PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT SILVERTON, TEXAS

Volume XXVII--Number 50

"College Hobo"

The Junior class will present its annual play Friday night March 20th. This play is unusually interesting.

In the first scene of "The College Hobo" is laid in the sleepy little village of Mountain Hill. Here we find Sally Sims, an attractive country maid, and her father, who is an honest, eccentric old farmer. It opens in an interesting manner. Marvin and Sally are rehearsing a very dramatic scene taken from a play that is to be given for the benefit of their little church. On the eve of the play, they have a mysterious visitor who calls himself Hobo. He has a questionable reputation, due to the fact that he does many indiscreet things for a thrill. He is at this time Hobbing it back to school, and stops at the Sims home for shelter for the night.

Sally has always had an unconquerable desire to attend college, but could never convince her father that it is necessary. And so the plot runs along with the play a success, the money stolen, Sally expelled from school. Hobo in love with Sally, the chief apprehended, romance turned loose and as all plays must end, so does this one, with everybody happy.

BRISCOE CO. INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE MEET APRIL 3-4th

Silvertown will be host to the annual Briscoe County Interscholastic League this year. Every school in the county has paid its membership fees and the meet this year promises to be the best meet in the history of this organization.

COMMISSIONER'S COURT AGREE TO HIRE A CASE WORKER

Here is one of the problems which the Commissioners had to deal with in their last meeting day. All Government Relief will be shut off April 1st. The Relief Office has been trying for 19 families of unemployed this year and these families are being thrown out on the mercies of the world. The Commissioners saw that Briscoe County could not assume the burden of providing for these families. A plan has been worked out whereby if the County will employ a Case Worker, that this worker will have the authority to dispense to needy, whether on relief or not, food and clothing as the Relief furnish from time to time.

The Court weighed this matter carefully and what ever may be the decision on this proposition this worker will accept his part of the responsibility.

The Case Worker will be employed 10 days per week.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

Following is a list of new books which were received by the Silvertown library last week:

- "Discovery" by Admiral Byrd
- "Seven League Boots" Richard Halton
- "Bartlett's Familiar Quotations."
- "North to the Orient" Ann Morrow Berg.
- "The Raven" Marquis James.
- "Bet Patty" Gene Webster.
- "Ball of the Lonesome Pine" Fox.

In addition to these, 100 other books came in last week.

Silvertown Garden Club will have their Friday, March 27, at the home of Mrs. Clifford Allard with Mrs. Dudley joint hostess.

Rev. H. L. Burnam, Pastor

SCHOOL CENSUS

The school census will be made during this month. Every parent is urged to see that your child is enumerated. Each child between the ages 6 and 18 on September 1st, 1936 should be enumerated. Each teacher in the Silvertown school will aid in the taking of this census. The amount of state support is determined by the number of children whose names appear on the census rolls.

Boy Scout Troop Gets Under Way

About thirty Silvertown boys met at the high school Saturday morning with their Scoutmaster, W. W. Wilson; Assistant, Rev. A. A. Peacock, and the troop committee, to enroll in the Boy Scouts of America. The boys are enthusiastic about their new work and are working hard, in order to pass their tenderfoot requirements as soon as possible. Scoutmaster Wilson has several trips in mind already for the boys.

The City has agreed to furnish a building for a meeting place and the boys will do the work of cleaning it up and making whatever changes necessary, as part of their regular Scout work.

Joe Mercer heads the Troop Committee, which is sponsoring the organization, and assisting the boys in planning camping trips, buying equipment, and backing them in general.

A cub scout organization may be formed in the near future to take care of the boys under 12 years, who are very anxious to join. This younger group will be probably headed by Rev. A. A. Peacock.

Now with the boys doing their parts, let's get behind them and encourage them.

Attempt to Reduce Negro Population Falls

Joffie Sims was lodged in the county jail Friday night charged with attempted murder. Sims a negro living in Quitaque, took a few friendly shots at Zona Vaughn, colored. His aim was just bad enough that he missed his lady target entirely. He was released on bond Monday.

PLAINVIEW TURKEY MEETING

St. Patrick's day 1936 (March 17) goes down in history as something more than just another day. It marks the opening of the first exclusive turkey hatchery in the Panhandle Plains area of Texas.

Last year the Hi Plains Turkey Improvement Association decided to put in a hatchery for this section of the Country. They set themselves to the task of raising sufficient funds to purchase the incubator and equipment.

Tuesday March 17th, the stockholders gathered at the Co-Op Creamery in Plainview to attend the formal opening of the 7,500 egg capacity hatchery.

Briscoe County has several stockholders in this hatchery led by Mr. J. E. Wheelock who is president of the Hi Plains Association. Mr. Wheelock gives much credit to the Plainview Co-Op Creamery for the success thus far, of the Hi Plains Turkey Association. The Co-Op led by Roy Davis is "urset maid" to the infant hatchery. Mr. Davis tells us that poult will be for sale at the hatchery from April 25th on thru the season, at popular prices. This will enable turkey growers to get their poult closer home and save the high cost of express and too save the young turkeys from being on the road so long.

All eggs set in the Plainview hatchery will be from officially blood tested flocks. This will insure the highest quality of poult that can be bought.

PRESBYTERIANS HAVE TWO SERVICES SUNDAY

The Presbyterian congregation enjoyed the privilege of having services in their church Sunday morning when a pastor from Sterling City who had been visiting his son (the pastor at Hereford) came to preach for the Silvertown people. He and his wife were welcome visitors among the members who appreciated the good sermon Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Another welcome visitor in the Presbyterian pulpit, Sunday was the Rev. Warwick Aiken of St. Mark's Episcopal church in Plainview. Rev. Aiken has many friends here who look forward to his coming the third Sunday of each month. His sermon Sunday night was well attended and well received.

Bring in your news.

AIRPLANE CRASHES FRIDAY NIGHT

In making a forced landing a mile north of Silvertown Friday night, Lieut. Houghton, crashed his U. S. Army plane. He was uninjured and the plane was not badly damaged. Houghton was forced back while north of Silvertown, due to lack of gas and dust. After refueling here he took off again. His engine refused to function well on automobile gas and he was forced to land again. It was rather dark by this time and he crashed into a fence. It was the first crash for this aviator in more than seven years flying.

The plane was partially dismantled and shipped out this week by rail.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cash formerly of Happy, are installing a complete dry goods store here in the Bane building. It will be known as The Silvertown Dry Goods Co. They plan to specialize in piece goods and ladies ready-to-wear. Their opening will probably be Saturday of this week although their stock of goods will not be complete at that time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cash are experienced dry goods merchants.

NEW LAUNDRY SOON

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Neese, of Hall County have rented the building formerly occupied by the pool hall and are installing an up-to-date laundry. They plan to open next week with good equipment and ready to do first class finished laundry.

Newly Formed P. T. A. Meets

Friday afternoon the Executive members of the recently organized PTA met with the President to formulate plans for the futuration of the organization. As in all organizations it takes a little capital to get started and his particular phase of the work was discussed. At the suggestion of Rev. Peacock a "School Carnival" to be held on the night of April 24, in the school gym was voted. Each church, club, and lodge will be asked to take a booth in said carnival. A negro minstrel is planned. Plenty of amusements, eats, and fun for every one. The money will be used to aid school children as the individual need requires.

A school clinic is planned, also a summer roundup to aid defective children to be ready for school next year. Let's get behind this folks and really put it over.

For:
It's your school and my school,
And my child and your child,
And your friends and my friends,
And the more we work together the happier we will be.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Weekly Program—Sunday

10:00 a. m.—Bible Study.
11:00 a. m.—Preaching.
11:45 a. m.—Communion.
7:30 p. m.—Preaching.

Monday

2:30 p. m.—Ladies Bible Class.

Wednesday

7:30 p. m.—Prayer Meeting.

God has one power to save the world, and Paul tells us what that power is in Romans 1:16. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth;" How sacrilegious it is for man to attribute God's saving power to something else other than the gospel.

You are cordially invited to the services at the Church of Christ.

Rev. Gulley.

Literary Parade

The Texas Literary Parade, Belton's Centennial year celebration to be held April 4, will be an interesting observance at which 100 Texas writers will represent 100 years of Texas by reviewing literary achievements of the state at Mary Hardin-Baylor College.

SILVERTOWN SCHOOL SELECTS DECLAMATION CONTESTANTS

The Silvertown school declamation tryouts to determine representatives of the school in the County Meet, April 3 & 4, were held in the high school auditorium, Tuesday night, March 16. The two highest contestants are eligible to compete in the County Meet. The Senior girls voted to wait until Gaynelle Douglas was well to have the eliminations in that group. The two highest in each group are given:

Junior Boys Grade School:
Vance Burson, Gwinn Williamson.
Junior Girls Grade School:
Bobbie Allard, Roberta McMarty.
Junior Girls High School:
Wilma Joyce Smith, Daphne Fern Blackwell.
Junior Boys High School:
Roy Bechtol, Len Lee.
Senior Boys High School:
Joe Burson, George Martin.

DUST HERE THIS WEEK

This section of the county received its first serious dust storm Sunday night. Parts of the country west and north of here were dusted in a much more serious manner. It is said that as far as actual damage to growing wheat, there has been little or none. In western Oklahoma and Kansas, however, it is feared that the wheat has been damaged.

And as for our wheat in this section, it has really been growing. Most fields are getting matted over well and with a little moisture soon, we can forget the dust.

M. E. Revival Starts Soon

Plans are complete for a Revival Meeting at the Methodist Church here beginning March 29, and continuing for two weeks, or until the morning services, April 12. Rev. Allen A. Peacock, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Silvertown will conduct the two week's meeting.

Rev. A. C. Jones will be in charge of the choir and special music, assisted by local people. Special music and a good choir will be heard throughout the meeting. Singers from the entire territory are extended a cordial invitation to attend and assist with the music.

A special invitation is extended to all to come and hear Rev. Peacock deliver his live, up-to-date messages. You will enjoy them.

Our Invitation

To all who mourn and need comfort, to all who are weary and need rest, to all who are friendless and need friendship, to all who pray, and to all who do not but ought, to all who sin and need a Savior, to whosoever will, this church opens wide its doors. Welcome.—Rev. A. A. Peacock, Pastor.

A 3-act comedy, "A Poor Married Man," will be presented by some members of the Antelope Literary Society at the Antelope school house Saturday night, March 21. The cast includes Professor John B. Wise, a poor married man acted by E. L. Carpenter; Doctor Matthew Graham, a country physician, Ancel Barton; Billy Blake, a popular college boy, Raymond Waldrop; Jupiter Jackson, a black trump, Grant Barclay; Mrs. Iona Ford, some mother-in-law, Mrs. Oscar Bullock; Zoie Ford, her charming daughter, Mrs. E. L. Carpenter; June Graham, a little freshman, Margaret Edens; Rosalind Wilson, a college reporter, Gussie Bullock. No admission, will be charged, so come one, come all!

Dewey Keith Smith celebrated his fourth birthday in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smith Sunday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyal Smith of Ropesville, Texas.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following: Mr. T. L. Calloway of the Rock Creek community and Miss Geraldine Brown of Floyd County and Mr. J. C. Lockey and Miss Doris Cyprert both from Floyd County, March 15.

WHITESIDE CAR OVERTURNS

Mrs. T. R. Whiteside, Mrs. Bert Douglas and children, Gaynelle and Rex, Wynona Bomar and Mrs. Terrell were returning home from Lubbock last Thursday night, when they struck loose dirt and a tire blew out, the car was overturned breaking several glasses, Gaynelle's right leg was cut, and Mrs. Terrell received a broken rib and severe bruises. The rest were shaken up quite a bit but were not seriously injured.

Martin Explains Trustee Election

Since there is quite a bit of confusion and misunderstanding about the County Trustee Election, I wish to make a brief explanation of the law.

According to the law, each County has five trustees. One trustee is elected from each Commissioner's precinct and then there is one Trustee at Large elected by the whole county.

These trustees hold office for two years. Mr. Patterson, who is the County Trustee at Large was elected last year, hence he will not be voted on this year.

Mr. Badgett, who is the trustee from Commissioner's Precinct number 2, was elected last year, so he will not be voted on this time.

But Commissioner's Precincts number 1, 3, and 4 will have to elect their trustees this year.

For your information, I will say that H. Roy Brown is the trustee for precinct No. 1. His term expires this year.

W. E. Redin is the present trustee for precinct No. 3. His term expires this year also.

E. D. McMurtry is the trustee for precinct No. 4. His term expires this year.

In conclusion Precinct Nos. 1, 3, and 4 must each elect a precinct trustee on Saturday April 4th.

Judge W. W. Martin

RETAIL SALES SHOW GAIN OF 14% IN 1935

Total retail sales are estimated to have gained 14 percent in 1935 over 1934, to reach a grand total of $32,600,000.000. Based on the estimates just received by the Dallas District Office of the Department of Commerce, this figure represents two-thirds of the total retail sales volume of 1929 as reported by the Bureau of Census the first time an actual count was ever made of the nation's retail business. The estimates were prepared by Nelson A. Miller, Chief Retail Trade Section, of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The largest gains in sales during 1935 over 1934 were represented by catalogue business of mail-order houses (26 percent), and automotive dealers (25 percent). Other notable increases in 1935 over 1934 were enjoyed by the furniture and household group (21 percent), the lumber, building, and hardware group (20 percent), restaurants (18 percent), and jewelry stores (15 percent). Variety stores showed the smallest increase in 1935 (2 percent), although, next to restaurants, they are nearer their 1929 level of sales volume than any of the other retail group. Variety stores suffered less during the depression than did any of the other classifications, and a conservative increase during the past two years leaves them in a favorable position compared with 1929. Other conservative increases were shown in 1929 by the department store group (7 percent), appare group (8 percent), drug stores (8 percent). Retail food stores, including bottled beer and liquor stores, accounted for about 25 percent of the total sales. Automotive outlets represented nearly 21 percent of total sales. These two business groups continue to receive the largest share of the consumer's retail dollar, as they did in 1929 and during each subsequent year to the present time. Restaurants, variety stores, mail-order business, and drug stores have made the most notable recoveries toward 1929 levels, from which sales declined generally in all lines until 1933, and in some cases, 1932. Each of these classifications is estimated to have recovered three-fourths or more of its 1929 volume. On the other hand, several groups have not fared as well in their efforts to regain their 1929 volume. Despite recent recoveries in sales, jewelry stores now have but 73 percent of their 1929 sales, lumber, building, and hardware stores, 48 percent, furniture and household stores, 50 percent. These kinds of business all showed substantial gains for 1935 over 1934 of 15, 20, and 21 percent respectively.

Agricultural Briefs

By County Agent

March winds are howling over these "Baldies" these days and as they go they carry with them a most exacting toll of the farmers most valuable asset—top soil. It is interesting to note that those fields are not blowing where deep contour listing has been done. Some fields have been left with sufficient cover crop to prevent blowing too. Those of us who have fields that are blowing away might profit a great deal by visiting those farms with contoured deep listed rows and those with cover crops on too. I believe we'll get an idea.

Wind Erosion Money Coming

Briscoe County is soon to receive an allotment of funds for the prevention of wind erosion. This money will be in somewhat the same form that was handed out last year. Last year, tho it didn't have any strings attached to it—much, but this year it has two pretty fair "cards" hooked to it. There will be 20c per acre advanced for plowing the wind damaged fields. These fields are to be examined before and after plowing. The only acceptable manner of plowing under this new set up will be CHIZELING or DEEP LISTING on the CONTOUR. If you expect to get any of this money you will remember that you must comply with this provision of the act.

Please do not come in to make application for this wind erosion money until further notice as we do not yet have the application blanks nor the money. You will be advised when these are available.

Cotton Tag News

Many farmers are wondering (and twice that many are asking) when we are to receive our checks from pooled tags. If I were smart enough to answer this question I'd be in Mr. Wallace's place and not wasting my valuable time down here in Briscoe County—but I'm not that smart! I do know the, that Mr. Government is being sued by farmers who bought tags, for the return of the money they had to pay for tags and Mr. Government cannot sue us that money until the courts rule on the suit. Maybe the "Black Robed Nine" will send us the money and maybe they'll decide to give it back to the men who paid it in. You know since those boys returned $200,000.000 of the consumer's money back to the processors, there isn't much telling what they will do with our tag money. They may give it to Bruno Hauptman.

If you have any tags left over don't destroy them—some day they may be worth something to you.

Good News

Ever since January 6th we've been wondering if the folks were dead up at Washington. This week we have received a few "things" from Washington which gives us reason to believe that the wheels are beginning to turn again in Washington. A few of our late cotton checks and two late wheat checks drifted in this week. The first ones to be received since Jan. 6th. We are taking new hope—Maybe the boys haven't all gone from Washington after all!

Hitler Rearms Rhineland; Other Nations Protest

EUROPE'S dogs of war were growling ominously and tugging at their chains, but those chains, being forged in England, seemed likely to stand the strain.

Adolf Hitler

The order was granted on the petition of the Tennessee Public Service company which contended its $4,000,000 investment in Knoxville would be rendered practically worthless, if the government brought cheaper power into the city.

Also in the District Supreme court, 65 producers of soft coal attacked the Guffey coal control act as unconstitutional in its entirety on the ground that it invades the rights of the states and deprives producers of their property without due process of law.

Senator Steiwer of Oregon attacked the doings and methods of the Black committee, contending the rights of citizens were being infringed. Mr. Black made a heated defense.

Reaction in the capitals of Europe was quick and in some cases almost violent. Premier Albert Sarraut of France appealed to the League of Nations, asking that sanctions against Germany be applied.

Italy's position in this squabble was interesting. Called on by France to support the protest against Germany, Mussolini took full advantage of the situation to get all he could for his own cause.

Now it devolved on Great Britain, real arbiter of peace or war, to define her stand, for France demanded full support in return for the assurances she had given when trouble impended in the Mediterranean.

Belgium joined France in the appeal to the League of Nations, and a session of the league council was called for March 13.

Senators in Washington who expressed any opinion were unanimous in saying that the United States must be kept out of any European war, regardless of developments.

Seizure of Telegrams to Be Investigated

THE senate adopted a resolution inquiring into the seizure of telegrams by Senator Borah requiring the federal communications commission to make a full report on its "alleged seizures" of private telegrams for Senator Black's committee on lobbying.

Move Toward Peace in Italo-Ethiopian War

THROUGH its committee of thirteen the League of Nations appealed to Benito Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie to consent to immediate negotiations for an end to hostilities and a definite re-establishment of Italo-Ethiopian peace.

Chairman Hill said the experts and the members of the subcommittee were agreed that the tax on undivided surplus should not apply to banks and life insurance companies.

The so-called "windfall" tax on processors who successfully challenged the AAA in the courts, it was believed, would yield another $200,000,000. This will be used to reimburse the treasury for losses suffered as a result of the Supreme court's invalidation of AAA.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

Maybe Peace, After All Building in a Big Way A Level-Headed King One Strike Method

The real war news from Europe—It sounds like peace news—is that England has refused France's request for immediate assistance in forcing Germany's armies from the Rhineland.

The United States is doing and spending in a big way. The Public Works administration says more than $1,000,000,000 worth of projects have been completed, with $2,200,000,000 of other work still under construction.

A level-headed young man is the new English king. After seeing the new giant Cunarder named for his mother, walking seven miles up and down in it, he visited the slums of Glasgow, called the worst and "leftiest" in England.

Buck Is Passed On to Congress

President Tires of False Criticism; Responsibility Now Lawmakers'

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt has stood enough false criticism about his failure to carry out his economic responsibilities where it belongs—at the door of congress.

Readers of this column recall that on several occasions I have defended the President on his economic program, and pointed out that congress alone is responsible for economy or lack of it. A President can propose a program of tax raising or money spending, but only the congress can enact either one.

This re-elected congress listened to the American Legion rather than Roosevelt, and passed the bill to pay the bonus now instead of when it is due in 1945. Furthermore, congress has fired a succession of bills at the White House calling for money outside the budget, and when Roosevelt refuses to sign congress sulks.

PROTECTS NATIONAL CREDIT

ROOSEVELT knew that the credit of the nation could be expanded to a point where we could carry a $75,000,000,000 debt and not be in danger; but he stops far short of that.

How many millions would be killed, gassed, bombed, ripped to pieces by shrapnel and machine-gun fire before Hitler or the nation back of him could be persuaded that he is not a reincarnation of Frederick the Great, or Napoleon?

Republicans would never produce strong ideas as that. If Republicans believe they are sure to win they will never be caught promising a good job to a Democrat.

STIRS UP HORNETS' NEST

Congress picks up a rock and fires it straight into a hornets' nest when it starts investigating the Townsend old age pension plan to pay oldsters at sixty a $200 monthly pension!

A gallant little band of senators and representatives has contended from the start that the Townsend plan is weak, impossible, fanatical, insane and what-not. They are now going further with their charge, and assail the whole movement as a racket which enriches the managers and will never help a single human being outside the circle of Doctor Townsend's campaign organization.

ROOSEVELT'S NATIONAL CREDIT

ROOSEVELT knew that the credit of the nation could be expanded to a point where we could carry a $75,000,000,000 debt and not be in danger; but he stops far short of that.

How many millions would be killed, gassed, bombed, ripped to pieces by shrapnel and machine-gun fire before Hitler or the nation back of him could be persuaded that he is not a reincarnation of Frederick the Great, or Napoleon?

The Department of Commerce cannot explain the Arkansas air crash, on January 14, that killed 17. It says some passenger "may have incapacitated the pilot or interfered with controls."

Japan is the question mark in the war situation, but wise Japan would not deliberately antagonize all her customers and friends in western Europe by striking at Russia, in a war interesting to all of them.

Mrs. Akeley, who used to help her husband hunt lions and gorillas before he died, has been to Africa on her own account and reports that in south East Africa natives cling to their old ways and methods; nothing will change them.

Next summer, Chicago entomologists will watch 50,000,000 mosquitoes, after they have been dyed red, green, yellow, blue and brown, and learn how far mosquitoes can fly.

The treasury finds that in the first eight months of this fiscal year it has accumulated a deficit of $2,410,000,000. The country took in $2,348,000,000 and spent $4,758,000,000. In prosperous times, the country's total income is $60,000,000,000; but when will those "times" come back?

SYNOPSIS

Kerry Young, a lad of seven, is prepared to flee the burning lumber camp of his benefactor, Jack Snow, who took the youngster to live with him at the death of Kerry's mother. Tod West has instructed Kerry to come with a file containing the camp's funds should it be endangered. Flames attack the office, and Kerry, hugging the precious file, and Tod race to town. Tod acts queerly. At the bank the file is found empty and Kerry is blamed with taking the wrong one. Snow, his headquarters and money gone, is ruined, and soon thereafter dies, leaving Kerry to the Poor Commissioner. Kerry suspects Tod and swears to even the score. In a St. Paul office Kerry, now in manhood, and an expert woodsman, learns of the whereabouts of West. Kerry rescues a lovely girl from a scoundrel, who proves to be West. Tod threatens to pesterize the girl, Nan Downer. She thanks Kerry and tells him of the robbery, and murder of her father and of Tod's advances. She is operating a lumber tract which her father had purchased from West. Kerry makes camp. At the general store in West's Landing, he finds Tod engaged in a poker game. Jim Hinkle, timber employee, loses heavily. Kerry exposes Tod's cheating and disarms him. The crowd is unconvinced of Tod's duplicity. Kerry identifies himself to West, who denies knowing him and advises him to leave town. Nan tells Dr. Ezra Adams of Kerry's rescue of her from Tod, and of West's threat. Ezra, who is coroner, visits Kerry, and appoints Kerry coroner's clerk. Suspicion of the murder had rested on Holt Stuart, employee of Downer, and upon Jim Hinkle, who was cleared by Tod. The doctor has the fatal bullet and the serial numbers of the stolen bills, the girl which has just been paid to Tod. It came out of the poker game, and orders Jim to run Kerry out of town. Kerry discovers he is being spied upon by a "breed." Jim comes to Kerry with a warning to clear out. Nan hires Kerry.

"He likes me!" the girl laughed happily.
"Why shouldn't he?" Young asked with all sobriety. "That dog's got some sense!" Then he laughed at her disfigurement.
He started back toward his camp, and had gone half-way from Nan's headquarters to the mill when he saw a man running along the railroad track toward the trestle. Then another. And from West's Landing, three more were crossing rapidly. . . . when a scream reached his ears. . . . "Something stirring!" he muttered, and began to trot.
"What's up?" Young called to a man.
"Somebody fell in!"
A woman's scream cut the air sharply, and Young saw a man grasp her, holding her from hurling herself into the swirling current below.
"The strokes!" he muttered.
"Sure enough, a child. 'Little girl'!" he answered excitedly when he asked the question again. "Dunno who!"
Kerry paused at the water's edge and jerked at his pac faces.
"Tip!" The dog, tall vibrating as excitement infected him, peered eagerly into his face. "Somebody in there; in the river. On the bottom. . . ."
He went the retriever, swimming rapidly straight out from shore. Tip circled slowly in the current, head tilted, waiting to see below the surface. Then suddenly he dived. He did not go deep; his tail protruded, and he was up in a second.
"Fetch, Tip!" Young cried sharply when he came up. Seconds meant . . .
A half-dozen men were in the river, dog from logs or from the trestle, searching blindly.
And then, below and outside these sharp searches, Tip came up with a sharp little yip!
That Young went in, swimming dog circling and went under, diving for the same spot.
When he came up, his master was ill will, I believe.
"Good dog!" he gasped and dived the bottom.
He was dark down there. He dove deep with mighty sweeps of arms, with powerful scissor-kicks ceasing hundreds of feet.
He stayed down longer slipping rapidly the groped wildly. His hand touched a slimy snag; and then, lungs bursting-point, he was forced to spot upward.
He broke the surface, shaking water from his eyes and gasping air. A hundred voices was in his ears.
He went further up-stream this time, and dived with the flow. Again he touched the snag, but that was all.
In he dived, and this time he touched a vague flash of color in the murky depths as he groped. He rose quickly and his best to get back to a point where he could dive again.
He turned, he saw another swimmer close to him again that his action was restricted.
A black hair was plastered over his brow; angular black eyes past him. Even in that moment of stress, Kerry had time to reflect that this was the face which stared at him while he shaved and drowned!
He went down again, down and deeper and deeper. The depths of the ear drums; his lungs cried relief from this repeated pressure was on his back; . . . of his back a hand was . . . of was fastening in his

He kicked savagely, rolled over, eluded the clutch and shot upward. He dashed a hand across his eyes, gulped air through open mouth. A rod below him the swarthy man rose, spitting, and turned up-stream. He gave Young one glance, and the dark eyes shone with malice.
"Trying that! And now of all times! The fellow was not even attempting to find the child; he was intent on bringing harm upon one who was, a bitter loathing sang in Kerry's heart for a moment, but he drove it away. No time, this, for personal animosities.
He took a deep breath and went down again, water hurting his ears, pressing against his throat. . . . And once more that vague blotch of lighter color. . . . Sand? A boulder? A clay ledge? He expelled the air from his lungs and put all his will, all his heart and consciousness into a final downward stroke. His reaching hand touched something soft; his fingers entwined there. It was cloth! The current bore at him; his grip on the fabric held.
He dragged himself against the current, tugging at that garment, battling to dislodge it. . . . His head buzzed; a quick nausea spread through his vitals. He felt that this was his last instant of consciousness. His tortured lungs expanded, and water gushed into his throat. He wrenched mightily with the one hand, as a new, inner darkness, engulfed him, and then gave up. . . . yielded, let his lungs have their way, and was shocked to find himself breathing sweet air.
He was on the surface, barely able to float, but he was not alone. In the crook of his arm was a limp, light body!
Up-stream he heard screams and shouts. None had noticed that he came up with a burden. He drew the child's head to the surface, got a hand beneath her chin, and kicked feebly.
He tried to shout for help, but his voice was only a gurgle. He redoubled his efforts, but his strength was spent. And then a whine in his ear, and hot breath on his cheek, and Tip was there at his side.
"Good—" he gasped. "He!"
He fastened fingers in the mat of stiff curly hair; the dog angled across the current towing his master; Young's floundering feet touched bottom, and he reeled to the bank.

He dropped to his knees beside a log. He threw the little girl face down across it. He hooked a finger in the mouth, prying open the set jaws, flattening the tongue, and bore his weight down on her back. Water gushed from the mouth. Again he drove water from the small lungs, and again, while strength poured back into his own body.
Others were coming now; help was on the way. A man was almost to him; more streamed behind. But there was a job to do, and he knew how to do it, the task that would give strength to this last and perhaps waning hope.
Roughly he lifted the small body, with arms and legs so pitifully lifeless, and stretched it on the log, head lower than the feet. He jerked one of the child's arms beneath her face, rolled her head to one side, and straddling the log placed his great palms across the lower ribs and pressed firmly. . . .
He held the lungs compressed an instant and let the ribs spring outward. Down again went his weight, and water trickled from the mouth.
A distracted woman burst through the growing group. She tried to hurl herself on Young, on the child, and the men took her gently away.
"Keep 'em back," he gasped. "She'll want . . . all the air . . ."
Steadily he worked, watching that waxen profile for sign. Down . . . Hold . . . Up . . . Down again. The group was quiet now, watching with tensely stamped on faces. Women had the mother—because, surely, such distress could only have been a mother's—on the high bank. Her sobs had taken on a high-pitched wailing.
Ten minutes passed. Men were looking at one another, shifting from foot to foot restlessly.

He Fastened Fingers in the Mat of Stiff Curly Hair.

"What do you think, Young?" someone asked. They knew his name!
He twisted his head doubtfully, and a sharp pang of dismay ran his heart. It was not nice doubting his own ability to restore life to a child, so slender, so tender. A lump swelled in his throat, but he drove it down.
The girl's one arm, hanging inert over the log, swayed dismally as he worked. . . .
Fifteen minutes; the watchers were moving and muttering. The child's eyes were half open. . . . Brown eyes, he saw.
Twenty minutes.
Figures were running along the high bank. The woman screamed again. A man hurried down toward them, and the crowd parted to let him through. It was Jim Hinkle, panting, his face the color of sweat. He stopped abruptly. Lips parted, one hand swinging meaninglessly. His eyes, large and desperate with query, turned to Young. This must be his child!
"Can't tell, Jim," Kerry replied to the unspoken question. "We should have an outside chance. And we won't quit!"
His shoulders and back ached. The inside of one knee had rubbed raw on the log. It was nothing, though, compared to what Jim Hinkle was feeling.
And then Nan Downer was there, standing just inside the circle of men. One hand was at her lips and her eyes were dark with suspense. He smiled assuredly as he worked. . . .
The little girl's hair was drying in the breeze now. Golden, it was, and in dismay about the small, motionless head.
A full hour had passed since he carried her from the water. Now and again Jim looked at Young, and his lips would twitch. Others were talking lowly, moving about, their tenseness gone. Kerry could see shrugs and heads shaken. They had given up hope.
"Don't you think," Mel Knight, the storekeeper at the Landing, asked as he came close, "that it'd be as well . . . You see, they got to realize it sometime."
"No, we won't quit."
"But man, you can't keep on hangin' to hope—"
"Sh!"
He had just started the pressure, but relaxed it. He held his hand on the small back and turned his head, intently waiting for what he had thought he felt to come again. Then leaned low, held so in a strained silence . . .
Then it came again . . . Just the whisper of a cough!
"Careful, Jim! Steady, now!" He held the trembling father back with one arm, and began to chafe one of the little girl's wrists rapidly.
He beckoned Nan to him.
"Get after the feet," he said quietly. "She's on her way."
"You, Mel. Rustle up hot blankets and things."
Ten minutes later Kerry gave the moaning child into her father's arms and stood beside Nan, watching her carried tenderly away. The look on the mother's face, the vast relief and thanksgiving which showed in the very set of Jim's shoulders, touched things within Young. Nostrils smarted; his throat constricted and a mist came into his eyes.
A "breed" had turned to join the ragged procession moving up the bank. "Who's the Injun?" he asked the girl, eyes following the great frame of the man, strength of which could not be concealed by the cotton shirt and faded overalls and moccasins.
"His name is Bluejay . . . Frank Bluejay," she answered; and then, as if pointedly: "Why?"
He shrugged. "He was spying on me from across the river this morning."
A slight gasp escaped her.
"Bluejay too! He's a bad citizen," she whispered. "My father used to say he believed him the cruelest man he had ever known. Everyone distrusts him except Tod West. He works for him, when he works."
A hard smile came into Young's eyes and he nodded.
"When he works, eh?" he asked.
They parted then, Nan going toward the mill, Young mounting the trestle and returning slowly.
"Hi, Bluejay!" he hailed.
The "breed" turned, standing on the ties.
"What you want?" he asked, with the accent of his race, and his look was clearly a belligerent one.
Young did not answer until he had covered the distance between them. When, at arm's-length, Kerry stopped, he said quietly:
"I want to know this: why were you watching me from cover this morning? And when I've found that out, I'm going to ask you why you were fighting me under water down there?"
A cigarette dangled loosely from the other's lower lip, and now the upper one curled slightly.
"Who's askin' that?" he asked.
"You? Huh! I tell you; I say to you, it's none of your dam' business what I do!" He nodded slowly, head thrust forward. "I say somethin' more to you, eh? I say these; you get to hell outta here before somethin' very bad catch up with—"
He did not finish the threat. Sure of himself as a bad man well and long feared will be, he was unprepared for Kerry's quick move.
He swung sharply and stonily, putting all his strength into the swing. His palm caught Bluejay on the ear with a stinging smack; the force of the blow rocked the man, swayed him off balance. He threw out his arms, teetering on one foot; he clawed the air twice, writhed and strained an instant to get the other foot down in time, and, falling, flung himself sideways for the river in a half fall, half dive.

The impact of his body on the stream made a mighty splash. He came up immediately, shaking his eyes clear and treading water.
"Wh-what you 'tink you doin', eh?" he gasped. "What you—"
"I think I knocked you loose from yourself as a beginning!" Kerry said, hotly. "And I'm standing here to wait for you to come up again. I'll knock you in as fast as you come up, Injun. . . . That is, if you come up on this side. If you want to keep out of trouble with me, you swim yourself across yonder and stay there! Get that? Stay there!"
"Ho! So you 'tink—"
With a defiant curse the man started swimming for the forbidden shore, and Young, hitching at his belt, followed slowly along the trestle, ready for a second encounter. But Bluejay had not gone far, looking upward at that dark and infuriated face, when he hesitated, spat angrily and turned, striking out for West's Landing, swimming like an otter.
CHAPTER VII

A job and some enemies, and at least the beginnings of some friendships.
Young pondered those possessions as he spent a drizzly afternoon making his camp permanent. And after dark, as he sat in Nan Downer's office and talked to her and Holt Stuart, he wondered just where this quick spoken, high-strung youth was going to fit in with his scheme of things.

Holt appeared to him as one who would normally come to rapid decisions; form, perhaps, snap judgments. And yet Kerry had the feeling that in his case the forester was holding back, reserving his estimate and opinion.
When Holt's eyes rested on Nan, a hunger of long standing appeared in them. Not the lust that had been on Tod West's face yesterday afternoon up river, but a clean, upright respect . . . and something deeper than that.
Stuart withdrew after a time, leaving Nan and Kerry alone. The door to the great lounging room of the headquarters was open. Logs smoldered on the hearth there.
"It's damp," the girl said; "let's finish our talk near the fire."
So she curled in a massive armchair on one side of the hearth while Young sat opposite her and continued the talk of the job. Tip, with a sigh of contentment, stretched on his side before the fire, and when a pause came in their discussion of timber estimates and mapping the girl's eyes rested on him.
"What a lovely creature!" she murmured and the retriever, opening one eye, rapped his tail as if understanding and appreciating the compliment.
Nan and Kerry laughed and Tip stretched and sighed luxuriously and flopped his tail again.
It was late when he left Nan, an agreement reached and ready to report in the morning to work at the big drafting board.
A light rain was falling, and after Nan had said her good-nights to Tip Kerry threw a balloon-silk slicker about his shoulders and walked away in the darkness.
He had not gone far when he felt Tip come a bit closer, and then a vague figure detached itself from the shadow of a pine tree.
The hail, when it came, though cautious and low, was not unfriendly.
"Young? That you, Young?"
"Yo! What's up?"
The other approached and then Kerry halted.
"It's Jim Hinkle, Young."
"Oh, hullo, Jim! How's the girl?"
"Fine! All right!"—looking about cautiously. "I . . . I wonder if I could get you to stop here a minute? I got somethin' I got to say to you, Young!"
He was wholly sincere, and not at all at ease. That belligerence which had been on display early in the morning was wholly gone.
"Well, when a man's got to talk . . . why, he's just got to talk, hasn't he? Won't you walk on down to my camp? We'd be snug—"
"Lord, no! You see, that wouldn't do, Young. I . . . I don't want certain parties ever to know I hunted you up friendly-like."
"I'd be a stunk if I didn't say it after what you done for us. I ain't even thanked you yet for givin' Elsie back to us." His voice shook. "That's all I can say about that . . . that I thank you. . . . A man can't say anythin' else when . . . it's his own kid, Young."
"That's all right, Jim. You needn't even have said that much."
"Oh, yes! I had to say that. But that's the smallest part of it. I . . . I got other things to say, Young."
"I'm no good, you know. I'm a hell of a citizen. I drink and I gamble and I don't pay attention to my debts like I ought. I don't amount to nothin'. But it's only when somethin' happens like happened today that I git thinkin' about it much."
"And I got this to say . . . because of the things I've been thinkin' this afternoon: I was lower'n a snake's belly to come to you like I did 'n't try to drive you out of this country!"
Pause.
"You see it's different, now. I . . . That is, I come to you just after you up like I . . . like I believed what the rest of 'em believe: that you fram up somethin' on Tod."
"And you know all along that I was real? That he did cheat?"

HOW ARE YOU TODAY

DR. JAMES W. BARTON
Talks About

Use of Dinitrophenol
"USE of the drug dinitrophenol should be adopted only as a 'last resort' for reducing weight, but in spite of the danger attending its use it is a valuable drug when properly administered."
The above quotation is from the group of physicians in San Francisco—Dr. Maurice L. Tainter, A. E. Stockton and W. C. Cutting—who have been experimenting with this drug for about three years. The above statement was made at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association, Atlantic City, this past summer.
However as dinitrophenol may be obtained in any drug store and the dosage is on the package, it is important that physicians study this drug and its effects so that if no good is obtained by its use at least no harm can come to their patients.
There are a number of points that must be remembered in the use of this drug. The size of the dose depends upon the size or weight of the individual, because an individual weighing 150 pounds may weigh more in proportion to his figure or physique than one weighing 300 pounds. The usual dosage, however, is prescribed in accordance with the weight, one weighing 150 pounds taking half the size of the dose of another weighing 300 pounds. This would be simple enough except that all overweights do not react the same to the drug. Thus one gets a skin rash, another abdominal symptoms, another the symptoms of shock, all by the use of the "average" dose, while others take almost twice the average dose with no symptoms except that of heat and profuse sweating.
The fact that must always be remembered is that while fat is a liability or menace to health, nevertheless while it was being put on it was in a gradual manner, and the body was able to add the few ounces daily without trouble. Similarly if fat is to be removed you can understand that it should be removed in the same gradual manner and there will thus be no "shock" to the system which is the danger in using fat reducing drugs. As stated by Dr. L. F. Bishop, Fordham university, some months ago, "Fat may be removed by taking certain drugs, but only at the expense of strength and health, and an alarming weakness of the heart often results. The reduction of weight by drugs disturbs other organs in the body."
May Cause Shock.
Now while dinitrophenol does not put the extra work on the heart that is done by other drugs—thyroid extract for instance—nevertheless the severe sweating and the rapid loss of the fat, which fat may be supporting certain organs, so upsets the usual workings of these organs that shock or ill health may result.
Drs. Tainter, Stockton and Cutting state that so effective is the drug in burning up the tissues that the temperature of the body is raised and the drinking of much water to dissipate the heat is urged. The treatment was administered to 170 patients and the average loss of weight was 17 pounds in an average treatment period of 88 days. Thus if you divide the amount of the average weight loss (17) by the number of days (88) it shows that the average daily weight loss was between three and four ounces.
I venture to say that any physician by studying his patient's food needs, supervising a carefully selected reducing diet, and prescribing an increased amount of exercise—however slight—can obtain a weight reduction of three to four ounces daily without shock or danger to the patient, and the patient will be stronger at the end of the said 88 days than before the weight was reduced.

Make These Spring Accessories Colorful

PATTERN 1132

Just as soon as you complete one of these smart pairs you can begin using it, for either is right for now, or Spring. Both are very easy to do, for the greater part is just plain crochet, with a simple shell stitch for contrast in hat trim, and on the purse. The rayon and wool mixture so popular now is an attractive yarn to use.
Pattern 1132 comes to you with directions for making the set; an illustration of it and of all stitches needed; material requirements.

Although they may be very active and apparently in good health, many women, at certain times, will do well to take Cardui. Mrs. F. T. Foster, of Greensburg, Ky., writes that she has "derived great benefit" from Cardui.
"Before taking Cardui, I was weak and extremely nervous, and suffered from sleeplessness. This made me tired and worn in daytime. My back ached continually. Being an active woman, I did not want to continue in this condition. Having heard a great deal about Cardui, I found, after just a few bottles, I was much relieved. I continued taking Cardui and was so much helped."
Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

SPRING POEM

"Mary had a little lamb,
It's fleece was white as snow,
It strayed away one summer day
Where a lamb should never go.

Then Mary sat her down and cried,
The tears streamed from her eyes,
She never found her lamb because
She did not ADVERTISE."—Ex.

Overheard a fellow telling of the man hours problem on construction work. It seems that a stated number of man hours are required in proportion to the size of the project; and its kinda hard sometimes to find some way to get the man hours in. He said he knew one foreman who had a man on the job who was an eyebrow archer. He arched his brows for the foreman, at the men who were wasting time.

The season is open for punsters—election year you know. Here's one we just read: "Never swap horses in the middle of 'extremes'." That is one pun that should have been spelled with a 'k'.

Rev. Pacock was reported in last week's News as attending the Cattleman's Convention at Amarillo. He says not, that it was a church convention. So in a way we were wrong. But on the other hand, a convention is a convention, and Amarillo is Amarillo. "Get thee behind me..."

I drove over our 'scenic drive' to Clarendon Sunday. And it really is one too. The same thing in miniature, that thousands drive to Colorado to see every summer. A mighty good road too, considering the canyons it crosses.

I stopped in at the office of the Donley County Leader and was lucky enough to find Mr. Estlack in. Friendly folks, the Estlacks are, and mighty nice to meet. They have a fine paper over there, get good support from the town and are very deserving of it. Clarendon is a busy little town, a little too good for a Silverton man to brag on. But with that canyon between, it's a darn good town.

Friday I was in the office of the Tulla Herald and got acquainted with the Engleman Brothers. It was a working day but they found time to make a visitor feel right at home. They have a busy business.

Have heard my folks tell of hard times in the early days. But they were not so bad at that. Now take our hardships, flat tires, frozen radiators, 40c restaurant meals, ice man late, bridge, telephone out of order. Poor us.

ALLRED'S OPPOSITION

Because of the excellent record he has established as the state's chief executive, Governor James V. Allred need have no worry over the opposition that is cropping up against him for the July Democratic primary. His vigor, astuteness, honesty and constructive legislative program will assure his reelection, because Texans have accepted his administration of affairs with utter satisfaction.

Whatever may be the qualifications of the men who have announced as opponents to Allred, the voters are not going to be inclined to dispense with the services of so able an executive as the present governor.

There already are six men in the field against Allred. It is possible that some of these men are placing their names on the ballot for the sake of publicity. Certainly their psychology is not so defective as to cause any one of them to believe he will be a formidable opponent to Allred, in the face of that young worthy's record.

THE BOOK REVIEW
The Raven by Marquis James

Through this excellent work, which is a biography of Sam Houston, Marquis James won the Pulitzer prize in 1929.

As a boy Marquis James lived in the Cherokee strip of Oklahoma. Young Mark's father was a friend of Sam Houston's son, Temple Houston. He listened open mouthed to tales of the glamour and fame of the older Houston, as related by his son, James carried Temple Houston's stories around in his mind for twenty-five years before they finally took shape in the biography of Sam Houston.

One day while hunting in a village library for material for some newspaper work he unearthed some unfamiliar material on Houston which caused him to resign his work with the New York paper and devote his time to writing the life of Houston. This work required five years.

Through "the Raven" James reached his great success as a writer. He could not have chosen for a biography a more famous or romantic character than Sam Houston. Wherever he went Houston was the most spectacular figure there.

He was the romantic ideal of the women of the nation. Tall and powerful of frame he was our greatest pioneer, our greatest statesman and a courageous soldier.

Mrs. Durward Brown Honored With Shower

On Monday, March 16th, at the home of Mrs. Bland Burson, Mrs. Durward Brown was the honoree at a beautiful tea and shower.

The guests were received by Mrs. Bland Burson and Miss Carolyn Schott. The bride, in her gracious manner, greeted and thanked each guest personally for her gifts, which were attractively displayed on tables in the living room.

Misses Josephine Daniel and Gwendolyn Cloyd ushered the guests into the dining room where delicious refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, cookies and punch were served. Mrs. W. E. Schott and Mrs. H. Roy Brown presided at the handsomely appointed tea table which was laid with lace, centered by an exquisite bowl of sweet peas and fern. Favors for each guest were sweet peas and a sprig of fern.

The hostesses for this occasion were Mrs. Bland Burson, Misses Gwendolyn Cloyd, Carolyn Schott, Sarah Frances Smith, Anis Fowler, Mary Jo Smylie, Josephine Daniel, Gaynelle Douglas, Elizabeth Schott; Mesdames W. E. Schott, H. Roy Brown and N. R. Honea.

Those who called during the afternoon were Misses Murphy, Baylor, Durham, Montgomery, Coolie, Anderson, Summers, Wilma Dickerson, Wynona Bomar, Opal Watson, Bertha Thomas; Mesdames Redin, Busby, Castleberry, Peacock, Smylie, Douglas, Roy McMurtry, Crass, Billie Dickerson, Ben O. Bomar, Joe McMurtry, Tull, Dick Cowart, Ed Thomas, Raymond Bomar, Foust, and Burnam.

Gifts were also received from many who were not present.

P. T. A. Get-Together

Friday evening, March 13, was unlucky for those who failed to be at the school gym for the 'Get-together' for teachers and patrons of the recently organized P. T. A.

Our president, Mrs. F. R. White really knows how to do things and the echos of laughter rang through the building continuously. Games of '42' for the more sedate, and ping-pong and table tennis furnished the entertainment of the evening.

Mr. Castleberry and the cast presented the one-act play which is to win the state championship (provided) in the meets to be held soon. The play was good and here's hoping they win.

is any oil any different?

Different because it's alloyed

We don't mean one of those "talking point" differences. We mean a real difference. Alloying Germ Processed oil goes beyond refining and re-refining. After every harmful element is cleaned out, the patented Conoco Germ Processing element is scientifically put IN.

That's what brings you this alloyed oil, with its strange attachment for pistons, cylinders, and all other engine parts—including every known type of bearing. All these parts really become oil-plated!

This oil-plating is extra. It's a plus—added to the tougher, more slippy, heat-beating Germ Processed oil film. You've got this high-durability oil film, sliding on thoroughly oil-plated surfaces, and so you're that much farther from wear and noise.

You're facing hotter days and harder runs. Out with dirty winter oil! Only the Conoco man can change you—quickly—to Germ Processed, the alloyed oil. Continental Oil Company.

Lesson for March 22 JESUS TEACHING TRUE VALUES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 12:13-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you—Matthew 4:12. PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Good Gifts. JUNIOR TOPIC—When Is a Man Rich? INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Is Most Worth Living For?

The common tendency of men is to be engrossed with the gifts of God instead of knowing him as the heavenly Father and enjoying his blessed fellowship. Man's supreme need is to know and enjoy God himself.

I. A Warning Against Covetousness (vv. 13-21).

1. The occasion (vv. 13-15). One of the company requested Jesus to be umpire in a disputed estate. Two brothers were in trouble over an inheritance. Christ refused to enter the sphere of the civil law and warned against the spirit of avarice. His mission was pre-eminently spiritual.

2. The warning enforced (vv. 16-22). This was done by the parable of the rich man. He showed most clearly that to be concerned with earthly riches while neglecting God is the highest folly. Concerning this man, note:

a. His increased goods (v. 16). His riches were rightly obtained, for the ground brought forth plentifully. A man may be rich because the Lord's blessing is upon him.

b. His perplexity (v. 17). His lands were producing more than his barns would hold. He did not want it to go to waste. No frugal man wants to see the fruits of his toil perish. If he had possessed right views of life and a sense of stewardship before God, he would have seen that his barns had enough for his personal needs, and would have distributed the surplus to the needy.

c. His fatal choice (vv. 18, 19). He chose to enlarge his barns, and give up his life to ease and luxury. It ought to be a delightful task for men whom God has made rich to devote their time and energy to the distribution of their possessions to benevolent objects.

d. The awful indictment (vv. 20, 21). God calls him a fool and this is no arbitrary judgment. Riches furnish neither contentment in life nor guarantee of the continuance of life. It is not only foolishness but madness to forget God while engaged in heaping up riches. Soon the man must die and his riches may get into the hands of unworthy men or even curse the lives of the children who inherit them.

II. The Certain Cure for Anxiety (vv. 22-34).

Having shown the folly of the rich man who gained gold and lost God, he now urged the disciples to trust God and dismiss all anxious care.

1. The argument (vv. 22, 23). This is summed up in one brief sentence: "The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment."

2. The illustrations (vv. 24-28). a. God's care for the fowls (vv. 24-26). The ravens do not sow nor reap, they have neither storehouses nor barns, yet they live, for God feeds them. If God does not forget the fowl, certainly he will do more for his children who have been created in his likeness and image and redeemed by the precious blood of his Son.

b. God's care for the flowers of the field (vv. 27, 28). If God is so careful of those flowers which appear but for a day, how much more will he clothe his children?

3. The exhortations (vv. 29-34).

a. The getting of food and clothes should not be man's chief concern.

b. Seek the kingdom of God (v. 31). Those who make God's kingdom first shall have all of their needs supplied (Phil. 4:19).

c. Be not afraid (v. 32). God's good pleasure is upon his own and all good things he will give them.

d. Practice self-denial in order to give gifts to those in need (vv. 33, 34).

III. Be Ready for the Coming of the Lord (vv. 35-40).

Having warned the disciples against the acquisition of worldly goods, while forgetting God, and shown them the needlessness of anxiety for food and clothes, he shows them the blessedness of being in a state of readiness when the Lord shall come. Conviction as to the certainty of the Lord's coming is a sure cure for worldliness and anxious care. This attitude of heart he made clear by two parables; that of the return of the Lord, and that of the thief. The Lord will be so pleased with those who are waiting for him that he will take delight in sitting at the banquet with them, and he will even serve them.

Goodness Before Wealth

You are much in the wrong if you do not prefer the good qualities of the mind, before the advantages of fortune; a good man before a wealthy one; a man capable of being a faithful friend, before a rich unfaithful pretender to friendship.

Littleness of Soul

Envy is a littleness of soul, which cannot see beyond a certain point, and if it does not occupy the whole space, feels itself excluded.—Hagitt.

LIKING OUR DUTY

It is not doing the thing we like to do, that makes life blessed.—Goethe.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

GAS-MAKING STOVE COOKS MEAL FOR 2c

Amazing New Invention of W. C. Coleman Brings All the Modern Conveniences of City Gas to Homes Beyond the Gas Mains

Economically-minded housewives will share the enthusiasm of W. C. Coleman, inventive genius, for his new gas-making stove which cooks a meal for 2c or less.

The new Coleman Range will do the family cooking at a cost below that of coal, wood or kerosene stoves, and do it quicker and better.

This remarkable new Coleman Safety Range lights instantly just like gas. Makes its own gas from ordinary lead-free gasoline. Its patented, fuel-saving Band-A-Bla Burners are easily regulated to exactly the heat desired for frying, boiling, baking or broiling.

Mr. Coleman uses Everdur Metal for the fuel tank, a big safety feature. Everdur metal will not rust or corrode.

In addition to providing every cooking advantage of the finest city gas range, Mr. Coleman's new Range adds beauty in the kitchen by distinctive styling and pleasing color effects in gleaming porcelain enamel finish.

Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful Coleman Ranges will receive illustrated literature and a valuable Stove Check Chart by addressing a postcard to W. C. Coleman, Dept. WU-235, Wichita, Kansas—Adv.

Rash Broke Out But Cuticura Soothed

Read this letter—how smarting rash and blisters due to external causes were relieved in almost no time by Cuticura.

"I noticed an itching sensation on my face and arms. It afterwards formed blisters that left the skin very tender and sensitive. Finally a rash broke out which, when rubbed, caused a smarting and intense itching. It was agony.

"A sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment relieved me so much that I bought some. After using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one-half tin of Cuticura Ointment, the rash disappeared." (Signed) Mrs. Grace Bailey, 380 East 201st St., Bronx, New York City.

Cuticura also soothes the irritation of pimples, ringworm, burning and itching of eczema with wonderful speed and effectiveness. Buy today. Ointment 25c. Soap 25c. Samples FREE. Write to "Cuticura," Dept. 19, Malden, Mass.—Adv.

GAS, GAS ALL THE TIME, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A friend suggested Adierika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."—Mrs. Jas. Miller.

Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Miserable with backache?

WHEN kidneys function badly and you suffer a nagging backache, with dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination and getting up at night when you feel tired, nervous, all upset... use Doan's Pills.

Doan's are especially for poorly working kidneys. Millions of boxes are used every year. They are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

FLOYD GIBBONS Adventurers' Club Hello, Everybody!

"The Fish That Caught a Man" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter.

AND did you know that your old Headline Hunter was an angler? Yes, sir, I've got a big stuffed sailfish over my desk. I hooked that seven-foot baby, weighing 67 pounds with light tackle, in the Gulf stream off the Florida coast.

It took me an hour to land the son-of-a-gun and old Izak Walton Gibbons had sore hands for a week afterward. Never mind what luck I've had since then. I'm not talking about that. But what I am talking about is the story of a real fisherman and his battle with a giant ray that made my fish look like a minnow.

Elmer E. Garretson of New York city is the gent's name who caught the ray. Elmer was engaged some years ago to open up a fisherman's camp on Soldier's Key—an island some fifteen miles off of Miami—in waters that abound with all kinds of tropical fish, both large and small. I guess the place is about the best fishing ground in this country and there's no limit to their size.

Sharks big enough to bite a man in two and 500-pound sea turtles lay around in those blue waters like carp in a pond.

Catches Sight of Sea Monster. One day while Elmer was idly glancing at the water from the dock he saw a ray—as big as a barn door—loafing around the coral channel near the key. That was just about the biggest thing Elmer had ever seen swimming and he decided to try and catch it.

Now a ray is a mean customer. Besides being a tremendous size the fish—which is a sort of sea bat with enormous flippers—is armed with sharp, long, bone daggers. These daggers are operated by the tail of the fish and can make a frightful wound.

But Elmer had a reputation to sustain and he wanted that giant ray. So he got out his small motor driven dory, packed his rifle, harpoons and lines aboard and with a guide, Charlie Haggerman, started after him.

Ray Tows Boat to Sea. Well, sir, Elmer spotted the monster lying still on the bottom and, standing up in the boat, made his throw. Zowie! The harpoon sped true to the mark and buried itself in a ton or so of "blet de sole."

Wham! Mister Big Fish, when he felt that harpoon go into his neck, gave his flippers the throttle and hit for the open sea like a racing car! The line shot out so fast that it smoked! In a jiffy the dory sped through the channel and into deep water.

Elmer didn't want to lose that precious line and he didn't want to lose that fish. So he and Haggerman pulled as hard as they could to draw the boat up closer to the fish. They didn't have a chance to draw the fish to them, so they just tried to draw themselves to it, you know, like Mahomet who went to the mountain when the mountain wouldn't come to him. And Elmer says that ray sure was a mountain!

Giant Fish Crushes Motor Dory. "In this way," Elmer writes, "we drew near the fish. To my delight he rose to the surface, so I grabbed a rifle and got set in the bow of the boat for a shot. He was so big I couldn't miss. I drew a quick bead on him. And then it happened!

"Before I could shoot the ray turned and with a tremendous flap of its kite-like wings jumped clean out of the water at us! The pull on the line drew the boat under the fish with such force that it sent Haggerman sailing through the air into the water. And it's a good thing it did because the next second the giant black mass fell with a crash right on the boat! The boat deck crumpled in as though it were made of cardboard instead of hard mahogany, and the giant form seemed to cover the entire boat. I fell backward from the shock but not fast enough.

"An agonizing pain shot through my leg and I fell prone with four of the ray's daggers imbedded above my knee. These daggers are from six to eight inches long, sharp as a needle and lined with saw-like teeth. The daggers, I saw with horror, were inches in my leg! One of them had gone clear through and I could see its jagged point protruding on the other side!

Dragged Overboard by Infuriated Ray.

"The next thing I knew I was being dragged over the side of the boat ATTACHED TO THE FISH! I managed to grab one of the hooks on the side as the fish slipped into the water. Haggerman was now hanging on the other side of the boat and only this kept it from capsizing. But the ray didn't stop there. He started flailing me with his powerful tail as my body hung over the side in the water!

"I thought my arms would be pulled out of their sockets. They would have been had the boat been tied, but as it was I was the tow line and pulled the boat after me. Haggerman meantime had climbed into the boat. As the ray beat me with his huge wings I begged Haggerman for a knife. He couldn't find one but gave me a pair of pliers.

"While I held on to the boat with one hand and Haggerman, too, held on to me, with the other hand I forced the pliers in between the fish and my leg and one by one broke off the daggers at their base. The pain was terrific. It was like operating on one's own leg, but I had to do it.

Pulled Into Boat Nearly Dead.

"Finally the last one snapped and I was pulled into the boat more dead than alive. A tourniquet saved me from bleeding to death. Haggerman then attached the fish line to the anchor and threw it overboard and yve were free."

Boy, oh, boy! What an experience. Elmer was "free," but he had to pull those poisonous daggers out of his leg before they killed him. As the boat staggered back to the key, half full of water, he took the pliers and, using sea water as an antiseptic, pulled the jagged darts out of his leg with his own hands!

To me that part of the job was the hardest of all. Elmer was in the hospital for two weeks and it was a year before he could walk properly and the worst of it, he says, was that the sharks ate up most of the ray before the other fisherman could rescue him. What remained was only some three or four hundred pounds of fish. That's all!

Norway's Home of Giants

About in the middle of southern Norway there rises from the great central plateau a vast wilderness of peaks and glaciers, interspersed with hundreds of brooks and lakes, teeming with trout. This national park is the Jotunheim, a name which means the Home of the Giants. In the Norse mythology it is considered the home of the Jotuns (giants), trolls and other enemies of the good gods, consequently the home of everything evil. Except for a few hunters, no one had seen much of this dreaded district until a little more than a hundred years ago, when the scientists of Oslo "discovered" it.

The Oyster's Protection

The oyster's one protection against its enemies is its hard shell and the ability to keep the halves firmly closed by the adductor muscle. Crabs, however, can break it open. Starfish may either pull the shell apart, or by means of a convenient arrangement, when the oyster is too big and strong for this operation, and equally too big to swallow, they may evert the stomach and engulf the unfortunate oyster, until at last, compelled to open its shells for fresh supplies of oxygen and then it is attacked, weakened, and finally destroyed by the digestive juices.

Slip and Pantie Set Made in Quick Time

PATTERN 9662

Sleek comfort's written between the very seams of this slip and pantie set that's dedicated to smooth fitting and easy making. They're within everyone's reach, and their low cost makes them an out-and-out economy. The slip does a nice job of molding the figure, with its fitted bodice and all-in-one straps that can't slip. The neckline's cut low enough in back to allow it to be worn with your lowest cut frocks. And could anything be smoother than waistband panties which lie flat? A non-shrinkable rayon or crepe is nice.

Pattern 9662 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. Complete diagrammed sew chart included.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 307 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

Banked Fire

Four years ago the city hall at Montgomery, Ala., burned to the ground. The fire department rolled up its hose and went home and in time people forget about it except when they looked at the heap of debris. Recently a steam shovel bit into the remains and uncovered timbers still hot and smoldering.

TEXAS FARMS

By Minnie Fisher Cunningham

This week I drove from College Station to Dallas. The sky was cloudy but a petulant wind snatched away the clouds from time to time and revealed vistas of blue shot with golden sunshine. A typical Texas spring day.

And on Texas farms along the highway, men prepared to "pitch their crops" as our forefathers used to say in Texas a hundred years ago.

Reading in some old plantation account book you find that "pitching the crops" was a serious business. It meant more than just planting the fields.

It meant planning for the family living—food for the families on the farm and feed for the needed animals. All the business we of today have in mind when we say "a live-at-home program."

It meant all of that and even more because their planning included planning cash crops in relation to the needs of the family and the possibilities of the land.

It was delightful to ride across the beautiful countryside and ponder on these things. But complete ease of mind was not possible because of a gentle blue smoke haze that enveloped the landscape.

That smoke arose from countless piles of "brush and trash" being industriously "cleaned up" by men who thought they did well.

The cold relentless fact was that priceless humus was being destroyed and valuable land being condemned to starvation and erosion by those good men. That was sad because they knew not that they did wrong.
