Blackburn, Inman switch parties

Two local elected officials said Monday they are switching their affiliations, leaving the Democratic Party in favor of the Republican Party.

Donley County Sheriff Butch Blackburn and District Attorney Luke Inman both intend to file as Republicans next month when they file for re-election.

Speaking at a gathering of about 35 Donley County Republicans, Blackburn said he had "caught heat" from local voters ever since he first ran for sheriff in 2000 as a Democrat, but he said he had practical reasons for running on that ticket.

"I don't think my mother would have voted for me otherwise," Blackburn said. "But this last time was the first time that I know of that she didn't vote a straight [Democratic] ticket."

Turning more serious, Blackburn said as he looked at the current events in the country he just could not stay on the Democratic side of the ticket.

"I'll do the job just as well as a Republican as I did as a Democrat," he said.

Inman, who has served as the 100th Judicial District Attorney since 2008, said he is a recent convert to the Grand Old Party, and he credited Blackburn as helping him learn the ropes of the prosecutor's office when he was appointed to his position by Governor Rick Perry.

He said he enjoys serving Donley County and the other four counties in his district - Collingsworth, Carson, Hall, and Childress.

"We juggle a lot of cases trying to make sure that we can all feel safe in our homes," Inman said.

County Republican Chairman Tom Stauder said that while it is true that party affiliation does not matter in how local officials do their job, one party having a majority of local offices is a good indication of which way local voters will lean in state and national elections. He said with Blackburn and Inman switching parties, the GOP now has 12 of 15 local offices.

Also attending Monday's Republican meeting was State Sen.

Kel Seliger, whose district will include Donley County beginning in 2013.

"It will be an honor to run with the sheriff and the district attorney on the Republican ticket this March," Seliger said.

The senator said he is a lifelong Republican because the parties have a philosophical divide and that the Republican Party has stood for less government.

Seliger also discussed issues ranging from electric transmission to education to water. The senator will cover those topics again and take questions from local voters during a town hall meeting this Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Bairfield Activity Center.

'Jailbirds' raise $9k for PEAK scholarships

The Jailbird lockup fundraiser for CHS took in $9,232 before all the jailbirds were released from a temporary jail at Friday's football game.

Principal Jeffers and Cindy Shelton had to remain in jail for extra time due to donor stipulations while Highway Patrol Sergeant Chris Ward was escorted out of jail to an awaiting sheriff's vehicle to clear up supposedly outstanding traffic tickets.

In addition to Jeffers, Shelton, and Ward, jailbirds reaching or exceeding their financial goals included Bobbie Thornberry, Tex Selvidge, Jerry Woodard, Courtney Newhouse, Sherol Johnston, Renee

Betts, and early escapees Robin Ellis, Mike Butts, and Susie Shields.

The PEAK Scholarship Program (Promoting Education, Achievement and Knowledge) is an endowed scholarship designed to pay tuition and fees for eligible Clarendon High School graduates to attend Clarendon College after all other financial resources are applied. PEAK is regarded as a vital program which will give local students vision and hope for their futures beyond high school.

Special appreciation is expressed to all jailbirds, their friends and family, school faculty

City approves position of code officer

The City of Clarendon will have a new code compliance officer under the budget approved by the Board of Aldermen last Tuesday.

City Administrator Lambert Little said Jason Christopher will fill the new position, which will also be responsible for animal control in the city.

"We're going to move slowly and methodically on ordinance violations," Little told the Enterprise this week. "We'll start with simple things - tall grass and weeds - and then move to derelict and abandoned vehicles."

Little said he intends to use a "soft touch" when enforcing ordinances by first asking people to comply when a violation is found, and then if nothing happens, issue a Notice of Violation through the municipal court.

"I think this is going to improve the aesthetics of the community and may generate good will over time."

In other city business last week, the board voted unanimously to amend the FY 2011 budget and to set tax rate for FY 2012 at $0.65 per $100 valuation, which is no change in the rate. The board also voted 4-1 to approve the FY 2012 budget with Alderman Tommy Hill voting against the measure.

Critics should back off Perry on immigration

He entered the presidential race with a splash, and but now he is being cast as a push-over on immigration.

Texas Governor Rick Perry stormed onto the national stage last month and has quickly been beaten down by his fellow Republicans over the last two debates. According to FoxNews.com this week, Perry has fallen as much as 13 percentage points in a recent poll and is now tied with former pizza boss Herman Cain for second place behind former Massachusetts governor Mitt Romney.

This column has not been a particular fan of Gov. Perry, particularly after he line-item vetoed some funding for community colleges several years ago. Some of the criticism he has received at the national level has been predictable, particularly on education issues and his political faux pas with the HPV vaccination effort.

And while some of the criticisms are fairly leveled, the one that seems to be causing him the most problems is surprising – immigration.

First of all let's keep in mind what entity is responsible for securing national borders. That would be the federal government. In fact, that is one of basic reasons for being. But, as everyone knows, the feds can't seem to handle the vexing problem of immigration because it is do busy doing things like manipulate people's lives through the tax code, dissuade me from taking chocolate cupcakes to my son's elementary class, and worry about how much salt is on my french fries. And as a result, Texas, under Gov. Rick Perry has had to spend in excess of $400 million to secure the United States' border with Mexico.

It is also important to mention that Texas, better than any other state in the Union, knows the importance of having a good relationship with Mexico. Texas has already been through one war that, in some ways, was caused by poor immigration policies. The immigrants were Anglo-Americans in that case. So we understand that it is necessary to enforce the law but at the same time foster good business and cultural relations with our neighbor to the south. Tea Partiers like the idea of building a fence on the border and passing English-only laws; but there is no fence that can't be gone over, under, or around, and a Spanish-only law was one cause of the Texas Revolution.

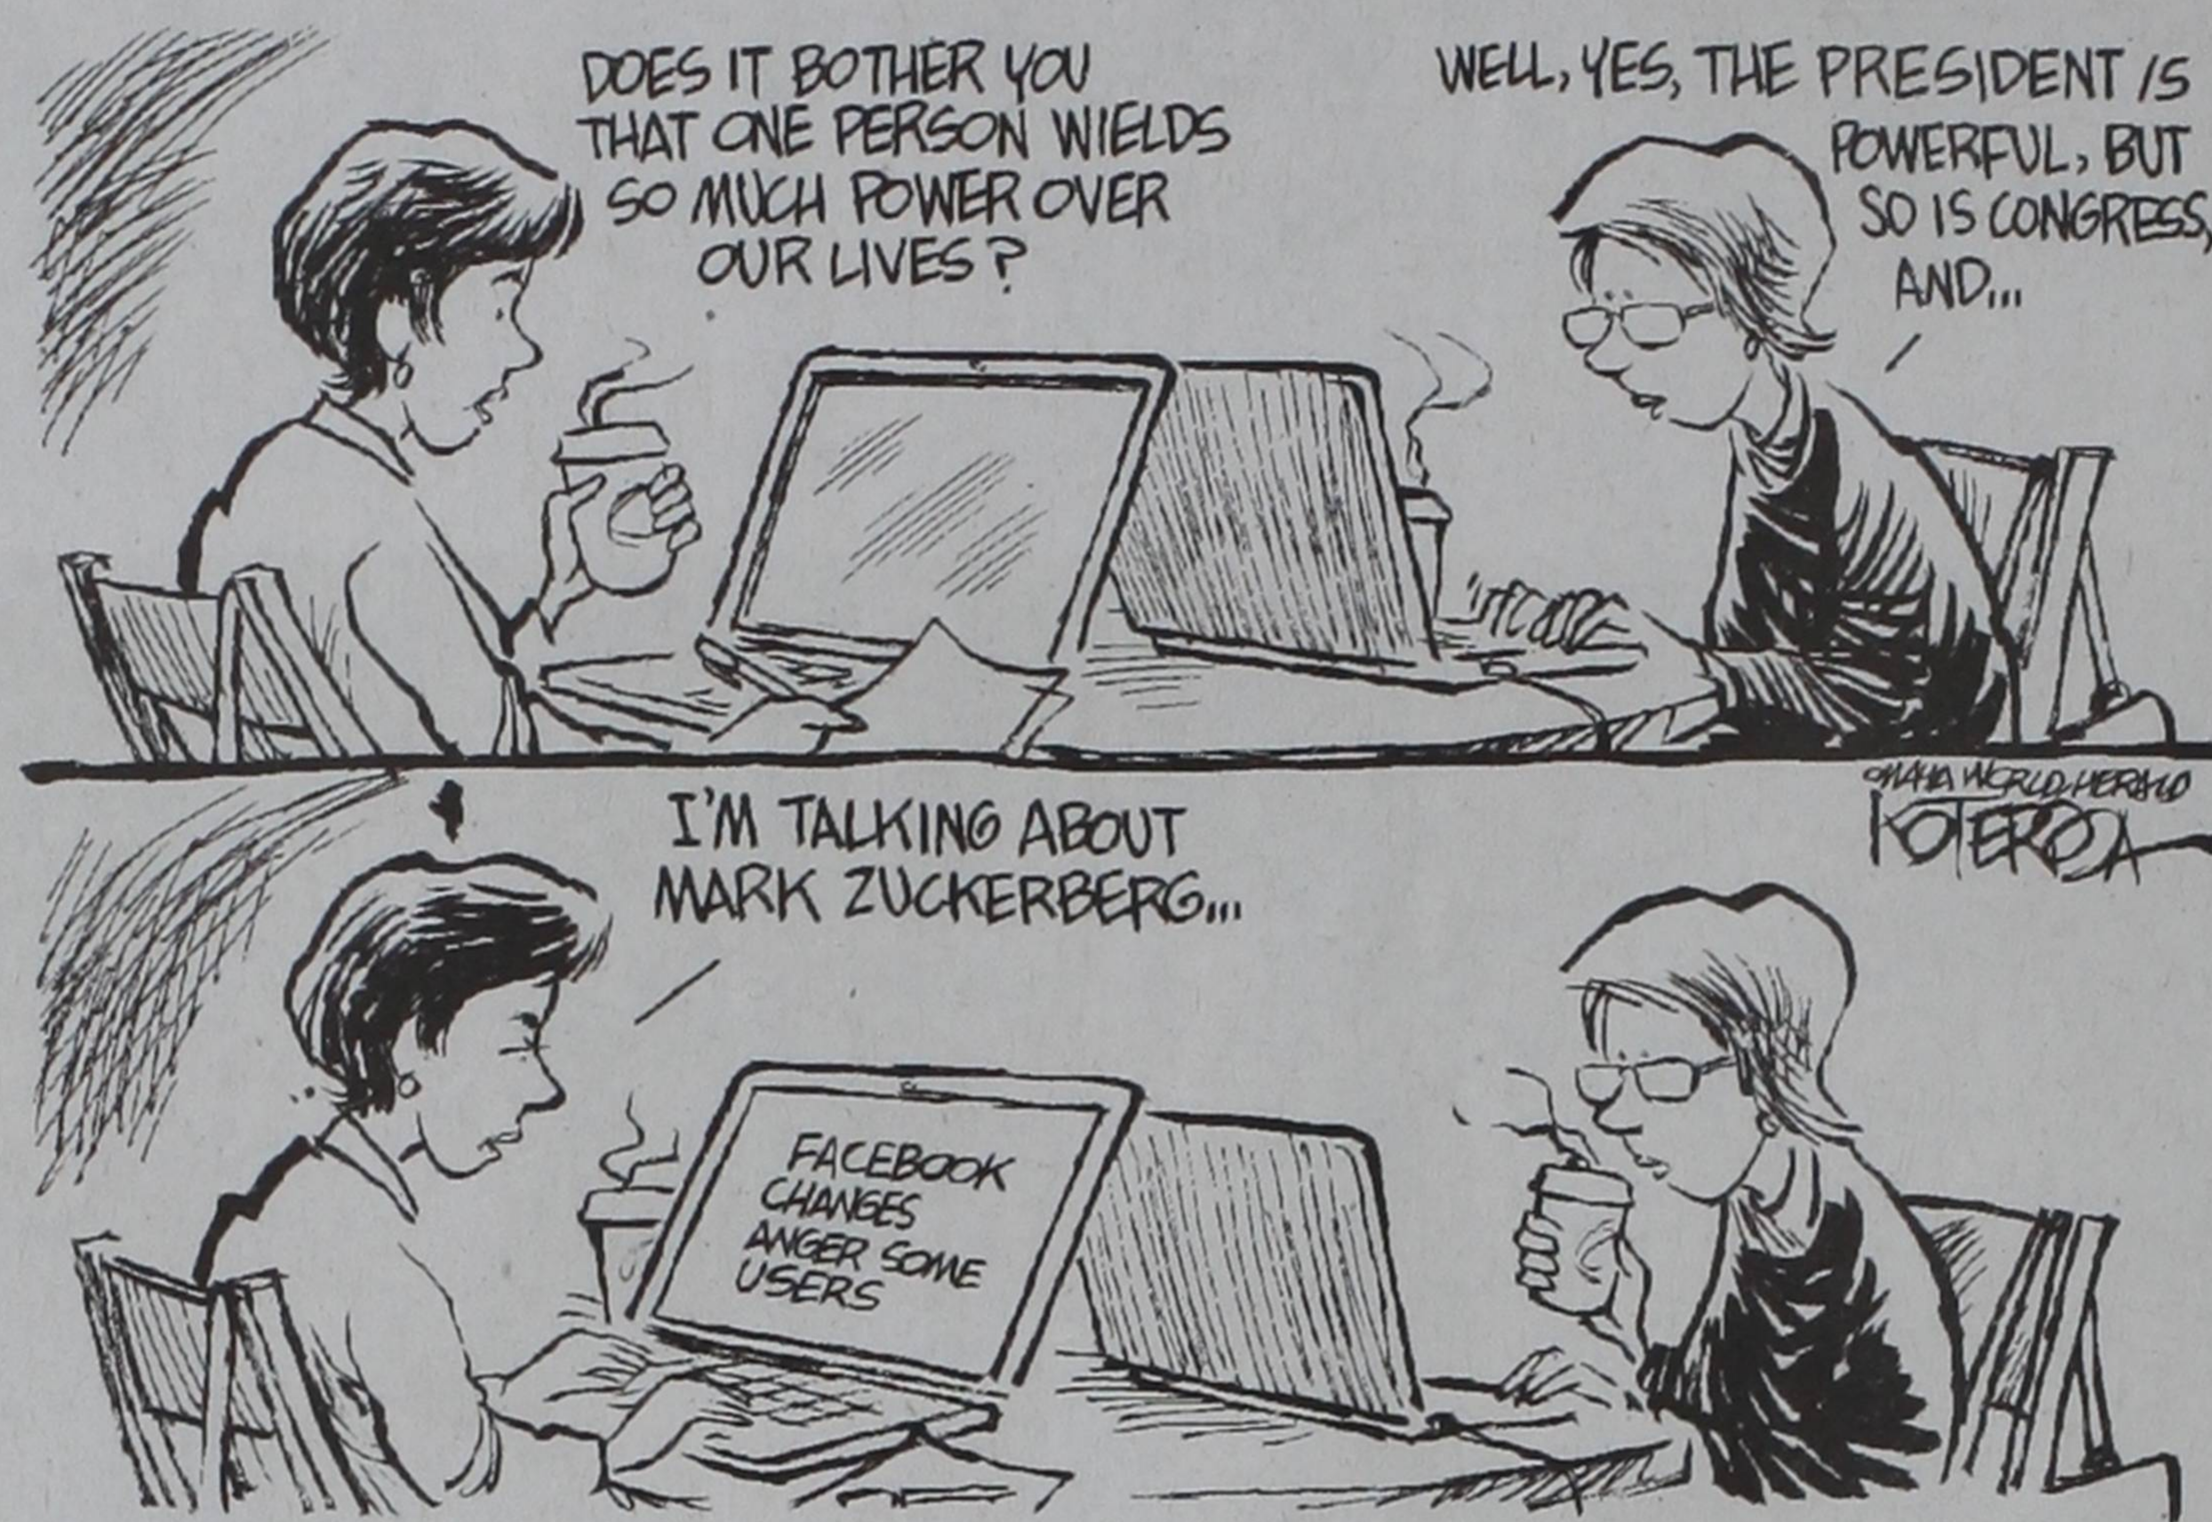

As long as there is a better way of life, more economic opportunity, and greater freedom, people will come to Texas and America. The law needs to recognize that and try to facilitate it; and at the same time, it must keep out the criminal element. It's a delicate balance that a politician from back east can never hope to understand.

Should children of illegal immigrants qualify for in-state tuition? If they meet the residency requirements of having been here for three years and are on the legal path to citizenship, then yes they should. It is in our state's economic best interests to provide our residents with every educational opportunity we can give them. The governor and our Legislature are right on that.

Rick Perry is no liberal... certainly not on immigration. He knows what needs to be done and how to do it. He has other faults to be sure, but on this issue, Yankees like Mitt Romney and Rick Santorum just need to be quiet before our governor walks across the stage and shuts their mouths for them.

Transferring College Credit: A Primer

By Dr. Phil E. Shirley
President of Clarendon College

Educators often hear complaints from both students and parents that college credit earned at one college will not transfer to another institution of higher learning. Although college officials will quickly argue with the validity of such a complaint, thousands of credit hours and dollars are lost each year because the educational consumer is unaware of the many issues surrounding the basic academic structure of the college or university degree. Furthermore, for the consumer to navigate in these sometimes troubled waters, it is important to understand how schools, colleges, and universities acquire validation for their courses, programs, and degrees.

When selecting a college the consumer should carefully choose a college whose credits are broadly accepted among other colleges and universities. To appropriately assess this acceptance, it is important to determine its accrediting affiliation. In seeking a college whose credit will have wide acceptance, the prospective student should be aware that not all post-secondary institutions are accredited by the same agency. Almost all post-secondary institutions, schools, colleges, and universities, however, will boast that they are accredited. Even newly opened parochial or technical schools will boast that they are "fully accredited." The important question, then, is to ask, "By which accrediting body are you accredited?"

Generally speaking, for post-secondary or higher education credit to be widely transferable to other post-secondary schools, colleges, and universities, the credit earned should have the support of regional accreditation. Regional accreditation simply means that an educational entity has undergone a rigorous review by peer evaluators under the auspices of a regional accrediting association. The United States has been divided into six geographic areas that make up these regional associations of colleges and schools. They are the Western, Northwest, North Central, Southern, Middle States, and New England. After the name of each respective geographic area the words "association of colleges and schools," generally speaking, complete the title.

For example, Clarendon College, all of Texas's public institutions of higher learning, and many private colleges and universities in Texas are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS). This regional accreditation assures the consumer that the institution in question has met acceptable educational standards and, therefore, will offer credits that are fully acceptable at other regionally accredited schools. If an institution of higher learning does not have regional accreditation, it is doubtful that many, if any, credits earned from that institution will transfer to regionally accredited institutions. In order to ensure transferability, students and parents should make sure that the college of their choice has earned accreditation from one of these regional accrediting associations.

Two provisos should be noted. Many non-regionally accredited colleges or schools may create articulation agreements with regionally accredited colleges. Under the conditions covered by the articulation agreement, transferability is assured. Secondly, while regional accreditation assures the consumer of high standards and broad acceptance of credits, other accrediting bodies may be required to approve specific programs. For example, each technical field such as nursing has its own accrediting association. Professional fields such as medicine, law and engineering certainly must be accredited by their respective regulatory bodies. In fact, colleges and universities traditionally hold a long list of accreditations. Regional accreditation, however, is the one that gives course work broad acceptance among schools, colleges, and universities. To reiterate, all of Texas's public colleges and many of its outstanding private colleges and schools are accredited with regional accreditation. The consumer should thoroughly investigate any institution that is lacking this important affiliation and should not matriculate there unless the institution meets specific goals where appropriate accreditation is not a priority.

To further explore why credits from one institution may not transfer to another, it is also important to understand that even regionally accredited colleges have different requirements for graduation. The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board in the state of Texas requires 42 hours of the same general education core to complete an Associate in Arts or Associate in Science degree regardless of the major they seek. Beyond this common 42 hour core of general education courses, there may be specific institutional course requirements of three to five courses that must be met for an associate's degree. At Clarendon College there is a five hour block that includes a Social and Behavioral Science course and two physical education requirements. The remaining 15 hours to complete the 62 hours necessary for graduation are carefully selected from courses that will meet the requirements for the selected field of study at the university to which the graduate will be matriculating. The advisor, then, will counsel each student individually based on his or her university of choice.

The university or four year college in Texas requires a minimum 42 hour block of general education courses. The major field of study usually requires 46 hours while the minor field of study requires approximately 18 hours. In some universities, there is simply a 66 hour block for a major field. This leaves some 14 to 20 hours for elective credit, depending on whether the bachelor's degree requires 120 or 125 hours. This elective credit is placed in curricula to allow the student to take a few courses of special interest.

Too often, however, this elective requirement may be used as a "catch-all" for associate or upper level courses that do not fit any other required area. When a complaint is made that a college's courses will not transfer, it may be that the elective requirement has already been met. For example, if a student takes music and several art courses but majors in political science, the music and art courses become courses that are not required for his or her chosen field. The registrar at the college where the student is graduating will usually apply them as elective credits. Once the elective requirement is fulfilled, however, whatever courses are left over become superfluous and not applicable to the requirements for a degree. To reiterate, the courses are completely transferable. The problem arises when there is simply no where to put the courses within the context of degree requirements.

Younger college students are often searching for their own identity and a career field that is suitable for them. While the student is in this researching mode, it is not unusual to change his or her major field several times. Each time a major is changed, however, it usually means that those courses associated with the old field of study or interest no longer meet the requirements of the new major and, therefore, must become elective credit. Again, when the amount of elective credit earned exceeds electives required, these credits do not count towards the requirements for graduation and are "lost" for purposes of counting against graduation requirements. Although the credit is fully transferable, it is not applicable for graduation requirements.

Finally, students may have difficulty transferring college credits from one college to another because of significant differences in the courses themselves. Difficulty in transferring comes when an Anatomy and Physiology I course, for example, is valued at four (4) credit hours at one institution while it is valued at five (5) credit hours at the institution to which the student is transferring. Additionally, the course Anatomy and Physiology I, for example, may be a combined course that is followed by Anatomy and Physiology II at one institution while the subject matter is separated into two distinct courses of study at the institution to which the student is transferring (Anatomy the first semester and Physiology the next semester). To further complicate the issue, the subject material in this example is most likely equally covered at both institutions, but some faculty or deans may insist that one course of study is inferior to the other and should not be transferred in full. In this case, the student may be asked to complete additional coursework in the subject area. Generally speaking, however, most colleges and universities are able to work out minor transfer problems of this nature without loss of credit for the transferring student.

To ensure transferability, colleges and universities often distribute transfer guides. These documents are updated frequently and accurately list the exact course that transfers to each respective major at each respective Texas college. When transfer guides are not available, counselors and advisors will check requirements at the receiving institution to ensure sound course selection. The student, however, is ultimately responsible for ensuring that the requirements for graduation are being met through the appropriate selection of courses.

For a student entering Clarendon College and anticipating transfer, here are a few "tips" on how to avoid loss of credit:

- Do career exploration before going to college-decide on a field or major as early as possible.
 - If the major field of study has not been selected at the time of entry, take the 42 hours of general education requirements first. This will provide you with more than a year to decide on a major while earning required courses that are common to all majors.
 - As soon as possible, decide on a major. If the major is one that requires a bachelor's degree, select the institution where the bachelor's degree will be earned. Along with your advisor, decide what Clarendon College courses will exactly fit the program to which you are transferring.
 - Utilize a current transfer guide, from the college to which you wish to matriculate. This will assure you of exact course equivalencies.
 - If possible, complete the associate's degree. This will "seal" the credits to the extent that upper level institutions will not evaluate the transcript on a course-by-course basis.
- For additional information on transfer issues, call Brandi Havens at 806-874-4804.

Locals attend Good Sams Elk City meeting

The Chaparral Sams Chapter of Good Sams International held their most recent meeting on September 17 at the Elk Creek RV Park in Elk City, Okla.

Hosts and hostesses for the meeting were Larry and Eva Reich of Clarendon and Dan and Shirley Henard.

Members in attendance included Larry and Eva Reich and Jay and Verna Teague of Clarendon. Also in attendance at the meeting in Elk City were Kenneth and Yvonne Ellis, Tom and Virginia Etheredge, Dan and Shirley Henard, Buddy and Beverly Logsdon, Edwin and JoAnn Meyer, Pat Riggins, and Rudie and Karon Tate. Guests were Ken and Doris Eden, Wayne and Marilyn Cope, and Bill and Ruth Hudson.

Wagonmaster Rudie Tate reminded everyone that the next campout would be at LETRA on the Fort Sill-Lawton, Okla., base on October 21-22.

President Etheredge announced the Fall Samboree will be October 27-30 in Abilene.

The highlight of the camping trip included touring the farm collections of Joe and Leah Smith southwest of Leedey, Okla. Mr. Smith is an artist in iron and creates art from old farm tools.

The lane and approaches are lined with panels of welded art work creatively composed of old farm tools, hay rake wheels, wagon wrenches, implement seats, open-end wrenches, and horseshoes.

As the group arrived at the Smith home overlooking Hay Creek valley, they realized he's a collector as well as an artist.

Joe and his wife, Leah, have an extensive collection that includes windmill weights, rifles, spurs, vintage utensils, and Navajo saddle blankets in their home.

Inflam-Ease

Key Benefits:

- Supports joint and ligament health
- Helps regulate the body's inflammatory response
- Enteric coated for maximum benefits

Enteric Coated Boswellia, Turmeric, & Devil's Claw:

Inflam-Ease is a combination of three standardized botanicals that support healthy tendons, ligaments, and cartilage by helping to regulate the body's natural inflammatory response. By nourishing and strengthening connective tissues, these natural substances help the body cope with the discomfort and reduced range of motion that accompanies tissue swelling. To retain the full benefits of devil's claw, whose components are reduced by stomach acid, an acid-resistant enteric coating has been applied to the tablets. This is an excellent supplement to combine with any glucosamine and/or chondroitin product for maximum joint and cartilage support.

Howardwick Fall Festival a huge success this year

Here it is October. We are having beautiful autumn weather, and very organized people are Christmas shopping. I have tried that, forgot I had bought those gifts, and ended up with something else for the same people. So I just stick with my same old pattern of shopping for everyone in the month between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Works for me.

The weather was wonderful for the Fall Festival in Howardwick last Saturday with lots of money raised at the auction. Nancy Davis was feeling well enough to come down on her golf cart, and Dorothy Arnold visited from Oklahoma. The bands played, vendors sold, and people ate and looked at the bikes and cars. What more could you ask for? Next year will be bigger and better.

The Baptist Church reports they had a large crowd for their anniversary Sunday with former pastors Dr. Genoa Goad and Jim Powell bringing the sermons. The dinner was prepared by Mary Jane Bridges with desserts furnished by the members, and no one went home hungry. Bro. Dave and Linda Stout decided the only way they could rest and recover from the big party was to leave and a fun way was a cruise in the Bahamas. They deserve this, and I hope they have fun.

"In 1492 Columbus sailed the ocean blue and discovered America". His ships were the Nina, Pinta, and Santa Maria. That is what I learned in grade school, a long time ago. Today politically correct people say, "No, no. The Vikings were here first," and they have proof. Okay. Columbus didn't "discover" America, he opened it to the rest of the world and claimed it for Spain.

I was taught Queen Isabella sold or borrowed money against the crown jewels to finance his voyage. It was a common belief in 1492 that the world was flat and by sailing far into the ocean you would fall off the world. Columbus was correct in his belief the world was round; and if you kept sailing, you would go around the world. As we all know now, he was right. He thought he was in India, which is why he called the natives he encountered Indians. I hope the history lesson they teach now about America still tells about Christopher and his three tiny ships and the first grade student still chants, "in 1492 Columbus sailed the ocean blue."

Tralee invites public to help end domestic violence

Tralee Crisis Center, a non-profit victim support agency serving the northeast Texas Panhandle for 27 years, invites the public to submit a 100-word essay about an honorable man in their life as part of its National Domestic Violence Awareness Month activities.

On October 18, Tralee and its community partners will conduct its 9th annual Honorable Man March and remembrance of the Texans who were killed by intimate partners in 2010. The March begins on the north steps of Pampa City Hall, and will continue west down Kingsmill

Avenue to the First Baptist Church. "We encourage everyone whose lives have been affected by domestic violence, who know someone who is a victim or who support the end of domestic violence to take part in this march," said Dee Dee Laramore, Tralee Crisis Center executive director. "The march itself is a somber event with drums beating once every three seconds to represent how often domestic violence occurs across the United States."

"We also take this time to recognize the women in Texas who died at the hands of an intimate partner this past year. In 2009, that included 111 women – just in Texas," Laramore said.

The mood changes at the reception following the march at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. There, marchers will celebrate men who possess non-violent qualities and honorable character. Selected essays from all those submitted will be read at the event. All persons who are the subject of an essay will be recognized and presented with a certificate naming them as a "2011 Honorable Man."

Honorable Man essays can be submitted by mail at Tralee Crisis Center, PO Box 2880, Pampa, TX 79066-2880 or by email at deedeel@tralee.org. Submissions must include the name, address, and telephone number of both the "honorable man" and the person submitting the essay. Deadline for receiving essays is Wednesday, October 12.

Tralee's 24-hour hotline, 806-669-1788 or 1-800-658-2796, is available to anyone seeking more information about Tralee Crisis Center and services for victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and violent crime.

Drugs in the News

Update: Oral Sunscreen Pill May Be Possible

Recently a group of British researchers reported an important discovery that could, in five years, lead to the production of an oral pill or tablet that can be taken by humans to protect against the harmful rays of the sun. This group reported that recently they collected coral samples in Australia's Great Barrier Reef. From these samples, the research team reports that they have discovered the way natural coral in the ocean protects itself from harmful ultraviolet (UV) light. The researchers indicate that they found algae living within the coral that make a compound that appears to be transferred to the coral. At that point, this compound changes itself into a sunscreen that seems to protect the algae and the coral. The next step, according to the scientists involved in the project, is to manufacture a synthetic version of this compound in the laboratory. They hope to have a synthetic version prepared and ready for human testing in a couple of years, and hope to find the same compound in the skin and eyes of those tested.

Exposure to UVA and UVB light can raise the risk for wrinkles, age spots, freckles and skin cancer.

Clarendon Church of Christ GOIN' BUFFET

If it is a good one, I love to eat buffet. Lots of choices that are left strictly up to you, is a great selling point for these establishments. Of course if the place has a bad buffet, there is nothing worse than lots of inedible food. The bad news is they have awful food, the good news is they won't run out.

Because people like to pick and choose in their lives, it should be no wonder that with religion, people like to go buffet also. If they find a church or a preacher that will teach them what they want to hear, that's the one! The problem with this mentality is that God doesn't serve buffet. (Matthew 7:21) "Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven." Jesus is saying that just because a person calls him/herself a Christian doesn't make them one, no more than a man standing in a garage can call himself a car.

This phenomenon has been around but it has become so prevalent in the last 2 decades. Churches are established that have no core belief and welcome all doctrines and people. The people part is right, but you can't have a mish-mash of doctrines. Jesus didn't die for confusion!

The worst part of the buffet religion is the buffet preachers. Some may be honestly confused, but some are chameleons. You know, a lizard that changes its colors for its environment. These preachers will sell their services to anyone and preach whatever is wanted. Maybe at one time they were true to God's word, but they found life is much easier to go along with the buffet crowd. Of course if there wasn't a demand for this "chameleon" he would have now where to take his services. Paul warned Timothy about these crowds and teachers. (2 Timothy 4:1-4) "I charge you therefore before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who will judge the living and the dead at His appearing and His kingdom: Preach the word! Be ready in season and out of season. Convince, rebuke, exhort, with all longsuffering and teaching. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but according to their own desires, because they have itching ears, they will heap up for themselves teachers; and they will turn their ears away from the truth, and be turned aside to fables."

I pray that everyone would search their scriptures and submit to God's will. Don't look for a different "menu" than what God has given us. Those that would preach or teach any doctrine, please stop. You are spiritually destroying yourself and helping others onto that wide path of destruction (Matt. 7:13-14). May God give us all the courage to take God's word as it is and not how we want it to be.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR RATE CHANGE AND DEFERRED ACCOUNTING ORDER

Southwestern Electric Power Company (SWEPCO or the Company) publishes this notice that on August 31, 2011, it filed its Petition and Statement of Intent with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT or the Commission) in Docket No. 39708, and with those municipal authorities in its Texas service territory that have original jurisdiction over SWEPCO's electric rates. This notice is being published in accordance with Section 36.103 of the Public Utility Regulatory Act and with Commission Procedural Rule 22.51(a)(1).

SWEPCO is proposing to change its rates for electric service provided to all of its approximately 181,000 Texas retail customers in a two-step process beginning with the April 2012 billing month, which starts on March 29, 2012. All such customers and all classes of customers will be affected by this change.

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

SWEPCO is proposing a three-step rate plan for the purpose of including the costs associated with the construction and operation of the John W. Turk, Jr. (Turk) power plant in Texas retail rates (Turk Rate Plan). The Turk Rate Plan will allow these costs to be included in rates in a three-step process, which will result in more gradual rate increases than would be the case absent adoption of the Turk Rate Plan. The first two steps of the three-step rate increase are presented for review in the current filing. The third step will be a general rate proceeding to be filed by SWEPCO after the Turk Power Plant is placed in service.

SWEPCO proposes to increase its rates in this proceeding through the adoption of a rate rider designed to recover ongoing financing costs associated with the Company's construction work in progress (CWIP) investment in the Turk Power Plant. SWEPCO's proposed rate rider would increase SWEPCO's rates in two steps. SWEPCO proposes that the first step rate change start with SWEPCO's April 2012 billing month, which starts on March 29, 2012, and that the second step rate change start with SWEPCO's November 2012 billing month, which starts on October 26, 2012. The effect of the requested rate increases on the Company's revenues is stepped, as described above. The first step rate increase is designed to increase SWEPCO's revenues over existing revenues by $10.05 million over the seven months the first step increase will be in effect. This increase is an annualized 3.8% increase, or a 7.3% increase, exclusive of fuel revenues. The second step rate increase is designed to increase SWEPCO's revenues over existing revenues by approximately $46.66 million over the thirteen months that the second step is expected to be in effect. This increase is an additional annualized 5.7% increase for a total 9.5% increase over currently existing rates, or an additional 11.1% increase for a total annualized 18.4% increase, exclusive of fuel revenues, over currently existing rates.

The impact of the rate change on various customer classes will vary from the overall impact described in this notice. The first step of the proposed Turk Rate Plan will cause the overall bill of a typical residential customer consuming 1,000 kWh of energy per month to increase by approximately $3.31, for a 4.2% increase, or a 6.7% increase, exclusive of the fuel portion of the bill. The second step of the proposed Turk Rate Path will cause the overall bill of a typical residential customer to increase approximately $4.00 above the first step increase, for a total of approximately $7.31. This is an additional 5.1% increase, for a total 9.3% increase over currently existing rates. Exclusive of the fuel portion of the bill, this is an additional 10.8% increase, for a total 17.5% increase over currently existing rates.

SWEPCO has requested that its proposed rate change be approved effective October 4, 2011, with collection of the higher charges under the rider to begin with SWEPCO's April 2012 billing month, as noted above. The proposed effective date is subject to suspension and extension by actions that may be taken by the Commission and other regulatory authorities.

DEFERRED ACCOUNTING

In addition to its proposed rate rider, SWEPCO is requesting that the Commission issue an accounting order permitting the Company to defer operation and maintenance expenses, carrying costs (above the level recovered through the proposed rate rider), and depreciation expense (along with a return on the deferred amount) into a regulatory asset account once the Turk power plant is placed in service. Such an accounting order would permit the Company to preserve these expenses for review in a future base rate case, but would not impact SWEPCO's rates at this time.

PROPOSED REVISION OF TARIFFS

SWEPCO is not requesting a change in base rates. Rather, SWEPCO is requesting that the Commission approve a new tariff, the proposed rate rider discussed above. SWEPCO is not requesting revisions to any of its existing tariffs.

CONTACT INFORMATION

Persons with questions or who want further information on the application may contact SWEPCO at 428 Travis Street, Shreveport, Louisiana 71101, or call toll-free at (888) 216-3523 during normal business hours. A complete copy of the filing is available for inspection at the address listed in the previous sentence.

Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, as an intervention deadline will be imposed. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission at (512) 936-7120 or (888) 782-8477. Hearing- and speech-impaired individuals with text telephones (TTY) may contact the Commission at (512) 936-7136. A request for intervention or for further information should refer to Docket No. 39708. Unless otherwise ordered by the presiding officer, motions to intervene will be due 45 days from the date SWEPCO filed its Petition and Statement of Intent with the Commission. The 45th day after SWEPCO filed its Petition and Statement of Intent with the Commission is October 15, 2011.

Donley County won the first ever "Food Fight" contest at Tri-State Fair. 4-H Food Challenge teams were invited to compete in the contest. Teams were given 30 minutes to prepare a dish of their choice before being judged on teamwork, preparation, quality of dish and knowledge of food safety and nutritional facts. All food preparation was done for the public to watch as teams created their dish. The Donley County 4-H Senior team created a beautiful corn salad. The team consisted of Tylee Williams, Krista Reynolds, Cody Parker, and Amber Keelin. These young ladies will compete in the District 1 4-H Food Challenge on November 19. They are coached by Andrea Stelting, Donley County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences.

Bobcats beat Broncos in game's final seconds

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos were looking for a win against an undefeated Sunray team Friday night but failed to stop a 10-yard run with just 16 seconds left on the clock.

The Bobcats turned the late advantage into a 20-13 win. The loss puts the Broncos at 3-3 for the year with one pre-district game remaining.

Head coach Gary Jack praised his team for their first half performance in the game.

"We played good on both sides of the ball the first half," Jack said. "Their quarterback came in and played the second half, and it helped them a little. They did things better in the second half."

The Broncos struck first in the opening quarter when Wes Williams took it in from four yards out, and Rowdy Speed added the kick. The next Clarendon score came from Williams as well on an eight-yard run to put the Broncos up at half time.

Near the end of the third quarter, Sunray punched it through to tie the score at 13 all. The Bronco defense fought hard, but their opponent scored from 10 yards out and left only seconds on the clock for the Broncos.

"It was a good game," Jack said. "We just didn't get it done."

Jack noted that the Broncos had four starters on the sideline and added one more because of an injury before the night was over.

"We've got to get well," he said. "It hurts us to have that many starters on the sideline. We hope to get at least a couple of them back this week."

The Broncos depended on their running game and racked up 158 total yards, all coming on the ground. Sunray put up 180 yards rushing and 155 yards passing.

Despite the loss, several Broncos made key plays in the game. Diego Santos had a good game on defense and grabbed one interception and Jonah Sell also had an interception.

Adam Topper recovered a fumble and Williams did a good job running and also had a sack.

Jayson Pigg finished with 12 defensive tackles and Jack noted that Charles Mason had a good game as well.

The Broncos will travel to Gruver Friday night, October 7, to take on the Greyhounds beginning at 7:30 p.m.

They will be open the following week, which will give them time to heal and get ready for District, Jack said.

Six under par wins scramble

By Sandy Anderberg

Twenty-two golfers participated in the last nine-hole scramble at the Clarendon Country Club last Friday night. The team of Chris Linquist, Bobby Dodson, and Buck Dodson won first place at six under par. The other teams came in at four, three, two, and one under par.

Sherol Johnston won the weekly women's game with a gross 85, and Tanis McMorries won low net with a 69. Jeff Walker won the men's game with a net 62, and Bo Morrison was second with a net 67. Walker, who is 75 years young, shot his age with a gross score of 70 for the 18 holes. His feat was witnessed by Redell Johnston, Bo Morrison, and Gene Rogers.

Hedley falls hard to Guthrie

The Hedley Owls traveled to Guthrie last Friday and came away humbled after a 52-6 loss. The Owls found moving the ball to be difficult through the air and on the ground. Hedley's lone score came on the last play of the first half on a 70 yard touchdown run by Chris Blackburn.

Guthrie jumped out to a first quarter lead of 36-0, and the Owls never seriously threatened after that.

"We were not prepared for this game, and I take full responsibility for that" said Hedley coach Adam Cline. "They had a game plan on how they wanted to attack us and we were unable to adjust. They did a great job".

After the second quarter the Owls were only outscored 14-6, but the damage had been done.

Coach Cline said, "I was proud of our fight. We gave up some big plays early but we found ways to make stops and played hard to the end."

The Owls will again be on the road this week as they take on the Miami Warriors. The game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

That's nuts!

Dan Sawyer brought in the first load of Donley County peanuts for this season Monday to the Greenbelt Peanut facility in Clarendon. Greenbelt representative Regina Herndon said this year's crop looks decent but not great. However, contract prices for peanuts are "going crazy" this year. "They are amazingly high," she said.

Court: Several receiving sentencing

On August 24, 2007, Shumate originally pleaded guilty to the third degree felony offense of possession of marijuana that occurred on April 20, 2006, in Carson County.

The State filed the motion to adjudicate on August 19, 2011, alleging four violations of community supervision.

Shumate, 45-year-old resident of Ohio, pleaded true to violations contained in the State's motion and was sentenced to four years in the TDCJ. Shumate is also required to pay $327.50 in court costs to Carson County and a $4,000 fine.

Mark Anthony Vasquez was convicted and placed on probation for a period of three years for the third degree felony offense of kidnapping. Vasquez pleaded guilty for the offense that took place on July 5, 2011 and was sentenced to ten years in the Institutional Division of TDCJ, but the sentence was probated for a period of three years.

Vasquez, 33-year-old resident of Childress, pleaded guilty to a complaint and information filed by the State on September 22, 2011 after being arrested by Landon Johnson in Childress County.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Vasquez is required to pay a fine of $1,500 to Childress, $376 in court costs, and other conditions of probation.

Cornelius A Jackson was placed on probation for a period of two years for the second degree felony offense of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Jackson pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the offense.

Jackson, 26-year-old resident of Childress, was arrested in Collingsworth County for the offense that took place on August 26, 2011 and pleaded guilty to a complaint and information filed by the State on September 21, 2011.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Jackson is required to pay a $500 fine to Collingsworth County, and is also required to pay $376 in court costs, and complete 200 hours of community service. If Jackson violates probation, he could face up to 20 years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

A total of $19,500 in fines was assessed as a result of the pleas that took place on September 26. In addition to the fines, the defendants were required to pay a total of $2,932 in court costs and $1,483.80 in restitution.

Marty Smith named District Engineer for Childress region

CHILDRESS – Veteran Texas Department of Transportation employee Martin R. Smith, P.E. (Marty), has completed a 28 year climb from summer hire to District Engineer of the Childress District.

Marty, was recently named to succeed Terry Keener as District Engineer for the 13-county Childress District, which includes Collingsworth, Cottle, Dickens, Donley, Foard, Hall, Hardeman, King, Knox, Motley and Wheeler counties. In his new role, he will oversee the planning, designing, building, operation and maintenance of the state transportation system for the nearly 5,500 lane miles of highway and 190 employees in the Childress District.

Marty worked as a summer employee for four summers and joined the department full time in 1984 as an engineering assistant in the Childress Area Office. In 1995, he was selected as district design engineer.

He earned his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from Texas Tech University in 1984 and became a licensed professional engineer in 1989. He is a Childress native, and graduated from Childress High School, so his knowledge and expertise of the area will be a tremendous asset in his new role.

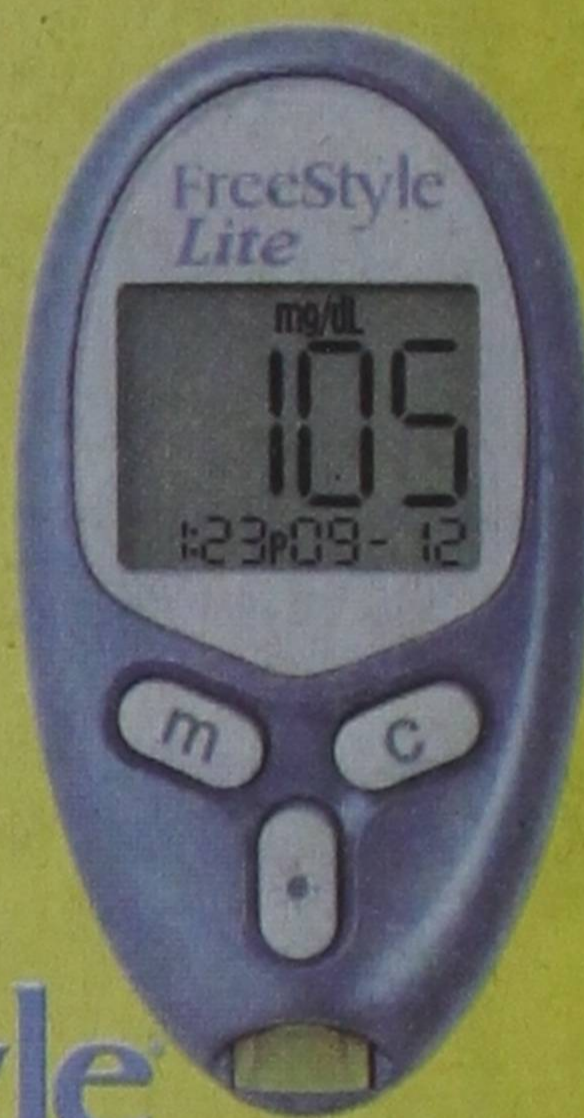

Marty and his wife Donna have two sons, Michael, a freshman at West Texas A&M and Cole, 12.
