around the market is already out of sight."

The whole business isn't quite as simple as that, unfortunately. If it were, legions of Wall Street analysts wouldn't have to struggle a good many times without success trying to gauge what the market is going to do next.

Ford Calls For End To Partisan Politics In Foreign Affairs

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford, sharply criticizing Congress for dangerous meddling in foreign policy, has called for an end to partisan politics "that now threaten to bring our successful foreign policy to a standstill."

Ford charged Congress had jeopardized negotiations on Soviet trade, the Turkish-Cyprus negotiations and oil policy by its restrictive amendments.

In a major foreign policy speech Thursday night before a gathering of some 1,700 at a Republican fund-raising salute to Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, Ford called on the Democratic-controlled Congress to give him the same consideration that a fellow Michigan resident, Republican Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, gave Democratic President Harry S. Truman in the post-World War II period.

"Consult And Act" Vandenberg then said that America's official voice should unite at the water's edge.

"Can't we consult and act rather than pontificate and poke?" Ford asked.

He said that "in this very difficult time, the American people expect responsible conduct from individual members of the Congress and from the Congress as a whole as well as from the President."

Ford charged that congressional insistence on ending military aid to Turkey had caused the breakdown of a scheduled meeting in Brussels this week between the foreign ministers of Greece and Turkey and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

He called this action "a self-inflicted wound." He said it will "seriously impair our relations with a valued ally" and adversely affect Western security with serious consequences to the strategic situation in the Middle East.

Action Criticized Ford also blamed Congress for withholding tariff preferences from all oil producing and exporting countries, regardless of whether they had joined in last winter's oil embargo against the United States. He said "this indiscriminate and hasty act damaged our relations with Ecuador, Venezuela, Nigeria and Indonesia," countries which did not join in the embargo.

He also cited amendments to the trade agreement with the Soviet Union that he said led the Russians to repudiate 1972 economic records with the United States.

Ford flew to New York City to continue a barnstorming appeal for his energy and economic policies. He had traveled earlier in the week to Houston, Tex., and Topeka, Kan., with his plea to Congress to act promptly on his proposals in these areas.

Confirmation Of Woman For HUD Post Appears Headed For Tough Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confirmation of Carla A. Hills as secretary of Housing and Urban Development appears to face the biggest struggle of any of President Ford's four Cabinet nominees.

"The real stumbling block remains her total lack of experience in housing," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. Spokesmen for cities, mayors and homebuilders groups expressed the same criticism after President Ford nominated Mrs. Hills on Thursday.

Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said her confirmation would be easier to predict if she promises she would fight for government-assisted housing and that the administration would push the program.

However, Ruth Clusen, president of the League of Women Voters, said criticism of her inexperience in housing may be a smokescreen for some Ford opponents "to say some other things about the administration policy. . . I'm sorry it's being tied to this."

Women's groups expressed joy at the nomination. If confirmed, Mrs. Hills would be the third woman to hold a Cabinet post in the nation's history. The others were Frances Perkins, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's secretary of labor from 1933 to 1945, and Oveta Culp Hobby, President Dwight D. Eisenhower's secretary of health, education and welfare from 1953 to 1955.

Mrs. Hills, 41, is an assistant attorney general who now heads the Justice Department's Civil Division.

"No Background" Proxmire said in an interview, "It seems to me she might be qualified for the Supreme Court or for attorney general but she has absolutely no background in housing."

"And a housing advocate is needed in HUD, secure enough and independent enough to go to the President and convince him his present policies are wrong," Proxmire said.

Some other members of Congress voiced similar criticism. The National League of Cities and the United States Conference of Mayors said they were "shocked" and the National Association of Home Builders termed the nomination "disappointing."

Ford's first three Cabinet nominations have aroused little controversy. The Senate last week confirmed Atty. Gen. Edward T. Levi without dissent. The nominations of John T. Dunlop to be secretary of labor and William T. Coleman to be secretary of transportation are pending but have aroused little criticism.

Good Day For Brothers John Bigler was elected governor of Pennsylvania on Sept. 3, 1851, the same day his younger brother William was elected governor of California.

Midland Hosts Odessa; Lee Plays At Permian In 5-4 A

While Midland Lee is in Odessa, trying to nail down a share of the second-half District 5-4A basketball title that would give the Rebels a playoff berth, Midland High will be endeavoring to reclaim their winning touch against Odessa High at the MHS gym.

The Bulldogs have dropped three of their last four to slip out of the running for the second half title, but if someone other than Lee wins the second half, the Purple Pack is back in the title picture.

Lee and Midland tied for the first half title and would meet in the playoff for the right to play the second half representatives.

Coch James Cagle would like his Bulldogs to use the Odessa game to shake off the frustration that has dogged the club through three losses by a total of five points.

Odessa, should be a good foe against whom to reclaim the winning touch. The Bulldogs beat Odessa, 76-53, the first time around, but the Broncos have been playing better ball lately, losing only 64-57 to Abilene on Tuesday.

The Bulldogs are 19-9 for the season, reaching for that elusive 20th victory while Odessa is 3-26.

The piece de resistance, however, is being offered at Odessa where Midland Lee and the Permian Panthers are scheduled to do an encore of their 48-45 overtime thriller at Lee a few weeks ago.

Lee is 26-2 for the season and shares the second half 5-4A lead with Abilene, both at 4-0. Permian, 26-5, is 3-1 in district and desperately needs this one to stay alive.

A victory over Lee would propel Permian back into the thick of things. A Lee win would eliminate a serious contender and leave only Abilene and possibly San Angelo, to challenge the Rebels' bid for a second straight league title.

Meanwhile, Abilene, 20-7, faces San Angelo, 15-11, in a game that will either eliminate the Bobcats and strengthen their own ambitions or perhaps throw it into a three or four team scramble.

The Bobcats are tied with Permian for second and a San Angelo - Permian victory parlay tonight would really throw the race into a rush-hour subway mob scene.

One week of district play is left after tonight. Lee travels to Abilene Tuesday for another big one and the final night next Friday will be turned over to traditional intra-city scraps, which also may play a big role in determining the second half champion.

Fallin Fires Medal 70 To Pace Rebels

By TED BATTLES

Sophomore Windell Fallin shot a sizzling one-under-par 70 to lead Midland Lee into a four-stroke lead after 18 holes of the Midland Invitational Golf Tournament on a warm, but blustery Thursday that kept scores uniformly high.

One of the few 54 hole tournaments on the high school spring circuit, play will move to Midland Country Club today and conclude at Hogan Park Saturday.

Fallin's sparkling round led Lee to a 295 team total which was four strokes better than second-place Odessa Permian at 299.

Lubbock Monterey was third at 310 and to the delight of the other District 5-4A members here, the Bobcats of former Midlander-Barry Minke proved mortal after all, carding a 314 for fourth place in the 18 hole field.

Last week San Angelo split its squad and still won the San Antonio and Sweetwater Invationals. Thursday the Bobcats were without Randy Waterhouse, who was medalist at San Antonio last week.

Lee, however, was the big story in the first 18 holes, the only team to place all five golfers below 80. Only the low four scores count toward team total.

Montie Watson had a 71, Chris Brown a 75 and Billy Sittion and Paul Pesek each had 79's.

Fallin turned a good round into an excellent one by stringing together birdies on 13, 14 and 15, bogeying 16 before bouncing back with a birdie on the par three 17th.

Len Feemster shot a 73 to lead Permian while Vince Vines had a 74 and Hilton Chancellor and Kris Howard shot 76's.

Guy Conine's 75 paced Monterey while Bill Dodd's 76 was low for San Angelo.

Stan Talbott shot a 77 as Snyder fired a team 318 and Midland was next with a 319 as Greg Lutke, 75, and John Kennedy, 78, paced the Bulldogs.

Bill Russell Shoulda Thought Of That Before

They elected Bill Russell to the National Basketball Hall of Fame at Springfield, Mass., and Bill reacted like his mom just entered the room with his spring castor oil tonic.

Says he won't go. There was no kicking or screaming, but that's still no way a guy 6-9 to act.

If Russell didn't want to attract the attention of the Hall of Fame people, he should have thought of that before he created all that trouble out at the University of San Francisco.

What was it, 61 straight victories or so and a couple of national championships?

Oh! Bill might have gotten away with it, but the Hall folks couldn't forgive, or ignore him, for what he did to pro basketball.

People like Wilt Chamberlain were scoring points so fast they had to computerize the scoreboards, but Russell was blocking shots and winning games with defense.

He did it so well, before he left, the Boston Celtics had established a New York Yankee dynasty in the National Basketball Assn.

By the time long-distance Bill got around to retiring in 1969, the Celtics had won 11 titles in 14 years. In one stretch they put together eight in a row.

It was a career that hardly could go unnoticed by the Hall selection committee.

Maybe Bill was unhappy because it took them so long to ask him to dinner. That's hardly likely though. No one knows better than Russell that there's a mandatory waiting period and the invitation was on its way as soon as the deadline passed.

Another theory is that Russell suspects it's a Chamberlain plot.

So the story goes, someone asked Wilt if he'd like to see Russell in the Hall of Fame and Wilt growled, "Yea, sure, put him anywhere, but get him off my back."

Russell can refuse, but when induction day arrives April 28, he'll go in just as surely as the 18-year-olds did in World War II when Uncle Sam crooked his finger and said, "I Want You."

Even Bill admits it's too late to rectify the misery he's caused rivals over the years, but he says he doesn't have to be present at the festivities.

And even that's true to form. Bill never has been one for post-mortems. After his days as a Celtic they wanted to raise his retired No. 6 to the Boston Gardens rafters in a public ceremony. Bill demurred. They finally talked him into it, but before the Garden doors were opened and before only a handful of witnesses.

The Hall people, if they are smart, can still coax him into a few remarks, if they'll let him do it by phone.

Flores Registers First Round TKO

By BOB DILLON

R-T Sports Writer

ODESSA — Roy Flores, 147-pound Open Division entry from Midland, won his first fight in the opening round of the 29th annual Regional Golden Gloves Tourney in the Ector County Coliseum Thursday night, but it was a pair of football players that stole the show before more than 2,200 boxing fans.

Flores defeated Vincent Diaz of Crane with a second round TKO victory when Diaz failed to face Flores after taking plenty of punishment in the opening round.

Mike Cherrymones of Midland Lee and Odessa Permian's Steve Powders put on a crowd-pleasing fight, standing toe-to-toe in a real slugfest. Powders was awarded the win by a unanimous decision much to the dismay of the fans from Midland in a fight that appeared even all the way. Cherrymones and Powders renewed the heated rivalry between the two schools on the gridiron by holding nothing back. Cherrymones had Powders bleeding from the nose and mouth in the final two rounds.

Kelly Whitley and Clyde Gary of Lee, also competing in the football division of the tourney, took victories. Whitley defeated Del Mack Ward of Fort Stockton on a unanimous decision. Whitley started strongly, but ran out of gas in the final round as both fighters tired quickly.

Gary, who scored two touchdowns this past season as a sophomore against Odessa Permian, also prevailed in the ring, posting a unanimous decision over Permian's Mark Fluitt.

Midland Lee was beaten by Fort Stockton's Armando Villesco in the third bout of the night while Ken Hyson of Midland Lee lost a tough split decision to John Ferrante of Fort Stockton.

David Fulton, 128-pound football player from Rankin posted an impressive TKO victory over Stanton's Bimbo Allred in one of the better fights of the night while Lee Darbonne, 143-pound all-state football player from Fort Davis, pounded out a TKO victory over Joe Hernandez of Stanton.

Gerald Galloway, 235-pound footballer from Andrews, scored a second round knockout over Jimmy Gallego of Balmore as the All-South Plains selection showed plenty of quickness and power in the ring.

Tonight's card will also have 34 fights with the first bout set for 7:30 p.m.

The finals are set for 7:30 p.m. Monday with a full slate of bouts also on tap starting at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Vikes Join Crowd, Hike Duca Prices

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings have announced a $1 increase in ticket prices.

Max Winter, president of the National Football League team, said in a letter to season ticketholders Thursday the price hike was "reluctantly imposed only after determining that there was absolutely no other alternative."

New ticket prices are $9.50 and $7.50.

Winter said the Vikings had the lowest paid attendance in the NFC in 1974 because Metropolitan Stadium is the smallest in the league.

Even with the increase in ticket prices, he said the Vikings' projected gross ticket revenue ranks 10th among the 13 NFC teams.

Golden State Five Sets Sales Record

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors have established what is believed to be a club record, selling out all tickets for a home game nine days in advance.

Miller Takes 73

Oosterhuis' 66 Grabs San Diego Lead

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Johnny Miller declined to take refuge in the handy excuse of ill health and shrugged off a one-over-par 73.

"Just one of those days. One of those rounds. Everybody has 'em — even me, believe it or not."

But Miller, who went over par for only the third time this season, still had his sights set on his fourth victory in five starts in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm not out of it by any means," said the young man who has been the sensation of the pro golf tour for the past 14 months. "Tomorrow will be a big round for me. I'm looking forward to it. A good round and I'm right back in it."

Miller, fighting what he called a mild case of flu, was seven strokes out of the lead after Thursday's first round.

The lead belonged to 6-foot-5 Peter Oosterhuis, an English import who is playing his first full season on the American tour. Oosterhuis, playing in cloudy, cold and windy weather reminiscent of his homeland, had a six-under-par 66.

The 26-year-old Oosterhuis, for the last four years Europe's leading player, held a one-stroke advantage over John Schroeder, Artie McNickle and Mark Hayes, tied at 67.

Two other British Commonwealth players — Bruce Crampton of Australia and John Lister of New Zealand — were in a group at 68 that also included Lou Graham, Phil Rodgers, Ray Floyd and Bobby Wadkins.

Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are not competing.

While Miller admittedly was disappointed over his round, Oosterhuis has been disappointed with his season.

The ruddy-cheeked Englishman has led Britain's Order of Merit for the past four years. He's the current French and Italian Open titleholder. He's finished as high as third in the Masters. He lost to Lee Elder in a five-hole sudden-death playoff for the Monsanto Open title at Pensacola, Fla., last year.

But he's had nothing but troubles since gaining his credentials as a full-fledged member of the American tour late last fall. In five starts this season he's won only $2,000 and hasn't finished higher than a tie for 36th.

HOLTZMAN PAY RAISE BID REJECTED—

Arbitration Backs Finley

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Oakland A's seem to be feuding and fussing group of baseball players except when cashing World Series checks. The sport's year-old salary arbitration system has contributed to the hard feelings, according to owner Charles O. Finley, who beat pitcher Ken Holtzman in the first 1975 case settled. "It does not build up good relations," said Finley, who lost five of nine cases last season before evening the over-all score with the Holtzman case victory announced Thursday. Reliever Rollie Fingers and Finley were scheduled to face each other over the arbitration table today, barring a prior outside settlement. Five of the 13 Oakland players, who filed to take their salary disputes to arbitration settled with Finley before their scheduled hearings, including pitcher Vida Blue and outfielder Bill North in last-minute decisions Thursday. Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace signed contracts Wednesday night and relief pitcher Paul Lindblad agreed to terms earlier in the week. No contract terms were announced, but Rudi and Blue are believed to be in the $75,000 range, with Tenace and Lindblad on a lower scale after getting slight raises. Elsewhere in major league baseball, pitcher Pat Dobson of the New York Yankees, outfielders Cesar Geronimo and George Foster of the Cincinnati Reds and pitcher Don Carriethers of the Montreal Expos reached similar compromises, signing contracts rather than going to arbitration as planned. Holtzman was one of the A's five winning players in arbitration last year and sought a $19,000 raise to $112,000 this time. But the arbitrator went with Finley, who argued that Holtzman's 19-17 record in 1974, after a 21-13 mark the previous season, did not entitle the left-hander to a raise. "One of the misuses about arbitration — I'm sure there must be some pluses — is that I have to sit there and tell a player, in front of a lot of other people, why he shouldn't get a raise, all his shortcomings," Finley said. "Do you think Ken Holtzman and his darling wife left that room thinking I was a nice guy?" Gene Tenace, who said after signing a contract he considered "very fair," must have found the nice guy in Charlie Finley.

PRO HOCKEY—

Braves Muffle Orr, Esposito

By The Associated Press — Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr go, so go the Boston Bruins. Esposito and Orr didn't go very good Thursday night, so the Bruins went down to a 3-1 defeat at the hands of the Buffalo Braves. Esposito, the National Hockey League's leading scorer with 52 goals and 53 points, was held to no goals, no assists and no shots. Orr picked up an assist on Boston's only goal and reached the 100-point mark for the sixth consecutive season, but the superstar defenseman, who has 33 goals, managed just two shots on the Buffalo net. "When Esposito and Orr don't get shots, you know we're in trouble," said Coach Don Cherry. Okay, Boston's in trouble. The second-place Bruins trail Buffalo by nine points in the Division 4 race. "It will be very hard to catch Buffalo now," Cherry admitted. Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Flyers ended a three-game skid by tripping the Chicago Black Hawks 4-1 and the Kansas City Scouts won a battle of loopy outskated the Phoenix Roadrunners 5-1. In the World Hockey Association, the San Diego Mariners whipped the Baltimore Blades 6-1 and the Quebec Nordiques outskated the Phoenix Roadrunners 5-3. Rene Robert, Rick Dudley and Rick Martin got the Buffalo goals as the Sabres scored once early in each period. Gary Bromley, Buffalo's rookie goaltender, blanked the Bruins for almost 57 minutes but Boston's Bobby Schmautz scored when the Sabres had two men in the penalty box. Flyers 4, Black Hawks 1. HARNES BETS HIT NEW HIGH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bettors at commercial tracks in 15 states wagered an all-time record of nearly $2.5 billion in 1974, the U. S. Trotting Association announced today. The USTA said last year's wagering total was $2,427,200,578, wiping out the 1973 record of $2,293,161,493, an increase of 5.6 per cent over the old mark. The record handle yielded an unprecedented $181,882,607 in tax revenues for the 15 states. The previous tax record was $173,793,145 set in 1973.

Al Ward Leaves Cowboys To Become NY Jets GM

DALLAS (AP) — Al Ward is leaving the front office of the Dallas Cowboys to become general manager of the rival New York Jets in the National Football League. Ward, 47, was hired Thursday to fill the vacant post with the Jets. He will assume his new duties the first week in March. As vice president for administration since 1966, Ward was chief administrative assistant to Dallas General Manager Tex Schram. Prior to joining the Cowboys he was the first public relations director of the old American Football League and later held a like job with the Southwest Conference and Cotton Bowl. He and Jets owner Phil Ilesin had been talking since the Pro Bowl and Ilesin made a firm offer earlier this week, he said. "I think the Jets job is among the best in football," Ward said. "Each year you stay with Dallas it is such a great organization that you get very comfortable. I finally had to get out. And I and Jets owner Phil Ilesin back to my original motivation to run my own club."

Girls Sports Could Hurt Prep Programs

By DENNE H. FREEMAN — AP Sports Writer — Texas high school athletic directors, wrestling hand to hand with inflation, are also finding holes shot in their programs by the impact of women's sports and the expansion of professional sports. "We want to give our girls an equal opportunity but it will cost us," said Arturo Valpey, athletic director of the Laredo schools team from the Wash-Johnson District. "We are going to have to cut back on boys' sports. We must take from boys to give to the girls." Houston Independent School District Athletic Director Joe Tusa lamented, "Every time a new pro franchise comes town, it concerns me. Every time we add a pro team, it's so much that we're competing for people attending the game. Allison Closes In On Daytona Purse

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — It's one down and four to go for Bobby Allison in his quest for five victories and nearly $100,000 in prize money in the weekend windup to Speed Week at Daytona International Speedway. Allison nipped Richard Brooks' Ford by 1.6 seconds in the first heat. Allison and Pearson each collected $1,500 for their victories. Allison went after $30,000 first prize in the finale of the $200,000 International Race of Champions as well as $7,400 first money in a 200-mile for modified stock cars on today's program. He started fourth in each. Allison will go from the front row in the 300-mile for late model sportsman stock cars Saturday. That one pays $8,900 to the winner. TEXAS WATERS MORE EXOTIC—

Anglers Eye New Game

For years Texans have developed fishing in their state to a fine art, and most persons who buy a fishing license know at least the rudiments for finding and catching black bass, catfish, crappie and sunfish.

But the past few years have changed things on the Texas fishing scene and, due to efforts of the Parks and Wildlife Department, fishermen are going to have to learn some new fishing methods.

This is a result of the department's program of introducing species which are not native to the State of Texas. Fishermen now have a wider variety of fish including walleye, northern pike, rainbow trout and striped bass. TWPD officials say reasons for the introduction of new species are to change fish habitat from streams and rivers to lakes and reservoirs.

Most Texas fish, including the largemouth bass, are not particularly suited to the open-water habitat found in Texas' large reservoirs.

Rough Fish Problem
When a reservoir is built and stocked, it experiences a period of excellent fishing before the balance of rough fish and game fish becomes disproportionate in favor of rough fish.

The new species introduced in these lakes are better suited to a big lake environment, and they give anglers an added variety of fishing.

The new species also prey on the rough fish, and this is the second reason for stocking them. Northern pike and striped bass have the potential of much greater size than most native fish, so they are able to take on more and bigger rough fish.

Striped bass are especially attractive to biologists because they are more likely to go after the schools of gizzard shad which are largely ignored by largemouth bass.

Different Approaches
As experienced fishermen know, different species of fish require different angling methods, although some of the techniques used are common for catching more familiar species.

The following techniques could help anglers develop the necessary skills for catching the new species.

Walleye — Northern fishermen have found that some locations pay off better than others when they are searching for walleye. These best spots include gravel banks, brush piles, weed beds and rock riprap on dams and embankments.

Jigging seems to be one of the most productive methods for catching walleye but experts say the retrieve is important and no one method is consistent. So they recommend that if one retrieve isn't producing, such as a steady retrieve, another be used, like bumping the bait off the bottom.

Small, fluorescent jigs baited with nightcrawlers, leeches or lip-hooked minnows are productive baits. Small spinners also pay off.

Spoons Effective
Northern Pike — This is a voracious fish and a vicious striker. Large red-and-white spoons are effective on pike, and many are taken with live bait. They like to hug the shoreline or stay near weeds and flash out suddenly to seize their prey. Be careful how you handle this fish because it can inflict a painful bite.

Striper — This is an open-water fish and can be stalked in the same manner as its close relative, the white bass. One method is to find them attacking schools of shad and cast into the action. However, the most effective way to catch striped bass, according to experts, is to troll with deep-running artificial baits.

Trolling speeds for striped bass should be one-and-a-half to two times as fast as those used for other fish. Stripers can be found in about 15 feet of water during the winter but, as the water warms, the fish go deeper.

Rainbow Trout
Rainbow Trout — Two rivers in Texas have been socked with rainbows — the Guadalupe River just below Canyon Dam and the Brazos River directly below Possum Kingdom Reservoir.

Because the tailrace water comes from the bottom of these lakes instead of the top, it is cold enough for the trout and provides the needed oxygen.

Trout are stocked once or twice a year by the department in a put-and-take program. The sooner the angler goes fishing after a stocking, the better his chances of catching these fish. After they have been in the water for a while, trout become quite wily.

According to trout fishermen, a number of baits can be used to catch the fish including whole kernel cooked corn, cheese and worms. The bait is cast out into the riffles and allowed to drift. Sooner or later there should be a strike.

Small spinners and flies also take trout.

Crum Just What Doctor Ordered

By The Associated Press
Denny Crum got out of a hospital bed and onto a bench without wasting any time. It turned out to be just what the doctor ordered for the Louisville basketball coach.

Just released Wednesday from a hospital after treatment for an inflamed appendix, Crum appeared to feel much better after his sixth-ranked team broke open the Missouri Valley Conference game with a runaway second half.

Some," said Crum, whose team held a tenuous lead of 46-37 at intermission. "They shot 24 per cent in the second half and got only 29 points so we were playing pretty good defense."
Shooting Cools
"I don't think we played that much better in the second half but they just weren't hitting the shots they did in the first 20 minutes. In the second half we moved the ball a little better, especially inside to Bill Buntun. It was something we didn't do last week at Tulsa. (Louisville lost 82-77)."

Rick Barry Solved

Just Get Him Out Of Game

By The Associated Press
Bill Fitch says he knows the best way to keep Golden State's Rick Barry from wrecking the rest of the National Basketball Association.

"The way you have to play Barry is to run him at both ends of the court," Cleveland's coach said after his Cavaliers overhauled the Warriors 96-93 in Thursday night's only NBA game.

But there's an even better way. Keep him on the bench. That's where Barry was for most of the fourth period, when the Cavs shot into the lead and pulled away for the victory.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana nipped Virginia 107-105, Memphis beat St. Louis 120-114 and Denver downed Utah 116-112.

Barry's late-game absence — due to a slight ankle injury — wasn't the only thing that hurt Golden State. Bad shooting and ball-handling contributed to the downfall.

"We just ran into a very cold spot at the end of the third quarter and it carried over into the fourth," said Warriors' Coach Al Attles, referring to a 6 1/2-minute stretch when the Cavaliers outscored Golden State 19-2. "We turned the ball over four or five times there and they made the shots and put us right out of it."

Jim Clemons led Cleveland with 23 points. Barry and Keith Wilkes had 20 for the Warriors.

Sounds 120, Spirits 114
George Carter scored a game-high 34 points while Center Tom Owens hit 26, including eight in a fourth quarter burst against his former teammates to help Memphis turn back the host Spirits. The spree turned a one-point deficit into a 113-104 lead with 2:11 to play.

Marvin Barnes scored 30 points and Gus Gerard had 29 for St. Louis.

Pacers 107, Squires 105
George McGinnis put on a one-man show for Indiana, scoring 26 points, getting four three-point goals, snaring 15 rebounds and handing out 10 assists in the squeaker over the Squires.

Gene Washington Pleads Case Against Rozelle Rule

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Wide receiver Gene Washington testified Thursday he decided to become a free agent in the National Football League when the Minnesota Vikings offered what he considered a $16,250 pay cut.

That, added Washington, came after he had proved himself in the pro ranks for four years and was named to the Pro Bowl teams of 1969 and 1970.

The 6-foot-3 Washington, a first-round draft choice in 1967 from Michigan State University, was signed to four one-year pacts and an $80,000 bonus totaling $165,000.

Disappointed
This averaged $41,250. But when Washington met with training camp began. General Manager Jim Finks in Washington said he played out his option year at $20,250, three one-year contracts calling for $25,000, $27,000 and either per cent.

Pan Am Comes Back

Lemons Rebuilding Job Is 4 Years Ahead Of Schedule

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — King finished the season as the second-best scorer in the nation to stump your friends? What major college basketball independent has the best record this year?

The answer isn't Maquette Notre Dame or Memphis State. It's Pan American University (19-2) which can't crack the national rankings.

In addition, there will be no Cinderella story for the Broncos... no tales of giving the experts red faces with victories in post-season tournaments. Pan American is on probation.

Pan American was put on probation shortly after Abe Lemons came here in 1973 to attempt to revive a scandal ridden 4-22 team into an NCAA major college team power house.

Lemons, who is now in his second season, says his rebuilding program is about four years ahead of schedule.

Hard To Believe
"If someone had said we would have only two losses at this point in the season, I'd have said they were crazy," Lemons said.

Two of the leading scorers on the 1973 team had been tried on charges of raping a coed in a dormitory room. The men were found not guilty after a jury trial, but the university and the basketball program suffered.

Lemons said it would take time to develop a winning team. He made drastic scheduling changes to bring top collegiate basketball teams to play against the Broncos.

Shortly after he came to Edinburg from Oklahoma City University, where he coached for 18 years, Lemons was asked about Pan American's schedule for the coming season.

Tinker Toy Tech
"It's tinker toy tech and the orphan's home," Lemons joked. No one could call Lemons' 1974-75 schedule "tinker toy tech and the orphan's home."

The Broncos have defeated Tulsa, Southern Methodist, Georgia Tech, Arkansas State, Rice and Hawaii and others. Still on the schedule for later this season are Southern Mississippi, the Air Force Academy and Denver University.

Last year's team finished with a 13-9 season. That was the year everyone more or less "gave" Lemons in his rebuilding effort. In addition to the winning record last year, Bruce

Looking For Work-Free Life On Welfare? Better Move Out Of State

By PAUL RECER
HOUSTON (AP) — If you're able-bodied and looking for a work-free life on welfare, partner, you better move out of Texas. Things just ain't handled that way in the Lone Star State.

Texas welfare and unemployment payments are so low, said officials interviewed on the question, that "this is just not the place for deadbeats."

"Our payments are so low that people have to work," said Barry Fredrickson, the regional director for financial services of the Texas State Welfare Department.

And there's plenty work available, according to Robert Taylor, a labor market analyst for the Texas Employment Commission.

"If a guy wants to work, somewhere, he'll have no trouble finding a job, particularly in Houston," said Taylor. "In a recent Sunday paper, for example, there are 25 pages of help wanted ads."

"There are positions open for everything from engineers to skilled crafts to common labor," he said. The least available jobs are for common laborers, but there are scores of those.

Fredrickson said Texas ranks about 44th among the 50 states in the welfare payments it provides.

For unemployment compensation, according to Texas Employment District Director A.L. Gruhley, it also ranks near the bottom.

"The maximum unemployment compensation we pay is $63 a week for 26 weeks," said Gruhley. "And if we find an eligible job for the worker and he refuses to take it, we'll cut him off."

Food stamps, another source of welfare benefits, are available, but they're hardly enough to feed a family.

Fredrickson said, for example, an unemployed worker with a wife and four children would get about $210 worth of food stamps a month cost-free. If he's also getting the $63 a week in unemployment compensation, however, he'll have to pay $79 for the stamps.

If the worker is able-bodied, added Fredrickson, "he would get no benefits at all from the state welfare program."

Few workers in Texas can play the "unemployment check" game. This game calls for a worker to labor for a year and then quit for six months to track and process multiple target activity simultaneously but will provide more consistent and accurate information." The new systems can help discover a breach in a perimeter and can locate and monitor enemy activity in a protected area.

In Texas, said Gruhley, the worker has to show a willingness to accept jobs. If he refuses work comparable to his previous job, the law requires his payments to stop.

"This law is very vigorously enforced," said Gruhley. "We make every effort to follow through on this."

"Several times a week," he said, some unemployment checks must be cancelled for this reason.

As a result of these policies, Texas has not become a haven for welfare recipients, said Fredrickson.

Other states have much more profitable no-work programs, he noted. In Illinois, for example, an out-of-work laborer can get $106 a week. In Massachusetts, the compensation can be as high as $143 a week.

According to federal figures, monthly welfare payments in Texas averaged only $30 a month for individuals and $113 for families in 1973. In Massachusetts, for example, the same figures were $93.83 for individuals and $329.64 for families.

The result, in Texas, said Fredrickson, is that the number of welfare recipients is declining. And one of the major reasons for the decline, he said, is inflation.

Where once welfare recipients could live on the dole, the rising prices now make it impossible, he said. "We haven't changed pay-

Nation's Economy One Of Contradictions

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford's order releasing as much as $2 billion in highway funds is open to criticism that it is an expedient rather than a plan, and contradictory one at that.

But this is an economy of contradictions.

New Ground Sensors Being Developed

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Automatic ground sensor systems which detect, identify and track up to 75 military targets simultaneously have been developed here by GTE, Sylvania.

Dr. Richard W. Scott, of the company's Security Systems Department, said present systems require human analysts. He said, "Computer-controlled systems not only will be able to track and process multiple target activity simultaneously but will provide more consistent and accurate information." The new systems can help discover a breach in a perimeter and can locate and monitor enemy activity in a protected area.

While urging the nation to cut back on its consumption of energy, Ford is in effect seeing to it that the use of energy is encouraged by building the roads over which the energy-burners operate.

Most people can list a half-dozen socially desirable projects, beginning with mass transit projects that actually would save energy, that could benefit from a similar infusion of funds.

Criticism Plentiful

But while oil and other commodities might be in short supply, criticism isn't. Leadership throughout the world is faced today with such a complex of circumstances that nothing seems to satisfy, or even seem logical.

Perhaps the most baffling conflict is the concurrent rise in nationalism and the growing interdependence of nations. The Arabs, for example, can sell all the oil they can drain from the sands but it won't do them much good if Western industrial nations don't buy it, and the first women's club in the country.

Another head-on conflict exists between the rise in consumer expectations throughout the world and the need for energy to turn those expectations into reality. And that reality, in turn, often conflicts with the environment.

There is no end to the list. Even the battle against inflation poses the threat of more recession, and vice versa. The strange times lead to a federal budget deficit in the scores of billions being called conservative.

Ideal Not Practiced

The entire economic climate is in such a state of change that philosophical ideals clash with what is practiced.

Big business fights for its independence from Washington and then, when in trouble, seeks special treatment there. Government regulatory agencies set up to promote fairness and efficiency are accused of being unjust and wasteful.

The climate being what it is, the President's highway building plan doesn't seem out of place. The entire picture must be kept in mind, and not the individual pieces that make up the picture.

But in an economic world in turmoil, that bigger picture is more and more perplexing.

Small Town Once Center Of Science

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The small community of New Harmony, Ind., (current population 971) was established in the southwestern corner of the state in 1814. Though its population never greatly exceeded 1,000 persons, within the next 10 to 15 years New Harmony grew to be a center of science and learning for the growing nation, rivaled in importance only by Philadelphia in early 19th century America.

During this period, New Harmony became, among other things, the birthplace of the first school for infants in America, the first trade school, the first public school system, the first civic dramatic club and the first women's club in the country.

ments since 1960," said Fredrickson. "Before inflation really set in, people could get by. It wasn't a great life, but they could get by without working."

"But now they're having to work. Even the low-paying job will increase their standard of living," he said.

In the past nine months alone, for example, the welfare rolls in the Houston metropolitan district have declined by 3,000. Out of a population of 1 million, there are only 22,400 on welfare.

The tough state welfare and unemployment regulations do work hardships on some willing workers, said Gruhley.

No Allowances

In many of the urban areas particularly where mass transportation is not available, there are able-bodied workers in real difficulties.

"Often the lower-paid, semi-skilled jobs are located far from the lower cost housing areas where these people live," he said. "As a result, even if they want to work, they can't get to the job because of transportation problems."

Fredrickson said the welfare law makes no allowances for this.

"If a man's normal, able to work, but can't find a job, then he's in real trouble," he said. "He simply can't get any benefits from welfare."

'John Boy' Walton Takes Bride Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Richard Thomas, who portrays John Boy in The Waltons television series, is being married today in New York. Thomas, 23, is being married to Alma Gonzales at the Central Baptist Church, with Dr. Walter Theodore Taylor officiating. It was announced Thursday. It will be the first marriage for both.

... segregation tomorrow... segregation forever... is being interviewed on public tv tonight by an all-black panel.

He'll field questions from four newsmen in "Black Perspective on the News," a half-hour series produced by station WHYY-TV in Philadelphia. The interview was taped Feb. 6 in Montgomery, Ala.

The Alabama governor was asked to appear on the show as part of its increased effort to "cover as many views that are prominent in national news as we can," says Reginald Bryant, the series' moderator.

However, he conceded, "We also thought it might be something of a coup to have him face four black journalists, as opposed to a mixed bag of blacks and whites or whatever."

Jimmy Durante Slowly Recovering

By BOB THOMAS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Updates on the Hollywood news: After a half-century in the spotlight, Jimmy Durante dropped out of sight after suffering a stroke in November 1972. Since then he has appeared at an occasional charity dinner, accepting applause from his wheelchair.

"I'm feelin' pretty good," the great Schnoz, 82, said over the telephone. His mind seemed alert but the words came slowly.

"He's getting there faster and faster," said his wife Marge. "The therapist comes every day for his walking exercise. Today, I thought he was going to jump out of the chair."

She said he spends his day quietly, watching a lot of television and sometimes lurching at a delicatessen with his old pal and producer, Joe Pasternak.

Jimmy sometimes plays a few bars on the piano "and he sings a lot," Mrs. Durante said.

Last October producer Bert Schneider was complaining because Columbia Pictures declined to release "Hearts and Minds," a searing documentary of the Vietnam War.

After lengthy negotiations, a new film company called Rain-bow Productions bought out Columbia's stake and arranged for "Hearts and Minds" to be released by Warner Brothers.

... in no hurry to leave when the taping was over.

Did Wallace seem ill at ease because of the all-black panel? "No," Bryant said. "He's kind of a feisty guy and he thinks he can handle anybody. He just took everybody on and vice-versa... in fact, he was that they held us off a little bit just to see how much we really wanted to do the interview, and also to take a look at the program to see what kind of show we had on the air."

Bryant said he met with no hostility from the governor's staff while trying to set up the interview, despite the delay.

"Quite the contrary," he said. "In fact, his press secretary confided after the taping

Which Crumbles First?

Here stands what remains of a Grecian temple dating to 300 B.C. Which crumbles first — the civilization or its religion? Do spiritual foundations collapse because a culture is in trouble? Or do cultures deteriorate because their spiritual foundations are collapsing?

To historians it's like the question about the chicken or the egg.

My main concern is our own civilization. This involves my family and the contribution we can make. We have a Bible — we read it! We have a Faith — we try to live it!

My religion makes me conscious of the dangers of today's civilization. Yet, I am an optimist... especially on Sunday when my family is at church... and when we see your family there too!

The Horizons
... Houston singers to perform here

Horizons To Sing Here Sunday Night

The Horizons, Houston-based vocal ensemble, will present a program Sunday evening in the North A and Tennessee Streets Church of Christ.

The 6 p.m. concert will be open to the public without charge.

The young people in the ensemble have been traveling together since 1971, singing throughout the United States and Canada. Their presentation is an hour-long celebration of the joy of Christianity expressed through song. In a unique cappella style, the music performed is in a contemporary Christian vein ranging in mood from spirituals and songs of meditation to gospel hymn arrangements.

Members of the group range in age from 20 to 27 and they bring to the ensemble a wide variety of talent and experience. Performing members include Deborah Harris, Tom Justison, and Carey Harrison Beck, all from the St. Louis area. Mrs. Beck is joined by husband Roy, who is from Georgia. La Joyce Cobb of Alabama completes the Southern delegation. Rounding out the group roster are C. Walker and Diana Lawyer Hanson from Tulsa, Okla., and Benjamin and Vicki McCormick King, both of West Texas.

McClung To Lead Prayer Services

Dr. Roy McClung of Plainview will be conducting Wednesday night prayer services at Midland's First Baptist Church for the next several weeks.

Dr. McClung, president of Wayland Baptist College, began his weekly visits to the Tall City this past Wednesday night. Currently, First Baptist Church is without a fulltime pastor following the recent resignation of Dr. L. L. Morriss, who on Feb. 1 became director of evangelism for the Baptist General Convention of Texas. The FBC congregation is served on Sundays by Dr. Boyd Hunt of Fort Worth as interim pastor.

Gospel Music Festival Slated

ANDREWS — Wally Fowler, widely known as "Mr. Gospel Music," will headline the Gospel Music Festival scheduled Saturday night in the Andrews Civic Center.

The 8 p.m. event is sponsored by the Andrews County Sheriff's department and the Andrews Boys Club, with proceeds to benefit the boys club.

Joining Fowler in the program will be such stars of the gospel music world as J. D. Sumner and the celebrated Stamps Quartet, the Journeymen quartet and Jeanette Lansford, often called "the Kate Smith of Gospel Music."

Proceeding the show will be a gospel talent contest between 7 and 7:30 p.m. cash prizes of $50, $25 and $15 will be awarded.

At-door ticket prices for the festival and talent show will be $2 and $3.50, with seats in the reserved section to be $5 each.

Laity Sunday, Woman's Day Set

Laity Sunday and Woman's Day to be observed Sunday at Midland's First Christian Church will also mark the beginning of a special Week of Compassion observance there.

Two guest ministers will be featured speakers during the day.

Mrs. Alva S. Brown of Dallas, one of the associate ministers in the Christian Church of the Southwest, the newly-formed organization embracing Christian (Disciples of Christ) congregations in Texas and New Mexico, will be in the pulpit at the Sunday morning worship hour, beginning at 10:50. Her sermon topic will be "His Church in Our Hands."

Dr. William Hall, associate professor of missions at Brite Divinity School of Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, and a former missionary to India, will be featured speaker at an all-church fellowship dinner scheduled for 6 p.m. Sunday. The dinner in the fellowship hall will initiate emphasis on the Week of Compassion and the attendant special offering.

Dr. Hall spent seven years as a missionary to India and, since his return to the U.S. in the mid-1950s, has been deeply involved in missionary work and programs of the Disciples of Christ denomination.

Mrs. Alva Brown

Dr. William Hall

The Illinois native holds bachelor's degrees from the University of Illinois and the Yale Divinity School and did a year's advanced work at Cornell University in preparation for rural missions. A former Illinois public school teacher and home missionary in Tennessee, he became national director of the general program in the World Outreach Department of the United Christian Missionary Society following his return from missionary service in India, and then joined the faculty of TCU's Brite Divinity School in 1956. He spent a research year in India and Southeast Asia in 1967-68.

Mrs. Brown, an ordained minister of the Christian Church, is a former two-time president of the Texas Christian Women's Fellowship, during which time she was called to the state staff of the Disciples of Christ denomination. Prior to joining the state staff, she served for 18 years as an executive with the Texas Girl Scout Council of Dallas.

A graduate of Jarvis Christian College at Hawkins, Mrs. Brown first was a school teacher and then served for several years as director of missionary organization and education for the United Christian Missionary Society at Indianapolis, Ind. She is a longtime member of the Denley Drive Christian Church of Dallas and has served that congregation in numerous responsible positions. She is a member of the Dallas Area Association of Christian Churches, a member of the board of South Cliff Christian Center of Dallas and chairman of the Jarvis scholarship committee of the Dallas Area Christian Women's Fellowship.

Tate Assumes Position Here

James B. "Jim" Tate is the new minister of music and education at Bellview Baptist Church of Midland. He assumed duties here earlier this month.

Tate, a native of Lansing, Mich., holds a B.S. degree in religious education from Howard Payne College at Brownwood and later attended Southwestern Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth. He is a licensed and ordained Southern Baptist minister and has held positions of assistant pastor and music-youth minister at churches in Odessa, Cisco, Arlington and Corpus Christi.

Since 1973 he has been a fulltime evangelist, serving in Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky, Tennessee, Kansas and Illinois as well as Texas. He is a recording artist with Rainbow Records of Dallas. He and his wife, Barbara Ann, are the parents of an infant daughter.

The congregation of Bellview Baptist Church will honor Mr. and Mrs. Tate with a reception Sunday following the evening worship hour.

Swann To Play Recital

Continuing its tradition of bringing an outstanding guest organist to the city each year to play a recital, Midland's West Texas chapter, American Guild of Organists will present nationally-known Frederick Swann in a program here next week.

Swann, organist and director of music at New York City's Riverside Church, will offer works by J. S. Bach, Cesar Franck, Leos Janacek, Healey Willan, Paul Sifer, and Ernst Pepping when he plays at 8 p.m. Thursday in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church here. Admission will be free and the public is invited.

The American Guild of Organists is an far-reaching organization made up of organists and church choir directors, along with choir members and others interested in furthering the cause of worthwhile church music. There are local and regional chapters throughout the U.S. and Canada. The West Texas AGO chapter might aptly be termed a regional chapter inasmuch as it draws its membership from Big Spring, Odessa and other area communities in addition to Midland. Mrs. Loyd Sanders of Midland is the current dean of the chapter.

Swann's recital here is being made possible by the generosity of the chapter's patron members through their contributions to AGO.

Musical Slated Thursday Night

Crestview Baptist Church, 3300 Thomas St., will present a new musical, "Alleluia," in a public performance next Thursday night.

The musical by Bill Gaither and Ron Huff is subtitled a "Praise Gathering for Believers." Thursday's performance by the Sanctuary Choir at Crestview will begin at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend at no charge.

Landlocked Idaho Now Has Seaport

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Landlocked Idaho will get its first seaport Saturday when the gates are lowered on the Snake River's newest dam and the West's longest navigable inland waterway is created.

The final link of the waterway opens with completion of the Lower Granite Dam and lock system at Wawawai, Wash., a project which has taken 10 years and $344 million.

Some 32 miles down the Snake from here, it is the last of eight lock and dam systems between Lewiston and the Pacific on the Snake and Columbia rivers. The first dam, Bonneville, was built in the 1930s, but the inland waterway was not envisioned then.

Books Of Bible In 1,549 Languages

NEW YORK — Books of the Bible have been published in 1,549 languages, according to the American Bible Society's annual updating of its official Scripture language count.

The new figure represents, as of the end of 1974, the total number of languages and dialects in which at least one book of the Bible has been published since the invention of printing. Twenty-three new languages were added in 1974.

The society's publication of a complete New Testament in Yapeese brings that South Pacific language to the list for the first time. The other 22 new entries represent publications of individual Biblical books in languages ranging from Abua, a dialect of the Kung language of South-West Africa, to the complete Bible in 257 languages, the New Testament in 368 more, and one or more individual books in an additional 924. The report also lists many new publications in languages previously counted. New versions in several languages — Danish, Bengali, Hindi, and three Philippine languages — Cebuano, Ilokano, and Tagalog — indicate widespread interest in updated translations. "Good News for Modern Man," the American Bible Society's New Testament in English has now reached a circulation of 47,000,000, the Bible Society reports.

Latham To Speak Here This Sunday

The Rev. Robert Latham of Fort Worth will be the speaker Sunday morning at the Unitarian Church of Midland.

In connection with the congregation's current celebration of the 150th anniversary of Unitarianism in America, Mr. Latham in his talk, "What We Hold in Common," will consider the factors which bind Unitarians into a cohesive unit and keep them from falling apart under the tensions of non-creedal individualism. A film, "Ignite," will be incorporated into the program.

The 10:45 a.m. service at 3400 North A St. will be open to the public.

Fort Stockton Youths To Visit

Wilshire Park Baptist Church, 801 S. Bentwood St., will be host to a group of Fort Stockton young people at its Sunday night worship service.

The visitors are members of Northside Baptist Church at Fort Stockton. They will present a special program of music and testimony at the service here.

The public is invited to hear them.

Revival Services Now Under Way

Revival services currently under way at First Church of the Nazarene, 1208 W. Wall St., will continue through Sunday.

The Rev. T. E. Holcomb of Houston is the speaker at services, which are being held at 7:30 p.m. daily. Sunday's services will begin at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Scouting's 65th Anniversary

FEBRUARY is SCOUT MONTH

THE SCOUT MOTTO "BE PREPARED" SIGNIFIES THE VERY ESSENCE AND PURPOSE OF THIS MOST WORTHY ORGANIZATION. WORLD-WIDE IN SCOPE, SCOUTING REACHES INTO MOST NATIONS OF THE GLOBE, CARRYING WITH IT A STRONG BOND OF INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP AND UNDERSTANDING. THIS COMMUNITY IS TRULY PROUD TO SALUTE THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA.

The Scout Oath or Promise . . .

ON MY HONOR I WILL DO MY BEST:
TO DO MY DUTY TO GOD AND MY COUNTRY,
AND TO OBEY THE SCOUT LAW;
TO HELP OTHER PEOPLE AT ALL TIMES;
TO KEEP MYSELF PHYSICALLY STRONG,
MENTALLY AWAKE, AND MORALLY STRAIGHT.

(1) The Scout is Trustworthy

A Scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie, or by cheating, or by not doing exactly a given task, when trusted on his honor, he may be directed to hand over his Scout Badge.

RAMADA INN
ROADSIDE HOTEL
3601 W. Wall 694-8821

(2) A Scout is Loyal

He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due, his Scout leader, his home, and parents and country.

PERMIAN ABSTRACT COMPANY OF MIDLAND
601 W. Texas 684-6389
"Where you are Always Welcome"

(3) A Scout is Helpful

He must be prepared at any time to save life, help injured persons, and share the home duties. He must do at least one "Good Turn" to somebody every day.

Jerry's Barbers Stylists
2509 W. Ohio 682-0321

(4) A Scout is Friendly

He is a friend to all and a brother to every other Scout.

Mid-Tex OF MIDLAND
"Mid-Tex just about covers it"

(5) A Scout is Courteous

He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people and the weak and helpless. He must not take pay for being helpful or courteous.

C & M BODY SHOP
Midland Dr. and Highway 80 West 697-2229
"One of the Nicest, Most Modern Body Shops in West Texas"

(6) A Scout is Kind

He is a friend to animals. He will not kill or hurt any living creature needlessly, but will strive to save and protect all harmless life.

Basin Electric Co.
25th Anniversary
THERON A. GAMBLIN
410 N. Weatherford 682-2902

(7) A Scout is Obedient

He obeys his parents, Scoutmaster, Patrol Leader, and all other duly constituted authorities.

G & G Security
310 Secor 683-2002
Night Alarm Service 694-3640

(8) A Scout is Cheerful

He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheery. He never shirks nor grumbles at hardships.

SANITARY
plumbing, heating, air conditioning
Salutes the Boy Scouts on their 65th Anniversary

(9) A Scout is Thrifty

He does not wantonly destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing, and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his own way, be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay, but must not receive tips for courtesies or Good Turns.

SHARP CHEMICAL and AMERICAN CHEMICAL

Tank Truck Blast, Fire Destroy Oil Warehouse

CLEVELAND, Tex. (AP) - A tank truck exploded while unloading gasoline today, threatening nearby storage tanks and causing nearby residents to be evacuated.

Jessie Bibbs, 25, Houston, the truck driver, was treated for burns to the face and right arm.

The explosion destroyed the office and warehouse at Noah Whitener's Gulf Oil bulk terminal. The warehouse held tires, batteries and other products.

Firemen said the blaze was brought under control within two hours but that it melted part of the truck and scorched the outside of three 10,000-gallon gasoline storage tanks.

Steve Williams, 22, said the explosion knocked him out of bed in his mobile home about 70 feet from the explosion site.

Williams, a truck driver, said he and his wife and their 3-week-old daughter fled but were not injured.

In addition to evacuating a four-block area as a precautionary measure, police detoured traffic on U.S. 59 about two blocks east of the terminal.

Police also delayed a Santa Fe freight train that would have had to pass near the flames.

Firemen from several communities, including Conroe and Liberty, assisted Cleveland firemen in fighting the blaze.

Cleveland is in northwest Liberty County and about 45 miles north of Houston.

Mrs. O. M. Darr Dies In Hospital; Rites Saturday Mrs. Oatis M. Darr, 81, died Thursday in a Midland hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Golf Course Road Church of Christ Chapel, with Bert Mercer officiating.

Greek Students Demonstrate In Protest At Turkish State

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - Thousands of students demonstrated in the Greek Cypriot town of Cyprus today, protesting the proclamation of a Turkish Cypriot state in the northern part of the island.

The Greek government announced that Foreign Minister Dimitrios Bistchos had canceled a meeting in Bonn Sunday with the Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger because of the Turkish Cypriot action Thursday.

More than 5,000 students jammed the main square in the Greek Cypriot quarter of Nicosia, chanting, "Give us weapons to fight! No to partition! One unified Cyprus! Refuse to their homes!"

Armed troops and police with clubs guarded the American Embassy and British diplomatic offices, which were attacked when the students last took to the streets in January.

The U. S. government expressed regret at the Turkish move, and Kissinger said the United States remains committed to the "constitutional" government in Nicosia, meaning the Greek Cypriot government headed by President Makarios.

The sources said the debate would probably focus on a council resolution, adopted after the Turkish invasion of Cyprus last year, calling for talks between the Greek and Turkish Cypriots "with a view to reaching freely a mutually acceptable political settlement."

Oil Field Mishap Kills Big Lake Man; Rites Pend BIG LAKE - An oil field accident nine miles north of Barnhart has claimed the life of Anthony Bruce "Tony" Clemmer, 20, of Big Lake.

Clemmer was dead on arrival at Reagan Memorial Hospital shortly before 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Employees at the rig said Clemmer was helping paint inside the derrick when he became entangled in a rig cable.

Services are pending at Johnson's Funeral Home at San Angelo.

He was born Feb. 11, 1955, at Abilene, and had lived at Big Lake most of his life. He was a graduate of Reagan County High School and was employed by FWA Drilling Co.

Survivors include the widow; a son, Wayne Clemmer of the home, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clemmer of Big Lake.

Gordon M. Cone Of Lovington Dies; Rites Set Sunday

LOVINGTON, N.M. - Gordon M. Cone, 72, prominent Lovington businessman, independent oil operator and owner of Deco Data Processing Co. in Midland, died at 4:45 a.m. today in a hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Central Church of Christ in Lovington with David Mickey, minister, and Billy Beauchamp, a retired Methodist minister, officiating.

Interment will be in Lovington Cemetery directed by Smith-Rogers Funeral Home.

Born April 17, 1902, in Cameron, Cone came in 1927 to Lovington, where he was owner of Lovington Abstract Co. and president of Southwestern Well Service Co.

He is survived by his widow, Kathleen; four sons, D. R. Douglas L. Cone of Galveston, Clifford Cone and Tom Cone, both of Lovington, and Kenneth Cone of Austin; a daughter, Mrs. Cathie Auvenshine of Austin; four brothers, Arthur Cone, Raymond Cone and a Hubert Cone, all of Lubbock, and Ulys Cone of Shallowater; four sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Pevehouse of Lubbock, Mrs. Lois Tekell of Corsicana, Mrs. Lela Pierce of Santa Rosa Beach, Fla., and Mrs. Eunice Bigson of El Paso, and two grandchildren.

Donald E. Kitts, 37, Dies; Services Set For Saturday

DONALD E. KITTS, 37, of Midland, died Wednesday in a Houston hospital.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Chapel of the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Ted Brian officiating.

Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park under direction of the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel.

Kitts was born Sept. 19, 1937 in Jacksboro, Tex., and later moved to Midland, where he attended high school. He had been a grocery store employee and had been manager of the Dellwood "M" System Food Store for the last four years.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Shirley Kitts of Midland; two sons, Glenn Kitts and Clay Kitts of Midland; a daughter, Deetra Kitts of Midland; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Kitts of Del Rio; four brothers, Bill Kitts and Clyde Kitts of Roundrock, and Ed Kitts and Gaston Kitts of Colorado.

Palbearers will be Jerry Hendon, Gene McClintick, B. A. Baker, Oscar Trumblinson, Randy Howell and Dub House.

How's Your News IQ?

Editor's Note: How much do you remember about the news of the week? If you score fewer than five correct answers, you had better read the paper a little more carefully. If you get eight or more right, you rate an "A."

1. A bipartisan group of 22 Senators has asked President Ford to help along the U.N. Law of the Sea conference, due to resume in Geneva in March, by: (a) himself attending the opening debate; (b) making prior unilateral concessions on fishing rights; (c) assigning Secretary of State Kissinger to take charge of negotiations for the U.S.
2. The first nationwide survey since the Supreme Court's ruling on abortion in 1973 showed that legal abortions in 1974 had increased over the total for 1972 by about: (a) 53 per cent; (b) 63 per cent; (c) 49 per cent.
3. Ethiopia's military government fought secessionist guerrillas in its province of Eritrea — an Italian colony until World War II and fully integrated with Ethiopia's 13 other provinces since: (a) 1962; (b) 1941; (c) 1953.
4. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington announced his candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination. At present, the number of Democrats who have declared for the Presidency is: (a) two; (b) five; (c) four.
5. The government closed down five opposition newspapers and continued a wave of the arrests of journalists, citing evidence of Communist underground agents plotting sabotage, in: (a) Portugal; (b) South Vietnam; (c) South Africa.
6. The Ford Administration announced an increase in foreign food aid for the fiscal year ending June 30 of $600 million over the previous fiscal year, amounting to a total outlay of: (a) $963 million; (b) $6.1 billion; (c) $1.6 billion.
7. President Ford's new budget document has a precedent-breaking cover, abandoning the traditional blue or beige alone and including red for the first time in history in a modernistic design of: (a) black, red and white; (b) red, white and blue; (c) white, brown and red.
8. Premier Sadi Irmak of Turkey said that the suspension of U.S. military aid over the Cyprus issue would compel Turkey to: (a) review her ties with NATO; (b) withdraw from NATO; (c) order the U.S. to remove bases in Turkey.
9. Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1975. There are 320 days left in the year. This is Valentine's Day. Today's highlight in history: In 1663, Canada became a royal province of France. On this date: In 1859, Oregon was admitted into the Union as the 33rd state. In 1893, Hawaii was annexed by treaty to the United States. In 1903, a Federal Department of Commerce and Labor was created. In 1912, Arizona became the 48th state. In 1929, seven hoodlums who were rivals of the Al Capone gang in Chicago were murdered in a garage. The killings became known as the St. Valentine's Day Massacre. In 1971, Britain switched to a decimal currency after 1,200 years of dealings based on 12 penny shillings. Ten years ago: The Black nationalist leader, Malcolm X, and his family escaped injury when a firebomb wrecked their New York City home. Five years ago: President Richard M. Nixon announced that the United States was banning production and use of toxins for warfare. One year ago: Clifford Irving was paroled from a New York prison after serving 16 months of a sentence for producing a fake autobiography of Howard Hughes. Today's birthdays: Former Teamsters Union president James Hoffa is 62. Woman golfer Mickey Wright is 40. Thought for today: Every noble work is at first impossible — Thomas Carlyle, Scottish essayist and historian, 1795-1881.

Sheinwold On Bridge

Don't Despise Corny Tricks

It's wonderful to have such refined taste that you know what is corny and what isn't. But don't let your taste get in your way when you're playing bridge: your opponents may love that ol' corn.

West opens the five of spades, and it's up to you to make three notrump. Yes, I know you can't do it against good defense. Don't make faces; make three notrump. Win the first trick in dummy with the king of spades and drop the jack of spades. This may cause the opponents to believe that you're short of spades. Next, lead a low diamond from dummy. You want East to play low, as most opponents will. If your plan works, West will win the first diamond trick and lead another spade. Home Free. You are then out of the woods. You lead another diamond from dummy to give East his diamond trick. East cannot attack dummy's king of clubs, and you are sure of 10 tricks. An expert West might be suspicious of your jack of spades. An expert East might step up with the king of diamonds at the second trick to lead a spade at once, or perhaps to shift to a low club. You might not make this hand against really expert defenders. But what can it cost you to try?

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S — 9 6 4 H — 6 5 2 D — K 7 C — A Q 10 9 2. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid 3 NT. The combined count is 25 to 27 points, which should be enough for game. To make up for any shortage in strength, you have a strong five-card suit.
