Reprisals promised for raids by Israelis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestine guerrilla command today promised "immediate reprisals" for the big Israeli air raid Tuesday, and the Lebanese and Egyptian governments asked the United Nations Security Council for an urgent meeting to take up charges of aggression against Israel.

The Palestinians said it was "the biggest attack in the history of Israeli assaults against Palestinians in Lebanon," and a message on behalf of Pope Paul VI called it an "inadmissible gesture of violence."

Lebanese police said seven more bodies were recovered today, bringing the toll to about 100 killed and more than 150 wounded in the attacks on refugee camps and guerrilla bases in northern and southern Lebanon.

A telegram sent to Lebanon on behalf of Pope Paul VI said the pontiff was deeply saddened by the attack, which he felt "exasperates tension in the region and Lebanon."

Pope Paul appealed to all sides to put an end "to similar acts and show moderation and a concrete will to favor the way toward pacification." Vatican Secretary of State Jean Cardinal Villot sent the telegram to the papal nuncio in Beirut, urging him to convey the Pope's condolences to Lebanese authorities and relatives of the victims.

Palestinian spokesmen said nearly half the victims were women and children living in camp hovels near guerrilla installations.

Lebanese Premier Rashid Karami appealed to world opinion "to deter the aggressor and purify society of arrogance and acts of violation of the rights of peoples."

He ordered Lebanon's delegation at U.N. headquarters in New York to ask for an urgent Security Council meeting to take up the aggression charges against Israel.

A rocket attack on several settlements in northern Israel was the first retaliation for the attack Tuesday. The Israelis said four border settlements were hit and that two men were injured slightly.

Although the Israeli command gave no reason for Tuesday's raids, they followed an increase in guerrilla attacks on Israeli border settlements. An Israeli military source said they were also a demonstration that Israel would meet the guerrillas "only on the battlefield" and not at the United Nations, where the Security Council said Sunday night that the Palestine Liberation Organization would be invited to participate in a council debate on the Arab-Israeli situation in January.

Range fire losses may hit millions

The wind-blown grass fire that spread across 20 square miles of rangeland north of Midland Saturday may cause cattlemen short- and long-range losses into the millions of dollars, Dick Hagelstein, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) here, said today.

"The forage was completely destroyed," he said, and that may necessarily lead to a season's furlough for the fire-damaged rangeland.

Cattlemen's losses, particularly if the rainfall is lean next year, will be measured "over the long haul" on weight-loss of their livestock. But what that will mean to the ranchers will depend on the market value of cattle.

The acreage burned by the fire is unfit for grazing for the remainder of the season, Hagelstein said. And how soon the grass will be rejuvenated will depend on the amount of rainfall and how soon ranchers let their cattle resume grazing the damaged grasslands.

Ford to issue no communique

PEKING (AP) — The White House announced today that there will be no communique at the end of President Ford's five-day China visit, but spokesman Ron Nessen said all signs from the meetings between Ford and Chinese leaders have been good.

Nessen warned against interpreting the absence of a communique as an indication that nothing has been accomplished on the visit, which included a one-hour and 50-minute talk Tuesday with Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

"Every public sign has been a good sign as to the atmosphere of the meeting and there hasn't been any bad signs," he said.

To "successfully accomplish the purpose of the meeting does not require a document," he added.

The 1972 summit meeting between President Richard M. Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai wound up with a lengthy communique signed in Shanghai which spelled out Chinese-American relations.

Nessen made his announcement near the end of Ford's third day in China, which included a second business meeting between the President and Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, who is acting premier during the illness of Premier Chou Enlai.

The White House said the 2½-hour Teng-Ford session was a significant talk "covering a wide range of international issues."

Nessen said the decision not to issue a communique at the end of visit was mutually decided upon by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Foreign Minister Chiao Kuanhua.

The final talks between Ford and Teng Hsiao-ping will be held Thursday morning. No details have been given of the subjects discussed so far but Nessen said that U.S.-Soviet detente was one of many subjects. China feels the United States is being taken in by the Soviets and that Moscow will use detente as an excuse for expansion in Asia.

Drug prevention plan completed

By DEBBIE PIERCE

Law enforcement agencies throughout the Permian Basin have reported increases in drug-related cases — use, selling and smuggling — but some help may be on the way, in the form of additional drug abuse services.

The Drug Abuse Advisory Committee of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission (PBRPC) has recently completed a Drug Abuse Prevention Plan which studies the problem as it exists and makes recommendations on how to solve the situation.

The plan is also a survey to be used as a tool for the development of drug abuse services in the Basin area. At the state level, it will be incorporated with plans from 24 other Regional Planning Commissions to become an overall plan. It will then go to the National Institute of Drug Abuse in Washington, D.C.

Vic Rhoads, PBRPC coordinator for alcoholism and drug abuse, said that in this way local input can be incorporated into the federal process of surveying drug abuse needs and providing services.

According to the study, the first effect is the impact of the availability of drugs due mainly to this area's location. Two main thoroughfares cause the area to be influenced by transients, and the unemployment rate is considerably low.

Other important factors are the sparseness of population, the population concentrations in the counties separated by great distances and the proximity of the region to the Mexican border.

Seventeen counties in the Permian Basin region were surveyed in the study, including Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Loving, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Ward, Crane, Upton, Reeves, Pecos and Terrell.

According to the survey, the Anglo population of the region was heavily involved in all the various drugs with certain categories of drugs having other ethnic groups highly involved.

Results showed users of heroin and other opiates to be between the ages of 16-18 or 21-25, mainly men and Mexican-American or Anglo.

Users of barbiturates and other sedatives were predominantly in the ages of 16-25, equally men or women and mainly Anglo.

Amphetamines users were usually 14-20 years old, either men or women and mainly Anglo.

Cocaine use has almost doubled in influence from last year's data, the committee revealed. Its users are mainly from 16-25 years old and fairly equally distributed ethnically and in regard to sex.

Use of marijuana, hashish or grass seems to permeate every level of age, sex and ethnic background in the region, according to the survey. It also seems to be used more frequently, or more often than not, in combination with other drugs.

The last few months have seen rather large increases in the use of LSD, the committee reported. Users of hallucinogens, or psychedelic drugs, were mainly in the 14-20 age group, male and of Anglo background.

Psychotropic drug users were mainly white females over 21 years of age.

Users of inhalants, or chemical agents that can be sniffed, were mainly of age 18 or below, male and Anglo.

Users of over-the-counter drugs were largely in the 16-21 age group, male and of any ethnic background.

In the drug-by-drug survey of this region conducted by the committee for 1975, a total of 930 males and 315 females admitted to heroin use. For

There was nothing really new or startling about the prank — just set the cat on fire and watch it run and jump.

Colorful and dazzling sight at night for someone.

Unbearably painful and fatal to the young feline.

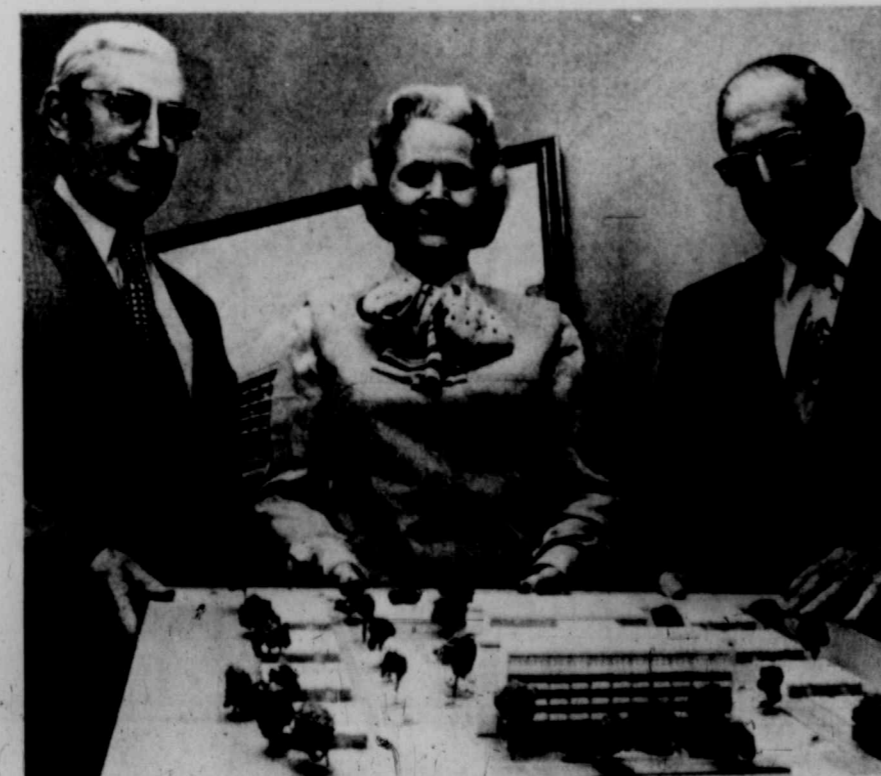

Sad to the cat's newly-found friend. And anger-evoking to the folks at the neighborhood Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA).

Looking over a model of the planned expansion at Trinity Towers are P.F. Bridgewater Sr., president of the board of direc-

$1.8 million expansion program announced by Trinity Towers

A $1.8 million expansion program for Trinity Towers was announced today by P. F. Bridgewater Sr., president of the board of directors.

A new, five-story building containing 43,970 square feet will be constructed in front of the present building at 2800 W. Illinois St. It will add 75 additional living units and increase the health care beds from the present 24 to 50, Bridgewater said, adding:

"For several years now, Trinity Towers has had a waiting list of more than 100 individuals wanting to live in our beautiful complex."

"With this new addition we will be able to accommodate more of our senior citizens in addition to caring for those who are unable to care for themselves."

Bridgewater emphasized that Trinity Towers is not a nursing home. However, he pointed out, that as the residents grow older (the average age today is 81) the more likely they are to become ill.

"It is this group of individuals we are more concerned with today," he said. "We dislike very much having to notify responsible relatives that a person is no longer able to live at Trinity Towers and must be transferred to other facilities. With the additional health care beds, we will be able to look after many of the residents who are no longer able to care for themselves yet are not sick enough to be hospitalized," he added.

Opened in 1970, there are 102 men and women living at the Towers in one and two bedroom apartments in addition to the Tower building itself.

"The rentals in addition to annual gifts of members of the board and private donations... enables us to operate in the black each year," he said.

"A capital fund campaign will be conducted early next year and we will be seeking pledges over a three year period from certain foundations, individuals and interested corporations in our service area."

Hofheinz wins Houston mayoral reelection bid

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Fred Hofheinz, successful in his bid for re-election, said today he is anxious to get his program for the next two years rolling.

Hofheinz, 37, campaigning on a platform of success in law enforcement, public transit and fiscal responsibility, defeated Frank Briscoe, a former Harris County district attorney, in a runoff Tuesday.

The race was close during the early returns but Hofheinz, riding a late vote from minority residential areas, surged to an unsurmountable lead.

Complete unofficial returns gave Hofheinz 137,456 votes and Briscoe 104,650. Hofheinz received 56.7 per cent.

Briscoe, 49, coming out of a 10-year retirement from public office, conceded about two hours after the polls closed.

"It's a victory for the people of Houston," Hofheinz said. "We not only won, we really won."

He said Houston will be a "better city" the next two years.

"We made it a very good race," Briscoe said. "We started from nowhere against an incumbent mayor with an entrenched black vote of support. We've run a good race."

"You do the best you can and the trick is to be satisfied with your efforts."

Briscoe had charged that Hofheinz increased the city's budget by 47 per cent in two years and built a political machine by adding hundreds of persons to the city's payroll.

Briscoe said it was not the proper time to think about the possibility of running again in 1977.

U.S. Judge Ben Connally dies while hunting on ranch

HOUSTON (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled Thursday morning for U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Connally, a firm believer that conferences in chambers were an effective means of expediting cases.

Connally, who would have been 66 Dec. 28, died Tuesday while on a South Texas hunting trip.

A family spokesman said Connally died of a heart attack while hunting on the Encino Division of the King Ranch. He was pronounced dead at a Falfurrias hospital.

Hunting with him were his wife, Sally Connally, and two other judges from the Southern Judicial District of Texas, Judge Owen D. Cox of Corpus Christi and Judge Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville.

Survivors also include a son, Tom, and a daughter, Louise Connally Storm.

U.S. District Judge Allen B. Hannay of Houston, who had known Connally for more than 35 years, said he was "a great lawyer, a great judge. He was a very keen-minded person. He was a person of great energy and a hard worker."

Connally announced his formal retirement last Dec. 28 but had continued to handle cases in Houston under his status as a senior judge.

He had been a federal judge since 1949 and lawyers knew he would be strict, firm and fair when ruling on requests for delays.

"If you don't dispose of cases, you don't dispense justice," Connally once said.

He was born in Marlin, the son of the late U.S. Sen. Tom Connally. The elder Connally wept when he stood outside the Senate chambers in 1949 and received word of the S. Senate confirmation of his son's appointment by President Harry S. Truman. The senator had not participated in the proceedings. Connally was 39 at the time of his appointment the youngest federal appointed judge in the Southern District.

Connally handled the integration suit involving the Houston Independent School District, the nation's sixth largest. The case originally was filed in 1966 and Connally made it clear from the start he opposed mass bussing.

"I am unalterably opposed to such procedure and would impose this upon the school district only if specifically required to do so by an order of a higher court," he said in a 1970 ruling.

He guided the district through several integration formulas and eventually approved a magnet school system involving 35 schools that offer special courses.

The magnet system replaced a formula under which youngsters from 25 elementary schools were bused from one school to another.

Geo. H. Lewis & Sons funeral home will be in charge of funeral services scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday.

Rains continue

By The Associated Press

The rain that has plagued the Northwest continued into today with heavy downpours over the western half of Washington. Snow flurries, occasionally mixed with rain, continued in the northern Rockies.

Flood waters surged through the streets of many towns in western Washington while mud and snow slides forced the closing of some of the state's major highways Tuesday.

At least 250 families were evacuated from their homes and a mayor and one county official asked to have their districts designated disaster areas.

The heavy rain was expected to slack off, causing the rivers to recede slowly.

Below-zero temperatures reached the Arrowhead region of Minnesota early this morning. Frost stretched from the northern half of the plains into the Ohio Valley and the mountains of South Carolina.

In the West, temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in the Pacific Coast states and cooler in the higher elevations.

Clouds covered the northern plains, the Great Lakes states and the Ohio Valley. Snow flurries swirled in the upper Mississippi Valley and along the lower Great Lakes. And patches of fog formed during the night over a portion of the central plains.

Temperature extremes ranged from 71 at Key West, Fla. to 10 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Dallas lawyer nominated to succeed Sarah T. Hughes

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas lawyer Patrick J. Higginbotham, who was named Tuesday by President Ford to succeed U.S. District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes, said, "No position offers a greater opportunity for a lawyer to serve his country."

The nomination is subject to Senate confirmation. If approved, the 37-year-old Higginbotham would be the youngest sitting federal judge.

A native of Alabama and a graduate of the University of Alabama Law School, Higginbotham received extensive recommendations from Dallas lawyers, civic leaders and politicians, including Sen. John Tower, R-Tex. Tower recommended Higginbotham to Ford last August when Judge Hughes announced her retirement from active duty on the bench at the age of 78.

"I'm grateful the President has expressed his confidence in me and for the recommendation of Sen. Tower," he said.

Higginbotham, whose practice has been in civil litigation, was involved in an American Bar Association study on freedom of the press and shield laws and wrote a dissenting opinion which essentially was adopted as ABA policy. He concluded in the study that there is a greater threat to First Amendment freedoms through shield laws.

Judge Hughes was appointed to the federal bench at the age of 65 by President John F. Kennedy. At the time, the appointment encountered opposition from the ABA, which said she was too old.

She became nationally known when she administered the oath of office to President Lyndon Johnson after the Kennedy assassination.

Rockefeller, Connally to speak at GOP meet

HOUSTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and former Texas Gov. John Connally will be among speakers at next week's Southern Republican Conference.

There also is speculation that both President Ford and Ronald Reagan might attend the Dec. 12-13 meeting to discuss the 1976 campaign with Republicans from 12 southern states.

The tentative schedule for Dec. 13 lists speeches by special guests at both a luncheon and an evening banquet prompted speculation that Ford and Reagan might attend although neither is listed on the agenda.

The conference, sponsored by the Southern Association of Republican

State chairmen, is designed to promote informal discussions by party leaders and elected officials at all levels.

Both Connally and Rockefeller are to give keynote addresses the afternoon and evening sessions Dec. 12.

Others expected to participate in the conference include Mary Louise Smith, the national Republican chairman, Agriculture Secy Earl Butz, Republican Govs. James Holshouser of North Carolina, Mills Godwin of Virginia and James Edwards of South Carolina, eight U.S. senators and 28 members of the U.S. House.

The conference was organized six years ago and has previously been held in New Orleans, Memphis and Atlanta.

Utility panel says two firms planning markup

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The state public utility commission says it has learned that two electric companies are illegally adding—or planning to add—to consumers' bills the assessment they are required to pay for the commission's upkeep.

It indicated there might be others. The commission said it received a consumer complaint against Southwestern Public Service Co. of Amarillo and a voluntary disclosure from Houston Lighting and Power. Garrett Morris, chairman, issued a statement in which Erwin and commission member George Cowden concurred.

"It has come to my attention that certain utilities which will eventually come under the jurisdiction of this commission have already, are planning to, or are considering passing on to their ultimate consumers a rate increase equal to the assessment they are required to pay under the provisions of the Public Utility Regulatory Act of 1975," Morris said.

The assessment is one-sixth of one per cent of the companies' gross revenues.

Morris said a utility would be violating its rate schedule unless the appropriate regulatory body—in most cases city governments—approved the pass-through of the assessment.

"The commission lacks jurisdiction presently to act in this matter, but it is my opinion that it is an improper pass-through," Morris said.

He said he believed an individual consumer would have legal standing to file suit to block such a pass-through.

Mayors split on busing issue

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The most widespread agreement among the nation's city officials is that they disagree so fundamentally on school busing that they dare not try to take a stand on it as a group. As court-ordered busing to achieve racial integration emerged as a volatile issue in the 1970s, both the National League of Cities and its sister organization, the U.S. Conference of Mayors, avoided in each year, including this one, issuing any policy statement on school busing as a desegregation tool.

THE LEAGUE represents 15,000 cities and the conference speaks for those cities with more than 30,000 residents. At the Conference of Mayors meeting last July in Boston, the city executives said not a word about busing even though 30 floors above them in the same hotel, 100 antibusing demonstrators led by Louise Day Hicks seized Mayor Kevin White's suite for most of a day. They also ignored antibusing protesters who marched and chanted outside the hotel during most of the conference.

THE EDUCATION policy drafted by the league at its convention here this week says only that disruptions brought about by desegregation attempts should be the concern of school officials and the business community as well as of school boards. It does not mention either "mayors" or "busing."

At most meetings of urban officials, proponents of either probusing or antibusing resolutions are deflected or dissuaded by their colleagues either in closed-door sessions or in committee meetings.

AT THIS WEEK'S league convention, both Democratic and Republican caucuses declined to adopt resolutions explicitly discussing busing despite efforts to do so in both groups.

Many city officials have said over the last six years that they shouldn't get involved because it is an issue for independent school boards, whether elected or appointed. Others, most of whom will speak only off the record, admit that the city officials are doubtful they could reach any compromise position and are convinced that an effort to do so could consume most of their time at their annual convention if the issue were taken up in debate.

On Tuesday, a group of Republicans from the Texas Municipal League sought to have the Republican mayors caucus go on record against court-ordered busing and take that position to the league's policymaking committees. But the GOP mayors declined to do so.

Mayor Richard King of Independence, Mo., speaking for the GOP caucus, told reporters, "A most negative busing resolution was introduced and referred to our executive committee for study. We felt we should have an affirmative position."

King came as close as any mayor ever has in public to reflecting the private reasons why most city officials avoid debates on busing at mayors conferences. He said, "We decided not to take a position on an inflammatory issue without a good deal of study and not to introduce an emotional issue into the convention when it's not the most important issue for cities but would dominate the conference if introduced."

Patty treated

The Los Angeles Times SAN FRANCISCO — Defense lawyers disclosed Tuesday that a privately retained psychiatrist had begun treating Patricia Hearst at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City, Calif.

The psychiatrist was identified by attorney Albert Johnson as Dr. Elizabeth M. Richards, a graduate of Stanford Medical School who has practiced in San Jose since 1971.

The aim of the treatment will be to aid her and help her overcome emotional trauma," said Johnson. "We want to help her become better prepared to assist in the planning of her defense and to better understand the nature of the charges against her."

The attorney said he had "no idea" of the length of the treatment by Dr. Richards. He said it was "not likely" the psychiatrist would be called as an expert witness during Hearst's trial.

Johnson said also the defense would oppose prosecution attempts to obtain a mental examination of Hearst by a government-retained psychiatrist.

"No government agent — and that's exactly what he would be — would have the right or privilege under existing law or precedent to confer with a criminal defendant awaiting trial," said Johnson.

At the same time, Johnson said it would be up to the prosecution to show that the 21-year-old newspaper heiress was not "brainwashed" into participating in the April 1974 robbery of a San Francisco bank, for which she is to go on trial Jan. 26.

"It's up to the government to show she knowingly committed a crime," said Johnson.

"In order to do that, it has to demonstrate that she voluntarily participated in the robbery."

The attorney said further that if, as he anticipated, the government could not meet that burden during her trial, then her lawyers would ask the judge at that point for a directed verdict of acquittal, thus eliminating the need to put on a defense.

Hearst's lawyers have maintained she was forced by her Symbionese Liberation Army captors to participate in the bank robbery. And since the robbery, they say, she has "lived in a fog" mentally.

Ali aids program for elderly

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali has come to the rescue of the Hillside Aged Program.

At 9 a.m. Tuesday, the program was on the verge of being closed for lack of funds to serve its 54 handicapped elderly clients. At 9:30 a.m., director Maria Brown answered a knock on the door. It was Ali.

"I understand you need a lot of money to stay open," Mrs. Brown quoted the boxer as saying. "Why don't you stay open. I'll give it to you."

News reports had said the center needs $100,000 for the next year and had been unable to get government aid. Social worker Frances Adler said Ali mentioned that figure and a little later raised it to $150,000. But he wanted to know where all the people were.

Told they didn't show up until 10 a.m., he waited.

When the old folks arrived, Mrs. Brown said, "Everyone was crying. The old people came up to hug him and kiss him. It was very moving."

DEAR ABBY

Indians believe in free worship

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: My mother died in a hospital a year ago, and one thing still bothers me.
 I wish all those ministers and priests who go around to visit the sick would not tell them they should prepare to meet their God.
 This happened to my mother, and problem: Two of the girls are very overweight.

After attending a wedding not long ago where four bridesmaids were overweight and four were slim, I decided I didn't want these heavy girls to be in my wedding. The procession was terrible. Fat, skinny, fat, skinny, fat, skinny and finally fat, skinny.

I just can't let my fat friends ruin my wedding. I know I should have thought of it before I asked them, but I didn't.

FAT-FREE WEDDING

DEAR FAT-FREE: You can't. And if you are that hung up on having uniformly slim bridesmaids, hire professional models. You've made your commitments. Stick with them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a mail carrier, and I'm sure very few people know what their mailmen have to contend with. For example: With the crime rate so high, many people keep mean dogs to protect their property. That's fine, but these dogs should be tied up so they can't attack deliverymen.

My husband averages about one bite a week from dogs whose owners claim they "never bite anyone, but like to make a lot of noise."

Another problem: The mail carrier is charged for all postage-due mail on his route, and if the customer doesn't reimburse him, the money comes out of the mailman's pocket.

You may say, "Two or 3 cents isn't all that much," but my husband has over 300 stops to make some days, and it all adds up. Care to comment?

Good fighter pilot

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles "would have made a good fighter pilot," says Gen. Adolf Galland, the German Luftwaffe ace in World War II.

Tree can start tradition.

Chapter has regular meet

MIDKIFF — The Clara Mills Chapter No. 1032, Order of the Eastern Star, was honored by Mrs. Alma Corbell, grand deputy, District 5, Section 2, and other guests when it met for its regular meeting.

The worthy matron, Mrs. Oleta Pillows, reminded members and invited guests that the chapter's bazaar, bake sale and garage sale will be held Thursday in the National Building here.

After the deputy's message from the worthy grand matron, guests and members enjoyed a salad supper.

Fondue easy to prepare

To make cheese fondue, mix four cups (one pound) shredded Cheddar cheese and one and one-half cups (six ounces) shredded Provolone cheese with one-fourth cup all-purpose flour.

Heat two and one-fourth cups apple juice or cider to boiling in a saucepan. Stir in cheese a little at a time. Continue heating, stirring until cheese melts and forms a smooth mixture. Add one-half teaspoon nutmeg. Transfer the four cups of mixture to fondue pot. Serve with apple, pear and melon chunks for dipping.

Traditional tree idea

Christmas, with all its familiar traditions, is a day to be enjoyed fully—from the first moment of awakening until the last glimmering ember has vanished from the hearth.

This year, consider introducing a new and original tradition to help glorify the day—one that you will want to observe year after year. Put a little emphasis on the early hours and plan a special Christmas breakfast. Often ignored in the excitement of the morning, dining together leisurely at the beginning of this special day can be a rewarding experience.

Once the menu has been planned—there is no need to compete with the big feast to come, nor should the cook be expected to spend much time in preparation or clean-up—consider, in addition to the traditional evergreen tree, the creation of a fresh flower breakfast table tree.

Simple to create, all it needed is one dozen red roses and a large bunch of boxwood twigs or other small greens, red satin ribbon and tiny velvet bows. First, affix the greens to cone-shaped florist foam and add the roses. Moisten the foam to assure lasting freshness of the roses. Place bows here and there, then set the arrangement on a solid base of styrofoam around which is wrapped the wide satin bow.

Attach more bows to the base for the finishing touch, and in a matter of minutes you have a charming centerpiece.

she said she had no idea she was going to die. She did, of course, but I just know that had it not been for the minister's visits, my mother would have lived longer. She just gave up hope.

In the first place, the minister shouldn't even have visited my mother because she didn't belong to his church. She was an American Indian and didn't belong to ANY church.

We Indians believe that our church is the whole world. In all Good Books, it says, "The Lord created heaven and earth," so we worship any time, any place—not in a building, only once a week. And there is never a collection plate. Worship is free.

If you think this will help people to understand the faith of the American Indian, please put this in your column. Thank you.

Mrs. Martin, at 80, goes like 60 in her job as newlyweds' adviser

By CAROLYN COIL
Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — Anyone who wants to keep up with Romyne Martin will have to be in good physical condition.

Mrs. Martin, who admits to being "over 80," is an interior decorator whose clients are scattered all over Southern California.

When she gets a call from a client, she gets in her blue station wagon and drives there.

And no job's too small for her. Mrs. Martin says she likes to work with young people who are just beginning to buy furniture.

"I keep them from making mistakes," she says.

If newlyweds choose their first sofa carefully, they'll never have to buy another. They can just keep recovering it.

Mrs. Martin doesn't like corner groups or sectionals as they are too hard to rearrange. And before she buys a sofa for a client, she always checks the husband's height.

She wants to be sure the sofa is long enough for the man to stretch out on.

Some of her furniture, she says, has been in her family for five generations.

Oriental touches scattered throughout the 30-year-old house were collected by her ancestors who sailed clipper ships to China.

Other ancestors came west and provided their descendants with Indian artifacts.

The house with its wood paneling and stone entryway was the second one built in suburban Palos Verdes, says Mrs. Martin, adding that the trees blocking her view were ones she and her husband planted.

It was after her husband's death in 1928 that Mrs. Martin went to work.

"I found myself with a house to pay for and two children," says Mrs. Martin. "I told my mother I was going to apply for a job as a decorator. I told her that if I thought about it, I'd never do it."

She applied for the job at Bullock's and got it.

"I told them I'd had a 'Yine education, traveled a lot and always ran things,'" she says.

Education played a big part in her life.

Mrs. Martin believes it was her fine education, plus exposure all her life to beautiful things, that got her that first job.

As a young girl, Mrs. Martin was sent to dancing school, carpentry school, cooking school and the Boston Conservatory of Music.

She also studied French, Latin and Greek, each for five years. When she graduated, her mother sent her to Europe with her own money to manage and an aunt as chaperone.

And she lived surrounded by old and beautiful things. Her neighbors were descendants of Paul Revere. Their house was filled with their ancestor's silver.

At home dinner often was served from antique dishes, which Mrs. Martin still uses.

"I never even saw any Victorian furniture," says Mrs. Martin, as she talks about the homes she visited while growing up. "The furniture was all older."

"I lived a very formal life. We always dressed for dinner."

But she was so shy as a young girl her mother was advised to help her daughter overcome her shyness by putting her in a school where she knew no one.

Mrs. Martin says she's felt comfortable anywhere ever since. The secret, she says, smiling, is not to take herself seriously.

When she tired of taking her children to school every day in Redondo Beach because there were no schools in Palos Verdes, she got busy and organized one.

Mrs. Martin went to the Los Angeles County superintendent of schools more than 50 years ago and suggested the first public school be started in Palos Verdes.

Mrs. Romyne Martin points to a painting of her grandmother done by her grandfather.

Season's parties under way for Minuet Club's 1975 debutantes

Parties honoring the Minuet Club of Midland's 1975 debutantes were held during the Thanksgiving holiday.

Kay Kennedy was honored with a cocktail-buffet given by Mr. and Mrs. William D. Kennedy in their home. "The Godfather" was the theme of the party.

Miss Kennedy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Branum of Midland and J. Franklin Kennedy of Sterling, Colo. William Kennedy will present his godchild at the presentation ball in December.

Rilly Dee, guitarist, provided music for the guests.

Three of the debutantes, Linda Yarborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Yarborough; Katchen Ruppe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ruppe, and Kay Magruder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H.

Magruder, were honored with two parties.

"A Morning in the Country" brunch was held in the Racquet Club, with Mrs. Lynn D. Durham and Mrs. F. H. McGuigan as hostesses.

Members of the house party wore matching bonnets and aprons. Decorations featured childhood pictures of the honorees.

The deb's were honored by their parents with a barn dance in the stable at Morning Star Farm adjoining the Midland Polo Club. Stalls were converted into dining areas.

Miss Glaze is attending Texas Tech University. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Glaze of 3213 W. Denzar St.

Miss Sparks, Martin wed

Winston Bell, minister of the Golf Course Road Church of Christ, officiated the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Prudi Sparks and Gary H. Martin held Nov. 27 in the home of the bride's parents.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Sparks, 4700 Wilshire and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Martin of Howe, Okla.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of candlelight linen fashioned with an Empire bodice, sweetheart neckline, Victorian sleeves and lace insets in the dress. She carried white gladiolus and lilies-of-the-valley surrounding a white Bible belonging to her mother.

Suzanne Sparks attended her sister as maid of honor. Best man was Bobby Hodges. Ricky Sparks, brother of the bride, lighted the candles.

A reception was held in the Sparks home. After a trip to Laredo, the couple is residing at 109 W. Wadley St.

Special out-of-city guests included Mrs. Clyde Thomas, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Thomas, uncle and aunt of the bride, and her cousins, Jerry Thomas, Mike Thomas and Gary Thomas, all of Coleman.

Both are 1975 graduates of Lee High School. The bride is employed with Mr. Penguin Tuxedo Shop and the bridegroom is a self-employed welder.

Hoover approved plan to discredit black leader

By DAVID C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover approved a plan to discredit a Midwest black militant leader with anonymous letters accusing him of adultery and of being a bureau informant, according to FBI documents.

The documents, made available by the Senate intelligence committee, show that the bureau's campaign against Charles E. Koen lasted from 1968 to 1971 and was approved at each step of the way by the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

However, it was unclear whether the letters were ever actually sent to Koen, whom a committee spokeswoman said is currently a minister in Cairo, Ill.

According to the FBI documents, the campaign against Koen began in November 1968 with a proposal by St. Louis FBI officials to send him an anonymous letter criticizing him for referring to the possible use of violence in his public speeches.

The letter would purport to be from members of Students for a Democratic Society in St. Louis and "would have an adverse effect on the consolidatory efforts of the SDS and the Black Liberators," according to the proposal approved by Hoover.

Two months later, Hoover authorized the FBI's Baltimore office to send an anonymous letter to the No. 2 man in the Black Liberator movement informing him that Koen was working for either the CIA or FBI.

The letter, signed "A Soul Brother," said Koen "was in Baltimore last week and spent most of his time in the Justice Building. Don't know whether that cat was talking to CIA or FBI."

The FBI documents also include a 1969 memo from the head of the FBI's St. Louis office who claims the campaign forced Koen's resignation as head of the Black Liberators, a black militant group.

In February 1969, after Koen had resigned as head of the Black Liberators, the FBI chief in St. Louis proposed mailing an anonymous letter designed "to alienate (Koen) from his wife and cause suspicion among the Black Liberators that they have a dangerous troublemaker in their midst," an FBI document said.

According to the proposal, Koen's wife, "appears to be a faithful loving wife" and "an intelligent, respectable young mother, who is active in the A.M.E. Methodist C.H. CHURCH."

The anonymous letter would be sent to Mrs. Koen telling her that her husband has "been making it here with Sister Marva Bass and Sister Tony and then he gives us this jive

'bout their (sic) better in bed than (sic) you."

It was to be followed by sending a copy of the anonymous letter to Koen with the note "I understand she recently received this letter...I suggest you look into this matter."

In a memo authorizing the operation, Hoover directed the agents to "use commercially purchased stationery and take the other precautions set out to insure this cannot be traced to this bureau."

The next and final step in the FBI campaign against Koen came in February 1971 when Hoover approved a proposal for circulating a cartoon sketch of Koen that "would emphasize the cost of Koen's attire and inquire as to the source of his funds."

White House trying to hold down budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House budget office is urging a delay in asking Congress for a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier to help hold down defense requests next year, administration sources report.

The Pentagon reportedly is preparing to ask President Ford to reject this proposal by the Office of Budget and Management on grounds that a year's delay would only boost the already high cost of a carrier because of inflation.

This could prove to be an early test for Donald Rumsfeld, recently installed by Ford as secretary of defense after the President fired James R. Schlesinger. Only recently Schlesinger said he was forced to resign after objecting to what he called an inadequate defense budget planned by Ford for next year.

The Defense Department officially declined to comment on any internal administration discussions about Ford's new budget for fiscal 1977. The President will send that budget to Congress early in 1976.

However, administration sources said the Office of Budget and Management is proposing to hold defense spending next fiscal year to about $99 billion. Although this would be an increase of about $6 billion from this year's request, it would fall about $5 billion below the $104-billion spending figure Ford projected originally for next year.

A number of programs are reported earmarked by the budget office for budget surgery, including the Air Force's new A10 close-support war plane.

In proposing to delay a request to Congress for a new carrier, the White House budget office reportedly based its position in part on a contention that the Defense Department has not yet decided what kind of a carrier to build next.

Navy and defense analysts are agreed that an early start should be made on building replacements for the six 75,000-ton Forrestal class supercarriers which are growing old.

But there is disagreement on whether to replace the Forrestal class vessels with 91,000-ton Nimitz-class giants costing about $2 billion or a new type of "midi" carrier about two-thirds the size of the Nimitz class.

Chinese approve of Bush appointment

Agence France-Press

PEKING — A high-ranking Chinese official expressed his nation's satisfaction Monday night to George Bush, chief of the American liaison office in Peking, at Bush's recent nomination by President Ford to head the Central Intelligence Agency.

The gesture was made by a member of the Chinese Communist Party Central Committee, during a banquet in President Ford's honor Monday.

He said in effect that the Chinese government was pleased that the man who would be in charge of informing the President on many important problems knew China and the Chinese people.

This was the second time Bush has been congratulated by China's leaders on his nomination to the post of CIA chief. The first time was on Nov. 7, at a Soviet embassy reception in honor of the October revolution.

The CIA has not been the target of Chinese attacks since President Nixon's visit to Peking, in February 1972. This is in contrast to the Chinese attitude toward the CIA's Soviet counterpart, the KGB — A recent target of vigorous Chinese attack.

Goose hunt interrupted

BOSQUE DEL APACHE, N.M. (AP) — A goose hunt was interrupted by a blast of sirens when a rare whooping crane flew into the Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge.

The crane, a member of an endangered species, was accompanied by foster parent sandhill cranes. They flew into the refuge last weekend after cold weather forced them out of the Monte Vista, Colo., area.

An elaborate siren system has been set up to warn hunters if a crane enters the area, refuge officials said. The hunt is stopped until the bird moves on.

Officials said two whooping crane young have landed on the Bosque, and two more flew into the Middle Rio Grande Valley on their way south.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Officials said eggs from the main crane flock were taken to Idaho and hatched last summer.

Six of the young whoopers left the Grays Lake Wildlife Refuge in Idaho, and four have made it to New Mexico. Officials said two are missing.

Ky expects executions

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Nguyen Cao Ky, former vice president and premier of South Vietnam, says Communists executed 200 South Vietnamese military officers about three weeks ago and that he has no doubt there will be future executions.

Ky said Tuesday he learned of the executions from reliable sources, adding that the officers were executed because in the past they "gave the Communists a hard time."

Ky made his comments at a news conference before speaking on the Virginia Commonwealth University campus.

While he spoke inside a campus building, about 15 persons who said they were with an organization called Youth Against War and Fascism picketed outside, carrying anti-KY BANNERS AND CHANTING, "Ky sold dope while the people died."

Ky has been accused by various groups of being involved in the heroin trade.

Ky, now living in northern Virginia, denied this at his news conference, saying, "I was prime minister for two years. If I wanted to make money, I could do it legally, so why would I have to engage in such traffic to get money?"

Action planned to meet order

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Hill says the city of San Antonio has begun plans to correct waste collection systems to comply with a Texas Water Quality Board order designed to protect the Edwards Aquifer.

Hill said San Antonio has agreed to pay $12,000 in civil penalties for violating the order. District Court Judge Robert Murray of San Antonio entered the agreed judgment in the case.

UT-Arlington officer honored

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Harold Thompson Jr., a security officer at the University of Texas at Arlington, has been named the most-outstanding college police officer in Texas and New Mexico.

The honor was bestowed at a meeting in Galveston of the Texas-New Mexico College and University Security Departments Tuesday.

Action due on tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bill to extend this year's tax cut heads for action on the House floor where liberals will attempt to end some tax advantages, including the so-called "Perot amendment."

The House is expected to send the bill to the Senate tonight or Thursday. Both chambers face time pressures to finish the tax-cut extension before adjourning for Christmas either Dec. 12 or Dec. 19 because the tax cuts now in effect expire Dec. 31.

Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald C. Alexander said Tuesday the government will require employers to increase the amount of taxes withheld from workers' paychecks after Dec. 31 if no taxcut extension has been approved. He ruled out any temporary administrative extension of current tax rates.

The tax-cut bill faces a veto by President Ford, who has said he would send back any bill that fails to tie spending cuts to the tax cut. Such a link was rejected by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Regardless of any tax-revision provisions the House adopts, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which must take up the measure in the Senate, has indicated he plans to strip the bill of all but a simple extension of the tax cuts because there is no time left this year to consider revisions.

In a final pitch for House votes for the basic bill, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said failure today to sustain the proposed plan of action on some major amendments "could well so prolong the bill's consideration by the House that a tax increase of $1 billion a month will occur on Jan. 1 and our whole effort to achieve meaningful tax reform will be undermined."

The proposed plan of action, as recommended by the House Rules Committee, will allow some amendments to be made from the floor of the House, a step rarely taken because Ways and Means tax legislation usually is offered to the floor only for approval or disapproval.

However, this time the committee's leadership sought to permit some amendments designed to eliminate some tax advantages. One of the targets is expected to be the committee-approved provision that would enable large investors to recoup some of their losses.

The Wall Street Journal has said Texas businessman H. Ross Perot would gain about $15 million in tax refunds if the provision, which was drafted by Perot's lawyer, were enacted. The newspaper also noted that Perot had contributed about $27,000 to the campaigns of 12 members of the 37-person committee.

Citizens react to death

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Citizens and merchants have apparently decided to do what the city council didn't—furnish bullet-proof vests for the Fort Worth Police Department.

The drive started as a result of the death Saturday of Officer Henry P. Mailloux on the city's near-southside. Mailloux was shot once in the chest.

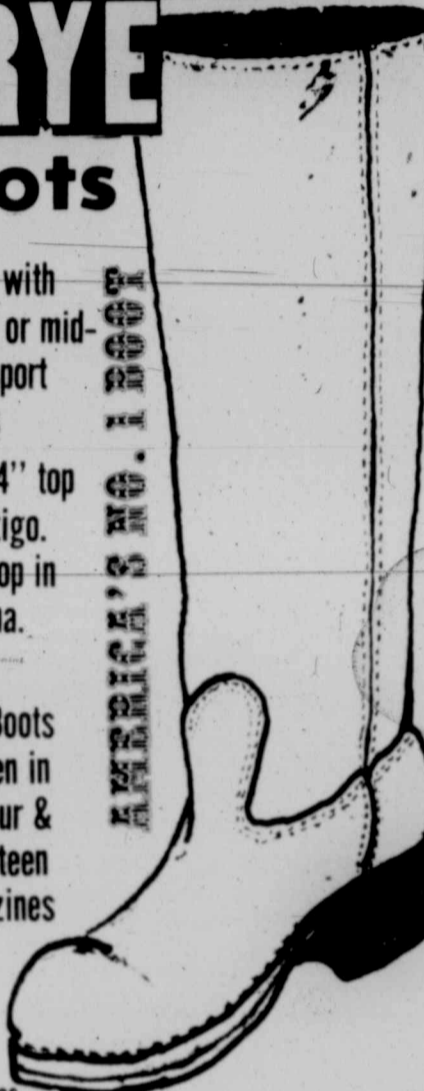

The officer's father, H.J. Mailloux started the vest fund two days after his son was killed.

Elderly Texan fatally shot

SANSOME PARK, Tex. (AP) — Ira Duncan, 67, was found fatally wounded in the bedroom of his home about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

County medical investigator David Carpenter said members of Duncan's family heard the gunshot and rushed to a back bedroom where they found him dead from a single gunshot wound to the head.

Carter stuns former colleagues

WASHINGTON — Former Gov. Jimmy Carter sparked the major controversy Tuesday during a "parade" of 10 Democratic presidential hopefuls, telling a panel of the party's governors they would have to give up their share of federal revenue-sharing if he became president.

Carter stunned his former colleagues by declaring that revenue-sharing funds should be concentrated in the cities rather than spread among all 50 states.

His declaration was the main surprise as some 20 of the Democrats' 37 governors gathered at the Mayflower Hotel for a day-long question-and-answer session, marking the first time this year that the full field of declared Democratic aspirants had appeared on a single day before any forum. All five of the contenders who appeared during the morning session of the panel — Carter, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, Lloyd M. Bentsen, Jr., of Texas and Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona — said the first step to reducing federal budget deficits was not a drive against spending but a stimulus to the economy that would cut unemployment.

But they differed sharply among themselves on the question of energy policy. All but Bentsen said they would sign the compromise energy bill nearing passage in Congress if they were President. But Bentsen assailed the bill's promise of oil price rollbacks in 1976 as "pure political hypocrisy," and several of the governors questioned whether the legislation was not politically motivated.

NYC aid bill passes House

WASHINGTON — President Ford's proposal to provide loans of $2.3 billion a year for three fiscal years to New York City narrowly passed the House Tuesday night by a 213-203 vote.

Of the 145 House Republicans only 38 supported the administration-drawn bill. One hundred Republicans voted against it as did 103 Democrats, while 175 Democrats voted for it.

Rep. J. William Stanton (R-Ohio), who offered the administration proposal, said the number of Republicans who voted for it was "double what we had last week" when the President was still opposed to federal aid for New York.

Stanton said, "For weeks and months many Republicans had written letters to their constituents saying they were against aid for New York City and they didn't want to change their position."

He also said that although the President had changed his position last week and come out for the limited short-term U.S. loans to New York, there was "no pressure applied by the White House. There was no official contact of any type."

The Senate is scheduled to take up the bill Wednesday. Afilibuster against it by Sens. James Allen (D-Ala.), Harry Byrd (Ind.-Va.) and Jesse Helms (R-N.C.) is expected.

The bill passed by the House would provide $2.3 billion in each of the next three fiscal years in direct U.S. Treasury loans. The loans are to tide the city over cash shortfalls that would occur before taxes could be collected to make them up. They are payable at the end of each fiscal year.

If the loans aren't repaid, the Congress can withhold money that would be appropriated to New York either through revenue sharing or other acts.

American doctor says year in Russia total loss

MOSCOW (AP) — Paul East is a young American doctor who got a rare opportunity to work in the Soviet Union for a solid year under a detente-inspired agreement between the two countries to cooperate in the field of medicine.

With this year now up, East says he is taking home a better understanding of Russia's language and customs, a handful of Soviet medical forms, a few more friendships — and the firm conviction that he wasted a year of his professional life.

he said he has told his Soviet hosts that in light of his experience he would not recommend that another American doctor follow in his footsteps.

Soviet health officials, in turn, feel they lost a lot more than they gained from East's working visit and have suggested they would like more say in choosing the exchange scientists the United States sends here.

East, a 30-year-old public health specialist and also an attorney, came here in Nov., 1974, to study how the Soviets compile and report their cancer statistics. Before he left this month, East said he achieved "perhaps 1 per cent" of his goal. The Russians, he said, simply did not want him to have the information.

East said he wrote a 60-page report to U.S. health officials, recounting a tale of deception, ignored requests and broken promises.

Soviet officials, who rarely give interviews to the Western press on controversial issues, apparently judged the complaints serious enough to comply with a request from The Associated Press to hear their side of the story.

Basically, they did not deny that they prevented East from obtaining information about how the Soviet statistical system works. Rather, they contended that it was none of his business.

Dr. Nikolai N. Blokhin, a surgeon who heads the cancer research institute where East worked, said he resented what he called an American "inspector" coming here to check out Soviet practices and would not have invited him if he had known that was the doctor's purpose.

East said his intentions were spelled out in a program approved in advance by U.S. and Soviet officials, but he conceded that the Soviets may not have understood the ramifications.

Blokhin said that East had an un-disguised mistrust of Soviet data which breached an implicit faith between the U.S. and Soviet sides in their agreement to cooperate.

"If I went to America, even in my position, I would consider it rather tactless to doubt the figures given to me, to say that things don't seem well organized, to say that I want to see for myself where you are getting the figures from," Blokhin argued.

East said that U.S. methods of compiling cancer statistics are open to Soviet or anyone else's scrutiny.

Pursuing the faith issue, two other Soviet health officials who were interviewed said the American and Soviet sides orally agreed at one of their initial meetings not to question each other's "raw" data. A U.S. health authority in Washington with firsthand knowledge of those meetings said that is not true.

"No self-respecting Western epidemiologist is prepared to pay attention to mere results if it is left to the imagination of the reader how they were obtained," East said.

Epidemiology, the field East pursued here, is the study of population patterns to determine possible causes of disease.

East said he was told by one Soviet cancer specialist that some census information is regarded as classified here.

East concluded: "I have to assume they have something to hide."

He said the Soviets may fear that exposing their cancer data system will either reflect poorly on the system or show a greater incidence of cancer in this country than they are willing to admit.

Moyihan contends Russians trying to colonize Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Nations Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan said today recent moves by the Soviet Union in Angola demonstrate an intention to "colonize" all of Africa.

Moynihan also accused the Soviets of engineering a recent United Nations resolution declaring Zionism to be a form of racism.

In a speech to the fourth "Pacem in Terris" convocation sponsored by the Center for Democratic Studies, Moynihan said the United States should expect the Soviet Union to expand its influence wherever the United States is unlikely to interfere.

In Angola, for example, where one of three warring factions has Russian support, Moynihan said, "the Soviets in effect have landed Cuban troops ... on the southwest coast of Africa, even as they are consolidating military facilities on the northeast coast of that continent."

"It is fair to assume they mean to colonize Africa ..."

Moynihan said the only restraint on the Soviets is opposition from China and "the fact that the United States will call them in instances of open military operations, as indeed the secretary of state has done."

"Blocked at one point, (the Soviets) shift to another," Moynihan added.

He said the anti-Zionism resolution "was seen as an Arab initiative, but was it?"

The ambassador noted that a member of the Soviet-bloc, the Ukraine, was among sponsors of the resolution, "which directly served an announced Soviet cause."

Moynihan recalled a 1971 Pravda article accusing Jews of anti-Semitism and a public campaign in Russia including a television documentary in which former Israeli leader David Ben-Gurion's face was superimposed on a picture of Adolph Hitler.

Two days after passage of the Zionism resolution in the U.N. General Assembly, Moynihan said a Russian news agency writer likened Zionism to the kind of racism practiced in Hitler's Germany.

Don Carlos wins first showdown

MADRID, Spain (AP) — King Juan Carlos has won his first confrontation with Spain's powerful right wing. Government sources reported that the Council of the Realm today nominated the king's choice, former Vice Premier Torcuato Fernandez Miranda, to be president of the Cortes, the Spanish parliament.

The name of the 60-year-old university professor who was one of the king's teachers was reported given to Juan Carlos after a six-hour secret meeting of the council, which is the king's chief advisory body.

"There was a battle within the council," the sources said.

The split within the 16-man council set the stage for a still harder test for the 37-year-old king, the naming of a new premier and a new cabinet.

trouble finding the right discards. He had to save the right combination of four black cards. West didn't know whether to save three spades, three clubs or two of each.

East hadn't been helped. He had stolidly thrown all of his hearts, and finally had parted with the five of spades.

West decided to save two clubs and two spades, but this compromise didn't help him. South led a club, and the 2-2 break in that suit limited his loss to one club trick.

Bake to our moral about the weak protecting the strong. It was East's duty to discard helpfully as quickly as he could. The first trump showed that South had a seven-card suit, and East should foresee the way the play would go.

East's first discard should be the seven of spades, and then he should throw all of his hearts. This would show spade strength, and West would be safe in keeping only one spade.

DAILY QUESTION Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-None; H-A52; D-AKQJ842; C-K52. What do you say?

Right-to-die controversy sweeps Western Europe

LONDON (AP) — Right-to-die movements are springing up in some areas of Western Europe, stirred in part by the controversial Karen Quinlan case in the United States.

In Italy and France, however, the Quinlan case has strengthened groups fighting for an ailing person's right to live.

In West Germany the entire subject is taboo because it evokes memories of Adolf Hitler's decision 35 years ago to end 70,000 "worthless lives" — mostly crippled or mentally defected persons.

In several other West European countries — among them Britain, Sweden, Switzerland and Denmark — there are budding "right-to-die" movements wrestling with moral, legal and social issues similar to most raised in the United States by the Quinlan case.

Miss Quinlan, 21, has been lying comatose since April in a Morristown, N.J., hospital, kept alive by a respirator, although medical opinion is that she has no chance of recovery.

But a state court ruled Nov. 10 that doctors cannot turn off the machine and let Miss Quinlan, as her Roman Catholic parents put it, "return to the gentle hands of the Lord."

In Denmark, the case prompted former journalist Christian Soendergaard to distribute in a few weeks more than 1,000 "life testaments" to Danes wanting to escape a fate similar to Miss Quinlan's.

The testaments, called "living wills" in the United States, ask doctors not to prolong needlessly the bearer's life in case of mortal illness or accident. The wills have no legal validity, but leading Danish physicians and psychiatrists back the idea and are helping set up a national organization to promote it.

"If we don't take the decision into our own hands, the technology will decide for us," commented Mogen Jacobsen, chief psychiatrist at a state mental hospital and a member of the organizing committee.

A week after the 72-year-old Soendergaard outlined his idea in the interview, he suffered a heart attack at a railway station. His testament was in his wallet, but there was no need for it. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Doctors might be inclined, Soendergaard had said, to "give the patient the benefit of the doubt" if he has expressed in writing his desire "to die with dignity."

A similar campaign was launched in Britain last month with the help of journalist and television personality Malcolm Muggeridge.

Muggeridge, 72, told a news conference he had signed a document that declared he would want "to be allowed to die in peace."

The document, addressed to "my doctor, family and friends," was prepared and is being distributed by the 500-member Human Rights Society, founded in 1969 to oppose euthanasia, or mercy killing.

It expressly rules out euthanasia. "But when it becomes obvious that I am dying," the document says, "I do not want doctors to strive officiously to keep me alive for extra periods, or to give me painful treatments which cannot succeed...

"If I have an incurable and fatal illness, I would prefer it to take its natural course and not be artificially prolonged."

There are no "right-to-die" movements in Italy and France, probably because of the strong influence of the Catholic church which teaches that life is sacred and can be given and taken only by God.

But some priests in those countries and in the United States take the view that turning off a respirator that is artificially prolonging life, such as in the Quinlan case, is not killing but simply allowing nature to take its course.

Pope Paul VI has made no pronouncements on the Quinlan case. But Gino Ceccetti, leading theologian for the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, wrote Oct. 22 that there is "no right to die, but only the right to live."

He said Miss Quinlan must be treated with "full dignity" and that the "intrinsic, inviolable and inalienable rights of human beings must be respected, protected and taken care of up to the last limit of life."

Widespread public support for a right-to-die movement in Switzerland became apparent early this year with the widely publicized case of Prof. Urs Peter Haemmerli, chief physician in the medical clinic at Zurich City Hospital.

Haemmerli was suspended from his post after it became known he had allowed terminally ill patients to die. Police opened a criminal investigation. But amid a wave of demonstrations in his support, Haemmerli was reinstated at his hospital after two months.

No formal charges have been filed. "It is not the duty of a physician to prolong the agony," Haemmerli said in an interview, but he denied having practiced "active euthanasia."

Last month, the London Daily Telegraph told the story of 26-year-old Steve Talbot. After a motorcycle crash six years ago, doctors said he was nothing more than "a hopeless human vegetable."

"We felt that in all this controversy we should tell the world about our son," Frank and Winifred Talbot told the newspaper. "It is dreadful that any man should have the right to end life... Nobody should be pronounced a hopeless case."

Steve Talbot still needs a wheelchair to get around, but he has a job handling bookings in a hotel. He thanks his parents for their adamant stand that he be kept alive when all hope seemed lost.

"I am very lucky to be alive," he said. "I was almost but not quite dead. My speech is a bit slow, but my brain is as it always was. It makes me laugh when people think 'poor boy.' I am a lucky boy."

Lady Bird dedicates Brooke patient lounge

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson would be happy that the Brooke Army Medical Center suite where he stayed will be used as a patient lounge, his widow says.

"Lyndon was a great one for spreading benefits around to as many people as possible," Lady Bird Johnson said. "I know he would be as happy about this as I am."

Mrs. Johnson spoke Tuesday at the dedication of the suite on the seventh floor of the hospital at Ft. Sam Houston. The lounge will be named for the former president.

"We were always very happy with the concern and care showed us during Lyndon's six visits here," she said. This is a splendid way to use the suite now.

Johnson used the suite between the times he became president in 1963 and his death at the hospital Jan. 22, 1973.

After Johnson's death, the suite was used by returning prisoners of war.

The suite now will be used as a lounge, chapel and offices.

Mrs. Johnson refused to answer any questions dealing with politics. "I'm no longer in the political area, so I don't feel it would be right for me to say anything about what's going on."

"I just spend my time traveling and working as a University of Texas regent," she said. "And, of course, spending time with my children and grandchildren."

Tradition to separate sexes in coed academies

The Washington Post
 WASHINGTON — Yes, America. The only thing that will keep the women apart from the men who enroll together next summer at the military academies will be virtue, patriotism and stiff academy traditions against fraternization between fresh-people and upperclasspeople.

The barracks will be coed. And while the women — in their newlydesigned cadet uniforms — are expected to be a tiny minority of the doodies, pelbes and middies, the academies are quietly getting ready for them.

The controversy raised by opponents of the Equal Rights Amendment — women in the men's room? horrors! — has been solved, some might say miraculously, by Uncle Sam. Men and women won't share bathrooms. But the academies aren't building separate dorms, either. The Naval Academy is converting janitors' closets into women's bathrooms. At the Air Force Academy and West Point, they're merely ripping out the urinals and covering up the holes in the walls with mirrors.

Men and women will share barracks, with the women grouped together near their bathrooms. The Air Force Academy is the only school that is putting up "a privacy door" in the hall between the men's and women's areas.

Freshpeople can socialize with each other. There will be doolie dances at the Air Force Academy and plebe hops at West Point. The Air Force has no ruling yet on whether or not a freshperson can kiss another freshperson in public, but the Naval Academy and West Point have ruled it out.

Female midshipmen can't kiss or hold hands in public. Pelbettes can't either, but are allowed to take the arm of an escort.

Female students at Annapolis who become pregnant will be bidmissed. At the Air Force Academy, a spokesman says, "We'll make a decision at the time. A West Point spokesman says a pregnant plebe, while not allowed to marry, would be permitted to complete her training if she were physically able. If not, she would be dismissed.

Birth control information and contraceptives may or may not be available at academy dispensaries.

"That is between an Air Force woman and her doctor," says the academy spokesman. "I strongly suspect that the way it will work out at West Point will be established by a service-wide policy," says the spokesman there.

And it's likely the women will be able to take care of themselves. Women are forbidden by law to take combat jobs, but the Naval Academy is the only one which has excluded women from extended cruises, which are part of combat trainings. At West Point the woman will get full combat training, while Air Force women will probably be eligible for flight indoctrination by their senior year in 1980.

The physical examinations one must pass for entry into the academies have been modified slightly — as have certain physical education courses. Spokesmen say, this is because women don't have huge biceps for pull-ups and do have breasts which could be injured in required courses like boxing. According to a National Collegiate Athletic Association ruling, women are forbidden to participate with men in contact sports including lacrosse, football, wrestling and hockey.

MAKING SURE she gets what she wants, four-year-old Rose Rios of New York plants a big kiss on Santa Claus' nose after telling him what she would like to have for Christmas.

Drugs, therapy successful curbing deviants' sex drive

The Washington Post
 WASHINGTON — A Johns Hopkins University researcher has had such success treating sexual deviants with a combination of drugs and psychological counseling that a convicted rapist fought a court battle to enter the treatment program.

According to Dr. John Money, treatment with the drug Depro-Provera can so diminish the sex drive that a sex offender, such as child molester or rapist, can be successfully freed of his compulsion.

Dr. Paul A. Walker, one of the researchers in the Hopkins program, told Federal Judge Frank A. Kaufman that use of the drug is "effectively chemical castration, transient chemical castration."

The prisoner who fought his way through the Maryland penal system and federal court to be treated by Dr. Money had nothing to gain from the treatment — other than peace of mind. He is serving more than a dozen life prison terms for rape, and cannot hope to achieve early parole through participation in the program.

"I'd just like to tell you how important it is that my sex drive be cut down, because it's inconvenient, because it's always giving me a problem," the prisoner told Judge Kaufman last May in a closed hearing.

Depro-PROVERA, WHICH IS A SLIGHTLY DIFFERENT FORM, IS

BEING USED IN SEVERAL European countries as a standard treatment for convicted sex offenders, "turns down the thermostat on the sex drive," according to Dr. Money. "The nice thing about the thermostat analogy," he said, "is you can turn (the sex drive) back up again."

In a paper prepared for the American Psychopathological Association last March, Money said, "Lust, murder, violent rape whether homosexual or heterosexual, violent child molesting and masochistic contrivance of one's own death by sexual murder or suicide would qualify as behavior for which treatment should be legally enforced."

"It goes without saying that there are potentially grave ethical decisions to make," wrote Money, "and errors that could be made, imposing (drug) therapy by edict on sex offenders. There is no ethically absolute criterion by which to define a sex offender. One can envisage an ethical nightmare in which (Depro-Provera) is enforced on all prisoners — or all bisexuals, all homosexuals, all political dissidents, and so forth."

However, Money said in an interview that he believes such a program is necessary, and discounts the fears of those who mention "Brave New World" every time drug-induced behavior modification is proposed.

"We've been doing it ever since we invented alcohol in ancient Egypt," he said.

Money said he would choose between in-house along with treatment. The others either dropped out or are still being treated. Of those who completed treatment, almost all reported they were freed of their compulsion, he said.

Young Angolan recruit adopts motto for his name

The Los Angeles Times
 CARMONA, Angola — "Liberdade e Terra" — "Freedom and Land" — is the motto of Angola's National Front (FNLA). It is also that nom de guerre of Angola's youngest recruit.
 Liberdade e Terra is 11 years old. When you ask his real name he pauses a moment. Has he forgotten, or is he afraid it will get him into trouble? "Bernardo," he says finally. And then: "De Souza Neto."
 His father is with the MPLA, a soldier explains. The MPLA is the Russian-backed Popular Movement which controls the capital at Luanda. But Liberdade is a good anti-Communist now.

 He was separated from his parents during the capture of Lobito last month by FNLA and its allies, the Union for Total Independence of Angola (UNITA), and was taken into FNLA's military force as a mascot. "Liberdade e Terra reporting!" he cries, saluting crisply, snapping attention, the heels of his combat boots crashing together.

 He has a red beret, a cut-down camouflage-green fatigue uniform, and wears a soldier's knife in his cartridge belt. A reporter asked him when will he see his parents again. "When we liberate Luanda," he says. "We" for him means the FNLA.
 The boy's father and mother fled to Luanda ahead of the victorious anti-Communist forces, joining Angola's biggest army, that of the refugees.

 Perhaps a million of Angola's 6 million people have been displaced by the long war between the Portuguese and the three liberation movements and, since the Portuguese started packing to leave, by the retreats and advances of the rival groups.
 All but about 100,000 of the half-million Portuguese who lived in pre-independence Angola have left for Portugal, Brazil, Rhodesia and South Africa. Those who remain are mostly in territory controlled by the FNLA and UNITA, who are promoting an interracial Democratic Republic of Angola.

 Hundreds of thousands of black Angolans have fled when a rival group captured a village, or city or a province. They are called desarraigados, the uprooted ones. Only peace can end their wanderings.
 Then, in the north, there are regresados, the returnees, who sought refuge in neighboring Zaire during the fierce Portuguese repression of FNLA's 1961 uprising in the Carmona area. Now, with the Portuguese gone, they are coming back to their land. The Red Cross says there are perhaps 400,000 of them. The FNLA says there are twice that.

 The only enduring improvement they find on their family plots are the grave markers of those slain in the uprising.

Doctor tries getting feedback from his patients

The Washington Post
 "I feel you've been insensitive."
 That statement from a patient would upset a doctor even if made in private. It had just been made by one of my patients with five other patients listening.
 —Dr. Marvin Belsky in "How to Choose and Use Your Doctor," with Leonard Gross, 1975
 NEW YORK — Talk about medical revolutions — your heart surgery, kidney transplants, sex-change operations.

 Consider this. A doctor who talks to his patients.
 And invites them to talk back, until, before long, doctor and patients are talking to each other.
 It was a fall evening in the Manhattan waiting room of Dr. Marvin S. Belsky. A 55-year-old specialist in internal medicine and an attending physician at New York University Medical Center, he is a family doctor who may be pointing the way to something new.

Eleven persons were seated in a circle in the home-like room: Dr. Belsky, nine patients and a reporter, soon unnoticed.
 It was 7 on a Monday evening. As he does every other week, Dr. Belsky had invited some patients, new and old, to join him without fee for three hours of talk.
 No entertainment, no martinis, just plain communication.
 "You see," he had explained, "about three years ago I felt I wasn't reaching patients. I was using words like 'obey' or 'comply.' I knew some patients were upset with me."

 "I decided to educate myself better in communication. One of my courses talked about feedback. I realized that feedback to physicians is often limited."
 "I decided to meet with my patients when I wasn't wearing a white coat."
 "All right," said Dr. Belsky, loosening his tie. "I'd like to start tonight by asking, 'What's a good doctor?"

 Augusta Mass was a gray-haired woman in her 60s, seated next to her husband. "I think it's intense personal commitment like yours," she told Belsky.
 "When my mother was in her 80s, her doctor once told me and my brother she had lung cancer. We went to another doctor who said, 'That's not true. She has some calcified blood clots.' She lived to her 90s, and that first doctor never forgave her. From then on she said,

"He's so rude to me."
 "Now, when my husband was sick, you called for another opinion. We felt that you cared."
 "Have any of you ever been angry with a doctor?" Dr. Belsky asked.
 "You referred me to a doctor," said a tall, blonde woman of 42. "I was in discomfort, but he didn't call me back. After five hours I called again and told him not to bother. I said, 'I understand you're very busy, but then you're too busy for me.'"

Group continues vigil for second coming of Christ

The Los Angeles Times

GRANNIS, Ark. — There is never much to do in this isolated mountain community of 177 persons and so the strange goings-on at Gene Nance's house just off the main highway have caused quite a stir.

Nance and 21 of his relatives — men, women and children — have been cooped up in his small three-bedroom home for 65 days, faithfully awaiting what they believe is the imminent second coming of Christ and the end of the world.

The family group has been holding night prayer meetings two and three times a week for months, often praying in tongues as they hold hands and sit around a table.

"WE MET HERE for a prayer meeting on the night of Sept. 29 and the Lord directed us to stay here, inside this house, and told us He would be coming any time," said Viola Walker, 66, a spokesman for the group.

"He told us to tarry and wait. So we've been here ever since, and we expect to stay. We pray together and hold hands. There's no ritual, and no churches involved, and nothing crazy about it."

One couple inside the house left a combination general store and gasoline station, from which they made a lucrative living, to join the vigil. Most of the food consumed in the house has been coming from that store, and the supply is rapidly being depleted, as are the savings of the group.

Elizabeth Nance Bard, a member of the family who has been taking part in the vigil but not staying in the house, has been bringing some food to the group and doing their laundry. She has taken one of her daughters out of school to attend the prayer meetings.

SOME CARS parked outside the house are on the verge of being repossessed. House payments must be kept up, but the men have all walked off their jobs. Electricity has been turned off for lack of payment in the homes of some maintaining the vigil.

How long can the vigil continue? "We don't look at it that way," Mrs. Walker said. "We're getting more encouraged each day we pray. The Lord just blesses us."

"It's been a wonderful experience because it helps you put your self down, and that's what you have to do. Christ said, less at your self and more of me. We really expect Him to come any minute now."

GENE NANCE agreed: "It's the end of the world, sure enough. Whatever you're going to do, you need to hurry and do it."

Nance added that the group is not on welfare and has been living on its own resources, with the help of some friends.

The group's 15 adults and seven minors — including one child 3 years old and another 3 months — is comprised of three Nance brothers and two Nance daughters and their wives, husbands and some of their children.

Six other children were removed from the Texan held in snippings

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)— Bond of $50,000 has been set for a second man arrested and charged in connection with a sniping incident Saturday.

Police said Richard White, 22, who listed his home address as Wichita Falls, Tex., was charged with five counts of assault and battery with intent to kill.

White is the brother-in-law of Jerry Muldrow, who is also in jail under $50,000 bond, and facing identical charges.

No trial date has been set.

house in October under orders from Polk County Juvenile Judge J.B. Stevenson and ordered back to school because they had not finished the eighth grade — or were under 14.

The father of two children still taking part in the vigil has filed a suit alleging that they will suffer "irreparable harm from not continuing their education" and asking that he be given custody of the children.

The petition, filed in Mena, Ark., by James R. Canner of Corona, Calif., says that he and his wife, Ann Nance Canner, were divorced in 1965 and that Mrs. Canner received custody of the children, James Jr. and Valerie Gayle, who are now 17 and 14.

Canner said he learned only when he arrived to visit his children for the Thanksgiving holiday that they were taking part in the vigil. A judge has ordered the mother and children to appear for a hearing Dec. 18 in Chancery Court in Mena.

The group living in the house is joined daily by another Nance daughter — Mrs. Bard — and her four children. So at times there are as many as 27 persons in the house praying, often in tongues.

(Speaking in tongues, also known as "glossolalia," consists of praying in what seems to the hearer to be a foreign language, and which the person praying has not learned. The practice is common among Pentecostals and members of the charismatic, or neo-Pentecostal, movement.)

Mrs. Walker's husband, Sylvester, 72, has refused to join the vigil and scoffs at its purpose although his son, Sammy, 24 is part of the group.

"That's Satan doing all that," Walker complained one day in the R-and-R General Mercantile Store in Grannis.

"My land!" he cried out in exasperation. "The second coming might not happen for another five years. Maybe even 10! Who knows?"

During a 40-minute interview with a reporter, the people in the house appeared to be congenial and good-humored but serious and sincere in their beliefs that the second coming of Christ was imminent.

How will they recognize the second coming?

"Everybody will know it, not just us," Gene Nance said. "It's all spelled out in the Bible. It says that lightning will shine from East to West. He'll come with the sound of trumpets and the shout of the Archangel.

"The dead will arise. It'll be hard to miss that, won't it?"

If house hunting, tell broker what you really want

By VIVIAN BROWN
The Associated Press

House shoppers "should level with real estate brokers." Concealing information on housing needs can be a waste of time for everybody.

That advice comes from Betty Ann Rake of Chicago who tries to find homes for employees who are transferred by 80 corporations. She and her staff locate about 700 houses a year, working with local brokers.

"Some people look at homes costing far more than they can afford. It doesn't condition them for the kind of house they can buy and it makes them unhappy. Then, too, some people do not want to throw money into a house — they might have children in college or perhaps they want to travel or do other things with their money. Understandable, but why not say so?"

About one out of three transferees is helped by employers, maintains Miss Rake, who is head of the home-finding department of the Employer Transfer Corp. Another 300,000 or so are on their own and can use all the help they can get.

"The first step should be to contact a boss or coworkers at the new location who could recommend real estate brokers. The broker can do a lot of advance screening for the transferee if he knows what is needed. A telephone call to the broker can set him straight."

But you don't want to stop there, she says. Your house hunting is just beginning. She makes these suggestions from her own experience:

"No matter how much you can spend it is important to find a community where you fit in. Even if you can afford to live in a particular area, it might have a closed set that will shut you out. Ten miles away might be the delightful spot that would make you happy. It is something the real estate person would know."

"If you are moving from a small town and your family relates to it, it may be important to find a community with small-town flavor. Even a lot of metros have small-town atmosphere in some neighborhoods — but you may have to dig to find it.

"Lifestyles continue to be important in planning a move. One man being transferred had two kids who were fantastic swimmers. They had to be in a community where there were swimming pools to their avid interest could be continued. It may take a while to find such a place.

"On your own, drive around town a couple of days looking at an area being considered. Visit shopkeepers and inquire how business is going — you don't want to move into an area that has depreciated. Knock on doors in a neighborhood being considered and ask prospective neighbors what they think of an area. You might turn up all sorts of things.

"Visit the schools in the community. Talk to the principal. Ask if you can sit in some classes. How is the school kept? The attitude of the teachers? Do the children look happy? Well-behaved? Would you want your child to go to that school?"

If the land looks low, visit the town hall and ask to see maps of flood plains.

"Visit a bank's mortgage loan officer. Ask what he considers a good area. In fact, he might be just the one to consult for a real estate broker," she advises.

Tell the broker what you need and how much you can pay. If you absolutely need a basement, you should relay the information to her husband. In addition to house prices, downpayments, interest rates and mortgage terms available in a community, a broker should talk to the woman as well as the man of the house, says Miss Rake.

The man knows what he wants, but the woman will plained. There should be information, she explains. There should be maps showing where the community that has interested you.

Divorce tales told about Mao

Agence France-Presse
HONG KONG — Chairman Mao Tse-tung was once almost on the verge of divorcing his wife, Chiang Ching, and asking the whole party to criticize her, the Tin Tin Yat Po a Chinese-Language newspaper reported here Tuesday.

Quoting "reliable sources" from inside China, the daily newspaper Tin Tin Yat Po said it was through the good offices of Premier Chou En-lai and Chairman Chu Teh of the National People's Congress that Chairman Mao relented.

The report said the problems started in 1972 when Chiang Ching gave a 60-hour interview to an American scholar, Romane Witke, an associate professor of history at the State University of New York at Binghamton, telling of her life and experiences.

The report claimed that what enraged Chairman Mao was Chiang Ching's disclosure of her "big secret" — that her marriage with Mao was not of her own free will.

The daily quoted "inside sources" as saying that Professor Witke's biography of Chiang Ching was printed first as samples for reference by authorities concerned. The Chinese liaison office in Washington, obtained several copies and sent them to Chairman Mao, Premier Chou and Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

Reading the passage about Chiang Ching's marriage to him, Chairman Mao lost his temper and immediately asked for a divorce and criticism of his wife, the report said.

O. P. Carrillo continues to receive state salary

Austin Bureau
AUSTIN—While the state continues to spend thousands of dollars trying to remove convicted felon O. P. Carrillo Jr. from his South Texas judgeship, he continues to receive his $2,583-a-month salary.
 Comptroller Bob Bullock continues to sign his pay checks each month, and the judge has collected more than $8,000 since he was relieved of his judicial duties nearly four months ago.
 Bullock is directed to pay Carrillo under an attorney general's opinion that was issued 14 years ago by Will Wilson.
 That opinion was written in connection with a Jefferson County case, but its provisions apply to Carrillo.
 Basically, it states that even though the judge has been relieved of his duties on the bench he is still an official "de jure" and is entitled to his salary of $31,000 a year.

 Carrillo has not presided on the bench since Aug. 4 when the House of Representatives voted to impeach him.
 The Texas Constitution provides for suspension from office, but says nothing about cutting off his pay.
 Article XV, Section 5 of the constitution states: "All officers against whom articles of impeachment may be preferred shall be suspended from the exercise of the duties of their office during the pendency of such impeachment."
 The lack of a reference to salary and the opinion written by former Atty. Gen. Wilson leaves the comptroller no choice but to continue the salary.
 Carrillo's conviction in federal court on income tax evasion will not affect his position as district judge because the case is still pending. He plans to appeal the five-year sentence and $22,000 fine assessed by a Corpus Christi jury.

 Bullock must continue to issue the pay checks until his office receives official notice to stop.
 That could come if the Judicial Qualifications Commission decrees that he should be ousted from office and the Supreme Court agrees, or if the Senate finds him guilty of the impeachment charges brought by the House. The Senate resumes its deliberations in the case Jan. 5. The JQC continues to gather testimony in its case, and Special Master Judge

Jim Meyers says he hopes to have a recommendation ready by the time the Senate returns.
 Since the comptroller is paying the judge's salary, Duval County commissioners are expected to resume paying him $100 a month, his salary as juvenile judge. The Wilson opinion applied directly to such payments by county commissioners in cases involving a district attorney and a constable.

 Carrillo continues to use his office in the Duval County Courthouse, although his official duties have been taken over by other judges. There is no provision under law to deny him the office space.

Agency finds building not needed

Austin Bureau
AUSTIN—By eliminating filing cabinets used to store lunches, knitting and crossword puzzles, the State Board of Insurance also eliminated the immediate need for a $20,000,000 building, Chairman Joe Christie says.
 One finding of a study of the SBI by the firm of Booz, Allen was that "we simply had too many filing cabinets," Christie said, and when the unneeded ones were eliminated the "proposed" new building was eliminated, too.
 "We have learned," Christie said, "how to halt the enormous growth of our agency" without sacrificing effectiveness or efficiency. One way has been by realigning the duties of existing employees and eliminating some positions.
 In the past two fiscal years, the number of employees working for the SBI has increased only 0.8 per cent, compared to the annual average rate of 5.4 per cent during the 1963-73 period. That saved taxpayers $1.2 million in salaries by 17 to 573 employees at per cent during the 1963-73 period. Christie says, the end of October for a reduction in the past fiscal year. The SBI had cut its staff year.

Amazon Indians' civilization doomed?

Agence France-Presse
SAO PAULO, Brazil—A noted Brazilian explorer and ethnologist says the Indian civilization of the Amazon is doomed by the encroachment of modern civilization.
 The end, says Orlando Villas Boas, "is inevitable. All we can do is to help make it glorious and dignified, as regards their customs and social structures."
 But it is impossible, he told a press conference Thursday, to protect Indian culture from the steady erosion of civilization.
 Villas Boas and his brother, Claudio, have devoted more than 30 years to the study and pacification of the Indian tribes in central and northern Brazil.

 He said the number of Amazon Indians has dwindled from some 4 million three centuries ago to about 180,000 today. There are still an estimated 130 tribes in remote areas that have not had the slightest contact with the white man, he said.
 The tribes are located in the remote northern areas of the Amazon in Brazil, Surinam, French Guyana and Venezuela.
 The Villas Boas brothers run one of the vast Brazilian reservations into which the remnants of the pacified tribes have been shepherd.

'75 disastrous year for Russia

Agence France-Presse
MOSCOW—The 1975 economic year has been disastrous for the Soviet Union, with a catastrophic harvest and a growth in national income of only 4 per cent compared with the target of 6.5 per cent laid down in the ninth five-year plan, it was learned Tuesday.
 The bad cereal harvest and poor results in raising livestock are seen as the main, but not the only, reasons for the low growth rate, which totaled 5 per cent in 1974.
 Vice Premier Nikolai Baibakov, the chairman of the state plan (Gosplan), told the Supreme Soviet Tuesday that weather conditions had been very bad for agriculture this year. For the first time since 1964, the amount of the cereal crop was not revealed.
 In 1972, a year when the crop was very poor, Baibakov did not give a precise figure, but he did give indications that enabled Western experts to put it at 168.4 million tons.
 Western estimates put the 1975 crop at only 160 million tons, including 75 million for wheat.
 Baibakov also confirmed that drought had been disastrous for livestock raising. A Soviet official had told an Argentine delegation a month ago that the poor weather conditions had forced raisers to slaughter more cattle than normal.

 Baibakov said Tuesday that sales to the state of meat, eggs and wool had gone up. But that did not mean that production of those commodities had increased.
 On cotton, Baibakov said production had been better than the 7.7 million ton objective under the plan. But it was lower than last year's achievement of 8.4 million tons.
 Speaking about agriculture generally, he complained that very bad use was made of irrigated and drained land, not enough fertilizers were used and there was insufficient agricultural machinery.
 Finance Minister Vasili Garbuzov noted that total agricultural production during the ninth five-year plan had been 13 per cent higher than under the eighth.
 Baibakov said production of cereals next year should be 14 per cent higher than the annual average of 195 million tons for the ninth plan.
 The calamitous situation in Soviet agriculture will affect industrial and consumer production. The rise in production of consumer goods next year will be a very modest 2.7 per cent, the lowest figure for six years, compared with 6 per cent this year.
 Production goods, on the other hand, will be up by 4.9 per cent.

"COME TO THE FEAST"

Let me take the space this week to tell you about our Gospel Meeting which will begin next Sunday morning. It is an unusual meeting for us, because we have invited eight different faithful men to speak on the general theme of "THE UNITY OF THE SPIRIT." Each one of these men live in the West Texas area and are experienced and faithful gospel preachers. You will notice the subjects and men in other advertisements around town.

Another feature that is different to a lot of meetings is that we will have a different song director each night of the meeting, and those singers will be men who are from the Cuthbert Street congregation. If you listen to our radio broadcast you know by now that we are blessed with some folks who love to sing. We are blessed with talent in all of these men. Hence I know that you will enjoy the good singing.

Should you find it in your heart to attend this meeting we promise that you will not be embarrassed in any way. No collections will be taken (except on the Lord's Day) and no visitor "put on the spot." You will be an honored guest and while these men will preach the gospel on the subject assigned, they will do so with force and power but with the spirit of love and understanding.

In Ephesians 4:1-6 we have the basis for religious unity set forth. There is no mistake about it, if we follow that course we will all be right and cannot be wrong. Just as surely as there is but ONE God, there is ONE body; and ONE Spirit; and ONE hope; and ONE Lord; and ONE faith; and ONE baptism. We hope to really treat this theme with the scholarship it deserves.

Can we depend on you to come? You don't have to be a member of the church of Christ to enjoy this study. Come and you will see. You don't have to be a member of the Cuthbert Street congregation, if you are a member of the church of Christ, to enjoy and profit by this study.

Now remember that it begins this coming Sunday morning and continues through the following Saturday night. The services will be 7:30 each evening except on Sunday when the time will be 6:30 P.M. We will be looking for you.

Briscoe asks new program

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Texas schools must be redirected toward helping pupils find careers, Gov. Dolph Briscoe says.
 He told the 42nd annual convention of the Texas Farm Bureau on Monday that under a revamped schools program "each high school graduate would have marketable skills."
 Briscoe said despite increased expenditures, the state is getting less quality education for its children. About half of the state's tax revenue now goes to education, he said.
 Redirecting the schools toward career orientation would cost taxpayers no more, Briscoe said, adding that a tax increase would break Texans.

Giants go up for sale?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A meeting of directors of the National Exhibition Co., owners of the San Francisco Giants, was scheduled for today amid reports they would consider a San Francisco group's bid to purchase the financially distressed baseball club.

The Giants have lost about $3 million in the last two seasons when their attendance of 519,000 and 522,000 was the lowest in the National League.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said months ago "the Bay Area can support only one team, and something will have to be done." And Charles O. Finley insists he will not move his Oakland Athletics. Announcement that the Giants were up for sale was made last May.

The San Francisco group, headed by businessman Robert Lurie, includes about 40 investors who have made an offer of $10 million and who intend to keep the club operating in San Francisco, the San Francisco Chronicle said today.

The newspaper quoted a member of the group, who asked he not be named, as saying Tuesday:

"You can almost bet we will be making the purchase in the next couple of days. We want to be able to go to the major league meetings next week as new owners and announce a front office staff plus managers and coaches."

The winter baseball meetings open in Hollywood, Fla., Monday, and Giants' executives also have voiced a hope a sale proposal could be presented for approval there.

The key decision on a sale will be made by Horace Stoneham, the 73-year-old president of the Giants, who will not go to Florida. He has been in Stanford Medical Center since surgery Nov. 21 for a dilated abdominal artery.

Stoneham has recovered sufficiently to confer with other executives of the club on a possible sale, but there has been no public word from him on negotiations with the Lurie group, Lurie has been on the club's board of directors since 1958.

Stoneham, whose family has operated the franchise since 1919 and moved it here from New York in 1958, originally put a $17 million price tag on the baseball club and real estate holdings that include an Arizona training camp complex.

A Toronto syndicate which was prepared to pay $14 million for the Giants withdrew from the bidding when it learned it would have to pay $7 million over 19 years to the city of San Francisco to move the club to Canada, the Chronicle said.

The city has a 35-year lease agreement with the Giants to play at Candlestick Park, built by the city in 1960. The Giants have not paid their 1975 rent of $125,000 for the park and also have borrowed $500,000 from the league for operating funds.

A spokesman for the Toronto group was quoted by the Chronicle as saying the Canadians thought $4.5 million would buy up the city's contract, "but $7 million is prohibitive. They can't afford that much and neither can anyone else wanting to move the club out of San Francisco."

UTEP falls to NMS, 49-47

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Free throws by Bob Dborak and Richard Robinson gave New Mexico State a narrow, come-from-behind 49-47 victory over the University of Texas-El Paso here Tuesday in a non-conference game.

Dborak put NMSU ahead 48-47 with 2:38 on the clock. Then Robinson hit the first of two from the line to secure the victory for the Aggies.

UTEP's Gator Paulings came up with the rebound, but could not find the handle as time expired. Leading scorers for New Mexico State were Robinson with 13 points, and Dexter Hawkins with 7.

Sooners' Leroy Selmon earns Outland Trophy

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Leroy Selmon, Oklahoma's super-quick, 256-pound defensive tackle, today was awarded the Outland Trophy as the outstanding lineman in college football.

The Football Writers Association of America, which selects the award, picked Selmon as it announced its All-American football team.

The Outland Trophy is awarded annually to the outstanding interior lineman in college football. The award was started in 1946.

Selmon led a list of 26 players named to the team, including four running backs. They were two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State, Ricky Bell of Southern California, Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh, and Chuck Muncie of California.

Quarterback of the team is Texas wishbone artist Marty Akins.

Runnerup for Selmon in the Outland race was Notre Dame's Steve Niehaus.

The 1975 Football Writers' All-American team:

Offense
Receivers: Don Buckley, North Carolina State, and Larry Seivers, Tennessee.

Center: Rik Bonness, Nebraska.
Offensive linemen: Randy Cross, UCLA; Ken Jones, Arkansas State; Tom Rafferty, Penn State, and Ted Smith, Ohio State.

Running Backs: Ricky Bell, Southern California; Tony Dorsett, Pittsburgh; Archie Griffin, Ohio State, and Chuck Muncie, California.
Quarterback: Marty Akins, Texas.

Defense
Linemen: Leroy Cook, Alabama; Steve Niehaus, Notre Dame; Ken Novak, Purdue, and Leroy Selmon, Oklahoma.

Linebackers: Greg Buttle, Penn State, Sammy Green, Florida, and Ed Simonini, Texas A&M.

Backs: Don Dufek, Michigan; Tim Fox, Ohio State; Chet Moeller, Navy, and Wondor Monds, Nebraska.

Place-kicker: Bob Berg, New Mexico.

Punter: Tom Skladany, Ohio State.
Kick returner: Joe Washington, Oklahoma.

Outland Trophy
Leroy Selmon, Oklahoma.

Nastase image on trial

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The $100,000 Masters Tennis Tournament has turned into a serious business for Ilie "Nasty" Nastase.

The whole reputation of the temperamental Romanian star is on trial as the Professional Tennis Council, which governs the world circuit, converges on this city to watch the end of the tournament and discuss his latest antics and disqualification.

Members of the council were expected Wednesday, and high on their agenda is the question of a code of conduct for the players. Nastase's behavior last Sunday, when Arthur Ashe walked off the court in protest, will obviously come into the discussion.

An odd feature of the situation is that Ashe, as president of the Association of Tennis Professionals, is a member of the council.

Nastase made no protest when the tournament committee reversed its earlier decision and awarded the match to Ashe.

"What chance do I have against President Ford?" Nastase said.

Nastase has been disqualified from matches three times this year. He is also due to face an independent tribunal in London to appeal against the confiscation of his runnerup prize in a tournament in Toronto, where the organizers accused him of not trying.

Nastase was a model of good behavior Tuesday night when he defeated Manuel Orantes of Spain 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 and kept his hopes alive of reaching the semifinals.

Some of the organizers wanted him to make a public apology on court for the incidents in his match against Ashe, but he refused.

"I am too tired to make speeches," Nastase said. "anyway, why should I apologize? Ashe is the one who ought to apologize. He left the court and walked out on 4,000 people."

Ashe himself is diplomatically sidestepping questions about the row that ended in his favor. He has now officially won both his matches—though the one against Nastase was unfinished—and is virtually certain of going into the semifinals.

"What happened on Sunday is definitely going to change things," Ashe said. "The council is due to discuss a code of behavior for players. If I subjectively give my opinion it might not be a good thing, since I am a member of the council myself."

Meanwhile the hopes of the other American competitor, Harold Solomon, were ended. Bjorn Borg, 19-year-old Swedish hero, battered him 6-2, 6-2.

Solomon's stubborn baseline tactics kept long rallies going, but Borg had the winning punch with his tremendous top spin forehands.

The tournament is being run in two groups, with the top two in each group advancing to the semis.

Here are the standings:

White group: Ashe 2-0, Orantes 1-1, Nastase 1-1, Adriano Panatta, Italy, 0-2. Blue group: Guillermo Vilas, Argentina, 2-0, Borg 2-0, Solomon 0-2, Raul Ramirez, Mexico, 0-2.

Ramirez was to play Solomon and Nastase met Panatta today.

Troubled ABA sets new course

CHICAGO (AP)—Fighting a year of "financial problems," the American Basketball Association has dissolved the Utah franchise...

Commissioner Dave DeBusschere made the announcement proclaiming the end of the Utah franchise after ABA owners met for some six hours Tuesday...

The players sold to St. Louis included Moses Malone, Randy Denton, Steve Green and Ron Boone.

The ABA is now reduced to seven teams with the Baltimore Claws and the San Diego Sails having previously folded.

"We will still have our playoffs and our All-Star game at Denver with Kentucky meeting the league All-Stars," said DeBusschere.

Should Minneapolis receive winter NFL play off contest?

By BOB OATES The Los Angeles Times DETROIT — Almost a month before Christmas, there's already snow in the Midwest, with more to come.

The last time it was above freezing in Minneapolis was the Tuesday before Halloween, at high noon.

Is there a better way? Could the NFL playoffs be scheduled somewhere else?

To visit Detroit's new indoor stadium in suburban Pontiac is to hit on one answer.

The playoffs belong in these places — in the Superdome at New Orleans, the Houston Astrodome, the Pontiac Stadium and (soon) the Kingdome in Seattle.

To get the ball rolling next year, the NFL might prefer to keep its first-round games where they are now — in two NFC and two AFC cities — but the key second-round games could (and should) be moved inside.

It is in the second round that the league's two conference titles are decided each year.

It is an important round in which the scheduling could be as follows next year:

1—The American Conference title game in Detroit's Pontiac Stadium.

2—The National Conference game in Houston's Astrodome.

Ideally next winter, the Super Bowl would follow in the Louisiana Superdome.

However, it is committed to Pasadena for that game, delaying until 1978 any chance to hold pro football's biggest event on a guaranteed dry, neutral field in perfect weather.

The pros will be lucky next winter if the Pasadena Super Bowl isn't staged in one of those three-day rainstorms that often plague Southern California in mid-January.

By the late 1970s, in any case, the NFL can (and should) be playing its whole seven-game tournament indoors each winter.

There is only one reason to do this, and you can sum it up in a word: fairness.

An organization as prominent and influential as the NFL owes nothing less than simple justice and fairness to its members and fans.

it's our Anniversary

Heikal given rein

The Los Angeles Times
CAIRO — In a nation where criticism of the government is muted, Egypt's best-known journalist, Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, continues his self-appointed role as the nation's conscience almost with impunity.

He was stripped of his job as editor of the prestigious Cairo daily Al-Ahram after denouncing President Anwar Sadat's first disengagement agreement with Israel, and then lost his Al-Ahram pension a few months ago after terming the second Egypt-Israel pact a tragic mistake.

BUT HEIKAL has retained his personal freedom, can travel abroad, and his thoughts are widely published everywhere but in Egypt — where they are allowed to leak back in.

His account of the 1973 Israeli-Egyptian war, "Road to Ramadan," is selling well in England and Japan, is about to be published in the United States, and is being distributed in Arabic through the Middle East.

Some of his disclosures upset secrecy-prone Egyptian generals so much that Sadat has toughened penalties against exposing military information. But, he did not make it retroactive to Heikal.

At his comfortable Nile-side apartment, the 52-year-old confidant of the late Gamal Abdel Nasser, and adviser for a time to Sadat thereafter, aired views which coming from any other Egyptian today would be considered subversive.

FOR INSTANCE, Heikal contends that had Henry A. Kissinger stayed out of the negotiations, both Israel and the Arabs would be making more progress toward a fair peace.

He sees the Middle East conflict as too complex to be the stage for a "prima donna" — Heikal's description of Kissinger.

Heikal seems to delight in being provocative, and some consider him a shallow thinker. Regardless of his theatrics, he remains — and is allowed to remain — the preacher of Nasserism.

Nasser, before he died in 1970, aspired to be the leader of a unified Arab world. Even today most Arabists agree that if the Arabs could overcome their deep-set tribal differences and suspicion, solidify their military and political might, and use their oil wealth for added leverage, they could roll over Israel.

NASSER DURING the 1960s also changed Egypt, making it a socialist state. Unable to gain arms from the West, he accepted Soviet arms — and influence.

Since succeeding Nasser, Sadat has steadily dismantled Nasser's socialism, disengaged from the Russian bear hug and, as his recent state visits to the United States, England and France showed, aligned himself with the West.

Heikal disagrees with Sadat on almost every count — and says so, at $1,000 an article, syndicated as a weekly column throughout the rest of the Arab world.

TO HEIKAL, Sadat's two disengagement agreements with Israel, while getting him back some lost Egyptian territory and a promise of sizable American aid, have cost him much more — the contempt of his fellow Arabs.

Sadat has worked himself into a corner, Heikal said with characteristic simplicity. Sadat needs a policy which will give him options, he contended.

Chain-smoking cigars, Heikal advocated an immediate summit meeting of the 20 Arab heads of state as the forum where Sadat can work his way back into the Arab brotherhood.

He thinks such a pre-Geneva conference should ideally be hosted by Saudi Arabia, whose leaders are in contact with all factions and have not taken sides.

Reprisals promised for raids by Israelis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestine guerrilla command today promised "immediate reprisals" for the big Israeli air raid Tuesday, and the Lebanese and Egyptian governments asked the United Nations Security Council for an urgent meeting to take up charges of aggression against Israel.

The Palestinians said it was "the biggest attack in the history of Israeli assaults against Palestinians in Lebanon," and a message on behalf of Pope Paul VI called it an "inadmissible gesture of violence."

Lebanese police said seven more bodies were recovered today, bringing the toll to about 100 killed and more than 150 wounded in the attacks on refugee camps and guerrilla bases in northern and southern Lebanon.

A telegram sent to Lebanon on behalf of Pope Paul VI said the pontiff was deeply saddened by the attack, which he felt "exasperates tension in the region and Lebanon."

Pope Paul appealed to all sides to put an end "to similar acts and show moderation and a concrete will to favor the way toward pacification." Vatican Secretary of State Jean Cardinal Villot sent the telegram to the papal nuncio in Beirut, urging him to convey the Pope's condolences to Lebanese authorities and relatives of the victims.

Palestinian spokesmen said nearly half the victims were women and children living in camp hovels near guerrilla installations.

Lebanese Premier Rashid Karami appealed to world opinion "to deter the aggressor and purify society of arrogance and acts of violation of the rights of peoples."

He ordered Lebanon's delegation at U.N. headquarters in New York to ask for an urgent Security Council meeting to take up the aggression charges against Israel.

A rocket attack on several settlements in northern Israel was the first retaliation for the attack Tuesday. The Israelis said four border settlements were hit and that two men were injured slightly.

Although the Israeli command gave no reason for Tuesday's raids, they followed an increase in guerrilla attacks on Israeli border settlements. An Israeli military source said they were also a demonstration that Israel would meet the guerrillas "only on the battlefield" and not at the United Nations, where the Security Council said Sunday night that the Palestine Liberation Organization would be invited to participate in a council debate on the Arab-Israeli situation in January.

Hijackers still hold Dutch train

BEILEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Five Indonesians holding about 50 hostages aboard a hijacked train stranded in northern Holland opened fire on a would-be mediator today and released a Chinese cook with new demands.

More than 150 armed men ringed the train but kept out of range. Two persons were killed aboard the train shortly after the hijacking, and the men in the cordon made no attempt to get aboard.

The Chinese cook brought a message demanding an engineer for the train, food and drink for 55 persons, a bullhorn and medicine for an epileptic and a diabetic, officials said.

'Significant' talk held in Peking

PEKING (AP) — President Ford and China's acting premier held a "significant" talk "covering a wide range of international issues" today, the White House reported.

It was the second business meeting between the visiting American leader and First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping. The White House said the session on the third day of Ford's five-day visit to China lasted 2½ hours, half an hour longer than their first meeting on Tuesday.

Neither the President nor other sources gave any information about what the 81-year-old Chinese leader discussed. But it was assumed that he emphasized his government's fear that Soviet-American detente is being construed by Moscow as a green light for Soviet expansion in Asia.

Mao made small talk with Ford, his wife and daughter and seven American officials for 15 minutes, then sat down for an hour and 35 minutes of discussion with the President, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and three of their aides. A Chinese communique said they had "earnest and significant discussions ... on wide-ranging issues in a friendly atmosphere."

The hijackers opened fire on an official who drove toward the train in an attempt to open negotiations. One shot hit within 10 yards of the car, and the driver pulled back.

The Indonesians released four persons shortly after they took over the train, and three others escaped by jumping off. But police said a report that two other hostages jumped off and hid apparently was incorrect.

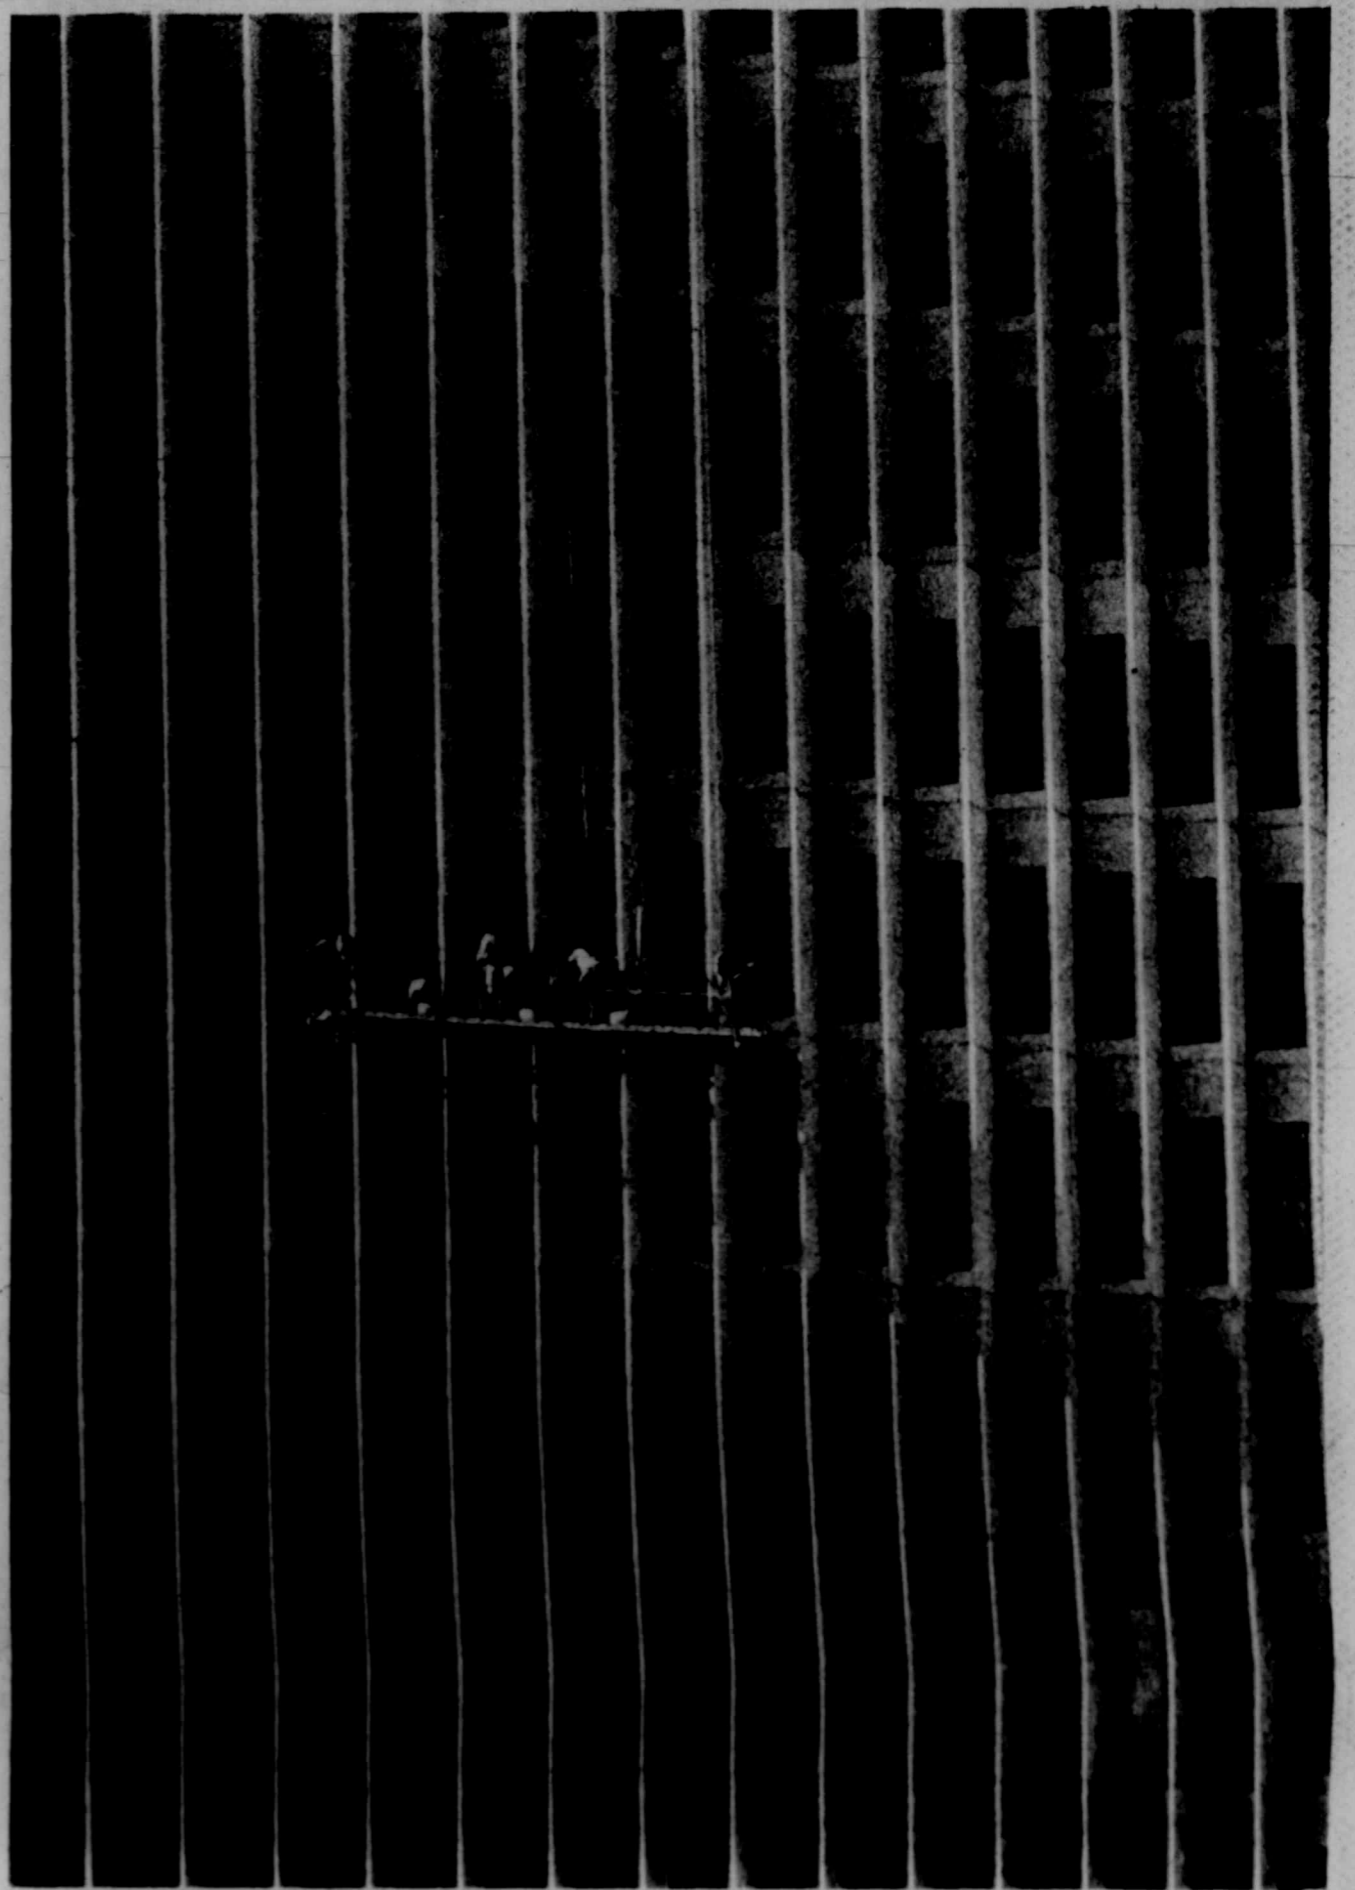

The Dutch government rejected an earlier demand from the hijackers that they be given safe conduct out of the country with some of their hostages.

"Significant" was also the word which Ford as well as the Chinese used to describe the President's talk Tuesday with Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

"It was a significant conversation," the President told newsmen. "It covered a very wide range of matters involving the international scene as well as our bilateral relations."

Neither the President nor other sources gave any information about what the 81-year-old Chinese leader discussed. But it was assumed that he emphasized his government's fear that Soviet-American detente is being construed by Moscow as a green light for Soviet expansion in Asia.

LATE NEWS

BANGKOK (AP) — The People's Congress of Laos has abolished the monarchy and the coalition government, Radio Vientiane announced today.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-one senators petitioned today to block a filibuster against President Ford's plan to aid New York City.

PARIS (AP) — Gunmen took a group of people hostages inside a bank near the Eiffel Tower after an attempted holdup today and demanded $2 million ransom and a getaway car.

Planning Commissions to become an overall plan. It will then go to the National Institute of Drug Abuse in Washington, D.C.

Vic Rhoads, PBPRC coordinator for alcoholism and drug abuse, said that in this way local input can be incorporated into the federal process of surveying drug abuse needs and providing services.

According to the survey, the first effect is the impact of the availability of drugs due mainly to this area's location. Two main thoroughfares cause the area to be influenced by transients, and the unemployment rate is considerably low.

Other important factors are the sparseness of population, the population concentrations in the counties separated by great distances and the proximity of the region to the Mexican border.

Seventeen counties in the Permian Basin region were surveyed in the study, including Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Loving, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Ward, Crane, Upton, Reeves, Pecos and Terrell.

According to the survey, the Anglo population of the region was heavily involved in all the various drugs with certain categories of drugs having other ethnic groups highly involved.

Results showed users of heroin and other opiates to be between the ages of 16-18 or 21-25, mainly men and Mexican-American or Anglo.

Users of barbiturates and other sedatives were predominantly in the ages of 16-25, equally men or women and mainly Anglo.

Amphetamines users were usually 14-20 years old, either men or women and mainly Anglo.

Cocaine use has almost doubled in influence from last year's data, the committee revealed. Its users are mainly from 16-25 years old and fairly equally distributed ethnically and in regard to sex.

Use of marijuana, hashish or grass seems to permeate every level of age, sex and ethnic background in the region, according to the survey. It also seems to be used more frequently, or more often than not, in combination with other drugs.

The last few months have seen rather large increases in the use of LSD, the committee reported. Users of hallucinogens, or psychedelic drugs, were mainly in the 14-20 age group, male and of Anglo background.

Psychotropic drug users were mainly white females over 21 years of age.

Users of inhalants, or chemical agents that can be sniffed, were mainly of age 18 or below, male and Anglo.

Users of over-the-counter drugs were largely in the 16-21 age group, male and of any ethnic background.

In the drug-by-drug survey of this region conducted by the committee for 1975, a total of 930 males and 315 females admitted to heroin use. For

Sadistic prankster on loose

By ED TODD

There was nothing really new or startling about the prank — just set the cat on fire and watch it run and jump.

Colorful and dazzling sight at night for someone.

Unbearably painful and fatal to the young feline.

Sad to the cat's newly-found friend.

And anger-evoking to the folks at the neighborhood Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA).

Some torch, huh, fella, you who doused the brown- and black-striped creature with gasoline and then set her blazing just off the side of the street in the 2000 block of West Washington Street.

Remember? Of course. That was between 10:30 and 11 Monday night. Funny.

$1.8 million expansion program announced by Trinity Towers

A $1.8 million expansion program for Trinity Towers was announced today by P. F. Bridgewater Sr., president of the board of directors.

A new five-story building containing 43,970 square feet will be constructed in front of the present building at 2800 W. Illinois St. It will add 75 additional living units and increase the health care beds from the present 24 to 50, Bridgewater said, adding:

"For several years now, Trinity Towers has had a waiting list of more than 100 individuals wanting to live in our beautiful complex."

"With this new addition we will be able to accommodate more of our senior citizens in addition to caring for those who are unable to care for themselves."

Bridgewater emphasized that Trinity Towers is not a nursing home. However, he pointed out, that as the residents grow older (the average age today is 81) the more likely they are to become ill.

"It is this group of individuals we are more concerned with today," he said. "We dislike very much having to notify responsible relatives that a person is no longer able to live at Trinity Towers and must be transferred to other facilities. With the additional health care beds, we will be able to look after many of the residents who are no longer able to care for themselves yet are not sick enough to be hospitalized," he added.

Opened in 1970, there are 102 men and women living at the Towers in one and two bedroom apartments in addition to the Tower building itself.

"The rentals in addition to annual gifts of members of the board and private donations, — enables us to operate in the black each year," he said.

"A capital fund campaign will be conducted early next year and we will be seeking pledges over a three year period from certain foundations, individuals and interested corporations in our service area."

Hofheinz wins Houston mayoral reelection bid

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Fred Hofheinz, successful in his bid for re-election, said today he is anxious to get his program for the next two years rolling.

Hofheinz, 37, campaigning on a platform of success in law enforcement, public transit and fiscal responsibility, defeated Frank Briscoe, a former Harris County district attorney, in a runoff Tuesday.

The race was close during the early returns but Hofheinz, riding a late vote from minority residential areas, surged to an unsurmountable lead.

Complete unofficial returns gave Hofheinz 137,456 votes and Briscoe 104,650. Hofheinz received 56.7 per cent.

Briscoe, 49, coming out of a 10-year retirement from public office, conceded about two hours after the polls closed.

"It's a victory for the people of Houston," Hofheinz said. "We not only won, we really won."

He said Houston will be a "better city" the next two years.

"We made it a very good race," Briscoe said. "We started from nowhere against an incumbent mayor with an entrenched black vote of support. We've run a good race."

"You do the best you can and the trick is to be satisfied with your efforts."

Briscoe had charged that Hofheinz increased the city's budget by 47 per cent in two years and built a political machine by adding hundreds of persons to the city's payroll.

Briscoe said it was not the proper time to think about the possibility of running again in 1977.

U.S. Judge Ben Connally dies while hunting on ranch

HOUSTON (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled Thursday morning for U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Connally, a firm believer that conferences in chambers were an effective means of expediting cases.

Connally, who would have been 66 Dec. 28, died Tuesday while on a South Texas hunting trip.

A family spokesman said Connally died of a heart attack while hunting on the Encino Division of the King Ranch. He was pronounced dead at a Falfurrias hospital.

Hunting with him were his wife, Sally Connally, and two other judges for the Southern Judicial District of Texas, Judge Owen D. Cox of Corpus Christi and Judge Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville.

Survivors also include a son, Tom, and a daughter, Louise Connally Storm.

U.S. District Judge Allen B. Hannay of Houston, who had known Connally for more than 35 years, said he was "a great lawyer, a great judge. He was a very keen-minded person. He was a person of great energy and a hard worker."

Connally announced his formal retirement last Dec. 28 but had continued to handle cases in Houston under his status as a senior judge.

He had been a federal judge since 1949 and lawyers knew he would be strict, firm and fair when ruling on requests for delays.

"If you don't dispose of cases, you don't dispense justice," Connally once said.

He was born in Marlin, the son of the late U.S. Sen. Tom Connally. The elder Connally wept when he stood outside the Senate chambers in 1949 and received word of the Senate confirmation of his son's appointment by President Harry S. Truman. The senator had not participated in the proceedings. Connally was 39 at the time of his appointment the youngest federal appointed judge in the Southern District.

Connally handled the integration suit involving the Houston Independent School District, the nation's sixth largest. The case originally was filed in 1966 and Connally made it clear from the start he opposed mass bussing.

"I am unalterably opposed to such procedure and would impose this upon the school district only if specifically required to do so by an order of a higher court," he said in a 1970 ruling.

He guided the district through several integration formulas and eventually approved a magnet school system involving 35 schools that offer special courses.

The magnet system replaced a formula under which youngsters from 25 elementary schools were bused from one school to another.

Geo. H. Lewis & Sons funeral home will be in charge of funeral services scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday.

Rains continue

By The Associated Press

The rain that has plagued the Northwest continued today with heavy downpours over the western half of Washington. Snow flurries, occasionally mixed with rain, continued in the northern Rockies.

Flood waters surged through the streets of many towns in western Washington while mud and snow slides forced the closing of some of the state's major highways Tuesday.

At least 250 families were evacuated from their homes and a mayor and one county official asked to have their districts designated disaster areas.

The heavy rain was expected to slack off, causing the rivers to recede slowly.

Below-zero temperatures reached the Arrowhead region of Minnesota early this morning. Frost stretched from the northern half of the plains into the Ohio Valley and the mountains of South Carolina.

In the West, temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in the Pacific Coast states and cooler in the higher elevations.

Clouds covered the northern plains, the Great Lakes states and the Ohio Valley. Snow flurries swirled in the upper Mississippi Valley, and along the lower Great Lakes. And patches of fog formed during the night over a portion of the central plains.

Temperature extremes ranged from 71 at Key West, Fla. to 10 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Dallas lawyer nominated to succeed Sarah T. Hughes

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas lawyer Patrick J. Higginbotham, who was named Tuesday by President Ford to succeed U.S. District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes, said, "No position offers a greater opportunity for a lawyer to serve his country."

The nomination is subject to Senate confirmation. If approved, the 37-year-old Higginbotham would be the youngest sitting federal judge.

A native of Alabama and a graduate of the University of Alabama Law School, Higginbotham received extensive recommendations from Dallas lawyers, civic leaders and politicians, including Sen. John Tower, R-Tex. Tower recommended Higginbotham to Ford last August when Judge Hughes announced her retirement from active duty on the bench at the age of 78.

"I'm grateful the President has expressed his confidence in me and for the recommendation of Sen. Tower," he said.

Higginbotham, whose practice has been in civil litigation, was involved in an American Bar Association study on freedom of the press and shield laws and wrote a dissenting opinion which essentially was adopted as ABA policy. He concluded in the study that there is a greater threat to First Amendment freedoms through shield laws.

Judge Hughes was appointed to the federal bench at the age of 65 by President John F. Kennedy. At the time, the appointment encountered opposition from the ABA, which said she was too old.

She became nationally known when she administered the oath of office to President Lyndon Johnson after the Kennedy assassination.

Rockefeller, Connally to speak at GOP meet

HOUSTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and former Texas Gov. John Connally will be among speakers at next week's Southern Republican Conference.

There also is speculation that both President Ford and Ronald Reagan might attend the Dec. 12-13 meeting to discuss the 1976 campaign with Republicans from 12 southern states.

The tentative schedule for Dec. 13 lists speeches by special guests at both a luncheon and an evening banquet prompted speculation that Ford and Reagan might attend although neither is listed on the agenda.

The conference, sponsored by the Southern Association of Republican

State chairmen, is designed to provide informal discussions by party leaders and elected officials at all levels.

Both Connally and Rockefeller are to give keynote addresses at the afternoon and evening sessions Dec. 12.

Others expected to participate in the conference include Mary Louise Smith, the national Republican chairman, Agriculture Secy Earl Butz, Republican Govs. James Holshouser of North Carolina, Mills Godwin of Virginia and James Edwards of South Carolina, eight U.S. Senators and 28 members of the U.S. House.

The conference was organized six years ago and has previously been held in New Orleans, Memphis and Atlanta.

Utility panel says two firms planning markup

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The state public utility commission says it has learned that two electric companies are illegally adding—or planning to add—to consumers' bills the assessment they are required to pay for the commission's upkeep.

It indicated there might be others. The commission said it received a consumer complaint against Southwestern Public Service Co. of Amarillo and a voluntary disclosure from Houston Lighting and Power. Garrett Morris, chairman, issued a statement in which Erwin and commission member George Cowden concurred.

"It has come to my attention that certain utilities which will eventually come under the jurisdiction of this commission have already, are planning to, or are considering passing on to their ultimate consumers a rate increase equal to the assessment they are required to pay under the provisions of the Public Utility Regulatory Act of 1975," Morris said.

The assessment is one-sixth of one per cent of the companies' gross revenues.

Morris said a utility would be violating its rate schedule unless the appropriate regulatory body—in most cases city governments—approved the passthrough of the assessment.

"The commission lacks jurisdiction presently to act in this matter, but it is my opinion that it is an improper passthrough," Morris said.

He said he believed an individual consumer would have legal standing to file suit to block such a passthrough.

Mrs. Martin, at 80, goes like 60 in her job as newlyweds' adviser

By CAROLYN COIL
Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — Anyone who wants to keep up with Romayne Martin will have to be in good physical condition.

Mrs. Martin, who admits to being "over 80," is an interior decorator whose clients are scattered all over Southern California.

When she gets a call from a client, she gets in her blue station wagon and drives there.

And no job's too small for her. Mrs. Martin says she likes to work with young people who are just beginning to buy furniture.

"I keep them from making mistakes," she says.

If newlyweds choose their first sofa carefully, they'll never have to buy another. They can just keep recovering it.

Mrs. Martin doesn't like corner groups or sectionals as they are too hard to rearrange. And before she buys a sofa for a client, she always checks the husband's height.

She wants to be sure the sofa is long enough for the man to stretch out on.

Some of her furniture, she says, has been in her family for five generations.

Oriental touches scattered throughout the 50-year-old house were collected by her ancestors who sailed clipper ships to China.

Other ancestors came west and provided their descendants with Indian artifacts.

The house with its wood paneling and stone entryway was the second one built in suburban Palos Verdes, says Mrs. Martin, adding that the trees blocking her view were ones she and her husband planted.

It was after her husband's death in 1928 that Mrs. Martin went to work.

"I found myself with a house to pay for and two children," says Mrs. Martin. "I told my mother I was going to apply for a job as a decorator. I told her that if I thought about it, I'd never do it."

She applied for the job at Bullock's and got it.

"I told them I'd had a fine education, traveled a lot and always ran things," she says.

Education played a big part in her life.

Mrs. Martin believes it was her fine education, plus exposure all her life to beautiful things, that got her that first job.

As a young girl, Mrs. Martin was sent to dancing school, carpentry school, cooking school and the Boston Conservatory of Music.

She also studied French, Latin and Greek, each for five years. When she graduated, her mother sent her to Europe with her own money to manage and an aunt as chaperone.

And she lived surrounded by old and beautiful things. Her neighbors were descendants of Paul Revere. Their house was filled with their ancestor's silver.

At home dinner often was served from antique dishes, which Mrs. Martin still uses.

"I never even saw any Victorian furniture," says Mrs. Martin, as she talks about the homes she visited while growing up. "The furniture was all older."

"I lived a very formal life. We always dressed for dinner."

But she was so shy as a young girl her mother was advised to help her daughter overcome her shyness by putting her in a school where she knew no one.

Mrs. Martin says she's felt comfortable anywhere ever since. The secret, she says, smiling, is not to take herself seriously.

When she tired of taking her children to school every day in Redondo Beach because there were no schools in Palos Verdes, she got busy and organized one.

Mrs. Martin went to the Los Angeles County superintendent of schools more than 50 years ago and suggested the first public school be started in Palos Verdes.

Mrs. Romayne Martin points to a painting of her grandmother done by her grandfather.

Season's parties under way for Minuet Club's 1975 debutantes

Parties honoring the Minuet Club of Midland's 1975 debutantes were held during the Thanksgiving holiday.

Kay Kennedy was honored with a cocktail-buffet given by Mr. and Mrs. William D. Kennedy in their home. "The Godfather" was the theme of the party.

Miss Kennedy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Branum of Midland and J. Franklin Kennedy of Sterling, Colo. William Kennedy will present his godchild at the presentation ball in December.

Rilly Dee, guitarist, provided music for the guests.

Three of the debutantes, Linda Yarborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Yarborough; Katchen Ruppe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ruppe, and Kay Magruder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H.

Magruder, were honored with two parties.

"A Morning in the Country" brunch was held in the Racquet Club, with Mrs. Lynn D. Durham and Mrs. F. H. McGuigan as hostesses.

Members of the house party wore matching bonnets and aprons. Decorations featured childhood pictures of the honorees.

The debs were honored by their parents with a barn dance in the stable at Morning Star Farm adjoining the Midland Polo Club. Stalls were converted into dining areas.

Desert cheese

Gorgonzola is a hard, blue-veined cheese made of cow's milk, which originated in the village of Gorgonzola, near Milan, Italy. Member of the family to which Roquefort, Stilton and Blue cheese also belong, Gorgonzola, like the other blue-veined cheeses, is used largely as a dessert cheese.

Cynthia Glaze party honoree

Cynthia Ann Glaze, bride-elect of Joseph E. Payne of Lubbock, was entertained with a miscellaneous shower.

The party was given in Lubbock by Pam Bohrer of Midland and Martha Darst and Laura Brittain, both of Terrell.

Miss Glaze is attending Texas Tech University. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Glaze of 3213 W. Denger St.

Miss Sparks, Martin wed

Winston Bell, minister of the Golf Course Road Church of Christ, officiated the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Prudi Sparks and Gary H. Martin held Nov. 27 in the home of the bride's parents.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Sparks, 4700 Wilshire and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Martin of Howe, Okla.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of candlelight linen fashioned with an Empire bodice, sweetheart neckline, Victorian sleeves and lace insets in the dress. She carried white gladiolus and lilies-of-the-valley surrounding a white orchid arranged atop a white Bible belonging to her mother.

Suzanne Sparks attended her sister as maid of honor. Best man was Bobby Hodges. Ricky Sparks, brother of the bride, lighted the candles.

A reception was held in the Sparks home. After a trip to Laredo, the couple is residing at 109 W. Wadley St.

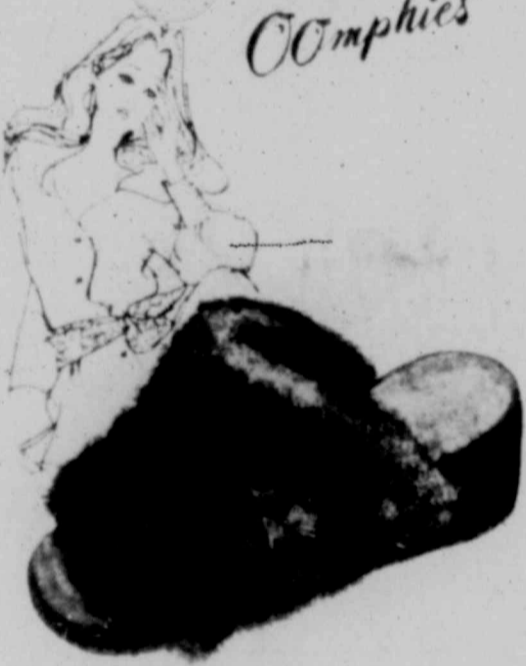

Special out-of-city guests included Mrs. Clyde Thomas, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Thomas, uncle and aunt of the bride, and her cousins, Jerry Thomas, Mike Thomas and Gary Thomas, all of Coleman.

Both are 1975 graduates of Lee High School. The bride is employed with Mr. Penguin Tuxedo Shop and the bridegroom is a self-employed welder.

other aspects of the petroleum business. "Since the Phillips decision in 1954, we have had federal control over the wellhead price of natural gas. While free market forces have not been permitted to operate with respect to domestic gas and oil, competing energy sources, foreign and domestic, have not been subject to price control.

Hearings under way in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Alabama securities Commission has begun hearings for 42 oil and gas companies prohibited from selling securities in the state because they failed to register their stock.

"It is interesting to consider what brought the first Europeans to our shores and what unifying forces they sared in common," O'Neill said. "First, hope for opportunity to improve one's condition in life in a new land. It may not be popular today in some circles to aspire to material benefits, but our forebears certainly did.

The oilman warned that tax laws can encourage and facilitate the formation of capital necessary for industrial expansion, or they can make business expansion impossible. "Our system was designed by a free and confident people. It has worked and will work. But we have unwisely allowed the role of the government to be expanded beyond the extent of its capability," O'Neill asserted.

Forest names two engineers

DENVER, Colo. — Forest Oil Corp. has announced the appointment of two senior petroleum engineers. Alanzo Remides will be located at Corpus Christi and will be involved in reservoir engineering and special studies which will entail projects throughout the Gulf Coast area.

"The expansion of governmental functions has proceeded at an astounding pace over this recent period, with no signs of abatement," he said. "It is no accident that as governmental activities have increased the relative productive capacity of this country has diminished.

Lamesa warehouse destroyed by fire

LAMESA — A lint warehouse at the Lamesa Cotton Oil Mill was destroyed Monday by a fire that firemen fought for almost 24 hours. Approximately 1,200 bales of mote cotton were burned, Allen Herzer, mill manager, said, in the fire which destroyed the building. Herzer was unable to give damage estimates.

Representative says railroad commits error

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Railroad Commissioners should have refused to let LoVaca Gathering Co. pass through increased costs for natural gas, Rep. Lane Denton, DWaco, says. Denton talked about the increased rates Tuesday after announcing his candidacy for a commission vacancy.

"I would have voted against the rate increase and I would have advocated a strong investigation," he said. Later Denton added he would vote to repeal the rate order were he elected. The Railroad Commission issued an interim emergency rate order in 1973 which let LoVaca increase costs despite contracts with various customers.

Precious energy going to waste 'up chimney'

Americans may drive smaller cars and cut down on their heating and lighting, but there's still a lot of precious energy going to waste "up the chimney."

Much of the loss could be prevented by better building design. To this end a new procedure for the design of new buildings which would permit them to operate more efficiently, yet comfortably, using an average of 25 per cent less energy, has been prepared by the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers, Inc. (ASHRAE).

Standard 90-75 will save energy by (1) improving the insulation efficiency of the building envelope (walls, ceiling, floors and windows) of new structures; (2) qualifying the type, size, efficiency of heating, ventilating and air conditioning equipment; (3) setting efficiency requirements for commercial water heaters and the level of indoor and outdoor illumination. The standard also considers the use of "nondepleting" energy sources, such as solar and wind energy.

Bill designed to relieve anticipated gas shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commerce Committee is sending to the House floor a bill designed to relieve natural gas shortages anticipated for the next two winters by temporarily removing federal price controls.

Rep. John D. Dingell, DMich., said the bill "should help alleviate the threatened unemployment consequences of natural gas shortages...while protecting the individual homeowner from higher prices."

Tuesday would allow interstate pipelines experiencing the most severe shortages to purchase additional supplies of natural gas from intrastate producers.

Prospectors scheduled in New Mexico sectors

Prospectors sites have been staked in Roosevelt, Eddy and Lea counties, New Mexico. Allen K. Trobaugh of Midland, will drill No. 1 W. V. Hutcherson, a 10,000-foot Pennsylvanian test, three miles southwest of Pennsylvania production in the Milnesand field in Roosevelt.

firm's No. 41 Big Eddy, an active test, drilled to 12,661 feet, and which currently is shut in. Location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 35-21s-28e.

Intrastate producers are unwilling to sell their gas at the lower, regulated interstate rates. Since 1954, the major oil companies, which produce the bulk of natural gas in the United States, have sought to have price controls removed from all natural gas.

South Plains sectors gain wildcat projects

Wildcats have been scheduled in four South Plains counties. Texas Crude, Inc. will drill No. 1-4 Murray as an 8,000-foot venture in Floyd, five miles south of Floydada.

Evening Lions hear Bill Reid

The Evening Lions Club Tuesday heard a program by Bill Reid, president of the District 2-A1 Lions Eye Bank Inc. Reid's talk explained the history of cornea transplants, the process of the operation and the qualifications for eligibility.

Company seeks plant approval

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Southwestern Public Service Co. of Texas is seeking New Mexico Public Service Commission approval to build a electrically generating power plant in Amarillo, Tex.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 21-8s-34e, seven miles southwest of Milnesand townsite. EDDY PROJECTS Perry R. Bass, operating from Dallas, will drill two Delaware tests in Eddy.

It spots 660 feet from north and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 32, block G, C&M survey, surrounded by production in the Felmac (Yates) gas field. Ground elevation is 3,275 feet.

Some of the electricity generated at the Amarillo plant would go to New Mexico cities including Roswell, Clovis, Portales and Carlsbad. The Southwestern plant would be coal-fired, and the power it produced would supplement or replace electricity generated from a gas-fueled station, a spokesman said.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 2,080 feet from east lines of section 25-22s-28e, a twin to the firm's No. 43 Big Eddy, a 13,100-foot failure.

TERRY TEST Saxon Operating Co., Midland, staked site for a 3,300-foot try in Terry, 12 miles southeast of Brownfield. It is No. 1 Mary French.

The ruling was handed down in a case involving participation by El Paso Electric Co. and Public Service Co. of New Mexico in construction of a nuclear generating station near Phoenix, Ariz.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 4, block G, TW&G survey, with no production in the vicinity. Ground elevation is 3,162 feet. GARZA PROJECT MCM staked site for No. 1 Jimmy Bird, an 8,000-foot prospector, in Northeast Garza, 1 1/4 miles north of the Barron Ranch (Strawn and Ellenburger) field, but separated by failures.

Drill site is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 31, block 7, H&GN survey, abstract 181, 15 miles northeast of Post.
