CHAPTER XVII.

Father Lucien Preaches.

Father Lucien had grown very fond of Hilary. He did not know what to do. Hilary was in the woods now, and almost inaccessible. The cure had not even time to wrangle with. His days passed in dejection. Moreover, the matter of Ste. Marie bothered him. Father Lucien had been feared out of the village, and he knew that if the bishop heard of it he would be transferred to another parish. Father Lucien loved St. Boniface, and he had spent all his life.

He had sent to Quebec to look on single-stick exercises, and he had seen advertised in an English magazine. He had become interested, and had fashioned a fine single-stick from a plant hazel bough. Father Lucien followed the instructions given in the book with patient care, and with the best results. He was very thorough in all that he did. His muscles began to grow, his physical health became excellent. Soon he became quite expert. It was a slight to see the cure practicing lunges in the seclusion of his study, among the theological volumes; but nobody had seen him except his old housekeeper, and it took several minutes to convince the old lady that her revered charge had not gone suddenly insane.

Father Lucien had read down his single-stick exercises, and he brought him a letter from an unknown handwriting. A letter which was important in the cure's day. It was on his relations, and began to read: "It was from the priest at St. Joseph, and stated that Nanette Bonna had given him the full story of the adventures upon the island, together with an account of the activities of Pierre and Simeon Duval.

Had his Father Lucien had known conditions at Ste. Marie, he had never hesitated at the relations which Nanette had made to his confessor. His indignation spilled over, and he paced the study in agitation for several minutes. At last, struck with an inspiration, he took up his single-stick, put on his cap, fur coat, and snowshoes, and started off toward Ste. Marie.

It was not an hour later when the few leaves of Simeon's saloon looked up to see the cure standing in the doorway. The lumbermen had gone into camp for the winter the glories of the dance hall had faded and disappeared, but Simeon still did a thriving liquor business. He greeted the cure with a flourish, and his pale blue eyes blinking with mock humility.

"Come in, father," he said suavely. "We don't often see you here. What will you have? A drop of gin? A little brandy, boy? Or maybe you're looking for some of the girls to dance with?"

The men grinned and nudged each other. It is not often that one sees a cure batted.

"You're a sport, father," said Simeon. "What sort of stick do you call that, with a knob each end?"

"I shall come to that later," answered the cure. "Simeon, Simeon, how often have I spoken to you about the evil that you are doing here! It is a statutory offense to sell liquor without a license, but it is an offense against God to run this sort of place. Simeon, for the good of your soul, do you not close down this place and lead a different life?"

The mild words and humble figure of the old priest were so different that nobody could conceal his amazement any longer. A roar of applause shook the shack. Simeon yelped.

"I'll think about it," said Simeon. "You may be very sick at any moment, Simeon, without expecting it."

"I'll take the chances of that," answered Simeon.

"Simeon, I am growing tired of speaking to you. Do you know that your house is a plague-spot in this village? Simeon, for the last time, won't you close up for good and all?"

"Ah, father, you mean all right," said Simeon, "but that's your job. I bet you're just as much a sport as anybody here, if only you let yourself go. Come on now, and get into a game with us."

"Simeon," said Father Lucien, "you were asking me about this stick. I'll show you what it's for. Look!"

Smack! went the hazel knob on Simeon's head. Simeon was so flabbergasted that he fell back against the plank table. As for the cure, he seemed transfixed. Holding the single-stick in the middle, he twisted it until it looked like a knobby streak of light, while he pronounced like a Jew.

In reality he was going through the important foot exercise marked combination 5; but nobody knew that.

"Come on, Simeon," said Father Lu-

With a howl of wrath Simeon came forward, and the singlestick descended on his head with a thud that was heard, neighbors said afterward, across the street. Another thud from the other end; and Simeon was blinking up at the cure from the floor.

"Get up, Simeon; I'm going to cure your soul," said the cure. "Are you going to close down?"

Simeon struggled to his knees. With an unenvied agility he dodged the singlestick (movement 19 had always bothered the cure) and rushed forward with arms extended, like a bear. But Father Lucien had movement 17 pat, and movement 17 is especially designed for this. Placing the right toe against the left heel, he made a half turn. Smack! Simeon was reclining against the counter, his hands over his head, and blood streaming through his fingers.

"Simeon, Simeon," said the cure

(Smack, smack!) "Are you going to close down?"

(Smack, smack!) "Are you going to close down?"

Simeon lifted up his voice in a long, melancholy howl. He struggled feebly to his feet, and instantly went down again under a terrific blow across the right ear (movement 22A).

"Is your soul better, Simeon?" asked Father Lucien.

Simeon blinked up into the ring of faces about him. It was an extraordinary thing, but though everybody seemed very much interested in his predicament, nobody showed any signs of interfering to help him. Public opinion was very fickle in Ste. Marie.

"Now you may get up, Simeon," said the cure, and Simeon hastened to obey. His eyes traveled quickly in the direction of an empty brandy bottle upon the counter. If he could get it into his hand.

Smack! went the singlestick, and Simeon was down again with a roar like a poleaxed bull.

"What did you do that for?" he whimpered.

"I'm helping you the best way I know, Simeon," answered the cure mildly. "Are you going to close down?"

"I'll have you arrested," Simeon yelled. "I'll write to the bishop about you."

Crash went the singlestick. "Are you going to be arrested?" inquired Father Lucien.

"No," muttered Simeon, covering his head with his hands.

Crash! Simeon's hands flew apart as if they were attached to springs. "Are you going to write to the bishop?" asked the cure.

"No," said Simeon, "for the sake let me go, you d---"

For Tax Assessor.

To the Voters of Sutton County:
Although I would like to see each voter in the County in person, it is practically impossible for me to do so, and I am therefore, addressing this to you in behalf of my candidacy for the office of Tax Assessor of Sutton County, and I trust that if I do not get to see you in person, you will realize my handicap and take this letter as a personal solicitation and appeal for your vote and support.

I have lived in Sutton County for the past ten years and I think that it is needless for me to tell you who I am, but in view of the fact that this is a general letter and that some of the voters may not be personally acquainted with me, I wish to say that I am a widow and have three children. I have never been in the race with the expectation of receiving your support because of the fact that I am a widow, but am making the race because I feel that I can competently discharge the duties of the office, and I wish to assure you, that if you give me your support, I will most gratefully appreciate it and endeavor at all times to make the office an efficient office.

With reference to the question of property conditions and assessments, I wish to say that I am in favor of low taxes as possible, but I understand that the tax assessor of the past, to place a lien upon the property, and I should respect your support and

THE BAPTIST REVIVAL.

The revival meeting in progress under the tent on the court house square will continue until Sunday night. Dr. E. F. Lyon of San Angelo is doing some great preaching. The people of Sonora are attending in goodly numbers. The stores and places of business are closing for the day services. The hours of service are; 10 to 11 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Prof. E. H. Hathorn, son of Pastor Hathorn, is leading the singing.

These services are pitched on a high plane. Dr. Lyon makes no effort to be sensational. His appeals are earnest and honest. He tries to stick to the Bible and succeeds in the effort. The way of salvation and the essential principles of right living are taught with power and spiritual fervor. This kind of sane, sound and wholesome evangelism is bound to do good. You are cordially invited to attend. A cool tent, good music and excellent preaching are yours just for the coming. Pastor.

Sonora played its first base ball game last Friday and lost to its old time rival, Eldorado, by a score of 7 to 3. No team work is given as the excuse of our boys, which is a fact, but at the same time we must not underestimate the enemy. Eldorado has a good team this year and its going to take pep, practice and perseverance to bring the banner back to Sonora. The line up in the game Friday for Sonora was: G. Roes; H. Veltman, p; E. H. Hathorn; A. B. Stokes, 2b; V. Hamit; W. G. ...

Prizes at the Sheep & Goat Meeting.

Sonora sheep and goat breeders were prominent in exhibiting and as prize winners at the Annual Sale of the Sheep & Goat Raisers Association at San Angelo last week. R. E. McWilliams of Talpa, Texas won the Champion Rambouillet ram prize. This was in the 2 years old and over age and was a horned animal. The second was awarded to O. W. Cardwell of Christoval, the third to T. B. Adams of Sonora, the fourth to W. S. Hansen of Collington, Utah and fifth to D. T. Hanks of San Angelo. Hanks won first in under two year old and O. W. Cardwell took first, second and third in ram lamb with T. B. Adams fourth and C. C. Townsend fifth. Hanks had the champion ewe, with Hansen second, third and fourth. Hansen won first with ewe one and under two years, McWilliams 2nd, T. B. Adams 3rd, Hanks 4th and McWilliams 5th. T. B. Adams took 1st with ewe lamb, Townsend 2nd and 3rd, Adams 4th and Townsend 5th. The Three Big Rambouillet lambs, born in 1919 McWilliams was first and Adams second. This was the first show in which Adams has exhibited.

The Delaine exhibit also was good and the Champion Ram and Ewe was won by Will Hale, D. T. Hanks of San Angelo won in the two years and over, second in the one year and under two and first in ram lamb.

William Riddell & Son of Month, Oregon took first and 3rd and Sonora Experiment Station second in Angora Buck two years old and over, in long mohair. In the same class, but clipped or in short mohair, John A. Ward of Sonora was first, C. A. Pepper of Rocksprings 2nd and E. E. Stricklen of Juno 3rd. J. A. Ward of Sonora took 1st and 3rd in long mohair buck, one year and under two, Wm. Riddell & Son 2nd. In the short mohair, same age, B. E. Taylor of Carlsbad, N.M., formerly of Sonora, was first with Ward 2nd and the Sonora Experiment Station third. N. H. Skaggs of Junction took first, second and third in the buck kid class. Riddell was first with Doe in long hair, 2 years and over, and Mrs. M. Armer of Kingston, N.M., second. In short hair, same class J. A. Ward took first and second. Ward also took first in Doe, one year and under two, long hair, Sonora Experiment Station 2nd and Ward 3rd. R. E. Taylor 1st J. A. Ward 2nd and Skaggs 3rd in same age but in short hair, Skaggs was 1st and Ward 2nd in doe kids. R. E. Taylor of Carlsbad, N.M., formerly of Sonora took the Champion Doe prize.

Apart from the awarding of prizes for the sheep and goat fleeces much interest was manifested in the quality of wool and mohair shown at the convention. A close examination was not necessary to determine the quality of the product of the sheep and goats of the Western part of Texas and the advance that has been made in this particular which easily accounts for the high cost of the animals that produce these fleeces. Wool and mohair is no longer just so much dirt, grease and waste but a commodity of intrinsic value the equal of the best grown in the world. A more extensive exhibit with more time devoted to it should be a feature of the next Convention. The Department of Agriculture should send their exhibit and a lecturer to explain to us the necessity for caring for the fleeces and the class from which the various breeds and hairs are grown and the climatic conditions which they are most favored by.

The new building for the Sonora Hotel has been completed. The building is a fine structure and is due to arrive at any time. The Architect, A. R. Swartz of San Angelo is working night and day on the plans and specifications and as the three stories are to be built of dimensions sufficient to support another story there has had to be the most careful engineering work to know the strength of steel necessary. The delay is having its advantage however, as some of the materials have come down in price.

PRIMARY CAUSE OF UNREST

With the Passing of "Small Business" Went the Feeling of Community Interest, Which Meant So Much.

Article VIII.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

Not many years ago something happened which changed the relations between employer and employee. That happening had a marked effect upon industrial discontent. Something was lost out of the relation between the owner and the men who worked for him. The human element, the personal touch, between the boss and the workers stopped. With its passing unrest grew with great vigor. It was a new kind of unrest, too. It was a lasting, determined, resolute discontent. This came to pass in the day that small business entered the twilight.

In the day of the small plant, business was owned and run by a man, or a number of men, doing business as a partnership. These men lived in the community in which their men lived. They worked with their men. In the front of the plant was the one of the Boss. He was on the job. He wasn't a hired boss, either—he was the real boss—the owner. The sign under which the business was run bore his name. It identified him with the business. The Boss had his home in the city in which the plant was located. His children went to the public school, frequently to the same school to which the children of his workmen went. If he was a church-going man—and generally he was—he and his family went to religious services on Sunday to the same church that many of his men and their families attended. The men who worked for him knew him, at least to the extent of recognizing him when they saw him. He knew many of them, and recognized them with a nod or a "Good morning," when he saw them on the street. Few people realized how much this meant to harmonious relations in the industrial world. Coen working men had a grievance, they thought they had, they took it over to the Boss. He talked it over with them. He was reasonable and fair. If the complaint was well founded, he was ready to make a concession. He had had his say. He was a human being by a business—so did the Boss.

Regulated by Public Opinion. In the day of small business, the owner of a factory or plant who had a man making a wage was a marked man in the community. Public opinion chastised him for his selfishness and inhumanity. The people said he was a sweated, a slave driver, and held him in contempt. They contrasted his good clothes, the style of his family and his fine mansion, with the rags his working men wore, the hovels in which they lived. He was pointed out, hated, despised. The thought of the community was that it would be better for him and his to give up some of their excess luxury and give the men living wages. The disgrace fell not only upon his head, but it followed his wife and children. When they went to church they were looked upon as hypocrites, for all the people knew that every day in the week he was insulting the Christ he pretended to worship on the Sabbath. Few men are so thick-skinned as not to feel the lash of public opinion. It isn't easy to bear the hate of one's neighbors. It is natural for men to want the good opinion of their fellows. In the day of small business, public opinion held a lash over the inhuman and greedy, kept hirers of men human, but in the progress of the world the small employer was doomed to go.

The partnership passed off the stage, and with it the personal touch between employer and employees. The corporation, a soulless body, was born of the law. It absorbed small plants and small businesses. It collected under a single roof thousands of men. The corporation, the combination, the trust, had come. This new order of doing business on a large scale was efficient—economical. It eliminated waste and duplication. It was a great, smooth-running machine. It represented progress in doing the world's work.

The corporation never did not disclose the owner of Big Business. It was an impersonal, inhuman thing. Frequently the stockholders did not live in the cities where the plants were located. The real owners were unknown to employees and public. Many of the large shareholders had never seen the plant. The men who worked in the plants had never seen the men for whom they worked. The man actually running the business was only an employee. He was paid a large salary and it was made plain to him when he was hired that his salary and his job depended on his ability to make profits. The corporation was organized for millions of dollars. The manager was expected to make dividends. The larger the dividend checks, the higher he was rated. His tenure of job and salary

Common Duty Before All. It should be the sublime duty of all without thought of partisanship, to help in building up the new world where labor shall have its just reward and indulgence along shall suffer want.

Notice to Trespassers. Notice is hereby given that all trespassers on my ranch east of Sonora for the purpose of setting traps, hauling wood or hunting dogs without my permission, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

were measured by this definition of success. To make profits it is necessary to keep down the cost of production. The principal item in the cost of production is the labor charge, the wages of the men. The employee manager set himself to his task. One object, one thought, was always before him—keep down wages. He drilled this idea into his staff, his superintendents, his foremen. The first commandment of Big Business to him was "make dividends or quit."

Evil in Over-Capitalization. Frequently these large industrial corporations were greatly overcapitalized. A corporation representing an actual investment of $100,000,000 was organized for $500,000,000. It didn't take a financier to see that $400,000,000 of its capitalization was wind, water, fake—a lie. The law that gave the corporation a right to exist forgot to keep it under control. The stock was sold, shares representing fiction as well as those representing value. The Captain of Industry spoke of the $400,000,000 of overcapitalization as a "melon." The law should have written it down larceny. The selling of this stock was nothing more or less than obtaining money under false pretenses. When a working man obtained bread under false pretenses he was sent to jail. When honest men cried out against this grand larceny they were called muckrakers, agitators, and charged with promoting unrest, disturbing business. If this did not silence them, paid publicity told the world that the stock was held by widows and orphans; that the attacks upon it were efforts to rob them.

The state, the law, the government, had given dollars the right to organize. A corporation is a union of dollars, exactly as a labor union is an organization of men. The men organized as a matter of self-defense. They knew the individual no longer had a chance to register his complaint with the owner and that as an individual the worker was utterly meaningless in such a large scheme. When he complained he was told, "Take things as they are, stop whining; if you don't like your jobs, quit. There are thousands of men waiting to step into your shoes."

One of the first things the corporation did was to deny to men the right the law gave it—the right to organize. In defiance of their attitude the men did organize and forged the strike as a weapon with which to fight for their rights. The law had not kept pace with the times. It failed to furnish protection. It failed to furnish reasonable control over these powerful big combinations. The men asked for the privilege of collective bargaining. It was a simple request, a just one; its meaning is clear. The men wanted the right to appoint a committee to represent them and discuss with the men who hired them the terms of employment. The directors, generally men who never saw the plant, telegraphed the employee boss, the manager, a direction to refuse the demand for collective bargaining. There was only one reply the men could make. They made it. It was force—the strike. The last twenty-five years have been filled with strikes, which created waste and caused hate, which grew out of the refusal of Big Business to concede to men a right the law conferred on it, the right to organize.

Capitalistic Duplicity. When the cost of living forced men to ask for an increase in wages they were often met with the answer, "We can't afford it." The men could not afford to work longer for the wages they were getting, because they were unable to make both ends meet. The pay envelope was not large enough. The men pointed to the fact that the answer given by capital was not true. To show their good faith the capitalists told the general public, "We are only making 3 per cent on our capital; men who loan money get 5 per cent." They did not tell the people they were receiving 3 per cent on $500,000,000, while the real capital invested was only $100,000,000. The sweat of men was being used to pay dividends on $400,000,000. If the dividends earned were distributed over the capital actually invested, $100,000,000, the profits would have been shown in their true light. The reasonableness of the demand of the men would have been disclosed. It was a case of crooked capitalization, lying to protect its illegitimate gains. Big Business needs ethics—Captains of Industry need ideals.

Let me repeat, the law left the men helpless. They had only one course—Fight, Strike! Strikes cause great public inconvenience. The people smarting under hardships condemn and blame the strike. Strikes have another effect that is even worse. They harden hate between the classes feeling. Strikes are the result of the attitude of mind existing among men today who say they will work as possible for the money.

Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive, similar to this one from Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and just suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. Cardui had us get Cardui. I began improving, and it cured me. I know, and my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

She writes further: "I am in splendid health... can do my work. I feel I owe it to Cardui, for I was in dreadful condition." If you are nervous, run-down and weak, or suffer from headache, backache, etc., every month, try Cardui. Thousands of women praise this medicine for the good it has done them, and many physicians who have used Cardui successfully with their women patients, for years, endorse this medicine. Think what it means to be in splendid health, like Mrs. Spell. Give Cardui a trial.

DEVIL'S RIVER OIL & GAS COMPANY.

(UNINCORPORATED) SITUATED IN EDWARDS COUNTY, TEXAS. DOES THINGS DIFFERENT. STUDY OUR PLAN. A careful study of the Devil's River Oil & Gas Company's plan will convince the close student of investments that we are offering the BEST inducement in the OIL fields. Oil production in Texas fades the total gold production of Alaska in its best days into insignificance. Alaska's best production of gold was only $15,000,000.00, while Texas is producing about $150,000,000.00 worth of oil. The production is increasing so rapidly that it is conservatively estimated at $1,000,000,000.00 in 1930. NO time to get in the oil business in order to reap the early harvest. With 600 acres of oil lands to draw upon, we are participating in making big profits on our most liberal terms. PROFITABLE investments which we have in mind when you buy our shares. DELAY your investments. There is nothing more profitable than investing in the oil business. NOW and all in the
