Drum Savod Life of New York Scientist.

New York, Oct. 23.—Alazon Skinner, of anthropological department of American Museum of Natural History, who has just returned from an exploration trip along the southern shore of Hudson Bay, Canada, tells of the remarkable escape he effected after having been condemned to death by Ojibway Indians.

Superstitious members of the tribe on Catt Lake spread the report that he would capture all of the game, and the result was, according to Mr. Skinner, that the braves met and agreed that on a signal from their medicine man they would all fire their rifles at the scientist. Another complaint against Mr. Skinner was that the women of the tribe feared that his camera enabled him to see clear through their bodies, an idea which the tribe did not relish.

"When I returned to the settlement," said Mr. Skinner, "I was quickly surrounded and felt that my end was near. I was unarmed and quick action was necessary. Knowing of their childish faith in the powers of their medicine man, I approached him quickly and grabbing the drum with which he was about to give the signal for my death, I smashed it over his head. Then I turned and walked away quickly. The incident had its effect: I had broken the superstitious shell in which the medicine man held them for many years. The Indians were too astonished to pursue me and I did not return to the settlement."

Wonderful Texas.

A Texan while visiting in another state was asked to tell in a speech what he knew about Texas, and he responded:

"Texas is a whopper, she's a peach. She's the broadest and longest country on earth, extending from east to west and up north to south. She could put Rhode Island in her vest pocket. She could swallow three or four states like Maryland and Vermont and wash 'em down by drinking the Mississippi dry, and digest 'em without ever having the colic. Texas is the empire state of the union without any Kaiser Bill for an emperor. She's the chiefest among ten thousand and altogether lovely and wild and reckless. She's the pebble on the beach. She is one of the old blue hen's chickens; she's the cock of the walk and the democrat of the world; she's a wolf and it's her day to howl.

"Texas is bounded on the east by the alligators of Louisiana and the huckleberry thickets of Arkansas. She is bounded on the north by the tomakawk and war whoop of red men. She is bounded on the west by the chili con carne of New Mexico and the hot tamales of Old Mexico. She is bounded on the south by the Gulf of Mexico, and if it wasn't for that measly body of salt water she would extend beyond the south pole. As I said in the beginning, Texas is a Jim Dandy, and don't you ever forget it."

Eid and Mrs. J. C. Sikes attended church at Lockney last Sunday, returning Monday.

Haystack for Rail Chief.

Great Falls, Mont.—President Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern railway was compelled to spend a night in a haystack. He started from Helena to Great Falls in his automobile. Near Fort Shaw the machine stuck in a mud hole.

He applied to a settler for a bed and supper, but was told that he could find a bed in a near-by haystack and that he could help himself to refreshments at the pump.

When the railroad president did not appear here on time a searching party started toward Helena. They found the automobile in the mud hole, and a short inspection of the near-by neighborhood revealed Mr. Hill and his chauffeur sound asleep in the haystack.

Hereford, Tex., Oct. 21.—The merchants of Hereford contemplate the establishment of a monthly trade day under the auspices of the Commercial Club in the near future. The details are being worked out now, and it is hoped to inaugurate the new move in November.

A Funny Proposition.

"Man comes into this world without his consent and leaves it against his will. During his stay on earth his life is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings. In his infancy he is an angel; in his boyhood a devil; in manhood a lizzard; from lizard up, in his duties he's a fool; if he has no family he is committing race-suicide; if he raises a family he's a chump; if he raises a check he is a thief, then the law raises Cain with him, if he is a poor man, he is a poor manager, and has no sense; if he is rich, he is dishonest but considered smart; if he is in politics he is a grafter and a crook; if he goes to church he is a hypocrite; if he stays away from church he is a sinner; if he donates to foreign missions he does it for show, if he doesn't he is stingy and a 'tight wad;' when he first came into the world everybody wanted to kiss him—before he goes out they want to kick him; if he dies young he had a great future before him; if he lives to a ripe old age he is in the way, only living to save funeral expenses. Life is a funny proposition after all."—Pointers.

Dr. Bell suggests that we invite Dr. Cook to come to Silverton and deliver a lecture on his discovery of the north pole. The Dr. is not so much interested in the lecture which Cook would deliver as he is in the fun that would follow when the "coon" which Peary has sent out to answer Cook arrives on the scene. He thinks the Western boys would make the fur fly from that "coon" like feathers at a goose plucking. So we now extend the invitation to Dr. Cook and appoint Dr. Bell as a reception committee for him, and promise him the skin of that "coon" minus the fur. And as a reception committee for the "coon"—well the boys will give him a warm recep-

Printer's Mistake.

Typographic errors are one of the chief banes of a newspaper man's existence. In the rush of the daily newspaper making "proofs" are read hurriedly, or some times not at all, and occasionally the result in the printed product is astonishing.

For instance, the story is told of an editor who recently wrote a "puff" for the belle of the ball, saying: "Her dainty feet were incased in shoes that might have been taken for fairy boots," but the blundering compositor made it read: "Her dirty feet were incased in shoes that might have been taken for ferry-boats."—Ex.

Divorce Evil.

It is one of the most really alarming conditions of present day propositions. Nearly every paper one reads is filled with divorce proceedings and in nearly every case the petition is granted. Easy divorce finds its double in easy virtue. The extreme of the one leads to the extreme of the other. The advocates of free love offer as their strongest arguments the prevalence of the divorce evil in this country, and claim that free love does away with the necessity of so much publicity where people find themselves unsuited for each other. If our marriage laws would not permit divorce under any circumstances it would prevent people from rushing blindly into the marriage state and in this way lessen the many causes leading to disruption of family ties. It is a pitiable sight to see little children haled to the courts and there compelled to listen to the threshing out of the home rows and disruptions, when by right of all that is sacred they should be given the hallowed protection of the home, with all that the term implies. Healthy home life is the one indispensable prerequisite of healthy morality. Our most illustrious men of affairs had either the influence of a noble father or mother or both to aid them in their battles for advancement, and it is a serious handicap for any child to be turned out into the world to make its way without being able to look back on the days of its youth and find cheer from its sacred associations. Give us more stringent divorce laws. Make them without loop holes. Make people to know that the marriage tie means a binding contract. Discourage marriage for convenience. Keep the sacredness of home from being offered on the altar of foolish fancies. Keep up the highest possible conception of morality by discouraging those of low ideas from becoming embroiled in sanctities cherished domain. Let a real meaning be applied to those things of vital moment. Harbor the ship of state with the waters of boundless love. Have a care at all times for the safety of the home—Lubbock Avalanche.

Kennedy's Road.

We notice from some of our exchanges that they are gloating over the fact that they think they will get another shot at the A. R. & E. P. railroad on account of some suits that had been filed lately against Mr. Kennedy. They have been giving him the d—l ever since he failed to go their way, and just watch them grab at the straw. Mr. Kennedy has just returned from the east and arrived in Memphis today, and shows us proof positive that the receivership lawsuit has been quashed forever, and that he has made very extensive arrangements to extend his road farther into Oklahoma for the best interests of the road. Steel has been purchased for something over three hundred miles of road and it will be only a few days until the clank of steel will be heard at both ends of the line. We hope these dcubting Thomases will now lay low until they see that the road is a failure; then we will allow them to bob up serenely and make a long reach for the grapes. Here is hoping that we will not be disappointed in our strong belief that Mr. Kennedy will build this road and be high mogul at its completion.—Memphis Democrat.

Broom Corn a Paying Crop.

Those who raised broom corn this year are happy—those who didn't—well that's a different story. A few days ago J. I. Mathis, a representative of the Western Warehouse Co., of Wichita, Kans., made a trip through this section. He bought some eleven tons of broom corn from parties living some seven miles south of town, and J. W. Bradley sold him a couple of ton. The price Mr. Mathis offered and paid was $100 per ton. Those who raised this crop this year will go after it again—and there are going to be others who will sell broom corn next year.—Mexico Trumpet.

Stopping the Paper.

"I've stopped my paper, yes I have.
I didn't like to do it,
But the d—l he got too smart
And I allow he'll rue it.
I am a man as pays his debts,
An' I won't be insulted,
So when an editor gets smart
I want to be consulted.
I took his paper seven years,
An' helped him all I could, sir
An' when he comes to dunnin' me
I didn't think he would, sir,
But that he did, an' you kin bet
It made as mad as thunder,
Says I, 'I stop that sheet, I will.
If the case I thing goes under,
I hunted up that measly whelp
An' for his dunnin' paper,
I paid him seven years an' quit!
Yes, sir, I've stopped his paper."
—Selected.

Hereford, Tex., Oct. 21.—Interest is being aroused here over the opening of the local football season. The Hereford College team will line up against the Amarillo High School, Oct. 30th. The home boys have been handicapped somewhat for want of proper training quarters, but this need has been filled and the work is being pushed rapidly. Mr. J. R. Frezell, formerly of the I. C. U. of Waco, has charge of the team, and, although the sport is new to most of the boys, the outlook is bright. Mr. Frezell states that their games will probably be arranged with Goodnight College, Canadian Academy, Clarendon College and the New Mexico Military Institute.

Sammy's mother talked to him long and earnestly about the poor marks he had been getting in his work at school. She painted in alluring colors the little boy who studies his lessons and gains the love and respect of his teachers. She went even further; she promised that if he got good marks she would give him a whole dime, all for his own. Sammy seemed impressed.

That afternoon he returned from school fairly dancing with joy.

"Oh, mother," he shouted, "I got a hundred!"

"Sammy!" cried his delighted mother. She hugged him and kissed him and gave him the dime.

"And what did you get a hundred in?" she finally asked.

"In two things," replied Sammy, without hesitation. "I got forty in readin' and sixty in spellin'."—Ex.

Hereford, Tex., Oct. 21.—The heavy rain which fell in this territory last Sunday insures unusual activity in the wheat planting this fall. A great many farmers had planted wheat in dry ground, taking the chance of getting proper moisture, and these are the men who are rejoicing the most. Wm. Linville had in 1200 acres at the time and is putting in 300 acres more. This is but a sample of what is being done in wheat raising in this section. There is a general optimistic view on all sides that 1910 will be a banner year for crops of all kinds.

Hereford, Tex., Oct. 21.—Contract for the new $25,000 high school building at Hereford has been awarded to the Architects D. P. Kaufman and Son of Amarillo. Work is expected to begin within the next 30 days.

Hereford, Tex., Oct. 21.—A mail clerk has been installed on trains 37 and 38 of the Santa Fe between Clovis, New Mexico, and Amarillo, the service beginning on the 20th. This is the result of some hard work on the part of the Hereford Commercial Club, joined by other Clubs in the towns affected. Heretofore, owing to the absence of the clerk on this train, the mail has congested at Amarillo and very poor service resulted. It is believed that this trouble will now be entirely eliminated.

Panama Libel Case Dismissed

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct.—Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States court of this district today dismissed the proceedings against Delvan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, who were resisting removal to the District of Columbia for trial under a grand jury indictment, charging them with having committed a criminal libel in publishing articles, alleging that there was a profit of $28,000,000 in the sale of the Panama canal to the United States.

"That man has read the history of our institutions to little purpose," said Judge Anderson in concluding his decision, "who does not view with apprehension the success of such a proceeding as this, to the end that citizens could be dragged from their homes to the District of Columbia, the seat of government for trial under the circumstances of this case. The defendants are discharged."

Wife Would See Him Hang.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct.—Two convicted murderers, Thomas Willis, a negro, and Stanley Nazarko, were hanged today in the Luzerne county prison here.

Nazarko's wife came to the jail yesterday with a man she intends to marry, and requested permission to witness the hanging. Although the condemned man was willing that the wife and her future husband should see him die, the sheriff forbade it. Nazarko yesterday handed to his wife in the presence of her intended second husband, and a priest, a will in which he bequeathed her his savings, $1,200. Nazarko bade them farewell and expressed hope that the prospective bridegroom would make a good husband.

Nazarko deserted his wife and two children in Russian Poland ten years ago. He came to this country, worked in the mines and lived with a woman whom he knew in his native land. During a quarrel he shot her dead.
