Livestock Show Plans Are Now Complete

Plans are all made, and soon people will be pouring into the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum for the annual Bailey County Junior Livestock Show.

The livestock show will get underway during the week of January 21, when members and directors of the show will start preparing the arena for the three day show.

They will put several inches of sand on the concrete floor and erect the portable pens, while members of Extension Clubs and the 4-H will begin preparing the mountains of food served from

Frosh Girls Widen Record In Basketball

Muleshoe's freshmen girls' basketball team has stayed on the winning path and widened their season record to 5-1 for the season with a 42-18 victory over Morton Monday night.

After a slow start and leading only 11-6 at half-time, the Mulettes caught the second half fever and outscored their opponents 31-12 in the final half to win the game going away.

Almost all players from the Mulettes got into the scoring column with Denise Wilson leading scorers with 14 points. Rhonda Dunham followed with 11 and Becky Lobaugh had five points. Also scoring were Sherry Ellis and Terri Dulin, each with three; and adding two points each were Tori Hunt, Belinda Clayton and Annette Crabtree.

Not scoring, but having a good defensive game were Kelly Bayless and Berna Lopez.

The win against Morton moves the Mulettes record to 5-1 for the year and next Monday night the Mulettes play at home against Friona.

Soil Conservation Service Boosts Wildlife Cover

Proper crop residue management following grain crops, whereby residues and waste grains are left on or near the soil surface, if the single most important conservation practice that would be beneficial to the pheasant population in Bailey County.

The ringneck pheasant is a seed eater. Domestic grains such as corn, grain sorghum, wheat and soybeans provide the bulk of its diet. In spring and summer, insects provide a significant part of the diet.

The ringneck needs several cover types; loafing cover, travel lanes, roosting cover, nesting cover and winter cover. Winter cover and nesting cover are the most critical. Corn and sorghum residue provide excellent winter cover as well as abandoned farmsteads, tailwater pits, and play lake areas. Field and farmstead windbreaks are good sources of cover for pheasants.

In managing crop residues, consider the value of food and cover sources for the ringneck pheasant. The pheasant has found a home in Bailey County and is providing a source of recreation for many local and out of town hunters.

The beauty of the brightly colored pheasant, which brightens up the countryside, is something that each of us can enjoy.

Management of wildlife habitat is an important consideration in a conservation operation. Contact the Soil Conservation Service for information. Assistant Conservationist Ted Harrison is chairman of the show and Joe Wheeler is vice chairman. Livestock show plans are now complete. Cont. on page 6, Col. 2

Rotary Hears Discussion On Officials

Guest speaker for the Muleshoe Rotary Club Tuesday at noon was Ed Haley from Earth. The basketball official spoke on basketball rules and officiating. He discussed the human element of officiating and human mistakes that can be made by officials.

Haley also pointed out that he considered the Muleshoe coaches to be doing a 'great' job with their teams.

In action, Rotary members agreed to purchase a popcorn machine for the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum.

New directors chosen for Rotary include Dave Marr, Bob Finney, Jeff Smith, Roger Albertson, Buck Campbell, Carson Clayton, Kerry Moore, Keith Pate and Clinton Kennedy.

Special guests at the meeting were Jess Winn and Rusty and Janice Williamson. Williamson is the new executive director of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bailey County office.

City Discusses Bank Depository And Consultants

A very light agenda and a quick meeting marked the meeting of the Muleshoe City Council Tuesday morning.

No formal action was taken on either of the two City Council members discussed the possibility of acquiring proposals from at least three consulting firms who will be considered to draw up an Airport Master Plan.

The City Council will choose the consulting firm from among the three final firms recommended by the airport board.

They also discussed the acquisition of a depository agreement with one of the local banks. Council member Bob Finney explained that he would not enter into any part of the decision, except to act in an advisory capacity. He said since he was in the banking business, he wanted no part of making the decision on which bank to use for the city's depository.

In other action, City Manager Dave Marr told the council that Jack Dunham had been elected as fire chief for the Muleshoe Fire Department. As he already has a fire department radio installed in his truck, he will continue to use his personal truck to answer fire calls. The present fire department station wagon will be used as an auxiliary vehicle to transport firemen, and will be used for out of town fire training.

Marr also told the council

Deputy Henderson Injured By Shots

Tuesday morning, shortly after 9 a.m., Bailey County Deputy Sheriff Bob Henderson went to a farm elevator, northeast of Muleshoe, to serve a warrant of arrest on James A. Botts, 33. According to Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements, the warrant was a felony theft warrant from Tillman County, Okla.

And, what had started out as a routine event in the day of a sheriff's officer, the morning ended with Deputy Henderson shot and wounded, Botts killed by gunfire, and two county patrol cars wrecked and shot up.

Henderson said he agreed to allow Botts to drive his personal car into Muleshoe. Botts went to his car, according to his report, when both cars started to leave the farm elevator. Botts drove his vehicle up alongside the county vehicle driven by Henderson. Botts then fired one time at the patrol car, the report continued. When he fired the shot, the shot from what was later determined to be a sawed off shotgun, took out the left front window of the patrol vehicle, and Deputy Henderson was sprayed with glass and pellets.

As the deputy sheriff radioed the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center for assistance, Henderson said Botts circled, came alongside the right side of the patrol vehicle and fired again. This time, he took out both windows on the right side of the patrol car.

According to the report, Botts then drove onto a county road, as Henderson fired at Botts' car, hitting the rear of the vehicle. After traveling down the road, Botts stopped at a farm house and attempted to enter the house by breaking a glass door. After his attempt to open the wooden door failed, Deputy Henderson said Botts again got in his car and the pursuit continued.

Deputy Henderson Injured By Shots

In a zig-zag fashion, Botts and Deputy Henderson were in the race along the dirt roads as Bailey County Sheriff and DPS License and Weight Patrolman Lyndon Huckaby in one car and Deputy Sheriff James Williams in another car, were enroute to assist Deputy Henderson.

At Lazbuddie Farmers Supply Inc., Botts drove around some ammonia tanks and started to leave when he was met by Sheriff Dee Clements car, driven by Patrolman Huckaby. Patrolman Huckaby drove the left front of the sheriff's car into the left front of Botts' car. The force of the impact caused the door on the driver's side of Botts' car to fly open.

Sheriff Clements said a shotgun fell out of the open car door onto the ground. The sheriff added that Botts jumped out, picked up the gun and pointed it toward himself and Patrolman Huckaby. Sheriff Clements said he fired his shotgun one time, but did not hit Botts.

At that point, Botts jumped back into his car, with the gun, and fired toward the sheriff's car and the two officers. Sheriff Clements said he fired again, killing Botts in the front seat of the car.

Deputy James Williams, who had arrived at the location one mile west of Lazbuddie, loaded the wounded Deputy Sheriff Henderson into his patrol vehicle and brought him to Muleshoe to West Plains Medical Center where glass and metal were removed from his face. He was not hospitalized.

Sheriff Clements was bleeding from one place on his left hand. Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements is in his final year of office, having chosen not to seek re-election to the office he is holding for the 24th year. This was

Spice, Variety Of Life

Spice is the variety of life -- if you know how to use it in foods, says Dr. Rose Tindall, a foods and nutrition specialist. Dr. Tindall is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. First, it helps to know just a bit about spices and herbs, she says. Most true spices come from the hot, steamy tropics. Herbs and the aromatic seeds, on the other hand, thrive in temperate climates of the Mediterranean, Northern Europe and, more recently, California. Spice history starts with Biblical days, and we can trace it through the Orient to Europe and then to the United States, now the prime figure in world spice buying centered in New York.

SPICE STORAGE
Flavors of spices and herbs depend on the volatile components they contain. So protect them from heat, strong light and moisture. Resealed packages are good for several months, but if you rub a bit of spice or herb between your palms and there is no aroma, then discard it. USING SPICES, HERBS
If you aren't familiar with spices, then start with a standard recipe direction -- or, to experiment, use 1/4 teaspoon to each four servings.

Mrs. Harrol Redwine gave a report on the pecan sales. There are still a few pecans available, which may be purchased from any member. For this month's program, several members demonstrated crafts they have done. Mrs. Harrol Redwine showed an Artex painted Christmas tree skirt; Mrs. Clay Mimms brought needlepoint and ceramics from her baby's nursery; Mrs. Dwayne Sexton had made the pantsuit which her daughter, Kelly, was wearing; Mrs. Jerry Barber does crewel embroidery; Mrs. Tim Smith is working on a Sesame Street rug; Mrs. Dave Engelking brought some of her oil paintings; Mrs. Bill Morris does toile and oil painting. The talents of the group are varied and interesting. Refreshments were served, and the door prize was drawn by Miss Jessica Burch and won by her mother, Mrs. Kirby Burch. Members present were: Mrs. Jerry Barber, Mrs. Lloyd Bradshaw, Mrs. Kirby Burch, Mrs. Wade Cargile, Mrs. Dave Engelking, Mrs. Donnie McDonald, Mrs. Darrel Mason, Mrs. Clay Mimms, Mrs. Harrol Redwine, Mrs. Jimmy Dale Seaton, Mrs. Dwayne Sexton, Mrs. Rick

Control Personal Inflation

Feel poorer in spite of earning the highest income of your life?

You're not alone -- and there is something you can do about it, says Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist.

Mrs. Granovsky is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

One reason we feel poorer comes from the tax squeeze, she says.

"Inflation has helped push our incomes to higher levels, but because of the way our tax system works, our wage-increase dollars are taxed at a higher rate than our pre-wage-increase dollars," she explains.

"And changes in the social security laws also take a bigger bite than they did before."

Controlling personal inflation involves choice-making, Mrs. Granovsky says.

How we spend our after-tax dollars is the key, she stresses.

FIGHT INFLATION RATES

One thing we can do is fight the rate of inflation.

For example, if prices increase at the rate of 1.1 percent each month, consumers can:

1) Cut back spending by 1.1 percent

2) Substitute for -- or change-- the mix of things you buy so your total bill is 1.1 percent less.

3) Don't change anything, but pay 1.1 percent less through careful buying.

4) Find alternative, non-economic means of satisfying your needs.

'IMPACT' STEPS

Fighting the rate of inflation will take specific "impact" steps, Mrs. Granovsky says.

Here are five "impact" steps to accomplish some of the four plans listed above:

KICK THE CREDIT HABIT--Use credit prudently, not for spreading out the cost of everyday living.

Unpaid charge accounts take an added 1.5 percent per month from your spending money.

GET DISCOUNTS -- Some merchants may be willing to give a five to seven percent discount to cash-paying customers.

SAVE FIVE CENTS -- Save five cents on every dollar you spend for a total of five percent savings.

Coupons for food purchases can save money if the price does not exceed that for another product of similar quality.

SHOP SALES -- Buying on sales can show dramatic results. IF the items meet real needs, not imagined needs.

A 20 percent markdown can mean important savings.

SAVE GASOLINE -- Drive fewer miles for sure savings on gasoline.

Carpool with someone to cut gas bills.

Plan shopping trips carefully before driving -- to cut down total miles.

Set realistic personal goals for trimming down the miles you drive.

KEEP QUALITY OF LIFE -- "Economizing doesn't mean sacrificing our quality of life," Mrs. Granovsky stresses.

"It simply means more effective use of the resources we already have."

Looking for something special, something easy to serve as dessert? Blackberry Cherry Mold is the thing. Drain 1 can (8 oz.) pitted dark sweet cherries, measuring syrup. Add water to the syrup to make 3/4 cup. Dissolve a 3-ounce package of blackberry flavor gelatin in 1 cup boiling water. Add measured liquid and 1/4 teaspoon almond extract and chill until slightly thickened. Add the cherries and our into a 3- or 5-cup mold. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold. For an added treat, garnish with prepared whipped topping and toasted almonds.

Some of the leading fashion designers are showing garments that are more molded to the body. Hems vary, but some designers say knee length will be the newest.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Carter's Good Luck-
The Ayatollah-
Fickle Voters, Polls-
U.S. Weakness.

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The Carter Administration, it now seems clear, would have been justified in financing the Ayatollah Khomeini in Iran, in secretly advising him to seize U.S. hostages! Of course, it didn't. But that seizure is the greatest stroke of political luck yet enjoyed by the President.

His rating in the polls was so low just a few months ago experts were conceding his defeat at the New York convention this summer, or his likely defeat in the general election, if he was, somehow, nominated.

Now, just ninety days afterward, his standing-the rate of approval in the major polls-is over sixty percent. George Gallup recently told a reporter he'd never in his long career seen such a switch.

Part of the change may have been the result of Senator Ted Kennedy's poor showing in the opening days of his nomination campaign. But most of it accrued directly from the Iranian outrage, which seems to have solidified the American people behind their chief executive like nothing else in decades.

Ironically, the weak image projected by America, and Mr. Carter, has produced repeated outrages in recent months, combined with growing Soviet boldness. The latest evidence Russia pays little attention to Mr. Carter was the use of Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

And just a few months ago the Soviets thumbed their nose at Carter, and his somewhat amateurish attempts to get Moscow to ease their military aid and construction in Cuba. In the end, Carter reversed himself and made a face-saving speech, gestured and everyone now seems to have forgotten.

In two other countries personnel at U.S. embassies have been killed in recent months as mobs showed a lack of respect for Uncle Sam and the Stars and Stripes.

Nothing much has been done about this either.

Mr. Carter has also now learned he was wrong in two of his big 1976 campaign pitches-about reducing arms expenditures and removing troops from South Korea. He has halted the latter exercise and reversed himself on defense spending.

Despite his role in causing such affronts as that in Iran, he's currently reaping a rich political harvest as the leader of the American people. If he had thought out the whole plot and seizure himself, the Ayatollah couldn't have served him better.

We regret to report that many New Year's resolutions have already been forgotten.

THATCHER'S SUPPORT

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has pledged to President Carter that if he decides to seek United Nations sanctions against Iran, "Great Britain will be the first to support him."

COURT ON TREATY

The Supreme Court has cleared the way for the United States to end its defense treaty with Taiwan by refusing to hear a case that challenged President Carter's power to terminate the 25-year-old pact.

ON FARM PRODUCTION

The Agriculture Department reports that world agricultural production dropped in 1979 for the first time in seven years, with virtually all of the decline occurring in developed countries.

ORDERS & SLOWDOWN

New orders received by the nation's factories edged downward by 0.4 percent during October, a turnaround from the previous two months and another signal the economy may be slowing, the government reports.

CARTER ON IRAN

Accusing Iran of "Arrogant defiance," President Carter has called for the United Nations to impose worldwide economic sanctions to force the release of 50 American hostages held in Tehran.

HELP FOR CHRYSLER

Congress passed a $3.5 billion aid plan for the Chrysler Corp. and sent the bill-calling for the decade's third major federal bailout of a failing enterprise-to President Carter for his signature.

Editorial

The Trade Surplus!

Somewhat overlooked in the recent holiday rush was the news that U.S. international trade moved into the black in the third quarter. That is a welcome change in the trade balance. If the trend continues the net trade balance for 1979 might be about even.

That would constitute a major achievement for the Carter Administration and U.S. exporters. For the past two years, the U.S. trade balance has been in the red, averaging a deficit of more than a billion dollars a month.

Until the third quarter of 1979, the deficit was continuing, but in that quarter a surplus of $762 million was realized, December figures show. If an even larger surplus was realized in the final quarter of 1979, which some expect, the year 1979 will have seen striking progress in this economic area.

Since pressure on the dollar results from repeated international trade deficits, the turning of the tide in the third quarter is of major significance. In view of the heavier and heavier import burden represented by oil purchases, this reversal is especially noteworthy.

ON CONSUMER INDEX

The nation's official measure of inflation-the Consumer Price Index-is under attack as being inflationary itself. With inflation running at a 33-year high of 13 percent, the index has been called into question by both government and private economists.

People who violate the sound laws of nature will pay the penalty without fail.

'WINDFALL-PROFITS' TAX

The Senate has voted to increase the "windfall-profits" tax on the oil industry by as much as $27.5 billion over the next decade and to extend it well into the 1990s. Senators also accepted an amendment by Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan (D-NY) to phase out the tax in the late 1990s, rather than in the late 1980s as the Finance Committee had recommended.

The Hostages

One of the characteristics of a free press is its freedom to go overboard on coverage of emotional news copy. The seizure of U.S. hostages emphasizes the point.

For well over a month now the major networks have devoted about half their evening news time to this one story. It's a big story. And it involves about sixty people. But there have been other stories during the hostage incident which were even more important, and threatened the lives of many more Americans-or actually claimed lives.

The hostage story, however, is one which captured the American imagination. It united the country to a considerable degree. It helped President Carter, politically, and hurt Senator Ted Kennedy. In all the time since the seizure, however, as this is written, no hostage has been tortured. They have, in fact, been held as select prisoners, with better food and conditions than normal prisoners.

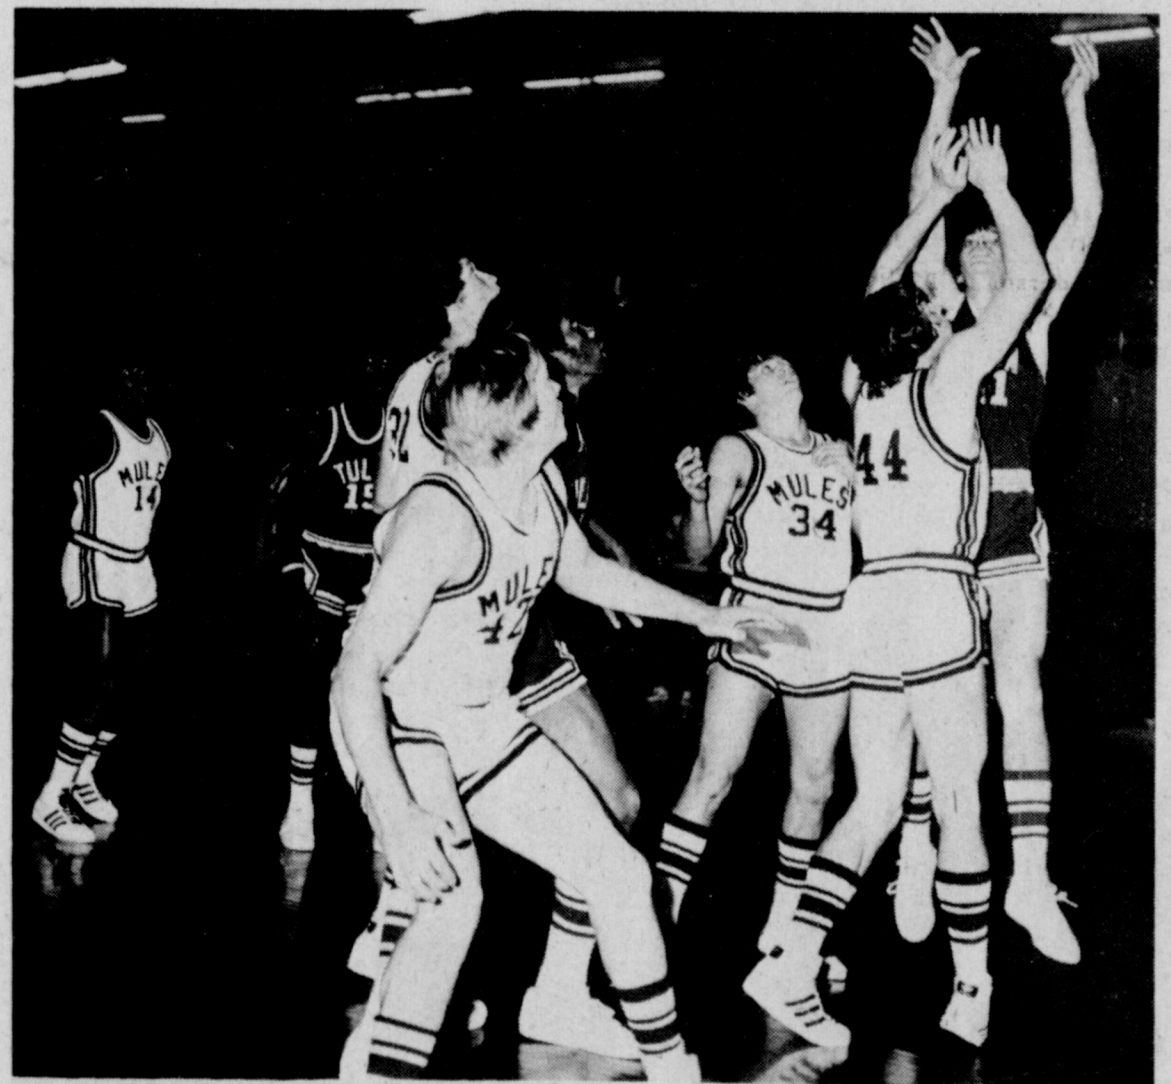

In entering the foreign service, Americans assume some risks. Some of our foreign service personnel in the field have been killed in recent years, as part of that accepted risk. These incidents have been relatively quickly forgotten, however. But the internment of the hostages in Iran has dominated the country's news, and thinking.

The news media has admittedly done a fine job in reporting the plight of the sixty hostages and has played the story for every last drop of emotional impact and drama. All well and good, but if the hostages are in the end freed-as seems likely-millions will have devoted considerable time each day to worry, frustration, agitation and action over the situation. And most of this will have had little influence on events.

The principle involved, it's true, is vitally important. But more time might appropriately be devoted to analyzing the Carter Administration's foreign policy, which invited this incident and attacks on other U.S. installations, which actually cost lives. That might result in changes which would ensure that this outrage doesn't recur.

Connally's Campaign Gets Endorsements

Former Texas Governor John Connally's campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination got a big boost recently when two of the nation's most prominent conservative political leaders gave him their public endorsement.

Senator Strom Thurmond and former Governor James Edwards, both of South Carolina, personally joined Connally in a five city blitz of the state, during which they laid their prestige and influence on the line with strong statements in support of Connally.

The endorsement of the two South Carolina leaders are a big boost for Connally's campaign in that state, which will hold its first-ever presidential primary March 8.

Both popular figures were supporters of Ronald Reagan in 1976. Edwards was particularly active in his campaign, heading up his forces in South Carolina while serving as Governor. He also led the state delegation to the national convention.

Senator Thurmond issued the following statement: "I am today declaring my support for Governor John B. Connally for the Republican Presidential nomination, with the firm conviction that he is the right man for the times."

"His depth and breadth of experience in domestic and international affairs, and his now-legendary dynamism and personal strength, all point to the fact that John Connally is the 'natural' leader this country should rally behind, and is undoubtedly the man whose time in our political history has come.

"At a time in our history when the United States, which I consider to be the greatest nation on earth, has become known more for its vacillation in foreign policy and confusion in domestic affairs, we need John Connally's leadership."

Governor Edwards also pledged his support, saying: "For months I have been examining the records and watching all the candidates very closely. After careful and prayerful consideration, I have made a decision to support the work for John Connally.

"Governor Connally has served in the Cabinets of two Presidents. He has served in elective office as a three-term Governor of the State of Texas. He has worked in and out of the halls of Congress since he went to Washington as a young Congressional assistant in 1939. He knows how the system works, and how to work the system. With this knowledge and background, he is the best qualified to get America moving again. "He is well-versed in international affairs and can give us much-needed leadership in this area. I asked myself which of these many candidates I would prefer to have in Washington today negotiating across the table for a Khomeini or a Brezhnev, and without question, it is John Connally."

Senator Thurmond will be serving as the Chairman of Governor Connally's National Campaign Advisory Council. Governor Edwards has become the campaign's Southern Regional Chairman.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek takes a brief look at television this week, then finds a new reason for conserving oil.

Dear Editor: Frequently the commercials on TV are much better than the programs they're interrupting, so much so that you get the notion the programs are interrupting the commercials.

But like the programs, some commercials specialize in hokum. For example there's one advertising a computer, an item I've never been much interested in buying. I don't need a computer to tell me when to throw another log on the fire. It claims it's fighting inflation and says that if the price of a hamburger had dropped as much proportionately as the price of that computer in the last 25 years, a hamburger would not cost 5 cents. What it fails to mention is that if a hamburger 25 years ago had cost as much as that computer then did, Hamburgers would have cost $150 apiece.

Second prize for hokum goes to the car manufacturers who claim their cars go further on a tank of gas, without mentioning that perhaps their tanks are bigger. One claims that with an extra tank you can go halfway across the United States without filling up. With half a dozen tanks you probably could drive till early spring.

Everybody talks about conserving gas but nobody seems to know how to do it, except to drive less, which is unthinkable. The problem is more serious than people realize because, look, the earth turns on its axis once around every twenty-four hours. Right? All right. Now if we pump all the oil out, what's going to happen?

Why the earth, without any lubrication, is going to start squeaking. People won't be able to sleep at night for the noise. And already the dip stick shows we're two quarts low.

Meanwhile, to change the subject, if the United States can't do anything about the Iranian situation, should be consider taking it up with the P.T.A.?

Yours faithfully
J.A.

America's Example of Broad-Based Education

WICHITA FALLS--Administrators and professors at one of the world's oldest, most tradition-rich universities is following America's example of a broad-based education, says one Wayland Baptist College professor here.
Mrs. Betty Sefcik, instructor in business at Wayland's teaching facilities at Sheppard Air Force Base, spent almost a month this past summer studying the world's economic systems at Oxford University near London, England.
She was among persons from 15 countries doing graduate study in developmental economics at the institution, completing her coursework for a master's degree from the University of Oklahoma.

One of seven Americans involved in the interdisciplinary study entitled, "Europe and the World," Mrs. Sefcik not only had the opportunity to compare economic systems but educational settings as well.
"I guess one of the most interesting aspects about Oxford was that the modern young people going to school there did not seem out of place at all," said Mrs. Sefcik, who became a full-time faculty member at the Sheppard center this fall after three years as a part-time instructor.
"The university facilities--research equipment and things of that nature--have been updated, but the buildings have retained their original magnificence," she said of the 800-year-old institution that dates back to 1163. "The young and old blend very well."
And, as one might expect of an Oxford visitor, she could not help but be awed by her surroundings.
"I don't think a person could go to school there and not be affected by the historical aspect of the setting."
Students from such countries as Libya, Germany, Canada, Panama and other Central and South American nations were involved in the study, which encompassed library science and labor relations as well as to economics.
It was that exposure--to people from other countries studying in other disciplines--that proved the most meaningful for the Wayland professor.

"I think the most valuable part of the trip was not to be found in the textbooks, but in the entire situation in which we were involved," said Mrs. Sefcik, who lives in nearby Iowa Park and also helps her husband Louis operate Louis Jewelry there. "My association with other people, and hearing their perceptions of the United States and their own countries was fascinating."
A unique spiritual bond grew out of the newfound friendships as well, she added.
"I found people were interested in establishing a spiritual rapport, even though we were there for only a short period of time. Despite the many cultural, economic and educational backgrounds represented, we made some ties that still remain very strong and we continue to correspond."
The seminar featured guest lecturers from several countries in Germany, France and Greece, in addition to professors from several other universities in England. Directors for the study were R.G. Smeethurst, a London economist and director of the Department of External Studies at Oxford, and Dr. A.J. Kondonassis, the David Ross Boyd Professor of economics at the University of Oklahoma.

One of the most interesting lecturers, said Mrs. Sefcik, was Lord Franks of England, who was instrumental in establishing guidelines for the implementation of the Marshall Plan in England and other European countries following World War II.
"Even after 30 years, he was very emotional about the United States' plan for helping European countries reconstruct according to their own guidelines," Mrs. Sefcik said. "As a young man, Lord Franks was quite impressed in talking with Marshall about the awareness and involvement of the common man with the overall situation."

Letters To The Editor

Hon. Kent Hance
United States Congressman
Washington, D.C.
Dear Congressman:

I am writing about Veteran's affairs, especially the situation relating to veterans of World War I. And am writing in the hope that you will assist in correcting what appears to be some gross inequities.

By way of explanation, I am more than 80 years of age, a veteran of World War I. Five of my sons, and a number of my grandsons are, also veterans. I am in need of both financial and medical assistance. But requirements for obtaining aid and assistance are so rigid that it is terribly hard to qualify, particularly for non-service connected disabilities. I believe those restrictions should be relaxed.

Furthermore it appears that the doctors and publically and privately owned hospitals are trying to close the veterans hospitals. I believe that is a mistake and should not be allowed.

It appears also that efforts are being made to phase out veterans benefits, and place what benefits might be had under social security. In that connection there is too much confusion regarding social security and medicare benefits.

For example, at the hospital in Fayetteville, Arkansas we paid out $1,500.00, but have never received a statement. My wife was in the Washington Medical Center, and we have not yet been presented a bill, even though more than two years has passed.

There is evidence nationwide that hospitals are overbilling for medicare patients. That is, they submit inflated bills to medicare for payment - bills in excess of those actually created by the patient. That is a deceptive and dishonest practice that is hurting every person in America. And it should be terminated immediately.

Also laws have been passed so they could give away veterans land. Like in Fayetteville, Arkansas when they give the V.A. land to the Washington County Area Medical Center. Which should not have been done.

Your efforts in helping to initiate extensive investigations into these wrongs, both by the Congress and by the administration, will be sincerely appreciated. And if I may be of assistance please let me know.

Thanking you kindly, I am

Very truly yours,

Senator Tower Discusses USSR; Afghanistan

WASHINGTON -- The Soviet Union has "opened a new chapter in its strategy for expanding its power in the Third World" by its military takeover of control of Afghanistan, U.S. Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) charged today.

"With its use of Soviet combat forces to suppress the nationalist will of the Afghan people, Moscow has crossed a major threshold and launched a serious challenge to the United States and other free-world nations," said Tower, ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Tower asserted that lack of U.S. response to its aggression in recent years has made the Soviet Union willing to use its own combat forces for the first time "to sustain their expansionist policies."

The senator called for "a fundamental review and revision of our national strategy for competing with the Soviet Union."

"The United States must now put aside our illusions that our own restraint would engender any reciprocity from the Soviets," he said, adding that Soviet action in Afghanistan "makes clear their determination to expand their influence and control at our expense."

"In political terms, this latest act makes clear that the Soviet Union has shattered the mutually agreed principles governing the conduct of U.S. Soviet relations. This abrogation of those principles removes any basis for trust or confidence that the Soviet Union would be bound by any future agreement, such as its now pending before the Senate," Tower said.

The senator also noted that, in military terms, the situation "makes clear that our military decline over the past three years has been sufficient as to now lead the Soviets to discount our ability to respond. This makes all the more urgent that we move immediately and with very substantial resources, to restore our military strength, particularly the strength of our Navy."

By its military takeover of control in Afghanistan and the installation of puppet Marxist President, the Soviet Union has opened a new chapter in its strategy for expanding its power and influence in the Third World. With its use of Soviet combat forces to suppress the nationalist will of the Afghan people, Moscow has crossed a major threshold and launched a serious challenge to the United States and other free-world nations.

Heretofore, the Soviet Union has refrained from using its own combat forces, out of concern to do so would risk a direct confrontation with the United States. Now, however, it is clear that they have judged our lack of response to their earlier adventures in Angola, Ethiopia and Yemen as sufficient evidence of our lessened will and general decline as to minimize the risks in moving to a new stage--the outright use of Soviet military force--to sustain their expansionist policies.

This new aggression represents a blatant affront to the human rights of the people of Afghanistan and to every international legal concept of respect for the sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity of nation states. It is a blatant challenge to the rule of law and a serious threat to the long-term security interests of the west.

The immediate implications are both political and military. In political terms this latest act makes clear that the Soviet Union has shattered the mutually agreed principles governing the conduct of U.S. Soviet Relations. Those principles, signed in 1972, required both parties to refrain from efforts to gain unilateral advantage in third world countries and to make efforts to reduce tensions throughout the world. This abrogation of those principles removes any basis for trust or confidence that the Soviet Union would be bound by any future agreement such as its now pending before the Senate.

In military terms, the position of the Soviet Union in Afghanistan will make all the more tenuous and vulnerable the security of Iran and Pakistan. In addition it makes clear that our military decline over the past three years has been sufficient as to now lead them to discount our ability to respond. This makes all the more urgent that we move immediately and with very substantial resources, to restore our military strength, particularly the strength of our Navy.

Finally, it is clear that the United States must now put aside our illusions that our own restraint would engender any reciprocity from the Soviets. This action makes clear their determination to expand their influence and control at our expense. Their movement, ever closer to vital U.S. geopolitical interests in the Middle East and Persian Gulf--indeed our very economic lifeline--can only be ignored at our peril and that of our allies. It is time for a fundamental review and revision of our national strategy for competing with the Soviet Union including most importantly the generation and deployment of forces sufficient to the defense of our interests in this vital area. This urgent review and reorientation of our foreign and defense policies, in coordination with our allies, is our most compelling priority. We are at a threshold tantamount in importance to the period preceding the launching of the Marshall Plan and the formation of the NATO alliance. In sum, our country may be facing the most serious challenge to our security interests in the post-War period. It is a challenge demanding enormous creative leadership, courage and determination. The Congress and the American people will invite, and lend their support to a response which is commensurate with the gravity of the circumstances.
