Israeli Knesset debates treaty

JERUSALEM (AP) - Prime Minister Menachem Begin opened the Israeli Parliament's ratification debate on the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty today with a vow never to allow a Palestinian state in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River or the Gaza Strip or to give East Jerusalem back to the Arabs.

"It will not happen," Begin told the Knesset. "We won't agree to it, we won't allow it, we won't make it possible."

Begin said he was replying to a statement by Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil that Israel would have to withdraw to its borders before the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, surrender Arab Jerusalem and accept Palestinian statehood.

"My dear, honorable Dr. Khalil," said Begin, "write this down: Jerusalem, the one Jerusalem, is Israel's eternal capital. It will never be divided again."

As the debate opened, right-wing opponents of the pact set up a makeshift settlement in the northern Sinai Desert, and a shouting Communist member was expelled from the Knesset after accusing Begin of "selling Israel to the Americans." But observers predicted at least 100 of the 120 members would endorse the pact Wednesday at the end of the two-day debate, which was being broadcast live on television and radio.

Begin planned to leave Friday for Washington to sign the treaty, and Al Ahran, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper, said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat would leave Saturday. The signing at the White House is expected Monday.

Al Ahran said Sadat would spend five days in the United States, then return to Egypt to submit the treaty to the 360-member National Assembly for ratification.

In Washington, Defense Ministers Ezer Weizman of Israel and Kamal Hasan Ali of Egypt failed to agree on when Israel will give up the offshore Sinai oil fields, the last issue in their negotiation of a timetable for Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai. But both said they were confident the dispute could be resolved before Monday.

The dispute is over "a stupid 60 days or 90 days, not very much," said Weizman before returning to Israel for the Knesset debate.

"Maybe I can do more from there," he told Ali.

Israel wants to hold the oil field for the full nine months that its military

Blue law: Free enterprise or threat to family?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Repeal of the so-called "blue law" that prevents the sale of certain items seven days a week would either give a needed boost to the free enterprise system or cause the family to crumble, conflicting witnesses told a House committee Monday.

"It would take working mothers out of the home on the one day they have to spend with their children. Let well enough alone," said Jeanette Salviati of Caribe Fine Jewelry in San Antonio.

The law "is based solely on economics and as a matter of fact to control competition," said Rep. Bill Ceverha, R-Dallas, sponsor of a bill to repeal it.

The House Committee on Business and Industry sent his bill to subcommittee along with proposals that would let each county decide for itself whether to repeal it, a measure sponsored by Rep. Robert Valles, D-El Paso.

—repeal the law and also dismiss any pending court cases against alleged violations, sponsored by Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth.

The committee's acting chairman, Rep. Doug McLeod, D-Galveston, said the local option proposal had the best chance of receiving a favorable report.

"The people don't want the blue law. It's an irritant to them, it's an inconvenience to them and most of all it's confusing to them," Ceverha said.

He said the items that can't be sold were selected arbitrarily.

"We find that the confusion causes bad feelings with our customers. It causes problems for our clerks," said Richard Craig of the Texas Federation of Drugstores.

The law does not prevent stores from staying open seven days a week but forbids certain items to be sold on Saturday or Sunday.

The list was developed "by design, directed at the very stores that are primarily closed," said Jack Welch of Marlin, representing the Texas Retailers Association against repeal.

He said the law makes sure that retail employees have a day off.

His association represents department and specialty stores. "The smaller retailers feel they will just practically be put out of business," he said.

Welch claimed the move to repeal the law only had the backing of stores already open seven days a week like groceries and drugstores.

Mrs. Salviati said she came to testify "in hopes I would not have to work every Sunday for the rest of my working years. Working six out of seven days is enough."

Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston, offered a contrast to the other blue law proposals before the committee by offering a bill that would prevent grocery stores from staying open seven days a week.

He said it would conserve energy and make it easier for people to spend time with their families.

"When we talk about close, why pick on supermarkets? ... Our iceboxes run anyway. You can't save any energy at all," countered Robert H. Joe of the Houston Retail Grocers Association.

City planning group approves townhouses planned by Magnatex

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Another segment in the continuing saga of Magnatex versus The People was written Monday night when Midland's Planning and Zoning Commission gave a favorable recommendation to the developer's proposal for a planned district of townhouses.

The townhouse section will be a buffer zone for a retail shopping center proposed by Magnatex. To be known as Midkiff Plaza, the shopping center will take up 425,000 square feet of a 57-acre space at the south-east corner of Loop 250 and North Midkiff Road.

Magnatex's plan has sparked opposition from a number of persons living in the residential section south of the proposed area. Some residents have filled City Council chambers on two occasions to voice their objections to the project.

Dividing the proposal into sections, the commission at its March 5 meeting gave a favorable recommendation to the "general concept" of the retail shopping center.

Up for review at Monday's session were criteria for the planned district and a preliminary plat for Midkiff Plaza. The preliminary plat was continued until the next commission meeting April 2.

CRAIG EATON, an urban planner with a Dallas firm, reviewed the townhome buffer plans Monday, saying the residences would be clustered with a screened fence separating them from Apollo Drive in front.

Some landscaped areas will be provided "for water retention," while one in the southeast corner of the development will be used for "a swimming pool and/or water retention."

Richard Hennessy, director of the planning and community development department, pointed out that the proposal, using "0 lot line construction," only calls for 40-foot wide lots.

The city zoning ordinance calls for a minimum of 50-foot wide lots for townhouses.

OTHER PROBLEMS with the plan were noted in the staff report, which was circulated among audience members.

An acceptable drainage plan had not been submitted to the Public Works Department, reported the staff.

"Due to the intensity of the (drainage) problem at this location, we believe it is imperative that an acceptable drainage plan be presented to and approved by the Public Works Department before a recommendation be made to the City Council regarding this plat."

Included in the staff report was a letter written by A. Henry Pearson, district engineer for the state Department of Highways and Public Trans-

U.S. Senate to hold hearings to determine why pipeline halted

By GUY SULLIVAN
Staff Writer

The U.S. Senate Energy Committee will begin conducting hearings March 27 to determine why the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio pipeline between Long Beach, Calif., and Midland was halted, said a spokesman for U.S. Rep. Kent Hance today.

Senate Energy Committee Chairman Henry "Scoop" Jackson requested the hearing, a committee spokesman told The Reporter-Telegram today.

The spokesman for Hance, who represents Midland and a large part of West Texas, also said the freshman congressman today was "expected to introduce legislation prohibiting states and state law interference" with the Sohio pipeline project.

Hance said last week he might introduce such legislation. His remarks followed a formal announcement last Tuesday by Sohio officials to the effect that they were pulling out of the pipeline project.

Sohio representatives at the time cited regulatory red tape among other reasons for their action.

Meanwhile, California's U.S. Senator Alan Cranston, a Democrat, and other lawmakers were scheduled to meet with Sohio officials in Washington, D.C., today concerning the pipeline project, said Hal Gross, legislative energy assistant for Cranston.

Asked what "new information" Cranston had which he said Saturday would "keep the project alive," Gross replied, "The new information is the result of a Los Angeles meeting Cranston had last weekend with Sohio officials and representatives of California legislative and regulatory groups."

Gross said, "The bottom line is it did not appear that there were any obstacles to the approval of this project by California regulatory bodies. That, of course, does not include the internal economic justification which Sohio has given as one of their reasons for not continuing the project."

According to Gross, Sohio representatives said after a meeting Saturday in California that "if Mr. Cranston could deliver on a series of commitments to remove all obstacles to the pipeline within six months, that Sohio might reconsider."

He said at this point Cranston asked Sohio to reconsider its Tuesday decision.

But today, a Sohio spokesman in Cleveland, Ohio, said the firm has not yet reconsidered its decision to stop completion of the pipeline, now five years in the planning.

Today's meeting in Washington, requested by Cranston, was to involve Alton Whitehouse, Sohio board chairman; Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger; Jackson; U.S. Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the House Energy Committee; and with representatives of such California agencies as the State Air Resources Board, State Energy Commission and others, said Gross.

"I think the pipeline issue will be discussed frankly," Gross said. He added that Cranston "absolutely will not support" a Hance bill to prohibit state interference with the pipeline project.

"In our view, the role of California regulatory agencies as being the principal reasons for the Sohio decision to withdraw has simply not been proven."

He indicated that as far back as last November "there appeared to be no insurmountable regulatory obstacles in Mr. Cranston's view."

Gross said one reason for the senator's attempt to "revive" the pipeline

Rain, clouds may greet arrival of spring tonight

Typical spring temperatures, but with cloudy skies and maybe even rain, are scheduled to greet the official arrival of spring tonight, the weatherman predicts.

Continued mild temperatures with a chance of showers through Wednesday is the official word from the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

This morning's fog and drizzle extended throughout the Basin, but the rain gauge at the airport recorded only a trace of moisture for the last 24 hours.

Midland's gauges seemed to agree, with none squeezing more than a few tenths from the gray moisture.

Wednesday's high is expected to be in the mid-60s, with the overnight low in the upper 40s.

The weatherman is giving 50-50 odds on the showers continuing through tonight with a 30 percent chance of showers Wednesday.

While Midlanders will have typical spring temperatures for the beginning of the season at 11:22 tonight, the record temperatures for the date show it is not always so.

Record high for Monday is a summer-like 88 degrees set in 1976 with the record low a wintry 14 set in 1965.

Most area towns reported the same fog and drizzle Midlanders contended with on the way to work this morning.

Weather watchers in Andrews reported "dripping fog" while others had fine mists and overcast clouds "all the way to the ground."

Crane County man killed, one hurt when truck hits wall

CRANE—A Crane man was killed in a single-vehicle accident late Monday night seven miles south of Sheffield, said a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety today.

Jimmy Lee Workman, 25, was pronounced dead at the scene, said a spokesman for the DPS.

Injured in the same accident was Rhonda Foyill, 24, of Crane, said the spokesman. She was in "guarded condition" today in the intensive care unit of Medical Center Hospital in Odessa, according to a hospital spokesman.

Troopers said Workman was driving a truck north on Texas 349 when the vehicle struck a rock wall on the west side of the road. The vehicle then overturned, tossing Miss Foyill out and pinning Workman under it, said authorities.

Auxiliary recognizes members

The Midland Jaycee-ettes held their annual secret sister meeting at Commercial Bank and Trust Co. The identity of each member's secret sister was revealed after a year of anonymous deeds and secretly given gifts.

There were 22 members and 7 guests present for the monthly meeting. The club welcomed new members; Karen Kalisek, Julie Nabors, Connie Campbell and Kathy Widner. Kathy Credicott was chosen as Jaycee-ette of the Month for February for her work in the Jaycee and Jaycee-ette convention for Area 1-B that was held in Fort Stockton on Feb. 9-11.

Claudia Roye was named Jaycee-ette of the Month for January for her work on the Hubby Appreciation Banquet and the monthly game socials held at the Permian Basin Mental Health and Mental Retardation Centers.

It also was announced that Karen Webster won first place in the composition competition at the Fort Stockton convention. Her composition, written extemporaneously, concerned the work done at the MHMR center.

When the center could no longer support the monthly socials for their clients, the Jaycee-ette chapter, encourages by Jaycee-ette Sandy Williams, offered to donate their time, and whatever resources were needed, to continue the socials. The MHMR socials have been an on-going civic project for the year. Mrs. Webster can now enter competition at the state convention in May.

It is nearing the end of the Jaycee and Jaycee-ette year. During the year the Jaycee-ettes have contributed to many organizations, such as Teen Challenge and MHMR. Since it is a civic club, the Jaycee-ettes keep only enough funds to get the new year started. One item of business was how to donate the money left in the treasury. After discussion, it was decided that donations would be made to the Cerebral Palsy Center, Midland Speech and Hearing Foundation and the pediatrics department of Midland Memorial Hospital.

Jaycee-ettes are involved in several Jaycee aid projects in March. Radio Daze was held March 2-3. The Jaycees sold advertisements, which they broadcasted themselves on a local radio station. Super Kids was held Saturday. Children from all over the Midland area participated in athletic events such as a soft ball throw, rope jumping, obstacle courses and various races. The proceeds from this project will go to the Lung Association.

Other Jaycee-ette activities are the MHMR game social and area visitation in Pecos and the monthly board meeting March 28. The April program meeting will be held at Commercial Bank and Trust April 3. Officers for the 1979-80 year will be elected.

DEAR ABBY

A new wrinkle on growing old

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I just saw you on the Phil Donahue show and I can't believe you were born in 1918. Have you ever had a face-lift?

If not, please tell me how to keep from growing old.—ANOTHER 1918 MODEL

DEAR MODEL: I've never had a face-lift. And to keep from growing old—die young.

DEAR ABBY: I read with great interest the letter from the lady who couldn't warm up to her daughter-in-law. (She said, "I always felt that my son could have done a lot better." I wonder if she ever realized that he also could have done a lot worse?)

I, too, felt that my son could have done a lot better, but I wasn't very good at concealing my feelings. I always found something to criticize my daughter-in-law for.

I soon noticed that my son would always take her part, and it was them against me. That's when I began to analyze my own feelings and had to admit that the fault was with me—not her.

That was seven years ago. Thank heaven I woke up in time to improve the relationship before it was too late. When I warmed up to her, she quickly warmed up to me. I have two beautiful grandchildren now, and I am closer to my son than I've ever been.

Abby, edit this any way you wish, but please tell mothers-in-law to make the first move in reaching out to their daughters-in-law. They will be pleasantly surprised.—JUST IN TIME

DEAR JUST: No editing necessary. You said it very well. Thanks for some horse sense straight from the horse's mouth.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing, but after yesterday's column I felt compelled to do so. My heart goes out to EASY IN ST. LOUIS. Tell her she is not alone in her fight for sexual sanity.

I, too, was raped by a relative when I was a teenager. I spent the next five years searching desperately for love through numerous brief sexual encounters. I felt cheap and dirty and was convinced that no one could love or want me.

Then I met a very special young man who convinced me that God loved me just the way I was, and that I was precious in His sight. I then let go of my burdensome past, and by accepting God's forgiveness, I started on the long road to forgiving myself.

It works. Believe me. Sign me. —FREE AND HAPPY

DEAR ABBY: Are birth control pills deductible?—FRANNIE

DEAR FRANNIE: Only if they don't work.

Deborah A. Hencke marries in Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH — Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Hencke of this city, formerly of Midland, announce the marriage of their daughter, Deborah Ann, to Gary M. Crabtree of Houston March 16 at St. Patrick's Cathedral here.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Green of Fort Worth. Mrs. Crabtree attended Midland schools and is a graduate of Paschal High School at Fort Worth. She is a pre-pharmacy student at Tarrant County Junior college at Fort Worth.

Crabtree is a graduate of Everman High School at Fort Worth and TCJC.

The couple will live in Houston, where the bridegroom is employed by Tenneco Corp.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGNER (Wed., March 21)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Daytime finds it difficult to get your affairs on a solid structure as you would like to have them. Wait until evening to organize your efforts sensibly for good results. Plan with care.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Wait until the end of the day to seek support from a bigwig for good results. Take no risks with reputation in your community. Curb temper.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study new outlets carefully before you commit yourself to anything. You are apt to encounter delays during daytime, but you meet new associates in the evening and everything works speedily for you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You find it difficult to meet your obligations early in the day, but later all works out satisfactorily. Try to help male with problems and be happier together.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't antagonize a partner who is important to you or you could get into a serious argument. Study a situation that is puzzling you before you take action.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You may find it hard to put new ideas in operation early, but tonight you can do so easily. Keep silent if a co-worker is out of sorts and avoid arguments. Evening is fine for socializing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Improve talents during daytime, and later enjoy inexpensive but wholesome pleasures. You can make considerable headway in career work now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show more devotion for kin and avoid a possible argument at home. Avoid trouble of all kinds by being ahead of the game. Take no risks with credit. Be sure to keep accurate accounts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Drive or walk with utmost care if you are to avoid danger since the air is filled with it. Show more courtesy toward partners and get good results. Soothe their jangled nerves.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You think you can buy your way out of anything now, but you had better save your money and be wiser. Build a reserve for the future, when you may need it badly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Pursue anything of a personal nature in the evening, since daytime is adverse for such. Keep busy at business matters during the day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) Tackle annoying chores early so that you have more time for important matters. An adviser could be of help to you if you consult early and later follow advice given.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) Be kind to a good friend who is pre-judging but who can be of assistance to you. Daytime could be frustrating but by evening everything is fine for fun with kin, good friends.

'Bad for the country'

Judged by news emanating out of Austin Saturday, one might get the idea that Gov. Bill Clements doesn't hold Dr. James Schlesinger, secretary of the U.S. Department of Energy, in very high regard.

And one would be correct — only that would be putting it mildly.

In fact, the governor says Schlesinger "is bad for the country" and should be fired.

And there are those West Texans in large numbers who undoubtedly would go right along with the governor in his publicly declared observations and recommendations.

Gov. Clements, who was interviewed on a "State Capitol Dateline" radio program, said that while serving 28 months in the Pentagon as deputy secretary, he officed next to Schlesinger, who, at the time, was secretary of Defense in the Nixon and Ford administrations. And during that period Clements said he came to the conclusion that Schlesinger lacks integrity.

He went on to say that, by custom, the door between their respective offices was never closed.

"I don't think that anybody knows Mr. Schlesinger any better than I do except his wife, Rachel," Clements added. "So when I talk about Mr.

Schlesinger, I know him well. And he is bad for this country. His energy program is a disaster. And the best thing Mr. Carter could possibly do to move our energy program in the right direction would be to fire Schlesinger, and the sooner the better."

That's laying it on the line in right forceful language, but Gov. Clements has never been one to mince words. He speaks right out in stating what he believes to be right and in the best interests of the state and nation.

The governor made it clear that his remarks were not personal, "but an objective opinion based on my experiences with him and his lack of understanding of this problem, his lack of managerial skills and also his lack of integrity."

He wrapped it all up by saying that he decided Schlesinger was bad for the country "about six months before he (Schlesinger) got fired by President Ford, and I think it's interesting that he got fired from that particular job."

And there you have it from a man who knows and has worked with the secretary of Energy.

What will be President Carter's response to the unsolicited recommendation? Well, he hasn't had a great deal of experience in firing cabinet secretaries, as yet.

Bureaucrats dig in

The effort pledged by President Carter to streamline the Washington bureaucracy has met with, not surprisingly, dubious success.

As most folks know, it is not the nature of entrenched civil servants to bow meekly to change. And this is one of the big problems facing the country.

The response to a proposed restructuring of the Pentagon is typical. The Department of Defense has proved itself especially adept at defending its own turf against reorganization specialists.

Stanley B. Resor, a former secretary of the Army, has announced his intention to resign from his assignment to bring efficiency to Pentagon operations.

Sympathetic associates say in the nine months since his appointment as undersecretary for policy, Resor has been frustrated by the "classic bureaucratic maneuvering" by people "im- placable about their prerogatives."

There is some question, too, as to whether Resor had the necessary backing of Defense Secretary Harold R. Brown. He was provided with only a limited staff and found himself isolated by officials of lesser rank.

The campaign to trim the bureaucracy has suffered the pangs of defeat more often than the glory of victory, but the war must go on.

Somewhere down the line some heads will have to be knocked together in order to get the proper attention of the bureaucrats and to make them understand that the streamliners mean business.

It is a very tough, rough job at best, but when the head man, such as Secretary Harold R. Brown, fails to cooperate, the assignment is next to impossible. But again, the fight must be continued, preferably on an expanded scale.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Fatigue is a killer in the air

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The scene was all too familiar that day at the airport. The weary crew members of a U.S. air freighter looked bone-tired and spoke almost incoherently when they arrived at the field. And with good reason: They had had only three hours' sleep after nine hours in flight and a total of 23 hours on duty.

Their Boeing 707 freighter took the entire runway to get off the ground. As it finally lifted off, the plane veered sharply to the right, then left, before colliding with a tree and a utility pole. Careening out of control, the giant craft ripped through trees, poles and rooftops and began disintegrating before it crashed upside down on a playing field.

The crew was killed, and 77 persons on the ground were crushed by debris or burned to death in the flaming inferno. Investigators on the scene found that the plane's controls had been improperly set, depriving it of critical power needed for sufficient takeoff thrust. They blamed the mistake on the exhausted condition of the crew.

The tragedy occurred on Oct. 13, 1976, at Santa Cruz, Bolivia. Yet it could have occurred to a U.S. crew virtually any time and anywhere. It could have occurred to a crew transporting passengers, instead of freight. For the shocking fact about the Santa Cruz disaster is that the crew of the aircraft was operating within Federal Aviation Administration safety regulations. The rules regarding fatigue are alarmingly lax and have not been significantly modified since 1934.

While pilot fatigue is a recurrent theme in foreign accident reports,

American investigators have cited fatigue as a factor in only one commercial airline crash between 1973 and 1977. "Human error" is cited as the cause of most accidents.

An official for the National Transportation Safety Board, which investigates air crashes, told our reporters Tom Rosenstiel and Moira Forbes, "We stay away from it (fatigue) in official board reports, unless we have hard evidence" that the pilots stretched their flight regulations or spent their rest time carousing instead of sleeping.

But pilots themselves told us shocking stories of falling asleep at the controls, or of drinking to overcome the insomnia induced by their long and irregular hours.

"I've been a basket case from flying so many weird hours," said Harris Dexter, a pilot for a major airline.

Another pilot, who asked to have his name withheld, told us he used to drink a pitcher or two of beer to combat sleeplessness, a chronic problem for pilots who must try to sleep during normal waking hours. Sleeping pills are a common remedy, he added.

The crew of one plane reported that its pilot fell asleep on a landing approach just half a mile from the runway. A co-pilot told us he saw his captain fall asleep at 2,000 feet moments after takeoff.

Night flights, changing time zones, erratic schedules and brief layovers all contribute to an impairment of the human body known to most air travelers as "jet lag." This familiar condition is an inconvenience to a businessman or vacationer; it can be a tragedy when it occurs to an airline pilot with hundreds of lives in his care.

ASIA MEMO:

United States-China ties are welcomed by Japan

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

Edward Neilan

WASHINGTON — Japan, which beat the United States into the new China market, has generally welcomed normalized U.S.-China relations.

Sufficient time has passed since the visit of Chinese Deputy Premier Teng Hsiao-ping to the United States to view the new relationship between Washington and Peking with some perspective.

Fumiko Mori of the U.S.-Japan Trade Council writes: "The consensual view in Tokyo seems to be that this historic development (U.S.-China normalization) will have the long-term effect of promoting political stability and economic growth in Asia."

Japanese opinion on this dramatic shift is important because Japan has already gone far into commercial relations with China.

It is also noteworthy at this stage to remind ourselves that the new U.S. China ties did nothing to "stabilize" the China-Vietnam border.

The fighting between Vietnam and China can only serve to dampen the enthusiasm many American businessmen felt for both Vietnam and China in terms of sales of American products and technology.

Japan is unique in that its businessmen seem to be able to trade with everyone, on all sides of battlefields, without reaping negative results.

Japan has strong trade ties with China, is playing an important role in the reconstruction of Vietnam and is also on reasonably good terms with the Soviet Union.

Peking and Tokyo have set a goal of $20 billion in two-way trade over the next eight years. In September, Minister of International Trade and Industry Toshio Komoto traveled to Peking and made an agreement to look beyond the eight-year time frame to an increase of bilateral trade to an estimated $80 billion to $100 billion annually.

With that kind of a jump on American competitors, Japanese business circles should have scant cause for worry. Nevertheless, there is some concern in the Tokyo business community over the possibility of intensified competition over Chinese trade and investment among the United States, the European Economic Community and Japan.

In his article, Mori writes, "There is some uneasiness in Japanese business circles over future loans to China by American financial institutions, especially for oil exploration and space projects."

In the high technology field, Japanese computer and semiconductor manufacturers expect the United States to relax restrictions on sale of these items to Communist nations, including China. This will provide keen competition for Japanese computer makers, who are eager to sell large computers to China.

There is a split in the Japanese business community over the new China market and its opportunities that is similar to discussions in U.S. business circles.

Most Japanese industrialists agree on the great potential of the China market but they differ sharply about whether to risk investment or proceed with caution.

Some Japanese business interests are more attracted to projects involving the Soviet Union than with China. The current heightened China-Russia competition often makes it difficult for a third party like Japan to do business with both.

Japan's economic relations with the Soviet Union flourished in the 1960s when Japanese companies participated in large-scale plant exports to Russia.

There was much talk in Japan of pursuing energy-resource development in Siberia but there has been little progress.

In short, Japanese business interests have been more successful in developing new commercial ties with China than with the Soviet Union. And the very speed of those new ties has caused the Russians to play more cautiously.

Now Americans are in the China market. Moscow seems to be apprehensive over a China-Japan-U.S. business cartel that would have political implications in Northeast Asia.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

INSIDE REPORT:

Another invasion adds to President's worry list

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

WASHINGTON — A Soviet airlift of Ethiopians and Cubans to toughen South Yemen's invasion of North Yemen explains President Carter's decision to waive, for the first time, congressional controls on U.S. arms exports.

Those controls require congressional approval of the shipment of arms to U.S. allies except in case of an "emergency" certified by the president. With the Carter administration at long last determined to react strongly — if not wholly in kind — to another Soviet-backed offensive against an anti-Soviet state, Carter ordered an immediate airlift of arms to North Yemen without waiting for the usual congressional clearance.

In Congress, the mood was surprisingly receptive. Sen. Frank Church, the often-scolding chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, asked only one question of Pentagon witnesses about the president invoking the waiver. He never pressed the point, which would have been unthinkable a year or more ago.

The rush of the Soviet political-military offensive has chastened post-Vietnam feelings of guilt over alleged U.S. excesses during the '60s and early '70s. Moscow has found in South Yemen another ideal opportunity, with South Yemeni Marxist hard-liners ready to stop at nothing if generously supplied with Soviet arms. Cuban-Ethiopian advisers are being flown to South Yemen to supply for moving the Massachusetts presidential primary to a later date. The state's primary is now set for March 4, a week too early for national Democratic party rules. If it is reset much later in the year, it would give Kennedy more leeway in planning a late candidacy.

"We haven't heard a word from Teddy's people," one pro-Kennedy legislative leader told us. "If we start hearing whispers about the senator preferring a late primary, you can bet he's on his way."

Although most politicians take it for granted that Rep. Jack Kemp of New York will run for the Senate in 1980 and defer his presidential ambitions until 1984, Ronald Reagan and his associates have taken nothing for granted. The front-running Reagan's political advisers most fear a Kemp campaign that would cut into conservative ranks. Accordingly, they wanted Kemp's name on the dotted line as a Reagan-for-president committee member. To that end, Reagan campaign manager John Sears paid two visits to Kemp, and Reagan himself telephoned him. But Kemp resisted, for now at least, overtures to join the Reagan team.

WHITHER KEMP?

Although the preponderance of advice given Kemp has urged him to run for the Senate, his closest associates still prefer a presidential run. At this writing, he still had not made up his mind — causing some irritation in the Reagan camp.

MONDALE'S MISS

In Los Angeles to fill a political speech date for President Carter, Vice President Walter F. Mondale quickly found himself in hot water not just with Jewish leaders, some of whom boycotted his speech, but with leading black politicians.

The reason was a direct result of Mondale's impeccable efforts to shore up Carter's poor standing with the American Jewish community leaders, followed by equally impeccable efforts to shore up Carter's standing with Mexican-Americans.

Completely left out in the political shoring up were the previously complacent blacks, and they sent out strong private signals of anger to the vice president. By that time it was too late to add anything to the Mondale schedule.

Other survivors include his wife, six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

AP correspondent dies

ROME (AP) — James M. Long, an Associated Press foreign correspondent for 30 years, died early today after a long illness. He was 71.

Long came to Rome on temporary assignment for the AP in 1950 and stayed with the news agency's bureau here until he retired 23 years later, covering the Vatican, Italian politics and the light and bizarre side of Italian life.

He excelled in reports of such varied happenings as the demise of Roman monuments, the ravages of pigeons on Renaissance buildings, the involvement of prominent Italians in murder cases that shook the country in the 1950s and the complexities of Balkan politics.

Midland High School took second in the overall competition, followed by Big Spring High School in third place.

Tim Norman of Lee earned the President's Award as the outstanding individual competitor in the meet.

In debate competition, the team of Anthony Folger and Ralph Kenny of MHS took top honors, followed by Randy Iola

Board to mull grants

Funding applications for a master plan and a sitter-companion service for Midland will be reviewed when the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission board of directors meets at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the conference room at the Air Terminal Office Building.

Midland Association for Retarded Citizens Inc. is requesting $13,256 to fund the sitter-companion service. The applicant also will provide a matching amount for a training program to prepare people as sitter-companions for a developmentally disabled child or adult.

The city of Midland Aviation Department is requesting $16,000 from the Federal Aviation Administration to fund a limited master plan report for Midland Air Park. The city will provide an additional $4,000 for the study.

Also on review will be an application from the city of Odessa for $1,456,000 in Community Development Block Grant Entitlement funds to benefit low and moderate income people.

Permian Basin Planned Parenthood Inc. is submitting an application to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for $340,000 in a funding grant. The applicant will provide an additional $308,250, giving the agency a budget of $648,250.

A grant of $19,392 is being applied for by the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center of Big Spring to fund a developmental disability project for children age birth to 5 years.

Odessa College is seeking a grant of $58,618 for an Emergency Medical Training Program. The program trains emergency medical technicians and paramedics to provide services to Ector and nine other counties.

Also on review will be grant applications from the Pecos County Commissioners for improvements to the Pecos County Airport, the city of Big Spring to continue funding a senior volunteer program, the Pecos County Community Action Agency to continue a programming grant, the Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health-Mental Retardation to continue an alcoholism drying-out program and from the city of Big Spring to continue an alcoholism treatment center.

Chagra case subpoenas will stand

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Subpoenas for the personal and business records of a ball bondsman who put up $400,000 bond for Jimmy Chagra were allowed to stand Monday.

U.S. District Judge William Sessions denied motions to quash the subpoenas, issued as part of a grand jury probe into racketeering.

Chagra, brother of slain narcotics defense lawyer Lee Chagra, was arrested in Las Vegas on narcotics charges and is scheduled to stand trial in Midland in April.

Victor Apodaca Jr. posted the bond, believed to be the highest in El Paso history.

Apodaca's lawyer, Sib Abraham, had said the subpoenas were outside the area of the FBI, which issued them. Abraham said the subpoenas were a "license to conduct a fishing expedition."

The subpoenas called for Apodaca's business records from July 1976 and for personal records dating back 12 years.

The subpoenas included the accounting firm headed by El Paso Mayor Ray Salazar, which handled Apodaca's records during some of the period under investigation.

Salazar said Monday he already had turned the requested records over to the U.S. attorney's office.

Sessions ordered another accounting firm to turn over its records in the case Monday afternoon.

Abraham, Apodaca's lawyer and partner in several business ventures, charged the FBI subpoenas "usher in a new phase of the federal probe." Abraham's sister is the widow of Lee Chagra.

Shuttle test flight starts

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The space shuttle Columbia began its latest test flight this morning in what National Space and Aeronautics Agency officials called "marginal weather conditions."

NASA spokesman Jim Kukowski said, however, that the Columbia's long-delayed cross country flight to its eventual launch site at Cape Canaveral, Fla., was unlikely to begin today because the weather was bad between here and El Paso, Texas, the first stop.

Kukowski said the Columbia, affixed atop a 747 jumbo jet, moved down a 15,000-foot runway at this desert air base at about 6:30 a.m. PST on its way to a flight in which it would climb to about 13,000 feet and fly a variety of patterns for a half-hour.

The flight to Florida was originally scheduled to begin March 9, but was put off 10 days when technical problems cropped up as workers tried to bolt the 75-ton shuttle atop the Boeing 747.

That problem caused a one-day delay and a subsequent test flight revealed new problems with foam tiles that had been taped over gaps in the shuttle's heat shield.

Iran gunbattles continue

SANANDAJ, Iran (AP) — Sporadic gunbattles continued around a besieged army barracks in this Kurdish city today as residents counted their dead and wounded, victims of bloody fighting between Kurdish rebels and government troops.

There was no immediate word of casualties when the new battle erupted after a brief truce in Sanandaj, the capital of the Kurdistan region 250 miles west of Tehran.

At least 170 people were reported killed in fighting Sunday and Monday before the cease-fire, but Deputy Prime Minister Abbas Amir Entezam today put the official toll at 86 dead and 200 wounded.

Throughout the city groups of armed Kurdish fighters manned road blocks in the virtually empty streets as army helicopters flew overhead. The city apparently was in the control of the Kurdish guerrillas except for the army barracks under siege.

The government said it was sending reinforcements to relieve the siege of the barracks after an overnight cease-fire was broken by the rebels.

Ten helicopters, apparently ferrying in reinforcements, flew into the airport of the town during the morning. But on the drive to Sanandaj from Tehran there were no signs of major troop movements.

Residents reported that Sunday, after the fighting first flared, four helicopter gunships circled the city firing indiscriminately on people in the streets. At the Khanh Hospital, doctors said they had the corpses of 21 people killed in the fighting and 133 wounded. Another hospital, they said, reported 30 more dead. In the Khanh Hospital morgue several bodies were placed in cubicles with ice preserving them and others were laid out on the floor.

Student actors honored

Four members of the cast of Greenwood High School's one-act play "Of Poems, Youth and Spring," were honored as all-star cast members, and Donita Lea took best actress honors at a speech tournament last weekend.

Russian Ratliff, Gina Hughes, Tommy Somers and Mickey Somers were chosen for the all-star cast in the meet which attracted some 19 other schools. In the competition Saturday, Donita Lea took first place in poetry interpretation, and Greta Black took third in the contest. Vendell Woolfolk placed third in newswriting, and Carol Hendrix took third in feature writing in the competition. The group presented their one-act play Monday night at Greenwood in the school's Night of One-Act Plays. "The Diary of Adam and Eve" was the second play presented Monday.

President says he will make decision soon

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) — A day-long meeting with his top advisers at Camp David left President Carter convinced that any decision he makes to cope with energy shortages will exact a political price, his spokesman says.

Although the meeting Monday produced no apparent or sudden policy shifts, the president was reported to that mandatory fuel conservation steps, such as weekend gasoline station closing, may not be needed.

—A report financed by the oil industry said that although growth in U.S. gasoline consumption is expected to slow by 1981, spot shortages of unleaded gasoline may occur unless federal price controls are lifted.

—Interior Secretary Cecil D.

Andrus announced that the first sale of petroleum leases in the North Atlantic may be held this year.

—Delegates from 14 states that rely heavily on tourist business voted unanimously at a meeting in Tampa, Fla., to oppose a ban on weekend gasoline sales and ask Congress to let states make their own plans to conserve fuel.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

have promised a response to the latest energy developments within about 10 days and his spokesman said it was correct to assume action would be taken.

Asked upon his return to the White House late Monday whether any decisions were reached, Carter said with a grin, "we'll let you know later."

Carter summoned congressional leaders to the White House today for breakfast, with the matters discussed at Camp David a likely topic of conversation.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger was meeting later today with California officials and representatives from Standard Oil of Ohio to decide whether a pipeline project dropped last week by the company can be salvaged. Energy officials had viewed it as a major way of getting a surplus of Alaska oil on the West Coast to the nation's interior.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Monday that detailed reports of the energy options discussed at Camp David would be "extremely premature."

Those options include action on price controls ranging from retaining federal control, to partial decontrol, to lifting the controls entirely.

"There were no decisions made — period," said Powell, who spent the day at Camp David. But he said it became clear that "tradeoffs all along the line" on energy and its effect on the economy "are extremely difficult."

"The sessions focused primarily on energy, but of course that had to be discussed in the context of our overall economic situation, particularly our concerns about inflation," Powell said.

Powell said the president's consultations in coming days with members of Congress would be intended "to determine what degree of cooperation and support we can expect from them."

Asked whether this meant legislation was contemplated, he replied: "It means some of the options that may be attractive are feasible only with appropriate congressional action or would be effective only with appropriate congressional action."

In addition to Vice President Walter F. Mondale, the participants included Schlesinger, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps and Budget Director James McIntyre.

Also attending were Carter's chief anti-inflation strategist, Alfred E. Kahn; Charles Schultz, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; White House domestic policy aide Stuart Elzenstat; trade ambassador Robert Strauss; Assistant Secretary of State Julius L. Katz; House congressional liaison chief Frank Moore; and Powell.

In other energy developments Monday:

—House and Senate Republican leaders Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona and Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee called for appointment of a "special energy administrator" with more sweeping powers than those of Schlesinger. They also urged Carter to lift price controls on oil and other fuels to encourage more exploration for domestic energy supplies. Baker said the Carter energy program is in such a shambles gasoline rationing might be necessary by this summer.

—House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill dismissed talk of a special energy administrator, telling reporters the president "has most of the powers himself now" to do what is needed on energy.

—Deputy Energy Secretary John F. O'Leary told a Senate energy subcommittee the world oil supply situation, with restoration of some production from Iran, is looking brighter and better.

AMARILLO — Mesa Petroleum Co. announced the company proposes to sell its Canadian oil and gas properties and is beginning immediately to seek a purchaser.

The sale will include all producing and nonproducing properties and related facilities and equipment.

Dec. 31, Mesa's Canadian properties consisted of approximately 400 billion cubic feet of net proved natural gas reserves and 8 million barrels of net proved reserves of oil, condensate and natural gas liquids; 292 net gas wells and 113 net oil wells; 213,660 net producing acres; and 1,300,000 net undeveloped acres.

Mesa's production from Canadian properties in 1978 was 28 billion cubic feet of net natural gas (26 percent of total company gas production) and 728,000 barrels of net oil, condensate and natural gas liquids (15 percent of total company liquids production).

Operators report wildcat tests in seven West Texas counties

Wildcat operations have been reported in Reeves, Crane, Upton, Dawson, Terry, Runnels and Coke counties, and a gas discovery has been finalized in Runnels.

Forest Oil Corp. No. 1-B State is a 4,700-foot gas wildcat in Reeves County, nine miles southwest of Orla.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 28, block 57, T-3, T&P survey. The site is 5/8 mile northeast of the Marsh, South (Delaware) gas field and 3/4 mile southwest of Forest No. 1-A Ste, recently staked wildcat.

CRANE EXPLORER
North Central Oil Corp. of Houston No. 1 Cowden will be drilled as a 9,100-foot wildcat in Crane County, four miles north of Crane.

The drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 28, block X, CCSD&RNG survey and two miles south of the Block 31 multipay field.

UPTON WILDCAT
Dalton H. Cobb of Midland No. 1 Weathered is a new wildcat operation in Upton County, four miles southeast of McCamey.

Sited for a 7,000-foot bottom, it is 660 feet from southeast and 1,320 feet from northeast lines of section 4, block 36, H&TC survey, abstract 787.

The location is 2.5 miles southwest of the Ellenburger discovery of the McCamey, Southeast field and separated from it by an 8,130-foot dry hole. The site also is 3/4 mile northwest of an 8,445-foot failure. The McCamey, Southeast pool also produces from the Fusselman.

BRIDGE

An ounce of habit used to advantage

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
An ounce of habit is worth a pound of intellect, and if you rely on your opponent's habit you will seldom be wrong.

South dealer - Both sides vulnerable

NORTH: 7642, K9, K83, KQ103
WEST: AKQ103, 6532, A7, 84
EAST: 985, 74, 9652, 9762

SOUTH: J, AQJ108, QJ104, AJ5

South West North East: 1♥ 1♠ 2♣ Pass, 2♦ Pass 2♥ Pass, 4♥ All Pass

South ruffed the second spade and led the jack of diamonds.

West played low without thinking. An experienced defender develops the habit of losing finesse. If East had the queen of diamonds why should West steer South away from a losing finesse by playing the ace of diamonds?

DRAWN TRUMPS

South's jack of diamonds won the trick, and declarer switched to trumps. He took five trumps, four clubs and a diamond.

If South had drawn trumps before touching the diamonds, West would easily see that he could take the ace of diamonds and the rest of his spades. South's early diamond play should not have deceived West, and all players who are never betrayed by their habits have a right to scold West.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-7642; H-K9; D-K83; C-KQ103. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. You would jump to three spades if your trumps were headed by the queen or perhaps even the jack. With the actual hand, bid your own suit and show the spade support later.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Self-examination worthwhile doing

Dear Dr. Solomon: Two close friends of mine have undergone mastectomies in the past year. This has left me somewhat anxious, particularly during the interval between my annual visits to my gynecologist. I have attempted breast self-examination, but I'm not a doctor and feel I really don't know what to look for. Is breast self-examination really of much value?—Nancy should be aware that there are still risks involved.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Our teen-age daughter is on a 100 percent vegetarian diet. She has started to complain about pains in her legs when she walks. Is there any connection?—Sally B.

Dear Sally B.: Your daughter may be suffering from a vitamin deficiency. This 100 percent vegetarian diet may result in possible muscle and nerve damage. This diet may lack vitamin B12, which is necessary for normal nerve, muscle and blood function. Your daughter's problem in walking may be a direct result of the deficiency of vitamin B12. If your daughter prefers a vegetarian diet, then try to get her to add eggs, milk, soybean products, and/or fish to get the adequate amount of B12 that her body needs. If she won't eat foods with B12 then your doctor could prescribe B12.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Linda May Burnett gets death

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Linda May Burnett, a 31-year-old mother and housewife, was sentenced to death today for last summer's execution-style slaying of one of five members of a Southeast Texas family.

A state court jury in Beaumont, in its second day of deliberating the punishment for the blonde Nederland woman, returned its verdict after nearly five hours.

Mrs. Burnett took the news quietly and without tears. She had defiantly said "I am not guilty" when she was convicted Saturday of capital murder.

Mrs. Burnett becomes the fifth woman sentenced to die in Texas since the state installed the electric chair in 1924, although the other four managed to defeat the sentence through appeals or commutation.

The 1977 Legislature ended death by electrocution in favor of a lethal injection.

Mrs. Burnett will be the lone woman on Death Row in Texas.

An appeal of the death penalty is automatic.

The jury was unable to decide Monday whether she should be executed or receive a life prison sentence, and retired for the night after four and a half hours of deliberations.

One of Mrs. Burnett's daughters, Janey, testified for the defense during the punishment phase Monday.

The 12-year-old girl, who has appeared frequently as a spectator during the trial, sometimes sitting on the front row and whispering to her mother "I love you," was on the stand only briefly. She was asked if she understood the purpose of the proceeding.

"To see whether or not my mother gets the death penalty," she answered.

The daughter, an attractive girl with long brown hair who remained composed during her testimony, said she still loves her mother. On cross-examination she said her 14-year-old sister once ran away from home and was returned by police.

The jury began deliberating her punishment at 2:30 p.m. Monday. They later sent out a question asking District Judge Larry Gist how many years Mrs. Burnett would have to spend in prison if she were assessed a life sentence. He replied that under state law, she would be eligible for parole in 20 years.

Mrs. Burnett was convicted for the death of 3-year-old Jason Phillips, who was slain along with his parents and grandparents July 1 after the family had been abducted from a rural farmhouse near Winnie. All five bodies were found in a common grave in the same general area July 10.

Prosecutors called only one witness during the punishment testimony Monday morning — Hubert Miller, Mrs. Burnett's ex-husband.

Miller testified that in 1977, after his wife had remarried, she showed up at his house one day. Miller said when he asked Mrs. Burnett what she wanted, she said nothing but shot him in the shoulder.

Mrs. Burnett still faces additional capital murder charges in the deaths of Bishop and Ester Phillips of Winnie, their son, Elmer and his wife, Martha, of Woodward, Okla.

Freight rates to go higher

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Motor freight carriers in Texas have been granted a $10.4 million annual increase in line haul rates and charges for general commodities.

The Texas Railroad Commission said Monday the Common Carriers Motor Freight Association, which represents 24 carriers, was granted an across-the-board 4.5 percent rate increase.

The carriers had been granted a 3 percent increase last Oct. 16.

Optimist group cited

The Westside Optimist Club of Midland has been named an "honor club" by Optimist International, announced Dudley D. Williams, president of the international men's organization.

The Midland club, which has been so honored four times in 10 years, was cited for its "outstanding service to the youth" of the Midland community.

The Westside Optimist Club sponsors such events as Tri-Star Basketball, an oratorical contest, Miss America Soft Ball, motocross and bicycle motocross race tracks, a bicycle safety program, Young Texan and Youth Appreciation Week, among other youth-oriented projects.

Danny Storch is president of the 36-member club.

Execution of women avoided

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Linda May Burnett is the fifth woman to be sentenced to death in Texas since the creation of the electric chair in 1924, but the others all managed to avoid execution by appeal or having their sentences commuted to life.

The last woman condemned to die in Texas was Mary Lou Anderson, 35, but her sentence was commuted to 50 years in prison after she agreed to testify against a co-defendant in the case. She was convicted in Wharton last August of hiring a man to kill her parents for a life insurance payoff and was the first woman sentenced under the new law calling for death by injection.

Carolyn Ann Lima was sentenced to die in the electric chair in 1961 for the murder of Houston real estate salesman Fred Tones. But her conviction was overturned four hours before she was to have been electrocuted. She was later given a new trial, had her sentence reduced 15 years in prison, and later gained her freedom on parole.

'Babysitting' part of country life

PATRICIA — You wander into the small, cozy office out in the country but along a well-traveled route between Midland and Lamesa.

A friendly chap in a Western hat, boots and leisure garb gets up. He greets you with a handshake.

It's about quitting time, but that doesn't matter at all.

"I'm Norman Gandy," he says, "but folks around here call me 'Buck' Gandy."

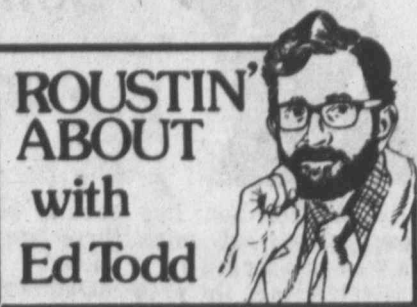

He is doing far more waiting than working.

You might call "Buck" Gandy a "gentleman farmer," since he no longer tills in the field.

At 70, he's retired and has recovered quite well from open-heart surgery he under went almost a year ago.

"I'm baby sitting this afternoon," he tells you. His wife, Iris, who is the bookkeeper at Newcomer Butane & Oil Co. here, has gone over to the Klondike Baptist Church to help prepare supper for a Thursday night church workers' conference, he says.

Churchgoers from rural congregations all around are invited to the monthly get-together.

AFTER SUPPER, they'll have "singing and visitation galore," Gandy says. "Everybody's welcome to come for the fellowship, but generally not too many show up."

Klondike is four miles east, by way of Farm Road 828, of Patricia.

There's a school, church and gin in Klondike but not much else in the middle of this cotton country.

Patricia has a blacksmith's shop, filling station, two cotton gins, some vacant and dilapidated wooden buildings from the "boom" years, a cemetery covered by sand and not much more. Patricia Forbes is buried there, Gandy says. The community perpetuates her name. She died young many years ago.

Gandy moved to southern Dawson County to farm in 1930. He farmed around the old Higginbotham community, which now "is all gone."

He laid the plow to rest after his heart surgery up at Lubbock last April 10. He was the hospital's 1,900th open-heart patient.

"They've got it (heart surgery) down so well now that it's no different from appendectomy," he reckons.

The "medical profession" has the technique pretty well perfected, says Gandy, who figures he's in good shape.

"OH, I THINK I could go back to farming as far as my health is concerned. But there's no money in it whether you make a good crop or not."

Though he keeps up his farm home just west of Patricia, Gandy and the wife live in Lamesa — the 12,000-peopled seat of Dawson County.

"It's just like every place else," he says of the town. "They've got some bad ones (folks), some good ones and some in between."

About that time, Henry McQuien Jr. drives up in a twin-tank Newcomer fuel truck. He's the delivery man for the business and does "a little of everything." He and Iris Gandy run the butane-oil business here for Earl Newcomer, who lives in Ackerly on the Dawson-Martin County line.

"She's real active in community affairs," McQuien says in explaining her leaving the office early and getting Gandy to more or less run things — "baby sitting," as he puts it. "She takes a lot interest in the community."

McQUIEN, 54, GREW up at Lamesa, where his late father was an automobile mechanic.

He left Lamesa for Alpine in 1946-47, when he was enrolled in Sul Ross State University, and "went to school" with O'Donnell's Bobby Dan Blocker, who later gained fame portraying Hoss Cartwright in television's Western "Bonanza" series.

The Gandy-McQuien ramblings reflect the sincere warmth of a fireside chat on a chilly afternoon.

McQuien sits behind the office desk and, like Gandy, contentedly smokes cigarette after cigarette as if the day would last forever.

A wooden sign behind the desk says something about having "a nervous breakdown...as soon as the rush is over." A fellow gave it to McQuien in 1976, when the butane-oil business was doing particularly well largely due to a bumper crop year.

The hurrying has slowed down considerably.

Just outside the office and next to a tree is the rusted and ripped-open casing of a practice bomb dropped on the old L7 Ranch during World War II. Midland, like Big Spring, was site of a bombardier school in the early 1940s.

"I found it last year," McQuien says in his unhurried and easy drawl. "Somebody just plowed it up. That L7 is in pretty desolate country right there" where the practice bombing took place. The old L7 is mostly in Martin County.

TALK TURNS TO the blacksmith's shop, which actually does more welding and straightening jobs than hammer-and-anvil work around the bellows. The conversation drifts to Patricia's boom days in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

Back then, Patricia had a hotel, three grocery stores, filling stations, cafe, washateria, post office and, of course, the cotton gins. The hotel burned down.

"That blacksmith's shop is the only thing (outside the gins) left here, and they're trying to close it down," Gandy allows.

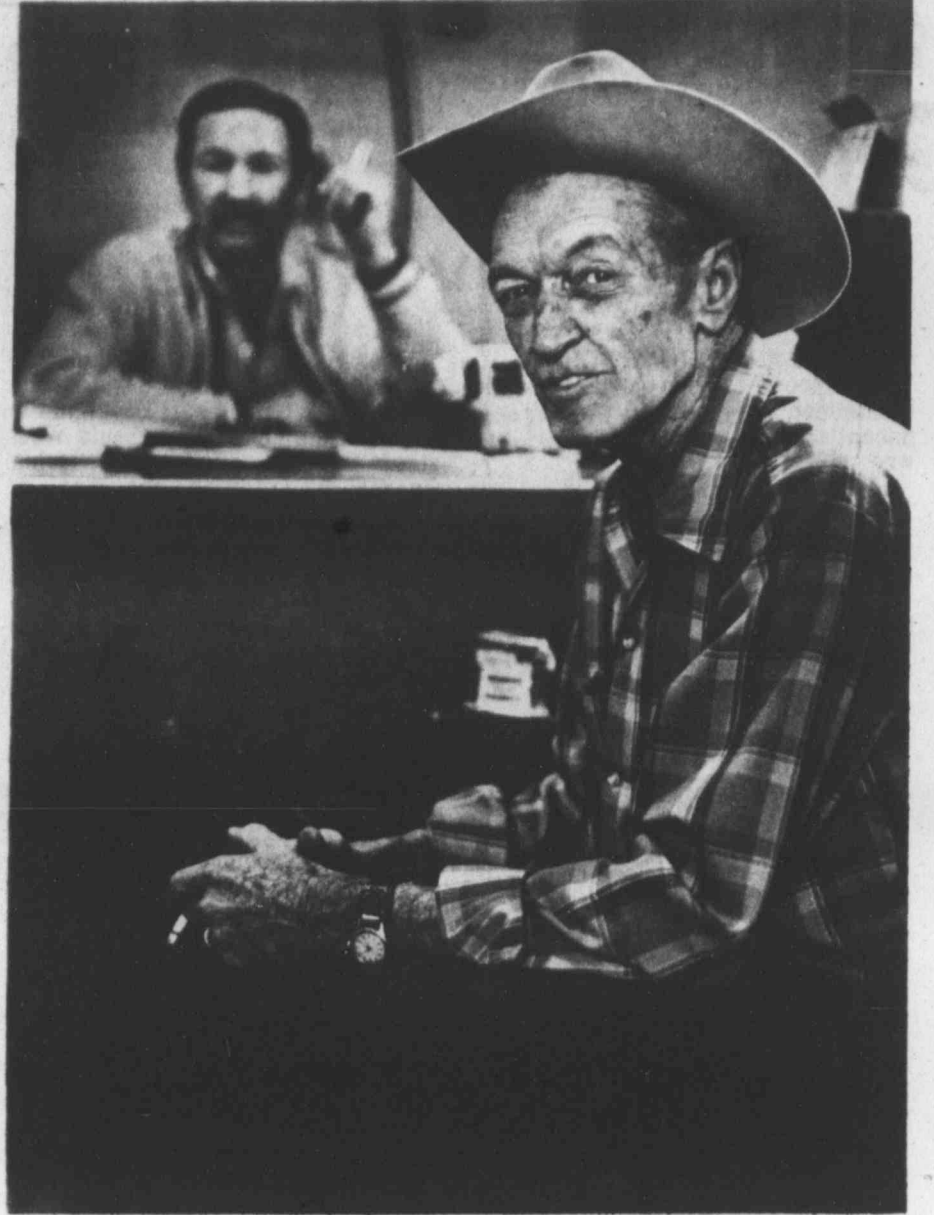

THE OLD SHOP, which belongs in an era long since past and looks the part, is at the crossroads leading to Klondike, Andrews, Midland, and Lamesa.

Gandy and McQuien fondly ramble about the past that was Patricia's and many other rural communities no longer of this world.

McQuien is reflective. "They tell me what ruined these rural farming communities was the good highways and the cars. That's what I understand." Many folks "fed" to the city and town but still work on the rural land; many never return. Others stay on the farm.

Presently, Gandy and McQuien close up the office and drive off toward town. It is a friendly parting for all.

Rural living will resume in the morrow.

Official urges county sales tax

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Legislature keeps piling new responsibilities on counties but hasn't given them a new revenue source to pay the bills, a McLennan County commissioner says.

Commissioner Roy Nail urged the House Ways and Means Committee on Monday to approve a bill that would let counties impose a 1 percent sales tax if local voters approved.

He said his county was having to build a $6 million jail because of standards set by the legislatively created Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

On top of that, he said, the 1977 Speedy Trial Act is adding $125,000 a year to the cost of operating the county's courts and prosecutors' offices.

"We know what the sales tax has done for the state and the cities, and we think it could do the same thing for counties," Nail said.

The committee sent two county sales tax bills to subcommittee for more study.

One, by Rep. Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, would give three-fourths of the revenue to school districts within a county. The rest would go to county government.

The other, by Rep. Bill Keese, D-Somerville, would entitle a county to all the money from its sales tax.

To receive its allocation under Jackson's bill, a school district would have to reduce property taxes by 90 percent of what it received from the sales tax.

"I suspect people would rather have a penny sales tax than see what has been happening in property taxes continue to happen," Jackson said.

Jackson said if voters in each county approved a county sales tax, it would mean $317 million a year for schools and $105.9 million for counties.

Califano claims Americans 'healthiest people in world'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The secretary of health, education and welfare says Americans "are among the healthiest people in the world," but the costs of staying that way are high.

Joseph A. Califano Jr. made that assessment in his third annual report to the Congress on the nation's health.

The nation's health bill in 1977 was $163 billion, or $737 per person, and consumed 8.8 percent of the Gross National Product, its highest share ever. In 1950, 4.5 percent of the GNP went for health care.

Health costs this year are expected to top $200 billion.

The 500-page report, presented Monday, "shows that we have made considerable progress in improving the health status of Americans," said Califano, who cited the record life expectancy at birth of 72.8 years in 1976 and the historic low death rate of 8.8 per 1,000 persons in 1977.

But the report also catalogs what Califano called the "serious problems that remain," including: —Estimates that 1 in 8 deaths might have been prevented with appropriate medical "intervention."

—One-quarter of the women who have babies did not see a physician and keep costs from continuing their "alarming" rise.

Califano is leading the Carter administration's fight for a bill that would impose a lid on hospitals' revenues next year if they fail to keep the inflation rate of their expenditures below 9.7 percent this year.

The report said heart disease and cancer remain Americans' No. 1 and No. 2 killers, accounting for nearly 60 percent of the nation's death toll. But the age-adjusted death rate for heart disease fell nearly 28 percent between 1968 and 1976, while the cancer death rate has risen 5.5 percent since 1950.

For people under age 45, the cancer death rate actually has fallen.

Purdue, Indiana gain finals in NIT action

NEW YORK (AP) — Purdue University and Indiana University are a mere 120 miles apart and brothers in the Big Ten Conference, but now their basketball teams are even closer than that — right next to each other in the final round of the National Invitation Tournament.

THE FIRST NIT championship game between two schools from the same state in 20 years was set up Monday when the 15th-ranked Boilermakers, 27-7, from West Lafayette, Ind., and the unrated Hoosiers, 21-12, from Bloomington, Ind., won semifinal games at Madison Square Garden. They play Wednesday night in the first intrastate NIT final since 1958 when Xavier, Ohio defeated Dayton 78-74 in overtime.

Purdue, led by Joe Barry Carroll's 42 points, destroyed Alabama 87-68 and Indiana, behind Mike Woodson's 20 points and a suffocating defense, beat Big Ten Conference rival Ohio State 64-55 Monday night in the semifinals of the 42nd NIT.

In their two prior meetings this season, Indiana won at home 63-54 and Purdue took the second game on its court 55-48.

"The Big Ten is king in the Midwest, it doesn't worry about the rest of the country," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight.

If the Big Ten is as dominating a conference as Knight suggests, then the individual king in the Midwest is the massive, 7-foot-1, 240-pound Carroll.

In scoring nearly half his team's points and reaching a career high against Alabama, the third-team All-American junior center awed a crowd of 14,632, including many pro scouts, general managers and coaches.

"He's very agile," marveled Ken Norton, the long-time coach at Manhattan and now a member of the NIT Selection Committee. "And what a touch he has."

"He has a real good touch for a big man," observed Butch Beard, assistant coach of the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association.

"He's good, very good," noted Dan Quilty, a former player at New York University and one of Norton's compatriots on the NIT Selection Committee. "He has a delicate touch.

Alabama couldn't keep him outside, and when he got inside, Alabama couldn't stop him."

THE CRIMSON TIDE, 21-11, used three players — Eddie Phillips, Phil Lockett and Reggie King, the Southeastern Conference Player of the Year — in trying to defend Carroll. But none could stop his sweeping right-handed hook shots, his soft layups or his one-handed slam dunks. Phillips and Lockett both fouled out and King was taken off Carroll after getting two quick fouls.

Carroll, a 22.6 scorer during the regular season with a high of 36 against Iowa, hit all eight of his field goals attempts and collected 20 points in the first half when the Boilermakers, Big Ten tri-champions, took a commanding 43-32 lead.

HE ADDED 22 points after intermission as the potent and poised Boilermakers broke open the game.

"Joe Barry played a great game, an exceptional game," said Purdue Coach Lee Rose. "But he's played like this all year. I don't think he's played any better, but he has played this well."

"We tried to double up on Carroll," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton, "but we had trouble because their guards played so well."

Of the Boilermakers' guards, Jerry Sichting scored 20 points and had seven assists, and Brian Walker contributed nine assists.

5-4A baseball opening today

District 5-4A baseball action opened today with the Midland Lee Rebels (11-4) entertaining the Odessa High Bronchos (5-9) at the Lee diamond and the Midland Bulldogs (6-3), taking on the Odessa Permian Panthers (9-3) in Odessa.

In other 5-4A openers today, Abilene Cooper's Cougars (7-1) took on the San Angelo Central Bobcats (1-5) in Abilene while Big Spring's Steers (7-3) were set to battle the Abilene Eagles (1-6) in Big Spring.

All four games started at 4 p.m. today, weather permitting.

King and Robert Scott scored 21 points apiece for Alabama, which faces Ohio State in the third-place game preceding the title contest.

"Don't make the mistake of thinking that Carroll is a one-man team," warned Knight. "They (the Boilermakers) have some good guards who can hurt you."

Still, Carroll was awesome against Alabama. His point production equaled the sixth highest total in NIT history — the record is 65 by Anthony Roberts of Oral Roberts in 1977. In four NIT games, Carroll has accumulated 112 points, only 17 shy of the all-time record set by Bobby Lloyd of Rutgers in 1967.

NEITHER IS Indiana a one-man team.

In addition to Woodson's team-high total against Ohio State, guards Butch Carter and Randy Wittman each scored 12 points and combined for 12 assists, while center Ray Tolbert had 10 points and a game-high 10 rebounds.

Kelvin Ransey led Ohio State, 19-11, with 25 points and center Herb Williams scored 14.

But the Buckeyes' inability to get the ball consistently into Williams against Indiana's tight zone defense was costly. The 6-10 Williams, a 19.9 scorer during the season, took only eight shots against the Hoosiers.

"Indiana's defense collapsed on Williams," said Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller. "We had no balanced offense to overcome this. Indiana plays as good a defense as any team in the country."

Young pitchers getting attention of veterans

By The Associated Press
Their names are not yet among the pitching stars of the American League. But if their performances this spring are an indication, watch out for a pair of youthful right-handers: Kip Young of Detroit and Mark Clear of California.

Neither has allowed a run this spring.

The 24-year-old Young has pitched 12 pre-season innings, including five in Monday's 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos. He struck out seven Expos in his stint, polishing his breaking pitches in preparation for his first full season with the big-league club.

MOST OF his victims flailed feebly at his curve.

"That makes you feel like you must be doing something right," said Young, who was promoted to the Tigers from the minors midway through last season and managed a 6-7 record with a 2.81 earned run average.

"They're just disgusted," he said of the batters. "It's early in the spring and they're not used to seeing that many breaking balls."

They can expect plenty more when the season begins.

The 22-year-old Clear has been working on his control ... successfully. The 6-foot-4, 200-pounder — a nephew of Angels first base coach Bob Clear — has pitched nine spring innings, striking out 16 while allowing just two hits and three walks.

"My uncle and my dad have been doing a lot of work with me," he said after striking out the side twice in three innings Monday as the Angels beat the Chicago Cubs 5-3. "I'm excited about my chances of making the Angels this season. I'd just like to make this club. I think I'm capable of starting, but I'm just happy to get a chance."

IN THE OTHER exhibition games, the New York Yankees trimmed the Atlanta Braves 2-1, the Houston

Astros nipped the Minnesota Twins 4-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers drubbed the Baltimore Orioles 8-2, the Cincinnati Reds edged the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in 13 innings, the Toronto Blue Jays topped the Boston Red Sox 10-8 and the Texas Rangers beat the Kansas City Royals 6-2.

Meanwhile, the Oakland A's bested the Cleveland Indians 8-3 in a game shortened to seven innings by rain, the Seattle Mariners drubbed the Milwaukee Brewers 8-3, the San Diego Padres topped the San Francisco Giants 5-3, the St. Louis Cardinals tripped the Chicago White Sox 5-3 and the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4.

After the Yankees had won their second game this spring — and their second against the Braves — Manager Bob Lemon expressed his reaction to the latest communique by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn, alleging some clubs had fielded lineups of backup players, directed each team to field "representative squads" for exhibition games at which admission is charged.

"I'm not going to kill my club trying to entertain people during spring training," said Lemon. "It's not like a nightclub act. You shouldn't have to play their favorite songs."

"There's no sense bringing the kids to spring training if you're not going to play them," Lemon continued.

Jim Obradovich cracked a ninth-inning single to score Julio Gonzalez with the run that carried the Astros past the Twins.

Davey Lopes had a double and two singles as the Dodgers collected 18 hits off the Orioles and cruised to victory. Baltimore's Jim Palmer gave up 13 hits and all eight Los Angeles runs, six of them earned.

Champ Summers homered with two out in the top of the 13th inning to carry Cincinnati past Philadelphia. The Phillies' Jim Kaat pitched six shutout innings, allowing four hits.

Rick Bosetti's three-run ninth-inning homer carried Toronto past Boston. That was the bad news. The good news for Red Sox Manager Don Zimmer was that pitcher Bill Campbell and his tender right shoulder had tossed batting practice for the first time in three weeks and reported no ill effects.

Kirk next Memphis coach?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — News reports say Memphis State's six-week search for a new basketball coach will end today when Dana Kirk of Virginia Commonwealth accepts the job.

The Commercial Appeal, the morning newspaper in Memphis, said in a copyrighted story today that Kirk will be introduced at a news conference this morning on the MSU campus.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch carried a story today saying Kirk is likely to accept the position, and several Memphis television stations named Kirk as the choice to replace Wayne Yates.

The hiring of the former University of Tampa coach and Louisville assistant ends a search that began Feb. 7 when Yates announced his resignation, effective at the season's end.

Indiana State's Bird named Player of Year

CHICAGO (AP) — The blue and white Cessna cut smartly through the crisp, clear Midwest morning and purred to a stop on the tarmac at Meigs Field, Chicago's downtown airport. The door flopped open and three rather ordinary men stepped out and shook themselves like chickens, as if to shed the wrinkles of the flight.

Then in one sighing motion that allowed the little plane to rise perceptibly on its wheels, the Cessna disgorged Larry Bird.

The young man who is one of the finest basketball players the game has seen wore neatly pressed slacks and a loose-fitting sweater. The sun sparkled in his sandy hair. He carried a styrofoam cup into which he casually spat tobacco juice.

The first impression of him is one of awe. Larry Bird is built exactly like a tree trunk.

It isn't the height. Six feet, nine inches is not out of the ordinary for today's basketball players. But Bird is not one of those people who look like they were put on a rack and stretched. He is perfectly proportioned — shoulders broad enough to handle the height. Shaking hands with him is like being grabbed by a steamshovel. He is truly a giant. Human beings aren't supposed to come in that size.

Bird and his Indiana State University coach, Bill Hodges, had flown up to Chicago from Terre Haute to receive AP college player of the Year and coach of the year awards. It was the morning after they had beaten Virginia Tech at Lawrence, Kan., in the second round of the NCAA tournament. Bird had to be a little tired, but he didn't show it.

The group encountered some Indiana State fans in the lobby of the little airport that nestles in the shadow of Chicago's storied Soldier Field. Most were businessmen up for the day from the town Larry Bird put on the map. They approached him easily, grinning in appreciation. All had watched the victory on television the day before in Terre Haute.

Larry has an easy way with people he knows. Like most big men, he slouches a couple of inches when consorting with ordinary-sized folk. It is a gesture of consolation. He jokes with the Terre Haute crowd and there is a bit of backslapping and horseplay. The player holds his left hand away from the action because the thumb is in a cast and a bandage grips the rest of the hand and wrist.

You have to keep reminding yourself that he is doing all these things with a broken hand. Writers don't type with broken hands. Builders don't put up bricks with them. But athletes are different. It is called playing hurt and some do it well, some don't. It is safe to imagine that a number of fractures would be required to stop Larry Bird from playing basketball.

Tommy John happy to be with Yankees

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "There is a Big Yankee in the Sky, but he's either in Tampa or the Bronx right now," pitcher Tommy John of the New York Yankees would have said, if anyone had asked him about the Yankees' losing exhibition baseball record, which reached 1-10 Sunday.

John, the left-hander who pitched brilliantly for the Los Angeles Dodgers in recent years but signed as a free agent with the world champion Yankees last winter, made the statement in a tongue-in-cheek message to Los Angeles baseball writers.

John was not with the Yankee squad during an exhibition loss to the Dodgers last week, and some reporters had hoped to pose questions about his switch. A few days later, John sent the writers a hand-written message saying: "Did not duck the LA press."

He explained he had a longtime commitment to appear at a Tony Lama Memorial golf tournament the same day at San Marcos, Fla.

He went on to say: "I love the Yankees ... George Steinbrenner ... Al Rosen ... the players are all great guys."

"I anticipate no alterations in the clubhouse."

"My arm feels great."

"If the Dodgers don't win N.L. West by 10 games, something is wrong."

"Those are the answers. Now all you have to do is supply the questions."

Bruins, Foster down Maple Leafs

BOSTON (AP) — Rookie Dwight Foster appears ready to settle down in Boston.

"I think I have a knack for scoring," Foster said after producing two first-period goals and an assist in the Boston Bruins' 4-3 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in the lone National Hockey League game Monday night.

"I think I can be one of the best scorers in the National Hockey League," he added.

The 22-year-old rookie from Kitchener, Canada, scored his fifth and sixth goals in the first period, raising his point total to 12 in 35 Bruins' games, all sandwiched around three trips this season to Rochester of the American Hockey League.

"I'm finally getting the playing time, and the big difference is that you are not hesitant. You're not thinking that the next shift could be your last," he said.

The Maple Leafs rallied from a 4-1 deficit, but couldn't put in a tying goal.

"I thought we could catch them," said Leafs' goalie Mike Palmateer, who won praise from Boston Coach Don Cherry.

"The score easily could have been 8-2," Cherry said, "but Palmateer is awesome. Right now he could be considered the best goalie in the league."

Wayne Cashman, with Foster and Dick Redmond assisting, put Boston ahead 1-0 as he beat Palmateer with a 25-foot slapshot at 7:45 of the opening period. Ron Ellis beat Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers with a close-in rebound shot to tie the game five minutes later.

Foster then fired in a backhander from the left of the goal crease and followed with a 15-footer from the slot for a 3-1 Boston lead with less than three minutes left in the period.

Terry O'Reilly upped it to 4-1, cashing a rebound off Rick Middleton, who had broken in alone on Palmateer.

Early in the second period, the Leafs capitalized on a power play, with Darryl Sittler sweeping in a rebound from the side of the net. Paul Gardner scored the last Toronto goal, a slapshot from the left side late in the final period.

Guess who's moving in next door?

PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES—Rebound Dave Mazyk, outfielder, and Hutch Metzger, pitcher, sent Larry Anderson, Fred Boice, Cardell Campbell and Kevin Saucier, pitchers; Don McCormack and Ozzie Virgil, catchers; Jose Morones, Louis Aguiar and Ramon Aviles, infielders; and Orlando Bland, outfielder, to their minor league camp for reassignment.

Such a gift would be in violation of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules.

DePaul's Meyer loves attention

CHICAGO (AP) — In his 37th year as a college coach, Ray Meyer finally has the nation's media hovering at his doorstep — and in his office and his home — but he's anxious to get back to basketball.

"From 7:30 this morning until 5:30 tonight I was being interviewed by either a newspaper or radio or TV station from Boston to California," DePaul's affable coach said Monday night.

He expected more of the same this morning. A local television station planned to spend the day with him and he was to appear on a network show. Even his wife was going to be interviewed.

All because his Blue Demons, unranked almost all season, surprised the nation by making it to the Final Four of the NCAA tournament and a date Saturday with top-ranked and undefeated Indiana State.

But, starting at noon today, Meyer was to declare a moratorium on interviews until practice was over.

He needs time to figure out how to hold All-American Larry Bird to his usual outstanding game and still beat the Sycamores.

"I want to have time to coach," he said. "I owe it to the school, to the team and to myself. I have to prepare. I want to be fair and accommodating to all the press but I can't just ignore the team."

One of Meyer's primary concerns is the left knee of Curtis Watkins, the man slated to put the clamps on Bird. He strained a ligament when teammate Mark Aguirre fell on him late in Saturday's 95-91 upset of UCLA in the finals of the West Region.

Meyer said he thinks Watkins will be at full strength Saturday and his assistant, son Joey Meyer, said, "the doctor seems very confident. That's all you can get by."

The team had the day off Monday, but Watkins will not practice before Thursday. If he can't play against Indiana State, seldom-used reserves Bill Madey and Dennis McGuire will fill in, said Ray Meyer.

"Right now Michigan State is playing the best of all the colleges," he said. "I'd much prefer to play Indiana State than Michigan State." The Spartans play Penn in the other semifinal.

DePaul and Indiana State run a lot and Meyer expects a high-scoring game.

Joey Meyer says DePaul will start in a man-to-man defense, as usual, then adjust as the situation changes. His approach to Bird? "We're figuring more on letting him get his points and we just stopping everybody else."

Win or lose, Ray Meyer says he's already achieved his main goal — reaching the Final Four for the first time in his legendary career with tournament wins over Southern California, Marquette and UCLA.

"That is more important than the championship," he said. "When we played USC we said just one more game. Then when we played Marquette, we said just one more, then with UCLA we said one more. Now we just want to get into the championship game."

And then?

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Super-Sonics General Manager Zollie Volchok has received a new contract covering the next 2½ National Basketball Association seasons, the team announced Monday.

Volchok said his contract was not to expire until August, but it contained a clause permitting new terms on a March 15 deadline.

Bradshaw to record

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw prepared to stop today in this country music capital — but it had nothing to do with football.

A New York advertising agency said Bradshaw was to record commercials at a Nashville studio before going on to Owensboro, Ky., to host a dinner. An agency spokesman said Bradshaw would fly tonight to Houston for two days of taping television commercials.
