Bethel Baptist Mission To Have Dedication Service Sun., June 5

The Bethel Baptist Mission has completed work on their new church building and will hold their dedication service Sunday afternoon, June 5, at 3:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and the supper to follow in the Fellowship Hall, served by the church members.

The message at the service will be brought by Troy Smith. Also taking part in the ceremonies will be Rev. Roy Epperson, pastor of the Robert Lee Baptist Church; Jody Rodriguez with the welcome; deacon Raul Saucedo will give the church's history; Rev. Zacarias Garza, pastor of the church; Rev. Basillio Ezquivel of Sterling City; and special music by song director, Robert Cuellar of Dallas; pianist Bonita Copeland and church choir members.

The new church building was basically completed on May 8, Mother's Day. Members have since been holding their worship services in the building but scheduled the official dedication date for June 5.

The building, with a lovely beige stucco exterior, has a large paneled and carpeted sanctuary, featuring a cathedral ceiling. The remainder of the church consists of two offices, three classrooms, a dining area, and a large young people's classroom.

Work on the building was done chiefly by members of the church and they are proud to invite others to share their joy in its completion.

Memorial Day

At Gettysburg, at San Juan Hill,
In Flanders Fields now all is still,
But men still drill and march away
Like you who made Memorial Day.

In Normandy, and on Bataan,
At Inchon, Khe Sanh, and in Iran,
Selflessly the need you met,
And now we know we must not forget.

Those who fought and those who fell,
To hear the bell of freedom knell,
We crouch beside your graves today;
These wreaths of vernal buds to lay.

And to you who died for freedom's sake,
A pledge to carry on we make:
The torch that you so bravely bore
Shall be our beacon evermore.

We pray that by its guiding light
We'll find our course and hold it right.
We hope it may throughout the years
Bring an end to blood and tears.

For we're a nation proud and free,
And sometimes it is hard to see
Where friendship for our cause abides
And where a foe of freedom hides.

You have found peace while we still weep
And wail o'er charges we must keep.
There'll be no peace until we find
A way that's just for all mankind.

—William J. Acker

Mrs. Sproles Awarded $300 Scholarship

Mrs. Karen Sproles of Odessa was recently awarded a scholarship in the amount of $300.00 by the Permian Basin Chapter of Certified Public Accountants. She will use her award to continue her education this summer as a student at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin where she will be a senior next fall.

Mrs. Sproles was on both the fall and spring Dean's List at the college.

She was a guest last weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Counts.

BEWARE OF TICK FEVER-- With a large tick population this spring due to the mild winter, Rocky Mountain spotted fever is an increased threat, says an entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The disease has already caused two deaths in Texas this year. It's spread by the American dog tick and the Lone Star tick. First symptoms include sudden onset of headache, fever and aching muscles. A rash starts two to three days later. Be aware of ticks in the environment and examine your body and clothing regularly for ticks. Always remove ticks with their mouthparts intact.

Miss Torres is a 1983 graduate of Robert Lee High School.

The prospective groom graduated from Robert Lee High School in 1980 and is presently employed by Ernest Clendennen, Inc. of Silver.

DPS Urges Safe Memorial Day

Memorial Day weekend signals the start of the summer vacation season and increased dangers to motorists, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, urged drivers to exercise caution during the upcoming holiday weekend and throughout the summer.

"During the vacation season, more motorists will be exposed to highway driving hazards," Adams said. "Heeding the traffic laws, wearing seat belts, and staying alert for drunk drivers is the best defense for avoiding an accident."

The DPS director requested the assistance of Texas drivers in minimizing traffic deaths.

"Statewide traffic fatalities are now about 13 per cent below the number for the same period last year," Adams pointed out. "But we also have to remember that the potential for additional fatalities during any holiday weekend is great and we must adjust our driving habits and attitudes accordingly."

A total of 58 traffic deaths resulted from accidents during the Memorial Day weekend in 1982.

"Troopers will be on the lookout for hazardous violations over the Memorial Day weekend in an effort to prevent accidents and we do not intend to relax our efforts to arrest drunk drivers and cite speeders," Adams said.

"These two violations continue to cause most of the traffic fatalities in our state."

Tanning Salons, Sun Take Toll On Human Skin

The tanning season has arrived and you may find yourself complaining about not having enough time to lie out in the sun. You may have even considered buying a membership to a tanning salon.

Before you do, the Texas Medical Association warns that these salons can be harmful to your skin and eyes. So can excessive exposure to the sun.

Tanning salons use ultraviolet light, the same as that emitted by the sun. Ultraviolet light may either be short-wave: (UVB) or long-wave (UVA).

Experiments on animals have linked artificial tanning with UVB to sunburn and long-term skin damage. UVB also can damage the cornea and lens of the eye, so protective goggles should be worn.

Artificial tanning with UVA has been found to be more suitable and safer than UVB, but this does not mean it is safe. UVA also may damage the eyes if protective goggles are not worn. It has damaged retinas and produced cataracts in laboratory mice.

In addition, your skin may be overly sensitive to UVA if you are taking medication such as anti-depressants, oral contraceptives, antihistamines and a variety of other sensitizing drugs.

Both ultraviolet types can damage the skin. Three common types of skin cancer that can occur are basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma, and the worst kind, malignant melanoma.

These occur most frequently on continuously exposed parts of the body such as hands, face and neck.

In basal cell carcinoma, cells just below the skin's surface become cancerous. A tumor may develop and become ulcerated. Caused by long-term exposure to ultraviolet light, this cancer will not spread to other parts of the body. Basal cell carcinoma usually occurs on the face, especially near the eyes or on the nose.

Squamous cell carcinoma attacks underlying skin cells that have been damaged by continuous exposure to the sunlight. With this type of cancer, a malignant, or life-threatening, tumor will develop. The cancer will usually occur on any region constantly exposed to the sun.

Malignant melanoma is the most serious form of skin cancer because it may spread. A cancerous tumor develops from a mole present since birth, but sunlight also can play a part in the development of the disease.

For these reasons it is advisable to avoid long-term exposure to ultraviolet light whether in a tanning salon or on a beach.

Time To Spray Pecan Trees

Pecan nut casebearer spraying time is upon us again. And, is occurring about the same time as last year. Inspections of nutlets in various locations in the County indicate the optimum time for spraying will be between May 27 and June 1. John Begnaud, Tom Green County Horticulturist, reports the optimum time for Tom Green County to be May 26-31. We are backing off one day from his prediction.

So far, egg deposits have been very light. With the cool weather or cool nights, no doubt the egg lay will be more elongated this year. If you spray, you may want to consider spraying twice--once around May 27 or 28, a second time June 1-4.

The insecticides recommended for casebearer control are: guthion, malathion, thiodan, sevin and zolone. Be sure to check the label and follow the directions listed.

The pecan nut casebearer has three generations per year. The second generation should come about 42 days after the first infestation. Usually, the first generation is the most damaging.

If you have not sprayed your trees with zinc, a zinc application may be put on with the casebearer spray.

EXTENSION EXTRAS

As we approach canning season this year, there are several new recommendations from the USDA that are important to follow. These recommendations are based on research conducted throughout the country.

* The one-step, cold pack method for canning tomatoes should no longer be used.

* The hot pack processing time for canning tomatoes should be increased to 35 minutes for pint jars and No. 2 cans, and to 45 minutes for quart jars and No. 2½ cans.

* The hot-pack processing time for canning tomato juice should be increased to 35 minutes for pint and quart jars, and for No. 2 and 2½ cans.

* Strained (pureed) pumpkin and winter squash should not be canned at home. Instead, cubed pumpkin and squash may be canned using a processing time of 55 minutes for pint jars and 90 minutes for quart jars.

* The processing times for applesauce and fruit puree should be increased to 20 minutes for pints, quarts, No. 2 and 2½ cans.

Shorter times for tomatoes could allow botulism organisms to survive the heat treatment, grow and produce harmful toxins. The increased processing times for applesauce and fruit purees are recommended due to high resistance of particular molds.

If you plan to can at home this year, please make these changes for your family's sake.

TDH Looking For Physically Disabled Kids

The Bureau of Cripple Children's Services of the Texas Department of Health (TDH) is intensifying its efforts to reach children with potential physical disabilities or who may not be developing normally, by contacting doctors, nurses, social workers, parents and concerned citizens.

The Cripple Children's Services Program, which is 50 years old this year, serves children with neurological disorders, cancer, epilepsy, cystic fibrosis, and other diseases, as well as those with birth defects such as congenital heart defects, cleft palate, and spina bifida.

"The Bureau arranges and pays for surgery to correct many congenital anomalies including cleft palate, club feet, curvature of the spine, and stomach and intestinal abnormalities," said Dr. Punam Myer, Chief of the Bureau in Austin.

Dr. Myer said that it also provides for long-term rehabilitation of children suffering from spinal cord injuries, and pays for skin grafts for badly burned children.

"I think one of the unusual medical problems covered by our services is the treatment of children with leukemia and other forms of cancer," Dr. Myer explained. "For example, we have arranged for the surgical removal of tumors and also for bone marrow transplants."

Dr. Myer asks anyone who knows of a child who is not developing normally, or who has a potential handicapping physical problem, to contact the nearest local or TDH Regional Health Department for information. The Bureau can also be contacted in Austin at 512/458-7241.

"There is no need in Texas for a child whose parents are not wealthy to suffer from a disability because of the lack of medical treatment," Dr. Myer said.

She said Cripple Children's Services are available to Texas residents under age 21 who meet certain requirements and whose family cannot finance the needed treatment. There is no age limit for patients with hemophilia, cystic fibrosis, or epilepsy.

The program pays for wheelchairs, braces, orthopedic and prosthetic devices, medication, hospitalization, and transportation. Patients are referred to hospitals and physicians in their vicinity who have been approved by the Texas Board of Health.

In 1982, the Bureau provided medical assistance to more than 32,000 children and spent about $38,112,000. Only about 3.9 percent was used for administrative costs, and the rest went for services to children.

ANOTHER TAX CREDIT--By hiring a qualified youth for summer labor, an employer can earn tax credit, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Calendar-year taxpayers may claim a tax credit on their 1983 federal income tax return for 85 percent of the first $3,000 in wages paid to qualifying employees for any 90-day period between May 1 and September 15. The youth must be 16 or 17, be from an economically disadvantaged family, and not have previously worked for the employer.

IN OUR OPINION

THIS HORSE RACE ISN'T OVER

Close, but no trip to the winner's circle.

That's the story of the horse-racing bill that would have brought pari-mutuel wagering back to Texas after nearly half a century but failed after much arm-twisting and hand-wringing in the Legislature.

The verdict--which is final unless some lawmaker unveils an extraordinary parliamentary maneuver--was disappointing, but at least it left supporters confident pari-mutuel betting on horse races will someday become a reality in this state.

When the Senate approved its version of the bill, it marked the first time since the 1930s a house in the Legislature had given its OK to the measure. And, in the House, the legislation to send the matter to Texas voters failed by just two votes, a significant improvement over the 1981 bill.

The near-success has proponents predicting pari-mutuel betting on horse races will finally be approved during the next session of the Legislature.

In the meantime, Texas will continue to lose to neighboring states the revenue that comes from legalized horse race gambling, and Texans who enjoy the race track will continue to wonder why others refuse to allow them that privilege.

Both issues are clear. Pari-mutuel wagering would create 50,000 jobs and would generate millions of dollars for the state's treasury. It would also be a source of entertainment that, despite opposition claims, would not result in criminals flooding into the state.

We are irked by the House's vote, yet the progress made during this session is heartening.

We see a good possibility that, before too long, the moral standards of some will no longer be imposed upon others and the many Texans who wish to wager on horse races will no longer have to travel to another state to do so.

Beware Of Insect Dangers

Spring weather can mean danger for Texans who get bitten or stung by insects.

Insects cause a number of injuries to people each year when outdoor activities increase. The worst offenders are bees, wasps and yellow-jackets. The greatest peril from insect-people encounters is allergic reactions, points out Dr. Phil Hamman, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. He notes that insect bites kill at least nine times more Americans than do snake bites.

People have different reactions to insect venoms, and allergic reactions are classified by the severity of one's body reaction, notes Hamman.

He cites at least three levels of reactions insect bites and stings can cause:

- * Slight reactions, including itching, inflammation of the skin or anxiety.

- * Moderate reactions, including swelling, abdominal pain or nausea.

- * Severe reactions, including difficulty in breathing or swelling, hoarseness or confusion.

Most severe would probably be a shock reaction that causes a drop in blood pressure, collapse or unconsciousness, says Hamman. Moderate and severe reactions from an insect bite or sting are enough cause to see a doctor. Capture the offending insect if possible to help the doctor in providing treatment.

To reduce contact with venomous insects, Hamman advises people not to walk around in the yard barefooted; to avoid wearing sweet smelling colognes or perfumes; to keep ripened fruits, watermelons, soft drink cans or other sweet smelling materials covered when outdoors; and to avoid mowing lawns or working in flower beds when bees or wasps are active. Insects are less active in the early morning hours.

Remain still if a stinging insect is near, says the entomologist. Brush it off if it attacks but don't slap it to prevent a sting. If attacked by a swarm of wasps, yellow-jackets, hornets or bees, leave the area immediately while protecting the face with hands and arms.

Among the variety of venoms produced by insects are these:

- * Those producing blisters, caused by certain stinging caterpillars, centipedes and blister beetles.

- * Those attacking the central nervous system, produced by scorpions, black widow spiders, bees, wasps, yellow-jackets and hornets.

- * Those destroying skin tissue, produced by fire ants, wheel bugs, brown recluse spiders, mites, scorpions, chiggers, bees, wasps, yellow-jackets and hornets.

- * Those preventing blood from clotting, caused by fleas, lice, mites, ticks, biting flies and true bugs.

CHEESE GIVEAWAY CUT BACK---The U.S. Department of Agriculture has cut back its cheese giveaway program by 52 percent because of a sharp drop in commercial sales, notes a dairy marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The USDA said that needy people who qualify for free cheese normally buy their own, and some people who are not so needy receive free cheese rather than buy it.

Growing Okra Is A Texas Tradition

Okra is a vegetable well-adapted to our Southern climate, and deserves a place in every Texas garden. Here is the best way to grow it.

Okra needs warm soil and warm nights at planting time and warm weather to produce pods. Don't plant it too early, for it won't do well in cool weather.

How much okra you plant depends on how you intend to use it. A good rule of thumb is to plant 4 to 6 feet of row per person for fresh use only. If you want enough to can or freeze, plant about 6 to 10 feet of row per person. And since okra can grow up to 14 or 16 feet tall by summer's end, you may want to plant a dwarf variety if your garden space is limited.

Okra isn't particularly finicky about soils, but it does need a sunny, well-drained plot that has been adequately fertilized. Apply 2 to 3 pounds of fertilizer such as 10-10-10 per 100 square feet of garden space.

Later, after the first harvest, you can add one cup of fertilizer per 10 feet of row. Mix it well with the soil between the rows and then water.

Although it isn't absolutely necessary, you can hasten germination of seeds by soaking them overnight.

Sow the seeds about one inch deep and two inches apart. When the plants are 3 or 4 inches tall, thin them to stand about 12 inches apart in the row.

Adequate water at regular intervals of one week to 10 days will help keep okra producing well. Avoid overwatering, which encourages plant growth rather than pod production.

Depending on the variety, okra begins producing pods about 50 to 65 days after planting. The plants usually bear through the summer and well into fall.

The pods are produced on the central stalk and side branches. It can be a real battle dealing with the towering stalks, but don't cut the entire plant back in hopes of solving the height problem. It may never produce pods again the rest of the season.

Okra pods are best harvested when young and tender, usually ranging in length from 2 to 6 inches. Generally, okra reaches harvesting size about 4 days after blossoming. You can almost see the pods growing old, so be sure to pick them every other day. If the pods are not removed, the stalks will soon stop producing.

You can use your plentiful harvest of okra in gumbo, or fry the pods for a delicious Southern treat.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMENT

By Cong. Charles Stenholm

Washington, D.C.--Our nation's public schools are threatened by a "rising tide of mediocrity" so serious that if an unfriendly foreign power had attempted to impose such a performance, "we might well have viewed it as an act of war." Such is the judgment recently issued by The National Commission on Excellence in Education in its report "A Nation At Risk: The Imperative for Educational Reform." Since the release of the report, there has been a flurry of news stories, editorials, analyses, criticisms and counter-criticisms from all sides of the ideological spectrum. If anything is obvious from this response, it is that there are no simple answers to this serious problem of mediocrity in our public schools.

First, what are the problems reported by the Commission? The quality of some teaching is not what it should be and there is a dire shortage of math and science teachers. In secondary schools, a "smorgasbord" of electives has subverted traditional academic standards. Only one year of math and one year of science are required for a high school diploma in 70 percent of the states. One-fifth of all four-year state colleges must admit anyone with a high school diploma. Aptitude tests have come down in a period of 20 years by 50 points on the average. The report states "For the first time in the history of our country, the educational skills of one generation will not surpass, will not equal, will not even approach, those of their parents."

How could we possibly have allowed ourselves to get into such a horrible shape? To begin with, many of these effects reported by the Commission result as side-effects from less obvious and less reported circumstances, not all of which are bad. For instance, the Commission's report indirectly compared British academic schools with American general curricula. Unless he or she passes the O-Level examination, the 16-year-old British youth's public education is terminated. While slow achievers may bring down national performance, I don't believe we are ready to deny any American youth the right to a high school education. Similarly, the report decried lowered SAT scores of the last 20 years, the minority student, the handicapped, the underprivileged and the immigrant taking today's tests may serve to lower national scores, but their greater assimilation into the mainstream is something we should applaud, not deplore.

Changes in the larger society have an effect on the success of education as well. When I was a school boy, Mom and Dad worked as a back-up system in enforcing the discipline that kept me working on homework and away from more pleasant distractions. Furthermore, they took an active role in PTA, teacher visitations, school fundraisers, and many other aspects of my education. Many of today's children, however, grow up under circumstances far different from mine. With both parents working outside the home or with single parent homes, today it is far more likely that there will be less supervision in the evenings, time will allow less interaction between child and parent in general, and television and other distractions will play a more prominent role. Obviously, the children of these circumstances will have a far different educational experience.

These factors, however, do not give us license to shrug our shoulders, saying it's not really a serious problem and we can't really do anything to help anyway. The Commission's report makes it clear that these real, present problems need solutions. But if we are going to point our fingers anywhere in this situation, we had better begin by pointing them at ourselves for not caring enough to maintain continual improvement in our public educational system. If we would have really cared, we would have voted to pay decent salaries to well-qualified teachers; we would have taken a lively interest in textbooks that would challenge our children; we would have given the support to teachers and administrators that would empower them to maintain discipline and authority in the classroom; we would have spent time with our children, trying to instill a respect for education.

The Commission has made some fine recommendations for ways we can begin improving our public education system, recommendations ranging from tougher standards for graduation to more homework to a longer school year to developing a system which rewards outstanding teachers and provides incentives for more quality individuals to enter the field. All of these things could help, but none of them have a chance unless you and I are willing to make education the priority that it should be. There are a few "pockets of excellence" already begun around the country that give us glimmers of hope and promise of what can be. But we all must share this responsibility. Otherwise, all that's at risk is the future of our nation.

Social Security News Notes

The Social Security Administration has a dual responsibility: to provide benefits to people who are entitled to them under one of the provisions of the Social Security Act and to protect the Social Security funds by denying benefits to those not entitled to them.

Criminal prosecution for fraud may be undertaken under a variety of circumstances--for example, if an individual uses a social security number not his or her own in order to obtain a payment or to have a payment increased; or provides erroneous information in an attempt to establish eligibility for Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments; or attempts to conceal information that would affect his or her eligibility for an initial payment or for continued payments; or where the individual uses money received on behalf of another person for some unauthorized purpose.

Prosecution for such fraudulent acts may be undertaken even when the act is discovered before any erroneous payments are actually made. Moreover, even where a decision in a case was supposed to have been final, the case may be reopened at any time if the decision is found to have been based on fraud, whether on the part of the claimant or of some other person.

The penalties for fraud include fines and/or imprisonment. They range from a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment of one year, or both, to a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment of not more than 15 years, or both.

Applicants and beneficiaries who may be uncertain about some aspect of the law can have their questions answered at any Social Security office.

VA News Items

Veterans seeking Veterans Administration-guaranteed loans for purchase or construction of a home must certify that they intend to occupy the property as their own residence, advises the Director, Waco VA Regional Office.

If the loan is for refinancing, altering, improving or repairing a home, he added, the veteran must certify that he or she is the owner and occupant of the home. He stressed that veterans should be aware that making a false certification to the VA could subject that veteran to possible criminal prosecution.

For further information, write, visit or telephone the Waco VA Regional Office toll-free number listed in your local telephone directory under "Veterans Administration" or "U.S. Government." A VA counselor will respond.

Second Quarter Estimates Due By June 15th

Some wage earners and other individuals who have income other than wages may be required to make estimated tax payments, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Generally, if you have income, with no tax withheld, of more than $500 and you expect to owe at least $300 on this year's return, you are liable for filing a declaration of estimated tax and for making payments.

Just like withholding by employers, the IRS says, estimated taxes are paid in advance of the actual tax return, Form 1040, due for the year. Estimated taxes are normally paid in four installments.

For 1983, the four estimated tax installment dates are: April 15, 1983; June 15, 1983; September 15, 1983; and January 16, 1984.

Ranchers To Meet Aug. 1-5

Ranchers from 25 states and several countries are expected here August 1-5 when the 3rd Annual International Ranchers Roundup convenes in this West Texas ranching hub in San Angelo.

Recognized as the largest, most comprehensive educational function ever organized for southwestern ranchers, the IRR will feature general sessions of interest to all ranchers and landowners, plus three days of intensified concurrent sessions in beef cattle, sheep and goats, grazing management, wildlife, marketing business management for the ranch family, and a computer workshop.

Thus far some 85 ranching experts have been confirmed to speak during the five-day event with about dozen speakers yet to be selected. Several internationally-known ranch experts are to be on hand for concurrent sessions.

Keynote speakers for the opening day general session include Dub Waldrip, president, National Cattlemen's Association; Hon. Tom Loeffler, U.S. Congressman; Cas Marec, prominent South African rancher; and Dr. Arthur G. Hansen, Chancellor of the Texas A&M University System, a key sponsor. Other keynote speakers will be announced upon confirmation.

"Innovative Ranch Management" is the 1983 theme, according to IRR coordinators Dr. Larry White, Texas Agricultural Extension Service range specialist, Uvalde; Dr. LeRoy Hoermann, District Extension Director and formerly Extension livestock specialist, Uvalde; and Robert H. Kensing, Extension farm management specialist, San Angelo. Eighteen agricultural specialists from across the state serve on the IRR steering committee.

Hoermann and White originated the IRR concept three years ago as a means of providing a comprehensive educational format to aridland ranchers who share common problems. Since its introduction in 1981 the multi-facet program has effectively served over 1,100 ranchers and has been favorably compared with the Texas A&M University animal science curriculum for its variety and quality of instruction.

From the outset the IRR has been held in the border area of Del Rio, Texas, with overwhelming success. Yet, in an effort to make the programs accessible to more ranchers throughout the Southwest, the coordinators opted to move the IRR to the San Angelo Convention Center for the 1983 event which promises to be much larger and more extensive.

Conference participants will have their choice of four separate ranch tours on August 5 featuring West Texas ranches noted for innovative management practices in beef cattle, sheep and goats, grazing systems, plus a two-day overnight wildlife tour in the scenic Texas Hill Country area near Kerrville.

Registered participants will also receive a copy of the 480-page bound IRR proceedings book containing most of the talks presented.

Registration information and more program details can be obtained from your county Extension office or by writing to IRR, P.O. Drawer 1849, Uvalde, TX 78801. Registration forms must be completed and returned with proper payment by July 1 to qualify for the $50 pre-registration discount. Attendance will be limited to 750 participants on a first come-paid basis.

According to survey, men changing profile of grocery shoppers

COLLEGE STATION —

Men spend less time and money than women in the supermarket, tend to have more brand loyalty, are less apt to make a grocery list, rely less on supermarket information and generally aren't as concerned about economizing.

These are just a few of the recent findings from a profile of supermarket shoppers conducted by Dr. Valarie Zeithaml, a Texas A&M University marketing professor, who last summer surveyed 13,000 shoppers at a dozen stores in Baltimore, Houston, Minneapolis and Los Angeles and randomly interviewed 1,433 shoppers.

"Twenty years ago, the profile of the primary household food shopper would have been relatively easy to delineate — female, housewife, possibly mother," Zeithaml said, "but describing the typical supermarket shopper now isn't as simple a task."

Too Much Sugar For A Dime-- A lot of folks keep insisting we put more local news in and not so much politics. But we refuse to spoof off our time while Rome burns.

We're doing our bit to win some wars, cause folks, our nation is passing through critical times. I may have to face St. Peter for cussin', smokin', or drinkin' a glass of beer, but I'm damned if I'll face him for not beating the drum for country, fellow man, and causes. It costs me business every day cause I won't keep my yap shut but it's in your interest, whether you believe it or not. I'm doing all I can to set type, get the news, keep the kids in drawers and in school. We're trying to do what we think is right--will try to do more--Bumbles the Editor.

Lester Keenan made us smile with an inflated dollar for another year's headache.

A six piece orchestra will furnish the music for a big dance in Robert Lee Saturday night. Everybody's invited. Wojtek Brothers.

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. F.M. Pritchard gathered at their home June 19 to help them rejoice over the passing of the 60th mile post of married life.

Mr. Pritchard is 79 years old and she is 77. Short talks were made by Rev. J.W. Leggitt, W.F. Hester, and F.W. Hunter at the celebration.
