Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

I just avoided a head-on collision in the post office parking lot today at noon. I was driving in the entrance and somebody else was driving out. After my knees quit shaking, I realized the entrance and exit signs were gone. Sort of looks like the postal department is doing away with everything while raising rates periodically. So perhaps a directive from Washington ordered the signs removed, who knows? It will certainly add to the confusion, and I guess that's what it's all about.

The telephone is no doubt one of mankind's greatest inventions, but it is also one of man's greatest robbers of privacy. My telephone seems to have an instinct about what I am doing around the house and just automatically rings when I am in no position to get to it.

A good "for instance" was Sunday morning when I was in the bath tub washing my hair. You have to be somewhat of a contortionist to perform this feat anyway. I had just gotten all sudsy when the phone started to ring. As luck would have it, the only other soul in the house was the cat and she either can't or won't answer the telephone.

It rang so persistently that I decided it must be of great importance, so I decided I had better drop in and answer it. On second thought, I decided that if it was really that important, the caller would surely call back in ten or fifteen minutes. After making and unmaking all these decisions, there was nothing left to do but count the rings. Would you believe it rang 20 times before there was silence? And to top it off, I never found out who was calling. At least nobody would admit it. That's the way it goes, just let me get involved in something and I can count on the telephone ringing.

I'd like to have it taken out, but I'll need it next year in order to call Jim every night and check on his whereabouts while he is away at school.

Enjoy that extra hour of sleep the next ten days. Come April 25 it will be taken away from you. That's when daylight saving time rears its ugly head and you will be forced to turn your clocks back an hour.

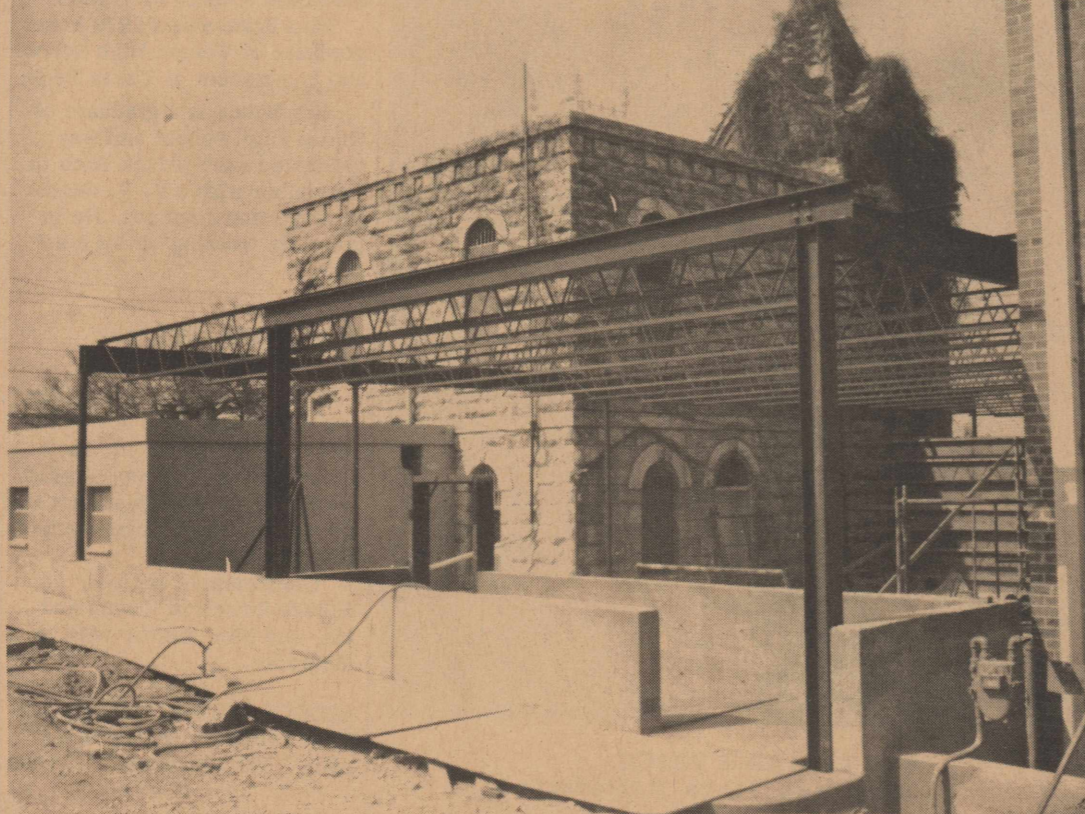

I don't like it, and I really believe a majority of Texans are with me on this issue. However, unless they come up with a way to put it to a vote, it looks like we are going to be stuck with it forever.

Being a night person, I would enjoy having a night saving time, but I doubt I'll ever live to see the day.

If you have been wondering why some of the flags around town are looking pretty ragged, it's the constant beating they take from the high winds. I have it on good authority that the life of a flag under present conditions is indeed short. Some of the flag-flyers have taken to mending them.

The unusually high winds we have had this year have been a boon to flag-sellers, and that goes to show there is some good in all things.

March winds have carried over to April and although we have seen a cloud to two this week, no real promise of April showers. The winds have done nothing for my disposition and with only a few more dust storms I feel that a padded cell will be in order. Add a few more hectic Tuesday afternoons and it's almost a certainty.

NO MORE INVITING perhaps than the old one but the new Crockett County jail now a-building is certain to be more convenient for authorities and a safer place for incarcerating criminal characters. Steel framework is rising on the new jail project which will form an addition to the present facilities to make it possible for this county to have suitable jail facilities to take care of female and juvenile prisoners. Presently such prisoners must be taken either to Big Lake or Sonora.

Dr. Fussell died Saturday morning at Baptist Memorial Geriatric Hospital in San Angelo after a lengthy illness.

Dr. Fussell was born Jan. 16, 1884 in Rusk County and was the son of Jeff M. Fussell and Sarah Elizabeth Fussell. He attended schools at Laneville and Alexander Institute, later Lon Morris College, at Jacksonville. He was graduated from Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., receiving his degree in dental surgery in 1908. He was an honor man of his class and received the Morrison Brothers Gold Medal for "General Proficiency." He was a member of Xi Psi Phi Dental Fraternity and a past president of that organization.

After receiving his degree, he returned to Texas and took the Dental Board examination. He became an associate of Dr. J. B. McCauley, president of the board, in general practice in Merkel. He moved to Cisco in 1910 and bought a dental office.

He and Miss Vera Carmichael were married in Atlanta, Ga. Jan. 18, 1914 by Dr. H. M. Dubois, who later became Bishop Dubois.

In 1919 he moved his family to a ranch near Ozona. In 1924 he opened a dental office in Ozona and practiced until his retirement in 1944.

Crockett Seeks Drouth Emergency Designation

Six to seven months without rain has created a drouth of major proportions and the Crockett County Disaster Committee, composed of County Agent Pete Jacoby, Sam Perner, chairman of the ASCS county committee and the FHA representative for the area, living in San Angelo, has asked for designation of Crockett county as a disaster area because of the drouth.

The local committee members, with Cliff Elder, office manager for the ASC here, acting as secretary, met Friday to take the action. Under present rules the program would require detailed financial statements before approval could be given an individual ranchman to participate. As a matter of fact, committee members heard there is presently no surplus feed available and the only help that might be available would be low interest loans if a ranchman is forced to sell his stock and wants to re-stock.

There are other programs possibly available, and committee members felt that it was advisable to secure designation at this time against the possibility of continued drouth.

OPEN SEASON

"Everyone," commented a Washington politician recently, "is entitled to at least one boner." This may be so; but it is difficult to understand how Congressman Hale Boggs, the distinguished House Majority Leader, could have "pulled such a boner" as his disastrous early-morning, one-minute speech before Congress on April 6. House members on both sides of the aisle were stunned when Boggs blurted, "When the FBI taps the telephones of members of this body and of members of the Senate, when the FBI stations agents on college campuses to infiltrate college organizations, when the FBI adopts the tactics of the Soviet Union and Hitler's Gestapo, then it is time—it is way past time, Mr. Speaker—that the present director thereof no longer be the director."

Perhaps Deputy Attorney General Richard Kleindienst had the best answer, when he said that "We have come to the conclusion that he was either sick or he was not in possession of his faculties when he made that statement."

The absurdity of the charge should be immediately apparent to everyone. Even if Mr. Hoover had utterly no regard for the civil liberties of the people of this nation—which he does; and even if he should wish to become a tyrant of the Soviet or Nazi stripe—which he does not; Mr. Hoover has been around Washington long enough, and has had enough experience, to know that he would be utterly foolish to pull such a stunt as tapping the telephones of U.S. Senators and Congressmen. Mr. Hoover values his own career and the reputation of the FBI, which he has very carefully nurtured through years of effort, to destroy it all by indulging in illegal phone tapping.

This seems to be a time of open season for taking pot-shots at the FBI and Director J. Edgar Hoover. But that still does not explain how Mr. Boggs should have put himself in such a political bind.

BALANCE IN THE SUPREME COURT

It is impossible to underestimate the ultimate magnitude of the U.S. Supreme Court decisions now being reached in Washington. For years the Court has been dominated by extreme, left-leaning jurists who opened the floodgates for pornography and prostitution, encouraged "welfare" racketeering, vastly increased Federal control and power, gravely diminished local and state control, protected the "rights" of criminals while weakening the rights and privileges of law-abiding citizens, and in a thousand ways "radically changed" much of the moral and social structure of the United States. The results which flowed from the Supreme Court decisions cannot be defended: the record, the statistics, the news accounts of moral and spiritual decay are all about us to see. Laws which were designed to restrain those who would destroy the ethical foundations of America were themselves destroyed by the "permissive" jurists, who again and again overturned the findings of lower judges, juries and courts.

However, in a whole series of recent decisions, the highest Court in the land has dramatically shifted back toward the center. Perhaps the best illustration was the ruling involving a Louisiana law which holds that an illegitimate child may not claim inheritance to the estate of the father ahead of other heirs. The Court refused to overturn the Louisiana law. Justice William J. Brennan Jr., writing for the minority, complained that the ruling upheld "the untenable and discredited moral prejudice of bygone centuries which vindictively punished the illegitimate's parents, but also the hopeless and innocent children."

Well - that may be; we're not about to judge whether the Louisiana statute is good or bad; but Justice Hugo L. Black, writing for the majority (which included Justices Warren Burger, Harry Blackmun, John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart.) simply declared that the Constitution does not give the Court the power to interfere with states' differing treatment of illegitimate children. Black further concluded that individual states, under the Constitution, have the right "to make rules to establish, protect, and strengthen family life."

This, of course, is what a great many of us ordinary citizens have been saying for a long time. Hopefully, the Supreme Court will continue to turn the power to govern back to the States and to the people.

IN YOUR LIFETIME

"We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime." That is the theme of the American Cancer Society's April Crusade. There are volumes behind those nine words. The trend in the medical attack on cancer gives reason for hope.

In the late thirties, for example, fewer than one in five cancer patients was being saved. The following decade it was one of four. And today one of three hit by cancer is saved.

With knowledge now available, sober medical and scientific opinion holds one of two cancer patients could be saved providing detection and treatment come in time.

The advances in the treatment of cancer have come from research and improvement of surgical and radiation therapy. In some instances, drugs have been effective against certain types of cancer.

But there can be little difference of opinion about what is needed for the final conquest of this ancient enemy of mankind. The scientific battles have to be broadened and stepped up. This means more money for brain power and manpower, more money for equipment and facilities.

When an ACS volunteer comes to your home in April, remember the goal: "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime."

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club By Mrs. Bailey Post

Few summer garden features are more impressive than a large bed of annuals. But with schedules so busy, and help so scarce, not many can maintain large flower beds. If your garden is small, you can make it colorful with containers filled with vivid annuals, graceful with trailing blossoms. Place a portable pot anywhere you want a splash of color, or move in planted pots in bloom to brighten a bed of evergreen or small plants.

Select annuals that will sparkle in sunny groups and will grow in relatively poor soil, such as, bush or trailing portulaca (moss), red and yellow gaillardia, poppies, petunia, verbena, gazanica and periwinkle. Creeping or dwarf zinnias grow well in poor or rich soil. Fertile soil in full sun produces good pink, white and crimson dianthus, yellow, orange and mahogany pygmy marigold.

Annual phlox in brilliant red, pink, purple white and lavender and pentas do well in full sun and adapt to broken shade. Nierembergia (cup flower) is a creeping plant that produces purple, blue or white flowers in full sun or partial shade.

Choose members of the shade-loving family for spots where the sun doesn't linger too long. The Sultanias are especially cheerful for afternoon shaded places and the always brilliant colors of caladiums last all summer.

Now is the time to get new plants from old geraniums. Rooting these cuttings from your winter houseplants is an easy way to increase your stock of plants for outdoor beds this summer. To do this, cut just below a small joint, three or four inches long.

Remove blooms, flower buds and lower leaves, leave only two or three top leaves. Remove stipules (little wings) that may be growing along the stems of the cuttings. Lightly dust the cut end of each stem with hydrated lime to discourage stem-end decay. Insert stem two or three inches into pot of moist, clean, and sharp builder's sand and firm sand around cutting. A sturdy root system should develop in three weeks. Keep all plants or flowers that may be flower show quality well watered and watch for insects that may damage them.

The Ozona Garden Club extends an invitation to non-members to enter specimens in any class in the Horticulture Division and two classes in the Design division. These classes to be listed with rules to be followed in another space. If any questions, call chairman of division listed.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

Cong. O. C. Fisher.

The conviction of Lt. Wm. Calley has raised serious questions about how criminal liability can occur while the accused is carrying out general combat orders.

While admittedly such orders do not give blanket authority for unjustified criminal acts, any accusation must be viewed and evaluated in the backdrop of dangers -- real or apparent -- and all the pressures and tensions that exist when such orders are being executed.

It is recognized the Lieutenant was acting under much stress, in a battle zone known to be extremely hostile. The village of My Lai had been used for weeks by enemy forces as a base from which bloody assaults had been launched against Americans. Snipers and booby traps were in abundance, and when our troops entered the village they were expecting hostile action from any concealed position. Under these circumstances it is understandable that shots were fired "at anything that moved." That was the name of the game.

Lt. Calley was convicted by a court-martial composed of four combat veterans, each of whom had himself faced enemy fire. It was the longest trial of its kind in American history. They heard exhaustive testimony from all known eyewitnesses.

These findings will now be considered by a succession of reviews, including the Commanding General and the Court of Military Appeals -- which is composed of civilian judges. After that, the action will be subject to review by the U. S. Army Court of Military Review. And any constitutional questions may be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Thus, we can be assured that every aspect of this case will be very thoroughly re-examined. As I see it now, I would say the odds are he will benefit from the appeals available to him, and it is not likely he will ever be imprisoned.

If all else fails, there will be the power of the President to pardon or grant clemency. But the President cannot act until available appeals and reviews have been concluded.

SENSING the NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan
 EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT
 Southern States Industrial Council

One of the distinctive features of the 1970's is an inward-turning attitude on the part of many Americans. On the lumatic fringe there is the phenomenon of the urban or rural commune where young people experiment in group living without formal ties or responsibilities. Strange new cults flourish in some of our major cities. The Manson trial in California lifted the lid on weird beliefs and practices in the midst of our modern society. Everywhere one sees cars and carryall buses with the word "love" printed on the sides, as though the painted symbol would effect an extraordinary transformation in people's lives. In many areas of national life one witnesses a retreat from or avoidance of reality.

This is not to say the United States hasn't had its share or cultists or eccentrics in the past. Groups such as the Shakers, a religious sect that believed in a primitive communism, established communal settlements in the 18th century. But such cults never gained a wide following. Today, the hippie style of life is established nationwide. Some of the cultists are what's known as weekend hippies, affluent people who dress up in hippie gear on Saturday and Sunday and return to a straight existence come Monday. Even so, one wonders what is the cause of this strange charade.

In New Orleans recently, I saw youthful panhandlers begging for "loose change." I was startled to hear one college-age girl ask -- in a no doubt unconscious echo of Depression days -- "mister, can you spare a dime." The irony is compounded by the fact that this girl -- or others like her -- may have a Daddy who sends her an allowance to live like a hippie in the urban enclaves formed by persons who have dropped out of the producing society.

Perhaps the hippie style of life is the ultimate luxury in an affluent society. In societies where a stern struggle for life is the rule, the hippie is unknown. Dressing in beads, Indian head bands and fringed leather clothes can be regarded as a form of conspicuous consumption.

Whatever the psychological motivation -- and the clothes indicate an inner dissatisfaction with reality, the United States can ill-afford continuing indulgence in the hippie outlook -- the inward-looking attitude in any form. The nation's foreign policy is in disarray today because a very large number of people, including U. S. senators, believe one has only to chant "peace, peace" and the problems of the country are solved. The liberties of the American people can't be maintained by thinking "peace" but by defending them when they are threatened.

Some people in our country today have the notion that they can be passive in the face of threats and still enjoy the blessings of freedom. If such people are unwilling to fight for their country or pay taxes for defense, they can expect their land to be overcome and their personal existence threatened in the most direct way. This is the lesson of history.

Today's peaceniks should ask themselves how their philosophy would have stopped Hitler and his Nazi legions. Certainly, peacenik attitudes only encourage aggression by the communist powers.

In terms of our domestic existence, the passive, inward-turning attitudes of today undermine the strength and well-being of the American people. The nation depends on active, responsible people. Cities need guardians around the clock -- policemen, firemen and hospital personnel. Strangely, the social drop-out expects some people -- key people in our society -- to continue on the job. They expect a doctor to be available to treat them if they are sick. They expect a fireman to answer an alarm. They expect Social Security and welfare checks to be delivered.

The working American has a right to expect that the drop-out element will be compelled to re-enter the mainstream of American life or be penalized. Working citizens can't be expected to carry the hippie elements on their back for years on end. There's no moral obligation on good citizens to subsidize or protect those people who won't accept any of the burdens or responsibilities of a person living in society.

In the past few years our country has gone on a binge of toleration insofar as irresponsible people are concerned. It is time to insist on a new measure of social discipline and respect for public authority. It is time to demand that those who want to look inward and avoid the realities be brought

After the bleakness of winter comes Spring. Fulfilling a promise of long ago, the seasons follow one another in divinely planned succession.

All around us we see evidence of evil, but the Church gives positive assurance that God is ever present. As Spring brings new life, so does the Church.

Consider the daffodil—its freshness and beauty speak of hope. Consider the Church—its steadfast faith strengthens mankind. God creates daffodils, but intelligent cultivation makes them even more beautiful. Likewise, He depends on us to spread the influence of the Church and to make a better world.

Accept this tremendous challenge and become a part of God's Church today.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company

"R. J. Brownlee — Manager"

The name of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., in San Angelo, located at 300 W. Beauregard, phone 653-6888, has become a popular byword in the area for farmers, businessmen, and drivers in general for their friendly service and excellent line of the popular high quality Goodyear tires.

We all know that worn tires can be extremely dangerous, but sometimes the cost of buying new tires can make us put off taking the steps of retiring our car or truck. Don't let that factor bother you anymore. The management at this well liked tire store has made arrangements for easy budget terms for tire purchases.

Along with their fine line reasonably priced tires, you'll not find a more friendly and honest firm to do business. Everyone in their employ is fully trained in selecting just the right tire to do the job, and they also make sure that when it is mounted it will be in perfect balance.

In this 1971 Town and Country Review, we, the authors, are pleased to recommend this tire dealer to all of our readers, and commend the management for continued efforts to serve the people of this section to the best of their ability. Remember the name, the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, for all your tire needs.
