Three Killed In Lynn County Tornado

Mrs. Huffman Dies Wednesday

Mrs. Martha Catherine Huffman, 75, died at her home here about 9 o'clock Wednesday night. Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist Church at about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Deceased was a native of Mississippi but had lived in Texas many years. She had been a resident of Tahoka the past several years. She was a member of the Baptist Church and was a good Christian woman.

She leaves surviving six children, all of whom were here for the funeral services.

More Thieves Jailed Here

B. L. Parker says he is getting his boarding house nearly full.

Among his customers are four brothers named Owen, former residents of Grassland, who are charged with stealing 5,500 pounds of threshed and sacked higar and kaffir corn from Bert Short of Grassland on Friday night, April 15. They broke into his barn and made way with the feed, it is claimed.

The four thieves were apprehended at Clairmont, and upon being questioned they told officers where they had disposed of the feed. In pursuance of this information, the feed was found and recovered at Haskell, Weinert, and Munday.

One of the brothers is yet a juvenile and must be dealt with as a juvenile offender. The others range in age from about 18 to 22 years, Mr. Parker says.

One of them was given a suspended sentence two or three years ago for horse theft.

Also among his new boarders are two men arrested in connection with the passing or attempted passage of forged checks here a few weeks ago. Two men were arrested here at the time. The other two were arrested at Monahan last week.

According to evidence collected by officers, these fellows were doing business on a rather large scale. Mr. Parker has in his possession twenty checks taken from these culprits, all already filled out and signed, ready for delivery to intended victims. Thirteen of these checks are each for $24.71, purporting to be labor checks, drawn on the First National Bank of Midland, with the name of R. C. Delaney signed thereto. Seven of them are for the sum of $6.20 each and otherwise are identical with the larger checks.

These charges await investigation by the next grand jury.

B. L. also stated that he had four "crap-shooters" in the lock-up. That makes an even dozen, with prospects for more.

Frank Hill Is Sick Again

Frank Hill has been sick again this week. He became violently ill at an early hour Wednesday morning, and his physician diagnosed the case as poisoning from food which did not agree with him. He had been up most of Tuesday night investigating the ravages wrought by the tornado of the preceding afternoon, and became ill soon after reaching home. He had been in bed of tonsillitis on the preceding Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, but worked Monday and Tuesday.

The News force has been greatly hampered in gathering the News and getting out this issue of the paper as a result of his illness.

Mrs. Oscar Roberts and daughter, Eloise, and Miss LaRuth Walden attended the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Wichita Falls this week. Miss LaRuth ably represented Tahoka in the "My Home Town" contest.

J. K. Wooley has been out several days now following a long-continued illness. Many friends are glad to see him on the streets again.

Remains of the automobile in which Bob Alexander was riding near the V. O. Caswell home a mile and a half northwest of Draw when struck by the tornado Tuesday. The motor was found many feet away. Strange as it may seem, Alexander was only slightly hurt.

McWhirter Out For Co. Superintendent

We announce a new and possibly unexpected entry this week into the race for county superintendent of public instruction. The aspirant is Aubrey McWhirter of West Point. He resides in the home of his brother at that place, who also is a teacher.

Mr. McWhirter has been a resident of this county, he says, for only two years, and while he is not well acquainted throughout the county, he is doubtless well known to most of the teachers. He has had considerable experience as a rural teacher, holds a B. S. degree, and is ambitious. We refer our readers to his announcement, which appears below.

To the People of Lynn County: In opening my campaign as county superintendent of Lynn county, I believe I possess the integrity, the ability, and the breadth of vision to serve as county superintendent of Lynn county.

I was born in Collin county February 26, 1907. I have been teaching on the South Plains since 1927 and have lived the past two years in Lynn county. I received my Bachelor of Science degree from East Texas State Teachers College at Commerce, Texas, in 1933. Since I have had eleven years teaching experience in rural administration, I feel that I am capable of seeing the need of each child in the educational field.

I believe:

1. In equalizing the educational opportunities in both rural and city schools.
2. In equal privileges to all and special privileges to none.
3. In efficient, reliable, and courteous services to all.
4. In outstanding cooperation among teachers, trustees, and county board.
5. In securing from the State the greatest amount of rural and bus aid for our schools.
6. In economy in school finances in order to keep our school taxes as low as possible.
7. In "better schools for everybody and everybody should be for better schools"; therefore, I solicit the support of all the qualified voters of Lynn county.—Aubrey McWhirter.

New Home Man Adjudged Insane

Jack Waldrip, 33, who has been residing on the R. H. Bates farm near New Home, was adjudged insane in the county court here Wednesday. He has a wife and three children.

Mr. Waldrip formerly resided at Wilson and served as night watchman there. Both he and Miss Ingram were taken to the state hospital at Wichita Falls by sheriff B. L. Parker Thursday for treatment.

Wilson Plans To Open Ball Park

Wilson's new soft ball park is being whipped into shape for the opening game, which will be played on Tuesday night, May 10.

This game will be sponsored by the Senior Class of the Wilson High School, which is undertaking to raise funds for a trip to the Grand Canyon and the Yellowstone Park. Following the game, all the county and district candidates will be given an opportunity to speak.

A great throng of people is expected to be present for this game. It will open the league series for the season. Eight teams comprise the league: Wilson, Tahoka, O'Donnell, New Home, Wayside, Morgan, Petty, and Lubbock. The season will close on September 9. Games will be played five nights each week. There will be no games on Saturday and Sunday nights.

We have not been advised as to what team will match its skill against Wilson on this opening night, but a good game is promised. Many Tahoka people will probably witness it.

Hon. Tom Garrard, Jack Applewhite, and Bill Burleson attended the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Wichita Falls this week, returning to Tahoka Tuesday night. Mr. Applewhite is a director of the body.

Shall Highway 84 Be Built?

We called on the commissioners court in session Tuesday and found the members thereof rather despondent and dejected.

One of the most highly prized prospective achievements was about to tumble apparently in a mass of ruins. They had long had visions of a paved highway from Tahoka to Post. The vision was a bout to vanish.

The occasion of their anxiety and grief was the refusal of some of the land owners along the right of way to give the additional land for a broader highway being demanded by the state highway department.

The county absolutely does not have the money with which to purchase this additional land, members of the court said. What were they to do?

Unless the right of way is procured promptly, it is almost certain that the project will fall down for the time being, and there is no telling when the county can get the State interested in the proposition again, the commissioners say. They worked long and hard on this proposition. Finally, the State and Federal authorities agreed to take it on as an emergency P. W. A. project.

Recently the project was approved by the state highway commission and was then sent to Washington for approval there. Just this week County Judge P. W. Good had a communication from Senator Tom Connolly stating that the P. W. A. authorities had assured him that the project would be approved there within a few days.

As soon as the project is approved, the money will be available, and Uncle Sam and the State Highway Department will be ready to go. But the money may not be available very long; and if the right-of-way has not been procured and the matter of procuring it is hanging fire, the State and Federal Governments may call off their dogs and go hunting elsewhere.

So, the members of the commissioners court are bothered. It is high time for the people of Tahoka to become bothered. The big question is: Shall work on highway 84 be begun soon, or shall it be delayed many months, possibly many years? Our business men should appeal to the land-owners along the route to cooperate and help us get this road built.

What should we do, folks? Let us act NOW!

Lost Girl Is Found Monday

An unfortunate young woman, who had become a victim of mental trouble as a result of ill health, disappeared from her home several miles west of town Monday night and members of the family were unable to find her.

Learning of her disappearance a few of the neighbors and a few citizens of Tahoka joined in the search Tuesday morning and finally found her hiding under some bushes in the "breaks" far out in the pasture. She was being guarded by her faithful dog, which, it is said accompanied her wherever she goes.

The young woman will probably be sent to a state hospital for treatment, and it is hoped that she will ultimately recover. She is a young woman of fine intelligence and character, her mental condition resulting from ill health.

When we stated last week that J. P. West and others had gone to Christoval for the funeral of Mr. West's sister, who had just died at Corpus Christi, we did not know that Rev. George Dale of this city conducted the funeral services. He was at San Angelo at the time attending the state Sunday School convention and was called upon for this service. A previous service had been conducted at Corpus Christi.

Mothers Day To Be Observed

Sunday, May will be observed throughout the nation as Mothers Day. Appropriate services will be held at the various churches. Flowers will be much in evidence; red for the living, white for the dead.

A fine custom of sending or giving presents to the mothers who are living has grown up, and is being more generally observed probably with each passing year.

Let us not fail to make our mothers happy on this approaching Mothers Day.

Club Women Attend Dairy Show

The following Lynn county H. D. club women attended the Panhandle Plains Dairy Show at Plainview last week; according to Miss Lillith Boyd: Mmes. M. C. Finch, J. B. Oliver, Garland Pennington, and Harold Edwards, representing the Tahoka club; Mmes. A. R. Hensley, R. L. Pirtle, and W. T. Luttrell, representing the Draw-Redwine club; Mrs. John Earles, representing the O'Donnell club; and Mmes. W. C. Huffaker and J. R. Hamilton, representing the Wilson club.

Mrs. Harold Edwards and Mrs. Garland Pennington of Tahoka represented Lynn county in a team demonstration on Utilization of Dairy Products in Party Refreshments.

Red Cross Will Help Tornado Victims

The American Red Cross is now raising funds to help the victims of the tornado that swept several communities in Dawson and Lynn counties Tuesday afternoon.

A. L. Lockwood, Roll Call chairman for Lynn county, is receiving contributions for this purpose at the First National Bank here. He requests that all persons desiring to make a contribution to this cause call at the Bank or mail in their check to him. A number of families lost their homes and others lost practically everything they had, and they need help.

Lamesa raised $500.00 Wednesday and O'Donnell $800. Mr. Lockwood says, Tahoka did not begin raising funds until Thursday. It is hoped that practically every citizen will contribute something. The funds will be handled by the National Red Cross organization.

Training School Conducted Here

A fireman's training school was conducted here Tuesday night at the American Legion Hall by Chief Frank Williams, field instructor for the Extension Service of the Texas A. & M. College. Such schools are being conducted in practically all the towns and cities of the state where there is a fire department. They are sponsored by the State Fireman's and Fire Marshals' Association.

At the school here Tuesday night, Chief Williams gave an illustrated lecture, using the moving pictures which were taken at the Firemen's Short Course at the A. & M. College to depict and illustrate the information which he desired to impart.

The instruction given would have been interesting and helpful to many of our citizens other than the members of our volunteer fire department. A few visitors from other places were present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Donadson returned home Wednesday night, after a visit of several weeks with relatives in other parts of the state, most of the time being spent with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Thomas at McAllen in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Curry are visiting in Corpus Christi with Mrs. Curry's brother this week.

Draw Community Is Scene Of Disaster

Two Men, One Woman Are Dead; Many Others Are Injured

Three people are dead and more than a score of others were injured by a tornado which swept a zig-zag path across the northern portion of Dawson county and the southeastern portion of Lynn county about six o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The dead all resided in the vicinity of Draw in Lynn county about eighteen miles southeast of Tahoka. A number of those who were severely injured also resided in that community.

The dead are:

Mrs. V. O. Caswell, 22, residing about a mile west and a half mile north of Draw.

John Walters, 15, son of Mack Walters, residing a mile north of Draw.

George Walters, 40, nephew of Mack Walters, who was a resident of Austin but was here working for his uncle, Mack.

Residents of the Draw community who were seriously or painfully injured were: Louis McKay, 45, severe lacerations on right side of scalp.

Mrs. Louis McKay, 28, lacerations on all parts of the body; Louis Daniel McKay, 6, laceration on right side of chin, contusion of forehead, lacerations on left ear, and abrasions on right foot;

Irene McKay, 13 months, two fractures of skull, very serious.

Laverne Standefer, 6, niece of Mrs. Louis McKay, abrasions on the head.

Mary Belle Walters, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Walters, minor lacerations and bruises.

All of the above were taken to Lubbock hospitals for treatment following the catastrophe, but two or three of them have been released.

V. O. Caswell received painful bruises on one leg but was not taken to a hospital.

Bob Alexander also received several bruises on the body but like (Continued on back page)

Newmoore People In Accident

Four persons were hurt when two cars collided at a crossroad about a mile and a half east of Wells on Wednesday of last week, according to Miss Erma Jean Brandon, our Newmoore correspondent.

Mrs. O. C. Cox of O'Donnell driver of one of the cars, suffered the fracture of two ribs and the dislocation of her collar bone, the report stated. Her two sons, Kenneth and Darrell, who were in the car with her, suffered minor injuries, Kenneth's lips being bruised and one of Darrell's teeth broken.

Mr. Simpson of Wells was the driver of the other car. He was rather badly bruised up but otherwise was unharmed.

Mrs. Cox, who is the primary teacher at Newmoore, was going from her home in O'Donnell to her school and was going north at the time. Mr. Simpson was going east. It is presumed that the drivers did not see each other's car until too late to avoid the collision.

Mr. Aldridge of Newmoore, who happened to be near at the time, took all the parties into O'Donnell and Mrs. Cox was taken to a hospital in Lamesa for an x-ray examination.

Both cars were badly damaged. Mrs. Roberts of O'Donnell is substituting in the school room for Mrs. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McDonald went to San Angelo the first of last week, where Mrs. McDonald underwent a tuberculosis test. The test revealed no evidence of tuberculosis. Mrs. McDonald has been in bad health for several months.

12 MILLION JOBLESS

One-Seventh of Population Receives Public Aid . . .
 First Report of Senate Committee on Relief

Emergency rationing of troops by airplane and parachute was successfully accomplished in Texas by the army air corps during maneuvers. This picture shows metal food container for personnel rations, bale of hay and a 130-pound sack of oats, with parachutes attached, ready to be loaded on the bomb racks of the Martin bomber seen in background.

One in Seven on Relief

TWELVE million American workers are totally unemployed. More than 18,000,000 persons, or one-seventh of the population of the country, are receiving public assistance from the federal, state or local governments. From 1933 to 1937 inclusive the federal and state governments have spent $19,400,000,000 for work relief and other forms of public assistance.

These far from cheerful figures were in a preliminary report of the senate committee on relief and unemployment submitted by Chairman Byrnes.

At the time the report came in, Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, was telling the house appropriations committee, holding hearings on the administration's recovery-relief program, that the proposed $1,250,000,000 relief appropriation would enable 200,000 to be added to federal aid rolls, bringing the total number to 2,800,000 persons.

This money, he said, would last only for the first seven months of the coming fiscal year. He refused to estimate how much would be needed thereafter.

The senate committee report in general absolved the WPA from charges of graft, waste and inefficiency, but in some respects it sharply criticized the administration's relief policies.

To the discomfiture of administration leaders, the committee recommended that the senate's revenue bill repealing the undistributed profits tax and modifying the capital gains tax be adopted as a major aid to economic recovery. Retention of those taxes is in the house bill backed by President Roosevelt.

One Spending Bill Passed

WITHOUT a record vote the house passed the first of the new spending bills, appropriating $903,000,000 for the Department of Agriculture during the next fiscal year. Of the total sum, 201 millions are for the building of new roads, this being one of the President's pump-priming suggestions.

Help for Utilities

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT now is planning to extend government aid to the public utilities, which have suffered severely from government competition. This was learned after he had conferred with RFC Chairman Jones, and Douglas and Hanes of the SEC. The purpose is to aid the utilities in financing new construction, through the RFC lending program. Employment of now idle workers is the aim.

A.F. of L. Follows C.I.O. Lead

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, following the example of the rival C. I. O., entered politics on a national scale by forming an organization to back selected candidates for public office.

The action, emphasizing anew the split between the two labor associations, indicated that the labor vote will be divided in many state primaries and November congressional elections.

Fight in Pennsylvania

DEMOCRATS of Pennsylvania are split wide open over the campaign for the May primaries, and Gov. George Earle is in the middle of the hot fight. He is seeking the nomination for senator, supported by Wilson of Philadelphia, supported by Senator Guffey and John L. Lewis, is opposing him. Wilson charged that Earle had borrowed large sums from M. H. McCloskey, contractor and co-leader of the Philadelphia Democratic organization, and Chairman Green of the Republican state committee promptly demanded that Earle resign or face impeachment. The governor admitted financial dealings with McCloskey but said his debt had been reduced to $6,000.

Earle declared Guffey was trying to wreck the state party organization "so he can control the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1940 and team up with Southern Democrats to get the nomination for vice president."

Hitler Reviews Army

REICHSFUHRER HITLER celebrated his forty-ninth birthday by reviewing his new Pan-German army, and it developed that he and his military leaders are expecting that open warfare will be the form of future conflicts. The 10,000 troops that marched along Unter den Linden, led by an Austrian battalion that had not yet learned the goose-step, were equipped for mobile fighting and armed with a new machine gun. In the parade were 500 tanks of medium size and armored cars with radio.

It was announced in Vienna that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Archduke Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne. A Berlin newspaper said the Austrian properties of the Hapsburgs had been confiscated.

Members of the German American Bund held a meeting in New York on Hitler's birthday which developed into a riot. Seven men wearing American Legion caps were severely beaten by "Storm Troopers" in uniform. J. W. Hill, national secretary of the bund, asked a congressional investigation of the activities of Representative Dickstein of New York, who, he said, predicted there would be bloodshed if the meeting were held.

TVA Investigators

WHEN Sen. James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, Republican, consented to serve on the joint congressional committee to investigate the Tennessee Valley authority, that group was complete. Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, author of the resolution calling for the inquiry, was left off the committee, contrary to precedent.

The other senators named by Vice President Garner are: Sen. Donahay of Ohio, Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire, H. H. Schwartz of Wyoming, Democrats; and Lynn Frazier of North Dakota, radical Republican.

House members are J. M. Mead of New York, W. J. Driver of Arkansas, R. Ewing Thomason of Texas, Democrats; C. A. Wolvertson of New Jersey and T. A. Jenkins of Ohio, Republicans.

It was presumed that Senator Donahay would be chairman of the committee. He is not marked as prejudiced either way in the matter. In the senate he is almost never heard.

Investigators were to be put in the field as soon as possible, and after congress adjourns the joint committee will hold public hearings, probably in Knoxville, Tenn., and in Washington.

Turkey Quake Kills 800

FROM Ankara, Turkey, comes news that an earthquake in Anatolia killed at least 800 persons and destroyed many villages. Whole families were buried under mountainous debris, and some 50,000 persons were rendered homeless.

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses LAXATIVE FOODS

Nationally Known Authority on Food Shows How Right Diet Can Help You to Avoid Health Hazards of Faulty Elimination

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
 6 East 39th Street, New York.

THOUSANDS of men, women and children are alive today because we have learned how to prevent many types of infections and how to cure diseases which once caused untimely deaths.

We have reason to be proud of the achievements of science in fighting disease and lengthening the span of life. But we should be ashamed of the fact that hundreds of thousands of individuals are not getting the most out of life—indeed they are not realizing half their potentialities—because improper eating and faulty habits of hygiene cause them to suffer from that great evil of civilization—constipation.

EVILS OF CONSTIPATION

Someone has called constipation the most deadly disease, and while this may seem like an extreme statement, it becomes justifiable when one realizes the untold misery and wretchedness that may result when food residues remain to stagnate and putrefy in the body.

Constipation muddies the complex, dulls the eye and befogs the brain. It causes a general feeling of discomfort and fullness in the abdomen, lack of appetite, bad breath, coated tongue, a feeling of lassitude and a tendency to become easily fatigued.

By weakening resistance, it opens the way to numberless diseases. Serious complications, such as irritation of the appendix, may occur as a result of the friction of hard masses of waste against the delicate walls of the intestine. Piles have frequently been laid at the door of faulty elimination.

Do you wonder that I consider prompt, regular elimination the keystone of good health.

Its importance is readily understood when you consider the processes by which food is digested and absorbed.

FATE OF FOOD IN THE BODY

From the mouth, food passes down the esophagus into the stomach, where it is penetrated by the gastric juice. It then passes into the small intestine where it is mixed with the secretions of the liver and the pancreas. Here the nutritive elements are absorbed by minute, hair-like tubes which line the intestinal walls. These tubes converge into the blood vessels and lymphatics which transport nourishment to all parts of the body.

Undigested residues pass into the large intestine or colon, where they are normally moved along by a series of muscular contractions known as peristalsis, and finally evacuated.

The amount of the evacuation varies in bulk with the amount of indigestible roughage contained in the food. When there is insufficient bulk to promote normal peristalsis, waste accumulates and we have the condition known as constipation with all its resulting evils. Bacteria prey upon the stagnating material, producing poisons which may be absorbed by the body.

There is not the slightest excuse for allowing this condition to develop. For the misery and wretchedness of constipation may easily be avoided by including in the daily diet sufficient laxative foods, that is, those rich in fiber or cellulose.

BULK OR FIBER ESSENTIAL

Because of their fibrous framework, plant foods are our chief source of cellulose or bulk, and therefore, our greatest aid in promoting normal elimination. Vegetables and fruits are sworn foes of constipation, and unrefined cereals are also extremely valuable.

SOME LAXATIVE FOODS

Foodstuffs with an exceptionally high residue include raw fruits, especially those with skins and seeds; dried fruits, as apricots, prunes, figs and raisins; raw vegetables; such cooked vegetables as onions and leafy greens; the legumes, that is, dried peas and beans; whole grain cereals and bran.

Among the vegetables, don't overlook cabbage, lettuce, celery, spinach, brussels sprouts, string beans and green peas.

Foods which tend to form a little gas in the intestines, including spinach, onions and cauliflower, are also useful stimulants to intestinal movement.

In addition to providing cellulose, the acid fruits, such as oranges, lemons and grapefruit, act as a mild stimulus to increased peristaltic motions.

NEED FOR VITAMIN B

Another important factor in promoting normal elimination is vitamin B, which has been shown to be essential for good muscular tone and activity of the digestive tract. Investigations with experimental animals have demonstrated that it requires twice as long to empty the large intestine when the diet is deficient in vitamin B. Yeast, egg yolk, milk, whole grain cereals, liver and green leafy vegetables are good sources of this vitamin.

LIQUIDS ESSENTIAL

A sufficient quantity of liquids is likewise necessary to prevent the contents of the lower intestine from becoming too hard for easy evacuation. In addition to water, the diet should therefore contain an abundance of milk, fruit juices and other beverages. Acidophilus milk and buttermilk are especially beneficial.

Fats and oils, used in moderation, act as gentle lubricants.

REGULAR HABITS

It is most important to eat at regular hours and to establish regular times for evacuation, as this is a great aid to body rhythm.

Guard carefully against overeating, for this practice is a frequent cause of constipation. When

AROUND THE HOUSE

Rinse Silks Well.—Silk underthings should be washed in water that is barely warm, and should be rinsed in at least three fresh rinsing waters.

Preparing Baked Potatoes.—Baked potatoes look much nicer if scooped from the shell, mashed with butter, pepper and salt, a well-beaten yolk of an egg, then placed back in the half shell and browned in the oven. They not only look nicer, but taste better.

When Painting Molding.—A piece of heavy cardboard is handy for the amateur painter to hold under the molding to protect the wall paper.

To Retain Juices in Meats.—To keep flavor and juices in meat when baking or frying, expose it to extreme heat first, then reduce the temperature and cook more slowly.

When Someone Is Ill.—Always wrap a rubber hotwater bottle in soft cloth before placing in a patient's bed. Place the bottle near but not against the patient's flesh. If placed too close the patient may be burned before realizing it.

Have You a Question?

 C. Houston Goudiss has put at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York City. the digestive system is overworked, none of its functions can be efficiently performed.

The homemaker is largely responsible for safeguarding her family against the dangers of faulty elimination. For she has it in her power to plan meals that will help normal individuals to avoid the curse of constipation.

Questions Answered

Mrs. B. T. M.—Do not worry if your child prefers the egg yolk to the white. The white is chiefly protein, and he can easily obtain protein from other foods, especially milk. But the yolk contains an abundance of minerals and vitamins in addition to protein and fat. Nutritionists have determined that the inclusion of one egg yolk daily in an otherwise adequate diet is an effective method of balancing the intake and output of iron in a child's diet.

Mrs. S. B.—No, the generous use of cream cannot be considered as a substitute for taking milk as a beverage or in cooked dishes. Cream is much higher in fat and contains less protein, minerals and vitamins, with the exception of vitamin A. Cream deserves to be included in the diet for its vitamin A content, but it should not replace milk.

Mrs. A. McK.—Strawberries contain vitamins A, B and C. Recent experiments indicate that they rank with citrus fruits and tomatoes as a source of vitamin C.

Hidden Benefits

Few housewives realize the underlying advantage of the use of a good light-oil furniture polish! Most polish is used only for the luster it bestows on the chairs, tables, piano, woodwork in the home. Rubbing the polish on cleans the furniture—works up a glow—and the outward effect is fresh and sparkling! But that is only part of the housewife's reward. For out of this domestic routine comes definite benefit to the furniture! A reputable polish, with a light oil base, does what is known as "feeding" the finish. The "massage" causes the oil to penetrate, seep into the pores of the wood—just enough to lubricate—and keep it healthy! Here, it is important to note that cheap polishes are made with a heavy oil base—and are "greasy" and unpleasant to use. The best polish—made with a fine light-oil base—is never greasy. Applied on a damp cloth (according to directions), it is neat to use and proves a boon to the furniture! Lack of polishing—or the use of a poor polish—will cause the finest wood to dry out, crack, split—for wood is a product of Nature and needs a certain amount of oily moisture. So polish the furniture regularly! Use a quality oil polish—it pays! For not only does the furniture look better—it is better! Its life is preserved!

To Ride the River With

COPYRIGHT WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE—WNU SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crooked stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the elopement, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunfire. Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment. Later, Ruth meets Jeff Gray, whom she thinks tried to kill her father. When he tries to hold her bride, Ruth accidentally presses the trigger of her gun, and wounds Jeff. She takes him to Pat Sorley's camp.

"Must I?" He grinned at her with cheerful effrontery. "Of course you must." Ruth almost stamped her foot in exasperation. "If you didn't do it, who did it?" "I wouldn't know."

"She took that up triumphantly. 'Neither you nor anybody else.' 'But I could guess.' 'Who, then?' she demanded. 'If I ever mention it, probably it will be to the gent himself,' he said softly. 'I thought so.' Gray turned to the line-rider. 'Two shots were fired before Mr. Chiswick's friends took a hand. I fired the second. Point is, who cut loose with the first?'"

"If you weren't in it, why did you shoot at all?" Ruth asked. "I've asked myself that two-three times since," he replied suavely. "Plumb dumb of me. For 20 years I've been minding my own business exclusive, yet soon as I hit Tail Holt I butt into yours, not only once but se-ve-real times. I wouldn't know why, unless I've gone loco."

"You beat around the bush without telling anything," the girl charged. "By your own story you shot at the boss once," Sorley snapped. "Right after you'd eaten supper with him and Miss Ruth."

"Who said that was my story? I don't recollect ever telling it." Ruth stared at the hardy scamp, her eyes dilating with excitement. "You mean you didn't fire at Father at all, but at the villain who was trying to kill him?"

"Go to the head of the class, Miss," Gray said, with a grim ironic smile. "It's the best story I could think up after three or four days, so I thought I would come back and try it on Lee Chiswick. 'Course you're smart as a whip, and I wouldn't expect to put it across with you."

"A queer lift of joy sang in the girl's blood. She knew this was the truth. It explained everything. He had fired on the assassin and run forward to protect her father from any others who might turn their guns on him while he was defenseless. Naturally his purpose had been mistaken. The fire of Dan and Curly had driven him away. He had no time to explain. If he stayed, he would be shot down. There was no chance to show his weapon, with only one chamber empty. Now he had no evidence to back his story."

Ruth felt anger stir in her, but she kept it down. "If there's anything I can do for you while you're here—anything I can bring you," she said in a carefully even voice. "I'm going to see you again, am I? How nice! There are several things you can bring me. One is some tobacco. I'd like two-three books, and the latest newspaper you have. Also, bring Lee Chiswick. I want a powwow with him."

"I'll send the books with my father," she said. Lee Chiswick broke into his daughter's story excitedly. "He's hanging around waiting for a chance to dry-gulch me."

Ruth shook her head. "I thought so at first. I don't now. Listen." "Lucky the wolf didn't do you a meanness when he had a chance." The strong jaw of the cattlemen set. "I'll have him rounded up and rubbed out before he's 24 hours older."

"You won't need to round him up. I can tell you where he is. My story isn't finished. Do you want to hear it or not?" "Where is he?" demanded Chiswick. "He's at the rimrock line-camp, with a bullet-hole in his leg."

"Did Pat get him?" "No. I did."

"You what?" "I shot him." Her father stared at her with blank astonishment. "Good God, girl! What do you mean?" "I tried to pass him. He caught at the bridle rein. I don't know why. Perhaps he couldn't get out of the way and didn't want Blue Chip to trample him down. Somehow my gun went off and hit him. I didn't want him to die before he could get help, so I took him to the camp."

"Why didn't you come and get some of us?" he asked, his voice sharp with anxiety. "He might have shot you down on the way."

"I was as safe with him as I would be with you, Father," she said. "He isn't that kind of man. I don't like him. He's... insulting. But he is not the kind of ruffian who would hurt a woman or would take advantage of a man in a fight. He didn't shoot you. Someone else did."

he'll be as safe with me as in God's pocket. I'll have him brought to the house and we'll take care of him here. But he can't pull the wool over my eyes. He has got to be straight goods."

"That's fair," Ruth agreed. "I don't know anything about who he is. Maybe he's an outlaw on the dodge. He's as hard as iron and he may have gone bad. But there's something clean about him. He wouldn't shoot a man in the back. I'd stake everything I had on that."

Chiswick nodded. "I would have said that myself, and I'm not often wrong about a man. When he rap at me with his gun smoking, I was sure surprised. Maybe you're right, daughter. He'll get a chance to tell his story."

"May I ride up to the line-camp with you?" Ruth asked. "No!" he exploded, and slammed a flat down on the breakfast-table to emphasize his decision. "You can't go with me. What's the matter with you, girl? You head for trouble like a thirsty steer for water. First, you run off with a no-count scallawag not worth a hill of beans, then you shoot another and take him to hospital without asking me a by-your-leave. That's no for a lady to do. No wonder folks think you're a wild young hellion. You are grown up now. You got to learn to act genteel."

"Would it be unladylike for me to go down with you and take some fried chicken and biscuits to a sick man?" she wanted to know. "You fix up this fried chicken and I'll take it down," Lee said firmly. "I aim to be reasonable, but I'm through letting you behave so crazy."

Ruth gave up. She packed the tobacco, the books, and the food. For Pat she put in a corn-cob pipe to replace the broken clay one. Knowing her father's impulsive nature, she was full of misgivings. Over his shoulder, as he started, he called back a word of reassurance. "Don't you worry, daughter. I'm not going off half-cocked. If this Gray can show me he's not a yellow coyote, I'll not harm him."

In a rural meadow half a mile from the house he stopped to give Dan Brand instructions about the drive of yearlings sold to Broderick. This done, he told his son Frank and the foreman what he had just learned from Ruth. The Chiswicks rode up to the rimrock and skirted the edge of it until they reached a break. Through this they climbed to the lip of the park where the line-camp lay.

From the chimney of the cabin a thin trickle of smoke drifted. "Pat is probably line-riding and has left this fellow alone," Frank said. As they drew closer, Lee hulled the house. From the boulder field back of it an echo came back to them. No other answer sounded. A second time he shouted, still without response.

"Get your gun out, boy," he ordered grimly. "I don't like this." He swung from the saddle and drew the rifle attached to it. Frank dismounted hurriedly, his horse between him and the house. "I sure don't want to get blasted out of my saddle," he said. The two men worked toward the cabin, using their horses to screen themselves as much as possible from any sharpshooters who might be in the building or among the rocks above. Nobody stirred except themselves. Frank felt a strange prickling sensation run up and down his spine. Any moment there might come a crash of guns.

"Where's the fellow gone?" Lee asked. "I reckon he wasn't as bad hurt as he was making out," Frank said. "What's this?" Lee picked a piece of wrapping-paper from the table. He read aloud something that had been scrawled on it with a pencil. "Much obliged, Doc, for fixing my leg. See you later maybe."

Jeff Gray rode into Tail Holt two days after leaving the rimrock line-camp. His broad shoulders sagged with weariness. The eyes of the man were sunken. The lean face was haggard and unshaven. At the Alamo corral he dismounted stiffly. The owner of the place, Jim Reynolds, squinted an unspoken question at him from under-slanted eyebrows. There was an arresting quality about Gray that held attention. The fatigue, the stains of travel, did not conceal his dominant force. He unsaddled the sweat-streaked roan gelding with a competent economy of motion. When he moved, a pantherish ripple ran wavelike through his well-packed muscles.

"Yore bronc some gaunted," Reynolds said. "Some," Gray agreed. He watered and fed the animal himself. Reynolds watched him, observing that he knew how to treat a hot, tired horse. The corral-owner wondered who this stranger was. "I'll put up at Ma Presnall's if she has room for me," Gray said. "Could you send word to Sperm Howard that I'm there and want to see him?"

"What name shall I say?" asked Reynolds. "Jeff Gray. I'm obliged, sir." Gray limped up the street toward the boarding-house. Ma Presnall had her muscular arms bare to the elbows. There was a splash of flour on one temple. She had been baking. Her face was leathery and wrinkled, the challenge of her washed-out eyes direct and hard. For twenty years she had lived in frontier camps and held her own.

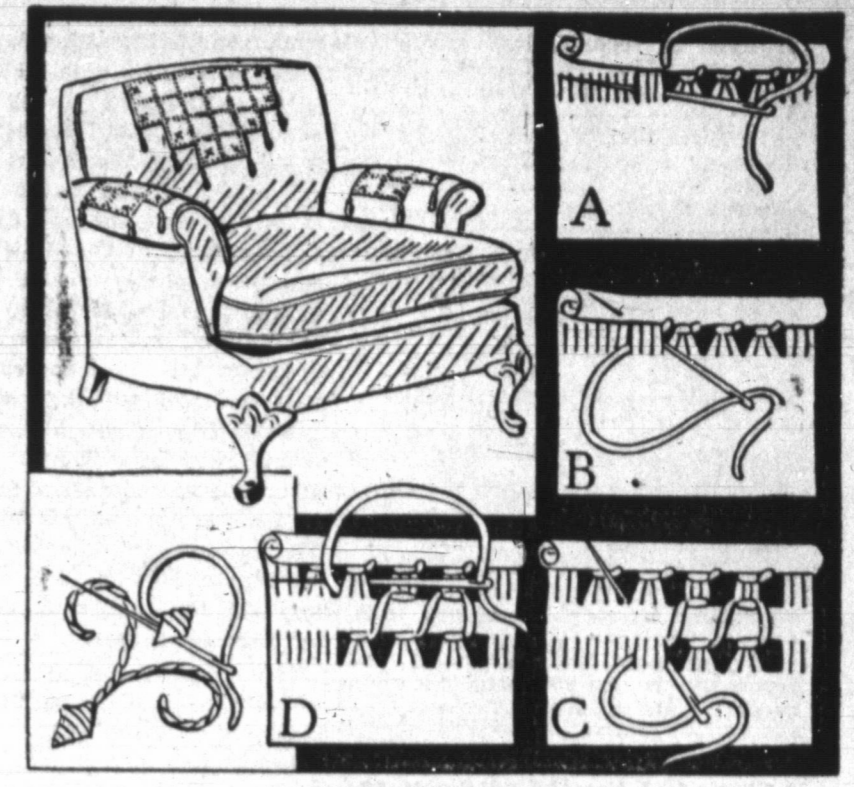

He could have a room and board, she said, for a dollar a day or five dollars a week. Strangers paid in advance. A five-dollar bill passed from Gray to her and she led him to his room. After washing the caked dust from face and hands, he lay down on the bed. The wound in his leg was throbbing. For the better part of sixty hours he had been in the saddle and he was almost worn out. When the opportunity came he would bathe and dress the hurt. Just now he had not time. He was expecting a visit from Sherman Howard and perhaps from others. It was unfortunate that his entry into Tail Holt had been so melodramatic. Probably he would have to light out again, if they gave him a chance to go.

With his pocket-knife he ripped open the lining of his vest and drew out a folded paper. He expected to need it shortly. The paper was a printed poster offering a reward of 2,000 for the capture of Clint Duke, the leader of a band of outlaws who had held up and robbed the Texas and Southern Flyer. A description of the desperado was given. With it was a picture taken from a cut. The face that looked back from the poster at Jeff Gray was his own.

Through the door Ma Presnall called information. "Some gents to see you." "Who are they?" Gray asked, putting the paper in his vest pocket. "Sperm Howard, Curly Connor, and Morg Norris." There was a barely perceptible pause before Gray said, "Ask them to come up, Mrs. Presnall, if you will."

HOW to SEW RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Italian Hemstitching for a Chair Set

THE chair set shown here is made of an even meshed cream linen, marked off in squares of Italian hemstitching. Tiny scrolls in outline stitch with two diamonds in satin stitch are embroidered in all the outside corners. The scroll motif is shown at lower left. The tassels are made by raveling strips of the material and then rolling them. The chair back piece measures 15 by 10 inches finished, and the chair arm pieces 7 1/2 by 7 1/2 inches. Allow 3/8-inch at all edges for the rolled hems. The hemstitched squares measure 2 1/2 inches. Mark them in pencil. The method of hemstitching the rolled edges is shown here at A and B. Remember that a moist thumb always helps in rolling an edge evenly.

Recovery in Prospect, But Not Immediate Nearly all his life, when he was ill, Mark Twain was inundated with letters from well-wishers, one offering this, and another offering that marvelous remedy for his malady, whatever it might be, says his daughter, Clara Clemens (in "My Father: Mark Twain"). He tried to acknowledge all such messages and sometimes did so in a whimsical way. Here is one of his replies: "Dear Sir (or Madam): I try every remedy that is sent to me. I am now on No. 67. Cross Wheat and Couch Grass to Halt Shifting of the Farm Soil in Canada

In some parts of Canada a serious problem has been confronting farmers for many years now—one with which no English farmer is likely to be faced. Their farms won't stay put. On the wide prairies of North America acres of loose soil shift each year, through the action of wind and rain. Up to the present there has been nothing to prevent it. Farmers simply had to sit and watch the fertile top soil wash away in the heavy rains of the spring and autumn, and blow away when, in the summer, the burning sun dried it up into fine dust. Thus, every year, says a writer in London Answers Magazine, the land was impoverished, and no amount of manuring or careful cultivation on the part of the farmer served him in what seemed to be a hopeless battle against Nature. In the last year or two the trouble has been intensified, and considerable tracts of land have been laid waste. But the scientist can sometimes find a weapon which will turn defeat into victory, and the Biological Institute of Svalof, South Sweden, hopes before long to put a stop to this constant disappearance of valuable soil. They are crossing wheat with the farmers' old enemy, couch grass, and they have every reason to hope that the result will be a useful crop of grain, provided by a plant whose clinging roots will bind together the shifting soil. Canadian farmers will have much to thank the scientists for when they plant this grain, and another on which the scientists are working now. The latter is a cross between wheat and rye, which, it is hoped, will be capable of withstanding the bitter cold of the long northern winters, and of producing a useful crop at the same time. The Canadian farmers' continued prosperity depends on some such type of grain. At present the yield is too small to be useful, but in the future, no doubt, it will be a standard crop.

JAPAN PAYS OFF

Citizens of the United States are much gratified by the fact that Japan has proven the sincerity of her apologies for the sinking of the United States gun-boat Panay a few months ago by making full monetary reparations. On last Friday a representative of the Japanese government handed to a representative of the American government a check for $2,114,007.36 in full payment of the claims which had been submitted a month earlier by the American government.

Other demands made by the United States after the Panay incident, we are told, had already been paid. "Japan accepted full responsibility for the incident and assured the United States the men responsible for the attack had been punished," a dispatch from Tokyo stated.

Friday's payment, it is further stated, covered loss of the Panay and three Standard Oil vessels bombed at the same time, compensation for the death of two of the Panay's crew and the captain of one of the Standard Oil boats, compensation for injury to seventy-four persons aboard the vessels, and loss of personal effects and ship's equipment.

The sinking of the Panay and the Standard Oil vessels was a rash act on the part of Japanese soldiers, but if the Japanese government did not already know it she soon found out that such attacks on the property of a neutral nation and on the property of citizens of a neutral nation could not be made with impunity. Uncle Sam lost no time in impressing it upon Japan that the rights of this country must be respected. Japan took the hint, promptly made apologies and paid in full for the damage she had done.

Peace-at-any-price advocates have stated repeatedly from the platform and the pulpit and over the radio that the United States went to war with Germany for an offense no more serious than the Panay affair.
Such is not the case. Germany not only perpetrated many offenses against the United States as serious as the Panay attack but she never did apologize and never did offer to pay a cent for the damage she had wrought in the destruction of American property and lives. All that she ever did was to cease her unrestricted submarine warfare for a season but soon thereafter arrogantly announced that she would resume it, and she did resume it, destroying the lives and property of American citizens on the high seas —which are the public highways of the nations—in utter disregard of our rights. It was then that Uncle Sam got his dander up and called our citizens to arms.

The German people as a whole are a fine people, but the German war lords in power at that time were international cut-throats, and Uncle Sam would have been a pusil-lunous coward not to have called their hand.

If Germany in 1917 had pursued the same policy towards the United States that Japan has pursued in the Panay affair, the United States never would have gone to war with Germany. The German bullies went too far. They got us into the war and then got licked. We did 'em right, in spite of the mouthings of a lot of demagogues and a few most excellent citizens of this day who continually charge or insinuate that Uncle Sam did an ignominious thing when he entered the World war on the side of the Allies.

Bill McCraw made his opening speech in his campaign for the governorship at Arlington Saturday afternoon. It was a good speech. From the vote-getting standpoint it was well-nigh perfect. It covered everything. Touching upon many subjects, McCraw, of course, could discuss none of them except in a very brief manner. His discussion for the most part was couched in general terms. He threw the usual sop to the old age pensioners. In fact he threw a sop to almost every class of our people, even to the liquor interests. Nothing could please them more than for the governor and the state constabulary to play hands off of the liquor business. Bill assured them that he would leave the empowerment of the state liquor laws up to local officers in the main.
That's just fine, in the cities and the dripping wet centers—for the liquor people. But, on most matters, Mr. McCraw was about right, and he presented his cause in a forceful and effective manner.

The big boys in this state who are fighting Senator Nelson's proposal for a one-house legislature are probably most concerned about that feature of it that would prohibit a legislator from taking employment from the corporate interests while in the employ of the State. That is the milk in the coconut. As long as legislators are permitted to keep their snouts in the swill buckets of the special interests, these interests don't worry very much as to whether the legislature is composed of two bodies or one. Of course they prefer the two-house system with its free conference committee set-up, for that makes it easier for them to control legislation, but it is the proposal to force legislators off their pay-rolls that give them the greatest concern.
Nelson's proposal is that the one body be composed of only about sixty men, that these be paid ample full-time salaries, and that they be prohibited from taking any other kind of employment during their tenure of office. That is the provision that hits the crooked interests right square between the eyes, and they are after it with their tomahawks and scalping knives. If the people of Texas are wise they will back Nelson up in this fight.

A bunch of the un-Americanized German Nazis were having a vociferous meeting in New York City a few days ago. When some American Legion boys made a protest against all their proceedings being carried on in the German language, a riot ensued. Later one of the Nazis was haled before court on a charge of participating in the riot. He had no attorney, so the Court appointed a Jewish lawyer to defend him. The Judge himself was an ex-service man. The German Nazi was acquitted. "A strange situation confronts me here," Magistrate Troy said in finding the defendant not guilty. "I don't believe it could be presented anywhere in the world except in America. Here we have this German boy defended by a Jewish lawyer appearing before an American war veteran. I'm going to discharge this defendant and I wish to congratulate this Jewish counsel who so faithfully performed his duty." Indeed such a proceeding could not have occurred in Germany. Fortunate we are to have constitutional government in this country.

The News does not contend that a corporation lawyer can not make a fair and honest servant of the people in official capacity. On the other hand, we believe that many corporation lawyers are thoroughly honest and pre-eminently capable of serving the state and the nation with perfect fairness and honesty and great distinction. But when such a lawyer is placed in a judicial position he is expected to immediately terminate his employment as a corporation attorney. He must do so. This is required because it is possible that his corporate employees will have litigation in his court.
Why should not the same rule apply to senators and representatives in the legislature? The interests of corporations are constantly involved in proposed legislation, and it is just as true now as it was 1900 years ago that no man can serve two masters. Legislators should be paid salaries that would enable them to devote their entire time to the matter of legislation and should be prohibited from taking employment from the corporations at the same time.

Some of our exchanges are now preaching the strange doctrine that we do not particularly need foreign markets. Cultivate and develop our home markets, make our own people prosperous, and we will need no foreign markets, they say—we will consume all our own surplus products. How foolish! How can we make the cotton farmer permanently prosperous, for example, unless he has a foreign market for his cotton? Cut off entirely the exportation of cotton from our shores today, and what would cotton be worth tomorrow? This idea that we can, with profit, isolate ourselves from the rest of the world is utterly absurd and if adopted as a national policy would be terribly disastrous to us. How foolish we become sometimes in undertaking to maintain a foolish position we have taken!

J. M. Rankin, the new owner and editor of The Slaton Slatonite, made his initial bow last week. He set forth a high standard of service to the people of Slaton and vicinity through his paper. He also started a front page column, "A Week At a Time," which was both thoughtful and well written. Mr. Rankin has been a school teacher and school superintendent many years.
He is a capable man, and we believe that he has a wonderful opportunity in the newspaper field at Slaton. His first issue of the Slatonite would indicate that he will live up to his opportunities. Again we welcome him into the newspaper fraternity of the South Plains.

There must be some kind of little Hitler at the head of the municipal government over in Oklahoma City.
A private citizen asked two policemen why they were driving their patrol car without lights. For his impertinence, they arrested him, and somebody posted up a fine of six dollars against him. The Daily Oklahoman gave the matter publicity and "invited anyone who ever sassed a policeman, ever wanted to sass a policeman or ever has been assayed by a policeman to contribute.

City officials, even the judge who assessed the fine, joined in," and a total of $17.05 was contributed in pennies. We wonder what kind of a city council it was that made it an offense to ask an impertinent question of a policeman.

WHY DOESN'T SHE GO ON THE NEW BREAD DIET?

New BREAD DIET substitutes bread for foods practically all starch...

FOUR YEARS of research in leading American universities and laboratories proved that bread itself should not be considered fattening—that it is a perfect combination of energy-giving carbohydrates and valuable proteins.

Bread helps burn up completely the fat you lose while reducing. It supplies material for strengthening muscle and nerve tissues.

The only way to lose weight is to burn up fat faster than it is stored. No other

ELDER DRENNON'S NOTES

We had a large crowd at our rodeo last Friday and Saturday and everything went off just fine. I met many of my old friends from Tahoka, Brownfield, and other places.

I want to commend the courage of the editor for his religious comments in last week's issue, and yet he is a member of a church that is not mentioned in the New Testament. Those who live in glass houses should be careful about throwing stones, but all in all his article is well worth a second reading.

We sure enjoyed reading John Doe's predicament but it seems to contain more truth than poetry.

We had three car accidents among our people last week, which reminds us of the need of more careful driving, especially in the school zone. Let's all be more careful when passing a schoolhouse if the children are on the outside.

O'Donnell is afflicted with a public dance hall, which is a nuisance in any community. Several were taken out drunk last Saturday night, so we were informed. We were also told that our jail got full and they had to take the overflow to Tahoka, which makes us hang our heads in shame.

I visited Hobbs last week; we drove over some very rough roads, which made me appreciate the good roads we have in Lynn county. We will be sitting pretty when the road to Post is paved.

O you spring fever! It almost ruined our last Sunday night service. Every one was so sleepy, even the preacher. I have found by experience that the preacher must be awake if he keeps the audience awake, and that fire must emit from the pulpit to keep the pew warm.

It seems from last week's ads that Tahoka is blessed with plenty of grocery stores and meat markets, and that ought to insure the News force with something to eat, as some of the ads were life size.

Yours for more people who are as righteous Monday as Sunday, also for preachers who practice what they preach. Preaching at O'Donnell at 11 a.

m. and 8:15 p. m. every Sunday.—R. P. DRENNON. (Editor's Note: We are usually careful in throwing stones at the churches, Brother Drennon. If we were the least bit inclined to throw any stones in your direction, we might call attention to the fact that there is one church, composed of very fine Christian people, that was not even organized or founded until more than eighteen hundred years after Christ was crucified. But this is not a challenge for a debate. For further discussion of religious beliefs, we refer you to the preachers.)

"BRINGING UP BABY" TO SHOW AT ENGLISH THEATRE

Katharine Hepburn revealing her talent as a comedian, with Cary Grant opposite her, in "Bringing Up Baby," is offered as the outstanding laugh show of the screen by RKO Radio. Backed by a sparkling cast headed with Charles Ruggles and Mary Robson, the stars "go to town" in uproarious fashion. The story is based on the go-getter activities of Miss Hepburn, a madcap heiress with a remarkable propensity for creating trouble. Although Cary Grant is a studious professor, interested only in completing a huge dinosaur skeleton and in promoting a million dollars to carry on the work of his museum, Miss Hepburn decides she wants him. His fate is sealed from that moment, especially when she discovers he intends to marry his unattractive secretary.

Virtually kidnapping Grant to help her hide a tame leopard her brother has sent from South America, she plunges the hapless professor into a maelstrom of ridiculous adventures and unexpected situations that are said to make the picture the biggest piece of merriment of the season. The leopard's is the "Baby" of the title. It and a fiendish dog add plenty of feline and canine applications to the plot.

Charlie Ruggles portrays a concerted big-game hunter, Mary Robson is cast as Miss Hepburn's wealthy aunt, and Barry Fitzgerald as a boastful but timorous gardener. Walter Catlett and Fritz Feld are also in important supporting roles.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Ice Age in the Bronx"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:
For a long time I've been telling the cockeyed world that you don't have to go places to find adventure. I remember once saying that you could get more thrills just by sticking around your own home town than you could by signing up with Admiral Byrd for one of his exploring trips to the South pole.

And now, here comes John Standmann of the Bronx to tell me I was right about that South pole business. Admiral Byrd went down into the Antarctic to study the ice age, but Jack Standmann stayed home and studied another ice age—in the Bronx.

The Admiral loaded up a boat, signed on a crew, and sailed away toward the South pole, but Jack just put on his coat and a pair of gloves and, in ten minutes, found a spot that was just as cold as anything the Byrd expedition was able to dig up in a year's stay way down there at the bottom of the world.

It was in June, 1932, which is a doggone strange time for a man to go Arctic adventuring in the Bronx. Jack was working in an ice-cream factory and that more or less explains everything. The plant was a new one, and a lot of new-fangled machinery had been installed in it. One of the machines was the big steel conveyor that carried packaged ice-cream into the freezing chamber. That machine was the special bane of Jack's existence. The freezing chamber was a long tunnel where the temperature ran around forty below zero. Moisture used to gather in there and turn into ice. During a week's time, enough of it used to collect so that there was danger of it stopping the machinery. Then, Jack found himself facing a job he didn't like very well.

Working in Forty Below Zero.
The job was to crawl inside the freezing tunnel and hack and chip out all the ice. It was a chore that took every bit of two hours, but it had to be done a little at a time, for no man could stand that 40 below zero temperature for more than 20 minutes at a stretch. It couldn't be done while the plant was operating. It had to be done after closing time. The result was that Jack had to work overtime, and most of the evening at it.

Jack Was Pulled Out of the Freezing Tunnel.

On this particular day, the plant had been working overtime itself. The minute the machinery stopped running Jack put on a lot of heavy clothes, slipped his hands into a pair of thick warm gloves, and crawled about 30 feet along the belt conveyor into that freezing tunnel. He worked as fast as he could, but he had been in there only about a quarter-of-an-hour when his clothes were frozen so stiff that he could hardly move about and his gloves were so hard and brittle he could scarcely use his hands.

He had just about decided to crawl back and thaw out when suddenly he heard the door of the tunnel open, saw the lights go out, and then heard the door slam shut again.

Locked in the Tunnel to Die.
It was cold enough in that tunnel, but Jack suddenly went colder. He knew all too well the meaning of that slamming door. The light switch was just inside it. The watchman, not realizing that anybody was in there, had turned out the lights and locked the tunnel door. Even with the door open, Jack couldn't have groped his way out of the tunnel along the perplexing maze of conveyor belts. He had been abandoned in that freezing hole—to die.

Jack started to yell—he yelled until he was hoarse. But it was like yelling in a vacuum. The walls of the tunnel were insulated and sound proof. He began to crawl along the tunnel, his clothes freezing to the steel at every foot of the way. His gloves were as stiff as boards. The cold was penetrating to the very marrow of his bones. Pretty soon he would begin to get sleepy—and then—

Nearly Crazy With Horror.
It wasn't a pleasant subject, but Jack couldn't help thinking about it. Would they find him dead in the morning? Another idea struck him—a grisly, ghastly thought. When morning came, they would start the conveyor, and his stiff, dead body would be ground to pieces by the cogs of the great steel belt. Out of that machine, built to deliver the fixings for parties and the makings for kids' ice-cream cones, would come a sickening mass of frozen and lacerated flesh—flesh that had once been Jack Standmann.

A prey to thoughts like that, Jack almost went crazy. "It's hard to explain the honor of freezing to death in a pitch-dark tunnel," he says. "In my frenzy I imagined I had been in there for hours. I knew I'd be as stiff as my own gloves long before morning. But suddenly it occurred to me that I might try knocking on the wall."

Jack didn't have much hope that that would work. The walls were too thick. But at one point—a place where a cold storage compartment adjoined the tunnel, the wall was not insulated at all. And at that point he started hammering with all his strength. Would anyone go into that compartment? Would anyone hear his frantic signal?

Jack pounded for a long time. His body and face were numb, and his flailing arms were the only parts of him that had any feeling left in them, when suddenly, the lights went on. Someone yelled to him, and Jack doesn't remember whether he answered or not. But presently he felt himself being lifted out of the tunnel and carried out into the warm June air.

Well sir, if anybody in the Byrd expedition had any adventure as thrilling or as nearly fatal as that, I haven't heard of it.

Porcupine's Quills
The porcupine's quill equipment is indeed the secret of its survival. It has no speed, no keenness of eyesight or smell, no cunning, but it does have between 20,000 and 40,000 daggers, each more poisonous than the sting of a wasp. The point of each quill is polished and very keen. Then come the barbs, over a thousand of them, which begin to stick out when they enter warm flesh, like the barbs on a fish hook.

Lesson for May 1
Following Vision With Service

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:14-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—All things are possible to him that believeth.—Mark 9:23.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Only Jesus Could Help.
JUNIOR TOPIC—At the Foot of the Mountain.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Up to Our Knowledge of Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Following Vision with Service.

One of the lessons that seems hard to learn and to keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountain-top experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end in themselves, but a preparation for service. All too often we come to regard such times of peculiar blessing, whether in the privacy of our own room, or in the great conference of Christian workers, as something which should glow warmly in our own hearts, making us glad in the Lord, and not as a background and preparation for ministry to others. One might just as well hope to feed the physical body constantly without any work or exercise and keep in good health, as to feed the soul on good things, do nothing for God or fellow-man, and still avoid what someone has called "spiritual dyspepsia."

The writer has just attended a most unusual and blessed Bible conference, the leaders of which right-ly apprehended this truth. Evangelism was the matter chiefly in mind, but instead of announcing the theme of the week's meetings as "Evangelism," the program presented it as "Preparation for Evangelism." That is sound spiritual sense. We came not to discuss evangelism itself so much as to prepare ourselves to go out and evangelize. God help us to do it!

Jesus rightly characterized the time in which he lived as

I. A Faithless Generation (vv. 14-19).

"Jesus found in the valley disputing scribes, a distracted father, a demon-possessed boy, and defeated disciples." The unbelief which called forth the rebuke of Jesus "is revealed in different phases. There were the scribes, willful and persistent unbelief; there was the father, unwilling unbelief; there was the boy, irresponsible unbelief; and there were the disciples, unconscious unbelief. The whole atmosphere was an unbelieving atmosphere" (Morgan).

As we look at that depressing picture of long ago, let us consider ourselves lest we also be tempted to "limit God" by our faithlessness. The most casual reader of Scripture cannot help but see that God seeks out and honors faith, and as we begin to study God's Word with care we realize that the fundamental of all fundamentals is really to believe God. Some Christian men and women are living out a tremendous testimony for God by fully believing Him and His Word, but many of those who profess to follow Him actually make Him appear ridiculous before the world because their unbelief makes Him out to be a "small" God instead of the infinite, eternal, omnipotent God.

II. The All-Powerful Saviour (vv. 23-27).

The keynote of our first division might well have been the sad words "they could not" in verse 18. But now the Son of God, has come and the new keynote is the inspiring words of verse 23, "all things are possible to him that believeth." There is no problem too difficult for our Lord; there is no sorrow too deep for His comfort; there is no challenging opportunity too great for His enabling power.

III. Prayer the Connecting Link (vv. 28, 29).

The disciples in chagrin at their inability to deal with the difficulty of the demon-possessed boy, having witnessed the power of Christ in delivering him, begin now to realize that evidently even though unconscious of it, they had come into the powerless position of unbelief. What a solemn warning there is for us in the experience of these followers of the Lord. Like the termites who destroy the very life and strength of wood—and yet leave it apparently whole, only to crumble in dust when it is put under the pressure of daily use—there are spiritually destructive influences which all but unconsciously destroy the virile strength of the Christian. Prayerlessness is the most effective weapon of Satan at this point. Without prayer there is no power. Real problems are not successfully met nor are opportunities grasped "but by prayer."

of the tornado, which made its approach undetected by its victims until it was hard upon them.

Houses were reduced to splinters, automobiles were torn to pieces and scattered over the landscape or were twisted into almost unrecognizable masses, while some of the injured were hurled high into the air and carried many feet from the place where they were picked up by the terrific twister.

Apparently the twister first struck in the OK community or a few miles west of that place in northern Dawson county, eight or ten miles southwest of O'Donnell. The store at OK was demolished and a number of houses destroyed. It moved in a northeasterly direction, passing within two miles southeast of O'Donnell, a residence about two miles south of O'Donnell being destroyed and some of the inmates injured. Little damage was done in the Joe Bailey community except the destruction of out houses and feed stacks, but the tornado struck again with full force just west of Draw.

The first residence struck and demolished was that of Allen Moore, but the family had fled from the house and were scurrying to the storm cellar when the house crashed.

There were seven persons in the McKay house when the storm struck Mrs. McKay, it is said, ran from the house toward a storm cellar with her twins in her arms, but she was thrown down. The babies were torn from her grasp and one of them was very seriously injured. The other miraculously escaped serious injury.

V. O. Caswell was on the front porch and Mrs. Caswell in the kitchen when it hit their home. Mr. Caswell stated that he was just in the act of taking hold of the door knob when everything turned dark and he remembered nothing more for an undetermined length of time, when he regained consciousness to discover the devastation that had been wrought. The house was gone. The body of his wife was found a hundred yards away, almost buried in sand and mud, terribly mutilated.

Bob Alexander was driving along the road near the Caswell home at the time. His car was hurled over and over he doesn't know how many times. He only knows that he clung to the steering wheel. He doesn't know how he became disengaged from the car; but after the storm had passed, the motor was found in one place and the chassis in another. Bob was a little bruised and sore from his experience but otherwise was unhurt.

George and John Walters and little Mary Belle Walters were in another car on the Walters farm, and they suddenly found themselves in the power of the mad winds. The body of John was later found many feet from the wrecked car. The body of George was beneath it. In some strange way, the little girl had been picked up and carried high into the air. One report is that she was landed astride a wire fence. She was taken to a hospital but apparently was not seriously hurt.

A hundred freaks of the storm could be related, but that would require more time and space than we have.

The tornado was accompanied or followed by a heavy rain, which covered a large portion of the county.

Funeral services for the dead were conducted at Draw Thursday afternoon.

After Tornado Spread Death And Destruction In Lynn Area

The scenes below show the devastation which a terrific wind spread through two Lynn county communities late Tuesday afternoon. Top photo is of the remains of a filling station in the OK community southwest of O'Donnell. The two pictures of the automobiles bear evidence of the ferocity of the wind, two men being killed in one of the machines which was tumbled over and over 17 times while another miraculously escaped death in the other. The baby girl shown below is Helen Irene McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKay of the Draw community, who is in Lubbock sanitarium with a fractured skull suffered when the wind blew her from her mother's arms as she ran for a storm cellar during the height of the storm. Storm scenes were made early today.

McKAY BABY DYING

Before our forms close Thursday night, a telephone message from the hospital in Lubbock stated that little Irene McKay, 13 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKay, was dying from injuries sustained in Tuesday's tornado at Draw.

This makes the fourth death victim of the tornado in this community.

Future Homemakers Meet Here

The Future Homemakers of Area 19, which includes Tahoka, Post, Wilson, Lamesa, Graham Chapel, and New Home, had their first annual area meeting Saturday, April 16.

This meeting was held at the Tahoka High School building. Tahoka girls were hostess to the other schools.

The program opened Saturday morning with a sing-song and get-acquainted period. Following this peppy period, Madeline Russell, president of the area, gave the welcome address. The remainder of the morning was spent with a program showing the improvement and development of our homes, from the old Indian homes up to the modern rural homes, from the different schools of the area. From 12 until 1 o'clock, lunch, sponsored by the Future Homemakers of Tahoka, was served.

The evening program began at 7 o'clock with a lovely Spanish dance from Lamesa. An interesting talk, "Why People Like Us," was then given by Miss Ethel Green, chairman of this area. Each school presented a stunt. A prize was given to Post, the winner of the stunts.

After the regular program a business meeting was held. We selected Post for the place of our next meeting. We also elected Wilson as our representative school from this area for the state council. Teeng tah tab, a Dakota word meaning "on the prairie," was chosen as our area name.

A very lovely tea, planned by the third year Home Economics class, was served in the dining room of the Home Economics department after the adjournment of the meeting. The dining room table was decorated with a lace cover and a pink tulip centerpiece. Eloise Roberts, hostess of the day, presided at the tea table.

Mr. J. E. Ketter and daughter, Mrs. Sam Price, were called to Dallas Saturday by the death of Mr. Ketter's sister, death resulting from heart trouble. Funeral services were conducted Sunday.

OHIO MAN VISITING HERE ATTENDS DALLAS MEETING

Henry L. Dixon and wife, who reside in Akron, Ohio, are here this week visiting Mrs. Dixon's parents, Prof. and Mrs. H. P. Caviness.

Mrs. Dixon came two or three weeks ago, her husband coming to Dallas later to attend the semi-annual meeting of the American Chemical Society which met there. From Dallas he came to the home of his parents at Winters, where his wife met him, and they came from Winters to Tahoka Tuesday.

Mr. Dixon is employed as a chemist in the offices of the Goodrich Rubber Company at Akron. He holds a good position there, with excellent pay, but he says he still likes Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon planned to leave for Akron today.

Charlie Curry of the News office and his family returned Tuesday afternoon from a few days visit with relatives at Stephenville. Crops are up and plenty of rain at Stephenville and vicinity, he reports. Near Central Church in this county they encountered the terrific rain that fell there Tuesday afternoon. Charlie says he doesn't know how many inches of rain fell but it was undoubtedly the hardest rain he ever saw.

Mrs. E. S. Evans represented the Phebe K. Warner Club at a meeting of Federated Clubs in Wichita Falls this week.

COLORED CHURCH IS ORGANIZED AT GRASSLAND

The colored people of Grassland were highly edified by evangelistic services from April 18 to April 24 conducted by Rev. W. Culpepper, colored, of Snyder. Results: men converted.

On the evening of April 24, a church was organized with 18 active members.

The whites took great interest. The Redwine Baptist Church and pastor and missionary were with us, also the Nazarene pastor (white) was with us Sunday night, April 24. The whites contributed cheerfully in helping in finances for the evangelistic movement, amounting to the sum of $23.46.

Please help us grow the New Prospects Baptist Church—Contributed.

A. L. Lockwood, Crop Loan chairman for Lynn county, requests that all farmers desiring loans shall make their applications at once, as the loans will close on May 15. See him at The First National Bank.

J. W. Link and daughter, Miss Elizabeth, Mrs. Vernon Wilhoit and Clovis Hunnicutt went fishing last week down on the Rio Grande near Del Rio. They report a good time but nearly all the fish got away.

W. G. Forgy, editor of the O'Donnell Press, was a pleasant caller at the News office Tuesday.

Buford Swan Turns Cliff Dweller

Paul Howell and Jim Wetzel returned from a trip to the Conchas Dam now under construction up in northern New Mexico.

They say that this $14,000,000 dam is a huge thing, wonderful to behold.

They also say that they saw Buford Swan out there and in fact took lunch with him. Buford has a most novel and attractive little home, they report, built of logs and stone far back into a cliff, the stone of the cliff constituting a part of the walls of the residence. Jim says it is the keenest residence in the whole town.

Mrs. Homer Harrison accompanied Rev. and Mrs. Geo. A. Dale to San Angelo last week, where they all attended the state Baptist Sunday School convention. They report that more than 5,600 visitors registered at the convention.

C. E. Clinton exhibited to the News man Wednesday a penny which was coined in 1842. Unlike some of the others exhibited to us, it was little worn and looked as if it might have been minted only a few years ago.

Judge L. C. Heath of Brownfield was a professional visitor in Tahoka Tuesday.

Land Bought At 40 Cents Per Acre Inspected By Owners

Hanes Praised By School Board

Appreciation of the work of W. T. Hanes superintendent of Hermleigh schools, was expressed in a resolution passed by the school board there last week, a few days after Hanes' acceptance of the Tahoka superintendency. The resolution follows:

"We, the board of education of Hermleigh High School board express our deep appreciation to W. T. Hanes, late superintendent of our schools, for his splendid work in our institution and community at large.

"We very reluctantly accept his resignation, for in doing so we realize that we are losing a most excellent administrator, a conscientious school man, a friend of school children, and a worthy citizen.

"What Mr. Hanes has done for our schools during his administration here is beyond expression in mere words—the results can be seen in actual figures, in affiliated credits, in the new building program in trophies won, in the general uplift of our school in educational trends, and in the splendid attitude of faculty and student body toward making our school the foundation of good citizenship."

"We release him only because we are glad to see anyone so ambitious and so capable acquire a larger field of service in which he can benefit the youth of our nation.

"Be it resolved then that we, the board of education of Hermleigh High School, have four copies of this resolution made, one copy to be sent to the board at Tahoka, one to the county newspaper, one to Mr. Hanes, and one to be filed in the superintendent's office at Hermleigh."

Signed: Hugh C. Vaughn, A. A. McMillan, G. R. Avary, L. B. Rea, L. H. Beam, A. L. Brom, H. C. Campbell.

Cotton Long Way From Parity Price

College Station.—"When a Texas farmer spent the money he received for a bale of cotton sold during February of this year, he came out of the store with just half the goods he would have gotten back in February of 1909-1914 from the sale of a like bale," Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agriculture Conservation Committee, pointed out in the course of a recent session of the committee at Texas A. and M. College.

"If cotton were selling at 16.2 cents a pound now, a bale of cotton would buy just about what it would have back in 1909-1914," Slaughter said. "This is what is meant by parity price. The spot price of cotton in February was around 8.1 cents a pound."

Parity cotton payments, or cotton price adjustment payments of 3 cents a pound, which farmers who cooperate with the A A A program will receive on their 1937 crop, will narrow the spread between the price they actually sold their cotton for and the parity price of 16.2 cents.

In February of 1937, the money for a bale of cotton brought three-fourths the amount of goods from a store that a like bale sold in 1909 to 1914 bought. The huge cotton crop of 1937 quickly reduced the things that a bale of cotton would buy at the present price level.

The new farm act continues the provisions for parity payments to narrow the gap between what a farmer should be able to buy when he sells a bale of cotton and what he can buy, Slaughter said. That provision, however, depends upon the funds to be provided by Congress. Whether this money will be provided through processing taxes on manufactured cotton goods or otherwise is being discussed, at present by congressional committees.

Mrs. Hall Robinson is visiting her son, Jack Alley Robinson, at Iowa Park this week.

Two women from the North were here Tuesday to view for the first time some Lynn county land that their father bought nearly sixty years ago for 40 cents an acre.

The two ladies are Mrs. Louise H. Ingalls of Bryan, Ohio, and Mrs. Fred C. Stevenson of Detroit, Michigan. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ingalls' son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Hamlin A. Starks of New York City. The doctor is connected with Rockland State Hospital in that great city.

The tract of land the party came to see is a half section tract located about a mile south of the lakeview sign in the northwest part of the county, and has been under lease to Wilburn Timmons for about twenty years.

The land was surveyed on Feb. 7, 1878, for a grant by the State of Texas to the E. L. & R. R. R. Co. In those early days, Texas was making such grants of vast acreages of land in order to entice railroads to build lines into and through Texas. This particular company, however, failed to build any trackage in Texas, and on May 3, 1880, the State of Texas patented this Lynn county tract to the Lone Star Real Estate & Colonization Co., who four days later deeded it to Hiram Hoadley Jr. of Eden, Ohio, near Toledo, father of the two women here Tuesday to see the land.

The State of Texas, it seems, made a trade with the Lone Star Real Estate & Colonization Co., of which T. C. Reade, Allam County, Indiana, was president, in which Texas gave to this firm the Lynn county E. L. & R. R. R. Co. tracts with the understanding that the Lone Star would colonize them.

Mr. Reade attempted a colonization project, and brought many Indiana and Ohio prospectors to look at the land in 1880. A few tracts in the county are still owned by these first prospectors. In fact, the News goes to some of them who live in Ohio, Indiana, and New Jersey.

According to Mrs. Ingalls, her father came down to Fort Worth by rail. There were no railroads west of that frontier city in Texas, the T. & P. having just reached that westward point. From Fort Worth, the colonization agent carried his prospectors west by wagon train to the Plains. A chuck wagon went ahead to prepare the meals. The month was February, and there were still a few buffalo and there had been an Indian fight near Double Lakes the year before. Knowing these facts, one can picture the hardships these "Northerners" underwent.

However, many of the prospectors had visions of the future of this country and bought land—at 40 cents an acre, plus a transportation charge. In Mr. Hoadley's case this must have been small, though, for the entire cost was $250.00. Few of the buyers ever settled the land, and possibly none ever stayed any length of time. There was not a ranch in the county then, the T-Bar being established as the first one in 1884.

Mrs. Ingalls and Mrs. Stevenson had with them, when they visited The News, the original patent certificate, signed by Governor O. M. Roberts on May 3, 1880, and the deed to the property made to their father May 7, 1880. Thus, the tract has not changed hands in 58 years, and no abstract had ever been made.

Also of interest is the fact that the patent certificate described the land as being "on the waters of Double Lakes," though this famous early-day Plains landmark is about eight miles to the southeast.

Our Northern visitors, though here in the midst of the sandstorm which preceded Tuesday's rain, seemed very much pleased with our country.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lillith Boyd, H. D. Agent
O'DONNELL H. D. CLUB MET WITH MRS. JOHN EARLS

Anyone can make good angel food cake by carefully measuring all ingredients, stated Miss Lillith Boyd at the regular meetings of the O'Donnell H. D. Club which met with Mrs. John Earls on Thursday, April 21.

Beat egg whites with a ladle beater, fold in other ingredients, pour into an ungreased cake pan and bake in oven with properly regulated temperature are the four principal steps in taking the cake which is fittingly named "Angel Food".

Mrs. E. J. Treadway, vice Chairman, presided during the business session.

Misses Geraldine and Louise Haney entertained at the piano and with singing. Each number was received with much pleasure.

Angel Food Cake, ice cream, and grape juice were served by the hostesses to the following members and visitors: Mesdames T. R. Tume, E. J. Treadway, B. D. Ballew, G. A. Haney, T. L. Higginbotham, Alma Jacobs, R. O. Stark, Leonard Mires, and Miss Lillith Boyd.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, May 5 at the home of Alma Jacobs. The subject, "Texas Wild Flowers". All members are requested to bring any material they may be able to secure for this program.

Alma Jacobs, Reporter.

WILSON CLUB WOMEN MEET WITH MRS. BRANDON

"One should carefully examine the hems of blankets when buying," said Mrs. S. L. Alderson when the Wilson Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. M. C. Brandon April 20.

Color and weight are other things to be considered when purchasing blankets. Towels, also, should be carefully selected, as they are most used of household articles. Towels of good quality hold their color, are more durable, and are cheaper in the long run.

Members present were: Mmes. S. G. Anthony, P. D. Server, Robert Lamb, Howard Cook, J. F. Covey, Douglas Finley, M. C. Brandon, S. L. Alderson, D. A. Hill, Lloyd Swann.

Sir Edmund Andros Was Able Colonial Governor

Sir Edmund Andros was born on the island of Guernsey, in the Channel islands, on December 6, 1637, and died in London in February, 1714. His family belonged to the feudal aristocracy of that island. As a friend of the duke of York, he came to New York as governor in 1674, remaining there until 1681. Five years later, says a writer in the Detroit News, he returned to the colonies, to carry out James II's idea of consolidating the New England colonies into one royal province.

When they heard of the landing of William of Orange in England in 1689, the people of Boston rose and seized the royal officers, including Andros himself. He was returned to England for trial but acquitted, and in 1692 was appointed governor of Virginia, where for five years he had considerable success. From 1704 to 1706 he was lieutenant-governor of Guernsey. "The Dictionary of American Biography" states that "Though not popular with advocates of democratic government, nevertheless, he was one of the ablest English colonial governors of the Seventeenth century." He was essentially a soldier, and where soldierly qualities were needed his rule was excellent; but he lacked understanding of business affairs and of Puritan psychology. That England valued his services is shown by his long years in office and his appointment to difficult posts.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Holland left Wednesday for a few days visit with her sister, Mrs. Gallagher, at Desdemona. They will be accompanied home next week by her mother, Mrs. J. H. McCoy.

MEXICAN LABOR LEADER'S PROPHECY COMES TRUE!

PROPHET — Vincente Lombardo Toledano (right) attorney and secretary of the "Confederacion de Trabajadores Mexicanos," or Confederation of Mexican Workers, prophesied before the Mexican labor syndicate's convention, that the Supreme Court would confirm the award of the Mexican Labor Board assessing millions of dollars costs against American oil companies. Toledano denounced foreign capital.

TAKING OVER!—New Mexican "Board of Directors" of the former Huasteca Petroleum Co., an American firm whose property was seized by Mexican government. The group, known as "Section Fifth," and comprised of officers and members of the labor syndicate, occupies company office (above), from which Americans have been driven, at Mexico City. Left to right: Teodoro Angulo, "president"; Carlos Reynoso, "general sales manager"; Hector Lopez, "sales manager"; Alfonso Mencia, "general auditor"; Salvador Herrera, "sales manager"; and Manuel Leiva, "sales manager."

Old Clothing Is Wanted

Mrs. Grace H. Clinton, superintendent of the W. P. A. Renovation project here, requests that all persons having discarded clothing, quilt scraps, old stockings, worthless household articles or junk of any kind shall telephone her or drop her a card and she will call for them. Such articles can be used in her work at the W. P. A. sewing room, and she will appreciate such donations. Telephone No. 34.

Mrs. Viola DePoma of Casper, Wyoming, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. McNeely, and both ladies were pleasant callers at the News office Monday. Mrs. DePoma, a daughter of the late C. R. Strong of the Three Lakes community and a sister of J. W. Strong of this place, was a resident of Tahoka for a number of years, removing to Casper eleven years ago. Her husband was killed in an accident a year ago, and Mrs. DePoma is thinking of locating again in Tahoka.

Last week in mentioning the high ups of The First National Bank who attended the Banker's convention at Plainview Friday, we omitted the names of Pete Hegl, Cloda Hubbard, and Bob Collier, who also attended. Ray Weathers says Pete got lost in the shuffle somewhere and did not come back with the rest of the bunch. We have not heard Pete's alibi yet.

China Ware Luxury Until About Two Centuries Ago

As late as 200 years ago China was a luxury of the wealthy. Indeed many considered it economy to order solid silver table services, which did not break and add the cost of occasional replacements. Everyday tableware was generally of pewter, writes Emerald Bristow in the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

For the poor and for the servants' tables wood, leather or tin served for plates, bowls and drinking mugs. Stoneware and crude crockery had been produced since Tudor times, but was used sparingly because of its being easily broken when provided for servants' use and because it was never a beautiful product of fine workmanship worthy to be brought to the tables of gentlemen of fashion.

Probably the first English dinner table set entirely with a china service was the state dinner given by James I in the early 1600s. All the plates and bowls were imported Chinese porcelain, and the guests were given the plates they had used as souvenirs of the memorable occasion. Oriental porcelain was the only fine china to be had until about a century later and, being imported by slow sailing vessels or tedious lengthy caravans all across Europe, this was too expensive for ordinary use at table even for the wealthy. So plates and bowls from the Orient were kept as prized ornaments, like the Chinese vases and colorful little porcelain figurines.

English and other European potters tried to copy the beautiful Chinese porcelain. They discovered two interesting ceramic fabrics in their tireless experiments that were all doomed to failure until special clays were smuggled from China. These were the salt glaze ware, which was not much admired in its own day but is much sought by collectors.

Dentists Once Trained on Apprenticeship Plan

Prior to the inauguration of formal dental education, practitioners received their training by serving as apprentices to dentists already in practice. This method of instruction continued throughout the world until 1840, writes Harry Bear in the Richmond Times-Dispatch. American dentistry has developed through schools for instruction, scientific societies and journals for the dissemination of its literature.

The founding of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery in 1840, the first dental school in the world, was the beginning of formal dental education. The Baltimore college, the publication of the American Journal of Dental Science in 1839, and the organization of the American Society of Dental Surgeons in 1840 marked the real beginning of the development of American dentistry. In 1840, a student was required to spend only four months in college to receive the degree of doctor of dental surgery.

The entrance requirements and the content of the dental course varied for many years. In 1884 the curriculum had advanced to a two-year course of five months each. When the University College of Medicine was established in Richmond in 1893 the dental course was three years in length. The admission requirements consisted of a "good English education."

Practitioners have for many years observed that affections in one part of the body manifested symptoms elsewhere. During the past century writers have recorded observations of diseases which may have had their origin in other organs of the body—the teeth, for instance.

The Growl

Editor _____ Mary Margaret Tunnell
 Senior Reporter _____ Nell Walker
 Junior Reporter _____ Odean Millman
 Sophomore Reporter _____ Mildred Cooper
 Freshman Reporter _____ Olga Faye Taylor
 Faculty Advisor _____ Mr. Lee B. Dodson

The Editor wishes to make a correction on material appearing in the last issue of the Growl. In the Seventh Grade honor roll, we made the error of saying Betty Lou Ivey held honors while it was Betty Ruth Wyatt. Our apologies to the parties concerned.

Note: The Seniors were all present last Friday with the exception of one or two. (Sickness, of course, the only reason they missed classes.)

The Seniors and Juniors are leading in the soft ball tournament. The Seniors trimmed the Sophomores 12-2, while the Juniors took the lowly Freshmen down 1-0. (What a victory.)

Mrs. Assiter, Typing and History teacher, was absent Monday and Tuesday of this week on account of sickness. The students missed her very much and are glad she is back " hale and hearty". (Wonder if the banquet gave her a nervous breakdown?)

Wanted: "One Regent's Questions and Answers Book" till the twenty-second of May.

Snooper's Column

We hope three local girls make it back from Wichita Falls. They've been down there nearly a week and we're beginning to think they are permanently located. Couldn't say just where but you can guess.

Flash! Flash! Who says Droop is always behind? Who do you think he took to the banquet? E. R.

Who says that there are no bad men in T. H. S. A certain Senior boy, T. M. fought at New Home the other night and he did so well that they can not find a match for him there this week.

This following week one representative will be selected from each Home Economics class to attend the state rally at San Antonio. There is a great deal of competition worked up among the girls, especially, in the third year class. Whoever gets the honor will really be "up" in the Home Making field.

The Home Economics classes are modeling their dresses in chapel Wednesday instead of the Spanish program as was formerly planned, as the modeling will help decide who will go to San Antonio.

The annuals are expected to arrive the last day of school, and the student body is really getting impatient.

The banquet was a great success, and the Seniors wish to thank the Juniors and their Sponsor for such a wonderful entertainment.

T. H. S. is going to have to hire a special delivery messenger to deliver all these "hot" letters going around between a certain Freshman girl and a Junior boy.

A Tribute To The Community News

Turning from the city to the small town press exchanges that come to the editor's desk is stepping from the slums, full of vice, into an old fashioned garden sweet with lavender and thyme and the scent of perennial flowers. The pages of the big dailies are full of murder, thievery, immorality, and selfishness that the better news is obscured by these glaring shatterings of the Decalogue. One puts the paper aside with a feeling of depression and heartache that the world is so full of terrible and unhappy things.

Then picking up the papers that record the happenings of the little towns around us, one gains renewed faith in life. Here are set forth only that which uplifts a community—the activities of the business men, the church items, the happy social gatherings of the people, the marriages, births and deaths, farmers' items, and all of the thousand and one daily occurrences that make up the simple annals of the great common people, who are really the foundation of this country of ours.

Scandals are seldom published in the country newspapers, but it so happens that decency demands it the uglier details are omitted or given a kindly touch that is widely different from the unfeeling publicity of the city press. The offenders may be our neighbors, or people we have rubbed elbows with all our lives. They are real human beings to their town paper, while to the great city dailies they are merely grains of a sort that are ground out hourly in their news mills.

Sometimes people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potent and uplifting factors in our national existence. The Christian Science Monitor.

The Bluebird Class had their monthly business and social meeting Monday night in the home of Lucille Burrough.

The birthdays of Jennie Reba Nevill and Wanda Dyer were celebrated. A weiner and marshmallow roast was enjoyed by all.

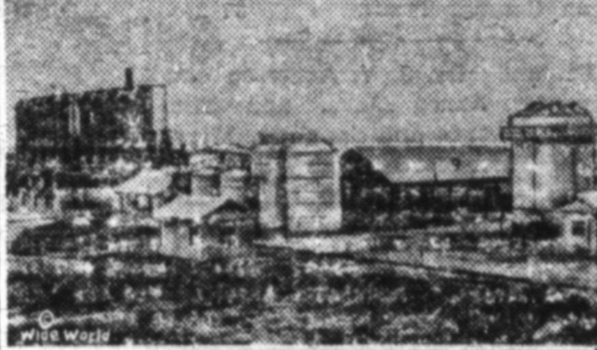

Those who attended were: Genalee Snowden, Lucille Burrough, Muri Akin, Jennie Reba Nevill, Wanda Dyer, Madeline Russell, Joyce Russell, Doris Sargent, Pauline Cunningham, Adelia Latham, Ophelia Eudaly, Ethel Morse, Genell Fortenberry, their teacher, Mrs. D. V. Smith, and a visitor, Vinita Cooper.

Many friends regret to learn that A. R. McGonagill's health has become exceedingly bad in recent weeks. He was taken to Lubbock hospital Monday for a physical examination and possibly treatment.

RADICAL THEORIES INTEREST MEXICAN WORKERS

INSPIRATION—Huge portraits of Marx and Lenin frame picture of Vicente Lombardo Toledano (center), Mexican labor leader, at recent convention of Mexican labor syndicates. Toledano correctly predicted Mexican supreme court would uphold Labor Board in action leading to confiscation of American oil properties.

CONFISCATED PROPERTY—The petroleum refinery at Tampico, Mexico, built and operated by Americans, was seized March 18 by Mexican government and American personnel driven from offices and homes. Contending seizure illegal and Mexico unable to pay, companies are seeking to recover oil fields and refineries in which millions of American dollars have been invested.

OIL CZAR Vicente Cortes Herrera (above insert), former Under Secretary of Communications and Public Works, has been made general manager of the American oil fields in Mexico at San Carlos.

Jack Graves Has Ancient Penny

Talking about ancient pennies, Jack Graves brought one to the News office Monday morning that thus far takes the cake. It was a perfectly good U. S. penny coined in 1817. It was very similar to the one brought to this office last week by Noel Allphin but was 20 years older.

The Allphin coin, we stated, was coined the same year that Andrew Jackson retired from the Presidency of the United States. Well, Jack Graves' penny was coined the year that James Madison relinquished that office, James Monroe being inaugurated as President on March 4 of that year.

Who has an older U. S. coin than this?

Bouliouns Attend Family Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Boulioum returned Wednesday afternoon from Arkadelphia, Arkansas, where they went to visit relatives and to attend the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. Boulioum's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Boulioum.

E. H. says he had the best time he ever had in his life in the same length of time. Well he should have been happy for all his brothers and sisters and their husbands and wives were present.

In a story about the family reunion published in the Arkadelphia Daily Siftings Herald, a brief history of Mr. Boulioum's parents is given. His mother was born in Switzerland but came to America when very young, sailing from Havre, France. The party of immigrants of which she was a member settled near Conway, Arkansas.

Mr. Boulioum's father was born at Alliance, Ohio, but his parents were natives of France. The family later moved to Conway, where Mr. Boulioum's father and mother were married on April 24, 1888. E. H. is the only one of the sons who strayed off to Texas but one of the daughters is a resident of Fresno, California. She visited the Boulioums here and accompanied them to Arkadelphia.

Don't put up with useless

PAIN

Get rid of it

When functional pains of menstruation are severe, take CARDUL. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician. Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerves, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance. Get a bottle of Cardul and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.

Besides easing certain pains, Cardul aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.
