Hobbs Eagles Bow To Bullpups 13-7 There Saturday

The Artesia Bullpups, under Coaches J. R. Smith and Calvin Hall, traveled to Hobbs Saturday night and clipped the wings of the Eagles to the tune of 13-7.

Hobbs chose to receive the opening kick-off and after a series of plays marched to the Artesia 30, from where Kennedy reached play dirt by going between right end and tackle. Johnson kicked the extra point, putting Hobbs out in front 7-0.

It looks as though the hosts were on their way to a smashing victory, but not for long, for the Bullpups took the kick-off and marched down to the five-yard line where Richard Cranford smashed through right guard for a touchdown. Harold Grissom's attempted placement was wide, giving the Eagles a one-point advantage at the end of the first quarter.

Hobbs received and tried to push downfield, but the stubborn Bullpups would not yield and the Eagles were forced to punt. Artesia advanced to the Hobbs 48, where Rutledge passed to Reece Booker for a 25-yard gain. A few plays later John Felton ran the remaining 18 yards on a reverse around left end for the second Artesia touchdown. Felton crashed over right guard for the extra point, ending the scoring for the half and game with the Bullpups in charge with a tally of 13-7.

The second half was a see-saw affair, with neither team able to score, although Artesia advanced to the Hobbs 15, where the offense bogged down and Hobbs took over on downs.

In the entire game, Artesia made 13 first downs to six for Hobbs. (Continued last page, this section)

Road Gang Cook Dies Friday From Injuries Sustained In Car Wreck

Serapio S. Hernandez, 28, of Alpine, Texas, cook here for the Edgar Martin road construction crew, died in Artesia Municipal Hospital about 10 o'clock Friday morning from injuries sustained about 12:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 17, when his car overturned a mile and a half south of Artesia on Highway 285.

When Hernandez was found lying in the highway adjacent to his car and taken to the hospital in the Paulin ambulance for emergency treatment, it was thought he was more intoxicated than injured and police were asked to remove him to the jail. However, he was later returned to the hospital, where a physician said he had a dislocated vertebra in his neck.

The body has been taken to Alpine for funeral services and burial.

It was not immediately established that Hernandez had been driving the car at the time of the accident, for Bill Lewis, State Police patrolman, investigating at the Colonial Club where it was said to have been driven a few minutes prior, was informed there were three persons in the car, but that Hernandez was not at the wheel.

Further investigation by officers disclosed that Ruben Gonzales, 17 and Willey Salas, 15, were with him in the car when it left the club, but that neither was driving. Gonzales told officers that Hernandez was at the wheel and Salas said he was asleep at the time of the accident.

Both said they were standing around the wrecked car at the time Hernandez was put in the ambulance and officers were investigating. Then said that when officers asked the people in the crowd which had gathered to step back from the wreck, they obeyed without a word. Later, they told officers, they hitch-hiked into town.

The boys in their statement to officers said they and some other boys had gone to Roswell with Hernandez in the afternoon. After returning to Artesia, the two accompanied him to the Colonial Club, where Hernandez went in and stayed for some time, they said. Earlier, one of the boys said, he had procured a fifth of whiskey.

Rademaker Is To Speak Friday At Chamber Lunch

Stanley C. Rademaker, who is in charge of the new cotton classifying office in Artesia of the Cotton Branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will be the principal speaker at the September luncheon meeting of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce in the basement of the Masonic Temple Friday noon.

He is to give a demonstration on the classification of cotton.

Chairmen of three committees are to give reports on progress of their projects, all scheduled for fall and early winter. They are G. E. Kaiser, "Fire Prevention Week," which will be Oct. 9-15; William M. Siegenthaler, the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce, and G. Taylor Cole, the Christmas street lighting program.

J. D. Smith, president, is to report on highway and aviation progress and future projects of the chamber.

Luther E. Sharpe, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, stressed that Rademaker will have an interesting program, which every cotton farmer and businessman, as well as many others, should hear and see.

He stressed that as many as possible should attend, but asked that those planning to do so call the Chamber of Commerce office, phone 192, no later than Thursday, so reservations can be made.

Dates For Elks Minstrel Shifted To October 13-15

Definite dates for the minstrel show, "Talk of the Town," to be presented by the Artesia Elks Lodge, have been set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 13-15, it was announced by W. T. (Doc) Haldeman, exalted ruler.

The show had previously been announced for later in October, but the Oct. 13-15 dates have been finally selected.

Paul Larson, director, is scheduled to arrive in Artesia Thursday and a "latte party" is to be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the high school cafeteria, at which time Larson will make assignments and set the schedule of rehearsals. (Continued last page this section)

Dog Poisoner Is At It Again, So Keep Children Indoors

The dog poisoner is on the loose in Artesia again, with at least three pets being victims the last few days, according to reports to police.

Chief Earl D. Westfall said it has been established meat poisoned with strychnine has been scattered about some sections of the city.

He pointed out that the dog poisoner not only breaks the law and seems to care little about dumb brutes suffering as they die, but is a potential murderer. Little children will eat almost anything they find, he said and they are likely to find the poisoned meat.

'Safety Sally' Signs To Be Placed At Schools

The first of 24 "Safety Sally" signs, being furnished by the Artesia 20-30 Club, put in their appearance Monday morning on Main Street.

They are two of six old ones owned by the club, the other four of which are being repaired. Oscar Bayer, "Safety Sally" chairman, said the club has placed an order for 18 more, on which delivery is expected within the next two weeks.

The signs will be put out each morning in streets approaching all four of the Artesia school and will be removed each evening by police officers, according to Police Chief Earl D. Westfall. Arrangements were made Friday night, when he met with the club.

He said the club and community will have the complete co-operation of the police officers in placing the signs, so as to warn motorists they are nearing school zones and to slow down.

All 24 of the "Safety Sally" signs will be mounted on automobile wheels, which will be painted. The old wheels are being donated by local garages and the 20-30 Club members are having the signs permanently attached to them before painting.

This makes them easy to handle, by way of rolling them into or out of the street, at the same time giving them sufficient weight to give. (Continued last page, this section)

A.A. Meeting Inspires Visitor Tells Of Experience

(This was written by a person who is a non-alcoholic and has always been moderate in all things, but who has great admiration for those alcoholics who have through association with others learned to lead a life of abstinence. And as the members of Alcoholics Anonymous remain just that—anonymous—so does the author of this account.)

It was a delightful privilege to attend an open meeting of the Alcoholics Anonymous in Artesia Tuesday evening of last week, at the organization club rooms, when wives, husbands and myself were invited to join members during a social hour to honor one of the local members on his fourth anniversary of sobriety. I cannot think of anyone who deserved this honor more than the local man whom they chose to fete on this occasion. I cannot think of anyone in our city who has done more for his fellowmen during the last four years than the one honored.

About 40 guests were here from A.A. organizations in Roswell, Dexter and Carlsbad and including also a few from out of state. The loyalty of this group is expressed by the distances which they travel time after time whether to honor one of their number or to help one of them.

One could not help but notice how proud were the wives whose

Eddy Grand Jury Reconvenes Today; No True Bills Yet

The Eddy County Grand Jury, which started deliberations Monday of last week, adjourned Friday afternoon, to reconvene at 9 o'clock this morning.

Up to the time of adjournment Friday, the grand jury had returned no true bills.

At the request of the grand jury, an attorney has been appointed by District Judge C. Roy Anderson to assist that body. He is Thomas E. Lusk.

Scout Leaders' Round-Table To Be Held Thursday

An interesting program is being planned for the monthly Boy Scout leaders' round-table, which will be held at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night at Artesia High School.

All clubmasters, scoutmasters, senior leaders, den mothers, den dads, committees of all Boy Scout units, and interested senior scouters were urged to attend.

At that time plans will be discussed for a Boy Scout circus to be staged in the near future, and for a training program.

Three Artesians Being Held For 20 Burglaries

Three Artesia men are being held in Prairie County, Arkansas, in connection with 20 burglaries which they told officers they had committed in Oklahoma, Texas, and Arkansas, according to an Associated Press story.

One of the three, Tommy Lee Knott, 26, was out on bond for car theft in Artesia, and his case is scheduled for the October term of District Court in Carlsbad, Sheriff Dwight Lee said Saturday. Knott was arrested in Tucson, Ariz., for the alleged car theft and returned to Eddy County. He had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Knott and the other two, identified as John Sipes, 21, and his brother, Earl Ray Sipes, 24, were arrested in Blytheville, Ark., Friday, the Associated Press dispatch from De Vall Bluff, Ark., reported.

The dispatch said that Sheriff William Berryman of Mississippi County, Arkansas, picked the three up on a drunk driving charge and that they told stories of a three-state burglary tour in the last few weeks. The dispatch gave no further details.

Carlsbad city police received a radio dispatch Friday that John (Continued on Society Pages)

Arrival Mexican 'Baceros' Here Slightly Delayed

Paul Coffin, manager of the Artesia office of the New Mexico Employment Service, said the arrival of Mexican agricultural workers, the first of whom were thought due Monday, will be delayed slightly, as the start of processing them in Chihuahua City started on that day.

They then will have to be transported to Fort Bliss, where United States officials will process them before they are brought to this area to pick cotton.

However, Coffin said, 2000 of the "baceros" are to be processed to Colorado beet growers before any are released for picking cotton in the Pecos Valley.

But they will start coming in during the week and cotton picking should be in full sway within a few days.

Applications of the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association and the Farm Bureau for 1750 and 1500 Mexican nationals, respectively, have been approved by the U.S. (Continued last page this section)

Clare Tree Major Plays Will Have Two Shows Each

There will be two performances of each of the Clare Tree Major plays brought to Artesia children this year, instead of one as has been customary in the past, it was announced by the general committee made up of representatives of the three sponsoring organizations.

The committee met at the home of the chairman, Mrs. V. P. Sheldon, Friday morning to discuss plans for the three plays to be brought here this season.

The group reports that many children were turned away from the plays last year and they hope that by having two performances of each play, all children and adults in the city who would like to see the performances may do so. Because of limited space, tickets, in the past have been available to school children only, but this year it will be possible for pre-school youngsters and adults to attend.

Posters have been placed in the schools this week and the sale of season tickets will begin next week in the schools. The tickets will sell for $1.30 for children for the three plays, which will be "Cinderella" on Nov. 4, "Toby Tyler," on Jan. 25 and "Dick Whittington," on April 28. The performances will be at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and each school group will have a designated time at which to attend.

The groups sponsoring the Clare Tree Major plays in Artesia are the Story League, the Girl Scout Association and the Central School Parent-Teacher Association. Members of the committee present at the meeting were Mmes. Harvey Yates, Curtis Bolton, Hugh Parry, Dave Saikin, L. A. Hanson, G. T. Nickolds, Raymond Lamb, Owen Haynes, John Clarke, Jr. and V. P. Sheldon.

Bulldogs Battle Cardinals To 14-14 Tie At Eunice Friday

A safety in the closing minutes of grid play Friday night at Eunice gave the Artesia Bulldogs a 14-14 tie with the Cardinals. But offsetting that last-minute break was the fact the Cardinals had twice converted, whereas the Bulldogs failed to pick up either of two possible extra points.

With the score standing 14-12 in favor of Eunice at the end of 46 minutes of play, two incomplete Bulldog passes on the Cardinal eight gave Eunice the ball. Hinson, standing in the end zone to punt, fumbled the pass from center and the pigskin rolled over the boundary for the Artesia safety.

After playing out of town the last two Fridays, the Bulldogs will be at home again Friday of this week, when they will meet the Lovington Wildcats for the second game this season on Morris Field.

The Wildcats were smothered last Friday by the Carlsbad Caverns 47-0.

In the game at Eunice Friday, Artesia's Junie Russell kicked off and the Cardinals in a combination aerial and ground attack, accompanied by three first downs, marched the length of the field to a touchdown. The play was on a completed pass from Quarterback Bobby Wallace to Left End Bennie Baggett from the 20.

For the extra point, Wallace faked a placement and handed the ball to Fullback Dean Yeager on a reverse ground rig.

Doyle Cole, Bulldog freshman

back, ran back the ball from the Artesia 10 a distance of 90 yards for a touchdown on the Cardinal kick-off. Russell's attempt at placement was wide and Eunice led 7-6.

Although Eunice received, Artesia was in possession of the ball in midfield as the quarter ended.

The Cardinals again hit play dirt in the second quarter, on a lateral, leading to a long run. With the ball in play on the Eunice 31, Wallace was skirting left end, when he was tackled, but lateraled to Pete Bergen, who ran 70 yards for a touchdown.

Yeager held, while LeRoy Hinnman kicked for the extra point. The ball hit the crossbar, but rolled over.

The Cardinal kick-off went out of bounds and Artesia took possession on the 40. Cole ran off right tackle for 12 yards and a first down. Two plays later Back Ronald Dublin lateraled to Elvis Battle for another first. Three plays later Cole went around right for a third first down on the Eunice two and a half. Kenneth Malone ran to the left and over for the second Artesia touchdown. Russell's attempt at placement was blocked, as the half ended 14-12 in favor of Eunice.

In the third quarter, the Cardinals showed an edge over the Bulldogs, but the period was uneventful.

The Bulldogs, who had come into possession of the ball in the (Continued last page this section)

Representatives Of Presbytery Meet In Artesia

Representatives of churches in the Pecos Valley Presbytery were gathered Sunday afternoon and evening at the First Presbyterian Church of Artesia, when a parent-teacher meeting was held for the purpose of servicing new material for teaching the Christian faith in the church and home.

Miss Barbara North of Philadelphia, Pa., a representative of the National Board of Christian Education, directed the conference.

Other leaders, who had received training in El Paso last week, led the various groups. They were: Juniors, Mrs. Jess Milton, Carlsbad; primary, Mrs. Jack Knorr, Artesia; kindergarten, Mrs. John Newman, Roswell; nursery, Mrs. Homer Tegler, Roswell; parent group, Tom Kearns, Sunday school superintendent at Carlsbad and Rev. Ralph O'Dell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Artesia and director of Christian education in the New Mexico synod.

Rev. O'Dell explained the Presbyterian Church has inaugurated a new system of teaching materials, which is basically centered about the home, going on the maxim that parents are the best and most permanent teachers.

Films and slides were shown to make clear the home-church relationship of teaching the Christian religion.

About 75 persons attended, representing churches at Hobbs, Carlsbad, Eunice, Roswell, Hagerman, Dexter, Alamogordo and Artesia. They were served a dinner by members of the Women's Association of the Presbyterian Church.

Plans For 'National Fire Prevention Week' Discussed

G. E. Kaiser, Chamber of Commerce chairman on fire prevention presided.

Others attending were Fire Chief Albert Richards, Assistant Chief Elmo Naylor, W. G. Short, principal of Park School and J. D. Smith and Luther E. Sharpe, respectively president and secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Bedingfield Has Only New Oil Well Producer In Eddy

Of two wells completed in the Eddy County oil fields the last few days, one was less than a half top allowable and the other was plugged and abandoned.

A single location was made. It was the Danciger Oil & Refining Co., Turner 30-B, SE 17-31.

State Magazine Features Artesia And Eddy County

Fast growing Eddy County, with the third highest tax valuation of the state's 32 counties, is the subject of a complete issue of New Mexico Magazine for October. The issue goes on the newsstands Wednesday.

Eddy County, according to the magazine, has 1404 producing oil wells, raises a third of New Mexico's crops, a seventh of the state's livestock products and a 14th of the livestock. The county has the greatest potash mines in the nation and the "world's greatest wonder" — Carlsbad Caverns.

The county's first city, Carlsbad, is described as "the city of opportunity," and Artesia as the place "where oil and water mix." Articles in the number are: "The Wealth of Eddy County," by Victor Minter; "Artesia—Where Oil and Water Mix," by Helen Cunningham; "Carlsbad—the City of Opportunity," by T. E. Raynor; "Week End Exploring," by Robert Nymeyer; "Promoters and Pioneers," by Jack Sitton; "The Wonder of Wonders," a picture on Carlsbad Caverns and "Camera Touring Eddy County," a series of pictorial Eddy County scenes, by Robert Nymeyer.

Tracing Artesia's growth, Helen Cunningham in her article reports that "Building permits in Artesia increased from $28,476 in 1932 to a million dollars in 1948. We saw (Continued last page, this section)

Causes Others To Lose

THE UNFORTUNATE EXPERIENCES of individuals, who seek and try to aid others, is not only disappointing to those who seek to aid but it costs others a chance. Many times individuals worthy of help and assistance are denied their chance merely because of a previous experience some individual has had.

But it is always disappointing to those people who seek to help others to find they have misplaced their confidence and that their efforts have not been appreciated.

Seemingly there are those individuals who just can't help themselves and who feel they deserve help, yet never appreciate that help when they receive it.

They take advantage of those who help them; they expect more and more consideration and come to depend on others to carry their worries and the load, which is rightfully theirs.

They refuse to look the facts in the face; to realize their situation is of their own creation; their problems are their own; and the responsibility of accepting these must be accepted by them.

And seemingly the more consideration and help extended the more they expect and eventually when the end of the road is reached instead of having an appreciative attitude they become angry, bitter and seek revenge. They apparently are firmly convinced they have been wronged.

And the tragedy, of course, is the fact that individuals, who are willing to lend a helping hand, are disappointed because their help has not assisted any and they become rather bitter and frequently refuse to lend assistance and help to some worthy individual, who does need and who does deserve this assistance.

And as long as there are those, who take advantage of others, there will be those deserving and needy, who could have had a chance and help, but they are denied it because of the person, who has been given assistance but proved unworthy and undeserving of this help.—O.E.P.

Representation

IF WE REMEMBER CORRECTLY, there was a little matter having something to do about taxation without representation which bothered our forefathers no little and which made them sore angry.

The citizens of the counties in Southeast New Mexico have had the same condition to contend with many years, but we did little about it. In fact we did little enough about it last week. But the majority of those electors throughout the state who bothered to go to the polls in the recent amendment election came through for us.

Eddy and Lea Counties have been standing a disproportionate part of the taxes in New Mexico, but we have been sharing two state representatives and one state senator. And Eddy, Lea, Chaves, Curry, Roosevelt and De Baca Counties, which heretofore had four senators, will have six under the new constitutional amendment.

We hardly believe either Southeast or East New Mexico will have a proportionate representation under the amendment, but a step has been taken in the right direction.

Perhaps we will have to stop squawking about taxation without representation for a while, at least.—A.L.B.

Change In Law Needed

IN MOST CITIES AND TOWNS in most of the states, the representatives, whether they are council members or commissioners, named to govern the city are chosen by the respective voters in the respective districts of that city and not on a citywide basis.

In New Mexico, of course, this is not the case. In our state, the representatives to our county commissions, to our city council or city commission and even to our school boards are elected on a citywide basis.

These members are candidates from a particular ward or a district but they are voted on by all of the voters in the city instead of merely by the voters in that district which they seek to represent.

This makes it possible for one precinct, which may have a large vote, to actually name the representative from some other district or frequently to determine the winners for all of the districts.

We have always felt that it was none of our business as to the representative chosen by the other district in a city outside of the one in which we lived as to the individual chosen to represent them.

And we have also felt that it was only the business of those residing in the district which we live as to the individual chosen to represent our district. In other words we believe that each of the districts should elect their own representative on a city or county governing body. We believe this should be true in all communities and that all the voters in a city or town should not vote on all of the representatives districts in that city. We feel the voters should only vote on the representative from their own district.

But in New Mexico, as we stated, everyone votes on all candidates regardless of the district which they are to represent on the governing body.

And until there is a change in the state law, this practice will continue. The condition as it prevails today, of course, permits oftentimes one election precinct or the voters in one district to tell the residents of another district just who will represent them on the governing body of the city or county. We believe the law should be changed so that each district elects its own representatives.—O.E.P.

A Sensible Procedure

DISTRICT JUDGE GEORGE T. HARRIS, so we understand, deferred for 90 days the sentencing of a convicted hot-check artist in Eddy County District Court.

He told the man to pay off the hot check or checks and then to report back, declaring he planned to collect for the parties injured by the passing of hot checks before having the prisoner pay his debt to society for his wrong doing.

We rather imagine that if he sticks to the straight and narrow during the 90-day period, obtains the money honestly and pays off the checks that Judge Harris will temper justice with mercy. That would be splendid, by way of setting the fellow right and showing him that others will go along with one if he tries to do right.

But that is not the point we wish to stress. It is that Judge Harris knows that if he sentences the man to jail or fines him and he pays that debt, the matter is ended. The parties who were injured through the writing of hot checks are still injured. They are still out the money and probably always will be.

However, if the court makes the prisoner pay back the amounts of the checks the complaining witnesses will have lost nothing.

And if this method is followed more frequently by the courts, businessmen who have been duped with bad checks would be more inclined to prosecute, knowing they stand a good chance to recover the money otherwise lost.

Furthermore the hot-check artists might think twice before plying their trade in the future.

We believe Judge Harris is pursuing a sensible procedure.—A.L.B.

State's Resources

CONSIDERABLE ATTENTION was given the matter of placing more taxes on the natural resources of the state during the last session of the State Legislature.

And as was to be expected, much opposition from those, who profit from the state's resources, were opposing these extra levies.

But the fact remains that New Mexico's natural resources are slowly being depleted. The supply of copper, potash, other minerals, oil and gas are being moved out of the state for a profit for large concerns.

And the day will come when the state's natural resources are exhausted. Now, of course, is the time for the taxes to be placed on these products if the state is to gain from them. Now is the time for the state to tax these products, to help carry the taxpayers' load in the state if they expect to gain from our natural resources.

It is only to be expected, of course, that those profiting from the state's natural resources would oppose new levies on these. And as a rule they are powerful groups able to carry through a strong program of opposition.

But the natural resources of this state belong to the people of the state. And the people of the state should profit from these resources. And about the only way that the entire state gains is for the tax levies to be assessed.

It is true that certain areas of the state gain; payrolls are provided; business is created, but the fact also remains that sooner or later the natural resources are removed and gone. Much of this moves out of the state and raw material and once it is moved it is gone and gone forever.

In most instances the natural resources can not and will not be restored. There is no way to do that especially with minerals, gas and oil. In the case of lumber in time it can be regrown.

But the state is entitled to a good revenue from these natural resources and the members of the Legislature should see that this revenue is gained and collected now while we do have the natural resources because a few years from now they will be gone.—O.E.P.

Honesty In Business

A MANUFACTURER who has been advertising in The Advocate has sent us a frank letter. He said the business has had a bad fire, with very low fire insurance. "We are out of business for the present and out of funds," he wrote.

But, he added, as soon as the company is back on a paying basis, it will take care of the account at the earliest possible date, which probably will be several months.

That doesn't get the bill paid, but it certainly is a lot better than some local firms have done in the past, when they went out of business. They have merely folded their tents and quietly stolen away.

Good intentions in such a case indicate honesty and a desire to do the right thing. And we will nearly bet that the manufacturer in question will come through sooner or later.

Bad luck, such as a disastrous fire, can strike anyone or any business. And it is probable the nature of this particular business makes the cost of insurance almost prohibitive.

But if more people would take the same attitude as did this manufacturer and present the facts when hard luck overtakes them, there would be far fewer bad accounts, creditors would be more lenient and more money would be collected ultimately.—A.L.B.

Local baseball fans will no doubt be interested to learn that arrangements are underway to receive the returns from the world series, which will start in Chicago next Tuesday, between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics. Returns will be received daily at The Advocate office, beginning shortly after noon and will include each game, play by play. A special score board will be erected on the awning front of the office and fans will be able to follow every play with the aid of an announcer.

ACP Gives Aid In Solving Problems

Any farmer of Eddy County who has trouble holding the topsoil on his farm or in keeping up the fertility of his land may find that the Agricultural Conservation Program provides the assistance necessary to help solve the problem.

Ray Forehand, chairman of the Eddy County Agricultural Conservation Committee, said the 1950 Agricultural Conservation Program will be available soon. The 1950 program provides additional funds for use in assisting farmers in conserving the nation's soil and water resources. The limit on the amount of assistance to an individual farmer has been increased from the $750 for 1949 to $2500 under the 1950 program.

Forehand said that few farmers ever receive assistance amounting to $2500 and that most farmers cooperating in the program receive less than $100. But this small amount of assistance often makes it possible for a farmer to carry out the conservation practices which keep his farm from going to pieces, and which start it on the way to becoming a better and more productive farm.

Because of the national interest in conserving soil and water as the source of the nation's food and fiber supply, assistance is provided under ACP to farmers who cooperate in carrying out soil-saving and soil-building practices. Cooperating farmers have to put up their share of the cost of conserving practices. The average is about 50 per cent of the "out-of-pocket" cost of the practice.

Through this program farmers and all the people, through the government, share in protecting

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—A legend that should be dimmed, alas, is the one that all airline stewardesses and all nurses are the most beautiful girls in the world.

It is true that you will come across an occasional dilly when you take the 3-31 flight to Minneapolis, but generally speaking I have found stewardesses to be pleasant, well-informed and only passably pretty. And so with nurses.

If they were better-looking, they probably would be rustling a buck in the movies or posing as models, just as a man would be in front of the cameras in Hollywood if he had any real looks instead of wasting his time doing such things as writing for the newspapers.

All this is speaking generally, however. As I say, once in a while you will come across a poor man's type Hedy LaMarr coming down the plane aisle in her uniform, and I am happy to report that I had lunch today with one of these in Manhattan's exclusive Wings club, an institution that involves almost one entire floor of the Hotel Biltmore for the use of aviation bigwigs.

Not only was this one a doll; it developed that she was human in addition. Airline stewardesses always give you the impression that if the plane fell apart in mid-air they would know exactly what to do to get everybody out of the somewhat ticklish situation, but it developed that this one today used to get sick in airplanes. Even as you and I.

Her name is Alice Lemieux and she is from Westbrook, Me., and I have fond memories of Alice because last Memorial Day she did everything but hold my hand (I guess I didn't look wistful enough to get me safely across the big drink to London).

Within the trade she is kind of celebrated, because she is the first stewardess to ply her trade on a round-the-world flight. Her home base is an apartment which she shares with two young sisters—one of whom also is a stewardess and whom Alice sees more often in London than she does at home—in Jackson Heights, a part of Queens allegedly belonging to New York City.

"I WON'T SAY I USED TO AIL ALL THE TIME when I began flying about four years ago," this brown-haired dish told me, "but if I got real tired or upset or something, it would get me. And I remember once flying home through a rainstorm, when I was a passenger and not working—I've never been so sick in my life.

"But all that is past me. I never get ill any more. Some girls you know, never get over it. We had one who tried doggedly for a year and a half—but it got her on every flight and she was so miserable she finally had to quit."

The fair Miss Lemieux is the shepherd of the flock crossing the Atlantic on Pan American's big double-decked plane, and as such she meets a reasonably representative group of screwballs. Most people riding planes are amiable and as pleased as children by the champagne and free meals, but there always seems to be one lemming. Alice says, just as there always is one guy who never will let a bet be called all the way around the table in a stud game but has to bump it.

There was one of these on a recent trip who spent most of the time complaining about the service he had received at the airport before embarking. "I don't know just what it was that was done right for me," he mumbled, "but it must have been something." And that is why stewardesses get gray early.

ALICE, WHO HAS NO INCLINATION TO LEARN how to fly a plane herself, thinks Johannesburg is the nicest place she has ever been to. Her working day is Friday to Monday and she has Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to horse around in, horsing around usually consisting of washing her clothes, shopping, ironing, and coming in to Manhattan occasionally for a dinner date or a play.

She makes her own clothes and there is always a piece of silk from Italy or brocade from Damascus lying around the house waiting her busy needle. She has herded many celebrities about the drink and one of her favorites is Frances Langford, the singer and movie performer.

I think the strangest thing about Alice is that she never thinks about her plane crashing. I thought that was paramount in everybody's mind when riding upstairs, but she claims it never bothers her.

"It's like operating a taxi or working in a newspaper or any other job," she told me. "You can get killed anywhere. Why does it necessarily have to be in an airplane?"

That gave me food for thought, but "wasn't too nourishing," so I ordered minced baked chicken and sent the rest of the lunch trying to get Alice's phone number. It does not seem possible I was unsuccessful, but the world is topsy-turvy these days.

the soil against erosion, in conserving water, and in building up the productivity of the land so that the nation may continue to enjoy a balanced abundant production.

In this way, farmers are helping to strengthen the nation and protect the welfare of its people, as well as to make their own life on the farm more secure, Forehand said.

Cotton Prospects Improve Nationally

Increases in prospective cotton production in Texas and Georgia during August more than offset declines in the Carolinas and Central Belt states, the crop reporting board of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics says in their forecast of conditions on Sept. 1. As a result, the 1949 crop is estimated at 14,943,000 bales, 138,000 bales more than the August 1 forecast and 75,000 bales more than last year's production.

The final outcome of cotton compared with this forecast will depend upon whether the various influences affecting the crop during the remainder of the season are more or less favorable than those he heard explains.

Texas prospects improved 550,000 bales during August, while Georgia is expected to produce 50,000 bales more than predicted in August. Decreases in prospective production was predicted in many states.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

TWO sallys recently made their Groucho Marx in Hollywood. "The first time my wife ever saw me," he told one group "I was on the screen. Then she opened the window and let me in." A dinner guest at his house complained, "These sausages seem peculiar. They are meat at one end, but bread crumbs at the other."

"Correct," said Groucho. "It's an expedient. In times like these, nobody can make both ends meat."

A London editor, in Hollywood to study its customs and mores, swore to the variety of this experience. He secured a date with one of the super-duper glamor girls of the moment, and resolved to behave in a manner calculated to disarm her. "I forgot all my English reserve," he declares. "I said outrageous things, and took outrageous liberties. Suddenly she burst into tears. 'I've gone too far.' I told myself 'I am a beast.' But I had misjudged her. Recovered from her outburst of crying, she flung herself into my arms and murmured, 'You're the first fellow who's behaved to me like a gentleman in four years!'"

State Farm Real Estate Taxes Lowest In U.S.

New Mexico has the lowest farm real estate tax, per acre, in the nation and ranks 37th among the states in tax per $100 value of farm land, according to a recent report from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

For the last three years, the average tax rate per acre in the Sunbelt State was 6 cents—12 cents below the average for the eight mountain states and 51 cents below the national average.

The highest farm tax rate per acre ever assessed in New Mexico was 7 cents in 1930. The 1909-13 average for the state was only 2 cents an acre.

The tax per $100 of farm land value in New Mexico in 1948 was 6 cents, a decrease of 4 cents from 1947 and 56 cents less than the mountain states average.

New Mexico's highest tax rate per $100 of land value was $1.04 in 1900. The 1909-13 average for the state was 26 cents.

In 1948, the mountain states region had the lowest per acre tax rate of all sections in the U.S.—18 cents an acre. The New England states had the highest rate per acre, $1.77, with the Middle Atlantic states second at $1.42.

Maine had the highest 1948 rate per $100 of land value, $2.95, while Massachusetts led the states in tax rate per acre, $3.78.

Cotton Gins To Raise Pure Seed

To establish a more efficient method of distributing planting seed, many cotton gins in New Mexico, in co-operation with the New Mexico Crop Improvement Association and the Extension Service, have adopted a system to provide certified 1517 planting seed for all their customers.

Each year the gins will receive a sufficient amount of 1517 four-datation seed from the New Mexico Experiment Station to plant approximately 10 acres. The increase from this 10 acres will be registered seed. This will be increased the next year, yielding enough certified seed for yearly plantings in the entire gin community.

The value of this method has been demonstrated very successfully at a Hatch gin for several years. It has resulted in a wider distribution of certified 1517 planting seed, lower costs to producers, establishment of a 100 per cent, one-variety community and the certification of each and every bale of lint produced in the community.

Several other gins have made plans with the New Mexico Crop Improvement Association and the Extension Service to include a program of this nature next year.

part-time inspectors were completely and accurately labeled. In 1946-47, only 76 per cent of the regulatory samples met all the requirements of the law and only 73 per cent did so in 1947-48. The regulatory samples taken in 1948-49 represented lots from 18 seedsmen specializing in vegetable seed and 148 seedsmen, including local growers, labeling agricultural seed. In quality of samples received by the laboratory, the most marked improvement was in the sweet Sudan grass samples, according to the report. The most outstanding decrease in quality was in the germination percentage of alfalfa. A copy of the mimeographed report, which includes information on the accuracy of labeling by the 42 seedsmen from whom three or more samples were taken, may be obtained by writing to the State Seed Laboratory, State College.

Summer Camps Are Enjoyed By 4-H'ers

More than 2000 of New Mexico's 4-H Club boys and girls, representing nearly every county in the state attended summer recreation camps during the last season, according to L. S. Kurtz, state 4-H Club leader.

Programs at the camps were planned by local 4-H committees. Skits, stunts, and movies were featured as evening entertainment. Metalcraft and beadwork were the most commonly taught handicrafts at this year's camps.

Camp government in 1949 was organized around an Indian theme. Officers were "governor of pueblo," "sagamore," "medicine man," and "peacemaker." Each camp was divided into four "tribes," who wore Indian costumes, including war paint.

Those who attended the camps enjoyed an excellent opportunity to have a lot of fun, to become well acquainted with other members, to learn new games, new songs, new crafts and also more about how to get along with and like other people, Kurtz said.

Seed Laboratory Steps Us Tests

A total of 2667 seed samples were checked by the state seed laboratory at New Mexico A. & M. College during the last 12 months, according to the laboratory's annual report issued by Elizabeth McSwain, seed analyst. This is an increase of 837 samples over last year's total of 1830 and 1665 more than were received in 1945-46, after the New Mexico pure seed law was passed.

The quality of seed offered for sale in the state has apparently improved too, for this year's report shows that 86 per cent of the 900 regulatory samples taken by four

"Ranch Day" Is Set For Oct. 10

Recent developments in ranching methods will be laid before ranchers and stockmen who make the tour of the experimental ranches north of New Mexico A. & M. College for the ninth annual New Mexico "Ranch Day" Oct. 10. During the tour, visitors will inspect various cattle and range experiments and hear from research workers, ranchers, and U.S. Department of Agriculture representatives, according to J. H. Knox, head of the college's animal husbandry department, who is arranging the program.

"Ranch Day" is sponsored by the New Mexico A. & M. Experiment Station and Extension Service and the U.S. Forest Service. Everyone who is interested is invited to make the tour.

Visitors will assemble at the Dona Ana County court house in Las Cruces at 7:30 o'clock Oct. 10. From there, they will be conducted to the first stop on the tour at the Mayfield Well on the college experimental ranch, about 20 miles north of Las Cruces. The tour will stop at experimental sites on the college ranch and will then proceed to places of interest on the adjoining Jornada Experimental Range.

Discussions throughout the day will include such topics as production from two types of cattle on range and feed lot, relationship of gain on the range to feed in lot, control of mesquite in range cattle, mesquite control, control of other shrubs on New Mexico ranges, carotene in New Mexico range forage, and supplemental feeding on the range. Ivan Watson, extension animal husbandman, will be program chairman for the day.

"Although the program is not complete, we hope to make it worth the while of all who come," Knox said. He plans to announce details of the program nearer the actual date.

As in previous years, visitors will be guests of the college for a chuckwagon lunch, which is served at the experimental ranch headquarters.

Carotene Needed By Sheep For Best Of Health

Mature sheep can get along for a remarkably long time on a ration lacking carotene, but a lack of carotene will soon bring widespread death to lambs, County Agent Dallas Rierson reported. Carotene, which furnishes necessary vitamin A for all animal life, is found in green grass, green alfalfa hay, and yellow field corn.

Results of tests carried for a long time at the North Dakota Agricultural College have shown that mature ewes could exist a year or more with an almost carotene-absent diet without fatal effect. Lambs, however, in a few weeks without vitamin A became ill, from one type of infection or another, and soon died. Also, ewes on a carotene-low diet for a long period were able to conceive but could not reproduce normally.

"These findings are especially important because in many parts of the nation there is a short growing season, sheep are pastured for much of the year on such carotene-lacking forage as dead grass and poor prairie hay," the county agent explained. "Such a diet does not seem to affect the weight of the fleece of the ewes, and if a carotene-rich diet is furnished after the ewes are bred, they can reproduce and nourish their lambs normally."

College Students Reaching 18 May Register With Convenient Board

College and university students who become 18 years of age after the school term starts need not return to their homes to register under the Selective Service Law, New Mexico State Director Russell C. Charlton said, but may register at the local board most convenient to them, as may others when they reach the age of 18.

"The law requires registration of all young men—with very few exceptions—within five days after their 18th birthday," Charlton said, "but there still seems to be some misunderstanding as to the place of registration. All the young man has to do is present himself to the local board or registration place designated in that particular area most convenient in the place he happens to be when he becomes 18. The registration is simple and requires only a short time. The data thus gathered is sent to the local board of the community he terms his home and which has jurisdiction over him."

When the registrant has a permanent home, the permanent home address should be given to registration officials, Charlton said. For this purpose "home" is the place with which the registrant normally identifies himself and at which he would wish to be classified.

Charlton pointed out that there is no liability for service under the act until the age of 19 is reached, but he emphasized the obligation to register at 18.

"The law is specific," he said, and provides severe penalty for failure to comply."

Charlton added that the law is also specific in its requirements concerning obligation of a registrant to keep his local board informed as to any change in his address—where he may be reached by mail, that is—change in his status under the act.

"That applies after the registrant becomes 26 as well as before," Charlton said, "and it means that college and university students, as well as other registrants, should notify their respective local boards when they leave their homes. There is no form for this. It may be done by mail or personally appearing at the board office."

Charlton emphasized that the requirements to register and legal

Wildlife Artists May Compete On Stamp Design

New Mexico wildlife artists will have a chance to show how good they are soon, according to a Game Department release for Albert Day, director of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, has announced the rules for the contest which will decide next year's design for the migratory bird hunting stamp, more commonly known as the "Duck Stamp."

Entries, according to the release, which must be submitted before Jan. 2, must be 5x7 inches in size and black and white only. Artists will be given a wide choice in their materials and their subject. Pen and ink, oil, water color etching, pencil, or other method may be used and of course the subject must be a true-to-life portrait of wild waterfowl. In previous years the winning entries were of ducks and geese in action, but at any rate the birds should be in a position and plumage as the hunter sees them.

According to the Department of Game and Fish, as the rules and regulations are many and varied, it is suggested that possible contestants write the Division of Information, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D. C., for additional details.

Backyard Flocks Need Better Management

It may be a blow to some chicken raisers, but many of New Mexico's backyard flocks are too small to be profitable, E. E. Anderson, state extension poultry specialist, said.

"Tests show that larger flocks produce more eggs per hen," Anderson explained. "When the flock is small, the poultry raiser often neglects good management practices. Besides, more poor-quality eggs go to market from small flocks because eggs are kept over a longer period of time before taking them to market."

"The management of a small flock of a dozen or two pullets in the backyard can be as good as on commercial farms, but too often, the small flock is left to shift for itself, and the result is low average of production."

"Owners of large flocks make a business of poultry keeping and are more likely to apply newer scientific methods. They buy quality chicks which are bred to lay. They feed, house, and care for them according to the best practices, cull the low producers, and keep a high proportion of young layers."

Farm Real Estate Taxes Are Higher

Farm real estate taxes per acre in 1948 average about 8 per cent higher than in 1947, according to a Department of Agriculture report. This is the fifth consecutive year in which the average for the country as a whole has risen. Taxes per acre were 175 per cent greater than the 1909-13 average. The all-time high, reached in 1929, was 181 per cent.

Taxes per $100 value increased in 1948 in more than three-fourths of the states. The U. S. trend reflects the fact that, generally speaking, taxes increased proportionately more than did values, and suggests that land values are losing their upward momentum whereas taxes continue to rise. Increased taxes in most states are the result of a continuing demand for more and better public services, particularly schools and roads. In some counties in Tennessee, however, sales-tax funds, which became available for the first time during this period, enabled public officials to expand their school programs without increasing property taxes. In some cases, these funds made it possible actually to lower taxes.

One of the interesting photographs in the issue is of "Pecos River diamonds" found east of Artesia. Three plays later, after the Cardinals had failed to advance and punted, Artesia blocked and took over on the Eunice 30. The Bulldogs were then penalized five yards for being offside and lost an additional 15 yards on the second play. But on the next play, a pass from Dublin to Batie was good for a gain of 23 yards. And on the next play Malone made a first down.
Two plays later Batie crashed right tackle for another first down on the Eunice one-yard line.
After Malone and Batie had failed to gain and Dublin's passes to End Bobby Morgan and Batie were incomplete, Eunice took possession of the ball. It was on the next play that Hinman fumbled the pass from center and the ball rolled over the boundary for the Artesia safety to tie the score 14-14.
The Bulldogs were making a parade down the field when the game ended.
Artesia made 11 first downs to six for Eunice.
