Centen's Sweetheart

SAN ANTONIO—Janet Jarratt, this town's model beauty, has been commissioned the "Sweetheart of the Texas Centennial" by Governor Allred, to rule during the celebrations now under way.

Loving Man Is Held On A Hit And Run Charge

Jesse Janeway, Loving blacksmith, was held in the Eddy county jail Monday pending filing of charges in an alleged hit-and-run case, while Gordon Morris, 17-years-old, lay critically ill in a Carlsbad hospital.

Morris, who lives two miles south of Carlsbad, suffered head injuries, a broken leg, and bruises. Bones were shattered in the leg.

Charges had not been filed Monday, but Babe Campbell, deputy sheriff, said the Janeway had admitted driving while drunk and said that he could not remember hitting the Morris boy.

Janeway was arrested Sunday by sheriff's officers and taken to the Eddy county jail where he was questioned.

Campbell said that his admission substantiates driving while drunk charges, but that no action will be taken pending condition of the injured boy.

The accident happened at about 3:00 a. m., and the boy is said to have lain unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the Cavern Theater before he was found by the Carlsbad resident and taken to the hospital for emergency treatment.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

T. Trujillo, shepherd on a ranch about fifty-three miles northwest of Roswell, was killed Friday afternoon when struck by lightning. Officers investigating his death believe he was struck by lightning just after he entered his tent and after looking after his herd of sheep during a rainstorm.

A plentiful supply of doves, the result of a large quantity of leave-over from last season and a good nesting season this year, was expected to keep the hunters busy. The dove season closes December 15th. The bag limit is fifteen birds. Automatic shotguns limited to one shell in the barrel, and two in the magazine.

Birds may be taken from 7:00 a. m., until sunset, during the open season, therefore with a shotgun not larger than 12 gauge and fired from the shoulder, or rifle or pistol not larger than .22 caliber rim fire, according to section 98 of the state game and fish laws.

RUTH OWEN QUITS

President Roosevelt announced Monday acceptance of the resignation of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rhode as minister to Denmark. Mrs. Rhode, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, quit her post to campaign as a private citizen for the reelection of Mr. Roosevelt.

It is understood Mr. Gromo plans to drill a surface well and make other improvements on the ranch during the next few months.

IMPROVEMENTS AT CLARK LAKE PROGRESS RAPIDLY

Substantial progress is being made on the improvement program at Clark Lake instituted by the WPA and the state game commission. Cleaning the tullies from the edge of the lake is one of the major tasks undertaken in the program and this is about fifty per cent completed. A few tullies will be left in the water's edge for the fish to harbor in.

A road around the lake has also been cut out and will be graded and surfaced. Gravel is being assembled at the west edge of the lake for bathing piers.

Workmen Complete Repairs On Gate At Lake McMillan

Workmen have been busy since draining Lake McMillan repairing the gate at the dam. A jammed gate caused the lake to drain about two weeks ago. It was at first thought new material for the gate would have to be secured before repairs could be made, but reclamation officials said last week this would be unnecessary. Extent of the damages were not learned, according to an early report.

Workmen have been going at a rapid pace in order to complete the repair job before the odor of dead fish becomes unendurable.

ASKS REMOVAL OF THE PORT OF ENTRY

The Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce Tuesday sought to remove the port of entry to the state line through Al S. Roughton, state director of the port of entry board.

Roughton was told that sentiment of Carlsbad business firms and individuals is 100 per cent in favor of moving the port from its present location on the city's edge.

DR. CORNELL LOCATES HERE

Third Cutting Alfalfa About Finished—Seed Moving Rapidly Now

The third cutting of alfalfa hay will soon be completed in this area. Hay cut before last week's rains sustained some damage and baling operations were delayed. Both the quality and quantity of hay continues to hold up well with the per acre yields about those of last year.

Threshing of the present alfalfa seed crop also continues at a rapid pace. Approximately 150,000 lbs. have been shipped out of the valley thus far. A total of 75,000 lbs. of seed was loaded out of the Bullock warehouse here Saturday.

Demos Name A Full Ticket On Tuesday Night

Last-Minute Peace Move Consolidates Ranks; A Roll Call Vote Is Made Only Once In Sixteen Nominations.

ALBUQUERQUE—New Mexico's democrats, their divided ranks consolidated by a last-minute peace move that brought together Gov. Clyde Tingley and Rep. J. J. Dempsey, waded through convention business to nominate a full state ticket unanimously and adjourned shortly after 11:00 o'clock Tuesday night.

Only once in the sixteen nominations was there a roll call vote, and that came in the nomination for corporation commissioner which went to Don Casados, the incumbent. (Continued on last page, column 1)

Wildcat Wells In Spotlight Over Area This Week

Scattering oil tests are commanding attention of the oil fraternity this week. In Eddy county, Harper et al., are reported drilling below 2400 feet on their Platt No. 1, SW SW 26-18-26, southeast of Dayton. Unofficial information is to the effect that 1000 feet of oil is standing in the hole. It was not learned whether a new oil showing was developed, or whether the oil is coming from several showings between 1400 and 2000 feet.

Another wildcat near Lakewood, the Dooley et al., Hatchett No. 1, SW SE sec. 11-20-26, is running casing at 400 feet. Apparently the structure is running high and operators hope for shallow oil before reaching the depth of 900 feet.

In Roosevelt county, a section of New Mexico destined to receive increasing play within the next few months, a wildcat near Melrose in the Catts No. 1, of Franklin, Flynn, Welch and Yates, sec. 28-3-30, is running 1 1/2 inch casing at 900 feet.

Several locations are said to have been made recently in Lea county, practically all of the new locations being offsets. Among the new wells announced last week is the State D-11 No. 3 of the Continental Oil Co., sec. 11-21-36, in the Eunice field. In Eddy county the Premier Petroleum Corp., will make a location a quarter of a mile east of production in the NW NE sec. 21-17-30, eastern Eddy county.

Late last week the Jal sand belt in southeastern Lea county was extended a quarter of a mile south in the Williams No. 1 of the Plains Production Co., SW NE sec. 34-21-17-30, eastern Eddy county. (Continued on last page, column 1)

Another Potash Company To Sink Shaft, Is Reported

The Union Potash and Chemical company has notified the United States Department of the Interior that it intends to sink a shaft on property located six miles south of the United States Potash company mine, it was said at Carlsbad Tuesday.

Validated prospecting permits are held in the area by the Union Potash and Chemical company, and a lease has been applied for, but the company holds no permit to mine the locations.

Thus far no potash company has sunk a shaft before it had official permission from the Department of the Interior.

There were unverified reports that equipment was being moved onto the property, but they were not substantiated. Bybee Transfer company had received no order from the company to move in equipment.

The Union Potash and Chemical company has drilled nine test holes near the site of the proposed mine shaft, and discovered, among other things, sylvite, which it potassium magnesium sulphate.

Potassium sulphate, in some conditions, has found to be superior to other fertilizers.

Unverified reports were that twenty tons of machinery were due to arrive Sunday, and that work already had started on bunk houses, but men at the United States mine said they had seen no equipment being moved over the road to the site.

Cotton Picking To Be General By September 7

Two Bales Ginned Here Last Week; Ginning To Start On Cottonwood Today; Picking Price Is Sixty Cents.

The 1936 cotton harvest season has started here with two bales ginned last week by the two local gins. The first bale to arrive here was brought to the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association gin Thursday by E. Lopez, living on the S. S. Ward farm, a mile south of Artesia. Friday morning G. T. Sharp, living on the Hedgpath farm, south of Artesia, brought in a bale to the Artesia Farmer's gin, the first bale to be ginned here this year.

The bales of both Mr. Lopez and Mr. Sharp were ginned free by the two gins. In addition, Charles Rogers, manager of the Farmer's gin offered to contribute a cash prize to the first bale ginned.

The bale of Mr. Lopez weighed 592 pounds, the cotton graded good middling and the staple measured one and three thirty-seconds inches. On the present cotton market, the cotton is calculated to be worth 12.50c per pound, which would be $77.00 for the lint, the seed on the present market is valued at $11.77, making a total revenue from the first bale valued at approximately $88.77.

The cotton of Mr. Sharp was a good grade and staple, but was damp and green. Current reports say efforts will be made to raise a substantial cash premium among the local business men for the first bales and proposals have been made to split the premium among the two growers.

It was understood yesterday the Cottonwood gin will start the season today with six bales ready to be ginned. Harvesting operations are expected to be general by Monday. The average price offered to pickers is sixty cents per hundred, based on the present cotton market.

Garage Employee Found Guilty of Polluting Water On Saturday

W. R. Broadbent, aged 30, a former garage employe at White City near the Carlsbad Caverns Saturday pled guilty to polluting water at White City. Broadbent allegedly admitted putting potassium permanganate in a 3,000-gallon water tank at White City when arraigned before Frank H. Richards, justice of the peace, at Carlsbad, but told George Reese, district attorney, he did not know the concentrate was poisonous. His idea, he said, was to cause White to refill the tank. Water has to be hauled to White City. Although the water was discolored, it was not poisonous enough to cause death, it was said.

Broadbent was given a thirty-day jail sentence in the county jail and a $50.00 fine.

N. M. Baird left for Houston, Texas, Tuesday to join Mrs. Baird and children for a visit with relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Baird expect to return in about ten days.

Prospects For A Larger Crop of Small Grain Seen

At the present time there is above normal demand for all kinds of small grain seed, including oats, wheat, barley and rye for fall planting. Much of the small grain planting will be made as a cover crop or green manure crop to be pastured and turned under, while the grain planted for harvest will be in greater quantities than usual.

Prospective plantings of small grain is probably augmented by the outlook for a high price for both wheat and oats another year and more especially wheat. With another short wheat crop the world would face a bread famine next year and the prospects for wheat above the dollar mark next spring would undoubtedly cause a heavier than usual planting this fall.

Oats, wheat, barley and rye seed in the order made have been moving rapidly recently as farmers prepare land for winter and spring sowings.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Dexter returned Sunday from an extended visit with friends and relatives at Torrance, California, and other southern California points.

THE REPUBLICAN CASE

At the request of Squire S. E. Ferree, and for the sake of old times, we are reprinting excerpts from an editorial "The Republican Case," which Judge Ferree clipped from some republican newspaper and which he thinks is the "hot mustard."

As a master of ward politics Democratic Chairman James A. Farley's comments on republican campaign tactics are always interesting. This is so because in them he reveals so much of himself. Particularly significant was the charge he made on Wednesday evening that the republican party is underestimating "the intelligence of the American voters" by attempting to frighten them into supporting their ticket. "When we examine the republican case," said Mr. Farley, "we find nothing but two scare stories, both of which disappear in the light of hard facts."

It has never been the contention of the republican party or its candidates that the public debt, as such, would bankrupt the country. What the republican party seeks to impress is that a continuation of the extravagant spending and the huge deficits fostered by the Roosevelt administration can end in nothing but uncontrollable inflation and ultimate bankruptcy. In support of this contention the republican party can cite the authority of no less a person than President Roosevelt himself. In a message to congress delivered on March 10, 1933, the president reviewed the $4,000,000,000 deficit which had accumulated in the three full years from 1931 to 1934 and concluded:

"For three long years the federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy. . . . With the utmost seriousness I point out to the congress the profound effect of this fact upon our national economy. It has contributed to the recent collapse of our banking structure. It has accentuated the stagnation of the economic life of our people. It has added to the ranks of the unemployed. Our government's house is not in order and for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order."

If a deficit of about $4,000,000,000 built up in three years when federal revenues were declining precipitously had put the country on the road to bankruptcy, what is to be said about President Roosevelt's own record on this score?

In the three years following, from 1934 through the fiscal year ending last June, despite steadily mounting revenues, the Roosevelt administration piled up a deficit of $12,328,000,000. If President Roosevelt was alarmed at a deficit less than one-third as great in 1933, has not the country all the more reason to be alarmed in 1936 when the rate of spending has been tripled and shows no sign of diminishing?

If the presentation of such facts as these to the American people constitutes nothing more than a "dreary scare campaign," then fear has become synonymous with honesty. If Mr. Farley sees heresy in a demand such as the one made by Colonel Knox on Wednesday evening that a government of "simplicity, economy, and certainty" be restored in this country, it is the democratic party and not the American people that has cause for worry.

NOW AND TWENTY YEARS HENCE

Now it is no trick at all to produce a bale of cotton per acre in the Pecos valley. Perhaps ten years ago it was almost as easy to grow a bale and a quarter to a bale and a half per acre. Ten years from now it may be quite a feat for the individual farmer to produce a half bale to the acre unless the average farmer takes better care of his land. One crop will eventually ruin the best farm land so far as producing this one crop.

The threat of overproduction has been largely eliminated in the older cotton-growing sections by the continuous planting of the one crop in the same ground and by insect damage. It is the newer cotton-growing sections that may boost the production beyond the limit where cotton can be grown profitably. Without fertilization, cotton growers in the old south can make an accurate guess of the output of their farms even under the best of growing conditions, because the land has been impoverished without benefit of crop rotation.

Valley farmers will get bigger dividends eventually by practicing proper and approved methods of crop rotation and by planting the proper amount of green manure crops this fall.

Another mistake is to try to plant too many varieties of cotton and thus make the breeding up of cotton practically impossible. The most successful farmers realize the danger of switching from one cotton breed to another. Observations made by the department of agriculture say the most marked improvement in the staple and grade of cotton have been made by those communities where only one variety of cotton is grown.

FORGETFUL

People forget quickly. Is it because we are progressing so rapidly or do we just naturally have poor memories? Recently a local hardware concern made a window display of buggy harness, whip stocks, hack brakes, etc. Now, twenty years ago most any of us could have gone out and hooked up old Dobbin in a short time because harnessing a horse in those days was just part of the day's work, but the best of us would do well to harness the buggy horse in twice the time of twenty years ago.

Probably the display looks like a Greek puzzle to the average youngster. And it was only about 1918 the horse and buggy was too commonplace to attract notice. Now we stop, look and try to figure out how the harnessing process went.

CARLSBAD'S ORPHAN

From all indications the Carlsbad Current-Argus has suddenly awakened to find a little orphan at the doorstep of Carlsbad; namely, the port of entry. Apparently this little orphan didn't bother the peace and quietude of Carlsbad until recently when some tourist suggested that the port of entry should be removed for Carlsbad's sake. Or perhaps back of the finding of the orphan in a sudden manner might be politics. Hobbs and Clovis have uttered complaints, but not so vociferous.

It has not been many weeks since the Current-Argus could not throw enough bouquets at the port of entry staff. Why the change in attitude?

Remember how you boys used to sit and blow about Carlsbad's being the southern gateway into the state? Well, this is just one of the drawbacks to being a gateway, or is it a drawback?

While we do not pretend to know everything, we have learned from a pretty good authority that the ports of entry will likely remain a fixture in the state until other ways and means have been found to check the bootlegging of gasoline into the state, particularly the Clovis section and which had amounted to the staggering sum of approximately $250,000 per year.

We might add also that there are about 20,000 more cars licensed now than there has ever been before in the history of the state.

About Draining Lake McMillan

Tons of fish lie rotting in the bed of Lake McMillan, which was drained last Saturday. Visitors to the scene Tuesday and Wednesday of this week declare that the odor of decayed fish can be detected a mile or two from the lake and that large blocks of the lake bed are covered so heavily with dead fish that upturned bellies remind one of alkali patches.

The Game Department transported tons of live fish over the week-end to the hatchery at Dexter and many points on the Pecos river—transplanting only game fish. Two years ago when the lake was drained a similar condition prevailed, and it was believed by many at that time that should such a condition recur in the future, that methods would be adopted to prevent the waste of fish in the lake. No effort, apparently, was made to even notify the public that fish enough to supply, perhaps, several meals for every resident in the county could be obtained merely by driving out and picking them up.

A large number of persons have stated that they expected the lake would be drained and had tried to find out when it would take place, but that officials of the Reclamation Project would not give out any information concerning it.

A prominent business man commenting on the waste of fish said this week: "It does seem that with as many hungry people in Eddy county as there are, that officials would have made an attempt to notify them through the press and otherwise, that fish could be obtained by driving to the lake and picking them up. Instead, they allowed tons of fish to decay that could have been used to satisfy the hunger of many who are out of work."—Eddy County News.

6,000,000 Men Ready for War

PARIS—French statisticians last week estimated 6,000,000 men, a third of them Germans, would be "ready for war" when Germany's new two-year term of military service becomes effective.

While France mapped intensive plans for strengthening military defence, convinced Germany is heading for war, the statisticians reckoned the men under arms in Europe's leading military states would soon reach 5,369,000.

They estimated Germany, in addition to regular fighting units which they placed at 1,365,000 would have 400,000 Nazi militiamen and 275,000 in labor camps organized along military lines.

The estimates, gathered by both army and civilian statisticians, gave the following tabulation of regular fighting units, based on the situation to be created by Germany's doubled term of military conscription:

Germany	1,365,000
Italy	1,250,000
Russia	1,200,000
France	654,000
Poland	266,000
Great Britain	213,000
Rumania	141,500
Czechoslovakia	109,000
Yugoslavia	107,000
Belgium	63,500

FREEDOM OF JUDGMENT

—is essential to sound banking policies

This bank has no special interests to serve or motives to satisfy other than strict adherence to the principles and practices of good, every-day banking. It is free to use its best thought and to exercise its honest opinion on the merits of every transaction presented for its consideration. Its judgment as to the loans it grants and the investments it makes are unswayed by considerations that are not directly a part of safe, conservative and constructive banking.

We believe that this is fundamental to sound banking practice—that it is also the friendliest type of service we can render our depositors and our community.

A Modern Fight

New discoveries, combined with tested measures, are now used against the old enemy—tuberculosis.
1—The tuberculin test to learn if germs are in the body.
2—The X-ray to discover damage done by the germs.
3—Blood cell count to check course of the disease.
4—The public health nurse to see that treatment is carried out.
5—Lung collapse, such as pneu-mothorax, to put the sick lung at rest.
6—Rehabilitation of the patient
after his disease is arrested.
The State Tuberculosis Association with its affiliated county associations and committees has developed a program to effect some of the objectives—with every citizen of the state back of them, both in voluntary cooperation and financial support (through the purchase of Tuberculosis Seals at Christmas time) all of the measures can be accomplished and many lives saved.
Points one and two are under way, with three being carried out in many cases by the family physician after early discovery of the disease. Point four is a part of the county program in some districts where there is more than one nurse per county (one county has employed its own nurse for this work) and some others are making similar plans. Point five is in the hands of the patient's physician.
Point six, however, can be most worthwhile community undertaking; the local tuberculosis committee can be a clearing house for bringing together the ex-tuberculosis for light or part time work, and the employer who has such opportunities. The State Tuberculosis Association urges all employees who could utilize the services of someone not ready to do full time work to keep their local associations so informed—and if health seekers in need of such work will list themselves with the local chairman, rehabilitation may be more easily and more satisfactorily effected.

Roswell Makes Plans for Fair

New Mexico women are looking forward to their show of sewing and fancy work and canned goods which will be a part of the Eastern New Mexico State Fair, to be held at Roswell, October 7, 8, 9 and 10.
Twenty-three counties were represented in the exhibits last year and the directors are putting forth every effort to have each of the thirty-one counties in the state in the fourteenth annual show. The domestic arts and classified farm products exhibits enlist the largest number of exhibitors each year.
The premium list just off the press offers more than $2,000 in cash premiums to the men and women of the state in the various departments.
The Hereford division, sheep, dairy cattle, hogs and poultry will all be on a larger scale this year because of increased facilities. One new exhibit building, and two new groups of livestock barns have been erected since last year.
Greater plans are being made for the entertainment features including the mammoth parade on the opening day, a 4-H club field day on October 8th, Old Timers day on October 9th, and other special features on the last day.
The amateur rodeo under the direction of Johnnie Mullins, will be the big attraction each afternoon.
With an attendance last year of 60,000, directors of the fair are striving for a new record for this year.

Highways Endure Longer If They Rest At Night

ITHICA, New York—That concrete highways can rest and regain the strength when traffic is light is demonstrated in tests at Cornell University.
In these tests, square bars of concrete the thickness of pavement and several feet long are subjected to poundings like those from heavy traffic until they break. This reveals the practical strength of various mixtures and thicknesses.
Highway concrete is slightly elastic. It bends and stretches a bit under the weight of each passing vehicle. These traffic flexions in the concrete are reproduced in the Cornell laboratory.
Heavy Traffic Hardest
If each stress is not more than half of the force necessary to break the bar, the concrete will stand six to seven million stresses before it breaks.
But if the individual stresses reach two-thirds or three-quarters of the concrete breaking strength the material will stand only 200,- 000 to 300,000 of them.
The ability of the concrete to "rest" is shown by interrupting the stress machine from time to time. Some initial stresses, if continued long enough, will cause a drop of about forty per cent in the concrete's tensile strength. That is, a weight forty per cent less than required at first would break the concrete.
Value of Rest Demonstrated
But if the stress is stopped for a while and the concrete is given a complete rest from pressure, it completely recovers its original tensile strength.
No such recovery occurs, however, if the concrete has been over-strained. That is, overloading it too much beyond the forty per cent limit leaves the concrete permanently weakened. In this respect pavement is like the human constitution.
In practice this means that highways on which traffic virtually stops at night, may not need to be quite as good in tensile strength as similar roads with twenty-four hour traffic.

Population Trend is Back to the Farm

Many economists and students of social welfare who have asserted that only readjustment of urban and rural population will finally solve the unemployment problem may take comfort in the trend of the past few years. More than one and one-third million more persons were living on farms on January 1, 1935 (last federal census date), than on April 1, 1930. Since the census was taken many more families have left the cities and sought homes on farms, but the actual figures are not available. The enumeration of persons living on farms is made only at five-year periods.

The largest gains during the five-year period in number of persons living on farms occurred around industrial centers, mining sections, and in areas often designated as "subsistence farming." Areas showing large increases in farm population include the southern Appalachians, eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania, the Ozarks, eastern Oklahoma, the Birmingham industrial area, New England, northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Puget Sound and Willamette valleys.

This increase in farm residents reflects, the census bureau reports, in a major degree the "back-to-the-farm" movement and checking by the depression of the flow of farm folk to the cities. During the depression years, thousands formerly employed in factories, mines, and other industries moved to unoccupied farms or returned to the farm homes of their parents or relatives. Farms abandoned during years when industry prospered have been resettled, and unoccupied farm houses located on going farms have been reoccupied.

While the drought may have contributed to a shift in population from one arid section to others more favored, the southwestern "dust bowl" showed practically no change in the five-year period. Kansas, however, is credited with .5 of one per cent decrease in farm population, whereas South Dakota lost 8.2 per cent from its farms. Oklahoma and Texas lost .8 per cent in rural population.—The Earth.

WORLD WOOL PROSPECTS

Present prospects indicate little change in world wool supplies, i. e., production plus carry-over in 1936-37 as compared with 1935-36. As yet, very few estimates of wool production in 1936 have been received, but such indications as are now available point to a probable slight increase in world production offset by a reduction in stocks carried over from 1935-36 in practically all countries with the exception of Japan.

Supplies for disposal in the southern hemisphere countries, which produce over sixty per cent of the world total excluding Russia and China, are expected to show a slight reduction as compared with 1935-36, when they were smaller than the average for the five preceding seasons. In the northern hemisphere production in 1936 is not expected to show much change as compared with 1935, whereas a small increase was indicated for continental Europe and some countries of the near east.

Dr. A. E. Kernahan Campaign Started

The Kernahan survey and personal visitation campaign began in Artesia last Sunday morning with three addresses being given by Dr. A. Earle Kernahan of Washington, D. C., at the Presbyterian, Christian and Methodist churches. In the afternoon Dr. Kernahan met representative workers from the above churches and gave instructions as to the various phases of the work to be done. Sunday evening Dr. Kernahan addressed the combined congregations of the above churches and used as his theme: "The Changeless Christ in A Changing World."

On Monday a survey covering the entire city was begun by twenty workers. The people of the community gave hearty cooperation and the survey is now complete. Information gathered will be of great value to the churches of the city in carrying out a definite program of cultivation. Tuesday noon Dr. Kernahan spoke at the Rotary club as reported elsewhere, and at the evening hour he addressed the workers at the Methodist church.

Next Sunday morning Dr. Kernahan will speak at the following churches at the 11:00 o'clock worship: First Christian, 11:00 to 11:15; First Methodist, 11:20 to 11:35, and First Presbyterian 11:40 to 11:55. In the afternoon the workers will assemble at the Methodist church for the launching of the personal visitation program. Then on Monday evening at 6:15 through Thursday there will be held supper conferences for all the workers.

Dr. Kernahan is a most interesting speaker and the cooperating churches desire that all of our people hear him and give support to the campaign.

SOD STRIPS EXCELLENT FOR TERRACE OUTLETS

Strips of meadow—twenty to sixty feet in width—are proving highly satisfactory as channel outlets for terraces in natural draws or depressions, according to reports from farmers to the Soil Conservation Service. They may be sodded with adapted legumes or grasses that often produce worth-while crops. Hay was cut on one such meadow outlet near Spartanburg, South Carolina, last year at the rate of nearly two tons per acre.

These well-sodded outlets allow water to flow from behind terraces without the formation of gullies, they are inexpensive—the cost is about one-third that of masonry structures—and are easily crossed with machinery.

Among the difficulties which may be encountered, however, in using sod for terrace outlets are: Natural depressions are not always present, the channel should not be used until the sod is well established, such strips are not likely to be successful on slopes greater than eight or nine per cent, and a good topsoil—necessary for the best sod—sometimes is not found where terrace outlets must be made.

Word was received here Friday telling of the death of Mrs. R. H. Willet of Roberts, Kentucky, mother of Mrs. F. G. Hartell. Mrs. Willet had been ill for many months and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Hartell has been with her mother for the past five months and will remain at the family home until certain business matters in regard to the estate are settled. Burial was made Sunday at Highland, Kentucky.

GOLDEN PHANTOMS
Fascinating Tales of Lost Mines
by Edith L. Watson
©W.N.U.

DOGS OF THE MIST

SOMEWHERE in the region where the Continental Divide crosses the Mexican border, there is a wonderful lost mine. Who first discovered it, who sank the first shaft or drove the first tunnel, and brought the first gleaming gold out into the sunlight, no one knows. And no one has any idea why the mine was abandoned, since great chunks of "chispa"—high grade ore—still lie on the dump.

At least, they should be lying there. Only one man ever saw them, and he did not live to benefit from his discovery. In fact, if it were not for the piece of ore, heavy with gold, which goes to prove the story, one might wonder if this lost mine were not just another creation of legend.

A strange, eerie superstition has grown up about the lost mine; on nights when the young moon makes a light only a little brighter than the stars, and there is a misty look to the hills which renders the most familiar landmarks strange, the man of the house will stroll out to the edge of town—perhaps farther—slowly and quietly. He listens intently. Then perhaps a coyote howls, or a dog barks—and he is all attention. He seems half afraid, half eager.

Usually, he finally strolls home again, looking a shade disappointed. But once in a while—ah, then! The sounds for which he is listening become clearer—they resolve into the bark of two dogs together, at some little distance from the man who waits and listens with every nerve tingling with excitement. As soon as he can locate their direction, off he goes.

He is following "Los Perros de la Niebla"—the Dogs of the Mist. If he can keep their trail, guided only by their ghostly barking, he will come to the place where is the marvelous mine, and its riches will be his. He will know it because the skeleton of a man lies there somewhere close—the man who long ago went hunting with his two great black dogs, found the mine, and then shot himself, accidentally, in his nervous excitement. As he lay dying within reach of the glittering ore, he wrote a note in his own blood on a scrap of paper—or, as some say, on a rag torn from his clothing. He folded this about a piece of ore and tied it to the neck of one of the dogs. Then he commanded them to go for help.

Exactly what the note said, no one can tell, but apparently its few words conveyed a plea to follow the dogs back to him. The man whom the animals searched out, believing that they were mad, shot them both before he saw the message—and spent the rest of his life in a futile search for the mine.

It was a misty moonlight night when the great, black, eager dogs appeared, jumping and barking to attract attention. (One can scarcely blame the Mexican for shooting first and investigating afterward.) Ever since then—and it has been many years—their ghosts return on such nights, unseen but not unheard, and try to lure some one to the place where their master lies. Sometimes an ardent believer will follow them for miles, only always to lose them at last—and it is said that one man became quite deaf from listening to their barking.

Care for Vines and Trees Thru Winter

Failure to harden properly the wood of grape vines and several of the tender trees often results in considerable loss from winter injury, according to A. B. Fite of the New Mexico State College.

This is especially true of young pecan and walnut trees which often have growing between the rows, other crops that are cultivated and irrigated so late in the fall that the little trees are kept succulent and tender until the first hard frost, when many of them are killed back to the ground.

The loss in nut trees the first year after planting in New Mexico has been entirely too large in the past and most of it may be attributed to carrying the trees into the winter in an unseasoned condition and then allowing them to become too dry before spring.

Irrigation of such trees and vines should cease sufficiently early in the fall to season and harden the wood before winter. It is difficult to give specific dates for the last fall irrigation, because of soil and climatic variations in different parts of the state but, on the average, irrigation should probably cease at least six to eight weeks before the first hard frost. Young trees and vines may also be injured or even killed during the winter by becoming too dry. After they have been hardened by frost and the soil begins to get quite dry, they should be watered. In practically all parts of the state trees and vines should have at least one or two winter irrigations.

Young vinifera grape vines should be hilled up with dirt in the late fall to protect them against freezing back during the winter until a good, hardy stump has been developed, after which time those growing in the southern part of the state may be left exposed.

C. E. Notes

(Cecil Fletcher, Reporter)

With the beginning of school our attendance becomes larger because everyone is back from their vacations. Glad to see the large number out to C. E.

.....

We expect, during the next quarter, to accomplish a great many things; such as, increasing our membership, planning and presenting better programs, and other things too numerous to mention, with the fullest cooperation of the group we expect a bigger and better C. E.

Officer, examining a new recruit: "What would you do if you saw a battleship coming across the parade ground?"

Recruit: "Report to the hospital for an examination, sir."

A bashful young swain (calling on Miss F. Muncy): "Did your mother raise much poultry?" Florine: "Well she planted some, but the chickens ate it before it came up."

Chester (to jeweler): "Will you take back this engagement ring?" Jeweler: "Doesn't it suit?" Chester: "Yes—but I don't."

Smiling Through Man is that peculiar animal who can get a good laugh out of the pictures in an old family album then look in the mirror without so much as a grin.

Warning: Anyone found in my watermelon patch at nite will be found there the next morning.

Police Court

Four Mexicans were arrested at the Elza Swift ranch, six miles west of her, Tuesday night by Officers Irvin Martin and J. C. Floore, charged with stealing sheep. One Mexican, Guillermo Bustellos, faces a charge of possession of home brew in addition to the theft charge. When arraigned before W. H. Ballard yesterday morning on charge of sheep stealing, Guillermo Bustellos, Alberto Herrera and Pauline Sanchez plead not guilty as charged. Rosalis Besera, the herder, entered a plea of guilty. Because Bustellos will face a federal charge for possession of intoxicating liquor, his bond was set at $1,000. Bond for the other three was set at $750. They were taken to the Eddy county jail at Carlsbad yesterday and were bound over to the action of the district court.

Arresting officers alleged they found several dead sheep in a car when the quartet was caught. The four had allegedly broken the neck of several sheep and were in the act of transporting the sheep away from the ranch when arrested.

Foreign trade has dropped but still is far ahead of last season, domestic consumption not quite so heavy but still ahead of last season. Cotton may sell lower during the season on account of heavy hedge sales but ultimately we think a gradually rising market may be expected.
