LICENSE TO LOOT

The word passed quickly. The Detroit looters realized instantly that it would take hours to recall off-duty police not scheduled for early Sunday morning duty.

In Newark, New Jersey, a moving van moved slowly through the riot-torn streets stopped before a furniture store. The back doors were opened, chains were uncoiled and attached to the iron gratings protecting the display windows. The truck lurched forward tearing the gratings from the building front. Quickly the plate glass windows were smashed and men systematically filled the moving van with furniture and drove away, unmolested.

Down the street a corner liquor store which had served the neighborhood for a quarter century was invaded. Before night's end a quiet, elderly couple who had no enemies in the town was wiped out. Every bottle in the building was carried out. Then the light fixtures hanging from the ceiling. Finally, the shelves themselves.

In midtown New York City, marauding youths stormed a fashionable men's clothing store on Fifth Avenue. The prize loot: men's sweaters priced in the $50 range. Who took them? Men wearing $50 sweaters they had bought in the same store weeks earlier.

These were the looters. One might fill this entire newspaper with authenticated cases. In some instances the looters carried expensive transistor radios which had been professionally improved with a special attachment which permitted the owner to hear all police-band radio calls.

There comes to mind a disaster which struck many years ago when a river ran riot. It was an "Act of God." Not man. The National Guard was moved in, and the first order from the Governor's office was: "looters will be shot on sight."

There was no exception. There were no conditions. Age, sex, color mattered not. From childhood it has always seemed that this was, indeed, the law of the land. For what crime could be more despicable than to carry off the property of those already the victims of disaster. And how much more despicable to cause the disaster and then loot!

No governor, to our knowledge, has issued any such order concerning looters. And until one governor does, and others follow suit, cities large and small in every one of the 50 States will be looted.

Washington News Letter

Congressman O. C. Fisher

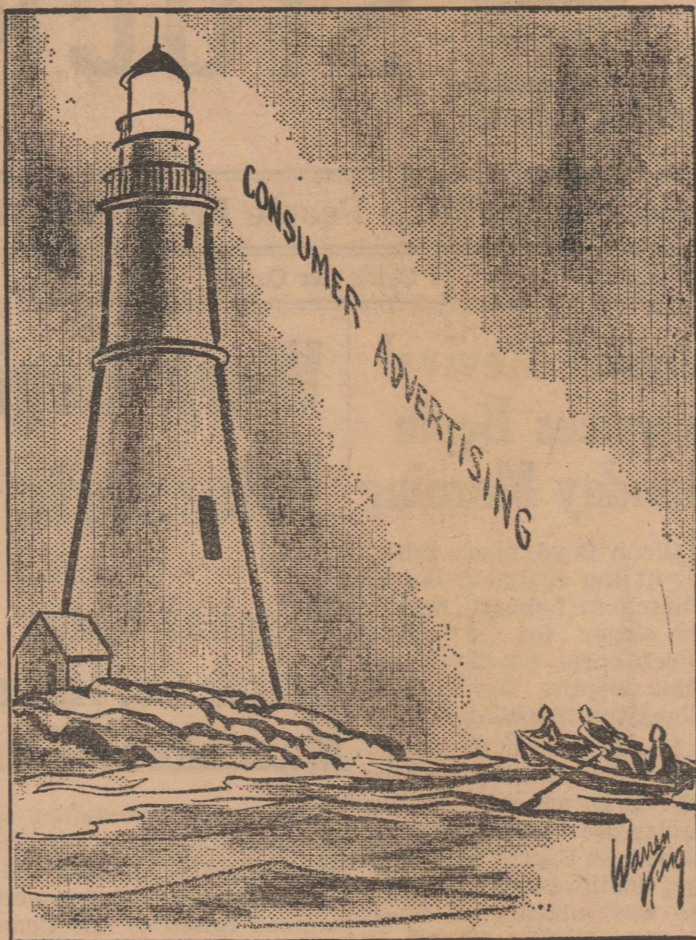

With no Negro demonstrations riots to speak of, the news media has recently declared war on the Congress not declaring war on rats.

It all started when the House turned down a $40-million down payment on a rat eradication project. Columnists dusted off their encyclopedias, viewed with alarm, and vowed to expose the reactionaries who had been pariceps criminis to alleged protection of rattus norvegicus. Only old bearded Uncle Sam, they reasoned, really knew how to kill 'em.

During debate a nosey member embarrassed proponents a bit by reminding that there were already four federal agencies engaged in rat-killing, and he reckoned that if these agencies needed more to use on that war on rodents they could get it.

Three days after the House balked, Governor Rockefeller of New York threw a monkey wrench into the machinery by announcing he was setting aside $4½-million a year on non-federal New York money for a total war on the rodents, looking to total elimination and eradication.

tion". The Federal money lovers thought that was when they needed to close close ranks and present a solid front. He was obviously out of step with "progress."

In Detroit the rat problem has been licked. That city's building code requires "rat walls" in all buildings that could harbor rats, and all modern techniques are employed in the battle. And — of all things — it was done with local money. "Perish the thought!" screamed the hand-out brigade.

It's stylish these days to go to Washington for money to pay for every conceivable local need. Besides, it means good jobs for local sponsors. Hence the attack on Congress for blocking the raiding party. Just you wait and see, they wanted. The people will never stand for this inexcusable conduct!

Admittedly the House action has made a lot of people unhappy. Harlem's notorious Negro agitator, Jesse Gray, brought a hundred ratty-looking gooks to the Capitol, strong-armed their way into the House gallery amid shouts of "We shall not be moved! We want a rat bill — not a riot bill!" But they were moved. Police had to drag 'em out, and sent eight to jail.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Forehand and two children, Bobby and Debbie, flew here in his Mooney plane from Madera, Calif., late last week for a few days visit with relatives. Mrs. Roy Miller, Bill's aunt, flew back with them for a two weeks vacation in California.

Bill Forehand was graduated from Ozona High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Forehand, former Ozonans. He is the Buick dealer in Madera.

Mr. and Mrs. Allie Lock left Saturday for a 2-weeks vacation in California. Their first stop will be Disneyland, as they will be accompanied by their grandchildren and daughter-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Smith, Jr., and children, Gary and Karen, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Smith, Sr., for the week-end. Gary and Karen stayed for a week's visit with their grandparents.

Common Sense On Slums

In proposing a domestic Marshall Plan to rid the nation of slums and slum problems, including guerrilla war in the streets of America Vice President Hubert Humphrey ignores human and economic realities. Disasters such as the terrible riot in Detroit cannot be stopped by vastly increasing public spending. Slums cannot be eliminated by federal expenditures, for buildings don't make slums; people make slums.

Indeed one of the lessons of the Detroit tragedy is that anti-poverty programs don't constitute insurance for American cities against the ravages of rioters, looters and arsonists. Detroit had king-size anti-poverty programs in operation when the rioting broke out. Street revolutionaries, who destroyed approximately half a billion dollars worth of property, were not inhibited in their terrorism by government handouts.

Unfortunately, the liberals still rely on public spending as a cure-all. Like the Bourbon kings of old, they learn nothing and forget nothing. After the initial shock of the rioting, they are back at the old stand, calling for more public spending to prevent further outbreaks. The New York Times, for example, speaks of "the urban poor condemned to the slums." It sees huge outlays of cash as the avenue to municipal peace.

These are fallacies. In the first place, no American is "condemned" to a slum. He may live in one, but he can escape by hard work. No country in the world offers such economic opportunity or social mobility for people on the bottom sill of life. The history of America is the history of hard-working people who get ahead. Generations of Americans have started with nothing, and made a comfortable place for themselves in their communities.

Why is it one group of Americans in today's cities seem to be stalled? It is not a lack of opportunity. Never before has there been so much free education. Jobs are abundant. But education and job opportunities are useless if there is no will to learn and no desire to work, if government teaches one that it is entitled to an endless variety of handouts and special privileges. This is what Big Government has been preaching in recent years. This is the philosophy of the liberals.

It is not surprising, therefore, that one group now apparently believes that it has no obligation to pull itself up by its own bootstraps, that this is a duty of government or social assistance agencies. And as government, in the last analysis, really is unable to uplift a people to the level of self-reliant citizens, the handout-happy people become resentful and bitter. They feed on the emotional diet dished out by communists and fellow-travelers.

The liberal doctrine of social "revolution" in a few years has been translated into an imagined right to riot and loot. Those who have been taught that they are poor because Society let them down are now rapidly gaining the idea that they don't have to pay for goods — that all they need do is throw a brick through a plateglass window and reach in and grab a color TV set.

The classical definition of this situation in Anarchy. Civilized societies have to arm themselves against this situation — literally as well as in terms of political understanding. Thus the first step for restoration of decency in America's cities is a massive strengthening of the law enforcement agencies and the laws under which they operate.

Before the blight of slums can be removed, slum-dwellers must acquire a new outlook. They must regain the respect for law that has been eroded in recent years. The best way to rebuild such respect is by full and prompt prosecution of promoters of insurrection such as Stokely Carmichael, former head of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. Carmichael showed his true colors when he surfaced in Havana, threatened vengeance against the President of the United States, and described Chinese Communist Dictator Mao Tse-tung as his "idol."

Carmichael and other apostles of urban terrorism must be brought to justice. Rioters must be made to understand that social and economic advances can only be made within the framework of law and order. If respect for law and belief in hard work are recreated in the hearts of disorderly citizens then — and only then — will it be possible to eliminate slums.

Recipe of the Week From Kitty's Kitchen

Beer-Braised Round of Beef

- 2-pound slice of top round steak
- 3/4 teas. salt
- 1/4 teas. pepper
- 2 tbs. flour
- 3 tbs. butter or margarine
- 1 clove of garlic crushed
- 1 large onion sliced thin
- 1 1/2 cups of beer
- 1/2 cup of water
- 1 sprig parsley
- 1 sprig thyme
- 1 stalk celery cut in 3 or 4 pieces
- 1 bay leaf

Cooking with beer, as so much of the Flemish cooking is done is almost always a highly successful way to add flavor to a dish, even for people who strongly dislike beer alone.

Mix salt, pepper and flour and pound it into the meat as you would for Swiss steak. Heat lbs. of the butter in a heavy skillet and brown the meat quickly on both sides. Remove it to a shallow casserole. Add remaining butter to the skillet and lightly saute the onion and garlic. Stir in the beer and water and bring to a boil. Pour over the meat in casserole, add parsley, thyme, celery and bay leaf, cover, and bake in a 275 degree oven about 1 1/2 hours, or until tender. (Use aluminum foil to make a cover.)

Drain the liquid into a saucepan and thicken it a bit if you prefer. Pour back over the meat and heat another 5 minutes if the meat has cooled a bit. Serves 4 to 6.

happiness is a high hill

It had been a long climb. For various reasons, we were all glad to get to the top of the hill. Jackie rolled down, over and over, to the inviting creek at the bottom. Sally bolted off to climb the neighbor's fence and croon to the colts pastured there. Baby saw the buttercups and struggled to get down. Jack dreamed over the rich soil of the south forty, while I was drawn by the tall-spired church in the valley.

We're happy in the home we've built on that hill. We've a dog and a cat and swings for the children. Summers, we race down the hill to cool off in the creek. Winters, we get the sled out and take it singing down the slope.

The kitchen windows frame a lovely view of the valley and our church. On Sunday mornings, when its deep-throated bells call us clearly to worship, we go down the hill together to its doors. We enter reverently and joyfully, knowing that much of our happiness and security stems from God's love.

Wherever your church may be; in valley, on hill, or city street, you will find the same glorious opportunity to sustain and strengthen your faith.

Wise and Otherwise

Rambling Reflections By Dr. R. F. Curl

"And what is so rare as a day in June;

Then, if ever, come perfect days;

Then Heaven tries the earth if it be in tune;

And over it softly her warm ear lays."

I learned to love these words of James Russell Lowell when I was a High School boy in the last low scraggy foothills where the Appalachian Range flattens out in northwest Alabama.

It was a long time later that the poet was talking about June in New England. It dawned on me that our more temperate Alabama weather brought these perfect days the latter part of April and the first part of May.

Along with most of you I have always loved that budding, growing season of the year. I still do. But I also love the bright warm days of Autumn and the pleasant nippy cold of our winter season.

But let me put it on record: I do not like August. Neither, for that matter, do I like the month of March. I would guess that few would choose either month as a favorite.

I suppose it is that the long bitter weeks of winter cold eat us away and leave us too weary for March's biting winds. Too much winter has made us ready for Spring and March is neither Winter nor Spring.

The same is true about August. The unceasing dry heat of summer by now saps away our zest for living. All that keeps me going is the knowledge that September and Fall and, we hope, rain, is just around the corner.

I have always enjoyed the memory of what I heard an old lady say when I was a boy as she declared: "I have always noticed that if I get through March I live the rest of the year." I think I would amend her sage observation to profess that if I can get through August I notice I always make the rest of the year.

Yet even March and August have their virtues. If nothing else, they hold the other months together to make a complete year. Then, too, August serves to give us excuse for vacation. To be considered also is the fact that August living is more relaxed and we have opportunity to read, to visit, to picnic, and to have our relatives come visit us, and perchance to repay their visits, as well as many other bits of real living.

The coming of air-conditioned homes, autos, places of business and churches have made our semi-tropical summers much easier to handle. In fact our greatest drawback now is drought and not heat.

And there seems so little we can do about the arid scorching of these days. We can and do move cattle and sheep about to the best bits of grass left.

We can pray for rain. And most of us, even in these days of scientific knowledge, do pray for rain. I recall that during the terrible three years drought that plagued the San Antonio section in the mid-fifties someone asked me if I prayed for rain. I had to confess that while I doubted the efficacy of such prayers, nevertheless, something deep down in me cried out for relief for the poor half-starved cows, the stunted and wilted flowers that bore no blooms, and the huge centuries-old liveoaks I saw dying as I drove down the highways.

Then, too, we can wait out a drought in confidence knowing that always the rains have finally come since the day of Almighty set his rainbow in the sky and promised Noah: "While the earth remains, seedtime and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night shall not cease."

But, also, we can do our best to ease the effects of drought by water conservation, discoveries of new sources of underground water, and wisely, not wastefully, using the water we have.

Our town of Ozona is greatly blessed with an abundant supply of the purest and best water coming from the Edwards strata. Bill Cooper tells me that in the 25 years he has been here our water table (level) has varied very little.

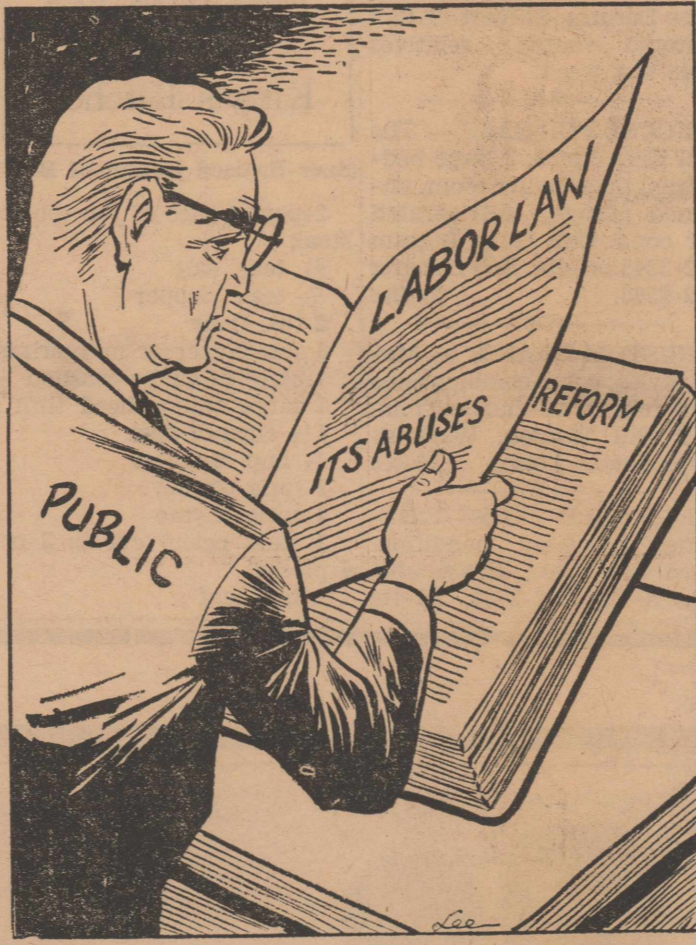

This should be for us all a source of very deep gratification. We are greatly blessed. Bread may be the staff of life, but you can live longer without it than you can without water.

But I must halt these rambling reflections, on heat and drought and August and March or August itself will be over before you have inished reading.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

Air Mattress Holes

Small holes in cloth-covered air mattresses are virtually impossible to locate.

Try washing your mattress with soapy water. Then when scrubbed with a stiff brush, even the smallest leaks will start to bubble.

Improvised Fishing Boat

Need a shallow-water fishing boat.

Take a 22x10 truck inner tube; put a No. 3 washtub inside the tube circle; and inflate the tube. Then fasten a short board to this craft for a seat; get a canoe paddle; and you are ready to launch a sturdy little craft.

Outboard Overboard

During the fishing season many motors are dropped in the water while being mounted on transoms at dockside.

You can eliminate this danger.

Simply back your boat to the dock or bank so that your motor won't have to be lugged the length of the boat to reach the transom.

Also — this makes the job a lot easier on tempers as well as muscles.

How To Find A Spring

Plenty of fish hang around a fresh spring. If you have an aluminum boat it is easy to locate these cold springs. Just remove your shoes and socks, put your bare feet flat on the floor of the metal bottom boat and paddle around in the vicinity where you think the spring might be.

when entering a field and lay the radio on the ground. Circle around and walk toward the transistor.

Birds won't go past it. Be careful when running your boat into high weeds along the bank or thru brush. Bees and other stinging insects are likely to be encountered in the weeds. Frequently there is a snake hanging from a limb in or over the water.

Finding Pheasants

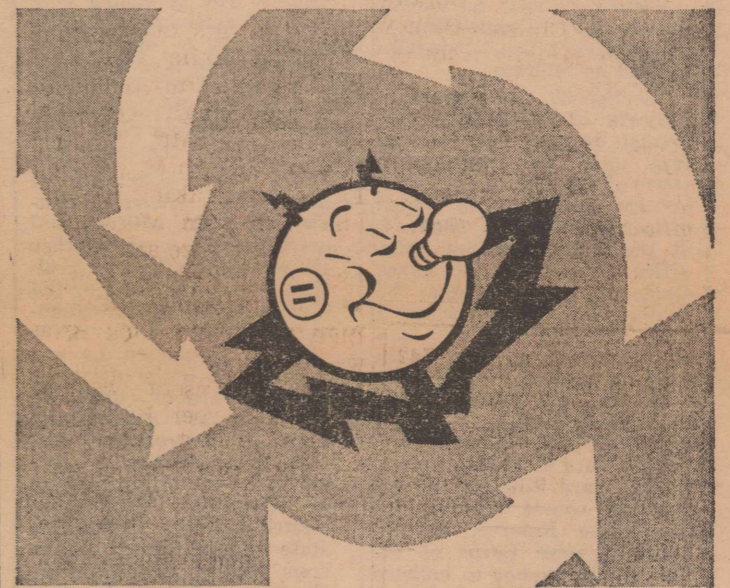

Texas pheasant hunters can be more assured of getting game by this trick designed to keep birds from jumping a ditch or brush row.

Tune in a transistor radio

Talented Husband-Wife Team Pick Ozona Headquarters For Fashion Design And Commercial Art Work

If you are wondering what is going on behind the green curtains in the old Baker Jewelers building, it is an energetic husband and wife team, Terry and Reg Manning, creating fashions, giving art instruction and doing beautiful fashion layouts for newspapers, magazines and catalogs.

The Mannings were hard at it a few years ago in Dallas, climbing the ladder of success and keeping up with the furious pace of the city when they decided to get out and head for open country. Having friends in Ozona, they headed west.

They rented the building several months ago and Reg surrounds himself with bolts of beautiful material and brown paper, from which he fashions his own patterns, while Terry works away in a little office in the back which is cluttered with the paints, brushes and sketching materials so necessary to the commercial artist.

At present they are busy with a back to school promotion for a leading ladies wear store in San Angelo. They have done Christmas catalog for one of the leading department stores in Dallas for many years. For the very store, incidentally, where Reg was advertising director before coming west.

They have been doing the designing for El Dorado Woolens and Charles Dickey besides free lancing in other design work.

Terry has been instructing art classes twice a week during the summer. She plans another schedule of classes when school begins and is looking forward to larger classes.

The Mannings present a happy picture, with none of the worry and fatigue lines of big city advertising executives or fashion designers. Unlikely a site as Ozona seems for their particular professions, they seem to fit well into the niche they have created for themselves. And, needless to say, they are quite an asset to Ozona.

BERGFELD PLACE IN ODESSA HORSE SHOW

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bergfeld and two sons, Bill, Jr. and Chuck, stopped off in Ozona for a brief visit with friends early in the week. They were on their way home after attending the state championship 4-H Club horse show in Odessa, where the Bergfeld's sons both showed registered quarter horses.

The boys, who are breeding top ranking quarter horses, qualified for the state show by meeting the requirement of placing in at least three shows during the year. Bill, 15, showed his mare to first place in the halter division and was 9th in western pleasure class. Chuck won 9th in showmanship and 8th in reining in the top-rated show. Mr. Bergfeld served as county agent here for several years before World War II.

FORTY-TWO CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Boyd entertained the 42-Club at their home Thursday night.

Winning high score prize was Mr. and Mrs. Roy Killingsworth, with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Acton taking low. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Montgomery won the 84 prize and Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Mayfield won the bingo. Mrs. Hugh Gray was high guest and Jack Brown was low.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kunkel and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubbard.

Picnic In Angelo For Limazona 4-H

Four members of the Limazona 4-H Club completed Unit 1 in their Foods Project last week by having a picnic in San Angelo. The girls were Carmen Galvan, Frances Ramirez, Monica Delgado and Isabel Maldonado.

Each girl planned and packed a picnic lunch the way they had learned in their project meetings. After their lunch, they attended a movie, did some shopping and ate supper before returning to Ozona. Miss Ene-mencia Diaz is their Junior Leader and was in charge of the picnic. Miss Wolf and Miss Price accompanied the group.

Mrs. C. D. Allen and sons, Mike and John, left Sunday for their home in Arlington, Texas, after a week's visit here with Mrs. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Perner, and other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Allen and family recently moved to Arlington from Chattanooga, Tenn.

volunteer group of practicing segregation. I guess I could be wrong, but I thought the riots began before the National Guard was called out. hippies on down the road. Stuart had taken the California license number down and decided they should report to the Sheriff. In no time at all Sheriff Billy Mills had five youths in custody and a check with California authorities confirmed suspicions that the car was a stolen vehicle. The nineteen-year-old driver of the vehicle admitted stealing the car. He picked up two teenage youths in Arizona and two more in El Paso.

The youth, Frank F. Duncan, who gave his address as Miami, Beach, Fla., was turned over to the FBI on charges of violating the Dyer Act, transporting a stolen vehicle across state lines. The car remains impounded here in custody of the sheriff.

Two of the youths were investigated by the F. B. I. for having no draft cards, both with juvenile records, but all have been released. One, an 18-year-old French youth, who had a round-trip ticket from Paris, France, to New York City, spoke no English. However, officers found his passport in order and discovered that after arriving in New York, he had visited Canada, the midwest and western states by hitching rides. He is presently making his way back to New York and hitched a ride out of town with the other innocent hitch-hiker. He was delighted when the Sheriff's department brought in a young college girl student of French to explain to him in his native tongue what was going on.

Since the car was stolen July 8, the thief had been getting handouts at various churches along the way by use of a number of calling cards from churches, along with pictures of the pastors. An abundant supply of almost every denomination was found in his personal effects.

The three young "heros" were awarded a steak dinner for their efficiency by Sheriff Mills.

A 3/4-hour drillstem test taken between 4,925-60 feet, surfaced gas in 10 minutes, volume too small to measure, and recovered 300 feet of heavily gas and oil-cut mud. Slated for 7,100 feet, the project is bottomed at 5,054 feet, taking another drillstem test.

The No. 2 Tippett, was fin-aled April 13 from the Hueco for 240 barrels of oil through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 4,880-4,930 feet; from the 4,950-foot Wolfcamp for 168 barrels of oil through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 4,971-982 feet; and from the 5,000-foot detrital for 192 barrels of oil through a 16-64-inch choke and perfora-
