Cottonwood Family Truck by Tragedy As Twin Sons Die

Tragedy struck a well-known family late yesterday afternoon when twin three-year-old boys drowned in a water reservoir near the Junior Parker farm north of Artesia.

When the grandmother and mother missed the boys for a few minutes—they automatically ran to the reservoir on the farm some 60 feet from the house. There Mrs. Tidwell found her two sons floating face-down in the water. She waded into the three-foot pond and brought them into the house.

Charges Prepared for Teenagers After Wash Stolen Car

Charges were filed today against two California youths arrested last night after a stolen car from Stroud, Okla., was found wrecked, by police.

Two 18-year-olds were arrested by police at a roadblock on S. 60 west of Encino after they had led a Vaughn policeman on a footrace through the woods.

The boys were identified as Robert Sims and Carl Dorson of Los Angeles.

The policeman Jim Clayton of Encino gave this account of what happened.

He found the Oklahoma car parked on highway 60. He noticed its ignition had been wired to saw tracks leading from the woods to the car. After calling roadblocks, he followed the tracks.

He led him out of the country onto the highway after about an hour's hike. Two had been picked up by a car. They were unarmed and arrested but said they hid in the woods en route.

Three persons burned to death today when fire swept the Nurses home just south of city.

A fourth patient was in a hospital with serious burns. A stiff north wind, a frozen water hydrant, and a telephone order hampered efforts to extinguish the blaze.

The dead were Mrs. Flora Perry, Mrs. Laura Morris, 67, and a 74-year-old. The two women were in the flames. Abbott died three hours after the fire broke out in a north room.

The fire began on a north room frame building, spreading to adjoining rock walled structure. Thirteen patients were in the hospital. Those able, ran out into sub-freezing weather.

Chief Charles Alford said room had fire detection equipment, but efforts to call the department were delayed by telephone being out of order. Said personnel went to a doctor's residence to call for help.

Prevented employees from attempting to fight the blaze.

Southwest Needs Most By Science, ARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Initial progress in the Southwest depends largely on an increase in supply of scientific manpower at the pace it is demanded, says Interior Douglas Mc-present, he said, much of his department's scientific work in the area is adversely affected by a shortage of trained help.

He spoke to a Chamber of Commerce luncheon saluting the newly established Region 4 headquarters of the Bureau of Reclamation here.

The Artesia of the early 1930's, a strong contrast to the prosperous city of 10,000 in 1955, is pictured today in four aerial photographs in the Artesia Advocate.

Newcomers as well as longtime residents of the city will enjoy turning to page four to draw their own conclusions on how much Artesia has changed in the past 20 to 25 years.

Ex-Penitentiary Warden Resigns As Assistant

SANTA FE (AP)—Former Penitentiary Warden Morris Abram, who had been serving as an assistant warden since Feb. 1, resigned from the prison staff today.

Abram has been connected with the institution since 1936, when he first went there as a steward.

He was replaced as warden Feb. 1 by Edwin B. Swope, retired warden of Alcatraz federal prison.

The governor's office said Abram has 30 days leave coming and will receive pay for that. Meanwhile, Swope continued searching for a deputy.

Gov. John Simms expressed thanks to Abram for "your very fine service." He praised Abram highly for the manner in which he had run the prison "during difficult times."

The governor said he was looking around in the state government to see whether there is some "other suitable place for Abram's talents."

Abram had served as warden since June 1952. He succeeded Joseph Tondre, who resigned after a guard was killed in an escape attempt which failed.

MORMONS MEET ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Branches of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints from six cities will be represented at a meeting here this weekend of the church's west New Mexico district.

Elder A. Lewis Elggen of Salt Lake City, the church's president of Western States Missions, will be the chief speaker.

Plan for Expansion Given School Board

Members of the school board at their meeting last night were given an architect's plan for expansion of Artesia schools to 1960.

Board members did not discuss the highly technical data, but decided to study the plans further to familiarize themselves with the situation.

According to the data, in the next five years a $1.8 million building expansion is anticipated, calling for additions to present schools and a new Junior high school north of the ball park.

The report estimated that the Artesia school system would have 5,000 children in municipal schools by 1960. Graphs and population maps showing various school districts and capacities were included in the report.

In other business before the board: Hired a new teacher for primary grades next fall. She is Miss Josephine Connell, now teaching at Hardin College in Searcy, Ark. She has had four years teaching experience in classrooms and two years in administrative levels.

Left to the "discretion and judgment" of Hermosa principal C. A. Stalcup the use of the new Hermosa cafeteria to groups wishing its use during the year.

Recommended that an agreement be signed with Orval Gray on the Cottonwood School water well, in connection with upkeep of the well.

Set a long session for Feb. 24 when the board will renew present contracts and hire a few new teachers for the coming school year. The board will go over recommendations and salary schedules, although the salaries will not be set at the meeting.

Millis said the school stopped watering the lawn last year to see if that would help. "As far as I can see," he continued, "the ground is just mellow, although it's definitely solid enough to hold the school."

There will be a meeting in March with the Eddy county council to set the safety schedule for the next year and discuss budget items. Millis said the Central School repairs should definitely go on the next budget, along with the cost of moving the oil field school to Loco Hills.

State Police said he has been placed on routine patrol for Alvin Nathan Hale, 25, more than 100 tattoos covering a large part of his body, Hale said.

Tough-Talking Jurors Probe Bomb Slaying

SAN ANGELO, (AP)—Blunt-talking grand jurors plowed steadily through a long list of witnesses today, quizzing them about the booby-trap slaying of socialist ranchwoman Helen Harris Weaver.

What could have been a dramatic moment came yesterday. But the husband and the man charged with murder in her death passed poker-faced without comment.

Harry Washburn, 38, a former son-in-law of Mrs. Weaver, 51, is charged in her Jan. 19 death. She was killed when a bomb exploded as she started her husband's car in what police said was a "mistake" killing. They said the intended victim was Weaver.

There were hints the grand jury, a mixture of business men and ranchers, might return more than one indictment.

A druggist, Negro woodcutter, and a man once charged with Washburn in the killing, were the first witnesses today.

The druggist, Louis Hart, reportedly filled a prescription for Washburn Jan. 18 in Houston.

Washburn, a Houston contractor, had claimed he was in the port city when Mrs. Weaver was slain.

The Negro was Charley Brown. He was reported to have heard an explosion in a wooded area near Houston and saw two men, a short time after former convict Andrew Nelson and Washburn supposedly bought a case of dynamite at Rosenberg.

Carl Heninger was the third witness. He was charged with murder in the case, along with Washburn. Later the charge was dropped and he was freed.

"I'm just going to tell the truth about everything I know," he said.

Kiwanis-Backed Boy Scout Unit Gives Program

Boy Scouts of Kiwanis-sponsored troop 28 appeared before the club at its Thursday noon meeting to present a program marking Boy Scout Week.

Members of the troop were introduced by H. N. Colley, Scoutmaster. Colley presented six members of the troop—Edward Mullins, Billy Johnson, Frank Cickey, Linell Hatfield, Charles Miller, and McKinley Cunningham.

Guests at yesterday's meeting were M. A. "Doc" Waters, Nelson Moore, Jr., Junior Kiwanian of the Month, Lou York.

Howard Miller, charter member of Artesia Kiwanis, was reinstated. Members of the troop gave a history of Boy Scouting, explained entry into Boy Scouts, repeated the scout oath, recited scout laws, and presented a tumbling act and proper folding of the American flag.

Hardship Cotton Acreage Relief Bill Prepared

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A House agriculture cotton subcommittee puts finishing touches today to legislation proposing an increase of three per cent or about 545,000 acres in the 1955 national cotton acreage allotment to relieve hardship cases.

The group headed by Rep. Gathings (D-Ark) planned to work on the bill in executive session after concluding open hearings on the general cotton problem.

Witnesses called for the opening meeting included W. W. Campbell of Forrest City, Ark., and Rep. Edmondson (D-Okla.). Gathings said there might be others.

"We want to give everyone a chance to be heard," he said, "but we hope to wind up today. We have had several days of hearings previously and speed is essential in this matter since cotton planting should start before long in the Deep South. Farmers must know what their allotment will be."

Minimum Profit Bill Becomes Hot Potato in Legislature

SANTA FE (AP)—A move to set the minimum profit that New Mexico businessmen can make on their merchandise appeared today to be rapidly developing into a major issue of the 1955 Legislature.

The bill sponsored by Rep. Gerald Cornelius (D-Bernalillo) will come up Monday for final action by the house of Representatives. If passed, it then goes to the Senate.

Supporters hail the measure as a step in eliminating unfair trades practice and price-cutting tactics which take advantage of law-abiding businessmen.

In addition to specifying minimum markups, it would prohibit use of loss leader items offered at a loss to attract business on other items.

Critics say otherwise. President Ed Guthman and First Vice President Lincoln O'Brien of the New Mexico Press Assn., issued a statement saying the bill is "a case of shooting with scatter gun at the practice of chain stores and others of selling leader items close to cost."

THEY ADD: "The measure would make a Gestapo out of the State Bureau of Revenue and would flood the state with a horde of officers to enforce its administration. If enacted, the first result would be to divert a big part of business of New Mexico merchants to those adjoining states. The permanent result would be to encourage waste and force way up the cost of living."

"The proposal is so anti-social that it is almost too silly for serious consideration, but you never can tell."

The House joined the Senate in approving a five-man State Police board yesterday, sending the bill to Gov. Simms who has already indicated he will sign it. The present board has three members.

The Senate passed a bill to prohibit the transfer of liquor licenses in a county to a community where there is one license for every 1,500 people—the limitation already set by law.

SEN. M. E. MORGAN (D-Otero) said that at present a dealer can get a liquor license 10 miles or more from the nearest bar in a county and then transfer it to a municipality in the county. The new bill is intended to prevent that.

Chavez Seeking Military Waste WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Chavez (D-NM) has warned that the appropriations committee of which he is a member will look carefully for military waste.

Sen. Chavez said, "I feel there is a lot of duplication there, particularly waste of manpower, mainly in civilian employment." He said the committee isn't out to cut anything necessary from national defense but he said it wants to make sure there is no waste.

Bill Backers Proclaim Aid To State's Small Merchants

SANTA FE (AP)—A sponsor of House Bill 113, which would prohibit use of loss leader items and sales below cost in an attempt to reduce competition, said today he believes the measure would help the small businessman.

Rep. Jack Kelly (D-Bernalillo) noted sudden growth of opposition to the bill and said he expects to try to get some of the opponents together at Albuquerque to discuss it.

"I don't see why we should make a big controversy over it," Kelly said.

Louis Lujan, Albuquerque attorney who drew the bill, refused to discuss it with a newsmen.

"I'm not saying anything for or against it," Lujan said. "The newspapers have a right to say whatever they want to about it. All I say is, read the bill and see for yourself exactly what it does. I think it's plain enough that any layman can understand it."

Mike Gallegos, state revenue commissioner, also was reluctant to say anything about it. Asked if he stands by a statement he made a day or two ago to the effect that enforcement of an unfair practices law would be a tremendous job, he said, "Well, it would be very difficult." Let's put it that way.

GALLEGOS added the bill has "its good points." He said he has not read it yet though, and that his original statement concerning enforcement was referring "to price control in general."

Gallegos, whose bureau would receive the enforcement job in event of passage, wouldn't discuss it further, obviously considering the bill a controversial subject.

"No comment on anything I have said or will say," he explained, with a grin, and walked away.

Kelly is one of 12 representatives whose names are on the bill, which comes on the House floor Monday.

"I'm convinced it's good for the small man," Kelly said. "That's about the only thing I'm concerned about in the bill."

He said he does not think the measure would restrict competition. There isn't a bill introduced, he said, that can be satisfactory on every point to everybody. "It helps the biggest majority, it's a good thing," he added.

THE BILL, which has received favorable committee action, declares the Legislature's intention "to safeguard the public against the creation or perpetuation of monopolies and to foster and encourage competition."

U. S. Dist. Judge Waldo Rogers denied the Priest heirs their charges that Shell held invalid deeds to the land. The heirs had sought $1,800,000 and eviction of Shell.

Shell sought no damages in its successful countersuit.

Recommends Hot Lunches, More Rooms

A citizens delegation from Loco Hills last night met with the Artesia school board to bring some problems before the board facing Loco Hills residents and school children.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Standard, Mrs. L. V. Bennington and Mrs. Billy Isaac informed the school board that Loco Hills school is overcrowded and somewhat under-furnished for proper instruction of students.

The group had originally intended to ask for another teacher at the oil-community school, but a new teacher had already been hired at Loco Hills three weeks before the board meeting.

The group expressed their thanks for the new teacher, Mrs. Helen McFadin, who was hired on a temporary basis.

The school board told the Loco Hills group that the school's fluctuating enrollment always kept them guessing whether they would have too many students and not enough teachers, or too many teachers and not enough students.

They said things were fine now, with additional seismograph teams in the area, along with the normal population.

THE CITIZENS COMMITTEE also asked for a new projector, or to have the "1919 model we use fixed." They inquired about a hot lunch program, telephone, and a sick room. They also stated there was a need for an auditorium for school activities.

The board informed the committee that many of these needs could be taken care of if the Oil Field school building could be brought in and attached to the Loco Hills school. According to the board, settlement of another group of Loco Hills citizens had been against using the Oil Field school, although the group last night saw the Oil Field school as the only solution.

TODAY'S BUSINESS MIRROR—

Turning Hearts to Dollars Goal for U.S. Merchants

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — Turning hearts into dollars is the big aim of merchants this week.

And each year more manufacturers get the notion that St. Valentine would make a good salesman.

Book publishers are taking newspaper ad space to plug titles with the words "heart" or "love" in it. The Elgin National Watch Co. of Elgin, Ill., this year has launched a big promotion to persuade jewelers that the day dedicated to love ought to rank next to Christmas and graduation day as a chance to sell watches.

The drive to revive the night-shirt is filling the papers and magazines with pictures of that one-time favorite, all bedecked with designs and colors that would have frightened Grandpa, and plugging Valentine's Day as the right time to take the plunge.

The men's tie foundation is pleading with every lass to buy her man a cravat, and has come up with love motifs emblazoned on them.

The jewelry industry's council has a long list of love emblems in a wide price range for men, women and even children.

St. Valentine's chief trouble as a salesman has always been that he's in a field so recently worked by St. Nicholas.

Many Christmas bills, alas, still aren't entirely paid. And the memory of the cost of generosity still lingers.

Merchants are aware of this. But each year they try a little harder to overcome it.

Time was when Valentine's Day was chiefly an occasion for the exchange of cards—and the Valentine still runs second only to the Christmas card.

Candy makers have always enjoyed a sales field day on this occasion. The florists and the telegraph offices always pay a good deal of homage to St. Valentine, and he is always good to them in return.

But now almost everyone with a product that could be considered a gift has shunted aside the Christmas wrappings and put his item in packages either heart shaped or liberally besprinkled with the emblem of the good saint.

Heart-shaped handkerchiefs are a staple of the trade. Hosiery, some with appliqued hearts, is a promotion item in most department stores.

This year some merchants are driving hard to sell red petticoats and report that lingerie is becoming an increasingly popular Valentine gift.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — "I just hit them straight down the middle and everything went fine," commented Mary Lena Faulk Thursday after taking the first-round lead in the $5,000 St. Petersburg Women's Open golf tournament, her first tournament as a professional.

Most of her competitors thought "fine" was a mild word to describe the kind of golf Miss Faulk was shooting. "Picture golf" and "just heard" were terms more often heard.

The Thomasville, Ga., golfer wasn't perfect, but she wasn't far off in shooting a 34-35-69 over Sunset's 6,116-yard, par 37-74 course. She was over par on just one hole.

THESE THREE MAPS of the critical areas in the tense Far East show where the Communist Chinese forces and American-supported Nationalists are face to face in a showdown over Formosa. It is estimated that a quarter of a million Reds are deployed along the coast facing Formosa strait, with other Chinese forces poised to move on the Fachen islands. Chiang Kai-shek, Formosa is the ultimate goal sought by the Communists. President Eisenhower placed Quemoy outside the defense perimeter set for the 7th Fleet but retained for future the decision whether the island should be defended.

Increases in High School Marriages Plague Educators

A major headache facing New Mexico public school officials is the ever-increasing number of marriages of secondary school students who are still subject to compulsory attendance laws.

Dr. Wilson H. Ivins, professor of education at the University of New Mexico, is author of a study intended, not primarily to solve the problem but, to point up the seriousness of a situation that may even grow worse.

Taking the 1952-53 school year as a basis for study, Dr. Ivins approached the student-marriage problem from three directions:

What is the legal status of school-board policies in dealing with students who marry during the year?

Are board policies justifiable in light of the type of pupils who are getting married?

And finally, how do most school principals feel they should meet the problem?

The typical policy of school boards included in Dr. Ivins' study tends to discourage attendance of students who marry during the year.

THE UNM professor thinks that the two common practices of either expelling or suspending students who marry have no real basis in law.

Aside from the fact that the courts would not, if tested, uphold either expulsion or suspension of students, Ivins says there is considerable doubt whether such policies are "reasonable, ethical, or morally sound."

As a group, the students who married during 1952-53 came from every segment of society. The Ivins

Carter-DeMarco Non-Title Bout Slated Tonight

BOSTON — Lightweight boxing king Jimmy Carter—a fellow with a knack for deflating New England's ring idols—meets Boston's newest favorite, welterweight Tony DeMarco, in a non-title 10-rounder tonight at Boston Garden.

The 23-year-old DeMarco, as No. 6 contender for Johnny Tom's welter crown and 15-bout winning streak, 11 knockouts.

So keen is the interest that Boston Garden probably will be to its 13,909 capacity for the broadcast, non-televized match.

blocks deep, compared to six of today, and entire First street business area is completely undeveloped. Vaswood addition and surrounding residential area now occupies farm land at left of upper central portion of photo.

Photographs of Early Artesia Show Growth

The face of Artesia has greatly changed in the past 20 to 25 years, as witness four photographs taken from the files of the Artesia Advocate and reproduced here today.

Looking at Artesia from the four points of the compass, a flying photographer portrayed the Artesia of the early 1930's—a city then held by depression but nevertheless growing.

Missing from these pictures are the vast residential area since constructed, including the big Vaswood addition of 1951 and the yet bigger American Builders project of 1953.

Also nonexistent when these photographs were taken was the six-block business district along W. Main of 1955 Artesia, the big Carper and Booker office buildings, and development of First street toward business offices.

Hotel Artesia was then only three to four years old—it went up in 1929, and NuMex refinery had not yet added its spectacular tower to the Artesia landscape. Continental refinery is easily distinguished on one picture.

Another photograph shows the Methodist college, located at Ninth and Centre, then far on the outskirts of the city in an area now completely enclosed by residential development. The college for a while served as the high school building while a new high school was being erected, then was torn down for lack of adequate enrollment.

Yet many of the buildings in the early 1930 photographs stand today, including that occupied by the Artesia Advocate. Then a big building on the landscape and still important to Artesia's business facilities is the Ward building, which then housed People's Mercantile Co., a firm of the big general store type of old that handled everything from foods through dry goods to minor items of hardware.

Even in the downtown area, these photos disclose, there were many vacant lots yet undeveloped by business and residents.

Yet Artesia then was only 30 years removed from its founding as a town in the barren desert, housed in a few ramshackle buildings with big false fronts. It had begun to feel the prosperity being brought on by founding of the oil industry with discovery of black gold 10 years before.

An iron blade which scientists believe to be 5,000 years old was found in one of the Egyptian pyramids.

WO AGAINST THE JUNGLE. Glenn Ford and Ann Sheridan realize that her husband, Zachery Scott, has sided with the escaped bandits in scene from "Appointment in Honduras," jungle drama in Technicolor, produced by Benedict Bogeaus for RKO Radio.

Adventure Story
Set in Honduras
Ocotillo Feature

Adult emotions, stripped here of the terrors and savage fury of the jungle during a trail of adventure provides the basic drama of appointment in Honduras, which comes to the Ocotillo theater Saturday, Sunday, and Monday with Glenn Ford.

Glenn Ford, Ann Sheridan, and Zachery Scott are in the stellar cast in the adventure which starts with piracy on the tropic seas and ends up with a dangerous appointment in Honduras.

Man-eating ants, maddened Indian hordes, savage alligators, scorching tiger fish, blood-hungry panamas, fire, heat and hurricane all play a part in making the film of constant excitement and emotional impact.

Presented in Technicolor and directed by Jacques Tourneur, one of the screen's better creators of classic drama, "Appointment in Honduras" was produced by Benedict Bogeaus for RKO Radio distribution. It marks the first pairing of Glenn Ford and Ann Sheridan and they are said to strike sparks in their romantic scenes.

Zachery Scott portrays Miss Sheridan's husband, a weakling who is eaten by heat and hate.

In the supporting cast are Robert Acosta, one of Mexico's foremost screen stars, and such competent Hollywood character actors as Jack Elam, Ric Roman and Rice Alaniz.

Lonely Lighthouse's Spell
Fascinates Writing Tender

BON PORTAGE ISLAND, N. S.—For 25 years Evelyn and Merrill Richardson have kept their lighthouse blinking its warning across the waves of the North Atlantic.

And the spell of this lonely island still fascinates the lighthouse keeper's wife who made it famous in her writings.

Mrs. Richardson is working on a third book, a sequel to "Desired Haven," a novel of the old days on the island-dotted southwest coast of Nova Scotia. She plans to call it "No Small Tempest."

"But I don't think I'll get it done this year," says the handsome, gray-haired woman. "My publishers have also asked for a sequel to 'We Keep a Light.'"

That book, her first, won the Governor General's Award, and is still going strong nearly 10 years after it was published. It is a simple tale of her family's existence on the island.

Anne, the Richardsons' elder daughter, is married with two children and lives at a nearby mainland village. Betty June married the assistant lightkeeper at Cape Island. Their only son, Laurie, died in 1947.

Mrs. Richardson writes in the winter because she's too busy in the summer with visitors, friends and relatives. Only people on the island the rest of the year are the Richardsons and Herbert Larkin, the assistant keeper. But they count as family members two cats, a dog, hen, sheep and nearly a dozen head of cattle.

Communications with the mainland have improved since the Richardsons came to Bon Portage. They have a two-way radio contact with the direction-finding station at Yarmouth, N. C., and along with other lights in the district report at 8 a. m. and 4 p. m.

"It's a Godsend if there is sickness," says Mrs. Richardson. Earlier all they could do in emergencies was raise a distress flag, which sometimes wasn't seen for days.

Transportation to and from the island hasn't changed much. It's still by motorboat, and then only when weather is right for a landing.

Dropping in on Mrs. Richardson, as she says, "may offer some inconveniences for the visitor."

Those who make it during the fall and winter are likely to be treated to wild duck or lobster, which Mrs. Richardson cooks to perfection.

Workmen were on the island all fall building a new kitchen and it is Mrs. Richardson's pride and joy. And next summer the Department of Transport plans to build the Richardsons a new house.

Mrs. Richardson is looking forward to turning a bedroom into a study in the new house. She now works in the living room on a typewriter her proud husband bought her.

YOUR BABY—
Clean Scalp
Needed for Baby Health

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

The new mama is likely to get goosebumps at the thought of washing her baby's fragile head. But baby's hair must be kept clean if she is to be healthy and pretty and to avoid or arrest cradle cap, the little scalp crust that is likely to coat a new baby's head.

Some pediatricians advise coating the head with petroleum jelly and fine-tooth combing cradle crust off. A bad case may need concentrated attention. One doctor advises spreading petroleum jelly over the affected area, covering it with gauze through the night with a homemade disposable muslin cap. This should be done on three successive nights, washed off each morning, keeping the spot well-oiled through the day. On the fourth morning the crust should be soft enough so that it can be removed by gentle rubbing with bits of cotton and mild soapy water.

As baby grows, you will find special baby shampoos that will soothe her tender scalp without burning her eyes if soap gets in.

Many pediatricians suggest three times a week cleansings with soap and clear water in between times for little babies. Every other day a slight film of oil should be rubbed over baby's scalp to prevent dryness. Older babies can take regular shampooing. Just hold the tot's head over the water, supporting back and hips and rinse the hair thoroughly with warm water, letting the water flow back over the head away from the eyes. Then proceed with the rest of the bath.

There are special preparations, too, to help form ringlets. After the shampoo the hair is dried thoroughly, the lotion is applied on a cotton pad, lock by lock. Baby's brush is used to form the ringlets. Hair is allowed to dry in the little curls, then brushed out. If done properly, silken ringlets should result.

Of course this is not done with a tiny baby and any tot should be over the cradle cap stage if this treatment is to be tried. The hair must be at least 1 1/2 inches long for best results.

Merger of Top Unions Paves
Way for Membership Drive

By Norman Walker

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—The nation's top union leaders agreed on consolidating forces into a single organization, today planned a gain drive to take in millions of new members.

Leaders of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations decided to bury traditional rivalries and embark on the same sort of intensive mass organizing campaign that sparked the CIO's surge two decades ago.

The AFL and CIO chiefs worked out what appeared to be an iron-clad arrangement to merge into a 15-million-member union federation.

A long series of ratifying actions still was required to sermonize the wedding, but declarations of intentions from principals appeared convincing. Both George Meany, top man in the AFL, and Walter Reuther, CIO chief, predicted the merger would be an accomplished fact before the end of the year.

They said a well-financed organizing drive to take in new members would be launched and where possible unions in the same general field would be combined to make more effective their bargaining and political powers.

An initial organizing goal was the chemicals and plastics industries. A field where combining rival unions appeared most likely was in the textile industry where relatively weak AFL and CIO unions have largely neutralized each other for years.

There was no way of anticipating whether the apparently stronger union setup would bring on bigger or longer labor strikes, but it was apparent that AFL and CIO leaders felt their hand would be strengthened in dealing with employers.

In arranging the merger agreement yesterday the union chiefs accustomed to hard horsestrading with employers, played a give-and-take rule with each other.

The AFL was given the top jobs in the new setup. Meany was assured of the presidency and AFL Secretary-Treasurer William Schnitzer will have the same title in the merged federation.

The CIO won the right to enter the AFL as a union group and to bottom in individual unions with regard to AFL crafts.

In addition, it was agreed that the leadership for the ambitious new member organizing activities would come from the CIO.

The key question of whether unions would be allowed to "raid" or seize each other's already organized members was left open. Reuther had wanted a definite police system to stop this but it was agreed only that "raiding" was a disease which ought to be discouraged.

The merger agreement contained intentions to include guarantees in the new constitution that would prevent racial discrimination among unions and effectively deal with union racketeers.

TAIPEH, Formosa.—This capital of Nationalist China has more than trebled its population since it was restored to Chinese rule after World War II. The population now stands at 600,000 and is still growing, despite government efforts to get nonessential residents to leave to avoid the peril of possible Communist air attacks.

Chinese flocked in from the mainland after the Communists triumph there appeared assured and there is a steady influx from the countryside.

The population includes tens of thousands of squatters who have built crude shacks wherever they could find space—in some instances even on the sidewalks.

Bring Variety,
Simple to Tend

AP Newsfeatures

There's something about an herb garden that brings out the cook in the Little Woman. Give her a visit (and a whiff) from the kitchen window of growing chives, thyme, sage or sweet basil—and she'll rummage through the cook books for some savory way to use them.

Setting up an herb garden is a simple proposition. It's economical and pleasing too. Did you ever get the shock, on a quiet Sunday morning, of hearing the Lady of the House, in the midst of her dinner preparation, exclaim:

"I need chives for salad. Will you take the car and drive somewhere and see if a store is open where you can get some, dear?"

This happens in some of the best regulated families. Now is the time to plan for thyme—or chives—or what you like.

First, the herb garden does not have to be large. A little bit of this, and a little bit of that, goes a long way to make a tasty dish out of an otherwise just plain eating meal. Herbs at the kitchen door challenge the cook to bigger and better epicurian delights.

Once started, some of your herbs are perennial, such as sage. There is nothing like a border or row of parsley or chives along with the herb garden. Parsley is used in many ways, from garnish for roast or chops, to flavor for soups. If you haven't had chives in salads, or chopped in the morning scrambled eggs, try it.

Some herbs are aromatic rather than edible, such as lavender for milady's use in scenting around the house linen department. The blossoms can be hung and dried in the attic, crushed, and placed in airtight jars.

Try to set up a suitable place for the herb garden near the culinary department of your home. Some folks use window box arrangements outside the kitchen windows. In the herb garden area, you could add some garden scallions.

Take stock of your favorite eating department. Decide what delicate morsels you and the family would like to titillate the appetite. Remember, herbs are a small item in the garden, requiring little care and giving much eating satisfaction. Plant them. Tend them. And invite me to dinner.

About Time We Were Establishing a Line!

People's Right to Know

Gov. John Simms at the recent press convention in a brief talk emphasized the peoples' right to know about their state government and about the actions of their state officials as well as how they spend the public's funds.

The governor cited the meeting of the state finance board charged with the responsibility of distributing the $4,000,000 to the institutions which requested approximately $20,000,000. He stated the press was present through all of the arguments and the discussions and in a position to put every member on the spot. He commended the press, however for handling the facts and considering the important angles of the matter rather than endeavoring to embarrass the members of that board.

It is true, of course, that the public does have a right to know although there are times when the public officials apparently do not believe this. Governor Simms is absolutely correct in his belief and the statement he made that all meetings will be open unless there is a discussion concerning some personality. He is certainly encouraging in these days and times when seemingly there are more efforts on the part of public officials to hold back the news than to give it out.

We have pointed out many times that the press is not trying to pry into private affairs and in many instances the press does not personally care about certain matters. However, the press has a responsibility to fulfill, and that responsibility is to get the information and the news for the taxpayers, the voters, and the citizens—their readers.

The press appreciates fully that they have this job to do; that the public looks to them to obtain the information for them; and the press is well aware the public does have a right to know.

Those public officials who keep the public informed and who accept the responsibility of opening their records, their books, and their meetings to the public certainly avoid and escape certain criticisms that is aimed at the officials who seemingly try to prevent the press from learning anything about the public's business.

We all know that regardless of the stand of Governor Simms and his efforts there will still be those who will seek to bar the press from their meetings and who will be reluctant to give out information to the press.

But the fact remains that it is the peoples' right to know. And we are sure that the press of New Mexico will seek to see they do know.

"The practice of selling certain items of merchandise below cost in order to attract patronage is generally a form of deceptive advertising and an unfair method of competition in commerce. Such practice causes commercial dislocations, misleads the consumer, works back against the farmer, directly burdens and obstructs commerce and diverts business from dealers who maintain a fair price policy. ## Experts Aren't Betting on Zhukov Visit

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower may invite Russia's marshal Georgi K. Zhukov to visit him sometime, but the experts are not betting on it.

There are too many problems, hostilities and suspicions between Moscow and Washington to make such an invitation possible now.

One of the President's associates said he does not see "a chance in a million" for such an invitation. State Department officials label the whole question "premature."

Yet diplomats said that in some special future circumstances the friendship which developed between Eisenhower and Zhukov when they were Allied military leaders in Berlin at the end of World War II might prove useful to both countries.

Zhukov moved into the spotlight yesterday when he was appointed defense minister of the Soviet Union. A few years ago under the late Joseph Stalin he had apparently been banished from Moscow.

Eisenhower's new eminence at his news conference yesterday and was told Zhukov had said recently he still held the dream of visiting the United States someday.

Eisenhower paid warm tribute to Zhukov as a military leader and confirmed that each of them had told the other he was sure his country would not attack the other's homeland.

The President said he had, at the direction of Washington, invited Zhukov to visit this country in 1945. Zhukov accepted but later called off the visit, giving illness as the reason.

The President himself indicated to newsmen the improbability of a visit under present conditions. He commented that "this would be a remarkable thing at the present state of affairs." He added that he "certainly wouldn't hesitate" to talk over with his advisors the problem of an invitation "if we found it desirable."

 House passed 35-14 a bill to make county school superintendents appointive instead of elective. A companion bill, to make the county school boards elective instead of appointive, slid through 44-0.

Rep. Albert Amador (D-Rio Arriba) said the New Mexico Education Assn. which he termed "a super-hierarchy of education," has been backing the bill.

"They don't like politicians, yet they're the biggest politicians in the state and none of you can deny it," Amador said. "The NMEA wants to get complete control of education in New Mexico." He said the NMEA would get stronger if the first bill passed.

ON THE other side, Rep. C. L. McClaskey (D-Bernalillo) declared greater public interest is created in school races by election of five board members than of one county superintendent.

The Senate finance committee reported favorably on a combination bill aimed at relieving municipalities. The bill would permit levy of 34 mills on each dollar of assessed value of property in Class A counties and 3/4 of a mill per dollar in other counties to support county hospitals.

The House killed, 23-28, a bill which would have prohibited drinking of alcoholic liquors in any or room used at the time by a club which did not hold a club liquor license. Rep. M. S. Smith (D-Curry) submitted the bill in an attempt to correct what he said is an undesirable situation in dry Clovis and Portales.

Recommend—

 Superintendent of Schools Vernon Mills told the group that the Oil Field school has a nice auditorium, with possibilities for two more rooms, a hot lunch cafeteria, sick room, and other necessary advancements.

According to Mills it would cost about $3,000 to fix the building up, including moving it from its present location and making a foundation for it to sit on next to the regular school house.

Capitol's Phone Operator Sings In Spare Time

By JANE EADS
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Chief operator Nina Thomas, who has helped man the switchboard at the Capitol for 42 years, after using her voice all day during the week, sings in a church choir every Sunday.

Miss Thomas, as calm and matter-of-fact as a woman who has nothing to do but sit by the fireside and cratchet a tidy, is in charge of more than 70 operators who on busy days handle more than 40,000 calls for members of Congress. She and her girls know the exact numbers instantly of some 2,400 extension connections with the offices of senators and congressmen, committees, other government agencies, even some residences.
 It's part of their routine to memorize a number, link it with a name, a state, and of course, the party affiliation. A good memory, in fact, is one of the first requirements for a "hello girl" on Capitol Hill, says Miss Thomas. Courtesy, patience, understanding and a pleasing voice are others.
 These qualities pay off. In all her years of plugging she says she can't recall any major incident when a member of Congress has "blown his top" or been unreasonable with an operator.
 "Of course there are times when it's impossible for some reason or other for us to get a call through right away, and a man gets a bit anxious," Miss Thomas explained mildly. "We understand the pressures and some of the problems behind their attitudes. We try to be as helpful as possible."
 At home—she was born in Washington—Miss Thomas shares a cat with neighborhood friends. "I hate to eat alone as we get together and pool whatever we have for meals occasionally too," she said.
 Fond of music all her life, Miss Thomas, a soprano, has been singing with our Lady Queen of Peace Church choir for the past four years. She also takes piano lessons.

NATION'S OIL—Congressman Seeking Bill On Gas Rate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressman is seeking action on a bill which he says would protect natural gas consumers against much higher rates.

Rep. Yates (D-Ill.) said his measure would require the Federal Power Commission to regulate rates of the natural gas industry "on the basis of actual cost, rather than permitting the valuation on the basis of fair field value, which it has been using since the decision in the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. case some months ago."
 Chopin is her favorite composer. after the hours I put on the Hill, my music is all I have time for but I consider I have a most interesting and satisfactory life," she says.

Strike Settlement To Reopen Mine At Silver City

SILVER CITY, (AP)—American Smelting & Refining Co., Groundhog mine at Vanadium and smelter at Deming re-opened today after a two-year shutdown.

W. C. Waldrup, general manager of AS&R properties in the Silver City area, said the action follows acceptance by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers of an agreement reached Friday.
 He explained the agreement provides for extension of the contract in effect at the close-down and good until June 30, 1956. Under that agreement, key wage for the miners was $1.82½ an hour.
 Although the mine and smelter re-opened today, Waldrup said "much repair work must be done before there is actual production."
 He said there are hopes lead and zinc ore will start coming from the mine for smelting by early March. When last in operation, the mine had a payroll of 240, and the smelter employed 38.

Resigns Army Post

JOHN G. ADAMS, Counselor of the Army and a principal in the Army-McCarthy dispute, is shown in his Washington office after he had resigned. Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, accepting the resignation effective March 31, said: "I shall always remember your loyal support to me." Stevens reiterated denials that he himself has any plans to resign. (International)

Showing The Way...

HERE is life's romance; a grandfather guiding the minds of young boys and young boys seeing Heaven through grandfather's eyes. This may be hero-worship but it is a grand time to teach them to pray... to introduce them to the eternal Friend. Your child will listen at each bedtime when you talk about God, and Heaven, and the Church. He will follow when your journey is toward Sunday School. Oh, for the faith of grandfathers who care and who help youngsters find the way to God. It is our privilege and our responsibility to teach them to say, "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep. If I should die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul to take." If you teach them to trust this prayer, then you can trust them anywhere.
