Search in full swing for coach

By RICK WHITE Managing Editor

The list of candidates to replace Randy Adair as the Muleshoe High School head football coach and athletic director is at 30 and still growing, MISD superintendent Bill Moore said Monday.

Three of the applicants are current MISD employees.

Moore said the MISD will continue receiving applications until "the last week of this month."

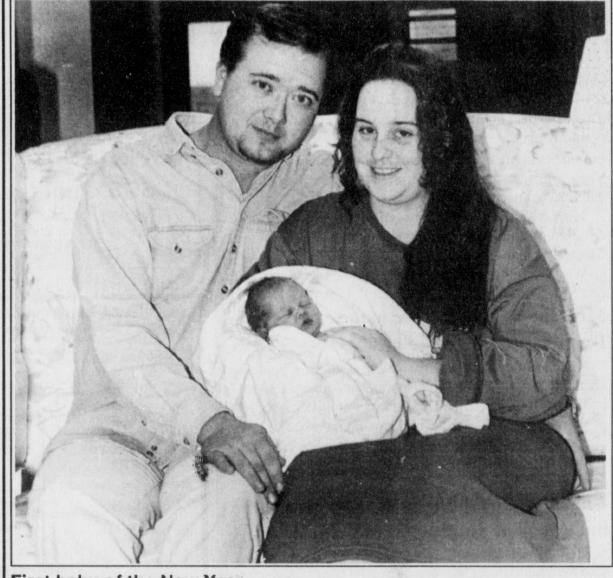

A committee comprised of Moore, the principals at the high school and junior high school, and three parents of current MHS athletes was formed to screen applicants.

The committee will pare the original list of applicants down to approximately five to seven candidates. Interviews will be conducted, with the committee submitting two to three finalist to Moore.

Moore will then present his recommendation to the school

Lady Mules waltz past Floydada, 64-40

By RICK WHITE Managing Editor

Muleshoe High School shed its little-sister syndrome of letting teams tag along.

The Lady Mules jumped out to an double-digit lead early Tuesday and never let Floydada back within nuisance range, posting a convincing 64-40 win at WJHS gym in their District 2-3A home opener.

Muleshoe (16-5 overall, 2-0 in district) has been guilty of allowing opponents to stay close instead of putting them away.

"We kept our composure. For us to not let them back in the game was good to see," Muleshoe coach Jim Gruhlkey said. "Before the game, we talked about making every possession count. We made some mistakes, but they were aggressive mistakes.'

With Allyson Field pushing the ball upcourt and Muleshoe limiting Floydada to one shot, the Lady Mules jetted to a 19-2 first-quarter lead.

Field attacked the defense, several times after clearing the defensive rebound and bringing the ball upcourt. She scored five of her 16 points in the first quarter.

Mandy Cleavinger (17 points) did her usual damage inside early, adding nine points in the first.

"I think Allyson had a lot to do with that," Gruhlkey said of the quick start.

Muleshoe, ranked 10th in this week's Texas Coaches' Class 3A poll, also did a good job of stopping Floydada's dribble penetration. The Lady Whirlwinds tried to spread the floor with and penetrate out of a motion offense. But Muleshoe countered with good help defense out of its man-to-man.

"Mandy did a great job of playing goalie — changing people's shots," Gruhlkey said.

Field's putback of a missed free throw gave Muleshoe its biggest lead of the game, 62-31, with a little less than three minutes left.

Brandi Harrison and Michelle Williams added 10 points each for Muleshoe, and Kristen Nichols finished with eight points.

Proof of UFOs still alien to some

By MARTHA TOLES FROST City Editor

Did a flying saucer crash and not burn in the desert near Roswell, N.M., spilling tiny aliens dressed in shiny jumpsuits?

The "Roswell Incident" of July 1947 is shrouded in a combination of mystery, history and showbiz glitz at two UFO Museums in Roswell, 90 miles west of Portales on Highway 70.

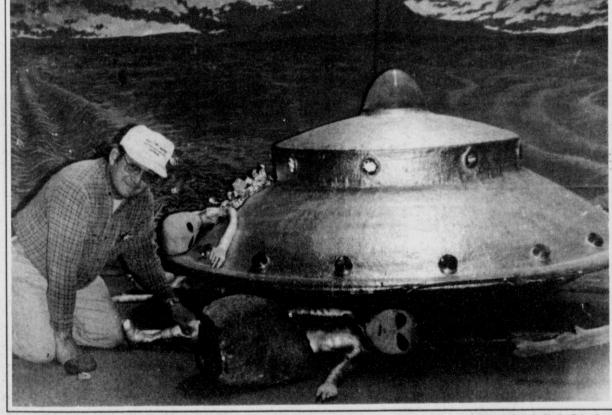

Both museums provide potential hours of considering simulated scenes of a flying saucer crash site or the autopsy of an alien, perusing clippings from newspapers worldwide at the time, watching documentaries and "Unsolved Mystery" episodes, or reading articles, affidavits and books about the incident.

The UFO Enigma Museum on South Main Street is run by Ralph E. Heick, who is writing the history of the Roswell Army Air Field, where his father was aflightengineer during the time of the Roswell Incident.

"He flew the B-36," Heick said last weekend at the museum. "The B-36 had some of the greatest confrontations with saucers. My father told me a saucer flew over him and one flew under him for over 30 minutes. They were 25 feet in

"But when I asked him about the 'Roswell Incident,' he always said, 'Some things are just as well left alone.'

Heik, who was historical research consultant for the movie "Roswell," a fictionalized account of the incident, claims to have seen flying saucers, first at Roswell, and then while he was working in oil fields near Dulce, N.M.

Roswell, a town that kept its military secrets for decades since the post World War II era, began revealing them in the late 1970s and early 1980s, beginning with a National Inquirer article and an "In Search Of," episode on TV.

The incident was first reported in a press release coming from the military and published in the Roswell Daily Record July 8, 1947:

"The intelligence office of the 509th Bombardment Group at Roswell Army Air Field announced at noon today, that the field has come into possession of a flying saucer."

The press release was soon "updated" with what researchers consider to be a "cover story," that the scattered wreckage found in the desert was just a weather balloon.

Reportedly, the crash site was strewn with lightweight material resembling tin foil that would return to its original form if crumpled or folded and that could not be cut, drilled through or burned.

I-beams found at the site were inscribed with unknown hieroglyphic-like symbols.

According to many of the eye-witnesses still living, three dead aliens damaged by predators and exposure and a fourth who was alive when discovered were found-first by archeologists who happened to be rock hunting in the vicinity and a civil engineer who was surveying the area, then by military men-at the site of a downed flying saucer.

The aliens were said to have bodies that were human-like but much smaller (three to four feet tall). Their heads and eyes were disproportionately large compared to a human body. They had only slits for nostrils and mouths and small holes for the new Texas concealed handgun law is confusing to both licensees and peace officers.

The law, which went into effect Jan. 1, allows civilians licensed by the Texas Department of Safety to carry concealed handguns.

There are restrictions on who can get a license and where guns can be carried.

"It's a new law and we're going to run into incidents in which we don't know exactly how to handle it," Muleshoe

DPS trooper L.G. Kirk said.

Kirk said it is important that license holders are aware of locations where carrying a handgun is restricted.

He noted two particular concerns: Guns being carried on school grounds or at any school-sponsored events and in bars or clubs. Muleshoe has three private clubs that serve alcohol.

Both are felony offenses. Firearms are also prohib-

DECA hosts Career Day

The Muleshoe High School DECA Chapter is sponsoring a Free Enterprise/Career Day at MHS Thursday, Jan. 18.

Kandy Wilcox, co-chairman of the event along with Wayne Wallace, said DECAwhich stands for Developing Future Leaders for Marketing and Management-is providing the career day to impress upon students that school should be relevant to the world of work, and that they are lucky to live in a country where they can choose what career field to pursue.

The organization surveyed students to determine which career fields were of most interest to them. Twenty-five special guests/presenters, professionals in their fields of work, 16 who graduated from MHS, will give four 45-minute presentations about their professions for groups of 15 to 20 students to attend.

That afternoon, Wilcox said there will be a two-hour free enterprise rally "to show the importance of the free enterprise system and our country."

Members of DECA will compile a 30-page manual discussing the project, to present at the District 8 DECA meeting slated Feb. 5-6.

Whirlwinds wisk past Mules in second half

By RICK WHITE Managing Editor

Muleshoe lived by the press. Muleshoe died by the press.

Full-court pressure was catalyst in the second quarter, propelling Muleshoe to a 42-24 halftime lead.

The same full-court was Muleshoe's second-half demise, as Floydada rallied for an 81-71 win Tuesday night at WJHS in the Mules' District 2-3A home opener.

"You have to hustle in that press," Muleshoe coach Ralph Mason said. "You can't play relaxed in it."

"It's a gambling press, and we gave up some easy baskets early in the second half and that changed the momentum," Mason added. "Once you give up momentum, it's hard to get it back.

Dustin Cleavinger led Muleshoe with 26 points. Josh Slayden and Edward Olivas added 11 points each for the Mules.

A 3-pointer by Josh Slayden and Dustin Cleavinger's layup off a steal gave Muleshoe its biggest lead of the game, 47-36, two minutes into the second half.

But Floydada outscored Muleshoe 17-5 the rest of the third quarter, taking a 53-52

"THE GULF WAR"

For seven months between 1990 and 1991, the standoff in the Persian Gulf dominated the world stage as more than one million troops faced each other in

Marking the fifth anniversary of the war with Iraq, Frontline presents "The Gulf War," an authoritative four-hour history that documents what really happened during the invasion of Kuwait, the months of diplomatic maneuvering, the air war and ground assault, and the post-war rebellion inside Iraq.

The first two hours of "The Gulf War" examine the misunderstandings that blinded the U.S. to Saddam Hussein's intentions to invade Kuwait — the struggles inside the U.S. government about how to respond to the invasion, the diplomatic and domestic political maneuvering that formed an international goalition and American political support for war, and the conflict's first act the devastating air campaign against Baghdad.

"The first twenty-four hours consisted of more attacks in the master attack plan than the entire number of targets that were targeted in the years 1942 and 1943 during the combined bomber offensive in Europe," says air planner Lieutenant Colonel David Deptula.

The second half of "The Gulf War" focuses on the tensions inside the U.S. military command during the one-hundred-hour ground war and how the stunning U.S. military victory was tainted by the war's ragged end.

To everyone's surprise, the initial Allied ground assault met little resistance. Eight thousand Iraqis were captured in the first hours of the war. After six weeks of bombing, half of the front line army had already deserted.

On the third day of the ground war, Frank's VII Corps finally encountered the Republican Guard and destroyed many Soviet built tanks in a short, bloody, one-sided battle. But the assault on the Republican Guard was racing against the clock. Already in Washington, there was talk of ending the war soon. General Powell, in particular, was concerned that television pictures of the "Highway of Death," the massive destruction of Iraqi convoys escaping north out of Kuwait City, would soon be broadcast and turn the public against the war. The talks between Powell, Cheney, Schwarzkopf, and President Bush had reached agreement - the slaughter had gone on long enough. President Bush announced the end of the war. Hussein was elated.

Final observations include those of Bernard Trainor who, five years later, says, "We are still tied up there. We've got thousands of troops down there, trying to protect the Shiites and the Kurds. We send forces down into Kuwait for exercises every time Saddam Hussein makes a move towards the Kuwait border. So, it was an inconclusive war . . . a modest victory that was snatched from the jaws of triumph.'

"We can grind our teeth forever as to whether we should have fought a day or two longer," says General Powell. "But we ought to recognize the significant achievement that Desert Storm was. President Bush said, 'This will not stand.' That did not stand."

"The Gulf War" on Frontline airs Tuesday, January 9th (Part I) and Wednesday, January 10th (Part II) from 9:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m.
