Biggest 'Fair' Ever Expected September 8-9-10

'Native Son' Lee Horsley Has New Fall TV Series

Not much has been heard from Lee Horsley for the last couple of years, since "Matt Houston" went off television.

But, according to the Monday, August 22, edition of The Albuquerque Journal, Horsley is all set for a new TV series, the CBS western, "Paradise."

Although Horsley would like to be in a feature film, he quickly acknowledges that trying to have a feature career after having a television show is 'tough.'

The television writer who released the details of Horsley's newest television venture, said,

"He was born in the quaintly named West Texas town of Muleshoe, but was raised in Colorado and considers it home, although he and his family live in Los Angeles."

Horsley was born in Muleshoe and his grandmother, Allie Horsley still makes her home here. She is very low-key, but justifiably proud of her grandson.

Best known for his "Matt Houston" role where he played a detective, he started out in musical theater, appearing in road productions of West Side Story, "Oklahoma!" and in "1776", along with other musical productions.

In "Paradise" he plays a former gunfighter who inherits his late sister's four children, sent to him in a depressed mining town where their mother thought he was a successful merchant.

"To be able to work with two of my favorite things, kids and horses, that's not bad at all. It's outdoors, which I love. I'm a little bit claustrophobic. The thought of going back to episodic television and being on a sound-stage seven days a week did not appeal to me," he said.

His new show is scheduled for Thursday evening. Although Horsley had been approached to do westerns, he turned them down, citing, "It's amazing how badly written some of these westerns are."

Horsley said he was at first concerned about returning to "the episodic triangle."

"But, I guess now I am ready to do it again, and I'm especially excited about this show. It's the one that hopefully, if all goes well, will be comfortable to run for a period of time."

Muleshoe area residents will be looking forward to watching a 'native son' star in a television series again.

South Plains College Expects Bigger Classes

Last fall, 70 Muleshoe residents signed up for classes at South Plains College.

This year, those numbers might increase.

"SPC's projected enrollment is up 12-13 percent, and that could mean an increase in the number of Muleshoe residents on the registration rolls," said Bobby James, SPC director of admissions and registrar. "We are pleased by the generous support that the people of Muleshoe have shown to SPC over the years, and we want to continue to be a strong community college for all the people on the South Plains."

Evening registration is scheduled 5:30-7:30 p.m. August 29 in the Student Center.

Open registration will be held from 9 a.m.-noon and 1:30-4 p.m. August 30 in the Student Center. Interested persons need to obtain a registration time by contacting the SPC registrar's office.

Classes begin August 31 and late registration will continue through September 8. A $10 late registration fee will be charged.

"Whether someone is interested in engineering, real estate, or welding, SPC has a course or program to meet their needs," said Bobby James, SPC registrar and director of admissions.

Fall bulletins and catalogs are available. For more information, contact the SPC registrar's office at 894-9611, ext. 372.

School Time Near; Student Safety Urged

With the first day of school fast approaching, Muleshoe City Police Chief Wayne Holmes has issued a stern traffic reminder.

"School will be starting September 1 and children will be crossing streets, especially around the schools and crossing SH214 from the east," said the chief.

"We need motorists to be very alert and watch closely for these children, who tend not to watch out for themselves."

Chief Holmes also warned motorists about the school zone speed - in most instances, around the schools, the speed is 20 miles per hour, and all officers of the Muleshoe Police Department will strictly enforce the school zone speed limits.

"With your cooperation, we can make this another safe year for the youngsters as they go to and from school," added chief Holmes.

WATCH FOR THE BIG YELLOW BUSES

Tom Jinks, MISD Interim Superintendent also would like to add his word of caution.

"We would like to caution everyone relative to safety measures to protect children riding school buses and also children walking to school," he said.

"All drivers of school buses have completed a 20 hour refresher course taught by David Gray, a high school instructor, therefore the drivers are certified by the Texas Education Agency."

According to the school official, in general there are several laws to be obeyed to assure protection of all students:

- (1) Obey speed limits, especially in the school zones -- the limit is 20 miles per hour;
- (2) Drivers stop completely for unloading students when red flashing lights on the bus are in operation;
- (3) Watch out for small children on their way to and from school;
- (4) Make complete stops, especially where the crosswalks are painted;
- (5) Drive as if your child were a pedestrian or a school bus rider;
- (6) Parents should have their children at the assigned pick-up points on time or a little ahead of

The gown featured a Sabrina neckline of scalloped lace and a deep basque waistline. The long sheer sleeves were appliqued in pearled and sequined lace. The low open "V" back led into a cathedral train adorned with tiers of bias cut satin fluted ruffles.

To complete her ensemble, the bride wore an Alencon Bandeau head piece, trimmed with pearls and crystal, accented with side flower clusters of pearls and lily of the valley sprays. The two-tiered veiling was made complete with a scalloped edging.

For something old, she wore her mother's first dinner ring, borrowed-pearl earrings with diamond drop belonging to her mother, something blue was her garter, and for something new, she wore her wedding dress.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and was accented with the three tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a bride and groom in a gazebo. The cake was decorated with peach and lilac flowers. Around the front of the cake, were fresh flowers of peach roses, lilac daisies, peach mini-carnations, garland and baby's breath. Punch, mints and nuts were served from crystal appointments.

Jeannette Sauer and Jo Ann Ramos served at the bride's table.

The serving pieces had peach roses tied with ribbon on each piece. There were tall fluted glasses with the bride and groom's wedding date engraved on them.

Both the bride and groom's tables were centered with flowers of lilac daisies, peach mini-carnations and baby's breath.

Linda Benson of Midland served chocolate cake and coffee from the groom's table. Mints and nuts were also served.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will be at home in Lubbock where the groom is employed at Deeco Rubber Co. and the bride is employed by Roosevelt School system as a computer teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kent hosted a rehearsal supper in honor of their children on Friday night, Aug. 5 at the Cinders Restaurant in El Paso. TEXAS COTTON CROP RATED 6,137,000 BALES

A total of 5,137,000 bales of cotton may be expected from the 17,595,000 acres probably remaining for harvest in Texas, H.H. Schutz, statistician of the Federal Department of Agriculture, said today in view of the August 1 condition reports on the crop.

The condition was 70 percent normal, compared with 59 percent on the corresponding date last year and 63 percent as a 10-year average.

Cotton picking is active in the southern part. The yields are disappointing in some localities, but in others are somewhat better than those of last year. Long duration of dry weather has caused a considerable amount of premature opening of bolls.

EAST, WEST HIGHWAY FROM BAILEY CO. TO FORT. WORTH PLANNED

That an effort will be made to obtain a major thoroughfare running East and West through Bailey and other counties east of here, is the result of a meeting held a few days ago when an organization was formed for such purpose. Citizens of the east part of this county have desired such a highway, are entitled to such service, and it is understood the State Highway department now looks upon such artery of travel.

Beginning at the New Mexico state line, it is proposed to improve a road to lead east through Bailey, Lamb, Hale and Floyd Counties to intersect a highway into Fort Worth and Dallas via Wichita Falls.

In Bailey County the proposed road will intersect with state highway 214 leading from Muleshoe into Cochran County.

Attending Lions Club Camp

Teena Newman Attends Camp In Canada

By Tenna Newman

At 6:30 a.m. on July 9, I left Lubbock via Dallas to Toronto for my four week Lions Club Youth Exchange visit in Canada.

When I arrived in Toronto, I was greeted by several Lions Club members and three fellow exchange students. When I stepped off the plane, I was surprised by the humidity and unseasonable heat. I stayed with my host family, Ray, Betty Anne, Rosanne, Mark, Missy, and Jesse, who took me into their home in Hanover, Ontario. One of the highlights of my first week, was going on an annual Lions Club camping trip with my host family.

I was entered in their annual horseshoe pitching tournament. My partner and I ended the tournament holding the runner-up position. It was a very unique experience. Everyone was very kind to me. They also noticed my southern accent rather quickly.

The next day, I met 14 other youth exchange students from Finland, Japan, Belgium, Denmark, Germany and Holland. This started the first day of the Lions Club Camp. During this camp, we toured the Providence of Ontario on a chartered bus. We visited such places as the Parliament and city of Ottawa, the Mennonite Community, and Museum in Kitchener, Niagra on-the-lake, and Niagra Falls, Canada's Wonderland, harness racing at Orangeville Raceway, Upper Canada Village in Kingston, the 1,000 Islands, and many other sights.

During this camp, I not only gained a better insight into Canada and it's culture, but also a better understanding of other countries and their peoples through the exchange students. I made many new friends that I shared exciting and memorable times with throughout the week. On the last day, we had the closing ceremonies in which the counselors recognized each one of us, and vowed that we would always stay in touch.

In Canada, I noticed that the food we ate, was a bit different. Chicken fried steak and Mexican food were not common in Canadians' diet. Another difference was their use of the metric system; and I never adjusted to that. Also, there are not many basketballs in Canada, but there are many hockey sticks.

The Kuntzes spent all of their efforts in making sure that my stay in Canada was very enjoyable, and I couldn't have enjoyed it anymore than I did. The last two weeks, my host family took me to see many places and sights in Ontario. Through them, I learned about their culture and hospitality and even how to play golf. Overall, my stay in Canada was one that will hold great memories for me always. Thanks to the Lions Club of Sudan, I was able to enjoy such a youth exchange program.

Churches are even extending the celebration to their Sunday, September 11 services, and some will be conducting 'old-fashioned' Sunday morning services, complete with many of the congregation being dressed in 'period' costumes.

Rotary Hears Promotional On Wrestling

No formal program for the Muleshoe Rotary Club was presented Tuesday at noon, but Mark Chapman of Lubbock attended the meeting, asking the Rotary Club to sponsor World Class Wrestling in Muleshoe as a fund-raiser.

He explained that other cities of comparable size had made $2,500-$3,000 by sponsoring wrestling in their own town. Rotary President George Nieman said he had talked with representatives from four cities and all reported good results from the wrestling conducted in their own town.

If approved by the Rotary Club board of directors, it is expected to be held here in about three weeks.

Tickets will be $5 for adults and $3 for kids.

Dick Chitwood made a brief report on handling booth reservations for the Bailey County West Plains Fair, scheduled for September 8-10, and said a lot of interest is being generated, especially since it will be held in conjunction with Muleshoe's 75th birthday.

A lot of activities are being planned.

President Nieman also said they are still accepting donations for the Rotary International entry in the Parade of Roses at Pasadena, CA on January 1.

Visitors at the meeting included John Bryan Cowart, Reagan McElroy, Terry Andris, Hugh Lankford, Mac Bearss and Susie Bearss.

ing; an antique display; the possibility of a 'fly-in'; a fire department demonstration; a bandaging contest; a blood pressure clinic; a square dance display; and a barbecue for Saturday, September 10, 3-6 p.m. at the American Legion Hall.

And, once again, Joe Rhodes Boot Shop will be hosting their own mini-celebration, which always draws crowds to the corner of Main Street and American Blvd.

Other stores may also be planning very special promotions during the celebration, although exact plans have not been released as yet.

Attending the planning session at the city hall Monday were George Nieman, Harvey Bass, Dick Chitwood, Nancy McWhorter, Donna Kirk, Mike Richards, Linda Turner, Gilbert Rennels, Myrtle Creamer, Spencer Tanksley, Judy Watson, Toni Eagle, and Clea Williams.

MISD Teachers Attend Inservice Conference

Linde Tanksley and Marquita Adamson teachers at Muleshoe High School participated in the State Inservice Conference for the professional development of vocational home economics teachers in Dallas August 15-18, 1988. More than 2700 teachers from school districts all across the state attended the three-and-one-half day conference.

The conference, coordinated by the Vocational Home Economics Division of the Texas Education Agency, focused on new content in the home economics program as set forth in the Master Plan for Vocational Education. The Master Plan, a part of the school reform package, was approved by the State Board of Education earlier in the year. Twenty-three concurrent sessions provided teachers with the foundation to effectively include the new concepts in all areas of instruction in home economics education. Content, approaches, background, research and strategies for teaching were covered by well-known experts from across the nation. Topics addressed included Nanny care, a new concept in child care training; computers revolutionizing the textile and apparel industry; help for school-age parents; life management skills; the impact of technology on the housing industry; key developments in the science of food and nutrition; teaching critical issues; families in transition and positive outcomes with the at-risk

Football

By Pete Fritchie

The sums of money agents are demanding from pro football teams these days are awesome. These big guaranteed salaries may be justified for proven veterans but agents are demanding—and getting—millions for college players who have never played a pro game.

The agents are taking care of themselves in the process, of course, for they get a percentage. The latest case to stir attention, and criticism, is that of Paul Gruber, signed by the Tampa Bay Bucs, and represented by an agent named Ralph Cindrich.

Gruber went along with his agent's demand for a higher-paying contract than the top draft pick got from Atlanta—$4.1 million over 5 years (Aundray Bruce). Yet Gruber wasn't one of the top picks. Cindrich knew, however, the Bucs want Gruber to protect highly-prized quarterback Vinny Testaverde.

He also threw a few brickbats, saying he questioned whether the Bucs could win. (They have had trouble doing that in recent years and such remarks aren't helpful.)

The tug-of-war might be over when you read this but the idea of demanding more than $4 million for five years for a college player who has never played his first NFL game indicates pro football is on the way to the zany excesses of Major League baseball.

"Vocational home economics hardly resembles the homemaking classes of just a few years ago," said Mary Harrison, president of the Vocational Home Economics Teachers Association of Texas (VHETAT). Harrison said that today's vocational home economics includes courses in life management skills, advanced food science and nutrition, apparel design, consumer economics, interior design, family finance, parenting education, child development, to name a few of the areas of instruction. In addition, vocational home economics teachers train students to enter the working world by giving them skills in jobs such as fashion design, hospitality services, child care, and entrepreneurship. Students also learn how to manage the dual role of wage earner and homemaker. Vocational home economics teachers "Skills for a Lifetime." A video by the same title, "Skills for a Lifetime" has been produced by the VHETAT to help the public better understand the new face of home economics.

PEST MANAGEMENT UPDATE

Parmer-Bailey Counties

MIKE D. BLANTON
Extension Agent-Entomology

By Mike D. Blanton
Extension Agent-Entomology
Bailey & Parmer Counties

GRAIN SORGHUM

Sorghum midge populations in flowering grain sorghum are prevalent throughout Parmer and Bailey Counties. Numbers range from one adult per four heads in some fields to one to five per head in others.

To determine the presence of this pest, fields should be inspected during mid-morning until early afternoon. Since a new midge population appears daily, fields should be scouted frequently during the flowering period. This small orange insect can be detected flying about flowering sorghum heads. Use of a clear plastic bag as a trapping device is helpful in detecting and counting midge adults.

Days 5-12 of bloom in a uniform field contribute about 75-80 percent of the potential grain production. These days are the most important for midge control. When one or two adult midge are found on each head, control should be considered. The table above indicates the economic threshold based on the number of midge per head. It is dependent upon the cost of control and the current market value of the crop.

Greenbug populations in many sorghum fields have declined sharply due to beneficial activity; however, this pest remains a problem in some fields. After heading, greenbug numbers which cause the death of more than two normal-sized leaves after flowering and before hard-dough may warrant control. This guideline is based on the assumption that greenbug increase is occurring more rapidly than control by beneficial insects. Remember, if 20 percent or more of the greenbugs appear swollen and brown from parasitization, insecticide treatment is not generally necessary.

COTTON

Bollworm eggs and small larvae are being found in southern Bailey County; however, most fields have not reached treatment levels. Bollworm activity in corn-producing areas is expected to increase as the moth emerges from the corn. Bollworm eggs are typically laid on the upper surfaces of leaves in the top portion of the plant. Eggs may also be found on stems, squares, blooms and bolls.

These eggs are wider than they are tall and look like a pin-cushion. Bollworm eggs, on the other hand, are taller and have fewer vertical ridges. The treatment threshold for bollworms is when 8,000 to 10,000 small larvae per acre are present.

CORN

Southwestern corn borer egg-lay is beginning to decline with 100 percent of the eggs hatches in some fields. Spider mites continue to be a concern in a few fields. If the threshold has not been reached before full dent, damage by mites is usually not an economic threat.

'RIGHT TO KNOW' LAW

There will be a public hearing on the new proposed regulations to the Texas Agricultural Hazard Communication Law at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center on August 30 at 10 a.m. The Texas Department of Agriculture invites public comments on these proposed regulations until September 22, 1988.

Drought Program May Provide More Hay Supplies

Farmers wanting to help their "neighbors" may want to consider a hay donation program.

Livestock owners in drought-stressed counties who are attempting to locate hay for their animals would benefit from such a move, now possible as a result of action announced by U.S. agricultural officials.

Dr. B.L. Harris, soils specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said hay now may be harvested from land under the acreage reduction programs outside of drought areas if growers donate the hay to ranchers and farmers of drought areas.

"The key word here is donate," Harris said.

He said no penalty or loss of payments is incurred by growers when the hay is donated. An individual needing hay could pay the cost of harvesting the donated crop or could actually harvest the hay himself.

Agricultural producers in counties not suffering from drought have been authorized by Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng to harvest hay from land under various acreage reduction programs and the 10-year Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) if they donate the hay to producers in drought-stricken areas.

"Previously, hay could only be taken from land in counties approved for emergency haying or grazing of such acreage due to drought," Harris said.

He said the new ruling means that Texas farmers in the 64 counties not designated as drought disaster areas may not harvest hay from land in various acreage reduction programs provided they obtain harvesting approval.

In Texas, the drought life includes 190 of the state's 254 counties approved for haying and grazing of acreage conservation reserve (ACR), conservation use (CU) and haying on conservation reserve program (CRP) land.

Also, 93 counties are authorized for the emergency feed program (EFP) and the emergency feed assistance (EFAP) program.

Harris said producers wishing to donate such hay should contact their local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) for harvesting permission.

After harvesting hay from land in the various acreage reduction programs, the producer must donate the hay through the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Harris said the producer also must obtain certification from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service indicating that the hay has been donated and file the certification with the local ASCS office.

Bumper Stickers

The latest fad in driving is the bumper sticker. One can find just about any clever or unclever statement plastered on someone's back bumper.

The statements are often purposely outrageous as: "Nuke the whales!" Some are religious. Some are vulgar. Most are so-so and silly.

Mobile graffiti is usually harmless. Yet some give and take has developed. For example, one trucker carries a sticker which insists "Jesus is bored" rather than "born."

One won't get into that, except to suggest we refrain from bumper sticker answers to bumper stickers. There could be no end to it!

CONFUSED ABOUT MEDICARE SUPPLEMENTS?

If you own a Medicare supplement which implies that you will owe nothing
READ THE FINE PRINT!

Most policies today pay 100% of approved charges or USUAL AND CUSTOMARY charges. These terms protect policies from paying entire bills. This means you could be out of pocket hundreds or even thousands of dollars!

Finally-What you have been asking for-A Medicare supplement which pays "100% of the difference between the ACTUAL CHARGES of the provider of services (physician or hospital) plus Prescription Drugs (optional) and the Medicare payment." And best of all, it is priced lower than the "fine print" policies.

Take the surprise out of your Medicare supplement.

Heritage Foundation Gets Special Gifts

Last Thursday, the Student-Community Action Club met in the home of Jennifer Green, -- and already the local student group is off to a flying start. Members explained that each year, this club meets early in order for the former senior students to be present before leaving for college or other activities.

Each year, the installation of officers is conducted by the outgoing officers. Each officer reads the duties of his/her office, which is prepared in scroll form. The scroll is then presented to the new officer.

Officers installed for the new year are Christy Mata, president; Norma Jean Del Toro, vice president; Lisa Noble, secretary; Amy Montgomery, treasurer; Carrol Copley, reporter; Justine Hanes, historian and Timmy Shipman, parliamentarian.

A formal 'passing of duties' paper was then signed by the old and new officers present.

A special presentation was made by the SCAC members to the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation. Making the presentation in the name of SCAC were Jennifer Green, former secretary; Deborah Lackey, former treasurer; and Timmy Shipman, incoming parliamentarian.

Receiving the articles presented were Roland McCormick, president of the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation and Mrs. Jack Schuster, the antique collecting chairperson of the Foundation.

The club presented a large oil painting, by artist Valerie Smith, which had been purchased at the Muleshoe Heritage Celebrity Auction. They also presented an American flag, which Congressman Larry Combest had presented to the Auction. This flag had flown over the capitol in honor of the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation and was also purchased by SCAC to be given to the Foundation.

SCAC sponsor Jean Allison had earlier been given a 1927 Muleshoe High School and a 1927 Y-L School graduation announcement by Benny Bickel. These also were presented to the Heritage Foundation.

Both McCormick and Mrs. Schuster expressed their appreciation for these gifts to the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation and asked for the continued support of the club as they continue restoration of the Janes Ranch House and the Muleshoe Ranch Cookhouse.

McCormick noted that the restoration of the Muleshoe Depot might never have been accomplished had it not been for the enthusiasm of the students who were the forerunners of the Student-Community Action Club.

A short discussion was held about plans for the new year and a citizen-of-the-month for September was chosen. Club members voted to hold meetings on the third Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at monthly designated places. The meeting for September will be held at Leal's Restaurant.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served old and new members present. Special good wishes were given to senior students who will be leaving for new experiences.

Members enjoyed looking at the club scrapbook which has been kept by the club historian since the club was organized in 1983. The past two years' historian was Elizabeth Posadas, who will soon be leaving for college.

Prevention! Your Key To Good Health!

Risk Factors For Heart Attack

Coronary heart disease, or heart attack, is the leading cause of death in the United States, as well as a major cause of disability. Certain risk factors make some people much more likely to develop coronary heart disease than others. It is important to know what these risk factors are and what can be done to modify these risk factors and thus lower your chances of developing coronary artery disease.

HYPERTENSION

Once high blood pressure is diagnosed, several things can be done to lower your blood pressure. Some people may need only to reduce salt intake and lose weight, while others may need to be managed with medication.

SMOKING

The risk of coronary heart disease increases steadily with increasing cigarette consumption and is not diminished by use of filtered type cigarettes. The risk of smokers who quit is 50 percent lower than those who don't. For people needing to quit smoking, your doctor can prescribe a nicotine substitute that may help some to eliminate this high risk habit.

CHOLESTEROL

Every person should know their cholesterol level as well as they know their age. People with high cholesterol can be managed with diet and if needed, medication to lower cholesterol.

DIABETES

Control of diabetes with insulin or oral medication may lower the risk of coronary heart disease associated with diabetes.

OBESITY

Through weight loss, often-times, blood pressure is lowered, cholesterol is reduced and glucose intolerance is improved. Thus interventions aimed at obesity are a valuable component to reduce risk.

SEDENTARY LIFE STYLE

Active people are less likely to develop heart disease than sedentary people. Possibly this is due to weight reduction, stress reduction and increasing a favorable type of cholesterol called H.D.L. So, join the crowds taking evening walks or, after physician approval, enter a supervised exercise program.

A team effort between you and your physician can lower these risk factors and thus reduce the incidence of coronary heart disease.

(Editor's note: In a commitment to the community health needs, Muleshoe Family Medicine Clinic, staffed by Drs. McClanahan and Purdy, will intermittently provide articles similar to the above article to The Journal for publication.)

Ranchers Encouraged 'Look Before You Leap'

"Look before you leap" is an old adage, but one ranchers better consider before starting wholesale land restructuring.

A major speaker, Paul Bierschwale, told Texas Agricultural Extension Service faculty attending a recent state conference here that many producers are actually hurting their overall land value in an effort to improve production.

Bierschwale, with Bierschwale Appraisers in Junction, also serves as chief appraiser for Kimble county, one of the hottest markets for rural real estate in Texas.

Bierschwale said that a landowner's primary focus should be his land value.

"A lot of land has been butchered over the years because we've concentrated solely on agriculture and ignored the recreational side of it," he said. "All we do (as appraisers) is read the market land sales that we've seen. The pretty tracts will sell for a whole lot more than those that will run a cow to three acres."

Bierschwale said that from an agricultural management or production standpoint the U.S. is the most productive country in the world.

"Our goal as a rancher is not to increase production but to increase the bottom line...the value of the land. The bottom line is to increase net worth at the end of the year," he said.

"Management practices have a direct effect on land value," said the appraiser. "Many times land with hunting potentials are worth one and a half times more than one without."

Bierschwale warned that landowners must be bona fide producers in order to receive the lower agricultural use property taxing schedule. "Land must be used to the intensity typical in the area," he said. "Strictly speaking, those areas used for recreation purposes only do not qualify for agricultural use."

The exception, he said, is land in the Conservation Reserve Program, which allows for no use other than recreation for the duration of the contract. He said that this land is still taxed agriculturally so long as it remains in the government program.

"You better be concerned about the bottom line...that asset value and not just production. What you should be trying to do is make an annual contribution to the net worth of your place," Bierschwale said.

Football, 1988

America's football fever is unique. That's because, unlike football (which we call soccer) in other countries, U.S. football is also college football—school teams trained and spotlighted as if professional.

Though soccer's appeal is growing, college and pro football still exert a far greater pull among U. S. fans. And the fever which grips the football addict is singular.

Former graduates utilize football games to return to their alma mater. Parties abound around stadiums, often from station wagon tailgates.

Students use the games as a highlight of weekend socials. Other fans view college games almost as they would professional sports—and football stadiums are often sold out long in advance of games.

Saturdays have traditionally been reserved for college games and Sunday for pro games. Saturday Sept. 3 is the start of the 1988 season.

At the end of it all, millions of fans have watched a most violent physical contest between student teams. Too many players will have been left with bad knees, backs, necks, arms, etc. A few will have died and a few will have been paralyzed.

Summertime Is Traditional Time For Reunions

Summertime is the traditional season for the most distinctive of Southern family gatherings--The Reunion.

All across the South, distant twigs of sprawling family trees harvest their tow-headed offshoots for a journey to their roots. Williamses, Davises and Thompsons travel along rolling rural roads to a hillside family homeplace. With them, they bring out-of-focus black-and-white photographs of a forgotten family wedding, their own version of great-great-grandfather's favorite tall tale and the most precious cargo of all-- food.

For hundreds of miles in the protective pillow of mama's lap, savory Southern dishes have survived sweltering heat and back seat sibling rivalry to grace the centerpiece of all reunions--the traditional family dinner on the ground. There, laid out on the long makeshift table set up on sawhorses is a genealogy in vittles.

With your taste buds, you can trace the family tree faithfully preserved in recipes. There's great Aunt Garnet's dressed eggs and one of many unnamed cousins' fresh garden vegetables. There are half a dozen platters ringed with ripe, red tomato slices all competing to be the first devoured and win the unspoken grand prize of Reunion's Best. Each family member brings her specialty, a recipe practiced and faithfully reproduced, reunion after reunion. And when a favorite recipe, say Aunt Cece's potato salad, should fail to appear, there is a moment of silence 'cause everyone knows she's either gone to her reward or out of favor and her cookin' will be sorely missed.

'Neath the shade of the old family oak, a huge galvanized tub of lemonade draws its chill from an uncut block of ice and its flavor from a sea of lemon slices. A swig of this sugary libation sharpens memory and loosens the tongue, allowing silent old men to amaze younger relations with whispered stories of once having shook hands with Frank James, Jesse's older brother.

There are the candied yams, country hams and chicken fried in a greater variety of herbs and spices than the Colonel ever imagined. There is, as always, cornbread of every species--thick, thin, little pones and even loaves--an infinite assortment magically concocted from the same basic ingredients.

As polite kin, of course, we sample every item. We serve ourselves a "gracious plenty" until our paper plate nearly folds. We might even go back for seconds, with the reminder to "Leave room for dessert, y'hear?"

Who could ever forget to leave room for dessert? You'd sooner call your uncle's third wife by his first wife's name. Desserts at reunions are the classic example of the pulpit exhortation that "The greatest shall be last." In fact, they are so special they require their very own table guarded watchfully by an army of aunts. These aunts hover over the table occasionally using their wooden-handled funeral fans to shoo a misplaced fly or child from lighting on a perfectly formed pecan pie, cobbler, tea cake, fresh-cracked peach ice cream or a dripping plate of watermelon. And if you're lucky or maybe the youngest or oldest or most recently married, you'll be given the choice of leftover desserts to take home. So that on a rainy day when family seems especially far away, you can cut yourself a sliver of that pie and enjoy a delicious mouthful of reunion memories.

As recipes for success at this year's reunion, the home economists of the Martha White Kitchen have combined the best of traditional and contemporary cookery and have developed three dessert recipes guaranteed to become family traditions.

CHOCOLATE PECAN PIE
3 eggs, well beaten, 1 cup sugar, 3/4 cup light corn syrup, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips, 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell, Pecan halves, if desired, whipped cream, if desired.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Combine first five ingredients; mix well. Stir in chocolate chips and chopped pecans. Pour into pie shell. Arrange pecan halves on top, if desired. Bake for 45 to 50 minutes or until set. Cool. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

ICED LEMON BUTTER BARS
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup sugar, divided, 1/2 cup butter, softened, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, Confectioners sugar.

Preheat oven to 350° F. Combine 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/4 cup sugar and butter in bowl; blend until dough forms a ball. Pat into ungreased 9-inch square baking pan. Bake 15 minutes. Combine eggs, remaining 1/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, lemon peel, and lemon juice in bowl; blend well. Pour over partially baked crust. Bake 18 to 20 minutes, or until filling is set. Sift confectioners sugar over top. Cool in pan on wire rack. Cut into bars. Makes 16 bars.

CARROT PINEAPPLE NUT CAKE
2 cups sifted self-rising flour, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2 cups sugar, 1 1/2 cups vegetable oil, 4 eggs, 2 cups finely grated carrots, 1 can (8 1/4 ounces) crushed pineapple, undrained, 1/2 cup chopped nuts.
Preheat oven to 325° F. Grease

and flour 13X9X2-inch pan; set aside. Combine flour and cinnamon in bowl; set aside. Combine sugar, oil, and eggs in large mixing bowl; beat with electric mixer until well blended. Gradually beat in flour mixture; blend well. Stir in carrots, pineapple, and nuts. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 55 to 60 minutes, or until cake shrinks slightly away from sides of pan. Cool 10 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to cool completely. Frost with Cream Cheese Icing.

CREAM CHEESE ICING
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, at room temperature, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened, 4 1/2 cups (16 ounces) confectioners sugar, sifted, 2 teaspoons vanilla.
Combine all ingredients in mixing bowl. Beat with electric mixer until smooth and creamy.

MICROWAVE TIPS

By Linda Attaway

On the subject of clothes in the microwave, ironing sheets and other linens, including tablecloths and napkins: this can be made much easier by sprinkling them with water (dampen slightly), placing them in a one gallon plastic trash bag and microwaving on high for one minute or until it's warm to the touch. Wrinkles will be much easier to iron out.

For a nice touch with your dinner guests, take four dampened washcloths or hand towels and place in a wicker basket (or other non-metal basket) and microwave on high for one to two minutes, until very warm to the touch, and offer to your guests either before or after a meal.

For a special treat, place a slice of lemon peel with a clove or other favorite fragrant spice in the center of each cloth before heating. Remove the spices before serving.

To ease the pain of strained muscles or a headache, use a dampened hand towel heated in the microwave as a warm compress.

Wisdom is the art of proportion.
