Committee to discuss prison at county commissioners meeting

With some doubt in mind as to whether or not Sonora will be able to submit an application for a state prison facility by the January deadline, members of the Economic Development Committee trudge on with hopes of community support. Monday morning, members of this committee will present information concerning the facility to the County Commissioners in an attempt to gain their support.

At this time, the availability of land near the city limits is the largest stumbling block. Without an option to buy land, the application process will never even get off the ground. Three to four hundred acres would be required for the prison site. The land would also need to be less than five miles from the city limits in order for it to be easily tied in to the city's waste water treatment plant.

Two cities who have already received state prisons have generously allowed Sonora officials to borrow copies of their proposals. This will help Sonora and Sutton

County if the decision is made to attempt the application process.

Many doubts are in the minds of Sonora residents at this time as to whether or not a prison is the right kind of industry for this town. Please take time to ask questions and when you do, please listen carefully to the answers with an open mind. The future of our town is at hand and we must be certain to make the correct choices from knowledge and not from uninformed judgements.

If you don't attend the meetings in which the prison is discussed then you will not be able to make informed opinions concerning this matter. This is a very important matter to the members of the community and everyone is urged to participate, listen, and learn about this issue that could be so important to Sonora's future.

The county commissioners will be meeting Monday, October 28, at 9:00 a.m. Please make every effort to attend this meeting.

Cancer Society supports continued use of implants

The American Cancer Society, Texas Division is launching a state-wide letter-writing campaign among its 200,000 volunteers to urge Congress and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to allow the continued use of breast implants as an option for mastectomy patients seeking reconstructive surgery. The Society is also urging all Texans to get involved in letter-writing efforts.

Volunteer leaders of the American Cancer Society in Texas are concerned about the potential ban of breast implants for the use of reconstruction in breast cancer patients. At its recent annual meeting, American Cancer Society volunteer leaders agreed to organize a letter-writing campaign to support the use of breast implants as part of a patient's healthcare choices.

The Society's Texas Division approved the following policy:

"The Texas Division does not support a ban on silicone breast implants for breast reconstructive surgery. We do support continued research, quality assurance of implant devices to maintain their safety. We feel women should be well-informed of risks and benefits of reconstructive surgery so that they may make an informed choice."

"We're afraid that women will delay treatment if breast implants are no longer part of their reconstruction options," says George Peters, M.D., President of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division. "Statistics show that early detection saves lives and for many women avoiding a change in body image is a motivation for immediately addressing breast cancer through surgery."

Concern about a potential ban of breast implants is building in anticipation of the mid-November meeting of the FDA General and Plastic Surgery Devices Panel. Some fear that the panel will ban the use of breast implants. An announcement about future use of breast implants is anticipated from the FDA in January.

American Cancer Society physician volunteer leaders in Texas recognize that scientific evidence documents a low health risk associated with breast implants and that implants are a significant benefit to breast cancer patients who are able to restore an amputated body part. It is estimated that 25 percent of the two million women who have breast implants are breast cancer patients.

"It scares me to think about the women walking around who won't have their breast cancer treated because reconstruction won't be an option," said Lynne Lofgren, a breast reconstruction patient and volunteer for the American Cancer Society in Dallas. "The FDA should not take away the option women have to be reconstructed after breast cancer surgery," continued Lofgren.

For information on how to get involved in the American Cancer Society's letter writing campaign urging the FDA not to ban breast implants, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to controlling cancer through research, education and service.

The Sutton County 4-H carcass show was held Saturday at the 4-H barn. Graham Bloodworth took 1st place in both fine wool and carcass.

James Merrill of Sonora planted 2 rows of pumpkin seed and this 67 pound pumpkin was the only fruit of his efforts.

Broncos provide tough match for Reagan County

Trailing 7-0 with only 9 seconds left in the 1st half, Brian Faris found Shannon Escalera streaking down the field. With one swoop Sonora had tied the game at 7-7 with 3 seconds left in the half.

The momentum going into the 2nd half seemed to be in Sonora's favor. With 4 minutes and 30 seconds left in the 3rd quarter, Adam Youngblood took off 40 yards down the sideline, to put Sonora on top for the first time in the game. The extra point, however, was blocked and Sonora led 13-6. With a 1:42 left in the quarter, the Owls came right back as quarterback Jackie Hill found Rivera in the end zone for a 10 yard score. Reagan County led 14-13 going into the 4th quarter.

With about 6 minutes left in the game, Sonora finally got things rolling. Sonora marched the ball down to the Reagan County 6 yard line. The Broncos had it first and goal and they were just 6 yards away from victory. On 3rd and goal, disaster struck. Youngblood, trying to stretch the ball across the goal line, lost the ball. Was he down before he lost the ball? Did the ground cause the fumble? If you are a Bronco fan these are probably the claims you would make. Unfortunately for the Broncos the referees didn't see it either way. Reagan County fell on the ball and the game was over. Big Lake 14, Sonora 13.

This week the Broncos travel to Colorado City to face the Wolves. Their record stands at 1-1 in district. This will be a long trip but well worth the effort in order to support the Broncos.

Danny Mata (#30) makes a sharp turn and heads upfield in Friday nights action.

Halloween Carnival

A long standing tradition of the Sonora I.S.D. is the annual Halloween Carnival preceded each year by the spook parade. The event, sponsored by the High School Student Council, begins with the parade at 4:00 p.m. and the carnival at 5:00 p.m.

The purpose of the carnival is to provide our students with a fun place to go on Halloween and at the same time provide an opportunity for our school organizations to conduct a fund raising event. Some organizations such as the Senior Class generally raise a great deal of money, but most of the fund raising projects provide meager compensation for the amount of work put into them.

The Halloween Carnival is a positive event for our school district and creates an excellent opportunity to get students, parents, teachers, and community members together for an enjoyable evening. I am thankful that long ago someone had the foresight to install this event as part of our school activities calendar.

Kettle Time

Some folks get all gushy about springtime, but I reckon I'm a Fall person. I love it when the nights get real cool and I can throw the winders wide open and snuggle under a blanket. And there's signs all over the place that Fall's really here. The pecan tree leaves are just beginnin' to show a touch of yell and all the buzzards have headed south. What could be more poetical than that?

But Fall also brings back memories of times spent out in the Big Bend and Davis Mountains country. When things begun coolin' down there, we'd always head over to Ft. Davis and buy a big bunch of them good apples they grow there. Some would just be for eatin', and they sure were good, crisp and crunchy like apples're supposed to be, nut mushy like the grocery store kind are lots of times. And others'd be fixed in pies, both baked and fried, and served up with a good slab of sharp cheese a'meltin' on the top, that was pretty hard to beat. But my most favoritest thing was to get out the ol' cast iron kettle and brew up a big batch of apple butter. And I can tell you for sure and certain, homemade apple butter don't taste nothin' like the storebought kind. It's got a little bite to it, 'cause it's never as sweet as the boughten kind, but it also has some character. I'll tell you for sure that real, thick, dark, spicy, homemade applebutter's hard to beat on hot biscuits, light bread toast, corn bread, or hot cakes. It works pretty good smeared all over a pork roast 'fore it's cooked, too.

I've made apple butter out of crab apples and it come out right tasty, but be sure to use some kind of cookin' apples 'stead of them so-called "delicious" apples, which ain't worth a hoot for anything that I know of. Maybe if you could get 'em right off the tree in Washington or Oregon, they'd be okay, but I find that by the time they get to the store, they've pretty much lost their character. One thing's for sure, I never seen nobody make just a dab of apple butter. I seen one receet from them Amish folks that called for 40 gallons of cider, 40 pounds of apples, and 40 pounds of sugar, but even I ain't got a pot big enough to handle that, and besides that, it's break me buyin' jars to put it up in.

A real handy gadget to have around for makin' apple butter is a thing I picked up a while back called a Squeeze Strainer. I can quarter my apples without botherin' to peel or core 'em, cook 'em down, then run 'em through that thing and come out with apple sauce on one side and peelin's, seeds, and core on the other, which saves a world of time. If you ain't got a big kettle and a place to cook outside and the time to stand and stir, you might try this way of fixin'.

APPLE BUTTER COOKED IN THE OVEN

Quarter 7 pounds of apples, Cook in as little water as you can get away with, usin' a pot with a good lid. When the apples are soft, run 'em through a Squeeze Strainer or a food mill. (If you don't have either one, peel and core the apples 'fore you cook 'em). In a enamel roaster or stainless steel pot, put the applesauce, 1 1/2 lbs. honey, 1 cup apple cider, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves and 1/2 teaspoon allspice. Put the lid on and bake at 300 degrees for about 3 hours, stirrin' ever half hour or so. Put this up in cannin' jars, bein' sure they seal good.

That ought to make about 3 or 4 quarts of applebutter. Now don't can it all, 'cause you'll want to be sure and keep some to serve up right off. While the apple butter's in it's last half hour of cookin', why not stir up a batch of buttermilk biscuits, so they'll be ready to shove in the stove as soon as the butter's done and your oven's heated up a bit more. They can be cookin' while you're cannin' the apple butter. I'll tell you one thing for sure, if you do this right after dinner, the kid's will sure be askin' about that wonderful smell comin' from the kitchen when they start comin' in from school, and they sure won't want no store bought jelly for a while, neither.

'Y'all keep the homefire burnin' (on the stove, that is)!

Keith Wall is applauded by friends and family during a Welcome Home ceremony in his honor on the courthouse lawn last Thursday.

A New Look

by Martha Smith

The Accelerated Reading Program is off to a great start! This year it will be implemented in Primary, Intermediate, and Junior High.

Computerized tests over at least 500 different books are available at this time. Instant rewards are being given when students take a test and earn points. The Primary students will be allowed the opportunity to exchange points for prizes. Intermediate students will be able to buy items from an Accelerated Reader store with the points they have earned. Items include pencils, books, posters and T-Shirts. The Junior High is offering other rewards as students accumulate points such as a DQ blizzard, lunch at Pizza Hut, a T-Shirt, and a trip to Schlitterbahn. Students, teachers, and administrators are all excited as the number of books read, tests taken, and points earned continue to grow.

Student Conduct at Athletic Events

by Charles Russell, SISK Superintendent

School personnel assume some responsibility for the conduct of our students at the various extra-curricular events (football and basketball games, concerts, etc.). I do not believe it is fair to ask out principals to spend the entire game or event trying to control children who are more interested in the social aspect of the evening than they are in the extra-curricular activity that is in progress.

I would ask the parents of their children by insisting that they find a place to sit and watch the contest and by not allowing them to spend the evening running around.

Certainly we are not speaking of every student in our school, but a good number of our students are not conducting themselves in a manner that is appropriate for a spectator event.

Announcements are made in each of the buildings asking students to conduct themselves in a proper manner at our extra-curricular events. I would ask all of our parents to some behavior guidelines for their children before they go to the event. Working together, I am sure that we can improve the environment at all activities in our school district.

Fall & winter hunting season in full swing

Fall and winter hunting seasons will soon be in full swing, keeping game wardens busy with deer, waterfowl and small game hunters as well as fishermen. This also is a time of year when many illegal activities are going on.

The potential for illegal activity is always available, but with legal and illegal hunters participating in one way or another, this time of year can be particularly dangerous for game wardens.

Fortunately, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has had very few game wardens killed or assaulted in the line of duty, much lower than the rest of the United States, according to figures provided by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Since the early 1900's 12 TPWD game wardens have died or been killed while on duty, but only three of those deaths involved murder. The first was Claude R. Murchison, who was murdered on the King Ranch in 1938. J.D. Murphree was murdered in Jasper County in 1963 and Ronnie Germany was murdered in San Augustine County in 1973.

"Our numbers are outstanding. It has to do with the training and a whole lot to do with the public," said Chester Burdett, director of TPWD's law enforcement division. "I think it's great. I think our people conduct themselves in such a manner that lessens confrontations."

Most of the people game wardens meet are armed, it's usually at night, wardens are usually alone, it's usually in the middle of nowhere and the warden usually outnumbered. Therefore, game wardens have to exercise caution and non-confrontational procedures.

"The vast majority of the time the parties have weapons," Burdett said. "Game wardens receive considerable training that enhances their ability to apply law enforcement efforts that are reasonable and acceptable. We don't want to have a confrontation with everyone we meet."

"Game wardens have been trained in the Texas Game Warden Academy since 1947 to provide an effective law enforcement effort and at the same time preserve the constitutional guarantee of the public."

All peace officers must be licensed. Game wardens go through firearms qualifications every year and at least 40 hours of in-service training every other year, he said. "We far exceed both of those to give the best possible service to the public."

In 1989, Texas, with four assaults committed against 641 state and federal conservation officers, ranked 10th of the 34 states reporting assault rates to the WSFWS. Texas' assault rate of .62 percent is far below Virginia's 8.02 percent and the next highest state, Louisiana at 3.23 percent.

Nationally, in 1989, there were 8,102 state and federal conservation officers. That year there were 128 assaults resulted in personal injury to the officer, USFWS figures show. Most of the assaults, 48 percent, involved personal weapons (i.e., hand, fist, feet, etc.). Others included vehicle, 21 percent; firearm, 18 percent; and other weapons, 11 percent.

Texas' four assaults came during routine patrol or license checks. Three involved personal weapons and one was a vehicle. None of the wardens were injured. Texas' highest recorded year for assaults was 1987 with 12. There were seven in 1988, four in 1989 and four in 1990.

Two of the 1990 assaults involved confronting a violator at night, another occurred while confronting a violator during the day and another was termed other activities. Two of the assaults involved firearms and three involved personal weapons.

7th Grade edged out by Big Lake

The 7th grade Colts made an outstanding effort to shut out the Big Lake Owls, and for 3 quarters managed to hold the Owls off.

The only score for the Colts came in the 1st quarter as Joey Gandar ran a sweep around the right end for 6 points. After a successful 2 point conversion the Colts fought a great defense for both the 2nd and 3rd quarters.

In the 4th quarter the Owls managed to score two touchdowns to pull ahead of the Colts for the first time in the game. This however, was all the Owls needed as the final gun sounded and Sonora had lost 12-8.

Caleb Barker and Walker Wallace played very well at the corner positions while Joey Gandar was credited with several quarterback sacks. According to the coach, "the offensive line did a good job, highlighted by outstanding efforts by Kelly Morrow, Armando Castilleja, Michael McReynolds and Jon Parker."

Golf Auxiliary holds meeting

The Sonora Golf Auxiliary met October 16 at the Sutton County Steak House with Pam Browning and Ebbie Sutton as hostesses. There were thirteen members in attendance.

President Lauri Smith called the meeting to order and the minutes were read by Secretary/Treasurer Frances Tackel and she then gave the financial report.

Under old business the September Couples Tournament was discussed. An accounting of the tournament proceeds was given. There was some discussion about moving the date of the tournament from September. Three out of the last four years the tournament has been marred by heavy rains. Some alternative dates will be checked into and a final decision will be made before the tournament schedule is printed in the spring.

Under new business, members voted to purchase a micro-wave oven and a blender for the club house sometime before the tournaments begin again next year.

A quick conference Thursday to help the Bronco J.V. get back on track during Thursday's action.

8th grade defeats Owls 28-24

In an exciting game the 8th grade Colts showed the Big Lake Owls what they were made of. "These kids mature a little more every week and it shows," said their coach.

In the 1st quarter the Owls struck with a touchdown to begin the scoring. Both teams managed to play excellent defense after that and the 2nd quarter started with the Owls on top. The Cost offense went to work and Chad Holmes finally put 6 points on the board for the Costis after a 12 yard run. Holmes then added the 2 point conversion to put the Colts ahead. Big Lake would not give up however, as they put another 6 points on the board before the half to put them ahead 12-8.

Both teams came out fired up after the half and after exchanges of 2 touchdowns each the Owls were still on top by 4 points.

At the beginning of the 4th quarter however, Adrian Mata intercepted a 2 point conversion. This brought the Colts to within 2 points of the Owls as Mata ran the length of the field to score for the Colts.

The Colts' Adrian Mata, with the help of Josh Burnham and Chad Holmes, scored one more touchdown to put them on top 28-24.

The 8th grade record now stands at 4-2 for the year as they travel to Colorado City this week.

Shannon Escalera (#83) stretches forward for another Bronco 1st down Friday night in Big Lake.
