Featured in the cast will be "The Mystery Man." Although we are not allowed to publish his name, we can say that he is well known nationally as an entertainer, and this act alone is a whole show within itself. This is no joke or "gag" when we say he has appeared before many national conventions, on the stage and in radio from New York and Washington to Chicago and Los Angeles.

Washington Visit

To the Editor of The Lynn County News:

We arrived at George Washington's old home about nine o'clock in the morning and left about noon, and the entire time was spent looking at the many interesting sights. We entered this estate, which includes about eight thousand acres, from the West Gate, which is about one fourth of a mile from the Home itself. General Washington was a great architect and laid the plan for all of the buildings as we found them today.

I do not believe that any estate is more pleasantly situated than this one because it lies in a high, dry country located about three hundred miles from the sea by the! way of the Potomac River, which is one of the finest in the world. It is well located with reference to the heat and cold because the severe cold of the North and the extereme heat of the South does not bother them there.

There is nothing to obstruct your view of the Mansion from the West Gate and just before reaching it you find a beautiful andscape which includes all of the buildings surrounding the home. There is a driveway planted on either side, and back of the trees you will find the different buildings that served their purpose in that day but are now obsolete.

You first pass through the Bowling Green to the Court Yard, and, turning to the right before entering the Mansion, you will find the following buildings: kitchen, but-To All Persons Interested In The ler's home, smoke house, laundry Above Minors or Their Estates: yard, wash house, and on the left let us make a date for your car. Researchers Synthesize 3 Metals for First Time

Three minerals, eucryptite, spodumene, and petalite, have been synthesized for the first time.

The work was conducted by Dr. Elburt F. Osborn, Dr. Rustum Roy, and Della M. Roy, of the department of earth sciences at the Pennsylvania state college. It was sponsored by the geophysics di-

Eucryptite is easily synthesized, growing readily into crystals with a remarkable resemblance to quartz. The fact that it has been found only at one place, near Branchfield, Conn., indicates that it may have been mistaken for quartz. Petalite also can resemble quartz and often has been confused with it. Both petalite and spodumene are used in the cera-

Pom state researchers corned that encryptite inverts at studite decomposes to a high silien on at 680 degrees C.

Also in the car were shirts and underware identified as having been taken in a similary burglary the night before of W. G. Boyd's Man's Shop.

Sheriff Roy King, Deputies Sam Floyd and Lawrence West, and Highway Patrolman J. C. Welch went to the home of Rogers' fa-Jier, Santos Rodriquez, where they found the suspect and placed him under arrest. The father directed them to bloodstained pants, shirt and jacket buried in the backyard of the home.

At an examining trial held Wednesday, Rogers admitted the slaying. Testimony indicated that Rogers was attempting to pry open the front door of the store with a tire tool when surprised by Johnson.

Usually, it is said, Policemen-Johnson and Blackstock patroled the town together at night, but recently they had separated because of a wave of burglaries in the town. No one person can hardly conceive of the many uses to which the facts compiled in a census are put by Government, business, farming, manufacture, employment, etc., in shaping of our every-day living in the complex ing, education, service in Armed society of today.

For example, figures will be available on business which will help producers determine in advance what goods may be needed for manufacture in what areas and at what times.

Figures on agriculture will provide information of growth, changes, improvements, and developments taking place in the rural areas.

> We are almost tempted to say We sho' do like Texas. That field was brought in, we were told, before there was any kind respecting the production of oil. On almost every lot in the city is one to a half-dozen oil derricks. On some lots-the derricks re just as close together as they could be placed. Kilgore is a veritable forest of oil derricks. Gladewater is a dandy good sideshow but Kilgore is the real circus. If Snyder ever equals either of them she will be a hum-ding-

There are numerous other cities and towns in East Texas, such as Tyler and Longview, that owe their recent growth and prosperity to oil. We visited a nephew and a niece and their families in Longview, and it was the niece and the wife of the nephew who escorted us over the city and the niece who piloted us over Kilgore; where her husband is employed by an oil company.

We spent one night also with Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Robertson in Mount Pleasant, where they have prospered greatly since leaving Tahoka. They had a lovely home in Tahoka but in Mount Pleasant they have a really elegant and commodious home. They entertained us royally and sent their ieve and best wishes to all their Tahoka friends.

W. O. told us of a marvelous steel plant which has been built and is being operated eight miles south of Daingerfield in Morris county and made us promise to go by and see it, but at Daingerfield we were told that it would be impossible for us to gain admittance without a pass, so we did not even attempt to see it. In operation now, we understand, are blast plants, ovens, and other equipment, costing twenty-five (25) million dollars, and a steel plant costing forty (40) million dollars. The two plants employ thousands of hands. East Texas is fast be coming thoroughly industrialized. Just to show how little the people of Titus county, of which Mount Pleasant is the county seat, dedend upon farming for a living, Mr. Robertson told us that the
