Artesia Fire Calls for Year Total 131 Establishing a New Record

A record number of fire calls were reported for the year ending June 30. The total number was 89 in the city and 37 in the country, with five calls for resuscitation, making a total of 131. This is the largest number of fires reported in any one year, topping the previous record of 115 in 1945, by 16. The three months with the largest number of calls were January which produced 20 calls and December and February which had 15 each.

Artesia Cousins in Air Force

A pair of Artesia cousins, 18 and 19 years old, are among new Air Force recruits. They are Arby Dee Melton, 18, and Monroe Lee Melton, 19, both of Artesia. The airman are now training at Lackland, San Antonio. They enlisted at El Paso. Arby Dee is a former Smith Milling employe, while Monroe had been employed by ranch-west of Artesia. Information on their enlistment came from Carl V. Ireton, sergeant in class, sub-station commander, 48th States Army and United States Air Force Recruiting Station, Courthouse, Roswell. A letter was received by this paper Tuesday, July 10.

Artesia Church Group at Camp on the Sandias

Fourteen Artesians, accompanied by Rev. A. G. Bell, Mrs. Leonard Netherlin, and Mr. and Mrs. Nevil Muncy, are enjoying the fifth day of camp activities in Sandia Mountains. The group made up of junior senior high school pupils will return to Artesia, Sunday, July 15. Reverend Bell, pastor of the Christian church, and Mrs. Netherlin will instruct the camp while Mr. and Mrs. Muncy will assist in the kitchen and dining room. The camp is made up of young people from all over the state.

Coloradoan Link in Reuniting Brothers After 30-Year Lapse

At least one Artesia family seems to be having trouble keeping track of its members. It is the Jack Holcomb family, 1114 Merchant. One brother popped up in town last Friday after he had been unaccounted for more than 30 years. Another brother is still missing.

The Artesia Holcomb is service station manager at Clyde Guy Malco Distributor, South First at West Quay.

The brother who has been found is James Murray Holcomb of Burlington, Vt., who left Tuesday for Seattle, Wash., to visit another brother, A. V. Holcomb. Murray Holcomb is planning to go from there to San Leandro, Calif., to visit his sister, Mrs. P. F. McCabe.

It was through clues provided by an old man in Sadilla, Colo., where the Holcomb family had made their home when they were kids, that Jack and Murray found each other and their other siblings. (Prior to coming to Artesia, Murray had not known the whereabouts of his other brother, A. V., or of his sister either, as he was out of touch with the entire family.)

Began in World War I

The family started to drift apart during World War I when failing health forced the father to give up the family home in Sadilla, Colo. and move to California to live with his daughter, Mrs. P. F. McCabe. After this breakup of the family (Continued on Page Six)

Artesia Game Warden Assigned To Capital Area

L. W. (Speed) Simmons, of Artesia, district game warden, is being transferred to Santa Fe and will be replaced by Tom Rodgers. The switch is effective Sunday, July 15.

Simmons, bustling around Artesia on Wednesday, making preparation to move to his new location, did not give any details concerning the transfer or list Rodgers address other than the "northern part of the state."

He did leave a mimeographed sheet headed "state game commission," and signed "Henry H. Brown, Chairman, Fish Salvage Committee, Eddy County Game Protective Association."

The release deals with Eddy County association regulations for fish rescue work. "This plan was tentatively approved as workable by the fish salvage committee of Carlsbad and Hobbs and it is intended to include all GPAs of the southeast corner of the state. The proposal is as follows:

1.—That all fish removal by the general public be prohibited for a period of 48 hours after the water has been shut off and the water is considered as fish disaster water. Provided, that the general public may take the fish sooner if such action is considered advisable and agreed upon by the chairman of each salvage committee and the district game warden.

2.—That the general public may when permitted under 1. above, remove the dead and dying game fish by any means for a period of not to exceed 24 hours after the time set in number 1. above. Provided, that licensed fishermen and children under 14 years of age may take game fish to the extent of one legal possession limit only. (Continued on Page Six)

20-30 Staff Includes One Native Artesian

One single man, one father and one native Artesian, are among the roster of officers of the 20-30 Club, who were installed Thursday night. The single man is Ted DeMars, secretary-treasurer of the club. DeMars who lives at 704 South Roselawn has been a member of the club since 1947, and has served on the board of directors, is employed as a maintenance man by Price's Creameries.

The father in the group is Lowe Wickersham, vice-president, who lives at 701 West Grand. He has two daughters, Lanette, 9 and Janna, 7. He has been a resident of Artesia and a club member since 1948.

He is manager of the Kemp Lumber Company. He has served as president of the club and on the board of directors.

The native Artesian is Bob Gates, second vice-president, who lives at 1107 West Chisum. He is married, has held the office of sergeant-at-arms and has been a member of the board of directors. (Continued on Page Six)

Teachers Pledge Selves to Boost Spiritual Values

Artesia representatives at the eighty-ninth annual meeting of the National Education Association, held in San Francisco, were a part of the convention that laid plans to answer "unwarranted attacks against the public schools."

The association's counter-offensive will consist of rededication to teaching the three Rs, promoting spiritual values, and laying sound basis for American citizenship. "Tasks already engaging the attention of one million teachers the year round."

A. R. Wood, business manager of Artesia schools, was the local representative at the convention. Artesia teachers and administrators hold 100 per cent membership in the national organization.

Also at the convention were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Macey, also of Artesia, and R. J. Mullins of Santa Fe, father of Mrs. Macey. Mullins is executive secretary of the New Mexico Education Association.

To a New Mexican, Supt. J. Cloyd Miller of Deming, went election as president of the National Education Association. He will serve during the next 12 months.

Artesia's trio at the convention returned home on Sunday, July 8. The convention was held July 1-7. Attendance 7,000.

Seven thousand educators took part. One-half of this number were official delegates to the Representative Assembly; the remainder were teachers and educators taking part in discussion groups covering more than 50 topics affecting the welfare and education of children.

Through these teachers exchanged ideas and latest practices in the teaching of citizenship, conservation, mental hygiene, safety, reading, American history, and other fundamentals.

A unique feature of the convention was the continuous showing of instructional films for three days, bringing to the teachers' attention the latest audio-visual aids available to them in specific subjects.

Unification Goal
On the floor of the Assembly, delegates learned that NEA membership is at an all-time high, including a majority of America's teachers. Through a "Centennial Action Program," adopted by the Assembly, the NEA will seek to unify the entire profession. The NEA will observe its 100th birthday in 1957 and will devote the next six years to achieving its goals of unification.

During the six-day convention delegates heard addresses by Gov. Earl Warren of California; Andrew Cordier of the United Nations staff; Mrs. John E. Hayes, president, National Congress of Parents and Teachers; and Erle Coker, Jr., national commander of the American Legion.

Six Centers Handling Farm Labor Sign-Up

Recontracting of Mexican national farm labor was due to be started at 8:30 a. m. today at the Veterans Memorial Building, a part of a movement that extends from El Paso, to Pecos, Marfa, also in Texas, and to Las Cruces and Lovington in this state.

The list here is expected to total 550 workers, a part of the estimated 6,900 to be employed.

El Paso on Monday was the start of the process. There the recontracting team was comprised of T. V. Wayland, immigration service; Consul Daniel Chavez, Chancery Luis Elciso, Mexican consulate, and Samuel Sosa, U. S. Employment Service.

Sosa and Wayland joined Consul Ruben Riestra of Alpine in Pecos on Wednesday.

The New Mexico team consists of James H. Bennett, immigration service; Vice-Consul George Aguirre, Las Cruces Mexican Consulate; and Osmundo Lucero of the U. S. Employment Service.

Lovington is the team's last stop. In Artesia the deal is a six-months renewal of contracts that expired in June, 1951; in El Paso, extension of contracts of September and October, 1950.

CC to Assist In Area Water Saving Project

R. N. Russell and his conservation and flood control committee will represent Artesia Chamber of Commerce in working with the Pecos Valley Artesian Water Conservation Association and Roswell Chamber of Commerce.

This action was taken at the chamber directors board 57-minute session that opened at 7 p. m. Monday in 316 Carper Building.

The move stems from a recent meeting in Roswell. It is proposed that a close check be maintained to see that laws regarding well plugging, water waste, and proper use of water rights be enforced by the state engineer.

That action be started for a U. S. Geological survey of the Artesia basin and effects of foothill water drilling.

That a "vigorous campaign of public education in matters of water conservation" be started.

On the immediate scene the directors repeated their recommendation for an early passage of an anti-solicitation ordinance modeled after that of Alexandria, La.

The deal is aimed at curbing un-restrained door to door peddling itinerant photograph and magazine vendors and similar selling schemes.

Finances Low
On the gloomy side was the red ink aspect of chamber funds. Manager Bob Koonce reported that (Continued on Page Six)

Juvenile baseball stars of four New Mexico cities, Artesia, Carlsbad, Hobbs and Roswell, will swing into action here tomorrow as the American Legion Junior district baseball tournament opens, played in Artesia Municipal Park.

Last year Artesia was host for the state tournament. The district tournament will last two days, tomorrow and Sunday. Games will be played at 1:00, 3:30, and 7:30 p. m. each date. Drawings of the teams will occur a half hour before game time tomorrow.

Winner of the tourney here will play Alamogordo in the two out of three elimination area tournament, place not yet chosen pending outcome of the district. Alamogordo automatically enters the area joust because it is the only team in its district.

Date of the area tournament is not yet known but will be before July 30. Winner of the area will vie in the state at Las Vegas, Aug. 10-12. A prior story incorrectly gave the dates as Aug. 11-13. State winner goes to the regional (New Mexico, Colorado, Nebraska, and Wyoming) to be in Albuquerque.

District Officials
The district tournament here tomorrow and Sunday is under the sponsorship of Clarence Kepple Post 41 of the American Legion, of which Fred Jacobs is commander. Carl C. Foster is area chairman for Junior Legion baseball and John Simons, Jr., baseball committee chairman of the Post.

An incomplete list of umpires for the tourney includes Floyd Springer, base umpire both days; Red Goodwin, who will call balls and strikes on Sunday; Don Heathington, behind the plate Saturday, and Cliff Lloyd.

The latter will double in brass by serving part of the time as scorekeeper.

Other scorers will be Rusty Ayers and Jim Heald.

Admission will be 60 cents for adults and 30 cents for students.

Roswell Favored
The Chaves County team, winner of all its games this season, is the favorite in the district tourney. Hobbs, according to information from Chairman Simons, has lost only one game. Carlsbad has played eight games, lost five, four of them by a lone run, won a trio, while Artesia has played nine games, losing seven.

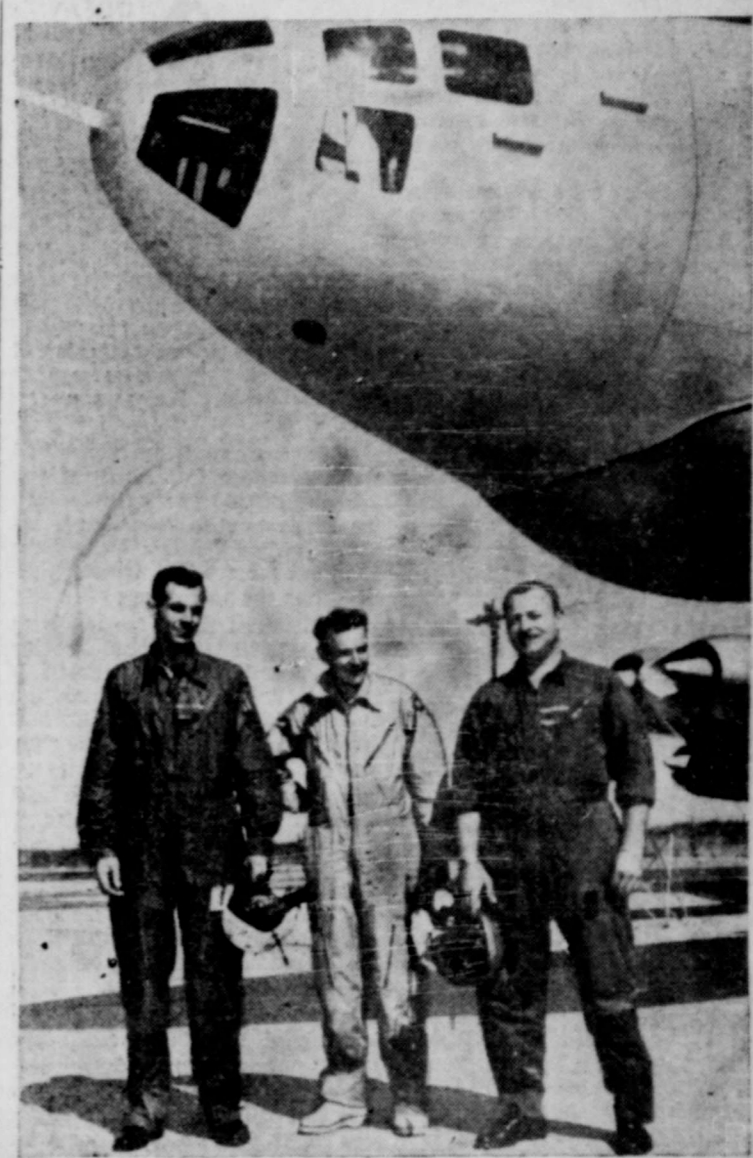

World's Biggest League
Chairman Simons called attention to an article, "The Biggest League in the World," written by Robert B. Pitkin, appearing in the July issue of The American Legion Magazine.

The article describes the start of junior baseball in 1926, tells the story of the growth to 16,456 boy teams and how 34,775 paid admissions to the Legion's annual Little World Series in Omaha, Neb., in 1950.

Silver Jubilee
This year marks the silver anniversary of the junior baseball plan. In conjunction with the event the National Americanism Commission of The American Legion, Indianapolis 6, has issued a 40-page booklet.

Long Lost Rain Returns to Parched Artesia as Two-Inch 'Flood' Rolls

Tomorrow to Be Gallic Version Of Our 'Fourth'

"Allons enrants de la patrie, le jour de glorie est arrive."

These are the words that perhaps could be appropriately sung tomorrow in some Artesia homes. There's little of La Belle France connected with Artesia but a check of the city directory reveals such names as Beauchamp, Guinan, and Sappes, possibly of French origin.

Why would the words of the French national anthem be heard tomorrow? Well, tomorrow is Bastille Day, the French version of our Fourth of July. The day marked the beginning of the French Revolution.

It is also commonly regarded as the beginning of democracy in France, although democracy did not bloom at once, for Napoleon was the first fruit of the revolution.

On that memorable July 14, 1789, a mob stormed the 400-year-old state prison, known as the Bastille, where political undesirables had been caged, some as long as 30 years.

The mob first tried to negotiate for the release of the prisoners, and when that failed, the mob assisted by the Royal Guard, attacked the prison, demolishing it.

Justin Newman Presented Award By Kiwanis Club

Kiwanians yesterday presented a certificate from Kiwanis International to past president Justin Newman for service rendered to the club during the past year.

Today the club is slated to go on a rescue mission to bring home a group of boys scouts from Camp We-hin-ah-pay, who are stranded at the camp with no transportation home.

Next week the club will hear a talk by Mrs. Billie Nicholson, executive secretary of the New Mexico Society for Crippled Children on the rehabilitation program for crippled children.

At yesterday's meeting the president appointed a committee, composed of Ernest Hubbard, Orland Syferd, Paul Frost, Hagen McCaw, W. W. Ports, and J. D. Josey, Jr., which is scheduled to meet at some future date with County Agent Dalals Rierson.

The purpose of the proposed meeting is to make plans for the Eddy County Junior Livestock (Continued on Page Three)

Farmers and ranchers were made happy, and town folks welcomed a cool night for sleeping as a gully-washing, Jon Hall hurricane downpour of rain, with electrical storm effects, came to Artesia on Wednesday night.

The rain started falling at supper time. Build up was the massing of clouds that looked like they wanted to go somewhere but had not decided what destination until motivated by winds that whipped about and electrical fireworks that sounded like the Korean war front.

Precipitation measured 1.95-inches, the biggest single mark for any day of the year to date, and more in one 24-hour period than the entire month of January when only .85-inches fell.

Artesians, who have sweltered in regular 100 and up temperatures, felt the shimmering tropical heat as the first pellets hit the warm pavements. As the rain continued the thermometer dropped still lower.

At 11:45 a. m. Thursday, the day after the downpour, the mercury was attempting a comeback, standing at a comparatively cool 90 when that time.

There was a need for gondolas at the intersection of Fourth and Main as the downpour turned the location into a miniature canal network, with water almost knee-deep in the gutters.

Artesia firemen received a call to the 700 block on West Texas during the storm but it turned out to be a false alarm.

Youngster Sounds Advice on Ice Cream Freezers

Maybe it was just summer time imagination or desire to shine in the reflected glory of the July 4 weather yarn but anyhow it's a good story—the one youngster told The Artesia Advocate on Wednesday.

"I think you ought to tell the little boys and girls not to stick their tongues on ice cream freezers," he admonished the editor over the telephone.

"That happen to you?" the editor asked.

"Yes."

The boy said his father got his son "unglued" by pouring water on his tongue. Name and address of the boy, who is only six years old, was given promptly and courteously. However, in the interest of the boy, who may suffer parental discipline for making an "unauthorized" telephone call, the editor refrains from listing the youngster's name.

16-VEHICLE PILE-UP KILLS FOUR, INJURES 20

FOUR KILLED, 20 hospitalized is the toll of this 16-vehicle smashup on crowded Highway 17, near Wurtsboro, N. Y. Here's what happened: Big trailer truck (rear) crashed out of control into rear of a New York-bound taxi while going down a four-mile grade. The truck's gasoline tank exploded. The taxi, with seven occupants, three of whom were killed, plowed into car ahead, and resulting "chain reaction" piled up 15 autos, resulting in a fourth death. The truck carried propane gas, which did not explode. Driver, Marsdon Reese, Jr., Bayonne, N.J., said truck's air brakes suddenly gave out. (International Soundphoto)

Country Club Chatter

By Jack Fauntleroy

That bright light that has been showing up west of town the past few nights is neither the sun working in reverse nor an extension of the ball park lighting system. It is the new driving range in operation.

Of course most everyone had their evenings full right at the present, getting the Drillers thru the home stand in good shape, but a few of the hardier souls have gone out for a bit of driving practice after the ball games.

The bank of lights are made up of ten 1,500-watt floods, facing south toward number six green. It is quite a sight to see from the Hope highway and from the new truck by-pass that goes by the club.

It is surprising how well the balls show up. They shine like light bulbs sailing thru the air, and to give you some idea how far you can watch the ball—it would take a drive of over 400 yards to put one out of the light. Tain't nobody been able to do that at this present sitting, although Bob Bergman is tinkering with the idea.

If you'd like to have a nice cool evening of fun, bring the whole family out some evening and give them all a little practice.

If you can work it right, Mama, you could get Pop to go out a bit earlier so you could have a nice evening meal away from the hot kitchen, and spend the rest of the evening enjoying that cool southwest breeze.

Ross Sears and Van Welch are to be thanked and congratulated on making this new facility at the club possible.

Bean Pot Match

There will be another Bean Pot Match Sunday, July 15, between Brother Bullock's Scramblers and Brother Bourland's Gophers. The Gophers are one match down and are chopin' at the bit for a chance for revenge.

teams, see one of the team captains or give your name to Joe the Pro and they will put you on one of the teams. There is room for everybody, and the more the merrier.

Carlsbad will be given an invitation to play us in an intercity match on Sunday, July 22. We will know if they will be able to come up here by next week's paper, so watch this space.

We should know by next week, whether or not we are going to be able to go ahead with the swimming pool. The committees for the pool and the board of directors are meeting this week to make the decisions and to see whether or not the pool can be built at this time. Here's hoping.

There are many non-residents living in Artesia, such as military personnel stationed at Roswell and residing in our nice city.

If you know one of these non-residents who would like to play golf or belong to the Country Club, there are facilities for temporary memberships, running for three month periods.

These memberships are inexpensive and will be available to any non-resident acceptable to the club membership committees.

From Top O' Texas

I had a couple of out-of-state guests out for golf last week. Myron Marx, from Pampa, Texas, who was visiting with the John Cochran's went around with me a couple of times, and Bob Winders, from Milwaukee, Wis., played a round. Bob is a dentist in the Air Forces, stationed at Roswell, but he and his wife, Doris, are living in Artesia in the Vaswood Addition.

The tournament in the middle of August will be here before you know it, so now is the time to start getting the rust off your clubs and out of your swing. Don't forget, the defending champion, Bill Bullock, is apt to be vulnerable this year. Heh! Heh! I smile knowingly as I fondle my 3-putt putter.

Dennis Morgan Stars in Warner Western Picture

"Raton Pass," that brawling territorial war which comprised the gateway between Colorado and New Mexico, and where range wars, cattle stampedes and differences were settled with lead, is the title of the picture for Warner Bros. lusterous drama which opens at the Landson Theater on Sunday.

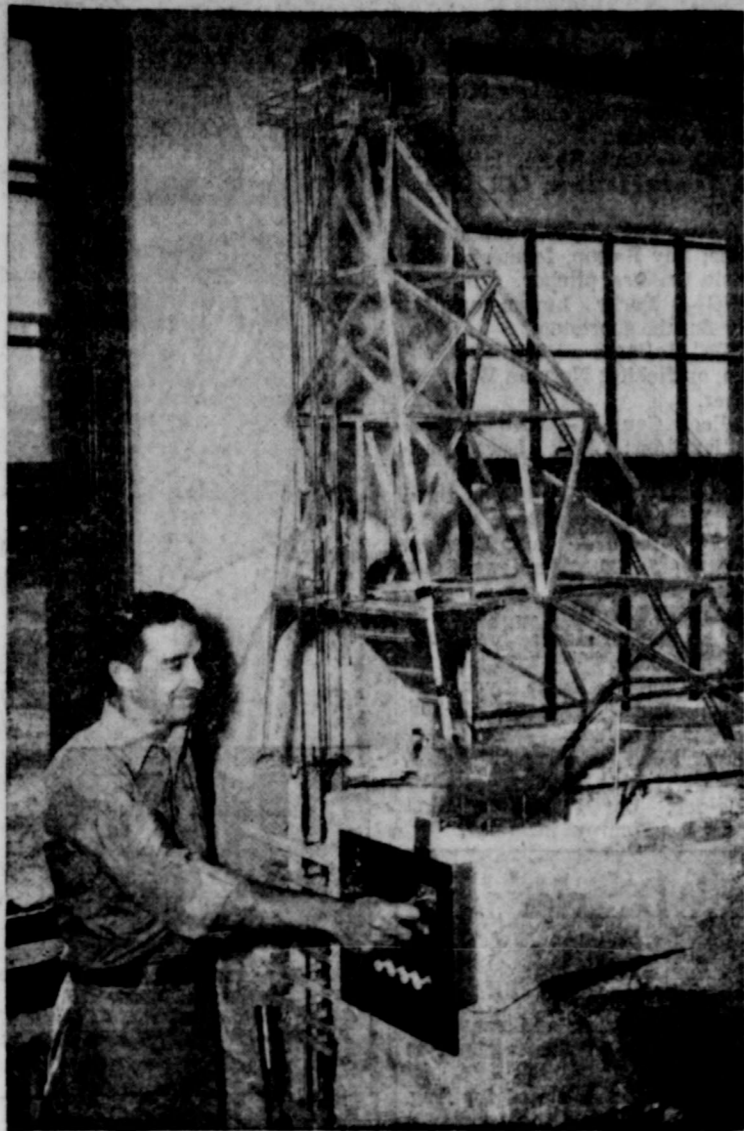

Dennis Morgan, who began his screen career as a singing cowboy, returns to chaps and six-guns in a more serious vein to play a cattle baron who is swindled out of a vast ranch estate. He organizes a band of hardened homesteaders and together they combat the villainous forces in an effort to regain the property and re-establish law and order.

Lovely Patricia Neal portrays an adventuress and instigator of trouble among the people of Raton Pass. Steve Cochran, whose meteoric rise to popularity in the menace department has likened his to the early performances of Cagney, Bogart and Edward G. Robinson, has the chief "heavy" role.

Also Warners sent the entire company of "Raton Pass" into the rolling hills of Calabasas, Calif. There, a complete frontier town, adobe buildings and the huge, rambling cattle baron's ranch were erected in order to recreate the proper atmosphere of the pioneer Southwest.

Ex-Conover model Dorothy Hart, Scott Forbes, Basil Ruysdael and Roland Winters play featured roles in "Raton Pass," directed by Edwin L. Marin.

State Tech Model Mine

Richard S. Crial is shown operating the model mine, which he planned and constructed for the mining and metallurgy department at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, Socorro. Crial received his B.S. degree in mining engineering at the college in June. One thousand 800 man hours were required to complete accurately scaled working model which will be used to demonstrate mining processes to students and the public.

Coach Ray Hall Called By Army

There's a new "game" now for Ray Hall, who last May finished his first year as coach in Artesia schools. Last school term he was on the junior high faculty.

Coach Hall passed through Artesia yesterday from Bainbridge Island, Wash., where he and Mrs. Hall have been spending the summer. The coach, a second lieutenant in the medical department army reserves, has been called to duty and will report Sunday, July 15, at Fort Sam Houston.

There he will take a five-months physical reconditioning course. After that he expects to be assigned to Fort Lewis, Wash., 30 miles distant from Bainbridge Island.

The club met for lunch at Cliff's Cafeteria.

Fire Breaks Out At Cleaning Plant

An 18-pound batch of clothes in a dryer was damaged when fire broke out at Lorang Cleaners, 103 South Fifth, at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Items involved in the blaze are covered by insurance, according to L. J. Lorang, owner.

Oddity of the fire was that all the damaged clothes were women's.

The fire started in a clothes dryer. Artesia firemen answered the alarm.

Oil Industry Tells Story In New Folder

Where the old industry stands today, and how oil men are fighting a tremendous production battle to keep America well supplied with petroleum products are spelled out vividly in a new folder just released by the oil industry information committee.

"Entitled 'On Our Toes,' the new folder states emphatically that the men and women of oil are ready to serve this country no matter what happens, and that the industry itself is better prepared than ever before to meet any emergency.

The folder is being made available to oil companies and trade association at cost. It was designed basically as a companion piece for the committee's recent slide film of the same name, but it tells a complete story on its own.

The folder states frankly that "the job ahead" for the industry "will be the biggest we have ever faced" because civilian consumption of petroleum is soaring so rapidly that demand, by the end of 1951, is expected to be up more than 20 per cent over 1949.

"On Our Toes" points out that since the end of World War II, the industry's ability to move and distribute petroleum products has been increased more than 25 per cent all along the line. Proved reserves, despite increased production, are at their highest point in history.

Eddy Farm Agent Explains Ruling On Farm Wages

Explanation of farm labor increases (up to 95 cents an hour or its equivalent) was made today by Dallas Rierson, Carlsbad, Eddy County farm agent.

The increase was first made known in a regulation of the wage stabilization board issued on May 17.

Farm wage adjustments remaining under control are those on rates of 95 per cent an hour or above, or increases resulting in rates above 95 per cent. These increases may not exceed 10 per cent of the rate paid during the 1950 crop season unless the employer gets Board approval.

Under the new regulation (General Wage Regulation II), agricultural wage rates below 95 per cent an hour may be increased up to that figure without regard to the 10 per cent formula contained in General Wage Regulation 6. Until May 17, agricultural labor was subject to this 10 per cent limit on general increases along with all other labor.

The rate paid for the same or comparable work in 1950 may be increased without WSB approval up to and including one of the following:

- 1.—The base (1950) rate plus

10 per cent; or
2.—95 cents per hour; or
3.—The piece rate customarily considered as corresponding to 95 cents an hour for the particular task and stage of crop season of 1950 for comparable crop and weather conditions; or 4.—$225 per month without room and board; or 5.—$195 per month, plus the use of a year-round house and the usual prerequisites of a full-time agricultural employee; or 6.—$175 per month, with room and board.

The effect of the 10 per cent limitation will continue to be felt primarily in the higher-pay farm areas in parts of the Far West, Middle West and East, and perhaps to small areas elsewhere.

It will probably have little practical effect in the South and Southwest, even though it permits greater increases in these lower wage areas than the straight 10 per cent formula did.

Odessa Game Opens Current Driller Series

The Drillers took off on the road again playing Odessa tonight and tomorrow, San Angelo July 15, 16 and Midland July 17, 18, before returning home to play Odessa July 20, 21.

The Drillers split with Midland, Monday and Tuesday, taking the opener 8-5, while losing the second game, 11-8.

Wednesday night's game with Big Spring was rained out.

Batteries Monday were Ten and Perez for Artesia; Ballard, McKenzie and Jones for Midland.

In Tuesday's game, batteries were Blumenthal and Jones; Riley Dunn, Kimball and Perez.

Monday:

Artesia	421 000 10x-8 11 1
Midland	000 400 001-8 10 1

Tuesday:

Artesia	150 020 000-8 11 6
Midland	501 100 130-11 15 3

Driller Dugout Chatter

Well folks, the Drillers have departed on another road trip and we all wish them lots of luck on this trip. They had a nice home stand, giving us plenty of thrills and also some heartaches, but we must take the bad with the good.

All in all this home stand was good and with a few breaks in the right spots we could have seen victory in the ones we lost. Take last Tuesday night's game with Midland—the wind and dust blew, the players on both teams blew, the umpires blew and the fans nearly blew their tops. Every once in a while the boys have to get a game like that out of their systems.

Moving Mop Brown out to the hot corner was a good idea, it solves our defensive problem a little better and the boys seem to have a little more confidence in the infield play.

It may be just what we need for the boys to look better on the current road trip. Ole "Stubby" should be breaking back into the lineup any day now and that also should give the team a big "lift."

Club Is Good

We have a good club and they will catch fire one of these days, then look out for that long winning streak. The boys themselves are talking it up and I think they are ready to go.

Fans of the Longhorn league must feel we have some mighty good boys because Artesia did place six men on the West All-Star squad. This is almost unbelievable when you take into consideration we are in sixth place. The only other team to place six was San Angelo, the current leader of the league and they lead the East squad.

You know our pitching staff is beginning to shape up very nicely now with Marshall ready to take his regular mound duty, Riley coming through in grand style, Israel Ten, the mighty mite, mowing them down and ole Moose Miller, fireballing them down the line.

The addition of Kimble to the staff is going to improve the situation very much. We all saw him work a little Tuesday night and while he was in there he looked mighty good.

You know he did win 6 games for Pampa last year but got started late this year. Lon Dunn will probably be used as the fireman and he turns in a creditable performance. Lupe Lopez came up with a bad elbow and has been released for the remainder of the season.

Seek Another Hurler

The Driller management is striving daily to build up the team to give Artesia a good ball club. Right now they are negotiating with the Pittsburgh Pirates for another pitcher, a boy that ole Stubby knows personally and also knows will win some games for us.

Then they are also about ready to secure another infielder that will help out unmeasurably. Of course all this takes money and if we all get behind the club in all its endeavors, I'm quite certain they can win the always hard battle every club faces its first year.

The Drillers belong to Artesia, its our ball club and we should all be mighty proud that we have a professional club, representing our fair city. It has done a lot to put Artesia in the lime light and many a town larger than Artesia would love to have the opportunity that we enjoy.

Cave City Team

Carlsbad would like to have a ball club in our league and I think it would be great for the Longhorn League if they would be successful in securing a franchise for next year. The Rotary Club of Carlsbad had Stubby Greer, Melvin Miller and myself down to their weekly luncheon last Wednesday and we gave them what information we could about getting developments started.

Wouldn't that be a red hot rivalry setup in the league if we had Artesia, Roswell and Carlsbad fighting it out in the western section? It would practically insure the success of baseball in all three towns!

Yes-siree, just get out the bucket and "mop" up all that blood. Well what's better for a town but good clean sports fun?

Let's back the Drillers all the way!

Man-Killing Brahma Bulls to Test Champion Cowboy Nerve in United Veterans Big Rodeo

"Lookout Below" is one of the top bulls in the Elliott-Steiner string of rough, tough bucking stock. This grey bull was calved deep in the brush country of South Texas, and like the old-time Longhorns, is a bundle of high-tension muscle and fight! The cowboys who know this snaky bull find shivers running up their spines when they pull his number out of the hat. "Lookout Below" has a reputation that's bad enough to make the bravest of the bull riders just a little nervous when the time comes to ease down on his back in the chutes. "Lookout Below" is just one of the more than 60 top rodeo bulls in "Wild Bill" Elliott's and Tommy Steiner's hand-picked string. Bill and Tommy travelled thousands of miles to buy the bulls and broncs that will thrill you at the rodeo, culling every animal that didn't prove to be the very best and roughest obtainable anywhere. Your United Veterans rodeo on Sept. 13-15 promises to be the roughest and wildest in the history of this community.

Summer Ho-Hum Recalls Old Days, Sums Up Quarter in Game of Life

Time was when it bothered me considerably not to have this column in each issue. It still does, for that matter, but I've found out I can't work 24 hours every day so there are times when this column doesn't appear.

I miss being in on the sports talk and around where games are in progress but under the new round of duties I'm tied down to a desk.

Reckon this recalls with a double in spades the old stock joke about deskmen that I used to repeat when I was pounding a beat: "When a reporter gets too old to cover a beat they put him on the desk."

Now it's my turn. And, I'm glad of it, glad that the major portion of my work is now at a desk. There are times when I go out on a story but not often.

It has been a long, long time since the days when I was editor of the high school newspaper, assistant editor of the annual, and then a short time later, a student at the University of Oklahoma, where Mike Monroey, now a politician, with a long string of successes, was my hero.

Mike at that time was editor of the university daily newspaper. He had been working on newspapers since he was 14 years old and college journalism was a breeze for him.

After graduation he was on the old Oklahoma News, but quit to join his father in the furniture business. A blaze with high journalistic endeavor, I was amazed at Mike's deserting the ink-stained profesh. "How come, Mike? I asked him one day when I was in Oklahoma City.

"I got tired of not making a living," was his answer. Considering the pay of reporters, even in the cities, in contrast to that paid in other vocations, he had something there.

It's Better Now

Since those days the situation has improved. Yet I'm glad of the experience I've had, even though it is not easy to exist on $16.75 a week, work 12 to 20 hours a day, eat one meal a day, be cussed out a dozen times a day by employer and public, and still go on fighting. It was blood, sweat, and tears; and that was the way I learned it. Coupled with poor health, lack of enough money for decent clothes, all work and no play, and a constant battle at the same time against inter-office policy players, bootlickers, and the old run-around chisel and swindle plays—it was no joy ride.

Nor is it a joy ride yet. But it's a June picnic compared to the throbbing 30s and the early fighting 40s.

Flaming Fauntleroy

I reckon most of this nostalgia got its start in a joke with Jack Fauntleroy, the golfer and writer of the column, "Country Club Chatter."

Noticing a Texas name in his latest copy I queried him on 'L. "But the man's not an old-timer there like I am," I commented. "I guess not, he's only in his thirties," was Jack's quick comeback.

I got a laugh out of that. So you can dub the gaudy-shirted divot digger now as Jack Flaming Youth Fauntleroy.

Artesia Nine to Combat All-Stars in Carlsbad Loop Classic Saturday

Artesia's high-rolling REA softball team, in top spot in the Carlsbad Recreation Association softball standings with 18 victories and only a part of defeats, will strut its stuff in the association classic Saturday night at the Carlsbad diamond, against the All-Star team comprised of players from the 10 other teams.

The game will be the second of a twin-bill at 7 p. m. REA goes against PCA in a regular loop contest. Ten minutes after the end of that contest the Artesia nine returns to the joustings in the exhibition tilt.

All-Star players were chosen at a managers' meeting held recently. The idea is to let at least one player from each of the 10 teams into the battle against the invaders from the northern part of the county.

Opponents of the Artesia team will be from the list contained in this story, to which others may be added.

Admission will be at regular prices, 25 cents for adults, a "nominal charge" for children 12 to 18, no charge for those under 12. One ticket will entitle the holder to see both the regular league game and the exhibition classic.

Cast of All-Stars

IMCC — Jack Reese, infielder; J. D. League, catcher; J. B. Green, pitcher.

Elks — Pat Dyer, catcher-infielder; Ray Ralson, formerly with Artesia Drillers, pitcher.

CYC — Porky Leyva, utility; Billy Smith, shortstop.

USPC Refiners — Santiago Santillan, outfielder; Norman Wheeler, pitcher.

College Center — Lee McCloskey, infielder; Jack Love, outfielder.

PCA — Jack Hollifield, third base; John McGee, utility.

USPC Miners — Jack Hensley, shortstop; J. E. Meadows, outfielders.

Mine-Mill Local 415 — John Restine, catcher-infielder; Joe Yturraide, infielder.

20-30 Club — Eddie Lyons, infielder; Buck Parsnet, pitcher-shortstop-outfielder.

Furr Food — Jerry Hendley, outfielder; Paul Hasley, pitcher-outfielder; Byron Marler, first base; Troy Pomroy, infielder.

Women's State and Men's District Softball Tilts to Be in Carlsbad

Eddy County will be the softball center of the state as two tournaments, one the New Mexico Amateur Softball Association of America Women's, the other the South-eastern New Mexico District Men's, are played in Carlsbad next month.

The women's teams will vie on Aug. 24-26. Winner and runner-up teams will go to the regional in Colorado.

Men's contest is slated for Aug. 17-19. Entry fee is $10 a team plus 25 cents for each player on the roster. There are no restrictions on entries as regards how they finished in their leagues, or are uniform requirements rigid.

Winner and runner-up go to the state tourney the following weekend in Albuquerque.

of last season. Untrained for the position, Yumpy took over the job and did a bang-up task, when injury of the regular starter put him in the hole.

Yumpy and I talked a little about the Bulldogs grid prospects for next season. The alert, always-smiling husky griddler told me he had been building tanks this summer—and that's he-man work if any is—so he should be in top condition come next September.

Paul Timmons, writer of "Fine and Feathers," in the Amarillo Daily News, has a complaint to make on what he claims is a lack of sportsmen in New Mexico. Timmons says:

A couple of weeks ago a forest fire broke out in Taos County, New Mexico.

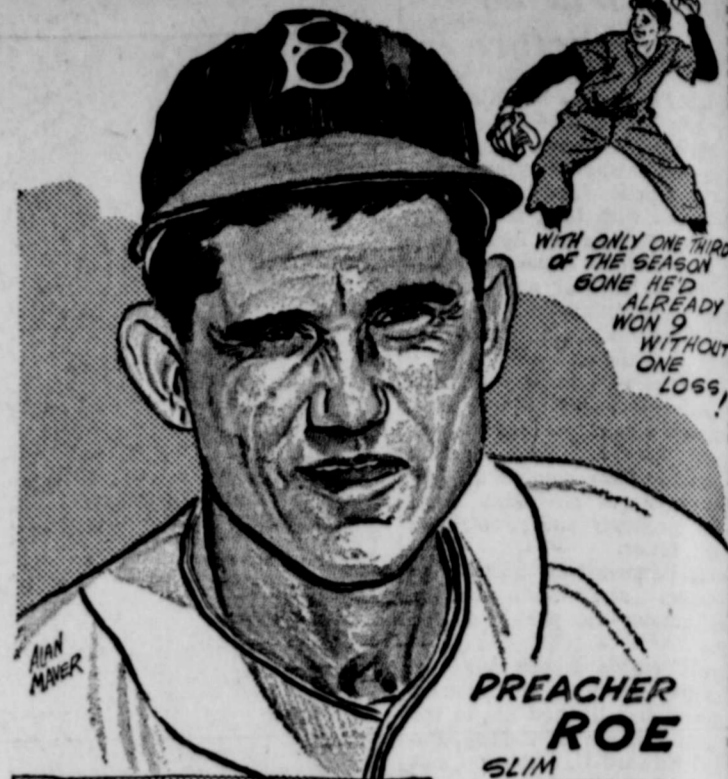

Three days later the governor was still hunting funds to pay for fighting the fire, and 2,000 acres of virgin timber had been destroyed. Only volunteer fire-fighters were a score of sawmill workers. Fifty to a hundred would have been enough to control the blaze.

I don't understand it. Are there no sportsmen in New Mexico who are men enough to fight a fire? Is there no one in New Mexico with enough foresight to realize that timber is a national asset, even if it is on private land?

ball team won a no-hitter 7-1 over Catholic Youth Organization Wednesday night, in a Carlsbad Recreation Association contest in Carlsbad.

The victory put REA up to 19 wins against only two losses, a two-game lead over Furr Food that now has a 18 and five count.

Johnson struck out 10, walked three batters; Heathington struck out five, walked one. The Artesia team made four errors, while the Carlsbad nine had a pair. REA got six hits.

First four innings the REA pitcher was Johnson. Heathington pitched the remaining three. The Carlsbad team scored its lone run in the seventh. Heathington hit batter with a pitched ball. In attempt to pick the runner first, the ball zipped past the man into right field, allowing Carlsbad runner to score.

Artesia scored all but one of runs in the second inning. Heathington hit a grand slam homer that frame, bringing in Jim Williams, Clyde Bratcher and Johnson.

Tana Griego pitched the first three innings and to the first base in the fourth for Carlsbad. F. Bescaino was the hurler for the rest of the game.

College Choir Concert Attended By 80 Artesians

Cuba, Mexico, China, and Japan were represented Tuesday night as the Wayland College Choir team of Plainview, Texas, performed before an audience of 80 persons in the Baptist Church Auditorium.

Although advertised as a quartet, the group at times was only a trio as one of its members, Lynn Witten, served as accompanist on some of the numbers.

All the members of the quartet all have solo performances.

The trio sang a group of Mexican folk songs which the members had picked up on their recent tour of Mexico.

All the other numbers were sung by the quartet.

Among specially noteworthy selections were numbers in Latvian, Swedish, Seminole Indian dialect, and in Chinese.

Jim Sugg, who sang the Chinese song, told an interesting story connected with it. When he performed the song in one of the group's other stops there was a Chinese boy in the audience.

Sugg later interviewed the boy and asked him what he thought of his Chinese. The boy replied he couldn't tell as Sugg was speaking a Northern dialect and he spoke a Southern dialect.

Members of the quartet picked up most of their foreign selections from students at the college.

The group's next scheduled appearance was at Alamogordo on Wednesday night. They started on their tour on June 1, and have covered Oklahoma, Arkansas, and California, where they appeared before The Southern Baptist Radio Convention.

The Cuban, Mexican, Chinese, and Japanese costumes which the quartet wore, were supplied by former students who had returned to their home countries.

Teachers—

In a closing address, Corma A. Mowrey, NEA's president, told her fellow teachers:

"If we concern ourselves only with the narrowest definition of the classroom walls, the public will conclude that teachers belong in the classroom. If we are satisfied with meagre preparation and limited abilities, the public will conclude that these are the kinds of teachers that the nation needs."

"But if we broaden our horizons, insist on fair treatment, improve our skills as teachers, become united in purpose and united in action, the profession will win the cooperation and the respect it deserves. The mirror is no more faithful to that which stands before it than is the public's estimate of the teacher to the teacher's estimate of himself."

In a series of resolutions, frequently hotly disputed, the delegates expressed the conviction that every child must have opportunity for fullest mental, moral, social and physical development; and maintained that public funds must be used only for public education.

Taking note of widely publicized incidents of drug addiction, the NEA resolved that the schools would continue to stress the harmful effects of narcotics and will support law enforcement officers in their action to prevent the spread of the use of harmful drugs.

Golden, secretary-treasurer.

The election was held at the fire station on July 2.

Prior to the election meeting the department was feted with a steak dinner at the American Cafe, with Gabe Smith, owner, as host.

The dinner was given in appreciation of the fine work of the department in putting out the fire at the cafe, a month ago, before a lot of damage had been done.

Members of the department are: J. A. Richards, L. E. Naylor, Dallas Golden, L. B. Feather, C. P. Dunn, Ulas Golden, Ormond Loving, W. H. Ballard, Leland Price, J. L. Walker, J. D. Smith, Steve Lindsey.

L. M. Vaughn, E. P. Bullock, Oren C. Roberts, John Robinson, Raymond Castberry and R. E. Anderson.

He is partman for Hart Motor Company and his wife is employed by Leone Studios.

Newest member of the club is Calvin Whitworth, sergeant-at-arms, who joined the organization in 1950. He has lived in Artesia since 1949. He is married and is employed as a bookkeeper for Pior Rubber Company. It is his first office in the club.

President Ray said that the club is interested in getting new members and that persons between the ages of 20 and 35 were eligible. Slogan of the club is "youth to be served must serve."

Coolorado Gets New Mexico Heat

Cool and colorful Colorado is still colorful but not so cool, at least around Greeley, according to H. Floyd Davis, Artesia High School basketball coach last season who is among Artesia teachers attending the summer session of Colorado College of Education.

Davis writes that it was "101 on July 4 and 6, and 102 on July 7. However, Mrs. Davis and I have a nice basement apartment and only come up out of it when we have to or when it starts to cool down."

Fourteen Artesians and one Clovisite held a picnic at Island Grove Park in Greeley on Sunday, July 8. The Artesians are all attending the summer session at the college.

Fried chicken was the main dish at the picnic.

Davis' letter, mailed immediately after the outing, says that he and Mrs. Davis will be back in Artesia in six weeks.

Attending the picnic were: Mrs. Nina McCarter, Central School second grade; Elementary Supervisor and Mrs. Vernon R. Mills and children, Pamela, Jackie and Sidney; C. A. Stalcup, Central School principal and Mrs. Stalcup; Rufus M. Stinnett, Roselwan principal, and Mrs. Stinnett, and their children, Arba and Rosemary; Dave St. Clair of Clovis; and Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

chamber finances were "dangerously low" and that Chairman Howard Whitson was not in a position to complete the membership drive.

Lack of cash is keeping the chamber from "assisting in sponsoring baseball broadcasts" and has cancelled plans to send the manager to the annual Southwestern Institute in Dallas.

Coupled with a report of the 55-member annual good will tour was the sending of a $40 check to Pinon to cover deficit incurred by that community in preparing a meal for the trippers.

There were routine reports concerning the Eagle Draw flood plan and industrial prospectus, covered in earlier stories in The Artesia Advocate.

Present were: Bill Siegenthaler, president; and directors: Clyde Guy, Wayne Paulin, C. T. Gaskins, C. D. Hopkins, G. Taylor Cole, Cecil Waldrep, Thad Cox, and Manager Koonce.

However in recent months, Murray and Jack were kind of wondering of each other's whereabouts and some intensive searches were conducted.

All the school records, police records, even funeral records in Salida were checked to try to find a clue as to the whereabouts of members of the Holcomb family, but to no avail.

Finally Murray, while visiting in Salida, met an old man on the street, who looked like an old timer and he asked him if he had seen anything of his brother Jack.

The old man told him that Jack had been in town sometime ago and that he had visited his foster mother. This provided the clue which finally enabled Murray to find Jack.

Agent Lists Rules For Farm Safety Week, July 22-28

Sample program for the observance of National Farm Safety Week, July 22-28, was issued today by Dallas Rierson, Carlsbad, Eddy County farm agent.
 The special week is sponsored by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
 By days the schedule:
Sunday—Humanitarian aspects of safety to be observed in churches.
Monday—Home safety.
Tuesday—Livestock safety.
Wednesday—Prevention of falls.
Thursday—Highway traffic safety.
Friday—Safety with machinery.
Saturday—Review day, check on farm and home hazards that may have been overlooked.
 Unless farm people meet and overcome hazards, accidents will continue to kill an average of 47 farm residents a day and injure 4,900 every day during the coming year according to the National Safety Council.

Three-Point Program
 Agent Rierson says these practices will cut down accidents:

On the farm—Handle animals with caution. Keep tractors and machinery in good repair and use all safety devices. Use the right tool for the right job.

In the home—Apply first aid promptly in case of an accident. Be "fire" sighted. Use stepladders and handrails. Watch your step to prevent falls.

Off the farm—Treat all guns as though they were loaded. Know and obey all traffic rules.

The agent next lists nine rules as put out by the National Safety Council:

- 1.—Keep passage ways and stairs in good repair, unobstructed, and well lighted.
- 2.—Keep ladders in good repair and easy to get at in emergencies.
- 3.—Don't wear loose or floppy clothes around machinery, or when doing cooking or housework.
- 4.—Keep your back straight and lift heavy loads with leg muscles. Don't try to lift anything that is too heavy for you.
- 5.—Use the right tools for the job. Keep them in good condition. Keep them in a safe place.
- 6.—Don't use kerosene to start fires.
- 7.—Always stop a machine before starting to repair it. Disconnect electrical appliances or equipment before working on them.
- 8.—Give prompt attention to even small injuries.
- 9.—Never swim alone. Never dive into water without first determining the depth. Be careful around any boat. Never stand up in small boats.

Veterans Carlsbad Agent to Visit Son at West Point

L. R. Conarty, whom A. V. Engel of Artesia succeeds as Santa Fe station agent in Carlsbad, has retired from railway service after 32 years and plans to go to West Point, N. Y., to visit his son, Roger.

instructor at the United States Military Academy.

Conarty began his Santa Fe career in 1907 in Amarillo. In 1910 he went to Clovis, and in 1911 became the first agent for the company at Vaughn.

Two years later he returned to Clovis as agent, and in 1919 he came here after two years in the army and a short period as the Santa Fe's transportation inspector at Lubbock.

The Santa Fe office staff in Carlsbad presented Conarty with a complete set of fishing equipment at an office party last weekend.

Interior Bill Would Spend 14 Millions in State

More than $13 million earmarked for expenditure in New Mexico during the next year is wrapped up in the Department of the Interior appropriation bill now before the Congress.

The seven bureaus within the big interior department will require anywhere from $30,000 needed for the bureau of mines up to the $4,500,000 sought for the bureau of Indian affairs to operate during the 12 months, according to Sen. Dennis Chavez, a member of the Senate committee on appropriations, which passed on the money request.

While effecting a general 10 per cent reduction in the funds sought, and reducing expenditures for automobiles and chauffeurs, the senate restored slashes voted by the house for the bureau of reclamation projects in New Mexico and approved new construction on the Rio Grande.

The senate approved the shifting of $1,463,000 from 1950 fiscal year surplus funds in the bureau of reclamation into the 1951 fiscal year with specific instructions it was to be used to channelize the Rio Grande below Socorro in the San Marcial swamps as a rescue and water saving operation. The project will cost about $4,000,000 ultimately, but additional funds will come as needed, the Senator believes.

For Socorro-Espanola

Also on the Rio Grande, the senate raised amounts voted by the House for reclamation projects, said the senator, with $258,000 for planning of the Middle Rio Grande project embracing the river between Socorro and Espanola.

"The interior bill as we sent it to the senate contained $64,000 for additional construction on the Fort Summer project, $244,000 for the Tucumcari project, and $1,088,000 for the Rio Grande project below Elephant Butte dam," Senator Chavez reported. "There was an additional $1,726,100 for operation and maintenance of the Las Cruces-EI Paso irrigation project."

The appropriation bill also included $10,000 for advance planning of the recently approved Vermajo project.

Driving ahead towards utilization of the San Juan river water, the bureau of reclamation would—under the senate bill—get for investigations and planning in northwestern New Mexico: $175,000 for the San Juan-Chama transmountain diversion project; $50,000 for planning the Animas-La Plata project, and $50,000 for the South San Juan project.

Earmarked for the Indians is about $4 million, of which $1.5 million goes for educational facilities and services, and another $800,000 for disease preventative and curative services.

The fish and wildlife service is slated for $650,000 for propagation and distribution of fishes, control of predatory animals, and other activities.

Farm Building On Upgrade, Says Lumber Merchant

Farmers in Eddy County have been improving and modernizing their homes, barns, and other buildings at an unprecedented rate in the last few months, according to T. C. Stromberg, local lumber and building materials dealer and member of the public affairs committee of the National Retail Dealers Association.

"In view of the importance of large crops to the defense program, the federal government has placed on restrictions on farm building, except the credit regulations which apply to homes only, and the high level of farm incomes has permitted a large amount of construction," Stromberg said. "The defense agencies in Washington have refrained from limiting farm construction because the proven fact that farm animals are healthier when housed in modern, sanitary buildings and the losses are reduced when grain, hay, and other crops are stored sound, weatherproof structures."

"Judging by the demand for materials, the last five years has seen the greatest period of building improvement ever experienced locally, together with the greatest increase in home comforts and conveniences on farms."

GI Students Now On 30-Hour Week

Thousands of veterans in trade and industrial schools will have to go to class at least 30 hours a week, in order to be considered full-time students under the GI Bill, Veterans Administration said.

Only full-time students are entitled to full rates of subsistence pay, which range from $75 to $120 a month, VA explained. The ruling became effective July 1.

The new weekly minimum, which added five hours to the previous rate of 25 hours a week, is a requirement of Public Law 610, enacted by Congress nearly a year ago. That requirement, however, didn't become effective for most schools until today.

Veterans affected by the law's new attendance requirements are only those in below-college-level trade and technical courses where shop practice forms an integral part of their daily activities. Examples would be courses in automobile repair, machine shop operations and the like.

In case veterans continue to attend such courses for 25 hours a week, VA said, they now will be considered to be in school three-quarters of the time rather than full-time, and they will receive no more than three-quarters of the GI subsistence rates.

The new 30-hour week need not consist of straight training, for the law makes allowances for a 30-minute rest period each day.

The boost in the number of hours of attendance applies only to courses where shop practice is necessary, VA emphasized. Under the law, below-college-level courses in which theoretical or classroom instruction predominates will continue to be considered full-time when a minimum of 25 hours a week of instruction is required.

The almost universal custom of milking cows from the right side is probably due to man's preference to use the right hand.

Booklet Tells How Indian Farm Labor Best Used

In order to improve relations between Indians and white employers of farm labor, the state employment services of Nebraska, Colorado, and South Dakota have published a "Handbook for Employers and Indian Workers."

Although the book was published primarily for circulation in those states it contains much information of value to employers and Indians in the Southwest where an increasing number of Indians are taking off-reservation jobs each year.

For Employers
Some of the suggestions for employers can be applied anywhere: Thoroughly explain the job to be done. Be sure the wage scale is thoroughly explained and understood. It saves feelings later.

For Employers
For the Indian going to off-reservation work:

"Don't loaf around the town, especially in stores or restaurants. Keep housing and camp sites clean. Before you leave the reservation, make sure you are fully informed of all particulars pertaining to the job, the type of work, length of employment and pay rate.

Conduct yourself as a gentleman

SAVE A LIFE!
BE ALERT FOR PEDESTRIANS

and you will be respected by the people of the community as such. Remember that your example as a workman and as a member of the community may determine the availability of work for you and other Indian workers in the future. Be worthy of your own people.

Full Time to the Job

WE ARE FIRMLY CONVINCED that it is time that the district attorneys in the state of New Mexico give their full time to their jobs.

We believe that the jobs they have to do if they do them well are too large to be done by part time employees and under the present law and the present set-up that is exactly the case.

In other words, we believe it is time for the state of New Mexico to adopt a law halting those elected as district attorneys to continue their private practice.

We feel that a district attorney who has to handle the violations of the law and prosecute those in the judicial districts of this state have a full time job and do not have time to devote to their private legal practice.

There is always a tendency to neglect the job for which they have been elected when a private case with a fat fee comes along.

There also is always the danger of the district attorney being the legal counsel for someone who may be violating the law and certainly they would not feel inclined to prosecute their own client.

We heard of such an instance not too long ago. The health inspector had made a thorough check of some violation of the law on the part of a large concern dealing in food products. He had found sufficient evidence to warrant a real warning to the firm if not filing charges against them.

He laid these complaints in the lap of the district attorney in all sincerity and then left his office. He happened to encounter another attorney and was telling him about it. Just off hand he inquired as to who was the attorney for the food concern—yeah, you guessed it. It was the district attorney. After all you wouldn't expect much action in such cases.

And if this happened once it can happen in other matters and in other cases.

The district health officers of this state must be licensed and qualified doctors yet they are not permitted to practice medicine. And their salaries are considerably less than the salaries of district attorneys.

If the salaries of the district attorneys are not sufficient to permit them to devote their full time to their job—then perhaps they should be raised but certainly the district prosecutor should have just one job while serving as district attorney.

Still Their Duty

ONE OF THE FAVORITE expressions and excuses which is used by the prosecuting attorneys over this state in an effort to keep from performing certain duties is the fact they can't because they are the legal advisor of a certain public official, an officer or a board or group.

We have seen this happen on more than one occasion. And we knew when it was being done that it was merely an excuse on the part of the district attorney to escape performing a duty, which should have been performed without having it brought to his attention.

These public officials have a duty to the public as well as to public officials. It is as much the duty of the district attorney to see that the rights of the taxpayers and the citizens are protected as it is to see that public officials have legal advice—legal advice which they seldom have and apparently never follow.

It is not unusual, of course, when citizens register complaints in these days and times to be requested to provide the evidence and the testimony and to sign the complaint. That has helped public officials from doing a lot of work.

Ever hear of a public official, either the district attorney or the sheriff, refusing to sign a complaint if a murder or slaying had been committed? We presume it has occurred but not very often. And so it is their duty and job to sign a few other complaints, too.

We appreciate the fact the officers must have evidence and testimony to employ in the trial of the defendant. But we also contend it is part of their job to get this evidence. They go out and seek it in a murder case or a prominent violation—they expect the public to provide if the case is of not too much importance.

And, of course, it usually depends on just who is registering the complaint as to whether it is investigated and whether something is done about it. If the officer realizes the individual registering the complaint knows his rights and knows the duties of the officers—he usually gets action. If the citizen can be stalled—then that may happen and especially if the public official doesn't want to do something about it.

This happens often and frequently in these days and times. We have heard of instances when the district attorney advised the taxpayer and citizen registering a complaint against failure on the part of a governing board or a public official to follow the law that he couldn't do anything about it because (the district attorney) was the legal advisor of the official or the board.

He was implying that since he was the legal advisor he couldn't bring suit or he couldn't act in the matter.

That, of course, isn't true. The district attorney neglected his duty when he failed to advise the official or the board of the law and his or their failure to follow it. He also was neglecting his duty to the taxpayer when he refused to consider his complaint—it is just as much his duty to protect that taxpayer as it is to act as legal advisor for the so-called official or board.

It is the duty of that district attorney if the official or the board is charged with violating the law or is indicted for failure to follow the law or for committing some other offense to prosecute the officer or the board as it is to give them legal advice.

Too many citizens today are not getting the action they have a right to expect from prosecuting attorneys merely because they are not acquainted with the duties of the prosecuting attorneys and perhaps because these same attorneys do not want to perform duties for which they are being paid.

Too many headlights have drivers with light heads behind them.

Personal beauty is a greater recommendation than any letter of introduction.

It is indeed a desirable thing to be well descended but the glory belong to our ancestors.

No man is so old but things he may yet live another year.

DUCKS OR CHICKENS—WHICH?

What Other Editors Are Saying

NOT A ONE-WAY STREET

One bit of sloppy thinking has captured some brilliant minds: that socialism is an irreversible process. By and large socialism has gone forward in our lifetimes—in the United States and in the world. From this a tremendous social "law" is sometimes assumed.

Yet just a slightly longer view, or a slightly more intensive view, and the theory collapses. The record shows a constant, irregular fluctuation between individual and collective enterprise.

The general worldwide surge toward socialization in the last 75 years is matched by the preceding 100-year surge away from the detailed government regulation, burdensome taxes on enterprise and government monopolies of the mercantilist era. Current extremist doctrines about the economic wickedness of either government control or capitalist enterprise are echoes of this 100-year fight, with its fighting slogans embalmed as "eternal laws of economics."

Even during the latest 75 years when the trend was toward government interference and control, there have been constant eddies in the other direction.

From the 1880's to about 1925 Japan was moving toward more free enterprise and less government interference.

Today in Turkey Kemal Ataturk's nationalized factories are being returned to private ownership and control.

Soviet Russia itself had to back away from the extreme socialization of business and trade and the equalitarianism of the 1918-21 period.

At the end of World War II, the United States dropped a whole rigmorale of government controls. Somewhat later France, Belgium and other European countries moved toward free enterprise. And even "socialist" Britain retreated from the extreme government direction of business and trade of the war and early postwar years.

Much the biggest factor favoring socialization and authoritarianism is war and the threat of war. At the moment, these are with us worse than ever—and all the free world is "socializing" to rearm. If we ever get the war problem licked, enormous resources that now go to collectivized war preparations can return to the area of individual decision.

SAVING LETTERS

In Wichita, Kan., a young woman named "Daily" has simplified the spelling of her last name by marrying a young man named "Daly." This has simplified matters also for several of her friends who habitually forgot to insert the "i."

Some decades ago a commission on simplified spelling under President Theodore Roosevelt recommended dropping silent letters from a number of common words. Today many a newspaper copy desk man would settle for just one of the recommendations of that commission: to substitute the spelling "thru" for the familiar "through." It would enable the desk man to add to his headline vocabulary a useful word now three letters removed from being so serviceable.—Christian Science Monitor.

NEW DEFENSE ROW

President Truman's request for more than a half billion dollars for civil defense may be in for tough sledding. Congressmen in general, and one clamorous group in particular, look on the demand as another "war scare," and one which doesn't seem to have too much justification.

Administration and defense officials are about evenly divided as to the imminence and possible aversion of any all-out conflict. The two groups have their respective following among rank and file citizens and the division is as pronounced as over the need for economic controls.

About a quarter of a billion dollars of the proposed appropriation would be used for construction of underground bomb shelters. At estimated costs these could afford protection for far less than one per cent of the national population and to put the whole country underground would run into astronomical sums.

Some other features of the proposal are more practical. One of them, setting up of machinery for instructing people in meeting atomic attack, should be put into practice immediately. Indeed, it is amazing that nothing of a worthwhile nature has been done along this line earlier.

Also, the provision for a national warning system, in case of a surprise attack such as that on Pearl Harbor, should be adopted. This feature is estimated to cost 19.7 million dollars, a sum so modest as to leave one wondering why it hasn't been established long before. That kind of money is peanuts in comparison with the other vast sums poured into the maw of that all-inclusive term "national defense."

While Congress and the general public are not reading out the possibility of total war, they are looking more and more coldly on the continued drain on national resources in the same name of "defense."—Amarillo Daily News.

New Mexico

G. Ward Fenley

New Mexico's forests are burning up. The old desert is scorching hot. Millers invaded the Eastside in swarms. Fishermen have been cut off from their angling spots. Aqua has been rationed and drinking water in many places is being boiled for safety's sake.

We somehow have got the idea that we are in a heck of a mess.

Guess we're sorta like Les Wang, U. S. forest official, and Ray Bell, game warden, (Silver City Enterprise) who found themselves flying bottom-side up in their Piper Supercruiser over the Black Range fire last week. The big blast of heat had flopped their small plane smack dab over.

For people who don't keep their feet on the ground, it is a rather hysterical period. Kinda like the Salt Lake City Tribune which was digging into the background of President Truman: "We find that the hysterical background of Mr. Truman is the same as that of any other average American."

George Bowra, the frank-spoken and keen-observing editor of the Aztec Independent, has come up with a theory for the cause of our ills.

George was talking last week with an old Navajo named Augustine.

Basic Truth

Augustine noted the parched countryside, the burning deserts, the thin sheep, the dry river beds, and the dim look into what the future holds for his race.

He unloosed himself of his own philosophy:

"God (or Gods to the Navajos) bless people who are kind and good. He makes life happy for people when they are good people, when they are not good people He turns them over to the Devil (or Devils to the Navajos) to punish with evil spirits."

Mr. Bowra ended his news item with: "I wonder who is there to stand up and prove this old Navajo wrong?"

For even the least of things done for Augustine, he murmured in Navajo: "Baaqaensin"—thanks in his language.

At least he was, what we are not most of the time, thankful for even small favors. He didn't, as the Eunice Enterprise last week, have the cart and the horse mixed up. The Eunice editor had Jarne Rowland married to Rev. Martin B. Stewart when she was actually espoused to Robert Claud Moates.

New Mexico Farm Bureau Maps Plan Against Inflation

Plans for intensifying the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau's state-wide campaign for national inflation control will be made at the regular quarterly two-day meeting of the state board of directors at Las Cruces, Delmar Roberts, Berino, president, announced yesterday.

Farm Bureaus throughout the nation are urging inflation control through a program of peak production, economy in government, pay-as-you-go governmental spending, sale of bonds to individuals and corporations instead of banks, and a return to the American plan of personal enterprise.

The American Farm Bureau Federation believes that the present attempt to control inflation through price controls and curbs on individual effort can result in nothing but scarcity of food, fiber and other materials, the establishment of rationing and the building up of a black market, John Augustine, state executive secretary, declares.

The meeting in Las Cruces will afford the state officers, directors and officers of other New Mexico county Farm Bureaus their first official opportunity to inspect the new State Farm Bureau headquarters at 114 East Briggs street, which in the past few months have been expanded to more than 8,000 square feet of office space.

The state office of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau, and its direct affiliates, now employs more than 35 persons on its staff regularly. This makes the organization one of the largest employers in Las Cruces and definitely puts it among the organizations with the largest pay-rolls, Augustine says.

Roberts will preside at the sessions of the directors' meeting and will be assisted by W. B. McAlister, Portales, vice-president.

The group will be guests of the Dona Ana County Farm and Livestock Bureau at luncheon Monday noon. Following lunch, the county organization will take the state officials on an inspection tour of County Farm Bureau headquarters and a number of outstanding farms in this area.

Thoroughness and timeliness of insect control are more important than the particular insecticides used or whether sprays or dusts are applied.

To Name U. S. Citizens In House Red Spy Probe? Report 2,000 Planes For Reds' Use In Korea

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Look for the names of some American citizens to come out in the House investigation of the elaborate spy ring in the Far East. Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's long-time intelligence chief, will be ready to cite some Americans as members of the Red espionage web.

The inquiry will center on the activities of notorious Richard Sorge, Soviet master spy who was executed by the Japanese during the war. The "contacts" he controlled in Japan and throughout the Orient.

In an earlier report on the Sorge ring, Willoughby named the late Agnes Smedley, American writer, as having been connected with the spy ring. Miss Smedley angrily denied the accusation, and Willoughby's charge was retracted by the Army.

The woman, who died in England, bequeathed her estate to Chinese Red leader, Mao Tse-tung. Her activities, like Sorge's, are certain to be in the probe being conducted by the House un-American activities committee.

AIR WAR—Should the Korean conflict continue, military leaders in Washington expect it to enter a new phase. In the past, time there has been talk of a cease-fire, it has usually been followed by major Communist thrusts against Gen. James A. Van Fleet's forces.

However, the Reds have suffered such enormous losses in the Korean air struggle in United Nations firepower superiority, that a major air struggle is now expected.

One unofficial report indicates that the Russians have made more than 2,000 planes available to the Chinese and North Korean Communists.

That would mean trouble not only for the Allied airmen, but the ground troops which so far have escaped severe punishment in the air, and for the Navy, which heretofore has been able to hold Communist shore positions with little more than token resistance.

HER LADYSHIP—Lady Franks, the very charming and beautiful wife of British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks, created a mild commotion at the gala garden party given at the British embassy to celebrate the birthday of King George VI.

Tall, Auburn-haired Lady Franks was the perfect hostess to a stream of distinguished guests who arrived at the party in a steady stream.

Suddenly, as she was shaking hands with a congressman from Texas, she jumped and screamed. The congressman, too, appeared startled and conversation was suspended as the guests craned their necks to see what was happening.

When she recovered her composure, Lady Franks laughed and extended her hand. It seems that a most undiplomatic bee had buzzed right into the middle of the handshaking and delivered a stinging rebuke when he found himself in imminent peril of being crushed.

The incident was the first ever known to affect the strict decorum of the very formal garden party, an annual event at the embassy.

Building Booms In Eddy Capital

Highway, road and building construction are now in full swing in the Artesia trade territory, according to the latest issue of Southwestern Contractor magazine, published at Albuquerque.

Two hundred new homes are going up in the San Jose addition of Carlsbad, on Carver and Davis street, under the contract of San Jose Homes Association. Building permits total $100,000.

These will be four room and bath units and the first 20 of them will have concrete block walls and concrete floors.

Potash mining and refining facilities in the Carlsbad area are also being enlarged.

Five Carlsbad potash companies have either announced construction programs to extend their facilities, or have construction under way, which total $21,000,000 in the Carlsbad area.

The Duval Sulphur & Potash Company is spending $7,500,000 for the construction of a mine and refinery. Production will start in 1952 from the $10,000,000 mine and refinery now under construction in the Southwest Potash Company. A three-year expansion program is now under way by the Pella study. Company of America, which will cost $5,000,000. International Mining and Chemicals are just getting into the $3,000,000 expansion program.

On June 7, the U. S. Potash Company announced a $1,000,000 construction program to start in the near future at their Carlsbad refinery.

A $342,000 paving project for city blocks in Roswell has been awarded. Contract for the paving is slated to go to the lowest bidder on the highest grade of asphalt paving on which bids are bid morning accepted.

In the highway construction, 16.7 miles of road between Marlowe and Cloudcroft will be sealed by G. I. Martin, Albuquerque, at a cost of $39,067.

This is one of nine construction contracts let during the month of June by the New Mexico High Commission.

A BUNCH of top GOPers got together and figured a way to make Eisenhower the party's presidential nominee. The next step ought to be to ask the general if he's a Republican.

Or to party affiliation being subordinate? After all, when you've been out of work for 20 years you don't require references when trying to get a job.

Presumably Ike will have finished his job in Europe by '52. We'll just have to wait and see how things SHAPE up.

Now where does that leave MacArthur, presumably the party's favorite son? With a case

Bookings Open For Signal Corps Korean War Film

Posts of the American Legion, Kiwanis, Rotary, and Lions clubs over the state were advised today by the U. S. Treasury Department that a 16-minute 16mm black and white public information film, "The Crime of Korea," is available for booking.

Prints can be obtained from the Director, U. S. Defense Bonds Division, 101 Federal Building, Albuquerque, telephone 2-6381.

The picture was produced by the Signal Corps. This film is a documentary report as told by a war correspondent who visits Korea for the first time with the liberating troops of World War II.

The country is gay, celebrating independence from Japanese domination. The fields yield their crops in peaceful serenity and business goes on in the shops in a normal fashion.

Happy Koreans parade in the towns and the farmers follow their pursuits under the banners of a free republic.

To the north of the 38th parallel, the Hammer and Sickle appear in the streets, the communists raise loud and persuasive voices to stir unrest.

Again the correspondent comes to Korea but this time with the United Nations troops. This time the countryside is not serene, the streets are not filled with jubilation.

The scene is one of devastation, destruction wrought by the retreating communist forces—wherever possible industry was razed, crops ruined, homes burned and untold numbers of innocent civilians treated with inhuman brutality. Captured United Nations troops were subjected to the same treatment with complete disregard for the rules of humane warfare.

A 1/4 horsepower electric motor will do the work of two men in a lot of jobs and it costs only 1 1/2 cents an hour to operate.
