RELIGION AND POLITICS

Altho a few political preachers are doing the best they can to devide the American people politically along religious lines, there is little reason to believe they will get very far with it.

If it were possible to induce Catholics to herd together politically on one side and protestants on the other the change from the old party standards would be startling. For in the present election most of the southern states would go republican and all of the New England state along with New York, New Jersey, California, Michigan, Arizona, New Mexico, Montana, Nevada, Wisconsin and probably Minnesota and Pennsylvania would go democratic.

The last available figures published by the bureau of the census show that in the following states there are more Catholic church members than there are members of all protestant churches put together: Arizona, California, Connecticut, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wisconsin.

In 33 states there are more members of the Catholic church than of any single protestant denomination.

In the south the church situation is entirely different, for there Baptists and Methodists are overwhelmingly predominant, with only a comparatively thin sprinkling of Catholics. For example, out of a total of 1,234,132 church members in Georgia only 13,214 are Catholics and there are 337,775 Methodists and 721,140 Baptists.

In Arkansas there are 176,806 Methodists, 287,349 Baptists and only 21,120 Catholics. In Mississippi there are 32,160 Catholics, 226,356 Methodists and 441,293 Baptists. In North Carolina the proportion of protestants is even greater still: Catholics, 4,939; Methodists, 333,989; Baptists, 535,229. The proportion is not far from that in South Carolina.

How much the nomination of Smith by the democrats influenced voters in Maine is illustrated by a big republican victory, in a state where out of 255,293 church members over a majority are Catholics. Nobody expected Smith to carry republican Maine solely for the reason that more than half of the church membership is Catholic. Nor does anyone expect Hoover to carry the solid south merely because all of the southern states except Louisiana are overwhelmingly protestant.

The truth is that protestants, Catholics and Jews vote as republicans or democrats when they go to the polls. The bigots on both sides of the religious controversy are merely froth. The citizen who votes for a candidate for no better reason than that they worship in the same church isn't any different than the one who votes against a candidate because he belongs to some other church.

Deep in the hearts of sound and sane Americans there is a vigorous opposition to any union of church and state. There are some, of course, who will be influenced one way or the other by religious prejudice into a flame where ever they can. But there is little reason to fear that they can seriously affect the sane thinking and the religious tolerance of the real body of American citizens, either in the republican north or the south.

That is the message found in the Maine election.—Albuquerque Journal.

THE PRIZE MORTGAGE LIFTER

With the cotton market still far under what most people think it ought to be, comes the announcement from the local produce firm Wilson & Anderson, that they will pay 45 cents per pound for butter fat, all of which reminds us that the dairy cow is still the prize mortgage lifter on the farm. The principal difference is that the cow provides a monthly income, while cotton is only once a year crop.

Raising cotton to the exclusion of everything else and expecting to make a killing out of the cash returns is about like the old man who said he was a good carpenter and could take his hammer and hit the nail on the head every lick some licks.

The principal objection to a bunch of cows is that they keep one home, although in many of the more prosperous sections the farmers have found that it pays to keep up their credit, rather than visit their kin folks so often. The management of a farm requires close personal attention, just as any other line of business to be successful.

Four of the six cases of typhoid fever discovered here were found in Mexican houses with no screens. This leads us to wonder what prevented wholesale death from contagious diseases in the days of the livery stable and few screens. Yet we occasionally hear people say that our sewer system isn't worth the money.

SMITH BETTER BAFFLER

(Frank Sullivan)

Governor Smith is a better baffler than Secretary Hoover. We need a good baffler for president. Hoover never baffled anybody, but you ought to see Al Smith's baffling muscles. He has been governor of New York state for eight years and all during this time he has kept in shape by baffling the state legislature, which has been republican. Smith has worn out four state legislatures simply by out-baffling them. He just spends an hour a day with them on the baffling mat in the state capitol, following which the governor and the legislature have brisk rub-downs and the state capitol is given a thorough sand blasting.

Just think! If Smith should be elected president and there hapened, by some odd quirk of fate, to be a republican congress he could wear it out by baffling. Then there would be no congress or at best an exhausted congress and, as President Coolidge always says any congress is best when exhausted.

A president also has to be able to baffle slick foreign diplomats who try to outwit our country, may she always be right or wrong! I mean the way Roosevelt baffled the Kaiser's creatures in the Venezuela crisis. Or was that Cleveland? For instance, suppose the Italian ambassador came to President Smith and suggested that Senator Heflin of Alabama be ceded to Italy so that the Italian Government might be able to keep the Pope in a continual state of alarm and incidentally, by having Tom Heflin make speeches, stir up a breeze around the Eternal City, which gets very hot when it is very hot: Now, President Smith would have to be able to baffle the Italian ambassador by getting the very best price possible for Tom. Let us say, about two dollars.

HAPPY STAGES OF LIFE

The passage of youth to middle age, thence to old age is commonly vied as one of life's tragedies. Why? In most cases it is assumed that youth is the happiest time of life and that the exuberance of the adolescent period can not be attained in after life. Strictly speaking this is true. But the fact that youthful exuberance is mainly physical, while that which may come in later years is of a mental nature is often lost sight of.

However, most men and women will find, if they give the matter sober thought, that they are much happier at thirty-five, forty-five or sixty than they were at fifteen, twenty or thirty five.

Reviews of their lives based on realism rather than sentimentality will convince them that all genuine happiness did not cease for them after they made their first dollars or acquired their first beaus. In truth, the happiness of youth is often more than balanced by its unhappiness.

Few persons would, if the opportunity were miraculously offered them, care to go through the trials and blunders of adolescence of young manhood or womanhood a second time. The man or woman of middle age or old age will recall that the lessons of life were not learned without major tribulations.

Why envy the young people who have yet to encounter this unpleasantness.—Exchange.

SEEKING HAPPINESS

According to the view of some writers, who have been so unfortunate as to be placed in the upper social circles, the proper way for a wife to get along with her husband is to kid him along, never letting him know whether or not his affections have been returned. It would never do to let him be too sure of her. In other words the courship ought to continue throughout the married life and if such thing can't be carried on the proper thing to do is ask for a divorce and just keep up the trial by error method until you find a mate, where your wedded life will be a state of continued bliss.

While the upper social circles carry on their quest for happiness, the great middle class find it in responsibilities of life. They do not expect the honeymoon period to last for a hundred years. They accept marriage as a serious business and are contented to go about rearing a family, accepting the hardships of life as a part of the game. In other words the middle class is usually too busy with the affairs of the home and business to spend too much time in idle reflection as to whether or not the husband or wife really love each other and will continued to do so throughout eternity.

THE PEDDLERS

Artesia has recently undergone a second seige from the magazine peddlers, this time from two women, who employed the buttonhole method in their campaign. Most people are familiar with the tactics of the button hole campaigner, who button holes his or her victim and never lets go until a sale is made. Aside from the satisfaction one may get from talking to the magazine peddler, the purchaser rarely ever gets any further returns. In most instances they never see the magazine they are supposed to have subscribed for.

The recent campaign differed little from the former peddler attacks where the peddler victimized his subject with a sympathetic tale. Usually they want to earn a scholarship in some university. Judging from the numerous visits of the magazine solicitors, it must be a very profitable business.

MAINE NOT A POLITICAL BAROMETER

Arthur Brisbane, noted syndicate writer evidently does not put much faith in the political slogan, "As Goes Maine Goes the Nation." For he says:

Maine went republican by the biggest vote in history. Nevertheless, Wall street was betting only two and one-half to one on Hoover Tuesday. A little while ago the same street was being three and one-half to one on Hoover. Maine is naturally republican and has been dry a long time—barring hard cider, etc.

The wise republicans will not attach too much importance to Maine results.

THE TROUBLE WITH CHAVES CO. POLITICS

The trouble with Chaves county politics as a good many view it here is that they have too many bell wethers in Roswell. In the past two political campaigns desention among the leaders has split the democratic majority. Party loyalty is forgotten in the scramble for everybody to wear the bell. Success in any organization requires good followers as well as good leaders and the fellow who refuses to co-operate because he can't lead, is the worst enemy his party has.

This is merely a sample of the trickery being resorted to by anti-Hoover speakers and anti-Hoover whisperers. But now the anti-Hoover for Vice-President is accused of resorting to the tactics of the little fellows. It shows the Democratic candidate for Vice-President in a most unfavorable light.

CHRYSLER-PLYMOUTH CARS MAKE DRIVING EASY FOR THE LADIES

Most women used to hesitate before braving the risks of driving in congested streets. Today they are finding that the infrequent necessity for shifting gears and the speedy pickup available in Chrysler and Plymouth cars removes much of the difficulty of traffic driving. Ease of parking also adds to their assurance. Comfortably postured seating makes the cars equally as competent for long tours by eliminating the fatigue formerly resulting from long drives.

These are the statements of J. W. Frazier, Chrysler and Plymouth sales manager, made following personal observation by Chrysler executives, and from information forwarded by dealers located throughout the country. Many more women, he adds, are buying Chrysler-built cars than ever before.

"One only needs to ride around in traffic and out on our highways a few days to realize that more and more women are driving cars," says Mr. Frazier. "During the summer months scores of trips that would be considered remarkable even for men were made by women drivers. Drives of upwards of 300 miles per day by women are growing common. One woman recently drove from Richmond, Virginia, clear across the state to Lynchburg and returned home the same day in her Chrysler, after visiting relatives in Lynchburg for more than an hour. The day was Sunday too.

"Three other women, widely known as experienced travellers because of their writing, toured the continent of Europe in a Chrysler during the summer, reshipped the car to the United States and declare they saw more of Europe during this trip than in all of their previous ones put together.

ROTARY PROGRAM

Rev. Father McGee of Cincinnati, Ohio and Charles H. Andrews of Pampa, Texas, were guests of the Artesia Rotary Club, Tuesday and made the principal addresses in the program following the luncheon. Mr. Andrews, who is a prominent oil man of the Panhandle section of Texas and is also connected with the Texmore-Operators Oil Co., operating in the Artesia field was the first speaker and discussed the relationship of a modern hotel to an oil town. Mr. Andrews expressed the view that an oil town was known by the class of its hotels and that Artesia would profit by the erection of a new modern hotel. Rev. Father McGee, who is conducting a mission or revival at the Catholic church spoke briefly on the mission of lending a helping hand to the worthy.

FIFTH CUTTING OF HAY

Some hay farmers are starting the fifth cutting of hay. This clipping will be light, but of good quality if the weather condition does not interfere. To date about 325 to 350 cars of hay the 1928 hay crop has been shipped out and about the same amount has been stored on the farms, while more than 50 cars have been disposed of to local consumers. The 1928 hay yield is about 100 cars under the normal average yield.

The hay market continues comparatively steady. No. 1, extra leafy is bringing $21.00 per ton. No. 1, extra green, $21.00 per ton. No. 1, $19.00 per ton. No. 2, $16.00 per ton. No. 3, $10.00 to $12.00 per ton.

ANOTHER CHICKEN STORY

Here's another chicken story, that sounds fishy but is true. The yarn is told by E. B. Bullock and vouched by the owner of the chickens. Some time before the Hope rodeo, about a week, perhaps, Jim Welch of Hope purchased a few white Leghorn chickens. The chickens were carried home in a Ford truck and liked the truck so well that they decided to adopt the running gear as a roosting place. One night the family attended the rodeo in the truck and upon arriving at the grounds, a neighbor flashed a light on the truck, revealing the chickens perched on their adopted roost, intact, despite a few rough places along the way. The chickens slept peacefully through the rodeo performance and rode home without the loss of a single one.

B. F. Glover and daughter, Miss Thetie of Littlefield, Texas, came Sunday to visit his father and mother and other relatives. They were accompanied by Mrs. Geo. Long who visited with her mother, Mrs. Newcomb and brother W. V. Newcomb. The party left yesterday for their homes.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE SELF APPOINTED DOG SLAYERS OF ARTESIA

A faithful Chesapeake Bay dog has fallen fallen a victim to your ruthless methous of shooting or poisoning, undoubtedly shooting. Failing in your attempt some six months ago, you have eventually succeeded, and in fear of detection you have buried the body or dragged it to some obscure location. You are like skunks, only the streak down your back is yellow instead of white, and covers the whole of your back.
Come out in the open and declare yourselves, brave sportsmen like you should not be afraid to face a man.
I cherish the memory of my faithful dog, but hate the fact I have done nothing to punish his murderers. Beware, this matter will not be dropped. Keep to your holes, for should any evidence be forthcoming
I will spend all the money I can muster to put you behind the bars.
I wonder if you ever stop to think that a dog is almost human, and suffers the same pain and torture that we are subject to. I saw one poor dog that had fallen a victim to your guns, and had laid for two days under a hot sun and suffered untold warding off death and the buzzards agonies before he died—two days just to satisfy the desires of a fiend to kill. Your education has been sadly neglected, and I am afraid you have never been taught the penalty for wrong doing. You are suffering from a malady that can only be cured by a dose of your own medicine, or a good horse whipping, how well I would like to lay on the whip. You are certainly passing on a great heritage to your children, if you have any. I trust you spare them the knowledge of your wonderful prowess with a gun. If you lived in some communities that I know, the wide open spaces would not have been wide enough for you by this time. You are fully aware that detection is difficult, and undoubtedly hide your criminal tendencies under a Christian exterior, be careful or will not draw you out, you would on the slightest hurt, your yellow

Dependability, Satisfaction and Honest Value

BRIDGE ENGINEERS UNCOVER PREHISTORIC LIFE NEAR AZTEC, N. M.

Aztec.—Bridge sites have been moved up and down the river on many of the bridges of New Mexico for reasons varying all the way from quick sand to the lack of anchorage, probably the first time that a structure site was moved because of evidences of pre-historic life in on the bridge at this town over the Las Animas river.

When the engineers were making the sounding for footings they crashed through the ground at one bank. At first, a cave was suspected. On examination it was found that no cave existed, that the bridge could be built on the proposed site, but that it would rest squarely over an ancient kiva.

The evidences of ancient civilization were found all around the bridge site as the engineers investigated further. It was determined that the ruins were a part of the same group which constitutes the famous Aztec monument. Accordingly, the matter was presented to the state highway officials in Santa Fe from where orders were immediately received to move the bridge site and preserve the interesting evidences of the people who resided here long before a white man was imagined in this country.

State highway officials advised that wherever road or bridge locations interfered with historical, archeological or natural wonders the highway or structure would be moved to another site so that all such assets to the state might be preserved.

RELICS OF INDIAN TRIBE OF SUPERIOR REFINEMENT FOUND

New York, Sept. 22.—A race of Indians, differing in culture from any now known, lived on the American continent between 15,000 and 20,000 years ago, the International Congress of Americanists was told at its closing session Saturday by Barnum Brown, curator of fossil reptiles at the American museum of Natural history.

In fossilized and buffalo bones discovered near Folsom, N. M., several arrow heads unlike any so far known in Indian lore, were found, Brown said. The bones were the remains of a food kill and were preserved by debris as left by the Indians.

The arrowheads are fluted and of a workmanship which, the speaker said, equaled if it did not surpass anything heretofore discovered in America.

The fossils were excavated by the American museum and the Denver, Colo., museum. Experts from the latter institution have been working on the deposits for two years. Sixteen arrowheads of the lost people were discovered during the quarrying.

Mr. Brown declared that the find indicated an idea in archery different from that of the modern Indian, but approached by the Hopewell people, although with a refinement and technique superior to the latter's.—El Paso Herald.

A WONDERFUL WORLD

A little more praise and a little less blame,
A little more virtue, a little less shame,
A little more thought of the other man's rights,
A little less self in our chase for delights,
A little more loving, a little less hate,
Are all that is needed to make the world great.

A little more boasting, a little less jeering,
A little more trusting, a little less fearing,
A little more patients in trouble and pain,
A little less willing at times to complain,
A little more kindness worked into the strife,
Are all that is needed to glorify life.

A little more honor, a little less greed,
A little more service, a little less creed,
A little more courage when pathways are rough,
A little more action, a little less bluff,
A little more kindness by you and by me,
And, oh, what a wonderful world it would be.

INSIDE INFORMATION

Many fruits other than apples can be made into good vinegar. The United States department of agriculture has a bulletin on the subject.

Many of the windfall apples may be canned as sauce or pie apples. Cook them with as little water as possible, sweeten to taste, and pack boiling hot. Process five minutes in hot water bath.

Crisp cookies are wholesome in the school lunch box. If you haven't a recipe, send for farmers bulletin 1480-F, Home Baking. You will also find in it good recipes for doughnuts, for biscuits, muffins, popovers, and various kinds of cake, as well as directions for making yeast bread.

Choose designs for children's clothes with ironing in mind, whether you make the clothes yourself or buy them readymade. Fussy ruffles and queer-shaped parts take up the time of the laundress, and never look as well after washing and ironing as trim, smooth garments that are well-cut and made of interesting materials.

Oysters are in season again. They are extremely valuable as a source of various minerals needed by the body. Like other fresh fish, they supply iodine, and should be eaten when possible if other sea foods are hard to get. If you like fried oysters, dip them in egg and bread crumbs, and then let them stand a while to harden the coating before frying.

When pan-broiling steak be sure to have the skillet very, very hot at the start. Put the steak in the lightly greased hot skillet, turn quickly from side to side until well seared, then cook at reduced heat to the desired degree, rare, medium, or well done. Serve promptly on a hot platter, and add the seasoning of butter, salt, and a little pepper, after the meat is put on the platter. In turning the steak put the fork into the fat or edges, not into the center, or the juice will run out.

LOEB AND LEOPOLD MAY BE FREED

CHICAGO.—An error in the mittimus under which Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold Jr. were sent to Joliet penitentiary four years ago makes these two slayers of little Bobbie Franks eligible for parole in six more years, Hinton Clabaugh, chairman of the state pardons and paroles, said Tuesday.

Clabaugh spoke of Loeb and Leopold as "sons of wealth, who are pampered pets in Joliet."

These men each under life sentence for murder and 99 year sentences for kidnapping, are building up "fine records," Clabaugh said with a view to seeking parole when because of error in the mittimus they become eligible within six years.

SCOUTING PINK BOLLWORM

Field scouting to determine if any new pink bollworm infestations have appeared in the 1928 cotton crop along the Rio Grande is now under way according to George G. Becker, Entomologist in charge of the pink bollworm field service of the plant quarantine and control administration, U. S. department of agriculture.

R. W. White and two assistants are in charge of the scouting work, assisted by a corps of 27 trained men who are thoroughly familiar with the life, history and habits of the pink bollworm. These men are now scouting in the lower Rio Grande valley and, as the season advances, will cover other sections in Texas and Arizona where, in the opinion of the department, there is danger of infestation.

The conditions under which cotton is produced on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, together with the fact that pink bollworm infestations have in the past been known to occur opposite Eagle Pass and Del Rio, Texas, provide a source of possible infestation which makes it necessary to keep a close watch along the Mexican border to be certain that any stray invasions of this insect are located as soon as they become established.

It has been found that trash removed from cotton cleaners at the gin contains a large number of insects of various species and that the pink bollworm will be very likely to show up in this trash when infested cotton is ginned. Supplementing the field scouting, inspectors examine the gin trash at all gins in territory being scouted as an added precaution in checking up on the distribution of the insect.

Mr. Becker states that every possible precaution is being taken to prevent an extension of the pink bollworm into the main cotton producing states, by scouting to determine the present extent of infestation and by the enforcement of regulations in the quarantined area which will prevent the insect from being carried into new territory.

OIL SURFACING OPERATIONS INCREASE

Santa Fe.—The oiling operations of New Mexico's roads are going forward with increasing efficiency. The oil work at Springer was completed the first of the week, according to word reaching the highway office here.

Charles Springer, Chairman of the Highway Commission, W. C. Davidson, State Highway Engineer and R. M. Morton, former State Highway Engineer of California made an inspection on the Springer oiling job last week. A greater part of the 18 miles of the job were complete at that time.

Greater Dollar Value—The Secret of this Car's Amazing Popularity

The important difference which people at once recognize when comparing the new Plymouth with the few other cars of its price-class is its greater dollar-for-dollar value.

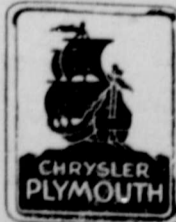

To place any of these cars beside the Plymouth is to become conscious immediately of contrasts which merely begin with its full-size and style.

Riding in the Plymouth, you sense at once the Plymouth's fundamental strength and durability, as well as the abundant power and speed of its new "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine; and the safety of its internal hydraulic 4-wheel brakes.

Give yourself the joy of half an hour's demonstration in the Plymouth.

We are confident you will declare it as unapproachable in performance as it is unapproached in dollar-for-dollar value-giving.

VICTOR HERBERT'S GREAT OPERA AT ROSWELL

Artesia people will have an opportunity of seeing a great opera at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell, October 12. The opera is under the auspices of the Roswell Woman's club and the proceeds of the play will go to the Woman's club house fund. Concerning the event, the Roswell Record says:

And "Naughty Marietta" is coming October 12th, with her great company of beautiful girls and fascinating dancers, with her gallant and handsome men, her superb traveling orchestra, and all of the rest of the people who go to make up the magnificent company comprised in this gorgeous theatrical production.

You should know this dainty little Miss! She is so adorable, so piquant, so mischievous, and so alluring.

Of course, she is the heroine of Victor Herbert's masterpiece, his splendid Opera Comique, now being presented on a scale not before attempted in a traveling company.

The world knows and loves Victor Herbert, the most popular of all American composers. Everyone has heard of this, his greatest work, few living outside of the theatrical centers have had an opportunity of enjoying so great a presentation.

Further details concerning the opera appears elsewhere in this issue.

BIG GAME REFUGE IN MOGOLLON MOUNTAINS TO BE OPEN THIS YEAR

In view of the nation-wide cry of "more game" it seems strange that there should exist anywhere on the continent a spot where game is too plentiful, but that is the case in the Mogollon Mountains, according to the State Game and Fish Commission. In certain sections of these mountains deer have become so abundant that the vegetation is threatened with extinction, and it has become imperative that the number of animals be reduced to a point commensurate with the ability of their range to support them. In short, the deer are eating themselves out of house and home.

The greatest concentration of deer occurs on and around the Black Canyon game refuge, which is located on the division line between Grant and Catron counties, and the commission has decided to open this refuge to hunting this year. No special privileges will be accorded hunters going into the refuge, and no permit other than the usual hunting license will be required. The refuge will simply take on the status of the surrounding hunting during the present season.

The Black Canyon refuge was created in 1921, and is pointed to by the game department as evidence of the ability of the refuge system to increase the game supply. No roads enter the area, but a number of ranchers in the vicinity are preparing to pack hunting parties into it, and it is expected that the number of deer will be materially reduced.

The department says that indications point to a far larger influx of non-resident hunters this year than ever before, and the office is kept busy answering letters from inquirers throughout the middle western section of the country. A good many hunters who made the trip alone last season are bringing friends along this year, one of them stating that he is this year organizing a party of sixteen for the hunt.

"Visiting sportsmen spend a great deal of money in the state, and the department considers it good business to encourage them," the game warden states, "especially in view of the fact that game is steadily increasing all over its range. The ability of the state to produce game under proper management is tremendous, and it is not outside the pale of probability that caring for the out-of-state sportsman will in time come to be one of its most important industries."

COUNTY ACT INVALID

Santa Fe.—The state supreme court has again held that the act of the 1927 legislature seeking to abolish Catron county was invalid, by denying a hearing of the case.

The legislation of 1927 would have given the greater part of Catron county to Socorro county and the southwest quarter including the Mogollon mining district to Grant county. Catron county was originally created out of Socorro county.

EVERY-DAY GOOD THINGS

A glass of orange juice before breakfast and as many glasses during the day as one can enjoy and is able to provide, will keep the system in health, sweeten the blood and keep the alimentary canal in active order. When adding orange juice to various dishes it is best uncooked, though if not cooked at a high temperature or too long the flavor and food value will not be destroyed.

Orange Queen Pudding.—Three tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half teaspoonful of grated orange rind, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, one-fourth cupful of orange juice; cook over boiling water until thick. Cool and add one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Spread six slices of bread with butter then cover with the custard mixture and lay in a baking dish. Beat the whites of two eggs with two whole eggs, add three-fourths of a cupful of orange juice and one-half cupful of milk, a pinch of salt, pour over the bread and set the pan in hot water. Bake in a slow oven until the custard is set. Serve hot or cold.

Fish Omelet.—Flake a cupful of any cooked fish and add to it a cupful of medium white sauce. Chop fine one onion, one-half a green pepper, a stalk or two of celery or the white leaves; put two tablespoonfuls of butter in an omelet pan. Beat the yolks and whites of four eggs separately, add one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper to the yolks; fold in the stiffly beaten whites and pour all into the omelet pan. Brown lightly on the bottom, then set into a hot oven to dry off. Pour half the fish mixture over the omelet, then fold and pour over the remainder. Serve hot.

One may prepare shortcakes, deep pies or bird's nest puddings and various other delicious desserts with dried fruit.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKERS OPEN CAMPAIGN AT SANTA ROSA MONDAY

SANTA ROSA.—Describing the two terms of the Wilsonian administration as "the greatest era of constructive legislation in American history with the accompanying expenditure of billions of dollars without suggestion of graft or misappropriation," Jethro S. Vaught, democratic nominee for the United States senate, formerly opened the democratic campaign in New Mexico Monday.

Speaking of a political rally which was made the occasion for an all day barbecue, Mr. Vaught, paid high tribute to the accomplishments of the democratic party during its last administration, and turning to the present republican administration charged that:

"Never since George Washington took his first oath of office as president of this country has there been a period in our national history so filled with corruption, great and dishonesty in high places in our governmental affairs as in the period from March 4, 1921 up to the present time."

Juan N. Vigil, nominee to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator A. A. Jones, Miss Jennie Fortune candidate for re-election as secretary of state, and Coe Howard, nominee for lieutenant governor also spoke on the program.

Attorney General Robert C. Dow, nominee for governor, who formally opened his campaign Wednesday at Estancia was present and made a brief talk.

James D. Hannah, democratic chairman of Guadalupe county, was the Generalissimo of the day's festivities, assisted by members of the democratic committee from over the county. Accompanying the democratic nominee were Felipe Chacon of Albuquerque and Milnor Rudolph of Mora.

Worth It

"Twas off the coast of dear old Ireland, and the steamship was a trifle out of its course. It had, in fact, taken the wrong turning.

"Breakers ahead! We are lost," yelled the lookout from his point of vantage in the bows.

"Begorra!" cried the Irish cook, "we're not lost if that will save us."

And seizing a belaying pin, he hit the lookout man such a blow as to completely floor the man.

"How dare you?" bellowed the captain angrily. "Why did you strike that man?"

"Well," replied Pat, "he yelled, 'Break us a bend, or we are lost' and, sure I did it, sir. And I'll break a dozen more, sir, if that'll save the ship."—Weekly Scotsman.

BUSINESS OF HIWAYS IN NEW MEXICO AS TOLD BY L. HAYSTEAD

The following excerpts from "Business of Highways in New Mexico," was written by Ladd Haystead and published in the September issue of the Southern California Business:

Some 122,503 square miles of territory over which 380,000 people are scattered is a picture of New Mexico. The fourth largest state in the Union with little towns in every corner of it. Thirty per cent of this state is public land and therefore untaxable. Yet each group of people, each community, be it farming, grazing, manufacturing, must be served with some form of transportation facility with the outside world as well as with each other.

With such a large area, such a small population and so much untaxable land, New Mexico maintains and is constantly reaching out to take in more of the 10,000 miles which constitute the road-web of the state.

Two major arteries cross the state from east to west, the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific, with a line connecting the two running from north to south down the Rio Grande valley. But the feeders of these two lines are not little branch lines as are found in the east. Rather, roads are the means by which the railroad can pick up its trade and traffic. Thus the condition of the roads, the contemplated building of roads, the type of road are major considerations in nearly every business deal.

The prosperity New Mexico is enjoying is largely due to the degree of excellence with which she has built her roads to date. The future is definitely dependent on them. She is dependent on them not only for business expansion but for her greatest need of all—people.

Last year a little over a quarter of a million foreign cars entered the state. They carried slightly over seven hundred thousand people. This number is increasing this year according to information gathered by the state highway department and camp ground proprietors. Over three of the major trunk lines of travel, highways 80, 85 and 86, seventy five per cent or more of the eastbound foreign motor cars were from California. Of the entire number which entered the state last year 17 per cent were from California.

Just as California frankly looks upon the visitors who enter the state as business assets, so does New Mexico. These people spent sixteen million dollars while they were here. Roads brought them, roads were their chief interest while here, roads were the interest of the merchants purveying to them.

Distributors thinking of serving New Mexicans may be assured of efficient transmission of goods over all the major roads of the state. Capital wishing to invest there in developing the stupendous resources of the state may do so with every surety of receiving a transportation outlet. Roads are built in New Mexico, not by the whim of a select group of citizens, but where the state as a whole may hope for the greatest return from the investment of the road.

It is possible that in years gone by, business has been lost to the state from lack of an improved highway system. It is possible that some readers of Southern California Business may have had cause to complain when traveling in this state. These complaints have themselves been turned to profit and the reasons largely eliminated. The future will witness their complete elimination as rapidly as funds will permit.

Prominent merchants in various towns have enthusiastically volunteered the information that their towns and businesses are growing with a lustiness that promises a brilliant future. Without exception they attribute the major cause of their growth to the coming of an improved highway.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS PLAY BASKETBALL GAME FOR FOX FILM

Members of the basketball teams of Hollywood High school who participated in the exciting fray in Fox Films "High School Hero" consider themselves among the luckiest boys in America.

These boys were not only chosen for their ability at the game and given a chance to work in the picture, but had as their coach the famous sprinter and athlete Charles Paddock.

Paddock who plays the part of the coach in "High School Hero," gave the eager youths lots of pointers on training and athletic form outside the actual working on the picture.

Sally Phipps and Nick Stuart have the featured roles and others in the cast are John Darrow, David Rollins, Brandon Hurst, Wade Boteler, and William N. Bailey. David Butler directed.

The picture is to have a one day showing at the Majestic Theatre next Tuesday Oct. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Stroud are both champion riders and ropers and have with them several men who are champions in their line. They carry several trained horses and a number of bucking broncos. In one of their features Mrs. Stroud on her horse jumps over an automobile. The number of contestants in the rodeo will be large and they are coming from all over the country for this show.

After dinner the party attended the style show put on by Joyce Fruit Co., at the Majestic Theatre.

STYLE SHOW OF JOYCE FRUIT CO. LAST NIGHT A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Charm of color and fabric characterized the fashion show given by the Joyce Fruit dry goods department at the Majestic Theatre last night. The Joyce Fruit style show has become an annual event looked forward to by the lovers of the beautiful in Artesia, but this year's show was different in that every garment was taken from the stock of the local store and was displayed by home people, instead of being supplemented by importations from the stores of the company in adjoining towns.

The success of the effort was evidenced by the fact the interest of the audience never lagged from the instant that little Bettyne Lanning, charming in a lovely airy fairy dress stepped into view until the final ensemble in which the company clad in attractive lounging robes, which did not wholly conceal the pretty clothes of dreamland beneath, bade them a tuneless farewell with that oldtime favorite, "Goodnight Ladies."

The stage of the Majestic was advantageously arranged for the show with brilliant illumination, an attractive floral background and a dais at the back from which the details of the costumes could be effectively displayed. As the young ladies appeared upon the scene the observers were reminded of the remark, not infrequently heard, that there are none but pretty girls nowadays. One pretty girl followed another in a smart evening or party gown and the effect was charming. Afternoon gowns of distinction in the popular brown and black and featuring the lovely soft velvet, so modish now, coats with fur collars showing the tendency to the Elizabethan ruff slant and with the long slim lines which constitute chic in coat styles, were part of the exhibit. The sport clothes were nifty and even coats for rainy weather gave evidence of style in line and color. The modish note peculiar to each style of garment was present in the samples shown. The dipping lines and floating ends, the growing tendency to softness and femininity, the slender lines, the smart little hats and nifty shoes, and all accessories proclaimed the show to be up to the minute.

The men had a small place in the exhibit, but sufficient to indicate the tendency in masculine styles, the long baggy trousers and neat fitting coats, the aggressive stripes in suitings and striking colors in sport clothes. Even the neat little cane, affected by some up-to-date young men, was not lacking.

Two intervals occurred during the display, when very pleasing vocal numbers were given by Mrs. John Lanning and Miss Katherine Ragsdale.

The young people who participated in the entertainment were Mrs. John Lanning and little daughter, Bettyne, the Misses Katherine Ragsdale, Katherine Clarke, Marjorie Wingfield, Verda Merle Prude, Celia Rehberg, Ruth Bigler, Fern McCaw, and Messrs. Herman Cole, Tex Henson, Melvin Jernigan and Ormande Loving.

Mr. C. Bert Smith, manager of the department, and his assistants, are to be congratulated upon the unqualified success of the style event of the year.

IMMIGRATION FIGURES

Immigration Figures.—The first month of the new fiscal year, starting July 1, 1928, saw a total of 36,658 aliens enter the United States. Only 20,682 of these were classified as immigrants, the remainder being tourists or other temporary visitors. During the same month 28,053 aliens left the United States, 20,249 being returning visitors or aliens going to some foreign country for a short stay, the other 7,804, classified as emigrants, having left to make their homes abroad again. While the admission in July were below the monthly average for the past fiscal year, the departures this month exceeded the average for that period.

The most profitable age at which to slaughter hogs is usually between 8 and 12 months.

In preparing the seed bed for winter wheat following a cultivator crop such as soybeans or corn, there is considerable saving in labor if the ground is prepared by disking rather than plowing, specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture state.

The best quality of meat can be obtained from a hog that is in good flesh and in a thrifty condition. Overfinished hogs produce fatter hams, bacon and other cuts than the average family desires.

Control of the red-necked raspberry cane-borer, which occasionally causes injury to raspberry, blackberry, and dewberry crops in the eastern United States, can be accomplished by cutting out and burning infested canes in the fall or winter.

Fall-sown oats should follow crops that can be removed from the land in time to permit sowing in the early fall. Late seeding is one of the factors responsible for the low yield of fall-sown oats in the south, U. S. department of agriculture specialists believe.

A good fattening ration for poultry may be made of 6 parts, by weight, of corn meal, 2 parts of ground oats (without hulls), and 2 parts of middlings, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. Mix this ration with milk, using 2 pounds to 1 pound of milk.

The greatest progress in the dairy industry in this country lies not in increasing the number of dairy cows, but in increasing the production per cow, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. Why milk and care for 20 common cows when you can make more money by milking and caring for 10 selected high-producing cows?

In fattening turkeys for market an excellent plan is to begin about the first of October to feed night and morning, feeding just enough at a time so that the birds go away a little hungry, and gradually increase the quantity until they are given all they will clean up three times a day the week before marketing.

The use of rubber shoes and rubber hoof pads, instead of plain iron shoes for horses that are worked on hard-surfaced roads, is often an aid in preventing corns and other foot ailments and usually lengthens the period of the horse's usefulness. This kind of shoeing is also valuable in preventing slipping on hard surfaces and reduces to a minimum the danger of falling.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL CONTEST TO END SOON ATTRACTS INTEREST

All those who contemplate entering any phase of the improvement or city beautiful contest should hold in mind that the contest closes with the growing season, which is soon to end. So far the interest manifested has been very gratifying, but the committee is anxious that every one have an opportunity of participating in the contest. If you want to enter in any department, it will be necessary that you do so at an early date. Specimens of cut flowers may be brought to either drug store each Wednesday and placed on exhibit.

Here are a few pointers for growing flowers for another year:

Do not wait until the last thing in your garden is frozen to begin fall gardening.

Pile up leaves in a back corner and cover with soil or sod to make compost for spring use.

Now is the time to divide Peony roots, plant lillies, and most species of bulbs.

September and October are the months to plant annuals such as poppies, sweet peas, larkspur, floss and etc.

Roses need a good feed of nitrate of soda or liquid manure during the heavy fall blooming season.

Petunias and snapdragons may be carefully taken up and potted and if cut back completely, will in a few weeks begin a new growth and blossom all winter.

Dahlia bulbs often keep better in the ground than when lifted, be sure they are well drained and divide next spring.
