Artesia Square Dance Club Is Being Formed

The interest demonstrated in the square dance and fiddlers' contest on VJ-Day has created the desire to form a permanent square dance club in Artesia.

While it is expected that Artesia will be the center of the local organization, the purpose of the club will be to promote fun and fellowship, afforded through a square dance festival to all in this section of the country.

A call is now being made for all who are interested to register as charter members of the club and it is hoped that a large charter membership may be obtained promptly so that the organization meeting and first square dance may be held in Artesia on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 1. It is hoped that the Artesia club may soon become a recognized unit of the Texas Square Dance Festival.

It was pointed out that in many towns and cities square dance groups have been organized to visit and compete in other communities. Some carry their own fiddlers and musicians with them. The men dress in boots and Western clothes and the women wear the caicos and gingham of a century ago. It was in the interest of such groups as these that the Texas Square Dance Festival was born.

The festival was organized last January when a large group of dancers went to Austin to perform for Gov. Beauford H. Jester's inauguration.

The Artesia Square Dance Club will be entitled to send a delegation of its best dancers and musicians to Austin for participation in the three days of fun and frolic during the all-state festival in January, 1948, after they have completed their organization and become a recognized unit of the Texas Square Dance Festival and participated in one or more of the sectional festivals. The Artesia club hopes to send a delegation to El Paso on Oct. 4 and Nov. 15.

Those wishing to become charter members of the Artesia Square Dance Club may send their names and addresses to that group, care of P. O. Box 123, Artesia.

The deceased was laid to rest in the Upper Cemetery beside his wife, Lida Florence Chambers, who passed away on July 5, 1939.

Elisha Albert Chambers was born Feb. 12, 1861, at Fort Smith, Ark. He came to New Mexico in 1924 and has lived in Carlsbad, Artesia, and Hope. He is survived by one brother, Dr. D. P. Chambers of Stillwell, Okla., one daughter, Mrs. Ruth Bain of Hope, and one son, Rex Chambers of Albuquerque.

SCHOOL NEWS

School will open Aug. 28 with an assembly in the gymnasium at 9 a. m. and the public is invited. The buses will be ready to take the children home at 11 o'clock. There will be school all day Friday, Aug. 29. School will again convene on Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Howard Forister, the salutatorian of last year's graduating class and the outstanding basketball player, will attend State Teachers College in Silver City. Howard was awarded a scholarship.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lipsett, teachers from Elk City, Okla., plan to arrive in Hope Aug. 23. John Elliott, the coach from Oakwood, Okla., will arrive later. Both families will live in the Brantley apartments.

It is planned to have six one-hour periods this year and part of each class period will be used for supervised study. This way each teacher will supervise her own classes.

Old fixtures, which were rusted out, were replaced with new ones in the water bowls in all the rest rooms and in the gym dressing rooms. A new stool was installed in the girls' rest room.

If possible, the Board of Education plans to have the inside walls of the gym plastered and butane radiators installed. They also have in mind a concrete tennis court and lights for it.

There will be skating Friday, Aug. 22 at 7:30 p. m.

Loving, N. M., Water System Completed Soon

Loving, located south of Carlsbad, will soon be boasting of a new water system and some of the best water in the state. The well from which the water is piped is eight miles from the city. It was drilled over a year and a half ago, but the unavailability of pipe has been the cause of the water not being in the city mains already. The effect of this new water system has been felt in the city by the opening of two residential districts, with nearly all the lots sold in both. Within the period of the last month, five new residence buildings and one new business building have been constructed, not to mention several others already completed within the past six months.

We just mention the above news item so as to remind the Hope people of what could happen to Hope if we drilled a water well and had it piped around town. A water well in Hope would double the population in two years, help the churches, schools and business place.

Bobby Barley Is An Outstanding Exhibitor

While the entire garrison of Fort Bliss passed in review, 400 4-H Club members from New Mexico sat in the reviewing stands Saturday morning after traveling in convoy from their annual encampment at State College, N. M. The convoy, including busses and cars, was met at the Texas state line by city and state police and was escorted over the scenic drive past William Beaumont General Hospital and to Noel Field at Fort Bliss. BOBBY BARLEY OF HOPE, EDDY COUNTY, and H. J. Swintord, of Curry County, picked as OUTSTANDING EXHIBITORS at the encampment, were in the official reviewing party headed by Major Gen. John L. Homer, commanding officer of Fort Bliss.—El Paso Times.

4-H WINNERS ANNOUNCED

At the 4-H Club encampment held at Las Cruces last week, Eddy county won first in the drama contest, Betty Jo Yarbrow, Eddy county entry, won the senior dress revue with her blue wool gabardine. She will get a trip to the National Congress in Chicago. Wade Green and Sonny Gardner of Eddy county won second in the individual dairy cattle contest.

EDITORIAL

Deming Editor Was Misinformed

The following is an editorial from the Deming Graphic:

"According to the news ditpatches four and four-tenths miles of road, with a tunnel 500 feet long, is to be built east of Alamogordo at a cost of $700,000, which will thus bring El Paso 5 1/2 miles closer to Cloudcroft. No one begrudges the citizens of Cloudcroft a new road nor wishes to deprive the pleasure seekers of El Paso a saving of 5 1/2 miles of travel in going there. But it seems that a fraction of $700,000 wisely spent on Highway 80 between Las Cruces and Lordsburg would eliminate many of the causes that have resulted in accidents and deaths on that stretch of road."

In order to set the Deming editor right on this question, we wish to state that this four and four-tenths miles of road was not built so that Cloudcroft could have a new road nor was it built so that the pleasure seekers of El Paso would save 5 1/2 miles in going there. This road project, which is now under construction, is but a link in a national highway which, when completed, will extend from the west coast of California to the east coast of Texas. And it will not only cater to pleasure seekers. Over this highway will come tourists of course, lots of them, but it will also open up a vast district out of which will come lumber, fruit and vegetables and livestock amounting to a valuation of millions of dollars.

Of course we can understand the viewpoint of the Deming editor. He lives in Deming, which is located on Highway 80, or better known as the "Bankhead Highway," and for several years the business men along this route were successful in keeping all the road money on Highway 80. They even went so far as to have a man stationed just on the outskirts of Lordsburg on the west advising all traffic to go by the way of Douglas and Bisbee instead of by the shortcut through San Simon, Bowie, Benson and Wilcox. But in the end, their efforts were defeated. There is now a paved road through San Simon and Bowie and we are informed that they get the largest share of the traffic.

The Deming editor should buy a map of the state of New Mexico and study it and thereby learn that there are other highways in the state that are just as important as Highway 80.

OTERO COUNTY TIMES MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

We have received a copy of the Otero County Times, published at Alamogordo. From the looks of the first issue, it should be a success, but you never can tell. It has plenty of ads now, but what it will have a year from now remains to be seen. An old established newspaper like the Alamogordo News is tough competition. We don't want to discourage the new editor too much, so here's success to the new publication.

Commissioner Of Revenue Cuts Expenditures

In obedience to the request of Governor Mabry that a survey be made to determine whether or not cuts could be made in the payroll of some of the divisions of the Bureau of Revenue, Victor Salazar, Commissioner of Revenue, has reported to the governor that he has made cuts effecting a substantial saving in this respect.

He reports that he has cut the luxury tax inspectors to effect a saving of approximately $500 per month, and that four of the nine fieldmen are on the payroll on half-time basis at an average salary of only $110 per month. This, he says, reflect a saving of nearly 30 per cent in fieldmen payroll. It is further noted by his report that nearly $8000 less was spent for salaries and administration purposes by the luxury or tobacco tax divisions than was spent in the first six months period of the year preceding the Mabry administration.

In reporting to the governor, the commissioner points out that the tobacco tax will bring in approximately one million and a half dollars and that the cost of field service barely exceeds one per cent of the total returns. He also reports reduction in other divisions as follows:

There have been dropped from the Bureau of Revenue payroll two liquor tax inspectors, two school tax auditors, and two attorneys.

"You will be happy to know that the total Bureau of Revenue collections for the first six months of last year by $2,221,181.87," the commissioner reports. He points out also that $337,191.65 in "delinquencies and underpayments" established by field audits in this department was recovered by field auditors in the school tax division.

The commissioner of revenue further reports that nearly all divisions of the bureau will collect in excess of thirty million dollars in the present fiscal year, the larger part of this being taxes that go to the support of the public schools.

THE TOURIST TRADE

An unusual business may be started in Carlsbad. Dan Nichols says he is thinking of putting cockle burs in cellophane bags and selling them as porcupine eggs. "They say that tourists will buy anything," Nichols said, "I believe I can sell these porcupine eggs three for a dollar." — Current-Argus. If Mr. Nichols can sell cockle burs at that price, I want to contact him later in the season. The editor of the Penasco Valley News will raise (without any labor attached) about a million cockle burs, more or less.

REGISTER FOR ELECTION

There are now two places in the county where citizens may register to vote, reports Assistant County Clerk R. A. Wilcox. One of these is the county clerk's office in the court house and the other is the CIO labor office at Carlsbad. — Current-Argus. A place for voters to register in Hope would be appreciated by the Hope people.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Second Atomic Year Observed; Attlee Outlines Crisis Program; Hughes, Brewster Fight It Out

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Hiroshima, the atomassacred city in Japan where 92,000 persons were lost, has gone far toward rebuilding on its seared and flattened ruins. Most of the buildings are temporary structures, however, and will be replaced as Japan progresses toward economic recovery.

CLARION CALL:

British Crisis

Prime Minister Clement Attlee has offered a program based on self-sacrifice and self-reliance as a possible solution to Great Britain's domestic crisis.

Involving new and more stern restrictions on even the essentials of living, the plan is possibly more severe than anything the country experienced during the war.

At the same time, however, Attlee was criticized sharply by parliament on the grounds that his scheme is far from equal to meeting the desperate requirements of the situation. One prominent Laborite called the prime minister's announcement "a clarion call on a penny whistle."

Mixing a deeper shade of purple into the already somber picture, Attlee said that the U. S. loan of 3.75 billion dollars, which was supposed to have lasted until 1950, will be used up by the end of this year.

Attlee

THE DEBUNKERS

Both Conservatives and left-wing Laborites attacked the Attlee program on the ground that it was "too little and too late," charging specifically that the government was coping with the crisis too hurriedly and had waited too long, that the plan was not detailed enough and that the government had not given the country a full statement of the danger it faces.

Hence, one of the secondary factors in the Attlee program will be an effort to get the U. S. to relax some provisions of the loan. Secretary of State Marshall already has consented to a high-level conference on that subject.

Some principal points in the plan are:

1. Monthly cut of 48 million dollars in food imports.
2. Withdrawal of 133,000 overseas troops by the end of December and reduction of the armed forces by 420,000 by March in order to offset Britain's lack of industrial manpower.
3. An extra half-hour of work a day for British coal miners.

PAINLESS:

Dental Paradise

This is it. Paradise has been regained.

Shining vistas promising the painless drilling of teeth have been opened by a new and revolutionary anesthetic which can be applied simply by painting it on the molar—no hypodermic injection needed.

Dr. Gustav Rapp of Loyola university, Chicago, told the American Dental association meeting in Boston that preliminary experiments with the anesthetic, known as topocaine, were successful in three or four patients. Anesthesia by the drug is brought about by blocking nerve impulses to the brain.

Explaining (somewhat superfluously) a fact of which virtually every adult is agonizingly aware, Dr. Rapp said, "While the control of pain during extractions and other such radical procedures has been eliminated with varying amounts of success, the problem of controlling pain during cavity preparation is still something of an enigma."

INSOLENCE:

Slap Hands

The United States, visibly irked by recent actions of the new Communist Hungarian government, vented its diplomatic rage in a stinging note which accused Hungary of "inadmissibly insolent" conduct toward American diplomats in that country.

Second cause for U. S. anger was the arrest and beating in Budapest of an American citizen and the subsequent unsatisfactory explanation of the incident offered by Hungarian officials.

One of the most harshly worded protests to come from the state department since American planes were shot down over Yugoslavia a year ago, the note marked the first official unpleasantness to be delivered by the United States to the puppet Hungarian regime.

The incident grew out of the arrest of Stephen T. Thuransky, an American citizen, for his alleged "revolting and scandalizing vilifications in public" of Hungary's president and other government members. Thuransky, his wife and two daughters later were taken into custody by U. S. legation officials and removed to Vienna.

In the protest note, the state department pointed out that the arrest of an American citizen on purely political charges is "absolutely inadmissible" under the armistice agreement which prevails in Hungary. Also, officials of the Hungarian ministry of the interior were accused of being "uncooperative in the extreme and in some cases inadmissibly insolent."

VIVA:

Toreador

Orson Welles, the man who didn't come from Mars, has found himself, to put it politely, on the horns of a dilemma.

The self-designated genius was quoted recently as saying he had killed 20 bulls, and immediately he was challenged by another actor, Fortunio Bonanova, to enter the bull-fighting ring at Tijuana, Mexico, and perform for the benefit of charity.

Said the Spanish-born Bonanova in an open letter to Welles, "Killing 20 bulls is a lot of killing," neglecting to add that it is also a lot of bulls.

"So let us do a corrida (series of fights) this season in Tijuana for the motion picture relief fund. I am sure the impresario would give us a Sunday afternoon. What do you say to two bulls apiece?"

Admission: Shady side, $2; sunny side, $1.

One More Ringling

Following in the sawdust footprints of her big top forbears, Mabel Ringling is one of the troupe now appearing with Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus.

ALEUTIANS:

Bases Retained

The Aleutian islands, that long, cold chain of fog-bound rocks which started many an American G.I. talking to himself during the war, is being integrated into the pattern of the North American defense system.

General of the Army Dwight Eisenhower has revealed that the framework of strategic bases in the Aleutians is being kept intact for rapid expansion if necessary.

After having paid a visit to the continent's northernmost line of defense, General Eisenhower said that the islands were not being abandoned, but were undergoing a "contraction and concentration of military potential in accordance with available manpower."

Conducting a tour of Alaskan bases, the chief of staff admitted that he was "far from satisfied" with housing facilities there but was proud of the job done by men assigned to the areas.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Second Atomic Year Observed; Attlee Outlines Crisis Program; Hughes, Brewster Fight It Out

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Hiroshima, the atomassacred city in Japan where 92,000 persons were lost, has gone far toward rebuilding on its seared and flattened ruins. Most of the buildings are temporary structures, however, and will be replaced as Japan progresses toward economic recovery.

CLARION CALL: British Crisis

Prime Minister Clement Attlee has offered a program based on self-sacrifice and self-reliance as a possible solution to Great Britain's domestic crisis.

Involving new and more stern restrictions on even the essentials of living, the plan is possibly more severe than anything the country experienced during the war.

At the same time, however, Attlee was criticized sharply by parliament on the grounds that his scheme is far from equal to meeting the desperate requirements of the situation. One prominent Laborite called the prime minister's announcement "a clarion call on a penny whistle."

Mixing a deeper shade of purple into the already somber picture, Attlee said that the U. S. loan of 3.75 billion dollars, which was supposed to have lasted until 1950, will be used up by the end of this year.

Attlee

THE DEBUNKERS

Both Conservatives and left-wing Laborites attacked the Attlee program on the ground that it was "too little and too late," charging specifically that the government was coping with the crisis too hurriedly and had waited too long, that the plan was not detailed enough and that the government had not given the country a full statement of the danger it faces.

Hence, one of the secondary factors in the Attlee program will be an effort to get the U. S. to relax some provisions of the loan. Secretary of State Marshall already has consented to a high-level conference on that subject.

Some principal points in the plan are:

1. Monthly cut of 48 million dollars in food imports.
2. Withdrawal of 133,000 overseas troops by the end of December and reduction of the armed forces by 420,000 by March in order to offset Britain's lack of industrial manpower.
3. An extra half-hour of work a day for British coal miners.

PAINLESS: Dental Paradise

This is it. Paradise has been regained.

Shining vistas promising the painless drilling of teeth have been opened by a new and revolutionary anesthetic which can be applied simply by painting it on the molar—no hypodermic injection needed.

Dr. Gustav Rapp of Loyola university, Chicago, told the American Dental association meeting in Boston that preliminary experiments with the anesthetic, known as topocaine, were successful in three or four patients. Anesthesia by the drug is brought about by blocking nerve impulses to the brain.

Explaining (somewhat superfluously) a fact of which virtually every adult is agonizingly aware, Dr. Rapp said, "While the control of pain during extractions and other such radical procedures has been eliminated with varying amounts of success, the problem of controlling pain during cavity preparation is still something of an enigma."

INSOLENCE:

Slap Hands

The United States, visibly irked by recent actions of the new Communist Hungarian government, vented its diplomatic rage in a stinging note which accused Hungary of "inadmissibly insolent" conduct toward American diplomats in that country.

Second cause for U. S. anger was the arrest and beating in Budapest of an American citizen and the subsequent unsatisfactory explanation of the incident offered by Hungarian officials.

One of the most harshly worded protests to come from the state department since American planes were shot down over Yugoslavia a year ago, the note marked the first official unpleasantry to be delivered by the United States to the puppet Hungarian regime.

The incident grew out of the arrest of Stephen T. Thuransky, an American citizen, for his alleged "revolting and scandalizing vilifications in public" of Hungary's president and other government members. Thuransky, his wife and two daughters later were taken into custody by U. S. legation officials and removed to Vienna.

In the protest note, the state department pointed out that the arrest of an American citizen on purely political charges is "absolutely inadmissible" under the armistice agreement which prevails in Hungary. Also, officials of the Hungarian ministry of the interior were accused of being "uncooperative in the extreme and in some cases inadmissibly insolent."

VIVA:

Toreador

Orson Welles, the man who didn't come from Mars, has found himself, to put it politely, on the horns of a dilemma.

The self-designated genius was quoted recently as saying he had killed 20 bulls, and immediately he was challenged by another actor, Fortunio Bonanova, to enter the bull-fighting ring at Tijuana, Mexico, and perform for the benefit of charity.

Said the Spanish-born Bonanova in an open letter to Welles, "Killing 20 bulls is a lot of killing," neglecting to add that it is also a lot of bulls.

"So let us do a corrido (series of fights) this season in Tijuana for the motion picture relief fund. I am sure the impresario would give us a Sunday afternoon. What do you say to two bulls apiece?"

Admission: Shady side, $2; sunny side, $1.

One More Ringling

Following in the sawdust footprints of her big top forbears, Mabel Ringling is one of the troupe now appearing with Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus.

ALEUTIANS:

Bases Retained

The Aleutian islands, that long, cold chain of fog-bound rocks which started many an American G.I. talking to himself during the war, is being integrated into the pattern of the North American defense system.

General of the Army Dwight Eisenhower has revealed that the framework of strategic bases in the Aleutians is being kept intact for rapid expansion if necessary.

After having paid a visit to the continent's northernmost line of defense, General Eisenhower said that the islands were not being abandoned, but were undergoing a "contraction and concentration of military potential in accordance with available manpower."

Conducting a tour of Alaskan bases, the chief of staff admitted that he was "far from satisfied" with housing facilities there but was proud of the job done by men assigned to the areas.

Kathleen Norris Says:

The All-Important Word

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Some might ask him how that Collins matter came out, and add, "but you're such a wonderful person, Johnnie, they're lucky to get you."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"IF MY husband only was more appreciative," women say. "If only now and then he would say something in praise of what I do. It would make things so much easier!"

Women have been saying that ever since there have been wives and husbands in the world. To drudge along day after day and year after year over household tasks, sometimes tired and discouraged, sometimes confident and content, is hard. And just a few words of honest admiration and appreciation are such a bracing tonic—they stay in a woman's heart all day!

But how many women return the compliment? How many wives realize that men are as tired, as doubtful, as sensitive as they? How many take time to say to the man of the house those few phrases that equip him with the courage and strength he needs for the day?

I've never had much patience with that mushy, sentimental type of wife who tells you that she and her Douglas are as tenderly devoted today, after 17 years of marital ups and downs, as they were on their honeymoon. Such a woman is either a limp, feminine burden upon a man who carries the load for both, or she is—flatly and simply—a liar.

But just the same, a few affectionate words, from a busy man to a tired woman, or from a happy wife to an overburdened bread-winner, are magic. Don't let your life go on without this special brand of witchcraft. Middleage—early middleage, can grow dull and heavy without it.

Risk Losing Him.

And if you let your husband go along for months and then years with never a heartening word, you are risking the very real danger that some other woman will find it for him. If you pour his coffee with your eyes on the morning paper, answer him abstractedly or indifferently when he risks a question, you may be digging your own grave as a wife.

Some day try following him to the door with just a few cheerful words, instead of sitting on at the table, grumbling about the price of jam. Some night ask him how that Collins matter came out, and add, "but you're a wonderful person, Johnnie. They're lucky to get you." Some day tell him that you told a less fortunate wife that you and John were closer today than 10 years ago. And some day say one of those things that stay with a man, even if he never could express them himself. Something like, "I want you to know that I appreciate what you do, John. That it isn't all easy for you, with today's competition, and Jackson being so ugly, and the new offices not being done." Some day say in his presence, to the children, "Do you realize that you have a good daddy?"

These are such trifles. They don't pay bills, they don't put the car in order or take up the sitting room carpet. They don't make Mother younger, or increase Dad's salary.

Inspiration and Hope.

Or do they? In the last analysis I think they do, and perform a hundred more miracles as well. The courage they put into our hearts, the lift they give to household tasks, the doors they open to new plans

SHOW APPRECIATION

So many wives complain, and with reason enough, that their husbands never tell them that they appreciate all the work, worry and sacrifices. Too many married couples tend to take each other for granted. Men seem to be dull and ungrateful, and some of them are, but the majority just don't make the effort to say the few kind words that can change the whole picture from gloom to brightness.

On the other hand, as Miss Norris points out in today's article, many wives never stop to think that their husbands have many burdens to bear. There are financial worries, difficulties in business, quarrels and arguments in the office. Often he sees some one else being advanced, unfairly as he believes. On top of this he has to take his share of responsibility for problems of his home. Wives who think their husbands have a gay round of golf and poker with a little work in between, are often quite wrong. Many men are putting a brave front on a painful life.

If both partners in marriage would strive to show how much they really appreciate the efforts and struggles necessary in a successful married life, they would both be happier, continues Miss Norris. Kind words are inspirations, making hardships and difficulties easier to face. A few words at the right time may alter the whole appearance of things.

and new hopes—these are not only a thousand times more important than dollars and cents, but they help a man to make new efforts, and these show right away in any family's budget. When talk at home is either non-existent, or resentful and bitter, many a man begins to look about for a poker game or a pleasanter lady who would like some flowers, and many a woman goes downtown in a towering fury and buys not only the extravagant dress but the hat, too, yes, and the shoes, too, and let Bill Brown lump the bills if he doesn't like them!

One husband, years ago, turned at the door as he left a troubled, tired woman behind him. "Honey," he said, "this is a mean sort of time. But we'll get that thing paid, and little Daffy will get over her bronchitis, and we'll be in the country some day, and I'll never forget the way you pulled your weight now!"

She didn't need any more. She was on wings that day and for many days. She reminded him of it years later, when they really did have a country home with children racing about it, and when the budget wasn't a fiery-eyed monster who crept out of the shadows every month, but a respected friend. She went back in her memories to a city flat, two sick children, the staggering blow of a heavy and unexpected bill, her own fatigue, hard days at the office for her husband, rain falling—and the smile from the doorway, and the words that carried her over the flood like the grip of a strong and loving arm.

Lasting Values

THINGS we desire most often mislead us most. We crave possession of things that others own, only to find that such possessions have a false glamour of which we soon tire after having obtained them.

Things that we enjoy most, cost us most. Things obtained without a struggle or sacrifice, or work, usually prove worthless; otherwise someone would have put up a good fight to hold on to them.

It is only the things we develop, and acquire through toil, and study, and hard application of perseverance and determination, that possess a lasting value.

BOON TO BABIES—AND PARENTS, TOO . . . Experiments conducted by University of Nebraska food and nutrition laboratory have shown the value of feeding meat to babies. Mothers are interested from a nutrition standpoint; fathers are impressed by the fact that babies are less fussy and sleep better. Patsy is shown here receiving a blood count at the hands of Dr. A. K. Myrabo, pathologist of University hospital, with Dr. Ruth Leverton, university nutritionist, standing by to help.

FOR THE BETTER, TOO

Even Babies Are Affected By Revised Eating Habits

WNU Features.

LINCOLN, NEBR. — Chances are your great-grandmother would have no more thought of eating a "love apple" than of flying to China. But now we call love apples by the more prosaic name of tomatoes—and not only eat them but drink 'em, too.

That doesn't prove much except that people's eating habits change. The University of Nebraska's food and nutrition laboratory is trying to see to it that they change for the better.

Take babies—six weeks old—for instance. A lot of mothers would gape in astonishment if you said, "Why don't we give the baby a nice helping of meat today?" They might even tell you scornfully that babies don't get meat until they're at least nine months old.

Babies Like It.

Yet, Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, university nutritionist, and two pediatricians have been feeding meat to tiny babies for some time now. The babies like it, and the results have interested even the American Medical Association Journal, which doesn't get interested very easily.

The big thing that Dr. Leverton and her associates found is that meat added for eight weeks to the diets of babies as young as six weeks can knock out nutritional anemia. This, they say, is important because that type of anemia is common to most infants.

The researchers don't pretend that blocking anemia from babyhood is going to produce a race of super men and women. But they do say that anemia keeps the human body—little or big—from 100 per cent performance.

It may be that freeing infants from anemia will let them grow strong enough to toss off some of the usual childhood diseases. Anyway, that's what Dr. Leverton hopes and the laboratory is assisting with further study along that line.

Launch Experiments.

The university's food and nutrition laboratory launched its attack on anemia seven years ago. It found that meat added to the diets of a group of co-eds reduced simple anemia.

During the war, a second study revealed that meat was of benefit to blood bank donors. Next came a study of expectant mothers. A meat supplement to their diets boosted their hemoglobin values—which is a fancy way of saying they did not become anemic.

Encouraged by these results, the researchers turned to babies. When the study started, strained meat for babies was not yet on the market but meat processors cooperated and produced strained meat of custard consistency which could be added to baby formulas. Since then a meat product has come on the market commercially.

In cooperation with doctors at Child Saving institute in Omaha, at St. Thomas orphanage in Lincoln and with a small group of parents, the battle of babies versus anemia was begun. At the outset, a third of an ounce of strained meat was added daily to the formulas for babies six weeks old. This amount was increased until at the end of a week an average of a full ounce of meat a day was being added.

Show Marked Gain.

Records of Child Saving institute disclose that the 18 "meat babies" showed an average gain of 13.3 per cent in hemoglobin content of the blood at the end of eight weeks. Their competitors—15 babies of the same age group and same general condition who did not get meat—lost 10.3 per cent during the same period. The red cell values of the meat eaters jumped an average of 22.2 per cent while their competitors chalked up a gain of only 6.2 per cent.

Nurses at the institute reported the babies who got meat seemed less fussy and slept better than their competitors. The institution's pediatrician said the general physical condition of the meat-eaters was better, too.

Results comparable to those at Child Saving institute were obtained at St. Thomas orphanage. Among the babies in private homes, the records were not as spectacular—probably because the routine of care was not as exacting—but even in the homes the meat eating babies showed no loss in hemoglobin content of the blood while their competitors who did not get meat lost 8 per cent.

It was this ability of the meat eaters to avoid hemoglobin loss that the researchers consider important. According to Dr. Leverton it means that the protein in the meat diet kept the babies from taking the downward road to nutritional anemia.

RANGELEY LAKE, ME.—Ain't been so much fun down Maine way since the lassie moose mistook an air raid siren for her lover's call to arms.

The first skunk hunt in the Pine Tree state was such a sockeroo that they say it's going to be an annual affair from here on in, with brass bands and all that.

"I wouldn't have missed it for 50 scents," giggled one grizzled old trapper.

Skunks are a bit of a problem in the resort area of inland Maine. So this year, in an effort to speed mass migration of the "burrowing carnivora" in the Rangeley Lake region, W. Scott Peirson, general manager of the Rangeley Sheraton hotel, solicited the services of Boston's fanciest debutantes and their escorts for the first mass skunk hunt.

Their weapons for the fray included wicker baskets (you throw the basket over the skunk's head or, if you prefer, over your own); flashlights (not too far front, please), and pitchforks (by process of elimination, since nothing in Emily Post recommends the use of any other fork as de rigeur).

To climax three days of unrivaled, unfettered frolic, a Skunk Hunters' ball was held for all participants.

Deadlock Over Korea

MAJ. GEN. ARCHER L. LERCH, military governor of Korea, gave an off-the-record talk to reserve officers recently expressing great pessimism regarding U. S. relations with Russia in Korea. Latest efforts to get together with Russia, General Lerch said, may as well be written off as failure. What caused the deadlock was recognition of political parties, since Russia would not recognize any Korean parties not controlled by Communists. General Lerch also revealed:

(1) Russia's agrarian reforms in northern Korea have backfired. Northern native farmers, oppressed by a 50 per cent tax on produce and strict control under the "cooperative" system, are drifting south across the 38th parallel.

(2) Border incidents have been reduced along the Russian-American line. However, two Russian soldiers, prowling for rice below the border, were shot and killed by Korean police.

(3) Only 53 Japs are left in southern Korea—all hospital cases.

Doom to Veterans' Loans

ONE of the main reasons why veterans are failing to obtain loans under the G.I. Bill of Rights is the fact that the 80th congress has clipped the power of Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase these mortgages from banks. The 79th congress, which passed the G.I. bill, gave RFC authority to purchase mortgages on homes where the loans had been guaranteed by Veterans' administration under terms of the G.I. bill. The authority under which the RFC purchased these mortgages expired June 30. When the new law was passed by this congress extending the RFC for another year and slashing its loan authority from something like 18 billion dollars to two billion dollars, congress not only swept away the only source of small business and small industrial loans but refused to give RFC authority to purchase G.I. home, business and farm mortgage loans.

Banks throughout the country, therefore, have no outlet for disposal of these loans and must hold them in their own portfolios, and from all over the country veterans are finding it almost impossible to obtain home loans no matter how well they are armed with letters of eligibility.

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama introduced a bill in the last minute rush of congress seeking to extend this authority of the RFC.

Military Weakness of Russia

MUCH has been made of the superior size of the Russian army. Our military men frequently mentioned this recently to get their appropriations through congress. But little or nothing has been reported of the critical military weaknesses of Russia. She may be an isolated economic and political power existing behind an iron curtain, but from the military standpoint, she is wide open from the air on three sides, and extremely vulnerable in oil.

The custom is to regard Russia as unconquerable because of her vast spaces. Hitler's military mistake was in attempting to devour more than he could chew. No one seems to think of Russia's far vaster, outer circumference of defense, which is really too extensive to be defensible.

But these considerations run beyond current military realities. The Russia which has become so aggressive in the world of politics, does not comprise eight million square miles, but the few square miles occupied by its few thousand political leaders, chiefly in a few large cities (say Moscow and Leningrad).

Russia could be effectively isolated in war from the rest of the world without much difficulty. On the other hand, the atomic missile and other bombing rocket threats against her are somewhat dulled by her farflung distribution of industry (except oil).

For our part, defense against use of such missiles is our most vital necessary concern. We are protected everywhere except in the air. We are protected in every way excepting from atomic possibilities and missiles. In these baskets most of our eggs may now be put. We must think of atomic defense, not offense. We must concentrate on air and missile protection.

Welles thought Duff as "Macduff" in "Macbeth" would be a natural, but he had to turn down that role and also one opposite Ronald Colman in "Imagination," as some of the "Naked City" scenes were to be shot in New York.

Earl Lee, veteran radio actor recently on "The Whistler," got away with what would have been a neat trick in any other business. He portrayed a man who was murdered, later he returned to the mike and recited his own burial service!

"Philip Marlowe, Detective" has long sideburns these days, because Van Heflin, playing him on the air, is also working in a Civil War picture called "Tap Roots," and those bushy sideburns are required for the role.

"Tarzan" is celebrating his 13th screen anniversary with "Tarzan and the Mermaids," being filmed on a big scale, in Mexico City, Acapulco and Florida. Champion girl swimmers from all over the world will augment a corps of professionals who will appear as mermaids. Johnny Weismuller heads the cast, as usual; Brenda Joyce plays opposite him again.

At a time when radio gag writers are at a premium, getting the highest salaries in radio history, David Bublick has left the Fred Allen program, to collaborate with his wife Judith on the Gabriel Heatter Sunday night MBS programs. Except for his time with Allen they have been writing as a team for nearly ten years; they did "Famous Jury Trials" and "Exploring the Unknown."

Murray L. Hitch, handsome young bus driver and ex-merchant marine, gets a film break as an actor in RKO's "Your Red Wagon." Hired to drive his company's bus for a sequence in the picture, he attracted the director's attention, got a bit of dialogue.

Just before he directed "Deep Valley" for Warners, Jean Negulesco married actress Dusty Anderson. The usual photograph of bride, groom and best man (Jose Iturbi) was sent to her relatives in Niagara Falls. They telegraphed: "We saw your husband in a picture last night, and are very glad you married such a talented pianist." The bride is still explaining.

BOON TO BABIES—AND PARENTS, TOO . . . Experiments conducted by University of Nebraska food and nutrition laboratory have shown the value of feeding meat to babies. Mothers are interested from a nutrition standpoint; fathers are impressed by the fact that babies are less fussy and sleep better. Patsy is shown here receiving a blood count at the hands of Dr. A. K. Myrabo, pathologist of University hospital, with Dr. Ruth Leverton, university nutritionist, standing by to help.

FOR THE BETTER, TOO

Even Babies Are Affected By Revised Eating Habits

WNU Features.

LINCOLN, NEBR. — Chances are your great-grandmother would have no more thought of eating a "love apple" than of flying to China. But now we call love apples by the more prosaic name of tomatoes—and not only eat them but drink 'em, too.

That doesn't prove much except that people's eating habits change. The University of Nebraska's food and nutrition laboratory is trying to see to it that they change for the better.

Take babies—six weeks old—for instance. A lot of mothers would gape in astonishment if you said, "Why don't we give the baby a nice helping of meat today?" They might even tell you scornfully that babies don't get meat until they're at least nine months old.

Babies Like It.

Yet, Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, university nutritionist, and two pediatricians have been feeding meat to tiny babies for some time now. The babies like it, and the results have interested even the American Medical Association Journal, which doesn't get interested very easily.

The big thing that Dr. Leverton and her associates found is that meat added for eight weeks to the diets of babies as young as six weeks can knock out nutritional anemia. This, they say, is important because that type of anemia is common to most infants.

The researchers don't pretend that blocking anemia from babyhood is going to produce a race of super men and women. But they do say that anemia keeps the human body—little or big—from 100 per cent performance.

It may be that freeing infants from anemia will let them grow strong enough to toss off some of the usual childhood diseases. Anyway, that's what Dr. Leverton hopes and the laboratory is assisting with further study along that line.

Launch Experiments.

The university's food and nutrition laboratory launched its attack on anemia seven years ago. It found that meat added to the diets of a group of co-eds reduced simple anemia.

During the war, a second study revealed that meat was of benefit to blood bank donors. Next came a study of expectant mothers. A meat supplement to their diets boosted their hemoglobin values—which is a fancy way of saying they did not become anemic.

Encouraged by these results, the researchers turned to babies. When the study started, strained meat for babies was not yet on the market but meat processors cooperated and produced strained meat of custard consistency which could be added to baby formulas. Since then a meat product has come on the market commercially.

In cooperation with doctors at Child Saving institute in Omaha, at St. Thomas orphanage in Lincoln and with a small group of parents, the battle of babies versus anemia was begun. At the outset, a third of an ounce of strained meat was added daily to the formulas for babies six weeks old. This amount was increased until at the end of a week an average of a full ounce of meat a day was being added.

Show Marked Gain.

Records of Child Saving institute disclose that the 18 "meat babies" showed an average gain of 13.3 per cent in hemoglobin content of the blood at the end of eight weeks. Their competitors—15 babies of the same age group and same general condition who did not get meat—lost 10.3 per cent during the same period. The red cell values of the meat eaters jumped an average of 22.2 per cent while their competitors chalked up a gain of only 6.2 per cent.

Nurses at the institute reported the babies who got meat seemed less fussy and slept better than their competitors. The institution's pediatrician said the general physical condition of the meat-eaters was better, too.

Results comparable to those at Child Saving institute were obtained at St. Thomas orphanage. Among the babies in private homes, the records were not as spectacular—probably because the routine of care was not as exacting—but even in the homes the meat eating babies showed no loss in hemoglobin content of the blood while their competitors who did not get meat lost 8 per cent.

It was this ability of the meat eaters to avoid hemoglobin loss that the researchers consider important. According to Dr. Leverton it means that the protein in the meat diet kept the babies from taking the downward road to nutritional anemia.

Worth 50 Scents, Old Trapper Opines At Big Skunk Hunt

RANGELEY LAKE, ME.—Ain't been so much fun down Maine way since the lassie moose mistook an air raid siren for her lover's call to arms.

The first skunk hunt in the Pine Tree state was such a sockeroo that they say it's going to be an annual affair from here on in, with brass bands and all that.

"I wouldn't have missed it for 50 scents," giggled one grizzled old trapper.

Skunks are a bit of a problem in the resort area of inland Maine. So this year, in an effort to speed mass migration of the "burrowing carnivora" in the Rangeley Lake region, W. Scott Peirson, general manager of the Rangeley Sheraton hotel, solicited the services of Boston's fanciest debutantes and their escorts for the first mass skunk hunt.

Their weapons for the fray included wicker baskets (you throw the basket over the skunk's head or, if you prefer, over your own); flashlights (not too far front, please), and pitchforks (by process of elimination, since nothing in Emily Post recommends the use of any other fork as de rigeur).

To climax three days of unrivaled, unfettered frolic, a Skunk Hunters' ball was held for all participants.

Deadlock Over Korea

MAJ. GEN. ARCHER L. LERCH, military governor of Korea, gave an off-the-record talk to reserve officers recently expressing great pessimism regarding U. S. relations with Russia in Korea. Latest efforts to get together with Russia, General Lerch said, may as well be written off as failure. What caused the deadlock was recognition of political parties, since Russia would not recognize any Korean parties not controlled by Communists.

General Lerch also revealed:

(1) Russia's agrarian reforms in northern Korea have backfired. Northern native farmers, oppressed by a 50 per cent tax on produce and strict control under the "cooperative" system, are drifting south across the 38th parallel.

(2) Border incidents have been reduced along the Russian-American line. However, two Russian soldiers, prowling for rice below the border, were shot and killed by Korean police.

(3) Only 53 Japs are left in southern Korea—all hospital cases.

(4) Russia, which controls the industrial half of the country, is permitting a smooth flow of electricity into the American zone without interference.

For Real Vitality, Try a Good Breakfast
(See recipes below.)

Morning Meals

Don't try to argue your family into eating a whopper of a breakfast! Make it so good and interesting that they just can't refuse it! You may have found that coaxing helps your family to eat luncheon and dinner, but as you may know, it just won't work for breakfast.

The things that do work are variety, downright good food, gay, cheerful dishes and linens, and pleasant attitudes. Of course the time element is important, and this may need a bit of working on if your folks are in the habit of sleeping until the last minute and then trying to dash off some fruit juice and coffee.

When you sit down to think about it, those five minutes extra sleep really don't make you any more rested, so get the family up early enough to eat breakfast properly. Mother can help this along by getting up and starting breakfast. The smell of pancakes or bacon plus the aroma of coffee really does help in getting the family started on their way out of bed.

Breakfast should start off with fruit or fruit juice. This not only is refreshing, but also is a good way to get started off on those vitamins and minerals for the day. Follow the fruit with cereal, prepared or cooked, and vary this from day to day. If the cereal looks a bit uninteresting, plan to serve fruit with it to add a touch of color and flavor.

Eggs are recommended for breakfast whether you have to watch your calories or boost them. But, do serve them in different ways so they always remain interesting. Then, too, you can use eggs in waffles and pancakes when real variety is desired.

Interesting breakfast breads do a lot toward making the meal one to anticipate with delight. Try a brand new coffee cake or toast some of the homemade breads for real deliciousness.

Health Bread.
1 cup sifted white flour
2 cups graham flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1½ cups soured milk
½ cup molasses

Mix together the dry ingredients. Dissolve soda in soured milk and add the molasses. Add liquids to dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into two greased pans and bake slowly in a slow (325-degree) oven for 1½ hours. If desired, raisins and/or dates also may be added to the dry ingredients when a fruit bread is desired. This is delicious as toast or sandwiches.

Orange Coffee Cake.
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup corn syrup
½ cup orange juice
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ cup melted butter or substitute

Topping:
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon melted butter

Mix corn syrup, orange juice and melted shortening and combine with sifted dry ingredients. Mix in beaten eggs, vanilla and orange rind. Pour into a greased square pan. Blend topping ingredients and sprinkle over top of batter. Bake in a preheated fairly hot (400-degree) oven for 30 minutes.

Oatmeal Griddle Cakes.
(Makes 12 to 15)
½ cup flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups quick-cooking oats
1 egg, well beaten
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 teaspoon molasses
¾ cup water
¾ cup milk

Sift flour, measure and sift with baking powder and salt. Add oats, water and milk. Add to dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Have griddle very hot for first baking, then reduce heat. Cook on one side until puffed and full of bubbles. Turn and cook on other side. Serve with butter and syrup.

Baked Eggs in Toast Cups.
6 slices bread
6 eggs
Salt and pepper
Butter

Cut crusts from bread and gently press the slices into greased custard cups. The four corners will extend to the tops of the custard cups. Break an egg into each cup. Season and dot with butter. Bake for 15 minutes in a 400-degree oven. Serve at once.

Two hearty dishes which are nice to serve for breakfast are scrapple and frizzled eggs. In the case of the scrapple, make it the night before and allow to chill before frying.

Scrapple.
(Serves 6)
1 pound lean pork
1 cup corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon powdered sage

Simmer pork in water until meat falls from bones. Remove meat and bones. Chill broth and remove fat. Measure 1 quart of broth, adding water, if necessary. Add cornmeal and cook, stirring frequently until thick. Grind or chop meat fine and add to cereal with salt and sage. Pack in a loaf bread pan and chill. Slice and fry.

Frizzled Eggs.
(Serves 6)
½ pound chipped beef
2 tablespoons butter
6 eggs, beaten
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup milk

Cook dried beef in butter until slightly crisp. Combine eggs, pepper and milk and mix well. Pour over beef and cook as for scrambled eggs. Serve garnished with toast points and parsley.

310 Wives and Concubines Sacrificed at Raja's Death

The death of Raja Suchet Singh in Lahore, India, in 1844, was followed by one of the last and greatest instances of suttee, the age-old Hindu custom that required a widow to be cremated with her husband. This ruling prince maintained, in palaces in Lahore, Jammu and Ramnagar, a total of 10 wives and 300 concubines, all of whom sacrificed themselves on funeral pyres in their respective cities.

Ireland's Greyhounds

The fastest-growing business in the history of Ireland is the breeding of racing greyhounds for foreign trade. The value of the shipments increased from $38,000 in 1933 to $4,060,000 in 1946, the total exports for the period comprising 48,175 dogs valued at $11,988,000.

Alert to Opportunity

Texans are famous for their loyalty to their native state, and are always ready with a good word for it no matter where they are, to wit:

One of its sons was visiting the East where he had occasion to attend the funeral of a man who was thoroughly disliked.

At the services the minister, who was new in the parish, called upon someone to say a few words about the deceased. A long and significant silence ensued.

Finally, the true son of Texas arose and said, "Well, since there is no one present who has anything to say about our departed brother, I'd like a few minutes to tell you folks about Texas."

Do You CUT YOUR FAMILY'S HAIR?

For Home Barbers there is now available an entirely new Barber Comb. It is the only improvement which has been made on conventional combs in several decades. With it you can, with a little practice, give a fast, smooth, professional-looking haircut. Its revolutionary design does the trick—it feeds the hair into the shears at different lengths, giving automatically a thatch or feather-edge cut, minimizing the possibility of cutting rough edges or steps. (See cut.)

★ Send a dollar bill and receive two of these combs with complete instructions for use. If you are not satisfied, you may return the combs and we will gladly refund your money.

Twenty Years Ago In Hope

The Methodist Missionary Society met Thursday with Mrs. Robert Cole.

Pete Cassabone was a pleasant caller at the Press office last week and has our thanks for the first dollar received on subscription since we took charge of the paper. Mr. Cas-sabone is daily demonstrating that a man can succeed in the Hope country. (We might add that Pete Cas-sabone is still taking the Hope paper.)

Some folks don't know it, but it is nevertheless true, that you can live at Hope and be a booster and not be a liar at the same time.
 December 3, 1926

On Wednesday of last week Dr.
 Puckett finished inoculating 88 people at Hope against typhoid fever and 20 children against diphtheria.

The new curtain for the school auditorium is finished. Mrs. Lee Glasscock and Mrs. W. P. Riley painted the picture which is particularly appropriate for this section and is beautifully done.

The young people enjoyed a dance at the Brewer home last Saturday evening.

November 26, 1926

Mr. Black has been successful in locating a reservoir site and means to give it the necessary tests to ascertain its holding qualities.

The Hope school is putting in an electric light plant and moving picture apparatus, both of which will be installed within the next two weeks.

Misses Josephine and Helen Coffin arrived from Panhandle, Tex.,
 last Wednesday and will enter Hope high school next week.

W. Smith, who was shot last week,
 bled to death from a broken artery
 recently.

L. P. Glasscock is delivering 1500 wether lambs to J. H. Bridgeman of Hope on the 28th. Mr. Bridgeman sold these lambs to Ralph Vanderwort of Roswell for 11 cents per pound.

Irvin Cox delivered his sheep to
 J. R. Means on the 25th.

Mr. Black, from the State Engineer's office, arrived here Monday and will investigate the matter of increasing the water supply of the Penasco river. (We had better send for Mr. Black again and see if he could do something about the water supply.)
