Kent Draws Deep Strike

Marshall R. Young Oil Co., Fort Worth, has announced completion of No. 3'S. M. Swenson, an Ellenburger discovery in Kent County, and has proposed the field be designated Beggs Ranch (Ellenburger).

The well gauged a 24-hour flowing potential of 158 barrels of 41-gravity oil, natural, through a 7-64-inch choke and from open hole at 7,725 feet, where 5 1/2-inch casing is seated, and 7,730 feet, total depth. Gas-oil ratio measured 205-1.

Top of the Ellenburger was picked at 7,725 feet, under ground elevation of 2,190 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 18, block 7, H&GN survey, 17 miles west of Clairmont, and four miles east of Ellenburger production in the Barron Ranch field of Garza County.

Eddy County Gets Penn Completion

Goquina Oil Corp., operating out of Midland, has announced a calculated, absolute open flow of 11 million cubic feet of gas per day, plus an unreported amount of condensate at its No. 1 Jake-State, 1 1/2-mile southeast of Pennsylvania production in the Crawford multiphase field of Eddy County, N.M.

Earlier, a six-hour completion test, of the Pennsylvania, flowed gas at the rate of 4.716 million cubic feet per day, plus 344 barrels of condensate.

Production was through perforations at 10,214-10,246 feet, which had been acidized with 4,000 gallons.

Location is 1,900 feet from south and east lines of section 36-24-26e, 15 miles south of Carlsbad.

Wildcat Staked In Gaines Area

Amoco Production Co. has made plans to drill No. 1 ARCO and Mobil, as a 12,000-foot venture in Gaines County.

Drillsite is 900 feet from north and east lines of section 21, block H, D&W survey, nine miles southeast of Loop.

Snow Completes Eddy Extension

Gene A. Snow, Lovington, N.M., has completed No. 1 S&T State as a second producer and 1/2-mile east extension to a recently opened undesignated Queen sector of Eddy County, N.M., seven miles southwest of Logo Hills.

It was completed to pump 12 barrels of oil daily, through perforations at 1,858-1,870 feet, which had been fractured with 50,000 gallons and 75,000 pounds. Gravity and gas-oil ratio were unreported.

Location is 1,782 feet from south and 1,960 feet from west lines of section 2-18e-29e.

Former Nixon Aides Sentenced

2 1/2-Year Terms Handed Down In Cover-Up Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three men closest to Richard M. Nixon when he was president were sentenced today to serve at least 2 1/2 years in prison for covering up the Watergate scandal.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica pronounced the sentences of 2 1/2 to 3 years on John N. Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, ignoring a plea by Ehrlichman's lawyer that he be allowed to work with New Mexico Indians instead of going to prison.

Cold Front May Set Off Rains

By The Associated Press

A norther blew into the Texas Panhandle today and met a huge mass of damp air thrust into the state from the Gulf of Mexico, setting up a classic pattern for wet weather.

Although the chill already was being felt in the northwest corner of the Panhandle, officials' observers said—further warming could be expected in other sections before the new Pacific cold front plunged farther south.

Meanwhile skies were clear across most of West Texas and near the Upper Texas Coast while it was at least partly cloudy elsewhere.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 26 at Marfa and 31 at Dalhart to 65 at Brownsville. Top marks Thursday afternoon.

(See FRONT Page 4A)

A fourth defendant, Robert G. Mardian, was sentenced to 10 months to three years.

Appeals Planned
All four men have said they would appeal and they were allowed to remain free without bond.

The sentence given the defendants means they must serve the minimum time imposed without opportunity for probation. But they can apply within four months to Sirica for reduction of sentence—a method that has brought results for others the judge sentenced in the Watergate case.

Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman had been convicted of conspiring to obstruct justice, obstructing justice and multiple counts of lying under oath.

Their sentencing marks the beginning of an appeals process that might take two years or more to complete. All were expected to remain free most of that time.

Mardian was convicted only of the single conspiracy count.

No Defendants Talk
None of the defendants standing before Judge Sirica made any statement in his own behalf, and only the lawyers for Haldeman and Ehrlichman made any lengthy speeches before Sirica pronounced sentence.

Whatever Bob Haldeman did, he did not for himself but for the President of the United States. (See BIG THREE Page 4A)

$97.2-MILLION REDUCTION SEEN IN FIRST QUARTER— Family Welfare Grants To States Sliced

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Ford administration has cut family welfare grants to the states by $97.2 million for the first quarter of this year in a continuing campaign against inflation.

U.N. Taking Up Cyprus Question

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Many diplomats predict that the United Nations Security Council will end its new Cyprus debate with a resolution renewing its call for the early withdrawal of the Turkish occupation army and its support for the independence and territorial integrity of the island republic.

The diplomats conceded, however, that the Turks hold most of the cards necessary to make the proclamation of a separate Turkish Cypriot state in northern Cyprus stick.

They pointed out that the present state in the northern 4 1/2 per cent of Cyprus is protected by the military superiority of the 40,000-man Turkish occupation army. The 200,000 Greek Cypriots who lived in the occupied zone, have fled south, and there is no longer a potential fifth column there. And the United States is no longer able to bring decisive influence to bear on the issue. (See CYPRUS Page 4A) eligible and overpaid recipients, it was learned today.

Another massive reduction totaling millions of dollars is due in April, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said. The latest cuts come on top of the $61.7 million withheld during the last half of 1974.

The cutbacks mean that states must either weed out more ineligible and overpaid recipients or dig into their state treasuries to pay welfare checks through March 31.

The nationwide figures from HEW's Social and Rehabilitation

Service are contained in "working papers" which have not been released to the states.

Each state has been told how much it is losing during the first three months of this year but that information has not been made public by state welfare departments in many cases.

HEW said the amounts of the reductions are based on states' estimates of how much they could save by correcting errors in the huge Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program and additional penalties levied by Washington for failing to meet federal goals.

New York was the big loser in the allocations for the first quarter. It was hit with what HEW called "improvements and adjustments" totaling $27 million.

Other big reductions were $10.7 million in Illinois, $9.5 million in Pennsylvania, $7.2 million in California and $5 million in Ohio.

All states incurred cuts in funds to help pay AFDC persons and were edging upward as unemployment increased across the country.

latter two states are being reviewed.

HEW did not provide a breakdown on how much of the $97.2 million reduction was voluntarily shouldered by the states and how much was in the form of federal penalties.

Of the $61.7 million withheld last year, only $18.2 million represented estimates by the states of how much they could save.

AFDC rolls last October, the last month for which figures are available, totaled 10,850,000 persons and were edging upward as unemployment increased across the country.

Retail Prices Continue Climbing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite the recent declines at the wholesale level, consumer prices continued to increase in January, rising six-tenths of one per cent during the month.

The January increase was led by a jump in food prices, especially for cereals and bakery products and fruits and vegetables. Over-all food prices were up eight-tenths of one per cent from December.

Administration economists had been hoping the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index for January would reflect the decline in wholesale prices during the last two months, especially for food prices.

But the over-all increase in January consumer prices was only one-tenth of one per cent, less than the December increase, indicating there has been only moderate relief for consumers from the nation's rampant rates of inflation.

Over-all, consumer prices in January were 11.7 per cent higher than a year earlier. This January's increase, however, still was the lowest since last April, when the increase was five-tenths of one per cent. The Consumer Price Index in January stood at 156.1 per cent of the 1967 average of 100 per cent, meaning it cost $156.10 to buy a statistical sample of goods that cost $100 in 1967.

The figures were adjusted for seasonal variations, meaning seasonal factors were taken into account. On an unadjusted basis, the CPI rose five-tenths of one per cent in January and food prices advanced seven-tenths of one per cent.

The Labor Department said there were higher prices during the month for medical care, utilities, houses and some foods. Cereal and bakery products increased 2 per cent during the month and were 23.8 per cent above a year earlier.

Partially offsetting the higher prices during the month, the Labor Department said, were price declines for clothing, autos, beef, and sugar, and lower mortgage interest rates.

The decline in beef prices was their fourth straight monthly drop. Over-all, prices of meat, poultry and fish were listed as down nine-tenths of one per cent in January.

The increase of eight-tenths of one per cent in food prices compared with an increase of seven-tenths of one per cent in December. Food purchased in grocery stores rose six-tenths of one per cent and restaurant-food advanced eighth-tenths of one per cent.

Although prices have declined at the wholesale level for two straight months, these declines have not yet shown up in the Labor Department's index for consumer prices, which increased 12.2 per cent during 1974.

Index Advances
The consumer index for December advanced seven-tenths of one per cent, down a bit from the November consumer increase of nine-tenths of one per cent.

But one government economist said it was time for the declining prices at wholesale level to begin showing up in retail prices, especially for food.

He said farm prices have declined 13 per cent in the past year, including a 2.2-per cent drop in January alone.

Slaying Suspect Sought

By BUDDY BAKER

Police said this morning they are searching for a suspect in the hammer slaying of Midland businessman W. R. "Bud" Pringle Wednesday.

It is believed the assailant had died about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday from a "cerebral hemorrhage due to a fractured skull due to the subject receiving multiple injuries to the head."

The 61-year-old man, was found half nude behind the counter of his pawn shop at 800 E. Florida St. by another slain businessman's sons, said son, Ruben Pringle, about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Det. Capt. Sid Corley said today he had the entire detective division working around the clock for a solution to the killing.

He said investigation so far had revealed that Pringle probably died about 4:30 p.m.

Administration Is Banking On Small Group To Sustain Promised Veto Of Tariff Delay Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is banking on a switch by a small group of senators to sustain President Ford's promised veto of legislation suspending higher oil tariffs.

Ford has until midnight on March 4 to act on the bill, which reached the White House at midafternoon Thursday following Senate approval by a 66-28 vote.

The Senate margin was more than the two-thirds required to override the expected veto, with 94 senators voting. Attention is focused on the Senate override vote because the 309-114 margin of approval in the House indicates much stronger sentiment in favor of overriding the bill, which would suspend the administration's tariff program for 90 days.

However, there were reports that some of the 10 Senate Republicans who voted for the delay would switch their votes on the override because of their wish to avoid clashing directly with Ford.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen sought to spike reports of compromise between the heavily Democratic Congress and the administration on the energy program.

"There can be no compromise on goals" of Ford's program, Nessen said. The Ford program's goal is to cut reliance on foreign oil by reducing domestic energy consumption through higher prices. Nessen repeated that Ford is willing to examine an alternative energy program when one is presented.

Meanwhile, some liberal House Democrats urged the Democratic caucus in an attempt to force the House to consider ending the controversial oil depletion allowance.

The caucus of all 289 House Democrats will meet next Tuesday to consider a request that they require the House Rules Committee to permit a floor vote on a proposal to end the allowance.

Opponents of the allowance sought unsuccessfully earlier this week to tack such a repealer on to the Democratic-sponsored, $21.28-billion tax cut bill which reaches the floor next week.

House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., is asking his colleagues to defer consideration of the oil depletion allowance until the panel begins hearings March 3 on energy taxes.

The Ways and Means Committee voted Thursday to open the hearings to live radio and television coverage, though there was no immediate indication that any network was interested in providing gavel-to-gavel coverage.

In another development, the Federal Reserve to lower interest rates.

House Banking Committee acted to water down two proposals that would ration credit and compel the Federal Reserve Board to take steps to lower interest rates.

Banking Chairman Henry Reuss, D-Wis., suffered a defeat when the panel voted 20 to 19 against a bill to require the

Lawyer Says He Will Cut Connections With Union If Nomination To Election Commission Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO lawyer Thomas E. Harris says he will sever relations with the politically powerful labor federation if Congress confirms his nomination to serve on the Federal Election Commission.

Harris, 62, was named by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield as a replacement for Joseph F. Meglen of Billings, Mont., Mansfield's original nominee to the panel, being set up to enforce campaign laws.

Mansfield angrily announced at the AFL-CIO's meeting in Miami Beach, said his nomination took him by surprise. He said he had no strong feelings about what actions the commission should take first, and declined to comment on specific matters now awaiting clarification.

Harris was pushed for the job earlier, when House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. was pondering his choice for the commission. But O'Neill picked defeated Rep. Robert O. Tiernan, D-R. I., and the AFL-CIO was thought to have lost its bid for a seat on the election panel.

Mansfield said he picked Harris because several Democratic senators had recommended him. Mansfield said Harris was not his first choice to replace Meglen. He said he offered the job to former University of Montana President Bob Pantzer but Pantzer turned it down.

Harris has been associate general counsel of the AFL-CIO since it was formed in 1955 and held the same job with the old CIO from 1948 until it was merged into the present federation.

Some observers said they worried that Harris might be influenced by his labor connection in ruling on campaign matters.

"I hope this guy breaks clean, that he doesn't set up a branch office of the AFL-CIO over at the election commission," said Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., one of the drafters of the new campaign finance law.

Harris said he considers the commission a full time job, adding, "I would of course sever my relation with the AFL-CIO." He now earns about $31,000 a year. The commissioners will be paid $38,000.

Americans In Ethiopia Fear For Lives If Request For Ammo Airlift Is Filled

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — About 60 Americans were still in northern Ethiopia believe their lives will be in danger from the Eritrean guerrillas if Washington fulfills the Ethiopian government's request for a big ammunition airlift.

The U.S. State Department confirmed this week that a request is being studied from Ethiopia, which has more than $30 million worth of ammunition for the junta's war against the Arab-financed Eritrean Liberation Front.

Both American diplomats and civilians say they should be evacuated from Eritrea if the ammunition is sent. That would mean closing the U.S. Consulate in Asmara, the besieged provincial capital, and the Kagnew military communications station just outside the city.

Although the Americans have been close to the shooting, none of them has been hit, and little damage to U.S. property has been reported.

Officials say there are no plans to evacuate the remaining Americans unless the fighting intensifies. But reliable sources say the Kagnew station has only a week's fuel for its vehicles and has been unable to get more from the Ethiopians, whose gasoline is scarce because of guerrilla rocket raids on tank trucks between Asmara and the Red Sea port of Massawa.

Some of the Kagnew men live at two station locations guarded by a handful of Ethiopian security officers. Others live in the walled consulate compound. The missionaries are in the middle of guerrilla country.

State Senators Back Rail Commission In Probe Of Deaths Blamed On Gas

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators agree unanimously that the Railroad Commission should warn residents of areas where hydrogen sulfide, a deadly gas, is being used to bring oil and gas to the surface.

They adopted without objection Thursday a resolution to create a natural gas and domestic crude oil sales and extension of federal price controls to intrastate sales of natural gas.

Rotary, Altrusa Clubs Meet In Joint Session

Members of the Midland Downtown and West Rotary clubs and the Altrusa Club, at a joint meeting held Thursday noon in the American Legion Hall, heard Midland County Judge Barbara Culver say, "It's your county, it's your business, you should become more familiar with its operation."

Judge Culver, a member of Altrusa, was the principal speaker at the luncheon. She was introduced by Rotarian William L. Kerr.

Rotary Anniversary

The joint meeting marked the 70th birthday anniversary of Rotary, which was organized on Feb. 23, 1905, in Chicago.

Brief histories of the two Midland Rotary clubs and the Altrusa Club, along with their joint projects and achievements through the years, were cited by James Mims of Downtown Rotary; Dr. Eugene Spires of West Rotary; and Mrs. H. N. Phillips for Altrusa.

The Downtown club was formed in 1923; the West club in 1962; and Midland Altrusa in 1948.

History Reviewed

Judge Culver, in her address, reviewed briefly the history of Midland County, which this year is observing its 90th anniversary.

She compared the duties and responsibilities of counties in yesteryears with those of today. The changes have been many and varied, she explained, adding that counties today are in a transitional period, in which citizens of Texas must determine "what they want their counties to do" in the future.

"This is an important matter, one which citizens should give attention," she said.

Just Because Supreme Court Has Freed Pollution Funds, Don't Expect Work To Begin On New Plants

By W. DALE NELSON
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just because the Supreme Court has freed $5 billion in federal funds for water pollution control, don't expect work to start tomorrow on any additional waste plants.

The Environmental Protection Agency says it hasn't been able to spend the money it already had.

And what other effects the court's decision will have remained unclear today, three days after it was announced.

The ruling eventually could have an impact on court cases involving billions of dollars in highway funds. But government lawyers, who have been losing similar cases, say they don't know yet whether it will.

"It will be some time before we are able to make that determination," said Robert E. Kopp of the Justice Department.

The decision dealt specifically with legislation passed by Congress in 1972 amending the Water Pollution Control Act.

Under this legislation, Congress authorizes money for pollution control and then the EPA allots the money among the states. After receiving their allotments, states propose specific projects to spend it on. If the EPA approves, the money is "obligated" and Congress then appropriates it. The funds are paid out on a matching basis with the federal share amounting to 75 per cent.

Over the veto of President Richard M. Nixon, Congress authorized $18 billion for the three fiscal years ending with 1975. The EPA, under orders from Nixon, allotted only $9 billion. President Ford later released an additional $4 billion. In the case decided Tuesday, the City of New York and others argued that the law did not give the administration the power to withhold any of the funds from allotment. The court agreed.

No one contended that the EPA does not have the authority to control the spending at the later, or "obligation," stage.

The EPA says it has $9 billion in allotted funds, of which it has been able to obligate only $4 billion. So the agency says the additional money will have little practical effect. The reason the agency hasn't obligated more funds is that it has only approved projects for that amount, although some applications are pending.

The case never did raise the broad constitutional issue of whether a president has the power in general to withhold funds voted by Congress.

But Kopp said the decision might affect the cases involving highway projects because the method of paying the money is similar.

Cases involving funds for highways in Kansas, Nebraska, South Carolina, Iowa, California and Montana have been decided against the government in federal courts. Appeals to circuit courts are pending.

All of the cases concern what came to be known as impoundment during the Nixon administration, although in the water pollution case the funds had not technically been impounded because they had not been appropriated.

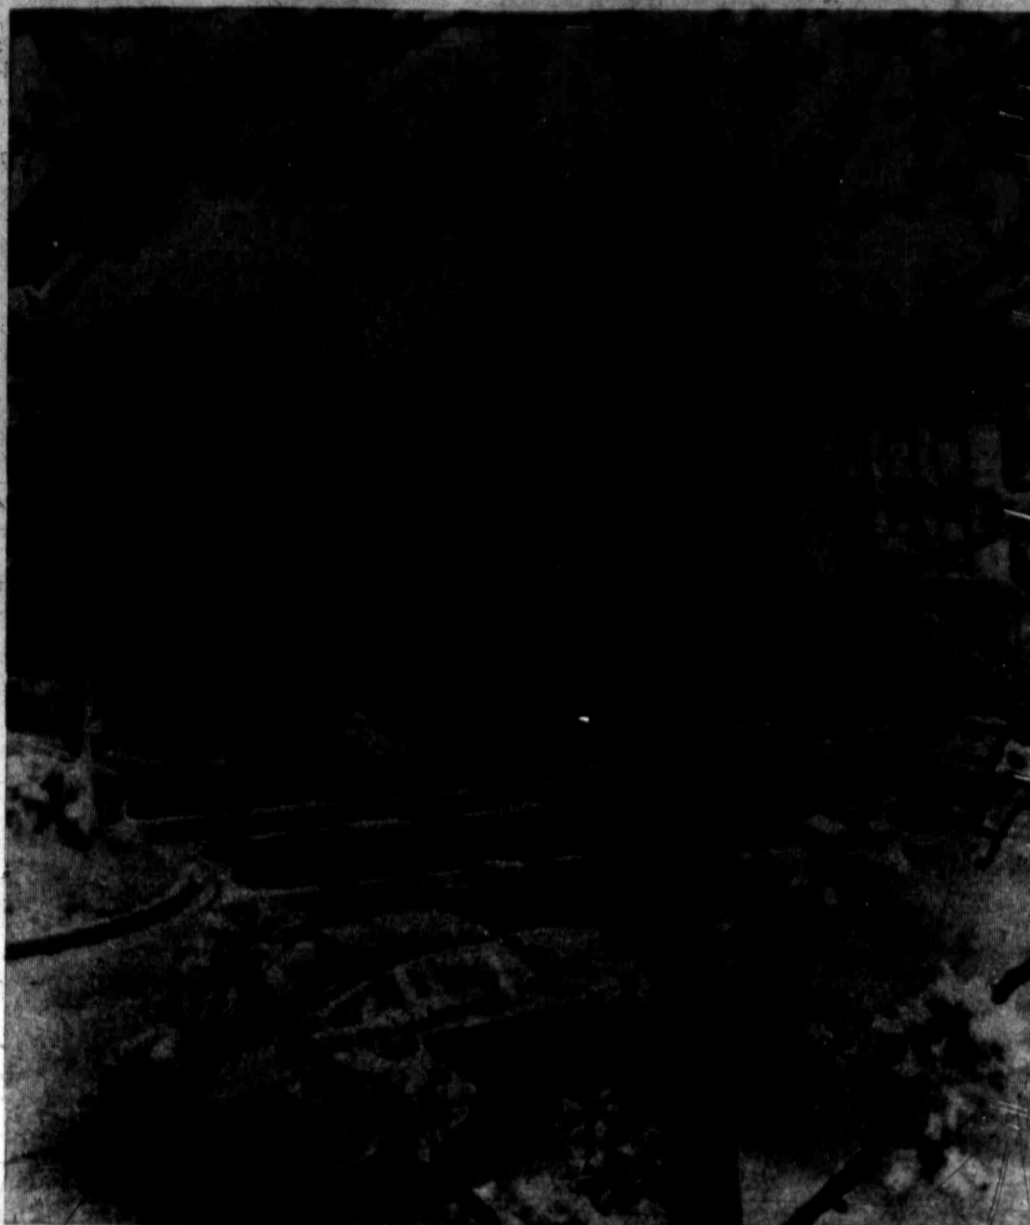

The decision will have little effect on what the Ford administration does because the President has to get authority under new legislation from Congress before withholding funds.

Weather Contrasts

In these two AP Wirephotos, the markedly contrasted weather in Germany and Japan can be seen.

In the picture at blossoms are shown beginning to bloom on a cherry tree in downtown Heidelberg in a street scene taken Thursday.

In the bottom photo, only a handful of pedestrians scurry across an intersection near Tokyo's normally crowded Ginza street as the year's first heavy snowfall drifts down.

AFL-CIO Says Only Emergency Measures Can Prevent Depression Across Nation

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — In painting its bleakest economic picture yet, the AFL-CIO says only "massive emergency measures" can prevent a depression and restore public confidence in the government.

"The worst downward spiral since the 1930s is now feeding on itself," AFL-CIO leaders said in a lengthy statement which cited an "alarming drop" in industrial production and reductions in business investment.

The labor federation said this resulted from a massive drop in purchasing power which brought consumer sales down to a level where it would require an increase of nearly $60 billion in the annual rate of after-tax personal income just to get back to the prerecession level.

Despite a modest shift in Federal Reserve Board policies, interest rates on long-term loans remain at near-record peaks, the AFL-CIO said in a policy statement adopted Thursday by its ruling 35-member executive council.

"As a result," home-building remains in a depression... the squeeze on state and local governments' from high interest payments and falling tax revenue is resulting in layoffs of public employees."

Commenting on the statement, AFL-CIO President George Meany said every economic measure "points downward and it really points toward a depression" despite the Ford Administration's forecast that the recession will bottom out in midsummer.

"If we keep going this way we are going to have a depression," he said.

The AFL-CIO called the Federal Reserve's slight reduction in the discount rate and the administration's agreement to release $6 billion in impounded highway and sewer construction funds "welcome but terribly insufficient steps."

The federation said that these measures will be more than offset by the new excise tax on imported oil, which will increase consumer prices on anything made from petroleum.

As a first step Congress should block the imposition of the oil import fee and pass the $21.3 billion tax-cut approved by the House Ways and Means Committee, the AFL-CIO said. This would help stimulate the economy but that "the continuing deterioration" demands even stronger measures. It suggested that Congress move without delay to halt the downward spiral.

The steps proposed by the AFL-CIO included a massive public service jobs program, subsidies for home construction, measures to require lowering of interest rates and long-range tax reform to increase revenues by $20 or $30 billion.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Lists were taken in a raid on a Los Angeles apartment last May 16. The Remiro-Little trial is scheduled to start Monday in Sacramento.

Lawyers for two alleged SLA members are seeking to suppress the evidence on grounds it was obtained illegally.

The five "possible people to snatch in order to deliver food to the community," were Chalmers Acheson MacIrvine, 53, a senior vice president of the Bank of America; Owsley Hammond, 60, treasurer of the University of California Regents; Donald Stanberry, a Colgate-Palmolive executive; Eugene Trethen Jr., 65, Kaiser Industries director who retired as vice chairman last August; and George Bloxham, 54, president of the Federal Land Bank of Berkeley.

The agents said they also found identification cards of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst and her ex-fiance Steven Weed, believed to have been stolen when the SLA abducted Miss Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974.

Several months after her abduction, Miss Hearst, daughter of San Francisco Examiner President Randolph A. Hearst, declared she had joined the SLA and renounced her family and Weed.

New Accusations Name Coastal Gas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Coastal States Gas Corp. has been accused of transferring sales contracts between its subsidiaries for the sole benefit of Coastal.

The accusation came Thursday from Austin attorney Robert McGinnis, who asked the Railroad Commission to investigate transactions between Coastal States and its subsidiary, Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.

McGinnis was representing 14 Rio Grande Valley cities at a hearing on an application by Rio Grande Valley Co., another Coastal States subsidiary, to increase gas rates to the cities.

The commission ordered both sides to submit written briefs in the case within 10 days.

Police Officer's Firing Upheld

DALLAS (AP) — Firing of a Dallas police vice control officer after he allegedly forced suspected prostitutes to pose for "police identification" photos was upheld by a three-member city trial board.

The former officer, William Holbrook, was one of four placed on indefinite suspension last Aug. 23 by Police Chief Donald Byrd. Byrd's action had been appealed by the officers.

Big Three In Cover-Up Case Draw Prison Terms

"He was caught up in a political maelstrom that engulfed a lot of other good people. What ever Bob Haldeman did or did not do, he was a victim of the Nixon-Rosenberg cover-up. Nixon has been freed of judicial punishment while Bob Haldeman suffered punishment and conviction," Wilson said.

Dramatic Appeal

But it fell to Ehrlichman's lawyer, Ira M. Lowe, to make the most dramatic appeal.

Lowe, who had not represented Ehrlichman before, began by saying his client "requests no less than a strict sentence from your honor."

Lowe said the court had the power to impose a sentence that did not call for imprisonment. He said Ehrlichman had spent much of the time since the New Year's Day conviction looking for areas where he might put his legal experience to the best use.

He said that Ehrlichman, a lawyer, had investigated the plight of eight Indian pueblos in a very remote area of northern New Mexico and said the people are in dire need of help that Ehrlichman is uniquely qualified to provide.

"This may be the perfect reason for just such a non-prison sentence," Lowe said. "We request Mr. Ehrlichman be set to work for this eight-man group."

The lawyer said that Ehrlichman could be carefully supervised; that Sirica might impose a provisional sentence and call the convicted defendant back in several months to see how it did not call for imprisonment. He said Ehrlichman had spent much of the time since the New Year's Day conviction looking for areas where he say that he had carefully con sidered pre-sentence and proba tion reports.

As he left the courtroom, Ehrlichman told reporters: "I'm not going to say anything. No statement at all."

Asked for his reaction to the sentence, Mitchell said: "It could have been a hell of a lot worse. He could have sentenced me to spend the rest of my life with Martha Mitchell."

Haldeman, leaving the court house, walked through a waiting crowd of cameramen without replying to any questions or pausing to acknowledge them. Mardian avoided newsmen by leaving through a basement exit.

Ehrlichman already was un der a 20-month-to-five-year sen tence for conviction of con spiracy to violate the civil rights of Pentagon Papers' big-Miami who had carried the de tention of Daniel Ellsberg's psy- chiatrist, and two counts of 15 months of trial.

Sirica made his sentence to day concurrent with the other sentence, meaning that Ehrlich man's intended minimum time in prison is a total of 30 months.

However, none of the men will go to prison while the case is being appealed to the next higher court. That process could take a year or more and several of the cover-up defend ants' lawyers have said they would go to the Supreme Court if the U.S. Appeals Court ac- cording to any questions or

Governors Back Conservation As Answer To Energy Problem

By DON McLEOD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The energy problem has been illustrated graphically by a united stand by the nation's governors.

A resolution adopted with an overwhelming vote at the closing session of the National Governors' Conference winter meeting Thursday puts the gov ernors on record as favoring con servation as the best short range approach to the energy shortage.

Although this does not di rectly oppose President Ford's approach of raising the price of petroleum products with a tariff hike, the resolution makes it clear that such steps should be secondary.

An earlier resolution which pointedly opposed the tax and tariff approach received 28 votes to 12 opposed but failed to be adopted because a three-fourths vote is required.

Not a single governor spoke in favor of Ford's proposed a-bare tariff hike on imported oil. But Republicans, writing the resolution was too much of an attack on the President.

combined with oil-state Democ rats to block it.

Traditionally, the governors conference doesn't take stands on controversial issues because of the two-party rule.

The governors said a con sistent approach including el evation of the federal auto-mo-bile tax, more support for transportation and public works programs should be prepared immediately.

The resolution at the same time called for a study of the effects of a 20-cent tax on gasoline.

It also called for a study of the effects of a 20-cent tax on gasoline.

Pat Dishman

Hospital Official Elected President Of Statewide Group

DALLAS — Pat Dishman, director of public relations and development for Midland Memorial Hospital, today was elected to succeed Mrs. Peggy Nodurft of Houston as president of the Texas Society for Hospital Public Relations.

Miss Dishman is in Dallas attending the society's annual meeting, along with Mrs. Tom Stovall, assistant director of the Midland hospital's public relations development.

She joined the Midland Memorial staff in 1969 after earning her M.A. degree in journalism-public relations from the University of Oklahoma.

Before attending graduate school, she was public relations director for the Midland Central YMCA almost four years.

A published author, Miss Dishman has written a non-fiction book, "10 Who Overcame," published in 1966, as well as numerous articles in professional and denominational journals.

The Rankin native is a charter member of the Texas society, having served also as an area representative and board member. She is, in addition, a member of the American Society for Hospital Public Relations, the National Association for Hospital Development, Public Relations Society of America and Texas Press Women.

Cyprus—

(Continued From Page 1A) — The Turkish government in Athens, Greece, the No. 2 man in the Greek Cypriot government in Nicosia, opened the debate Thursday with an appeal for the council to get Turkey to "fix a time" for withdrawal of its forces.

Pringle said the proclama tion of the Turkish Cypriot government will lead to the destruc tion of the independent Cyprus Republic.

Carriaris, charged that the Turks have violated all UN resolutions, and forced the fall at Nicosia.

A Cretik came from Cyprus to speak for the Turkish Cypriot and told the council to accept nothing less than a separate federated Turkish Cypriot state.

Pringle said the Greek Cypriot state will be a "puppet" state, and will be a "puppet" state, and will be a "puppet" state.

First Lady Will Keep Pushing ERA

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford says she plans to continue her personal lobbying for the Equal Rights Amendment despite mail running up against her efforts.

"I did see them at all fazed by the reaction," said Press Secretary Sheila Wendenfeld.

Ford explained, "It's the who are against (ERA) who are doing the writing. Those who are for it sit back and say 'good for her' — push on."

Citibank Joins Prime Rate Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's First National City Bank, the nation's second largest commercial bank, lowered its prime lending rate a quarter point to 8.5 per cent today.

Citibank's move brought it into line with two other New York banks, Chemical and Trusting Trust, which adopted the industrywide low interest rate earlier in the week.

The 8.5 per cent prime is the lowest since last March.

French Quarter Bans Street Bands

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Street bands have been temporarily outlawed in the French Quarter because of merchants' complaints that music is bad for business.

The city council's action today doesn't affect gospel bands or tone musicians.

Lubbock Woman Hurt In Mishap

Mrs. Dolores Smith, 58, of Lubbock, was in satisfactory condition today in Medical Center Hospital in Odessa after being injured in a two-car collision about 11:30 a.m. Thursday in Midland.

A car driven by Carl Leslie Shanks, 17, of 3315 Cimmaron St., and a car driven by Garland Francis Smith, 60, of Lubbock, were in collision at the intersection of Big Spring and Oak streets.

Police Seeking Suspect In Hammer Slaying Here

A man was eventually charged in the Nunez death, but was not indicted by the Midland County Grand Jury. No arrests have ever been made in the Smith death.

Corley said today detectives are unable to determine the amount of any cash or property missing.

A billfold in Pringle's shirt pocket contained $382 in cash and a billfold in his trousers contained an additional $17.

Pringle was found naked from the waist down, his trousers still buckled buttoned and zipped. His boots were lying on either side of the quilt he was lying in.

The dead man's undershorts and hat were found nearby.

Raymond Pringle said his father never wore a money belt. A blood-stained claw hammer was found nearby.

YMCA To Host Swim Competition

The Midland YMCA will host the annual West Texas YMCA Swim Meet Saturday at the Central YMCA.

All other aquatic activities at the Central YMCA will be canceled Saturday. Pat Owens, YMCA physical director, said

Brooklyn Trial Jury Picking Continues

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jury selection continued today in the trial of David Owen Brooks, charged with four of the deaths in the Boston mass murders case. All 11 prospective jurors were called to the panel.

Dr. William H. Halton said today that jury selection will continue through Saturday. He said the trial will be postponed on Monday and Tuesday.

The trial is surrounded by a pattern of standard time six months and daylight time six months. It will be resumed in October.

Some state legislatures have exempted all or portions of their states from the change.

Texas To Have Booming Future, Says Feature In London Times

LONDON (AP) — Texas caters to face lean times and condition today in Medical Center Hospital in Odessa after being injured in a two-car collision about 11:30 a.m. Thursday in Midland.

The current recession in the United States had made only a minor dent in many sectors of the state's commercial and industrial life, the Times said.

Two areas that are feeling the economic pinch are the traditional businesses of cattle and cotton. Blaming last year's drought in West Texas that made seeding difficult and in some cases impossible, the Times described the state's 70,000 cotton farmers as being in "deep trouble."

The informed view is that Texas has been booming for years and the way local entrepreneurs tell it, the state has a brilliant future, it said.

STORE CRASH—

Patricia and Donnie Dove inspects damage to a car, driven by Mrs. Helen Houston Walls of 1616 Ventura St., that crashed through the front window of Imperial Drugs, 3202 W. Wadley St., about 5 p.m. Thursday. The car jumped the sidewalk and went through a brick wall and large plate glass window. Woodrow Farris of Midland, who was in the store, was injured by flying debris and was in satisfactory condition this morning in Midland Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Walls was not injured.

YMCA's Annual Campaign Nets 23 New Members

The annual YMCA membership campaign has netted 23 new members as of this morning, for a total of $5,730. The campaign began Tuesday and will continue through March 7.

Ellis said he expected about 100 new members to sign up today.

This year's campaign goals are 300 new and renewal memberships for a total of $75,000. The current membership is 9,954. Ellis said this year's membership drive is running comparably to last year's, which had a goal of $60,000 and netted $63,000.

The Central YMCA offers 14 different types of memberships at various price ranges. They are: health club for men ($21 and over), $225; and women, $200; health club families for single family, $265; for husband and wife, $400; for husband and wife and family, $425; for family memberships (two adults; all children under 19), $180; for men (25 years and over), $80; for women (25 years and over), $40; for young men (19-24), $35; for young women (19-24), $35; for girls (6 to 18), $30; for summer college, $20; and for summer family, $40.

Membership fees (except those costing $35 and health club memberships) may be paid out at 1/3 down and the balance over a 60-day period. Bank Americard and Master Charge may also be used.

Terminal Boardings Increase Despite Total TIA Shutdown

January boarding statistics at Midland Regional Air Terminal and the first 31 days of 1975 showed an increase in passengers over the January facilities at Lubbock, a 1974 figure of 15,829.

Continental Airlines was responsible for the entire January passenger count with 18,017 boardings during the month.

Texas International Airlines, because of an on-going ground worker and pilot strike, recorded no boardings during the first month of the year.

In 1974, TIA had 3,172 Terminal boardings. Midland Regional Air Terminal recorded more October through January, more

Prices Continue Retail Climb; Food Sets Pace

It said inflation as measured by the Gross National Product increased 10.3 per cent during the year, up from 10.2 per cent estimated earlier. The GNP inflation index includes a mix of industrial and wholesale prices as well as consumer prices.

The revised GNP reports also showed the overall decline in the economy was at an annual rate of 9.1 per cent in the fourth quarter of last year, the same as reported earlier.

For the year, the economy declined about 5 per cent measured from January through December, and 2.2 per cent when comparing the average 1974 GNP with the average 1973 GNP, which is the measurement used by most government and private economists.

Meanwhile, the Business Council predicted the economy will hit its low point during midyear this year and then begin gradual recovery. It said the GNP decline for the year would be about 3 per cent, up slightly from the Ford administration's estimate of 3.3 per cent.

The private organization, Taylor owned and operated whose members include about 100 of the nation's top corporate executives, predicted unemployment would reach a peak of between 8 and 9 per cent in the third quarter before gradually tapering off.

Indian Tribes Now Meeting To Seek Supply Of Peyote

MIRANDO CITY, TEX. (AP) — About 1,000 Indians — Sioux, Crow, Cheyenne, Apache, Comanche, Shoshone, Arapaho, and those from other tribes were meeting today with government authorities to find solutions for the shortage of peyote, a stimulant drug taken from cactus native to this area.

While peyote is a substance banned to white men, it is legally used by Indians of the Native American Church in their religious ceremonies.

Peyote, a form of cactus, is found only in Southwest Texas and northern Mexico. Indians claim most of it grows on private ranch land to which they are barred access.

Among those on hand for today's conferences, which last through Saturday, were Leonard Crow Dog, spiritual leader of the church; Neulon Dion, national president, and Clarence Rocky Boy, secretary.

The group boasts an Indian membership of about 200,000, according to Mike Turcot, a spokesman for the NAC.

Don't Forget To Set Clock

A reminder.

Midlanders will join the rest of the nation Sunday in moving their clocks forward one hour to comply with Congress-directed daylight saving time.

The official conversion from standard time will occur at 2 a.m. Sunday and the change will be in effect for eight months.

Then, unless Congress intervenes, the regular alternating pattern of standard time six months and daylight time six months a year will be resumed in October.

Some state legislatures have exempted all or portions of their states from the change.

Midland is heading into a weekend cool spell, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Thursday's high of 72 and today's anticipated high near 70 will be followed by a Saturday maximum in the upper 30s. The low mercury mark this morning was 39, and tonight's low should drop into the low 30s.

The cooler weather is bringing with it a chance for precipitation, with a 20 per cent probability for tonight and a 50 per cent probability on Saturday.

Odessa Enters Plea Of Guilty

T. J. Taylor of Odessa pleaded guilty Thursday in the U.S. District Court here to three counts of an 11-count indictment, charging him with failure to deposit money withheld from his employees' salaries for federal income and Social Security taxes.

The private organization, Taylor owned and operated whose members include about 100 of the nation's top corporate executives, predicted unemployment would reach a peak of between 8 and 9 per cent in the third quarter before gradually tapering off.

Bankrupt Firm's Grain Elevators Almost Empty

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White hopes to have grain moved from elevators of the financially troubled American Grain and Cattle Co. (AGC) within three or four days at most locations.

White said Thursday he began moving grain out of AGC elevators late last year because he was suspicious of AGC's financial structure.

AGC, now in federal bankruptcy, is a cooperative with nine storage facilities in Texas, the largest in Plainview.

White said a shortage of 2.3 million pounds of grain sorghum was discovered in the Corpus Christi elevator, but he said it appeared to be a book-keeping problem.

The FBI meanwhile Thursday acknowledged it is examining documents filed in bankruptcy court here by AGC.

J. Gordon Shanklin, special agent in charge of the Dallas FBI office, said the agency is watching for possible federal violations. He declined further comment.

White said that as of Wednesday 57,639,396 pounds of grain had been removed from AGC elevators with 13,681,680 pounds remaining.

White said Thursday all grain should be removed from Dilly in three more days; from Corpus Christi in three to four days, and from Hart by today, except for the tritipale. The AGC elevators at Perryton and Vega are now empty, he said.

White said it may take another week or so to empty the Plainview facilities because they are the largest.

Civil Rights Leader Says Emphasis To Be On New Disenfranchised

CHICAGO (AP) — James Bevel, the civil rights leader, said today that the emphasis will be on the new disenfranchised — the young blacks who have grown up in the inner cities since the 1960s.

Bevel, who is the national director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said that the old struggle was for the right to vote and to sit at the lunch counter. Now, he said, the struggle is for the right to live in decent housing, to get a good education, and to have a job.

He said that the new disenfranchised are the young blacks who have grown up in the inner cities since the 1960s. They are the ones who have been the most affected by the economic changes of the last 10 years.

Bevel said that the old struggle was for the right to vote and to sit at the lunch counter. Now, he said, the struggle is for the right to live in decent housing, to get a good education, and to have a job.

Q: Who is going to provide the leadership to ward off the kind of problems that appeared in the 1960s? It appears that many of the black leaders of the 1960s have disappeared. What happened to them?

A: Some of the energy has been channeled. Many of those who were with us in the 1960s are now aldermen and councilmen. Some of those who used to be with SCLC are now in the courts. Many other guys are in the streets.

Q: Is the lack of black community leadership a great concern?

A: I don't think our problem right now is a shortage of black leadership. I think it's a problem of white leadership. One of the great tragedies of the 1960s was that many of our leaders are now operating on a national level. They are not in the streets.

Q: Perhaps it's because the actions and goals of the 1960s were more easily defined, but it seems the movement hit a full period after the end of that decade. Did it?

A: There was no full in the movement. There was a full in attention by the white press. There was a full period by the AP and the UPI and the New York Times... who became obsessed with Vietnam or with Watergate. The struggle didn't change, the attention upon it changed.

Q: Besides the Vietnam war and the Watergate development, were there any other things that caused the loss of attention?

A: The economic changes of the last 10 years. The black community has had to deal with the fact that the economy is not what it was in the 1960s. We have a U.S. economy that is not what it was in the 1960s. Black registration went from 100 million to 10 million.

Q: Without demonstrating in the streets, the mass demonstration at the polls in the last decade has changed the power alternatives in politics in the country.

Q: Did just the registration of black voters accomplish that?

A: Let's look at what that seven million votes means. When one considers that Jack Kennedy beat Richard Nixon by 110,000 in 1960, and Nixon beat Hubert H. Humphrey by 50,000 in 1968, less than 700,000 votes elected two presidents in eight years. Now what does that seven million mean? It means that the hands that picked presidents in 1975 were the hands that picked presidents in 1975.

Q: You admit the drama of the movement faded in the late 1960s. Do young blacks, the ones who can't remember the marches in Selma and Chicago, take an interest in movement politics? What about the average black person's feelings?

A: Many of the young blacks who were not around in 1965 have their fists today and don't remember when they didn't have them. But one of the unfortunate aspects of the movement is that we lost some of our ideology during the struggle. Our movement advocated love... now too many of our values are mainstream. The economic mainstream is not so bad. That merely means you can drive a truck, you can work in a factory, you can make a living wage. But the moral mainstream — with a proliferation of little Watergates in all neighborhoods, where you have killing, robbing and raping — can never be morally justified.

Q: Crime rates everywhere are rising but in major urban areas the black crime rate seems to be higher than elsewhere. Is this related to what you say is a morality problem?

A: The fact is that blacks have a problem dealing with the scars of racism which has made us so irrational. We have not even developed crime resistance to the black criminal. That's why we're prey to him. We're weak to the black criminal. If a white guy kills a black guy it's headlines in the black and the white press. It's major news. It's, "The racists are coming, the Klan is coming, the Klan is coming."

Q: We prepared to fight genocide and we're not emotionally prepared to fight fratricide, brothers killing brothers. Somewhere in between is homicide and fratricide and unless we are willing to fight for a judicial system in our community with as much fervor as we

Q: We were disenfranchised solely on color. It was clearly a black and white question.

Whites, no matter what their character or their economic status, had access to the use of the parks and the libraries. Blacks, no matter what their wealth or their education, did not. So we fought a caste question.

Now, we're fighting more a class question. We have the right to go to any school in America but we can't pay the tuition. We have the right to move into any neighborhood in America but we can't get a mortgage. In the last era of the movement, the disenfranchised were the blacks, the colored. Now the disenfranchised are the have-nots, the unemployed, the hungry.

Q: Do you think another era of civil violence could stem from rising unemployment?

A: Absolutely. I think that the unemployment frustration breeds a certain amount of violence. But I don't attribute all the violence to unemployment. We had people living on a low-scale in the 1930s and they weren't killing each other.

A: Some of the energy has been channeled. Many of those who were with us in the 1960s are now aldermen and councilmen. Some of those who used to be with SCLC are now in the courts. Many other guys are in the streets.

Q: Is the lack of black community leadership a great concern?

A: I don't think our problem right now is a shortage of black leadership. I think it's a problem of white leadership. One of the great tragedies of the 1960s was that many of our leaders are now operating on a national level. They are not in the streets.

Q: Perhaps it's because the actions and goals of the 1960s were more easily defined, but it seems the movement hit a full period after the end of that decade. Did it?

A: There was no full in the movement. There was a full in attention by the white press. There was a full period by the AP and the UPI and the New York Times... who became obsessed with Vietnam or with Watergate. The struggle didn't change, the attention upon it changed.

Q: Besides the Vietnam war and the Watergate development, were there any other things that caused the loss of attention?

A: The economic changes of the last 10 years. The black community has had to deal with the fact that the economy is not what it was in the 1960s. We have a U.S. economy that is not what it was in the 1960s. Black registration went from 100 million to 10 million.

Q: Without demonstrating in the streets, the mass demonstration at the polls in the last decade has changed the power alternatives in politics in the country.

Q: Did just the registration of black voters accomplish that?

A: Let's look at what that seven million votes means. When one considers that Jack Kennedy beat Richard Nixon by 110,000 in 1960, and Nixon beat Hubert H. Humphrey by 50,000 in 1968, less than 700,000 votes elected two presidents in eight years. Now what does that seven million mean? It means that the hands that picked presidents in 1975 were the hands that picked presidents in 1975.

Q: You admit the drama of the movement faded in the late 1960s. Do young blacks, the ones who can't remember the marches in Selma and Chicago, take an interest in movement politics? What about the average black person's feelings?

A: Many of the young blacks who were not around in 1965 have their fists today and don't remember when they didn't have them. But one of the unfortunate aspects of the movement is that we lost some of our ideology during the struggle. Our movement advocated love... now too many of our values are mainstream. The economic mainstream is not so bad. That merely means you can drive a truck, you can work in a factory, you can make a living wage. But the moral mainstream — with a proliferation of little Watergates in all neighborhoods, where you have killing, robbing and raping — can never be morally justified.

Q: Crime rates everywhere are rising but in major urban areas the black crime rate seems to be higher than elsewhere. Is this related to what you say is a morality problem?

A: The fact is that blacks have a problem dealing with the scars of racism which has made us so irrational. We have not even developed crime resistance to the black criminal. That's why we're prey to him. We're weak to the black criminal. If a white guy kills a black guy it's headlines in the black and the white press. It's major news. It's, "The racists are coming, the Klan is coming, the Klan is coming."

Q: We prepared to fight genocide and we're not emotionally prepared to fight fratricide, brothers killing brothers. Somewhere in between is homicide and fratricide and unless we are willing to fight for a judicial system in our community with as much fervor as we

Q: We were disenfranchised solely on color. It was clearly a black and white question.

Whites, no matter what their character or their economic status, had access to the use of the parks and the libraries. Blacks, no matter what their wealth or their education, did not. So we fought a caste question.

Now, we're fighting more a class question. We have the right to go to any school in America but we can't pay the tuition. We have the right to move into any neighborhood in America but we can't get a mortgage. In the last era of the movement, the disenfranchised were the blacks, the colored. Now the disenfranchised are the have-nots, the unemployed, the hungry.

Q: Do you think another era of civil violence could stem from rising unemployment?

A: Absolutely. I think that the unemployment frustration breeds a certain amount of violence. But I don't attribute all the violence to unemployment. We had people living on a low-scale in the 1930s and they weren't killing each other.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED — Marti Garza, center, sophomore student at Midland College, has been awarded a $150 scholarship by the Beta Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. The money was raised through various fund-raising projects held at garage sales and a booth at the Christmas bazaar where items made by members were sold. Miss Garza, selected for the scholarship on the basis of academic qualifications and financial need, also is a part-time work-study student at MC. She is shown with Bill Burns, financial aids officer at MC, who helped in the selection of the scholarship recipient, and Mrs. Nevada Fuller, representing Beta Omega.

Reports Given On HD Programs

The Midland County Home Demonstration Council met recently in the office of the Midland County extension agent, with nine members present. Mrs. Alvey Bryant, chairman, presided. Various home demonstration clubs reported programs. These included "Luxury Decorating at Low Cost" by Mrs. D. R. Germany, county extension agent in home economics; Mrs. Marion Fisher, director of Midland Senior Citizens Services; "The Danger of Marijuana and LSD," a lesson on macramé hangers, and slides shown of the Lee High School choir's trip to Austria. It was announced the district meeting will be April 8 in Odessa. Anyone interested in home demonstration work should call 682-9461, Ext. 166.

Dear Abby Male Virgin, 23, Worries About First 'Performance'

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 23, male, and still a virgin. I have had absolutely no experience with sex. Not even a kiss. I didn't even think about it until I was 20. From then on I kept figuring, "Well, it will happen some day," but now I have doubts about whether I am "normal" or not. What is normal, Abby? I'm not bothered by the fact that my sex drive is rather retarded. I don't think about it very much, but sometimes I wonder what my first experience will be like, and it scares me. I know I will be so clumsy and embarrassed that I will not perform very well and it will be humiliating. I have dated a few girls, but as soon as I know a good night kiss is expected, I cop out. Please don't say, "Well, if the girl is understanding, I suppose a deep relationship could handle this type of thing, but in a shallow relationship, or a one-night stand, it will be humiliating for me, I know. What's wrong with me, Abby? Do I need a shrink? I'm on a tight budget, and couldn't afford one anyway. Thanks for your time.

NORMAL OR NOT?
DEAR NORMAL: If you think you need a shrink, you need one — if only to be assured that you don't. A tight budget is no excuse. Your local Mental Health Association will provide treatment at a price you can afford. In the meantime, quit worrying about "performance." When you find a girl you like well enough to kiss, go ahead and kiss her. The rest will come naturally. Rome wasn't made in a day. And neither was Florence.

DEAR DESPERATE: Throwing him into the shower will give you only temporary relief. Throw him out!
DEAR ABBY: My 11-year-old son, Dale, has a teacher I'll call Mr. Authority. Mr. Authority has it in for Dale and picks on him for no reason at all. It's not only

For instance, the other day Mr. Authority said that some money was missing out of his drawer and he accused Dale of taking it. Dale felt so terrible being humiliated in front of the class that he came home and went straight to bed without even eating supper. I would like to report Mr. Authority to the school principal, but I'm afraid if I do, this teacher will take it out on Dale. I need to know what to do. DALE'S MOTHER: Make an appointment to see Mr. Authority and have a talk with him. If you still feel that he is being unfair to Dale, then take it up with the principal.

DEAR ABBY: I am a college student, living in close quarters with three other male students. Three of us shower regularly, but one of our residents does not. (In fact, he seldom brushes his teeth.) We are repulsed by this character, and upon mentioning this problem to him, he says it is his body, and we have no business telling him what to do. We heartily disagree because we have to suffer because of his offensive body odor. We don't know what to do, short of throwing the culprit into the shower against his will. We welcome your advice. DESPERATE IN ARCATIA, CAL.

A Moving Story With A Happy Ending

Dear Heloise:
We're moving soon (Move No. 12 - or is it 13?) I hope your column is in the paper we'll be getting. I want to thank you for the help over the years and, so thanks, pass on a few hints.

There is no easy way to move, but a few things I've found to help are:

1. Start about a month or so ahead of time by ruthlessly going at closets. Clean or paint them and get rid of things you've not used in recent memory. Not only rid's excess but saves a lot of last minute work.
2. Wash windows about two weeks before. It's a lot easier to wipe off water spots that last day than to have the entire job to do when you are the busiest.

3. Try to arrange things easier for the packers. All breakable knickknacks in one area. All pictures down and stacked together. All china and crystal in one place. Makes it easier on the other end too. These boxes can be left until you're ready for them rather than finding daughter's glass horses in with her pantyhose.

4. Try to find a separate room or large closet to put in the things you DON'T want packed. Awful to go for that needed suitcase or important papers, only to discover they are somewhere in a huge van.

5. Hand-carry medical records, prescriptions, extra eye glasses, wills, insurance policies, etc., in a metal strongbox under the car seat. You never know when you'll need them.

6. Defrost refrigerators and freezers a couple of days before they go on the van so you aren't faced with awful odors when you go to use them again. A refrigerator deodorizer taped to the inside door shelf helps.

7. Try to look at the bright side of moving. Your sadness at leaving is contagious and an unhappy family only makes it harder on everyone. There's something good about every move if you look for it.

8. When house hunting in a strange city, keep an open map with you and trace every place you go. Mark every house that has possibilities and make notes about it to jog your memory. Your map tracing will do wonders in helping you to get your way around your new city. And the notes will keep repeat visits to a minimum.

9. Keep track of moving and house-hunting expenses. Some of them are tax deductible.

Trellage Designed Paper Good Theme

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. I have a 20x20-foot living room that has only one window which overlooks another apartment building wall. I want to make the room light and airy with a contemporary feeling although some of my wood pieces are antique. I would like a garden look all year round and I want to have a monotone look in off-white. How can I create a good-looking room that is dramatic and inviting even during cold weather? I like indoor plants, too.

A. The Edwardian style of treillage might be a good theme to take for your room because light but not the view. White a soft yellow on some it can give a contemporary feel to an area and still be most compatible with fine antiques.

Trellage Pattern

Choose a white background wallpaper with a treillage pattern in a muted tone such as celery or beige. Some treillage patterns come with a companion paper in a mural which might be interesting by lending some architectural detailing or depth if you would need it. For your window you might have a sheer window you might have a slip or a short loop in an off-white. Your sofa or sofas and chairs could also be done in off-white with variety supplied by varying the textures. You could do a wooden frame that would admit heavy corded cotton on one side and take for your room because light but not the view. White a soft yellow on some

Beta Eta Chapter Sponsors Annual Valentine Party

The Beta Eta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha recently sponsored its annual valentine party at North Elementary School for children of the special education classes of the Midland school system and Opportunity Center.

This event is a highlight each year for the children and for sorority members who plan and carry out the actual party. Among this year were members of Senior Girl Scout Troop 133, led by Mrs. Charles Tracy. Susan Davis, Stephanie Carol, Nancy Schatz, Shirley Swanson, Jill Hollingshead, Laurie Willis and Evelyn Scott appeared in a skit. Long songs, decorated puppets and a contest with the children, Miss Soren and Miss Gehl, dressed in red bugs, presented a dance number.

The Midland Independent School District provided transportation and the use of the auditorium for the event.

New Parliamentary Society Formed

Four new graduate parliamentary and other members of the National Association of Parliamentarians met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Barbara Hartung, Midland Society of Parliamentarians.

The new group, which Mrs. W. Franz, president, will organize, as temporary chairman. Mrs. Franz said she was pleased to have a new group and a new chapter in Midland.

Retired Persons Meet For Supper

The Midland Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons met Monday in the Fellowship Hall of the First Christian Church for a covered lunch supper and business session.

Guests were Mrs. Nelen Neely, Martha Scarborough, E. W. Surrall, Alma Matlock and Iris Franks. New members present were Mr. and Mrs. Melton Rhinehart and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Douglas.

Scientists About To Begin Search For Life—On Mars

By HOWARD BENEDICT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The terrain is dry and red, tortured by dust storms driven by winds of carbon dioxide gas. Towering mountains, huge volcanoes and gaping canyons scar the landscape.

In this most inhospitable place, American scientists are about to begin a search for life. It is the planet Mars.

The quest starts next August at Cape Canaveral, Fla., when two unmanned Viking spacecraft will be launched 10 days apart on 11-month journeys.

The first is to be parachuted onto a broad Martian plain named Chryse on July 4, 1976. America celebrates its 200th birthday. The second will descend a few days later to Mare Acidulum, near the north polar cap.

"Mars was selected because it is a leading candidate as a place to find life in our solar system beyond earth," explained Robert S. Kraemer, director of planetary programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "That would leave only Pluto to search for life we have in Viking the most ambitious automated space mission ever undertaken."

Richard S. Young of NASA's office of space science and applications said clues to the how and when of life are scattered through the universe. If, as is now believed, planets of the solar system are related, earth and other planets will have undergone a similar evolutionary sequence, he said.

Other robot spacecraft have paved the way for the twin Vikings, giving man his first clear look into the far reaches of the solar system.

Exploration began with relatively simple Pioneer and Mariner probes in the early 1960s. In the last two years, highly advanced versions of these vehicles have surveyed Mars in great detail. They've relayed close-up pictures of Venus and Mercury and have penetrated the powerful radiation belts surrounding the largest planet, Jupiter.

Now, after sweeping close to Jupiter in December, Pioneer 11 is heading for a 1979 rendezvous with Saturn.

Later in this decade, NASA plans to launch probes to Venus, Jupiter and Saturn, and perhaps a satellite to skip past Jupiter, Uranus and Neptune. That would leave only Pluto to be explored. That farthest of the planets must await technological developments in communication and spacecraft survival.

Kraemer said planetary explorations are increasing man's knowledge of how earth and other planets formed and evolved.

"Mars appears to be trailing in evolution and is still in the process of forming its atmosphere and reaching a state of persisting liquid water on the surface."

Dr. Carl Sagan, director of Cornell University's Laboratory for Planetary Studies, predicts that Mars will reach a habitable state for man at about the time earth is becoming uninhabitable, and that the human civilization might then migrate to colonize Mars. But he says this might take three or four billion years.

Pioneer 11 used the strong gravity field of Jupiter in December to propel it onto a five-year course toward Saturn.

on other planets is important because it may help man to understand problems of coping with pollution.

Legislature Eyes Proposals On Labeling Foreign Meats

AUSTIN — Separate legislation which would identify all foreign meat sold in Texas and would prohibit the sale of foreign beef to state agencies and subdivisions has been referred to a House Agriculture and Livestock subcommittee.

Legislation by Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood, (HB 380) would require that all meat or meat products containing foreign beef to explain that fact in English on the label. The legislation also requires the English name of the country from which the beef was imported to be included.

Nabers said he did not have any opposition to a "think positive" policy, an alternative suggested by Rep. Joe Hubenak, chairman of the committee. The Rosenberg legislator proposed that all beef produced in the United States contain such information.

Hubenak said, "I like the positive side, something like 'Grown in the U.S.'"

Appearing in opposition to the bill was Arthur Boone, wholesale distributor with Frost-Tex Foods in Austin.

Boone said the labeling would only increase the price of beef products, since packers would have to change their labeling and shipping to conform with the Texas requirements.

Rep. Emmett Whitehead of Rush told Boone that 12 million consumers in Texas could not be overlooked, and the food distributor did concede that if enough states passed similar legislation, or if it became a federal requirement, complying would be much simpler.

Dr. A. B. Rich, a veterinarian with the State Health Department, told the committee that they would encounter difficulty with the federal government from the legislation they were considering.

Rich said three states, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Michigan, had imposed similar labeling laws, only to have them enjoined by the federal government. But Rich did not discourage the legislators from continuing their attack on the federal government. He said, "No one would enjoy the slaughter of a federal sacred cow any more than I."

Also considered by the committee was legislation prohibiting the state, or any of its subsidiaries from purchasing foreign beef. Two such bills have been introduced, H.B. 318 by Rep. George Preston of Paris, and H.B. 829 by Rep. Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad.

No action was taken on these bills, as they were referred to subcommittees.

Until Mariner 9 orbited Mars in 1972, most scientists classed it a dead planet.

But the windmill-shaped probe photomapped its surface, took its temperatures and analyzed its chemistry. Then Mars was revealed as a planet in turmoil.

Sagan said the Mariner 9 data indicates Mars is in an ice age with most of its atmosphere frozen into polar ice caps. But the extreme cold — down to 200 degrees below zero Fahrenheit — is not severe enough to exclude possible forms of life. He said existence of earth-like forms was more likely in the past, when the planet was warmer.

But he added that organisms dating from that period might be dormant in the frozen atmosphere of the ice caps. The spacecraft may detect them by sipping water to a soil sample.

If the Vikings do detect a low form of life, it might be similar to what life was like on earth several billion years ago.

Other planets examined by American spacecraft — Venus, Mercury and Jupiter — do not appear to have conditions for supporting life at this stage in their evolution.

NASA plans to guide it inside the rings of the planet to take readings from the largest of its 10 moons, Titan. Earthbound observations indicate Titan has an appreciable atmosphere and therefore might harbor a low form of life.

Until now, research has concentrated on the accessible inner planets — Mars, Mercury and Venus. In the 1980s NASA wants to emphasize the outer planets — Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto — because they are more likely to hold clues to the origin of the solar system.

Scientists believe the outer planets probably contain remnants of the creation of the solar system. There also is evidence some of their satellite moons might contain a frozen record of the system's early history.

"There can be no question that the study of other planets, with or without life, will contribute greatly to our understanding of the basic processes controlling our own," Young said.

He said the opportunity to study atmospheric phenomena

U.S. Judge Denies All AMPI Motions In Antitrust Case

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Chief U.S. Dist. Court Judge Adrian Spears has struck down all AMPI objections to a subpoena to produce certain documents to a federal grand jury.

Federal antitrust lawyers based in Chicago filed the subpoena Feb. 10.

AMPI lawyers responded with several motions to modify the subpoena and close the grand jury probe. However, all those motions were denied Thursday.

The AMPI motions referred to the subpoena as dealing with "removal, alteration or destruction of documents" used during an AMPI antitrust case at Kansas City.

Lawyers signed a consent decree in the Kansas City case, but no federal judge has accepted it yet.

Both the U.S. attorney's office and AMPI spokesmen refused comment on the grand jury probe now under way.

Television Viewers Will Face Tough Choice Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Families with but one tv set have a tough choice to make tonight — stay with a fine CBS drama about the FBI and the Ku Klux Klan or leave in mid-program for a nifty Lily Tomlin special on ABC.

mid-show switch only because the effort by Miss Tomlin & Co. is an all-too-rare example of comic craftsmanship, and we need all the laughs we can get these days.

The CBS program concludes a two-part dramatization of the FBI's massive, well-publicized attempt to bring to justice the Klansmen suspected of the 1964 murder of three young civil rights workers in Mississippi.

The first part of CBS' "Attack on Terror: The FBI Versus the Ku Klux Klan," aired Thursday night, and painstakingly recounted events leading up to the murders and the FBI's involvement in the case.

Tonight's episode, as thoroughly gripping as the first, covers the FBI's efforts (prodded by the late President Lyndon B. Johnson) to break the case and see it to a successful finale in federal court.

Even though the show is FBI-blessed and is produced by Quinn Martin, who gave us the old "The FBI" series, it has far more believability than the series' stiff, nobly plodding approach could ever hope to achieve.

Large credit is due an intelligent script by Calvin Clemens and standout acting by Wayne "M-A-S-H" Rogers, cast as a Southern-born FBI agent, and L. Q. Jones, cast as a small-town policeman who turns FBI informant after years of secret Klan membership.

The show is so engrossing that massive family debate probably will break out across the land when it comes time to see what Lily Tomlin is up to in her first special for ABC.

Special Evening In Store For Galveston Opera House

HOUSTON — A kind of "phantom of the opera" evening is in store for Galveston's venerable 19th Century opera house tonight.

But it will be a benevolent phantom, breathing new life into the 1864-vintage structure, as contemporary British composer Benjamin Britten's eerie "The Turn of the Screw" becomes the first fully-staged opera presented in the Galveston Grand Opera House in more than 60 years.

'West Side Story' To Open Globe Season Tonight

ODESSA — The Globe of the Great Southwest, the Permian Basin's near-perfect replica of Shakespeare's own Globe Theatre, begins its own season tonight.

The season-opening production is a 20th Century musical, "West Side Story," which draws subtly on Shakespeare's immortal story of star-crossed lovers, "Romeo and Juliet," with a change in locale from Renaissance Italy to the teeming ghettos of Manhattan's upper-West Side.

Following tonight's opening performance at 8:30, a second presentation will be at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. Additional performances are scheduled for Feb. 28-March 1 and March 7-8. Tickets for all presentations are available at the Globe box office, 332-4031, and will be for sale up to performance time tonight.

Kaleidoscope Company To Present 'Applesseed'

ODESSA — The Kaleidoscope Company, the young people's producing and performing group at Odessa's Permian Playhouse, will stage "Applesseed" in a series of public performances this weekend and next.

The play by Edward Graczyk, formerly associated with Midland Community Theatre, had its premiere production by MCT's Pickwick Players several seasons ago. It has since had productions throughout the U.S., receiving acclaim for its meritorious contributions to educational theater for children.

The Kaleidoscope production, directed by Playhouse associate director James Walters, will have matinee performances at 2:30 Saturday and Sunday, as well as 2:30 p.m. on March 1 and 2. Reservation may be made through the Playhouse box office, 362-2329.

Graczyk's play draws on the life and legend of John Chapman, better known as "Johnny Apple Seed."

Because he has been celebrated in song and story, there is some confusion as to whether Chapman really existed. Research has proved that he was truly a real person and all the stories about him are not greatly exaggerated.

Texas Opera Theater (TOT), the Houston Grand Opera's regional performing ensemble, will bring its production of "The Turn of the Screw" to the hall for today's performance at 8 p.m. In recent days, TOT has performed the opera in Austin and in a series of performances at Houston's Jewish Community Center.

Coincidentally, the Austin presentation marked the reopening of the Paramount, an old vaudeville house in the Texas capitol city.

Britten's "The Turn of the Screw," based on American writer Henry James' famous ghost novella of the same title, is concerned with the pitting of innocence against malevolence, and it closely follows James' plot revolving around two children and their governess plagued by the evil spirits of a dead servant and a former governess.

The TOT production is being presented under auspices of the Galveston County Cultural Arts Council Inc., which, through grants from Houston Edowment Inc. and the Eliza and Harris Kemper Fund, purchased the opera house last summer. Since the building's acquisition, the arts council has embarked upon a major effort to have the house completely restored.

The reception is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri St.

The Grand Staff Music Club, composed of piano students of Mrs. Benton Howell, presented a special program recently for residents of Terrace Gardens Nursing Home here.

The program theme, "A Parade of American Music," was keynoted in a talk by Mike Bozell on famous American composers.

Performing on the program were Laura Shelton, Paul Davis III, Bob Davenport, Becky Dugan, Caroline Reed, Susan Lamphere, Sharon Stringer, Mark Stanley, Amy Davenport and Bozell.

Swann Draws Large Crowd For Recital

Organ recitals admittedly are not for everyone, but for the dedicated organ enthusiast they are an important, even vital, facet of a city's musical life.

And, surely, when an organist of the professional stature of Frederick Swann comes to town to play a program, it becomes an event not only of importance but also of considerable interest for the public.

Such was the case Thursday night when Swann, the organist of New York City's Riverside Church, the famous Rockefeller-endowed church, played here.

The organ, more than almost any musical instrument, has the ability to uplift, to inspire, to elevate the listener to a higher plane of thought and mood. Such psychological transport, when combined with the kind of richness that Swann's program provided, cannot fail to make an indelible impression on an audience. Certainly Thursday's recital in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church had a mesmerizing effect on those attending. I do not recall ever hearing a program of greater dimension or a performance of greater skill. Swann's recital had breadth, but also considerable depth.

The guest artist provided several "standard" works in the organ literature—the Choral in B minor of Cesar Franck (a deeply satisfying presentation to my way of thinking) and the Fantasia and Fugue in G minor of J. S. Bach, also magnificently wrought in all its melodic richness.

But for many, I think, the high point of the evening came with Swann's presentation of a dramatic program piece, "The Despair and Agony of Dachau," which was more than a little disturbing in its implications of the shameful and tragic events inspiring the piece. Composer Paul Siffer's work is full of magnificent musical imagery which the recitalist presented with clarity and great drama. The evocativeness of the piece left us no place to hide: We had to face it full-on.

The program opened with a short organ solo segment from

Snow Accumulations Total Up To 10 Inches In Some Mountain Areas

By The Associated Press
Snow sifted into the northern and central Rockies and adjacent Plains today after piling up to 10 inches in mountain areas of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.
While the snow diminished during the night, heavy snow warnings were continued in south central Wyoming. The combination of snow and strong gusty winds kept travel advisories in effect for parts of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. Ten inches of snow settled into Steamboat Springs, Colo., through Thursday. Similarly heavy amounts fell at Granby, Leadville and Rifle, Colo. Moderate to heavy snow also deepened the snowpack in the mountains of Wyoming and western Montana.
Avalanche warnings for the southern Colorado Rockies remained posted through today. Travel advisories were up in western Kansas due to expected freezing rain and snow. Advisories also were issued for northern mountain and desert areas of Southern California because of strong winds and blowing sand.
Widely scattered light snow flurried into the northern Appalachians, and showers persisted in northern and central Florida.
Clear to partly cloudy skies prevailed along most of the Pacific Coast and from Texas through the Ohio Valley to the Middle Atlantic Coast, and over the upper Mississippi Valley.
Temperatures tumbled below zero in the northern Rockies overnight, but the weather was near normal in most of the rest of the country.
Readings before dawn ranged from -9 at Butte, Mont., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

$150-Million Lawsuit Is Filed In Sharpstown Bank Closure

HOUSTON (AP) — A $150 million lawsuit has been filed against the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., alleging the agency illegally forced the Sharpstown State Bank to close in 1971.
The suit, filed Thursday in federal court in Washington, seeks the amount plus interest costs and attorney fees from the FDIC, Quinton Thompson, FDIC regional director in Dallas, and Melvin F. Bennett, FDIC liquidator for the bank.
The suit was filed in behalf of Frank W. Sharp, former board chairman of the bank, two companies he controls and five other stockholders of the bank.
There was no immediate comment from the FDIC but Thompson denied the charges made against him.
Joining with Sharp in filing the suit were two sons-in-law, W. D. Haden II, Houston, and Claude H. Hooton Jr., Pacific Palisades, Calif., three former bank directors, Clinton E. Swelven, William H. Hinton and Melvin Beyer, all of Houston, and the Oak Forest Investment Co. and the Sharpstown Realty Co.
The Sharpstown State Bank closed Jan. 25, 1971, a week after the Securities and Exchange Commission filed suit against Sharp and 23 others charging they had participated in a stock fraud scheme.
The suit alleged that on the day of the closing, Thompson "illegally" demanded that Sharpstown directors approve a resolution closing the bank on grounds of insolvency.
Thompson was alleged to have made threats and inducements to the bank directors and of intimidating State Bank and Commission Robert E. Stewart to get the directors to approve the resolution.
The suit alleged that Thompson promised the directors that if they would vote to close the bank the FDIC would sell the bank for "not less than $2 million in profit above the value of the bank stock."
The bank was never sold but was put into receivership.
"I have no authority to close a bank," Thompson said. "As for intimidating Stewart, he is a man of his own and not one to be intimidated and I would not intimidate anyone. I don't know what they are talking about on the $2 million profit. No action was taken by men in excess of my authority."
Sharp entered a plea of guilty to two criminal violations of federal banking and securities laws June 14, 1971. He received a three year probation sentence, and was fined $5,000.

Woman Says Plastic Surgeon Hill's Former Father-In-Law Planned Slaying

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman first wife, Joan Robinson Hill, killed by a Longview policeman who was convicted of participating in the shooting death of Dr. John Hill has testified that Hill's former father-in-law planned the slaying of the prominent Houston plastic surgeon.
Marcia McKittrick, 24, testified Thursday that wealthy Houston oilman Ash Robinson was involved in the planning until Hill was shot to death Sept. 24, 1972 by a hooded gunman at his home.
Miss McKittrick, an admitted prostitute who is serving a 10-year prison sentence after being convicted of participating in the slaying, testified in the trial of Lilla Paulus, 55, 35, was paid $5,000 by Mrs. Paulus for his role in the slaying.
Hill, 40, was charged with murder in the 1969 death of his first wife, Joan Robinson Hill, killed by a Longview policeman who was convicted of participating in the shooting death of Dr. John Hill has testified that Hill's former father-in-law planned the slaying of the prominent Houston plastic surgeon.
Robinson's daughter, the surgeon was accused in an indictment of withholding medical treatment from her.
Hill was tried once on the charge but the jury was unable to reach a verdict. A second trial was pending when he was killed.
Prosecutor Bob Bennett, in his opening statement to the jury, said the state would show that Mrs. Paulus was a go-between in a murder-for-hire plot that resulted in Hill's death.
Miss McKittrick testified Robinson wanted revenge. She said Bobby Wayne Vandiver, went to Mrs. Paulus' house and trial of Lilla Paulus, 55, 35, was paid $5,000 by Mrs. Paulus for his role in the slaying.
Mrs. McKittrick's 10-year sentence currently is under appeal.

FBI Investigating Dallas Republic Bank Officer In Alleged Funds Case

DALLAS (AP) — The FBI is investigating a senior officer at Republic National Bank here in connection with an alleged misapplication of bank funds.
J. Gordon Shanklin, agent in charge of the local FBI office, said Thursday the results of the probe "will probably be turned over to the grand jury."
Republic National Bank, with deposits of more than $3 billion is Texas' second largest bank. James W. Keay, Republic chairman of the board, confirmed the probe.
"Our internal auditing staff has questioned certain bank transactions, which have been referred to the proper authorities for investigation."
"Pending completion of such investigation, we have no comment other than to state that the matter is not of material consequence to either the financial condition or the earnings of the bank," he said.
The Dallas Morning News, in today's editions, quoted "highly placed sources in the Dallas financial community" as saying the amount allegedly involved was up to $600,000.
The News quoted its sources saying transactions in question involve large sums of money diverted into four or five dummy accounts over the last three years.
Initial reports also indicated the irregularities involved were discovered early this week and involved falsified loans that were converted to personal use, the News said.
The FBI said it entered the case "early this week," but declined to disclose either when the alleged misapplication of funds began or the amount of money possibly involved.

Crime May Pay At Bridge Table

The average citizen's idea of right and wrong means much in law and morality, but not at the bridge table. The worst "crime" may actually be a fine play.

West opened the queen of diamonds and continued with the jack. South ruffed the second diamond, cashed the ace of clubs and cross-ruffed clubs and diamonds for a few tricks.
When declarer eventually led the king of diamonds from the dummy East covered with the ace and South discarded a heart.
West likewise discarded a heart, muffing his last chance to defeat the contract. No matter what East returned, South could ruff clubs in the dummy and hearts in his own hand. West could get only the ace of trumps.

Better Opening Lead
The ace of trumps would have been a better opening lead. Even after winning the first trick with the queen of diamonds, West still had time to lead the ace of trumps and a low trump.
West had his last chance on the fourth round of diamonds. West should trump his partner's ace to lead out two rounds of trumps.
This defense limits declarer to four trumps in his own hand and three ruffs in dummy. These and the two aces give South only nine tricks.
It isn't always a crime to trump your partner's ace!

EPA Extends Shell Chemical Permit For Gulf Dumping

HOUSTON (AP) — A new one-year permit to dump 100,000 tons of waste sludge into the Gulf of Mexico has been issued to Shell Chemical Co.
The regional Environmental Protection Agency, in issuing the permit Thursday, directed Shell to begin researching onshore alternatives for disposal of the sludge from its suburban Deer Park plant.
However, the federal agency set no time limit for Shell to get an onshore disposal system into operation. The permit requires the company to submit to the EPA by next Nov. 1 all reports on its research.
Shell Chemical is the only industry still dumping wastes off the Texas coast. The sludge is still being dumped from the biological treatment system for waste water at the Deer Park plant. Shell said it is 97 percent salt water and harmless to marine life.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: S-A 3 2 H-K J 9 8 3 D-Q J 10 C-J 5. What do you say?
ANSWER: Pass. You have 12 points in high cards, and 1 point for distribution. This would be enough for an opening bid if you had a better high-card structure. With only 1 1/2 quick tricks, do not open a borderline hand.

A jigsaw puzzle of a church was Billy's project for the afternoon. He worked diligently as the church took form. But one section was missing—the door. "A church has to have a door," he said. At last he found it. As Billy grows older, he may discover that the Church has many doors which can open to him:

Gratitude for his home, his family, his friends
Knowledge of God, his Creator
Sensitivity to spiritual life
Inspiration from Bible accounts of dedicated lives
Experiences in sharing his beliefs with others
Development of his character
Foundations of a sustaining faith

Open these doors to your child so that he may grow spiritually. Take him to church each Sunday.

Bishops Taking Pulse Of American Roman Catholics

By CLARE COX
Copley News Service
NEW YORK — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops are taking the pulse of the 50 million American Catholics to determine what they and the church can do to foster "liberty and justice for all" in 1976.

A feature of the church's Bicentennial observance, the program to be conducted at the parish level, will bring the hierarchy up to date on opinions on social issues ranging from whether any religious values were violated in the Watergate scandal to whether racial prejudice gives as much cause as abortion for excommunication.

The bishops are distributing a study guide entitled, "Liberty and Justice for All," which has been prepared by their Committee for the Bicentennial with the help of a number of lay and religious writers. It poses such questions as these:

—What Gospel values do you think were violated in Watergate and how? Does Watergate make it easier or more difficult for you to celebrate the meaning of the Bicentennial?

—What injustices result from inflation, and should the church take a stand on them?

—Should the church sell its vast real estate holdings?

—How should the church respond to world hunger? Would you as an individual be willing to have less so others could have more?

—Should the church take as strong a stand against prejudice and discrimination as it does on abortion? How would you feel about excommunication of professed bigots?

—Why is crime in the streets on the increase? Are you afraid to venture out in your own neighborhood? Which is worse, a burglar or a Watergate conspirator?

—Is it fair for employers to make more than their workers? What would you like to see changed about the American economic system? Should women receive the same pay as men?

—How can the church express more fully its commitment to the respect-for-life concept?

These questions and others are posed within the context of eight general subjects recommended for discussion—nationalism, the church, humankind, ethnicity and race, the neighborhood, work, family and personhood.

In introducing the program to representatives of 90 American Catholic Dioceses, John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit, chairman of the Bishops' Committee for the Bicentennial, explained that it was "a modest attempt" to provide greater church commitment to social development and enrichment of all people.

He said the committee hopes that a broad range of Catholics will engage in a study and evaluation of a variety of aspects of "our national existence" in response to the church's teaching on justice as expressed by Popes John XXIII and Paul VI, the Second Vatican Council and the pronouncements of the Synods of Bishops.

White House-Church Rift Ending

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

More direct and friendlier relationships are being restored between the U.S. President's office and the leaders of major Christian denominations, ending a prolonged, hostile rift between them and the White House.

The change in attitudes was signaled recently when 35 top officials of main church bodies spent an hour in conference with President Ford at the executive mansion.

It was the first time in 10 years that an American president had invited leaders of the major churches to meet with him, although such contacts had been a regular aspect of earlier administrations.

But the lines of communication had frayed and broken while the late President Lyndon B. Johnson was in office because of the church leaders' spearheading of criticism of Vietnam war policies.

The deep-freeze continued during former President Richard M. Nixon's administration. Although he had contacts with some evangelical ministers, such as Billy Graham and picked participants in White House religious services, the not-welcome sign was up to leaders of the main denominations.

In that period, they often found themselves on the peace-picket lines outside the White House, their efforts to present church statements rebuffed.

However, President Ford indicated that last week's meeting was only the beginning of a continuing dialogue with religious leaders, according to the Rev. Dr. James Christison, of Valley Forge, Pa., general secretary of the American Baptist Convention.

The Rev. Dr. W. Sterling Cary, of Hinsdale, Ill., a United Church minister and president of the National Council, called the meeting "very, very encouraging." He added:

"While there may be differences of opinion between the church group and the President on issues, President Ford assured the religious leaders their views will be heard."

Ford, an Episcopalian, told the group he was designating an assistant, Ted Marrs, as the President's personal liaison officer with the council and member denominations.

They include 31 major U.S. bodies of Methodists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Christians (Disciples), United Church (Congregationalists), Lutherans, Baptists, and Eastern Orthodoxy, totaling 42 million members.

At the meeting with Ford, the discussion centered on issues of human rights in countries supported by U.S. aid, such as South Korea and South Vietnam, U.S. food aid abroad and effects on the poor of rising costs of food stamps.

Many Nuns Rejecting Image Of 'Good Sister'

By PENNY LERNOUX
Copley News Service

BOGOTA, Colombia — Sister Francine Zeller wears no cosmetics, but she is carefully coiffed and smartly dressed. Like many of the 150,000 members of the Roman Catholic Leadership Conference of Women Religious (LCWR), of which she is president, Sister Francine strongly objects to the Roman Catholic nun's traditional garb.

"It is depersonalizing," she explained, adding that the habit represents a stereotype rejected by many U.S. nuns.

Habits, like roles, are changing among U.S. women, in part because of the influence of the women's liberation movement, but also because of the Vatican's more liberal attitude toward pluralism within the church.

Today, U.S. nuns and their sisters in other religious institutions are demanding and getting better jobs with more responsibility.

Only recently, several women ordained by a rebel sector of the Episcopal church celebrated Mass in New York.

While agreeing that women should be able to exercise all ministries, LCWR nuns are not prepared to go as far as their Episcopalian sisters, not at least for the time being. On the other hand, they are determined to do away with the preconceived role of what they call "the good sister."

"Just as married women have somehow been taught that being mother plus wife plus household worker equals being woman, the U.S. woman religious also is expected to function in certain approved roles, such as teacher or nurse, since these are in keeping with the role of 'spiritual mother,'" said Sister Lora Ann Quinonez, one of 18 LCWR delegates to the II Inter-American Religious Conference recently held in Bogota.

Like Sister Francine, she rejects the concept of "eternal femininity," preferring the definition of "personhood" instead.

Nor does the LCWR accept the stereotyped nun with "no strong opinions" and no unnecessary exposure to "secular learning" who is meek, subservient and deferential to churchmen.

Churches Group Formulate Plans

Plans for the coming year were formulated when the Midland Association of Churches held its first meeting since new officers of the organization were elected and installed recently.

Association president the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand, pastor of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, presided at the Tuesday session in First Presbyterian Church. He urged all interested persons to attend next Monday's meeting of the Midland City Council, at which public housing for the elderly will be discussed.

The Midland chapter, Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International, has planned a breakfast meeting for 8:30 a.m. Saturday at Holiday Inn on West Highway 80. Don Grantham of Abilene will be the featured speaker. The meeting will be open to the public.

Singing Slated Saturday Night
Northside Church of the Nazarene, 424 Neely St., will hold an old-fashioned sing-along between 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited. Featured at the event will be the Jackson and Spots Trio. The vocal ensemble and pianist, composed of Harvey and Pat Jackson and Lynn and Donna Spots, is from Abilene.

Baptists Elect Neill To Position
DALLAS — Martin Neill, a Southern Baptist layman from Midland, has been elected vice chairman of the human welfare committee of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and its executive board.

The BGCT is the state organization of Southern Baptist churches and missions.

Chairman of the human welfare unit is the Rev. Browning Ware, pastor of Beaumont's First Baptist Church.

Youth Groups Plan Supper
Youth groups of Grace Lutheran Church, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, have planned a spaghetti supper for Sunday evening.

Tickets for the supper, which will be open to the public, are priced at $1.50 for adults and $1 for children 12 years of age or younger. The tickets will be on sale at the doors of the church fellowship hall Sunday evening. Services will begin at 6 p.m.

The sponsoring church youths are members of the Lutheran Youth Fellowship (LYF) at Grace Church.

Morriss To Lead San Angelo Revival
SAN ANGELO — Dr. L. L. Morriss, newly-appointed director of evangelism for the Baptist General Convention of Texas and formerly pastor of First Baptist Church at Midland, will be in the pulpit for revival services all next week at College Hills Baptist Church here.

The revival will be held Monday through Saturday, with service at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily. Singer and music director for the emphasis will be Steve Garins. The services at 2102 Johnson St. will be open to the public.

Revival Slated Here Next Week
Dellwood Baptist Church, West Ohio Street at Midkiff Drive, is announcing a revival to be held next week.

The special services will begin Monday and continue through Sunday, March 2, said the Rev. Jerry Allen, host pastor.

Evangelist will be Harold Laytham of Mobile, Ala., widely-known Bible scholar and preacher. Services will be open to the public. The church nursery will be available.

El Calvario Sets Revival Next Week
Revival services will be held Monday through Friday next week at El Calvario United Methodist Church, 1209 Garden Lane.

The Rev. Frank Rodriguez, pastor, announced that the services will begin at 7:30 nightly. The public will be welcomed.

The Rev. Frank Salas will be in the pulpit for the services. A longtime minister, he has served Methodist churches in Dilley, Laredo, Alice, Weslaco, Kingsville and Big Spring. He attended Southwest Texas Junior College at Uvalde and Texas A&I University.

FEATURED SPEAKER — The Rev. Donnell McCall of Taiwan was featured speaker at a congregational supper at First Presbyterian Church Wednesday. Shown with him is FPC member, Elizabeth Ramsland, who introduced him to the assembly. Mr. McCall, an evangelist in new church development among the tribes in central Taiwan, is active in promoting credit unions for these churches. He also directs a hostel for young people and actively assists tribal members adjust to urban life. The visitor showed color photo slides at the meeting.

Texas Conferences Of Churches To Hold Annual Meeting At Austin

AUSTIN — A former Texas pastor who now is president of St. Paul School of Theology in Kansas City, a well-known associate justice of the Supreme Court of Texas who is an outstanding Southern Baptist layman, and the moderator of a Protestant church body in Italy will present major addresses during the sixth annual assembly of representatives of the Texas Conference of Churches here Mar. 2-5.

The Rev. Dr. William K. McElvany of Kansas City, former pastor of Northaven United Methodist Church in Dallas and the Hon. Zille Steakey, a justice of the Supreme Court of Texas since 1961, will address official delegates, observers and guests at the assembly.

The Rev. Dr. Arlo Staffa, a minister of the Waldensian Church of Italy, will observe assembly sessions and bring greetings from his church. His visit to the U.S. coincides with the 80th anniversary of the church he currently heads.

Theme of the assembly is "Reconcile! By Word and Deed." The Most Rev. Thomas Tschoepe, president of the Texas Conference of Churches and bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Dallas, will preside during the assembly business sessions.

The Texas Conference of Churches is an ecumenical organization with membership composed of 42 ecclesiastical units of 16 Christian denominations in Texas, including the Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox dioceses and most Protestant denominations. It was the first and remains the largest, geographical religious organization of its kind in the world.

Choir To Present Religious Musical
The youth choir of St. Paul United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive, will present a religious musical, "Priority," during the Sunday evening worship hour.

Both junior high and senior high youth are to be involved in the presentation, which is directed by Mrs. David Maxey. The public is invited to hear them during the 7 p.m. service.

Midland Girl Picked As Seminar Participant

Frances Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parker of Midland, has been accepted as a participant in the 1975 Texoma National Affairs Seminar of the Christian (Disciples of Christ) Churches in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico.

Miss Parker is a 16-year-old junior at Midland High School. She is a member of the Junior Council, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Spanish Club, National Honor Society and Junior Hospital Auxiliary. She is also secretary of Memorial Christian Church Christian Youth Fellowship and district officer of Christian Youth Fellowship.

Thirty-three young people and eight adults will leave for the seminar Thursday and return March 8, visiting New York City and Washington, D.C. John W. Long, minister of the Memorial Christian Church here, is serving as director of the study tour.

The purpose of the seminar is to provide first-person experience of the work of the United Nations, the U.S. government, and the responsibility of the citizen and the church for international relationships in our time. Stress is laid on understanding the world as a community to be cared for and ministered to.

In New York, the seminar will visit the United Nations, the various foreign missions to the U.S. and the offices of the National Council of Churches.

Frances Parker

In Washington, an interview with Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., will be conducted as well as visits with other congressmen from the Southwest. Visits will also be made to the Pentagon, the State Department and the Israeli Embassy.

Governor's School Bill Said Ready

AUSTIN (AP) — The Houston Chronicle said today that Gov. Dolph Briscoe's final school financing plan calls for equalized funding in all districts but would not require a school district to raise its total local share of the cost.

The Chronicle said it had learned the bill incorporating the governor's recommendations was secretly distributed last Tuesday to superintendents or business managers of the state's seven most populous school districts.

Sworn-To Secrecy

The school men were sworn to secrecy until Briscoe publicly reveals details of the bill next week. Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, is reportedly the legislator chosen to sponsor the measure.

The bill sets forth a series of formulas which would be used to determine each of more than 1,100 school districts' total funding allocations. There is no total cost of the bill given, the Chronicle said.

The bill sets up a "Texas State Public Education Compensation Plan" that calls for a beginning teacher's salary of $7,428, compared to the present $6,600.

Teachers Want More
The Texas State Teachers Association is calling for a beginning salary of $10,000.

The bill declares a state policy that "each student enrolled in the public school system shall have access to programs and services which are appropriate to his educational needs and which are substantially equal to those available to any other student notwithstanding geographic differences and varying local economic factors."

Another section of the bill says "a school district need not raise its total local share of its program cost."

Generally market value would apply in determining school taxes but farm, ranch and forest land would be taxed on basis of its productivity, the Chronicle said.

Established Patent System
George Washington signed into law legislation that established the patent system on April 10, 1790.

Westside Lions Now Hold Regular Meetings In 'Den'

The Midland Westside Lions Club now is holding its regular Thursday noon meetings in its Lions Den and Scout Hut, which is located in the rear of property at the corner of Midland Drive and Thomason streets. Meals are catered.

The club has been using the facility as its Scout Hut the last year or more, but members decided recently to remodel and improve the facility to serve also as its meeting place. Work still is being done on the building by club members.

Members of the club's auxiliary, the "Lionesses 700" club, will stage an old-fashioned box supper Saturday night in the den, with proceeds going toward furnishing additional tables for the Lions.

Landscaping also is being done by club and auxiliary members.

At the club's Thursday noon meeting, Diane Johnson, a sophomore student at Lee High School and a member of its A Cappella Choir, was presented in a special musical program.

She sang several selections, folk and religious, providing her own guitar accompaniment. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson. Her father is a member of the club.

Two Scientists See Diesels As Auto Efficiency Solution

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two scientists say diesel engines could be the answer to the automobile industry's fuel economy and emissions problems, though the diesels would be no cure-all.

"It's no coincidence that big trucks, railroads, ships, stationary engines and heavy construction equipment utilize diesel engines," Karl J. Spring, director of emissions research at the Southwest Research Institute, said.

"They give you the best fuel efficiency," Spring and Southwest Research scientist Ralph Stahman say they will present results of a test of four diesels when they deliver a paper at a Detroit, Mich., conference next week.

Livestock Show Begins At Odessa
ODESSA — Gerald Oakes, vocational agriculture teacher in Midland, is the classifier for the Ector County Livestock Show, being held in Barn B of the Ector County Coliseum.

The show began Thursday with registration and weighing of animals. The livestock show judge is Oliver West, Glascock County agent.

Exhibition spots in the show are open to local 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America members.

Trophies and awards will be presented winners in all classes with special recognition for outstanding showmanship.

A barbecue concludes the show with tickets priced at $2.50 per person. Spring said mass production would bring the cost down and availability of diesel fuel should be a prime consideration in formulation of a national energy policy.

However, Spring said mass production would bring the cost down and availability of diesel fuel should be a prime consideration in formulation of a national energy policy.

Spring said that EPA nitrogen oxide standards are too high and predicted they would be revised downward.

The study deals with fuel economy and emissions of four diesels—a 1972 Mercedes-Benz 220D, a 1973 Peugeot 504D, an Opel Rekord 2100D and a Nissan diesel-powered Datsun.

But Springer listed several diesel drawbacks including smoke, particulate matter pollution and odor. He said research could solve such problems, however.

Diesels are less responsive in acceleration than most United States-built cars, Springer said.

But other diesel advantages might convince Americans to accept the diesel, he said.

Diesels are more expensive than gasoline powered vehicles and a sharp increase in the diesel population could cause fuel supply problems, he said.

Red Forces Step Up Attacks Near Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces attacked an army position north of Saigon and a militia post southeast of the city, killing 19 of the defenders and wounding 18, the South Vietnamese command reported today.

The command said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong casualties were not known.

Both attacks were preceded by heavy shelling.

The heaviest casualties — 14 militiamen killed — occurred in an attack on a militia post near Raing island, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, the command reported. It said five soldiers were killed and 11 were wounded in an attack on an infantry position near Lai Khe, 35 miles north of Saigon.

Also in the Mekong Delta, Viet Cong sappers slipped into a gasoline depot near My Tho, 35 miles southwest of Saigon, and blew up more than 10,000 gallons of gasoline, military officials said.

In Cambodia, government forces battled the Khmer Rouge insurgents around the Neak Luong naval base and on an island in the Mekong river below Neak Luong.

Both government forces were critical because the insurgents were stronger at both points.

About 300 government troops landed Thursday on Peam Dat Do, a district town in the Mekong Delta 45 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, where another government task force reported. It said five soldiers lost last week. Meanwhile, supply convoys cannot make the trip up the Mekong to Phnom Penh because of Khmer Rouge guns on both banks and Viet Cong sappers slipped into

Strongest Cage Loop

The Pac-8 is beating its chest and chanting for all to hear that it is the strongest, best-balanced basketball conference in the land.

Maybe it's true. Then, again, maybe UCLA has just come back to the pack and the rest of the league is riding the coattails of the past reputation of the Bruins, who for years ruled college basketball like an Arab rationing oil in the world.

Still, it's pretty hard to turn your back on an old established firm like the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Put competitiveness and fan enthusiasm together and it's no contest.

There hasn't been anything like it since the old Madison Square Garden was the mecca of college basketball. All of the New York teams—Long Island U, St. John's, Manhattan, NYU, Seton Hall, CCNY—were national powers and put any two of them in a doubleheader at the Garden and it was an automatic 17,000 to 18,000.

But then the point-fixing scandals broke, not just once but two or three times, and those colleges out in the "sticks" began having second thoughts about exposing their innocents to the evils of the Garden.

Colleges began building their own Garden-sized arenas and basketball-talented youngsters who once stayed home to play began heading west and south.

And so, the phenomena that is the ACC emerged. They not only play to a regular-season league championship, but hold a post-season tournament to decide the NCAA representative. The North Carolina members even hold a four-team pre-season bash at Charlotte or Greensboro.

Everybody derided the post-season tournament as a type of foolishness that made the regular season races superfluous. The ACC, as the saying goes, laughed all the way to the bank.

It took 20 years, but others are catching on now. The Southwest Conference is going to conduct its own post-season tournament next year. The Lone Star Conference will have one this year.

It's unlikely that either will come close to matching the original.

First Tourney In '54

ACC held its first one in 1954 and it was an immediate hit. Wake Forest reached the finals by winning two overtime games before losing to fourth-seeded North Carolina State in the finals, in overtime.

In 1957, the tournament pressure paid off when North Carolina went up against Wilt Chamberlain-led Kansas in the NCAA finals and won in four overtimes to close out a 32-0 season.

It's understandable why the post-season tournament seems like a wasteful duplication of effort to outsiders. Insiders, however, know that there hasn't been a public ticket sale in 10 years. And you'd be surprised at the donations old alma mater receives to obtain ticket rights. At some institutions a minimum of $1,000 is required for the right to buy tournament tickets.

Last year when the NCAA was held in Greensboro, N.C., they filled 8,000 seats available to the public from 120,000 requests.

More folks showed up to watch NC State practice at Greensboro the week before the NCAA finals than attended games of the area's basketball entry.

The Southwest has its Texas Football magazine. The ACC puts out its own publication on basketball. It covers all of the league members and gives a rundown on the blue chip high school prospects. Unlike Texas Football, its select list isn't limited to ACC states. It covers the nation.

No Moses Malones Around

Judging by results, when the ACC scouts speak everybody better listen.

The verdict is that this year's crop of centers is average... no Moses Malones or Bill Walton in the crop.

Bill Cartwright, a 7-footer from Elk Grove, Calif., and 6-10 Larry Gibson of Baltimore are the best big men around.

What separates them from the Malone category says the ACC handbook, is defense. "Most centers have to learn to be great defensive players and it is usually a difficult and long ordeal."

Good big men are scattered all over the country, but New York is loaded with guard talent, "where the smaller, quicker kids rule the playgrounds at the early ages and therefore develop their skills more easily... Few if any are better than 6-2 Ollie Mack of Bryant High on Long Island. Other coaches claim that when talent and attitude are put together, Bernard Rencher of Astoria is better."

This year the NCAA has opened up its tournament to 32 teams and it means that a conference with two nationally-ranked powerhouses can send both, unlike a year ago when NC State participated and Maryland watched on TV.

If the same situation arises this year, and it appears likely, both will go. Only the second place team will head West, creating the possibility of an all-ACC final.

A season of basketball boils down to one game for Midland High and Midland Lee when the intra-city rivals clash at Midland Lee gym at 8 p.m. today, where the name of the game will be "Pressure." It always is when these two teams meet on the court.

Midland Lee, 27-3 and ranked in eighth in the state, needs a parlay of a win over Midland and a Cooper victory over Abilene to earn a no-delay ticket to bi-district. No matter what happens, Coach Paul Stueckler's Rebels will be playing somewhere after tonight's action.

The situation is more imperative for the 21-9 Bulldogs. Midland must beat Lee or Abilene must nail down the second-half 5-4A title outright with a win over Abilene Cooper for the Purple Pack to continue playing.

Going into the first night, Abilene leads district 6-0 while Midland Lee is second at 5-1. Midland with three losses can't figure in the second-half title, but can grab a piece of the action if Abilene wins the title outright. A tie for first by Abilene with Lee won't be good enough. Lee, which tied Midland for the first half,

The Midland Reporter-Telegram

SPORTS

18-FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1975

would be the overall winner if the Rebels can manage a share of the second half bunting.

If Abilene does win, Midland and Lee would play off their first half tie with the winner meeting Abilene for the right to go on to bi-district. The situation is fraught with possibilities. Abilene has beaten Cooper twice, but the margin was only two points each time. Complicating the picture is the revenge motivation for Cooper. Last year in the season's final game, Abilene beat Cooper which knocked the Cougars out of a playoff with Lee. It was especially galling to the Cougars, since Midland had knocked off Lee the same night to leave the door open for Cooper.

Cooper undoubtedly would like to return the courtesy tonight.

Lee has lost only three games all year, one of them to Midland High, 71-66, which resulted in the first-half tie.

One disturbing angle to all the excitement is that Abilene could sever a four-year Tall City reign as District 5-4A basketball champion. Midland had won three in a row and Lee won last year to keep the string going. When Midland and Lee tied for the first half, it looked like the Tall City was a cinch for a fifth straight, but Abilene, after losing three first-half games, has swept through six second-half games unbeaten.

What's more the Eagles are 9-1 against the Tall City teams for the season.

The JV game tips off at 6:15 p.m. today and a packed house of 2,000 will be in the stands when the varsity tilt begins at 8 p.m. All tickets were sold prior to the game and there will be no sale of tickets at the door.

Trevino's 66 Shows Johnny-Come-Lately

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Jack Nicklaus-Johnny Miller confrontation didn't come off. At least not the first time around.

Instead there's the boisterous Lee Trevino leading the 150 players at the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament. "Nobody is more surprised than I am," said Trevino after a solid five-under-par 66 Thursday that came within a stroke of the record on the famed demanding 72-yard Riviera Country Club layout.

"I usually have to play a lot to play good," Trevino said. "I haven't played in three weeks. Maybe that's why I did so well today I didn't expect it and wasn't prepared for it and it just kind of sneaked up on me."

He hadn't planned on playing in this one but said he changed his mind because "I'd been home so long my wife was starting to look good to me. No don't print that. She might read it."

"Really I just came here trying to get ready to play in Florida. I usually play good there. But the weather was so bad at home in El Paso I couldn't practice and I was just getting tired of laying around. So here I am."

Trevino who has played only two competitive rounds in the past five weeks said he plans to skip only four more tournaments until sometime in August.

Miller on the other hand is looking for a rest.

"I'm tired," sighed the young man who has been the sensation of the tour this year. "I need to take some time off. And I am gonna take off right after this tournament."

"I'm not 100 per cent from the cold or flu or whatever it was I had last week. I'm just not playing very well."

Miller shot a 72 could be in danger of missing the cut for the final two rounds and is six shots back of Trevino.

Nicklaus for a decade the game's outstanding performer but suddenly challenged by Miller eagled his first hole then had to work hard to make it stand up for a 69.

"It's not a bad start but I really didn't play awfully well," Nicklaus said. "I'm not that bad. I'm not really ragged in any part of my game. I just need more competition. But 66 is not a bad beginning."

Tom Weiskopf, Tom Watson, Ed Sneed and longshot Bob Unger were just one stroke back of Trevino at 67. The large group at 68 included defending champion Dave Stockton, amateur Craig Stadler and the incredible Sam Snead, 62 years old and in his fourth decade of tour competition.

Arnold Palmer had a 70. Trevino has played only infrequently since winning the PGA national championship and then beating Gary Player in a dramatic playoff at the World Series of Golf last fall.

"You know, you don't win for a few months and people start wondering," he said. "They keep asking me what's wrong."

"What's wrong? What do they mean what's wrong? I've got lots of money. I don't have cancer and I'm pretty good-looking. What could be wrong?"

And there was very little wrong with his game Thursday. He missed only one green. That was on the final hole and it led to his only bogey. He was six-under-par and two ahead of the strongest field of the season when he went to that final tee but drove into a fairway trap, came out poorly, took three to get on and missed a six-foot putt.

BARCELONA, Spain — Top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Miami coasted past West Germany's Hans Pohmann 6-1, 6-2 in the quarter-finals of a World Championship Tennis Tournament.

BOCA RATON, Fla. — Unseeded Jan Kuki of Japan battled top-seeded Jimmy Connors to a 3-3 tie in the second set before darkness halted the second-round match in the $30,000 Independent Players Association Tennis Tournament.

LA COSTA, Calif. — Rod Laver of Australia hung on to beat Egypt's Ismail El Shafie 6-3, 6-7, 6-1 and advance to the semifinals in the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Pro-Celebrity Classic.

FORT WORTH, Tex. — South African Cliff Drysdale eliminated Czechoslovakian Jiri Hrebec 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 and gained entry into the semifinals of the Fort Worth World Championship Tennis Classic.

DETROIT — No. 6 seed Francois Durr of France upset third-seeded Olga Morozova of Russia 6-2, 6-2 to move into the semifinals of the $75,000 Detroit stop in the Women's Pro Tennis Tour.

CRANE, Wall Play Tuneup Tilt Tonight

CRANE — Crane's Golden Cranes, District champions of 7-AA, will host District 9-A winner Wall tonight at 7 p.m. in a warmup cage contest.

Both teams are playoff bound, and Crane will meet Socorro of District 8-AA Tuesday in the bi-district round of the state AA playoffs. The bi-district game is set for an 8 p.m. (MST) tipoff in Clint. Crane will carry a 20-6 season record into the bi-district tussle.

HOOKS, Tex. (AP) — Oklahoma University, continuing a raiding pattern that for several years has alarmed Texas loyalists, again has claimed perhaps the top prize in Texas' high school football recruiting.

The Sooners inked Billy Sims, Texas' premier high school running back, Thursday to a national letter of intent to play for the Norman, Okla., school.

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer and two of his assistants were in this East Texas town for the signing in the high school principal's office.

Sims, who was sought by more than 100 colleges and universities, gained 7,000 yards in three years for Class AA Hooks

High School—the second largest total in state schoolboy history. Baylor University and Texas Christian believed they were in the bidding until the end.

It's not the first time Texas has lost a top prospect to its border rival.

There was all-everything blue chip quarterback Jack Mildren out of Abilene a few years ago. He led the Sooners to second place nationally.

There was Greg Pruitt, the little speedster from Houston who's now with the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

The list goes on. And it has been five years now since The University of Texas has defeated arch rival Oklahoma.

Sims turned up at home Wednesday morning after his whereabouts were unknown for 48 hours. He visited the Oklahoma University campus Saturday and Sunday but disappeared Sunday night after a friend dropped him off at a Hooks service station.

Sims' told different people he had been in different places.

Sadie Sims, his grandmother and guardian the past five years, told newsmen she has noticed an alarming change in her grandson's personality.

"He's on the verge of a nervous breakdown," she said. "Those coaches just wouldn't leave him alone. They have pressured him to the point he would give up football in a minute."

Sims said recruiting had not been as enjoyable as he thought it would be.

"The worst thing was the rumors," he said. "People said I had narrowed my choices down to Oklahoma and Baylor before I even visited them."

"And the phone calls. I would wake up in the morning answering a phone call from a coach and go to bed at night answering a phone call from a coach. It wasn't just the coaches, but the alumni."

"If I had to go through it again, I would go through it."

Carew, Fosse Arbitration Losers

Kubiak, Sadecki Granted Pay Hikes

By The Associated Press

Rod Carew and Ray Fosse are baseball's latest recession victims.

Carew, the American League's 1974 batting champion, and Fosse, who didn't even hit his weight, were joint arbitration losers Thursday.

Meanwhile, Ted Kubiak, Fosse's Oakland teammate, and St. Louis pitcher Ray Sadecki won their salary squabbles.

Taking their pitches to binding arbitration today are Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson, Atlanta's Ralph Garr, the National League bat king, and Bernie Carbo of the Boston Red Sox. Meanwhile, decisions are expected in the cases of Los Angeles third baseman Ron Cey and Minnesota pitcher Bert Blyleven.

Minnesota's Carew reportedly made $95,000 last season, was offered $120,000 and sought $140,000.

"I'm disgusted," he said when the ruling came through. "Now I know what kind of organization the Twins are. They don't consider me a superstar. I'm just a nubber."

And that number is $120,000.

The Fosse and Kubiak cases gave Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley a 3-2 edge over his money malcontents. In Oakland, it seems, A is for arbitration.

The 210-pound Fosse, who batted .196 last season, had asked for an $18,500 raise while Finley offered the same $50,000 the catcher received in '74. Finley had said that "if I lose that case, I'll get out of baseball."

Fosse missed almost half the season when he suffered a back injury while trying to break up a clubhouse fight between outfielders Jackson and Bill North. Kubiak, a utility infielder, won his fight for $42,500 against Finley's offer of $37,000.

hander who was traded from the New York Mets to St. Louis after the 1974 season, asked $55,000 while the Cardinals offered for $48,000. He was 8-8 last year with a 3.41 earned-run average.

Jackson is bidding for a $160,000 contract with Finley offering a $5,000 raise to $140,000. Garr reportedly wants $100,000 with the Braves offering $80,000.

Satisfied without arbitration Thursday were outfielders Bob Murcer, Garry Maddox and Von Joshua and pitcher John D'Acquisto of the San Francisco Giants and pitcher Hank Webb, first baseman Ed Kranepool and outfielder Benny Ayala of the Mets.

public hearings Thursday in an effort, as Chairman Charles H. Morin said, to build a public record from the testimony of experts.

The commission got few hard facts. Mostly, the 15-member panel received statements from representatives of pro football, baseball, hockey and basketball, collegiate organizations, two authors on gambling books, a handicapper and a radio sportscaster.

Lee's Sophs Beat Midland

Coach Jack Stephenson's Midland Lee sophomore team erupted for 29 points in the final period to break open a close game Thursday night to down the Midland sophomores, 70-61, in the Lee Gymnasium.

Lee took a first period lead of 14-7, but Coach Don Humphrey's five outscored the Rebels, 20-14, in the second period to cut the lead to 28-27 at halftime.

It was 41-39 in favor of Lee going into the final period, but the Rebels waxed hot and pulled away during the final three minutes of play.

Barry Blake poured in 21 points to pace the winners while teammates Dick Lynch, Mike Wallace and Mike Denny followed with 14, 14 and 11 points, respectively.

Big gun for MHS was Rusty Maroney with 18 followed by Tom Ready who netted 10 more.

The victory ends the season for both units with Lee finishing up with a sparkling 16-2 mark.

Stephenson and Humphrey face each other today in the 6:15 p.m. battle between the Lee and MHS junior varsity fives with the big varsity game set for 8 p.m.

Olympics Will Stay In Canada

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—The Montreal Olympics definitely are on. But the International Olympic Committee (IOC) will be keeping a close watch on the Canadians' planning from now until next year's Games.

IOC President Lord Killarin plans to go to Montreal in April to make a personal check on progress in building the main stadium and swimming pool several months behind schedule because of labor strikes. After that, the IOC will send someone once a month to keep an eye on things.

That is the chief outcome of the crisis that has been threatening the Montreal Olympics. Canadians attending the IOC executive meeting here are trying to dismiss it as "the crisis that never was."

Plans for the games are unchanged. Killarin said he was confident the building will be completed in ample time for the Olympics to open on schedule July 17, 1976.

But the IOC's plan to keep such a strict watch on Montreal over the next 18 months is unprecedented. It is a clear sign that the IOC saw the situation as serious, although no one will admit that the Games were ever in any real danger.

Last month, the Canadian Olympic Association told the Montreal Organizing Committee it must decide once and for all whether it was going ahead with the Olympics.

"That ultimatum was unrec-

Weak Schedule Taunt Returns To Haunt Fordham

NEW YORK (AP)—The Marquette Warriors are taking all kinds of abuse this week.

First, a New York basketball coach says they play a patsy schedule. Then the New York fans throw dead fish and rotten apples at them.

But it doesn't pay to stir up the fastest guns in the Midwest. The Fordham Rams found that out Thursday night while losing a 101-64 decision to the nation's ninth-ranked team.

"He shouldn't have said that," said Marquette's Lloyd Walton, referring to a remark Coach Hal Wissel that set the Warriors afire.

Weak Schedule

What Wissel said, in so many words, was that Marquette's schedule wasn't as strong as Fordham's. "Perhaps, if it was, they might have lost four games in a row like us," the coach was quoted as saying in a Milwaukee newspaper.

Well, that really made the Warriors fighting mad for their game against one of New York's finest at Madison Square Garden. They came out shooting and didn't stop until Fordham was not only beaten, but clobbered into submission.

Captain Bench

With 8:19 remaining and the Marquette smoothies holding a 79-36 lead, McGuire cleared his bench and let Wissel know: "What's that about the patsy schedule we play?"

With Walton scoring 22 points, and four others in double figures, the Warriors rang up their highest point of the season. "We're not as good as we played," smiled McGuire, but he could have fooled Wissel.

The game was the second of a doubleheader. In the first game, Tom Lockhart and Charley Mahoney practically outscored Temple all by themselves with 45 points between them as Manhattan routed the Owls 87-56.

Elsewhere in college basketball, sixth-ranked Louisville defeated Wichita State 85-78; No. 2 UCLA whipped Washington State 69-61 and Washington shocked No. 10 Southern Cal 89-88.

Wesley Cox scored a career-high 32 points to lead Louisville over Wichita State. Cox, a 6-foot-5 sophomore, hit 15 of 16 shots from the field and grabbed nine rebounds as the Cardinals improved their season record to 19-2.

Louisville fell behind briefly early in the contest, then took a 16-14 lead and never trailed again. The Cardinals, who led 43-35 at halftime, extended their lead to 73-60 with 7:54 remaining, but then Cal Bruton, who finished with 16 points, made three straight baskets as Wichita narrowed the margin.

Elmore Scores 25

Robert Elmore, high for Wichita State with 25 points, led a late Shocker surge that brought his team to within one point at 77-76. But the Cardinals scored the game's final eight points.

Dave Myers scored 23 points to lead UCLA's victory. Clarence Ramsey had 30 points to lift Washington over Southern Cal.

In other games, it was: Cincinnati 86, Wisconsin-Milwaukee 71; St. Louis 63, North Texas State 66; McNeese State 80, Texas-Arlington 77; Drake 90, West Texas State 81; Memphis State 88, Tulsa 80 and Louisiana Tech 71, Arkansas State 69.

NEW ORLEANS WINS 7 OF 10—Jazz Finally Finds Groove

By The Associated Press

It took a while, but the New Orleans Jazz is finally on key.

The expansion team, which had won just five of its first 47 games in its inaugural season in the National Basketball Association, has turned it around this past month, winning seven of its last 10 outings.

The latest was a 114-102 triumph over the Portland Trail Blazers Thursday night, which extended New Orleans' club-record winning streak to four games.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Washington Bullets 106-95 and the Golden State Warriors defeated the Atlanta Hawks 106-102.

Pete Maravich and Nate Williams combined for 55 points for the Jazz. Maravich had 32 points and nine assists while Williams, picked up from Kansas City-Omaha in a deal made at the trading deadline Feb. 1, added 23 points. Sidney Wicks topped Portland with 25 points.

The Blazers' rookie center, Bill Walton, did not play because of a recurring injury.

Cavaliers 106, Bullets 95

Jim Clemons netted 17 points and Dick Snyder and Dwight Davis added 16 each to pace a balanced Cleveland scoring attack against Washington.

The Cavaliers scored 14 straight points to take a 37-41 lead late in the second quarter. The Bullets rallied to close to 88-87 with 7:30 remaining but Jim Brewer scored six points down the stretch and Clemons added four to keep the Cavs in front.

For the Bullets, Phil Chenier scored 29 points and Elvin Hayes 23.

Warriors 108, Hawks 102

Rookie Phil Smith scored nine of his season-high 26 points in the fourth quarter for Golden State. His basket with two minutes to play gave the Warriors a 104-98 lead and his free throw with nine seconds left made it 106-102 and clinched the victory.

Golden State led by as many as 12 points in the second quarter but Atlanta came back to take the lead 90-89 on a basket by Tom Van Arsdale with 7 1/2 minutes left. Two free throws by Charles Dudley put the Warriors ahead for good at 98-96 with 3:25 to play. Van Arsdale was high for Atlanta with 25 points.

PHILLY BEATS 'EM AGAIN—Sabres Are Flyers' Patsy

By The Associated Press

"We seem to have Buffalo's number," Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero said. On Thursday night, the number was an even dozen.

The two National Hockey League teams, division leaders known for explosive offenses and tight-checking defenses, showed plenty of the former and little of the latter, flailing their way to a wild 6-6 tie in which Philadelphia spent most of the night playing catch-up.

In the night's only NHL game, the Montreal Canadiens whipped the Kansas City Scouts 6-3. In the World Hockey Association, Baltimore beat Vancouver 4-3, Chicago topped Toronto 4-3 in overtime and San Diego defeated Quebec 5-2.

"Actually," Shero said, "the Sabres give us a better game than anybody else in the league." It was the Flyers' ninth straight game against Buffalo without a loss, a streak dating back nearly two years.

Beggie Leach's 40-foot slap shot at 4:13 of the third period capped Philadelphia's final comeback, coming just 21 seconds after Brian Spencer had put the Sabres on top.

Canadiens 6, Scouts 3

Defensesman Guy Lapointe scored two goals and Frank Mahovlich had three assists to lead the Canadiens past Kansas City. Lapointe's 21st and 22nd goals came in the second period when Montreal put the game out of reach.

Sandra Haynie looms as the player to beat in the Orange Blossom Classic, oldest event on the Ladies Pro Golf Assn. tour, which gets under way today in St. Petersburg, Fla., an event Donna Young Caponi, the LPGA's hottest golfer, will skip.

Hsieg Yung-Yo of Taiwan shot a one over 71 to move into a first place tie with Australian Ted Ball in the Hong Kong Open today. Both have 36-hole totals of 141.

Basketball

Utah Stars' owner Bill Daniels said his American Basketball Assn. team has never quite recovered from the resignation in mid-1971 of former Coach Bill Sharman in testimony Thursday in U.S. District Court in a breach of contract suit filed against Sharman. The suit filed by Daniels' Mountain States Sports Inc. against Sharman and Lakers owners Jack Kent Cooke contends Sharman illegally left the stars to join the NBA team. Daniels has had five coaches since Sharman quit.

Southern University's Ron Barrow strengthened his College Division II scoring lead. The 6-2 junior poured in 82 points in two games last week to boost his average to 30.6 per game.

Jackson state meets Grambling while Alcorn plays Mississippi Valley in tonight's semifinals of the Southwestern Athletic Conference Basketball Tournament. Grambling whipped Prairie View 103-94 and Alcorn topped Texas Southern 101-93.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell noted that his third-ranked Maryland Terrapines are unbeaten since he called the team vastly over-rated. "I think now we may be underrated," he said today of his 19-3 Terraps.

Superdome Opening Set Back To Aug. 1

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The target date for the $163 million Louisiana Superdome opening has been set back to Aug. 1, and the state budget director says that wiped out more than $1.7 million in anticipated rentals and other revenue. Whether the stadium deficit for this fiscal year, ending July 1, was actual cash or mainly a lost dream could not be determined.

The figure came from last year's Superdome commission projection of anticipated revenue for this fiscal year, estimated at a time when the New Orleans facility was to open in March 1975. Opening day has been set back a couple of times since then and hope that a major league baseball team would be among 1975's tenants has been dashed.

"We have no specific breakdown on revenue," Budget Director Ralph Periman said in Baton Rouge when asked about the $1.7 million figure. "But if included income from everything—advertising, parking garage, office rentals, pay toilets..." No figures were available from Superdome officials, who said they had been told not to talk about losses because they may become part of a damage suit. Ten events, ranging from a circus to a college prom, were affected when contractors told the Superdome commission the May 1 opening day had to be postponed by three months. How much rent they would have paid was not disclosed. Four were still under negotiation; $3,000 option fees had been accepted on the others but only on an if-and-basis. The college dance and one convention were canceled. Andy Kreuz, who handles bookings for the dome, said the other events were rescheduled. Periman said the Superdome commission may reduce its bookkeeping deficit by cutting operating costs, but also may have to apply for an emergency interim appropriation. The uneasy New Orleans Saints, a Superdome tenant, were fearful of delays extending past Aug. 1. The team's first home exhibition football game falls on Aug. 9. However, Saints' Vice President Dick Gordon said the club was going ahead with the process of having season ticket holders select Superdome seats.

Lee To Defend Comanche Title

FORT STOCKTON — The Comanche Relays kicked off the 1975 track season here today with 44 teams entered in three divisions of competition. Field events and running prelims were to begin at 2:15 p.m. today. Midland Lee is playing the role of defending champion in Division I after shocking the West Texas track world last year with an upset track victory. Midland High is also in the 14-team Division I field which consists of Permian, Odessa, Cooper, Abilene, Carlsbad, Del Rio, El Paso Irving, El Paso Andress, San Angelo and Roswell Goddard. Division II will be made up of teams from Districts 2-AAA and 3-AAA while Division III consists of 21 teams of Class A and AA classifications. Abilene is favored to win in the Division I with Permian, San Angelo and Lee playing contender roles. Finals are set for 2:15 p.m. Saturday with Division III running first. The last event is set for a 4:30 p.m. start, which will be the mile relay.

Midland Girls Win Again

SNYDER — Coach Jo Ann Snyder's volleyball team chalked up their 13th victory of the season in 14 cuttings by beating the Class AAA Snyder Tigers after a slow start, 16-14, 15-4. In the first game, the MHS girls were down 5-0 when sets Kim Martin and Anita Wilson came into the game and sparked the spiking attack with 11 of 15 controlled sets. Carolyn Wolf took high point honors by hitting eight straight from the serving line. Miss Wolf contributed greatly by her nerving saves, 20 of 24 relays and drove seven spikes into the

FOR PHILLIES CAMP— Ozark Heads South

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The Phils' manager said that in his first year 1973 "I may have cracked the whip too much but they learned to do things the way I wanted them done." Then last year was much easier because they were used to it," Ozark who was late in arriving at the camp from his Ver-o-Blue Beach Fla. home because he had the flu said one reason he'll be able to ease up this year is because there haven't been many roster changes. "For instance we're not as concerned this year about our double play combination. A lot of people underestimated Dave Cash on defense before we got him last year. Now they won't need that much work this spring." One of the biggest problems facing Ozark is filling the center field and right field spots. "It's going to be a dog-eat-dog affair between six guys for two positions" Ozark said.

AT LEVELLAND AND LUBBOCK— Girls Cage Playoffs Begin

Levelland and Lubbock will be the sites for the girls regional basketball tournaments today with both teams featuring some of the best girls cage squads in Texas. Levelland will host the Class B tournament with Klondike and Valley favored to battle for the championship. Klondike is the defending Class B state champion and Valley, a Class A team last year, advanced to the semifinals in Austin last year. Klondike (26-2) was scheduled to meet Anthony in the South Plains College's Texas Dome opener at 2:30 p.m. and

Y, Churches Form Co-ed Volleyball

The Midland YMCA and Midland churches have formed a Co-ed Volleyball League which will begin play during the week of March 17. Several area churches have already entered teams in one or all three of different age brackets. Leagues are open for Junior High (7th, 8th grade); senior high (9th, 10th, 11th & 12th grades); and an adult League for all those who enjoy volleyball. Registration for the co-ed volleyball leagues will be through churches or the three YMCA branches in Midland. Registration ends March 3. The program is new this year and is designed to provide recreation and enjoyment. Teams will be "low-key" in order to combine a sociable atmosphere and exercise. Games will be played in the evenings during the week and the season will run from March 17 through the end of April. A team registration fee of $20.00 per team will be charged and team rosters must be submitted to the YMCA prior to March 17. John McVicker at the Central YMCA (682-2551) is in charge of the program.

Connors To Make Laver Wait For Rematch

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — "Meanwhile, we began negotiating with several others. There's nothing we'd rather do than play Rod, he's entitled to a rematch of his $100,000 Las Vegas tennis showdown until he'll have to come after Wimbledon in June. Riordan reacted Thursday to charges by Laver that Connors was reneging on an oral agreement to give him first shot at a rematch following the first contest won by Connors in four sets earlier this year. "Laver was so indecisive after the match," said Riordan.

'Between 55 And 70'

Many West Texans undoubtedly feel that the 55-mile-per-hour state speed limit is a bit too slow, particularly for the excellent, wide-open space highways in this section of the state.

And they likely agree with West Texas state representatives who earlier this week introduced a measure which would limit fines to a set level, perhaps as low as $5 for violations between 55 and 70 mph and, more importantly, prohibiting such violations from raising auto insurance rates.

The proposal was introduced as the House rejected, 95-45, a bill calling for extending the 55 mph state speed limit until April 1, 1977. Gov. Dolph Briscoe had requested extension of the present bill, which expires April 1. The top-sided vote sent the bill back to the House Transportation Committee.

The West Texans' proposed amendment was ruled out of order by the House speaker due to a technicality, but its sponsors say the House now may have the chance of passing both the extension and the amendment.

Midland's Rep. Tom Craddick and Plainview's Rep. Pete Laney introduced the amendment, proposing only nominal penalties and elimination of insurance surcharges for driving between 55 and 70.

J.A. Trade Fair

If you have attended a Junior Achievement Trade Fair in the past, you likely will want to attend the 1975 version, which will be held Saturday in the Dellwood Plaza Mall.

If you haven't previously attended one of the fairs, may we suggest that you avail yourself of this opportunity.

Almost 400 Junior Achievers will staff the Trade Fair booths, displaying and offering for sale the products they are manufacturing or processing in the J.A. program, in which they are learning-by-doing about America's free enterprise system.

Roy C. Gould, president of Midland J.A., terms the fair a "bazaar of free enterprise."

PAN AMERICAN REPORT—

Even His Enemies Mourn Dictator Rojas

By PENNY LERNOUX, Copely News Service

BOGOTA, Colombia — As Latin American dictators go, Colombia's Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla was not all that bad.

Neither as crafty as Argentina's Juan Domingo Peron nor as brutal as Venezuela's Marcos Perez Jimenez, Rojas lacked the sinister imagination necessary for longevity in Latin America. Unlike many Latin American dictators, Rojas came to power in 1953 at the demand of the people, was forced out by the people in 1957 and almost made a comeback five years ago, with substantial popular support.

Rojas unquestionably was an exceptional contender when he returned to the democratic fold to run for the presidency in the 1970 elections. He lost the race by a hairbreadth, according to official returns, but to this day many Colombians believe he was cheated of the victory, a contention borne out after the fact by a member of the electoral tribunal charged with counting the votes.

However, rather than set off a second civil war, Rojas accepted his defeat. Having come to power on the momentum of one bloody struggle, Rojas refused to drag the country into a similar adventure.

Because of that generosity, Colombian President Alfonso Lopez Michelsen and other civilian foes of the Rojas dictatorship joined the multitude that mourned the general's recent death at 74.

A tall, spare man of humble parentage, Rojas never intended to become a soldier, much less president. Instead, he journeyed to the United States to attend Tri-State College, Angola, Ind., paying for his engineering studies by working on an automobile assembly line. Rojas retained an abiding affection for the United States and sent his three children to study there.

On returning to Colombia, he joined the army to fight the Peruvians during a 1932 border dispute. He made a career of the military and rose to commander-in-chief of the armed forces. Even in that exalted position, Rojas was a reluctant politician. It was only when the Colombians literally entreated him to take power to end a raging civil war that Rojas agreed to head a coup in 1953.

The country's two principal parties, the Conservatives and the Liberals, had been at each other's throats since 1948 when a popular leader's assassination set off the "Bogotazo" and a political bloodbath. Rojas' first promise on taking power was, "No more blood, no more deprivations."

The blood-letting and the deprivations did not come to a halt, however, mostly because Rojas surrounded himself with inept, corrupt administrators. "The dance of the millions," as Colombians have come to call that period, ended abruptly in 1957 when many of the same Colombians who earlier had sought his intervention unanimously demanded that Rojas step down. A year later, the Colombian Senate declared Rojas "unworthy" and stripped him of all political rights.

Nowadays in Latin America, old dictators don't fade away. They come back to run in elections. And so it was that, after the Supreme Court reversed the Senate's ruling as unconstitutional, Rojas began rebuilding his image through a new party, the Popular National Alliance (ANAPO), with the help of his able daughter Maria Eugenia.

A man of the people, Rojas talked about simple things, such as the high price of potatoes, and this approach soon earned him a large following among Colombia's discontented. But when "el general" refused to lead an armed uprising to support his claim to the presidency in the 1970 elections, many of the disenchanted "have-nots" returned to the traditional parties.

'Well-It's Not Un-American To Be Un-American Anymore

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has been accused of using Watergate tactics to kill a Senate investigation of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

In a blistering letter to Atty. Gen. Edward Levi, Senate Investigations Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash., has charged that his probe is being obstructed by Justice Department officials using "practices which I had hoped had been eradicated once and for all from the American political scene."

The officials not only tried "to bar subcommittee counsel from reviewing pertinent files," the senator charged, but also "are compiling a dossier on one of the investigators working on the case."

Jackson called this "an obvious attempt to discredit (the investigator), and the subcommittee and deflate this investigation."

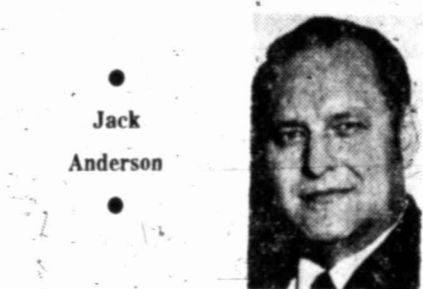

Last month, we reported the DEA's top command has become virtually paralyzed by dissension. The top narcotics officials had been so busy investigating one another, we wrote, that they had little time to cope with dope smugglers.

Narcotics chief John Bartels had complained privately, we wrote, that his underlings have used investigations to blackmail one another. We described how Bartels is struggling to unite four feuding narcotics agencies under one roof.

Senator Jackson immediately ordered his investigators to check into our charges. The Justice Department tried to head them off, however, by going behind their backs to Senate Judiciary Chairman James Eastland, D-Miss., and Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Nebr., the ranking Republican.

We have established that Deputy Atty. Gen. Larry Silberman and Justice official James Hutchinson secretly urged the two senators to hold a separate, whitewash probe of DEA.

Hutchinson also confirmed to us that he had raised questions about the conduct of committee lawyer Keith Adkinson and investigator William Gallinaro. But Hutchinson denied Jackson's charge that the Justice Department is collecting information on Gallinaro.

Our sources, supporting Jackson, say Justice Department officials have been reviewing their files for information that could be used to embarrass Gallinaro.

But these tactics, apparently, have backfired. Declared Jackson: "The desperate nature of (your) actions only intensified my desire to make a sweeping examination of the Drug Enforcement Administration. I have, therefore, directed staff to commit all necessary personnel and resources to this investigation."

OPIMUM SUBSIDY: The United States may have to launder millions of dollars through the United Nations to subsidize Turkish opium farmers.

The Turks are demanding financial aid to refine opium by the expensive straw process, which would help to control illicit heroin trafficking.

They expect the United Nations to put up the money, thereby helping to bail out their poppy farmers. And the United Nations, of course, expects the United States to foot the bill.

Under a 1972 agreement, the United States paid Turkey $35.7 million to ban opium production. But last June, the Turks announced that, because of economic hardship, they would resume opium cultivation.

Now it looks as if the United States will have to continue the subsidy, laundering it through the United Nations.

form that was supposed to attract the right, center and left for the most recent elections but which, in fact, pleased no one.

Feeble and with a heart condition, Rojas stepped down in favor of his daughter for the 1974 elections, and she became the first woman to run for president in Colombian history. But although Maria Eugenia was a hard-running contender, she finished a poor third in the five-way race.

By the time the general died, his party was in ruins and he had lost any hope of a comeback.

INSIDE REPORT—

Future Of Vietnam Lies In Washington

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — One of the biggest set-piece battles of the endless Vietnam war and certainly the most important since the bloody "ceasefire" began two years ago is looming 45 miles northwest of Saigon as Congress prepares to reject an emergency request for U.S. military aid.

The battle, likely within a month, will be waged for control of Tay Ninh province and its capital city with a combined 60,000 combat troops available to both sides. Despite debilitating shortages of fuel and ammunition caused by reduced U.S. aid, the South Vietnamese army (ARVN) will spare neither men nor materiel to prevent the irremediable disaster of losing this important provincial capital.

But without additional arms, even ARVN survival at Tay Ninh probably insures a grim aftermath. Expenditure of war materiel not replenished will cause further deterioration of the military situation as North Vietnam presses for a Communist-controlled government in Saigon.

Indeed, Hanoi's opportunistic military strategy is linked ominously with the seemingly irresistible passion in Congress to be done with Vietnam once and for all. Although the ARVN has fought bravely and well since the Americans left, the loss of $300 million cut by Congress last year has brought a deepening military crisis.

Uniformed critics criticize the ARVN for indiscriminate firing of ordinance, American-style, but the opposite is true. Local commanders have been firing below the rationed rate set by Saigon, hording shells for future contingencies. The effect is profound: ARVN units are tied to their caches of hoarded munitions. This limitation on ARVN mobility has meant steady abandonment of outposts, particularly in the Mekong delta, thereby loosening Saigon's grip on the countryside.

Such deterioration coincides with Hanoi's blatant violation of the Paris accords — virtually unmentioned on Capitol Hill — infiltrating 175,000 North Vietnamese regular combat troops (plus 400 tanks and 250 heavy artillery pieces) into the south the last two years. This results in a Communist main force of 180,000 (northern units with Vietcong fillers) which have captured 11 district capitals and one provincial capital during the "ceasefire."

That Tay Ninh would be the next target was tipped off the first of January. Communist forces captured the top of Black Virgin Mountain, a volcanic hill on the plain in front of Tay Ninh city, by pushing off lightly armed regional forces unwisely assigned to defend it. An attempt to recapture it was rebuffed by the Communists Jan. 20.

The impact is both psychological and practical. Psychologically, this marks the first time during the long war that the government troops have not held the peak of Black Virgin Mountain. Practically, the Communists can use it to pour down heavy artillery, mortars and rockets in the assault on Tay Ninh city. With two North Vietnamese divisions in the area (the 9th and the newly formed 3rd), that assault may be imminent.

For the first time since 1965, the future of Vietnam lies more in Washington than in Saigon. Unanimous expert opinion is that Saigon's military forces can survive the Communist assault if given the arms. That is confirmed in a report by another recent traveler to Vietnam, Democratic Rep. Leo Ryan of California.

in order to get Turkey to use the safer straw-refining process.

A United Nations mission, headed by Sir Harry Greenfield, chairman of the International Narcotics Control Board, has just visited Turkey to persuade the government to control the new opium production.

The progress of these backstage negotiations has been reported to Washington by American Ambassador William Macomber in a confidential cable.

"Turks apparently expected current Greenfield mission to come with the authority to agree on compensation figure," the cable declares bluntly. "And when they learned Sir Harry did not have such authority, the Turks declined to discuss basis on which their compensation proposal had been calculated until UN agreed to provide money."

With the Turks, in other words, it's money that talks. If the money is not paid, a new tide of heroin can be expected to flood the back streets of America.

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

The Rehabilitation Of Richard Nixon?

WASHINGTON (KFS) — William Shakespeare so thoroughly blackened Richard III — the English king alleged to have murdered his young nephews — that the hapless monarch's reputation has just begun to recover after 500 years. The partial rehabilitation of Richard Nixon, I am beginning to think, will be a lot quicker.

The reasons are these: First, the increasing obviousness that Nixon, not Henry Kissinger, was the main force of 1969-74 U.S. summitry and diplomatic success; and second, the emerging array of evidence (conveniently overlooked from 1972-74) that Lyndon Johnson, John Kennedy, Franklin Roosevelt and others were guilty of the same illegal wiretapping and dirty tricks so mightily deplored in dragging down Nixon.

William Safire, in his new book "Before the Fall," has this to say about Nixon's international prowess:

"When recordings of the Nixon-Kissinger telephone conversations become available to historians, the relationship of Nixon-puppet-master to Kissinger-marionette will become apparent. Mr. Nixon manipulated the strings of his agent's ego and ambition, sometimes thrusting Mr. Kissinger into the limelight of diplomacy, sometimes cruelly letting him go limp; there is no doubt as to who was the creative force and who was the sales agent.

Within the next few years, as U.S. world leadership continues to ebb, we may have occasion to remember the last President able to span Europe, the Middle East, Peking and Moscow with his personal summitry.

Equally important is the new spate of evidence that previous Presidents had their own Watergate and Ellsberg circumstances. Lyndon Johnson used political wiretaps on potential Democratic rivals in 1964 and against the Nixon-Agnew campaign in 1968. Robert Kennedy wiretapped Martin Luther King. Franklin Roosevelt used FBI agents to wiretap Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board, and promoted a campaign against anti-war leader Charles Lindbergh much like that later orchestrated against Daniel Ellsberg.

All of this is out in the open now — clear evidence that Nixon's regrettable techniques — had many Oval Office precedents. Yet in 1973 and 1974, when Republican sympathizers made such charges, they were ridiculed and dismissed. This happened even though the Watergate Committee had received secret testimony from FBI official Cartha DeLoach listing some of the previous transgressions. Had this material been made public, it would have placed Nixon's actions in a lesser (and less impeachable) context. But when one or two stories did trickle out listing Democratic presidential wiretaps and political use of the FBI, they were ignored by the major media. Such material would have interfered with impeachment-motivated efforts to cast Nixon as an unprecedented political villain.

Americans Contributing Less To IRA Since Official's Caution

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
 DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Irish Foreign Minister Garrett Fitzgerald says contributions by Irish-Americans to the Irish Republican Army have dropped since his warnings that every dollar contributed for relief in Northern Ireland was helping to kill or maim Irishmen.

Fitzgerald, who sounded his warning in two visits to the United States in the past year, said there is a growing awareness among Irish-Americans that their dollars are being used not only to relieve distress among compatriots in Northern Ireland, but also to arm the IRA guerrillas battling the British army and the Protestant majority in Ulster.

He told the Associated Press in an exclusive interview: "Over the past 12 months or so contributions have been less. The IRA's funds for the purchase of arms and equipment are less than they were. But, of course, the funds that come for that purpose are not disclosed."

The foreign minister said the "murderous campaign" of the IRA to unite Protestant-dominated Northern Ireland with the mostly Catholic Irish Republic has postponed reunification indefinitely.

At the time of his warning in two visits to the United States in the past year, said there is a growing awareness among Irish-Americans that their dollars are being used not only to relieve distress among compatriots in Northern Ireland, but also to arm the IRA guerrillas battling the British army and the Protestant majority in Ulster.

Ford's Profits Show 60 Per Cent Drop From Record In '73

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has reported profits of $361 million for last year despite a major slump in fourth quarter sales. The profits represented a 60 per cent drop from the firm's record $907 million in 1973.

Ford showed a $46 million before-tax loss in the last quarter on sales of $6.2 billion. But because of an involved annual tax formula, the after-tax quarterly earnings were $22 million, compared to $57 million profits a year earlier on fourth quarter sales of $5.6 billion.

Like Ford, industry giant GM reported a 60 per cent profit decline for 1974 at $950 million. In GM's case, however, the fourth quarter was its best of the year after suffering last winter when sales of its big cars plummeted during the Midwest oil embargo.

Chrysler Corp. suffered a record loss of $52 million for the year as it over-produced its new models this fall and went $73.5 million into the red in the final quarter.

Additional services will be at 3 p.m. Saturday in the Tomford Mortuary in Idaho Springs, Colo., with Jack Carter, a Church of Christ minister from Denver, Colo., officiating. Interment will be in Idaho Springs Cemetery.

A native of Gardner, Tenn., Mrs. Leach lived with her husband several years before moving to Idaho Springs in 1954. When her husband died in 1952, she moved to California and then on to Abilene where she resided until 1970. She also resided in Gunter before coming to Lamesa.

Surviving are a daughter, Doris Leach of Carlsbad, N.M.; three sons, Maurice Leach of Childress, Max Leach of Lamesa and David Leach of Los Angeles, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Oma McAuliffe of Denver, Colo.; eight grandchildren, and 11 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Norman, an Eastland County native, had lived 20 years in Florey, before moving here. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. James D. Connor of Concan; a son, George D. Norman Jr. of Lamesa; a sister, Mrs. Hazel Fabian of Los Angeles, five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Cora Leach Dies At Lamesa; Rites Held Today

LAMESA — Mrs. Cora Leach, 93, who had resided here 10 months, died Wednesday evening in Lamesa nursing home.

Services were at 10 a.m. today in Branon Funeral Home Chapel with Alan Hahn, minister of Downtown Church of Christ, officiating. Assisting was Larry Royal, also a Church of Christ minister.

Surviving are a daughter, Doris Leach of Carlsbad, N.M.; three sons, Maurice Leach of Childress, Max Leach of Lamesa and David Leach of Los Angeles, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Oma McAuliffe of Denver, Colo.; eight grandchildren, and 11 great-grandchildren.

Teacher Training To Bring Two-Day School Holiday

Youngsters in the Midland Independent School District will have two days off Monday and Tuesday as almost 1,000 professionals and paraprofessionals in the public schools complete two days of inservice training.

Monday is designated "records day" when instructors update their student evaluations. The following day, secondary educators will be involved primarily in departmental meetings while elementary level personnel participate in workshops.

Involved will be 854 teachers, principals, librarians, nurses, counselors and coordinators, and 120 teacher aides.

Presenting the programs will be both out-of-city consultants and local speakers.

Odessa Charged In Shooting Death

ODESSA — Harvey Ray Derrick, 33, of Odessa was charged with murder today in the Thursday afternoon shooting of Kathleen Ann Martin, 27, also of Odessa.

Police said Mrs. Martin was shot once in the right ear with a 22-caliber automatic pistol at her home, 407 E. 14th St., about 5 p.m. Thursday. She was dead on arrival at Medical Center Hospital here.

Justice of the Peace James Harris set bond at $5,000.

The shooting was reported by Sammy Derrick, 12-year-old-son of the accused man.

Former Midlander Dies In Oklahoma

Mrs. Clara Travelstead, a former Midlander who moved three years ago to Oklahoma, died Thursday in an Oklahoma City hospital.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at Resthaven Memorial Park directed by the Rev. Newell W. Ellis Chapel.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Norton of Wickenburg, Ariz.; two sisters, Mrs. R. H. Troop of Illinois and Mrs. G. R. Knarr of Oklahoma City; three grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Services for John R. McCarter were at 10 a.m. today in the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel with interment in Fairview Cemetery.
