SEASON'S INITIAL FOOTBALL GAME TO BE PLAYED HERE TOMORROW

Oil Station Buildings Under Construction

HUMBLE AND TEXAS COMPANIES ERECTING WAREHOUSES

Fifty thousand dollars are being spent here by two major oil companies for warehouses, tanks, etc. The Humble Oil & Refining Company is building a station at the junction of the O. S. T. and Sonora-Del Rio highways. The Texas Company is also having erected a warehouse and station just west of the Sweetwater Cotton Oil Company and due north of the Sonora Wool & Mohair Company's warehouse.

E. N. Cade, of Houston, is in charge of the Texas Company construction, and stated that his firm is spending about $30,000 for fire-proof warehouse 32x60 feet, two gasoline tanks and one kerosene tank with a capacity of 20,000 gallons each. Mr. Cade said the work would be completed about the first of November. Material for this job is being furnished by the local lumber companies, and home labor is being used. An agent will be sent here from the main offices in Houston.

L. N. Murphy, of Mineral Wells, has the contract for the Humble station, and said his work would be finished within the next two or three weeks. Humble is building a warehouse 30x40 feet, garage, and erecting two extra large oil tanks, all of which will represent an investment of approximately $20,000. C. A. Carr, agent of San Angelo, and C. S. Keene, of this city, will represent the Humble company here. West Texas Lumber Company and Wm. Cameron Lumber Company are furnishing material for the Humble.

It is very likely that the Magnolia will start work on their station here at an early date, it is thought.

W. L. ALDWELL DOING WELL AFTER OPERATION

W. L. Aldwell, president of the First National Bank of Sonora, is doing well as could be expected from an operation the latter part of last week in the All Saints Hospital in Fort Worth.

In May, Mr. Aldwell fell in his room after stepping on a magazine and breaking his right thigh bone. Since that time he has been practically confined to his bed and room.

Roy Aldwell was in Fort Worth Sunday to visit with his father. Mr. Aldwell was accompanied to Fort Worth by Dr. Wardlaw, physician of San Angelo, and who formerly practiced in Sonora.

Before his recent operation Mr. Aldwell took several automobile rides and was able to walk about some with the aid of crutches. Mrs. Aldwell has been in Fort Worth ever since Mr. Aldwell's accident.

HAMLIN DOCTOR VISITOR IN SONORA

Dr. N. J. Smith, M. D., of Hamlin, was here Wednesday, the guest of his son, Paul Smith, manager of the Sweetwater Cotton Oil Co. Dr. Smith said this was his first visit to Sonora, and was agreeably surprised with the town and this section in general. He paid the city many compliments, adding that progressive business men and citizens evidently composed the citizenry of Sonora. Dr. Smith is seeking a location, he said.

Roy and Rip Ward will join their friends, the younger society set of San Angelo, tonight at a formal dance at the Country Club. The dance is being given by Miss Jean Henderson honoring Miss Catherine Funk who is to be married October first to Dr. D. D. Wall of San Angelo.

Watch the Bronchos pitch! Come to the game tomorrow at 3:30.

H. P. C. to Play First Are Game

Ray Glasscock, of Sonora, Will Captain Team That Meets McMurry

Brownwood, Tex., Sept. 18.—The Yellow Jackets of Howard Payne College and the Indians of McMurry College will prize the lid off the 1930 football season here Friday night of this week in the first game between college teams under the arcs.

Under the direction of J. Horace Shelton, athletic director of Howard Payne College, the local gridiron has been lighted with the latest equipment in outdoor lighting appliances. Twenty powerful reflectors will be pouring their light on the turf Friday night when Captain Ray Glasscock, of Sonora, leads his teammates to battle.

McMurry always furnishes plenty of opposition for anybody's team and the Jackets are expecting a hard fight. The 1929 game in Abilene resulted in a scoreless tie although the West Texas boys soundly outplayed the Jackets and should have won.

Coach Cheaney has been handicapped this season by the absence of line coach Keaton who is laid up as the result of an automobile accident ten days ago. Cheaney has a veteran backfield in "Nig" McCarver, the fastest man in the Texas Conference, quarterback Johnnie Baker, Buck Gibbs, and "Hoot" Maseur. In addition he has a half dozen first and second year men that can perform creditably at carrying the ball. Cheaney's big job is finding a couple of tackles to plug up the gaping holes in his line left vacant by the departure last spring of Buster Brown and "Sloppy" Shelton and an end who can snare passes and stop the offensive plays of the opposition in the style of "Pug" Sanderlin, another casualty of last spring's graduation.

If Cheaney can build a line out of the limited material available this season the Jackets should go far in the conference race again this year.

Mrs. Z. C. Landrum and daughter, Aliene, have returned to their home in Beaumont after spending the summer with Mr. Landrum's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Eaton. They were accompanied as far as San Antonio by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Eaton and Miss Bertha Eaton.

TEACHERS AND FACULTY ARE LIONS GUESTS

Sonora welcomed the incoming teachers Monday at the Lions noonday luncheon, when nineteen new and old teachers were introduced by Lion "Buzzy" Stokes, chairman of the program committee. The new instructors were: Misses Loreen Moursand, home economics; Maurine Phillips, commercial subjects, physical education; Ione Reagan, intermediate; Helen Joiner, intermediate; Lucille DuBois, primary; Lucille Whitson, Mexican school; Dora Petmecky, third grade; Majorie Way, expressive; and Joe Berry, science and mathematics.

Among the teachers who are well known to Sonora and who have seen from three to ten years' service here were: M. O. Britt, superintendent, and Mrs. Britt, librarian; Ted M. White, coach and Spanish instructor; Misses Nan Casbeer, English; Annie Duncan, history; Vivian Ball, intermediate; Loula Belle Caldwell, second grade; E. R. Lawrence, animal husbandry; Miss Elizabeth Francis, piano, and Mr. Rogers, violin. Other visitors were Father Secco, Houston Stokes and Mr. Smith, manager of the Sweetwater Milling Company's new feed house located here. Following the introductions Miss Elizabeth Francis favored the club with two piano numbers.

Monday being the opening day of school, Supt. Britt said in response to a call for a speech, that he had been very busy all morning, had been to so many places in and around the school that he had not prepared a detailed report on school activities. He stated that all rooms were overflowing, and sited as an example one room in particular where there were 26 desks and 37 pupils. All lower grades were full, but no statement of number enrolled had yet been prepared. Mr. Britt said prospects for a good school year were fine. Speaking of the new high school building, the pride of Sonora Independent School District, he stated that the structure was far above Sonora's expectations of a year.

Texas Sheep Raisers Aim to Advertise

Steps Taken to Raise $72,000 Quota to Advertise Lamb Meat

San Angelo—Definite steps toward raising Texas' $72,000 quota toward a National advertising campaign to promote the consumption of lamb meat has been taken by the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association with the appointment of a committee to apportion the contributions. The members of this committee are Sol Mayer, Bob Martin, T. L. Drisdale, J. T. Baker, Ed Mayer, Vick Pierce and H. W. Rieck.

The total advertising fund, as decided upon by the National Wool Growers' Association recently in Salt Lake City, is $400,000 annually. This apportioned among the states on the basis of number of sheep in each state is estimated by the United States Department of Agriculture on January 1, 1930. Texas, with 5,500,000 head, leads the list with $72,000. She is closely followed by California, $51,395; Montana, $51,264, and Wyoming, $43,312.

At the meeting here E. S. Mayer stated that $133,000.00 had been spent in food advertising with National magazines during the last seven years and that only a small portion of this land had been for meat advertising.

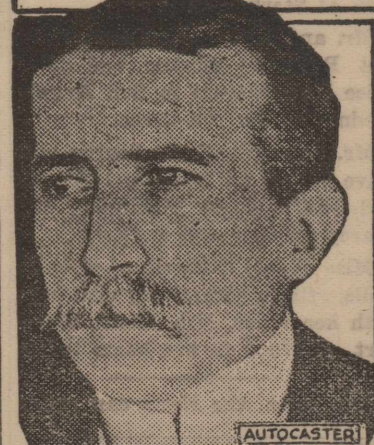

He declared advertising offered the only revenue through which the people could be won to the use of different kinds of food and called attention to the fact that meat consumption per capita in the United States is on the decline and that food habits are always changing under the influence of magazine advertising. He stated that we could double the meat consumption per capita in this country and then only reach a parity with Argentina, which now ranks first in the use of meat. The United States is in fifth place.

The committee was appointed to go ahead with the matter of raising the $72,000 fund, which will be assessed against the members on the basis of number of sheep owned.

Rostein Pfeister, who sustained a broken leg in an automobile accident in Del Rio several weeks ago, is at home and doing well. It will be sometime yet before he will be able to get about.

Bronchos Will Meet Rocksprings Eleven

Unemployed Total In U. S. Is 2,508,151

Two Per Cent of Nation's Population Was Unemployed Last April First

Washington—A total of 2,508,151 able-bodied Americans, comprising 2 per cent of the country's population, were listed by the Congress Bureau as unemployed last April and looking for work.

The total was announced on the basis of preliminary returns from every section of the country. The bureau explained that six other classes of unemployed were not included in the present total, but added that those "without a job" unquestionably constituted the bulk of those to be listed as unemployed.

Because tabulations have not been completed on the number of persons now gainfully employed, a definite comparison was not available. The bureau estimated, however, employed would approximate 4 per cent of the total population. This would bring the number idle to approximately 5 per cent of the normally employed population.

By states, the percentage of job-seekers ranged from 5.1 in South Dakota and Mississippi to 3.2 in Rhode Island and New Jersey and 3.3 in Michigan.

The other classes to be covered by the unemployment census include those having jobs, but laid off without pay; persons unable to work, those having jobs and voluntarily idle and vacationists and others drawing pay, but not at work.

The group laid off without pay was considered particularly important in coal-mining districts where the bureau reported a disposition on the part of the miners to report themselves laid off rather than jobless, even though they have done no work for a long period. Many in the group were believed to be in the same economic status of the job-seekers. A good portion also was expected to represent workers laid off for short periods for season or other temporary reasons. Other classes were not considered important in consideration of the unemployment problem, but will be included to avoid confusion.

MRS. IRA SHURLEY ENTERTAINS THURSDAY

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Ira Shurley entertained the Las Amigas contract bridge club at her home. Mrs. Collier Shurley received high club and Mrs. E. F. Vander Stucken was awarded high guest.

A salad course was served to Mesdames Albert Crowley, J. D. Westbrook, Collier Shurley, Robert Brusenhan, E. F. Vander Stucken, Will Wilkinson, Miss Alice Karnes and the hostess.

Rocksprings has a fast team—but maybe the Bronchos are faster. Come out tomorrow and see.

BUSINESS HOUSES TO CLOSE DOORS FOR GAME TO START AT 3:30

Tomorrow at three-thirty the Sonora Bronchos will meet the Rocksprings High school team in Broncho corral for the first game of the season. Coach White is confident of victory in this game and has selected his starting lineup.

In the backfield, Pete Taylor will go in as fullback with Blanton as quarter, Trainer, left half and Kring will fill in at right half. This quartet is all set for the big game and anxious to show their stuff. Pfeister is slated for center, and is in good condition.

Almost every business house has signed a pledge to close for the game tomorrow. Among those who agree to close are: E. F. Vander Stucken, Rutledge Cafe, Orion Brown, J. W. Trainer, Trainer Beauty Parlor, Gilmore Hardware, Wm. Cameron Co., Stites Motor Co., Style Shop, Sweetwater Cotton Oil Mill Co., Sonora Cafe, Hamilton Grocery, Hall Feed and Grain Co., Corner Drug Store, Hamby Barber Shop, Sonora Motor Co., Powder Puff Beauty Shop, Sonora Electric Co., Leaman's, Club Cafe, C. B. Shoemaker & Sons, Sonora Cash Grocery, A. & W. Drug Store, City Garage, Harrison Plumbing Co., Piggly Wiggly, West Texas Lumber Co., Sonora Cleaners, F. H. Hamby, Sonora Drug Co., Sonora Bakery, E. S. Long, Sonora Recreation Club.

ENROLLMENT IN SONORA SCHOOL SHOWS GAIN

NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING WILL BE DEDICATED AT EARLY DATE

A gain of more than ten per cent in enrollment in both high and grammar schools was reported today by Superintendent M. O. Britt. Mr. Britt said there were approximately 300 pupils enrolled. During the past several years Sonora's credits have increased wonderfully until now there are 24 credits, giving Sonora full affiliation with colleges and universities.

Soon as seats and equipment are installed, the new building will be dedicated, but no date has been set; however, Mr. Britt will likely announce the exact date next week.

A school board meeting will be held next week at which time the building will be accepted from the contractors, Suggs and Dunlap, of Abilene.

Mr. Britt will attend a meeting of district athletic executives in Mason today. Ineligibility of players in various schools will be discussed. The question will not involve Sonora, Mr. Britt informed this paper.

2500 HEAD OF CATTLE SHIPPED TO GRASS

The Santa Fe has been busy the past few days hauling cattle from Sonora that went out of here to grass. The ranchmen say the rails have been a great help and will have much to do with "saving" them.

S. E. McKnight and W. A. Miers sent out the heaviest shipment of the week. McKnight loaded 1,000 cows and calves for Crystal City where he owns a ranch. W. A. Miers sent 1,000 yearling and two-year-old steers and 500 heifer yearlings to Lobo west of Valentine for pasture.

Stay in there, Bronchos and fight! All Sonora is with you to a man.

Star Trapshooter

Alfred Ruffording, 14 years old, of Wichita Falls, Texas, won the first prize in the Grand American Handicap trapshooting contest in competition with over 1,000 men.

Menard Party Buys Local Bakery

Richard Vehle, of Menard, Buys Sonora Baker From Joe Norris

Richard Vehle, of Menard, last week closed a deal with Joe Norris for the Sonora Bakery located in the Gilmore building. Mr. Vehle and wife took charge immediately after the deal was consummated last Thursday morning.

The Vehles are experienced in the bakery business, having operated several bakeries, the last one at Eden. Prior to the purchase of the Sonora Bakery, Mr. Vehle operated a cafe in Menard.

Mr. and Mrs. Vehle are pleased with Sonora as a town and spoke very highly of the class of people who compose the citizenry. These people come to Sonora highly recommended as progressive business people and of the best citizens.

The News, in behalf of Sonora, welcomes these people to our midst and wishes them well.

CITY MARKET IS SELLING LAMB MEAT

Alfred Cooper stated Wednesday that the City Market will handle choice cuts of lamb meat at prices ranchmen will be delighted to pay. Mr. Cooper is butchering almost all his meat at his slaughter pen west of town on the B. M. Halbert ranch.

He believes that the people should get the benefit of the present low prices of livestock, and is doing all he can to give the consumer the advantage of the cheap meat.

DANCING TEACHER GIVES LESSONS HERE

Miss Ina Mae Owens, of Winters, experienced teacher of dancing, is located here for nine months. Miss Owens is giving class and private lessons in acrobatic, tap and ball room at the Boy Scout hall.

Miss Owens has about twenty-five pupils, and hopes to be able to give a dance recital by her small pupils at an early date.

MRS. CROWLEY HOSTESS TO LAS AMIGAS CLUB

Mrs. Albert Crowley in a charmingly manner entertained the Las Amigas club at her home last Thursday afternoon with bridge. Mrs. J. D. Westbrook was awarded high score and Mrs. Ira Shurley second high prize.

A delicious salad course was served to Mesdames Collier Shurley, Jack Earhart, Robert Brusenhan, Ira Shurley, J. D. Westbrook, Misses Ada Steen and Alice Karnes.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Elliott and daughter of Sonora and Mrs. L. C. Harlow and two boys of Angelo were guests Sunday of Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Gilbert.—Menard Messenger.

FARM STOCK

KEEP HOGS CALM TO AVOID LOSS

Beating or Exciting Animals Is Cause of Death.

Just because a hog gets pigheaded about entering a railroad car for shipment to market is no reason for the driver to do the same thing. Irritating as it may be to coax and gently urge the animals up the chute, it saves money in the end. Congestion of the lungs is responsible for 63 per cent of the dead hogs found in market shipments, and is due to overexertion and excitement of the animals before they are loaded.

"Don't drive fat hogs or sheep rapidly, beat or excite them," says the Live Stock Loss Prevention Association of Ohio, in a recent statement. "Haul heavy hogs to market, even in cool weather, and unload them carefully. Drive fat cattle slowly and give them ample time to reach the yards.

"In summer bed the cars with sand. Don't use clay. And don't put cold water on the backs of overheated hogs. Wet the floor of the car."

The association also recommends that the stock be allowed at least an hour, or better four hours, to stand in the yards before they are put into the cars. In hot weather hogs should have water to lie in before they are loaded. Bags of ice hung in the cars will help to keep the air cool, and the drip of melting ice will keep the floor moist.

The Live Stock Loss Prevention association is made up of representatives of producers, shippers, packers, railroads and other agencies interested in reducing the loss in transit to market.

Horses Coming Back to Popularity With Farmer

The "hayburners" are coming back into popularity in Illinois, according to E. T. Robbins, who has just completed a series of meetings in 10 counties of the state where farmers have been studying big hitches which will enable them to use more horses. The use of horses is attractive now in corn and oats are both cheap, Mr. Robbins states.

Some farmers told of plowing an acre or two more land a day by changing their four horses from abreast to two and two, which removes side draught and uses the power more efficiently.

There was general agreement that farming with horses is economical both in overhead and upkeep. Some men told of managing their horses so there was no depreciation in teams. They mentioned small investments in equipment for horse farming. Some of the men remarked that "summer pasture at night and stalk fields and straw stacks reduced cost of feeding horses to a low figure."

At each of the 19 meetings photographs and moving pictures were used to show how teams of from four to twelve horses were hitched to big plows and driven with two lines.

Isolate New Hogs

If stock hogs are purchased to consume the surplus corn this fall, isolate them at least two weeks before permitting them to run with the rest of the herd. This may cause extra expense and trouble, but it may prevent serious losses from cholera. Regulations for the movement of stock hogs require certain precautions, but the farmer who purchases the animals cannot presume that these regulations have been effective in ridding the animals of disease germs.

LIVE STOCK FACTS

Do not wean spring pigs until they are eight weeks old.

A creep should be provided where the lambs have grain at all times.

By balancing his ration you can help a hog to do his duty by eating heavily.

Raising the pigs on pasture rather than around old hog lots will largely prevent trouble from worms.

Frequent changes of pasture for ewes and lambs will help considerably in controlling stomach worms.

Stomach worms are a serious pest, and permanent pastures where sheep are grazed are very likely to be infested with stomach worms.

If no legume hay is fed, a horse should be given one to one and one-half pounds of linseed oil meal per day to supplement the ration of ear corn and prairie hay.

With regular pastures becoming quite short and dry, lambs should have access to the best kind of aftermath, unless rape or other temporary pastures have been provided.

When a sheep chokes on dry feed like oats or bran, use a dosing syringe, fill the mouth slowly with water. This softens the dry feed and nearly always gives relief.

Of the 35 important diseases known to afflict live stock somewhere in the world, only 24 of them are known to be present in this country. Seventeen of these are being effectively controlled or are fast approaching what is hoped may be complete eradication, the rest of the 24 being under partial control or study.

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

When Will You Be 42?

Today You Say — And That Is That—But Tell Me Are You Very Fat

Well, if you are—It's probably your own fault—You don't know how to eat right and that's one reason.

If you would like to learn how to lose the fat you hate—and no one else likes—do as I did—Take this 30 day test—

Cut out candy, cakes—pies and ice cream—cut down potatoes, rice—butter—cheese, cream and sugar—

Eat anything else you feel like eating but moderately—lean meat—fish—chicken—vegetables and fruit are best—

Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts—in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning—follow this advice. One woman lost 19 pounds in 4 weeks—another got rid of 47 pounds in 3 months—a New York woman lost 14 pounds with one bottle of Kruschen and is full of vim and pep, so she writes—

At the Corner Drug Store or any drug store in the world you can get these magic salts—one 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks. Ask for Kruschen Salts—an enemy to Fat.

SONORA MAKING HISTORY

Sonora, Texas, "The Capital of the Stockman's Paradise," out where sheep, goats and cattle have helped to build a stockman's metropolis, during the past three years has made wonderful progress. And this is due to the whole-hearted co-operation of the business men and citizens who have worked together for the good of the town and community.

Last week the Uvalde Leader News reprinted a story that appeared in this paper two weeks ago telling of Sonora's achievements. The Leader News also had the following to say in its editorial columns:

"Sonora is making history. In another column we print a record of their progress for the past three years and it is a wonderful achievement. The Leader-News believes that much of this progress is due to the Lions Club of Sonora, which has sponsored and worked for most of the improvements brought about. Another great factor in this achievement is the Devil's River News. The owners since taking charge of the paper three years ago have put in a modern plant and it is backed up by the business firms of the town as is shown by the number of advertisements carried. The Sonora paper is among the best weekly papers in the state and goes to show that a paper reflects the progress and spirit of a town. This paper is pleased to print the article on Sonora's achievement and we ask our readers to take note of it. It goes to show what can be accomplished when there is the right co-operation of the citizens."

REVOLUTIONS

The revolution in Russia, against the Czar, was perfectly understandable to Americans. We understood the French Revolution, against the King of France. We understood well enough the revolutions whereby the nations of South America liberated themselves from the kings of Spain and Portugal. Our own national history is based upon just that sort of a revolution.

What is difficult for us to understand is the sort of revolution

L. W. Elliott

they are having in South America now. The former president of Peru is in prison, with revolutionists in power. The man who ruled Argentina for many years has been deposed by revolutionists. There are rumblings of revolution in southern Brazil.

Why a revolution in a republic? All of these nations are self-governing countries; why don't the people change their government at the polls, if they are dissatisfied, as we do?

The answer is that they can't.

There is no such thing as universal suffrage in these neighbor republics. Only a privileged few vote, and the party or group in power has the unpleasant habit of in-trenching behind the army and holding on by force. The only effective way of getting it out is by the use of superior force. The politicians attend to that and the common people have nothing to say about it.

 For a moment they looked at one another silently, then Julie said in a queer, breathless way:
 "I can't make you out. . . I've never met a man like you before. I suppose you are just amusing yourself. . . I suppose you didn't mean a word you say—that you're just flirting. . ."
 "Is that what you really suppose?" Chittenham asked. He took her by the shoulders, turning her to him. "Is that what you really suppose?" he asked again.
 "No. . . yes. . . at least. . ." she was like a girl, confused and shy. "Oh, did you really mean it when you said. . . when—you know what you said. . . about love at first sight. . . I mean—you're so strange, and I. . ."

 Chittenham's pulses were throbbing in strange fashion. No woman had ever made him feel as he felt now, and it angered him. Was this the strange fascination of her which had conquered Rodney? Was this what the boy had meant when he said, "Wait till you see her! There's something different—quite different about her to any other woman—"
 She had told him that she had never cared for any one in all her life, that she was afraid of caring! but now something in her tremulous girlishness and faltering voice gave the lie to those words. Yesterday seemed a great way off—in another world. America and Sadie were wiped out and forgotten, even the memory of Rodney faded until it seemed only like a ghost in the background of the present unreality as Chittenham drew Julie Farrow into his arms and kissed her unresisting lips.
 It was late the following day when they reached Montreux. They had to leave her car at the hotel and make the descent with an experienced driver, for the road was deep with snow.
 The drive down was very silent. Julie looked utterly happy, and it was in vain that he told himself that it must be only because she had added yet another conquest to her already long list, and that it was nothing whatever to do with him personally.
 There was a little half smile on her lips, a sweet dreaminess in her eyes.
 It seemed an eternity ago since yesterday evening when he had first held her in his arms.
 He wished he could forget the softness of her hair against his face, and the warm pressure of her lips.
 No woman had ever before stirred his pulses so strangely; no woman's arms about his neck had ever made him feel that the world would be well lost if only he could so hold her for ever. But she had only been playing, even as he had! No doubt she would be just as relieved as he was that the little game was finished.
 For Chittenham meant it to finish as soon as they reached Montreux. He would never willingly see her again; once he was away from her he would soon forget the clasp of her arms and her kisses.
 She did not seem to notice his silence, and presently, glanced down at her, he saw that she had fallen asleep.
 Chittenham looked at her and longed to gather her close into his arms and kiss her as he had done last night.
 He looked away from her with a little cold feeling round his heart.
 Why were such women allowed to be? What right had they to wander through the world bringing trouble and tragedy to every man who crossed their path? The woman had sent Rodney to his death. Well, he would have paid back part of the debt, if not in full. He would have paid back part of the debt if he caused her one sleepless night, or one tear!

 Julie slept with her cheek against his arm all the back to Montreux. When they were close to the town Chittenham gently roused her.
 She flushed, meeting his eyes. Her eyes were so happy—he wished she would not look so happy; it made him feel mean—as if he had pretended to give a child a beautiful gift, knowing that when she opened the box she would find only a stone.
 "I'll look much prettier when you see me again," she said. She squeezed his hand and turned away.
 "Au revoir, till tonight then."
 Chittenham went on to the hotel where he had arranged to meet Lombard. It was nearly dinner time when he was dressed, and Lombard tapped at the door.
 Lombard fidgeted about the room. "So you got snowed up?" he said. "There's something I want to tell you, Chittenham."
 "Go ahead. What is it? Have you been getting into a mess while I was up on high?"
 "No, it's only that I made a silly mistake yesterday about Miss Farrow. Can't think how I did it."
 Chittenham looked up sharply.
 "A mistake! What do you mean?"
 Lombard flushed, and his eyes grew a little anxious.
 "I made a damned silly mistake. Quite unintentional, of course. But the fact is. . . well, she's not the girl Rodney knew after all—she's not the Julie Farrow he was so mad about. It came out last night when I was talking to Miss Lennox. They've got the same name—Julie Farrow both of them—they're cousins, you see, but this one isn't the one Rodney was so mad about—she's in London at this moment—the one here is her cousin.
 Chittenham turned, his face flushed, his eyes furious.
 "What are you talking about?" he demanded thickly.
 "My dear chap, I've just told you. It was a mistake—quite an innocent one on my part naturally. After all, there's no harm done, is there? Miss Farrow will never know. . ."
 "Never know!"
 Chittenham flung past him and out of the room. He went downstairs, took his coat from the lobby and went out into the gathering dusk.
 Not Julie Farrow! not the woman who had driven Rodney to his death!

Not Julie Farrow, the woman who had lain in his arms last night; not the woman to whom he had believed he was paying back a bitter debt—not the cold, calculating adventuress whose kisses and sweet, whispered words he had taken with a covert sneer.
 "It's possible to be just as happy down on earth as it is on the heights. . ."
 She had said to him, her hand in his, just before they parted; she said that, believing in him, trusting him, loving him! Not knowing anything of Sadie—not knowing that he was a married man! not knowing perhaps any of the tragic happenings which had led up to this, the worst tragedy of all.
 What would she say when she knew? how could he explain what possible excuse could he find for his actions which would not seem utterly caddish and despicable in her eyes?
 It was as if some one had torn down a veil that had blinded and deceived him.
 He remembered a hundred and one little things which should have warned him, told him of his mistake.
 He knew now that when last night Julie had said she loved him it was the truth also. And there was Sadie. . .
 What a sport of the gods!
 He felt like a man in a dream. He tried to believe that he had only to rub his eyes and he would find that the house before him had vanished, find that he was back again in South America, that he had never come to Switzerland with Lombard, never met Julie Farrow on the little lake steamer.
 And then one of the windows leading on to a balcony opened—the sound of voices was wafted down to him through the quiet evening, and a woman's figure was silhouetted against the light.
 Julie? For a moment the pounding of Chittenham's heart almost choked him, then with a breath of relief he saw that it was not Julie, but Bim Lennox.
 Presently he heard his voice—quietly, cynically.
 "I can't see any signs of your Romeo, Julie dear?"
 Chittenham drew further back into the shadows as he heard Julie's laugh, and the little confident note in her voice when she answered.
 "He will come. I am not at all afraid."
 So she had told Bim as he had been sure she would. Chittenham gritted his teeth and clenched his hands. He was to be spared nothing.
 He could hear voices from that went up the steps.
 He could hear voices from that balcony room and muffled laughter as the maid turned to him to ask his name. He braced himself and went forward.
 Julie Farrow was there alone.

Chittenham heard the door shut behind him, but he did not move forward. There was a mist before his eyes, blinding him, then he heard Julie laugh nervously.
 "I believe you are more afraid of me than I am of you," she said.
 She was very pale—in her white frock she looked almost like a ghost, but she was smiling happily, and when he made no movement towards her she raised herself a little on tiptoe and softly kissed him.
 "Isn't it the same now we are down on earth again?" she asked with a note of banter in her voice, though it shook a little with emotion.
 Chittenham tried to speak, but he could not.
 He read a shadow of question in her eyes, that changed into vague fear.
 "Why. . . is anything the matter?" she asked uncertainly.
 "Is it the same now we are down on earth?" he asked hoarsely.
 "You haven't found that last night was just a dream?—that we were two dreamers, and that now we are awake?"

 She laughed at that, shaking her head.
 "The earth is so much—so very much more real than the mountain tops were, dear," she said softly.
 She bent her head and lightly brushed his coat sleeve with her cheek.
 "I told Bim—" she said. "I was so happy, I just had to tell some one. . ." And then as if struck by his silence she looked up swiftly to ask: "You don't mind? you're not angry?"
 "Angry?" How could he answer? what could he say? He released her hands, and moved a step from her.
 "I've something to tell you," he said abruptly.
 "Tell away then!"
 Chittenham looked away from her.
 "It's about last night. . . last night."
 "Yes."
 "And about my brother. . . Rodney."
 "Yes."

"You told me you knew him."
 "Yes. I often met him when he was with my cousin Julie."
 Chittenham caught a hard breath, then it was true.
 "You knew Lombard, too? Do you know that at first he mistook you for your cousin—the other Julie Farrow?"
 "Lombard told me that you were the other Julie, that you were the woman Rodney had cared so much about."
 She met his gaze directly, but unsuspectingly; suddenly she smiled.

POLITICS

"As goes Maine, so goes the Nation," is an ancient political aphorism which is no longer true and probably never was. Maine holds its state elections in September; a practice, doubtless, handed down from the days when natives of the Pine Tree State were pretty likely to be snowed in for the winter by November and unable to get to the polls!

The election just held in Maine can be interpreted by political forecasters to suit any partisan point of view. The Republicans made a clean sweep, therefore the Republicans will carry everything in other states in November. So some will argue. But the Republican majority was much less than in 1928, therefore the Republican vote will be cut down enough in closer and more doubtful states to elect many Democrats to Congress. That is the other argument. Neither of them means anything.

The most significant thing about the Maine election, it seems to us, is that so few voters took the trouble to vote. According to the political experts of both parties, the people of the United States are stirred to the depths of their souls by the issues of unemployment, the tariff and prohibition. Uh-huh? Mebbe so. But the people of Maine have more than their normal share of unemployment, and the new tariff law hits them in a dozen places, but they don't seem to have been stirred up enough about those things to take the trouble to express themselves at the polls. More than 200,000 Maine voters cast their ballots in the presidential election of 1928; fewer than half that number, apparently, bothered about voting this year.

Wouldn't it be funny if the politicians were all wrong in believing that everybody is all excited about politics this year?

A Round of Slugs

(By S. U. M. Bull)

Everybody out for the football game Saturday afternoon to see the Bronchos stampe the Rock-springs High School eleven. The Bronchos are doped to win an easy victory for their first scheduled game of the season. Business houses are closing for the game, so there should be a large crowd out.

Pharis is playing his third year as a fighting tackle. He has been light for a lineman, but is a scrapper, and has been especially valuable as a defensive man due to his drive and tackling ability. This year he should turn in a brand of play that will rank him among the best tackles in the district.

Whiddon has played only a part of two seasons. His power was aided by more speed than is usually found in the line. He is capable of opening holes and playing a good defensive game that will be a help to the Bronchos in winning a championship.

Barton starts his second season. Last year he was too young to star but he is showing up well enough to develop into a powerful guard. His weight and courage will be encouraging when the Bronchos meet the powerful Junction team.

Adams is playing his last year with Sonora. He has been temporarily shifted to an end position and is expected to put up a vicious defense. He is fast enough to go down in perfect style, and should make a greater show this year than ever before.

That old fighting spirit of the Cats has placed them two games ahead of Memphis in the Dixie Series. The Cats clawed their way to Texas league supremacy over Wichita Falls, taking the titular battle, 3-2. The Cats, with their two-game lead, should win over the Chicks easily.

The race in the National league is tightening, and from the looks of things right now it is yet anybody's victory. St. Louis stands a better show to win than either Brooklyn or Chicago. There are about eight or nine games to be played before the show is over.

Philadelphia cinched its victory yesterday, and will have a chance

SAYS WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—All I know is what I read in the papers. About ten days ago we had quite a mess of news happening. But here lately it's pretty well bogged down.

When those Frenchmen were flying the Ocean and Lindy was receiving 'em you know that must have been quite a Novelty Think of Lindy; meeting some body instead of being met. But he did a mighty gracious thing, as he always does. When those boys landed he was right there, to give them the glad hand of welcome, and it was real too. For he is for anything that is for the good of aviation whether he is the one doing it or not. Yes sir he and Annie was there.

Well those fellows had a right to make that trip. They were real Aviators in the first place, and they had made every known preparation and taken every precaution. The trouble with most of the other trials that have failed, they were by practically unknown Aviators, and they were just taking a chance, and figure in many they could make it. You see when those Germans come meandering in here by way of the North Pole and way stations (which by the way was a great trip) why that stirred the French. You let a German do something and even if it's wrong the Frenchmen will want to out do him. Now that they have it done, I look to have to put up immigration laws against visiting foreign Aviators. They will be dropping in here so fast that Grover Whalen will have to be shaking hands with both mits.

Mr. Hearst getting thrown out of France was awful big news away back in the same days the Frenchmen were landing. He went on over to England and they received him with open arms, and even asked him to write something about them. France got sore at something he wrote about 'em, and England with their minds on what could be accomplished by publicity, as they had seen it done by America, they said, "Sure W. R. publish any of our old Treatys you want. We will even write you one to publish, go ahead, write what you want and stay as long as you like." Well anyhow they lost a mighty good spender, when they let him go. Outside of Flo Zeigfeld he does things in a bigger way than any man I ever knew.

Well let's see what else there is in the prints. I thought we was going to report to you by this sabbath day. But the commissions are just gathering data. They won't take the farmer's word for it that he is poor. They hire men to find out how poor he is. If they took all the money they spend on finding out how he is, and give it to the Farmer he would need any more relief. But soon as winter comes he will be O. K., soon as snow flies he can kill Rabbits, that will be the biggest relief he has had so far.

When Jimmy Gerard said that fifty-seven men run this country everybody thought it was an ad for Heinz pickles, so he had to add Bishop Cannon, and Al Capone. Poor Jimmy. Everybody jumped on his selections—everybody that wasn't mentioned. The Senate was broken-hearted in fact. The funny part about the whole thing is, the ones that are running it don't want their names mentioned—not this year anyway. They are liable to sue Gerard for slander.

Just back from a rodeo over at a great little Western town called Winnemucca, Nev. That's a great State. When you feel that the people around you are taking too much care of your private business, why move to Nevada. It's freedom's last stand in America. Yet they don't do one thing that other States don't do.

Only they leave the front door open. You can get a divorce without lying, a drink without whispering and bet on a game of chance without breaking even a promise.

Quit hollering about how poor off we are and look at the real troubles of some of these other birds; down in the Argentine soldiers are guarding their President, Peru just loaded theirs on a battleship and advised him to head for Siberia. Brazil is in a huddle, the Labor Government in England are about to join the unemployed, Hearst has joined Germany, and Brisbane has joined Russia, so it looks like Mexico is about the only one with no trouble at all.

LOOKING TEN YEARS AHEAD

The census of 1930 is the most important numbering of the people of the United States since the first count of our inhabitants was made. Even though all of the conclusions to be drawn from it have not yet become available, it has already taught us more about ourselves than we ever knew before.

Especially has it shown us that one of the causes of our great national prosperity is disappearing—the steady increase in population at a high rate. Decline in immigration and decline in the birth-rate have combined to reduce our annual rate of population growth to about 1 percent a year. Twenty years ago we were growing at the rate of 2 percent a year; forty years ago, at a 3 percent rate.

This will make a great difference in business, industries and investments which depend upon increasing population for their own growth. Real estate values depend upon population. The rate of growth in the big cities is falling off more rapidly than in the country towns and small communities generally. That means that real estate in the large cities will not increase so rapidly in value from year to year, while in the smaller towns it will increase at a faster rate.

The redistribution of population is always an important factor in business and industry. Nowhere in the world do people shift their homes from one place to another as they do in America. Just now the census shows a strong tendency of manufacturing industries away from the larger centers and to the smaller towns. That will mean more building in the smaller places in the next two years, homes, factories, stores, institutions and public buildings. There probably will be less building in the large cities, and that largely by way of replacing obsolete structures.

The declining birthrate is sure to have a definite effect on building as well as on business generally. Not only will we need fewer school buildings, especially in the lower grades, but the type of home now in growing demand is in smaller units than formerly. Fewer babies are born, but more of them grow up to go to high school and college. More people live to old age. It is not hard to forecast a time coming when the whole problem of living will center more about the needs of the adults and the elderly and less about the needs of the children than ever before in history.

The longest river entirely within one of the United States is in Texas.

"Well, what difference does that make? I'm not, and you know it now." She frowned a little in perplexity. "It's not anything to look so tragic about surely, is it?"

Chittenham's eyes wavered, for a moment he hesitated desperately, searching for yet some means of escape, then he told her.

"I went up to St. Bernard with you yesterday believing you were the woman my brother had loved. I wanted to pay back some of his debt. I wanted to hurt you as I believed you had hurt him. I wanted to make a fool out of you as I knew you had made of him. I thought Fate was playing into my hands when you agreed to take me with you yesterday. I thought I was being damned clever. . . It seemed so easy to make love to you . . . you seemed to make it easy for me. . . "Giles!" Her voice was a wounded cry.

LIONS TO STAGE PLAY IN OCTOBER

"Bad Man," is the name of the play that will be staged by the Sonora Lions Club in the new high school auditorium the second week in October, according to Bill Gilmore, who is head of the committee on entertainment.

This is said to be a late release, having been played recently on Broadway.

B. D. Wagnon, of Hamlin, was engineer on the train that hauled McKnight's cattle from here Thursday. Mr. Wagnon is father to Delbert Wagnon of this city.

Grain Will Be Available.

With an outlook increase of 8.6 per cent in the acreage to corn this year over the United States as compared with last year, corn will likely sell for a lower price this fall than usual.

"But what of that?" asks W. W. Shay, swine extension specialist at the North Carolina state college. "It is likely that corn as grain will bring around 70 cents a bushel this fall. Last year the corn fed to hogs by 45 demonstrators in North Carolina was sold at $1.50 a bushel. An increase in the corn crop in this state means that we shall have more of the grain available as hog feed. If it were not for the industrial depression hogs would be selling now for $12 a hundred. As it is, the price has been between $10.50 and $10.85 and the person who breeds and feeds his hogs properly can make a good profit at this figure."

The outlook for the future is better, says Mr. Shay. There is a decrease of over 18 per cent in the frozen, dry salt and pickled pork now in storage compared with April 1, 1929. Then, too, the total number of hogs on the farms of the United States as of January 1, 1930, was between 7 and 8 per cent less than on the same date of 1929.

Mr. Shay says he doubts if any farmer in North Carolina can find a better source of income or one that will return more profit than good corn and good hogs properly handled. The man who has these and knows what to do with them, and then has a milk cow, a flock of hens, and a garden, may enjoy one income in early fall, another next spring, and have plenty to eat and few if any pressing debts to pay.

Sudan Grass Useful as Emergency Pig Pasture

Sudan grass makes a very good emergency pasture for pigs provided one makes successive seedings of it about six weeks apart so that it may be grazed in prime condition. The cost of seeding sudan grass is less than for some other crops.

The chief objection to peruvian alfalfa is that it does not go through the winter satisfactorily when the temperature falls below 10 degrees below zero. It has some promise as an annual forage crop because of its rapid growth. Sweet clover proved to be the poorest forage compared. The rate of gain was slower, and feed required for 100 pounds gain greater than for other forages except sudan grass.

Shade for Sheep

Extreme heat is bad for sheep and especially the growing lamb. It is important therefore that the lambs should be well supplied with suitable shade. While trees, of course, supply natural shade, in the absence of them it is possible to build good substitutes. Old sheds may be utilized or temporary sheds constructed of poles and covered with straw. These answer the purpose very well. At any rate, some kind of good shade should be provided for the lambs.

Lambs for Market

Western lambs which are to be fattened for market should be watched closely when put into the feedlot. It will take a few days to get them accustomed to new conditions. Too much grain at the start may result in death of some of the lambs. Until all the lambs become accustomed to grain, only a small amount of concentrates should be supplied as there is the danger that some of the lambs will eat more grain than they can very well stand.

LIVE STOCK FACTS

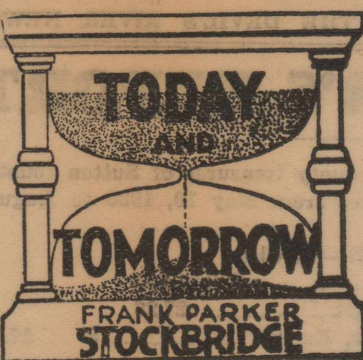

Scrub farmers are a greater handicap to any state than scrub live stock.

Whenever possible, cattle should reach the central market and be unloaded during the early hours of the morning to allow them to be fed and watered before they are sold.

Ear corn and prairie hay do not provide a satisfactory ration for horses and mules during the work season. The ration is considerably improved by feeding part alfalfa or clover hay. Good quality, clean hay that is relatively free from dust, should be used.

The farmer who keeps a flock of sheep can market the lambs to advantage when they weigh about sixty pounds. When such a practice is to be followed the lambs should receive grain from the time they are a few weeks old. Under this plan the lambs will not be weaned until they are ready to go to market.

Hogs need plenty of shade in warm weather. If hog houses are dry and have plenty of ventilation they may be used. If not, hogs should be locked out. A hog will find shade if he can, but if the shade is not cool he does not seem to realize it, and will stay and die from overheating. If trees are not available, artificial shade should be provided by covering a cheap framework with brush, hay or straw. It is cooler than if covered with boards or sheet iron.

FLIES—

Motoring thru Connecticut the other day I stopped for a bite in a good-sized town. To my amazement the principal restaurant of the place was swarming with flies, which were crawling unrestrained over the food. I did not eat there.

The danger of flies seems not yet to have penetrated everywhere. It has been said by someone that it takes three generations for any new fact to filter down through all levels of intelligence to the lowest. It is less than forty years since the discovery was made that flies are chief carriers of typhoid fever.

In the big cities and in most progressive small towns, public health authorities now compel the covering of garbage and other filth in which flies breed. The automobile has done a great deal, practically eliminating the horse stable, once the flies' chief breeding ground. In the general clean-up of Europe since the war long steps have been taken, until there is at least one town in Italy, Montecatini, which boasts that it has not a single fly!

HELIOPHOBES—

Are you a heliophile or a heliophobe? Everybody is one or the other. Heliophiles love the sunshine and thrive under exposure to sunlight. Heliophobes are the unfortunate blondes who do not tan but burn and blister and sometimes become seriously ill in the effort to acquire the golden-brown skins of the more fortunate heliophiles.

A skin specialist in a New York hospital estimates that more than 200,000 working days are lost in that city every year from illness due to sunburn. These heliophobe sufferers are usually of the blonde North European and Scandinavian type, coming from a stock bred for countless generations in the high latitudes where sunlight is scanty and indirect. The perfect heliophile, on the other hand, usually has a strain of Mediterranean blood, Italian, Greek, Spanish or Semitic.

DREAMS—

"One must have some daring if one is to live one's dreams," said Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau as he landed his flying boat in New York harbor after flying over from Germany by way of Iceland, Greenland and Labrador. This pioneer of a new trans-Atlantic air route dared to try to realize a dream which he had had for years.

All have dreams of things we would like to do; few of us have the daring to attempt to make the dreams come true.

"Many loved truth, and lavished Life's best oil Amid the dust of books to find her."

So wrote James Russell Lowell in his great Commemoration Ode.

BANKING—

One of the things which is certain to change greatly in the course of the next few years is the banking business in the smaller communities.

The small local bank has not facilities, in most instances, to take care of the legitimate business needs of its community. Some system which will distribute credit equally over the whole nation at all seasons will be worked out.

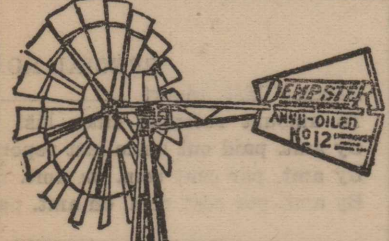

In congress, where the final answer will be given, the contest is between "chain" banking and branch banking, with branch banking in the lead.

One member of congress has suggested that branch banks on wheels—armored cars—may eventually travel between banking centers and the smallest villages, transacting banking business for an hour or two on certain days of the week in each community. Something like that may come about.

KONJOLA VERY MEDICINE THIS LADY REQUIRED

She Rejoices Over Wonder Relief from Indigestion—Happy to Endorse New Medicine

MRS. ALMA WEBSTER

"I had stomach trouble for a year and a half," said Mrs. Alma Webster, 5017 Avenue R., Galveston. "Each meal brought pain for my food was not properly digested. Gas formed after every meal at times making me very ill. There were many things I did not dare eat because of the condition of my stomach.

"I kept reading in the papers about Konjola and what it was doing for so many people that I began the treatment. Konjola has so improved my condition that I have not had a sick nor dizzy spell since I began taking the medicine. I can eat anything I wish without fear of subsequent misery. I have improved in general health and am happy to endorse this medicine because of what it has done for me."

Sufferers do not have long to wait after taking Konjola before relief comes. However, a six to eight bottle treatment is suggested for the average case.

Konjola is sold in Sonora at the Corner Drug, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

CROCKETT WILL LET ROAD CONTRACT SOON

A promise that contract would be let for construction of the Ozona-Barnhart road as early in October as possible was given Judge Chas. E. Davison of this county on the occasion of a recent visit of the local official to the offices of the State Highway Department at Austin, Judge Davison reported here this week.

The information concerning plans for the Barnhart road project in this county was given Judge Davison by an assistant engineer in charge of the office at Austin.

As an indication that the promise was given seriously, telegrams were immediately dispatched by the department to the crew of engineers who have been here several weeks surveying a route for the Old Spanish Trail project through this county. The telegrams ordered the engineers to start a survey on the Ozona-Barnhart road at once and according to information here this survey has already been started by the engineers.

If contract on the Barnhart road is let in October it will mean that work will be started on this project before the end of the year. Before that part of this county's project is completed, then, it is believed the state and federal departments will be ready to let contracts on the Old Spanish Trail highway through the county. The Barnhart road will call for approximately 30 miles of paving and the Old Spanish Trail about 52.

Information concerning the route which the Old Spanish Trail will take through the county is not yet available, officials say. Several surveys have already been run and it is understood the information thus gained is now in the hands of federal engineers for their final selection of the best route.—Ozona Stockman.

SOME IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN OUTLOOK FOR CATTLE

Washington — Economic conditions in the cattle industry are likely to improve in the next 12 months, according to the beef-cattle outlook report issued by the bureau of agriculture economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Market supplies of cattle in the next five or six months," says the bureau, "probably will be about the same as a year ago, but supplies of fed cattle during the first half of 1931 are expected to be smaller than in 1930. Demand for stockers and feeders this fall will not equal that of last year, and for that reason slaughter is likely to be somewhat greater.

"Prospects favor a continuation of low imports of both live cattle and calves and of fresh and frozen beef and veal. Consumer demand for beef probably will improve somewhat in the next six months with the advent of cooler weather, especially if there is an improvement in industrial activity. Prospects favor a material advance in cattle prices in the next 12 months.

"Cattle production has expanded moderately since the low point in numbers was reached in 1928. Reduced demand for beef owing to unfavorable business conditions, together with a declining price level for all commodities, has caused a marked decline in cattle prices in the year just past. By mid-August of this year, prices of all grades had declined below the low levels of 1926, and prices of slaughter steers were 38 per cent below the level of 1929. This decline, which carried the market to the lowest levels in 5 years, according to the bureau of agriculture compared the smallest marketing and the smallest inspected slaughter since 1921.

VIEWS OF OUR NEWS

(By Chicagoan)

Last Week's News Reviewed by a Stranger in the Windy City

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Hello, Sonora folks! You didn't know it, but I've been looking at you, viewing you as you were reflected in the columns of last week's Devil's River News. You'd be surprised what a faithful mirror of your community I found this good newspaper to be.

If Editor Wilson permits, I'll write each week, telling you what most interested me in the issue of the news for the previous week. Later on, when we know each other better, I may speak rather freely at times, and then I'll make my share of mistakes. However, I hope that when I'm too far off the track you'll call me back by dropping me a line in care of this paper. Your letter will be forwarded, and I promise that it will receive prompt attention.

Before going one line farther, we'll settle one thing for all time to come. None of you know me. I've never been in Sonora, and there's not a chance in the world that any of you have ever seen me. I'm just an odd piece of humanity that's been tossed about on life's sea for quite a spell. Now, I find my keenest pleasure in reading good weekly papers coming to my desk. Such papers as the Devil's River News are ever so much closer to the lives of their readers than are the metropolitan sheets. In future letters I'll say very little about myself, but will confine my remarks to the impressions gained as I read the News from week to week.

As one of the older inhabitants of this planet, I claim the right to extend the hand of welcome to the little lady who recently took up her abode in the Jim Wilson home. Some twenty years or so hence, when she reads the account of her wedding in the News, what other news will greet her eye? What wars will have been fought; what will be the most popular means of transportation then; who will have died and who will have wed; will the tariff question be settled? Oh, I could lose myself in such speculation!

What an interesting life was that of L. N. Halbert! During his stay on earth he saw wars alter the maps of the world; wildernesses transformed into fruitful fields; contrivances invented and perfected that seem necessities to us, yet he lived many happy years without them; the obscure become great and the once great fall into oblivion. Truly it was a wonderful age that wrote its history before the eyes of this noble man, and interesting as well as useful was his life.

Even strangers read the classified ads in the News. That's how I know that G. H. Davis had thirteen rams for sale. I do not suppose that they're for sale now, as undoubtedly someone has bought them.

See you next week!

CREDIT

Is the Badge of Honesty

Credit came in with civilization—when man began to have faith in his fellowman. To revert to a no-credit plan would be equivalent to redersion to savagery. Germany lost the faith of humanity when she abused the faith all nations held in The Hague and other treaties.

The entire financial system is based on the faith men have in each other's honesty. YOU are a more or less important cog in the financial system of the country.

If you pay your bills promptly the whole set of machinery works right—if you don't pay promptly the machinery is disrupted and a certain cog may have to be removed.

CREDIT IS FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE!

It is the easiest thing in the world to get—if you play square—the hardest if you shirk your responsibilities.

Credit is based solely and absolutely on past performances.

If you have always paid your bills promptly you can obtain credit easily anywhere in Sonora or United States. It will make you feel better—it will strengthen your credit—and the financial machinery will function properly.

If you have evaded payment, even though your intentions are ever so good, you will be listed far and wide as "bad pay" and your credit is gone.

KIMBLE RANCHMAN DESCRIBES TWO TYPES OF ANGORA GOATS

J. D. Cowser in Sheep and Goat Raisers' Magazine: In recent years some of the breeders of Angora goats in the United States have been trying to distinguish them by type, with little success, according to my judgment.

In some of the shows prizes are offered on "B" type and "C" type goats in separate classes.

The question is: Where is the deadline between the two types? And is it characteristic with goats to be "C" type at one age and "B" type at another? Can a breeder go into his flock of goats and take out all of the animals of a single type, place them on a separate ranch and expect them to remain a flock of that special type? If not, why try to make a distinction between "riglet fleece C type," and "flat lock fleece B type?" I think the majority of the best goats we have in this country finally develop what is known as a flat lock fleece, however, they may show more or less ringlets in the fleece earlier in life, say as kids or yearlings.

Does making this distinction help the industry in any way?

Does it simplify the difficulty of holding a show that is honest, just and satisfactory to everyone concerned?

Do show officials have less trouble in placing the animals correctly?

If all these things are not true, why whip the devil around the stump?

There can be but one type of Angora in the United States and that is the type that puts more figures in the reutr check.

Of course there are several good, better and best, the three principal classes.

It will be discouraging to a breeder to ship his show stock a long distance to enter a show not knowing whether or not he will have a chance to compete with all the best animals in the show, and not knowing in which type his animals will be placed for the show, by the committee for that purpose. And probably the committee will not be able to agree on which type they are.

Everyone knows that there is nothing better for any industry than to keep competition among the producers and there is nothing better to keep competition strong than plenty of well conducted shows.

I am not an owner of goats, and therefore, it might be understood that the subject of this article is not a personal complaint, but a fight for the future of the goat industry. (which holds great interest for me in a general way.)

It is not correct that what is known as a "C" type goat, either develops into a "B" type (so-called)

ed) by the time it is five years old, or into a "has been" at about the same age.

You would not want your flock known as "C" type because that would signify that they were rather light shearers, or their shearing quality would fade like a dream.

And you would not like for anyone to mention your flock as "B" type because that would signify that they were coarse and greasy, and not desirable because the mohair buyers want fine fibre, and the grease all washes away in scouring.

We should not overlook the fact that it absolutely is not necessary to have coarse hair and extreme grease to get weight. Why can't all breeders recognize this fact?

What we want is denser fleece with more uniform length and covering together with enough oil to preserve the air only, and not so much of the disguising grease and dirt.

The goat raising public is fast educating itself on this particular subject, and sooner or later we will be unable to fool them with a lot of grease and dirt, and just some mohair.

Let's put all the desirable qualities in one animal instead of two or more, and forget this type business, because the fleece from neither will bring the maximum price.

This article is not meant to criticize any individual's work or ideals, but just to put a question in your mind that might be worth a little consideration.

I admire a man who has put enough time and thought into his business to run a true, distinct and uniform type of Angora goat, whether it be the correct type or not.

Texas has more telephone and telegraph and railroad mileage than any state in the union.

THEY DARED AND WON

The only feat in aviation which compares with Col. Lindbergh's solo flight from New York to Paris is the return of the French airmen, Dieudonne Coste and his flying mate, Maurice Bellonte, who flew from Paris to New York. It is not detracting from their glory to point out that there were two of them, relieve one another at the controls, while Lindbergh flew alone. Their feat was more hazardous, since the storm danger was greater and the wind was not in their favor.

Everyone who admires courage will endorse President Hoover's words in greeting the French flyers at the White House. Their achievement, he said, "demonstrates again the high courage of mankind. It gives heart to all of us in whatever tasks engage us, for it proves that there are no limits to the courage of man and there are no limits to what that courage can accomplish."

No limits to what courage can accomplish! Is there not inspiration in that for faint-hearted age as well as for daring youth? It is true—we must believe it in the light of what courage has accomplished in the past. Courage, backed by skill and reinforced by judgment, can conquer the world. It has never failed to conquer when so buttressed. As we grow older we lose some of the courage of youth. We flatter ourselves that we have gained in judgment, but have we? Did not Lindbergh, did not Coste and Bellonte, judge their chances more accurately than the oldsters did who did not dare their flights? And as for skill, if that is not acquired in youth it will never be gained.

One reason the world does not progress faster is that too much control of its affairs is vested in those who have outgrown their courage. "Safety first" may pile up dollars but it doesn't beget the adventurous spirit which is the force that, after all, makes life today different from yesterday and that of tomorrow different from all that has gone before.

"—And There's Only One Meter for the New Home Comfort Rate"

Another big advantage of the new Home Comfort rate is that you have only one meter in your home. Regardless of the number of electric appliances you operate, there is only one meter to be read—and all electric service is figured on the same basis; that is, the lighting rate has been lowered to where it is now possible to use electric refrigerating service or heating and cooking service through the one meter. This is important from the standpoint of economy, for it means that everything electrical in your home benefits by the low Additional Service rate.

"For instance, in the average five room house, in a month ordinary lights and small appliances should utilize most of the service billed on the initial and second rates. Then your meter will record all additional use on the low 4c rate—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking.

"There will be no bother of two meter readings or two bills. Everything will be compact, definite and easily understandable.

"I'm thinking of new advantages so rapidly that I can hardly wait from week to week for the opportunity of explaining them to you. I'll be with you again next week, and I'm sure I'll have some interesting facts."

The Very Latest (By Mary Marshall)

Aprons—little aprons of the sort that our mothers and our grandmothers wore—are with us again and the modern young woman who would have scorned to wear one a few years ago, now considers two or three of them a real asset in her wardrobe. There are times when a little apron, rather than a smock is precisely what one wants.

So here you are—a new apron of the old-fashioned sort. You will certainly have no trouble in cutting it.

White dimity with green and pink printed designs was used for this one, which is finished with green feather-stitching.

ago. The auditorium he said was great, the stage equipment adequate for any entertainment to be attempted, and all departments of the building were fully equipped to the end that the best of results may be attained. He paid the school body a high compliment and included an excellent faculty in his laudatory remarks. A high-y pleasing statement was that of the number of parents present the first morning of school. Mr. Britt stated that within about two weeks a special dedication reception would be held with an appropriate program.

Coach Ted White, football enthusiast, stated that the Bronchos won 70 to 80 per cent of the games last year and that this season the goal had been set for 80 to 95 per cent. He said there may be as many as twelve games this year, with the opening game set for tomorrow with Ricksprings to be played on the local field; with Junction to follow on the 27th. Coach White said the main trouble last year lay in the fact that Sonora fans did not attend enough games, and pleaded for better attendance this year. As an inducement to this end the sale of season tickets was started at the luncheon and a number sold. The tickets are $1.00 for children and $2.50 for adults and cover eight games. Season tickets mean a nice saving if purchased now. Lions Eaton and Holliday are assisting in the ticket sale. Coach White introduced Joe Berry, new science teacher, as line coach for this season. He paid Mr. Berry a high compliment upon his football ability and athletic experience. Mr. Berry responded with a short talk in which he promised to do all he could to make the season a success.

E. R. Lawrence, animal husbandry teacher, said that conditions this year were not as promising as last for a great win at the fat stock show. Dry weather conditions, shortness of feed and a poor calf crop were the factors concerned. He said sixteen calves were now on feed, but would be hard to finish for the Fort Worth show. He stated that between three and six outstanding calves could be hoped for. Ozona has invited Sonora to participate in the auction sale next July, using winning calves in the fat stock show. Mr. Lawrence said he would probably bring back those calves making highest rank in singles and if not disposed of to Sonora people they would likely go to the Ozona auction sale. He said that feed for the projects would be purchased in Sonora, the business going to the lowest bidder. The class in judging, which won 100 per cent last year will be started this week, Mr. Lawrence said. Calves now on feed will be taken to the Angelo fair, it is thought.

Band Question Settled
On motion of "Izzy" Leaman, the club voted to turn all instruments belonging to it over to the secretary, W. E. James, for the use of a town band. Jack Neill and "Buzzy" Stokes spoke to the question and Stokes offered a motion to fine any Lion the limit if guilty of bringing the band question again to the attention of the club.

President Lowrey read a letter from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in reference to appointing a member of the Lions Club on the board of directors of that body. Lion W. E. Caldwell was elected to the position.

First National Bank

FORMER SONORAN DID NOT ROB BANK

Clyde E. Martin, former Sonora High school football player, did not rob a bank in California. It has been reported that a story appeared in Denver, Colorado, that Martin robbed a bank in California. This is in error, according to Johnnie and Woodie Martin of this city, brothers of the falsely accused man.

Martin's brothers here have a written statement from Clyde's employer, a lumber company manager in Santa Anna, California, stating that it was another Martin who robbed the bank and not Clyde, formerly of Sonora. Martin's employer also said there were several Clyde Martins in the telephone directory in Los Angeles where the robbery occurred.

People Are Enjoying Greater

VALUES

IN

than ever before

That headline is strictly true. One reason is, Goodyear Tires are better right now than they have ever been. The other reason is, rubber is cheap and consequently Goodyear Tires are available at the lowest prices in history. People are not slow to seize a chance like this.

They are buying Goodyear Tires at an unparalleled rate. Their preference for Goodyears rests upon definite Goodyear superiorities in both tread and carcass, the two main parts of a tire.

And the great fact certainly is this: More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That is true of the people who buy new cars. It is true of people who buy replacement tires from dealers.

It is true of buses which carry passengers—more transcontinental, urban and interurban buses and coaches operate on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind. Year after year, throughout the world, the number continually increases.

Goodyear values are matchlessly high—tire prices are matchlessly low. This is the year to ride on Goodyears—now is the time to get yours.
