Polishing wheels made of these gems would be rather costly. But corundum conglomerated with oxide of iron, fragments of mice and ered with dust? Come, now, you other mineral particles is called emery.' And this is hard enough for abrading, grinding and polishing. The original emery is pounded up I have his picture inside.' and passed through wire sieves of different mesh. To make emery wheels, buff wheels or glazers, the emery powder is mixed with gum shellac, silicate of soda or vulcanized rubber.

A remarkable source of supply of impalpable emery flour is the air of the room in which emony is being broken and assorted. The room is closed, the inconceivably small particles of emery settle on surfaces, and this fine flour is collected in small quantities and is of great value in refined polishing.

Incidentally, this fact reveals the kind of materials that enter the lungs of the workers in factories. For centuries emery has been secured in India, Asia Minor and other oriental places, but sources have been discovered in Georgia and North Carolina.

The sparks thrown off by an emery wheel are incandescent particles of the metal worn away by friction. The quantity of heat is not great, for the hand can be held in a stream of the Aving, giowing particles without injury. The intensity of heat in each particle for an instant is great, but the masses of metal are so minute that heat sufficient to do much harm cannot develop .- New York American,

A STORY OF TILIERS.

One Man the Famous Statesman Didn't Impress In the Least.

An amusing instance of the stagnation and alcofness from the world that sometimes settle on people and places alike is given by Lady Dorothy Nevill in her book, "Under Live Reigns." Writing of the middle of the last century, Lady Dorothy savs:

knew little of men famous in the pillow lose has been acquired: political world. This is well shown by a story of M. Thiers stopping at Luxembourg while on a journey.

"The burgomaster came forth to do him honor, and hy way of complimenting him Thiers was born It should be exactly the same as the When the father has chosen a at: Marseilles-mentioned that an old man, a Marseillais, had performed the function of schoolmaster in the town for twenty years. The ex-minister desired to be introduced to him.

"Thiers began, 'Do you not know me?'

"'No, sir.'

"'You don't remember little Adolphe Thiers, one of your pupils at Marseilles ?'

"Wait-wait; yes, I do recollect such a name-a sly little monkey who used to play such pranks!'

"'Just so.'

"'Ah, it is you? I am very glad to see you. Have you succeeded?' "'Sufficiently so, I thank you.'

"'So much the better-so much the better! Pardon my curjosity. 1 should like to know what you have been doing. Are you a notary? Banker? Merchant?

"And this was glary! The old man had never heard of Thiers, minister of the interior; Thiers, minister of commerce; Thiers, minister of foreign affairs, or of Thiers, author of the 'History of the Con-sulate and Empire!' "

And He Kept It.

A man who was once in the plumbing business told the following story on his lawyer: "My lawyer," said he, "came into my place
