Statement ruled admissible

A statement made to police by Benito Rodriguez, one of five brothers charged with murder and aggravated assault in connection with the Feb. 17 stabbing death of Roberto Lira and the injury of three others, was ruled admissible Friday during a pretrial hearing in 31st District Court.

Judge Grainger McIlhany ruled that Rodriguez had made the statement voluntarily and that he had been informed of his rights.

Attorney James McPherson had made a motion that the statement, dictated by Rodriguez to his wife and signed over to Pampa police detective R.B. Nichols, be excluded by the court as evidence in the trial tentatively scheduled for the district court's March 12 jury week.

Two die in shooting spree

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A man walked into a heavy equipment firm Saturday and fired at least nine shots from a .22-caliber weapon, killing two men and wounding a third, police said. The gunman fled after the shooting.

Buffalo police said the shootings occurred at about 8:30 a.m. at the J and R Equipment Co., a buyer and seller of used industrial equipment.

The shootings were reported by a secretary, apparently the only other person at the plant at the time.

The slain victims were identified as Julius Kramer, 58, purchasing agent and sales manager, and Bennie Reese, 55, an employee, police said.

Oil shortage may affect American way of life

NEW YORK (AP) — The worldwide crude oil shortage caused by the four-month-long cutoff of Iranian petroleum production has begun to push up prices of the chemicals and plastics that are indispensable parts of modern life.

"Certainly we're going to be paying more," said Standard & Poor's Corp. analyst Irma Iosario. "Eventually, all of these increases will filter down the line to consumers because plastics are pretty much everywhere."

Crude oil and natural gas are, of course, made into gasoline and other vital fuels. But they also are the basic ingredients for thousands of items ranging from building supplies and fertilizer to telephone housings, plastic bags and dinnerware, and polyester shirts and suits.

Although the price of plastics and petrochemicals is rising, consumers may not immediately feel the effects of the increases because the amounts of crude oil or natural gas in many consumer products may be quite small.

The production of man-made fibers such as polyester accounts for only 1 percent of a year's U.S. energy consumption, and a man's polyester suit contains about 33 cents worth of crude oil.

A $400 television may contain $20 worth of plastic, for instance, while plastic wrapping accounts for about 2 cents of the 59 cents a consumer pays for a loaf of bread.

At the East Coast Stop & Shop supermarket chain, spokesman Steve Gusenoff said the price paid for plastic bread wrapping has gone up 4 percent to 6 percent in the past two months.

The wholesale price of the plastic food wrap shoppers purchase also is likely to head upward "in about two months," and "I think it's safe to say customers will pay for most cost increases," Gusenoff said.

Predictions of how much prices of consumer products will rise are almost impossible to obtain, because chemical and plastic producers say the world energy situation is far from clear.

If Iran's crude oil production resumes at half its former level, as the new Iranian government has predicted, U.S. chemical prices overall "will go up 1 to 2 percent," according to one industry observer, who asked not to be quoted by name.

The squeeze on manufacturers of plastics and chemicals has been more severe in Europe and Japan than in the United States. Here, crude oil supplies about 25 percent of the raw material for chemical production, with relatively plentiful natural gas supplying much of the rest. Elsewhere, however, the crude oil that has been in short supply is a basic raw material.

Foreign demand has been high enough for Union Carbide Corp. to begin limiting sales of polyethylene used in plastic bags and other items "to ensure there will be enough available to continue to meet the needs of domestic customers."

'Blue Law' repeal sought by some state retailers

DALLAS (AP) — A group of some 2,500 competing Texas retailers has organized to make a concerted effort to win legislative repeal of the state's so-called "blue law."

"We no longer wish to be asked to enforce a law our customers don't want," said Lawrence M. Turner of Kroger Co., acting as spokesman for the group, "Retailers for Repeal of the Blue Law."

He said participating companies will provide the means and instructions for customers to contact their state senators and representatives.

The new group, however, does not have unanimous support among retailers. In a message supporting the blue law, the Retail Merchants Association of Houston called upon its members to place posters in employee lounges asking, "Do you want to work on Sunday?"

Turner called the ploy a "scare tactic."

He said the aim of his group's drive is to have consumer opinion heard on the blue law, which prohibits the sale of certain products on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

Turner said the initial 2,500 companies participating in the program operate approximately 4,000 stores statewide. The companies involved range in size from large chains to small, local stores.

"Our sole purpose is to allow consumers to be heard in Austin, thus combating the apathy that previous state legislatures have shown in regard to the blue law," Turner said.

"Until now, it is the retailers and their employees who have had to bear the burden of consumer dissatisfaction and opposition to the legislation."

"As a result of our efforts, we expect that individual senators and representatives will be flooded with letters, telegrams and other requests that they delay no longer in putting an end to the blue law."

"Quite frankly," Turner added in a statement, "we are tired of trying to explain to customers what we ourselves don't understand — why you can buy a hammer but not nails, a blank tape but not a record, shoelaces but not shoes, or beer but not a baby bottle in Texas on Sundays."

Turner said retailers are "tired of being asked to enforce a law that makes no sense, is difficult to interpret and which most of our customers resent."

Several bills currently before the Legislature call for full or partial repeal of the blue law. Turner said retailers in his organization favor a full repeal.

Turner said repealing the blue law would have little effect on whether employees work on Sundays.

"Many stores already are open on Saturdays and Sundays," he said, "but are obliged to rope off sections of merchandise and prohibit their customers from purchasing them."

EXHIBITS AT THE ALANREED - McLEAN MUSEUM include this skeleton of an Indian woman, found in 1968 on the banks of McClellan Creek about 10 miles north of McLean. The woman's tribe, the Panhandle Cultural Indians, are thought to have lived in this area around 1,200 A.D.

With Panhandle history Area museum stands out

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

There's not much that catches the eye on Main Street in downtown McLean. Most of the storefronts are old and rundown, with the exception of the freshly remodeled American National Bank. Several, like the abandoned Avalon Theater, are vacant.

One section, however, stands out because of the large painted block letters proclaiming "AREA MUSEUM." In front of the building at 167 N. Main is a flagpole flying the colors of Texas and the United States. Inside the building lies a wealth of educational information.

The Alanreed - McLean Area Museum is a history buff's delight. It was conceived in 1969 by a group of retired schoolteachers, two of whom, Vera Back and Alice Short Smith, did most of the work in putting together the exhibits.

Most of the items exhibited are on loan from people in the Gray County. The museum is like a large, detailed scrapbook of the area's first families.

"This building has been here as long as I can remember," says Fayette Bill Barton, a pleasant elderly woman who acts as one of the museum's two curators. "I can remember coming in here when I was a little girl. It was once a grocery store."

The main room now contains clothing, furniture, household items and documents. The walls are covered with old photos and artwork. On one wall are portraits and plaques dedicated to the area's war dead, including three casualties of Vietnam.

The most recent portrait in the room is of Lyndon Baines Johnson. Framed is an Amarillo Daily News front page dated Nov. 23, 1963 — the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

In one corner is a mock-up of a doctor's office, with a glass case full of old medical instruments and a black bag that once belonged to a Dr. W. C. Montgomery. ("He was here way back before World War I," says Mrs. Barton.)

A second room is dedicated to the old west. Showcased are cattle brands, barbed wire collections, saddles, western wear, old weapons, fossils, animal bones and skulls and the excavated skeletons of two Indians, along with Indian artifacts.

A third, quite large room is divided into simulations of a frontier bedroom, kitchen and parlor. A mannikin in the kitchen displays a pioneer dress dating back to the 1860s, while an old wooden bucket on a bench is kept filled with water.

"We have to keep it wet or it will dry out and shrink and fall apart," observes Mrs. Barton.

Past the third room is a garage area, anchored by a 1927 Ford Model T. The garage is strewn with old tools and hardware, a loom, a dated tin bathtub, form machinery and a machine planter lent by E. C. Sidwell of Pampa.

In the middle of the floor is a combination barber - dentist chair, dating back to the days when folks had their hair cut and their teeth pulled by the same person. According to Mrs. Barton, the chair was supposedly occupied on several occasions by Clyde Barrow, of Bonnie and Clyde fame.

There seems to be a story behind everything. Walking back into the main room, Mrs. Barton points to an impressionistic painting mounted high on the wall and says "Let me tell you about this one." A fascinating piece of work, it was painted by a seventh grade student after the horrible "black duster" storm of 1935.

"You'd better hope and pray we never have another one as long as you live in this area," she says emphatically, when questioned about the storm.

Mrs. Barton draws attention to a yellow, brittle newspaper section — a 1936 "Special Panhandle Centennial & Historical Edition" of the Pampa Press, given to her by her mother. To a modern - day Pampa, a few of the ads, like the one for the "new" Schneider Hotel, are real gems.

Although it is known as the Alanreed - McLean museum, almost all the items on display are from McLean. Alanreed barely exists today.

"We should have brought Lefors into it instead of Alanreed," Mrs. Barton said. "We would have gotten a lot more from Lefors."

Even so, the building and its four rooms are close to overflowing. There are plans to branch out to a vacant building across the street, but it will require much work. No one knows when it can be accomplished.

"We don't have time and we're getting too old," Mrs. Barton said.

"The young people don't want to help us." There does seem to be a lack of interest on the part of the young. The few people who stop in during the tour are all elderly.

Because admission is free, the museum barely squeaks by on donations, the philanthropy of a few individuals and occasional county contributions.

"The city gives us nothing," Mrs. Barton said. "The least they could do is give us our utilities. You ought to see our utility bills — they're ridiculous." The building is "old and drafty, like a bann."

"Sometimes we wonder from one month to the next if we're going to be here," she said.

The museum's demise would indeed be sad. But the McLean High School reunion will be held soon, and it is hoped that nostalgic alumni will contribute to the cause.

"We're not planning to close," Mrs. Barton said assuredly. "As long as we can keep the door open, we'll stay open."

Arrests made in murder case

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Two soldiers from nearby Fort Bliss have been arrested and other suspects were still sought Saturday in the Dec. 23, 1978, slaying of flamboyant El Paso narcotics defense lawyer Lee Chagra.

Pfc. Don White, 21, of Richmond, Calif., and Spec. 4 David Leon Wallace, 20, of Compton, Calif., were charged with capital murder.

Police Chief William Rodriguez told of White's arrest at a Saturday news conference also attended by U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd and O. Leon Dobbs, special agent in charge of the local FBI office.

Rodriguez said White was arrested Friday night in El Paso and was being held in the county jail on bonds totaling $207,000 on unlawful possession of a weapon and murder charges.

The FBI in Los Angeles said its agents and Compton, Calif., police arrested Wallace on Saturday on federal warrants charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder. Wallace was held in the Compton jail for Texas authorities.

JoAnne Chagra, widow of the colorful Chagra, said she was not told in advance of any arrests.

"I hope and pray to God that we have found them," she said. "I have never heard his name before."

El Paso Police Lt. John Manahan said White "already was a suspect and we wanted to talk to him some more about the Chagra murder."

Chagra's death touched off a federal grand jury investigation focusing on a wide range of criminal activity, including narcotics trafficking.

The attorney's body was found in his fortress-like office near downtown El Paso. There have been reports of a large sum of money missing from the office.

Chagra's younger brother, Jimmy, was arrested last week in Las Vegas on narcotics charges and is also being held in the El Paso County Jail in lieu of $1 million bond.

After Lee Chagra's death, police sealed off his office and pored over files, touching off a court of inquiry as to the legality of searches. The FBI, IRS and Drug Enforcement Administration were also involved in the search.

The judge who called the court of inquiry said he felt police acted illegally in going through attorney-client files, but referred the matter to the county attorney, who said no prosecution was merited.

Another convention would be chaotic

Rocky would have been proud of his fellow Republicans. Grand Old Party members currently in office convened recently to draft the party's platform for 1980 and exercised an axiom of the late Nelson A. Rockefeller: In pointing out the problem, point to a solution that will work.

Republicans had no trouble pinpointing the sorest trouble spot of the current administration, but it also offered some constructive advice that could solve two problems at once.

The Democrats' worst dilemma is how to curb spending without cutting services — how to achieve the balanced budget everyone wants without losing friends.

The Republicans' answer is a constitutional amendment which would limit federal spending to X-amount. Under such amendment, the President and Congress wouldn't have to worry about balancing friends as well as finances — they could blame the Constitution for an empty pocketbook.

What GOP officials really solved, though, was the problem of holding the nation's second constitutional convention.

Already passed by 26 state legislatures, a constitutional convention is the only other concrete proposal to force the federal government into fiscal responsibility.

What it might also force the federal government into perplexes the rational mind more than does irresponsible spending.

Simply, this is no more reasonable a time in the U.S. than it was when the first constitutional convention was held. Remember? Delegates met only to amend the Articles of Confederation, but ended up reweaving the basic fabric of the nation. They gave us the world's strongest declaration of freedom, but we have no guarantee that present leaders would preserve that trust. We have considerable reason to suspect that they would not.

Today's issues are complex beyond our founding fathers' wildest vision — if Thomas Jefferson ever fantasized about how to control computer crime, he didn't write about it. And the complexity, to say nothing of the vast number of issues, has led to the practice of situational ethics, as opposed to strict adherence to constitutional principles.

What this means is that members of each special interest group want to pass laws regulating the behavior of others while protecting their own right to do pretty much as they please.

Only the National Security Agency's systems analyst could begin to calculate how many hundreds of these self-interest groups would descend on a constitutional convention, "innocently" held to curb rampant federal waste.

Equally important is that all of these people are mad about something, and like the crazy broadcaster in "Network," ready to take to the streets shouting they "aren't going to take it anymore." That's hardly a healthy mood in which to rewrite the document controlling what you may say and do to whom when.

Readers angry about crude sex in Hustler might join forces with those outraged by profanity in literature course textbooks. Out the window with so-called pornography would go Chaucer for bedroom scenes, Shakespeare for undeleted expletives and freedom of the press.

Cul leaders, anxious that Congress wants to examine their records to prevent another Jonestown mass suicide, might band with religious school administrators who see no reason to demonstrate whether or not their students are capable of reading and writing. We would retain separation of church and state, but with a self-defined church controlling the state.

Take the U.S. Constitution liberty by liberty: think about how special interest groups, through the elected officials they control, might change each liberty and ask whether you would risk an opportunity for revision.

Maybe if there were more Nelson Rockefellers who understand that defining a problem without presenting a workable solution just creates another problem, we wouldn't cringe at the notion of Constitutional Convention II. It is not sufficient, he was fond of saying, to merely detect the problem or to pose an answer. The answer must be right.

Here we go again

You and I have been comparing notes on the newest military weapons, encouraged by the prospect that our tiny fraction of the planet's population could hold off the barbarians with technology.

With weapons of mass annihilation we brought Hitler and Tojo to their knees - but with lesser weapons we have not won a war since.

Now we hear Defense Secretary Harold Brown telling the Senate Armed Services committee that we will continue to rely on masses of marching men.

He's talking about cranking up the old military draft again.

He says we might have to resume registration of 18-year-olds as soon as this year.

And Gen. David Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Army Secretary Clifford Alexander second the notion.

I have too much respect for the integrity of these men to consider this a devious political ploy to get unemployed teenagers out of the way.

Indeed, President Carter has expressed opposition to resumption of inductions.

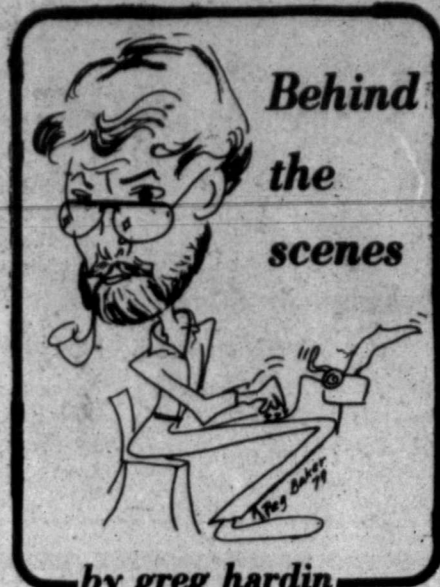

So it has to be concluded that there remains in the military mentality a preoccupation with tradition that is impossible to reverse in one generation - and that there are still those in the Pentagon who plan to fight the next war with the weapons which have lost the last two.

ETTA FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM
HULME N.E.R. 79

How many times have you wondered what all those government employees do all day?

Well, maybe I can shed a little light on the subject, having been in the service of our great country for several years.

Let me start by saying that government work is a contradiction in terms. If it is work, government is not involved, and if it is government then there is no work done.

All those tax dollars that we pay to support those state and county employees sure didn't seem to go far this winter. I don't know about you, but I got very tired seeing city and county trucks clearing parking lots while I was trying to drive on ice covered streets. Maybe they were expecting heavy traffic around the parking lots - who knows? Our government leaders sure don't.

Before we go on let me say that there are a few people employed by our local government system that do an outstanding job at what they do, but there are three times as many people on our payroll that don't do anything at all, or very little.

How many times have you driven down the highways of Texas and seen road crews parked along the side of the highway just sitting there, doing nothing at all?

Here in Pampa we are facing a real example of government at work. The city fathers want to extend 23rd Street so that it will connect with the loop around Pampa. There is not too much wrong with that except the reasoning behind this move is so the garbage trucks don't have to drive as far to get to the landfill.

Now our city fathers may have some sound thinking behind this move but somehow it sticks in the back of my mind that it is a total waste of money.

I realize that there is an energy crisis going on and that we should all try and conserve fuel but to spend thousands of dollars to save a few hundred dollars worth of fuel to me is stupid.

We realize that things are not going to get any cheaper and that this may be a very sound move since it seems that construction in Pampa is moving in that direction, but I can't see doing something today that we might not need tomorrow.

This is a perfect example out how our government works - spend thousands of dollars to save hundreds of dollars.

We really can't blame our city fathers for this idea, they are only following the lead of our federal government. The people in Washington have the perfect cure for everything - spend more of the taxpayers money. If that doesn't work, spend more money until the problem is solved.

The people in Washington might be good honest folks when they leave their various communities to take on their new jobs in the government system, but it doesn't take very long at all for the most upstanding man or woman to be corrupted by the system that we allow to flourish.

Here in Pampa there are several ways that we have of controlling what goes on with our government and I don't mean by voting.

Each person should express their ideas on what they want and what they don't want to the local government leaders and vote each person out of office that doesn't do exactly what the people that elected him or her want done.

There are many ways that we can make ourselves known to city, county, state and federal officials and I think it is time that these people realize who they are working for or in many cases employed by.

The American taxpayer is the greatest boss in the world. Where else can you get a fantastic salary for doing nothing?

We need to start here and let the people decide when and where a new road should be built. I think that payment on the existing roads or a drainage system for Pampa would be more beneficial than extending a street so the garbage trucks will have a short cut.

Free lights and phone

While America needs increased electric power production for economic growth, the nation's utilities continue to encounter opposition and harassment from a variety of sources.

Edward J. Walsh's report, "The Anti-Nuclear Movement" (U.S. Industrial Council) describes the goals and background of the counterculture types who oppose use of the atom in order to meet America's energy needs. He writes that the anti-nuclear extremists, who want to shut down nuclear power plants are "career ideologues who advocate wood, solar and wind - the fuel sources of the Stone Age - for America's future."

The de-industrializers, however, constitute only one center of opposition to the utilities. The welfare expansionist, anti-free enterprise types are equally militant in their opposition to power companies.

An example of this type of opposition recently surfaced in South Carolina where State Rep. Theo Mitchell, chairman of the Legislative Black Caucus, declared "war" on the power and telephone companies operating in the state. His declaration followed the utilities' refusal to accede to demands that no user's power or telephone be disconnected for non-payment of bills.

Threatening boycotts and demonstrations, Rep. Mitchell said: "We are going to turn against them the power of the righteous wrath which they have generated among our people. We are going to bring these companies down to proper size with the power of public opinion."

Then Rep. Mitchell added this piece of socialist economic nonsense:

"To say that these companies can make a profit is not to be construed, we feel, as meaning that they should make a profit. It is time that the owners and managers of these companies be burdened financially; they have burdened us for too long."

That's pure demagoguery, of course. Next thing you know, there will be demands that the law prevent the repossession of welfare Cadillacs.

It's very disturbing to learn that any state legislator believes that a utility is simply another handout organization. Certainly, it's not the business of a power company or a telephone company to provide free services comparable with food stamps and other federal goodies.

A utility must pay its way, or go into bankruptcy. If a legislator were to compel a utility to provide services to deadbeats, it would be at the expense of responsible citizens who pay their light and phone bills.

Unfortunately, welfareism has become so embedded in the American political system that some legislators apparently believe that free light and phone services should be added to the existing forms of public assistance.

Food stamps are provided to millions of welfare careerists by citizens who pay for their own groceries. It's an easy step for politicians, who profess to speak for a welfare constituency, to insist that self-reliant citizens also pick up the tab for light and phone services.

Rep. Mitchell spoke of people being burdened. The burdened people in our time are the oppressed taxpayers who are called on to support a large drone element in American society and the bureaucrats and politicians who cater to the element.

The disturbing comments by a South Carolina state legislator serve as a reminder that political spokesmen for the welfare constituency are increasing their demands at the very time that the majority of Americans are insisting on curtailment of handouts. If these spokesmen can't get public approval for increased welfare expenditures, they hope to achieve the same end by harassing private business - chiefly the utilities - into yielding new benefits to those who threaten protests.

The public should recognize this game for what it is and insist on an end to attempted intimidation of taxpaying businesses.

Public Opinion

What has happened to the idea of having well rounded students? Schools ideally aimed for students to be exposed to sports, music, academics, (which should be stressed) and the social graces. Now it seems each department tugs and pulls to get students and community on their "side."

I think each department in our school system should get equal treatment and consideration. Not every student is interested in choir and band. If these other departments were encouraged instead of being "put down" and "put out" all of the time our students might get the idea that cooperation is important whether at school or at work. They might also decide that they can handle more than one activity. Our children need challenges and encouragement to do as much as they possibly can so they will be able to make decisions concerning their future.

On this date:
In 1681, England's King Charles II granted William Penn a charter for what is now Pennsylvania.

In 1789, the first U.S. Congress convened in Federal Hall in New York City but had to adjourn because there was not a quorum.

In 1791, Vermont became the 14th state.

In 1829, the White House was mobbed by an unruly crowd at the inauguration of President Andrew Jackson.

In 1917, Republican Rep. Jeannette Rankin of Montana became the first woman to serve in Congress.

In 1971, terrorists in Turkey kidnaped four U.S. airmen and threatened to shoot them unless ransom of $400,000 was paid.

Thought for today: The truth is found when men are free to pursue it — President Franklin Roosevelt.

TV evangelist dropped

DALLAS (AP) — An anti-homosexual sermon caused a Dallas television station to drop weekly broadcasts by James Robison, a well known evangelist, according to a television station executive.

David Lane, station manager of WFAA-TV, said he decided to drop Robison's Sunday programs because he believes Robison violated the Federal Communication Commission's Fairness Doctrine. Robison's programs, produced at WFAA-TV's studio, is carried on about 85 stations.

The sermon, broadcast last week, included comments by Robison that the gay movement is "despicable" and "a perversion of the highest order."

Representatives of the Dallas Gay Political Caucus have requested and will receive equal time to rebut Robison's remarks, Lane said.

"We believe that our religious programs should not deal with such matters. We cover these type controversies in our news and public affairs shows where we can balance both sides," Lane said.

"I'm not arguing with his theology. I'm trying to do my job," Lane continued.

At a news conference at his headquarters at nearby Hurst, Robison, 35, said "I should be able to say what's in my head and what's in the Bible."

"I'll always preach that homosexuality is a sin," he said.

In the televised sermon, Robison quoted various police spokesmen as saying homosexuals recruit and murder little boys.

The "homosexual movement is despicable and perversion of the highest order," Robison is quoted as saying.

"This is becoming prominent and practiced as a normal lifestyle in America. It's being condoned by religious groups and legislative bodies," Robison said.

"We can't keep people from living sinfully, but we can at least acknowledge that it's a sin," he continued.

Robison said he was shocked at learning that WFAA-TV, an ABC-TV affiliate, was dropping his show. He said he pays $100,000 per year to the station to produce the program and the program is aired there free of charge. In other areas, Robison pays for the program to be aired.

The evangelist said he bears no ill will toward the station, but said he believes it is ironic that the action was taken by "the same station that gives you 'Soap,' 'Three's Company' and 'Charlie's Angels.' (Three ABC programs criticized by some church organizations as being sexually oriented.)"

Saying he does not believe his remarks about homosexuality violated any FCC regulations, Robison said "WFAA does not owe gay people one minute of television time."

Robison said he hopes to find another outlet for his program in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

"I can't stop taking a stand. We want to reach sinners, but now I don't know if I can call them sinners," Robison said.

Oil conspiracy charged

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A federal jury said Saturday that four Texas oilman conspired to illegally raise the price of oil sold to the Florida Power Corp. during the fuel crisis of 1973-74, but the trial judge delayed adjudicating guilt.

A fifth defendant, former FPC senior vice president Richard Raymond, 63, was cleared on all charges.

Convicted by the jury on the conspiracy charge and six charges of mail fraud were James R. Clark, 49, John L. Burns, 50, Walter L. Ballard, 59, and Ronald Pruitt, 37, all of the Houston area at the time the oil sales were made.

U.S. District Judge Terrell Hodges ordered pre-sentencing investigations on the four while delaying adjudication. He offered no explanation of the delay. But he has not yet ruled on defense motions for directed verdicts of acquittal.

The government charged the five with conspiring to pass oil shipments through a "daisy chain" of companies, raising prices to enrich themselves, before selling to the St. Petersburg company. Raymond was also accused of taking kickbacks. All denied the charges.

Related charges of wire fraud were dismissed during the trial, which was held here because of heavy pre-trial news coverage in the St. Petersburg area.

The jury returned the verdict at about 11:30 a.m. after deliberating more than 12 hours over a three-day period.

The four Texans listened impassively as the verdicts were read.

Raymond's verdict came last and he, too, remained impassive — until he learned of his acquittal. He then shook hands with his lawyer, Ronald Cacciatore of Tampa, broke into a big grin, and bear-hugged him before going back to his impassive stance.

Funds sought for loan program

Jewelry, china, crystal, silver and other furnished goods will be sold at the Annual Antique Show and Sale at M.K. Brown Auditorium March 23 - 25 to raise funds for a loan program.

The 20th Century Club, the event's sponsor for 17 years, will collect funds from spaces that are rented to antique dealers and from ticket sales.

About nine antique dealers from Oklahoma, Kansas and area towns will have exhibits. The dealers make money from sales, said Catillon member

Mrs. Walter McFatrige. The Pampa Women's Club, which has 20 active members, will give money from sales to the Opportunity Plan Office, which offers student loan programs.

Their sales last year grossed $2,200 and total contributions during the last 16 years add up to about $28,436, said Milton Morris, Executive Vice President of the Opportunity Plan Office.

The money helped to finance 66 students through school, he

Survivor tells of her ordeal

PUERTO PRINCESSA, Philippines (AP) - The slim girl with short black hair and a ready giggle appears to be just another tee-ager among the youngsters on this military base. But Tran Hue Hue sometimes seems distracted, and often wakes in the night trembling from an unknown fear.

She was the only one of 50 Vietnamese refugees to survive a 20-week nightmare after being washed ashore on a desolate patch of sand. She survived by wringing the necks of seagulls or crushing hermit crabs for food.

"She has not only gone hungry for more than four months, she watched 49 people die of hunger and disease," said her Filipino doctor, Col. Hugo B. Javier. "For a girl her age, waiting one person die is traumatic enough. What more 49?"

United Nations refugee officials said Miss Tran's story began last September when she and 90 others fled Vietnam aboard a 35-foot fishing boat. After three days their ship ran aground on a remote deserted shoal off the southern Philippine island of Palawan.

Slowly, over 20 weeks, one by one, her companions died of hunger and thirst.

Policemen slain

CHICAGO (AP) - Two Chicago policemen were shot to death Saturday afternoon during an apparent gun battle on the far South Side, authorities said.

A youth investigator, who declined to be identified, said early reports indicated that the officers were ambushed as they were responding to a call.

After the officers were shot, their assailants approached and shot both of them in the head, the investigator said.

Police recovered weapons apparently involved in the shootings, he said.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
A late winter cold front plunged into the state Saturday, kicking up dust in West Texas and dragging in a layer of clouds. Temperatures fell about 15 degrees as the front passed through.

At 5 p.m. the edge of the cold front curved from Texarkana through College Station, San Antonio and northwestward to Wink.

The weather caused the postponement of two Southwest Conference baseball games - Rice at Texas Tech and Baylor at Southern Methodist. The Lubbock game was called off because of cold winds, and the Dallas game was called due to wet grounds caused by overnight thunderstorms.

Despite the front, most of Texas enjoyed clear skies at least part of the day Saturday. It was sunny and 60 in the Dallas-Fort Worth area before the front blew through about noon, dropping temperatures into the 40s and turning skies gray.

Southeastern sections remained balmy the entire day, with temperatures in the 70s and 80s under sunny skies.

At 4 p.m. readings ranged from 39 at Childress to 85 at Laredo.

The outlook called for cool temperatures and clear skies Sunday with warmer readings Monday.

National

Winter weather continues in the West while flood waters along the Ohio River recede today.

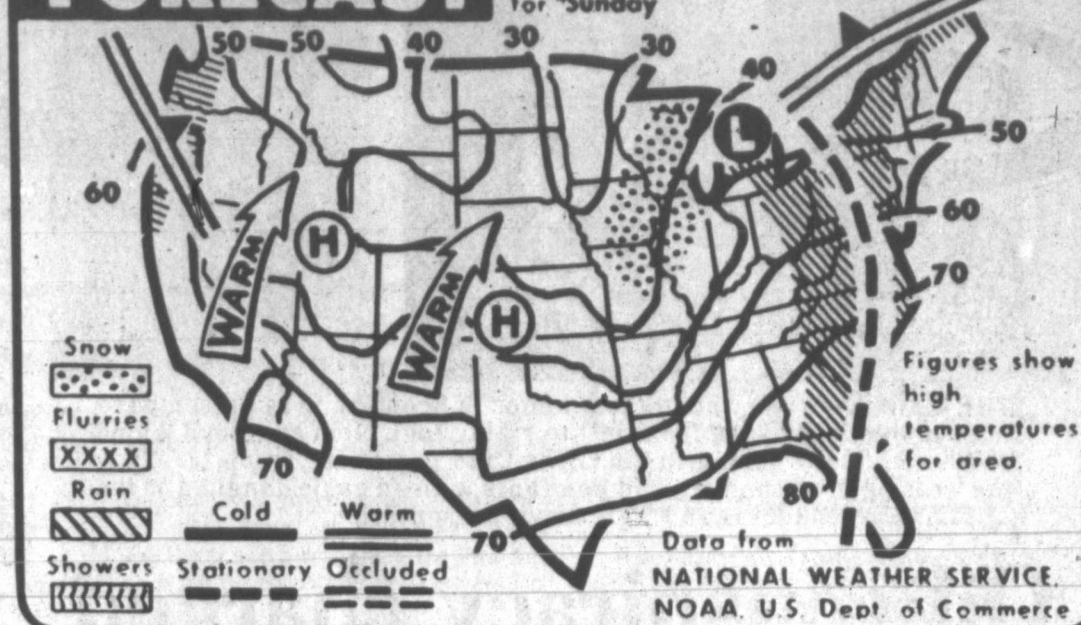

Rain fell through portions of the Northeast.

In the West, travelers' advisories were issued for the higher elevations of northern Nevada, Utah, Arizona, northern Wyoming, southeastern Montana and northwest Nebraska. Other severe weather advisories were posted in the southern mountains of Colorado and the northwest Plateau.

Rainshowers were over southern California and southern Nevada.

Freezing drizzle fell in eastern South Dakota, Minnesota and portions of northern Wyoming.

FORECAST

RAIN IS DUE Sunday over the Pacific Northwest Coast, and in a broad arc from northern Florida to Maine, according to the National Weather Service. Snow is forecast from the northern Plains into Minnesota. It will be cold in the north-central part of the nation and warmer elsewhere.

Astronomy taught

Galileo opened the skies for study with the invention of the telescope. Some of the details of the vast Panhandle skies are now at the disposal of its inhabitants, especially students, at the Don Harrington Discovery Center in Amarillo.

Three telescopes along with a filtering device at the center allow the student of astronomy to see stellar and solar projection of the western skies.

The facilities are for elementary school children and college students, said Arthur Schneider, center director.

Schneider, who is also a professor at Amarillo College, said that he also teaches his astronomy classes with the help of the equipment.

The telescopic system, which has a magnification of about 100, is a very intricate piece and has no match in Texas, he said.

The equipment costs $60,000, of which the Don Harrington Foundation paid $55,000. The Amarillo School District contributed $5,000.

The center has several stations and a planetarium, where the sun and stars are projected. The planetarium allows a three-foot image to be projected on a screen while images at the stations, located in the hall, have one-foot dimensions.

A white light telescope at one station, he said, projects images of granulation and bright spots on the sun's surface.

Bright spots, scientifically named faculae, are gaseous, disturbed areas, which are surrounded by darker regions, he said. The dark zones are called granulations.

The sun also has outbursts of gases, which are called prominences. These solar activities are observed through the solar prominence telescope.

Sunspots, prominences and intense outbursts of energy known as flares can be seen with aid from the hydrogen alpha telescope.

The center has presented several educational shows at the planetarium.

"A Legacy Program" explained the spacecraft at NASA while "The Star of Bethlehem" combined religious and scientific interpretations of the holy star to explain the phenomenon, said Schneider.

Another show, "Sun Word," was a description and story of our galaxy's solar, he said, and day and night skies were the subject matter of "Sky Fires."

The center will intertwine science and the Biblical teachings again during Easter time when a new show, "Heavns Declare the Glory of God," is presented.

"Footsteps" will deal with man's landing on the moon, and "Springtime of the Universe" will explore the idea of the earth as a young planet, he said.

The solar eclipse was projected in the planetarium last Monday when more than 200 people watched the rare event, which lasted over two hours.

The center is open weekdays from 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. and Sundays 2 - 4:30 p.m. when skies are clear. The equipment is already setup for viewing by technicians.

4-H Corner

by Marilyn Tate

By MARILYN TATE, County Extension Agent TEXAS 4-H - JAPANESE LABO EXCHANGE PROGRAM:

When Texans are boarding planes with international destinations next summer, a group of Texas 4-H'ers will be among them. These young people will fly to Japan on the Texas 4-H - Japanese LABO Exchange program.

In Japan, each young person will live for about four weeks with a host family. They will be just as another family member, working and playing beside their Japanese host parents, brothers, and sisters. The 4-H exchanges will also see parts of Japan other than the area of their host home, such as Tokyo, Kyoto, and Nara. The latter two are "cities of the past." Kyoto was a cultural center in 794 and Nara, the oldest capital of Japan, houses the world's oldest wooden buildings.

Teenagers participating in this exchange may become involved in a 4-H International Studies program preparatory to the summer of Japan. The youthful travelers, ages 12-19, pay their own costs for the exchange.

The exchange is jointly coordinated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the LABO Exchange Foundation of Japan. Both the Extension Service and the LABO Foundation are concerned with bettering international relations and deepening cross-cultural understanding through homestay programs.

For more information about 4-H programs and about the youth exchange, contact the County Extension Office (669-7429).

There have been several accounts written about the early oil boom days of Borger and they all agree Borger was a wicked city in 1927.

John H. White was a Borger attorney and a state representative. Shortly after the Texas Rangers had been sent to clean up the town and establish law and order for the second time, White wrote a book about this "Sin City".

The book was widely publicized and the stories of duels to the death, whiskey and beer lines, gambling, women of the evening, and politics and dope made Borger famous for its wickedness.

John P. "Slim" Jones gave us another account of those early oil boom days in '26 and '27. He was not a gifted writer or even a good reporter. His normal occupation was in the oil field drilling for "black gold" for several oil companies.

The following is a recollection by Jones of the social life at that time.

"I heard about the dance that Pop Murphy was going to have known as "The Fig Leaf Dance". I decided to go as I understood there would be no clothes on. Just a few fig leaves over a small portion of the body.

"I went early so I wouldn't miss anything and I didn't. Owing to the short summer season in the Panhandle and the cold winters, there were no fig trees so they decided to have the dance anyway and I didn't miss seeing anything but the fig leaves.

"The house was unusually crowded. I didn't dance myself, but it was not trouble for the girls to get partners and the longer they danced the rougher they got.

"Someone called the chief of police and he made an attempt to break it up. He was told that Pop Murphy had permission from the mayor. Anyway the chief overruled the mayor's decision and broke it up.

"I hope reading this won't encourage anyone to start the dance again. If they do I hope it will be in a fig country where fig leaves are more plentiful."

Installing Gas air conditioning now is a squirrely idea . . .

One you'll be nuts about this summer!

Some things are better planned ahead — ask any squirrel. Like gathering nuts. Or, getting your home ready in winter for summer's swelter. Install Gas air conditioning now, and you'll beat the rush that always comes with the first hot, dusty day. Then, while everybody else is all steamed up, waiting for overworked installers, you'll be cool, calm and collected . . . enjoying the comfort of efficient Gas air conditioning and the security of its full ten-year, no-sweat warranty.

Gas air conditioning lasts and lasts with no loss of cooling capacity. That's because it's built with fewer moving parts and no compressor to break down or wear out. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. It's this simple principle that gives Gas air conditioning its long life and easy maintenance.

Take a tip from the smart little squirrel. Plan ahead. Install Gas air conditioning this winter. You'll be nuts about it this summer.

Amarillo High sweeps girls divisions

Tascoa takes boys meet

JOE MURRAY was one of just two winners for Pampa High at the Top of Texas Boys Invitational Track Meet Saturday at Randy Matson Track. Murray took the junior varsity 880 in 2:11.9. Brad Mathis was Pampa's other winner, capturing the JV high jump with a leap of 5-7. (Pampa News photo by Joe Blobaum)

Tascoa dominated both ends of Saturday's boys meet, while the Amarillo High girls pulled the same trick Friday afternoon in the Top of Texas Track Invitational at Pampa's Randy Matson Stadium.

Bright spots for Pampa teams included a second-place team finish by the junior varsity girls, a pair of first-place performances by Lady Harvesters Jana Vaughn and Kellye Richardson and a pair of 1-2 sweeps in girls JV events.

For the Harvester boys, Joe Murray's win in the junior varsity 880 and Brad Mathis' triumph in the JV high jump were the only Pampa victories on Saturday. Kyle Bradford's second place standing in the high jump was the high point for the Harvesters in the boys varsity meet.

Amarillo High simply ran away with both girls team titles, a feat Tascoia duplicated in the boys meet. The Sandie girls tallied 168 points to take the varsity crown and rolled up 184 in the JV division. Pampa was fourth in the varsity standings with 92 points and second in the JV division at 94.

Tascoia was even more dominating in the boys meet, scoring 148 points to capture the varsity division and rolling up 210 points — including a 1-2-3 finish in the mile run and long jump — to more than double Amarillo High's second-place total of 80.

Pampa was sixth in the varsity standings with 29 points and won a close battle for third in the JV division with 47.

Vaughn won the girls varsity mile in rain, cold weather, wind and 6:00.4. Richardson, meanwhile, just nipped Lubbock High's Melanie Brooks at the wire to take the 80-yard hurdles in 11.7.

Jo Lynn Ellis (.45.4) and Dorma Smith (6:51.2) gave the Lady Harvesters a 1-2 finish in the junior varsity mile, while

Golfers sixth at Borger

BORGER — Borger won its own boys and girls golf tournaments here Friday afternoon, but Pampa's finish in the boys meet — a disappointing sixth — left Harvester Coach Deck Wolfd perplexed.

"It seems like we go to a tournament intent on improving and lowering our scores, but then it doesn't seem to bother us when we don't shoot well," he said.

"We don't lack experience," he added. "It's perplexing, but I guess it comes back to me. We're not doing the things in practice we need to do to improve."

"They need to get off by themselves and work on the part of their game that's giving them trouble," Wolfd noted.

Borger won the boys meet by firing the five lowest rounds of the tournament, including medalist Jack Wiggs' 73. The Bulldogs tallied 302 strokes to easily outdistance second-place Canyon, which had a 336.

Borger's "B" team and Dumas tied for third at 339. Palo Duro was fifth at 349 and Pampa sixth at 350. Perryton (360) and Caprock (395) rounded out the field.

Barry Terrell led Pampa's entries with an 84. James White added an 87, Paul Beck had an 88 and Gary Cudney 91 to account for Pampa's total. Bob Brandt's 103 did not count in Pampa's

Tankers set marks

MIDLAND — Pampa High School will have no participants at the State Swimming Meet in Austin March 16-17, but that didn't diminish Coach Mike Eckhart's pride at his team's showing at the Regional Meet here Friday and Saturday.

"We had super performances by all of the kids who placed in the finals and by all of the kids who swam here," he said Saturday night. "I couldn't have asked for more."

The boys team, with fifth-place finishes by Chris Alexander and Mark Lehnick placed ninth in the boys division, while the girls, whose top mark was a third-place effort by Cindy Raymond, were eighth in the 28-team field.

Amarillo High won the boys meet and El Paso Coronado took the girls team trophy.

Four school records fell by the wayside for Pampa. The girls 200 medley relay team of Kris Douglass, Cindy Quattlebaum, Cindy and Lisa Raymond finished eighth in 2:09.8 to get the record-breaking going, and Lisa Raymond followed it up with a 2:23.9 in the 200 individual medley, good for fifth place and another school mark.

Cindy Raymond got a new personal and school record with her 5:36.9 timing in the girls 500 freestyle, good for third place in the field. Chris Alexander finished the record-breaking performances with a 1:05 fifth-place effort in the 100 breast stroke.

Mark Lehnick got a fifth place out of his 57.0 clocking in the 100 butterfly, while Cindy Raymond's 1:16.9 was good for sixth in the girls 100 breast stroke.

"I'm very happy and pleased for all of the kids," Eckhart said. "I couldn't have asked for a better group of boys and a better group of girls."

Church softball meeting set

All teams interested in participating in this summer's church softball league should send one representative to an organizational meeting at 2:30 p.m. March 11 at the Pampa Chapel of the Apostolic Faith.

Questions on the league can be answered by Keith Barker, 665-1579.

Georgetown clips Syracuse

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — John Duren tossed in 17 points Saturday to pace 16th-ranked Georgetown to a 66-58 upset victory over No. 6 Syracuse to win the ECAC Upstate-Southern championship and a bid to the NCAA tournament.

Duren, who got 11 points in the second half, and Eric Floyd, who was the Hoyas' second highest scorer with 14 points, were aided in the victory by a dry-shooting spell by Syracuse early in the second half.

Leading at the midway mark, 30-20, Syracuse scored only five points during the first 9½ minutes of the second half, allowing Georgetown to take over the lead and build up an eight-point margin.

Despite not having the services of their big man, 6-foot-11 Tom Scates, who did not dress for the game, the Hoyas were able to stop Roosevelt Bowie, the Orange's 6-foot-11 pivotman. Bowie, however, was Syracuse's high scorer with 17 points — only five in the second half.

Freshman Ed Spriggs leaned on Bowie and received the help from the Hoya forwards to prevent Syracuse from lobbing the ball into the middle.

With 5:42 remaining in the game, Georgetown's Craig Shelton fouled out, enabling Syracuse to close to within three points. Syracuse was never able to get any closer.

Despite the loss, it is believed that Syracuse will receive an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament because of its regular season record, 25-2. Georgetown's record now stands at 24-4.

KEENAN HENDERSON trots into third base as the Harvesters load up the bags in the second inning against Canyon Friday morning. Henderson scored Pampa's first run of the game moments later when Brett Atchley drew a bases-loaded walk and hit the team's first home run of the season in a four-run sixth inning. Pampa went on to claim a 12-5 victory and advance to the finals of its own tournament against Hereford, but the championship game was rained out Friday afternoon.

Harvesters beat Canyon, 12-5

Baseball tourney stopped

The Pampa Harvesters countered a five-run Canyon outburst in the first inning with a seven-run explosion of their own in the third as Steve Scott's crew claimed a 12-5 victory in the opening game of the rain-shortened Pampa Baseball Tournament.

The Harvesters never got a chance to play in the championship tilt. Midway through the third place game between Dumas and Canyon, heavy rains hit Optimist Park and forced postponement of the tournament. As of press time Saturday night, no make-up date had been announced.

Friday morning's opener looked as gloomy as the weather for Pampa when the Eagles opened a first-inning, two-out assault on Pampa starter Rick Daugherty. A walk and hit batsman placed Canyon runners on first and second before Barry Watson singled up the middle to put Canyon on the board.

Mike Moore followed with a triple to right field to score two more runs and crossed the plate on another base hit up the middle by Mark Miller. Miller scored on another single — to complete the Eagle outburst.

But that was all the scoring Canyon could manage. Daugherty settled down to check Canyon on five hits the rest of the way and pitched his way out of jams in the second and fourth. "It was cold and he just wasn't good and loose," Harvesters Coach Steve Scott said of the senior right-hander. "But I was proud of the way he came back. And our hitters came through."

Pampa appeared ready to peck away at Canyon's lead when the Harvesters pushed a run across in the second. But by the end of the third inning, there was little doubt the Harvesters had Canyon's number.

Mark Jennings began the rally with a walk and scored on singles by Daugherty and Greg Koch. Keenan Henderson walked to load the bases for Jeff Copeland, who hit a sharp grounder to second. Daugherty scored easily, and Koch surprised everyone by racing for home — and making it — when the Eagles forced Henderson out at second.

Clyde Coffee and Greg Quarles, batting at the bottom of the Pampa order, put together a pair of singles to keep the Harvesters alive and Canyon's first baseman helped the Pampa cause when he pulled his foot on a routine force play at the bag.

Richard Wuest doubled home the final two runs of the inning, and that was all the scoring until the sixth, when Henderson smacked a two-run homer over the right field wall and Leroy Kuhn put a two-run triple down the right-field line.

The Harvesters wound up with 11 hits to nine for the Eagles, who were the victims of nine Daugherty strikeouts.

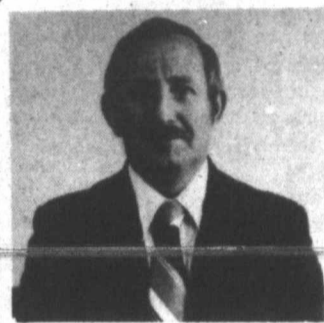

Hereford won its way into the championship tilt with a 13-1 clubbing of Dumas in five innings. The Herd pounded the Demon pitchers for 15 hits and took advantage of four Dumas errors to claim the victory.

Hereford pitcher Kevin Bunch, meanwhile, struck out seven Demons and gave up just four hits to claim the victory. Ernie Suarez had a home run for the Herd, which got five extra-base hits off the weary Demon pitching staff.

The Dumas-Canyon game for third place was stopped in the bottom of the fourth with Canyon leading 7-3. The Demons had the bases loaded with two outs before rain drenched the Optimist Park field and stopped the action.

Pampa carried a 2-0 record into Saturday's scheduled double-header with Borger at the Harvester diamond.

View from the plains

LUBBOCK - Windbreaks are living barriers of trees and shrubs that reduce wind movement, improve living conditions around the house, moderate extreme heat and cold and provide homes for various species of birds and animals.

Equally important to agricultural land, a properly designed field windbreak reduces extensive crop damage and soil erosion caused by ravaging winds common on the plains.

Even though windbreaks may appear at first glance to be simple plantings, they are permanent, long-term investments requiring careful planning and maintenance to insure their effectiveness and longevity.

The Texas Forest Service, through its tree production program, and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, through its habitat improvement program, are furnishing individuals with the trees and technical assistance necessary for a successful planting project.

A properly designed windbreak provides year-round protection, but no two planting situations are alike. There are basic concepts that should be considered.

Windbreaks are most effective when planted at right angles to the prevailing winds. Field windbreaks planted in a series of parallel belts insure maximum reduction in surface soil erosion and damage to agricultural crops.

A windbreak should contain at least three rows of trees, two of which should be conifers.

Conifers, or evergreens, are the backbone of any planting because they retain their foliage year-round.

Austrian and Ponderosa pines are well suited for windbreak planting and can be obtained through the West Texas Nursery located at Lubbock.

The tree nursery operated by the Texas Forest Service still has 1,780 Austrian pines and 4,470 ponderosa pines on hand at $1 per tree. Applications for windbreak seedlings may be obtained by writing the West Texas Nursery, Rt. 3, Box 216, Lubbock, Texas 79401.

The type of tree shrub windbreak will determine the quantity of wildlife on your property. One of the limiting factors of abundant wildlife in northwest Texas is the lack of winter cover or protection. Planting trees on your property would not only benefit your soil, but enhance the holding capacity of wildlife also.

Studies completed on the association of wildlife and treebelts since the first windbreaks were planted should be helpful in your planning for your windbreak.

Habitat improvement recommendations are available by contacting Richard DeArment, P&WD Extension biologist, Box 122, Wheeler, Texas 79096.

Effective windbreaks and their benefits don't just happen. They are the result of a lot of planning and attention, but their long-range benefits are worth the energy expended.

Sycamores whip Aggies

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — All-American Larry Bird scored 20 points and had 10 rebounds, despite sitting out more than six minutes with an injured thumb Saturday, as top-ranked Indiana State defeated New Mexico State 69-59 to win the Missouri Valley Conference basketball championship.

The victory earned an automatic bid to the NCAA for the unbeaten Sycamores, now 29-0 under first-year Coach Bill Hodges.

Bird, a 6-foot-9 center, injured his left thumb scrambling for a loose ball early in the second half with the Sycamores holding a 49-33 lead.

With Bird on the bench, the Sycamores slowed down their attack. When Bird returned with 12:03 remaining, he immediately scored two consecutive field goals, and teammate Alex Gilbert added a 10-foot jumper to give the Sycamores their biggest lead at 59-41.

Junior guard Chuck Goslin came off the bench to lead the Aggies, now 22-9, with 16 points, most of those coming in the first half which ended with Indiana State ahead 45-31.

Junior guard Carl Nicks added 15 points for Indiana State, and Slab Jones had 12 for the Aggies.

Nobody happy with Title IX policies

By TOMSEPPY

AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter Administration has singled out athletics in its proposed regulations to require equal opportunity for women in colleges and universities, the National Collegiate Athletic Association says.

The NCAA said Thursday it could cost its member schools more than $250 million a year to comply with the proposed federal regulations, expected to go into effect in the fall.

On the other hand, the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, the NCAA's female counterpart, said clarifications should be made in the proposed regulations "to avoid destructive confusion, delay and conflicting interpretations."

For example, the AIAW said the draft policies provide "no timeframe for accommodating developing athletic interests and abilities.

"The most obvious danger of this omission is that institutions could, consistent with the policy, expand opportunities for women at a snail's pace."

The NCAA, with its 726 member schools, and the AIAW, which has a membership of 906, made their statements in response to proposed regulations by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for compliance with federal law banning sex discrimination in the nation's schools.

Although Title IX, a part of the Education Act of 1972, covers all aspects of education, intercollegiate sports has received the most publicity because the NCAA has unsuccessfully sought to have revenue-producing sports such as football and basketball exempted.

HEW's Office of Civil Rights published its proposed guidelines for compliance last Dec. 11 and has set a deadline of today for comments from interested parties.

In its 49-page document plus exhibits, the NCAA said, among other things, "For reasons that are not adequately explained, athletics — and particularly intercollegiate athletics — have been singled out for enforcement priority."

For example, the NCAA said, colleges and universities are not required to equalize participation in academic programs, such as engineering and nursing, and extracurricular activities other than sports, such as dance and marching bands.

Using what he said is detailed budgetary data from 12 schools, NCAA President William J. Flynn said that projections indicate the total cost of compliance with "an unqualified equal per capita expenditure standard for the 726 NCAA member institutions alone would approximate $60 million per year at current levels of participation, and more than a quarter billion dollars per year at equalized male-female participation levels."

Spirit of Hemingway carries on in Cuba

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The spirit of the Old Man and the Sea lives on in this island nation.

That spirit beckons to fishermen. And so now does the Cuban government, which is especially good news for American fishermen.

Ernest Hemingway lived here and fished for marlin from his yacht, "Pilar," and it was here he wrote "The Old Man and the Sea."

Cubans are proud of Hemingway's association with their island, and the government is anxious to use that association in connection with its burgeoning tourist industry.

The Ernest Hemingway Marlin Tournament was first held in Cuban waters in 1950. This year, now known as the Ernest Hemingway International Tourist Tournament, it will be held May 17-20 at Marlin Village in Barlovento, which is a modern sporting center specially created for those who like big game fishing.

The Hemingway tournament — an invitational for big-game fishermen from several nations including the United States — is for blue and white marlin. The Blue Marlin International Tourist Tournament is scheduled for Aug. 9-12.

"In Cuba we fish very close to the shore for marlin," says a smiling Miguel Arocha Calderin, head of the National Tourist Institute's Department of hunting and fishing. "In other places in the Caribbean you have to go far out to catch marlin."

The Gulfstream moves in fairly close to shore near Marlin Village, 20 minutes from the center of Havana. It is said not to be uncommon to hook a white or blue marlin within 70 yards of shore.

The record marlin caught in Cuban waters was a 568-pound blue.

A sailfish tournament is scheduled for Nov. 18-21 and, Arocha said, it is hoped a bass tournament will be set up soon.

Largemouth bass fishing at Treasure Lake on the Cienaga de Zapata peninsula is famous. The daily bag limit is six and the minimum weight limit three pounds a fish — good news to bass anglers.

The Cienaga de Zapata Tourist Enterprise guarantees a boat with an outboard motor, a boatman-guide, snack and refreshments at each fishing area, cleaning and freezing of the catch for the return trip, fishing permit and transportation to and from one's lodgings.

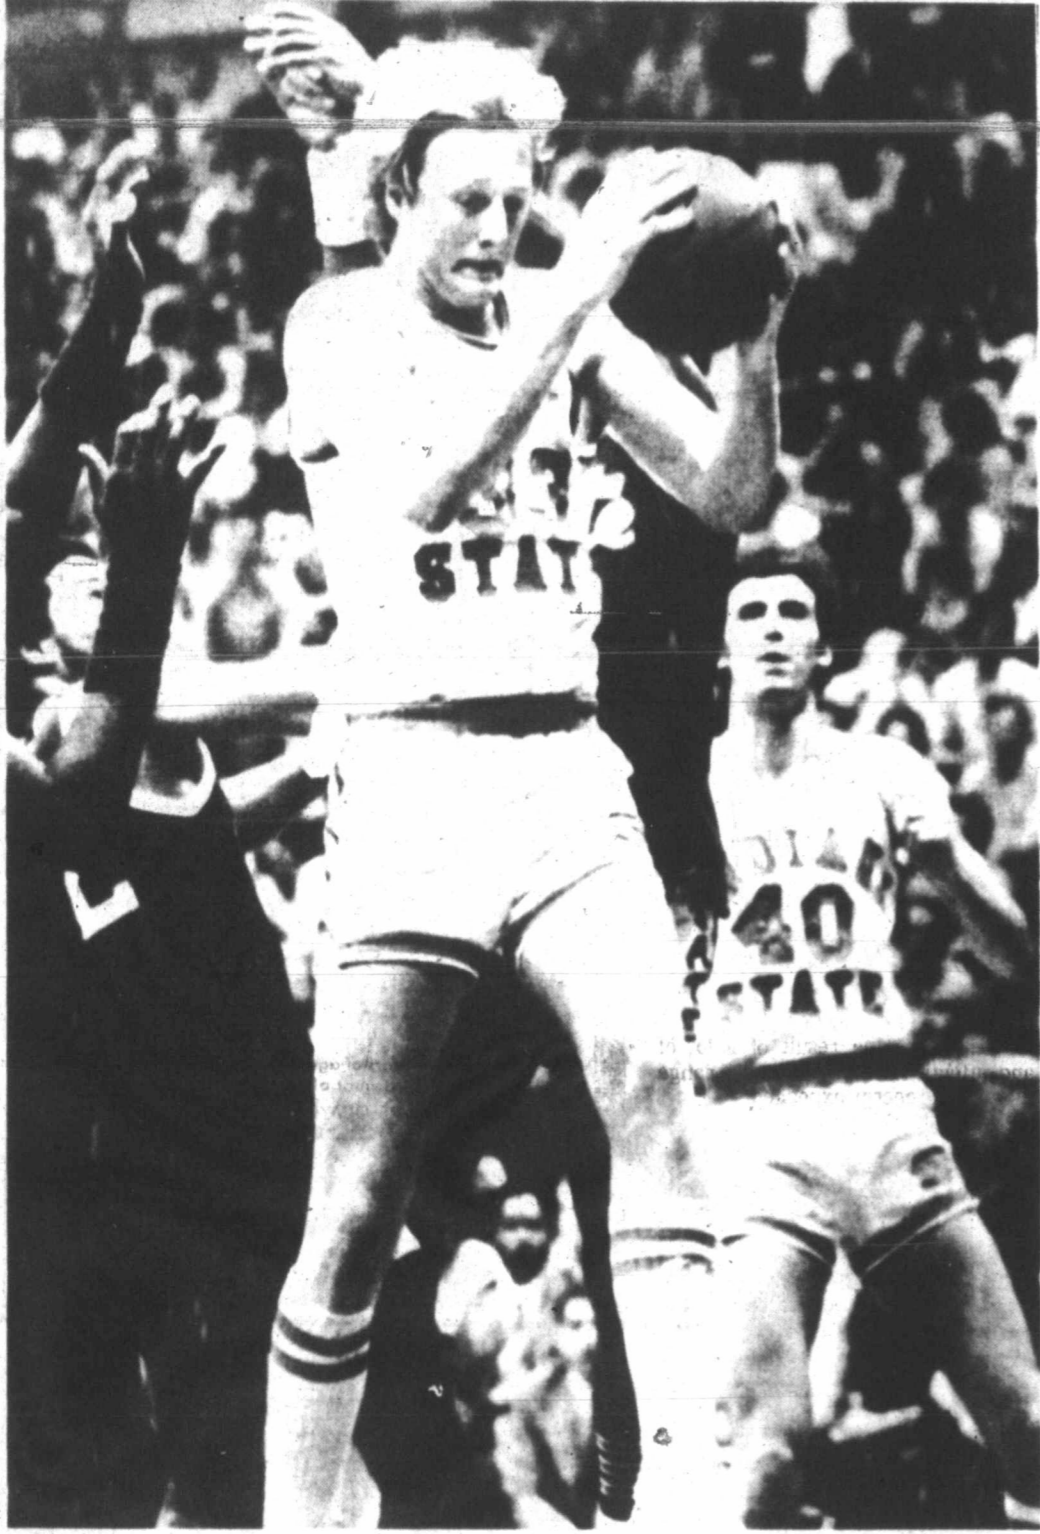

Getting the fish out of Cuban waters, at the moment, is not as difficult as getting to Cuba.

Since tours are the only way to get to Cuba, fishermen can write to Cubatur, International Tourist Enterprise, Calle 23 No. 151 e-nyo, Habana 5, Cuba. Telex: 051-243.

Expenses are not prohibitive.

Arocha said the cost for an American in the four-day Hemingway tournament would be about $600.

"The effort and the expense, for an avid fisherman, would seem to be worthwhile."

Weather stops baseball, tennis

Friday and Saturday's cold and wet weather stopped Pampa High baseball and tennis dead in their tracks this weekend.

Steve Scott's baseball team, which had the championship game of its tournament washed out Friday afternoon, found Optimist Park in unplayable condition Saturday afternoon and was forced to postpone a scheduled double-header with Berger. Tentative plans are to make up at least one of the games Monday afternoon.

The Harvester netters, meanwhile, had their third straight dual canceled by Saturday morning's cold weather and high winds. Coach David Martin's crew will try to break their string of bad luck with the elements Tuesday afternoon, when they'll travel to Dumas for a dual match.

UTEP to shoot for track crown

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Powerful Texas-El Paso, led by a contingent of foreigners, including distance runners Suleiman Nyambui and Peter Lemashon, will be shooting for its fifth team title in the past six years in the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships this week.

But the Miners will have to ward off a strong challenge from Villanova to retain the crown.

The 18-event extravaganza begins Friday with a full program of qualifying and seven finals — in the triple jump, the three-mile, the shot put, the long jump, the 35-pound weight throw, the 440 and the 800. And it concludes Saturday with semifinals and the remaining 11 finals.

All the events will be at Cobo Arena, except for the weight throw, to be held at Eastern Michigan in nearby Ypsilanti.

Texas-El Paso, with only one victory — James Munyala in the mile — still had enough depth to accumulate 44 points last year, under the new 10-8-6-4-2-1 scoring system, in beating runner-up Auburn by six points for the team championship. Villanova was third with 35 points.

The Miners, also team winners in 1974, 1975 and 1976 before being dethroned by Washington State, again are a deep, talented squad.

Heading the list are Nyambui, the 25-year-old freshman from Tanzania, and Lemashon, a sophomore from Kenya, both of whom plan difficult doubles.

Nyambui, who has run the mile in 3 minutes, 58.7 seconds and the two-mile in 8:24.3 this year, will go in both events Saturday, provided, of course, that he qualifies for the mile Friday night. There is no two-mile qualifying, with the field comprised of the runners with the eight best times in the nation this season. The mile and two-mile finals are scheduled about 50 minutes apart.

Lemashon's task in the finals is not as tough as his teammate's. His 800 final is scheduled Friday night and his 1,000 final Saturday.

The Miners also are counting on points from Jerome Deal in the 800, Michael Musyoki and Kip Sirma, both from Kenya, in the three-mile, Joel Laniyan of Nigeria and freshman Keith Connor of England in the triple jump, Svein Valvik of Norway and freshman Carlos Scott in the shot put, freshman Spencer Hill in the high jump, and Thommie Sjolholm and RRichard Olsen, both of Sweden, in the weight throw.

In addition, Texas El-Paso is dangerous in the relays.

Villanova, the NCAA indoor champion in 1968 and 1971, is not as deep as Texas-El Paso, but the Wildcats have quality, led by 1,000-yard runner Don Paige.

The movie 'Murder In Music City' which aired some weeks ago was something of a surprise—surprising that it was not just another Hollywood plasticated piece of junk. The flick had a fair plot, and country music followers were treated to glimpses of some of their favorites—even though you might not have caught all of them. The NBC-TV movie featured guest appearances by Charlie Daniels, Barbara Mandrell, Ronnie Milsap, Boots Randolph, Ray Stevens and Mel Tillis. The non-country talent included Sonny Bono and Lee Purcell, plus Claude Akins and Belinda Montgomery. 'Country Crossroads,' a weekly radio program heard on 750 stations across the country, has just celebrated its tenth anniversary. The show is produced by the Southern Baptist Radio-Television Commission and features country music personalities Bill Mack, Jerry Clower and Leroy Van Dyke. Hank Williams Jr. and Merle Kilgore appeared in a recent TV movie titled 'Wings.' Hank wrote and sang the theme for the movie.

Weekly oil report

by the associated press

HOUSTON (AP) — Synthetic crude production from its vast deposits of oil sands holds a major role in Canada's energy self-reliance objectives. One of the objectives is to limit oil imports by 1985 to one-third of domestic demand or to 800,000 barrels a day, whichever is the smaller.

Synthetic crude production from Alberta's Athabasca oil sands deposits this year is expected to approximate 150,000 barrels a day and the 1978 oil supply report by Canada's National Energy Board indicates steady growth in the years ahead.

While assuming all currently operating and announced projects and two undefined projects are operational, the board forecast the synthetic output could reach 755,000 barrels a day by 1995. This would be about one-third of projected demand for 2.3 billion barrels of oil a day.

A report on the current status of the Canadian operations has been published by the Institute of Gas Technology as a supplement to its International Gas Technology Highlights publication.

The Canadian oil sands deposits cover about 16,000 square miles of central and northern Alberta. Four major deposits are believed to hold an estimated 1 trillion barrels of oil in place.

The Alberta Energy Resources Conservation Board estimates some 23 billion barrels to be recoverable through existing surface mining methods and recovery technology, another 17 billion barrels as ultimately recoverable with improved mining technology, and as much as 150 billion barrels as eventually recoverable from deeper deposits through use of in-situ methods nearing commercialization.

The IGT report says some experts predict the oil sands deposits could ultimately support 20 to 30 plants, each producing more than 100,000 barrels a day.

This year's production from the Athabasca deposits near Fort McMurray is expected to run 45,000 to 50,000 barrels from the Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. plant and about 100,000 barrels a day from the Syncrude Canada Ltd. plant.

Oil sands deposits, primarily in Utah and Wyoming, have been estimated to have ultimately recoverable resources approximating 26 billion barrels but the IGT report says development progress in the United States has been very slow when compared with Canada.

"In the United States, by contrast, despite decades of research and development on oil sands, oil shale, coal liquefaction, and coal gasification, not a single plant has yet been commercialized, nor, for that matter, has a demonstration plant been built," the report said.

"And the prospects for the near future do not appear particularly encouraging in the light of government failure to provide the incentives industry considers essential before proceeding with commercial-scale facilities."

NOT PURIFIERS
LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — Those water-filtering devices that fit on the faucet or go under the sink can be called almost anything you like, but don't call them purifiers, advises the Water Quality Association.

According to government regulations, the association says, a purifier is a device that makes water safe to drink. The term cannot be applied to other treatment units that merely produce clearer water or get rid of bad tastes and odors.

Oil provides growth

The petro-chemical industry has been good to Wheeler. Farmers who have been scratching the surface of Wheeler county trying to encourage crops to grow, and ranchers who have herded cattle over the natural rangeland for a hundred years, can now do so in more comfort.

Old dirty pickup trucks have given way to newer ones kept clean at the new car wash downtown. The weekly trips to the grocery store have given way to frequent stops at the convenience store, and yet the grocery stores are doing better than ever.

At least one new business is started every month. Construction of new buildings and additions are evident every-where.

Bankers have such confidence in the growth of Wheeler that they will open the doors of a brand new $800,000 bank to the public Monday.

The bank will be formally dedicated Tuesday and will have everything from a drive-up teller window to touch-tone phones.

Chamber of Commerce President, Jay Thompson, estimates 80 to 90 percent of the increase in business activity and population is due to the oil and natural gas industry.

"The city limits sign shows the population is about 1,100. That's not even close now," Thompson said.

Thompson is also the manager for Southwestern Public Service Company in Wheeler.

"Based on the estimate of three people per electric meter; we estimate Wheeler has a population of about 2,500. In the past year alone, nine new homes have been built and 23 mobile homes have been moved in on a permanent basis.

"We are in the process of building a new gym with classrooms below which will be paid off in five years. We are able to do this with no increase in school taxes. In fact, the school tax rate has been lowered.

"We are going to pave 55 blocks of streets this year which will open up area for more new housing," Thompson said.

President of the First National Bank in Wheeler, Charlie Brown, said bank deposits have soared since 1970 from 2.5 million to about 15 million today.

"Deposits have increased not only because of gas royalties and leases, but because of the increased population and business activity that the petro-chemical industry brings in," Brown said.

"Our county had been based on a farming and ranching economy. After three or four years of agricultural disaster, it has been the drilling, leasing and production activity that has carried us through those difficult times," Brown said.

Brown described Wheeler's growth as a slow boom. The town has experienced a steady growth in the past few years with more growth expected.

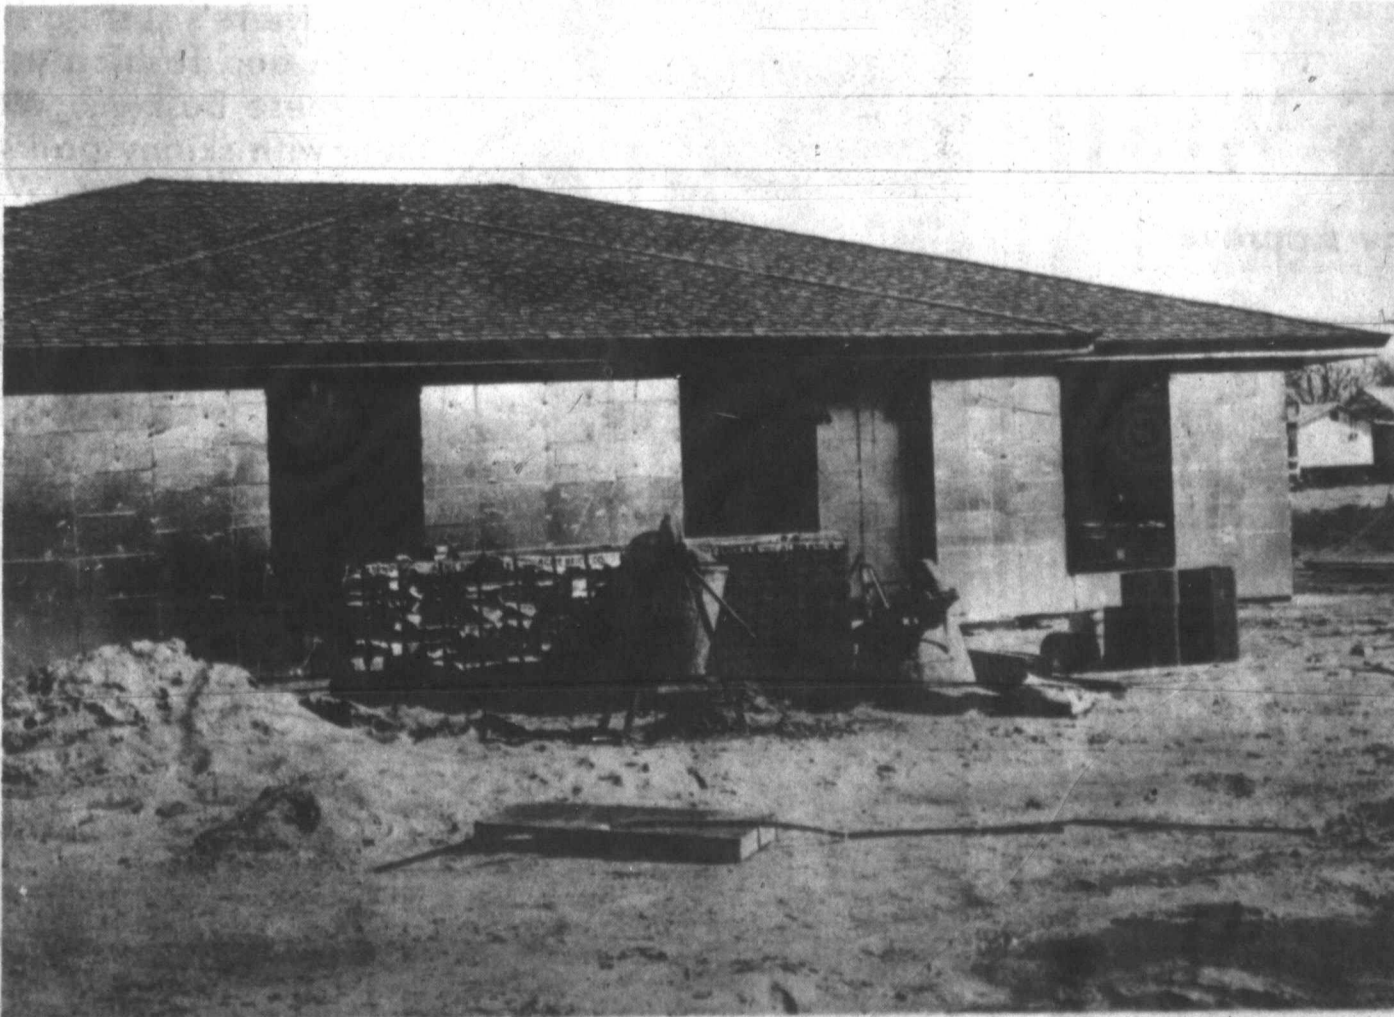

Wheeler boasts of a revived movie theatre, three full-time doctors and clinic, a dentist, a new housing addition and promotion of the high school to Class A classification.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK reflects the recent growth of Wheeler. The new building that will open this month is just one of many new structures in the small panhandle town.

HOMES are under construction in Wheeler at a rapid rate and new construction cannot keep up with the demand for housing.

OIL has pumped new life into the Wheeler area and has created a boomtown atmosphere throughout the area.

Morrison-Price engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison of Pampa announce the engagement of their daughter Kimberly Ann Morrison to Harold Wayne Price of Pampa. The bride-elect is a 1979 graduate of Pampa High School. The prospective groom is a 1977 graduate of Pampa High School and is employed by Quarles Electric Co. of Pampa. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O.H. Price of Pampa. The couple plan a May 11 wedding in the Garden Room of the Hilton Inn in Amarillo.

I suspect that Jack and Phyllis Curtis are somewhat proud of their new grandchild. In the front yard of their home there is a six foot high cedar tree festooned with bows of blue ribbon.

David Martindale puts Fred Astaire, Gene Kelly, and others to shame. If he's as nimble in the courtroom as he is on his feet, then I'd rather have him with me than against me.

Oops! On page 15 of last Sunday's edition of The News, the 7 - storey high boiler structure at Celanese Pampa Plant was reduced to 7 - ft.

To prove how disco is sweeping the country, Debbie Stokes is going to give lessons at Clarendon College Pampa Center.

Debbie and Carl Gross moved to Pampa a couple of months ago from New York City. They own the L Ranch Motel.

Three men from Pampa made a 2,000 mile round trip to Kenmare, N.D. to see the eclipse of the sun. Leo Scott, Sonny Moore, and Craz Nichols, left Pampa at 10 a.m. Saturday in the middle of a snow storm, drove a four-wheel drive truck non-stop and arrived at Kenmare, 30 miles from the Canadian border, at 10 a.m. Sunday. They found a spot to park in front of Veteran's Bar & Grill and had an unobstructed view. Seventy minutes elapsed from the start of the eclipse to totality, which lasted two minutes from their vantage point. That was a long drive for such a short-lived event but Leo, Sonny, and Craz wouldn't have missed the experience.

Pampa is mentioned in the regular feature 'Notes from all Over' in the March issue of Reader's Digest. It reads: "When the St. Patrick's Day Parade gets under way in Dublin, it is the Americans who dominate it. In March 1977 the first blare of music was 'San Antonio Rose' from the Pampa, Texas, high school band..."

Jennifer Graves and Sheri Rogers went to Lubbock on Feb. 24 to dance in a competition sponsored by the American Dance Masters' Association of America. Both girls won. Jennifer, the daughter of Ronnie and Madeline Graves is now Miss Petite, and Sheri, the daughter of Bob and Nelda Rogers, is now Junior Miss Dance.

High school coach Danny Palmer gave a talk recently to a men's organization. He said that when his boys did well, he didn't hesitate to tell them he loved 'em. It is the coach's intention to make a personal call on the family of each boy. He has already visited 36 families and that count will be about 90 before the season starts.

"The majority of men lead lives of quiet desperation." I wish I could remember who said that.

Kadingo-Ingram engagement

Dr. and Mrs. N.G. Kadingo, 1201 Charles, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Anne, to Bobby Ingram. The bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Pampa High School and attended Columbia College in Columbia, Mo. She is employed by Loeb, Rhoades, Hornblower & Co. in Dallas and is a student at Southern Methodist University. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ingram, 344 Ann. He is a 1973 graduate of Pampa High School and attended West Texas State University in Canyon. He is employed by Harold Barrett Ford Co. in Pampa. The couple plan a June 16 wedding in the First Christian Church in Pampa.

EFFECTIVE MARCH 1, 1979, a new policy went into effect for the society section of The News. Items will no longer be accepted for publication if they are turned in more than two weeks after the events took place since they are no longer news. We realize that waiting for pictures may delay wedding stories. If so, please contact June Alexander. If a problem regarding pictures should arise, the wedding information should be brought in as soon as possible anyway. We will not, however, accept any wedding that is a month old or older. Generally, color pictures will not be accepted unless they are light and have good contrast. Black and white pictures reproduce much better. We are more than happy to provide news coverage for events but arrangements must be made in advance. This will allow us to avoid schedule conflicts, as there is only one person to cover these events. Thank you for your cooperation, which should help to make the society section more newsy and interesting.

BIRTHDAY ALMANAC
Compiled by the editors of The World Almanac

- March 4 — Knute Rockne (1888-1931), the football coach at Notre Dame from 1918-1931. He revolutionized the game by developing the forward pass and stressing plays of speed and deception. His team won 105 games, lost only 12 and tied 5.
- March 5 — James Merritt Ives (1824-1895), the publisher of popular lithographic prints. He and his partner, Nathaniel Currier, issued about 7,000 individual editions of prints portraying American life and events in the 19th century. Today, Currier & Ives prints, surviving in scant numbers, are highly prized by collectors.
- March 6 — Elizabeth Barrett Browning (1806-1861), the English poet and wife of Robert Browning, who in her lifetime was widely regarded as England's greatest woman poet. Her most famous work, "Sonnets from the Portuguese," records her romance with Browning.
- March 7 — Luther Burbank (1849-1926), the horticulturist and plant breeder. He developed thousands of new plant varieties including the Burbank potato and the shasta daisy.

Cox-Smith engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Joe Cox of Canyon announce the approaching marriage of their daughter Pamela Joyce Cox to Mark Elden Smith of Canyon. FASHION AND BEAUTY TIPS

- Mat must — Traction mats are a must to keep in the trunk of the car. They'll prevent ruining your back if you drive into a snow bank and seem destined to stay there unless you can move the car yourself.
- Cloth is kinder — Always use a cloth instead of a plastic bag to protect a fur coat.
- Count on black — The one color you can count on taking anywhere without being out of place is black.
- Separate, yet equal — Keep your cosmetic brushes apart from each other but all together in one plastic container by filling the bottom with tiny ball bearings.
- No bargain — Don't look for bargains when a good watch needs repair. A reputable watchmaker — not the boy who tinkers next door — is desirable.
- Running rule — To help prevent bruised toenails when jogging, don't forget to run "heel-to-toe" and not like a ballerina.

MUSHROOMS - SELECTION AND CARE:

The word fungus does not have an aesthetically pleasing quality, yet a large number of certain fungi are consumed by the American public each day. The mushrooms as we know it is the fruiting portion of a fungus mold with a cap, gills and stem. It has gained tremendous popularity recently with consumption doubling in the past 10 years. Mushrooms are classified as vegetables and are doubling in the past 10 years. Mushrooms are classified as vegetables and are available fresh, frozen, canned and freeze-dried (limited). Fresh mushrooms are sized into three categories: Specials; 1 1/2" to 1 3/4" cap diameter. Fancys or Mediums; 1" to 1 1/2" cap diameter. Buttons; less than 1" cap diameter. Unlike other vegetables, size is not an indication of mushrooms quality. Large ones are just as tender as the small ones and they generally look more appealing; therefore, they command higher prices. The larger mushrooms are best for stuffing while the smaller sizes are great for slicing or chopping.

Mushrooms with closed "veils" pulled up right around their stems are the freshest. However, they are still perfectly good for use after the veil has opened and the gills are exposed or even with occasional bruise spots. Those with badly bruised or pitted caps should be avoided. In the past, white mushrooms had been offered in the East and brown ones in the West. Now there are various shades from white to brown being marketed in all areas. It is important to remember that outside color has little relation to quality or flavor, as long as they are free of disease and have not turned black.

If mushrooms are purchased in film-sealed containers, they should be refrigerated in this carton until prepared. Puncture one or two small holes (pencil size) in the plastic film to insure air movement in the container. Wash mushrooms gently just prior to use and let drain or pat dry. All of the mushroom is usable and should not be peeled. Mushrooms purchased in bulk can be refrigerated in plastic bags as long as there is proper air circulation.

Canned mushrooms are very handy and practical for most mushroom dishes. Processing shrinks mushrooms just as cooking does, so the canned product is preshrunk. This, along with the variety of can sizes to choose from, makes portion control very easy. The availability of frozen and freeze-dried mushrooms on retail basis is somewhat limited. There is a big market for frozen breaded mushrooms in the food service area, however. Mushrooms are very versatile and can be used and prepared in a variety of ways. Much like other vegetables, mushrooms are nutritious while yielding a relatively low caloric level.

TEENAGERS NEED NUTRITIOUS FOOD:

Teenagers need plenty of nutritious food to meet the needs caused by their body's large growth spurt. The teenage boy needs more calories than a girl, so he can eat considerably more food than she at this age. Because a girl needs fewer calories, she must choose food more carefully to meet nutrient needs.

Many teenagers have other problems meeting nutritional needs. Some parents are unaware of the food habits of their teenagers. The development of health attitudes toward food is an important responsibility of parents. Don't under-estimate the influence of fathers', as well as mothers' examples.

Poorly chosen snacks and those that interfere with mealtime appetites present a problem. This is a particular problem for the teenage girl since she needs to choose nutrients wisely to avoid too many calories. Parents can help teenagers recognize the difference between nutritious and "empty calorie" snacks and help them develop sound snack-consuming habits to improve their diets. The kinds, time of day and amounts of food they consume as snacks can be critical to teen-agers.

Skipping breakfast can create problems in meeting the teenager's need for food. Families who eat breakfast together are more likely to maintain breakfast habits. Exercise is important for teenagers in maintaining healthy appetites and using excess calories. Time is a problem for many teenagers who are active in school affairs or who may have jobs. These demands make it hard to eat with the family and can lead to informal snacking rather than eating a nutritious meal.

Low income of many families is also a problem for many teenagers. Peer pressure influences teenagers' eating habits and their physical growth.

The concern for personal appearance often provides the teenage boy the motivation needed for eating the large amounts of food adequate for growth and filling out his form. However, teenage girls want to fit the expected figure pattern of slenderness to be beautiful. Many feel they must severely limit caloric intake, which also keeps them from eating adequate amounts of food.

He's dad again after 29 years

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — It's been 29 years since Willie Williams has had to change diapers on a child of his own, but he'll soon be getting back into the routine.

Williams and his wife, whom he married last year, recently became the proud parents of a 6-pound, 14-ounce girl.

They have known each other "all our lives." That might not seem so unusual, until you consider that Williams is 81, and his wife, Geraldine, is 31.

"I've got five children and the baby," Williams said. "The new one looks just like me."

Before the birth, Williams said, his youngest child was 29. "I've got about 14 grands and 10 or 12 great-grandchildren," he said.

Mrs. Williams has three other children, ages 10, 9 and 7, who live with her and husband. Williams is retired from the Republic Steel mine.

Beauty queen sees title as good stepping stone

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sheila Anderson has plenty of experience in beauty pageants, and, "it's not as glamorous as it seems at all," she has concluded.

She's worked her way up the ranks, and her titles include Miss Beechmont, Miss Norwood, Miss World Series and Miss Cincinnati Universe.

Her reign as the current Miss Ohio Universe is drawing to a close, and she's determined that she'll have more than memories to show for it.

"I entered the contests to further my career and only for that reason," she says. "If a girl is getting into it for an ego trip, to satisfy her needs, it just doesn't work that way. Because it's not as glamorous as it seems at all."

"So much is expected of you. It's not just smiling and saying, 'Yes, I'm Miss Ohio.' You've got to be able to communicate with every age group. You've got to be able to write your own speeches."

But for a career in broadcasting or show business, she believes, titles do help.

She went to the Danny Thomas Telethon last year and both Thomas and Bob Hope introduced her to people in a talent agency. They encouraged her to go to New York and try her hand "in the business." Last August, she made her move.

Her first change was her name. There was already a Sheila Anderson listed in the theatrical unions, so she's using her middle name: Kelly. There are some exciting possibilities. She's negotiating with a soap company to do its national advertising. She says she has signed for a movie that will star Donald Sutherland and Cliff Robertson. The title can help only so much, she admits.

FIBER...COLOR...AFFECTS WARMTH OF CARPET

To keep that basement family room... or any cement-floored room cozy and comfortable this winter, choose a carpet that looks...feels...and actually is warm. Some carpet fibers such as acrylic are good insulators so they make a warmer carpet.

The thicker, more dense carpet has greater insulating value also. Deep shag or pile construction will be warmer than level loop weave. And a pad is important, too, to insulate against cold. Some persons even use two carpet pads. Air trapped between them will increase the insulating effect.

Psychologically...you will feel several degrees warmer in a room carpeted in shades of red...rust...orange...yellow...gold...or brown. These "warm" colors are excellent choices for cement foundations as well as second story rooms.

Whenever you're looking for new ideas in carpets, you'll find them in our showroom, along with carpet experts who can answer your questions and give you the friendly, courteous service you enjoy...Come in... for the finest in carpets.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: About the letter from ONLY KIDDING, who compared women to automobiles, and your reply—"A restored antique is worth much more than a new model": Maybe so, but a man keeps his antique car locked up to preserve it and brings it out in public only on special occasions. His antique wife would never hold still for that!

In addition to his antique car, a man keeps a later model for everyday use—something he can't do with a wife.

The ideal place to go wife-shopping would seem to be at a nudist camp, where all the merchandise is on display for inspection.

Imagine shopping at a car lot where all the cars were covered except for the headlights and grille!

R.S. IN SWISHER, IOWA

DEAR R.S.: I understand that's the customary way to shop for a bride in some of the Mideast countries. So, kiss your Stars and Stripes!

DEAR ABBY: Fourteen years ago my husband had lower back pain and went to a doctor who told him to take a swim. Well, George can't swim. He nearly drowned.

He was still in pain, so he went to an orthopedic doctor who took X-rays and told George it wasn't his back, it was his hip. George let this doctor operate on his hip, then his neck started to bother him.

He went to a chiropractor, who gave him a series of adjustments which seemed to help some. But George bent down to take off his shoe and his back went out on him. By this time he was beginning to look like a pretzel.

The neck pain came back, so George tried acupuncture. That helped for a while, but not for long.

Three-quarters of George's life is gone and he's still walking the floors at night because he can't sleep for the pain.

We live only 36 miles from the Mayo Clinic, but my husband got into an argument with someone at the clinic 15 years ago and vowed he'd never go back.

Any suggestions before George turns into a complete pretzel?

MINNESOTA MRS.

DEAR MRS.: Tell George to bury the hatchet with the Mayo Clinic before you bury HIM. He needs a complete check-up—including from the neck up!

DEAR ABBY: How long does a person have to live in a place before it's "home"?

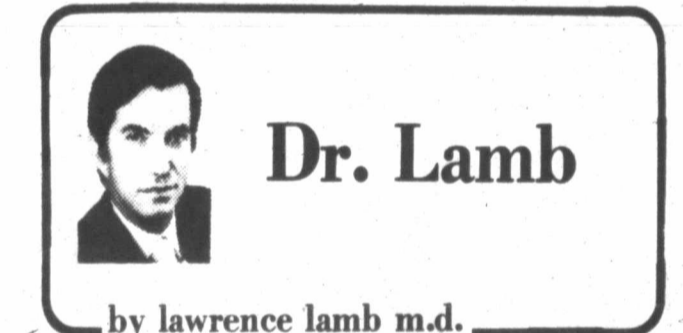

Even after 14 years of marriage, whenever my husband goes to see his parents he says, "I'm going home."

Maybe I'm out of line to get so upset, Abby, but it just burns me up to hear him say that. Don't you think "home" is where a man's wife and children are? Or do you think maybe my husband actually still feels more at home with his parents than he does with me?

ONLY HIS WIFE

DEAR ONLY: Where one has spent his childhood is usually "home" no matter how long he's been away from it. Many old-timers who have been on this side of the ocean most of their lives still refer to their native lands as "home," so don't take it personally.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WISHING": Benjamin Franklin once said, "If a man could have HALF his wishes, he would double his troubles." (Small wonder someone told him to go fly a kite.)

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am suffering so badly from cramps in my legs. My doctor prescribed quinine sulfate, and I take one tablet every night before I go to bed. I still get the cramps occasionally, sometimes in the early morning or while I lie on my couch in the evening. I would like to know exactly the cause of this terrible pain, and if it has anything to do with the diet and what I eat.

DEAR READER—There are many reasons for cramps in the legs and a complete medical examination is usually indicated. Individuals who are deficient in salt, like the heavy laborer who sweats a lot, may have leg cramps as an indication of salt depletion. I am sure that's not your problem.

I notice that you describe all of your instances of cramps associated with resting, specifically while you are lying down in the evening or sleeping at night. I hope that means that you don't have any circulatory problem causing the leg cramps, but anyone who has leg cramps needs to have an examination first before deciding what to do about them.

Quinine sulfate is frequently used to control leg cramps, and it is often very successful. Many times we never really find out what causes leg cramps, even when the doctor is successful in controlling them.

Other things that are used include vitamin E and Benadryl. Just exactly why vitamin E should be helpful is unknown, but many doctors do claim that it is very beneficial in some cases.

I have found very few things that vitamin E seems to be useful for in human beings, primarily because our metabolic and enzyme systems are quite different from animals. But there's no harm in trying vitamin E for leg cramps if you choose to do so or if your doctor wants you to. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-12, Vitamin E: Miracle or Myth, to keep my recommendation in perspective. Other readers who want information on vitamin E can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Benadryl, of course, is an antihistamine which means it induces sleep and, for unexplained reasons, it also may help to prevent leg cramps.

One of the home remedies which seems to help a lot of people is making sure the feet and legs are warm. They are the parts of the body farthest from the heart and that means they get the least circulation. If you actually measured skin temperatures, you would find the temperature over the legs and feet is usually cooler than most other parts of the body.

Good heavy wool socks that come all the way up over the calf of the legs are helpful. In the wintertime, a person with leg cramps might want to add thermal underwear to this. The whole goal is to keep those feet and legs warm.

I would caution against using a heating pad or something that might result in burning or injury. When a person is asleep, there is always a possibility he might hurt himself before he becomes aware of it.

DEAR POLLY—For years I have baked white bread and with no problems. Now that I have decided to bake rye bread, I follow instructions to the letter but for some reason the bread does not rise as it should. I would really appreciate any pointers the readers could give me. —MRS. S.T.

DEAR MRS. S.T.—I am sure you will soon be getting help from some of the good cooks among our readers. —POLLY.

Smith-Williams engagement

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Angleton announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Smith, to Terry Williams of Angleton. The bride-elect attended Southwest Texas University and is employed by J.C. Penney Co. Inc. in Angleton. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Williams of Pampa. He is a graduate of Pampa High School and West Texas State University. He is employed as a band director in the Angleton School District. The couple plan a March 18 wedding in St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Lake Jackson.

Glass phone booth days numbered

BOSTON (AP)—Telephone booths are going the way of the dodo and the dinosaur.

A target date has not been set, but telephone-company officials say the enclosed booths are becoming extinct. Across the country, the glass and metal shelters are being replaced with outdoor models, mostly poles with small hoods.

Although the trend is nationwide, New England Telephone, a subsidiary of American Telephone and Telegraph, is "taking the lead" in replacing the booths because of a concern for vandalism, says Peter Cronin, a company spokesman.

In Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, there are 79,000 pay telephones. Of the 10,000 telephone booths, about half have already been converted to non-enclosed types.

"Walk-up models are cheaper to buy, less expensive to maintain and less susceptible to vandalism and damage," Cronin said.

The glass and aluminum telephone booths are frequent targets for vandals. Some people have been trapped inside booths after using the telephone because a folding door that had been vandalized wouldn't budge, he said.

"We were pouring good dollars after bad. It became a question of either changing the product line to cope with the vandalism or throwing in the towel and ending the service," said Cronin.

The old booths, which have 14 panes of glass, cost more than $1,000 apiece Cronin said. Their less destructible replacements, which are made of steel and sometimes have two panes of glass, are 25 to 60 percent cheaper, he said.

"Since it's wide open, potential vandals are deterred because any unusual activity would be apparent to passerby. And with no doors, there is just less to break," Cronin said.

At wits end

by erma bombeck

In the beginning, there was a credit card.

I slipped it into my billfold and every time I went to that particular department store, I handed it to the salesperson and she stamped it and gave it back.

In time, I had a dozen of them or so rattling around in my purse. Then came a general charge card that was to do away with all the little ones, followed by a more sophisticated one that I could use in Europe and Asia if I ever got there.

Then my bank came out with one that had my picture laminated on it. This was followed by one that guaranteed to the world that I was good for $25 even if I was caught naked without my other charge cards.

Today, I have 135 pieces of laminated identification in my handbag. It has turned into an awesome responsibility just keeping track of them. Sometimes, I have terrible dreams where I go into a department store, open my handbag and my credit cards are gone. All I have is cash.

You cannot imagine how choked up I got this week when through a mail came "THE NOTHING CARD." It's put out by a company in Loveland, Colo., and is touted as "the card to end all credit cards."

The NOTHING CARD looks like your basic credit card only it is stamped with a picture of Millard Fillmore who stood for nothing, did nothing and actually ran on the Know-Nothing ticket in 1850.

Frankly, I regard the NOTHING CARD as a way out of the economic pits. The card buys nothing. Therefore, you owe nothing at the end of the month, have no monthly statements, no finance charges, no computer errors, no letters or mailgrams or phone calls threatening to take it away and no travel magazines.

It'll take a little getting used to not paying for food that you ate 30 days ago or going now and paying now—but the rewards are worth nothing. Once Americans put aside as much as they want to spend and pay in cash, prices will go down, business will give you the money instead of the card company and according to the brochure, "People will buy fewer lamps and hula dancer bases."

My husband is crazy about the NOTHING CARD. He says it's safer than Traveler's Checks, buys what we can afford and besides, Millard Fillmore photographs well.

He won't let me leave home without it.

Single pressed on red

Would you believe that out of the slough of despond could come a red vinyl, heart-shaped recording?

Believe it. In the record business, almost anything is possible. In this instance, Bobby Caldwell broke up with his California girlfriend and also decided he was never going to get anyplace as a songwriter-singer-guitarist. Depressed, he went back home to Miami thinking he'd go into the construction business with his father.

But he didn't quit writing songs. One of them, "What You Won't Do for Love," was released early this year in two forms: the usual black vinyl 45 and on red vinyl cut in the shape of a heart. The grooves, of course, are still in a circle and a tone arm lands on and plays that one exactly the way it does the round record.

By the week before Valentine's Day, Caldwell says, the red heart single had sold 200,000 copies. He says, "They're expensive. They had to cut a die for the heart shape. Each one costs about $1.50 to make. The dealer's cost is $3.38. The suggested retail price is $5.98 and most dealers are selling them for $4.50. They're selling like hot cakes."

As far as Caldwell knows, his is the first single record to be shaped like a heart.

The song, however, is not a happy love song, Caldwell says. "What the song is describing is the situation of a guy hopelessly in love. It's the things he finds himself doing for love which he wouldn't normally do. And the person he's becoming, because of it, isn't himself."

"It's a plight a lot of people have gone through."

The vocals are alluring. It's a sensual song, a ladies' song, a love song, a ballad, a groove tune.

"The situation which inspired the song and the rest of the songs on the LP, 'Bobby Caldwell,' on TK Productions' Clouds Records, he says, "was a point I had reached in a love affair where the only solution was to end it. I was the one who ended it, against her wishes. I thought, 'Now I feel differently.'"

"She wasn't loving as hard as I was. I loved her so much that it hurt."

Now, he says, instead of the girl being angry at him for writing about them, she has telephoned to say she feels immortalized in song.

The album was No. 51 on the best-selling chart of Feb. 10. "What You Won't Do for Love" was No. 30 on the best-selling singles chart. Both were climbing. The next single released will be either "My Flame" or "Can't Say Goodbye."

"What I'm all about," Caldwell says, "is writing songs to appeal to the masses. To me, popular song writing is always going to have a place. Fads and gimmick songs will come and go and popular song writing will always have a place. Even in the midst of this heavy disco time, Billy Joel writes songs reminiscent of Cole Porter. Joel's writing, I feel, has greatness at times. It's the kind of greatness I strive to achieve."

"My songs can be recorded by virtually anybody. Hall and Oates could do them and Tony Bennett could do them. It is material I feel can leave a mark in music."

Lou Rawls is going to record his "Love Won't Wait," the B side of his current single, Caldwell says. The Curtis Brothers have recorded four of his songs for an album on the Arc label, to come out in March.

Producers have to have 'lots of luck'

NEW YORK (AP) — To be a Broadway producer, says Alexander Cohen, you need good taste, organizational ability, money or access to same and "lots of luck."

He knows whereof he speaks. He's produced 50 Broadway and London shows and is reading the musical "I Remember Mama" for Philadelphia tryouts starting Friday. It is to move here April 26.

The show's not small, nor are his labors for it.

—It stars Liv Ullmann in her first musical, plus 26 other thesians, has an orchestra of 25, a stage crew of 25, 14 wardrobe and hairdresser types and 20 administrative personnel.

—It's budgeted at $1,250,000, and Cohen is responsible to 300 investors, the big one being Universal Studios. It kicked in half the money, he says, for rights to record the cast album.

—It took a year and at least a dozen lawyers, he says, to negotiate all the contracts.

It began in the fall of 1974, when Martin Charnin, director and lyricist for the hit musical "Annie," came to see Cohen about reviving "I Remember Mama" as a musical.

It had four incarnations before that, starting as a book, "Mama's Bank Account," by Katherine Forbes, then as a 1944 drama, "I Remember Mama," the stage adaptation by John Van Druten.

Produced by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, it was a Broadway hit and lasted 714 performances. It became a movie in 1948, then began a long TV run as a series a year later.

But Cohen, a producer since 1959, says he and Charnin weren't sure how best to make "Mama" go musical.

The idea lay dormant until two years ago, when Cohen visited Miss Ullmann, then appearing in his revival of "Anna Christie" here. He inquired of her plans for her next project.

"She said, 'I think the next logical step is for me to sing,'" he recalled.

But "Mama," the musical, stayed just an idea until the day Miss Ullmann was speaking in Washington, D.C., escorted by Cohen. Charnin also was there, on behalf of his hit "Annie."

The two men looked at each other, then at Miss Ullmann, and "we knew what the other was thinking," Cohen said. "And 'I Remember Mama' was coming together at that moment."

Talks ensued between Cohen,

Charnin and Thomas Meehan, the author of the "Annie" book, and Richard Rodgers was asked to compose the musical version of the show he produced in 1944.

Stage and film rights were secured. Cohen began raising the money, and his wife and co-producer of all his shows, Hildy Parks, supervised hiring. The cast finally gathered here on Jan. 29, the first rehearsal day.

Rehearsals done, the show runs Philadelphia previews from March 9 to 17, officially faces critics there March 19, and starts previews here April 26. It'll have to be a big hit and run at least six months here, Cohen said, before original investors can think of profits.

The show about a Scandinavian family in San Francisco officially bows May 3 in New York.

POETRY PRIZE

NEW YORK (AP) — W. S. Merwin has been awarded the 1979 Bollingen Prize in Poetry. Given "in recognition of his achievement in poetry over 25 years," it carries a stipend of $5,000.

Merwin received the Pulitzer Prize in Poetry in 1972, and in 1974 he was awarded the Fellowship of the Academy of American Poets.

Good Morning America new challenge to NBC

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In 1952, NBC introduced a new kind of TV show that seemed, at the time, rather farfetched in concept. It was a magazine-type program that mixed news, interviews and entertainment. And it aired live every day.

It was called the "Today Show." Its early hosts were a friendly, quiet man named Dave Garroway and a friendly, less-quiet chimpanzee named Mr. Mugs. And it became what many consider the most important television program in America.

"Today" contributed to TV by unlocking the morning hours and by introducing the TV-magazine format. But it was more than a TV show. It became a kind of national bulletin board on which thinkers, artists and world leaders hung their ideas.

For more than a quarter-century, NBC owned the morning hours. CBS, NBC's strongest competitor through the years, has tried to imitate "Today," meeting small success.

But now comes a serious challenge to NBC's morning dominance, not, as might be expected, from news-strong CBS, but from flashy, nouveau-riche ABC.

ABC's "Good Morning America" has steadily grown in popularity in its three years of TV life, and last week caught up with "Today" in the ratings. "Good Morning America" was born from the ashes of the old "AM America" show, delivered by that famous TV doctor, Fred Silverman, who was then programming chief at ABC. Some snickered when Silverman decided to use an actor, David Hartman, as host, instead of a newsmen, like "Today" does. It seemed a typical, irreverent ABC move.

In agriculture

Narrow Leafed Evergreens
 Oriental Arborvitae - Thuja orientalis. Very desirable tree and insensitive to transplant shock. Different varieties may grow to various sizes, shapes, and color. Leaves are scale like, on twigs that are arranged in flat, vertical planes. All around good tree for windbreaks.
 Rocky Mountain Juniper - Juniperus scopulorum. (Bluehaven Juniper). Excellent tree for windbreaks and landscape plantings. Neat, compact, narrow gray-blue pyramid.
 Eastern Red Cedar - Juniperus virginiana. Good drought resistant landscape plant. Suited for critical sites as well as a wide variety of soils. Well adapted.
 Austrian Pine - Pinus nigra. Very hardy and adapted to area, medium growth rate, dense, stout pyramid shaped, good for landscape or windbreak. Should be planted on soils 30 inches deep.

Deciduous
 Apricot - Prunus spp. Can be used as a landscape tree. Seedling apricots generally produce more regular crops of fruit. Two varieties suggested for area are Bryan and Moorpark.
 Green Ash - Fraxinus pennsylvanica lanceolata. Fast growth, with compact oval crown. Foliage may burn in hot, dry wind. May experience borer infestations.
 Northern Catalpa - Catalpa speciosa. Well adapted to heat and cold. However rather large leaves may need some wind protection. Tall, round topped tree with straight trunk.
 Desert Willow - Chilopsis linearis. Rather small, fast growth rate early long narrow leaves, develops twisting trunk and shaggy bark with age.
 American Elm - Ulmus americana. Majestic, vase shaped tree, probably doomed because of Dutch Elm Disease. Needs lots of room, roots will send up suckers.

 True Chinese Elm - Ulmus parvifolia. Excellent landscape tree. Often confused with Siberian Elm which was introduced as Chinese Elm by Forest Service. Has attractive cinnamon colored bark and small leaves. Fast growth, long, arching branches, may need pruning to strengthen.
 Cedar Elm - Ulmus crassifolia. Native to Texas and best of native elms. Turns golden brown in fall.
 Siberian Elm - Ulmus pumila. Introduced in area as Chinese Elm. Short life, soft wood, fast growth, good for dry areas. Troublesome root system.
 Goldenrain Tree - Koeleria paniculata. Hardy as far north as Kansas. Medium growth rate and well adapted. Attractive flowers.
 Common Hackberry - Celtis occidentalis. Develops a rounded crown. Susceptible to gall insects. Leaves out late. Well adapted to area. Fast growth.

 Thornless Honeylocust - Gleditsia triacanthos (inermis). Well adapted, excellent landscape tree, attractive fall color. Leaves out late and goes dormant early. Roots on old trees will heave sidewalks.
 Kentucky Coffeetree - Gymnocladia dioica. Well adapted, attractive, leaves are pinkish in spring, deep green in summer and yellow in fall. Makes good shade tree.
 Bur Oak - Quercus macrocarpa. Slow growing but excellent, rugged landscape tree. Large leaves and large acorn forms in a mossy cup.
 Shumard Oak - Quercus shumardi. One of the best of the red oak group. Beautiful fall color. Forms a tall, wide-spreading, rather open head.
 Osage Orange - Maclura

pomifera. Extremely hardy, fast growth, well adapted and good for critical sites. Easily propagated and transplanted. May have thorny branches and bear 4-inch, inedible fruits.
 Bradford Flowering Pear - Pyrus calleryana Bradfordi. Upsweeping branches resists wind damage, grows well. White clustered flowers. Inedible, small, round fruit. Beautiful fall color.
 Pear, Fruiting - Pyrus communis. Well adapted, long lived, white flowers in early spring. Fireblight can cause serious damage. Pyramid shaped tree. See Fruit and Nut Varieties Recommended for Gray County.
 Pecan - Carya illinoensis. A large, slow growing tree. When grown in open, will form a large, rounded, symmetrical top. Makes excellent shade tree and can produce good nut crop.

Crop season gets off to slow start

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — The 1979 crop season is getting off to a slow start in Texas, but soil moisture conditions are generally good to support early crop growth, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Some planting has begun in South Texas, and land preparation is active elsewhere except where fields are too wet, Pfannstiel said.

Moisture is plentiful over all of the eastern half of the state and in parts of the plains and western Texas, he said and preplant irrigation has started in the Trans-Pecos area.

Some planting has begun in South Texas, but cool soil temperatures will delay seed germination in many early planted fields, Pfannstiel said.

According to the National Weather Service, temperatures at the four-inch depth the past week averaged as follows: Beaumont, 56; College Station 53; Austin, 52; Eagle Lake, 50; Uvalde and Dilley, 57; Beeville, 56; and Weslaco, 62. Recommended minimum planting temperatures are 50 for corn, 55 for sorghum and 65 for cotton.

Cotton harvesting is virtually complete in across West Texas except in the Rolling Plains where 20 percent of the crop is still out in a few counties.

Vegetable planting along with harvesting of a few winter vegetables and citrus and sugar cane continues active in the Rio Grande Valley. Home gardeners in many sections are getting soil prepared and are planting onions and potatoes.

Livestock feeding remains in full swing over the state due to lack of grazing. However, a continuation of recent warm weather should boost small grains and winter grasses, Pfannstiel said.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions:

PANHANDLE: Cotton harvest is nearly complete. Land preparation is under way but soil moisture is short. Wheat is responding to the warmer weather, but pastures and ranges are still in poor condition. Cattle marketing has increased with stock moving off wheat pastures.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton harvesting is complete, and farmers are getting land ready for spring crops. Soil moisture is generally good. Wheat is showing some improvement with the warmer weather. Cattle feeding remains active as grazing conditions are still below average.

ROLLING PLAINS: Cotton harvesting is virtually complete except in Hardeman, Foard, Wilbarger and Young counties where more than 20 percent of the crop remains out. Spring land preparation is active and some early vegetables are being planted. Wheat is improving with the warmer weather, and some farmers are applying a topdressing of nitrogen fertilizer. Much wheat acreage may be grazed out due to high cattle prices.

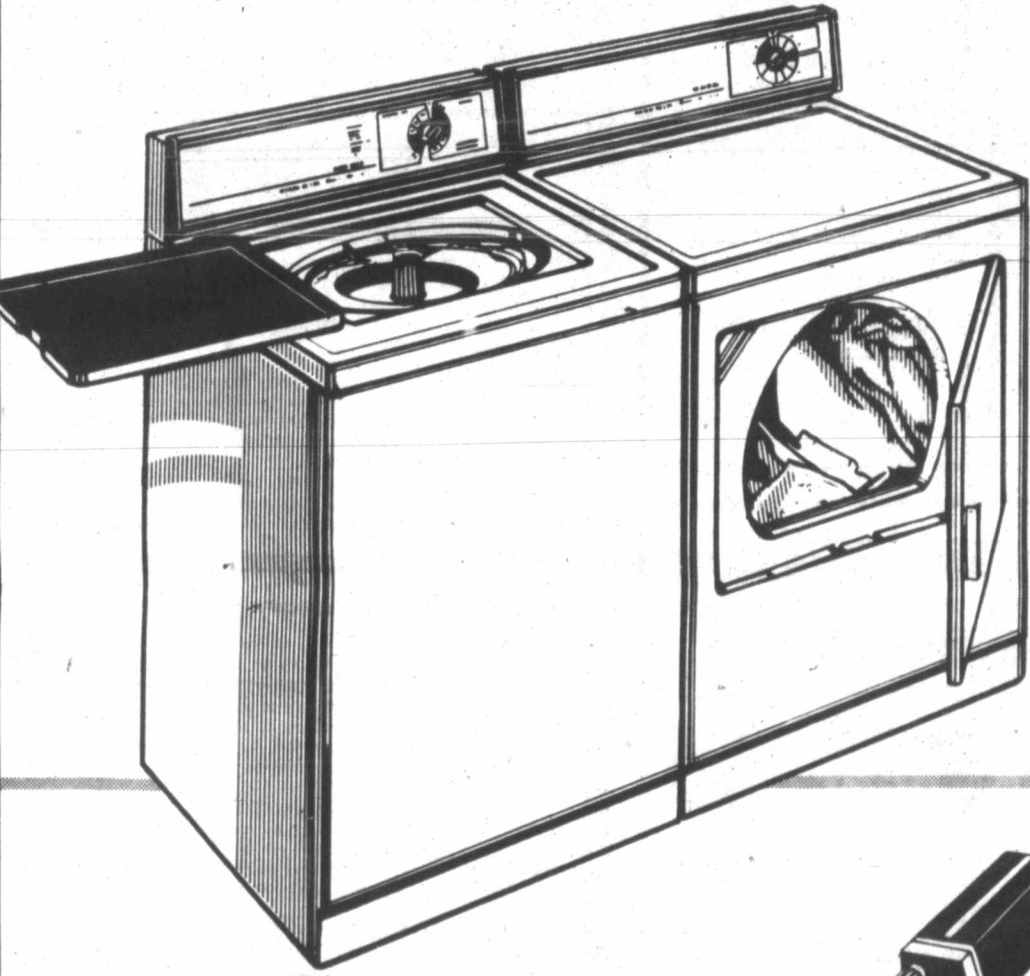

NORTH CENTRAL: Wet fields are hampering field operations. Early garden vegetables are being planted. Small grains remain in poor shape due to severe winter weather. Cattle feeding and calving are active.

NORTHEAST: Wheat, oats, barley, clovers and ryegrass are beginning to grow. Land preparation continues where field conditions permit. Cattle feeding remains active, with hay getting short.

FAR WEST: All the cotton is in and farmers are getting land in shape for spring crops, including some preplant irrigation. Growth of winter grasses and weeds is improving range conditions. Feeding of cows and ewes continues.
