DEMONSTRATION AGENT NAMED FOR HOUSTON COUNTY

Miss Ney Barnett of Kilgore was appointed home demonstration agent for Houston county by the commissioners' court, her work beginning the fifth.

The home demonstration work as well as the farm demonstration work has been made possible by the United States Department of Agriculture, the A. & M. College and the Commissioners' Court of the county. The home demonstration agent is located at present in the ladies' rest room and will work out of Crockett into the different communities.

Clubs will be organized in the various communities of the county and work will be given in gardening and poultry, these two being counted the productive phases of the work. Home work will include cooking, canning, sewing and various ways of making the home beautiful.

The big aim of this work is to make "home-making" and home life more pleasant for the girls, and at the same time furnish some means of making some money of their own," as the selling of poultry, its products, fresh or canned fruits and vegetables.

Miss Barnett's work will be continued through the twelve months of the year. During the school sessions, the clubs' meetings will be at the schools and the cooking work under the same direction. The spring will be devoted mostly to gardening and poultry raising while the summer months will be devoted to canning.

Work will be given to the women of the communities in the county in which there is interest and need, and where desired clubs will also be organized with a program to meet the needs and interest.

Miss Sallie F. Hill, the district agent from A. & M. College, will visit Houston county often and assist Miss Barnett in the extension work over the county. Miss Barnett will be in her office each Saturday and will be available to those who desire her services.

Negro Killing.

Melcy Randolph, a negro 21 years old, was shot and killed by Baker Dickson, a negro 18 years of age, on the San Antonio road about four miles from Crockett Friday night. The Courier's information is that the young negroes met in the road, Dickson riding in an automobile and carrying a shotgun and Randolph walking. Dickson stopped his car, got out with his shotgun and got into a scuffle with Randolph. In the scuffle to get possession of the gun, Randolph was shot in the thigh at close range, but lived for several hours before dying from loss of blood. Dickson put Randolph in his car and brought him to Crockett for treatment, but he died soon after reaching the doctor's office. Dickson's father came in and had his son delivered into the hands of the officers. He was in jail the first of this week.

FLOOD CONTROL OF THE TRINITY RIVER

Editor Courier:

Realizing the deep interest of yourself and the citizenship of your community in all matters relating to control of the floods of the Trinity river, I am handing you herewith copy of measure, H. R. 12413, recently introduced by me in congress providing for a flood control survey of the Trinity river. I have asked for an early hearing upon the measure before the house committee on flood control, to which the bill has been referred.

With best wishes, I am, sincerely yours,

Clay Stone Briggs.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
August 23, 1922,
Mr. Briggs introduced the following bill, which was referred to the committee on flood control and ordered to be printed:
A BILL providing for a survey of the Trinity river, Texas, with a view to the control of its floods.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to cause a survey to be made of the Trinity River, Texas, with a view to the control of its floods, in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the control of the floods of the Mississippi River and the Sacramento River, California, and for other purposes," approved March 1, 1917.

To the Voters of Houston County.

I take this means of thanking you for the splendid vote you gave me in the recent primary, and assure you, that even though I was defeated by the small majority of twenty-one votes, that I have no ill feeling toward any one, not even my opponent, Mr. Robison, as we both made a clean race, and trust that I am not acting hasty in announcing my intentions to run for the office of county treasurer two years hence, and ask that you keep me in mind as a candidate for this office and at the proper time help me over the top. I am,

Gratefully and sincerely yours,
Frank H. Butler.

PRIMARY ELECTION RETURNS CANVASSED

As required by law, the county democratic executive committee met last Saturday, September 2, 1922, and canvassed the returns of the primary held throughout the county on August 26, 1922, and as a result the following candidates were declared the nominees for the offices named:

For Representative 30th Legislative District, Chas. C. Rice.
For Tax Collector, John L. Dean.

For County Treasurer, Willie Robison.

For County Superintendent of Public Instruction, Mrs. Gertie Sallas.

For County Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, E. W. Hart.

For County Commissioner of Precinct No. 4, J. A. Beathard.

For Public Weigher of Precinct No. 4, T. W. Crowson.

For Public Weigher of Precinct No. 5, Virgil Musick.

For Justice of the Peace of Precinct No. 4, Johnnie W. Monzingo.

In commissioner's precinct No. 3, a contest was filed before the committee by Karl Leediker against Ed. C. Thompson, the latter having a majority of one on the face of the returns, and the committee declared the said Thompson the nominee subject to the contest, which the committee set down for hearing on Monday, September 11, 1922, at 10 o'clock A. M., the same to be held at the court house in Crockett. The contestant and the contestee and their attorneys will be expected to be on hand promptly at the time and place named, with such witnesses, if any, as they expect to use, so that the matter may be heard and disposed of as quickly as possible. The parties and their attorneys were given authority by the committee to examine any of the returns from the commissioner's precinct in question, this to be done in the presence of the county clerk and all papers to be left in his care, it being understood that in no case were any of the ballot boxes to be opened unless the committee should do so at the hearing.

On motion the committee adjourned, to meet again at the said hearing, when it is urged that a full committee be present.

County Chairman.

Mrs. Wylie Harkins DuPuy.

Mrs. Wylie Harkins DuPuy, wife of the lamented M. C. DuPuy, died at her home at Kennard Monday afternoon at the age of 66 years. Mrs. DuPuy had been in failing health for some time.

If Mrs. DuPuy was not a native of Houston county, she came to this county when very young. She was a member of the Harkins family, one of the oldest families in the eastern part of this county. She was married many years ago to Mr. M. C. DuPuy, who preceded her in death several years. She leaves two children—a son, W. C. DuPuy of Kennard, and a daughter, Elizabeth, now Mrs. Lacy Murray of Kennard. Her children were with her at the time of her death.

Mrs. DuPuy was a faithful and long-time member of the Presbyterian church. She was a good woman in every respect—a faithful wife, a dutiful and loving mother, a charitable and thoughtful neighbor—a devout Christian. She will be greatly missed in the community in which she had spent the most of her life, excepting a few years' residence in Crockett and San Antonio.

The remains were laid to rest near those of the departed husband in the cemetery near old Coltharp Tuesday afternoon. The religious ceremony was conducted of the family residence by Rev. Mr. Allred, the Kennard local minister. Mr. Callaway, the undertaker, had charge of the funeral.

The Courier joins in extending condolence to the bereaved.

THE ESSENTIALS IN TOWN BUILDING.

What are essentials in the building of a town? One will say people. One will say a good country. Another will say wealth. An still another will say the converting of natural resources into wealth. And some will say transportation facilities. The answers are often confusing and mean nothing. At the bottom of all prosperity is agriculture, but agriculture alone will not build a city. In order to build a city there must be some concrete foundation. Railroad shops where many laborers are employed at good wages will build a town. Factories that manufacture raw products into finished material create wealth, and, therefore, build cities. Then we would say that in order to build a city there must necessarily be men earning money. The more money earned the larger will be the town, and the more opportunities for earning money the more people there will be to earn it. For instance, a cotton mill calls for a certain number of men, women and children to run it. They create wealth and distribute it among all the people. Two cotton mills would double the population of wealth producers, and on and on a town will build as more people are engaged in the production of wealth. One of the Senators from Connecticut stated not long ago in a speech in the Senate that the value of the products of the factories of his State amounted to more money annually than all the wheat produced in the United States.

Agriculture alone will not build cities. It cannot do it under our economic programme. In the first place the profits are too small. The markets in a country where there are no factories are too far away. The transportation from farm to factory is too costly. But bring the factories to the farms and transportation is eliminated. It costs almost nothing to haul fruits and vegetables from the fields and orchards to the market when the factories are just across the fence. Nothing stimulates agriculture like placing the consumers of agricultural products just across the fence. Good prices and sure markets are the life of agriculture. But as long as the factories and markets are many miles from the farms agriculture will stagnate and fail to encourage farming. All these things are so plain that one of little economic sense can see it. One had as well attempt to lift himself out of a mud hole by his own boot straps as to make a town grow and prosper by swapping goods manufactured hundreds of miles away for the raw material. Sensible men will not try it, but will, instead, find a way out by resorting to methods founded on economic principles that wisdom and experience have proven to be as true as truth itself.

GET TOGETHER.

The way to build up a town is to build up the country round-about, and the way to build up the country round-about is for the town people and what country people we have to get together and put up a cotton mill. Take the experience of the world and mix it in with a little common sense, and the man of average sense will readily come to but one conclusion about how to make a town in Eastern Texas. The railroads have made all the towns in this country that they can make.

The timber has never made the country prosperous, and besides it is rapidly being consumed. It is not too late, however, to convert what is left into finished material. The only thing in the world that is about us is agriculture. Put that down. And pray tell us what is being done to make agriculture more profitable? To bring in more cotton farmers would be to increase the competition that already exists between the farmers that are here. The production of more cotton than we are now producing by new comers would not add anything to the wealth of the farmers already here. If we could persuade a few hundred berry farmers, or dairy farmers, or fruit farmers to come here and go into the business in the right way the town and the country would be benefited. But any addition to the cotton raisers here or elsewhere is a positive injury to the whole country. Because the facts show that the small cotton crops of the South have brought more clear cash to the South than the big crops. We are everlastingly opposed to any more cotton raisers, big or little. It is that very thing of cotton raising which has driven from the farm and is continually driving from the farm every proud, ambitious boy and girl in the country.

ARMAGEDDON IS NEAR.

It is predicted that the State Convention of the Democratic party to assemble at San Antonio is going to have a fight such as has not been seen in Texas during the last quarter of a hundred years. Gen. M. M. Crane, the Dallas News, and several other gentlemen will march upon the K. K. K's. with machine guns, mustard gas and airships to the battle of Armageddon, which will be fought near the old Alamo, and what the Mexicans did to Travis and his men some several years ago was a tame affair compared to what is coming off at the convention, politically speaking. And they do say that a split worse than what happened at the Car Stable will take place, and the Ku Klux Klan will go one way and the Dallas News and its constituents will go another way. And there will be voices, and thunders, and lightnings, which men have not heard since Democrats were upon the earth, so mighty and so great will be the split. And there will be upon the earth great bonfires, blazing crosses high up in the heavens, processions with no ends to them from behind nor to the front, mighty voices singing, "Onward, Christian Brethren, Onward," and great jubilees will take place in the earth, and the lamb and the lion will not lie down together, neither will there be any peace in the land for yet awhile, for the Dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, or it may be translated to mean the Republican party, will reign a thousand years. We Democrats are entering upon times that are pregnant with sorrow and great tribulations. No doubt about it.

Bachelor of Arts Degree.

It is announced that she has accepted a position as teacher of Latin in the Henderson High School for next year.

In the graduating classes at the Normal College this summer were thirty who received bachelor's degrees and 125 who received the diploma with permanent certificate, representing the completion of two years of college work. Houston county was represented in the large school of the College by five students: Mr. J. M. Young of Augusta; Miss Adams of Crockett; Miss Clara Lee Anderson, daughter of B. C. Anderson of Grapeland; Mr. W. B. Daniel and Mrs. Ola Daniel of Kennard. Miss Annie Inez Jones of Denton, formerly of Crockett, served as assistant librarian during the summer,

A BRAN pudding, termed by those to whom it was served as "simply delicious," has been evolved by Francois Schmitt, pastry chef of the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York. Here it is:

Four heaping teaspoonfuls bran, one tablespoonful flour, one-half tablespoonful corn starch, four eggs, three tablespoonfuls sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half pint milk.

Chop up butter with flour, corn starch, bran and half of the sugar and add to boiling milk; stir well on fire for about one minute, take off, mix in the four yolks. At last add the four whites beaten stiff with rest of sugar. Pour in well buttered and sugared form and set in pan with a little water in bottom and bake in medium oven for about thirty minutes.

Serve with apricot sauce made as follows: Put contents of one small can of apricots through a sieve, add one-half pound of sugar and let boil for about five minutes.

THRIFTY NEGROES GRAVELLING AGAIN

As a result of the last meeting of Mt. Zion Community Council, in which Hon. Nat Patton, county judge; Hon. C. M. Butler, ex-tax collector; Hon. Ross Murchison, county commissioner, and Hon. Henry Daily, merchant and financier of Grapeland, Texas, participated and made interesting, timely and profitable speeches, Tuesday, August 22, was set aside as graveling day for the negroes of Mt. Zion, Cedar Branch and Daily communities.

The day proved to be the most profitable, in a cooperative way, of any yet designated by the negro county demonstrator, J. W. Hogg.

Fifty-four negroes with wagons, forty negroes additional to load and unload, met on the Daily and Grapeland public road, two miles west of Grapeland, early Tuesday, August 22, and freely gave their best service to make living conditions better by laying and graveling fully 500 yards of the bad road on the two-mile hill of the Daily and Grapeland road.

Words are inadequate for me to say how agreeably surprised we were, and how much we really ate.

The following white citizens came out, inspected the work and witnessed the dinner; Messrs. D. N. Leaverton, Geo. Darsey, John A. Davis, J. D. Lawrence, Ross Murchison, Jack Beazley, Frank Leaverton, B. R. Eaves, Henry Daily and Claud Keelan. The whites had me to know that, if necessary, they will make sworn statements that we not only worked hard, but each did his individual big share in putting away all of the good things they brought us for dinner. That dinner will be long remembered and in fact never forgotten.

The following negroes were public spirited and big enough to freely help make conditions better for themselves and the public generally by bringing their wagons or working as loaders:

Every one went away feeling that several hundred dollars of service had been added to that road and, too, glad they were present to do their share in improving the public highway and establishing the fact, to our worthy white leaders, that we stand ready to help at any time and in any reasonable way to add more conveniences to our living existence and to promote the peace and happiness of our county, state and nation.

THE NATION'S GREATEST ADVERTISERS.

The extent to which makers of nationally known products put their trust in advertising is revealed in a list of the fifty leading American advertisers in thirty-six publications, which has recently been compiled by the Curtis Publishing company, for the year 1921.

Not one of the fifty firms spent less than $250,000 in the publications named. From $264,000 the expenditures of the various concerns ranged up to $1,316,095. Three firms went well beyond the one-million-dollar mark in their advertising budgets for the year in those thirty-six publications. Thirteen spent more than $500,000, and less than $1,000,000, and twenty-seven spent more than $300,000 and less than $500,000.

A perusal of the list is interesting to the average American reader of magazines and newspapers for the reason that virtually every name included is familiar to him. The average American can name instantly what each of the firms listed manufactures or distributes. Their names and the names of their products are household words throughout the nation. They got that way through advertising.

cigarettes

They are GOOD! 10¢

The proposition that judicious advertising is profitable could receive no stronger indorsement than is found in these huge expenditures by firms recognized as the most successful in the country. The fact that they are spending many millions annually in advertising testifies to the value of advertising as a vital factor in modern salesmanship.

Business interests that crave success surely will find it profitable to study the advertising methods of these great firms, and emulate their example. What advertising is doing for them, advertising rightly placed will do for the small business man in proportion to expenditures made.—Houston Post.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Houston County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon G. W. Benedict and wife, Mrs. G. W. Benedict, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Houston County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Crockett, Texas, on the 2nd Monday in October, A. D. 1922, the same being the 9th day of October, A. D. 1922, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 4th day of September, A. D. 1922, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 6015, wherein T. W. Thompson is Plaintiff, and G. W. Benedict and wife, Mrs. G. W. Benedict, are Defendants and the cause of action being alleged as follows:

That plaintiff was on January 1st, 1922, in the peaceable possession of that certain tract or parcel of land, situated in Houston County, Texas, consisting of 82 acres of land, the J. H. Griffin survey, fully described in deed from O. W. Davis to G. W. Benedict of record in Book 100 page 143 of the Houston County, Texas, deed records, to which reference is made for a particular description of said land, as well as to plaintiff's petition filed in this cause; that on said last named date the said defendants entered upon said premises and ejected the plaintiff therefrom, and have ever since withheld the possession thereof from plaintiff to his damage in the sum of $650.00, and that the reasonable rental value of said land is $250.00.

That plaintiff is the owner of four notes for $120.00 each, dated December 1st, 1917, due respectively on December 1st, 1918, 1919, 1920, and 1921, executed by J. I. McCarter for said land, secured by the vendor's lien thereon in deed from J. V. Marsh and wife to said McCarter; that B. E. Vickery bought said land from J. I. McCarter and assumed the payment of said notes, then sold said land to O. W. Davis who assumed the payment thereof, and said O. W. Davis sold said land to G. W. Benedict who assumed the payment thereof; that said notes have been duly sold and conveyed to plaintiff, and no part thereof except the interest to December 1st, 1919, and $28.00 paid January 1st, 1921, said notes attached to plaintiff's petition.

Plaintiff sues for the title and possession of said land, and prays in the alternative for the amount due on said notes, interest, attorneys fees, costs, and on said land.

Herein Fail Not, and have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given Under My Hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Crockett, Texas, this the 4th day of September, A. D. 1922. (Seal) V. B. Tunstall, Clerk, District Court, Houston County. 4t. By J. B. Stanton, Deputy.

INCREASE IN TAX RATE.

The state tax rate has been advanced to 75 cents on the $100 valuation.

It is the direct result of a gradual change in our public policies, fellow citizens.

We say that we want a first-class university; we must be prepared to pay.

We say that we want the rural schools run nine months in the year, with compulsory school attendance; we must be prepared to pay.

We say that we want a rigid enforcement of all the laws, some of them of recent origin; we must be prepared to pay.

We can't build and equip and maintain great institutions unless we are prepared to cough up the dough.

If we want the government to perform tasks that properly belong to ourselves, we must dig up for the support of the government while it is performing these arduous tasks.

It is an old saying that those who dance must pay the fiddler, and that's the long and short of this tax rate increase.—Waco Times-Herald.

I. & G. N. Reorganization Plan Before Commerce Commission.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Approval of the interstate commerce commission is sought for the financial plans in the reorganization of the International & Great Northern Railway, submitted today.

The reorganization company is to be known as the "International-Great Northern Railroad Company," with a charter under the laws of Texas, completed as a result of the foreclosure sale held June 28 and approved by the federal court at Houston August 8.

The commission is asked to approve security issues amounting to $45,000,000 for the purpose of discharging certain obligations and acquiring the existing property. This involves $20,000,000 in first mortgage thirty-three year 6 per cent gold bonds, $7,500,000 common stock of par value of $100 per share, and $2,000,000 in 6 per cent notes maturing March 1, 1920, for payment to the director general of railways, growing out of transactions between the receiver and the federal government.

The principal office is to be in Houston, with Walter F. Woodall, president; Richard E. Williams, secretary, and Delmer A. King, general solicitor. New York offices are also listed.

BACK TO ROYALTY ALEXIS WON OUT

Egyptian King the "Patron Saint" of Suspenders.

Modern Man Must Concede That He Owes Much to Monarch of Many Centuries Ago.

Perhaps if suspenders could be said to rise to the dignity of a "patron saint," old King Nar-Mer, of the earliest dynasty of ancient Egypt, would be the logical candidate for the job. He beamed the first of the series of what we know as the dynastic kingdoms of Egypt more than 5,000 years ago. Nar-Mer is undoubtedly the first royal patron of suspenders, as testified plainly by his delineation wearing the article, found on a slate palette dug up in the ruins of Hierakonopolis late in the last century. His lone suspender, however, differed from the present models.

Perhaps his royal ribs would be glad for old associations' sake to know suspenders are "coming back" after pretty nearly losing their grip on that part of the public who wear trousers. But, though Fashion may have rung the gong on suspenders some years ago, the fickle old dame has done a reverse now, according to the haberdashers' reports. These purveyors of all the latest in ladda gents' furnishings say that their sales are steadily increasing wherever suspenders have been put on display.

The very latest styles from London (where our styles in pan—beg pardon, trousers—are born, doncherno) prescribe cuffless trousers to a very large extent. And as we male molds of form know but too well, cuffless pants are the very deuce to hang badly without the aid of suspenders. They're quite as unsatisfactory in most cases as going to a dance in evening clothes without the aid of braces. And of all the uneasy feelings ever inflicted on man by the uncertainties of dress dependability, this torture is maybe the worst. For if his trousers should slip—good night! Also, good night, style! Of what availed custom-made trousers fashioned by the highest art of super-tailors—if the darn things don't look right? And nine out of ten of the cuffless kind don't, unless galluses are attached to give 'em the absolutely necessary proper pitch and hang.

But a whole lot of nice things can be said favoring the return of suspenders, besides the above. They are the fat man's friend and the thin man's ally.—Philadelphia Ledger.

May Set in Abyssinia.

British Consul General Gerald Campbell told about his experiences in Abyssinia at a lecture recently. Although it is a land rich in archaeological material, he said, the world could not avail itself of the aid this would be in illuminating many doubtful pages of early Christian history because the Abyssinians would permit no one to make excavations there.

The queen of Abyssinia says she is a direct descendant of the queen of Sheba and King Solomon.

Abyssinians consider themselves very highly civilized, the lecturer said. Their laws are based on the Justinian code, which might be all right, he continued, if it were not for the betting that goes on and with legal sanction. Judges are sometimes called upon to settle a wager, and as they are sometimes the recipients of the stakes, their interest in such cases is keen.

Another crude form of justice is the habit of chaining plaintiff and defendant together while the trial goes on.

A Barberic Tale.

Dad is head of the English department of a university. Before leaving for our summer-cottage at the coast we were both barbered, as our island boasts no such shop.

On returning three months later mother said we should leave, not on Saturday, as planned, but on Sunday, so that we could be trimmed up in the city on Monday before the long railroad journey back to the college town.

So we reached the city early Monday morning to find no barber working! Labor day! Two days and three nights by train with a summer's growth!

As we neared home who should board the train but a bevy of girls of my class! I'm Paderewski about college now.—Chicago Tribune.

Did the Birds Know?

Many beautiful birds are now becoming so scarce in Australia that the Queensland government has recently turned Brylie island into a bird sanctuary. Hardly a bird was to be seen on Brylie island before, but now it is crowded with parrots, parrakeets, doves, blue cranes, quails, peewits and all kinds of other birds, which make the island a wonderful sight. The transformation of the island took place in the course of a few weeks and Queenslanders are wondering how so many different kinds of birds came to know of this refuge in so short a time.

Complete Victory Credited to Russian Wolfhound.

Moral is, That to Muffle Howling Dog, Get One That is Capable of Doing Worse.

"Every commuter is stuck up about something," said Mr. Jones to the members of the Commuters' club, which meets each evening on the 4:58. "Sometimes it is due to his ability to raise a particular vegetable to perfection or an intellectual superiority that enables him to hatch twelve chicks from twelve eggs; however, if you are looking for the real sensation in this line, you must hunt up the commuter who is stuck up about a dog," observes a writer in the New York Sun.

"When I moved into my present home I was discouraged to learn that I had a neighbor of this description. To make matters worse the dog howled at night. As a protective measure I offered to buy the brute.

"What? Sell Nightingale?" said he. "Well I should hope not! What you are discourteous enough to call howling is only a delicate piece of sound painting. This is the only way the creature has of expressing certain emotions. You must learn to interpret these."

"Two weeks later I was consulting Doctor Rush about my impending nervous breakdown. When I mentioned the cause his face assumed a look of relief.

"This looks like a case for Alexis," said he. "You must take him home with you."

"Who or what is Alexis?" I demanded.

"Alexis is the champion counter-irritant of the world," he explained. "A Russian wolfhound, whose voice would shame a hyena. He has just come from a case—a poor fellow living next door to a man who has four singing daughters in the family."

"A great light dawned upon me. Let me have him," I said.

"At about 9 that night my neighbor's dog broke out in a vocal performance containing some tones which I had never heard excelled, even by the worst amateurs. Alexis pricked up his ears and growled in contempt. Uttering a few notes of the best quality of basso profundo, he gathered force as he went. Gradually dropping a full octave below the opening note he burst forth into an inferno. Hales seemed to have opened up and its inhabitants were chasing each other through the trees. Right in the middle of a bar that threatened to rend his very diaphragm his voice was suddenly extinguished. My neighbor had thrown his dining room rug over the creature.

"I have been trying to tell you," said he, "that I intend to send my dog away. What do you intend to do with yours?"

"The same," said I.

Tank Cars to Carry Milk.

Tank cars for oil are a common sight, but tank cars for milk are something distinctly new. The first installation of this kind was made recently for a large dairy in Pittsburgh, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Two 2,500-gallon steel tanks are mounted on each car. These tanks are of heavy welded plate steel, with a glass lining, and are insulated with cork. Fused into the metal at extreme heat, the glass forms a smooth surface, which is easily cleaned and will stand severe usage. Inside each tank is a motor-driven agitator. Run for five minutes before emptying the tank. It gives uniformity to the contents.

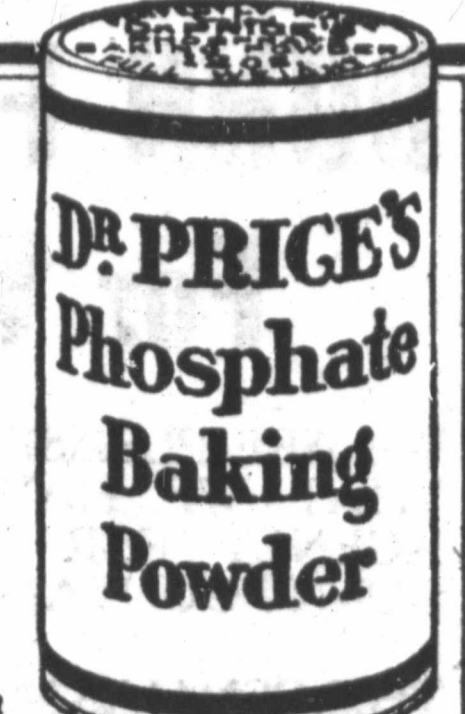

Milk chilled to a temperature of 38 to 40 degrees is maintained at that temperature in the tanks without further refrigeration. Similar tanks are mounted on wagons and motortrucks for hauling the milk from the railroad to the dairy or collecting it along country roads.

New Check on Criminals.

As if the way of the transgressor were not hard enough already, Doctor Locard, a worldwide authority on criminal identification, has elaborated two new plans which seem to have been received with favor in the French criminal courts. In "poroscopy," Doctor Locard considers the number, form and position of body pores remain the same throughout all one's life. The impression of the pores, in his system, is colored by chemical vapors or very fine powders so that they may be photographed with the aid of a microscope. Graphometry consists in the theory that handwriting shows always a certain relation in size between letters and unmistakable characteristics in form, particularly of loops.—Scientific American.

His Weak Point.
"Mr. Wadsworth is such a strong, self-willed man I should think he'd be impervious to criticism."

"No."
"Disparage his game of golf and you'd break his heart."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Color Revived.
If magenta is to be the new fashionable color, it will be the return to favor of the crimson-purple over which Europe went mad 60 years ago, observes a correspondent. It is dated by its name, for in 1859 the French and Piedmontese under Napoleon defeated the Austrians among the rice-fields and vineyards of Magenta, near Milan. A crimson-purple aniline dye being discovered about the time, it was named after the famous victory, which everybody has now forgotten, though the color is to be revived. Magenta was then the very acme of beauty. But its glory soon faded, and Charles Reade, the novelist, wrote of his villain, "He wore a magenta tie that gave Zoe a pain in the eye," while Barrie in "Margaret Ogilvy" epitomized the age of a heroine in the fact that she wore a magenta frock.

Women in British Commons.
Lady Astor no longer occupies the proud position of being the only woman member of the British house of commons, for Mrs. Wintringham, who was elected to succeed her husband in the representation of Louth, has taken her seat. They differ in this important political respect—while Lady Astor is a devoted follower of the coalition, Mrs. Wintringham is one of the Free Liberals, who acknowledge the lead of Mr. Asquith. The two women members share the same private room at the house; they dress alike in plain dark workaday clothes; but their seats in the house are not together. Lady Astor sits in the second row immediately behind Lord Robert Cecil; Mrs. Wintringham sits two rows farther behind.—Christian Science Monitor.

The Benefit of the Doubt.

"She weighs around 200 pounds. 'Rabbit?' Ha."
"The professor lives in the past. In prehistoric times rabbits may have reached that size."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Not Such a Bad Mistake.
A farmer applied for $1,000 insurance on corn that had been stored in his barn. The application was made out as the farmer instructed. Through a clerical error the policy as returned read: "$1,000 on coal and other fuels when stored in building used as a private barn."
