Little Breeches.
 The varied and vivacious Chicago Tribune having published a paragraph of some rather humorous import concerning a masculine disguise which a certain female compositor in that city had seen fit to affect, its city editor was recently called upon by the equivocating young lady herself, who, in justification of that which had been imputed to her, gave the following sketch of her life: "In 1867, being compelled to work her own way through the world, she left her native village in New England for the West, and pausing first in Cleveland Ohio, undertook to sustain herself there by needle-work. A few humane families gave her what employment they could command; but as this yielded only a wretched pittance, there was a necessity that she should seek some other source of income. For a year thereafter she applied herself to the acquisition of typographical art in a printing office; and then finding herself competent to "strike out" for herself, went to a country town in Michigan, where female compositors were employed, and obtained work on the local newspaper. There, again, her earnings were not satisfactory, and, repairing thence to Chicago, she entered fairly into the larger world of typographical vicissitudes. At first gaining $15 a week in a book-printing establishment, then doing not so well in a daily and a weekly paper office successively, she started, about a year ago, for St. Louis, where was an office promising better pay than she had yet received. Once more, however, her ill-fortune overtook her. After only a brief turn of prosperity in St. Louis, she was thrown out of employment, and from thence ensued such exhaustion of her little stock of money as soon reduced her to actual distress. For a time she thought of resigning all ambitious schemes of life at once, and entering some family as a servant; but, even upon the verge of this step, it occurred to her to try whether it had been her incapacity or her sex which had wrought so disastrously against her. To make this trial, she pawned all that was left of her more luxurious feminine wardrobe, applied the pecuniary proceeds thereof to the purchase of a masculine outfit, and, in the appearance of a sprightly, handsome young lad, made renewed overtures for employment. Now, according to her story, she encountered no difficulty at all in finding and retaining work, was rewarded with a man's wages, and, after earning enough to take her thither, returning to Chicago in August last, and readily obtained an engagement in the office of a daily paper. Elated by this success, and miserably fearful that her sex would be discovered before she had accumulated a sufficient sum of money to procure a new feminine wardrobe and then pay her fare back to her native New England, she spared no pains or ingenuity to perfect the delusion so precious to her. Buying a razor she shaved her upper lip day after day, hoping, but in vain, to develop thereby some appearance of a moustache. In prosecution of similar masculine identification she learned to and did smoke a pipe, and was ever ready to propitiate her fellow-workmen with cigars and small loans of money. Finally, however, one of the printers, who had long suspected the truth in the case, gave the brave girl to understand that her disguise was not perfect, and having persuaded her to take board in the family of his mother and sister, eventually induced a full confession. And now, in the proper garments of her sex once more, and probably under an engagement of marriage, the late "little breeches" of the Chicago composing room gives her true story, as above, to the press before coming on a visit to her family at the East.
 Humboldt Kansas, claims to have the champion nailer of the world, in the person of Albert Minor, a leather by trade, and a son of Vermont. Minor can drive more nails in one day than any other living man. He will drive nails faster than the fastest compositor can pick up type. He will drive sixty lath nails a minute, ten hours out of the twenty-four, the year through.
 A letter was lately dropped into the post office at Niatragas Falls directed to "Schichagongh, Lithuania."

The Valley of Onions.
 The valley of the Rio Grande well deserves to be called that; on account of its immense, silvery, sweet onions, unequalled in the world. The river bottoms vary from a half of a mile to three miles in width, bordered with sloping deserts of gravel, and are of a copperish reddish color, inexhaustibly fertile, but requiring to be irrigated. There are occasionally groves of vast spreading cotton-woods near the river, and thickets of the screw pod mesquit, together with plenty of common mesquit out on the desert, furnishing beans for the goats, but there is almost no grass.
 Up about El Paso it is wonderful how thick the Mexicans live on these mere slices of bottom lands, and their faces are all plump and shiny, showing good living. El Paso is nearly seven miles long, but principally on very straggling streets. Pear trees grow to an enormous size, but the fruit is small and pucky; likewise apples. But the wheat and onions make up for every thing else. They also produce wine from the black Sacorro grapes, which is quite palatable, but heady.
 But that which continually astonished me was the multitude of inhabitants in these long straggling villages. They could not all possibly live on the products of these mere strips of bottoms, cultivated in their miserably shiftless manner, if it were not for their goats.
 When a railroad is put through here, and men come into the possession of these river lands along the Rio Grande, (for they are always certain of a supply of water for irrigation; and above El Paso, in New Mexico, they are broader,) they will support a dense population.
 And even these broad borders of desert between them and the sierras, useless as they now seem, will support many thousands of sheep, or better still, Angora goats. The mesquit beans keep on growing and ripening nearly all summer, yielding a rich, sweetish pulp like cider pumice, and when they ripen they are oily, and are ground up by the Indians and made into panada.
 A species of Incrue called alpaca can be mown four or five times in one year, and is very fattening for cattle. An American on these Rio Grande bottoms sold $1,300 from a single acre of this grass during one season, supplying a stage line.—Civilian.
 Carpet baggers brought nothing to Texas with them but their carpet sacks full of dirty clothes, and a covetous heart overflowing with malice against the Southern people, whose property they expected to appropriate. The slightest remonstrance by the people against losing their property or privileges, is enough to bring down upon them the maledictions of this infernal crew. Tracy is a carpet-bagger.—Cleburne Chronicle.
 Mr. Tracy came to this State fifteen years ago, and has been a hard working man all the time. Your carpet-bagger, Conner, never was in Texas except when he came to free your negroes, or get your votes for Congress. Texas Democracy is over-run with the carpet-baggers who left other States with negroes, horses, money, women and other things not their own. "What did you run away for?" used to be addressed to the present leaders of the Democracy when they got to Texas. Will you have more?—Houston Union.
 "Wal, I guess there's a row over to our house." "What on airth's the matter, you little sarpin!" "Why, dad's got drunk, mother's washing, the old cow has got a calf, Sal's got married, and run away with the spoons; Seth has swallowed a pin, and Louis looked at the Aurora Borax till he's got the delirious triangles. That ain't all, nuther." "What else, upon airth?" "Why, Rose spilt the batter pot and broke all the pancakes, and one o' the Maltese kittens has got her head into the molasses cup, and can't get it out, and, oh, how hungry I am!"
 As soon as the Congressional chaplain closes his appeal to the Throne of Grace there is a clapping of hands all over the floor. It is the way the members have of calling pages to their side. Every Congressman begins his day's laber by giving an order to a messenger; hence the clapping is universal and uproarious. "Well, that beats me," said an elderly gentleman in the gallery, with mud on his boots which looked as though it had been brought from the other side of the Potomac: "I didn't see anything in that prayer worth cheering!"

WONDERFUL CLOCK.—A Philadelphia has invented a clock that will measure the one-thousandth part of a second. The clock is described as a wonderful affair. The dialplate, which is sixteen inches in diameter, is separated into 5000 parts, and the indicator revolves twice every second. The clock is set upon a table beneath which the pendulum revolves, and the intricacy of the affair may be imagined when the statement is made that the entire works can be placed in a small cigar-box. The government ordinance officers have accepted the instrument for the purpose of measuring the velocity of projectiles.
 THE freehold of White's Club House, St. James street, London, was recently sold for $230,000. White's was the oldest and most exclusive club in London, dating back to the time of Addison and Steele.
 AT Baton Rouge, La., a pretended woman calling herself Louise Perrayer, and who has resided there for a number of years, has proved to be a man. He is supposed to have taken the disguise during the days of the rebel conscription to avoid being forced in to the army.

TESTIMONIALS.
 From Genl. C. Scott's "Report of Fashion"
 Residing at the fountain-head of American Filippines, and knowing the interests of the following business from many years' experience, we most unhesitatingly pronounce the Shuttle Machine the most perfect and powerful of any of its class.
 I have used the Grover & Baker Shuttle Machine No. 1, and find it admirably adapted to our business. It runs tight, makes few noise, and is in every way preferable to the Singer Machine for either light or heavy manufacturing.
 JOSEPH SCOTT,
 Manufacturer of Clothing,
 No. 269 Broadway, New York.
 I am the fortunate possessor of one of your new Shuttle Machines, which you designate as No. 1. I have used many different machines in my business during the past eight years, and it gives me great pleasure in asserting that this machine is far superior in all points to any that I have ever used. I want no better.
SEBASTIAN BLOCH, Boot and Shoe Maker,
 124 South 4th Street, St. Louis Mo.
 Having used the different kinds of Sewing Machines in the market, including Leavitt's, Singer's and Ely's, I have finally adopted your No. 1 Grover & Baker Machine; and having used it the past two years, can truthfully say it proves to be the best machine, and superior to any we have had.—

The Daily Express

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE UNITED STATES. OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF BEXAR COUNTY AND CITY OF SAN ANTONIO.

A. SIEMERING & CO., Publishers. STANLEY WELCH, Editor.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1871.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, LAUREL, August 25, 1870.

To A. Siemering & Co. You are hereby notified that I have this day appointed your paper, 'The Daily Express,' the Official Journal of the twenty-third Judicial District.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Austin, this 25th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, and the Independence of Texas, the thirty-ninth.

EDMUND J. DAVIS, Governor.

By the Governor: JAMES P. NEWCOMB.

NOTICE TO REPUBLICANS.

The undersigned having been selected a member of the Republican State Executive Committee for the 26th Judicial District, comprising the counties of Bexar, Comal and Wilson, hereby give notice that he will act as such member for said District, and calls upon the county Executive committees of Bexar, Comal and Wilson to at once report to him the condition of their respective counties, and the names and Post office address of the members of the County committees. More by Circular. A. SIEMERING, San Antonio, March 10th, 1871.

NOTICE To the Republicans of the 26th Judicial District.

The undersigned having been selected a member of the Republican State Executive Committee for the 26th Judicial District, comprising the counties of Kendall, Kerr, Gillespie and Blanco, herewith respectfully calls upon the county executive committees of the above named counties, to report to him the condition of their respective counties as soon as possible, giving their full names and post office address, and also communicate with the undersigned freely, in order to complete a thorough organization of this District. AD. ZOELLER, Austin, March 16th, 1871.

Division.

A single glance at the dimensions of our great State of Texas, as delineated upon the map of the United States, will convince at once the observer, of the arduous nature of the duties imposed upon the State government to control and adjust, property and proportionately, the State affairs; collect and expend its revenues, and distribute the benefits of legislation equally over the immense area as shown upon that map. Combining the Geographical knowledge, with the Historical record of the ideas of the original founders of the Texas Republic, we perceive at once that the idea of division, far from being a new, is fully as aged as the State, and claims creation at the very hour of the creation of the Republic.

Ten years of war and its accompanying commotions, deprived our State of all proper legislation, hence the grand idea of division which is now fully matured, has had no occasion before to present its claims and demand action. Amidst the many duties devolving upon the present legislature, this great question has developed itself, and we foresee that the legislature to do itself proper justice, can decide but one way, Texas must be divided. A great step has been taken in the report as offered to the legislature by the select committee; but to the public press attaches the responsibility of taking the excellent foundation they have laid, and building upon it a structure so logical in its every angle, that the people will by their votes ratify division, and we of the West surge forward as a new State, with a new life, ready to become in a very few years a formidable rival to the East, that now shows such evidences of thrift. Geographically the lines that have been proposed, are well considered and the division proposed a fair one. The State of East Texas will be about the size of Illinois or Indiana, and contains within it the elements of becoming a great State as fully as does either of those States named. A line of road, from the Gulf shore directly through its centre, forms the grand trunk route, the great artery of commerce to which all lateral branches bear the relation of lesser life-giving mediums of commercial currents. Middle Texas or Texas proper is probably richer even than the first named, as far as wealth of natural position is considered. The Trinity, Brazos and Colorado rivers winding either within it or on its confines, gives it a richness of valley land, unsurpassed by any State in the Union, and is a fit assurance of the great future that is before that section as a corn, cotton, and grain growing district. West Texas, our own State to be loomed up in formidable proportions. While perhaps the casual observer may cavil at what seems to be a narrow limit of an agricultural region, we must remember that the country is undeveloped. Much of the land which we now deem valueless, save for pasturage, etc., will prove in time to be fully as fertile as those bottom lands, that are rich in the mold of centuries and rank with waste and heavy timber and rank vegetation. The Illinois Central road, along whose line there now exists the finest farms in the world, first wended its way through barren looking prairies, and over sterile soils were even in appearance than the more inviting looking areas of West Texas prairie lands. That barren waste, that it then seemed to be, is one of the richest portions of the Union to-day, and holds up to us of West Texas an example that if patterned after will bring us proportionate success. Labor, and the rolling upon our land of a tidal wave of immigration, will make the wilder new bloom and the desert smile.

Again, look at the water power within West Texas limits, that is untutilled. Millions upon millions of wealth is represented therein, and division, a separation from the absorbing legislation of the East is the leverage by which those mammoth manufacturing resources will be brought into light.

Draw the line from Indianapolis to San Antonio, and thence to El-Paso, and thence run the same line along the proposed Southern Pacific railroad route. You have then the shortest connecting line between the tide waters of the East and the West that can be found in the United States. With that line drawn, it requires scarce an effort for the mind to grasp the idea of that line existing as a rail route, as the great inter-oceanic route, over which the commercial traffic of almost an entire world will roll.

As the broad rolling river leaves upon its either bank, and in the valley through which it passes, a degree of wealth in the fertility and moisture it imparts, so a route over which so much rich freight would travel, could but leave upon either side of it a portion of its wealth and the sparks of its enterprise, from whence would spring the grandest results and benefits to the State through which it winds centrally.

There are so many phases to the division question that the subject is fairly inexhaustible, and we earnestly invite every citizen to give what few points we have thus far presented an earnest consideration.

SAUL PASS, April 3, 1871.

EDITOR EXPRESS: Dear Sir—The mail arrangements are excusable, and call loudly for reform. For instance, the mail arrived here Saturday evening, bringing Chicago papers of date, Feb. 4, 5, 13, 14, 15, 25, 26, 27, March 1, 5, 7, 9, 21. Thirteen daily papers in one mail! The oldest date, 26 days old! But sometimes they are two months old. Great encouragement this to subscribe for daily papers! Recently I had two letters from Chicago, via Laredo, (mis-sent I presume at Galveston,) which were over thirty days on the way. The hospital steward here received a letter from the North, with the intelligence of the death of his father. The tidings being over thirty days in reaching him. I think your postmaster is not at all to blame, but on the contrary, is very attentive to his business; but some public functionaries need stirring up with a long pole, somewhere nearer the sun's rising. T.

Some petty scribbler who signs himself Conservative Republican (?) writes a mournful letter to the Washington Patriot, (Democratic.) Of course, a sneer is made at our Congressman, and a covert sneer at the Prussian army is mixed up with the weak complaints. The Patriot in publishing such stuff lays itself liable to a charge of receiving correspondence from weak and irresponsible channels, since the very individual writing the letter seems ashamed of his name and position.

WE are in receipt of the NEW YORK REPUBLICAN for the week ending March 25th, and find it as its name implies, a sterling Republican paper, fully alive to the vital importance of the questions of the day, and in solid, opposed to the corruptive Democratic tenets of the State wherein it is published. Its editorials are vigorous and manly, while its selections of news and criticisms, are faultless. At present it will be conducted as a weekly, at the low price of $3 currency, per year. Address Editor New York Republican, 24 Ann street, New York City.

RAILROADS.—Every paper we pick up has its columns speaking on railroads. You talk to a fellow citizen as to the future and the conversation drifts upon railroads.—Every map that now comes to hand is a net work of railroads, and the lever power of the nineteenth century seems to hinge upon railroads. We rejoice in the fact. No better index of national prosperity could be asked, than to find the people investing in, encouraging and building railroads. Bring Texas into the full light through their instrumentality, and she will prove to be a powerful, the impetus she will and can give, to agriculture and commerce.

THE following resolution was recently introduced and adopted in the County Court at Nashville:

"Resolved, That the portrait now placed over the chair of the Judge of this Court, and purporting to be the likeness of the Father of our Country, Gen. George Washington, but which looks more like the jack of clubs, be removed from this hall, and the Court House Committee be authorized to have a true likeness of the pious patriot George Washington put in its place."

THE new trowel bayonets being manufactured at the Springfield armory are shaped almost exactly like a sharp-pointed trowel, and the dimensions are about the same, or much like the spear heads of the South Sea Island warriors. Their design is not so much for charges as an efficient instrument for a skirmishing line; and being furnished with finger pieces where they are joined to the guns, they can be used either to lop boughs or dig holes for picket defence.

Forty years ago Simon Cameron purchased for $100 a spur of the Broad Mountain in Pennsylvania. It is now worth $1,000,000. Coal has been mined out of it for thirty five years, and he has realized in the shape of royalty about $100 a day.

A patriarch recently walked to the polls in North Carolina with seventeen of his sons. He claims twenty four children of his own, most of whom were born twins.

Consumption, Its Cure and its Preventive.

By J. H. Schenck, M. D. Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure.

Dr. Joseph H. Schenck's simple Treatment, and availed themselves of his wonderful effluvia medicines, they would not have fallen. Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that wherever sufficient vitality remains, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthful vigor.

The Maudrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's noblest gifts—the Podophillum Peltatum. They possess all the blood-purifying, alterative properties of calomel, but unlike calomel, they "Leave no Sting Behind," The work of cure is now beginning. The vitiated and mucous deposits in the bowels and in the alimentary canal are ejected. The liver, like a clock, is wound up. It arouses from its torpidity. The stomach acts responsively, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting, at last,

A Supply of Good Blood. The Seaweed Tonic, in conjunction with the Pills, permeates and assimilates with the food, Chylification is now progressing without its previous tortures. Digestion becomes painless, and the cure is seen to be at hand.

Now comes the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet given by an indulgent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup comes in to perform its functions and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once upon its work. Nature cannot be cheated. It collects and ripens the impaired and diseased portions of the lungs. In the form of gatherings, it prepares them for expectoration, and lo! in a very short time the maldy is vanquished, the rotten throne that it occupied is renovated and made new, and the patient, in all the dignity of regained vigor, steps forth to enjoy the manhood or womanhood that was.

Given up as Lost. The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well! It is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased, but it must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this season of the country in the fall and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose their patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, and yet, because they are in the house they must not sit down quiet; they must walk about the room as much and as fast as the strength will bear, to get up a good circulation of blood. The patient must keep in good spirits—be determined to get well. This has a great deal to do with the appetite, and is the great point to gain.

To despair of cure after such evidence of its possibility in the worst cases, and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal statement to be Faculty of his own cure was in these modest words: Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption; confined to my bed, and at one time my physicians thought that I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man catching at straws, I heard of and obtained the preparations which I now offer to the public, and they made a perfect cure of me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrate my whole system. They soon ripened the matter in my lungs, and I would spit up more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time.

As soon as that began to subside my cough, fever, pain and night sweats all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty that I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and have grown in flesh ever since.

"I was weighed shortly after my recovery," added the Doctor, "then looking like a mere skeleton; my weight was only ninety-seven pounds; my present weight is two hundred and twenty five (225) pounds, and for years I have enjoyed uninterrupted health."

Dr. Schenck has discontinued his professional visits to New York and Boston. He or his son, Dr. J. H. Schenck, Jr., still continue to see patients at his office, No 15 North Sixth street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged $5. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not.

The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the intelligence even of a child. Follow these directions, and kind Nature will do the rest, accepting that in some cases the Maudrake Pills are to be taken in increased doses; the three medicines need no other accompaniments than the simple instructions that accompany them; First create appetite. Of returning health, hunger is the most welcome symptom. When it comes, eat it will come, let the despairing at once be of good cheer. Good blood at once follows, the cough lessens, the night sweat is abated. In a short time both of these morbid symptoms are gone forever.

Dr. Schenck's medicines are constantly kept in tens of thousands of families. As a laxative or purgative, the Maudrake Pills are a standard preparation; while the Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure of coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylactic against consumption in any of its forms.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, $1.50 a bottle, or $2.50 a half dozen. Maudrake Pills, 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has any thing won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in just estimation, as it has become better known.

Although still a comparatively recent discovery, it has already secured the highest testimonials from the most eminent physicians, and is now being used by millions of people in every part of the world, and is considered the most reliable and most effective remedy for all the diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

It is always reliable and often wholly cured by it. Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses. So generally are its virtues known, that we need not publish the certificates of those who, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure, For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chills, Fever, Headache, Fever, Stomach Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not kill. It contains neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it is hence injurious to no part of the system, and its use is attended with no danger. It is a safe and reliable remedy for all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world. PRICE, $1.00 PER BOTTLE.
