On April the fourth, 1953, the Ford and Ferguson Tractors had a joint demonstration on the Howard Wheeler Farm two miles north of Tahoka on the Tahoka and Lubbock Highway.

We had quite a number of farmers. Ask the ones that were there, about the demonstration. If you failed to see this demonstration and you are undecided about a Ford or Ferguson Tractor and equipment.

Phone your Ford and Ferguson Dealers in Tahoka and ask them to come out on your farm with any implement or implements that you want and demonstrate together for you. At which time you can drive these tractors and see just what you want.

Pythian Sisters Hold Initiation

Members of Lynn Temple No 45 met Tuesday evening, April 7 for an initiation service.

Roll call was made and all of officers except Bernice Carter were at their stations. Verle Carter filled that station as treasurer.

Installing officer Elnora Curry assisted by Novis Curry and Pauline Warren, installed Jessie Jewell Stevens as Guard.

One new member, Billie Ruth Thurman, was installed into the Lynn Temple. We are happy to welcome her into our order.

Two members were reported ill. They were Bess VanDyke and Lou Rusk; also, Brother Tom Short was reported as improving nicely.

For the Ways and Means committee, Thelma Oliver reported that tickets are for sale for the quilt that is to be given away. Elnora Curry reported on a proposed dinner to be served.

The correspondence was read, and a motion was made and passed upon that we buy the 1953 Constitution; also, that $10.00 be sent to Grand Ways and Means committee.

The attendance contest is still very interesting. There was a tie in attendance with 17 members present on each side. Novis' side presented a clever stunt against the opposing team, while Glenda's team received lilac corsages before the meeting.

For the good of the order, Eulalia Richardson presented Florene McCracken and Helen Ellis with gifts and thanked them for their services as pianist while her arm was broken. Also, our candidate and new Sister was complimented and the degree staff and officers for a nice initiation service.

On March 19, several members of Lynn Temple went to Lamesa Temple to enjoy the Friendship night. The Easter theme was carried out and a most interesting program presented. There were also visitors from Lubbock, Big Spring, and Odessa present. We were very happy that Grand Chief Katie Lou Ashley had recovered from her automobile accident enough to attend. Those attending from Lynn Temple were: Ruth Benson, Lucy Brice, Elnora Curry, Novis Curry, Darlene Gurley, Peggy Huey, Emma Halameck, Hannah Nurdyke, and Eulalia Richardson. Everyone enjoyed a wonderful evening.

After the meeting was over, the hostesses served chocolate sundaes to the 34 members present. Hostesses were: Jo Belle Robinson, Lessie Cawthron, and Minnie Conwill.

Our next regular meeting will be Tuesday, April 21, at 8 p. m. Let's keep up the good attendance!—Reporter.

Pfc. Ozell Novian In Special Training

MARINE CORPS AIR STATION, KANEHOE BAY, HAWAII.—Marine Private First Class Ozell N. Novian, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barnum Novian of Tahoka, is serving with a Marine artillery battery that is undergoing amphibious training in the Hawaiian Islands.

The training is under the guidance of the 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force, FMF, at MCAS, Kaneohe Bay. This organization has just been activated under the command of Brig. Gen. James P. Riseley, USMC.

As a member of a select battalion landing team from the 3rd Marine Division, Pfc. Novian arrived several weeks ago from Camp J. H. Pendleton, Ocean-side, Calif. The unit will undergo six months training before returning to the States to be replaced by a similar team.

The training, coordinated with fighter squadrons from Marine Air Group 13, is to insure maximum combat efficiency and coordination between Leatherneck air and ground forces. The Marine specialty of close air support is taking up a portion of the training time. This system, wherein fighter-bombers serve as airborne artillery to blast objectives ahead of advancing ground forces, has proven itself in Korea.

Novian is with A battery, 12th Marine regiment, which is assigned to the battalion landing team as a supporting unit. He entered the Marine Corps in November 1951, and is acting as a battery wireman, handling communications.

Rhonda Littlepage, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walthal Littlepage, underwent a tonsillectomy in a Lubbock hospital Monday. She was able to return home on Tuesday.

A. C. Fillingim Jr. of New Home was a medical patient at Tahoka Hospital this week.

CARD OF THANKS

Odds AND Ends

(BY E. I. THE ELDER)

Hail, folks, and Good Morning. We had the hail yesterday, and this is Monday morning. Yesterday was Easter, and I am sure that it was the stormiest Easter I have ever seen in Tahoka. But while the stormy winds and the hail apparently destroyed most of the fruit and tore much of the freshly green foliage from the trees yet it brought much moisture over much of Lynn county, which was warmly welcomed by farmers and business men even if they did shiver in the cool breezes that blew following the hail. Our churches were crowded with worshippers at both the morning and the evening services, especially those churches in which revival meetings are being held. The Lord not only poured out his material blessings on the people of Lynn county Sunday, but for several days immediately preceding this peaceful Monday morning he has been pouring out great spiritual blessings upon them too.

More people in Lynn county and especially in Tahoka are deeply concerned about spiritual things than they usually are, so I want to relate this little incident which occurred one day last week that somewhat surprised and rebuked me at the same time. I was booked for a little talk at one of the six cottage prayer meetings being held in Tahoka that night, and so remarkably of course, I was expected to talk on some subject appropriate to the occasion. My house-keeper suggested that I select some subject from Proverbs. I said, "Well, I may, but the book of Proverbs, like the dictionary, changes the subject pretty often, and I might have trouble in deciding on which one to use."

"Well, what about Esphasians?" she said. "That 'sho is a good book."

"O well, I will find something. I guess," I retorted rather listlessly.

At the meeting that night I read the Eighth Chapter of Romans and made running comments thereon. But before I did so, I took occasion to comment rather critically on our ignorance of the Bible, especially the ignorance of us men—and how we need to study the Bible more. Admitting my own ignorance, I poured it on the other men hotter and hotter as I went along. Of course the women and even many of the children know more about the Bible than many of us men know, but it was the next day that I got my surprise. My colored house-keeper, Lena Atkins, asked me what I talked about the night before. I said, "Well, I took the Eighth Chapter of Romans" and I started to tell her something about it, but she broke in and said, "O, I know: 'There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh but after the spirit.' It almost knocked me over, and I wondered how many of our Sunday School teachers could have told right off the reel how the Eighth Chapter of Romans begins, or any other chapter as for that-matter."

I have told several different groups about the work of a teacher in a Sunday School which I attended several weeks last year down in the City of Mexico. It was a small church and there were just two teachers: one taught the adults and the other taught the children up to about 13 or 14 years of age. The church had practically no Sunday School equipment, not even Sunday School literature. The teacher of the children used just the New Testament. But there was an interval of some five to ten minutes between the close of the Sunday School and the beginning of the worship services, when the children would meet in assembly with the adults. During this period the children were given opportunity to quote any verse or passage of Scripture they had memorized. When that time came, those children would begin popping up like popcorn in a hot pan and begin quoting Scripture verses one right after another, as fast as they could talk. Some of them would quote several verses at a time; and that happened every Sunday morning. I've never seen anything like it on this side of the Rio Grande. Those children are storing up in their hearts the Word of God, and I imagine that they will carry it with them through life—through their young manhood and young womanhood, through middle life and through old age, even down the brink of the grave, and that it will be a great source of comfort to them in the sorrows and the struggles that they may encounter all along the way. I want to say here that it has been my observation that our Sunday School teachers here in Texas have been doing a magnificent work with many of our S. S. pupils. There are many little children right here in Tahoka that I dare say can quote much more Scripture than their daddies can.

Things happen around me every day that make me conscious and ashamed of my ignorance—colored mechanics and helpers around our service stations that know ten times as much about an automobile or a tractor as I know. And there are men engaged in a dozen occupations right here in Tahoka who know more about their respective jobs than I will know a hundred years from now if I live that long. I may have told this story too, may have put it in this column some time—I am not sure; but I had an experience in Santa Fe, New Mexico, one day last summer, when I was rambling around out there just to see God's great mountains and streams, and flowers and trees, and people.

I walked out into one of the city's fine little parks and up to a point where some little shoe-shine boys had their stands. As I approached it, little brown Mexican boys swarmed around me like bees and butterflies and humming birds around a honey suckle vine.

"Shine? Shine? Shine? about a half dozen of them asked.

I mounted a chair and one of them began work on the hides that covered my feet and rubbed big corns on my toes. Then the kids began chattering—among themselves—kids about eight or ten or twelve years old apparently. They were talking Spanish. "How many languages can you kids speak?" I asked. Some of them could speak three different languages, I learned—Spanish, English, and their native Indian tongues, for a large percent of the people of New Mexico are full-blood Indians, belonging to one tribe or another, many of them being Navajos.

So there I was, editor of a newspaper, conductor of a column in it, who had been around just a little and who had read quite a bit of American and European history, and I could not speak but one language if my life had depended on it, and here were these several boys eight or ten years old, some of them living in dirty huts, no doubt, not having attended any kind of school more than three or four years at the utmost, and yet they could speak three languages fluently. Yes, it made me keenly ashamed of my ignorance.

The Budweiser beer folks recently staged a great parade in the city of Waco. I read about it and viewed some pictures of it in a denominational paper just today. There was a picture of an immense Anheuser-Busch beer wagon loaded with dummy but attractive beer cases, being drawn by eight fine Clydesdale draft horses, through the streets of Waco, many thousands of people lining the sidewalks to see the great parade. It was a great advertising stunt.

But there is also a university in Waco with several thousand students in attendance. Dr. W. R. White, one of the leading "dry" advocates in Texas, is president of that University. Numerous teachers and students in that University are also ardent "drys." Some of them—I do not know who all now how many—got their heads together and decided that that Big Brewing establishment should not get all the advertising benefit out of that dazzling parade. So when that giant wagon drawn by eight fine steeds came pompously down one of the main streets of the city, the thousands of people who lined the sidewalks saw another vehicle close behind it. What is that? Everybody craned their necks to see. It was a big float, bearing a badly-wrecked automobile, with four ketchup-bespattered University students visible through or hanging from its windows, apparently sick and wounded and spattered with blood. A placard on one side of the truck that bore the wrecked car gave the warning: "If you drive, don't drink; if you drink, don't drive." On another placard was the picture of a hearse, and a skull and crossbones, with this simple warning: "Beer and automobiles equal Death."

The story further says that the demonstration for abstinence was (Con'td, On Next Page) planned by Tilson F. Maynard, pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Waco and president of the McLennan county Drys.

There are quite a few people yet living in Lynn county, I am sure, who remember Tilson F. Maynard. Before he was ordained to the Ministry he taught school a year or two down at Three Lakes. That must have been twenty years ago. A few years later, he was ordained, and held a revival meeting in the First Baptist Church here, before the second story was added, I believe. In 1950, while I was spending several months down in Waco, I met Rev. Mr. Maynard several times and attended services in his church twice. He is one of the most vigorous, aggressive, and progressive Ministers in Waco and in all Central Texas, and is also a most lovable man.

Now I have just one other thing on my chest, I want to get it off, whether my suggestion ever amounts to anything or not.

There is so much objection to the Revised Standard Version of the Bible, some of it apparently well founded and some of it not well founded but bitter just the same, that there is little prospect of its coming into general use in the homes and the churches of the South.

My suggestion is that Southern Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Disciples, Lutherans and others who may be dissatisfied with the Revised Standard Version, shall join in together and select the very best Hebrew, Greek, and English scholars among them for the purpose of making a revision of the King James Version.

Personally I have some grave objections to the Revised Standard Version different from those usually made, one of them being that it discards so much of the verbiage of the King James Version, with which so many of the Ministers and the laity alike are so familiar, and substitutes a translation with which our Ministers and our laity must become familiar before they can come to appreciate and love the new version as they have long appreciated and loved the old. This would be justifiable and commendable if it really changed the meaning and made it clearer or more accurate. I could cite many Scriptures to illustrate the point.

On the other hand, the meaning of many English words have changed during the last 300 years, others have become obsolete, and in many places the English of the King James version is erroneous according to modern rules of grammar. A revision of the King James Version is needed but only to correct, clarify or strengthen the translation into English to make it conform to the meaning of the original Hebrew or Greek text as the case may be.

There continues to be so much criticism of the Revised Standard Version, some of it apparently well founded and some of it not, that there seems to be little prospect of its coming into general use at any time soon in the homes and the churches of the South. Some of these criticisms are based merely on religious prejudices, but this is the kind usually that is the most stubborn and bitter. These objectors know but little or nothing of the languages in which the Bible was originally written and seemingly do not wish to know.

But there are honest and well-founded criticisms of this translation, no doubt. Many people like myself who know no Hebrew, in which most of the Old Testament was written, and little or no Greek, in which all of the New Testament was written, can see mistakes that were made by the translators of the Revised Standard Version by a mere comparison of its text with that of the King James text. He will soon discover that in many places the verbiage of the two texts are widely and even radically different but that the meaning of the two is practically the same. We maintain that where there was little difference in the meaning there should be little difference in the verbiage with all due regard for beauty, clearness, and force of expression together with accuracy of meaning at every point along the way. When a reader or student of the Bible fails to find a King James verse or passage of Scripture with which he has long been familiar and has long loved but finds a new translation thereof in verbiage which is quite different, he is likely to feel a sense of disappointment and to charge that somebody has been "tampering" with the Scriptures. So, except where there are real defects or errors in the King James Version which need to be corrected, I think the translators of the Revised Standard Version would have done the English-speaking world a great favor by sticking as closely as possible to the old text, with which so many people are familiar and which they genuinely appreciate and love.

Personally, I do not think that these translators were seeking at any point to throw any doubt on the virgin birth of Christ or on his deity, for such an idea is refuted in scores and scores of other Scriptures, yet in order to avoid any grounds for such a belief I believe they should have used the word "virgin" in Isaiah where they used the appellation "young woman" and should have also been careful in John 3:16 not to omit the word begotten. There are other Scriptures where the translators apparently were unwise in not sticking closer to the King James text.

Furthermore, to me, there is a kind of sacredness and stately dignity in such words as Thee and Thou and Thine and in such verb ending as th, eth, est, art, and so forth, and I believe I prefer to see them in the Bible than to see in there the plain language of the street.

Of course there are differences of belief and doctrine among the different churches and denominations which might make it difficult for a committee composed of representatives from the churches to agree on every point raised by some one, but, by the use of foot notes and marginal notes, I believe the whole revision could be done in a much shorter period of time than was required in the R. S. V. translation and with much more satisfactory results.

The great Protestant and Baptist denominations have just as great linguists and scholars as any other portion of the United States, and many claim that the purest English in America is spoken and written by Southern scholars, ministers, and writers. What the world needs is a revised, up-to-date King James version of the entire Bible.

I think Baptists, Methodists, Lutherans, Presbyterians, and Church of Christ representatives can furnish the world with such a Version. If they are not going to do it, or attempt to do it, then they have no right to continue to criticize others who have attempted it.

SENIOR EDITOR GETS A WEATHER THRILL

Elsewhere in this paper we have a report of the wind, rain, and hail storm that visited this county Sunday afternoon, but the senior editor had the thrill of seeing some phases of it that seem to have escaped the attention of most people. Stepping out into his front yard to take a look at the impending storm clouds, he noted a section of the clouds high up in the northwest of an intensely green color and immediately predicted that a hail-storm was about to visit Tahoka; then walking down the sidewalk on the west side of his home, he looked to the southwest and saw an intensely black section of clouds at the center of which was a cylindrical portion shooting upward with terrific speed, on the opposite sides of which were other clouds moving with tornadoic fury in opposite directions, and still others whipping about in various directions. He said to himself, Surely that is a tornado, and watched it for two or three minutes to decide in what direction to run and under which bush to burrow himself, but by that time it was apparent that the thing was not headed for Tahoka and it also seemed to be spending its force out somewhere in the T-Bar pasture. So, sure enough, we found out later that there had been a harmless tornado out in the T-Bar but we still have seen no one who witnessed the turbulence of the thing as did the senior editor of this newspaper. But for about 13 minutes the winds blew and the rain fell and the hail came down in sheets here in Tahoka, playing havoc with flower gardens and with a prospectively bountiful fruit crop.

May Continue Cloud-Seeding

Prospects appeared bright this week that cloud-seeding experiments by the Krick Company of Denver, Colo., will be continued until September 15 over a four county area, including Lynn, of the West Texas Weather Improvement District.

However, about $2,000.00 more will have to be raised in the counties of Lynn, Garza, Borden, and Dawson to insure continuance of the experiments started last year, according to Sam Allen of Lamesa, who was here Monday.

At a meeting of the district board in Lamesa Friday, Lee Cox, Krick representative in Texas, brought a proposal worked out in the Denver office to furnish cloud-seeding service for these four counties until Sept. 15 for $14,485.00.

The project office in Lamesa will be closed, but the proposal includes a 7-day forecast issued each Monday from Denver to some central office in each county which may be posted for farmers to read.

The board is writing each person who has contributed to the proposed year, or five-year plan, asking permission to make the change to this new short-term period, which would carry through the row crop growing season.

A total of $12,468.00 is on hand from payments thus far, leaving about $2,000 needed to go ahead for the short-term period.

Anyone wishing to help out who hasn't already paid in to the Association this year is asked to leave his check at the local Farm Bureau office or hand it to Guy Smith, T. B. Mason, Elmer Blankenship, or any of the other committee members.

Porter drove a herd of cattle out to Double Lakes. The next year Cass O. Edwards bought this herd and became the first permanent resident. He established the T. Bar ranch, still owned by his family.

Other cattlemen followed, among them being Butler, Oxshire, Winn and Pullman, Major Johnson, Col. C. C. Slaughter, Singleton Bros., and others. The late Jack Alley, father of Mrs. Hall Robinson, was one of the early comers, and ran the Slaughter ranch at Tahoka Lake for years.

Then came other settlers. J. E. Ketter came in 1901, filed on land at New Lynn, was contested by ranch owners who tried to lease up all the land. Mr. Ketter filed suit to break the so-called lapse-lease practice of ranchers, won it, and the first land-rush was on.

A few of these early settlers were the Cowan families, Walter May, Will Montgomery, J. M. Nobles, the Forresters, the Donaldsons, J. W. Standiford, Ed Henderson, W. L. Kuykendall, George Small, W. E. Porterfield, Will Humphries, and many others.

More on the stockman side were A. L. Lockwood, W. D. Nevels, Tom Preston, W. T. Petty, E. G. George, and others.

A postoffice a little store was operated at Lynn for a time.

"Old Man" Richardson opened a store about two miles South-west of the present Tahoka.

Then, Sweet and King from Brownwood established a little frame store about where the Pettigrew store is now located at the southwest corner of the square. Later in the year, the late J. S. Wells came here and bought that store.

During the winter of 1902-1903, Jack Alley, Bill Petty, B. G. Sweet, and others called a mass meeting, held at the south spring of Tahoka Lake before a campfire to form a townsite company and to lay plans for organizing the county.

The name Tahoka was chosen over Dewdrop (also a lake—south of town). Tahoka is a corruption of an Indian word or words meaning "clear water" or "fresh water." Stock was bought at $25.00 a share, a theoretical plat laid out, and each shareholder drew for two lots, one a residence lot and one a business lot. If The News is not mistaken Will Montgomery and Mrs. S. N. McDaniel still own their original lots.

Of possible greater importance, the group decided to organize the county.

A petition bearing 150 names of bona fide residents was necessary. It is said there were not many adult males in Lynn county at the time and that the petition carried the names of several fine horses, a bull or two, and a few transients.

Anyway, a petition was presented the Lubbock County Commissioners' Court in February, 1903, and the election was called for April 7, with polling places at the homes of Jack Alley, W. C. Cowan, B. Humphries, and at T. Bar ranch headquarters.

No record is available of the date on which the vote was canvassed, but on April 15, the officials met, as above recorded, and completed the organization set-up. The Harper building was designated as temporary courthouse.

An order was issued three days later to build a courthouse, 32 by 40 feet in size, two stories high, of frame construction. John Agnew was employed to erect the building at $4.00 a day and to employ whatever other labor he needed.

Incidentally, The Lynn County News was established by George and Inez Lilly and the first issue printed on October 8, 1903. After a few months, the paper folded up, but was revived July 7, 1905, by the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Crie.

In the meantime, settlers were coming in ever increasing numbers. A new county and a new town had been born.

Mrs. Bill Griffin underwent major surgery at a Lubbock hospital Thursday of last week. She is reported improving slowly.

Johnson Reports

By Senator Lyndon B. Johnson
The Senate took up last Wednesday the legislation restoring Texas' title to every foot of land she had as an independent Republic and which we retained when we entered the United States.

This is the so-called Holland Bill, of which Senator Price Daniel and I are co-sponsors. Senator Daniel and I worked very closely together to get this bill out of committee. Forty Senators are co-sponsors of this bill and it has the support of the Administration. The House passed similar legislation last week. Texas' historic boundaries will be restored.

I understand that bills are to be introduced in the Senate and House to reorganize the Farm Credit Administration and make it an independent agency. I have not yet seen copies of the proposed bills, but the principle involved seems sound. The legislation would bring control and participation in all functions of the agency down to local levels within the 12 agricultural credit districts throughout the country. I think the agency should also be permitted to make economic emergency loans for any agricultural purpose, as well as for the disaster type loans now authorized.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson called a grain sorghum industry conference here Tuesday of last week. Purpose was to review the present grain sorghum situation and to consider measures to help stabilize prices and production. Invited from Texas were B. J. Gist of Abilene; Jack N. Greenman of Fort Worth, and Bob Yeager and Mark Triplett, both of Amarillo.

The FSA reorganization bill, main effect of which so far as Texans are concerned will be to make Oveta Culp Hobby of Houston the first Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, sailed through the Senate last week. No body registered a negative vote. Remember the "Enola Gay"? It's the B-29 from which the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiro-

School Boys Are Rotary Speakers

Two Tahoka High School boys presented very interesting and informative talks of the Louisiana Purchase at the Rotary Club Thursday noon of last week. This is the 150th anniversary of the purchase, made in 1803.

Billy Tong, Junior, declared the Louisiana Purchase was one of the three most important events in American history, the other two being the Declaration of Independence and the framing of the Constitution of the United States.

He outlined many facts of the famous purchase of 900,000 square miles of rich territory lying west of the Mississippi from France in 1803. President Thomas Jefferson sent James Monroe to France in that year to negotiate with Napoleon Bonaparte for the territory. France was in a tight place with England at the time, and was not prepared to protect this American territory against the British. Rather than allow the British to take it, Napoleon sold the Louisiana Territory to the United States for 15 million dollars.

This has proved to be the greatest real estate bargain in shima nearly eight years ago. This plane, which is now the property of the National Air Museum, is in moth balls at Pyote Air Force Base. The Air Force informs me that the famous plane will be on display at Pyote Air Force Base on May 16 for an Armed Forces Day open house celebration.

I have given Senator William Langer, Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, additional information on the work load in the Eastern District of Texas, which has only one Federal Judge. I am pressing for action on my bill to provide an additional judgeship in this district.

The 1953 Texas Cancer Crusade is now under way, with Arch S. Underwood, Lubbock, as chairman. Financial goal is $600,000. Every day over 600 Americans die of cancer. . . . John S. Clark, El Paso, has been named project manager for a $100,000,000 subcontract for electrical work on the Atomic Energy Commission's new gaseous diffusion plant in Ohio. . . . Mrs. H. H. Weinert, Seguin, Democratic National Committeewoman, was a welcome visitor at the office. Mrs. Weinert attended my luncheon for Col. Royal N. Baker, McKinney's jet air ace.

In this Holy Week, a time of resurrection and hope, all our prayers are for an end to the fighting in Korea—and for lasting peace in the world.

Hints Offered To Dairymen

COLLEGE STATION. —Plans should be made now, says R. E. Burleson, dairy husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, to provide the dairy herd with ample pasture and forage during the next 12 to 15 months. At least one acre of sudan for summer grazing, six tons of silage and two tons of hay for each cow in the herd, should be the minimum goal set, he adds.

The first step in the forage production program, believes the specialist, is to collect and submit soil samples for testing not only from crop land but pastures as well. Soils, he says, can be over or under fed the same as a dairy cow and the only accurate way for determining what is needed in the soil, is through soil testing.

Competition and milk prices, says Burleson, are factors which history, Tong said. Charley Schulz, Tahoka Senior student, told more facts of the Purchase and the rich territory, which included much of the mid-west from Canada to the Gulf. For this paltry sum, he said, the United States acquired the verdant forests of Minnesota, the productive corn land of Iowa, and the wheat land of Kansas and the cotton land of Louisiana, the gold and silver of Colorado, and the rich lands of intervening states.

Supt. Otis Spears and John Toier are the program chairmen for the month.

Junior Rotarians for this month are Phillip Murray and Charles Hyles, Tahoka High Senior boys.

Miss Patsy McGinty Will Marry Soon

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Patsy McGinty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGinty, was announced at a tea given by her mother in the McGinty home Saturday afternoon. About 100 guests called.

Miss McGinty will be married in May to Dale Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thomas of Longview. Both Miss McGinty and Mr. Thomas are students in Abilene Christian College.

are now calling the signals in the dairy industry. To meet the situation, operations must be made more efficient. The dairyman, he says, who puts into practice the known methods for cutting costs will continue to make a profit from his operations.

In addition to growing most of the roughage at home, another mighty important consideration for the dairyman is the growing of replacements for the herd. It takes as long to raise a heifer as it does to build a battleship, so do a good job, advises Burleson.

And finally, says the specialist, membership in a DHIA organization will provide information needed to improve production and efficiency in operating the dairy.

Mrs. Claude Wells recently returned home from Fort Worth, where she spent about three weeks visiting her daughter and family.

15 People for Dinner

A farmer today has to feed himself and fifteen other people. Back in 1930 he had to supply food for 11 other people. By 1975, experts predict, for each farmer there may be 25 at the dinner table.

It would be nice if there were more land. But last year there was only 1% more land under cultivation than prewar.

What's more, there are fewer farmers. 17% fewer man-hours were spent in agriculture last year.

Yet the farmer in 1952, with less help and about the same acreage, managed to produce 40% more livestock, vegetables, cotton, grain, milk than before the war.

Who helps the American farmer in a spot like that?

Electricity for one thing, and of course, more tractors, trucks, farm machinery, pesticides, chemical fertilizers, and a lot more.

One big clue to productivity is his increased use of electricity. Farmers today use 500% more electric power than in 1940.

Electricity pumps water, dries hay, keeps chicks warm, grinds feed, milks cows. In fact, the "electrical hired man" can do more than 400 farm jobs.

But the important thing is that there need be no empty plates tonight, and that this was done in a typically American way.

Many people and many companies, General Electric among them, developed labor-saving ideas and products. The best were tried and chosen. They have helped to make the American farmer the most productive in the world.
