"West Texan's Views Of The State Capitol"

(By Frank P. Hill)

Austin, Oct. 5—Monday opened the second week of the third called session of the forty-fourth Legislature. Nothing has yet been done toward accomplishing the purpose for which Governor Allred called the session, that of raising by some form of taxation the $12,000,000 or $15,000,000 needed to pay the old age pensions. Nor is there but little prospect of anything in this line being accomplished this week, with the House sidetracking the issue with investigations.

However, there is some consolation in the fact that tax measures are usually not acted on in Texas' legislative halls until the closing days of a session.

Except for a very few measures, the Senate has had very little to do, since all tax bills must originate in the House.

One important piece of legislation which seems to be meeting approval is a bill by Senator G. H. Nelson of the 30th Senatorial district reforming, in a sweeping manner, delinquent tax laws. Means of collection are more definitely prescribed and more responsibility is placed on the collection agencies. The bill primarily strikes at corporations and other big property holders who refuse to pay their taxes over a stretch of several years in order to secure concessions from tax boards in the way of reductions. The man in indigent circumstances is provided for. There are between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 of state ad valorem taxes delinquent at this time. The grand total of all taxes delinquent—state, county, municipality, and school district—would probably ex-

Trees on The Plains

From Washington comes announcement of virtual abandonment of the shelterbelt program which was inaugurated something more than two years ago with prospects of a $75,000,000 appropriation for pushing it to completion. At the same time figures from the shelterbelt administration show that 81 per cent of the 24,000,000 trees already planted have survived despite drought conditions. Since it may be accepted that under any conditions the heaviest tree mortality rate would come during the first two years after transplanting, the statistical showing of the shelterbelt program is not so bad.

Tentative legislation would turn over to the Forestry Service the work of the shelterbelt administration that has already been accomplished. This ought to be done. Otherwise, there probably will be entire loss of the accomplishments to date. Furthermore, it might yet be demonstrated that the shelterbelt idea is practicable. If it can be established as practicable by experimentation, then there will be little opposition to its later resumption as a large-scale program.

In the meantime, abandonment of the major tree-planting program on the plains should be accompanied by a speeding up of that other program that aims at soil conservation through crop selection on cultivated lands and restoration and maintenance of native grasses on pasture lands. In the end, this will probably be proven as the practicable program. In its native state, the plains were a short-grass country. Nature's way is usually best.—Dallas News.

H. D. and 4-H Club Exhibit to Be Here

The Lynn county H. D. Clubs and 4-H Club girls will have their annual exhibit of canned products in the Texas Utilities Building Friday and Saturday, October 9-10, according to announcement by Mrs. M. O. Canaday.

Mrs. Canaday handed this announcement in for publication last week but through an oversight of the editor it was left out. We also recently overlooked a report of the September County Council meeting which she handed in. The omission was purely unintentional on our part but Mrs. Canaday is in no way to blame for it.

Work On School Building Progresses Rapidly Now

Most satisfactory progress has been made in the construction of Tahoka's new grammar school building.

A. A. James, engineer inspector for the Public Works Administration, and V. D. Shelf, contractor, reported Wednesday that all masonry work had been completed, plastering is under way, all roughing for the plumbing and heating is in, all conduits for electricity have been run, and the roof over the entire building has been completed. The building should be completed and ready for occupancy by December 20, Mr. James thinks.

The contractors on this project are: General contractor, V. D. Shelf of Lubbock; mechanical contractor, Roche-Newton Co. of Lubbock; painting contractor, H. L. Lehr; roofing, Texas Roofing Co.

Mr. James says that all the contractors are cooperating in a fine way, thus making the progress most satisfactory.

Already it is apparent that the completed building will be a beautiful structure, commodious, and convenient in its appointments—a building of which all Tahoka will be proud.

Rural Electrification Administration, Starts Soon

Over $800,000 to build 800 miles of rural electric distribution lines and Indiana, Missouri, Montana and Texas was allocated by Rural Electrification Administrator Morris L. Cooke today. Mr. Cooke also signed a loan contract with a Minnesota cooperative and announced the release of construction specifications and invitations to bid on three REA-financed projects in Missouri and Wisconsin.

With today's allocations, REA has lent or earmarked a total of $27,416,429 for approximately 25,000 miles of rural electric lines to bring electricity for the first time to some 93,000 customers.

The Central Texas Power Co., a cooperative association, of Temple, Tex., received an allocation of $240,000 to construct about 240 miles of rural lines serving some 750 new customers. The project will include parts of Travis and Williamson Counties.

Central Pastor Fills Pulpit Here Sunday

Rev. J. C. McGraw, pastor of Central Baptist Church, filled the pulpit at the Baptist Church here last Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor, Rev. George A. Dale.

Brother and Mrs. Dale are expected to return from their visit the latter part of the week and he is expected to be in his pulpit again next Sunday morning.

Traffic Light Installed Here

A traffic light in Tahoka is an innovation, but it came none too soon.

The city council this week had traffic lights installed at the intersection of the two highways near the northern limits of the business section of the town. New stop signs have also been placed at other street intersections.

Every person hereafter detected in violating the stop signal regulations will be fined $1.00. Reckless drivers will be fined from $5.00 to $25.00. City Marshal Milt Finch has been instructed to enforce these regulations. All law-abiding citizens will cooperate and strictly comply with these regulations.

Burns Ellis returned Sunday from Christoval, where he had been since August. He was accompanied to Tahoka by his father, S. W. Ellis, who came to spend a couple of weeks with him and Miss Viola.

PREDICT A MILLION DEMOCRATIC VOTES IN TEXAS IN NOVEMBER

Democratic Leaders Predict Four To One Victory For Roosevelt And Garner

Roy Miller, Democratic campaign director for Texas, and Myron G. Balock, chairman of the State Democratic executive committee, predict that one million Texas Democrats will go to the polls and vote for Roosevelt and Garner on November 3. Miller says that Texas will assuredly go Democratic by at least three or four to one.

Democratic leaders in Texas are pointing out the necessity for a big vote in Texas, however. "Since the Democratic national convention has abrogated the two-thirds rule in making nominations, in the future delegate strength at national conventions will be based on the number of votes cast in the general election. Unless all Democrats vote there will be danger of losing strength in the national conventions and in Washington government affairs," it is pointed out.

While Miller and party leaders feel confident that Roosevelt and Garner will win, yet they feel that a vigorous campaign should be waged right up to election day, and the national committee needs funds. "While contributions have been satisfactory," they say, "the national war chest needs much more and promptly. Democrats do not have the sources of big wealth that is available to the Republicans."

Therefore they are urging the great common people to contribute each his bit to the national campaign fund. Hon. Tom Garrard of Tahoka is chairman for this district, and contributions should be paid to him. If you wish to make a contribution to the campaign to re-elect Roosevelt and Garner, see Mr. Garrard at once.

Rural Schools Suspending for Cotton

A number of the rural schools of the county have suspended in order that the pupils may assist in gathering the cotton crop. A few others are expected to suspend at the end of this week. Schools which suspended last Friday, according to County Superintendent H. P. Cavness, are New Lynn, Morgan, Midway, Joe Bailey, and Newmore.

The suspension period will probably run from four to six weeks, and one or two may possibly run longer than that.

If the weather remains favorable, the cotton-gathering season should be comparatively short this fall.

Lynn County Produces Much Milk

How many milk cows do you suppose there are in Lynn county?

Well, you needn't count 'em. Somebody at Washington has had that done for you.

According to a special report issued by the Bureau of the Census, Lynn county had 6,653 milk cows in 1934 against 4,367 in 1929.

How does that compare with our neighboring counties?

Well, Dawson county had 6,351 in 1934 against 4,370 in 1929.

Lubbock county for the two years respectively had 11,571 and 8,196; Hale county, 10,144 and 7,379; Lamb 8,682 and 6,031; Floyd 7,879 and 5,347. Most other counties in this section of the state run a little lower than Lynn.

Tarrant county had more milk cows than any other county in the state in 1934. Its number was 22,582. Dallas had 20,765, Harris 19,210, and Bexar 18,125.

It is very noticeable that the milk-cow "population" follows very closely the same order as the human population, throughout the state.

What about the quality of these cows as milk producers? The Lynn county cow seems to be a good average for the plains. She produced, 347 gallons of milk through the year, which is less than a gallon a day—poor enough.

The Dallas county cow produced 342 gallons, the Floyd county cow 331 gallons, Hale county 367 gallons, Lubbock county 426 gallons.

In Dallas county cow produced 468 gallons, the Tarrant county cow 410 gallons, and the Harris county cow 439 gallons.

It is evident that we need a better grade of cow than we have in Texas and especially on the Plains.

J. Doyle Settle On Important Committee

Speaker Coke Stevenson said today he had named J. Doyle Settle of Lubbock vice-chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Settle succeeds W. L. Clayton of El Paso who resigned from the legislature. The House Appropriations Committee is probably the most important committee of the Texas Legislature. Settle is the only first term member to fill this position in the last ten years.

Tech Faculty Members Listed In Who's Who

Seven faculty members and the chairman of the board of directors at Texas Technological College are listed in the recently published 1936-37 edition of "Who's Who in America."

Besides President Bradford Knapp and Dean James M. Gordon of the arts and sciences division, the following faculty members are listed: Dr. A. B. Cunningham, associate professor of English, novel and magazine writer; Dr. W. C. Holden, acting head professor of history and anthropology, who led an expedition from Texas Tech into the Yaqui Indian territory in 1934; Dr. S. S. McKay, history professor; Dr. L. T. Patton, geology department head; and Miss Elizabeth H. West, Texas Tech librarian.

Clifford B. Jones, Spur financier who is chairman of the Texas Tech board of directors, is also mentioned in the volume, which lists Americans who have earned special prominence in creditable lines of effort or who have reached high official positions.

R. F. C. Distributes 96 Million Dollars in Texas

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation during the period February 2, 1932, to June 30, 1936, distributed the sum of $15,000 in Lynn County, according to information received by H. P. Drought, State Director for the National Emergency Council for Texas.

Disbursements in Texas aggregated $99,262,772.48, not including amounts that went to various government agencies, or relief grants under the Federal Emergency Relief Act of 1935.

The principal purposes for which the money was disbursed were as follows: loans to banks and trust companies, including receivers, liquidating agents and conservators, $25,993,602.58; subscriptions to preferred stock of banks and trust companies, $22,742,375; loans to building and loan associations, $1,612,733.96; and an additional amount of $18,747,090.23 to mortgage loan companies.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation gave assistance to industrial and commercial businesses in Texas totaling $455,274.33. Self-liquidating projects were aided in the sum of $1,093,012.85. A further amount of $199,551 was furnished to finance agricultural commodities and livestock, while the state received a disbursement of $7,952,291 for relief and work relief.

Total disbursements made in the United States during the same period not including amounts disbursed in the form of relief grants to states amounted to $6,012,771,180.71.

Fashion Revue In Lubbock Tonight

Beginning Thursday and continuing through today, the thirteenth semi-annual, West-Tex New-Mex Wholesale Clothing market at the Lubbock and Hilton Hotels is attracting several hundred retail merchants from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico to Lubbock.

Henry W. Stanley, trade extension specialist of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, will lecture on selected subjects concerning retail sales, displays and problems confronting the retail merchant in the Hotel Lubbock Ballroom at 11 a. m., 2:00 p. m., and 4:00 p. m. today, Friday. These lectures are absolutely free.

Friday's program will be climaxed with a fashion revue at 8 o'clock in the senior high school auditorium, where the latest in ready-to-wear both silk and cotton; coats, millinery, hosiery and sport wear will be presented. Retail merchants, their employees, and a few choice customers will be admitted free to the fashion revue.

Sumners Convicted Of Cow Theft

A jury in the district court late Wednesday afternoon brought in a verdict of guilty against Oscar Sumners, pioneer of this county, on the trial of a charge of cow theft and assessed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary.

Sumners was recently convicted in the district court at Brownfield of a similar offense alleged to have been committed in Terry county and likewise drtv a penalty of two years there. The penalty assessed here Wednesday was made cumulative of the Brownfield penalty, making four years that he must serve.

Henry Reed entered pleas of guilty to two charges of cow theft in the court here Wednesday and was given four years in the pen in one case and two in the other. These penalties were likewise made cumulative.

The cattle were stolen from the T-Bar Ranch in Terry county. Brownfield Ranch in Terry county.

Oscar Sumners was one of the first settlers of this county, and this is the first time he was ever convicted of crime.

Henry Reed has also been a resident of the county for a number of years but he has been charged with numerous offenses heretofore in this and other counties. He had been convicted in several cases and served for a time in the penitentiary. Later he escaped from the Plainview jail and has been at large most of the time since.

Luncheon Club

With Miss Marjorie Wells at the piano and Dr. K. R. Durham as leader, the music program at the luncheon club meeting Tuesday consisted of a number of popular songs. Claude Gentry, prescription clerk at the Tahoka Drug Store, rendered a couple of guitar numbers.

The remainder of the hour was taken by Mr. John Kirkpatrick of Edinburg, who was here in the interest of the organization of a Rotary Club. Mr. Kirkpatrick set out forcefully and at some length the advantages to be gained from such an organization.

The Post Rotary Club will visit the Tahoka Luncheon Club in a body next Tuesday night and will furnish the program for the occasion. The luncheon will be served at 8 p. m. in the American Legion Hall. It is highly desirable that every member of the luncheon club shall be present.

H. D. Club Exhibit This Weekend

The Home Demonstration Clubs exhibit is to be shown here Friday and Saturday, October 9-10.

Mr. W. S. Anglin has kindly consented to give space in the front portion of the Texas Utilities building for the exhibit.

A prize will be awarded the club registering the greatest number of visitors.

Visit this exhibit. You will see a number of gifts from the farm home. Everyone is invited to attend the open judging of the canned products, beginning promptly at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.—Mrs. M. O. Canaday Reporter.

Wins Trip To Centennial at Ft. Worth

Miss Auda Mae Aycox and Miss O'Bea Forrester spent the weekend at Dallas and Fort Worth attending the big Texas Centennial Exposition and the Frontier Centennial.

They report that both shows are great. The Casa Manana performance at Fort Worth and the Cavalcade at Dallas in particular drew their praise.

Miss Forrester won a trip to the Centennial offered by the Commercial Standard Insurance Company of Fort Worth for increased insurance written by her. She turned in a premium increase of $1,000 last year over the same period for this year, which is indeed a remarkable record.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

One Human Shipload
A Floating Microcosm
Intelligent Mrs. Widener
Mrs. Astor and Dr. Carrel On Board the Normandie.—The ancient writer made this admission:
There be three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not.

Arthur Brisbane

The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.

What would that inspired writer say of this modern ship in the midst of the sea? The biggest ship he ever saw could be hung from the ceiling of the dining salon on this boat or tucked away in a corner of the sun deck, disturbing no one.

A modern ocean liner, Queen Mary, Normandie, Rex or Europa, as it crosses the ocean indifferent to waves and winds, is a small world in itself, a microcosm, with this little earth playing the role of "Cosmos." If this ship should sail to some new, uninhabited island of Utopia, it might supply everything necessary to start a new civilization better than the one invented by Sir Thomas More, who has been made a saint since he wrote "Utopia" to amuse himself and had his head cut off for his Catholic faith.

On board, with his friend, George Bacon, is Myron Taylor, head of the United States Steel company, biggest industrial unit on earth. He would supply the material for skyscrapers, ships, railroads and machinery, plus organization.

Simon Guggenheim would tell them how to make corporations profitable, by "holding on." Various newspaper workers on the boat would be ready to start "The New Utopia Gazette"; Floyd Gibbons for war correspondent, plus members of the Edward H. Butler family, that own the Buffalo News, and the able Abraham Cahan, known to more New Yorkers than any editor in America, with one exception. And, most important to newspaper prosperity, the ship carries Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia, who has traveled up and down in every corner of the earth and says to your narrator: "Mr. Brisbane, I have always wanted to meet you, because I read your articles every day."

There spoke the nucleus of a highly intelligent reading public.

Mrs. Vincent Astor, on her way back from a grouse moor in Scotland, would resume her real job of promoting deep music, finding co-operators in the passenger list—Madame Flagstad, the admirable Norwegian singer, a deep soprano able to make Isolde more impressive than Wagner ever imagined her. On board also is Arthur Goddard, ready to conduct the "New Utopia orchestra." Mayor La Guardia of New York will tell you how earnestly Mrs. Astor talks to him about her plans for a great musical center. But Mr. La Guardia will never know what shudders would sweep from Ward McAllister's pineal gland to his Achilles tendon if he could hear Mayor La Guardia say of the young lady in question, "That Mrs. Astor is a nice, serious girl, thoroughly in earnest."

To make this list complete, P. G. Wodehouse is on board, one who could and should describe this shipload of "important humanity" going nowhere in particular, for no reason in particular, some in the steerage, some "tourist" and some, with cabins on the sundeck, whose names break up passenger list continuity to make room for the magic words "maid, valet and chauffeur."

The contest between modern ships for the "Atlantic blue ribbon," or ocean championship, held at this moment by the British Queen Mary, supplies most amazing proof of modern engineering efficiency. Consider that, in a race across 3,000 miles of water, the Queen Mary, after being beaten several times by the French liner Normandie, beat the latter and took the Atlantic blue ribbon by a margin of less than half a mile, across 3,000 miles of ocean.

The oftener you cross, the more clearly you realize that the ocean is a great deal too big for our small planet. It is all one ocean—Atlantic, Pacific, Arctic, Antarctic, all touching—water covering three-quarters of the earth's surface. Consider the Pacific; take your world map, Mercator's projection, fold it over from Asia toward New York and beyond. It will cover the United States, the Atlantic ocean and all Europe to the Bosphorus.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Bleakley and Lehman to Fight for New York Governorship —Communist Candidate Browder Jailed in Terre Haute—France Devalues the Franc.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD © Western Newspaper Union.

REPUBLICANS and Democrats of New York state met in convention at Albany and Syracuse respectively, selected their state tickets and started on a hot campaign.

The Republicans entered the fight under a new leader for they named William F. Bleakley of Yonkers, supreme court justice, for the governorship. The fifty-two-year-old jurist prepared to resign from the bench and take command at once.

Col. Ralph K. Robertson of Buffalo was nominated for lieutenant governor, Nathan D. Perlman of New York city for attorney general and John A. May, of Gloversville, for comptroller.

The convention at its evening session heard Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice presidential candidate, in a strong attack on the New Deal.

The Democrats re-nominated Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, and his candidacy was warmly espoused by President Roosevelt, who went to Syracuse to deliver his first speech as an avowed candidate. The President took occasion to deny again that he seeks Communist support and alleged that issue was a "red herring" dragged across the trail by his opponents.

FRANK KNOX, President Roosevelt and Al Smith, all on the air the same evening, provided a political feast for radio listeners. Colonel Knox, speaking at Pittsburgh, reiterated and substantiated his former assertion that New Deal financial policies were imperiling savings accounts and insurance policies. Mr. Roosevelt, not so eloquent as usual, defended the spending policies of his administration. He, too, spoke at Pittsburgh. The high spot of the evening came at the close of Al Smith's address to a women's organization in New York city. He had been treating of the New Deal and its leaders with biting sarcasm and wound up with the dramatic declaration:

"I firmly believe that the remedy for all the ills that we are suffering from today is the election of Alfred M. Landon."

Whereupon arose a shout that literally echoed throughout the land.

EARL BROWDER, Communist party nominee for the Presidency, achieved the distinction of being the first Presidential candidate to be jailed since Eugene V. Debs was incarcerated during the World war. Browder was scheduled to make a campaign address over the radio from Terre Haute, Ind., but when he arrived in that city he was nabbed by Chief of Police James C. Yates and put in the hoosegow on charges of vagrancy and "for investigation." Held with him were Seymour Walden and Waldon Frank, both of New York City; Charles Stadfeldt, secretary of the Indiana Communist party, and Andrew Remes of Indianapolis. All were released the next day.

Chief Yates, who had the backing of Mayor Samuel O. Beecher and the Terre Haute Merchants' association, said neither Browder "nor any other Communist" would be permitted to air their party doctrines over the local radio station; but David J. Bentall of Chicago, Browder's attorney, slipped into the broadcasting booth and delivered the speech his principal had prepared while Yates fumed outside the locked door.

JUST as the maritime unions on the Pacific coast were about to go on a strike that would have tied up the great shipping industry, the trouble was averted by the signing of a fifteen-day truce between the employers and the workers and the nominal extension for sixty days of working contracts negotiated after the strike of 1934.

The truce provides that maritime unions at the expiration of the period, October 15, would either agree to arbitration of issues involving wages and hours which are not settled, or relations with employers would be broken completely.

The negotiations, handled principally by the Department of Labor's ace trouble-shooter, Edward F. McGrady, will continue during the fifteen-day period of peace.

IN WHAT was said by court attaches to be the first important ruling anywhere on numerous suits filed by packing companies and others against government collection of the "windfall" tax, Judge Robert C. Baltzell of the United States district court at Indianapolis, overruled the government's motion to dismiss a suit for an injunction filed by Kingan and Company, meat packers.

The company seeks to enjoin federal government officials from collecting a $2,500,000 "windfall" tax, levied in the revenue act of 1936, to recover processing taxes previously assessed under the AAA but later ruled invalid by the supreme court.

Judge Baltzell said that he found various "unusual circumstances" creating a doubt as to the possibility of the packing company's having adequate remedy at law in some other court. Because of this, he said, it is imperative for his court to grant the packing company the right to sue in federal court. The decision is said to be directing but not controlling in other similar cases in the district.

Dismissal of the injunction suit was sought by the government on the ground there is no authority in law for restraining collection of a tax.

APPEALS filed by the national labor relations board offer the Supreme court five new opportunities to pass on the constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations court. The board asked the high tribunal to review rulings in a case involving the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation of Pittsburgh, two involving the Freuhauf Trailer company of Canton, Ohio, and two affecting the Friedman-Harry Marks Clothing company, New York. The labor relations board lost all five cases in lower courts.

FRANCE at last came to the conclusion that it could no longer support the franc and Premier Leon Blum's government decided to abandon the gold standard and devalue the franc to between 4 1/2 and 5 cents. The Netherlands, Latvia and Switzerland immediately determined to follow suit. To save the world from a currency war, the United States, Great Britain and France entered into a "gentlemen's agreement." The exact nature of this agreement was not revealed, but the United States promised to employ its $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to head off the feared struggle. Certain it is that each of the three nations reserves the right to depart from the pact if and when its own interests require such a course. An expected outcome of the new general dropping of the gold standard may be an international conference for stabilization of world currencies. This might be held in Washington.

Blum called a special session of the French parliament to pass the necessary legislation, and his plan was given grudging approval by the finance committee of the chamber of deputies. Its adoption by the chamber, where the "popular front" has a big majority, was easy, but a fight developed in the senate.

The dangerous political situation ended when the senate passed a substitute measure to revalue the French currency but denied the government's original request for full power to control price rises. The government approved the substitute bill, withdrawing its opposition to senate objections to particular clauses in the original measure.

The price-fixing problem was solved in this way: After devaluation, the government may be given the right to control prices for six months by issuing decrees. These decrees, however, must be submitted to the national economic council for ratification.

From the Chicago Journal of Commerce is taken this plain statement as to what France's action means to the ordinary American citizen:

"Reducing the amount of gold represented by one franc will mean that the average American will be able to travel cheaper in France than for the last two years. French wines should be cheaper in this country and women should be able to buy French perfume for less. That should be true of nearly everything else that France exports to the United States—unless this country hikes the tariff on French exports or French prices boom out of proportion to devaluation. Indirectly, franc devaluation may keep Americans from war as the act may be a wedge for currency stabilization the world over and more brotherly relations between all nations. But don't lose any sleep over it unless you are getting an income from someone in France. In that case, since it will take more francs to buy dollars, your income will be cut. Everyone should have an interest in developing sound foreign trade and if franc devaluation starts the ball rolling in the right direction the eventual hope for development is free foreign exchange movements. It's necessary for one country's money to be negotiable in all capitals of the world if trade is to flow freely. That's the big goal."

Communist Cry Stirs Up Heat

Real Issues of Campaign Turned Aside; G. O. P. Has Nothing to Offer

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON. — As the campaign warms, there is less light and more heat, and everyone got hot over the charge that Roosevelt was a communist. That whisper has been going round and round among the stock brokers and society folks, but it comes out now in the political debate; and it has the effect of turning the real issues aside.

Roosevelt is just as American as the Stars and Stripes. In fact there is a virility to his Americanism that shines out even more than that of some of the old timers. Any communist who votes for Roosevelt is voting for the best man, but he is not voting for a President who will compromise with American ideals.

Progressive ideas are always called radical. When the elder La Follette started his progressive career which startled the industrialists, he was assailed by the old guard as a menace to the United States; and yet out of the 35 major industrial, social and tax reforms that started with the elder La Follette, 32 have been written into the law of the land. Men were called radicals once for advocating public education—Theodore Roosevelt was the object of a Wall street campaign of defamation. They said he was a dangerous radical because of some of the wild men who voted for him. His answer was that there is a lunatic fringe to every reform movement. In this campaign there is really no reason why political lunatics should vote for Roosevelt as they can locate their own kind in any one of three or four minority parties, such as the Lemke party, the Socialist party or Communist party.

All this agitation about communism arises out of the fact that the Landon-Knox campaign has been largely a name calling affair without promise of a program from the Republican party. That's the way the G. O. P. has so far impressed the mass of common people who have heard their idol Roosevelt berated, but they are still listening to hear what Landon and Knox can do that will be better for them than that which Roosevelt has already done.

The masses of folks saw the hungry fed, saw jobless men put to work; saw factories reopen and men go to work at better wages than before; saw the banks reopen with insured bank accounts; saw millions of families saved from mortgage eviction—and they wonder what it is that Messrs. Landon and Knox are finding fault with.

Actually the Republican party does not offer any precise principles of government at this stage. It seems much more interested in damaging the reputation of the administration than in educating the country in that "good government" of which they speak so feelingly. Theirs has been a mud throwing campaign, and it makes their head men so mad they can't see straight when Roosevelt calmly goes ahead about the business of running the United States, apparently taking no notice of what his opponents are saying about him.

Of course, a President can act, while all a candidate can do is promise; but when you have modest candidate Landon floundering around for a speech that will not commit him to anything; and vice presidential candidate Knox roaring up and down the land like a bull in a china shop—and accomplishing no more than that—When you have Chairman John Hamilton who apparently imagines all wisdom will die with him—you have a pretty rick to educate the mass of voters in anything at all! I have read all the speeches I could get from all three of these Head Republicans—but trying to patch them together into a plan of government is beyond me.

Knox Surprises.
Colonel Knox furnishes many surprises in this campaign—He surprised many of us when he endorsed the idea of social security and old age pensions and jobless insurance, because Knox is the principal representative of the old guard in the campaign, and the old guard has consistently looked on social security, old age pensions and insurance against a jobless state as completely communistic. So when the colonel told a California audience that these things were OK with him it was surprising, until you realized that he was talking to California people who are apparently a hundred per cent sold on bigger and better old age pensions.

public works are a hundred per cent favored, the colonel promises to continue them all with bigger and better attributes—and at the same time reduce taxation, curtail expenses and balance the budget. The old fashioned medicine man himself couldn't do a better job at selling a bottle that would cure hoarseness or remove warts, which-ever might be required.

Something for Nothing.
The more I read and hear about the Landon farm program the more it all seems to me like the old medicine man's gag of "something for nothing." It is impossible for me to understand how Landon can give us the tremendous cash benefits he promises; and at the same time reduce taxes and balance the budget. In fact I think the Governor is talking through his hat.

The Republicans have told the city folks that food costs are high because of the cash paid by the federal government to the farmers; they indicate they will put a stop to all that when Governor Landon is elected. That's a good gag in the city; it makes unthinking millions really believe that the cost of living will decrease tremendously if Landon is elected. Everybody will have a job when Landon is in the White House; money will flow freely; and living will cost practically nothing!

Well, that doesn't go well with farm leaders; so Governor Landon at Des Moines goes through an amazing performance which can be likened to a magician making rapid passes to dazzle the audience and then bringing a rabbit out of the hat. In fact Landon promises that he would give everything that Roosevelt has given the farmers; drought relief; seed loans; he would give crop insurance too; he will conserve the soil to a fare-you-well—And he's going to give the farmers a subsidy; the same subsidy which his party repudiated and rejected for years; but this time it's actually going to be handed around in cash.

Every farmer with a family type farm is going to have a wad of federal cash which will offset the ruination of those awful surpluses which the farm leaders talk about. No large commercial farms can have these surpluses. That sounds good until it reaches New York where many commercial farms are owned by insurance companies; and when they hear about it in Wall street, I fear that Governor Landon will be rebuked. Because, although Wall street doesn't like the idea of doing anything with farmers except milk them dry, Wall street occasionally buys a farm of its own and wants to get all the federal subsidy that's being handed 'round.

To anyone who is looking for good sound philosophy of government and a plan to do something for agriculture, the whole show is sickening.

Landon's Promises.
Practically every promise Landon makes to farmers has been lifted bodily from the Roosevelt program, yet Landon has the nerve to say that after nearly four years the country is still without a settled policy for agriculture. Farmers know that for twelve years they suffered, and that they began to improve their lot when Roosevelt took office; when Henry Wallace began to operate, and when congress enacted its famous series of New Deal farm laws. Farmers know the difference between their four billion dollar income in 1932 and their eight billion dollar income this year.

The Progressives.
The progressive leaders who met in Chicago in September and endorsed Roosevelt could easily elect Landon if they had swung that way. The progressive bloc in congress, whose leaders are such men as Norris of Nebraska, La Follette of Wisconsin, Maverick of Texas, represents literally millions of votes; and inasmuch as many of their followers are nominally Republicans, this progressive consolidation for Roosevelt is vastly weightier than the much vaunted "take-a-walk" Democrats of the conservative stratum.

Progressive politics means that section of public life where human rights precede property rights without going "insane" about it. I think Senator Norris of Nebraska hit the nail squarely when he said "Roosevelt is the only President since his illustrious namesake whose heart beats in sympathy with the common man"—The progressives who met to endorse Roosevelt represent men who have been fighting corporation interests in behalf of the ordinary citizen; who have been working for better industrial conditions and wages, who have fought child labor; farm leaders who refuse to be catspaws for industrial high tariff schemes; labor leaders and many others of that general class.

Noticeable among labor groups were men from the four railroad brotherhoods, one of the most powerful organizations in the country and one which has steadfastly turned toward the progressive candidate whoever he has been. To these men the Roosevelt fight is simply one long battle against corporate interests which have worked in the dark to throttle the advancing cause of the worker. Interesting also was the presence of Senator Benson and Governor Peterson of Minnesota, speaking for the Farmer-Labor party.

The progressive conference was probably more completely representative of the average working man and woman and the average farm dweller than any conference held in several years.

PATTERNS of WOLFPEN

SYNOPSIS

In 1785 Saul Pattern of Virginia came into the beautiful virgin country of the Big Sandy valley in Kentucky. Chief of the perils were the Shawnees, who sought to hold their lands from the ever-encroaching whites. From a huge pinnacle Saul gazed upon the fat bottoms and the endless acres of forest in its primeval quietude at the mouth of the Wolfpen, and felt an eagerness to possess it, declaring it a place fit for a man to LIVE in! Five years later he returned with Barton, his fifteen-year-old son, and built a rude cabin. In Saul's absence the Indians attacked Barton and wounded him so badly Saul was forced to return with him to Virginia. In 1794, when it was reasonably safe, Saul returned with his family and a patent for 4,000 acres, this time to stay. He added to the cabin, planted crops and fattened his stock on the rich meadows. Soon other settlers arrived. A century later, in the spring of 1885, we find Cynthia Pattern, of the fifth generation following Saul, perched on the pinnacle from which her great-great-grandfather had first viewed Wolfpen Bottoms. The valleys, heretofore untouched by the waves of change sweeping the Republic, are at last beginning to feel that restless surge. Her dad, Sparrel, and her brothers, Jesse, Jasper, and Abrel, convert the old water-wheel mill to steam power. Cynthia feels that something out of the past has been buried with Saul. Cynthia is a pretty and imaginative miss in her late teens, who often recreated Saul and her other forbears, and fancied them still living. Sparrel proudly brings home the first meal out of the steam mill, and Julia, his wife, is pleased. Generation after generation has added comforts and conveniences to Saul's homestead, and Sparrel has not shaken the family goes easily into the work of the new season, due to the simplicity of life designed long ago on the Wolfpen. Joy is abundant. Jesse plans to study law. A stranger, Shellenberger by name, comes to Wolfpen, intent on buying timber land. Sparrel refuses his offer. Shellenberger tells of progress in the outside world. With the advent of Shellenberger some intangible disturbing alteration seems to affect the atmosphere of Wolfpen. Sparrel decides to sell timber land to Shellenberger. Jesse arranges to study law with Tandy Morgan.

"I've seen a plenty, and a whole lot more than anybody can see all at one time. But I'll look at it some more when I'm busy around the house. A body has to look in as well as out to see things."

Doug looked out at her in the puzzled incomprehension he so often regarded her with, and then shifted his eyes to the mule, patting her neck.

"I just didn't allow to see you down here," he said.

"Well, anyway I ought to be getting back. I didn't think about it being so far along into the evening. Daddy and the boys will be getting in about dark."

She arose from the roots and stepped out into the path where the sun caught the pink in her cheeks and the luster in her black hair, and Doug's eyes were frankly upon her.

"Is Sparrel over at town?"

"Yes, early this morning."

"I wanted to see him. Ma's got her pains around her heart again, she says, and she's right poorly again this evening. She needs some of Sparrel's medicine."

"I don't know whether he's got any or not, but Mother knows, and Daddy

"There Ain't Nobody There With Her Right Now."

will be along soon. Come on up to the house and wait and eat with us."

"I don't reckon I can do that. There ain't nobody there with her right now."

They walked up the path together, leading his animal.

"You folks about got all your crops in?" Doug asked.

"They're about all in now, I guess. How are your crops?"

"I got the lower part of Buzzard to get in yet and some late melons down by the barn there by the creek."

They went through the gate into the lower orchard and Doug closed it.

"I'm getting things up in the pretty good shape around the place," Doug said. "I'm figuring on a new kitchen back of the house and a covered-over porch between like down at Connelly's."

"I guess your mother'll like that."

"I reckon she will, but I wasn't just thinking of her by herself, and he was full of surprise at hearing himself say a thing he didn't know he was going to say. Doug was twenty. He had lived all his years on the Mason place joining Sparrel Pattern on one side of Gannon. Cynthia saw the rush on his face without turning to look toward him. She made no answer but to continue to walk easily by his side on the edge of Long Bottom.

"I've got something 'nobody knows about, and I've a mind to tell you what it is."

"I won't have any talk on it, Doug, if you want to tell me."

"I got a big 'seng patch set out and they're coming up, hundreds of them. I went out and gathered 'em up seeds of the berries 'st fall and planted them in that open spot at the head of Buzzard. It ought to have a sight of money out of them if the price stays up till the drover comes."

"I'm proud you thought of raising it. Instead of going all over the hills hunting for it."

Doug threw the bridle reins over a paling, and then walked on through the barn-lot by Cynthia's side. They went through the gate by the well into the yard. Julia was coming around the house wearing her great calmness which seemed to partake of the timeless alteration of evening and morning in this valley surrounded and protected by thick acres of trees. She greeted Doug with a soft kindness and inquired of his mother.

"I'll just see if I can't find some of Sparrel's medicine for her," she said.

In the small pantry-like room behind the kitchen where Sparrel kept some of his pharmacy, she found a bottle of brown medicine smelling pungently of saffron and foxglove and marked in Sparrel's neat penmanship, "Dropsy—Heart pains."

"You better stay and eat with us," Julia said. "Sparrel and the boys'll be along soon now, and Abrel's out milking."

"I don't guess I can tonight. I ought to be getting back now."

"Well, you be sure and let us know how your mother gets along, and I'll tell Sparrel when he comes."

"I'm sure much obliged to you all," Doug said.

Lingering at the gate, Cynthia watched the evening absorb him as the morning had effaced Sparrel and taken away Jesse, and she felt that the day had been long and she felt that the difference in the atmosphere of the place as the restlessness of evening surged over all things with the portent of night with its quiet and its restoration. Then she went back to the kitchen to help with the supper.

When Cynthia heard through the dusk the steps of Abrel as he went into the spring-house with the milk, and then the sound of Sparrel and the boys on the porch, she began to feel that the balance was almost restored as before.

But as she lay that night thinking over the day and its moods, and of the brief account of Sparrel's meeting with Shellenberger and their plans for surveying the place, she knew that all was not quite as before. And as she fell asleep she heard the restless voice of the disturbed timberland sighing over the leaves of the forests and running down into the roots and hiding there twisted between the leaf-mold and the sand.

The days that followed Sparrel's journey to town were tense, and the self-contained peace and quiet of the familiar routine were interrupted by an unfamiliar consciousness of suspense. Cynthia felt it acutely as she sat in the weaving-room with a shuttle of thread in her lap going over the brief account Sparrel and the boys had given of their day in Pikeville. "It has made a difference in everybody, seems like. Daddy tries to be just the same but you can see it on his mind. Jasper is thinking about Jane Burden all right, but he won't ever say anything to anybody. Abrel is nervous and wants the strange men to hurry and come in here. Jesse is all wrapped up in his law book and puzzling all the time over the hard words. Mother spends hours in her garden tapping the earth with her hoe and not showing that anything is any different, but that is her way and she makes everything seem all right as it is. I'll be right glad when Daddy gets his herbs mixed up for me to take down to Mason's and feel the Finemare move under my legs."

Julia placed two loaves of her freshly baked wheat bread in the round basket and Sparrel put in a large bottle of his compound.

"And tell her if she needs anything to just tell you," Julia said.

Cynthia went down to the barn. The Finemare tidily brushed and curried was already saddled and waiting under the shed by the stifle block. She set the basket on the step and went into the barn to look for Jesse. She found him in the harness-room astride a saddle on a wooden frame by the open window bending over his law book propped against the pommel of the saddle.

"This is the way we farm on Wolf-pen this spring," Cynthia said.

Jesse was startled at the sound of her voice and almost dropped the Blackstone. "I was just reading a page or two of law. The Finemare's all saddled for you."

"I saw, much obliged to you, Jesse, for doing it. You looked like it was right hard reading."

"It is awful hard some places, and I got to hunt up lots of words in Dad's dictionary. See here now: 'This law of nature, being coeval with mankind, and dictated by God himself, is of course superior in obligation to any other. What is 'coeval'? Do you know?'"

"Not if it don't mean as evil as mankind."

"No, it couldn't be that. That would make the law be evil, don't you see? And then it says 'in order to apply this to the particular exigencies of each individual.' Wonder what an individual's 'exigencies' are?"

"I don't know, Jesse. That's hard. But lawyers have to know lots of big words about simple things. You'll have to ask Tandy Morgan. But it is nice when you're reading about it. Do you know when the surveyors are coming?"

"Just any time now."

Jesse laid the book on the shelf above the saddle rack and went with Cynthia to the shed to un hitch the Finemare. Cynthia arranged herself on the red and green carpet-covered saddle, her right knee in the leather rest, and her full blue homespun skirt spread carefully over her feet. Jesse handed her the basket and opened the gate.

"Are you going to see Sarah Mason or Doug?" Jesse asked, lifting his eyebrows.

"I'm taking medicine to Sarah, and I reckon he'll be out in a hollow plowing like a body ought to be on a day like this," Cynthia said, riding off.

She rode smoothly in rhythm with the movement of the Finemare, down Wolfpen and into Gannon Creek at the ford, listening to the liquid sounds of the horse hoofs against the boulders under the water, feeling the mare stretch out her neck and nose to gain freedom from the bridle to drink at leisure under the shadow of the Pinnacle.

The Mason place was just off the road behind a weathered paling fence. Cynthia led the Finemare under the elm tree by the gate. The yard was full of chickens. She found Sarah on the back porch which connected the old house with the summer kitchen. The floor was laid but the roof was unfinished.

"Oh, for land's sakes, it's you, Cynthia," Sarah began, painfully drawing her bare and swollen ankles under her faded dress. She was a heavy woman, and her slabby face was lined with work and suffering. Her agitation and distress at the mere sight of a kind neighbor bearing gifts of medicine and fresh wheat bread sent a twist through Cynthia's stomach and she, suffered with her.

"Law, Cynthia, I'm glad to see you I have to cry. Why, it's been months since I saw you, hain't it, and I can't get out any more and Hester had to go over to help out at Elley's a spell and Doug's head over heels in work and everybody's busy with the planting and I can't get around to do anything or see anybody and I get so lonesome some days. And I get to thinking about Grier dropping dead in the oats patch—it's five year come July—and wondering why the good Lord willed it that way. It's been hard sence then with me down and all, but Doug took right a-hold just like he was a man and not a fifteen-year-old boy and he's done fine. He'll go for Julia's wheat bread; we don't have none in the house. How's Julia and all the folks and how's her fowers this year? It's been an' early spring and not much danger of more frost is there?"

Sarah paused to wipe the last of her tears. Cynthia put from her mind the thought of deformity and pain, and looked into the lonely heart of Sarah Mason. She selected one of the questions, and said with compassion, "Her garden looks just fine this year. How is Elley getting along now?"

She Was Moved by the Eagerness in His Eyes and the Pleading in His Voice.

But she did not hear the story of Elley's stomach trouble since the last baby was born. She was gazing across the yard, following her own reflection. "The grass is awful long and bending over and needs a sickle in it. Sarah Mason asked about Mother's fowers because she's not able to plant any. The garden looks bare. The meadow is pretty the way it goes past the barn and down to the creek. The Mason place always smells musty, somehow, like it wasn't happy in its life. It's not just because Grier Mason nor Doug never built a mill or a brick kiln or a dyeing vat or a smooth finished loom for their women. It's just the way one place differs from another the way people do. Maybe Grier Mason dropping dead cradling oats and Sarah full of misery and Elley's trouble and Doug hard working got settled in down here and won't leave. I don't think I could ever marry Doug and come to this place to live. Maybe if I actually loved him. He'll make a fine place, but it seems like it squeezes some good part clean out of a body, even just sitting here in the . . . I must be listening to Sarah when she's talking to me."

"A body has to bear what's put upon them. He knows what's best for us. Doug's been making this porch in the evenings. He's such a good boy." She dabbed her eyes.

"Did the medicine help you any?" Cynthia asked.

"It helps a sight. I don't know what we'd do on this creek if we didn't have Sparrel to look after us."

"Mother said tell you if there was anything she could do." She got up and put the empty basket over her arm.

"Much obliged. You're not going back a-ready, Cynthia, so soon?"

"I ought to get back now."

"Doug, he'll be put out to hear you've been here and him not see you. He thinks a sight of you, Cynthia, and that's plain."

"I just rode down a minute to see how you were and bring the medicine."

Cynthia listened politely for a time to the urgings of Sarah Mason, and when she could she said a final good-by.

The soft thump of the horse's hoofs in the moist earth soon established a new rhythm in her soul and she emerged from the feeling of oppression which had engulfed her before the pained and weeping face of Sarah Mason.

Doug was watering his mules in a little pool in the branch at the mouth of Buzzard Hollow. In a flash of joy he called out to Cynthia. His voice took form slowly and waited an instant before she could recognize it as something outside of her own thought.

"Why, howdy, Doug."

"Where you been down our way?"

"To your house to take some things to your mother."

"You don't need to be rushing right back so soon."

"I guess I'll have to be getting back this time."

Doug had left his mules to drink and had come down to the road. Cynthia observed that his face was older than twenty years, and already heavily tanned. He was barefoot. He rubbed the nose of the Finemare.

"She's a beauty," he said.

"How you getting on with your plowing?" Cynthia asked.

"I got all the low bottoms done now."

He was captivated by her as she sat above him on the side of the Finemare, her knee pushing out the blue twill of her skirt which spread neatly to the tip of her shoe in the stirrup, the round basket on her left arm, her dark hair lustrous under the straw hat, her pink skin glowing under her eyes.

"You're about the prettiest thing I ever saw on a horse, Cynthia," he said very simply.

"Why, Doug, you mustn't say any such a thing."

"I want to show you that 'seng bed I told you about. It's just a little bed. You don't even have to get down. It's right around the bend."

She was moved by the eagerness in his eyes and the pleading in his voice. "Well, just for a minute. I must be getting back."

She slid lightly from the saddle. The mules had finished drinking. Doug slapped one of them on the rump, urging it out of the path. Doug led, Cynthia and the Finemare up Buzzard to his 'seng bed."

"There it is," he said with pride.

It lay like a still pool at the abrupt head of the hollow, a flat place at the feet of the steep hills which closed in upon it in the shape of a horseshoe. A thread of water dripped over a green rock cliff from the upper reaches of the gully. It trickled around the edge of the 'seng patch into Buzzard branch and ran on down the hollow into Gannon Creek. Hazel bushes, laurel and spicewood shrubs were thick around its edges. The odors of mungy loam and rotting leaves and of balsam and ground pine on the sunned slopes of the mountains were tossed together by a light wind in the bowl of the hollow and lay heavy on the air. Cynthia gave a little cry of surprise.

"It's a pretty place, Doug."

"They're sprouting fine. Look."

He raked away the leaves and exposed the pale olive plumules springing vigorously out of their forked roots and crowding a passage into the upper air.

"They're fine plants. When did you make it?"

"Last fall. It's too wet and shady for corn anyway, so I just got the idea to plant 'seng berry seeds. I'll make a sight of money off of this patch," he said with confidence.

Cynthia's eyes wandered over the lovely spot and then turned upon Doug standing with his hand on the leg-rest of her saddle.

"I hope you do. It's getting right scarce in the hills."

"If I can make me some ready money I want to ask you something, Cynthia."

"It's a good bed. I must be getting back now. I hope your mother gets all right."

"It ain't that so much. You don't know how it is with all your folks up on Wolfpen to work all by yourself all the time. It's nice to see you and have you look at my patch and not anybody else know about it."

"It's fine and I won't make any money of it."

She turned away and they went back down the hollow. She mounted the saddle from a fallen willow. Doug handed her the basket, and she smoothed her skirt over her legs, adjusting her knee in the rest, thinking: "He looks up at me nearly as sad-eyed as Sarah, but I don't feel anything only sorry and I wish I was already gone now for there isn't anything to say to him staring up like that."

"I must go. You come up when you can."

The Finemare stepped impatiently off in a running walk which carried Cynthia quickly and without jostle up Gannon toward Wolfpen while Doug followed after her with his eyes, seeing the blue dress vibrating over her arched knee long after she was gone

CHAPTER VII

The days passed but everybody continued to be restless. Julia had caught up with her garden now, and even she was affected beneath her outward calm. At the supper table she said casually: "I've a mind to go over to Jenny's tomorrow and stay all night. The men will be coming in soon and we'll be tied down a right smart while they're here."

"That's so, Julia," Sparrel said. "Somebody ought to go over there."

In the early morning Sparrel handed her into the saddle, and the boys opened the gate, watching her ride.

Cynthia waved farewell from the yard. "It seems the natural way of things for menfolk to be going away somewhere. But when Mother ever goes off by herself, Daddy and the boys look glum all day. I'd like to ride as straight and easy on a side-saddle as Mother can. She does everything quiet and easy but I get hot and hurried."

Julia's absences from the place were so infrequent that the house, the yard, the garden all preserved in consequence a more profound silence.

The day was hot and sultry. All the crispness of the mornings was gone in mid-May. When Cynthia built the supper fire in the stove and put the sweet potatoes to bake, the heat filled up the kitchen for the first time in that year. She laid off the neat blue twill dress for the coolness of an old and faded brown calico. "It's an ugly old thing but it's nice and cool to cook in. The first hot days always tire a body out as if I'd just as soon sit down on the porch and not cook any hot supper if I wasn't for the men."

Instincts

Instincts are natural spontaneous impulses or propensities in the lower animals or in men, moving them without reasoning toward actions essential to their existence, preservation, or development.

Cowboy Terms

If you are one of those who thought lariat and lasso meant the same thing you have been badly fooled. One is a noun and the other a verb in the cattle country, according to Dar McCarthy, of Montana, in his book of "cowboy lingo, rodeo terms, dude ranch jargon, range profanity and other Western expressions" published for the benefit of posterity. A "lariat," according to the author, is a rope often used to "lasso" various animals. A "paint" is a horse "splashed with several colors" while "rotten loggin'" has nothing to do with a lumber camp. It means "spark-in'" in the moonlight.

THE MOUNTING COST OF OLD AGE PENSIONS

Last summer several candidates for governor and numerous candidates for places in the legislature were loudly declaiming in favor of a pension of $30 per month for everybody over 65 years of age.

We are now paying in reality a pension of about $16 or $18 on the average to the needy only, and about 80,000 persons in Texas have already qualified. Orville Carpenter, the state administrator, estimates that the total number will be about 177,000 when all pending applications shall have been passed upon.

To pay this number of pensioners an average of $16 per month would require $3,832,000 per month or $27,984,000 a year. Get your pencil and figure it out for yourself.

Under the present set-up, the State furnishes half the old-age pension fund and the Federal Government furnishes the other half. Already, with only 80,000 person on our pay rolls in Texas, Uncle Sam is complaining that our Texas law is too liberal and he is threatening to cut off his funds unless we tighten up on our law.

Even if Uncle Sam comes across with his half of the $16 for each of the 177,000 aged needy persons in Texas, our own State government is going to be compelled to dig deep into some body's pocket-book to provide the funds with which to make the payments.

Some have suggested a general sales tax; others have suggested a tax on our natural resources, which, it is claimed, are escaping their just share of taxation in this state. By natural resources, we mean sulphur, gas, oil, salt, and other such commodities.

As between the two suggestions, we much prefer a tax on natural resources. We believe it would be fairer and less burdensome to the people of Texas.

But whatever means we employ,

it is perfectly apparent that we must raise a vast sum each year, in addition to the taxes imposed heretofore, in order to pay the old-age pensions.

To meet the emergency that now exists and keep the payments to the aged needy coming each month, Governor Allred has suggested that $3,000,000 be diverted from the highway fund. This suggestion is meeting with violent opposition on the grounds that such diversion would greatly hamper and probably disrupt our present highway building program and thus throw many more men out of employment. It occurs to us that it certainly would be a dangerous procedure.

The payment of a very modest pension to even the needy persons in this state over 65 years of age, is confronting us with some very grave problems. All of which shows how foolish, not to say wicked, were the demagogic proposals advocated by many candidates before the people of Texas last summer to pay the full amount of $30 to everybody, rich and poor-alike, over 65 years of age.

WHAT KIND OF MOVIES DO WE WANT?

There is no doubt but that the motion picture show has become a great educational agency. Children as well as adults learn much in the picture show about the world they live in—about geography, races of men, nationalities, social customs, industry, commerce, transportation, and innumerable other things—that they can get only vaguely in the public schools and even the colleges of our country.

But the morals and the spiritual natures of children and even of adults are also greatly affected by the motion picture. It has become a grave question as to whether the motion picture has not become a more potent factor than the church in the moulding of the character and the lives of the children. Yes, and of the grown people also. If any one is inclined to doubt this, let him note the crowds that flock into the picture theatre several nights each week and the comparatively few that may be found in our churches on Sunday. In fact our young people in most of our towns and cities have almost quit attending church entirely, especially on Sunday nights.

For these reasons, it is highly important that the fathers and mothers of America shall make much of the Church and of the Christian influence of the home, and that they shall constantly demand a higher and better type of picture show.
Many picture shows, it is true, are unobjectionable, but on the other hand many otherwise very fine shows have bad features that should be eliminated. Our picture shows should be as clean as our school books. To say that this would destroy their power to afford entertainment is as foolish as it would be to contend that clean humor like that found in Mark Twain's stories, for example, is less entertaining than the vulgar suggestiveness found in the writings of many less eminent authors. With our picture shows thoroughly cleaned and purified, they may become one of the most beneficial factors in building the characters as well as informing the minds of our boys and girls.

Let us add that our motion pictures will be largely what we the people want them to be.

This "yellow-dog" theory of supporting the party nominee seems to have become unpopular everywhere except in the South, and we doubt if it is as popular here as it once was. That great Democratic leader at least we were told he was a great Democratic leader a few years ago—Al Smith, has bolted the ticket and is out making speeches for the Republican candidate, Alf Landon. With many Democrats eight years ago, the decision to scratch the nominee was prompted by a sense of patriotism and moral righteousness.
Al Smith, we are persuaded, simply has a bad case of "sour grapes." He has been mad and pouting since he was turned down by the Democratic convention in 1932. But before we condemn Democrats indiscriminately for scratching a Democratic ticket, let us remember that Franklin Delano Roosevelt himself just this summer advocated the re-election of an Independent Republican, Senator Norris of Nebraska, over any Democrat that might aspire to the place.

BUT OIL-PLATING LASTS...

Change today

Right you are. The weather hasn't made up its mind yet.
But you don't care, once Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented—is Oil-Plating your engine for Winter.

Change to modern Oil-Plating today, for instance. Then every cylinder, piston, bearing and other part is completely Oil-Plated

And today... tomorrow... next month... as long as you use Germ Processed, this Oil-Plating will still be up there.
It gets there by means of the special "hyper-oily concentrate" which is alloyed into Germ Processed oil under patents. In circulating, this oil renews its genuine Oil-Plating, which doesn't return to the crankcase, but stays up all through your engine.

Thus the old cry of "get your right Winter viscosity" isn't the half of it, now that you can get exclusive Oil-Plating, too—a great big extra. Oil-Plating is all ready to lubricate before your starter even turns, and that lets your battery live. Oil-Plating doesn't run off in any weather, and that saves your engine and oil. You keep away from your next quart—your next battery—your next car, by changing today to Conoco Germ Processed oil.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES NEXT SUNDAY MORNING

After the slow-down of the rains, the excitement of the Lubbock Fair and other world-wide noises, it may be that the Lord's folks, all over the country, will have more quiet for worship and realities. And where the crop and temporal things have failed us in a way this year, still we can all count on a spiritual harvest, within and without, every passing year. The Christian way after all is the way of the more abundant life; the Bible, the history of the Church and the experience of Christians all attesting to the same great truth. Sunday school hour and preaching service Sunday morning. If you don't go elsewhere, drop around to the Presbyterian Church. You will always find a fine fellowship there and a cordial welcome. We are glad to have visitors and strangers in our services always. Come next Sunday.

Morning Theme: "People with one Talent." Most of the world's work is done by people "with one talent," not discouraged with their little but crowned while they use it. Be in this service. Glad to have you.

SENIOR EPWORTH LEAGUE

The need for a president of the Senior Epworth League had arisen as Miss Eva Douthit, who was president, has gone away to college. This need was met last Sunday evening by an election of officers. Miss Luda Strasner presided and was elected president. David Weathers was elected vice-president, Miss Mary Helen Park, secretary and treasurer, and Lois Montgomery, reporter. After the business session, Reverend Pearce, Presiding Elder, spoke to the group about plans for the meetings throughout the week. He then gave a short talk on "Evils of Alcohol."

The members of the League are deriving much benefit from these meetings and invite all young people to meet with them. Plans are being formulated for a helpful and interesting program for next Sunday evening at six-thirty o'clock.

BAPTIST W. M. S.

In a joint meeting in the home of Mrs. P. M. Billman Monday afternoon the Blanche Rose Walker circle rendered an interesting program on "The Grace of Giving." The Lottie Moon Circle was hostess. Members of the two circles attending were Mesdames: J. B. Walker, H. F. St. Clair, A. O. King, J. L. Nye, Garland Pennington, W. C. McKenzie, Wiley Portenberry, J. W. Minor, Mother Weathers, R. C. Wells and P. M. Billman.

The Lucille Reagan circle meeting with Mrs. E. I. Hill elected Mrs. H. B. Howell circle chairman and Mrs. Jim Burleson secretary. Those attending were: Mesdames: H. B. Howell, H. P. Caveness, W. M. Harris, W. O. Robertson, Jim Burleson, and E. I. Hill. Monday, October, 12, is Bible Study day at the church. Bro. Dale makes these studies most interesting. We invite all women of the church to attend.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Due to a misunderstanding, we preached here instead of O'Donnell last Lord's day.

We are feeling elated over the prospects of having Brothers Wallace and Taylor to hold our meeting, which will begin October 18. We could not have this strong team were it not for the generosity of one of our faithful members, which we surely do appreciate.

We trust that this community will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Brother Wallace, who is a man of much ability. It is he who debated with Frank Norris at Fort Worth.

We are planning on working with the congregation here and at O'Donnell this coming year, giving half time to each place.

As so many strangers are coming into our midst, it is a fine time to show hospitality, courtesy, and friendliness. Can Jesus depend on you?

Which position do you occupy in the church—an attendee or an absentee? A power or a problem? A giver or a getter? A promoter or a provoker? A goer or a gadder? A booster or a bucker? A supporter or a sponger? A soldier or a sorehead? A worker or a worrier? A friend or a fault-finder? A campaigner or a camper?—R. P. Drennon.

WILSON H. D. CLUB (Delayed)

The Wilson H. D. Club met at the home of Mrs. J. E. Richardson September 24. Due to the weather there was no program. Mrs. M. C. Brandon gave a detailed report of her trip to the Short-course at A. and M. College.

"I enjoyed every minute of the trip," said Mrs. Brandon. "I think anyone should consider it a privilege to make the trip. The lectures were intensely interesting."

Members present: Mrs. Howard Cook, Mrs. M. J. Soar, Mrs. P. D. Server, Mrs. J. F. Covey, Mrs. J. W. Wilson, Mrs. M. C. Brandon, Mrs. J. E. Richardson, Mrs. S. G. Anthony.

SCARLET FEVER SERIOUS DISEASE

Scarlet fever is prevalent in many parts of the State, according to reports sent in to the State Department of Health.

"The most effective means of preventing the spread of scarlet fever rests with the parents," Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, said. "In the majority of cases the infective agent which causes scarlet fever is transmitted in the discharges from the nose and throat."

"Contagion most usually occurs by direct contact through droplet infection or by handling of contaminated objects, such as toys or clothing infected by the patient. No one should be needlessly exposed to scarlet fever. You can protect the others in the family if you are careful."

"Scarlet fever is one of the most serious of children's diseases because of the damage it so often does to the heart, the kidneys, and the liver. If parents could be taught to realize that the after effect of most so-called children's diseases often is more serious than the original illness, greater care would be taken to protect children from catching each other's diseases."

"Early signs of scarlet fever are sore-throat, restlessness, chills, and vomiting. The child has fever and his skin is dry and hot. These early signs are followed in a day or two by a rash. At the first sign of illness, put the child in a room by himself and do not allow others to come near him. Call your family physician and follow his instructions as to food, clothing, and general care."

"The physician is required by law to report the case to the health department. Do your part by following carefully the quarantine instructions which the health officer will give you."

TRIPLETS NAMED FOR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Triplets arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shaw residing, one and one-half miles north of Old Knot Wednesday night. The first of the three boys arrived at 9:30 p. m.; he weighed 5 pounds and was named Franklin; the second arrived at 9:45 p. m., weighed 5 1-2 pounds and was named Delano; and the third arrived at 10 p. m., weighed 5 1-2 pounds and was named Roosevelt. From this you can see they are Democrats, born and bred and will vote for Roosevelt in November. And it was an old time Democrat G. S. True and a Democratic nurse who presided at this

People who have taken Black-Draught naturally are enthusiastic about it because of the refreshing relief it has brought them. No wonder they urge others to try it! . . . Mrs. Joe G. Mrs. Shaw who is but thirty-two years of age has given birth to eleven children.

Dr. True states that this is the first time in his 49 years of practice that he presided at the arrival of triplets. We are of the opinion that this is the first triplets for Howard County.—Big Spring News.

HOWARD COUNTY OFFICIALS AGAIN DISAGREE

During a session of the Commissioners Court Wednesday afternoon trouble between the judge and one of the commissioners broke out and when deputy sheriffs A. J. Merrick and Bob Wolf arrived on the scene Judge J. S. Garlington and Commissioner J. S. Winslow were found on the floor in a clinch.

They were in session to make a final approval of the budget and set the county tax rate and a disputed item on the budget started an argument which led to heated words.

Immediately after the trouble Mr. Winslow pled guilty to a charge of affray in the Justice of Peace Court Judge Garlington stated he was fining Winslow $100 and costs for contempt of court and striking the judge in open court.

He ordered County Clerk R. L. Warren to enter the order against Winslow and upon refusal to do so he fined Warren $100. County Attorney Wilburn Barcus was ordered to draw up a complaint against Winslow and upon his refusal Judge Garlington assessed a fine of $100 and a sentence of three days in jail.

After things quieted down the commissioners court resumed their session, approved the budget which is just about the same as last year and set the county tax rate at fifty cents on the $100 valuation, the same rate which has prevailed for the past several years.—Big Spring News.

A. W. White dropped into the News office Monday and said, "For Heaven's sake, cut out that want ad." He had inserted a little ad last week stating that he had some farms to rent. He indicated that the applicants were about to mob him. He had rented his farms.

UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

The "Sunday School Lesson" published each week in this newspaper has been adopted by thousands of church instructors throughout the United States as a regular part of their weekly work. It is a review and exposition of the international lesson for each week, prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages. In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student you will find it extremely helpful.

NYA Boys Working on Campus

Several of the NYA boys have been busy the past several days transplanting grass on the football field. It is hoped that the job will last long enough to get the field sodded. In that event it won't be many years until we can have a well sodded field that will be much better for playing football than the lake in which we played Crosbyton.

Librarians get Busy

Under the leadership of Mr. Barrett and Willie Chappell the library was opened to the student body this week. Some eight or ten boys and girls are taking turns serving as librarians. This is necessary in the absence of WPA Librarians which were used a part of last year. The new librarians are getting onto their duties and we hope they will soon be able to render efficient service. It looks now as if they are going to be able to be quite effective.

Bulldogs Play Draw Today

Tahoka's growling Bulldog is really snarling at this time. Although he as most Bulldogs do, got off to a late start it is felt that he is feeling his mettle more and more and will have a chance to taste victory for the first time in his melee with the Draw Team this afternoon. Local fans should give him their actual as well as moral support this afternoon and spur him on to victory. The student body is urged to get behind the Dogs, and let's go on and up the rugged road to success.

Chapel Postponed

In order to give the Sophomores time to prepare a special fire-prevention week and the Sophomores necessary to postpone assembly again this week until Friday. The assembly is to be held the fifth period today. Visitors will be welcome. As most students and parents know this has been designated as fire prevention program it has been mores are arranging a program that will be appropriate for the occasion.

School in The Last Days

Evidence may be had on every hand that we are now in the last days of the first lap of our school journey. The first six weeks will end next week. A number of students have assumed a more studious air. We wonder if it is camouflage or if they really mean it. Only time and the report cards will tell.

Demerit System Inaugurated

In assembly last week Mr. Penn announced the beginning of our demerit system. We have often longed for a school in which there would be no demerits, but it seems that we still have those few pupils in our midst who make us all submit to that most unpopular pastime. Why we couldn't all stay on the right track is something to wonder at. Especially since none think so much of the system. Yet if it must be it must be. Guess pupils are like the grownups. They have to be punished now and then for forgetting.

The Snoopers Column

All we know is what we see and hear as we roam around through the building, and what we read from papers, notes and blackboards here and there.

Guess there never was a school that needed more football spirit than ours does. Looks as if the boys are waiting to get the spirit from the student body and the student body is waiting to get it from the boys. So here we go round and round.

Wonder why it is that some people aren't satisfied unless they are doing things they shouldn't be doing. Wouldn't it be ideal to go to school where every one did his duty all the time?

Snoopers haven't been around much this week. We have been too busy thinking of all these tests the teachers have been giving. From the looks of what we have seen on the boards around, looks like we're in for a hard winter. But I bet we come out in the spring just like flowers and grass. Snoopin's not so easy as you'd

Gridiron Hero Now a Film Comedian

At the wheel of a 1933 model Ford is Andy Devine, Hollywood comedian, who stopped in Dallas to visit the Texas Centennial and inspected the Ford Exposition. Devine's companion is Ann Gordon, an information girl in the Ford building. Devine is on his way to New Orleans to appear in a new picture, "Murder on the Mississippi."

Andy Devine, Universal Pictures comedian, who is kept very busy in Hollywood appearing in featured roles, visited the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas and attracted considerable attention in the Ford building, where he autographed everything that the fans offered him.

Devine entered motion pictures several years ago after making a name for himself in one of the larger universities as a football player. His peculiar voice attracted immediate attention and shortly he think. Lot of folks just don't act the same when they think some one might be thinking they ought not be there doing that.

We think we've noticed a broader smile on Mr. Barrett's face since so many book peddlers have quit coming around. Can't blame him much for feeling better. We never had so much use for those animals ourselves.

Only thing wrong with John Santa Fe's idea about a trip to the Centennial is that we wonder where to get the $3.85. Still and all, it's a mighty cheap trip for all that could be seen.

Wonder why we couldn't give the school news a name of some sort. Most other schools have names for their section of the paper. Don't know what it should be, but guess "Bulldog Growls," or "Pup Reporter," or "Pup's Tale" or something else might be suitable.

Santa Fe Sponsors Trip

Announcement was made in home rooms Wednesday morning concerning a trip via John Santa Fe to the Texas Centennial at Dallas. The price of round trip tickets for teachers and pupils is $3.84. The time for this trip is to be from the 14th to the 17th of this month. We think this a very reasonable rate. Too, it is our opinion that no money could be better spent than to have all school children of the State see that great spectacle commemorating the hundredth birthday of our mighty commonwealth. Parents think seriously of this trip for your boy or your girl. If as many as fifty people go from Tahoka a special car will be designated for them; otherwise those who can will go from Lubbock on the special train that is being gotten up.

Office Girls Function

As was the practice last year, girls from the study halls are acting as office girls during the eight periods of the day. Girls now acting in this capacity in the order of the periods are Louise Rogers, Lois Montgomery, Lottie Jo Townes, Maxine Floyd, Goza Lee Thompson, Dottie Turrentine, Willie Chappell, and Doris Connolly.

Juniors Have Program

The Junior class had the program for chapel the fourth period, Friday the 25th of September. The program

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunk, of Halleville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'floppy.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." ... If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

week. They are exploring in the realm of Old English Literature. They are now studying the epic "Beowulf," and the class is finding it very interesting.

Officers elected in the Senior Class for the coming year which were not reported last week are: Robert Maddox, President; Lottie Jo Townes, Vice President; Ola Lee Stevens, Secretary-reporter; Champ Perkins, treasurer. Flower, Mo'to, and colors were selected and agreed upon. The class has already placed an order for rings and invitations. Now they are down to the business of determining whether they will need them.

Freshman

The freshman class of T. H. S. has begun work on a program to be presented in chapel on the 13th of October at the sixth period. This program is to contain miscellaneous numbers by as many of the class as possible. Under the leadership of our sponsors, Miss Phipps and Mr. Pratt, we are sure to have a real entertainment.

BIG SPRING IS VERY WET

The weather is not all that was wet during the past month since the jail records show that 51 paid fines or spent some time in jail on charges of drunkenness this past month.

The City accounted for the arrest of 37 on a charge of being drunk; 1 for disturbance; 4 traffic violations; 1 careless driving and 1 speeding. A one day jail sentence in addition to a fine was meted out to the careless driver.

The county jail register shows 15 arrested for being drunk; 1 drunk driving; 13 gaming; 1 forgery; 1 affray; 2 hot checking and 2 for investigation.

Twenty-one Mexicans and Negroes were arrested Saturday night by the constable's department on charges of gaming and drunkenness. —Big Spring News.

Goodbye, Mr. Gloom!

... We're a jolly bunch of renegades ... our sole purpose in life is to give Old Man Gloom the gate and usher in Mr. Sunshine by way of a million laughs. Turn to the Funny Page in every issue and let us help dispel those troubles!

● No man can really live by bread alone. Yes, we admit he'll EXIST, but there will be heavy lines of care running down his face, he'll forget how to smile.

● Verily, we humans need a few hearty guffaws now and then to chase away those wrinkles of care and give our spirits a lift. That's why this newspaper runs a collection of laugh-provoking comic strips on the Funny Page. Amid the depressing news of floods and earthquakes, crime and war, economic troubles and a host of other maladjustments on the face of Mr. World, it's a pleasant relaxation to shut your eyes on the day's bad tidings.

● You can get a joyful lift in spirits from the comics. We invite our readers to take a big swallow of this bottled sunshine. Turn to the Funny Page right now and forget your troubles!

● Our comic characters are a versatile lot, as you'll notice by glancing down the accompanying panel. If you want to chuckle over real troubles, turn to C. M. Payne's strip "S'Matter Pop," and see what a whale of an order he has to keep these boys of his under control ... Or glance at the adventures of the intellectual Adamson, as drawn by O. Jacobson.

● Something that will truly draw tears—of laughter—are Gluyas Williams' mischievous but lovable youngsters, Junior and the Baby ... Then there's "Finney of the Force," by Ted O'Loughlin, as comical and as true-to-life an Irishman as ever slipped a night stick ... Life out in Cactus Center, as described in S. L. Huntley's "Mescal Ike," has its exciting moments when its rip-roaring citizens are on the loose ... And when it comes to "The Featherheads," by Osborne, they speak for themselves. In fact, that's the best thing they do!

● Let these bearers of fun whittle your blues down to size. Toss trouble right out the window and get a new lease on life through the comic page—turn to it right now!

Old Pioneer Was Buried Here Wedns.

Mrs. Judie Ann Brown, 85, for many years a resident of Lynn county died at the home of her son, Frank Brown, in Canyon Wednesday morning and the remains were interred in the Wilson Cemetery Thursday afternoon.

Since the death of her husband, J. E. Brown, about five years ago, Mrs. Brown has been making her home with a daughter, Mrs. S. A. Cummings, near Wilson. She was visiting in Canyon when she was stricken with the illness from which she died.

Besides the son, Frank Brown, and the daughter, Mrs. Cummings, deceased also left two other daughters, Mrs. W. H. May of Wilson and a daughter who resides at Abilene. She had long been a devoted member of the Baptist Church and was loved and esteemed by all who knew her.

Funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. Allen Hardin, Baptist pastor at Post, the Wilson church not having a pastor at this time. Burial was under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home of Tahoka.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hines returned Tuesday from a week's visit with relatives at Brownwood. By the way, Pat says he has plenty of water on hand now, and he wants the world to know it. He has charge of our city water works.

CROWDED OUT

We regret that after several pages of our paper were printed this week, some of our best news matter was crowded out, including the school and community news from Draw. We shall try to prevent this from happening again.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cooper have returned to Tahoka from Coleman, where they have resided the past several months. Andrew is driving a truck for the Farmers Co-Operative Gin.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leslie returned Sunday night from a two weeks vacation, which they spent chiefly with relatives at Rails.

Russell Keltner, who has been employed a long time at the Tahoka Drug Store here, left Wednesday for Las Vegas, New Mexico, where he has accepted a position with a drug firm. He considers the change in the nature of a promotion.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Evans have recently moved into our little city from Post. Mr. Evans has accepted a position as Market Man at Boulliou's grocery store. They come recommended as "mighty good people" and we are glad to have them as citizens.

Mrs. Clay Bennett, who recently underwent a major operation in a Lubbock hospital, was able to return to her home here Tuesday. Her condition is said to be improving steadily.

Kidney Trouble Relieved and General Health Improved

Caretaker in Sweetwater Church Now Sleeps and Eats Well—All Sluggishness Gone

Practically all bodily ailments grow progressively worse when not correctly treated and have a tendency to lead to other disorders. That was the experience of Mr. Lawrence Penn, 310 Orange Street, Sweetwater, Texas. His first trouble was with his kidneys, this trouble becoming so severe that he could hardly sleep nights, having to get up 3 or 4 times every night. Indigestion and a general run down condition developed until he could hardly keep going. Williams S. L. K. Formula has given him real relief as expressed in his own words:

"No pains, no burning sensation, almost eliminated getting up nights. I sleep better than I have in a long time and my appetite is improving. All sluggishness has disappeared."

Williams S. L. K. Formula is recommended for kidney, liver and stomach disorders, the symptoms of which include lame back, distress after eating, headaches, a tired, run-down feeling and many others. Keep your kidneys, liver, and stomach healthy and nature will do the rest. You can get Williams S. L. K. Formula at Wynne Collier Druggist with the positive guarantee that if you are not entirely satisfied with your very first bottle your money will be refunded.

Jeffersonian Democrats

Offer Proof Of Anti-New Deal Charges

We recently made charges in this paper that Mr. Roosevelt and his administration were not Democrats, and had no claim to Democratic loyalty. We charged that continuation of his administration would undermine the economy of the nation, and threaten its institutions. We charged that he had opened the sluice-gates of the federal treasury, and through Boss Farley, had Tammanyized the nation. We charged that he had surrounded himself with radicals, and had more nearly discharged their radical platforms than his own. We are offering the proof of our charges through our paper, the Jeffersonian Democrat.

We reassert that we are regular Democrats. We would prefer to vote the regular ticket. But we refuse to put party loyalty above our loyalty to America. In scratching Roosevelt we violate no party pledge, for the primary ballot contained pledge to vote for the nominees of that primary. Mr. Roosevelt's name was not on that ballot. Furthermore, the Texas law instructs the voter how to cast a mixed ballot, and the Supreme Court has upheld that right.

We ask all true Democrats to weigh the proof before voting for a continuation of government by irresponsible radicals. Unlike the New Deal we have no ready made organization to spread our propaganda and raise money for our campaign. We will appreciate your support and whatever donations you can make us.

Write us for copies of The Jeffersonian Democrat, and help us distribute it throughout your county.

J. EVETTS HALEY, Chairman Jeffersonian Democrats of Texas, Austin, Texas.

F. Heckler has come upon a mystery in the Luther community. A crevice appeared near his home, and excess flood waters have been draining into this until it seemed that it had taken enough to fill a large lake. He said you could hear the water roaring along under-ground but he was unable to ascertain why it selected this spot to dig in. He said someone was going to have good luck in securing a good water supply if they tapped the underground reservoir this crevice was feeding.—Big Spring News.

WORKMANS COMPENSATION INSURANCE FOR STATE EMPLOYEES

(By Sen. Weaver Moore)

Under the law which was in force in Texas until a few years ago, an injured employee had to show negligence of some kind on the part of his employer in order to obtain damages for injuries sustained by him in the course of his employment.

Within the past few decades there has grown up in the United States a type of insurance termed Workman's Compensation Insurance. While the laws are similar in the various states, the details differ according to laws of each particular state. In the main, however under Workman's Compensation laws, it is not necessary to show that the injury to or death of the employee resulted from negligence of the employer, but merely to show that the employee was injured or killed in the course of his employment. Upon such showing the insurance company carrying the Workman's Compensation Insurance pays to the injured person, or if he is deceased pays to his dependants or relatives a certain percentage of his average weekly wages for a certain period of time; depending (in the case of an injured man), upon the extent of his injuries.

Neither the Common Law nor covers employees of the State, for the simple reason that the State Workman's Compensation Insurance cannot be sued without its consent. This theory, and it is more than a theory—it is a legal fact, that the State cannot be sued without its consent, is the modern version of the old doctrine of the Divine Right of Kings—the King can do no wrong. The proposed amendment is very brief—simply giving to the Legislature the power to provide and pay for Workman's Compensation Insurance for such of the State's employees as in its judgment it thinks proper. In other words, under the law and Constitution now existing an injured employee of the State (or his dependants, family, or relatives, should be killed), have no recourse for damages against the State. The proposed amendment would authorize the Legislature in its judgment to provide Compensation Insurance for an injured employee, or, in case of his death, for his family.

TEACHER RETIREMENT FUND PROPOSED

One of the proposed constitutional amendments which will be printed on the ballot in the general election of November 3 would authorize the legislature to levy taxes to provide a Retirement Fund for "persons employed in the public schools, colleges, and universities, supported wholly or partly by the State; provided the amount contributed by the State to such Retirement Fund shall equal the amount paid for same purpose from the income of each such person, and shall not exceed at any time 5 percent of the compensation paid to each person by the State and the school district, and shall in no one year exceed the sum of One Hundred Eighty ($180.00) Dollars for any such person."

There is a provision also that no person shall be eligible for a pension who has not taught twenty years in the state of Texas, but shall be entitled to a refund of the money he or she has paid into the fund.

To illustrate: If a teacher is receiving a monthly salary of $100.00 and pays $5.00 of this amount monthly into the Retirement Fund, then the State will likewise pay $5.00 monthly into the Retirement Fund for the benefit of this particular teacher. After any teacher shall have taught in this state for twenty years and shall have complied with the provisions of such Retirement Plan as may be enacted into law in accordance with this Amendment, then such teacher may retire and receive his or her pension.

If any teacher retires from the profession before having taught twenty years, then he or she can draw from the Retirement Fund only such sum as he or she may have paid into it.

In other words, this Amendment provides for a kind of Old Age Insurance for teachers.

The Man Who-o-o

THE DEMOCRATIC DONKEY

ALTHOUGH Thomas Nast is usually credited with being the man who made the donkey one of the emblems of the Democratic party, the fact is that some other cartoonist, whose name is unknown, used the same symbol fully three decades before the famous Harper's Weekly artist did.

From that time on, during the disputes over the money question, the donkey frequently appeared in the cartoons and became the accepted symbol of the Democratic party.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for October 11 BECOMING A CHRISTIAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:22-34; Philippians 3:7-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved—Acts 16:31.

The conversion of Lydia and her gracious growth into usefulness as a Christian is in striking contrast with the experience that Paul had with the demon-possessed damsel (Acts 16:16-18).

I. Christianity versus Crooked Business (Acts 16:22-24)

As long as the missionaries were at the place of prayer and in the home of Lydia they were not disturbed. But as soon as they touched the illegitimate gain of these "business" men who were making money from the misfortune of the poor damsel, bitter opposition arose.

II. Down, but not defeated (vv. 25, 26)

The preachers landed in jail, beaten, bloody, and chained to the stocks. What a disgrace it would have been if they had come there because of their misdeeds.

III. Salvation Instead of Suicide (vv. 27-34)

Thank God for the earthquakes in our lives which bring us to him. The jailer, being rightly exercised by God's dealings with him, asks the greatest and most important question that can ever come out of the heart of unregenerate man—"What must I do to be saved?"

IV. All for Christ (Phil. 3:7-14)

All was but loss to him compared with what he gained in Christ. We speak of surrendering all for Christ, but as a matter of fact we lose only what is of no real value and make infinite gain.

Overcoming Desires

I count him braver who overcomes his desires than him who conquers his enemies; for the hardest victory is the victory over self.

Al Smith Picture Barred From Tammany

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Al Smith isn't so popular among New York City Democrats.

Not mentioning any names, former Mayor Jimmy Walker Saturday criticized political leaders who run out on their party.

"I'd rather turn the other cheek and have it slapped than turn my back," he told 2,000 listeners at the dedication of a Democratic club.

The Downtown Democratic Club where former Governor Smith started out in politics, had removed his portrait from the wall.

The Wigwam Club, another Tammany club, also has taken Smith's picture from the wall. Charles A. Schneider, a Tammany leader, said: "We don't want the picture of any Benedict Arnold around here."

WEST TEXANS VIEW OF STATE CAPITOL

ceed the staggering sum of $60,000,000. The bill is now in the committee room.

Senator Shivers presented his unemployment insurance bill Saturday and Lieutenant Governor Woodul referred it to a committee for consideration the first of this week. This bill calls for no taxes, would be a hardship to no one, and would be a boon to the laboring man, Shivers says.

A resolution endorsing the Federal farm program is said to have hit a snag in the committee room when several senators opposed forfeiture of all state rights on agriculture administration to Henry Wallace. A lively debate on the issue is expected if the resolution reaches the floor of the Senate.

Further than these matters, and attending to routine business, the Senate must mark time until some tax measure comes out of the House.

Whether or not the House accomplished anything by its investigation of the pension set-up is problematical and a subject of discussion among the legislators themselves. It discovered that many needy old people who have applied for pensions have not yet had their cases passed on, that the cost of the pension administration was possibly a little high, but that if all those applying for pensions had been passed on more workers would have been required and the administration would have been even more costly.

There seems to be little likelihood of transferring the $3,000,000 from the Highway department, as suggested by Governor Allred, for immediate pension payments. Polls taken by newspapermen of House and Senate show a great majority of the representatives oppose such a move on ground that such would set a bad precedent.

One week has been spent in the House investigating. At least another two weeks of investigating are in prospect. State colleges are scheduled to undergo an investigation this week on charges of teaching communism and atheism. Then, an investigation of the liquor control board seems imminent.

Those in the know declare these investigations are being instigated by two factions—one block desiring to prolong the passage of or to defeat any tax measures, and the other block simply wishing to prolong the session of the legislature and force a second called session. Seventy-three members, or almost half, of the House, are serving their last months as Representatives. There will be a turn-over of a little less than a third of the Senators. Vote in the House on questions which are bringing about delay in getting down to the problem for which the session was called (raising funds with which to pay the pension) usually runs about 67 to 62.

J. B. Pace, formerly superintendent of the Tahoka city schools, now has headquarters in Austin and travels for the American Book Company. He spent several weeks this past summer in Arkansas for the company. Mr. Pace says his present position is much more lucrative than school teaching.

K. C. Holmes, former Tahoka gin man, makes his home in the capital city and travels all South Texas for a gin company.

Tahoka is the only town or city in the state having two inspectors in the Motor Transport division of the State Railroad commission. In fact, there are only seventeen such inspectors, the South Plains men being J. H. Edwards and J. B. Walker. They are appointees of Ernest O. Thomas and Lon Smith.

Goddard Edwards, son of J. H., is an employee in the office of State Treasurer Charley Lockhart, working in the cigarette tax division.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank our friends for the many deeds of kindness and words of sympathy that have been shown us during our dark hour of sorrow. We especially wish to thank the American Legion for their assistance in the service. We are also grateful for the beautiful floral offerings. May our kind Heavenly Father bless each of you.—Mrs. Lee R. Wood and Eva Jane; R. C. Wood and family.

Mrs. N. J. Barton left Saturday to spend a few weeks visiting her son, R. F. Barton, and family at Artesia, New Mexico.

Services At Methodist Church Good

While the crowds that have been attending the services at the Methodist Church this week have not been large, yet they have been enjoying some spiritual feasts. Rev. W. M. Pearce, the presiding elder has been bringing some very helpful messages.

Among other things, he has been stressing Bible reading, and no doubt many of his hearers have been induced to do more Bible reading this week than usual.

Also he and the local pastor, Rev. C. C. Armstrong, have been doing some constructive work in some of the neighboring communities, and it is believed that much good is being accomplished, not only in Tahoka but in the surrounding territory.

Mary, ask John if his subscription to the Lynn County News is delinquent.

O'DONNELL PHYSICIAN WEDS OFFICE ASSISTANT

Dr. A. W. Thompson, O'Donnell physician, and Mrs. A. W. Campbell of that city who had been assisting him in his office, were married in his office on Saturday, September 26, Rev. W. L. Henderson officiating.

Dr. Thompson located in O'Donnell for the practice of his profession soon after the town was founded and has resided there ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rogge of Abilene were here Saturday visiting friends and looking after business matters. They resided here a couple of years possibly, moving to Abilene last winter. Mr. Rogge says he was in San Angelo during the flood and that the Concho looked more like the Mississippi River than a West Texas stream. Al Lehman, he declares, did not tell it to the News scary enough.

"Wives, obey your husbands," but prod 'em up a little about their subscription to The Lynn County News.
