

Rebel Party Legislators May Forestall Special Session

By BILL RICHARDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Some New Mexico legislators see it as a good bet that Gov. John Simms will never call a special session of the lawmakers if the group of "rebels" within the party stray too far from the governor's outline of what the session would do.

Some talked of even dragging out the controversial truck weight law and repealing it.

By law, the Legislature must limit itself to consideration of the items the governor lists in his call. But there is nothing to stop them, some of the "rebels" contend, from adjourning Simms' session and reconvening one of their own.

However, it should be recalled that Simms pretty well controlled both houses during the last regular session, and current talk might not be strong enough to shake that control.

To support that recollection is the statement of Donald Hallam of Hobbs, speaker of the house during the last session.

"I think the session would be limited to the welfare problem and to correcting any erroneous technicalities in some bills passed in regular session," Hallam said.

"Would I serve without pay?" he echoed a questioner. "I certainly would, and the session should be limited to two or three days as the governor's program suggests."

The governor's questionnaire to the lawmakers, mailed this last week, outlines his ideas on what should be done if the wobbly Welfare Department is to be put on a sound basis.

Simms left it pretty much up to the Legislature whether it wants a special session or not, and asked members for their reaction so he could see if there were "areas of agreement." He promised to draw bills to cover these "areas of agreement" if such existed.

An Associated Press poll of scattered legislators from around the state shows these areas to be pretty slim. Most were lukewarm about the proposed tax structures Simms outlined. And some felt they were being asked to rubber stamp the administration proposals in a quickie session.

Long Range Plan for Easing World Tension Approved By Leaders

HISTORIC BIG FOUR MEET ENDS IN PACT

THE ARTESIAN WELL

By RICK RAPHAEL

There was a time in our history when we were not so much a nation as a collection of states. We were not united by a common purpose, but by a common fear. We were not united by a common ideal, but by a common enemy. We were not united by a common destiny, but by a common fate.

Let the same mental blindness now when we set down to paper the words of the Artesian Well flowings, sometimes you just can't think of a thing to say.

My God, mister, "he shout- ed" the rattled drill instructor, "you might at least say 'good bye' to them."

We hope that never happened to Air Force Academy cadet Jay Mitchell Jr., now in his first weeks at the brand-new USAF "West Point of the West" at Denver. Mister Mitchell—who was probably sitting in a tight "brace" as he said in a note to his mother here, Mrs. Jay Mitchell—that things are strict at the academy. But, he added, it can be expected. Said HIS instructor told them that when I chew you fellows out it's nothing personal in it, it's for the good of the service.

All of Artesia should be proud of Jay. There were over 300 applications for the academy and only slightly more than 300 made up the start-class. And those ranks were sadly thinned before rough and tough four-grind is over. But if Jay lives—and we feel sure he will—he will be the first of a generation of military trained from the very beginning to think with their heads and hearts literally in the clouds. And not only in the clouds, for we predict that this graduating class will see Air Force break these heavy gravitational bonds carry mankind into outer space.

Our hopes and desires go with Jay and his classmates who are the forerunners of the new atomic age of the future.

Less than a year ago Jay was one of Artesia High's big boys seen about town. He didn't have the benevolent Teen Canteen, a new organization for young people that meets each Tuesday Thursday night at the gym at the high school. City Recreation Director

Family Escape Death As Gasoline Tanker Residue Explodes

Thankfulness for the hairbreadth escape from death of himself and his wife and four children was expressed yesterday by Raymond R. Payne, mechanic for Western Transport, Inc., 1100 S. First St.

When fumes exploded in the big gasoline tank transport he was welding Friday at 8:15 p. m., Payne was blown off the tank to the concrete floor. Shards of metal pierced holes in the door of his pickup truck, parked in the shop where the tanker truck stood and only a dozen feet away. In the pickup were Payne's wife and his four young children: Charlotte, 8; Pamela, 7; Linda, 3, and a year old baby.

"If the holes had been a few inches higher, they'd have struck my wife and the children," Payne declared. "It was a miraculous escape."

Payne himself suffered only a sprained wrist and badly bruised hands. He said he landed on his hands after the blast hurled him in an arc from the side of the tanker.

Also in or near the shop at the time, but out of range of the explosion, were the following: (Continued on page four)

Hendrix Gets 30-Day Term For Assault

His insistence on testifying in his own behalf helped convict Louis Wayne Hendrix yesterday on an assault and battery charge in Justice of the Peace John Elliott's court. He was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Hendrix, who had pleaded not guilty, was convicted on the charge growing out of his attack Wednesday night on his brother-in-law, Jessy Ezell, in the latter's home in Morningside addition. Testimony was that Hendrix beat up Ezell when the latter, who was entertaining guests, declined to help get Hendrix stilled auto started.

"I'd been wanting to beat him up for six months," Hendrix declared in court. They had originally quarreled, Hendrix said later, about gasoline Hendrix asserted had been siphoned from his car.

Two Flash Floods Hit State Town In as Many Days

The small community of Alameda, on the outskirts of Albuquerque, was hit Saturday with the second flash flood in two days. As residents were cleaning up mud and debris from a Friday storm, more summer rain was dumped on the already saturated town.

Bernalillo County Undersheriff Walter Geis said water flowed "three to four feet deep" in the same area that was hit Friday.

Homes Flooded

Homes on both sides of the Alameda road were flooded and furniture and stock were being removed late Saturday.

Estimates after Friday's flood placed damage at thousands of dollars and County Manager William McCrae said it would take "several days" to get roads and streets back into good condition.

Santa Fe railway officials said engineers had been given orders not to exceed 10 miles per hour in places where the water lapped.

JUBILEE HARD PUT TO FIND HORSES NEEDED TO RE-CREATE EARLY ARTESIA

On horseback the pioneers came to open up the land and on horseback they and their sons rode the ranges and rounded up the cattle that made up this region's first wealth.

Now, ironically, finding enough horses to give Artesia's Golden Jubilee the authentic flavor of 50 years ago is proving a brow-furrowing task for the committees in charge.

If enough horses — and mules — can be found, the grand historic parade starting at 9:30 a. m. on Aug. 10 will glorify the four-footed pioneers as well as the old-timers astride them or riding in horse-drawn or mule-drawn vehicles.

Invitations already have been sent to 28 old-timers, who have been in the Pecos valley 50 years or more, to ride in the old-timers' parade.

Senior Statesman Cordell Hull Dies At 83 After Long, Honored Career

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, an architect of the United Nations and champion of freer world trade, died today at the age of 83.

The Tennessee mountaineer, who served longer than any other man as secretary of state—and won a Nobel prize and the title of "father of the U. N."—died at 9 a. m. in U. S. Naval Hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md.

He suffered a stroke yesterday. There had been several others over the years. And behind them lay a lifetime of frail health.

Funeral Tuesday

The funeral will be held Tuesday at Washington's National Episcopal Cathedral, where Mrs. Hull is being buried.

Talented, Linguistic, Beauteous Miss Sweden Becomes Second Scandinavian Miss Universe

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 23 (AP)—A tall linguistic lady from Sweden, graceful in every motion and five different languages, reigned today as the new Miss Universe.

Hillevi Rombin, 21-year-old blonde from the university town of Uppsala, became Scandinavia's second winner in the four-year contest.

The largest and statelyst girl ever to capture the beauty crown was scheduled to preside over her coronation ball, final event of the 10-day pageant, tonight.

Unlike her famous predecessor from Sweden — Greta Garbo — the Nordic beauty said she doesn't think she'll go home—at least not for a while. She is slated to begin a movie career Monday in the Universal-International picture, "The Benny Goodman Story."

"It's too early to tell how I will like the movies but I will give it a try," said Miss Sweden, whose poise and knowledge of languages impressed all observers. She even acted as an interpreter for some of the other contestants. She is fluent in German, French, Spanish and English in addition to her native tongue.

A regal 5-foot-7 and weighing 130 pounds, the blue-eyed Miss Rombin measures 36 in the bust and hips and 23 in the waist—almost classic measurements.

But her fiancée of six months described her as "no ordinary superficial beauty queen." He is Lt. Nils Benkert, 26, a pilot in the Swedish air force.

Miss Rombin said they plan to marry soon, perhaps within six months.

"I'll see how my movie career goes," she said.

Previous Miss Universe contestants have not met with any great success in the film capital. Myrna Hansen, Miss U. S. A. two years ago, was the last previous Universe contest beauty under contract. Her option was dropped 10 days ago, just before the contest started.

But a top Universal-International executive said after seeing the statuesque Swede: "This is one girl that I think we can really do something with."

The new queen is a graduate of Uppsala, located just a half-hour's drive north of Stockholm.

In fact, one of the judges said it was her reserved bearing and her intelligence that helped win the title.

West Sees Victory In Agreement To Talk Disarmament

GENEVA, July 23 (AP)—The Big Four powers finished their historic Summit meeting tonight in agreement on a quick starting and long range plan to relax world tension and improve confidence among nations.

Their decisions, reached after a week of tense but strangely friendly conference, called for an Aug. 29 meeting of the United Nations subcommittee on disarmament to take up the proposals made here.

They directed their foreign ministers to meet here in October to work out a plan for reuniting divided Germany and giving Europe a security plan designed to calm those who fear another German holocaust.

Parents Fears Show in Polio Shots Report

Uncertainty of parents following the Cutter vaccine scare is reflected in the report of the second round polio inoculations of children in Artesia and outlying schools.

A total of 911 children received the first shots and only 512 the second ones, according to the report tabulated by Mrs. Naomi Buckhout, public health nurse, and released by George P. White, co-chairman of the inoculation program for north Eddy county. The other co-chairman is Mrs. Charles E. Currier.

The report was forwarded to Dr. O. E. Puckett, district health officer, at Carlsbad for eventual inclusion in state and national computations.

A tabulation by schools for both first and second inoculations shows the following totals:

New Ultra-Modern Drive-In Theater to Open Here Aug. 4

A new ultra-modern $100,000 drive-in theater for Artesia—the Hermosa Drive-In — will celebrate its opening night Thursday, Aug. 4, with the showing of two outstanding first run pictures, it was announced yesterday by the Landsun theater management.

Gates will open for the gala opening night at 6:30 p. m. and the first show will start at 7:15 p. m.

Located on Hermost drive near the Carlsbad highway intersection, the new drive-in will accommodate 400 cars. It may readily be reached via Roselawn or Second St. until the new highway is completed.

Novel Arrangement

For the convenience of patrons, the new theater's ticket taker, cashier and concession stand are all under one roof. Concession purchases thus may be made as the patrons enter the grounds. The concession stand is described as one of the most elaborate in the Southwest, with air-conditioning throughout the knotty pine interior. Floors and counters are covered with vinyl tile in green and gray shades, the unusual tones of which are brought out by unique lighting effects.

The stand is equipped with an automatic ice-making machine, drink dispenser, and coffee makers. Sandwiches, popcorn, candy and cigarettes are among items that also will be sold.

A novel feature is the glassed front of the projection booth, allowing patrons to watch the projectionist.

Senators Order Full Probe Into Talbott Affairs

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—A growing furor over the outside business interests of Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott erupted today into plans for a full-scale public hearing.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee ordered the hearing as soon as possible, but set no date. The group's four Democratic members voted unanimously for the public airing. The three Republicans merely voted "present," taking a stand which neither blocked nor supported the action.

Used Influence

At issue is whether Talbott improperly used his high government post to promote his private interest as a special partner in Paul B. Mulligan & Co. He has said he gets more than $50,000 a year from profits of the New York efficiency

Backstage New Mexico

By The New Mexico Staff Of THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There may be more than a year to go until the next general election, but political rumors, which make up half the Statehouse comment, already are flowering.

The hottest of all circulating concerns Att. Gen. Richard Robinson of Carlsbad. The rumor, which Robinson himself gave weight in a recent speech at Los Alamos, has it that the Carlsbad attorney will make a bid for Congress in '56. Says Robinson, however:

It's too early to think about it. I hadn't planned to say anything about politics at Los Alamos but I just said my interests would be in the Democratic ticket and I might be a candidate on that ticket. But it's too early to think about it.

Thus the speculation. Robinson, under New Mexico's laws of succession, cannot succeed himself as attorney general since he's already serving his second term. Also, he cannot be a candidate for another state office in 1956. That leaves national posts as Robinson's only road if he wishes to pursue politics on a high level. The only two posts open will be the congressional seats held by Democrats John J. Dempsey and A. M. Fernandez, both of Santa Fe.

There have been published reports at various times that Dempsey and Fernandez will not run again. The report concerning Dempsey came during the primary last year and was attributed to the representative, although he neither denied or confirmed the report.

Fernandez, during a Jackson-Jefferson Day dinner, indicated he would not run again "unless my good wife changes her mind." He said this would leave the door open for some "of you younger boys."

"Dick will make a bid for Congress," said one source close to Robinson. "He's just about got to. He wants to stay in politics and if he doesn't run for Congress his only choice will be to go back to Carlsbad and run for district attorney or something."

THERE ARE certain undercurrents in the political scene that could influence Robinson's decision. One is the enmity felt by southern New Mexicans toward the north. They feel that all national representation is lodged in northern New Mexico and therefore "the voice of the south is at a high whisper."

So strong is this feeling, that Rep. Virgil McCallum (D-Eddy) in 1953 introduced a congressional districting bill. It failed, but it would have made it necessary for one congressman to be from the south and one from the north.

The failure of the McCallum bill left some bitter feelings. They have been dormant for the most part, but still exist.

Robinson in the hope of a strong East Side and southern New Mexico insurrection, might throw his hat in the ring in the primary against Dempsey and Fernandez in the event they decide to run. His chances would be immeasurably improved if one bows out since both are considered top notch and difficult opponents.

On the other hand, Robinson might return to private practice in Carlsbad for a two-year period and then make a lunge for the gubernatorial chair. But this does not seem likely. It would mean the respected attorney general would be out of the limelight for two years, a difficult thing in the life of any politician.

Lovers of the era of the men who wore and sang about their yellow ribbons have a new reading thrill in store. It is "Custers Luck" by Edgar I. Stewart, published by the University of Oklahoma Press. It tells of the 7th Cavalry, not unknown in New Mexico and the El Paso area.

EVER OCCUR to you that a peanut—the right kind, that is—has "character, glamour and distinction"? The Portales Daily News is the authority for the statement. The newspaper takes issue with the Agriculture Department announcement that India will lead the world in peanut production this year and adds "we have eaten those Indian peanuts. We bought them from a peddler for two annas a cupful, and fed most of them to the monkeys. They had no flavor, no tantalizing aroma and no distinguishing characteristic that would cause you to walk across the street or to walk around the corner after a sack of them. On the other hand, Portales grown peanuts have character, glamour and distinction. The only trouble is that the rest of the world doesn't always know this."

The tree doesn't always grow in Brooklyn. The home of Dem Bums is noted for producing some of the finest baseball hecklers in the business. Hobbs has one it offers in competition with no doubt of his superiority. Cafe-man Jim Winslow has been described as the champion heckler of the Longhorn League with a "steady chatter, razzing and rattling the batters, the pitchers, even the basemen, of the opposition team." Says the Hobbs News-Sun "to the king of badgering from the grandstand, a salute and a trophy—in this case a brass-plated razzberry."

Carlsbad on the other hand, says the Hobbs brand of heckling is strictly bush league—it has far superior hecklers. A professor of English at Texas Western College in El Paso is the latest to come up with an account of a legend that lives. The University of New Mexico is in print with "Cock of the Walk" by Dr. Haldeen Braddy, the story of the life, death and everlasting memory of Pancho Villa. The book is a product of 20 years of work, traveling and research and "attempts to give adequate and proportional treatment to all phases" of the career of the fighting man from south of the border.

Braddy says that while Villa made enemies, he also gave a number of Americans reason to like him. One such person, the author notes, is Jimmie Caldwell of Santa Fe. Braddy says that "though I should not wish to defend the cruel bandit that Villa finally became, I must confess that he was mucho hombre, that he was thoroughly masculine in loving the race track and cock fighting and at least understandable as a man in his virile passion for women. At his best, Pancho Villa was a peerless gamecock, crowing, to be sure, but always ready for a fight."

County's 'Black Gold' To Show $8.4 Million Yield In Current Year

Black gold from the oil wells of Eddy County—birthplace of the commercial oil industry in New Mexico—should bring in some 8.4 million dollars in 1955, before taxes.

Although there are various legends regarding the first oil well in the county, and the date of first production, the annual report of the New Mexico Oil & Gas Engineering Committee gives the discovery date as August, 1923.

By the end of 1954, total county production had reached the huge total of 79,272,473 barrels, based on all reported production. And the liquid wealth keeps on flowing.

Tops 1954 Flow

L. A. Hanson, Eddy county supervisor for the New Mexico Oil Conservation Commission, says he expects this year's production to run ahead of last year's total of 3,204,876 barrels. Even if there is no increase, that amount would bring in at the wells approximately 8.4 million dollars, using a price estimate of $2.60 a barrel to allow for slight deductions for basic sediment and water. The prevailing price is $2.65, which is expected to hold.

"Old wells keep failing," Hanson explained, "but new ones are constantly being added, or declining wells revived by the sand-oil fracture method. Thus the high level of production is maintained at a fairly even tenor."

Increasing use of the sand-oil fracture method, under which a mixture of sand and oil is forced into a well under high pressure to increase porosity of the oil-bearing strata, has played a large part in holding up the county's oil yield.

office, 94 wells were drilled in Eddy County last year. Of these, 48 were oil wells, two were gas wells and there were 20 dry holes, all in proven fields. Of exploratory or wildcat wells, the tally was three oil-producers, three gas wells, and 18 dry holes.

The sand-oil frac process has been in use in the county about three years, Hanson said, but users were skeptical. After the large degree of success shown by the method, more and more drillers have turned to it. It has entirely superseded the blowing of wells with nitroglycerine.

"A striking feature of the Eddy county oil picture," said Hanson, "is the preponderance of independent operators. There are only a handful of major companies operating in the county. The majors seem to prefer deep well fields, while the shallower depths to the prevailing here give more scope to the smaller companies."

Average 3,000 Feet Oil wells in Eddy county range from 450 to 10,000 feet in depth, with the average about 3,000 feet. In Lea county, on the contrary, the depth range is from 2,500 to 13,500 feet.

The prevailing price is $2.65 at the well for oil testing 35 or above specific gravity. Nearly all Eddy county production meets that gravity level, Hanson said.

Three Are Killed In Headon Crash Near Albuquerque ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A head-on collision 32 miles east of here claimed three lives and seriously injured two other persons Friday. The dead were Fred Roessner, about 60, his wife Clarice, 52, both of St. Henry, Ohio, and the Rev. John W. Smith, 34, of Oakland, Calif. The deaths raised the state traffic toll for this year to 171 compared to 189 on July 23, 1954.

Tom Jordan Within Point of Longhorn Batting Lead

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The pitching leader is Dean Franks of Roswell with 18 victories and 9 losses, but Art Diesore of Big Spring is the strikeout king with 152.

The team batting leadership is held by Artesia with a whopping .322, followed by Hobbs with .305 and Carlsbad at .301.

Brooklyn, July 23 (AP)—Milwaukee rallied with six runs in the seventh inning as Joe Adeock and Andy Parko hit successive home runs on the way to an 11-6 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today. Adeock's 15th homer with Eddie Mathews on base tied the score and Parko's second of the year put the Braves out front to stay. A two-run triple by pinch-hitter George Crowe was the blow that finished loser Ed Roebuck, who came in when starter Karl Spooner pulled a muscle in his left shoulder in the sixth.

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Jim Hearn, veteran New York Giants right-hander, pitched 8 1/3 hitless innings today until pinch-hitter Chuck Harman singled in the ninth for the Cincinnati Redlegs' only hit in a 2-0 Giants' victory.

Harmon, batting for third baseman Milt Smith, worked the count to 3-2 before he lined the ball over shortstop Al Dark's head into left field for the single. Harmon broke his bat on the hit but it was a solid, clean blow.

PITTSBURGH, July 23 (AP)—Righthander Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates allowed only six hits today while his teammates were lambasting the Chicago Cubs for 15 hits as the Pirates trimmed the Cubs 10-2.

The Pirates hit safely in every inning except the seventh and eighth as they hammered out a triple, five doubles and nine singles.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23 (AP)—Del Ennis' three homers—his 17th, 18th and 19th—accounted for all seven runs today as the ascendant Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-2. Robin Roberts gave up nine hits in posting his 16th victory.

Swats Homer, A Two-Bagger And a Single

Roswell threw in two relief pitchers in the bottom of the ninth inning here last night to put out a Numexer fire that had scored three runs and threatened momentarily the Rockets' 6 to 4 win over Artesia.

Trailing by five runs going into the final half-inning, the Numexers tagged Rocket starting pitcher George Pavte for three singles and a double for three runs before reliever Julio Ramo took over at the mound.

Ramo pitched to pinch-hitter Ed Locke who got a sacrifice fly and then Bob Chester, loser of last night's meeting between the two teams, got revenge when he fanned the last two Artesia batters.

Roswell second-sacker Pete Traina was big man of the night collecting a single, a double and a homer and getting credit for three RBI's.

Tonight the Numexers, now three games off the lead, meet first-place San Angelo and Jerry Phipps, former Numexer hurler will be on the mound against his old teammates.

Top Gain Wins in Ruidoso Derby Trial on Slow Track

RUIDOSO, July 23 (AP)—Some 4,000 racing fans crammed into Ruidoso Downs today and shoveled $109,337 through the windows while watching 12 races run on a slow and stumpy track. The handle was 25.7 per cent larger than on the same date last year.

Substantial rains fell for the 19th successive day in Ruidoso but stopped one hour before post time and the races were run under cool conditions with the thermometer hovering around 55 degrees.

Outstanding race of the day was the eleventh, one of two Ruidoso Quarterhorse Derby trials run today. Top Gain, owned by Roy Gaines of Sinton, Tex., won the 440-yard sprint in a photo finish over Bella St. Mary and paid $23.00, $3.10 and $2.90, the longest price of the day.

Holders of daily double winning tickets were returned a gratifying $61.20 on their $2.00 investments.

North Downs South Texans In All Star

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
BEAUMONT, (AP)—The Texas League returned to the business of determining a pennant winner with its All-Star series all even at six games apiece because the North not only had the pitching but dominated power.

The North pounded 13 hits, including three extra-base blows, Friday night in crumbling the South 6-2, scoring all of its runs in the first two innings with San Antonio's Charley Locke being charged with every one of the them.

John (Red) Murrif of Dallas, the league's 22-game winner, got credit for threiverty by boiling one inning and participating in a batting spree in the second inning that produced four runs.

A crowd of 3,626 turned out. It was the smallest in the All-Star game's history, caused by heavy rains during the afternoon and threatening conditions at night.

The crowd paid $6,334.75 of which the Beaumont club got 25 per cent. This meant over $1,580 for Allen Russell and his financially-troubled club.

Regard Tommy Bolt Golfer To Beat In PGA Tourney

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT, (AP)—In the wake of "Gray Friday"—you could hardly call it "black" with so many favorites winning—there emerged three imposing figures in the PGA Golf Tournament:

Dr. Cary Middlecoff as the strong man, Johnny Palmer as the silent man and Tommy Bolt as the loud man.

With only 16 survivors left, these three players stood out as the ones to watch in yesterday's 36-hole third round at the Meadowbrook Country Club.

And of the three, the flamboyant, unpredictable but wonderfully colorful Bolt, who has the quaint habit of saying what he thinks, was considered the best bet to go all the way in this week-long marathon.

Who says so?

Why, a fellow named Tommy Bolt says so. Listen:

"I saved this tournament by beating him—so it just has to be mine. If I didn't stop him, he'd have gone on to take it all."

The "him" in question was Sammy Snead, a three-time PGA champion who lost a grim struggle to Bolt in Fridays second round.

"No one else could beat him except me," added the modest Mr. Bolt, who earlier had let his sizzling clubs do his talking. "I don't choke against Snead."

Major League Roundup for Saturday

DETROIT, July 23 (AP)—Two late-inning home run surges by the Detroit Tigers today as they took the first game of a three-game series from the Cleveland Indians.

The second game was rained out last night and the fourth was rained out today. Two more homers by the Tigers today as they took the first game of a three-game series from the Cleveland Indians.

DETROIT, July 23 (AP)—The Boston Sox blew a four-run lead in the ninth inning as they rallied to tie the game in the bottom of the ninth. The Sox were leading 4-3 in the ninth when pinch-hitter Ed Roebuck hit a home run to tie the game. The Sox then won 4-3 in the bottom of the ninth on a single by Minnie Mi-

KANSAS CITY, July 23 (AP)—The New York Yankees blew their lead to climb back into first place in the American League today as they dogged Kansas City in a seven-inning game. The Yankees scored seven times in the bottom of the eighth and squeezed out an 11-9 victory on singles by Simpson and Hector

The famed Yankee bench almost pulled out the lead in the ninth when pinch-hitter Bob Cerv and Elston Howard came runs to tie the score at 10-10. Tom Gorman, coming off the mound in relief for the second, throttled the Yankees' state bid.

CLEVELAND, July 23 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, who traded Bill Wright to Baltimore for Evers last week, beat the Sox 3-2 as Evers smashed a two-run homer off Wright in the seventh inning.

Evers' homer, his seventh of the

Owl Martin Gets 1st Win In La Mesa Feature Race

RATON, July 23 (AP)—Owl Martin, a nine-year-old gelding who has ran well at La Mesa this year but never won, came home today to capture the feature race, "The City of Walsenburg."

Pee Wee Reese's Birthday Wins High Tribute, Gifts From Fans

BROOKLYN, (AP)—Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn Dodgers shortstop the past 15 years, probably still was in a daze today.

Reese was given a "night" in Ebbets Field Friday night and what a night it turned out to be. A crowd of 33,003, largest of the season, turned out to honor the Brooklyn captain, who helped the celebration along by contributing two doubles to the Brooks' 8-4 victory over Milwaukee.

Reese who celebrated his 36th birthday yesterday was loaded down with a staggering array of gifts from fans. Brooklyn merchants and a moving company in the borough said it would move everything free to Reese's home in Louisville, Ky.

He had his pick of seven different make cars. His 11-year-old daughter, Barbara, selected a key out of a bowl. Each of the cars was driven up to her until the key fit into one. That was the new Reese car.

Dozens of telegrams were read over the loudspeaker, including one from Vice President Nixon. Dodger President Walter O'Malley said later he had received a telegram from President Eisenhower wishing Reese well.

Beaumont Might Lose Franchise In Texas League

BEAUMONT (AP)—Whether Beaumont will be in the Texas League in 1956 wasn't known today as league directors finished their mid-season meeting but indications are the franchise will be shifted.

The directors were told by Russell yesterday he would definitely finish out the season here but a decision on whether the franchise is to stay in Beaumont or be shifted won't be made until the fall meeting in Dallas.

Russell hinted he would take in a partner in order to obtain sufficient funds to operate the franchise but said this didn't necessarily mean it would remain in Beaumont.

He expects to form a 75 per cent working agreement with Milwaukeee of the National League and said this would insure sufficient players.

Amarillo and Corpus Christi, Tex., and Wichita, Kans., are three cities freely mentioned as being under consideration.

Hugh Burch Fires 91 to Become Country Club Junior Champion

The boys showed fine sportsmanship and attention to the rules. The tournament committee advised that this will be an annual affair. Attractive trophies were obtained for the three winners.

Hugh Ross Burch, who comes of a golfing family, fired a 91 Friday afternoon at the Country Club Golf course to become the 1955 junior champion. Runnerup was Billy William, who had a 92 and barely missed a tie when a 50-foot approach failed to drop on the final hole. The ball stopped one inch from the cup. Burch canned a five-footer to win and showed a good touch around the greens.

This first tournament showed that the juniors' play is affected by pressure and all the contestants had their moments of difficulty.

The handicap winner will not be decided until today, as there was a three-way tie between Bobbie D. Bourland, Donnie Kenny and Ben Fairey. The playoff was set for this morning.

Only Newspaper Wire

THE Artesia Advocate has the only full leased wire newspaper service in North Eddy county and is the only Associated member in Eddy county as of this date.

This newspaper is the only newspaper in north Eddy county that has a direct newspaper wire connecting our office with the Associated Bureau or any other established, recognized and known wire service.

That wire opens at 12 o'clock at night Monday through Sunday and operates direct from the Associated Press trunk service until 7 o'clock in the morning. At this hour the wire is switched to the state Associated Press Bureau wire at Albuquerque and it continues to operate until 1 o'clock each afternoon.

In addition to this The Advocate is protected so it can protect its readers some 24 hours per day via the telephone in the event that some big news story breaks.

But despite all the reports, the rumors, the announcements and claims, which may be made, this newspaper is the only one in North Eddy county that has a direct newspaper wire connecting it directly with a national and a recognized news service bureau.

In addition to this The Advocate has a full leased and separate baseball wire operated by the Associated Press and connecting Artesia with every city in the Longhorn league. We not only file the stories concerning the Artesia team when it is in action at home but we receive the reports from all of the other points having teams in the Longhorn League.

The Advocate is proud of its membership in the Associated Press just as the other Associated Press members over the state are proud of their membership. Included in this family are Hobbs, Portales, Roswell, Raton, Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Alamogordo, Silver City, Las Cruces and shortly Clovis. Clovis has been a member for a good many years but dropped this membership recently to take another service but plans to return to the Associated Press. In addition to these newspapers in these cities a good many of the state's radio stations are members of the Associated Press.

The Advocate, which has served this community for more than 50 years with the local and the state, national and international news, will continue to do this in the weeks and months ahead just as it has in the past. It can do this because it is the only newspaper directly connected with a direct leased newspaper wire with a news bureau.

mounted group in the parade. Chairman John Fanning of the committee in charge of that group, announced yesterday that any other old-timers interested in riding with the group are mighty welcome. He asks them to get in touch with him, or with co-ordinator Bill Bennett at the Chamber of Commerce.

Both men and women are welcome. They may dress as they please, though it would add to the picturesqueness of the parade if they wore the garb of half century ago. Whether there are any side-saddles still in existence from the old days that are still safely usable is something the committee hasn't been able to learn.

Again with the proviso that heavy horses can be located to draw them, the parade will include these vehicles offered through the courtesy of the Glover Packing Co., Roswell:

An old fire engine, a surrey with "the fringe on top" and a two-wheeled buggy. Already assured of appearance is the packing firm's small covered wagon, drawn by shetland ponies.

"We ought to have 400 to 500 horses in the parade," Bennett predicted. "Any oldtimers unable to provide mounts should let us know and if they want to ride in the parade, we'll arrange to procure horses for them."

One preliminary for the Jubilee involving horsemanship was accomplished Friday evening when the four entrants in the contest for Rodeo Queen put horses through their paces at the roping grounds. The young ladies—the Misses Michele Ruppert, Mary Ann Goodson, Terry Jane Gray and Barbara Funk—walked their mounts and loped them in a figure "8".

The exercise was not a competition and was merely to qualify them as to horsemanship. Watching as judges were: Walter Solt, Lewis P. Means, Robert Chipman, Harry Wilson and James Felton.

Two local businessmen have announced plans to start the Jubilee "back to horse and buggy days" ahead of time. Both Clem Appliances and Brittain Furniture Co. plan to make all their deliveries for the week or 10 days before Jubilee time in wagons drawn by horses or mules. This plan, too, is dependent on their finding teams available.

Jubilee officials yesterday reassured old-timers that while it would simplify procedure for them to register at the Chamber of Commerce ahead of Jubilee time, registration is not obligatory.

"Every oldtimer is welcome. The celebration is for the early day folk and they can arrange to suit themselves."

State BPW Clubs Asked to Jubilee

Special invitations to the Business and Professional Woman's clubs of New Mexico asking their members to attend the Golden Jubilee were mailed yesterday by the Artesia B&PW club.

The letter said the Artesia club will have a booth selling balloons and "grab bags" priced from 25 cents to $1, contents to be a surprise for the purchasers. Other state clubs were asked to send unwanted articles to be included in the grab bags.

Totals 911 506 405
The Hermosa school second shot total includes two from Atoka school.

In addition to the 506 second shot recipients shown above, there were six children inoculated from schools outside the district. Some of the vaccine was administered at the schools and other shots were given the children at the health office.

"Giving of second inoculations in northern Eddy county is now completed," White said. "Whether further shots will be given and when are questions that must be answered on the state and national level. All we can do is await further instructions."

Of those who did not receive the second shots, after taking the first ones, 257 were from Artesia city schools. Four of these were outright refusals, the others failed to appear for the inoculations. The other 143 were from outlying schools, six of these being refusals.

Some influential members of the House, who asked that their names not be used, indicated they felt the governor was letting the Legislature "hold the baby" on the question of calling a special session. They said, on their questionnaires from the governor, they were merely quoting from the law which empowers Simms to call them together, thereby passing the buck back to him.

Nearly all of those queried shied away from committing themselves to anything as unpopular as higher income tax or lower exemptions.

Sen. Calvin Horn, influential Bernalillo County member of the Interim Finance Committee, was one who said he could not go along with the governor's tax recommendations. But he felt strongly that Simms had taken a fair and honest course of leadership with the Legislature on the special session.

"He's doing the right thing," Horn said. "He's made specific recommendations and asked us, 'what do you think?'"

McCabe Couple File $67,798 Accident Suit

CARLSBAD, July 23 (AP)—An Artesia couple has filed a damage suit for $67,798.55 against an Artesia farm woman.

Bert and Mandy McCabe have sued Opal Roberts, 54, for that amount, the suit arising from a highway accident Nov. 6 last year in which the infant Bobby Ray McCabe was killed.

Mrs. Roberts was found guilty of negligent homicide in connection with the accident and death of the child and given a suspended sentence.

McCabe is asking damages, compensation for time lost from his job, compensation for being incapacitated from pursuing his job as a carpenter for the rest of his life, and other factors in the big suit.

Best Second Run
The Hermost Drive-In will show the best in second run pictures, according to the announcement, after the first run double feature opening night. By next summer, it is planned to install Cinemascope equipment. Present hopes are to keep the Hermosa open the year around, patronage permitting.

At the same time, the management announced that the Circle B Drive-In will change its present second run picture policy to a schedule of one first run and one second run feature each night except Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights when a first run picture only will be shown.

The blast smashed a door, tore a hole in the roof of the shop, and shattered glass in its windows. Payne had steamed out the empty tank some two hours before and was preparing to weld a leak. Apparently fumes from gasoline retained in sludge in a small bulk head compartment spread through the interior.

When the blowtorch flame struck the fumes, they detonated with a roar. A strip of metal about three feet wide and six feet long was torn from the side of the tanker just back of the cab. Payne estimated damage at from $1,500 to $2,000.

The fire department was notified and a fire truck was dispatched to go to the scene. Before its arrival there, Chief Dallas Golden engineering firm, but has defended his actions as "clean" and "not improper."

The subcommittee action, at a closed meeting, followed a letter from Talbott correcting testimony he gave Thursday. He said then he couldn't recall discussing renewal of a Mulligan contract with Sam Ewing, an attorney for the Radio Corp. of America.

But he later informed the subcommittee his memory "was at fault" and he had talked with Ewing. The attorney had questioned the propriety of RCA's renewing its contract with a firm in which Talbott had an important interest, in view of RCA's extensive defense contracts.

Talbott said he was reminded of the call by a memo from John A. Johnson, Air Force general counsel, who had placed the call from Talbott's office last Jan. 4. The memo, which Talbott sent to the subcommittee, said the Air Force secretary participated in part of the conversation.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) said both Johnson and Ewing are "prospective witnesses."

Meantime there were denials of a New York Times report that President Eisenhower's principal political advisers met twice yesterday to discuss Talbott's status. The Times said those attending were Vice President Nixon, Atty. Gen. Brownell, presidential assistant Sherman Adams and Wilton B. Persons, deputy assistant to the President.

A high administration official said the meeting of the four did not concern Talbott, and his name was mentioned only in passing. This source said, however, the matter will be taken up with Eisenhower on his return from Geneva.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), a subcommittee member, told newsmen the White House had assured him no meeting on Talbott had been held.

The subcommittee itself took no action on Talbott's offer to give up his Mulligan partnership if the senators thought such action would help the Air Force. McClellan said the subcommittee felt it had no responsibility to advise Talbott and no right to take any action on the offer.

Hull is buried. She died in March, 1954. They left no children.

Hull in death evoked a flood of praise and expressions of condolences voiced throughout the world when he retired from public life 11 years ago.

At Geneva, Switzerland, President Eisenhower interrupted the Big Four summit conference to mark Hull's passing with these words:

"His life was honored and his death is mourned by millions of men at home and in the far places of the earth by reason of his integrity of purpose, his high sense of obligation and his long and fruitful labors in the cause of peace."

The President ordered all American flags flown at half staff.

Hull was born in a log cabin in Tennessee and grew up to serve in all three branches of government.

As secretary of state during three administrations of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, he held a post of record of nearly 12 years—from March, 1933, to November, 1944 when illness forced him out. Before that he had served 22 years in the House and 2 in the Senate. Earlier he had been a circuit judge and a state legislator in Tennessee.

He dabbled some in the officialdom of Democratic party politics, serving as national party chairman from 1921 to 1924. But one accomplishment which gave him most satisfaction was the development of the American axiom that politics stops at the water's edge—the tradition of a bipartisan foreign policy.

There were four other accomplishments which friends said he counted as his major contributions:

1. His role in founding the United Nations. It was for this that Roosevelt dubbed him "the father of the United Nations" upon his retirement in 1944. For this, too, he won the 1945 Nobel prize.

2. The "Good Neighbor policy" toward other nations in the Western hemisphere.

3. The reciprocal trade agreements program.

4. Efforts to raise standards of international morality—the idea that nations ought to live together in peace and friendship.

Statewide Storms
The cloudiness and thunderstorm activity was prevalent over all of the state. The district weather bureau said the moist air had spread from Amarillo, Tex. west to Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz.

Rain continued through Saturday evening at Silver City after that city recorded more than an inch of precipitation the previous 24 hours.

Las Cruces reported two washouts on major highways after recording 1.65 inches of rain. One was on U.S. 80 and the other on U. S. 85. Both were cleared by Saturday night.

Up to 6.7 Inches
Ranchers in the Portales section gave reports of totals ranging from three inches to 6.7 inches after flash thunderstorms struck the area.

The activity is expected to run through Sunday with thundershowers and thunderstorms spotting the New Mexico countryside. Temperatures are to have little change other than local cooling occurring with the storms.

Dulles raced directly from the conference to their planes on the airfield just outside Geneva. Both headed for Washington. There Eisenhower, on Monday, will meet congressional leaders of both parties to tell them what the battle was and how it ended.

Monday night he will tell the American people by radio and television what success he and his staff had in easing the tensions that have made Americans fearful of atomic war.

In the last session of the conference tonight Eisenhower voiced confidence that something had been done.

"In this final hour of our assembly," he said, "it is my judgment that the prospects of a lasting peace with justice, well-being and broader freedom are brighter. The dangers of the overwhelming tragedy of modern war are less."

The Names of This Prominent Artesia Business Man and His Wife.

DESCRIPTION

This man was born in the East and came to New Mexico in 1907. He finished grade school here but got most of his education in the East. With his burro, lariat, and old straw hat, he really went wild and western. He was in World War I, and dabbled in ranching, oil and farming. He met the lovely girl pictured here in the old post office in 1920, and they were married in 1922. She came to Artesia in 1912.

Electronic Brains Lost Without Top Human Mind to Set Up Needed Date for Analysis

By WARREN BENNETT
NEW YORK (AP) — Those big electronic computers, called the "giant brain," have run into a bottleneck—a shortage of human brains to tell them what to do.

If the truth be known, a giant brain is really quite stupid. It does only what it is told.

A big brain like Sperry Rand Corp.'s UNIVAC or International Business Machine Co.'s model 702 has the computing ability of 25,000 trained mathematicians. It can remember enough information to fill an 1,825-page Manhattan telephone directory, perform logical operations at the rate of 7,200 a second and double check everyone as it goes along. But when a big brain comes to a point in a problem where it hasn't been told previously what to do, it just stops.

Key Personal
People who tell the machine what to do are called programmers. They set up the steps the machine is to follow before it can solve any problem. It may take months to program a problem which the machine with its blinding speed solves within a split-second.

The giant electronic brain, weighing 11 1/2 tons, is helpless without a programmer with a human brain, weighing about three pounds.

There is a shortage of good programmers. There is a shortage, too, of people suitable for training as programmers. Too much isn't known yet about all the qualifications but this much is sure. A Ph. D. degree no longer qualifies a prospect automatically. Too many learned experts with a string of graduate degrees have turned out to be lousy programmers.

Logis Needed
"Perhaps the key is logic," said Dr. Herbert F. Mitchell, Jr., director of Sperry Rand's UNIVAC applications. "Good old-fashioned horse sense probably is a better term."

Both Sperry Rand and IBM found to their surprise that civilian business applications are harder to set up for the computer than the supposedly much more difficult scientific problems on which they worked for the government during the war.

Core of the current difficulty is the difference between the languages used by science and business. The language of science is mathematics—precise, definite, unvarying. One and one makes two. Always! But the language of business is different.

"Scientific applications are logical and simple," said Dr. Mitchell.

Artesia's Most Up-To-Date Plant

An object lesson in how to adapt to changing and often adverse business conditions can be read in the story of the Artesia Laundry & Cleaners, which is celebrating the 30th anniversary week of its establishment here.

Typical of the problems that have beset the laundry industry are those that have been faced by Proprietor Howard Whitson—the ever-growing competition of laundering equipment for the home as well as the increasing number of do-it-yourself washeterias.

"Our answer," says Whitson, "has been to hold prices down through use of better machinery and more efficient methods. Today our prices are only 40 per cent higher than in 1925, when I opened the laundry in Artesia. Meanwhile, prices of other commodities and services have soared to much higher levels."

In the Artesia Laundry & Cleaners large, modern plant at 115 N. Fourth t. all types of laundry work are done, including linen service and diaper service. Also provided is fur cleaning and the storage of furs and woolens in a protective vault equipped with the latest types of temperature control and moth protective devices.

Also of up-to-minute standing is the firm's guaranteed wage policy. In an industry with large labor turnover the usual thing, most of the employes at Whitson's company have been in their jobs for years.

All employes with at least one year of service are guaranteed pay for 44 hours every week in the year, with a one-week paid vacation. Too, they receive a Christmas bonus, approximately equal to a week's pay.

A specialty of the firm is the storage of woolen clothing at special rates for an entire family. The garments are kept in the big storage vault along with the furs, providing an economical method of protection against moths for moderate lower income families.

Kay Mullin Returns Home; Toured Hawaiian Islands

Miss Kay Mullin returned home Thursday night from a three-week vacation trip. She flew from El Paso to Los Angeles, where she met her friend, Miss Katharine Parks, of Minonk, Ill.

Together they flew to the Hawaiian Islands where they stayed at the Princess Kaiulani hotel at Waikiki on the island of Oahu. They were booked with the Trade Wind tours (through United Air Lines) and flew to the other three major islands. They stayed overnight at the Maui Palms hotel on the island of Maui, at Kona Inn and the Hilo hotel on Hawaii, and took a long one day tour of Kauai.

On one flight, the pilot flew the plane over and into the huge crater called Haleakala (House of the Sun) on Maui. They also dined at the Volcano House which is built almost on top of a volcano.

They saw acres of sugar cane, and pineapples and coffee fields.

They were entertained by relatives and friends on two of the islands. They helped paddle an outrigger canoe, swam in the Pacific ocean and in fresh and salt water pools.

They flew back to San Francisco and Miss Parks went to Seattle to visit relatives, while Miss Mullin flew to Chicago for several days visit in the home of her brother in Lombard, Ill., her aunt's in Chicago, and her father at the Masonic Home at Dousman, Wis. Miss Mullin returned to New Mexico on the San Francisco Chief.

Young Moderns
By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor
"I knew all this juvenile delinquency talk would hit home eventually," says one young modern. "Now my mother and father wait up for me at night, I've got to call them several times during the evening when I'm out and I'm not even allowed to have a soda with a boy they don't know."

This seems to be a pretty general complaint judging by a report issued by the Youth Research Institute. They've found that repressive measures by parents are on the increase.

Young people whose parents insist they get home earlier than usual these evenings feel they are being penalized for the sins of others, the report says.

Friends get a big look-see, too. Boys and girls lament that they've practically got to produce a dossier on their acquaintances before they can have a conversation.

Boys in particular do not like to divulge their peregrinations to prying adults, says the Institute. But some parents want minute details of daily activities. Contemporary youth resent their self-reliance being questioned, feeling they are mature enough to cope with their own problems.

Some fathers use the delinquency issue as an excuse for denying the car to their offspring, the report says.

The social life of young people is at an all time high, and the Institute finds that parents are latching on to early datings as another indication of things going wrong, and hastily repressing it.

Youths who earn their own spending money are unhappy too. Parents feel too much money gives a distorted perspective on life, making youngsters greedy, eager, possessive—all things that might contribute to juvenile delinquency.

There are parents, too, who keep citing the juvenile delinquency statistics to their youngsters with a "this can happen to you theme." Many young people feel they are being earmarked as potential criminals.

(Can't you just picture Dad at a moment when you are about to ask to borrow the car, looking up from his paper and saying half-accusingly over his glasses "Hmmm, here's another one of those youth parties that winds up with a car around a telephone pole.")

Dress and cosmetics are other factors in the picture, according to the report. Some parents associate certain types of dress with delinquents and try to influence their youngster's wearing apparel, running counter to what other young moderns wear. So young moderns rebel.

Thirteen is the age for cosmetics in some communities, but some parents are forbidding it just because it is part of this era of juvenile uncertainty.

Any departure from what parents knew as a norm seems to frighten them into some action, one youngster says.

It all boils down to the fact that a little give and take on both sides probably will get us all back on an even keel. Parents have a responsibility to their offspring, and as one young modern says "we must learn to understand that the way they cope with it might not always meet with our approval even if it is done for our best interests."

Fashions Of 50 Years Ago Find Counterpart In Today

The pages of the fashion plate will turn back the time.

No one will be allowed on the streets of Artesia unless every man, woman and child is fitted out in period costumes of 50 years ago. That is a warning from Old Timer's Day chairman, Mrs. Beatrice Blocker. She is having her dress made for the event, but is not asking other women to go to that expense.

By rummaging around in the old trunks, borrowing, begging from the relatives and neighbors, enough heirlooms can be found to go around.

Strangely enough, some of these fashions of half a century ago have returned this year by way of Paris and Italy. Even the summer clothes in local Artesia stores, inspired by the long fitted bodice of the Italian dress, is similar to some of the designs that appeared in fashion magazines in the early 1900s.

Advance fall coats for women are being shown in Albuquerque with long fitted lines, such as were worn fifty years ago. Luscious velvets in bright rose, warm pinks, turquoise, rich browns and greens! And there is the princess lines seen in fashions of half a century ago.

The blouse that is so popular with teenagers, young married women and oldsters alike, had its beginning in the so-called shirt waist with high collar and long sleeves, often times leg-o-mutton. Short sleeves are not found among these fashion for day time wear.

Hats were overwhelming and weighty with broad brims, large crowns and the flower garden or a feathered bird perched on them to add weight—and beauty. In the early 1900's, plume hunters killed the plumed birds along the coast of Florida in such great numbers for My Lady's hat that the bird practically became extinct.

So the fashion plate turned to the flower and vegetable garden for inspiration.

High topped buttoned shoes were worn with these fashions.

Artesia National Guardsmen Always Stand Ready And Alert

More Than 100 Artesia Men Devote Time Weekly To Keep Strong America's Main Line of Defense

During the last two weeks of next month more than 100 Artesia men from every walk of life and representing scores of trades, skills and professions will be missing from their regular place of business.

For those two weeks their business is with Uncle Sam as it is one night each week throughout the year here in Artesia.

For these are the men and officers of Battery C, 697 Anti-Aircraft Bn., of the famed 200th Anti-Aircraft Group, together with the medical detachment and battalion headquarters group.

The unit, one of the components of the New Mexico National Guard, is under the command of Capt. Cliff Perkins.

Each Wednesday night the battery personnel don the khakis and fatigue clothing of the Army at the National Guard Armory here and take part in the constant training program that has earned for the National Guard the title of America's Minute Men.

The men of Battery C are for the most part youths, either in their late teens or early 20's. But liberally sprinkled throughout the unit are older veterans of both World War 2 and the Korean conflict.

Training is top-notch and rigorous with constant emphasis on keeping abreast of the latest development in anti-aircraft weapons and firing techniques.

Armed with 40 millimeter rapid firing guns and quadruple 50 caliber machine guns, the fully automatic weapons require high technical skill and knowledge. In addition to the actual gun crews the other components of Battery C play an equally important role in communications, vehicle maintenance, supply, mess crews, and administration personnel.

Authorized 113 men and 6 officers, the unit is below strength at the present with about 80 enlisted men and 5 officers on the roster.

Activated in 1947, Battery C became part of the history of New Mexico's original 200th Anti-Aircraft Battalion which fought so gallantly in the early and tragic days of World War 2 in the Philippines. The 200th suffered high casualties while it blazed its name indelibly in the history of American fighting men.

Standing ready to serve in case of emergency not only on a national level but also for state and city, Artesia's guardsmen have already shown their value in disaster work during last year's grim flood period here. During Operation Minuteman this summer, the battery assembled 60 per cent of its strength ready to go in 45 minutes.

While the guardsmen give freely of their time in keeping up their military proficiencies, it is not entirely without reward. The men and officer are paid for each drill period and for every occasion that the unit is called to duty.

Promotions are rapid within the organization and a good example of that is the fact that everyone of the five officers have been commissioned from the ranks of the battery. And enlistments are now open.

CANCER KILLS DIVER

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A former national diving champion, Mrs. Helen Crenkovich Morgan, 33, died of cancer yesterday. She was selected for the 1940 Olympic team but there was no competition because of the war. Mrs. Morgan formerly was national AAU 3-meter springboard and 10-meter platform champion and was national AAU indoor diving champion in 1939, 1940, 1941 and 1942.

Dignity of Mountain Folk Shows in Everyday Living

By HAL BOYLE

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—"In saying hill folk live with dignity, I feel that I am not making a misstatement, for indeed they do."

So said a lady here of whom I inquired what peculiar virtues the mountain people have.

One example of mountain dignity is Jack Huff, who also superbly exemplifies another continuing virtue of the original Scotch-Irish settlers in the Great Smokies—pride of family.

Would you carry your own mother on your back up a mountain merely to let her see a sunset and a sunrise that you enjoyed and, as a son, felt she should share?

Good Yarn

Jack Huff did once. It's a good story. Ernie Pyle told it in 1940, and I'd like to tell it again and bring it up to now.

About 1900 Jack's father came here with a pocketful of timber money looking for more, and ended up by building the pioneer Mountain View Hotel. It lies here in a cup in the hills, now one of America's leading summer resorts.

Jack loved the mountains and didn't want to lean on his pappy. So he decided he'd build a lodge of his own atop Le Conte, one of the highest peaks in the Great Smokies, then reachable only by footpath. This was before the federal government took over the area and made it into one of the nation's most popular public parks.

Jack built the lodge largely with supplies he toled up first on his own back, then on the backs of horses.

Sleeps 48

He now has enough cabins to sleep 48 people overnight. Ernie Pyle figured in 1940 that Jack had climbed some 15,000 miles in making his mountain eyrie. During most of his trips up the 7 1/2-mile journey he shouldered a 50-pound pack.

Jack built a special back chair and put his mother on it. It weighed more than 90 pounds, but her son carried her up the steep slopes with her favorite kitten purring in her lap.

He thought it was a privilege to do this for his mother, not a hardship. But it still has left him deep regret. For the winter turned bad. His mother spent several days on the peak and rheumatism finally forced her to come down again, and she died, never having seen the sunrise or set from the peak that she loved. It was something he had known she wanted to know—and she never did.
