Bulldog Parents Club Explains How Funds Used

Reason for the current membership drive of the Artesia Bulldog Parents Club, how money raised is spent and why, is explained in the following article by Mrs. George Beadle, club president.

"With the general rise in prices, it is not inconsistent that the sweaters bought this year, when complete with Bulldog emblem and 'A' will cost the club something in the neighborhood of $5 more for each sweater than previous purchases.

"This rise in costs will, of course, mean that more memberships will have to be sold. To this end it is hoped purchasers will find the new sticker-type member's card helpful in discouraging more than the person who sells the sticker from calling.

Long trail of the budget of Artesia schools, in common with the lengthy process for all schools over the state, has come to journey's end.

First move on the budget began last April. The conclusion came Tuesday when Supt. Tom J. Mayfield made known that the state tax commission had fixed $546,013 as the maintenance budget for the Artesia school district for 1951-52.

New valuation of the district is $13,244,019 while that of the county is $64,955,588. The county figure is for all the county, mines and all other items. All figures are as of July 1.

Along with news of the budget Superintendent Mayfield summarized recent improvement of Artesia schools: Carver, 48 pupils — addition turned in as completed by Charles Brown, contractor; improvement is a new complete room 37 x 26 feet; old barracks removed to Roselawn replacing music arts section destroyed by fire last summer; teacherage portion of barracks moved to southeast corner of Carver plot, made into permanent teacherage. Loco Hills, 46 pupils — floor poured, masonry work started Monday; hoped to finish by Thanksgiving; improvement will include two classrooms, janitor supply and rest rooms; classes now in progress in barracks building; Campbell Construction doing the improvement job.

Roselawn, 507 pupils — Wire fence erected around the site of new addition as safety measure; plumbers laying new sewer lines; improvement to include 12 classrooms, general purpose, office storage, and rest rooms; central heating plant. The addition will be incorporated into the present building, making it all one unit, with a total of 18 classrooms, plus rooms for audio-visual education and a small gymnasium.

Pecos Construction of Roswell is contractor.

Enrollment Up Number of pupils in Artesia schools is equivalent to requiring eight more classrooms and eight more teachers, the superintendent said. There are 200 more pupils registered, as of the second week of the current session, than for the corresponding period in 1950. The total is 2734 as of 1951; the 1950 figure was 2534. High school leads the field with 594, followed by its sister school, the junior high, with 572. Park has 515 and Central an enrollment of 462. A complete story on enrollment was published in the Sept. 21 issue of this newspaper.

Building Supplies With all the construction work in progress members of the school board frequently examine samples of brick and block. Along with the cumbersome sketches and blueprints these become temporary office "fixtures" of the board room.

Supt. Mayfield showed a sample of the buff face brick to be used at Roselawn. There will be a red brick background, the reds of the same hue. He also exhibited a concrete block that has the coined trade name of Hadite, of crushed lava origin.

Bigger Gridiron Morris Field, the high schools main playground, now has a seating capacity of 400. New stands have been put up on the north and east. One section is from the 47 to 27-yard lines. A block of 570 seats was up for sale of which the Quarterback Club sold half.

School Calendar Today, Friday, Sept. 28, marks the end of the first month of the current session. Classes began Sept. 4. Artesia Girl Scouts, Story League, and Central School Parent-Teacher Association are sponsoring a play, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," at 9:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Monday, Oct. 8, in the high school auditorium. The 50-player Artesia High School band, directed by Ben Stevens, will go to Roswell on Tuesday, Oct. 9, to march in the opening day of the Eastern New Mexico Fair parade.

Second in a series of National Assemblies programs is slated for Wednesday, Oct. 10, when high school pupils will be shown a program presented by two steeplejacks. Next session of Artesia school board is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Monday, Oct. 8, in the board room.

Country Club Chatter

By JACK FAUNTLEROY

Not that anyone missed this column last week, but just for the record, I'll tell you what happened. As you know, all the big writers take off some time during each summer to rest up from the terrific strain of pouring their heart out for their readers.

Their vacations run from one to three months in order that they can come back to the writing job with renewed energy and fresh ideas. All of these vacation are with pay and in addition, the column is usually handled by guest writers and that work is usually for free.

I decided that what was good for the big boys was good enough for me, so I decided to take off one day and try to accomplish what they take a month or three months to accomplish.

The only thing, my vacation was without pay (a free copy of the paper). I did however, arrange for a guest writer that I thought my readers would enjoy. Everything was arranged and I took the day off with little worry, because I knew the guy would do a good job.

When I returned from this extended rest, I purchased a paper with hard earned cash to see that which he had wrote, and lo and behold, twent' nothin' to read.

My first thoughts were dark ones, concerning the editor, but when I started offering sympathy to the guesster, he came up with a blank look and then it all came back to him. He forgot all about it and I don't think that I will ever ask Bill Keys to be my guest anymore.

I am telling you this to show you that the efforts of column writers is fraught with frustration and that is why our days are numbered upon the land.

Now to get back to some of the stuff I am supposed to fill so much space with so little talent.

Family Nights
Family nights are to be resumed on Tuesday, Oct. 2 and will be held on the first and third Tuesdays in each month. The buffet will be served from 6 til 7 and the entertainment will run from 7:15 to 9, so that the kids won't be kept up too late to make school on the following Wednesday. Tuesday nights seemed to be the best possible time during the fall and winter months, due to football games and other activities taking up the latter part of the week.

Grid Supper
Speaking of football, don't forget those football buffets on the nights of the home games. The buffets start at 6 and run to 7:30, giving you ample time to eat leisurely and still make the ball game.

The food will be in keeping with the weather. This Friday night, Paul Nissen will be serving barbeque. Food will be both ample and tasty, at $1.25 per plate.

The ladies have been having a bang-up tournament this year and it appears that the quality of golf is getting better each year. This was also apparent in the men's tournament. I think the time has arrived to ask the clubs from other towns to bring both their lady golfers and their men golfers to the club for an invitational match. I'll see if this can be arranged.

Legion Auxiliary Will Meet Monday
The regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Clarence Kepple Unit 41, will meet at 6:30 o'clock Monday evening at the Veterans Memorial Building with a covered-dish supper with the Legion as hosts.

The regular meeting will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Members are urged to bring gifts to this meeting. These gifts are for the veterans hospital gift shop and these gifts are what the men select to send their families and are not to be gift wrapped.

October is education of war orphan month and Mrs. Lillian Bigler will be in charge of the program.

Mrs. Ralph Rogers, membership chairman urges all members to pay 1952 dues as soon as possible. The slogan is "Dues are Due for '52."

A gain of one pound a day is considered over the average for a normal hog.

All Around Artesia

The lawn in front of the police station is getting a beautification treatment, according to Chief Earl Westfall. Post holes and loose spots were in evidence Wednesday morning in preparation for fencing the lawn.

A case of mistaken identity is reported from Carlsbad. An Artesia man (name not revealed) drove into a service station in the Cavern City to have some repairs made on his pickup truck. While his truck was being repaired he took off in one belonging to the service station, which was identical with his own, except that it had no license plates. Police informed the driver of his mistake and returned the truck to the station. The story was reported in the Current-Argus of Sept. 21.

An overturned flare caused a minor street fire near the Roselawn school fence at 6:40 p. m. Wednesday. No damage was reported. This is the second fire to occur at Roselawn school this year. This summer a barracks building, which had been used for a music room, was destroyed by fire.

Had a phone call Monday from a lady wanting to know if any organization in town picked up newspapers or magazine for salvage. The news editor did not know of any that did. Is there any such method used here? If so The Advocate would like to know. "I hate to see magazines go to waste and I've got quite a collection of them," the lady said.

Twenty-five years is a long time to wait for anything but it paid off for one Eddy County man, A. E. McMillan of Carlsbad. Ever since he was a little boy, he had wanted to bag a bear and his wish finally came true Wednesday, Sept. 19 when he killed a 250-pound specimen. The animal was killed in the Sacramento Mountains on a 30-06 rifle, after lodging itself on a tree limb 40 feet in the air, following a dog chase. The El Paso Times of Sept. 26 carried the story.

New Mexican Elected Officer Of American Fisheries Society

Director of Fisheries Fred Thompson was elected second vice president of the American Fisheries Society at the annual meeting in Rochester, N. Y. last week.

Fred still holds the office of Secretary to the Western Division of the organization which includes the eleven western states.

The Fisheries Society is an international organization and lists over twelve hundred active members plus a hundred associated member.

Antelope Permits

Nine hundred eighty five hunters out of a total of 1,421 applicants were lucky winners in the annual drawing for antelope permits last Friday.

Not so lucky was District Warden T. J. Ramsey of Espanola who missed getting a permit for the seventh straight year "T. J." has set a record in the Department, and perhaps throughout the state, as the man who has waited longest for a pronghorn. His case proves the fact that the drawings are impartial and not, as some critics claim, stacked in favor of Department men.

The most popular area this year centered around Roswell. Four hundred ninety eight hopeful hunters submitted applications for a chance at a total of 275 permits. Unaccountably, the northeast portion of the state proved to be least popular with hunters this year. In past years, this has always been one of the most sought-after hunting areas.

Busmen's Holiday

District Warden and Mrs. Jewel E. Butler of Silver City each killed an antelope while vacationing in Wyoming earlier this month.

The Butlers took part in the annual special antelope permit season near Laramie, Wyoming on Sept. 5. They reported that with plenty of antelope in the area, they had their pronghorn by 8:30 a. m., opening day.

Caldwell Leaves Department

G. A. "Buddy" Caldwell, the colorful District Warden from Las Cruces, has resigned from the Department of Game and Fish to enter private business in Albuquerque.

"Buddy" first signed with the Department in April, 1941 as a patrolman in the Elephant Butte area. When World War II broke out, he took military leave from the District Warden's job he then held and spent several years in the service.

In October, 1946, "Buddy" received his discharge from the Navy and returned to New Mexico where he rejoined the game department. Since that time, he has served as district warden in the Las Cruces district and has earned the friendship and respect of sportsmen everywhere.

"Buddy" will be replaced by Bill Humphries, veteran warden from the Capitan area. John Shaw, a department trapper will take over Humphries' office in Capitan.

Migratory Game Birds

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service advises that migratory game birds brought or shipped from Canada, if dressed, must have the head, head plumage, and feet attached.

Shipments from Mexico require a Mexican export permit, or an endorsement on the license by a Mexican game official granting permission to export the birds, or exhibition of the hunting license on which the official seal of the issuing office has been impressed or endorsed for exporting birds.

During any one calendar week within the open season in Canada or Mexico where killed, not more than the following limits of migratory game birds lawfully taken and exported in accordance with the laws of Canada or Mexico, may be imported:

American and red-breasted mergansers—no limit.

Geese—no limit.

Committees range in number from 11 on the executive (including one vacancy) to three each on school lands and audits. Six is the most popular figure. There are six members on each of six committees.

American Education week unit has seven members.

Chief of the lot is the executive committee, consisting of the four officers, a New Mexico Education Association delegate from each of five schools, one at large. There is a blank space for the delegate from Roselawn on the list received by The Advocate on Sept. 25.

First person named on each unit is the chairman. Asterik denotes the executive committee member who serves ex-officio on that unit.

Pincers Movement Puts Artesia Elevens in North-South Squeeze

Coach Bud Wilborn's Hornets are coming along at a fast clip and I hope I get the chance to see at least some of the games on the junior high schedule.

The youngsters battle a second Carlsbad invader in a fortnight when they play the Alta Vista Green Demons at 8 tomorrow night on Morris Field.

Last week they turned back Eisenhower team from the Cave City 14-0.

Looks like Artesia is invaded from both sides this week-end, with the Artesia High Bulldogs battling New Mexico Military Institute from way up north Roswell way, in the game tonight while tomorrow comes up the eleven from away down south in Dixie Eddy.

Lobo Schedule

C. Gottfried Finke was asking about the University of New Mexico grid schedule recently. He failed to note the schedule when it appeared in this newspaper a month ago. Here it is again, minus the one game with Arizona State of Flagstaff already played:

Sept. 29—U. of Montana, Mossoula.

Oct. 6—New Mexico A. & M., Las Cruces.

Oct. 13—Denver, Denver.

Oct. 20—Texas Western, El Paso.

Oct. 27—Colorado Aggies, Albuquerque.

Nov. 3—U. of Arizona, Tucson.

Nov. 10—U. of Wyoming, Albuquerque.

Nov. 17—Brigham Young, Albuquerque.

Nov. 24—Texas Tech, Albuquerque.

Dec. 1—Utah Aggies, Albuquerque.

First six games in the schedule, game time is 8 p. m. Games of Nov. 10-17-24 and Dec. 1, 2 p. m. Homecoming is game with Brigham Young, 2 p. m. Nov. 17, Albuquerque.

College Different

At the time Finke was asking this question that booming booted torpedo toed prince of punting A. L. Terpening was nearby, home for the week end from the Lobo school. Terp looked considerably battered in the face. "Boy, they play for keeps up there," commented the ace back of the 1950 Artesia High School football team.

A. L. has always used his initials, never his first names. So it's been A. L. Terpening all thru high school. The initials stand for Andrew Lucas.

Jack Tinson has swung into his new work at NuMex but his departure from the world of sports did not go unnoticed. At a dance held Saturday night in Masonic Temple, Tinson, coach from 1949-1951, was presented a fine Witnauer wrist watch, with gold band. The watch carried the coach's initials and the inscription "Our Coach - Artesia Bulldogs - 1949 - 1951." The watch was the gift of high school athletes whom Tinson has directed.

Boy Who Never Played High School Football Ace Guard of Silver Pack

Portales, Sept. 28—(Special)—Up from the position of an unknown substitute almost without a number, Bob Benton last year rose to a position of dependability and respect as an outstanding guard for the Greyhounds of Eastern New Mexico University.

Few fans—now great admirers of Benton's fight and spirit—realize the long and arduous struggle the six-foot, 190-pound Brownfield, Texas product had to endure to reach his goal—acceptance as a gridman with even ordinary ability.

It will come as a surprise to those who don't know his story that Benton had no football experience prior to his enrollment at ENMU. He spent his four years of high school at Union High, a small country school just south of Brownfield. Football wasn't on the list of sports there.

Benton confined his prep athletics to basketball, lettering four years as a guard and track, in which he excelled as a pretty fair miler.

Roy Golden, brother of ENMU's President Floyd D. Golden, was coach at Union. When Benton graduated from high school, he asked Roy Golden what the chances were for a fellow with no experience to make the ENMU football team. The prospects, naturally, weren't bright.

Saw Courage

"I'll always remember the remarks Coach Golden made," Benton says now, looking back to the conversation.

"It will take lots of work and it will take time," Golden told him.

"But, Bob, you have the fortitude to make it."

Golden's advice has now become an accurate prediction of the future. It did take lots of work. It took lots of time, two full years. But just as Golden saw, Benton had the fortitude.

No gridman in ENMU's history ever worked harder for the star and glory earned. And no one has more definitely made it than Bob Benton.

In his first year of college football, Benton saw little service. Still determined, he faithfully reported for spring training. His second year was little better. He seemed to make little headway and as a result he remained just an unknown on the bench.

During the summer following that second dismal year, Benton came in to see Coach Al Garten. He was confused, bewildered and just a little discouraged because to date Benton had shown nothing to place him in a position for advancement.

Garten had his own ideas and he expressed himself freely.

"Bob, you have a complex," he told the down-hearted bench warmer. "You are strong, big enough and have the determination to develop. But you have a complex. You go out for practice with the idea that anybody is better than you are. You're not using your strength. You need to forget your lack of high school ball. Remember the things you've learned in the past two years. Use them. Develop the idea that you are as good as any of them."

Gained Confidence

Benton evidently did change his attitude. When he reported last fall, he changed his attitude to one of modest confidence. Since that day, he has been a regular and a regular in a big way. He has been an outstanding lineman.

No player at ENMU has been more sincere in his loyalty to the team and to the university. Benton knows football inside out and he loves to play.

His dependability and determination are unexcelled. As he explains it, "I wanted to be best regardless of what it took to make it. I was willing to spill blood and suffer broken bones if that's what it took to make the grade."

He adds with a grim smile, "I took some terrific beatings, but that's where I learned football."

His past three years—and especially the first two—made him realize what can be accomplished if a person wants to work to reach a goal.

"That's why I go out of my way," he explained, "to help the Dutton twins." Gerald and Derald Dutton, now in their first year of football, didn't have an opportunity to play high school football either.

Benton now has an attitude of modest confidence in his ability, but in his determined sincerity he never seems to be satisfied with the game of the week before.

But even forgetting that only a few short years ago he was a 17-year-old kid of 160 pounds (he's now 190) who knew nothing, Benton will hold his own with the best of them.

Season of Thrills

Last season was filled with thrills for Benton. Just being in the lineup was enough. But he'll never forget his 91-yard run, with an intercepted pass against St. Mike's of Enigma, Nor. will he forget ENMU's 14-7 win over New Mexico Western in which his line play was a definite asset to ENMU's New Mexico conference championship.

Just last week, he was elected president of the senior class. He is a member of the "E" Association, Physical Education Majors Club, the student social committee, Tau Kappa Tau social fraternity and has been a member of the Agriculture Club and student board of publications.

He will graduate at mid-term with a bachelor of arts degree in physical education.

Joe Harbert Learning Quarterback Job as ENMU Preps for Central Tilt

Portales, Sept. 28 (Special)—Several lineup changes will be evident when the Greyhounds of Eastern New Mexico University open the home season against Central State College of Edmond, Okla., Saturday night.

Two of the Pack squaddies who started the season at end positions are now learning backfield assignments. Kenneth Moore, Portales, will also take on the burden of a halfback slot. After his outstanding performance against Panhandle, he will alternate between end and the new position.

Joe Harbert, Artesia freshman, is learning quarterback duties. He too, will also be used at end on some occasions.

The switch to backfield spots were made after the Greyhounds lost the services of Bill Speegle. The Portales halfback was lost for the season last Saturday night when he broke a shoulder in the Aggie game.

B. B. Lees, who was used only sparingly because of an infection in his right side, is expected to be ready for service this week.

Rapid Turnover

With both Lees and Speegle benched at Panhandle, the Greyhound coaches had to do some fast switches. Ed Knotts, who ordinarily plays quarterback, filled one of the vacancies—and he did so in grand style.

Knotts did everything in ENMU's 32-6 victory over Panhandle—as one fan expressed it—except play two positions at once. He carried the ball with amazing success.

He threw several needle-threading passes, caught one himself for 30 yards. He played defensive halfback, intercepting one Aggie pass and knocking others down. He even punted when necessary. He scored one of the five Greyhound touchdowns. (Painter scored three rather than four as previously reported from Goodwell.)

Bill Engman, freshman from Hereford, Texas, scored the other ENMU win, along with Freshman Jerry Pool, Farwell, Texas, filled the other halfback spot. He proved conclusively that he will see plenty of service before the season ends. His ball carrying was more than adequate. He made several long runs including a 31-yard dash.

Line Crusher

The entire ENMU line performed its duties efficiently. Pete Hurst, Clovis guard, was an outstanding line-crusher both on offense and defense. He had plenty of help from Bob Benton, Brownfield, Texas, guard; Doyle Ogden, Fort Sumner tackle; Ralph Langston, Denver City, Texas, tackle; Moore and Morris Wilson, Snyder, Texas, end.

As everyone expected, fullback Charlie Painter, Roswell senior, came through with a brilliant performance. In addition to his three touchdowns, the all-conference star carried the ball 162 yards in 19 attempts for an average of better than nine yards per try. He broke loose for a 68-yard advance on one occasion.

The Greyhounds took it easy Monday afternoon, resting after the season-opening week end. Tuesday drills were scheduled to include tough training along blocking and tackling lines.

A light drill winds up the week end preparation Friday afternoon. ENMU gained 393 yards rushing against Panhandle A & M, compared to the Aggies' 53. First downs stood at 19-5. The Hounds gained an average of better than seven yards per try rushing.

With two touchdowns in the first quarter, ENMU led 13-0 at halftime, added one touchdown in the third and another in the fourth. Panhandle scored in the final frame.

Bulldogs Won't Find Cadets Easy, Grid Club Told

Doyle Cole, standout half back of the Bulldogs, is all right and will be able to see more action during the remainder of the season. That is what members of the Quarterback Club heard from coach Reese Smith at last Monday's meeting.

Coach Smith also explained the play on which Roswell got their touchdown in the game of Sept. 21, which many thought was a "fluke."

Commenting on tonight's game against New Mexico Military Institute Colts of Roswell at Morris Field, Smith said the Institute will "give Artesia all the ball game we want."

Club president Ralph Nix thanked members for their large turnout at the game saying he considered it a vote of confidence in the team.

In response to the president's remarks Coach Smith said his message would be relayed to the team.

The Roswell and institute games were the basis of brief remarks by assistant coach Cal Hall.

Rounding out the speech making, Bud Wilborn, coach of the Junior High Hornets discussed last Saturday's game against Eisenhower of Carlsbad and urged members to attend the game with Alta Vista Junior High of Carlsbad, tomorrow.

A film on "Basic and Open T Formation" was also shown to the members.

Monday's meeting, emceed by Chuck Brown and Jack Clem, was held at 6:30 p. m. in the High School Cafeteria.

Bulldogs Won't Find Cadets Easy, Grid Club Told

Doyle Cole, standout half back of the Bulldogs, is all right and will be able to see more action during the remainder of the season. That is what members of the Quarterback Club heard from coach Reese Smith at last Monday's meeting.

Coach Smith also explained the play on which Roswell got their touchdown in the game of Sept. 21, which many thought was a "fluke."

Commenting on tonight's game against New Mexico Military Institute Colts of Roswell at Morris Field, Smith said the Institute will "give Artesia all the ball game we want."

Club president Ralph Nix thanked members for their large turnout at the game saying he considered it a vote of confidence in the team.

In response to the president's remarks Coach Smith said his message would be relayed to the team.

The Roswell and institute games were the basis of brief remarks by assistant coach Cal Hall.

Rounding out the speech making, Bud Wilborn, coach of the Junior High Hornets discussed last Saturday's game against Eisenhower of Carlsbad and urged members to attend the game with Alta Vista Junior High of Carlsbad, tomorrow.

A film on "Basic and Open T Formation" was also shown to the members.

Monday's meeting, emceed by Chuck Brown and Jack Clem, was held at 6:30 p. m. in the High School Cafeteria.

Rookie Packed Miners and Aggies To Combat Saturday in El Paso

El Paso, Sept. 28—Texas Western College and New Mexico A. & M., football rivals since 1914, meet for the 31st time Saturday night on Kidd Field.

The Border conference game will bring together two rookie-dominated squads, with each looking for their first victory of the young season. New Mexico A. & M. has been licked by the University of Arizona and Stephen F. Austin State College, while the inexperienced Miners dropped their only encounter, a 33-0 loss to powerful North Texas State.

In spite of the loss to North Texas, Coach Mike Brumbelow found a lot of bright spots in the way his Texas Western squad performed. Particularly impressive was the fine work of sophomore Dick Shinaut in his debut as a quarterback.

Russell Young, first string defensive guard, received a knee injury in the North Texas game and will be the only Miner on the casualty list when the Orangemen try for their fifth in a row over New Mexico A. & M.

Seeking to rebuild the Aggie fortunes is Joe Coleman, former Odesa High School coach. As his assistants he has two former Texas

Western greats, Raymond (Sugar) Evans and Harvey (Pug) Gabrel. "Slingshot" Sammy McGowin, one of the top passers in the nation, provides the Aggies with a constant threat and he will be the "most watched-for" man by the Texas Western team.

Kick-off time for the Saturday night game is 8 p. m.

Office Supplies at The Advocate

Thanks, Doc, For Your Fine Deluxe Bouquet

Sneers, slurs, and brickbats are common fare for newspapermen so when someone tosses in a pat on the back—and not with a knife—it's a cause for loud huzzahs and a fanfare.

That is why Doc Loucks rates a story on his letter of Sept. 22 received by The Artesia Advocate on Monday, Sept. 24.

Doc, who has an electric shop at 411 South Second, addresses his letter to the whole newspaper, and says:

"Hi fellows, I just wanted to remark that I have been in the habit of if anyone does a good deed or anything worthwhile I take it all in stride and say nothing.

"But if some person slips a little then I am for (or was) in for criticizing them. Well I had a change of mind recently. I now am trying to practice my new resolution and that is if anyone does a good turn and benefits someone or something I am going to pat them on the back.

"In the last copy of our good Advocate I read where someone changed the setup and instead of searching all over the sheet we turn to 'All Around Artesia' and there we find all these other columns combined and for me that seems to be quite a convenience.

"Now if you do not want a pat on the back just be careful not to improve things too much!

But yours for more improvements and patting on the back."

The Advocate appreciates the letter. Although the news editor has never met Doc Loucks, he'd appreciate the honor.

Improvements can't come overnight and the change in handling of personals has been contemplated for a long time. A revision of the deal has been made so the caption is now "On the All Around Artesia Front," a two-column head, instead of one. Also, items from over the state, localized but still under the former "All Around Artesia," are now to be put in a "Riding the New Mexico Range," section, also a two-column caption.

scope of their abilities making them "big league" material. He said a business manager had to know baseball, league business all the way, be a promoter and salesman.

Praises Mulcock Turning to the outlook for 1952, he asked Buster Mulcock to state the number of box seats sold for next year. Mulcock said the figure was $1000 worth. Box seats sell at $72.

Brainard complimented Mulcock for work done for the club, said that while Mulcock did not have an expert knowledge of baseball, he was always working and on the job, carried out orders.

Stubby Greer, playing manager and shortstop of the Artesia Drillers, also drew an accolade from Brainard.

Report on Feud For the first time since late last summer, when dissension and rumors of trouble among the Artesia players were rife in Artesia, a public statement was issued concerning the fracas. There had been no public announcement from the management at the time.

Brainard said the Artesia team had only "seven players worthy of the league," at the start of the season. He told of the number of Cubans on the team and said that when the trouble came he had recommended to Manager Greer that a "white" player fill the place left vacant by any Cuban.

Brainard said "one or two" Cubans on a team worked okay but it meant trouble when there were more.

He said Greer had established lenient training rules, such as being in bed by 1 a. m., not drinking to excess and keeping in condition to play a good game.

Brainard said the trouble came to a climax at Abilene when Gene Perez was suspended. He commented that he would not give details on the incident but pointed out the difference between Latin-Americans and "Anglos."

"In baseball you take a lot of 'riding' and reprimand," he said. The Cubans on the Artesia team, he said, could not take it, thought they were being kept the 'underdog' and said the Cubans had an inferiority complex.

He said Abe Fleitas, first baseman, had refused to play in a game unless Perez was allowed to play also.

In general, his opinion was that the Cubans would not be subject to discipline and that Latin-Americans and "Anglos" did not mix.

In connection with the "insurrection" he said fans had done harm by sympathizing with the players.

Sell Out Aired Dr. Marshall Dyke of Borger, originator of the deal that put pro baseball into Artesia was present and the subject of numerous questions on his share of the stock, amounting to a one-third interest.

Dyke said that he at first had planned to come to Artesia to make his home, that he had recently been "in and out" of the Army and that he did not want to be "tied up" with more investment in the club when he did not live here and made a proposition to sell his share at a 40 per cent loss.

When two men are partners one is dissatisfied, he either buys his partner's share or sells out to him," he said.

Brainard said Dyke had been fair with the club and commended the doctor for his dealings.

Torrent of Figures Ways and means to raise money, amount of money owed, number of shares and proposal and counterproposal were waffled back and forth in a flurry of excited talk.

Motions came up, died for want of a second or were seconded and then talk veered off on other tangents, so that when a vote was called on a motion it had to be re-stated.

Special Meeting While a majority of those present were stockholders, the session also included some "John Doe" fans, who had not a dime invested in stock. The meeting was especially called to sound out their views on continuance of pro baseball here as well as the ideas of how with cash mixed into the deal.

Mention was made of the National Association's winter meeting and of the need to lay the groundwork for the 1953 season in advance of the gathering. Exact date was not specified.

Supper Starts Meeting The gathering began at 6:30 p. m., when the crowd lined up for its cafeteria meal of steak, beans, pie, potatoes, rolls, butter, coffee. All were finished eating by 7 o'clock but since the business session had been slated to begin at 7:30, a half-hour wait was necessary.

Paul L. Frost, one of the two vice presidents, presided at parley, in the absence of Clyde Guy, president.

Other officers present were Brainard, the other vice president; Secretary Howard Whitson; Treasurer Sivley, as well as some of the other directors.

Since no register was kept, it was impossible to list all those present. Attendance was 75.

Roswell Fair Boosters Stage Stunt in Artesia

A preview of what's in store for patrons of the Eastern New Mexico Fair slated for Roswell Oct. 9-13 was unfolded Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 when two busloads of boosters arrived in town.

Instrumental and vocal numbers by a versatile five member cover-girl band were the main feature of the half hour booster show. (The quintet featured one male performer.)

The band was accompanied by Fair officials who were met by a welcome committee furnished by the Artesia Chamber of Commerce.

A crowd of 50 persons stationed themselves in front of the Thompson Price Store, Fourth and Main, which served as "reviewing stand."

The Fair boosters were led into town by a police escort, furnished by Chief Earl Westfall.

Owen Moore of radio station KSWs, Roswell, gave out with information about the fair between numbers by the vocal ensemble, who call themselves "Daughters of the Pioneers."

Among attractions mentioned by Moore were a nightly rodeo, a carnival, and exhibits giving patrons a chance to learn something about ranching and farming.

Rodeo Stock for the fair is coming from Elk City, Okla. according to Moore.

Before leaving the boosters, who wore hats with paper bands saying "ROSWELL" on them, left stickers giving essential fair information at strategic places.

Members of the welcoming committee were Bob Koonce, chamber manager, Dave Button, Tommy Brownlee, Friend Burham, Lowe Wickersham, Paul Dillard, Clarence Key.

Christmas may be away off by the calendar, but it occupied the Lions at their Wednesday meeting, where plans for the annual children's Christmas party were discussed by the Lions Christmas Party committee, in conjunction with other members.

The party is slated for the evening of Dec. 21. Committee members are Rev. S. M. Morgan, chairman, W. W. Huber, and George Fowler.

Last year 187 needy children were benefited by the party and $750 was spent on the event, according to Lion secretary Vernon Mills.

The fate of the 816 turtles used in the First Annual Turtle Derby, held Aug. 14-15, was revealed. They were let out into the Sandhills, southeast of town, near the old oil fields.

It is hoped that they can be recovered next spring for use in next fall's derby.

Guests of the club at Wednesday's meeting were W. A. Johnston, Lubbock, R. E. Jones, Jr., Roswell, and L. R. Clarke, Albuquerque.

Clarke is a brother of club president J. J. Clarke, Jr.

Wednesday's meeting was held at noon in Masonic Temple.

Insect damage after harvest, and while the grain is in storage, ruins an estimated 5 to 10 per cent of the country's annual production of food and feed grains.

If farmers could have achieved complete control over cotton insects in 1950, they would have made about a fourth more cotton. Reduction from full yield last year amounted to almost 27 per cent, the second highest percentage on record.

Newspaper Week

THE WEEK OF October 1 to 8 is designated as National Newspaper Week.

This week has been observed now for a good many years as the week to honor the newspapers of the nation.

No one is asked to do anything for the papers during this week but the papers are requested by the newspaper organizations to do a few things for themselves. They are especially urged to remind the public of some of the services which the press renders to the various communities, the counties, the state and the nation.

Newspapers on the whole devote a great amount of space to every movement, to organizations, to clubs, to programs, to entertainments and even to individuals. They are always pointing out the fine job done by others, but seldom say much about themselves or the contribution which they seek to make to their community.

During Newspaper Week they are urged to inform the public about their own activities, their work, their efforts, their goals, their objects and their purposes.

Many fine tributes, of course, are paid to the newspapers of the nation—from the smallest to the largest. They do an outstanding job. Sometimes and in some communities the job is appreciated and in others not only what is done isn't appreciated, but those who should voice their appreciation are always expecting more.

Newspapers, of course, are like every other business in the community in that they require a large investment, they require working funds and they depend on the sale of their merchandise to continue to operate and serve their community.

There are four sources of revenue for newspapers—money from circulation, classified advertising, legal advertising and display advertising.

The income from circulation, of course, helps pay the total bill but would lack considerable paying the cost of the publishing of a newspaper.

So in reality a newspaper's income comes from the sale of its stock in trade—white space. Yet newspapers give more of the merchandise—white space—away than perhaps any other one business or industry in any community of this nation.

Newspapers are always donating space to the various causes, movements and undertakings although this is the only thing in reality they have to sell.

They accept their duties and civic responsibilities and seek to aid and help. Frequently this is overlooked and forgotten. They continue to give although they perhaps have more unfair competition than any other one business or industry in the community.

There are too many raising funds selling space in a so-called program of advertising. Nine times out of 10 those selling this space in competition with the newspaper then expect the newspaper to donate the space to put over their program, their play, or their entertainment.

Although it isn't fair the newspaper usually goes right ahead doing the best job it knows how to do and giving of its space to all worthy projects, movements and undertakings.

But it might be well during National Newspaper Week to remember some of the things the newspaper seeks and endeavors to do for your community and then to discourage those who expect to use the newspaper and go into competition with the paper in some money making scheme.

After all your home town paper has one thing to sell—white space.

Room for Good Work

THE NEW MEXICO Bar Association did a good job working together on proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 8, calling for some changes in the electing of both district and supreme court judges.

We can stand a little work along some more lines insofar as our courts are concerned and we believe that the members of the New Mexico Bar Association are the group to get the job done.

For instance we hear complaint after complaint from attorneys regarding the time being required to secure rulings, decisions and opinions from our courts. They register these complaints but not to the courts, of course.

But it has been pointed out that it takes from seven months to seven years to get some rulings. The seven months is long enough—there is no reason or excuse for the seven years.

Yet we have been advised that some legal cases have been in the court this length of time.

It is understandable, of course, why there are delays in some cases. Sometimes they are unavoidable. There are times when the court must wait on briefs, there are times when perhaps additional testimony is needed. However, there seemingly is no excuse when a court has received all of the evidence and the testimony and takes the matter under advisement to drag it out over a few months or even a few years.

Yet that is done.

We can understand the court may want or desire time to check the law, to look into certain cases having a bearing on the case but surely this can be done in a few days or a few weeks.

We have always felt there was too much wasted time in courts. There is always some sort of delay, the cases are dragged out and time is lost. The constitution provides for the defendant to be granted a speedy trial. This seldom happens. Oftentimes the defense counsel desires time for the public to forget. It is a pretty well known fact that the public has a short memory.

It is also understandable when attorneys trying certain cases do not want to take any chances of prejudicing their case by complaining about the delay in a decision being handed down but it does appear that if the Bar Association could register the complaints, considerable could be done to speed up the handing down of ruling in court matters.

NEW HORNS - OLD DILEMMA!

What Other Editors Are Saying

THE YUGOSLAV RISK

How much aid can the United States afford to give to the government of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia? The question is sharpened by the visit of W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's roving representative, to the Yugoslav premier.

There is no question but that Tito's regime is far from the American ideal in at least two respects—it is essentially a dictatorship and it adheres to Marxist socialistic theories. That it is, however, a thorn in the side of Soviet Russian communism is indicated by menacing blasts within recent weeks from such Kremlin spokesmen as Molotov and Voroshilov.

Under these circumstances, of course, any aid to Yugoslavia is a calculated risk. The country might be overrun by Russian attack, or Tito and Stalin might find themselves sudden friends again—though the relentlessness with which Trotsky was hunted down does not suggest much likelihood of a reconciliation. On the other hand, for the United States to refrain from supporting the Yugoslavs would also involve extensive risk, calculated or otherwise.

Unmistakably, Moscow would like to obliterate Tito's power, since it stands as an encouragement to nationalist aspirations in others of Russia's satellites. Tito has chosen openly to put his nation in the western camp, declaring even that his army would join in defending any other nation against an attack that might threaten Yugoslavia with encirclement.

The effectiveness of such action may be judged on one hand by the fierceness with which Yugoslav partisans resisted the Germans and on the other by the undeniable economic pressure under which the country today is placed. American, English and French economic aid already has been seen to be necessary and Mr. Harriman's mission indicates military supplies may also be needed.

Reports continue of peasant resistance to the Tito program of collectivized farming. Probably the Premier could strengthen his country somewhat by relaxing the pressures on his countrymen to yield up ownership of the land they would be called upon to defend.

The main hazard seems to be a satellite attack on Yugoslavia under the illusion on the part of the Kremlin puppeteers that such a war could be kept localized. Some believe that, in addition to warnings from Washington last February, there should be a joint declaration by the United States, Britain and

FEDERAL PUBLICITY AGENTS

Each of the annual supply bills now going to the White House (about two months late) carries a provision requiring government departments to cut their publicity staffs by 25 per cent of the number of information workers they requested for the fiscal year 1952. Cuts ordered for other classes of workers except in the Department of Defense, are expected to average about 10 per cent.

The sharp reduction in information staffs was first proposed by Sen. Byrd (D. Va.) and was voted by the Senate 63 to 10. Supporting the cut were 36 Republicans and 27 Democrats. All senators against it were Democrats. Whether a similar cut is to be applied to the Armed Services remains to be seen. In the last fiscal year, they had 2235 uniformed men assigned to publicity work. For this fiscal year they wanted 2941 or an increase of 31.5 per cent.

Latest action in the field of government publicity was adoption by the House last week of an amendment by Rep. Smith (R. Wis.) to a $1,700,000,000 supplemental appropriation bill. The Smith amendment reads strongly but its intent is clear: "Any funds provided by this act shall not be available for the compensation of persons performing domestic information functions . . . in excess of 50 per cent of the amount provided herein."

The Byrd anti-publicity amendment was first added to the bills making appropriations for the Federal Security Agency and the Agriculture Department. These branches have frequently been criticized for using large amounts of government funds to propagandize for compulsory medical insurance and the Brannan farm plan.

New charges are that the administration is making publicity capital out of the Midwestern flood disaster and the recent action of Congress on price controls. The Office of Price Stabilization has asked $3,126,881 for its publicity branch in fiscal 1952—a fairly modest sum but one which is likely to be still more modest when it gets through the congressional mill.

A law of 1913, still on the books, prohibits the hiring of any federal "publicity expert" whose salary is not specifically provided for by Congress. For this reason, most of those on the government's publicity payroll now have the title "information specialist." —Carlsbad Current-Argus.

New Mexico

By G. WARD FENLEY

George Campbell, Amarillo, told the Duke City Rotary Club last week that a person born with all five senses in good shape is richer than he will ever become.

What is surprising is to find so few of us—in New Mexico that is—who take reasonable care to keep our seeing, feeling, hearing, smelling and tasting faculties functioning properly.

In Roswell last week (Record) a Negro airman was hit over the head with an ashtray, bitten on the left arm, and stabbed in the leg with a butcher knife because he spurned a proffered kiss from his girl friend. Betadely, he found a brick and bashed her over the head with it.

The Roswell Record summed up: "Hell hat no fury like a woman scorned."

The Socorro Chieftain reported that the town was thrown into panic when Fire-Chief Percy Miller's pet kittens playfully jerked the cord that works the fire alarm system.

We didn't get the entire story but the Otero County Times said last week that at a wedding of a prominent pair Sergeant Don Clark sang: "The Lord's Pray." Did they need to?

Later in the yarn, Raynell Beall served the three-tired brides cake. Hard day evidently when the one bride becomes three tired brides on her wedding day.

Jack Sitton's proof reader on the Carlsbad Current-Argus ruined a dog lover's letter complaining "staving the animals and killing them from thirst."

In supporting the current drive for more careful driving of cars on New Mexico highways, some wag composed a little poem:

"A nut at the wheel,

A peach on the right,

A curve in the road—

Fruit salad tonight."

Up in Wisconsin the Madison Journal ran a head: "Boy, 14, beats woman with sponge cake." Pretty solid foodless foods, we'd say.

And the Canton (Ill.) Daily Ledger put it laconically: "Man dies fatally."

Another good way to die (and this in the Raleigh, North Carolina, News and Observer): "Ceremony unites Barbara Mangum, Mr. Roland, and Dr. Robert J. Dignam."

I see where they are making them get up early in Las Cruces. According to the Sun News, "The new Federal rules require a dawn payment on property, etc., etc."

Yes, sir, to stop this killing on the highways, we've got to use better methods. Maybe the radio announcer's technique is best: "Ladies and gentlemen, we have just received a bulletin of a catastrophe, the like of which mankind has never known—but first, a word from our sponsor!"

Our typo nomination of the week—in some downstate paper, we dare not say which: "Cat wanted for light mouse-work."

And that's all this week except to remind you that it takes two kinds of wood to make a match—he would and she would!!!

They're talking of raising the price of the best bargain that U.S. residents have ever had—the three cent stamp for mailing a letter.

The Hobbs News-Sun had an excellent example of how we make our wants known by using Uncle Sam's mail. The only reason it was not answered was that the "very poor old lady" forgot to give her address.

It was sent to the Land Management Bureau in Washington.

"Dere Mr. Man: am a verry poor old lady an wood likke to get a peace of government free achers. My mule is dead two months an I cant plow the white cow as dew no an how. Pleas give achers what sumbody is got in corn so my white cow can git fat agin."

My name ain't really Mrs., as I ain't bin married. I have three big children by two or three men. Pleas do not let my nabors no I ain't bin married."

A letter to the Las Cruces Sun-News proved to get a lot off the chest of the writer. It went to the City Cafe. Here 'tis:

"Dear Sir: I am writing and sending $25 for a small jar of hot chili sauce which I took from your cafe five years ago while I was at White Sands. . . The Lord saved my soul, and if (the theft) has been bothering me."

Then, blessing his sweet heart since few have the guts to do it, he signed his name and gave his address. Others take the newspapers, with want ads, to get their messages over. Here was one in the Carlsbad Current Argus: "For Sale or trade—Will trade one black, strapless evening gown, worn only once, for a baby bed."

Ed Guthmann of the Springer Tribune sent me a typo that was caught, luckily, before it got into print: "Mrs. Wilbur Newton returned home Sept. 17 from the Community Hospital in Springer, where she had been under the doctor's car for several days."

I got a kick out of the boner in the Lovington Leader: "At a baby shower, Mrs. Robert Ward received many lovely gifts. Many were sent that were unable to attend."

All newspapers manage 'em and some are dillies. A headline in the Amarillo News in an article on how

Inside WASHINGTON

MARCH OF EVENTS

Marines Have Advantage With Their Own Aircraft

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—It is pretty generally recognized in the Pentagon that man-for-man the U. S. Marines are America's most effective fighting force, and that one main reason is that they have their own aircraft under their own control.

Army strategists, depending on the Air Force for their tactical support, are admittedly unhappy about this situation. Gen. Mark Clark has expressed their feeling in a suggestion that Army commanders be given field control of the planes assigned to them. The step is opposed by the Air Force.

The real rub is this: The Marines are an elite corps with a "luxury" budget; to provide the Army with as much per capita air support as is enjoyed by the Marines would cost the Air Force its entire budget and then some. And, of course, the number of planes available per man limits the tactics that can be employed.

What remains to be seen, in this day when leading nations are pressing against the ceiling of conceivable peacetime military spending, is whether it is better to let Army commanders or air strategists determine what planes should be built and how they should be flown.

Russia, where all planes are under Army control, provides an opposite example. While there are other factors, this no doubt contributes to the fact that the Soviets have far more fighters and far fewer heavy bombers than the U. S.

In that debate and vote, the country was treated to the spectacle of a Democrat—Senate Judiciary Chairman Pat McCarran of Nevada—fighting to keep money from the administration, while a conservative Republican—Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota—fought to provide the funds.

The issue was whether the Voice and allied information programs of the State department were entitled to $63 million as urged by McCarran or $85 million as urged by Mundt and a bloc of liberal Republicans and Democrats.

The Democrats favoring the higher figure wisely let Mundt do most of the talking, thereby picking up GOP votes they might otherwise have lost.

Upshot was that while the administration didn't get the $115 million it asked, it did get a lot more than Democrat McCarran was willing to give it.

• WILL HE OR WON'T HE?—They are in the minority, indeed, but there are voices crying out in Washington's political wilderness that President Truman will not seek re-election in 1952. Their reasoning goes something like this:

Although the President is technically exempt from the recent Constitutional amendment limiting a chief executive to two terms, political observers believe that Mr. Truman may decide the provision does apply to him morally. They also say that Mr. Truman considers that his job of steering the U. S. along an internationalist course is done and that there is little chance of a reversion by this country to isolationism.

And, finally, they say that Mr. Truman just doesn't like being President and Mrs. Truman doesn't like being First Lady.

To keep the swans in Thames River, London, looking neater, their keepers use brushes, combs, detergents, soap, cleaning fluids, finger nail files, sponges, sandpaper and a vacuum cleaner. What, no towel?

A Harvard professor says the U. S. has developed a new atom bomb "able to repel any Soviet invasion of Europe." What we need to settle our nerves, however, is something to make the Soviets stop acting like they're going to try it.

to help the handicapped: "Reports progress in developing artificial limbs."

The Clovis News Journal gave me a bit of fodder last week. The question was asked: "Isn't there some lad, 16 to 19 years of age, who is interested in being The Curry County Fair Queen?" And we thought that impersonation was against the law.

In another article the Journal said that a man named Virgil Brewer entered a plea of innocence to charges of possessing liquor for the purpose of sale without a license.

Try and Stop Me

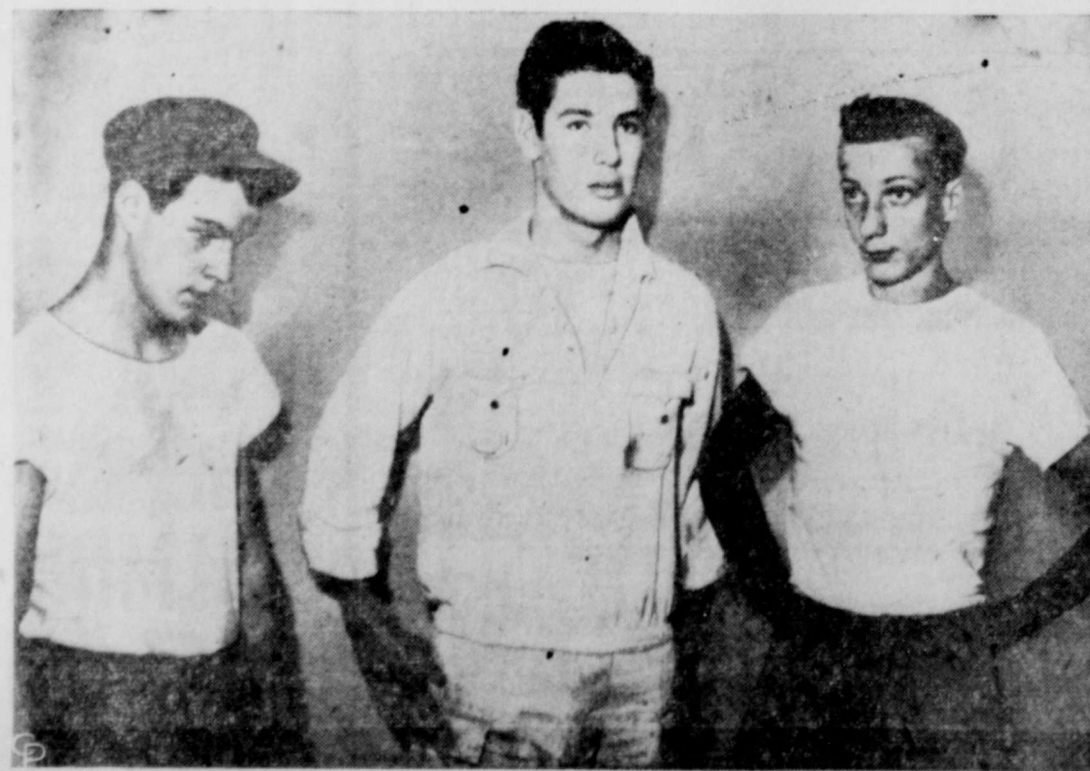

By BENNETT CERF

BEFORE China was engulfed by the Red tide, a family named Lum—grandfather, father, and twelve-year-old son—lived in poverty in a tiny compound. The grandfather was crippled by arthritis and unable to continue his share of work in the rice paddy, so the father decided to liquidate him. He trusted him up in a big basket and made for the shore of the Yangtze River.

En route he met his son who cried, "What are you doing to my poor grandfather?" "Quiet," whispered the father. "By lowering him into the stream we will end his suffering and at the same time lighten our own load." "I see," nodded the son, "but be sure to bring back the basket. I'll need it for you one day."

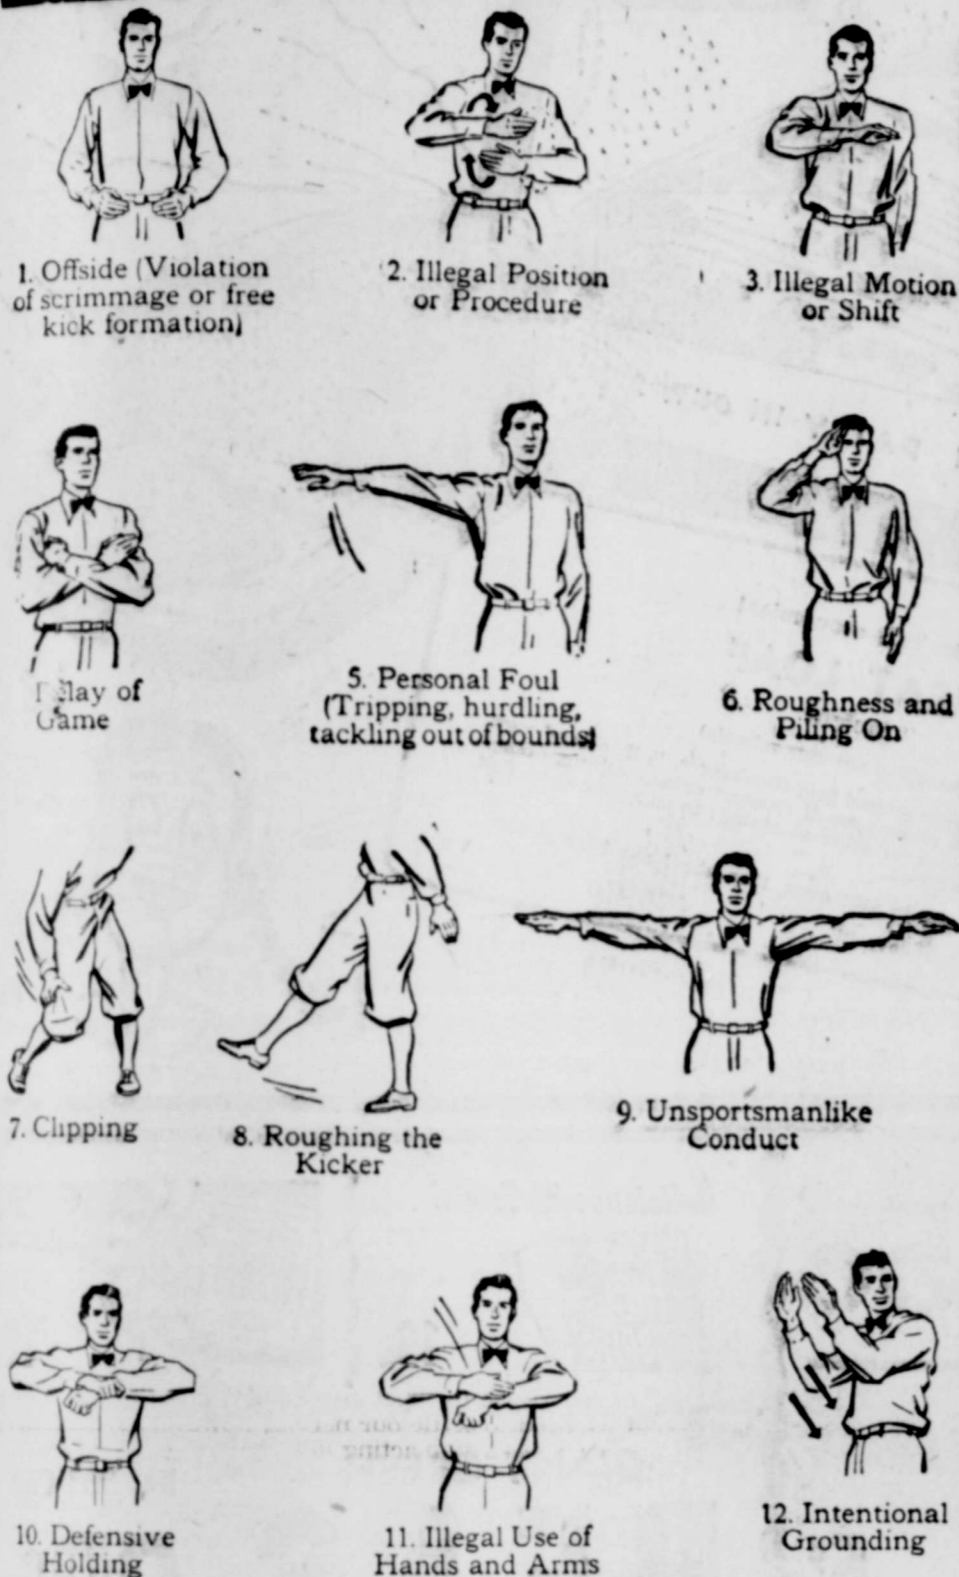

Highlight of a recent Groucho Marx TV program occurred when he asked a draftee in the infantry: "What would you like most to be in life?" The draftee unhesitatingly replied, "A civilian."

ADMIT FATAL BLUDGEONING OF ANN ARBOR NURSE

FIRST DEGREE MURDER charges face the three Michigan youths shown above in East Lansing State police headquarters in the fatal mallet bludgeoning of an Ann Arbor nurse, Pauline Campbell. They are (from left) Max Pell, 18, Ypsilanti garage mechanic; William Morey III, 19, Ypsilanti; David Royal, 17, Milan, a $130-a-week construction worker. Morey told police he stalked the nurse while the other two followed in a car with the lights out, and that he struck her and snatched her purse. "We did it for money," he said. "We needed gasoline and we might have had more beer if we got enough." (International Soundphoto)

The nation's cottonseed production is expected to be about 7,000,000 tons. This compares with about 4,000,000 tons produced in 1950 and nearly 5,000,000 tons for the past 10-year average.

In 1950, strikingly enough, we received almost as much finer apparel wool from Uruguay as from Australia. Further, New Zealand has recently risen as a chief source of our medium-type wools. In fact, five countries of the Southern Hemisphere—Australia, Uruguay, Argentina, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa—have become our major sources of wool supply, in that order.
