Straus taps King for workforce group

Texas House Speaker Joe Straus announced last week that he has appointed Representative Ken King (R-Canadian) to the Joint Interim Committee to Study Education Policy for a Skilled Workforce.

This committee will study how career and technology education (CTE) programs can better align with those offered in Texas colleges and with the needs of Texas employers.

"There are many jobs that do not require a college degree but do require some post high school education and training. Currently the United States lags behind other countries in linking postsecondary education with the needs of the labor market. In order for Texas to close this gap, it is necessary to explore opportunities for education and workforce partnerships," Representative King said.

"I am honored that Speaker Straus has given me the opportunity to serve on this committee," King said.

Representative King served on the House Public Education Committee during the 83rd Session.

County reminds car buyers of option

Donley County Tax Assessor / Collector Linda Crump is reminding residents that when they purchase a new or used vehicle out of county that they can still register their vehicle in Donley County and keep those tax dollars at home.

Write "Donley County" on the county of issuance Form 136 to have your title and registration here. Each title that is issued for a motor vehicle brings the county a portion of the sales taxes and at least $66.17 of the title and registration fee.

Crump said some auto dealers may tell you that they have to do the title work in their county or that Donley County will automatically receive the revenue, but both of those are wrong. Only the county of issuance receives the tax, title, and registration.

Local church to celebrate centennial

The Clarendon Church of Christ will celebrate its 100th anniversary this Sunday with a special service.

Members of the Church of Christ began worshipping in 1914 in Clarendon, Texas. The small number grew to 14 members in 1917 and worshipped in the T.M. Little home at the end of Carhart Street. This same year the group purchased a small wooden building near the present post office site. Members at that time were: Mr. & Mrs. T.M. Little, Mrs. Emma Little Saye, Mr. & Mrs. McGowan, Mr. Cooper, Mrs. Moffitt, Mr. & Mrs. Reed, Mr. & Mrs. John Watters, Mr. & Mrs. U.T. Dever, and Mr. M.F. Roberson. Dee Smith and family later joined the group. G.W. Brewer was the first known minister in 1920.

A storm demolished the church building and the congregation was allowed to worship in the court house until a building was constructed at 3rd Street & Carhart Street. More land was purchased throughout the years by the elders and the present building was constructed. The elders continued to purchase land and built a nice family center across the street.

The present congregation is very active in teaching through the World Bible School and in helping the Navajo nation teach their people the Bible.

The present minister is Christ Moore. Elders are Donald White, Gene Denney, William Thompson and Carol Duncan. Deacons serving at this time are Earl Shields, Jim Stevenson, Jackie Bell, Audie Watson, Bob Watson, Carlton Turvaville, and David McAnear.

The congregation invites all friends and past members to attend a special Homecoming celebration Sunday, June 29, 2014, at 9:30 a.m. Tom Harguess, the local minister from July 1980 to the summer of 1983, will deliver the sermon. A delicious meal will be provided for all guests following the morning service.

Pick up next week's Pioneer Edition of THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER inside the ENTERPRISE for more history of the Clarendon Church of Christ.

Enterprise receives recognition

The Clarendon Enterprise placed second in the hunt for top honors during the 2013 Better Newspaper Contest hosted by the Texas Press Association.

Contest winners were announced last Saturday during the TPA Summer Convention in Corpus Christi, and the Enterprise finished behind The Red Oak Record for the Division 10 Sweepstakes Award.

Sports Photos by Roger Estlack and Kari Lindsey received third place, and the ENTERPRISE received fourth place honors for Editorials and News Photos.

This year 159 newspapers submitted 1,566 entries in the contest. The contest is broken down into 10 divisions in which newspapers compete against papers of similar circulation size.

CC Regents travel to Pampa for June meeting

Clarendon College Regents took their show on the road last Thursday, June 19, holding their regular board meeting in Pampa.

Several Gray County dignitaries were on hand for the meeting, including County Judge Richard Peet, Pampa ISD Board President Lee Porter, Pampa ISD Superintendent David Young, and members of the Clarendon College Pampa Center Foundation.

Going through their agenda,

Regents approved a $60 per hour flat rate tuition for courses offered in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice unit in Pampa. CC will be offering classes there this summer during the next academic year.

The board approved a purchase of a welding simulator from Lincoln Electric in Lubbock for $24,000. The simulator consists of a welding mask with a 3D display inside so that the student "sees" an image of what they are working on.

The board acknowledged the resignations of Annette Ferguson, Raymond Jaramillo, Aaron Lopez, and Raquel Hawkins and approved the new hires of Kelly McDonough and Cannon Roberts to teach English and Catheryn Bailey as an RN instructor.

The board also acknowledged the reassignment of Becky Green as the Associate Dean of Enrollment Services to coordinate admissions, recruiting, testing, and financial aid in an effort to streamline the enrollment process for students. Green will work under Vice President of Student Services Tex Buckhaults.

David Hall was also reassigned as the college's Associate Dean of Career, Technical, and Continuing Education under the Vice President of Instruction, Dr. Roger Schustereit.

Regents approved updated signature cards at Herring Bank and the National Bank of Commerce to include Buckhaults, Schustereit, and Alice Cobb and updating the college's investment committee to include Dr. Robert Riza, Alice Cobb, and Ashlee Estlack.

In his president's report, Riza said CC is in discussions with Amarillo ISD to offer cosmetology classes for dual credit in four high schools in Amarillo.

Riza also updated the board on the college's new Registered Nursing program, which started this week with 20 students.

CC launches RN program

The first LVN to ADN bridge cohort at Clarendon College started classes Monday morning in Pampa. Dr. Robert Riza, president of CC, welcomed the students and shared his excitement about this being the first class in the new ADN program at CC.

Twenty students from all around the Panhandle make up this first cohort. After successful completion of their courses next summer, these students will sit for the RN exam.

A traditional ADN - Associate Degree in Nursing - cohort will start in the fall. For more information, interested students are asked to call Jackie Sublett in the Nursing Department at 806-665-8801.

Observations, Thoughts, and Scatter Shots

Honest-to-goodness columnists who write scatter-shooting accounts on miscellaneous topics often refer to such pieces as "potpourri." This has always impressed me, since my using the word always requires a visit to Webster or Google—my predictable response to a Spell Check squiggle.

I usually call it a "Mother Hubbard" column, which, like the frontier dress so named, covers everything but touches nothing.

That's the current intent, with thoughts and observations all over the map, some of them original.

Here's a friendly warning to editors who may have just arrived at rural newspapers.

This is the time of year farmers bring in pictures of produce on hormones. They'll brag that the trophy-sized cucumbers/squash/watermelons/gourds are the biggest ever grown in the county.

Run a picture claiming same, and do so at your peril. As surely as you do, expect another farmer next week to bring in identical produce, only larger. And the growing season still has a couple of months to run.

Instant racing (sometimes called historical racing) allows participants to bet on horse and dog races already run—some kind of video/automated/coin-operated deal.

How far along would red-nosed and fuzzy-minded gamblers need to be to fall for such a set-up?

My guess? Imbibers would be several drinks beyond amiable incandescence.

*****

Kids are off to church camps this summer, and they come home with new songs, stories and table grace ditties.

One brought smiles repeating a mealtime prayer heard at a table of, uh, teen campers.

"Bless this meat. Leave the skin. Back your ears, and dive right in..."

One of our two rescue dogs, a red Dachshund, is a licker extraordinaire.

Sadie, mostly Jack Russell, ignores toes. She's far more interested in sniffing the hands that feed her.

A visiting grandchild, giggling as her toes were licked by multiple licks, was intrigued, but asked if she has a "licker" license.

*****

Not much is heard these days about the "Wrestlers' Birthright."

They had a reunion recently, however, calling it a "mer-versary."

Reminds me of the sports editor who apologized for running the wrong wrestling results in the newspaper. "The ones that ran in today's paper are actually next week's results," he claimed.

*****

Selected short subjects include:

If Los Angeles Clippers' owner Donald Sterling were a haircutter, it would be a bad one.

Miami Heat's King James should either be deposed or reduced in rank to Prince James.

Jordan Goldberg: "Can't buy charisma. If one could, Mitt Romney would have bought a pallet of it at Costco and probably be president now."

Since Texas' STAAR results are coming in negative, maybe we should aim a bit lower, say with "MOOOON" tests.

Since competitive cheerleading is in line for UIL recognition, think how many additional coaches will be available to fire.

Tolling bells are now running a distant second to tolling roadways.

Teacher, weakened by a rough school year, offers cartoon description: "On the highway of life, I'm the one in orange picking up trash."

Tough fourth grade teacher, facing new crop of math students, stares 'em down, saying, "Each of you looks like a ball lost in the tall weeds."

Johnny Football signs a baseball contract with San Diego Padres? This'll be the closest he ever gets to priesthood.

A bulging list growing daily—the number of pipers who must be paid.

A household divided against itself may have a hard time getting foundation insurance coverage.

It's no longer a "pay as you go" world. It's pay "as you hope to go"...

Ha! We had colored phones in the 50s. They returned to black, however, when Momma took one sip with a wet dishrag at the misplaced marmalade.

I know a guy who goes backward, he eats broccoli from the wrong end.

When some VA officials speak of "core" values, it sounds like a description of what they are rotten to....

In which ever lines you find yourself in today, hope fully there are no life or death issues involved—unless you're at a VA hospital.

NSA spying on Americans must cease

Finally, our inept Congress has done a little something to reign-in the outrageous spying on Americans by the NSA. Granted, it wasn't much, but at least it was a start. We need to insure that it continues.

Last Thursday night, the US House of Representatives voted 293 - 123 to pass an amendment to a Department of Defense appropriations bill that would cut off all funds for two of the agency's most insidious activities: Firstly, using the myriad provisions of the Foreign Service Intelligence Surveillance Act to perform searches of the mass communications data that is collected from all Americans, and secondly, asking hardware manufacturers and software developers to install backdoors into their products designed to give the agency access to their users' communications. On that second item, the amendment specifically forbids funding for any agency attempt "to mandate or request that a person or company redesign its product or service to facilitate electronic surveillance."

This amendment represents a response against the nefarious behavior revealed from the leaks of Edward Snowden, which have shown that the NSA subverted cryptography standards, redirected hardware shipments to plant NSA bugs in products, and created other ways to gather raw, bulk communication data from companies like Google, Facebook, AT&T, Microsoft, Apple, ad nauseam. These companies, unfortunately, are not our friends. They knowingly cooperate with the NSA.

Of course, this amendment and bill must pass the senate (home of our Texas Senator from Canada, eh) if anything is to be done. Hopefully, the House vote sends a message that there is now the political will to do something about the abusive spying on Americans by the NSA. The point is that these spying programs need money in order to survive, and we can cut off that funding if they continue their dastardly ways.

The bill also represents a remarkable shift from the useless Freedom bill, intended to curb NSA mass surveillance, which passed the House last month in a paltry effort that disappointed privacy adherents. The members of the house only paid lip service to the American people, and passed a Freedom bill that was an absolute joke. Actually, the contrast between the Freedom bill and this bill is a result of political procedure: Most of the weakening of the original Freedom bill occurred in the Judiciary and Intelligence committees. However, as an amendment to an appropriations bill, last week's defunding legislation was able to escape the intense lobbying that was present in the aforementioned committees. It did not have to go through the Intelligence Committee, which is basically a puppet of the intelligence community.

Actually, that powerless surveillance reform bill may have inspired Thursday night's vote by not going far enough to please House members seeking to curtail the NSA's spying on Americans. Due to the diluting of that bill's anti-spying provisions in committee, many House members never had the opportunity to show their wish to drastically limit the NSA's overzealous spying activities. So, what does this all really mean? Even if the amendment actually becomes law, which is iffy at best, it still wouldn't end all federally mandated backdoors in hardware and software. For example, it will have no effect of the FBI, which drastically limits its effectiveness. However, the passage of the amendment still signals a welcome shift in the political landscape, thanks primarily to Snowden's spying disclosures. Last year, for example, a similar amendment was put to the vote and it fell seven votes short of passing. The lopsided vote this year illustrates that reigning in the NSA has become a popular political cause that crosses party lines. There is now a sense, at least in the House, that if you're not doing something about this issue, it could result in unpleasant political repercussions, like losing your seat.

Now, it is up to the Senate to pass similar legislation. If they don't act satisfactorily on this legislation, then we need to hold them accountable by voting them out of office. In the immortal words of Ben Franklin, "Those who are willing to sacrifice liberty for security deserve neither." I'm not willing to benignly accept a situation in which the federal government is allowed to listen to all my phone conversations, read my emails, or view my other internet communications, whatever the form they may take.

Who knows, perhaps someday I may have a brilliant thought. If so, I would like to keep ownership of it. Or, perhaps an ex-wife or two decides to mistakenly take me to task for some obviously exaggerated transgression that I may have committed in the past. If so, I don't want the government or anyone else to shed undue light on it. In short, I want my personal life kept personal. Perhaps even more importantly, I want the personal lives of others to also be kept personal.

Meanwhile, we all owe Edward Snowden a healthy portion of gratitude. His revealing the reality of the spying on Americans by our own government can only make our democracy stronger. After all, over the years, many Americans have given their lives defending our liberty and freedom. Let's do all we can to make sure their sacrifices were not in vain.

Five things to fix the border crisis

Over the past several months, tens of thousands of unaccompanied minors -- almost all of them from Honduras, Guatemala, El Salvador, or Mexico -- have been detained at our southern border while crossing illegally into the United States. A large percentage have been found in the Rio Grande Valley region of South Texas.

Sadly, this ongoing humanitarian crisis is very much a man-made crisis. More specifically, it is a direct result of President Obama's misguided immigration policies.

Two years ago, the president stood in the Rose Garden and announced a unilateral change to US immigration policy regarding children. Between that policy change and his broader refusal to uphold our immigration laws, he created a powerful incentive for children to cross into the United States illegally.

Don't just take my word for it. "There is growing evidence," reports the Washington Post, "that a surge of tens of thousands of Central American minors across the Mexican border into Texas is being driven in large part by the perception they will be allowed to stay under the Obama administration's immigration policies."

Consider the numbers. In fiscal year 2011, roughly 6,560 unaccompanied alien children were apprehended at the US-Mexico border. That figure grew to nearly 25,000 in 2013, a year after the President's Rose Garden Speech, and

US officials estimate that it could reach 90,000 in 2014, before surging to 142,000 (or higher) in 2015.

In other words, policies that were supposedly adopted for humanitarian reasons have produced a humanitarian disaster.

Make no mistake: The migration journey from southern Mexico to the Rio Grande is among the most treacherous in the world. In his 2013 book, "The Beast," Salvadoran writer Oscar Martinez documents the horrific violence that is routinely inflicted on migrants by drug traffickers, gang members, and human smugglers. The risks to women are especially harrowing: Experts believe that at least six out of every ten female migrants become victims of sexual assault.

Indeed, migrant women are preyed upon by ruthless Mexican drug cartels such as the Zetas. For example, an official from the mayor's office in Ciudad Hidalgo (a Mexican city along the Guatemalan border) told Martinez that "in Ciudad Hidalgo the Zetas control all trafficking, sending men to recruit women in Central America and sometimes even kidnapping migrant women riding the buses. They sell the women to truck drivers for a night and then throw them away like unwanted scraps."

There is nothing "humane" about encouraging people to travel through cartel-dominated smuggling routes in hopes of reaching the United States. Yet that has been the effect of President Obama's policies.

I therefore call on the president to immediately do five things:

First, he should publicly (and repeatedly) declare that the so-called deferred-action programs he announced in June 2012 will not apply to the children currently arriving at the border.

Second, he should publicly (and repeatedly) discourage people in Central America and elsewhere from sending their children on such a dangerous journey through Mexico.

Third, he should start enforcing all US immigration laws, not simply the ones he finds politically convenient.

Fourth, he should make sure that Texas and other US border states have the resources they need to handle the migrant influx.

Fifth, he should work with Mexican officials to improve security at their border with Guatemala, which most of these children appear to be crossing.

If the president took all those steps, not only would it help us resolve the current crisis, it would also help prevent a similar crisis from erupting in the future.

Beware new tree trimming/spraying scams

Hi, gang! I made it back from Houston, and all is still going okay. That road sure gets longer each month. However MD Anderson is the number one cancer center in the United States.

Let's all be on the lookout for all types of door-to-door salespersons. Summer bring out all of the door-to-door scammers. Beware.

Summer yard maintenance may include hiring someone to spray or trim trees or provide other yard related services. Locally, there are many trustworthy businesses with hard-earned reputations for honesty and quality lawn and tree service. Unfortunately, this is also a type of service that criminals use to take advantage of people especially the senior citizens. Some of the most common frauds originate with door-to-door sales, and we believe that criminals promoting their service in this manner are currently active in Donley County. Before hiring someone for tree or pesticide spraying services, be sure to check them out thoroughly.

Before selling this service door to door, the salesman must obtain a permit as required in the City of Clarendon Municipal Code. They must apply for the permit at the City Hall, and must carry the permit with them. To check out individuals in Hedley, Howardwick, and in Donley County call the Donley County Sheriff's Office. Also, please call the Sheriff's Office when Clarendon City Hall is closed.

The Sheriff's Office will come and investigate them. Individuals that offer commercial spraying service must comply with state licensing regulations and must operate under a permit issued by the Texas Department of Agriculture, which provides this information on their web site: Applicators who want to apply any pesticides (regardless of use classification) to plants, trees, shrubs, grass or other horticultural plants for hire must be licensed by either the Texas Department of Agriculture 3A ag category or the Structural Pest Control Service. Asking those offering this service about their compliance with state licensing requirements may help you identify someone that could apply substandard (or no) product, over charge, or just vanish with your payment. Most often, these people will attempt to prey on senior citizens.

In addition to verifying local and state licensing, check with the Better Business Bureau at <http://www.bbb.org/texas-panhandle/>, or by phone (806) 379-6222. The BBB's information-which is provided to consumers at no cost-can help you decide if a company is one that you want to trust with your money. Don't wait until after you have been scammed to review a company's record.

Even a quick check through any internet search resource can help you gather information about potential contractors. You can help prevent crime by providing this information to friends and neighbors and checking on your elderly friends.

Why is My Number Calling Me? A Crazy New Scam.

Scammers are using caller ID spoofing technology to impersonate the phone numbers of local businesses, neighbors and even you! Watch out for this wacky twist on the classic phishing phone scam.

How the Scam Works: Your phone rings, and you look at the caller ID. You recognize the number. It may be from a local business or a neighbor down the street. But in strange twist, you might even see your own name and phone number on the caller ID screen. You answer the phone, and it's a robo call. Victims have reported several different phishing scams. In one common version, a recording prompts you to verify your credit card number under the guise of lowering your interest rates.

With many people rejecting calls from unfamiliar numbers, scammers are increasingly posing as familiar businesses, government organizations or people. Scammers purchase lists of phone numbers and use spoofing technology to trick potential victims into picking up the phone. Posing as your own phone number is great for shock value and for ensuring the number isn't blocked.

What to do is a scammer calls: Hang up, don't press any buttons and, if you received a voice mail message, don't call the scammer back. We all like to have the last word, but returning the phone call may just give the con artist information he can use. Don't trust Caller ID.

Scammers have technology that lets them display any number or organization name on your screen. Never give out any financial information. If you did not initiate the call, do not provide bank account, credit card or Social Security numbers over the phone unless you have thoroughly done your research and verified the caller.

Be safe out there.

Rains continue to come our way

If you missed me last week, that was because I took a road trip to Houston along with Ole Jim and our daughter, leaving Buffy the Wonder Dog in the care of other family members.

I know, Houston in June is not an ideal vacation spot but it happens to be where our son lives. The humidity was about the same as it has been here, but the Houston Chamber of Commerce would love to have our cool mornings. The traffic and urban sprawl would drive me nuts, Ole Jim said he would become a stay-at-home-Grandpa if he lived down there. We thoroughly enjoyed the San Jacinto Monument and Battleship Texas, two icons of Texas history.

The Battle of San Jacinto was the last battle of the Texas Revolution led by Sam Houston for Texas and Santa Anna for Mexico. After defeats at many places including the Alamo and Goliad, the Texas Army numbered about 1,000. Houston and the army were being chased by Santa Anna and his army of about 2,000 with reinforcements coming fast.

The area Houston selected as defensive was reached by marching through a bayou with groves of trees and the San Jacinto River at the rear. The Lynchburg Ferry crossed near the battlefield.

As Santa Anna led his troops toward Houston, he stopped and decided to rest and whip those Texans the next day. Even though the two camps were near, Santa Anna neglected to post sentries which allowed the Texans to come within 300 yards before being detected. With cries of "Remember the Alamo" and "Remember Goliad" the battle lasted less than an hour and resulted in the Mexican Army defeat with 630 killed, 208 wounded, and 730 captured, including Santa Anna who attempted to escape dressed as a slave. With Santa Anna as a prisoner of war, he was used to bargain which included all hostilities would cease, sending the surviving army home, and establishing the Rio Grande River as the boundary between the two countries.

Written on the base of the Monument reads, "Measured by its results, San Jacinto was one of the decisive battles of the world." Good job, Texans! I'm proud to say I am a Texan.

The rains have continued. We received another inch Sunday night. I am happy to say most of the state we saw had received rain. Of course, with rain comes weeds and mosquitoes. I have heard a new dryer sheet will keep them away so I am doing my own experiment with them. My California granddaughter said to put one in your pocket and they wouldn't come near you. We will see. I'd rather do that than spray with a chemical.

Our maintenance man, Doc Holliday, has reported seeing skunks out during the day which could mean possible rabies, so keep on the alert and keep your pets vaccinated against rabies.

Donley County 4-H to host free horsemanship clinic

The Donley County 4-H is hosting this free horsemanship clinic on Thursday, July 10, at the Clarendon College Livestock & Equine Center.

The Hi-Pro Feeds Horsemanship Clinic will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is for any area kids that are interested in attending. This clinic has been developed to educate all facets of successful showing of the Stock Horse and teaching the student how to prepare for sanctioned horse show events.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting June 24, 2014, with Boss Lion Ashlee Estlack in charge.

We had 15 members and three guests this week, Abby Johnson, guest of the club; and Nathan and Daniel Estlack, guests of Lion Russell Estlack.

Lion Robert Riza updated the club on college activities and mentioned that the FFA Leadership Camp is being held on campus this week. He also reported success with a new initiative that is preparing high school students for college coursework.

Lion John Taylor said maintenance and re-takes of state tests are keeping folks busy at the public school.

The Boss Lion reported that the Chance Mark Jones Memorial Playground is nearing completion and said a dedication and ribbon cutting will be held Thursday, July 3, at 11:30 a.m.

Miss Johnson introduced herself and fielded questions from club members. Afterwards, she was elected to serve as our next Sweetheart and will begin her official duties when new officers are sworn in on July 15.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

This will include everything from basic and intermediate horsemanship to the proper use of equipment, behavior modification, nutrition, safety, management, grooming, etc. It is the intention of the clinic program staff to encourage equine interest and knowledge through hands on demonstrations as well as classroom instruction. The student will complete horseback exercises and must provide their own horse. A "Release of Liability Form" will be provided and must be signed for student to participate.

The clinic will have a morning and afternoon session with lunch provided by Hi-Pro Feeds. The afternoon session will conclude with a small horse show situation where students will be evaluated and placed according to performance followed by an awards presentation. Those wishing to attend must RSVP by July 8 to the Extension Office at (806)874-2141.

Last Thursday Walter Masters carried his cross through Clarendon. Originally from San Angelo Master travels the US bring the word of God to those he meets on his travels.

Antipsychotics May Reduce Violent Crimes
A recent study conducted in Sweden reports that prescribing antipsychotics to people with psychiatric disorders may reduce the incidence of violent crimes in that group of people. Through a search of the records, researchers compared the rate of violent crime when individuals were or were not taking an antipsychotic medication. Compared with the period these individuals were not on their medication, violent crime decreased by 45 percent when these same individuals were taking their antipsychotic medication. Antipsychotics are commonly prescribed worldwide to manage psychotic conditions such as delusions, hallucinations, disordered thought and in the management of schizophrenia and bipolar disorder. Antipsychotics are known to be effective for prevention of relapse into psychosis and symptom relief. However, prior to the study in Sweden, the effects on violent crime were unknown. Antipsychotic medications fall into two categories, typical such as haloperidol and atypical such as risperidone. Both types block dopamine pathways in the brain. Atypical antipsychotics also act on serotonin receptors.

Lees to lead women's basketball program at CC

Addie Lees had been selected to lead the Clarendon College women's basketball team.

Lees, a graduate of Plainview High School, was recently hired as head coach of the Lady Bulldogs and is most excited to work with the young ladies who are joining the basketball program this fall.

"I am also looking forward to working in the positive environment," Lees said. "There are many people on campus and in the community who support the athletic teams and coaches."

Lees started playing basketball in grade school and says she loved the challenge and truly wanted to improve her game.

"Each year I looked forward to attending Plainview High School, where it would count."

While at Plainview High, she helped lead the team to three state championship games, coming away with a pair of titles in 2002 and 2003 and runner-up in 2004.

"I played the point guard position," she said. "After high school I had the opportunity to play college basketball at Midland College."

After earning an associate's degree at Midland, Lees went on to play basketball at the University of Arkansas at Monticello. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in health and physical education at UAM, graduating Magna Cum Laude, and earned a Master of Science in Sport Administration from Eastern New Mexico University in 2011.

"My coaching career began immediately after receiving my bachelor's degree," she said. "I worked as a graduate assistant for two years at Eastern New Mexico University before becoming the assistant and then the Associate Head Coach at Howard College. I spent two seasons with the lady hawks before coming to Clarendon College."

Lees believes that both her playing and coaching experiences have most prepared her for this position.

"From a young age I always took something away from each coach," Lees said.

When asked who has inspired or mentored her, Lees said the person who has taught her much about basketball and running a program is the Head Coach at Howard College, Earl Diddle.

"His knowledge of basketball cannot be compared to most," Lees said. "He's a phenomenal teacher of the game and has proven that over many decades."

She said Diddle gave her insight each season and set a great example.

"Coach Diddle brought a competitive spirit to every single practice and game," Lees said. "He gives his all to improving the skill of athletes both on and off the court. He gave me the opportunity of a lifetime, and for that I am forever grateful."

Clarendon College Athletic Director Brad Vanden Boogaard said Coach Lees comes to Clarendon with a background of the conference and region from her playing days and time as an assistant.

"Coach Lees is an energetic and confident individual," he said. "I feel she will be very demanding of our athletes and give them great guidance in representing our college on and off the court."

USDA authorizes emergency grazing of CRP acres

Donley County USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director, Vance Killian has announced that Donley County was authorized for emergency grazing use of Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acres for fiscal year (FY) 2014.

Unlike previous years, counties are not automatically approved for CRP emergency grazing when they reach the D2 (severe drought) level on the U.S. Drought Monitor. If there is a need for emergency grazing, each local FSA Office must request approval from the Texas FSA State Committee. Currently, 59 counties have received emergency grazing approval. The 90-day emergency grazing period for these counties will end Sept. 11, 2014.

Based on a policy decision made by the Texas FSA State Committee, CRP acres grazed during fiscal year 2012 or 2013 will be considered eligible for emergency grazing if NRCS verifies, on a case-by-case basis, that the conservation cover will sustain grazing. FSA's fiscal year runs from October 1 to September 30.

"Eligible producers who are interested in emergency grazing of CRP must request approval before grazing eligible acreage and must obtain a modified conservation plan from the Natural Resources Conservation Service that includes grazing provisions," said Killian. "Current provisions allow grazing on 100 percent of a field, up to the 75 percent stocking rate," he said.

There will be no CRP annual rental payment reduction for 2014 emergency grazing authorizations.

To take advantage of the emergency grazing provisions, authorized producers can use the CRP acreage for their own livestock or may grant another livestock producer use of the CRP acreage. The eligible CRP acreage is limited to acres located within the approved county.

Additionally, CRP land located within the Lesser Prairie Chicken Crucial Habitat Assessment Tool (CHAT) zones I, II and III will only be able to practice managed or routine grazing, managed harvesting, emergency haying or emergency grazing one out of every three years. This frequency regulation resets in 2014, meaning that any land hayed or grazed in prior years that meets the available forage requirement according to NRCS standards will be eligible for emergency use in 2014.

For more information and to request approval for emergency grazing use of CRP acres contact the Donley County FSA office at 806/874/3561.

Tres Hommel and Chance McAnear participated and represented Clarendon in the Greenbelt Bowl in Childress June 10-14, playing on the North team. The final score was North 21- South 36.
