Beth Huffaker Is Citizen Of Year

Beth Huffaker, a Tahoka housewife, mother and secretary who gives much of her extra time to community, church and youth programs, was announced as Tahoka's Citizen of the Year at the annual banquet of Tahoka Chamber of Commerce Friday night in the school cafeteria.

A crowd of more than 300 persons, one of the largest crowds for a chamber banquet in years, applauded the selection of Mrs. Huffaker, wife of Mike Huffaker. The crowd was kept in good humor by country-style speaker Bob Murphey of Nacogdoches, the main speaker for the evening. There was also entertainment by a four-piece band and by a group of sixth grade singers directed by Vivian McAfee.

Outgoing President Gary McCord handed the gavel of leadership to new President Danny Preston, who recognized new directors Rhonda Reid, Jo Calvillo, Gail Faries, Dustie Cook, Eunice Stephens and Dwayne Vaughan.

Cal Huffaker introduced the speaker, who kept the crowd laughing at some outrageous stories and comments like "I really know I am getting older, because all of my dreams are re-runs."

Tahoka Mayor Jim Solomon presented the award of Citizen of the Year to Mrs. Huffaker, who is an employee at his insurance agency. "Because of this lady and her family, Tahoka is a much better place to live," he said, adding that "She is exceptionally creative, and her leadership and organizational abilities have served as an excellent example to all those around her."

A graduate of Texas Tech with a bachelor of science degree in home economics, Mrs. Huffaker is a former teacher and she and her husband, a farmer, are parents of two school-age girls. She has been president of Phebe K. Warner Study Club, a district officer in the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, group leader for the Lynn County 4-H, an officer in the Tahoka Band Boosters organization and in her church she has served or is serving as a member of the administrative board, president of the Methodist Guild, Sunday School teacher, Methodist youth leader and member of the Bell Choir.

One Act Play Takes Third In U.I.L.

By: JACKIE JO HAYS
Growl Staff Writer

Receiving the honor of alternate play (3rd place) left the cast, crew, and directors of Tahoka's One Act Play with mixed emotions.

A "Comedy of Errors" by William Shakespeare challenged Tahoka, and three girls received awards for their performances. Jennie Wells (Dromio of Syracuse) and Christy Huffaker (Dromio of Ephesus) were named to the prestigious All-Star Cast. Rhonda Harris was named as Honorable Mention All-Star Cast.

"This has been an outstanding group of students, and they truly met the challenge of this play. It's hard to accept the judge telling you that you were a winner, yet you don't get to advance," said director Leah Taylor.

Seagraves' "The Rimers of Eldridge" and Shallowater's "Brighton Beach Memoirs" won the contest and advance to the Area competition in Albany on April 8.

Pipe Theft Suspects Arrested

Three suspects in theft of aluminum pipe in Lynn County were arrested in a pickup truck near the north county line Saturday. The three, one from Tahoka and two from Lubbock, posted bond. No formal charges had been filed as the investigation is continuing, and officers indicated other suspects are being checked out in the case which reportedly involves several incidents of pipe theft.

A 26-year-old prisoner in the maximum security section of Lynn County jail may face assault charges after he reportedly attacked another prisoner in the unit. The 34-year-old victim was treated at Lynn County Hospital for a broken nose and other injuries. Both of the men are awaiting transfer to the state prison system, which currently is over its maximum allowable number of prisoners.

Tahoka City Police investigated an aggravated assault case involving two Tahoka men on Thursday, when one man reportedly was cut on his forehead with a knife. No charges had been filed by Wednesday.

Scott Huffaker of 2104 N. 6th reported to police that his mobile home had been damaged during the past three weeks. Included was damage to windows and light fixtures.

In addition to the pipe theft suspects, those jailed during the week included two for application to revoke probation on felony driving

Woodwork...

By Dalton

ONE THING I have never understood about all the protesters who show up on television is how they have the time to walk around all day carrying dumb signs and shouting and clenching their fists. Surely some of these people must have to work for a living. But maybe not—maybe they all are on some kind of government dole or maybe they all are rich.

I have never had any sympathy for protests of any kind, even when their opinions are the same as mine. I just never could see that disrupting the order of things was any way to get people to come over to your point of view. Most of the protests would never happen if it were not for television, anyway. And some protests are really weird.

For example, I saw something on the tube the other night about people protesting killing animals to make fur coats, and even a protest of organized hunts to kill rattlesnakes, and there always are protests by people who want to ban nuclear weapons and firearms (starting with the good guys laying down their arms first, of course), people opposed to or in favor of such things as alleged discrimination, Democrats or Republicans, copies of Little Black Sambo in libraries (no longer allowed), so-called women's rights, beards, farm price supports, Frank Lorenzo, or whatever.

Any day now I expect some group to get national TV coverage of a march protesting the harvesting of cotton because it will deprive the bollworms of their food, maybe carrying signs reading "Stop Murdering Bollworms!"

KNOTHOLES in the Woodwork: I heard something on radio the other day about the ozone problem is getting worse all the time, and I thought: "That's right. What with credit cards and easy payment plans, my 'owe-zone' is getting bigger every day." Of course, they were talking about the layer of stuff that keeps the sun from frying us, and I understand that this layer is getting thinner because my wife sprays her hair, and that the layer also has more holes in it than the plots of the Friday the 13th movies... The Sage of Sixth St. says it's what you learn after you know it all that counts... I'm re-learning how to play Chinese Checkers with our grandson. I haven't beaten him yet, so I can't teach him much about the game, except how to throw a fit when you lose. Or perhaps how to modify the rules of a game to help you win; that would be something important for him to know in life.

Chamberettes will try to see that each new family who moves to Tahoka will be personally welcomed and presented with a gift pack containing first-hand information concerning the city, such as churches, schools, business, restaurants, civic organizations, baby sitters, beauty shops, etc.

"The Chamberettes are interested in new residents to Tahoka," said Chamberette President Ann Roberts. "We would like them to feel 'at home'. By having first-hand information they can get acquainted and involved more easily."

Chamberettes will be asking all local merchants for advertising or information concerning their business to be given to newcomers in the gift pack. Anyone with suggestions or information for the Chamberettes is asked to call Mrs. Roberts at 998-4938, or Betsy Pridmore at 998-4640. Garza Theatre To Perform 'Vanities' In Tahoka Tuesday

The Phebe K. Warner Club will be hosting the Post Garza Theatre's touring one-act play, "Vanities" on Tuesday, April 11 at 7 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church in Tahoka. The public is welcome to attend (no admission). Theatre director Will McCrary has added his own special comic touch to the first act of Jack Heifner's "Vanities". Set in the autumn of 1963, the 25 minute laugh-riot involves three West Texas 'high school cheerleaders'.

The 'cheerleaders' Mandy Swafford and Kim Gindorf are seniors at Slaton High School and Michelle Smith is a junior there. Mandy and Kim have both been featured in recent major Garza Theatre productions. McCrary says enthusiastically, "During the past three years I've been fortunate to work with dozens of talented, South Plains young people, and this production features three of the brightest young actresses I've seen."

Kim is a member and officer of the SHS National Honor Society and is active in the future teachers club and the Distributive Education Club at SHS. She is the daughter of Leroy and Elaine Schneider and considers herself to be fulfilling a life-long dream to become an actress.

Mandy is state secretary of the Texas Association of Future Educators and is active in the SHS chapter. She is a member of the SHS National Honor Society and active in the Girl Scouts. She is the daughter of Paula Swafford and says "I have always been in love with theatre-world of fantasy is an easy escape from reality."

Michelle, another drama enthusiast, is involved in band and is the feature twirler and is a member of the National Honor Society at SHS. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith.

McCrary will appear on tour with "Vanities" offering a five minute humorous and informative history of the Garza Theatre and will introduce the production.

Today's Garza Theatre began as a dream of the city's founder, Charles William Post of 'Post Toasties' fame. Mr. Post did not live to see this happen. But in early 1986 a group of citizens persuaded a 'native son' to return home and open the theatre. A veteran of 38 years of professional theatre experience, Will McCrary accepted the challenge and for the past three years has been the director, designer, producer, actor and driving force behind the theatre project. The city-owned theatre building was built in 1919 and originally served as a movie theatre, but had been closed down for about 30 years. The money for refurbishing and redecorating has included donations from private citizens as well as area-wide theatre enthusiasts.

The theatre was honored in November 1987 with an Auction Award from the West Texas Museum Association in Lubbock for "enhancement of the cultural community of the Southern High Plains area."

DON'T BE FOOLED!

There will be a great many practical jokes played on the 1st of April and for the most part they will be harmless fun. But there is also a meaningful lesson that we can associate with April Fools Day.

Health quacks play people for fools by tricking them about their most important possession — their health. They promise quick and easy cures where really none exist and because people want to believe, they blindly go along. Don't be fooled. Rely on health professionals such as your physicians and pharmacists.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

Free Seminar To Provide New Tools For Cotton Profit

There's an additional incentive for Lynn County cotton farmers to attend the annual meeting of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and the Texas Cotton Ginners' Conference and Trade Show, April 6 in Lubbock.

As an added feature of the PCG meeting, the Texas Agriculture Extension Service will present a seminar, "New Tools for Building Profits," from 1:55 to 4:30 p.m. It will present a detailed look at new techniques and new technology to help area cotton producers increase their profit.

The seminar, and a demonstration beginning at 1 p.m. will give producers an opportunity to sit down at computer terminals and try out several software programs which could be especially helpful.

"Over the last few years, the management decisions facing a cotton farmer have become more and more complex.

"Changes in state and federal regulations, new technology, the introduction of computers as a farm tool, and detailed record keeping requirements all add new challenges to the farmer's ability to manage all parts of crop production."

The free seminar April 6 will include current research findings on conservation tillage; demonstration of GOSSYM/COMAX, a computer cotton crop simulation model, and other helpful computer programs; discussion of low energy precision application irrigation and of the cost effectiveness of stripper-mounted field cleaners.

Prior to the seminar, Extension specialists and county agents will demonstrate computer software programs which can help cotton producers.

According to U.S. Department of Agriculture rules for beef other than chopped beef, the word "lean" on the label is supposed to mean the product contains no more than 10 percent fat by weight.

The words "extra lean" are meant for cuts that are no more than 5 percent fat by weight. But since not all stores follow the agency's policy, ask your butcher if you are in doubt.

The rules are completely different for ground meat, according to a policy now officially adopted by the USDA. Ground beef can contain as much as 22.5 percent fat by weight and still be called lean or extra lean. But be aware that 22.5 percent fat by weight does not mean the same thing as 22.5 percent fat by calories.

A product that is as high as 22.5 percent fat by weight can easily be more than 60 percent fat in terms of calories. The reason, in part, is that ounce for ounce, the fat in beef, or any other product, contains more than twice as many calories as the protein.

In addition, as much of the weight of a hamburger comes from water, which contains no calories whatsoever. In fact, a cooked hamburger can contain 54 percent water by weight, 24 percent protein, and only 20 percent fat, yet derive 65 percent of its calories from only fat.

What it all boils down to is that there is no such thing as truly lean, store-packaged hamburger meat. However, the beef industry is striving to provide a leaner ground product for health-conscious consumers.

Life In Tahoka After Big Crash Of Market In 1929 Recalled

By MABEL GURLEY

The flamboyant '20's came to a halt with the Wall Street stock market crash in 1929. Big investors lost everything they owned, including their pride. Living in a small town and listening to the radio and reading newspapers, it was hard to comprehend why men would jump off ledges of tall buildings, ending unfortunate fates. Thousands were without jobs, and there was no government aid. There was defiance, and then there were those who exhibited what they were made of. In Tahoka, we never witnessed the bread or soup lines, nor the long lines of families along the roads asking for help, but the expression, "Brother, can you spare a dime?" was a common one.

Will Rogers, with his home-spun philosophy, and with no malice in his humor, ceased chiding both the big man and the less fortunate. Some of today's insulting humor would have been quite foreign to him. His optimism and humor were rare commodities that brightened a depressed people, and his untimely death saddened a nation.

Prohibition was in effect until 1933. "Speakeasies", bombings, and gangsters plagued cities. Whether prohibition worked was debatable. Someone said that the only way you could tell an ordinary citizen in Kansas from a bootlegger was that the bootlegger was sober.

Bank robberies were daily occurrences, Tahoka being one of the very few small towns in Texas escaping at least an attempted robbery. During the days of the notorious "Ma" Barker and Bonnie and Clyde, word was received by an informant that the First National Bank in Tahoka would be robbed. Officers had stake-outs on top of the court house as well as the bank, but the threat never materialized. Perhaps the reputation of our sheriff, B.L. Parker, discouraged the culprits. Once a man with a truckload of stolen chickens had resisted arrest by pointing a gun at B.L. Shortly afterward the stranger could be viewed in the back of Harris Hardware Store, the local funeral parlor.

Frank Hamer became a legend as a Texas Ranger, ending the notorious escapades of Bonnie and Clyde. Texas Banking Association once offered a $5,000 reward to anyone bringing in a dead bank robber. The reward finally had to be withdrawn, as a few allegedly took advantage of the bounty by killing unarmed hoboes who were hired as look-outs by the robbers. The Old West rode again!

In contrast, we felt our village was a safe place to live, and we never locked our doors. Sleeping out under the grape arbor on summer nights presented no fear or qualms. It was nice to awaken in the early morning, reaching for a bunch of grapes to munch on.

Neighbors helped neighbors and relatives. Our mother took a plate of food to the back porch to many a hobo, who offered to do any odd job for a meal. Having a cow and chickens, and garden if it rained, our mother provided eggs and an occasional pound of butter to families whose needs were apparent. Due to circumstances, a girl who lived in the country would have been unable to come to town to finish her last year in high school had not our family, or another, given her room and board. These overtures were not common among the people in Tahoka.

Our senior year in high school, there were no year books, but only a 5X5 glossy print of the graduates. The senior trip was an excursion to Silver Falls, north of Lubbock, for the day. To my knowledge, no intimidation was ever felt; people simply blended in with the times.

The "thirties" were known as "Charge it" years. Now as a young married couple, our tailor shop delivered the dry cleaned garments; consequently business was mainly on a credit basis. Bill collectors were thick as ants at a picnic on the first of the month, even collecting from each other. It was not always through necessity, but simply the custom, to pay at the end of the month. So many things were delivered to homes, such as groceries and blocks of ice for the old ice boxes. A big card denoting the size block of ice wanted was put in a window for the ice-man to see. The ice-man, driving down the street, would then bring in the desired block of 25, 50, 75, or 100 pounds with those big ice tongs and place it in the top of the ice box. Iced tea has never tasted the same as it did with those clear chips of ice. Some of our good customers were a pleasure to visit with when collecting, Dr. Townes being one of those. He loved to talk about his adored little daughter, whose picture was prominently displayed on his desk. (Forgive me, Lottie, but that spectacular, real bone skeleton sedately standing in the corner of his office was more interesting than that picture!) One month both Velta (Small) Gagnat and I were very indignant when we got our bill from Tate Grocery. The bills were $30 per couple, where ordinarily they were $15 to $20!

During one of those depressed years, we agreed, along with Ed and Lorene Edwards to save our "dimes" toward a camping trip to the mountains of New Mexico. Eventually, the sum of $15 per couple was accumulated. Filling our car with 18 cents per gallon gas, we were off, taking our 18-month-old son with us. (Who could afford a baby sitter?) That was one of the most memorable vacations ever—sleeping on those aromatic pine needles beds, eating good campfire food, and Ed teaching our little son to focus on a rock so consistently that he never more wore a diaper. A tour through the beautiful Mescalero Indian Reservation ended a never to be forgotten vacation.

A sentimental occurrence recalled is when a "drummer" came by selling tapestries made in Belgium. This is the only time remembered during those ultra conservative days when my mother truly wanted something that was not practical. "Papa Mac" seeing the yearning in her eyes for that beautiful piece of artistry, said, "By the way, we'll buy it." The cost was $7, and likely our table had more pinto beans and cornbread on it than usual for the remainder of that month.

Toward the end of the depression years came a period of terrible sand storms. Billowing dark clouds of dust came in from Oklahoma and Kansas, blowing day with no let-up. Families put wet towels and rags in and around windows and doors, which gave little relief from the dust which covered everything. "Dust-pneumonia" was occurring all over town, and there were no modern drugs such as sulfa and penicillin to cure the fatal ailment. After six days of illness, and in spite of a caring doctor and nurse, our mother succumbed. That's the day I grew up.

The rumbling of war was beginning, with the Nazi invasion of Poland, and then the bombing of Pearl Harbor in 1941, thus ending the period of economic depression. That era is a very vivid memory of difficult days, yet by the same token, one that made us appreciate a town which had—and still has—the kind of people among whom we like to live.

Phebe K. Warner Club News

The Phebe K. Warner Study Club met at the Tahoka Care Center with the residents and 13 club members present.

The program was presented by Beth Askew's Strawberry Patch students.

Debbie Vickers led the group in singing of hymns.

Refreshments were served by the members.

On March 28, the Phebe K. Warner Club met in the home of Betty Green with Lucille Smith, Grace Prohl and Zuma McWhirter serving as co-hostesses. President Thalia Burks presided over the meeting with 13 members and one guest present.

Lucille Smith introduced the speaker, Professor of Anthropology and Director of the Program in Ethnic Studies at Texas Tech University, Dr. Jim Goss.

Dr. Goss spoke on "Understanding and Valuing Mexican-American Culture". He brought out the fact that in the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, the United States boundary was drawn around a group of people who were already living on land that had been Spanish Province and was now a part of the United States. Those people were then called Spanish American. They had the guarantee in that Treaty that the United States would protect their right to property, right to religion, right to speak their own language and to continue their cultural traditions.

Dr. Goss encouraged everyone to take the time to study every side of history in order to appreciate the multi-cultural background of our great nation. He brought out the fact that Lorenzo de Zavala was the first Vice-President of the Republic of Texas, that J. Antonio Navarro signed the Texas Declaration of Independence and later became a Senator in the Republic of Texas and sponsored the bill that established the Permanent Education Fund that still helps fund the education of our children of today.

The roll call was answered with each member giving their ancestral background. There was a great variety, with a few Dutch, Polish, Scotch, Irish, English, Indian, and French, among others, mentioned.

Plans were made to serve ice cream at the Annual Fun and Food Festival, give awards at the Annual Awards Day Assembly, and to attempt to get the date of the October Board meeting changed from Oct. 7 to another date.

The April 11, meeting will be changed from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. and will be in First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall in order to have a short skit presented by Garza County Theater Group with Will McCreary and a group consisting of some high school students.

Holy mackerel! A mother cod can lay as many as five million eggs at a time. Usually only six survive. If they all produced live fish, there would be no room left in the ocean for water.

Postoffice Can Hold Mail For Vacationers

Postal patrons were reminded this week that they have several options of what to do with their mail if work or vacation takes them away from home for several days or longer.

Postmaster Leonard Dunn advised rural route patrons to get a friend or neighbor to pick up any mail from their boxes if they are only going to be away from home a few days. "Accumulated mail in a box is an advertisement that the house is vacant," he said.

"We will be glad to hold your mail at the postoffice for up to 30 days," Dunn said. "Either stop by the office here, or ask your carrier for a hold mail card. Be sure to specify the dates which you would like your mail held, fill out the card, sign it and hand it to a clerk or carrier a day or two before you leave." He added that the postoffice does not accept requests to hold mail for one day, or requests made by telephone.

"When you return, you can either pick up the accumulated mail at the office, or call and ask that it be delivered (if on a rural route) the next day.

"If you expect to be away for more than 30 days, you should consider a temporary address change," Dunn said.

GTE Plans Major Cutbacks After Rate Reduction Order

GTE Southwest President E.L. "Buddy" Langley told employees last week that layoffs, investment reductions and other measures will be necessary parts of the company's response to the recent Public Utility Commission of Texas ruling in the company's rate filing.

Langley said the commission's order requiring GTE Southwest to reduce rates by $59 million will force the company to eliminate jobs now held by almost 600 Texas employees, release more than 100 contractors who are currently working for GTE and defer filling approximately 400 existing vacancies—a total of 1,100 jobs eliminated.

In addition, GTE Southwest will be reducing its capital investment budget by more than $100 million and deferring or eliminating further modernization of telephone switching centers and networks in Texas which were already scheduled to be done in 1989. The company will abandon plans for a new $40 million facility in Irving, reduce $5 million of vehicle orders and there will also be $2 to $3 million of additional reduced or deferred expenses such as training, building repairs and other items.

Letter to The Editor

Dear Editor:
I want the citizens of Tahoka to know that they have a very fine bunch of young people in their track program. I was a sponsor for an overnight track meet for 8 girls and there were 11 boys. We rode a school bus for many hours, did not get a lot of sleep, but these kids performed great. There were several people who expressed to me how impressed they were with our youth and coaches on how well our kids performed and their conduct.

When we stopped to eat, an older couple expressed how well mannered our kids were and said you could tell they were well coached in discipline.

I am very proud of this group of young people and our coaches (Coach Qualls, Coach Paradis and Coach Taylor).

Our track team will participate in Shallowater this Saturday, April 8 and I hope all parents and some of our community citizens will come out and support this group of youth who has represented Tahoka and our school with PRIDE! A lot of kids would give up since they have no track to practice on, but these kids keep on giving and I think we can give a little in return.

Your HEALTH TIP
OBESSE CHILDREN
Researchers estimate there are 11 million, overweight children between ages 6 and 17 in the U.S. - a 50% increase in 20 years. One group of obese adolescent girls actually ate several hundred fewer calories a day than a group of slim girls, but participated less in active sports and other strenuous activities. The conclusion: inactivity encourages obesity more than excessive food intake. Healthy children need less of the 'boob tube' and more vigorous activity.
