Investigators begin probe of accident

By GREG HARDIN
Pampa News Staff

Investigators have begun the task of sorting out just what caused a massive electrical spark at the Celanese Chemical plant here that injured 11 people, four of them seriously.

A spokesman for the Celanese plant, located five miles west of here, said that officials don't know what caused the accident that sent 13,800 volts into the 30 foot by 70 foot electrical control room at the plant.

"We have not pinpointed the cause of the accident," Al Miller, public relations officer for Celanese said. "We closed the area up after the accident and began our investigation today (Saturday)."

Miller said that it may be sometime before all the information about the accident is known.

"We just don't know the cause of the flash," Miller said. "We will have to dismantle the control panel and see how much damage there is and where it started."

"It doesn't look like there was much damage done to the panel itself, but you just can't tell about electrical equipment. So much of it is covered," Miller said. "It may be quite along time before we are able to say what actually caused the electrical fire."

Workers were installing the panel, which controls the water-cooling system for chemical boilers in the plant, when a spark jumped from the panel.

"Fire is a misleading term. It was not a continuous fire. It was just a huge arc of great energy, and that's what burned them," said Herb Reed of Dallas, manager of communications for the company.

By ambulance personnel

Possible danger averted

The possibility of severe respiratory problems and the extreme loss of body fluid were the greatest physical dangers posed to victims of the scorching electrical shortage at the Celanese Chemical Plant Friday afternoon, Mark King of Metropolitan Ambulance said Saturday.

At least two of four critically burned persons may have inhaled heat from the spark causing damage to the lungs. "The air around them is so heated," King explained. "That it can cause burns to the inside of the lungs, swelling, and the retention of water."

King said ambulance personnel were on watch for those who might need aid in breathing.

"There's also an immediate loss of vital fluids to tissues after a severe burning," King said. "We were prepared to provide intravenous solutions for those that might have needed them immediately and this might have had to be done if the accident had occurred further away from the hospital."

King praised the staff and physicians present

Several of the victims had to be pulled from the panel, said Department of Public Safety officer Jerry Oragaft, who said the four most seriously burned were "black from head to toe."

The four were taken first to Highland General Hospital in Amarillo and then transported to the burn unit of Parkland Hospital in Dallas, where they were receiving intensive care.

Officials at Parkland Hospital stated that two of the men were in serious condition while the remaining two men were listed in critical condition. The spokesman said that all of the men were stable and responding somewhat to treatment.

The plant employs 900 workers, including contractors and subcontractors. The electrical flash occurred in an area under expansion, about 300 to 400 feet from the plant's chemical-processing area.

At Parkland Hospital in Dallas were Bill Whitley, 48, of Pampa; Don Lawrence, 32, of Pampa; John P. Ball, 52, of Pampa; and Ball's son, David Ball, 31, of Pampa. All but Lawrence worked for Brown and Root Construction Co. of Houston. Whitley and Lawrence were listed in critical condition and the other two as in serious condition.

In Highland General in "serious but satisfactory" condition were Walker Bird, 43, of Pampa; Lilly Mayberry, 26, of Borger; and Betty Saulsbury, 32, of Borger.

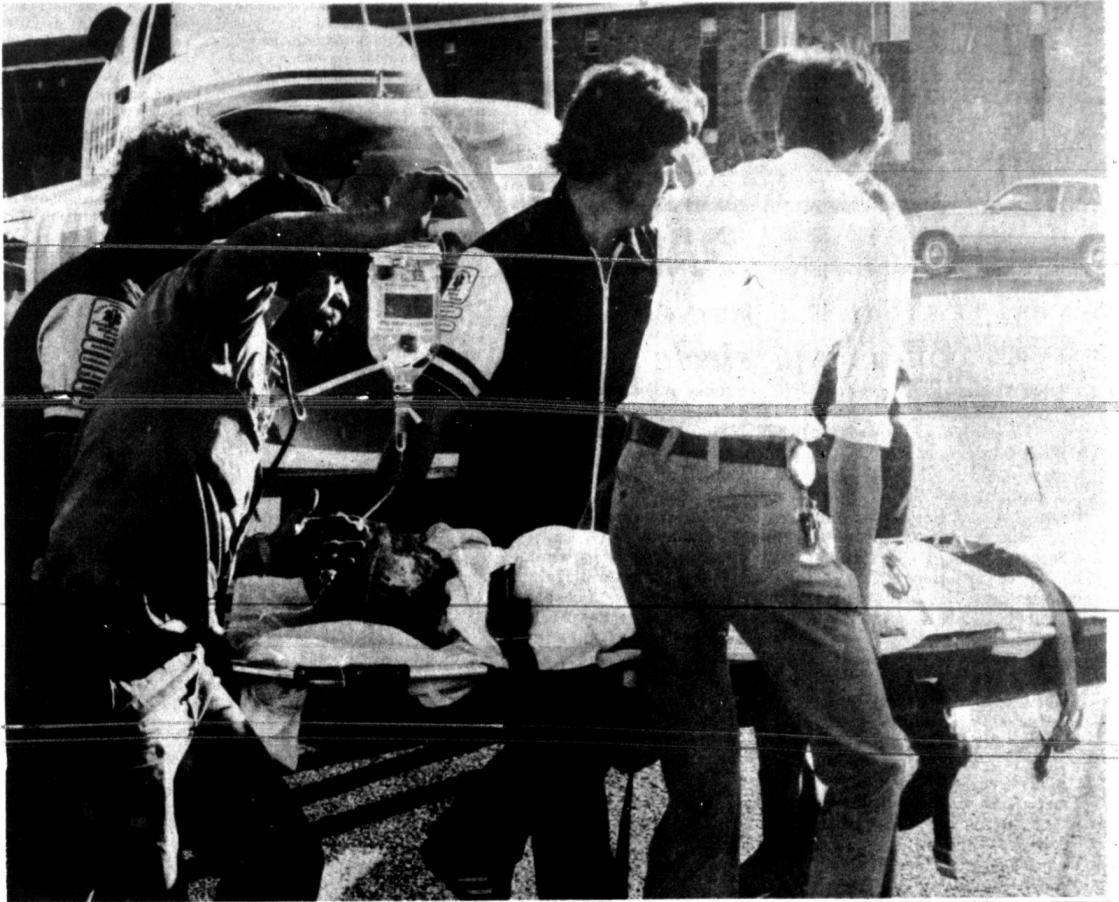

Treated and released at the Pampa hospital were George Burger, 55, of Pampa; Tim Dover of Pampa; Jana Rogers of Pampa; and Thelma Mayberry of Borger.

at Highland General Hospital for the expert handling of the casualties that arrived. "When our first ambulance arrived at the hospital, everyone was standing by with all equipment prepared and immediately at hand to receive any number of casualties," he said.

King said that in severe burn cases it is usually necessary to replace fluids which have been too quickly lost with organic chemical solutions.

"You have to be extremely gentle with burn patients," he said. "You don't want to remove any clothing. Treatment for shock is usually necessary. You have to lay the patient down, elevate his feet, and provide psychological support."

King said the extent of burns to victims could not be easily determined since some were splashed with oil. According to the Highland General emergency room physician Dr. E.C. Hoffer, the oil made several of the victims appear more seriously burned than they actually were.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS of Friday's electrical fire at Celanese Chemical plant west of here is rushed to awaiting helicopter for emergency transfer to Amarillo. A second victim is loaded on board another helicopter for transportation to Amarillo also. Eleven persons were injured in the blaze, four seriously.

Hospital pact to end era

The career of Highland and McLean hospitals as county institutions will near an end Monday with the signing of a contract with Hospital Corporation of America for the lease-purchase of the two medical facilities.

The contract with HCA is scheduled to be signed at 1:30 p.m. in the Gray County Courthouse. The contract calls for the joint sale off the two hospitals' current assets including cash, accounts receivable, and hospital inventory and the lease of the buildings and land for a total of $2,275,000.

The new company, incorporated as Coronado Community Hospital and listed as a subsidiary of HCA, is obligated under the contract to construct a new hospital in Pampa within 30 months.

The company will also pay the balance of 1&69 federal (Hill - Burton) loan to the hospitals of about $450,000.

Under the contract, the county has the option to sell the leased hospital properties to the corporation for $600,000 at any time up to September 30, 1980. If McLean Hospital were excluded from such a sale, the corporation would buy Highland General for $450,000.

The county will also have an option requiring the corporation to lease McLean Hospital for an additional 30 months over the original leasing period for a lump sum of $12,000.

The contract does not require HCA to make major repairs to the present hospital facilities.

The county will be responsible for hospital payrolls for periods beginning before the signing of the lease-purchase agreement. Gray County Judge Carl

Kennedy estimated that with the county payment of hospital accounts payable, the net financial gain to the county would "be something less than $2 million."

Hospital Corporation of America spokesmen say they expect to spend $10 to $12 million for the new medical facility.

Director of Domestic Development for HCA Douglas Lewis said Thursday that the site for the new hospital has not yet been selected. "The real estate department is looking at various options," Lewis said. "But no final decision has been made."

Both the selection of the new hospital site and the number of beds it contains are subject to the approval of government health agencies. Lewis has said the corporation is "hoping for the construction of an expanded facility" with up to 150 beds.

OSBI convinced of Hart's guilt

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — Gene Leroy Hart may never again know freedom, but a Mayes County jury has given him reason to hope he may someday be allowed to return to his family in the rugged woodlands of northeastern Oklahoma.

But agent Don Sharp of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation said the bureau is convinced Hart is the cruel killer who bludgeoned and raped three young Girl Scouts at a summer camp nearly two years ago. "I have no doubt in my mind that we had the right man," Sharp said.

SBI spokesmen said they had no information that pointed to anyone but Hart, 35. There are no plans to reopen the investigation because of Hart's acquittal Friday.

But there are many others who knew Hart as a high school football star at nearby Locust Grove. They say they knew he would be found innocent of the murders at Camp Scott, a mile from his mother's house.

"We knew he was innocent. I mean we knew he was innocent. I just wanted to go up and hug all the jurors," said a weeping Millie Littledeve, Hart's sister.

Dozens of Hart supporters jammed into a windowless third-floor courtroom in the Mayes County courthouse for 22 days while Hart stood trial on three counts of first-degree murder.

Friday, to shouts of jubilation from his family and friends, the six-man, six-woman jury found Hart innocent of all three charges. Hart had carefully cultivated his image as a stoic Cherokee throughout the trial, but burst into racking sobs as the verdicts were read.

"Nobody knows what it's like to be a man on trial for his life," said Hart attorney Garvin Isaacs following the court session. "It's impossible until you've walked a mile in the other man's moccasins."

To Isaacs will fall the task of defending Hart on at least 10 other charges stemming from two 1973 escapes from the Mayes County jail. Hart had been a fugitive for five years when he was charged 10 days after the June 13, 1977, slayings.

Isaacs will also pursue post-conviction relief hearings on Hart's convictions for the kidnapping and rape of two women in 1966. Hart supporters maintain he was framed on those charges.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Taxpayer's hooked on vicious circle

Taiwan holds a seat in the world's two most important political financial institutions, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Bank. Red China is certain to claim this position, but the Carter administration would rather include Red China and not omit Taiwan.

If room is made for both in these institutions, it will mean a potential $700 million per year windfall for Communist China. Much of the money may come from the United States.

So far, the Peking government hasn't made any move to attempt to join, but it has declared in the past that Taiwan is illegally representing China. Officials are expecting pressure for a change to come in October when the joint meeting of the IMF and World Bank will be held in Yugoslavia. This will be the first time the annual meeting has been set to meet in a Communist nation.

The 137-nation IMF and the World Bank distribute billions of dollars each year in aid and loans to underdeveloped member countries. World Bank lending totalled $8.4 billion last year, including $2.3 billion in interest-free loans to the poorest member nations.

It has been said that Red China and its one billion people would qualify for aid equal to what India receives. This was nearly $1.3 billion last year including about $1 billion in interest-free loans.

Taxpayers of the United States provided about 20 percent of all financing for the World Bank and the IMF and about $800 million or 33 percent of the interest-free aid last year.

Some officials say the banks' resources are limited and if Red China is included, it will mean a cut to India and other nations.

With our nation having the largest "stake" in this worldwide endeavor, it might be reasonable to expect we may be stuck with the additional drain created by taking on Communist China.

Other contributing member-nations may feel our placating Peking and Taiwan is reason enough for letting Uncle Sam foot the bill for extra costs.

Taiwan owes the World Bank $250 million and the IMF $190 million. Some officials have expressed the idea that Taiwan may have incurred the debts for leverage against being ejected should Peking be recognized as the Chinese government.

Some nations are getting interest-free loans while American taxpayers are being saddled with ever increasing taxes as the United States pays higher and higher interest to service its own debts. Taxpayers in this nation are not only footing the bill, but their dollar is dropping in value against foreign currencies. It is all a part of a vicious circle which leads to greater inflation and monetary debasement.

It would seem time to reassess our largess around the world in terms of what is best for our own citizens. A bankrupt Uncle Sucker may not be greatly helpful at home or abroad.

A few put some light on finance

By SAM CAMPBELL

What worries you the most — inflation, unemployment, crime, runaway spenders in Congress?

Re-word that question: tie all these matters up into one comprehensive "nut" that you can get a wrench on. Isn't the basic problem that not enough individuals think straight?

Look at the matter this way. At the grassroots you have people who are easily confused. In the colleges you have individuals who not only are confused themselves, but also make a living by confusing other individuals. The consequence, you have politicians in Austin and Washington trying to adjust to a confused constituency.

Take heart. This country still has a store of straight thinkers. Probably no one individual jingles all the keys to the national puzzle. But different individuals have made sense answers to parts of it.

Once a fellow has a solution he has to find some way to communicate his findings to his countrymen. Typically newspapers and television are receptive to novel actions, but not to newly discovered ideas. That's normal. Deeds or misdeeds make news; truth seldom does. So what other means are open?

Dr. Marcel Methot of Fullerton studied up on money and learned that Federal Reserve banknotes are not money, even though popularly believed to be such. He hopes to attract attention to his discovery by claiming on his federal tax return that he hadn't made any money. The judge wasn't a straight thinker. So Methot wound up paying a $10,000 fine. You might say he paid $10,000 to make a few headlines that called attention to what he was trying to show: namely, that politicians and bankers have siphoned off the real money of this country and left the people only paper dollars.

Irwin A. Schiff of Hamden, Conn., took a similar tack, but with a twist. He first wrote a book. It was titled, "The Biggest Con — How The Government is Fleecing You." The book pointed out that paper dollars are intrinsically worthless, a mere promise to pay. Then he omitted furnishing information on tax returns that he claimed would violate his constitutional rights. The IRS prosecuted. Like Methot, he was convicted. But The Associated Press covered the trial, transmitted progress reports from coast to coast. The stories called attention to Schiff's book; hence to the difference between paper dollars and Federal Reserve banknotes.

That's another candle in an otherwise dark room. If you want to know what money really is, read Schiff's book. It was published originally in 1976 by Arlington House, later republished as a paperback by Freedom Books, Hamden, Conn.

Men like Methot and Schiff aren't trying to get by without paying their share of what is required for national defense or domestic police protection. They aren't defying the IRS for self-serving purposes. They have abundant other qualities that command personal recognition. They merely are trying to communicate. They are trying to invoke your understanding. Insofar as they succeed, the other social diseases — inflation, unemployment, crime, runaway spending — will recede. The sacrifices of a few dedicated individuals such as Schiff and Methot are your ultimate protection.

Is welfare reform very likely

By ROBERT LEFEVRE

For the last few years I've been noting a rising tide of antagonism to the concept of public welfare. More and more individuals are making it clear they are fed up with the notion they must work and be taxed so that others can live at their expense.

I view this growing opposition as a healthy trend. And like most of those who publicly complain about the welfare burden, I don't favor inflicting injury on anyone who is truly incapacitated.

The trouble with public welfare is that there is no effective way of managing the program without all kinds of abuse. One of the major difficulties with achieving any kind of reform or redress at this juncture is that most of the persons objecting to public welfare don't go to the roots of the problem. Nearly without exception, those complaining about welfare costs, are objective to the way the government spends tax money. They appear willing to let the government tax them, provided only that the money is spent more prudently.

Arguments here are bound to fail of result. Ever since governments were invented, those in power have used the legal sanction to steal as a means of rewarding some and punishing others. Indeed, that is what is meant when one begins to govern. Ancient monarchs handed out patrimonies, monopolies and titles to those who supported them. Modern governments, shorn of the name of monarchy, do precisely the same things. The people take comfort in the change of name and fail to note that a semantic development in no way eliminates welfare.

Now if one wishes to be effective in his opposition to welfare, then such opposition, at least in argument, must become consistent. What must be struck down is the government's option to spend tax money as the politician pleases rather than as the taxpayer pleases. Thus the decision-making power over taxes must be retained by those who pay, not by those who collect.

An argument here has a chance of success. But it will appear far too radical to most until they have been more seriously injured than they presently believe themselves to be.

All payments by the government are offered in exchange for something. So the ancient monarchy was really not different from the modern monstrosity. Today's welfare recipients provide for the politicians what today's democratic politician most needs: a pledge of support at the polls. So, to make certain that you and those in your particular group receive some benefits from the government, you create pressure, clamor and discord, pleading poverty, bad health and misery. You indicate that you will vote against those who turn a deaf ear. By implication you and your group will vote for those who will pay you enough.

Thus, what we call welfare programs have simply been molded by various pressure groups into a case of public bribery so vast that it is too large for the individual to see.

But wait. Thus far we are talking only of welfare in the commonly accepted meaning: payments to those who make less than others, taken from those who make more than others, through the agency of brute force and taxation.

But how do you suppose highways are constructed? Various elected "representatives" would like to favor new highway programs in their respective states or districts. Why? Because when the government spends money in the territory claimed by the so-called representative, there are jobs offered as a reward. There is a flow of money. Good times can come to the districts where effective congressmen have rolled out the barrel of pork in profusion. And the congressman is rewarded by being returned to office.

In this sense, a highway system is just another form of welfare. The public at large pays. A limited few get the benefit. But those benefited should at least be grateful and are certainly inclined to be.

Obviously, highways are "good" for the entire country. Just as money handed out in welfare payments to the indigent will be spent, and thus provide a "good" in the districts where the spending takes place.

Viewed in this light we can begin to take note of the magnitude of the problem of bribing about some kind of welfare reform. Quite frankly, I can think of no effective way whatever, in which the government can continue to have the power to tax as it pleases, while the taxpayer is to have the power to choose the manner in which the funds are to be spent.

But there are very few who have permitted their minds to proceed that far. Hence there will be no welfare reform of any consequence.

FRIDAY WAS A DAY OF TRAGEDY for Pampa and we here at the News want to extend our sincere condolences to the families of the 11 people that were injured at Celanese.

There was no way that the accident could have been prevented but we here at the News know now how well this city reacts to an emergency.

No better care could have been given to the men and women who were burned in the flash fire, from ambulance crew drivers to the doctors and nurses that waited for and treated the injured as they arrived.

This city responded with the energy and zest that makes one feel proud to be a resident of Pampa.

My thanks and the thanks of all Pampans goes to the men and women of the police department, Metropolitan Ambulance Service, fire department, sheriff's department, and to those doctors and nurses that reported in to the hospital of their day off to help in the emergency.

Being the first newsmen on the scene of the fire it did my heart good to see the police chief directing traffic - doing anything he could - to help the injured get emergency care, the calmness that prevailed over the area as the injured were transported to the hospital and then again when the seriously injured were transported by air to Amarillo.

I noticed that no one was thinking of their stature - only of those men and women that needed help. Sheriff Jordan joined with Richard Mills in directing traffic around the airlift site.

These may seem like little things to an ordinary person but to me they mean a great deal.

Gentlemen and ladies, you have my deepest respect and admiration for a job well done.

MY REGARDS GO TO MY STAFF ALSO. Eugene Laycock and Joe Blobaum responded to the emergency in the tradition of all good newsmen. They conducted themselves in a manner beyond reproach as information floated around the accident scene wildly. Other newsmen reported information to their wire services that was, at best, less than factual. I must give my respect to Eugene for the manner in which he handled each difficult assignment thrust upon him, and there were several. Thanks again, fellows.

LAST WEEKEND was the Easter Seals telethon, but Pampa didn't show the support that many people had hoped. I know that this was the first year for Easter Seals in Pampa, and that a lot of people just didn't know it was going on. But, there is always next year. I would like to take time out to relate a story about the telethon to you. A handful of teenagers manned the phones through the night in Pampa - anxious for the phones to ring. They waited all night. By morning, the total for Pampa was $44, and many of those young people had lost faith in their fellow residents. Sometimes it is hard for the young to understand why people don't give to various causes, and I must be very young, because I don't understand either.

I MUST SAY THANK YOU to those people in Explorer Post 400, Explorer Post 499, Boy Scout Troop 422 and all the other young men and women who gave their time and energy to help those that cannot help themselves. Sorry the showing was so poor, people. But, like I said, there is always next year.

The following is translated from a Dutch magazine. I offer it without comment since there are still in and around my house people who might throw me down and sit on me. I will say that it tends to show that families are pretty much the same the world over:

- Father
- 4 years: My Daddy can do anything.
- 7 years: My Daddy knows a lot, a whole lot.
- 8 years: My father doesn't know quite everything.
- 12 years: Oh, well, naturally Father doesn't know that either.
- 14 years: Father? Hopelessly old-fashioned.
- 21 years: Oh, that man is out of date; what did you expect?
- 25 years: He knows a little bit about it but not much.
- 30 years: Must find out what Dad thinks about it.

Farmers to the rescue

If we need oil and the oil countries need grain, why don't we swap?

Historically, in effect, we did.

But then in 1973 the oil nations decided to multiply their asking price for oil.

But we did not increase our asking price for food grains.

It's not too late.

Until the OPEC nations got their heads together and decided to blackmail us for ever-higher oil prices the price of a bushel of wheat and a barrel of crude was about the same—about $2.

On the world exchanges the two commodities had run neck-and-neck for years—$2 wheat, $2 oil.

Now — in 1979 — foreign oil producers have escalated crude oil prices to more than $14 a barrel.

But wheat is still selling for $2 to $3 a bushel.

Make no mistake — the United States controls or has the autonomy to control the world price for wheat and other food grains. We represent 40 to 50 percent of the total world market in this commodity.

Japan and the European Economic Community (EEC) countries are the major importers of American grain and it is in those countries that our dollar is in the most trouble.

Japan purchases American wheat for $2.50 to $3 a bushel, then adds a tariff when it reaches her shores to increase the price to Japanese millers to more than $9 a bushel.

A $6-a-bushel tariff is a windfall for that government.

Is it not we who should be getting that markup?

Better still, why not peg the price of wheat to the price of oil, then, even if the OPEC nations should elect to charge us $100 a barrel it would balance out.

More logically, however, the result would be to hold the prices of both commodities down — as the law of supply and demand did hold them down for decades preceding 1973.

One out of three harvested acres in the United States goes for export.

Because our farmers have been so efficient, we have been much too generous with our neighbors.

Any objective evaluation of world oil consumption and production projected a few decades down the road confirms that the oil-rich nations of the Middle East will exhaust their reserves.

If history repeats itself — and it usually does — those now fat nations will look to us again for handouts in the lean years.

Perhaps we should encourage them to emulate the Biblical Joseph, who wisely set aside grain in preparation for a time of famine.

And if they are not wise enough to do so on their own, we should encourage them to put their money in food rather than in lavish living.

We could rebalance our foreign trade and strengthen our dollar abroad and at home by serving notice now: a bushel of wheat for a barrel of oil. Take it or leave it.

Spring rains causing delays in planting crops

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Spring planting is winding up in the far southern reaches of Texas, but elsewhere wet fields are causing delays. Planting of corn, sorghum and cotton is generally running two to three weeks behind schedule due to cool, wet conditions.

While planting is behind schedule in central and eastern areas due to recent rains, soil moisture is plentiful and should enable crops to get off to a good start, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Good rains have also fallen in the South and Rolling Plains, West Central and Southwest Texas in the past few weeks, improving soil moisture conditions. Parts of the Panhandle and Far West Texas remains dry, and some sections of extreme South Texas could use additional rain.

Soil temperatures continue to warm so that soils in most sections are conducive to corn and sorghum planting. However, soils in the northern and western half of Texas are still too cool for cotton planting, noted Pfannstiel. Recommended minimum planting temperatures at the four-inch depth are 50 degrees F. for corn, 55 for sorghum and 65 for cotton.

Warmer weather and increased rainfall are giving a big boost to pastures, ranges and small grains, result in improved grazing conditions in most areas of Texas. A considerable amount of wheat acreage will be grazed out due to high cattle prices and low wheat prices.

Many farmers are applying nitrogen topdressing to small grains as well as to pastures to boost forage production this spring, said Pfannstiel. Producers hope to make plenty of hay this year to replenish supplies depleted by a long, hard winter.

Vegetable production is increasing over the state with the advent of the spring season, noted Pfannstiel. Onion and potato plantings are generally making good progress, and other crops are being seeded as soil conditions permit.

CENTRAL: All counties now have good moisture, and runoff was sufficient to fill most stock tanks. While the rains boosted small grains, pastures and ranges, corn and sorghum planting has been slow due to wet fields. Sheep and goat shearing is active. Livestock conditions are beginning to improve.

EAST: Surplus soil moisture over the area is hampering field work. Some producers have been able to fertilize pastures and hay crops. Peach trees are in full bloom. Livestock are in fair to good shape, with supplemental feeding tapering off.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Rain over the area has again delayed field work. Some early planted corn, sorghum and rice is emerging. Peach trees are in the petal-drop stage and pecan trees are budding. Pasture and livestock conditions are improving.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Planting of corn, sorghum and cotton is at a standstill over most of the area due to wet fields. Vegetable gardening is generally limited due to wet conditions. Pecan trees are budding. Grazing and livestock conditions continue to improve.

SOUTHWEST: Pastures and ranges are greening rapidly over the area due to recent rains. Land preparation and spring planting are active, with some corn and cotton coming up. Small grains look good and are beginning to mature. Fruit trees are blooming. Livestock are in good shape, with the area boasting a good lamb crop.

COASTAL BEND: Recent rains have delayed the completion of spring planting. Corn and cotton planting are at the 90 to 95 percent mark, with about 80 percent of the sorghum planted. Rice planting has started, and land is being prepared for peanuts. Forage and livestock conditions are improving.

SOUTH: Planting of corn, cotton and sorghum is about complete, with crops emerging in many fields. Okra, tomatoes and squash are making good progress. Citrus trees continue to bloom. Light supplies of cabbage, carrots and onions continue to move to market. Livestock are in good shape, with pastures and ranges providing grazing.

Permian Basin - a geological wonder

Editor's note: "When you ask how much oil is left in the Permian Basin, you must ask at what price. If it's $5 a barrel, there's not much. Maybe none. If it's $15 or $20, there's a hell of a lot. And there's a lot that ain't been found yet." — A candid West Texan.

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — On a spring day in 1923, an ornery wildcatter named Frank Pickrell set out on a marvelously insane odyssey into West Texas.

With him on the railroad flat car were his driller, his equipment and his workmen.

Unknown to Pickrell and his crew, their mission was a historic one. Wildcaters before him had come, drilled, found dry holes and left.

Three years earlier, an equally hard-headed adventurer had struck oil near Westbrook in Mitchell County. But it was a 50-barrel-a-day producer and attracted little attention.

The word was out: "There is no oil in far West Texas." But Pickrell's journey, in time, led to the first major discovery in what would become one of the world's great energy pools: the Permian Basin of West Texas and southeastern New Mexico.

The Permian Basin to this day provides some 25 percent of U.S. oil production and 20 percent of its natural gas. But it is also an area whose reserves are in some dispute.

Fourteen miles west of Big Lake, amid the mesquite, cactus and chaparral of Reagan County, Pickrell unloaded his men and machinery and began a frantic race against time.

His lease-purchase agreement specified a test well must be drilled within a certain time frame.

To validate the 700 square miles of leases, he had to "spud in" or break ground, by midnight.

The original location had been staked three miles from the old Orient Railroad tracks which Pickrell traveled. But a water well machine was damaged in unloading.

Because of the time element, Pickrell abandoned his original plan and decided to drill alongside the railroad.

Through the hours of sundown and into darkness, the little band of workmen pushed desperately, reported Oil Patch, an industry-oriented magazine, in a recent edition. The articles drew from S.D. Myres' book, "The Permian Basin — Petroleum Empire of the Southwest."

"Just before midnight, though the rig had not been completely set up, the well was spudded in."

"After all," it was pointed out, "the well was a small producer, transport costs were high from the remote desert area and the price of crude had fallen again."

More importantly, according to Oil Patch, West Texas at that time was considered the "graveyard of the oil industry."

The Santa Rita lease was in lonely, forbidding country, far from any pipeline and plagued by howling dust storms and sizzling heat.

Pickrell was broke, which didn't help matters much.

Potential buyers ignored his pleas for financial assistance until a famous wildcatter named Mike Benedum agreed to make the plunge.

The people's pharmacy

by Joe Graedon

Have you ever heard the saying that if it hurts or tastes terrible it must be good for you? That motto was the foundation for Mom's first aid kit.

Judging from the foul tasting stuff many people gargle with every morning or the pain we subject ourselves to when we apply germ killing antiseptics to cuts, one could make a strong argument that Americans share a masochistic streak, especially when it comes to self-medicating.

When we were young Mother usually tried to convince us that both the spanking and the medicine hurt her more than it hurt us, but for me, somehow, that never washed. Nevertheless, we tend to repeat the mistakes passed on to us and so we do much the same thing to our children when they come running with their scrapes and scratches.

Open warfare is declared on germs at the first sight of blood. Out comes the alcohol, iodine or antiseptic spray. Whatever we use, it usually hurts like hell. The kid screams, a few "germs" are killed and everyone thinks that some good has been accomplished.

Slaughtering germs is somehow associated with healing wounds. And the longer the kid hollers the better it is. We even run through this masochistic ritual when we cut ourselves.

But do we really need to make such a big deal about minor cuts and abrasions? Is it necessary to take "heroic" action in order to knock off a few microbes? Most authorities would say no. The skin is tough. It's recuperative powers are phenomenal.

A small wound rarely requires special attention. It should be washed carefully with mild soap and plenty of water. Any dirt that may have penetrated the scrape should be removed. A protective bandage is usually a good plan since it may prevent possible contamination.

Following the degerming ritual is not only unnecessary, it may be counterproductive. Some antiseptic preparations may actually irritate sensitive tissue and retard the healing process. Redness, rash, itching, burning and blisters are just a few of the things that can occur after application of an unnecessary "cure."

Ingredients such as carbolic acid (phenol) have caused severe burns and may be absorbed into the body if a tight bandage is applied on top.

Now we know it's hard to resist temptation. If dear old Mom painted your cuts and scratches with Mercuriochrome or iodine or poured on the alcohol, you are going to want to do the same thing to your kid. Drug companies increase that urge by advertising their products with unsubstantiated claims such as "disinfects and sanitizes skin — promotes healing." Sounds enticing, but sorry folks, no cigar. Sprays, ointments or liquids can't speed healing. That's something that only your body can do on its own.

If you insist on rummaging around in the medicine chest however, at least use something effective and relatively harmless.

Isopropyl alcohol (70 percent) is about as good as anything else on the market and it's cheaper than brand name sprays, aerosols or lotions. It will kill most skin bacteria (for whatever that's worth), is less irritating than chemicals like iodine or phenol and does not cause allergic reactions like local anesthetics can.

No matter what you use, don't apply it directly to the wound. Gently apply the antiseptic around the cut. The next time your child comes running with a cut or a scratch, you don't have to kill germs and make him cry. A little soap and water and lots of love will work wonders.

Court battle set

BURNET, Texas (AP) — A May 10 hearing has been set on ex-Sheriff R.C. Hullum's court battle to win back the job he resigned on March 14.

Hullum said his March 14 resignation — the day after the FBI arrested him and two other men on federal wiretapping charges — was involuntary and forced by an assistant U.S. attorney.

Hullum said the official, Dan Masco of Austin, lowered his bond on federal wiretapping charges from $25,000 to $10,000 on the condition he resign as sheriff of Burnet County.

Weather Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms pummeled Texas again Saturday. A tornado whirled through Central Texas, and high winds buffeted the mountains of West Texas.
Travelers in the West Texas mountains — especially motorists in high-profile vehicles or towing mobile homes — were advised to watch out for sustained winds of 50 miles an hour and gusts to 65.
The National Weather Service spotted a "possible tornado" five miles southwest of Comanche at 2:45 p.m. and placed Comanche and Erath counties under a tornado warning.
At Desdemona, 30 miles to the north, Department of Public Safety troopers spotted a tornado — perhaps the same one — at 3:15 p.m., and the warning was extended to Eastland and Palo Pinto counties.
Almost simultaneously, portions of East Texas were placed under a severe thunderstorm warning.
A flash flood watch was in effect from Central to Northeast Texas, with the greatest possibility of flooding south of a line from Shreveport to Temple.
A severe thunderstorm dumped golfball-size hail near Brownwood, with showers also reported around Dallas, Waco and Fredericksburg in Central Texas, and Palestine and Longview in the east. Half-inch hail was reported in Cherokee County at Elkhart, and other stormy activity was reported in the Panhandle, near Amarillo and Canyon.
Temperatures remained mild, except for the far northwest. Most of the state enjoyed afternoon highs in the 60s to 80s. At 3 p.m., it was 75 degrees in San Angelo, 72 at Wichita Falls, 70 at Abilene and Longview, 69 at Fort Worth and Dallas, 65 at Tyler and 64 at Waco.
The weather service forecast drier weather for Sunday, with slightly cooler temperatures.

Officials refute allegations by priest

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Federal investigators have refuted the allegations of a Roman Catholic priest who said he was stripped and beaten by U.S. Customs officials at an international bridge in March.
Customs officials said Friday they have concluded the charges leveled by The Rev. Jesse Munoz were unfounded.
Church officials termed the federal investigation "responsible" and said if it is correct, disciplinary action is possible against Munoz, pastor of Our Lady of the Light Catholic Church, the largest Catholic congregation in El Paso.
Munoz said he was slapped, stripped and beaten by customs officials when he returned from a trip to Juarez, just across the border from El Paso, to help a Colorado couple.

"He was not stripped of his clothing, only his socks and shoes were removed," said Customs district director William Hughes. "He was not thrown against the wall five times. He was made to stand against the wall. He was not slapped."
Friday, Munoz insisted his account was correct. "There is no question what they did to me," Munoz said. "I have pictures that confirm my story." Munoz said he referred to photos taken of bruises on his body.
The Customs investigation said Munoz, wearing normal street clothing, was at a Juarez bar the early morning hours of March 20.

The report said he met a David Hernandez, and offered him a ride to El Paso.
"When the young man informed Father Munoz that he might have problems with his crossing credentials, Father Munoz advised him to claim that he was a U.S. citizen residing in El Paso," Hughes said.
Hughes said during their crossing back into the United States, Hernandez tried to strike an inspector, then tried to flee back into Mexico. At that point, Hughes said Munoz was physically restrained in the event that he might try to escape.
Munoz denied that he was in a Juarez bar the night of the incident.

Teamsters still talking as strike deadline nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a possible midnight strike approached, the Teamsters union and the trucking industry struggled Saturday to settle on a new contract that some sources said would break President Carter's twice-loosened inflation guidelines.
Sources close to the talks, who declined to be named, estimated a tentative wage and fringe benefit agreement reached Friday would boost labor costs 30 percent over three years, nearly 10 percent a year.

The tentative economic settlement angered some of Carter's inflation advisers, who only Wednesday had made a major concession to the giant union so that the Teamsters would comply with the 7 percent annual wage guideline.
The administration had made the Teamsters negotiations a key test of Carter's guidelines program, and Carter himself said Friday that the talks are "a very important test case" for the guidelines. The reported settlement casts doubt on the future of the guidelines.

Several sources expressed confidence as of midday Saturday that the two sides would come to terms before midnight EST, when the current contract covering 300,000 workers was to expire.
Despite the optimism, chief federal mediator

Women hold rally for abortion

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — About 125 women gathered near the Alamo in damp, drizzly weather Saturday for a pro-abortion rally, one of several held across the United States as part of International Day of Action for Reproductive Freedom.
Almost all of the participants were among the 2,000 persons attending the 10th National Conference on Women and the Law here through Sunday.
"Given the weather, I'm delighted with the crowd," said Judy Levin of the American Civil Liberties Union in New York, organizer of the rally and one of those attending the conference.

Communication can improve

The communication of administration and teachers to parents is probably weak, said Pampa High School Principal Paul Payne.

Communication among administrators, teachers and students can always be improved, he said.

"We have 1400 kids reporting home everyday," he said, and what they tell parents is hard to predict.

The newspaper and radio have been important in conveying information about the school to parents.

"Some schools have monthly bulletins that are sent to parents, he said, however, this is paid for by tax money and may not be worth the money.

A flood of information from the innumerable events of the school because of the large number of teams and organizations of the school has caused problems, he said.

"Being one high school," he said, "we are the center of attention."

The information has to be thinned to general pertinences, he said, and then distributed.

People often don't listen or interpret properly, he said.

To improve the situation, he explained that he would have to give more time.

Faculty meetings are held once a month, he said, to enable the administration to address the teachers on generalities that pertain to them all.

At these meetings, information that is only applicable to a few is saved for individual or group meetings, he said.

Lately, the principal and many teachers have been meeting to negotiate their contracts. He said that this job has taken much of the time of the past couple of days.

Teachers are sent a ditto master, which contains the week's activities, he said, to further communication.

Sometimes, a special bulletin is put out when the instance necessitates it.

The public address system is sometimes used to talk to the students and teachers in class, he said, but on a limited basis because students stop paying attention after it has been heard too regularly.

The system is new and operates well, he said.

When a student has attendance problems, he explained that a letter is sent to the parents.

The enrollment schedules require the signature of a parent to insure that they know what is happening with their children, he said.

The school newspaper also serves as a means of communication within the school system, as does the local newspaper and radio, he said.

"I don't like putting out a handbook because about the time it is printed it is outdated," he said in reference to guideline information.

The booklet, he said, will have to be changed again because of this letter from the Texas Education Agency in Austin.

Little Harvester excited

Journalism is the only profession that hangs out their dirty clothes daily to be looked at, said Mary Ann Woosley, journalism teacher of Pampa High School.

The main objective of the school newspaper, "The Little Harvester," is to include everybody in every high school organization that we can.

Nevertheless, the limited space in the paper and the number of activities makes it impossible to produce a paper that pleases everyone, she said.

"We get a little controversial every once in a while," she said, and "try to point out problems."

Some people, she said, view it as stirring up trouble.

When her students see a questionable situation, she said, they talk about it in class and then interview the involved party.

She explained that many times the group finds that stories are one-sided.

Sometimes people will try to get us to write a story on the funniest things, she said, but most complaints have some foundation.

The newspaper communicates pretty well, she said, and no major problems in communication are seen.

The administration has never told us that something cannot be written, she said, yet sometimes they are riled by the paper.

She noted that the class had "stepped on some toes" at other times.

Stories on the vandalism of the vice principal's home was written, as well as on the time allotted between classes, the parking situation and some national issues.

Some parents have asked for the paper, she said, and some of the other readership are on a mailing list.

Many students subscribe to the paper, she said, and some even hold on to it.

The journalism students are given a lot of freedom, she said, and they also learn limitations of what can be printed - "ethical rules."

However, she said that little feedback has been received from the readership, who she would like to encourage to give its opinion.

Sirica says he was wrong about tapes

NEW YORK (AP) — Watergate Judge John Sirica says he was wrong when he refused to release the Nixon tapes to be broadcast — and he now believes Nixon should have been tried for his part in the Watergate scandal.

Sirica, interviewed by CBS news correspondents Fred Graham and Lesley Stahl, said that "if the public ever hears those tapes, if the time ever comes when they are released and played so everybody can hear them, they won't have any doubt in their minds whatsoever about his participation in this matter."

"I would have sent him to jail" if Nixon had been convicted, Sirica said. "But I don't know what sentence I would have imposed."

The interview was broadcast Friday on the CBS Evening News. Of President Gerald Ford's pardon of Nixon, Sirica said: "I had felt when I read about the pardon that probably Mr. Ford was right... But as the case dragged on, and went through the appellate procedures and I had more time to reflect on what happened and so forth, I have to say, reluctantly... that I would rather have seen the judicial process run its course. By that I mean this — without indicating whether he would have been convicted or acquitted I think that the American people would have been better satisfied if they could have seen Mr. Nixon in the courts."

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — American missionary Lloyd G. van Vactor, held captive by Moslem terrorists for 19 days, says money collected for his ransom will go to a scholarship fund for Moslem children.

The fund will be named the Maisie van Vactor Memorial Scholarship Project in memory of his wife, who died of complications from abdominal surgery in a Manila hospital during van Vactor's ordeal, the missionary said.

Van Vactor was released Wednesday night without payment of ransom, although his kidnapers had demanded $67,000. Van Vactor, 55, learned of his wife's death only after his release.

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — Labor Minister Shah Azizur Rahman was named Saturday to be the new Prime Minister of Bangladesh.

He was chosen as parliamentary leader of the ruling Nationalist party by its parliament members in a meeting here. Selection automatically makes him the party's prime ministerial nominee, and formal confirmation by the parliament is expected April 2.

Rahman is no relation to President Ziaur Rahman.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II, a sports enthusiast, met with the players of Italy's Lanerossi Vicenza soccer team including scoring star Paolo Rossi in an audience at the Vatican on Saturday.

The team gave the pope an autographed soccer ball and silver tray.

On the light side

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — John Bradley says a breakfast without grits isn't really a full breakfast. And when a local restaurant left off his grits one day last November, he refused to pay the full bill.

The restaurant didn't agree, however, and charges of violating a city ordinance were filed against Bradley, 51, for failing to pay a food bill.

He was tried, convicted and fined $50 in Municipal Court last month.

But Bradley, still maintaining he was right, appealed to Circuit Court. And on Friday, Circuit Judge William Gordon instructed a jury to rule in Bradley's favor.

Bradley's attorney refused to say how much he charged Bradley for the four-month legal battle over the $2.94 breakfast bill.

MIAMI (AP) — Tourists riding the Goodyear blimp won't have to look at boring suburban streets and roofs anymore when the giant Mayflower returns to Miami next fall. Once again, they'll be soaring over Biscayne Bay, Miami Beach and the ocean.

Until this year, the blimp's home had been on Watson Island, nestled between downtown Miami, Miami Beach and causeways across the bay.

But the tire company got a bigger blimp last year and it could no longer fit on little Watson Island. So its home was moved to a hangar at the Opa-locka Airport.

The view from there was boring, riders said. And city officials feared they might lose the blimp to another city, such as Orlando, unless another landing site near water was found.

"We freely admit it's an attempt to keep Goodyear here," said Assistant County Manager Boyd Arp Friday, as he announced the new arrangement. "We think it's a part of our skyline, and we'd like to keep it that way." The new lease is expected to be approved by the county and city commissions on Tuesday.

DENVER (AP) — For a few hours, the streets of Denver seemed to be paved with money.

At about midnight Thursday, police said, people began finding $5 and $10 bills scattered in the streets, most of them in north Denver. It must have seemed too good to be true.

And it was. The bills were phony.

Bills that appeared to be worth $4,000 were collected early Friday after city bus drivers who found the discarded bills notified the police, said Glenn Weaver, agent in charge of the Denver office of the U.S. Secret Service.

Weaver described the bills as "very good" but with too-large serial numbers and a brighter green treasury seal than normal.

Overseas...

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo (AP) — A special congress of the Congolese Workers' Party elected on Saturday Col. Denis Sassou Nguesso, the army chief of staff, as this Marxist country's third president and ordered the immediate arrest and trial of former president Gen. Joachim Yhomby Opango on charges of treason.

Nguesso took over as provisional president following Opango's ouster Feb. 8. Nguesso also was elected president of the party's central committee.

ROME (AP) — Fast-moving bandits halted a Milan-Rome train about 60 miles north of here Saturday, detached the last five cars and made off with sacks filled with postal money orders, railroad police reported.

The bandits struck at dawn near Orvieto, bringing the train to a halt by activating a red light on the tracks. They unhooked the last five cars, then set off an all-clear signal. The train resumed its journey with the engineers unaware that five cars were missing from the 22-car train until they had gone several miles farther.

Police said the loot could total several hundred thousand dollars.

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The government-owned Philippine Airlines, this country's only domestic air carrier, is raising fares 35 percent to cover higher fuel costs, the airline said.

A spokesman said fuel costs will be 55 percent higher this year than in 1978 and will account for 25 percent of the line's operating budget.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Sixteen university students were injured, nine seriously, when a 30-foot stretch of metal railing broke under pressure of fans trying to get in to a rock concert.

The press here said Saturday about 25 people fell 10 feet to a concrete floor when the railing broke at Strahov University outside Prague last Wednesday night.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Honduras received 2.9 million gallons of diesel oil and 189,000 gallons of gasoline from Trinidad-Tobago Friday, temporarily ending a fuel shortage that virtually paralyzed this country for 12 hours.

A government official blamed the shortage on recent price increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Texaco Caribbean cut supplies to pressure the government into raising the price of gasoline 15 cents a gallon, claiming it was operating at a loss in this Central American nation.

4-H'ers preparing for contest

By CARL GIBSON AND MARILYN TATE
County Extension Agents

About twenty Gray County 4-H'ers are working on method demonstrations preparing for county competition on Apr. 5th and 6th. Winners will present their demonstrations at the District Contest to be held at West Texas State University on Apr. 28th.

Members of the Gray County 4-H Horse Project Groups continue to prepare for the Gray County Horse Show. The show will be held at the McLean Rodeo Arena on May 26th. Winners of the county show will represent Gray County 4-H at the District Horse Show to be held at the West Texas State University Horse Center, June 25-29.

Project group members will attend several practice sessions during the months of April and May.

4-H PROJECT LEADERS VITAL TO YOUTH DEVELOPMENT:

The job of a 4-H project leader is a challenging and rewarding one. It provides an opportunity for an adult to be a positive force in the lives of 4-H club members, helping them to develop into mature people that can function effectively in a rapidly changing world.

Because of changing values, ideas and ways of life, young people today more than ever before need a worthwhile contact with adults.

Youth need adults who are sincerely interested in their welfare and will give time to them. They need adults who will accept and respect each person and will help each one accept and respect himself. Youth need adults that will understand that every person is different and respect these differences by letting each one be an individual. Adults are needed who understand a young person's desire to be independent and who allow each one to assume as much responsibility as he or she can handle.

The aim of 4-H is the development of each boy's and girl's potential. 4-H provides opportunities for this development through projects which serve as the foundation of the informal education program.

Today there are some 50 subject areas and more than 100 individuals projects available to boys and girls through 4-H. Adult project leaders are needed to work with small groups in most of these project areas.

Anyone interested in working with 4-H youth as a project leader should contact the County Extension Office at 669-7529.

Poerner to resist agency jurisdiction

AUSTIN, Tex. - Texas Railroad Commission Chairman John H. Poerner has declared that he will resist any attempt of the federal Environmental Protection Agency to assert jurisdiction over Whalen Lake, a desert-like basin in Andrews County that has been used as a disposal site for salt water produced with oil in the West Texas area.

Poerner put the EPA on notice of his position and intentions in a letter to Adlene Harrison, the Dallas-based regional administrator of the federal agency. On March 13, Harrison declared that EPA intends to take action to bring all discharges into Whalen Lake into compliance with the provision of the federal Clean Water Act.

The Railroad Commission banned the use of the playa lake for oilfield brine disposal purposes last Oct. 23 and has denied two subsequent requests of the Whalen Corp. of Dallas to reopen the lake to brine discharges.

"I am compelled to disagree that the EPA has any jurisdiction over this matter of policy, is inappropriate and productive of unwarranted state-federal conflicts in regulatory areas legally and historically left to the states," the Commission chairman advised and added:

"The Railroad Commission is ever mindful of its difficult responsibility in this case. It will at the proper time, based on probative evidence contained in the administrative record, render a legally correct decision, balancing all the relevant competing elements."

WEED SEMINAR:
A Weed Control Seminar will be held, Thursday, April 5th at 8 p.m. in Pampa in the Courthouse Annex Meeting Room. Discussion will cover all phases of weed control recommendations including cropland, gardens, lawns and other weed problem areas such as road ways and alleys.

Speakers include: Dr. Allen Wiese, Weed Control Professor, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Dr. Frank Petr, Area Extension Agronomist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Both speakers have had a lot of experience with weed control in the Texas Panhandle.

There will be a question and answer session following their presentations. These experts should be able to come up with answers for all weed problems that have answers. Everyone is invited to attend.

SWINE SHORTCOURSE:
A reminder about the Texas A&M University Swine Shortcourse to be held Wednesday, April 4th in Plainview at the Hale County Agricultural Center. The program begins at 8 a.m. and adjourns at 4:15 p.m. with a $7 registration fee.

FRUIT INSECT CONTROLS:
As the fruit tree blooming season arrives, tree owners interested in having worm-free fruit to eat next summer need to start a spray program.

For peach, apricot, and plum, most homeowners should spray at least two times. The first spray would be when 75 percent of petals have fallen; and the second spray at shucksplit or 10-14 days after petals fall. A third spray can follow in another ten days.

Recommended spray materials include guthion, diazinon, Imidan or a General Purpose Spray mixture for insect and disease control by the homeowner. This General Purpose Spray mixture can be made by mixing 1 tablespoon of Captan 50 percent WP, 2 tablespoon Malathion 25 percent WP and 2 tablespoons Methoxychlor 50 percent WP. Use 4 tablespoons of this mixture per gallon of water. Some chemical companies also offer a General Purpose home fruit tree spray that is satisfactory. Be sure to read the label, follow the directions and remember any restrictions given on the label for chemical use.

A more complete fruit tree spray guide is available at the County extension Office, Courthouse Annex.

ORNAMENTAL PLANTINGS:
The severe winter we just experienced has caused some die-off among landscape plantings around area homes. I know from personally inspecting several dead shrubs around my house last Sunday.

This brings up the subject of buying and using adapted plans for landscape purposes. Too many times plants are used because they look pretty at the store where they are offered for sale. Yet, because the plants around my house were not adapted to the area, I have to go out and spend alot more money replacing frozen out, non-adapted plantings.

The County Extension Office has a list of adapted landscape plants available to the public. Now we won't guarantee that every plant listed will survive forever in this area, but they will have a better chance at surviving than plants not on the list. This list was prepared by Mr. Everett Janne, Extension Landscape Horticulturist and he is very familiar with our area. From my own experience, if it is not on the list, I don't want to buy it and take a chance on it dying out in a few years.

Thomas named SPS agricultural manager

production of fat cattle in the Southern Great Plains area.

"During the 1978 period, the feedlot capacity came to 2,728,400, which reflects a reduction of about 6,000 head over 1977. This also represents the consolidation of feedlots and the conversion to growing operations," Thomas said.

"The total impact of the feedyard industry on the business community exceeded 8-billion dollars for the second year," Thomas said, "and the farm sale value exceeded 2-billion dollars. Profits on feedlots or fed cattle have ranged from a low of $3.33 per head to a high of $137.00 during the last 120 days."

Engineers reduce risk of melt-down

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Nuclear engineers reduced a gas bubble in a crippled reactor at the Three Mile Island power plant Saturday, further cutting the risk of a disastrous melt-down, utility officials said.

Working around the clock, the engineers "bled" the bubble from the sealed reactor dome, speeding the cool-off process in the nuclear reactor, said Jack Herbein, a vice president at Metropolitan Edison, the main operator of the plant.

Official reports of "a remote possibility" of a melt-down have sent hundreds of nearby residents fleeing to distant towns.

Gov. Dick Thornburgh continued to advise that pre-school children and pregnant women stay at least five miles from the plant. Experts have cited the vulnerability of fetuses and young children to radiation.

Between 6 percent and 14 percent of the 177 fuel rods have been damaged, but the fuel core temperature remained stable at 280 degrees Fahrenheit on Saturday, company officials said.

George Troffer, a utility spokesman, said the zirconium rods, filled with radioactive uranium, would start melting at 3,000 degrees. "You have to have up to 5,000 degrees before you get into a violent zirconium-water reaction in which the zirconium starts to burn," Troffer said. If the rods melt, they would emit fantastic amounts of radiation.

Besides the gases xenon and krypton, small amounts of potentially explosive hydrogen were discovered in the reactor dome, Herbein said. He said there was a hydrogen explosion last week.

"We don't appear to have an explosion problem in the reactor system," he said. Herbein said hydrogen levels were measured at about 1.7 percent and Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials explained that it would take levels of at least 7 percent for an explosion to occur.

Thus far, officials report that four persons have received "overexposures" to radiation.

All but about 100 of the 600 residents in Goldsboro, located a half mile from the island site, packed their belongings in cars and trucks and left town.

THIS SCENIC VIEW of the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant south of Harrisburg, Pa., was made prior to Thursday's accident that has caused leakage of radioactive gases from one of the plant's reactors into the atmosphere. Below, cows graze in a pasture within clear sight of the Three Mile Island plant. Some area milk producers are refusing to sell locally produced milk because of possible contamination. ## Ship's passengers return home

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (AP) — Firefighters hosed down the smoldering hulk of the Italian cruise ship Angelina Lauro today as most of its 800 passengers boarded three other ships and headed toward Puerto Rico and flights back to the United States after their holiday in the sun ended in flames.

"We are accounting for 98 percent of the passengers and 100 percent of the crew, but we are not saying the other two percent are missing," said Claudio Ilariucci, director of Caribbean operations for the Costa Line, which chartered the Angelina Lauro.

The official said only one of the passengers was injured, an unidentified Canadian who was being treated at a St. Thomas hospital for shock after leaping into the sea from a cabin on the burning ship. The only other person seriously injured was a fireman hospitalized for smoke inhalation, he said.

He said 90 percent of the passengers were Americans and the rest Canadians and other nationalities, but the passenger list was not available.

Ilariucci, speaking to reporters in San Juan, said most of the passengers would arrive in San Juan today on three other cruise ships that were docked at the island of St. Thomas where the Angelina Lauro went up in flames Friday afternoon. He said some chose to remain on the U.S. island and he could not account for them.

He said the cruise line would give the passengers food, clothing, pocket money and insurance claim forms for their lost baggage. Chartered jets were to fly them home to the United States and other points today, he said. The week-long cruise had been scheduled to end today, with passengers departing by plane from San Juan.

Ilariucci said the ship was still burning early today and he called it a "total loss." Lloyds of London, the maritime insurance firm, said the vessel was insured for $12 million.

Bonsaver Gezza of Genoa, the chief deck steward, said only about 25 passengers and some 55 of 285 crew members were aboard the 24,377-ton when wind-whipped flames raced up from below decks to engulf it Friday afternoon. There was "absolutely no panic" in the evacuation, he said.

FIREFIGHTERS pour water on burning cruise ship.

Victim wouldn't want death

EDITOR'S NOTE — Barring a last-minute reprieve, John Louis Evans III will die in the electric chair Friday for murder. His victim was Edward Assad Nassar, a pawnbroker and part-time minister who believed in turning the other cheek and probably would not have wanted the execution.

By KENDAL WEAVER
Associated Press Writer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — It is a measure of Edward Assad Nassar's life that he probably would not have asked death for the man who killed him.

Nassar, 33, was shot in the back as he moved to protect his two young daughters from thieves who had come to rob his shop.

Family members say Edward would not have asked the ultimate penalty of his killer, a penalty which the law and the courts — even the killer himself, John Louis Evans III — have determined will come in the electric chair at Holman Prison April 6.

Evans, a 29-year-old drifter, says he is obsessed with freedom and would rather be put to death than to live his life in prison. He says his mother is upset about his approaching execution but understands his decision not to fight it.

Evans expected a visit from his mother and sister Saturday, but prison officials declined to release information on the visit at Evans' request.

"I don't believe Edward would want the electrocution," says his father, Eddie Nassar, 68. "He was the type of man who, if someone slapped him on the left cheek, he would turn the right cheek."

Edward's brother, Richard, 28, agrees. He says Edward was deeply religious, a man often preaching in Church of Christ pulpits, helping young people with problems, talking to old and young about the needs for salvation.

The good memories and the pain now have come back to the Nassars of Mobile. Stories about Edward's killer are in newspapers and on television almost every day as the electrocution nears.

Edward's widow, Harriet, shields her two daughters from this as best she can and seeks privacy. Edward's father and brother say she has no comment at all on Evans.

Their own feelings are mixed.

"The electrocution?" says Richard. "I'm all for it. I think it's about time. We've gotten too liberal in this country. Things have gotten out of hand."

Eddie says, "We're great believers in obeying the law of the land. If they decide he shouldn't die, well, I don't want them to turn him loose in three or four years. I say he should be kept in there the rest of his life. We're too light on these criminals."

In Elk City

Mayor tells of Carter visit

ELK CITY, Okla. (AP) — Last Sunday, around 6:30 a.m., Larry Wade awoke to "the sound of a scurrying in the kitchen."

So as not to wake his wife and baby, the young man crept quietly to the kitchen to see a man standing barefoot in front of the open refrigerator, a bottle of orange juice in hand.

"Larry, where are the glasses?" asked the president of the United States.

That moment will be retold and relived often by Wade, mayor of this western Oklahoma town of 8,000, brought to national attention by last week's presidential "town meeting."

"He and I had a glass of orange juice, and 15 minutes later at 7 he hustled out to run four miles after having done sit-ups," Wade said.

"And that's our president! At 54 years of age!"

Wade, a Carter delegate to the Democratic Convention that nominated Carter, is clearly touched and honored that his home overnight, and his city for 17 hours, were host to the president.

He said Carter, so as not to attract attention, took an ordinary car rather than an official limousine for the trip to the city airstrip to do his jogging.

"When he came back he showered and dressed and we had breakfast, at which he gave grace, and during that time we discussed some areas such as possible deregulation and decontrol of oil, the possibility of raising target prices on wheat, which are important issues in Oklahoma."

Following breakfast, he went to Sunday school at the First Baptist Church ... and came back by foot, to the consternation of the Secret Service, whom he didn't tell.

"They were concerned to have the president walk eight blocks, although I guess it was relatively safe in Elk City."

"When he came back, my wife and I met him at the front and he took our little daughter, 7-month-old Mary Elizabeth, and held her and kissed her and commented about her being a bit of a ham, and told her not to forget 'Uncle Jimmy,' which would probably indicate a bit of the warmth of the individual."

"He had played with her the night before and she proceeded to stuff the president's tie in her mouth but he seemed to enjoy that."

"During that time between Sunday school and church we sat down and had a cup of coffee. My wife and I had not really intended to go to church, due to the crowds, but the president rather insisted that we go with him, so we did."

"Following the church service, the president, my wife and I got in the car and proceeded back to Clinton-Sherman Air Force Base."

"I looked over at the president and said, 'Mr. President, where else but in America?'"

"For just a second, he thought, and said 'Larry, I can scarcely believe it has happened to me, a fellow from Plains, Ga.,' and he was silent, and it was kind of an awesome moment of silence as he was reflective."

"As we left town, there was a young man over on the side of the road, waving a flag, and it dawned on me that on Saturday night after the 'town meeting,' when I got back about 20 minutes before the president got to our house, this young man had called and said, 'Will you tell the President that I love him?'"

"Well, frankly in all the hubbub I had forgotten to tell him, but as I saw this man waving the flag, a sole, solitary figure, I mentioned it to the president."

A different sport

Jumping out of planes

LUMBERTON, N.J. (AP) — Should you take a notion to hurl yourself out of an airplane — after all, it is April Fools' Day — John Baker is the person to seek.

He will not try to talk you out of it, or advise you to rest until the feeling goes away. He will encourage you.

John Baker, who appears in all respects to be a man with both feet on the ground, has hurred himself out of airplanes 2,470 times and has counseled no telling how many others to go and do likewise.

"About 80 percent who try it quit after the first jump," he said. "About 95 percent after the second jump."

"Making a parachute jump was just something they always wanted to do, did it, and that's that. Last year we had 1,460 beginners. Only 23 progressed out of student status, which generally takes about 30 jumps."

"Those are the ones who get hooked, who take up skydiving as a sport. It's a dynamic sport, and a safe one. Of all those beginners last year, we had only four broken bones. I'll bet ski resort operators wish they could say that."

John Baker is a 40-year-old former Air Force sergeant with a grey beard, blue eyes, and a manner of speech that clips along at about 120 miles per hour, the speed of a falling sky diver.

He took his first jump in 1961 "just to see what it was like." Now he operates Ripcord Paracenter Inc., hardly a resort, though members of the skydiving fraternity are drawn to it like the migrating birds to the pine barrens nearby.

It consists of a building in the shape of an open parachute painted bright blue — a highly visible landmark from above — on the edge of 125 cleared acres, the drop zone. Although it is open year-round, the skydiving season begins in earnest, appropriately, on April 1.

Every weekend through October, especially bright, windless weekends, the sky is in bloom with veteran divers doing precision freefall maneuvers and with Baker's students taking their first plunge.

"We start them at 10 a.m. and have them making a jump before dusk," he said. "We begin with principles. We teach them what to expect, show them pictures, explain emergency procedures. Then we jump out of wooden airplane mock-ups so they will learn how to exit." Baker continued, choosing what seemed an unfortunate verb.

"Next," he said, pointing to a 5-foot platform beside a gravel pit, "We make them jump off here until they're plumb silly, teaching them how to land and fall."

Why gravel?

"Landing in gravel is softer than landing in grass. It is the difference between shoving your hand into a bowl of black-eyed peas or a bowl of dirt."

It is impossible not to notice that half of John Baker's right leg below the knee, is wooden.

"Motorcycle accident," he said. "Motorcycles are risky."

DEAR READERS: Last week I printed my Ten Commandments for Husbands. Being a proponent of equal rights, today I offer my Ten Commandments for Wives. If you missed last week's column and want a copy, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

10 COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES

- 1) Defile not thy body either with excessive foods, tobacco or alcohol, that thy days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.
- 2) Put thy husband before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter and thy son, for he is thy lifelong companion.
- 3) Thou shalt not nag.
- 4) Permit no one to tell thee that thou art having a hard time of it; neither thy mother, thy sister nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will not hold her guiltless who letteth another disparage her husband.
- 5) Thou shalt not withhold affection from thy husband, for every man loveth to be loved.
- 6) Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.
- 7) Forgive with grace, for who among us doth not need forgiveness?
- 8) Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.
- 9) Keep thy home in good order, for out of it come the joys of thy old age.
- 10) Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who is pretty good at solving problems, but I need help with this one.

Last Friday night my parents came home and found my boyfriend and me lying on the couch with the lights turned off. We were just talking. Honest to God, I swear it!

They made a big fuss and my boyfriend went home early. (He's allowed to stay until midnight on weekends, but he was so embarrassed by the way they yelled at me he left at 11 o'clock.)

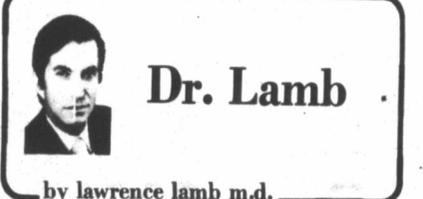

Do you see anything wrong with two people lying on the couch and talking?

What would you do if it were your daughter, and you had always been able to trust her?

JUST TALKING

DEAR JUST: I'd tell her that she'd be wise to keep both feet on the floor, and so would her boyfriend — that talking in a sleeping position could lead to nightmares she never dreamed could happen.

I'd say, "I still trust you, Honey, but people think much better with the lights on — sitting up."

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you will clear up the confusion I have had so long concerning vitamin D. I have read there is danger in taking too much but I've never read how much is too much. On all the vitamin bottles it merely tells you that each tablet contains 400 units MDR.

If a person takes two tablets of a reliable supplement in order to get enough of the other vitamins while he is on a reducing diet, will the 800 units of vitamin D be dangerous?

One always hears that vitamin D is the sunshine vitamin. What does this mean? Does sunshine cause the body to utilize vitamin D taken, or does sunshine alone manufacture vitamin D?

DEAR READER — Let's start with your statement that 400 units is the MDR. That's out of date terminology and means Minimal Daily Requirement. Vitamin tablets today use the term RDA, which is Recommended Daily Allowance. This is quite a bit more than the minimal daily requirements. The RDA literally means how much you should have for optimal health if you are a normal, healthy adult, not just the minimum amount that you need.

Ultraviolet light actually stimulates chemicals inside the skin to form vitamin D. A person who is outdoors quite a bit and exposed to a reasonable amount of sunshine will form enough vitamin D that he does not need any additional vitamin D in his food.

The exception would be a pregnant or lactating woman and infants, children or adolescents. All of these should receive 400 units of vitamin D a day. The probabilities are that if you eat a normal, balanced diet, you'll get a reasonable portion of the RDA for vitamin D anyway. Fortified milk contains 400 units in a quart. Vitamin D is a fat-soluble vitamin. That means it will be stored in your body, as opposed to the water-soluble vitamins such as B and C. If you take the latter in excessive amounts, the excess is simply washed out through the kidneys.

The fat soluble vitamins may accumulate in the body and cause toxic reactions. You should not take more than 2000 units of vitamin D a day. That's five times the RDA.

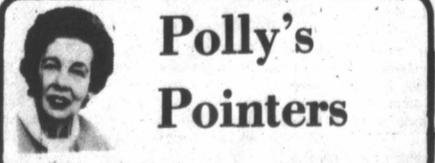

If you take too much vitamin D for a prolonged time, it can mobilize calcium out of your bones. This excess calcium may deposit in the kidneys and soft tissues.

If you drink a quart of milk a day that contains 400 units, and you use two vitamin tablets, adding 800 units more, you're already 60 percent along the way to vitamin D toxicity.

To give you some guidelines on what your diet should include, I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-6, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA). These are based on recommendations from the National Academy of Sciences. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Unless you have a medical illness that requires it, there are no advantages to taking more than one standard daily vitamin tablet. You do not need excess amounts of vitamin B, C or other vitamins, even if you are on a reducing diet.

Your body only uses so much of any vitamin. An excess amount is of no value and may be harmful. Persons who have illnesses and trouble absorbing their food may require additional vitamins for medical reasons.

Gardening by the moon signs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This column by Lois Boynton appears monthly in The Pampa News. She reports here on gardening tips for April.)

The Moon will be increasing: 1-11: 26-30. The Moon will be decreasing: 12-25. The Fruitful Signs are: 3-5 until 11:50 a.m. (Cancer); 13-14 (Scorpio); 22-23 (Pisces); 30 (Cancer).

The Semi-Fruitful Signs are: 10th from 12:40 p.m. through 12th (Libra); 13-14 (Scorpio); 17th from 10:24 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.; 19th (Capricorn); 26-27 (Taurus).

The Barren Signs are: 1-2 (Gemini); 5 from 11:50 a.m. through 7 (Leo); 15-16 (Sagittarius); 19 from 2:00 p.m. until 4:40 p.m.; 21 (Aquarius); 24-25 (Aries); 28-29 (Gemini).

March has been cold and wet, which is great. The ground is saturated with good moisture, although this has made gardening impossible. Everything will be late, including the fruit trees, we hope. Their buds are swollen, just ready to burst into bloom, but the cold weather tends to hold them back. We know there will be another cold time around Easter.

So don't get in a hurry to work the ground too soon. You know the test: squeeze a handful of soil in your hand. If it holds the shape of your hand and does not crumble and fall apart, then the soil is not ready to be worked. So be patient, and wait, you will be glad you did. If the soil is too wet when worked, it will be a hardpan the rest of the season. Somehow the plants seem to make up for the delay. They seem to grow faster and do better.

It is time to plant roses. We prefer the No. 1 1/2 rather than No. 1. They have younger, smaller roots and take the shock of transplanting better than the older heavier roots of the No. 1 plants. There are so many on the market, it is hard to make a few choices. We like to get one of the All American Rose Selections (AARS) for the year, it always proves to be a good selection. We have chosen this year Paradise, a pink and lavender blend brushed with red. We are looking forward to its blooming in our garden this summer.

Roses that have been heavily paraffined are not a wise buy. The paraffin works as a heat conductor for the sun, causing the canes to become so hot the buds will be burned and dry up, so the foliage does not have time to develop.

Roses require a well-drained location where they will receive about six hours of sunlight, preferably morning sun. They need about two inches of water a week.

In buying a dry-root rose it should be removed from its package. Trim all broken roots and soak in water, covering the roots completely, for at least twenty-four hours. Make the hole large enough to accommodate all of the roots, spreading them out well. Firm the soil around the rose and soak for several hours, allowing the water to run very slowly. Do not fertilize when setting out a new rose; wait until the new growth appears.

Are you familiar with the Classes of roses? Do you know what HT after the name of the rose means? HT means Hybrid tea, the class of the rose. Other classifications are: FI-Floribunda, Gr-Grandiflora, Mn-Miniature, C-Climbing rose, CF-Climbing Floribunda, P-Pillar, T-Tea, LC-Large Flowering Climber, CHP-Climbing Hybrid Perpetual, CHT-Climbing Hybrid Tea, and Pol-Polyantha. There are others but these are the most common ones.

The Hybrid Tea is the most desired of all the roses. They are extremely sturdy with vigorous habits. They bloom from June to October. This includes roses in a wide range of color and form. The first Hybrid Tea was La France, produced in 1867. One of our favorites in this group is South Sea.

Floribunda is a cross of the Polyanthas and the Hybrid Tea. They have inherited characteristics of both parents. Some are almost dwarf, others may grow to 5 or 6 feet. They are extremely hardy and bloom profusely. Orange Ruffles and Angel Face are in this group.

Grandiflora is a more recent development, and attests the skill of the modern Rose hybridizers. They are vigorous, free blooming, and among the easiest to grow. Buds and flowers have the exquisite perfection of the Hybrid Teas, but they are borne in clusters. Queen Elizabeth is one of the best in this group.

Polyantha Roses are dwarf, smaller flowered than the Floribundas. They are great for edging. China Doll is one of the best, it is in constant bloom from May to Frost.

Miniature Roses we just love. They are more hardy and produce perfect little roses like the Teas. They will last for years, and are almost insect and disease free. They can be placed in three-inch pots and brought inside for winter where they will bloom. They make a very desirable pot plant. They are not offered for sale locally very often. A good source is Spring Hill Nurseries, 6523 North Galena Road, Peoria, Ill. 61632.

Climbers are Roses that will climb arbors and fences trellises. They do need to be tied since they do not cling. The Ramblers are similar but have the ability to spread more than the Climbers.

The Pillar Roses are really Climbers that do not attain eight feet, and are nice trained to a post or a column. Chevy Chase and Joseph's Coat are in this group.

There are the Old-Fashioned Roses which cover a large group of roses. Such as Cabbage Rose, Moss Rose, Damask Rose, China or Bengal Rose and others. These are very beautiful, but are seldom seen in our modern gardens. They are often found in the old Gardens in England and France.

If you plan to raise your own annual flower plants, the time to plant the seed is April 3rd, 4th and 5th until 12 noon.

Divide chrysanthemums and put down cuttings the 13th and 14th. Phlox and hardy Asters should be divided at this time, also.

On a warm still day lift the jars from rose cuttings only about thirty minutes the first day; continue to lift them each day for a longer period of time, until they can be left off entirely. This is a very critical operation with the roses. If the wind gets high the jars should be replaced, or if the temperature falls below 40 degrees they will need to be covered. They need to be watched carefully.

Place a cup of lime around the clematis, scratch it into the top soil and water well, if dry.

This is the month of anticipation. Every morning brings new surprises. As you work in the garden, you need to have care. Remember the young tips of lilies, peony or hibiscus can be easily damaged.

It is very important when getting seed beds ready that they are well prepared. A seed that lands on a clod will become an underprivileged youth.

make the difference in your electric bill

With the cost of everything going up, it sometimes seems like we're losing control of where our dollars go. There is one expense you and your family can help keep down this summer — your electric bill. You can make your home more energy efficient with simple improvements like insulation, weatherstripping, caulking and adding storm doors and windows. Teaching your family to use energy wisely — like keeping the thermostat turned to an efficient 78° in the summer, changing filters on your air conditioner regularly, keeping lights and appliances turned off when not in use — will help keep your bill down. You and your family make the difference — it's that simple. Call your SPS manager for more information and keep your cool this summer!

At wit's end

by erma bombeck

This is a fact. There are some children born into this world who cannot be bluffed. You can threaten them, intimidate them, or make them an offer they cannot refuse. But in the end, they won't, you can't and they do whatever they please.

I have one child who used to rearrange her food on the plate like it was an abacus. When all the combinations had been tried on the plate, she would lay the peas end to end under her plate, braid the french fries and build bridges from broccoli. She would do everything with food but eat it.

One afternoon as she opened her mouth to protest, I jammed a spoonful of peas into the opening and squeezed her lips together. She refused to swallow. It was time for my "You aren't going to leave this table until you clean up your plate if you have to grow up here." It's a classic.

Have you ever imagined what it is like to raise a child at a dinner table with a mouthful of green peas? She becomes a toddler with no place to toddle to, goes through puberty in an eating seat, approaches womanhood with green teeth, and has no one to talk with about her mid-life crisis but a plate full of dried food.

The eighth deadly sin of parenting is to get yourself in a position where you cannot make good your threat. Examples: "You shupe up or I am going to mail you to a post office box in Kearney, Nebraska."

"If you don't put that baby back in his mother's cart, I will never take you to the store with me again...ever!" "Mommy is leaving the room.

If I come back in and it is not cleaned up, I am packing my bags and running off to follow Rolling Stones concerts."

"I can stop this car any time I want to and give you what for." (This on the San Diego freeway without my glasses during rush hour.)

It's like raising a poker player. The other night I warned, "If you're late for dinner one more time I'm throwing it away." She wandered in late as usual.

She studied me for a moment. "Where's dinner?" (I returned her gaze.) "It's in the oven, isn't it?"

"Are you raising or calling?" "It's in the refrigerator." (I continued to stare without expression.) "Oh, well," she said, "I'm not hungry anyway." You ought to feel better when you win.

DECORATING TRENDS... by Charlie's!

What are your concerns When you buy Carpeting?...Patterns?...Price?...Color?...Fiber?...How it feels underfoot?... Of course you consider all these elements, whether you're buying printed carpet or tufted; expensive or inexpensive; carpeting for a "show room" like the living room or for a child's bedroom where it will take a lot of tough treatment.

What you place under the carpet is important, too. There is a difference of carpet padding. You will want to select a padding that makes your carpet wear longer and one that will feel comfortable underfoot. Think of it this way: when you purchase a car, you know what's under the hood is vital to the car's performance. Just so with carpet; what you don't see, the underlay, is as important as what you do see — the carpet itself...

To brighten up your home come in and see our large selection of carpeting (AT MODERATE PRICES TOO).

The diamond—a gem of many fascinating names and legends

dispel needless worry—even restore sanity to a disturbed mind.

During the Middle Ages, diamonds were supposed to protect wearers from pestilence, plague and enemy plots. When worn on the left arm, the gems were thought to effectively chase away evil spirits.

There was only one catch: the diamond's owner had to be virtuous. Sinful thoughts or deeds might cause the stone to lose its power as well as its luster.

Because of its association with victory, the diamond has often been worn by military men. Medieval knights carried diamonds into battle to increase their manly strength and courage. Following this tradition, Napoleon had France's great Regent diamond mounted on the hilt of his sword.

Love, not war, is the diamond's main symbolism now—but it wasn't always that way. Before the mid-15th century, diamonds were worn almost exclusively by men and seldom given as love tokens, but in 1437, a French beauty named Agnes Sorel dared to wear a diamond necklace to a royal ball. Tradition says she captivated King Charles VII, and launched a new feminine fashion.

The diamond became a symbol of romantic love in 1477, when Archduke Maximilian of Austria gave the first diamond engagement ring to pretty, young Mary of Burgundy.

Today, says the Council, more than a million American women get diamond engagement rings each year, not to mention all the wives receiving diamonds as anniversary and birthday gifts.

But a growing number of women these days also give diamond jewelry to their menfolk, as diamonds become an increasingly popular accent for men's rings, tie pins, cuff links and watches. After 500 years of being a girl's best friend, the diamond has finally been rediscovered by men.

Few stones have been surrounded by more or stranger superstitions than the diamond.

50th wedding anniversary celebrated

THE CHILDREN OF Mr. and Mrs. John J. (Jake) Jackson will honor their parents on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception to be held from 2 to 6 p.m. on Apr. 7 in the High School Cafeteria, Lefors. Friends and relatives are invited to attend. The couple has lived in Lefors since 1952. Children of the couple are Thomas Leon Jackson, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Ramona Bradley, Newton, Kan.; Genon De Darney, El Paso; Lois Faye Bright and Tommy D. Jackson, Madison, Ill.; and Patricia Ann Rowell, Pampa.

How would you like to own a chunk of crystallized lightning, a capsule of the sun, or an eternal gem of light?

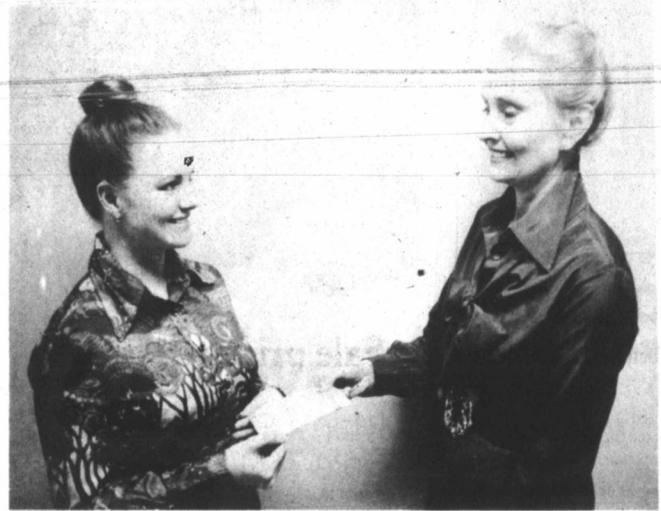

It's quite possible that you already do, for these are all ancient names for April's dazzling birthstone, the diamond.

At least where diamonds are concerned, there's quite a lot in a name, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. The word

"diamond" derives from the Greek "adamas," meaning unconquerable—and it's a fact that early gem cutters failed to tame the world's hardest stone with their primitive tools.

Since then, the diamond has symbolized unconquerable virtue and victory over the forces of evil.

The Greeks thought that the stone could curb violent anger,

HANDLING MEDICAL EMERGENCIES:

If you arrive first at an accident - are you prepared for an emergency? If not, you need to plan to attend this seminar - Handling Medical Emergencies. This special educational program will be held April 26th from 9:30 - 3:00 in the Hilton Inn in Amarillo. The Panhandle Economic Program - Family Living Youth Task Force is sponsoring this program. Watch the news for more details. Mark your calendar and plan to attend.

WINDOW TREATMENTS:
Do you need ideas for your windows? Maybe you have bought a new home and need an up-date on housing trends. Maybe you have a room that needs a face lift. On April 12th, Mrs. Pat Seaman, Housing Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be in Pampa to conduct a "Window Treatment" workshop. She will be giving ideas for window treatments, basic instructions and materials and fabrics to use. This will be a free program to be held in the Courthouse Annex Meeting Room.

EAT LIGHTER FOR LENT:
Eat lighter for Lent if old Lenten favorites have lost their appeal. Low-calorie cheeses, along with raw fruits and vegetables, pack a lot of nutrition in higher-spring fruits. Low-calorie dairy products include cottage, ricotta and neufchatel cheese and low-fat yogurt.

Early spring fruits include strawberries and the ever-faithful banana. Apples and D'Anjou pears are plentiful and high quality, fresh out of storage. And don't forget the myriad of canned fruits - peaches, pineapple, apricots, and mixed fruits. If paced in heavy syrup, just pour off the syrup and use for fruit punches for active children of normal weight.

Dairy products are our leading source of calcium needed for bones and teeth. They also offer high-quality protein, riboflavin and many other nutrients. Fruits are valuable chiefly because of the vitamins and minerals they contain. Strawberries are a rich source of vitamin C needed for healthy gums and body tissue. Apricots are rich in vitamin A needed for growth, normal vision and a healthy condition of the skin. Fruit is also an abundant source of fiber needed for proper elimination. Highlight Lenten menus with these sparkling low-calorie salads:

QUICK AND EASY SALAD BOWL:
1 large can regular or dietetic fruit cocktail
2 apples, unpeeled, chopped
2 oranges, sectioned
2 bananas, diced
1 cup miniature marshmallows (Optional)

Combine undrained fruit cocktail with other fruits. Chill and serve. Serves 6-8. (For lower calories, omit the marshmallows.)

APRICOT SALAD:
1 package apricot flavored gelatin
2-3 cup hot water
1 8 1/2 oz. can crushed pineapple, regular or dietetic
1 cup fine curd cottage cheese
1 cup evaporated skim milk
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add remaining ingredients. Stir, chill. Serve on lettuce leaves with low-calorie dressing. Serves 6-8.

SPRING SALAD BOWL:
3 fresh pears, peeled and diced or
1 1-lb. can pear halves, drained
1 12-oz. can apple juice
1 3-oz. package lemon flavored gelatin
2 medium bananas, sliced
Arrange pears in bottom of loaf pan. Heat 1 cup apple juice to boiling, dissolve gelatin in the hot liquid. Add water to remaining juice to make 1 cup. Add to gelatin mixture. Add sliced bananas to gelatin and pour over pears. Chill. Makes 6 servings.

LOW-CALORIE FRUIT SALAD DRESSING

1 minced clove garlic
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup orange juice
1/4 teaspoon paprika

1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Let garlic stand in vinegar for 1 hour. Strain and add remaining ingredients.

Projects that have been slow in coming along could yield the type of results you have hoped for this coming year. Keep plugging. The end is now in sight.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your temper could easily be ignited by trivial annoyances today. Keep everything in perspective and you'll be able to ignore these small nuisances. Learn more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Treat your possessions with respect today, or something you're very fond of could get broken in a moment of anger. You'll be sorry later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take extra pains not to be argumentative or bossy, especially with authority figures. They won't be in the mood to put up with even the slightest infraction.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't brood about a wrong you feel was done to you. If you can't ignore it, bring it out in the open so the air can be cleared.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Trying to bully or overwhelm others today will evoke the opposite results of what you hoped for. Small waves could grow to tidal force.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In trying to make your points today, take care you don't push so hard that you alienate your listener. If you do, the big loser will be you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today, you are susceptible to nitpicking and the work you want to accomplish will not get done. Get off your back, as well as everybody else's.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The mind-your-own-business path is the only safe one to take today. People are short on patience. They'll let you know it in no uncertain terms.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you're willing to bend a little, what should be a rather small domestic problem could be blown out of proportion today. Stay cool. Be logical.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep your mind on what you are doing. Observe all safety procedures while working today. If you are careless, a mistake is likely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Outside pressures today could lead you to spend a lot more money than you should. It's never wise to attempt to keep up with the Joneses.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March. 20) Try not to agitate loved ones today by demanding too much of them. A few kind words do more than many harsh commands.

Bonham captures meet

Bonham Junior High school won five events Saturday to capture the team championship in the Pampa Freshman Boys' Invitational Track Meet.

Bonham totaled 93 points to outdistance Amarillo rival Travis, which wound up with 77. Pampa and Stanton (Hereford) tied for third with 64 points, while Austin, Houston (both of Amarillo) and La Plata (Hereford) tallied 32 points apiece.

Rounding out the team scores were Canyon with 26, Caprock 24, Borger 22, Dumas 21, Mann 7 and Bowie 2. Crockett and Fannin failed to score.

Pampa's 440 relay team of James Borchardt, Cavin Coleman, Randy Slaybaugh and Mark Kotara took first place by two-tenths of a second over runner-up Travis. Pampa's time was 46.7 seconds, and was the team's only winning performance of the day.

But the young Harvesters captured three second places in individual events and added a third-place finish in the mile relay to help them toward their point total.

Slaybaugh took second in the shot put with a 51-1 effort. Coleman tossed the discus 129-6 for runner-up honors and Mark Kotara zipped to a 24.1 clocking in the 220, good enough for another second place.

James Borchardt added a fifth-place effort in the long jump (17-9), while Neal Braswell and Denny Combs took fourth and fifth in the mile. Braswell covered the distance in 5:11.1, while Combs made the trip in 5:12.3.

The third-place mile relay team of Borchardt, Raymond Mendoza, Greg Spangler and Coleman timed in at 3:51.3. Coleman had an exceptionally strong anchor leg, according to coach Dick Crockett.

Pampa's eighth and ninth grade boys teams will be at Borger Friday for an invitational meet, while the girls teams are idle until April 21, when they'll participate in the Dumas Invitational.

Seaver to open season

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Tom Seaver will throw the first pitch of the 1979 major league baseball season Wednesday when the Cincinnati Reds entertain the San Francisco Giants in the traditional National League opener.

The April 4 start matches the earliest opening in major league history. The 1974 season also began on that date.

Because the Reds are baseball's oldest franchise, they always get the early start in the NL and Seaver will oppose left-hander Vida Blue of the Giants with a capacity Riverfront Stadium crowd of more than 52,000 on hand.

The early American League opener belongs to Seattle, where the Mariners begin their third season Wednesday night by entertaining the California Angels. Glenn Abbott is expected to start for Seattle, with Frank Tanana the probable pitcher for the Angels. A crowd of 35,000 is expected.

Two more National League

openers are scheduled Thursday. A crowd of 41,000 will jam Wrigley Field in Chicago to watch the Cubs' Rick Reuschel face the New York Mets. Pat Zachry or Craig Swan will start for the visitors. In Los Angeles, the Dodgers will raise their second straight National League pennant, then begin pursuit of a third with Don Sutton or Burt Hooton on the mound against San Diego's Gaylord Perry, the 1978 Cy Young Award winner.

In the American League Thursday, there are three day openers scheduled, with the World Champions, the New York Yankees, entertaining Milwaukee, Cleveland at Boston and Texas at Detroit. Toronto is at Kansas City in the lone night game.

Mike Caldwell pitches for Milwaukee against Cy Young Award winner Ron Guidry of the Yankees with 50,000 expected to watch the second straight world championship flag raised at Yankee Stadium. Texas will use left-hander Jon Matlack against the Tigers' Dave Rozema. Cleveland sends Rick Wise against Boston's Dennis Eckersley at Fenway Park. Kansas City opens with Dennis Leonard against Jim Clancy for Toronto.

By Friday, all 26 major league teams will be in action, weather permitting. Friday's AL openers are the Chicago White Sox at Baltimore in a day game and Minnesota at Oakland at night. In the National League, Montreal plays a day game at Pittsburgh while Philadelphia visits St. Louis and Atlanta meets Houston at night. The Dodgers will be trying to become the first NL team to win three straight pennants since the St. Louis Cardinals of 1942-43-44. New York is after a fourth straight AL flag, a feat last accomplished in the majors by the Yankees of 1960-64.

San Diego has a new first baseman in Mike Hargrove, obtained from Texas in the trade that sent Oscar Gamble to the Rangers.

Expos rally to defeat Houston

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jim Mason's two-run, tie-breaking double in the eighth inning helped the Montreal Expos beat the Houston Astros 9-6 in an exhibition game Saturday.

The Expos rallied from a 5-2 deficit, scoring three times in the seventh and four times more in the eighth. The Astros rounded out the scoring with a run in the ninth.

The Expos loaded the bases off starter Joe Niekro in the seventh before pouncing on reliever Tom Dixon for seven runs in 1 2/3 innings. It was Dixon's first appearance in 15 days due to a sore shoulder.

Woody Fryman picked up the victory in relief for the Expos, while Dixon was tagged with the loss.

A bases-loaded walk to Dave Cash and a two-run single by Ellis Valentine accounted for the three seventh-inning runs, while Mason's double, a squeeze bunt by Chris Speier and a run-scoring single by Warren Cromartie contributed to the Expos' eighth-inning uprising.

The Expos, meanwhile, trimmed their roster to the league limit of 25 by sending veteran infielder Pepe Frias to the Atlanta Braves. The Braves assigned relief pitcher Dave Campbell to the Expos' Triple-A roster, completing the transaction.

Rangers lasso Royals, 8-6

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — The Texas Rangers cracked 16 hits, a dozen coming off Kansas City starter Dennis Leonard, to post an 8-6 Grapefruit League victory Saturday over the Kansas City Royals.

Oscar Gamble went four-for-five at the plate with two runs batted in as the Rangers struck for four runs in the second, added another in the third and finished off the Royals' ace hurler with two runs in the fifth. Leonard gave up seven of the Rangers' eight runs.

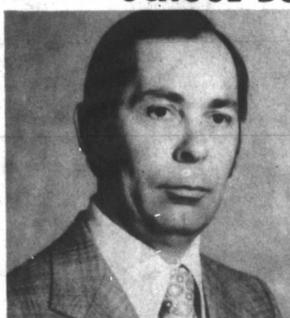

Kansas City rallied for four runs in the second on four hits off Dock Ellis. The Royals added a run on four hits off Ed Farmer and scored once on three singles off Jim Kern.

Hal McRae slugged a double and two singles for the Royals.

Rangers Bill Sample, Buddy Bell, Richie Zisk, Mike Heath and Nelson Norman managed two hits apiece. Pete LaCock, Clint Hurdle and John Wathan each had two hits for Kansas City.

Original Recipe

IT'S STILL A SECRET

It took the Colonel many years to perfect his secret recipe for Kentucky Fried Chicken. And it's still a secret!

But there are some clues. The Colonel uses only fresh, Grade A Chicken. He seasons it with his special blend of eleven herbs and spices and then pressure fries it to seal in all the flavor.

The result, "finger lickin' good" Kentucky Fried Chicken Original Recipe. That's no secret.

It's nice to feel so good about a meal.

Three-time champion falls at Golden Gloves Nationals

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Three-time champion Clinton Jackson was upset and defending champions Richard Sandoval and Jackie Beard advanced in Saturday's semifinals of the 51st National Golden Gloves boxing tournament.

Jackson, a 24-year-old from Knoxville, Tenn., who is a veteran of 205 amateur fights, was outpointed by Randy Smith, 22, of Chicago in 156 pound action.

Sandoval, an 18-year-old former Junior Olympic 95-pound champion defeated Milwaukee's Israel Acosta in the semifinals for the second consecutive year. It was the fourth meeting of the two 106-pounders and gave Sandoval a 3-1 advantage.

Beard, who captured the Gloves and Amateur Athletic Union bantamweight titles last year, outpointed Myron Taylor of Philadelphia in a 119 pound fight. He was scheduled to face Kenneth Baysmore, 17, Washington, D.C. in a rematch between last year's AAU semifinals in Saturday's title match.

The finals at the Indiana Convention Center were scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. EST.

The list of semifinal winners also included 1977 AAU flyweight champion Jerome Coffee of Nashville, Tenn., 112; Lemuel Steeples of St. Louis, a two-time runner-up in Gloves action, 139; Donald Bowers, a Jackson, Tenn. boxer who won the 156 pound crown last year and is competing at 147 this year; Lamont Kirkland, Omaha, a semifinalist last year, 165; and heavyweight Marvis Frazier, the 18-year-old son of former world heavyweight king Joe Frazier.

In 132 pound action, Johnny Bumphus, an 18-year-old deputy sheriff from Nashville outpointed 1978 runner-up Melvin Paul, Efrain Nieves of Milwaukee, who lost to Paul in last year's semis, also advanced by outpointing Ruben Munoz, Odessa, Texas.

Pennsylvania headed the team competition going into the finals with 41 points. Knoxville and St. Louis were a distant second with 20 points, while Fort Worth was fourth with 18.

Tennis team runs into tough matches

The Pampa High tennis team had some tough first rounds in the Amarillo Relay Tournament Friday and Saturday, but two significant advances were made in the girls brackets.

Kris Douglass had another good weekend, upsetting number three seed Karen Landry of Plainview 6-2, 6-7, 6-2.

Douglass' advance to the finals was halted in the semis by Amarillo High's Kim Clark, 7-6, 6-3.

She was stopped in the finals of last week's Borger Tournament by Memphis' Sonja Hutcherson. She also finished second in the Hereford Tournament March 10 after a successful weekend at Snyder Feb. 3, where she took first place.

The girls doubles team of Cheryl Kessel and Kathy Wall was halted after advancing to the quarter finals, where they were beaten 6-4, 6-3.

Pampa's Greg Trollinger and Mark Spence cleared the courts after a second-round loss while Kurt Krause fell to George Kivess of Lubbock High in a 7-6, 6-4 dual.

The Harvester netters will now prepare for district play, which is scheduled Friday and Saturday at the Harvester courts.

The girls' team placed second last week in the Borger Tournament, where they were the only representative of District 3-AAAA.

District winners in the girls divisions will meet in regional play at Lubbock on April 20-21, while the men will battle there April 27-28.

Girl golfers fall short

AMARILLO — Pampa's team total of 445 Friday was not good enough to advance the Lady Harvesters into second-round action at the Amarillo Relays Girls Golf Tournament.

El Paso Coronado led Amarillo High 350-366 in the battle for first place. Tascosa was third at 381, Borger fourth at 386, Midland High fifth at 390 and Plainview sixth at 409. Only the top six teams advanced to Saturday's final round.

Competing for Pampa were Liz Lawyer, who shot a 97, Suzy Carter (107), Penny Summers (118), Tricia Snuggs (123) and Amy Wheeler (128).

Ronna Whitson of Borger and Coronado's Karla Pierce were tied for individual medalist honors with 85.

Division II teams were led by Memphis and Farwell with 401 strokes apiece, Tulia 419, Guyton 421, Panhandle 440 and Dalhart 453.

B teams entered were paced by Amarillo High's 404. Next came Borger at 420, Plainview 426, Guyton 431, Lubbock Coronado 459 and Memphis 477.

The Pampa girls will host the second round of District 3-AAAA play Friday at the Pampa Country Club.

Stout carves up Longhorns

Pampa takes district opener

By JOE BLOBAUM
Pampa News Staff

Steve Stout and Keenan Henderson were the heroes Friday afternoon as Pampa won a battle of inches — disguised as a baseball game — from Caprock, 1-0.

Stout, the 6-foot-6 senior right-hander who has emerged as the ace of the Harvester pitching corps, riddled the Longhorn batters with an exhibition of power and control. He allowed just two hits, struck out seven and walked one to raise his record to 4-0 and lower his earned run average to a miniscule 0.25.

Henderson, meanwhile, dusted the chalk on the left field line for a double in the fourth inning to bring home Mark Jennings with the only run of the contest.

Jennings had reached first on a bloop single that just escaped the onrush of Caprock right fielder Greg Mayes. He scored easily on Henderson's two-out line drive, which came after coach Steve Scott signaled for the hit and run.

"Henderson's hit was right on the line," Scott said. "It bought up some chalk."

Caprock appealed the crucial play at third base which, the Longhorns contended, Jennings had failed to touch on his way home. Their case was rejected, however, and Scott later said Jennings' foot "hit right in the middle of the bag."

Stout got out of first- and seventh-inning jams to record his second shutout of the season. He was behind just one hitter all afternoon and used but 70 pitches to dispose of the Longhorns, who got a fine performance from their ace, Bobby Short.

Short allowed just five hits — two of them in the fourth — and struck out three Harvesters. But his performance wasn't good enough to beat Stout, who retired 11 straight Longhorns at one point.

Mayes singled in the fifth to break up that string, but Todd Tenorio's sacrifice bunt turned into an inning-ending double play when Stout fielded the ball cleanly and threw to second.

Raymond Boynton's leadoff walk in the top of the seventh provided another round of nail biting for the 125 spectators at Optimist Park, however.

After Gary O'Dell popped out, Stout bobbled James Errington's sacrifice bunt to give Caprock runners on first and second. But "The Bird" struck out Short for the third time of the afternoon and handcuffed Mayes on an easy fly out to end the game.

"I couldn't be prouder of anyone than I am Steve Stout," Scott said. "He pitched his heart out today."

Stout's heart may have been in his throat for a few anxious moments in the first frame. O'Dell singled with one out, stole second and advanced to third on Errington's grounder to third.

Stout then uncorked a wild pitch that ricocheted off the backstop to catcher Rick Dougherty, who relayed the ball to Stout at home. O'Dell didn't even get close to home plate as Stout tagged him out.

"Was that bounce we got off the backstop a big play?" Scott questioned rhetorically. "That may have been the game right there."

The Harvesters poured all over the infield to celebrate their victory in the opening game of their District 3-AAAA campaign.

"Our kids were really psyched for this game," he added. "It was a big game to us, and we're going to play every single district game the same way."

Now 11-3 on the year, the Harvesters travel to Tascosa to play the Rebels Tuesday afternoon. Scott has announced Rick Dougherty as his starting pitcher for the 4 p.m. contest.

Caprock, which dropped to 7-6 and had a five-game winning streak snapped, will take on Amarillo High at the Sandie diamond Tuesday.

In District 3-AAAA golf

Amarillo High in front by 19

Amarillo High recorded five of the top eight scores in the first round of District 3-AAAA boys' golf play Friday to grab a commanding 19-stroke lead at the Pampa Country Club.

But Harvester coach Deck Woldt, whose second-place team stands little hope of catching the Sandies, thinks Amarillo High will be going for all the gold when the loop teams gather for the second round of play April 20 at the Amarillo Air Base course.

AHS' B team was a scant six shots behind Pampa, and Woldt felt sure the Sandies would drop two of their A team golfers to the B squad in an effort to qualify both teams for the Regional Meet in Lubbock April 27-28.

"I'm sure they'll go ahead and do it," he said ruefully. "I'd do it if I had as big a lead as they've got."

Steve Russell led the Sandie parade with a 74, while teammate Glen Pate recorded a 75.

Pampa's Barry Terrell (77) broke up the AHS string, but Tascosa's Ron Bowen and Sandie Scott tied at 78. Trent Bass' 80 rounded out the team scoring (307) for Amarillo High, which also got an 81 from Lance Poole that didn't count in the team total.

Ben Smith of Tascosa and Todd Posey of AHS' B team matched Poole's 81, while 82s by Pampa's Paul Beck and Bob Phillips and Sandie B teamer Mark Weathers rounded out the top scores of the day.

Chad Darce's 85 filled out Pampa's team score of 326, which was two shots better than Tascosa's. The Sandie B team was at 331, Tascosa's B squad at 368, the Pampa B team at 376, Palo Duro at 377 and Caprock at 396.

The Sandie B team fashioned its team score with Posey's 81, Weathers' 82, an 83 by Bobby Hutchinson and Rusty Karr's 85.

Pampa's B squad was led by James White's 87. Then came Lance LeFever at 95, Jim Hall and Jeff Hofaker (97 apiece) and Bob Brandt's 99, which was dropped from the team score.

Campbell to head golf tourney

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Houston Oiler running back Earl Campbell has been named grand marshal of the Legends of Golf tournament, April 25-29.

Comedian Bob Hope will join numerous others in the pro-celebrity tournament April 25, sponsors announced Saturday.

The tournament is limited to golfers who are at least 50 years and who have won the U.S. or British Open, Masters or PGA or played on a Ryder Cup team.

Flying Paster set

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Flying Paster, the West's top hope against Spectacular Bid in the Triple Crown races, tries to get back on the winning track Sunday when he faces nine rivals in the $150,000-added Santa Anita Derby.

Last time out, Flying Paster ran third in the San Felipe Handicap. But he carried 127 pounds in that race two weeks ago, spotting nine pounds to Pole Position and 13 to Switch Partners in losing by a head and a nose. Each starter in the 1 1/4-mile Santa Anita Derby will carry 120 except the filly Terlingua who gets 115.

Flying Paster, owned by Bernard J. Ridder, will be ridden by Don Pierce, who has been aboard the California-bred son of Gummo-Progne in each of his previous 12 outings. Flying Paster has eight victories, three seconds and a third in his career.

"At this stage of his career, he's the best 3-year-old I've ever been on," Pierce said of Flying Paster. "I rode in three (Kentucky) Derbies on horses that didn't have a chance, and I swore I'd never go back unless I had a good chance of winning it."

Watson leads by eight

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Tom Watson, who had established a commanding eight-shot lead, had but one fond wish for Sunday's final round of the $300,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

"I hope it's a boring telecast," said Watson, who picked up four shots on the field in two holes Saturday and owned the biggest third-round lead in the last three years.

"I hope nobody gets close enough to make it exciting."

And he's certainly in firm command. So much so, in fact, that Hubert Green was talking about giving him a handicap.

Lanny Wadkins, who had complained all week of his putting problems, didn't make a birdie in his 3-over-par 74 that left him far, far back in second at 207.

Tom Kite was third alone at 208 after matching par 71.

The group at 209 — 10 shots back but tied for fourth — included Green, Floyd, Ed Sneed, Bill Rogers and Mike Morley. Morley and Rogers shot 72s. Sneed had 71, Floyd 69 and Green a 67 that included 30 on the back side.

Lee Trevino, in the hunt for a while, bogeyed four holes in a row immediately after the turn and finished with a 71-211. Arnold Palmer, playing his best of the year, shot 71 for 214.

Inflation and Keynes

by John F. McManus

Belmont, Massachusetts — The father of America's increasingly worrisome inflation is British Fabian Socialist John Maynard Keynes. Invited to restructure our nation's economic system by President Franklin Roosevelt in the 1930s, Keynes started us on the toboggan slide called deficit spending. His dangerous policies prevail even today.

Keynes knew what inflation was, even if most Americans do not. He was well aware that the item that was inflated was the quantity of currency, not the price of goods and services. He also knew that new currency introduced into the system took on value by robbing a portion of the worth of existing currency. In this way, he said, a government could actually steal from its citizens as a way of financing deficits.

Keynes Spells It Out

In 1920, John Maynard Keynes wrote as follows in Economic Consequences of the Peace:
By a continuing process of inflation, governments can confiscate, secretly and unobserved, an important part of the wealth of their citizens. By this method, they not only confiscate, but they confiscate arbitrarily; and while the process impoverishes many, it actually enriches some. . . . The process engages all of the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner which not one man in a million is able to diagnose.

Note that Keynes did not lay any of the blame for inflation on businessmen, labor unions, housewives, or anyone other than government. There is none of that foolishness about inflation being the actual rise in prices, or a condition brought about by falling productivity. Inflation is an increase in the quantity of currency caused by government, according to its modern-day creator. Keynes also said that inflation would lead to government power and would destroy the "Capitalist system."

Federal Reserve Figures

All those experts who tell us that inflation is such and such a percent are always telling us that the price of goods has risen by so much. The price of goods is a result of many factors, however, including their supply and the demand for them. But the steadiest and most pervasive cause of what we note as increases in price is the continuing decline in the value of the dollar. This is caused by inflation. When all the experts equate inflation with rising prices, they end up pointing the finger at the producers, instead of at the government.

There is a place to find out just how much the quantity of currency has been increased. Federal Reserve Money Stock Measures tells us that, in the year 1978, America's money stock rose from $1453.4 billion to $1599.1 billion. That is a rise of $145.7 billion, or ten percent. Inflation's toll in 1978 was ten percent of savings, ten percent of retirement funds, ten percent of insurance policies and everything else. All of this wealth was confiscated "secretly and unobserved" by government when it increased the quantity of currency.

Federal Spending

Where the money goes is, of course, a story all by itself. The reduced purchasing power of the dollar ends up as federal aid to education, welfare, medicine, agriculture, and everything else imaginable. In each case, the federal aid worsens the situation while resulting in massive growth in the power of the government. Then, too, our hard-earned incomes are watered down to give foreign aid to all the enemies of the United States, now even including Red China.

Inflation is a problem caused by government. Unless enough Americans learn what it is, it will never be stopped and our nation will be laid waste.

SOUND COUNTRY

The Marshall Tucker Band's forthcoming album Running Like the Wind is set for release this month on Warner Bros. Records.

As part of an earlier contract with Capricorn Records, the group wasn't supposed to cut their debut album for Warner Bros. until the fall. Now, as a result of a special arrangement between Capricorn and Warner Bros., Running Like the Wind will be the band's first release on the Warner Bros. label.

Mercury artist Glenn Sutton, whose The Football Card was a winter novelty record, is at it again. In his latest single release, Glenn lends his own special brand of humor to the age-old question, 'Should Old Acquaintance Be Forgotten.' Mercury recording artist Sonny Throckmorton was honored as Songwriter of the Year at the 12th annual Nashville Songwriters Association International Banquet. Among Sonny's recent hit compositions are, 'Middle Age Crazy.'

In four part mini-series

PBS to present 'The Scarlet Letter'

BOSTON (AP) — "The Scarlet Letter," Nathaniel Hawthorne's masterpiece of guilt, adultery and hypocrisy in Puritan America, is coming to television in a lavish four-part miniseries on PBS.

The program, which will air on consecutive nights beginning April 2, is the first attempt of American television to try what the British do so well — put a classic novel on film.

vividly detailed picture of life in the wilderness village of Boston in the 1600s. And it is an engaging and generally accurate retelling of Hawthorne's story of scandal. Like the English remakes of the classics that the Public Broadcasting Service runs on its weekly "Masterpiece Theater" program, the acting in this series is subtle and restrained. Meg Foster plays an aloof, powerful Hester Prynne, the young woman who is forced to wear a scarlet "A" for life because she bore an illegitimate daughter.

John Heard is suitably wishywashy and pained as Arthur Dimmesdale, the guilt-ridden minister who is the secret father of Hester's child. Kevin Conway is downright creepy as the gnomish Roger Chillingworth, the husband who torments Dimmesdale to the brink of madness. "This is a love story, an American 'Romeo and Juliet,'" said Rick Hauser, the program's producer-director.

The action takes place in a scruffy, flyblown recreation of 17th century Boston, a town of shabby, dark houses and straw-strewn streets. The crudity of the hamlet is vividly portrayed early in the series by a woman who chases a pig out of a house with her broom.

In a hut overlooking the Atlantic on the edge of town, the ostracized Hester raises her child, Pearl, who is impishly played by Jessica Ruth Olin.

"I hope we've provided a framework for rethinking about the Puritan past," Hauser said. "It's much more colorful and vibrant and closer to the Elizabethans than any of really know. We mistake Puritanism for Victorianism, and that's not right."

The lengthy opening chapter of the novel, in which Hawthorne describes the Salem customhouse, is reduced to a brief scene. As thunder rumbles in the background, a man playing the author discovers the faded scarlet letter and a tattered manuscript.

Though a few scenes have been embellished, most of the program meticulously follows the plot of the novel.

Hawthorne, we fell flatter than a fritter," said Hauser.

The climactic scene in which Dimmesdale tears off his shirt to reveal his own real or imagined scarlet letter — it's never really clear in the book whether he has one — remains vague in the TV version.

The program cost $2.5 million and took four years to research and put together.

STARDUST

Star Trends—Did you ever stop to wonder who the plumber's wife on the Liquid Plumber commercial was? Or, for that matter, how about the lady in the "I can't believe it's a girl" blurb? Veteran stage and screen actress Allison McKay plays both roles with an off-beat verve. Ms. McKay is one of the many veteran actresses and actors who are reaping the lucrative benefits of endorsing products on TV.

Allison McKay

Futurestars—In the next few months all three major TV networks will be screening many new "limited" series and pilot programs in order to gauge viewer response. The programs that score well will have a chance to make the fall schedule or have a commitment as a replacement series later on during the season. Below is a list of these projected shows:

Star Extra—Ranee Heller may not be a household name just yet, but with starring roles in the movie "Fastbreak" and the TV series "Soap," notoriety may be a few press clips away. Ranee, who has played Rizzo in the Broadway version of "Grease" and had a starring role in the ill-fated "Husbands, Wives and Lovers" TV series, finds versatility to be the mark of a good actress. "In 'Fastbreak,' I am the deterrent. I portray Gabriel Kaplan's wife, and I try to knock down his dream of becoming a college basketball coach. My character in 'Soap' is that of a lesbian who's living with Jody, the homosexual. I'm happy that they are portraying the lesbian as a feminine-type, rather than a truck driver stereotype," said the blue-eyed native New Yorker. Although she isn't sure what's going to happen with her character on "Soap," she by no means worries about where her next role will come from. "Basically I'm very family oriented. I only worked 15 weeks last year, but I don't want to live off of my husband," Ranee stated. Asked if she would like to use her versatility in a "choice" role, Ranee smiled and said straightforwardly, "Women's roles haven't really been written yet. They must be written and directed by women in order to get the full story and impact behind it."

Starlets—Elke Sommer stars in 'Stunt Seven,' a two-hour movie for television which will hopefully serve as a pilot for a series on CBS-TV. Elke portrays a movie star who is kidnapped and held for ransom by a band of desperados. Seven stunt people (five men, two women) use all their skills as they attempt a rescue. There's lots of sky-diving, wing-walking, scuba-diving, shark wrestling, fight scenes and explosions—even a speedboat is picked up out of the water by a helicopter and spirited away. Elke claims she has great respect for stunt people. "I understand them. I'm crazy, just like them." One of her pet hobbies is off-road jeep racing.

Dianne Kay

Dianne Kay is a relative newcomer to show business, but with her delicate fair-haired beauty and her remarkable brainpower, she is guaranteed a long run. Dianne plays eighteen-year-old Nancy in ABC-TV's comedy-drama "Eight Is Enough."

One of two daughters born to Peter and Marian Kay (he's an Arizona State Legislator), Dianne began acting in local children's theatre workshops when she was thirteen, touring with a group that presented children's productions all over Arizona and on local PBS stations.

After finishing high school in Scottsdale, Arizona, Dianne went to the University of Arizona in Tucson where she graduated in 1975 with a B.S. in Mass Communications. During her last year in college she worked as a broadcasting intern at KGUN Television in Tucson in the programming and promotion departments preparing herself for a career in public relations.

But her beauty intervened, and she began appearing in feature films and shows in production in Arizona ("The Dick Van Dyke Show," "The Trial of Billy Jack," "New Kind of Love"). Since moving to Los Angeles barely a year ago, Dianne has appeared in "Starsky and Hutch," "Dog and Cat," "The Kids From Caper," and commercials for McDonalds, Dr. Pepper and Presto.

Dianne practices both Hatha and Kundilini yoga, she writes, collects antiques, and because of her deep interest in her family's genealogy, she collects pictures of her ancestors. Dianne is single and lives in Studio City, Calif.

Around the nation

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Franklin P. Dupree Jr. has ruled that a "Motorist's Prayer" printed on state maps "passes muster, albeit by a slim margin."

A class-action suit filed by two citizens in 1975 claimed the prayer put the state in the position of promoting religion. Dupree found it promoted safety consciousness but not religion because motorists are not compelled to recite it. The prayer asks "Our heavenly Father" to "Grant us safe passage through the perils of travel... steady our hands and quicken our way that we may never take another's life; guide us to our destination safely..."

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — The deaths of two adults and three children in a tenement fire have brought to 18 the number of persons to die in Jersey City fires since Jan. 1, authorities said.

Friday night's fire took the lives of Magdalena Olivera-Rivera, 25, Lester Olivera-Rivera, 2, Manuel Cordero, 57, Lona Cordero, 10, and Blanca Cordero, 11, according to Lt. Charles Donahue. Six families lived in the building and most made their way to safety. Donahue said. Authorities said the fire did not appear to be arson-related.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has approved a $1.2 million settlement of discrimination suits against the San Francisco Police Department, in which the department promises that half or more of new police recruits in the next 10 years will come from minority groups and 20 percent will be women, and that promotion policies will also reflect more concern for minorities and women. U.S. District Judge Robert F. Peckham approved the settlement Friday. It designates $400,000 for those who can show discrimination and $500,000 for testing and training programs. The rest will pay fees of plaintiffs' attorneys.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — About 15 angry inmates at the Richmond County jail broke a number of light fixtures when they discovered that officers had found a secret cache of "home brew," authorities say.

Jailer George C. Mutimer said that during an inspection Thursday, officers discovered a gallon jug containing a sugar and orange drink concoction fermenting in a sunny spot of the jail. When the prisoners found it missing, they went on rampage, "breaking just about everything they could get their hands on," said Mutimer. Damage, however, was limited to several light fixtures and light bulbs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest census figures show the gap between America's rich and poor widening at a rapid rate, Rep. Henry S. Reuss said Saturday. And the Wisconsin Democrat said the figures appear to prove again the old adage that, at least in relation to each other, the rich keep getting richer and the poor poorer.

Reuss said recently released Census Bureau figures for 1977 showed that in that year, the share of total income received by the poorest two-fifths of American families fell from 17.2 percent to 16.8 percent.

Party pleads for Bhutto's life

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Just hours before the deadline, leaders of deposed Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto's political party appealed to Pakistan's president today to commute their condemned leader's death sentence, a plea Bhutto himself has refused to make.

Midnight tonight was the deadline for applying for executive clemency from President Zia ul-Haq, who has given no sign that he will spare Bhutto.

Bhutto is on death row at a jail in nearby Rawalpindi. He was sentenced to hang after being convicted of ordering the killing of a political opponent in 1974. Unless Zia intervenes he could be hanged as early as Monday.

The plea from Bhutto's Pakistan People's Party came after a three-day meeting of party leaders.

Market surprises many experts

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the news surrounding it seemed to be almost uniformly bad, the stock market surprised many of the experts by posting a solid gain in the first quarter of 1979.

The revolution in Iran, strong upward pressure on oil prices, and gloomy readings on the domestic inflation rate headed the list of investors' worries during the first three months of the year.

The market also was confronted for a time with border fighting between China and Vietnam, and in the last few days with the accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant near Harrisburg, Pa.

But the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished the quarter on Friday with a net gain since New Year's of 57.17 points at 862.18.

The average's rise in the past week of 2.43 points was its fourth consecutive weekly advance.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index joined in with a weekly gain of .04 to 57.12. And the American Stock Exchange market value index climbed 2.90 to 179.70, touching its highest levels since the index was established in 1973.

Big Board volume averaged 30.99 million shares a day against 32.17 million the week before.

"To date in 1979, the stock market has successfully climbed the proverbial wall of worry," the Value Line Investment Survey observed.

And analysts at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith noted, "The market seemed to be ignoring the inflationary implications of the oil pricing developments, as well as recent jumps in food and a variety of other commodities and metals such as copper, lead and steel scrap."

Even when the news was good, from Wall Street's point of view, it seemed to bring problems with it. When Commerce Department data showed a strong rise in fourth-quarter earnings last year, some members of the Carter administration said the rate of profit growth might be excessive at a time when the country was striving to control inflation.

"The response from the business community has been angry, and rightfully so," fired back the firm of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields. "The inflation culprit is 'Big Government.'"

Whoever was to blame, the inflation rate began 1979 on a jarring note. The consumer price index for January rose 0.9 percent; in February it jumped 1.2 percent, for its sharpest rise in 4 1/2 years, and analysts weren't looking for much better news in the March figures, which are due out shortly.

Things got to the point, in fact, that when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries announced a price increase of "only" 9 percent last Tuesday, the market treated it as good news. The Dow Jones industrial average that day scored its biggest gain of the year, a 16.54-point jump.

As at least a partial explanation of the market's persistent strength, analysts pointed to large accumulations of cash in the hands of both big and small investors.

"But the fundamentals remain worrisome. While there have been signs that the economy is slowing from its torrid pace of the fourth quarter of 1978, activity still seems to be too strong to make a significant dent in the unacceptably rapid rate of inflation.
