WHO PAID THE BILL?

In a certain town there was a merchant by the name of Hank Snarl. Hank did not believe in advertising. As the years went by Hank's business dropped gradually away.

One day there came to Hank's town a young man who obtained a position as ad solicitor for the local newspaper. The old editor told the young man not to waste his time with Hank, but the young man was undaunted and finally persuaded Hank to put on a sale of men's suits.

It was first ascertained that Hank sold usually 100 suits per year; that these suits cost $15 and retailed for $30.

By the agreement with Hank, the ad-man agreed to prepare all of the ad copy and conduct the sale.
For the sale, the suits were reduced to $22.50.
Three hundred suits were sold. $250 was the amount spent for advertising. Hank made a profit of $2,000 who paid for the advertising.

Certainly not Hank, for he sold more suits during the sale than he would ordinarily have sold during the entire year. He made a profit of $2,000, or $500 more than his usual annual profit on 100 suits.

The people who bought the suits did not pay the bill, for in ordinary circumstances they would have paid $30 each for the suits and they saved money.

It is clear that the young man who put on the sale was not out of pocket.

Who then actually paid for this advertising? Why, of course, the bill was paid by the merchants whose suits remained on their shelves, because Hank beat them to their regular customers.

There are a few merchants here in Artesia who do not believe that advertising pays. Certainly it pays the American Tobacco Company, General Motors, Ford and all the other companies of national prominence.

A new kind of a highway mucher has been found over close to Alamogordo. The mucher, stops passing cars with the plea that he would like to borrow a little gas and would make payment as soon as he reaches the nearest town. He forgets his obligation, it seems according to the experience of one man, who met the same car stopped on the opposite side of town, with the same plea the following day.

NEW COUNTY SEAT

A movement is said to be on foot to divide Lea county, creating Seligman county out of the southern section, probably with Hobbs as the county seat. It should be defeated. Lea county is none too strong as it is and it is far better to have one good county than two weak ones. Chaves county would be far better off to-day if it had not been cut into so much in the past and some of the weaker sections around also would have been benefited by remaining a part of Chaves county. There has been too much county division in New Mexico. — Roswell Record.

So far this county seat business has proved to be more or less of a joke in New Mexico. Many rightly think that if we had about fifteen counties instead of thirty-one, the tax burden would be less.

A SELFISH VIEW

The New England senators do not seem to think that a tariff on foreign oil is needed. Yet they expect the oil producing states to buy their manufactured goods, the raw materials of which in most instances are protected by a high tariff. If you can see any consistency in a selfish view of this sort, its more than we can see. We have been unable to figure out how we can stay prosperous enough to buy a lot of New England goods and have our domestic crude supply throttled to death with cheap foreign oil, a lot of which is refined on the Atlantic seaboard.

Looks like it time for the west and south to get together. We can live without New England goods.
There are more than enough manufacturing plants in the south and west to supply our needs.

NEW PARTY LINES

Many believe that the old party lines will be obliterated within the next few years in national congress and that the west and south will be aligned against the industrial east. Recent efforts to get a restriction or an embargo on oil lend considerable weight to the new alignment theory. The west and south is yet a larger producer of raw materials, while the east is largely manufacturing. Manufactured articles are usually protected by a tariff, but not so with raw produce.

NEED BETTER LAWS, NOT MORE LAWS

This country is surfeited with laws. There are so many statutes that it is utterly impossible for the average citizen to be conversant with them, even superficially. This superfluity of statutory law tends to lower general respect for law. It should be the purpose of all legislative bodies to keep down to the minimum the number of legislative enactments.

Fewer laws, and laws of better quality, is the supreme need of the hour throughout the nation, says
the Pasadena Star-News.

The career of the New York World, a leading daily of the metropolitan city has ended because it could not make a financial go of publishing a newspaper in a big field with few competitors. A newspaper does not always provide its owner with a mint, all opinions to the contrary notwithstanding. There is still a great deal in the ways a newspaper conducts its business affairs, as to whether it may keep its head above the water in the business world. Now 2,000 employees are out of a job.

William John Cooper, U. S. Commissioner of Education thinks mentally gifted children of our public schools create just as much of a problem as the mentally defective child. There are about 1,500,000 such children now in schools he states and the real danger lies in the fact that such apt children get the habit of just drifting along and day dreaming.

Many schools have devised a test, which is calculated to eliminate this problem to a large extent.

If a bill introduced by Representative W. A. Spence passes the house and senate, hitch-hiking in New Mexico will be rather hazardous. The measure provides a fine of $500 or six months in jail for persons caught tramping along the highways.

INSIDE INFORMATION

Try vanilla ice cream with hot baked Indian pudding.

Serve children small portions of food so they can clear their plates without urging and without the feeling of being stuffed. Let them ask for second helpings if they are hungry.

Tin darkens with use, and this tarnish protects the tin; therefore tin utensils should not be scoured simply for the sake of making them bright. When food dries or burns on tin utensils it may be removed by heating a weak soda solution in the pan and then washing it thoroughly.

Change the kind of bread you use from time to time. Instead of always serving white bread, have whole wheat, rye, raisin, or date bread, once in a while; make rolls of different kinds, corn bread, baking powder biscuits, muffins, honi-ny or graham gems, corn sticks, corn pones, or even toasted bread.

MONEY SPENT AT HOME COMES BACK TO REGISTER

Artesia has never tried the scheme that some cities are now trying, to pay bills by a special check provided with ten endorsements on it and see how fast money circulates, but Carl Cunningham of Cunningham Brothers had a marked dollar that he kept track of for several weeks.
Mr. Cunningham secured a dollar in Old Mexico that had been dented by a lead bullet. When the silver dollar was finally put into circulation it returned at regular two week intervals to the cash drawer.
Finally the dollar disappeared and has not been seen since. Perhaps the holder spent it out of town. Anyway the missing dollar slowed up business to the extent of about $100 weekly.

Ole and his wife had been in swimming in the ocean a time or two and the next time he went in the tide took his wife out and they failed to rescue her.

Ole stayed around a few days to see if his wife's body could not be found, finally he returned home.

Several days later he received the following telegram: "Wife's body shows up, clasped in sea serpent's mouth. stop. Circus offers $5,000 for serpent. stop. Wire instructions."

To which Ole wired: "O. K. ac-

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bayrum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rot off.

Heal Those Sore Gums

Even after pyorrhea has affected your

EIGHTY FOUR HOBBS FAMILIES HAVE BEEN TRANSPORTED OUT N. M.

SANTA FE—Eighty-four destitute families who lived in or near Hobbs have been transported to their legal residences in other states, Miss Margaret Reeves said Monday in a report on the Hobbs relief activities.

Miss Reeves, who is the director of child welfare, said her bureau has worked with 295 families in the Hobbs area. Of the 84 families supplied with transportation, 32 were taken care of by the bureau of child welfare and the county commissioners of Lea county and 13 families were aided by the American Red Cross.

Thirty-nine families, she said have been persuaded to leave Hobbs but have been able to go without financial assistance from the outside. Plans have been made for movement of five additional families, but their going has been delayed because of illness in the families.

STATE LABOR LAW IS NOW SIGNED

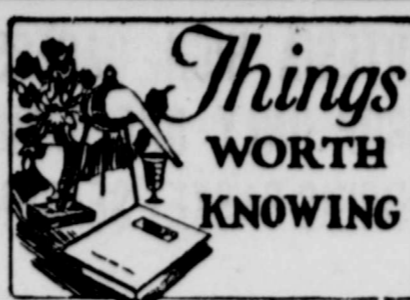

SANTA FE — The New Mexico labor and industrial commission bill is now the law of the state.

Governor Arthur Seligman Friday evening signed the bill in the presence of labor representatives. The pen with which he signed the bill was presented to Dan Kelly, chairman of the legislative board of the Big Four.

The governor now has thirty days in which to appoint two members of the labor commission who in turn select a third member of the commission, and the commission chooses the labor commissioner.

Diner (to waiter): "What's the name of that selection the orchestra is playing?"

Waiter: "Go Feather Your Nest."

Soybeans planted in combination with other crops such as corn, cowpeas, sudan grass, and sorghums furnish a well-balanced ration, a large yield, and a great variety of forage.

The best lettuce seed is that grown the season previous to planting. Strictly fresh seed—that is, seed planted the same season it is grown—may germinate poorly, and lettuce plants grown from seed more than 2 years old may lack vigor.

Farrowing pens should be supplied with outside feeding pens or floors away from the pigs where the sows are fed. Make the outside pens as wide as the farrowing pen, extending 6 or 8 feet beyond the building. If the sow is fed in the farrowing pen, she may cripple or kill some of the pigs. A guard rail around the inside of the farrowing pen about 10 inches from the floor and 4 to 6 inches from the sides will tend to prevent the sow from crushing the pigs when she lies down.

It is a good plan to reserve a small corner of the truck for a seed-bed. Plants of such crops as lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower and tomato will be more stocky if they are started in specially prepared soil and later transplanted. Good soil for seed-beds consists of 1 part well-rotted manure, 2 parts of good garden loam or rotted sods, and 1 part of sharp, fine sand. Let the manure rot thoroughly, but do not expose it to the weather. The addition of leaf mold or peat makes a heavy soil better adapted for the seedbed.

One of the chief sources of milk contamination on the farm is milk utensils which have not been properly washed and treated to kill bacteria. Rinse them on the outside as soon as possible after use. Scrub them with a brush, using warm water containing a soda ash or alkaline washing powder. After washing, steam them as thoroughly as possible. A galvanized-iron box with a small quantity of water in the bottom, heated over a fire, will serve for steaming. If steam is not available, use a chlorine solution. The utensils must be cleaned thoroughly so that no particles or organic matter stick to them. A chlorine solution should be used only once and must be made up twice daily.

STREET OILING

Lukins, former resident of Los Angeles, has written us about oiling streets. What Mr. Lukins has to say about oiling streets is of interest to us. We are reproducing his letter as follows:

Los Angeles, California, February 24th, 1931.

I did its last street oiling. I advocated that the streets be oiled. The order was issued in March 1929, after President Hoover announced in a statement to the press that such a policy would be put into effect.

Mrs. McLennan had been given permission to prospect on a public tract near Sacramento, California and she and a number of others brought suit. They contended Wilbur's order had set aside an act of congress.

The District of Columbia supreme court decided Wilbur had acted illegally but the court of appeals reversed this ruling. Deprived of prospective revenue under this order, the states of New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado participated in the attacks upon the action of the interior department.

Before a class of ambitious hopefuls stood the teacher, attempting to elucidate the mysteries of prose and poetry. "If you were to say," explained the teacher. "There was an old woman who lived behind a hill, and if she hasn't moved she lives there still," that is poetry. But if you were to say, "There was an old woman who lived behind a hill, and if she hasn't moved she lives there yet," that is prose. Now, class, give me some examples of prose and poetry."

After a minute, a bright-eyed and impatient youngster in the back row jumped to his feet. "All right, Tommy, give me an example."

Tommy scrutinized his paper sharply, and read: "There was an old woman who lived by a well; one day she stepped in and now she's gone to— what do you want, prose or poetry?"—Sunshine.

The wife had been put on the budget plan. At the end of each month she and her husband would go over the accounts together. Every once in a while he would find an item, "L. O. K., $3.00," and a little further on, "L. O. K., $6.00."

Finally he said, "My dear, what is this—L. O. K.?" "Lord Only Knows," she replied.—Dallas Times Herald.

"Whassa matter, Flo?" "Gawd, Mae! Never go out with a chiropractor."—Mead Co-operation.

ter, but will simply suggest that anyone who thinks it is not practical come here and see for themselves, there are miles and miles of oiled surfaced streets being laid each year, (I mean just what I say STREETS not country roads). In my last article, I referred to the oiled surfaced street in front of our home, when this was re-surfaced in 1929 a person could walk or drive over it the same afternoon as the top dressing was applied and there never has been a time since when a person would get any oil on their shoes by walking on it, and I do not hesitate to say that the surface for every intent and purpose for a residential district is as good as the best paved street in Artesia and I will venture to say at less than 10% of the cost. Of course to use caliche for foundation as I suggested in my last article would make the first cost in constructing oil and gravel surfaced streets considerable more than if it was not used, but if the work was well and properly done the upkeep would be very light.

In speaking of gravel, I mean crushed rock, fine even gravel, would answer the purpose, altho not quite so well, as it does not have as much flat wearing surface nor the angles to help to hold it in place.

After giving this method of road construction a little more thought, I believe a top dressing of one inch thickness would be better than thicker, in constructing the streets here that I referred to, they used what is known to road builders here as NO. 90 road oil and spread it very hot, then spread the crushed rock on top of the oil just as quickly as possible, (would do just one block at a time).

Anyone who would declare this kind of an oil and rock surfaced street not practical, just don't know what they are talking about and would be considered by many here, to be from the Ozarks.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW THE HOOVER CONSERVATION POLICY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Hoover's oil conservation policy will be reviewed by the supreme court. The case was brought to the highest court in an appeal by Ethel M. McLennan of Columbia court of appeals which held valid an order of Secretary Wilbur closing the public domain to oil and gas prospectors.

The order was issued in March 1929, after President Hoover announced in a statement to the press that such a policy would be put into effect.

Mrs. McLennan had been given permission to prospect on a public tract near Sacramento, California and she and a number of others brought suit. They contended Wilbur's order had set aside an act of congress.

The District of Columbia supreme court decided Wilbur had acted illegally but the court of appeals reversed this ruling.

TREES LEAFING OUT
A few weeping willows in the North part of town and a cluster of weeping willows at the Oasis have leaved out. This is rather unusual for this season of the year and indicates that an early spring may be expected, notwithstanding the intervening cold spells. One or two residents have been able to keep a patch of green lettuce all winter without serious injury to the patch.

McCormick Reaper Centennial Celebration and Power Farming Entertainment

JUST one hundred years ago Cyrus Hall McCormick gave the world its first reaper. That was in 1831. Now, in 1931, we celebrate the centenary of that great event. We want you to come in and be our guest for a day. A special program has been arranged for your complete enjoyment. Two miles of mighty interesting motion pictures—short talks on subjects of interest to every farmer. Plan now to be with us!

A full-size, working reproduction of the original 1831 reaper will be on display. You will also see the five-reel motion picture, "Romance of the Reaper"—especially filmed to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the invention of the McCormick Reaper.

Centennial Celebration Program

Monday, March 9th

- 9:30 to 10:30 Show 1831 Reaper, New Six Speed Special Truck, New Milker and Power Farming Machines on the dealer's sample floor.
- 10:30 to 11:30 Show, sound picture, "Romance of the Reaper," at local theater.
- 12:00 to 1:30 Free Lunch in dealer's store.
- 1:30 to 2:30 Talk on the invention of the Reaper.
- 2:30 to 3:00 Red Baby will be given away.

As each farmer comes in he will be given an enrollment card to fill out. After he has filled it out he will be given a Centennial Medallion. No Medallions will be given to those who do not fill out cards.

NOTED SOLOIST TO BE ON AIR IN THE CONOCO LISTENERS HR. MCH. 11

Margaret Speaks, niece of the composer Oley Speaks, and one of the youngest lyric sopranos of note in the country, has been selected by Peggy and Pat—the listener's representatives—as guest soloist for the next broadcast of the Conoco Listeners' Hour, the fifteenth of the series.
 A wish expressed by her famous uncle that he might have a permanent record of her radio concert for his music library will be granted in a unique way. An electrical transcription of the broadcast will be made and presented to him.
 Margaret Speaks is one of the increasing number of singers who have received their training in the United States in preference to going abroad. She has become popular with the concert audiences of the larger eastern cities and has just completed a successful concert tour of the south.
 Her previous radio activities have been very numerous. She has been featured on the "Philco Hour," the "Libby Hour," "Piquot Personalities," the "Baldwin Piano Hour," and other programs.
 One of the numbers she will sing on the Conoco Listeners' Hour will be her uncle's most famous song, "Sylvia," for which there have been many requests. Pat reports that she has promised to sing a "popular" song or two of the type he and his following prefer.
 Hear Miss Speaks, Peggy and Pat, the Conoco orchestra and the Ron-doliers, Wednesday night, March 11, from station KGGM, Albuquerque, at 8:30; WKY Oklahoma City, at 6:15.

WHY

There Can Be Months Without a Full Moon.

Moonless month is the name popularly given to a month in which no full moon falls, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. Under our present calendar February is the only month that is shorter than the lunar cycle and consequently it is the only month which can have fewer than four moon phases. The missing phase, however, need not necessarily be the full moon, but may be any one of the four. Like-wise five phases of the moon occasionally fall in the other months.
 The average time from one full moon to another is 29 1/2 days, and the time from one phase to another varies from less than seven days to more than eight. About every six years February has only three moon phases; it is, of course, without a full moon much less frequently. In 1896 February had no full moon, while the preceding January and the following March had two full moons each.
 This remarkable sequence, astronomers estimated, will not occur again for 2,500,000 years. February was without a full moon in 1885 and 1915, and from approximate computations made by the Naval observatory there will be no full moon in February 1934 and 1961. Februaries without new moons or either of the other two phases occur at about the same intervals, but, of course, in different years.

Why Moon Is Kept From Obeying Law of Gravity

Two forces, working in opposite directions, neutralize each other and determine the orbit of the moon. Like any other moving body the moon tends to follow a straight flight path. If the gravitational pull of the earth were suddenly annihilated the moon would move away on a straight line tangent to its flight path at the instant of release. The earth is continuously pulling the moon in from this tangent path which it tries to follow. If the speed of the moon were reduced it would move in closer to the earth. Mere motion of an object does not overcome gravity. For instance a bullet fired from a horizontal gun will start to fall immediately and will fall at precisely the same rate as another bullet of the same size and weight dropped from the hand at the same elevation. But the force which moves the moon is working against gravity and it depends on speed.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why Drive Nails Into Trees

A query which comes to my desk asking what to do for pear trees which blossom and do not mature fruit and where the color of leaves is dull, calls to mind that years ago when a small boy my father sent me to the garden to drive some nails into one of the pear trees there to meet the same condition, and it proved successful.
 Those nails as they rusted supplied the iron which was deficient in the soil. I am reminded of this in reading that one of our scientists advises putting iron salts in holes bored into pear trees where the leaves are dull in color and the trees show lack of vitality.
 This has been the practice for generations in Europe. Bring a fruit tree into healthy condition and it will produce fruit provided the blossoms are fertilized.—Portland Press-Herald.

W. O. W. of New Mexico and Mexico to Meet in Artesia, April 13-15

Head Consul G. C. Smith Announces Large Gathering of Members to be Held

THE head camp meeting of the Woodmen of the World of New Mexico and Mexico will be held at Artesia, New Mexico April 1, 2 and 3, according to announcement today by Head Consul G. C. Smith of Las Cruces, New Mexico.
 The head camp meetings are held every two years and, according to Head Consul Smith, delegates and members of their families will journey from all parts of New Mexico and Mexico for the meeting this year at Artesia.
 The Woodmen of the World is exceptionally interested in Mexico and New Mexico because the national association owns more than $800,000 worth of municipal, county and state securities in Mexico and New Mexico.

W. A. Fraser

Head Consul Smith stated that many new members are now being obtained and will be initiated in one large class at the time of the head camp meeting.

The Honorable W. A. Fraser is president of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Association. He is one of the leading fraternalists of the world. He has had more than 30 years experience in the fraternal insurance field. He has been associated with the Woodmen of the World since 1897. For many years Mr. Fraser has been active in the field of public and community service. During the World War he was connected with the bureau of conservation of natural resources and chairman of the advisory board for the division of military and naval insurance.

Two of the largest enterprises that have placed the Woodmen of the World in the fore ranks of progressive Fraternal Insurance societies, and made it nationally prominent are the War Memorial Hospital at San Antonio, Texas and Radio Station WOW at Omaha, Nebraska.

At the present time the Woodmen of the World is constructing a $150,000 Chapel and Bird Sanctuary at San Antonio, on the grounds of the Memorial Hospital.

Rocky Kile is now employed as Chevrolet salesman at Lovington. The family will remain here until the close of school.

Dick Westaway of Carlsbad, deputy assessor spent Tuesday here finishing the assessment of some personal property.

Miss Hattie Herring spent the week-end in Carlsbad, going down especially to see her new nephew, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bish, who was born in a Carlsbad hospital Saturday.

Rex Wheatley drove to Carlsbad Tuesday to see his brother, Ray Wheatley, who was en route to Pecos, Texas to attend a directors meeting of the Pecos division of the Santa Fe railway.

Channel Markers

In the earlier days of this country, spending the family budget was a hazardous business. It was only by harsh experience that a householder learned to steer clear of bad bargains and come into port with his money's worth.

There were snags and shoals aplenty. Inferior goods and unscrupulous merchandising methods made the channel dangerous. "Let the buyer beware" was an accepted slogan of trade.

Fortunately for millions of consumers, this condition has wholly changed in more recent years. The channel has been charted. Today advertised, trade-marked goods of known value are for sale in every city and hamlet. The buyer knows he can trust such products. He reads the advertisements in his paper, chooses the commodities he needs, and makes his purchases with the knowledge that he will get full value for his outlay.

The advertising columns of this newspaper point the way to satisfaction. If you make it a habit to read them with care you will save money, and save time.

The Fun of Vegetable Gardening

By CAROLINE B. KING

THE man or woman who has never pulled a scarlet radish from his own garden patch has a vivid sun-warmed ear from his own vines, or a corn cob from his own corn stalks. The water for its cooking was boiling merrily on the kitchen stove as one of life's most delicious meals.

Making a garden, growing the things for one's table, harvesting the cabbages, storing the squash and turnips and digging the potatoes—every step in gardening filled with a glorious excitement on the moment the first faint green leaf appears above the soil till the last green tomato has been transformed into translucent, tender, juicy pickles.

It is amazing the results one can obtain—one packet of tomato seeds will furnish enough plants to supply a whole family with even more for canning; a carton of corn seed will give the family special satisfaction for several weeks; a paper radish seed will be ample to provide the family and some of the neighbors many crisp, piquant radishes; a little lettuce seed will last a row 100 feet long, and so it might go on and on. A few more spent in buying good vegetable seeds, a few hours spent in planting and caring for the garden and one is generously repaid both in better health and better meals.

When the crop is harvested one will want to know just how to cook the delicious vegetables so that they may be enjoyed at their very best. So here are several recipes that are tried and true; also unusual and good:—

Baked Corn and Tomatoes: Arrange sliced, peeled tomatoes and corn cut from the cob in layers in a buttered baking dish, adding a little finely chopped onion. Season with salt and pepper, dot generously with butter and cover the dish with soft bread crumbs. Bake about thirty minutes in a fairly hot oven.

Steamed Squash Au Gratin: Cut the squash in small pieces and steam until very tender, then peel and cut in cubes. Make a good white sauce and arrange the squash in layers in a buttered baking dish, alternating with the white sauce. Sprinkle each layer lightly with grated cheese and top the dish with bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake a delicate brown.

Creamed Radishes: Wash well large white radishes, but do not peel, cut into quarters and cook in very little boiling salted water. Drain and pour over a rich white sauce, sprinkle with paprika and serve hot.

APPLICATIONS FOR LOANS ON VETS BONUS COMING IN RAPIDLY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By mail and at paying windows of the veterans' bureau thousands of ex-soldiers are obtaining new loans against their service certificates.

The law, making available half the face value of each certificate at 4½ per cent interest, went into effect Friday as the senate joined the house in overwhelming the veto of President Hoover.

Immediately the veterans bureau put its forces at work paying out money. One check to a veteran was in the mail five minutes after the senate completed its 76 to 17 vote over-riding the veto. Within an hour 400 were out and the total reached the thousand mark by nightfall. This from the Washington office. The 54 regional offices were notified to go into action and $17,750,000 in funds on hand were dispatched them to meet the checks.

President Hoover announced that everything would be done to facilitate carrying out the law now it was in effect, notwithstanding his objections to it. He requested Administrator Hines to give veterans in need priority.

Hines urged veterans throughout the country to let those in need submit their applications first. He urged them also not to borrow unless necessary, pointing out that the loans cut into the certificates' value as paid up endowment policies.

A veterans borrowing $500 now on a $1,000 certificate, he said, would if he failed to pay interest, have only $74.03 coming to him at the 1945 maturity.

SCOUT NEWS

The Boy Scouts had charge of the regular chapel services at the Junior High school last Tuesday morning. Eight uniformed scouts demonstrated a patrol meeting, which consisted of stunts, knot tying and fire-building.

Minor Huffman, area scout executive made a short talk immediately following the scout program.

H. W. Brown who is here from El Paso auditing the books of the Alfalfa Association made a talk at the regular scout meeting Tuesday evening. Mr. Brown is a scout leader in El Paso and is especially interested in archery.

Troop 29 is building a trailer to carry their equipment to the jamboree which is being held in Roswell April 17 and 18.

Murray Wykes has been appointed assistant scoutmaster of troop 29. An ideal meeting room has been equipped for the Boy Scouts in the basement of the Methodist church.

Court of Honor Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Boy Scout Court of Honor was held last Monday evening at the office of Gilbert and Collins. Lea Shearman was advanced to the rank of tenderfoot scout. The following first class scouts were awarded merit badges: John Shearman, basketry; Orlin Woodside, metal work; Delbert Jones, metal work; Ormand Loving, metal work; Tony King, handicraft.

S. W. Gilbert, W. E. Kerr and H. G. Scoggins members of the local committee made the awards.

SENATE GENERAL APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED SATURDAY

The senate general appropriation bill was introduced Friday and represented by Senator Lee as being within Governor Arthur Seligman's tax reduction plan.

The bill totals $2,171,622 annually, and is divided into departments which derive their income from other sources and general property tax.

Annual institutional appropriations follow:

University of New Mexico, $268,000; New Mexico A. & M., $200,000; School of Mines, $47,600; Silver Normal, $95,350; Normal University, $197,450; El Rito Normal, $50,000; N. M. M. I., $62,500; Asylum for deaf and dumb, $51,000; Institute for Blind, $78,450; Insane Asylum, $100,000; Penitentiary, $96,000; State School, $22,500; Miners' School, $10,000; Museum of New Mexico, $10,000; State Library Extension, $7,125; New Mexico State University, $2,200; Girls' Welfare, $7,500; Training School for Deaf, $34,000.

Departmental appropriations:

Comptroller, $3,682; Sinking Fund, $100,000; Legislative, $24,500; Governor's office, $16,300; Secretary of State, $12,000; Attorney General, $10,000; State Auditor, $8,750; State Controller, $7,500; State Treasurer, $7,500; Tax Commission, $25,000; Department of Education, $37,000; Department of Public Welfare, $100,000; Corporation Commission (including transportation department), $51,775; State Bank Examiner, $4,000; State Engineer, $12,300; State Board of Mines, $4,400; National Board of Fire Underwriters, $7,000; Capitol Custodian, $4,000; State Supreme Court, $10,000; State Law Library, $6,782; State Court reports, $2,500; District Judges and District Attorneys, $100,000.

DON'T CUSS OLD MAN HENDERSON

Radio Station KWKH is alright and is working for the good of this community and every other community. If the people would take his advice there would soon be more independent home owned stores and less stores owned by people living in other towns or states and a very small amount of money would be sent out of the community.

Artesia would have a small canning factory to can tomatoes, green beans, peas and most every other vegetable, which could be grown here, insuring the gardeners a market for their produce. A small home-owned packing house would furnish fresh and cured meats to our meat markets. Factories to make clothes out of some of the cotton and wool grown here and leather goods out of hides sold here might be put in. Independent oil operators would be retailing their own gasoline and oil. We would not have to pay some outside corporation a big profit on nearly everything we buy.

These smaller factories would employ more men according to their size than the larger factories. Every resident owning a home or building would keep it repaired and looking much better than they do now and this repairing would be done by local men. All fire insurance would be written by local agents. Instead of money being deposited in local banks just long enough to be checked out, it would be in the banks long enough for the bankers to loan it out and make some profit on it.

Our churches would not be so poor financially because independent merchants own their homes and intend to raise their children in the community where their business is and are willing to give in order to have the churches up and doing the things they should do.

Every man that wants to work could find a job even if Wall Street market did go down.

Property owners could pay their taxes and if the Santa Fe did not pay its taxes just when it should, our schools could go on just the same.

When our boys finish school they would not feel like they had to slave for some big corporation, not knowing what minute they might get fired. They would not have to have a million dollars to start a little business of their own.

This change can not take place in a day, but this is an awful good time to start by trading with independent merchants having an M. M. M. sign in their window. I am proud to say I belong to the Merchants Minute Men's club, and intend to continue to give honest weight, sell the highest quality of merchandise and guarantee satisfaction with every transaction.

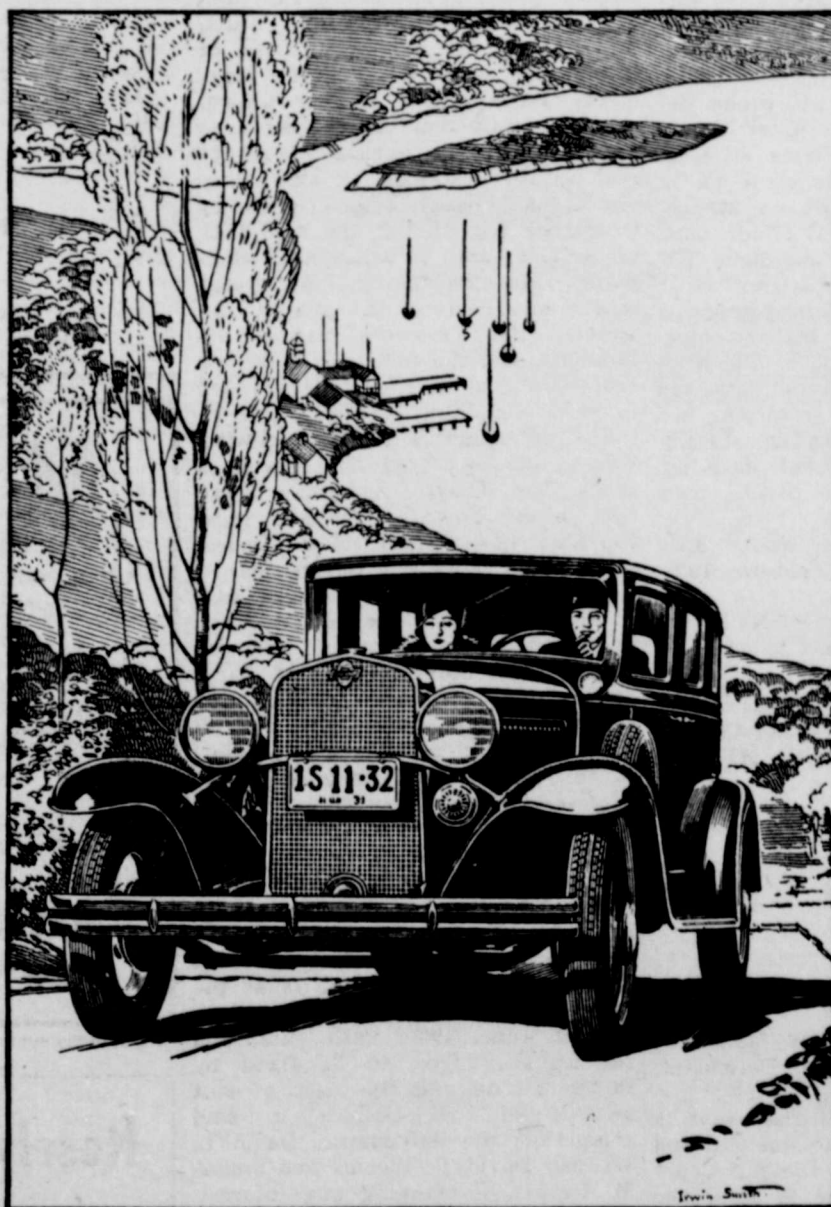

Our extremely low regular prices pass savings to our customers. We will appreciate your patronage.

COUNTY AGENTS HOLD ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The 17th Annual Conference of county extension agents was held at State College, February 23 to 28. Every county agent was represented, there being 30 agents in attendance.

H. W. Avery of the federal farm board, Joe M. Evans of the Inter-mountain Livestock Association, with headquarters at El Paso, D. T. Simons, of the American Jersey Cattle Club and T. C. Richardson, field editor of "Farm and Ranch" spent some time at the conference and addressed the agents on subjects with their respective organizations.

Miss Madge Reese, field agent western states, also spent part of the week at the college. Miss Reese presented a very interesting discussion of the recent White House conference on "Child Health and Protection," both before the general session and the meeting of the home economics section.

The mornings of the conference were passed in general session, with talks by different speakers on subjects of especial importance to all extension workers. The afternoon meetings were divided into two sections, the agricultural and home economics. In the agricultural section, the time was devoted chiefly to programs of work for the coming year in the different departments, and group conferences; in the home economics section to round table discussions of the different projects on which work is being done in the various counties.

WEATHER MAKES WEATHER FICKLE, CLAIMS PROPHET

YORK, N. Y.—With two years of congress blaming floods on the effect of drouns which are over-drainage, a man has presented further evidence over the increasing efforts of the country to get the water from its back as it is said.

Mr. Alexander, senior meteorologist of the weather bureau at Washington, in a letter received by the American Game Association, said that the removal of standing water from the face of land increases the weather and greatly increases in temperature as well as the healthful atmosphere for man and animal life.

The quantity of the atmosphere as well as its degree of humidity is largely determined by the amount of moisture in the air," Mr. Alexander said.

Of water, both large and small, is the chief source of this humidity, and small streams serve the same purpose as a large one. They become, in a very real way, just so many "oases" in the atmosphere, and so help to maintain a favorable to the human and sustenance of animal and vegetable life.

The tendency of a body of water to moderate weather conditions is equally true. The temperature of a body of water, for example, is not so near the water as the air," he pointed out.

Two years before congress would have passed laws for the prevention of floods and droughts by establishing reservoirs, lakes, and farm terracing. By these means, experts claim they could hold the water that falls in rainy seasons, bring about a normal flow in streams, prevent the drying off of valuable farm soil, the parching of crops by retaining sub-soil moisture, and otherwise establish artificially the natural conditions existing in this country before the cutting away of flood channels and the drainage of low-lands.

ENDS OF FARMERS

of the drawbacks to any disaster of the farmer and his problem is the uncertainty as to what is under discussion.

There are three different types of farmers, and in almost every part of the United States all three are to be found.

The most widely-distributed type of farmer is called the "non-commercial farmer," the great group of whom farming is not so much a mode of living. This farmer has a considerable amount of land, but he does not grow crops for his family and, counting the eggs, butter or other market products traded in town for goods, handles very little cash of a year.

Another group of farmers who are called "cash crop" farmers, is the largest numerically and the most important. They are engaged in the broad sense, in growing a single commodity, which they sell or hope to sell, and growing nothing else. The single crop may be tobacco, wheat, corn, celery, or potatoes, depending on the location. Dependence on one crop means that if the price of that crop falls, the farmer's income returns from the sale of his crop for everything which he needs to live on.

Unquestionably many legislators were convinced that they could purchase with public money the goodwill of voters, whose votes would come in very handy at the forthcoming elections. The great unorganized public, that dumb and patient ox whose sole duty is to grind out tax money, was supposed to be ignorant of the transaction, or too stupid to protest in any event. And the most side-splitting touch of the whole shakespearean comedy of errors is that now that the protest is rising, some of the tyros in congress think they have discovered an ingenious method of warding off public criticism.

Of course, the right hand is not to know what the left hand doeth, and the veterans are not to be told that they are to receive scraps of paper representing a juggling of accounts in the treasury. The right hand must understand that actual cash will be received therein; but the left hand, the taxpayers, which puts up the cash, must be fooled into believing that the transaction is "mere

CAPITOL SNAPS

By Fred Holmes, Our Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—According to the late Phineas Taylor Barnum, past-master of humbuggery and first to claim proprietorship of one of the multitudinous greatest shows on earth, "a sucker is born every minute." If that were true in the days of the great showman, possibly it is true now. But it may also be accepted as true that the percentage of sucker-born humans in his day who remained suckers for the rest of their natural lives has been appreciably decreased. A number of United States senators alone are still unconvinced of this fact.

Barnum is also credited by some with the remark that "you can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." Intense skepticism on this proposition pervades—that is to say, until very recently seems to have pervaded—the same group of senators.

The public had no particular interest in senatorial indulgence in a game of battledore and shuttlecock over power commission appointments. Antics of the athletes were tiresome from the start, and the fact that the audience departed, more or less in disgust, does not seem to have yet dawned upon the self-centered contestants. They insist upon carrying the game to a conclusion with the United States supreme court as ultimate referee. Even if the show is stopped, entrance fees will not be refunded at the box-office.

Worthy unemployed labor did not ask for a dole. It wanted and still wants a restoration of normal business conditions and a chance to work. But not only have some of our legislators no compunction about robbing Peter to pay Paul, but they see no necessity for determining in advance whether or not anything is owing to Paul. It may bankrupt Peter Taxpayer, but "what difference does that make in my young life?" asks the Simon Legree of Capitol Hill. There are none so deaf as those who won't listen.

There are two principal ways of aiding those whom God has afflicted—by fire, by flood, by drought. One is by way of direct appeal to a generous-hearted citizenry, which never has failed in an emergency. The other is by way of paternalism, directed toward inevitable pauperism. But, in our country, paupers are not disfranchised, and private generosity falls far short of perpetuating titles to senatorial togas. Be the handwriting on the wall what it may, there are none so blind as those who won't look.

Deaf and blind, comes the astounding revelation that the public protest against the extravagant and unnecessary distribution of public money to able-bodied and employed World War veterans is a surprise to many legislators. They yielded to mob impulse in voting for the bonus, believing that taxpayers would patiently endure the added burden for the sake of relieving the needs of the veterans actually in distress. But the public has discovered that only 250,000 veterans are in distress, while the bonus bill proposes to distribute money to 2,500,000 veterans, most of whom are sound in health and profitably employed. The bill was rushed thru congress without the slightest effort to sound out public opinion and in total disregard of the warnings of the treasury department and the president.

Unquestionably many legislators were convinced that they could purchase with public money the goodwill of voters, whose votes would come in very handy at the forthcoming elections. The great unorganized public, that dumb and patient ox whose sole duty is to grind out tax money, was supposed to be ignorant of the transaction, or too stupid to protest in any event. And the most side-splitting touch of the whole shakespearean comedy of errors is that now that the protest is rising, some of the tyros in congress think they have discovered an ingenious method of warding off public criticism.

The artifice is so antiquated that none but callow preparatory students in demogogy would try to use it now. Tell the public that the proposed outlay is a mere matter of book-keeping; that the money is already available; that no increased taxes will be necessary; that all this alarm about huge distributions to veterans is without any basis; that the treasury, by simply juggling its accounts, can lend $1,000,000,000 to 2,500,000 veterans without any actual drain upon the cash box; that Secretary Mellon was wrong once when he made an estimate of probable tax returns and therefore is wrong now when he thinks the paying out of a billion dollars will be a drain upon the treasury or a hardship to taxpayers.

Of course, the right hand is not to know what the left hand doeth, and the veterans are not to be told that they are to receive scraps of paper representing a juggling of accounts in the treasury. The right hand must understand that actual cash will be received therein; but the left hand, the taxpayers, which puts up the cash, must be fooled into believing that the transaction is "mere book-keeping.' Shade of P. T. Barnum, look down upon an effort to put over this ancient piece of exploded political chicanery, then hide your diminished head in shame.

And then, once again, the cat came back. Same old Muscle Shoals. One may or may not be in favor of government ownership and operation of public utilities, but over-zealotry is altogether too apt to result in over-shooting the mark. The fervor Senator Norris has injected into his bill can be inferred from his statutory specifications for persons appointed to manage Muscle Shoals. "All members of the board," reads the resolution, "shall be persons that profess a belief in the feasibility and wisdom," etc., so "that by reason thereof the corporation may be a self-sustaining and continuous success."

"Any manager of Muscle Shoals who subscribes to that specification," said Representative Fort, "must be either a socialist or a liar." It is easy to visualize the senate debating for days whether an appointee submitted for confirmation is sufficiently firm in the faith.

Representative Eaton evidently believes that the antidote of fanaticism is humor. In describing the stipulation that one per cent of the fertilizer shall be given free to farmers to acquaint them with the product, he said: "You might as well ship free coffins to undertakers at government expense to let them know there is such a thing as death." And Representative O'Connor, of Oklahoma, observed with humor partly subtle and partly broad that "at the other (senate) end of this building, where sits 'the greatest deliberative body in that end of the capitol' there is a restaurant and * * * they lost $75,000 last year. If the government cannot run a restaurant or a barber shop, how are they going to operate Muscle Shoals?"

Some time ago the editor of a small-town weekly criticized a correspondent's letter for the reason that he did not want his readers to get the impression that Washington was a "3-ring circus." His solicitude for the preservation of ancient traditions, of course, is to be commended; his faith in and loyalty to a fallen idol doubtless is to be admired. But 'pig is pigs' and facts are facts, and to-day no super-patriot is worrying for fear political Washington will be confused with a 3-ring circus. What they fear is that it will be disparagingly compared with a lunatic asylum.

GIRL SCOUTS OWN LAND

Elza White, cattleman and Roswell resident admitted Monday night that he is, no doubt, the "large private interests" referred to by the Alamogordo Chamber of Commerce in their petition to kill house bill 119, which would create a state park in Otero county.

Denying the implication that the Girl Scouts owned no land in this section Mr. White stated, "The organization behind the move to defeat this bill has jumped at conclusions because this land is not as yet registered in the name of the girls organization. That is easily explained as I am holding it in trust in my name until they finish paying for it." Asked if the Girl Scouts had made any move in that direction Mr. White replied that they had already organized to carry out such a program and then added:

"The timber involved is the last piece along the Penasco and it would be a shame to denude the lower reaches as they have the rest. There is no timber for twenty miles above this line and any deforesting further down should not be done. The Girl Scouts have two hundred acres and there are about 3,200 they would like to see made into a game reserve and stocked with fish and game."

Minor Huffman, Boy Scout executive stated he was well acquainted with the region and the plans of the Girl Scouts and verified Mr. White's contention that the Girls did own the acres referred to, that are being held in trust by Mr. White.—Southwestern Dispatch.

A Scotchman was playing golf with a friend and upon attempting to make difficult shot, a set of false teeth fell out on the ground and his partner remarked: "Sandy, I didn't know that you had false teeth."

Sandy Replied: "I haven't, those are my wife's. I caught her eating between meals."
