Plight of refugees—'a crime against humanity'

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST JR. Editor-in-Chief, The Hearst Newspapers

NEW YORK — What is happening to the refugees from communist terror and tyranny in southeast Asia is the most appalling crime against humanity since Hitler's persecution of the Jews in Nazi Germany.

Thousands of starving men, women and children are afloat in small unseaworthy boats in the South China Sea and the Gulf of Siam. They have fled or been forced out of Vietnam, whose calloused leaders in Hanoi care not for the value of human life, do not know the meaning of human dignity and do not acknowledge or accept the doctrine of human

Many have drowned, many have died of starvation and disease. Many more are doomed to die unless action is taken quickly to save them.

At least 500 of these Vietnamese "boat people" who attempted to land in Malaysia last week were forced at gunpoint back to sea — and probable death for many of them. Deputy Prime Minister Mamathir Momahad warned that "if they try sinking the boats, they won't be rescued." Although threats to shoot those who came ashore were later repudiated by the Malaysian government, this indicates the mood of a country where 74,000 of these poor souls have taken refuge.

The tragedy is neither momentary nor minimal. Faced with deportion from their homes to virtual slave camps in rural areas, they have been fleeing the country at the rate of 60,000 a month. That's about 700,000 a year, a figure most of us shudder to imagine.

Reports have reached the State Department that the number who die from drowning, or lack of food or medicine, may be as high as 50 percent. Although officials are not ready to confirm or deny that figure, they have no doubt the tragic total is in the realm of tens of thousands.

It's as miserable for those on land as those at sea. Some 40,000 Cambodian families who fled the Vietnamese Communist conquerors of Cambodia were forced by authorities in Thailand to return to their homeland. Another 40,000 may be sent back, but they won't find much of a homeland left. Since many were soldiers of the Khmer Rouge army that fought Vietnamese invaders, they face almost certain death.

Kingsbury Smith, national editor for The Hearst Newspapers, tells me the State Department estimates there are about 350,000 refugees in temporary camps in Thailand, Malaysia and Indonesia. These are Vietnamese, Cambodians and Laotians who have either escaped or been forcibly expelled, often at gunpoint, from their homelands.

The brutality seems to have no bounds. The Vietnamese communist regime in Hanoi is trying to get rid of more than a million ethnic Chinese whose ancestors have lived in Vietnam for generaations.

Many of them are shopkeepers and small business people, like those clustered along the streets and in the countryside of Sholon, outside of what was once the free city of Saigon but is now a political extension of Hanol called Ho Chi Minh City. # Old ploy puts prisoner on street

By MIKE SLATON Staff Writer

Until June 17, Bill Bennett was a 30-year-old "model" inmate in Midland County Jail.

Bennett had only a couple of months left to do — on a sentence of one year with time off for good behavior — and he had been such a good prisoner that when the request came to allow him to attend his grandmother's funeral, he was released to do so.

But only after permission was obtained from all the right officials. Services for Bennett's grandmother were to be Monday in Luling, the Services for Bennett's grandmother were to be Monday in Luling, the request went. He was released on the condition that he return Tuesday.

Tuesday came and went and Bennett didn't return to the jail. Bennett didn't appear back in Midland Wednesday either, on which date authorities began to think he wasn't such a good prisoner after all.

Tom Green County Sheriff's deputies in San Angelo must have had the same kind of thoughts Wednesday when they received a complaint concerning Bennett.

According to the San Angelo complaint, he had taken a car belonging to the mother of a woman who had been driving him to Luling.

A warrant for Bennett's arrest was issued Wednesday in Tom Green County. The charge was unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

(Bennett had been serving his oneyear sentence in Midand County Jail for a conviction on the same offense.)

The woman, who had told authorities she was going to be married to Bennett when he finished his sentence, was instrumental in securing his temporary release from jail in the first place, officials said.

On Friday, a warrant was issued in Midland for the arrest of Bennett for not returning when he was supposed to.

Perhaps understandably, Bennett wasn't a favorite topic of conversation late last week among the Midland County authorities responsible for his release. The subject of Bennett got even touchier Saturday when some of those officials were informed that Bennett's grandmother hadn't died and that there was no funeral in Luling for Bennett to attend.

In fact, Bennett's grandmother doesn't even live in Luling. She has a house there, a neighbor said, but she has lived in Houston for quite awhile now.

"We got taken," said Midland County Judge William Ahders, who gave the order for Bennett to be released. "We made a mistake." Sheriff Dallas Smith apparently was contacted by Bennett's girlfriend (See PRISONER'S, Page 2A)

But either way, more Midlanders are leaving their cars at home this summer for vacations, "sharing their rides" and leaving the driving to a few

The end of school in Midland each summer traditionally signals a mass exodus of workers seeking relief from the business world or from the West Texas sun.

This year, instead of cramming all the kids, toys and pets into a car for a two-week "get-away-from-it-all" trip to some far-off point of interest, Midlanders apparently are piling themselves into more "communal" types of transportation — buses and airplanes, for example

Much of the change can be attributed to the fuel shortage, long lines at the gas stations and inability to get gas, especially toward the end of the month month.

Midland-area managers of airlines and bus lines said late-last week their vehicles are on the priority list for fuel and that they have had no trouble getting enough.

Those factors together — service station gas shortages and availability of commercial travel — have Midlanders turning to buses and airplanes for their vacation travel, commented local managers.

Col. Wilson Banks, director of aviation for the city of Midland, said many more people are flying on vacation this summer and he attributed the increase almost entirely to the fuel shortage.

In fact, Banks himself is switching from car to airplane for his traveling

"I'm going to Idaho in July," he said. "Normally, I would drive. But I don't know if I can get there and back in a car and if I can find gasoline along the way.

Heroes make strange bedfellows

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

"To believe in the heroic makes heroes." — Benjamin Disraeli, a 19th century British statesman

In a 1977 poll of young people conducted by Senior Scholastic Magazine, Farrah Fawcett-Majors was selected as the personal hero of the nation's youth.

In 1978, in a similar poll, no one won that title.

In Midland last week, 15 junior high students settled on older brothers as the personal hero of the majority.

James Bond and "none" tied for second place on the Others mentioned in the survey of personal heroes were John Wayne, Burt Reynolds, parents and relatives, Buford Pusser and God. The older brother was chosen according to the youths

The older brother was chosen according to the youths interviewed because of his ability to defend others in a fight.

But James Bond made the list on the basis of his occupation as a spy.

Said Lloyd Newton, 11, 1003 Louisana Ave., "He (Bond) has a lot of neat hidden weapons to fight other spies."

John Wayne was chosen because he "is a kicker and a tough guy like my dad," said Wes Johnson, 13, 3808 Monty Drive. "Buford Pusser (of the movie "Walking Tall") is a big

"Buford Pusser (of the movie "Walking Tall") is a big guy that represents justice and other nice things," said John Yates, 12, 3217 Highsky Drive. Carmen Murphy, 15, chose God as her personal hero because he protects her.

Obviously, heroes mean different things to different people.

But how important are heroes and role models in the development of man's social behavior?

Recently, the Federal Comunications Commission and various parent-teacher organizations expressed concern about the actions of television heroes, what they represented and their impact on the behavior of young children.

In 1968, a psychologist demonstrated the effects of witnessed aggressive behavior on children. The children watched a model subject exhibit aggressive behavior toward an inflated punching toy.

Within 20 minutes, the children were imitating the same aggressive behavior.

In industry, role models are being taken very seriously.

according to Dr. Phil C. McGraw, a Wichita Falls psychologist.

Studies have shown that workers usually imitate the mestyle agreed to by management, McGraw claimed. If a manager is a heavy drinker, then his workers most likely will show signs of alcohol abuse.

Heroes and role models are two different "animals," according to McGraw.

For children, heroes represent the ideal self. Children, he said, do not have sufficient vocabularies to express the values they want to tout.

But a "bigger-than-life" being on the popular order of Superman or Luke Skywalker of "Star Wars" is a representation of those values. Role models, however, are "real life" beings representative of traits favored by adults, McGraw said. Success in an occupation is the trait most adults want to imitate.

Heroes are necessary for a child's development, said

McGraw. They provide a source of creativity and a quality of richness in a child's life, he maintained.

In an interview which appeared in Senior Scholastic Magazine, Dr. Joyce Brothers described heroes as an indicator of a nation's culture.

"In this country, our heroes have always been people who have won fame by advancing themselves," she

"In other cultures," Dr. Brothers said, "such as those in the Far East where the individual is subservient to the group, people tend to idolize those whose primary achievement is for someone other than themselves."

Woody Hayes, former football coach of the Ohio State Buckeyes and a ex-hero in some eyes, has said he believes that a society that tears down its heroes is suicidal.

"A civilization without heroes isn't going to be a civilization much longer," Hayes has been quoted as civilization much longer," Hayes has been quoted as proclaiming.

There are three stages in an individual's life where role models play an important part in personality development, according to McGraw.

In early childhood, the role model is usually the parent of the same sex as the child.

The peep group is the role model in adolescence, McGraw said. In adulthood, a successful person — measured according to his or her achievement in an occupation - most often serves as the role model, he added.

The cost of flying has gone down while the price of fuel has gone up. DALLAS (AP) - Jurors trying to decide if paroled con man Billie Sol Estes was constructing another paper fortune through fraud in the mid-1970s may first have to figure out who is snookering whom in the courtroom.

If testimony this week is any indication, the federal fraud trial probably will become a name-calling contest as prosecutors and defense attorneys try to discredit each others' witnesses as sleazy characters not to be believed.

The government is trying to prove that Estes and co-defendant Raymond K. Horton of Midland concocted a scheme to defraud four leasing companies of more than $500,000 through the sale of 36 oil field steam cleaners. The only problem, prosecutors contend, is that the cleaners never existed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby who likes to grade legislators' performance himself deserves an "F" for his vetoes of state budget items.

Hobby, a possible contender for the Republican governor's job in 1982, delivered a blistering assessment of the vetoes Friday to a Texas Press Association convention.

For starters, he said, the vetoes represent far less than the $252 million tax saving that Clements advertised.

Hobby said Clements' overall performance was "pretty good" but "you've got to give him an 'F' " on his vetoes of appropriation items.

'He told the press $252 million - he supposedly saved that money, right? Well, let's look at that," Hobby said.

Clements vetoed $50 million in college construction spending from the 10-cent state proper-

Hobby said the money was constitutionally allocated to college construction and was, therefore, beyond the reach of Clements' veto pencil.

"So he didn't (legally) veto that item," Hobby said.

He said Clements' veto of $40 million for a new Department of Human Resources building was a nullity. The money was appropriated by rider, and a line of court decisions have held governors can't veto budget

"So there is $90 million that he purported to veto that he did not in fact veto," Hobby said.

Another $12.3 million could not have been spent anyway because it was continent on passage of several bills that did not pass, he said.

Hobby derisively labeled "incredible" Clements veto of $29.5 million for construction of new cells at state prisons.

"The governor's vetoes are of the secondyear amounts for these major construction projects which will be initiated in the first year of the biennium. These

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pigeons are often thought of as birds seeking handouts near park benches and returning the favors rudely on statues and sidewalks.

The Coast Guard thinks they might be turned in human life savers, sent to find victims lost at sea.

Tests at the Naval Oceans Systems Center in Honolulu found. that traned pigeons carried aloft in rescue helicopters have a better average than human rescuers in spotting liferaft-like targets.

"We found in some tests last year that the birds would detect the targe about 90 percent of the time on the first pass," said Douglas Conley, who heads up the test project. "The pilots and crews would detect it about 40 percent of the time and they know where to look The program involves teaching a pigeon to spot the color orange. When it does, it pecks a switch and is rewarded with food.

After being trained to respond to the color orange with a peck at the switch, the birds are placed in plexiglass pods hanging from the bottoms of helicopters.

The choppers fly over the area where the orange targets are located. 'They find the target long before the pilots do," said Conley. Five pigeons are in training now. If the program works out, authorities hope to train the birds to respond to other colors commonly used on emergency craft.

Marx proved wrong

No event in contemporary times compares with the outpouring of religious and patriotic emotion that followed Pope John Paul II through his native Poland. This was truly an epochal moment in the long, and at times doubtful, struggle of the Catholic Church to survive under the insidious form of tyranny that the Communists brought to Eastern Europe at the end of World War II.

The Polish government and its string-pullers in Moscow have been confronted with the utter emptiness of the anti-religious Marxist dogma they had laid down at the cornerstone of their "revolution" in Poland.

John Paul and the Poles have shown that Karl Marx had it all wrong in his famous saying that religion is the opiate of the people. The presumption that religious faith can be squelched by government is the opiate of the Communists, who go on trying.

Only eight months after his election to the papacy, John Paul has planted himself and his church squarely in the middle of the struggle for human rights and religious freedom in the Communist bloc. He has spoken over the heads of statesmen to remind Christians everywhere of their rights and responsibilities to obey a higher law.

Poland, obviously, will never be the same. The Communist government there is left to pick up the pieces from a demonstration of religious loyalty that could not be suppressed. The pope has given Polish Catholics new strength to assert themselves in determining the future of their country, and his triumph in his homeland will surely encourage Catholics elsewhere in Eastern Europe to seek the degree of recognition that their church has attained in Poland.

Lithuanian Catholics already have announced they no longer intend to be a "Church of Silence" in that Soviet republic. The pope has offered encouragement to church leaders in Czechoslovakia, where the government thumb on religion presses so hard that priests must get clearance by the secret police before they can be ordained. There is new hope for the church in Hungary to emerge from the eclipse that followed the arrest and trial of the late Cardinal Mindszenty.

John Paul's stature as a statesman to be reckoned with has grown immeasurably in a few days. He went to Poland not brandishing a firebrand but a sharp needle, applying it at times with good humor, at times with the stern authority of a disciplining father, to those who would deny his message. It was a message of gentle defiance, of reconciliation, of hope — delivered with the courage of a man who has stood in the shoes of the millions who suffer persecution for their faith.

The persistent loyalty of the Polish people to the faith of their fathers is an inspiration to the world - and bad news to the Communists who think religion can be abolished by decree.

The only weapon carried by John Paul through Poland was a gospel 2,000 years old. It was Joseph Stalin who asked the befitting question: "How many divisions does the pope have?" The answer is four - Matthew, Mark, Luke and John - and they are powerful indeed.

An airline stewardess or cruising for gas...?

WASHINGTON - Dear Artie: My husband came home at 10 o'clock last night, tired and worn out. I asked him where he had been, and he said he had had drinks with an airline stewardess in a cocktail lounge. I think he's lying. I believe he was out cruising for gas and found some. He gave me some cock-and-bull story about the airline stewardess because he knows that if I found out about the gas I'd ask to use his car. What should I do? - Big Ber-

ART BUCHWALD

Dear Bertha: It sounds to me as if your suspicions may be correct. The old "drinks with an airline stewardess" alibi is used by every husband during a gasoline crisis. My advice to you is to search his pants pockets and his wallet for a credit card receipt from a gas station. If you find one, confront him with it, and tell him he either lets you use his automobile or you will speak to your lawyer. If, on the other hand, you find a receipt from the cocktail lounge, apologize for thinking the worst about him, which was that he got a full tank of gas and did not tell you about it. -

Dear Artie: I am in love with a young, handsome, wealthy boy from one of the best families in town. He has a beautiful Lincoln-Continental and a 60-foot diesel engine yacht. He wants to marry me in the worst way. But my parents want me to marry a fat, stupid service station attendant who works three blocks from our house. They say I have to think of my future, and their future as well. They also said a nice girl doesn't marry someone with a Lincoln-Continental any more. What should I do? - Tearful Annie

Dear Annie: I'm afraid your parents are right. You'd be making a big mistake if you married a rich boy just because you loved him when you have an opportunity to be the wife of someone who could supply your fuel needs for the rest of your life. Very few girls have a chance to marry a service station attendant, and you should be grateful to your parents for finding one for you. Tell your rich boyfriend to get lost. - A.B.

Dear Artie: I am a bachelor and I like to have a good time. The other day I was waiting in a long line for gas and this good-looking chick with distress on her face drove slowly by. She winked, and I let her jump the line in front of me. We got to talking and she gave me the impression that after we filled up we'd go out and have a good time. But as soon as she got her 10 gallons of premium she just sped off and left me stuck at the pump. What do you think of this kind of girl? -Woeful Willie.

Dear Willie: I've received hundreds of letters from men who have had the same experience. There seem to be a lot of girls like that and there's a name for them - gas teasers. They'll do anything to get in front of you, and then when they get all the fuel they want they act as if they don't know you exist. I hope this is a lesson to you. The next time you let a girl crash in front of you, ask her if you can hold on to her driver's license. If she refuses, you'll know she's just playing you for a chump. — A.B.

Dear Artie: My boyfriend uses leaded gasoline in his car, and I use unleaded in mine. He doesn't want to get serious because he says mixed marriages don't work. What do you think? - Soulful Sarah.

Dear Sarah: They can work but it's not easy. As long as you respect the other person's fuel needs, love will prevail. Many mixed marriages wind up with one of the parties being catalytically converted. - A.B.

Mark Russell says

If the election were this year, Big John Connally would probably get the Republican nomination. GOP surveys show that what the party wants is someone tall.

The Republican theme is that America is weak. With Big John, we will have peace through height.

I can hear those Republican speeches now - "Four years with a Sunday school teacher is too long send for the high sheriff!'

'Sieze the oil fields, fill the Iranian skies with B-52s, call out the Marines, let's get back to normalcy."

'Nominate Big John - a credit to his party. Both of them."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Balance of power unchanged

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - Less than a year

after the fall of Saigon, the government's top Asia experts informed Henry Kissinger and the Pentagon in a secret report that the communist victory in Vietnam hadn't really changed the balance of power in Southeast Asia after all.

In other words, the analysts' 20-20 hindsight confirmed what critics of the Vietnam war had been saying for years: U.S. involvement was unnecessary and a criminally stupid waste of thousands of lives and billions of dollars. The Red menace and the "domino theory," which had been used to justify the obscene expenditure of blood and money, were not valid, the experts concluded. It had all been a tragic mistake.

The secret memorandum, dated April 1, 1976, was prepared for the secretaries of state and defense and the Central Intelligence Agency direc-Its authors were top staff members from State, the Pentagon and the CIA, assigned to the National Security Council

The analysts offered an in-depth analysis of the situation in Southeast Asia as they saw it 11 months after what they candidly called "the Indo-

Referring to another buzz word used by Vietnam hawks to explain our costly intervention - "credibility" - the authors noted: "The impact on U.S. credibility was mitigated by the fact most nations considered Vietnam a lost cause in the long run whatever the U.S. did . The secret report noted that "noncommunist Asian nations still look to the United States as a counterweight to the mistrusted communists, and as a highly desirable economic part-The writers even conceded a bright side to our failure:

"With the end of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, a divisive issue was removed from the Japanese internal political scene, greatly facilitating closer security cooperation with the United States on the part of this key ally," the analysts said.

They then concluded that, despite the hysterical warnings of the war years, the much-dreaded communist victory didn't really amount to the national disaster for the United States that had been predicted so chillingly by the Pentagon and Presidents Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

"In sum," the report admitted, "except for the loss of Indo-China itself, the impact of the end of the conflict has largely been to accelerate existing trends in the Asia-Pacific region. There remains great continuity with the past and in the short term drastic changes elsewhere in the region are unlikely.

The major power equilibrium - among the U.S., USSR, China and Japan - has not been radically altered." In short, the communists were not, after all, going to be landing in California or Hawaii as a result of our defeat in Indo-China. Our efforts to turn back the tide of communist expansion in Southeast Asia was futile and foredoomed.

Noting the factors that underlie the power balance in the region - Sino-Soviet rivalry, continuing U.S. military presence, the U.S.-Japanese alliance and the two allies' economic predominance there - the NSC experts reported that "these factors are likely to remain substantially valid for at least the next several years . . .

In an appraisal of Hanoi's relations with the Soviet Union that would have been considered dangerous heresy five or 10 years earlier, the analysts concluded: "Even in Indo-China, the USSR role is limited despite the visible increase in Soviet 'presence' and apparant influence following Hanoi's triumph. The problem here is that Hanoi is independent-minded, and even its flaunting of its Soviet connection is not for Soviet benefit but for Hanoi's own political defenses against Noting that the Vietnamese would be leery of offending the Chinese by too close cooperation with the Russians, the analysts said: "But more important than Hanoi's presumed reluctance to push China too far is Hanoi's own interest in using the Soviet Union as a counter-foil only up to a point far short of Soviet dominance. Moscow is too far removed geographically to control this game; it is as manipulatable by Hanoi as it is able to manipulate.'

It is accepted wisdom now to view President Carter's visit to Japan as the dawn of a new era in our Far East policies. In truth, this "new era" was born under the aegis of Henry Kissinger. Administration sources told our associate Tom Rosenstiel that President Carter, with a few exceptions, has not changed the NSC guidelines.

"In general," they urge, "we need to pursue our interests with greater subtlety, more reliance on riding the waves of existing trends in the area, greater use of our diplomatic and, hopefully, economic tools and greater flexibility in tactics.

The primary consideration, the NSC report says, is U.S. security preventing the domination of East Asia by a single hostile power or combination of powers." The "domino theory" of a communist takeover in one country setting off an inevitable chain reaction in neighboring countries has been consigned to the dustbin of history by the NSC analysts, and Carter is apparently content to leave it there. Both the official guidelines and Carter strategists agree that we should risk a nuclear confrontation only if Japan is in danger of domination by the communists, or there is "a clear and overwhelming threat" to our forces in

A perusal of the NSC analysis shows that at last the lesson of our "big stick" policy in Vietnam has sunk in. What we do to help Southeast Asian nations resist communism will of course be important," the report

If the Asia experts' counsel is heeded by President Carter, we may indeed be entering a new era in our relations with the Southeast Asians.

Three Mile Island: It isn't the end of the earth

WASHINGTON - A good omen appeared for nuclear power this week in year which has been quite bad for this besieged industry. The House of Representatives, after vigorous debate, cast several important votes on the side of commercial nuclear "I can't figure out what's wrong with those people in the House," said a disappointed Senate staffer, not of the nuclear persuation. "I guess it's this preoccupation with the energy problem.' How telling it is that the local populace, including voting members of Congress, has become obsessed with the term "energy," since this area became afflicted with long lines at gas stations two weeks ago. Maybe there is something to the maxim: "Grab them by the nose. Their hearts and minds will follow.

Anyway, the House overwhelm-ingly voted down an amendment which would block issuance of nuclear plant licenses in states which have no emergency evacuation plans. The House also voted to allow the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) to hire 100 new employees to expedite licensing procedures and gave the NRC an additional $5 million to station resident inspectors in nuclear

The anti-nuclear crowd here was dismayed. But those gas lines, rumbles from home districts about possible gas shortages and the upcoming OPEC meeting with the likelihood of another stunning oil price increase persuaded Congress to act as it did.

After all, if a congressman is so low on gas that he allows his car to coast downhill on Connecticut or Wisconsin Avenue, and hears a news report rehashing a story about how critical the electricity situation will be without nuclear power, he isn't so inclined to think that Three Mile Island is the end of the earth.

Indeed, a first-rate article in the June Commentary by Samuel McCracken, assistant to the president of Boston University, argues that the Three Mile Island accident actually confirmed existing knowledge about nuclear power.

"Where it does change our understanding," McCracken writes, "it not only suggests ways we can improve nuclear safety, but also that we have in some respects underestimated the degree of safety we have already maintained.

He is not blind to what went wrong at Three Mile Island - failure of the plant to conform to legally mandated specifications and apparent operator error. But he makes a good case that the system worked, and points out that the fuel temperature never got higher than 2,000 degrees, considerably less than the 5,000 which causes a meltdown. As for radiation, after Three Mile Island, the NRC offered to test anyone for increased body radiation. Of the 750 people who asked and were tested, not one showed radiation levels above But McCracken poses the delicious irony that the shutdown of the Three Mile Island plants caused greater detrimental health effects because the replacement electricity was generated by coal-fired plants discharging more radiation and pollutants than any nuclear plant. Less radiation goes into the air from burning uranium than from burning coal.

The McCracken piece is worth reading, if only for the merciless dissection of the film, "China Syndrome," whose producers hold a 'comic book view of businessmen." He is correct in calling this film "a consistent act of fabrication" which boosted Columbia Pictures stock over five points the day after Three Mile

That's fine for the world of makebelieve. But in the real world, despite the alarm raised over Three Mile Island, people are still willing to have nuclear power developed and increased. Without building the new plants planned for the next 20 years, it is conservatively estimated that $119 billion will be added to our national energy bill. .

Yes, it's been a bad year for the nuclear power industry. The NRC shut down five plants in the east after engineers from the Duquesne Light Co. notified the NRC of an error in an assessment of the resistance of the plants to earthquake. The company was doing its duty. Then there were questions raised about the Rasmussen Report, an exhaustive study listing the mathematical probability of nuclear accidents and their consequences: The report's credibility still stands, however, as it

'Stumblers' often ignore priorities

This is the Age of Priorities.

Every age, in fact, has been an age of putting certain things first. Of course, the degree of sagacity - or total lack of it - in deciding what comes first in which situations always separates one man from another or one age from another.

Impulse often overrides reason. And priority may not be synonymous with importance or that which might be considered reasonable

Anyway, who decreed that man is a rational being who knows himself and the priorities he should set for

Mostly, he doesn't. He just stumbles around for answers and occasionally finds some that are temporally satisfying; philosophers throughout the ages have pondered the "Why of Life" and are yet asking, seeking and pondering.

Within mankind are some who find or develop their own haven and seem satisfied with unanswered questions if, indeed, they were asked in the first

There are exceptions to the stumblers within mankind, just as there are "exceptions" to rules. within the realm of mankind are more 'blessed" inwardly and outwardly by the mystic quirks and powers of

The mundane is forever with earthlings. But what is mundane to some may be sublime to others. The differ-

Off on a railroading tangent: Back in 1917, Midland rancher David Fasken Sr. of the "C" (Chicago) Ranch built a 66-mile shortline called the Midland & Northwestern Railroad.

The line was built from Midland to Seminole, and its primary purpose was to ship cattle, some paying passengers, mail and some goods.

Fasken was a transposed Canadian industrialist-lawyer who was capitalizing on the developing West and was learning the wilds and whims of the country.

His locomotives, passengers coaches, mail and express car, flatcars and the such were purchased second-hand from the Texas & Pacific Railroad Co., or so says a book on the Andrews County History. (The line passed through that county and gave birth to the ex-town of Fasken.)

The railroad, plagued with break downs and engines in disrepair, ceased operation in 1921, was abandoned in 1923 and the rails were torn from their bedding.

But what really "did in" the line was an eight-to-10-inch rain which filled usually dry lakebeds and flooded tracks for "an extended period of article by Alan B. Leeper, 1304 Sparks St., was submitted in response to comments on the national energy situation made by John De Yonge of The Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Editorial'dangerously misleading

De Yonge's comments appeared in the "Editor's Report" column published in the June 17 edition of The Reporter-Telegram.

By ALAN B. LEEPER

Hearst owes its America a clarification. The provocative editorial by John De Yonge in the June 17 Midland, Texas, Reporter-Telegram was dangerously misleading. It helped reinforce America's orchestrated belief that passage of "windfall taxes" is in the national interest, because we have no more domestic oil production capability - though in reality it is a bureaucratic tax rip-off in disguise.

The Hearst reputation is too solid for me to believe DeYonge's statements were anything but a misinterpretation of data furnished him, as he

"Our national experience refuses to believe oil can be killed off, used

"But at home that's true. Our landmass has more holes drilled into it per square inch than the arm of a heroin and, "... Can we expect to find vast new fields within our borders? The answer is no...Odds against finding enough oil to relieve our dependency on imported oil are worse...than finding a gas station with 30 cent gaso-

TO VOTERS THIS would declare America is drilled up — after all, "per square inch!" A lot of experts would say the same - in fact, they have been saying that since 1920.

An oil finder doesn't rule out the possibility of oil and gas fields as he studies a map covered with dry holes. Independent oil producers (individuals, partnerships, companies and small corporations), have drilled 80 percent of the exploratory wells in the United States. They recognize the potential of vast areas of undrilled acre-

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following age and ceaselessly re-examine those areas seeminly condemned by dry holes. This effort is being stifled.

It takes courage of convictions and nerve to gamble capital to drill offset wells to dry holes, or wells with only nominal shows of oil or gas. But if logical exploration evidence indicates there could be sufficient oil or gas, those areas should be drilled

A great many more oil fields will be found this way. I have personally been the "discovery geologist" for five such oil fields, and am now purchasing leases in a nest of dry holes, where I can "see" and map a field promising to equal the nearby 10 million barrel pool we similarly developed. A projection of the trend extends ahead 50 miles where numerous other fields will be-found by aggressive wildcatting.

DEVELOPMENT OF these areas requires application of time-proven subsurface geological analysis profiting with the interpretation of each wildcat well, whether productive or dry. This will be expensive, with many dry hole casualties. But there is no doubt, a good number of oil fields will be found.

Of the thousands of independent oil finders, all have prospects in mind and trend plays they know should be explored.

It is not easy to locate competent people forecasting domestic success. First, now all geologists are "oil finders." Independents are losing optimism and momentum under government battering. Our heretofore nonpolitical and highly competent United States Geological Survey will be less vocal, remembering the Carter-Schlesinger demotion of Director Vince McKelvey after addressing an annual geological meeting, advising that the Survey calculated significant undiscovered oil reserves in the Unit-

Major company personnel are tuned to worldwide exploration for the "giant" fields. It remains for the independent oil producers to again crank up to World War II rate of drilling. To make this come about we need an informed electorate to demand the politicians change direction and get out of the act.

We haven't begun to see the hell that American people will raise because of gasoline, diesel and fuel oil lines, especially if they realize more domestic oil could be produced and our government has diminished the

IF WE IN THE United States really desire to solve our energy dilemma, we will order our politicians to repeal the regulatory mess they made America will be pleasantly surprised to see the oil production decline arrested under stimulation of an unregulated market. Every barrel produced domestically would be "made in America," by American industry, lessening our balance of payments and dependence on foreign powers. We could proceed to develop all other sources of energy in a logical man-

The regulation bound, tax ridden government patchwork formula is a . counterproductive disaster - not just plunging us into a recession, but into a 1929-type world-wide depression. The U.S. Treasury tabulates petroleum to be only 2.6 percent of our GNP, but as such, it is the all-important ingredient to fuel, lubricate and feed-stock the remaining 97 percent of American

Adequate petroleum is vital to our economy and defense. With a weak energy base it makes no sense to quibble about SALT II or whether A money spent on a strong missile system is prudent. We had better learn Russian. The United States right now couldn't fight even a limited sized defensive war.

A rejuvenated petroleum industry will have a tough time discovering the remaining, more allusive oil deposits and reversing the oil production decline from depleting wells. It must not matter that it will be more expensive the important thing is that the United States must have available all the oil and gas that can possibly be found and that we immediately get on with

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Neighborly?

To The Editor:

Thank you for your editorial a few Sundays ago that expressed the surprise so many felt at Odessa trying to stop Mrs. Allison's fantastic gift to Midland Memorial Hospital for the benefit of the people of this area.

They say one out of four families is hit by dreaded cancer - we happened to be one, so I can say first hand, we do need this center. If everyone that is traveling a far distance for treatment, or has lost a member of their family and knows the expense of the family traveling back and forth to visit, will write the Texas Health Facilities Commission in Austin and the Permian Basin Health Service Agency, or attend the next meeting to review the application and tell them how badly the center is needed, maybe it will work out as Mrs. Allison has planned. I think that is the most wonderful memorial I've heard of in this area and I truly thank her for it.

We spent my husband's last two months in Houston at a great hospital, St. Joseph, where the care was exceptional. Our local doctor sent us to Dr. Stehlin, who with his beautiful staff, tried their best. It was either too late or just not meant to be. Just think of a center right here for quick and at home treatment.

I can remember when Midland voted to join Odessa and build UTPB halfway between our cities but Odessa had it built in Odessa. Two years later Midland voted out of its taxes. Then I read about Odessa dumping the sewage in Mustang Draw in Midland County and the land owners couldn't do anything about it. Now we have a chance of adding to our hospital and instead of being pleased, Odessa says "no." It's hard to feel neighborly towards them. The signs I read, "Shop Midland," takes on a deeper meaning!

Gas ripoff

To The Editor:

The latest energy gouge-ripoff encountered is that by the gasoline concessionaire in the Big Bend National Park, under the aegis of the Department of the Interior. The price is 5 cents more per gallon than at stations in Study Butte, immediately adjacent to the park (same brand, same distribution jobber.) I don't know whether the 5 cents per gallon Texas state tax is added to gasoline sales within the park or not (it isn't on souvenir sales); but if not, then it's a 10 cent gouge on 90 cent gasoline. Looks like President Carter isn't running a very tight ship, or maybe he figured out a way to blame this on the oil companies, too.

Nicaragua is the strategic key to control of Central America. Communist strategists have admitted that fact, the Nicaraguans understand it. but our State Department fails utterly to grasp the significance of communist attacks on that country. ## United States needs more minority scientists, engineers

By VERNON E. JORDAN JR. Copley News Service

The economic future of this nation is directly tied to its ability to make technological breakthroughs and exploit them.

Everyone agrees that expanded research and development is central to an expanding economy. And everyone agrees that the United States, once the unchallenged leader in this area, has been lagging in recent years.

It is clear that the nation can no longer afford to disregard the human resources represented by its minorities. Minority underrepresentation in the sciences is a drag on our national effort to develop advanced technologies. Blacks, Hispanics and native Americans probably account for 20 percent of the population, but make up less than 2 percent of Ph.D.'s in science and engineering. Blacks are seven times less likely than whites to become scientists and 12 times less likely to become engineers. If minorities entered the scientific and engineering professions in proportion to their numbers, our nation would have a much larger pool of skilled, creative manpower to launch a technological revolution for the good of all. Both majority and minority high school students evidence a desire for careers in the technical fields. But minorities tend to be tracked away from those goals. Minority college students are disproportionately in two-year community colleges and those in predominately white institutions attend schools whose track record indicates relative ineffectiveness in encouraging blacks to complete scientific careers.

The predominately black colleges, hard-pressed, underfunded and often lacking equipment and resources. have a far better record in this regard. Almost three-fourths of black Ph.D. scientists got their B.A.s from black colleges.

This suggests that a major national effort to attract more minorities to science careers should focus on the black colleges. Traditionally, white scientists have gone to undergraduate schools with strong graduate science departments and then continued at those schools to get their advanced one of the biggest glamour girls in the business. The story is by one of the most successful writers. It can't fail to be a big hit.

Well, you're under contract and I can make you play the part. And if you don't play it, I can break you. Understand? Now, give me just one good reason why you don't want to play this part." McCrea quietly answered, "Well, sir, it is simply this: I would be embarrassed for my two little sons to

Polio found in 9-month-old Amish boy who took vaccine

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The state's latest case of polio has turned up in a 9-month-old Amish boy just three days after he was vaccinated against the disease, state health officials said.

The unidentified Chester County infant is the eighth case of polio in the state this year and the 14th case nationwide.

Health officials are checking to make sure the boy did not contract the disease from the vaccine, a one in 10 million occurrence.

"Present data indicates he's part of the epidemic," Dr. Robert Gens, director of the Health Department's division of acute infectious diseases, said Friday.

He said the usual minimum incubation period for the disease is seven days.

Nations plan scholarly trade

PEKING (AP) — The United States and China have agreed to broaden their scholarly exchanges to include teachers and researchers in primary, secondary and adult education, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph A. Califano Jr. announced Saturday.

Califano and Chinese Education Minister Jiang Nanxiang (Chiang Nan Hsiang) exchanged a memorandum of understanding calling for 11 programs to carry out the exchanges next year.

The proposals are the first official outline of the work to be done under agreements signed in Washington last January by President Carter and Deputy Premier Deng Xiaoping (Teng Hsiao-ping).

Califano said some scholarly exchanges are in progress between China and the United States that involve about 650 Chinese scholars and researchers and about 170 Americans in China.

"But unlike the others," said Califano, "this one includes teachers of elementary and secondary levels."

The latest agreement calls for American teachers of Chinese language, history and culture to visit China and for Chinese teachers of English and American history and culture to visit the United States. Symposiums on the teaching of the two languages will be held in Washington and Peking.

American elementary and high school teachers will visit China, and China will send delegations to the United States to study vocational, technical and adult education.

Both countries will exchange teaching materials and textbooks.

"It is important for the U.S. to use modern books on China and important for China to get modern textbooks on the U.S. ... especially on the revolution in race relations in the United States," the secretary said.

Califano, who arrived Thursday for a nine-day visit to China, also stopped at Peking University on Saturday and met with Chinese students learning English. He quizzed them on the meaning of normalization of relations between the United States and China, and received ardent and repetitive answers about friendship and admiration for America's rapid industrialization.

Califano and his delegation of medical experts also toured the city's Capital Hospital. The staff is conducting research on traditional Chinese medicine, on oral contraceptive drugs for men and long-acting contraceptive drugs for women.

The hospital staff proudly showed Califano its ruby lasers and other equipment, but the secretary had to press several times in order to see patients.

He toured cardiac and maternity wards, which members of the U.S. group said were reminiscent of American hospital wards in the 1930s. They marched through high, gloomy corridors and walked through dingy, open 12-bed wards.

"Can we go in here?" asked Califano as he pushed open the door to a maternity ward and nursery, where tired-looking women sitting in old iron beds stared at the visitors.

Califano also pressed to see and finally was shown the rooms for foreigners in the new wing of the 60-year-old hospital.

Sul Ross gets grant from state

ALPINE - Sul Ross State University has been granted almost $14.2 million in operating and capital improvements funds for the 1980-81 biennium.

The funding includes nearly $2.2 million for renovating campus buildings.

"We came out of this legislative session in excellent shape," said SRSU President Bob Richardson. Of the funding guided for renovating, $935,000 will be expended on the Barton H. Warnock Science Building and $1.25 million will be spent on the Graves-Pierce Physical Education Building, Richardson said

Richardson indicated the university was granted all but one of its budgetary requests. Not gained was funding for the Museum of the Big Bend.

"Gov. (Bill) Clements votoed funding of an number of such facilities at state insitutions," Richard-

"We have no plans to close the museum, and we are looking at additional ways to fund the facility from other sources.'

Pageant scheduled

ROBERT LEE - The Coke County Pageant Association will sponsor the historical musical "Ole Coke County: Home of the Rabbit Twisters" on the weekends of July 20-21 and July 27-28.

The musical depicts the 50 years of "exciting experiences of early settlers up to the turn of the century" and involves 150 town and county folks. The musical starts at 8:30 p.m. in the Mountain

Creek Amphitheater at Robert Lee.

Youths at center

FORT DAVIS - Emotionally disturbed adolescents from Texas' metropolitan areas are being treated at the base of Blue Mountain at the Davis Mountain Achievement Center.

At present, 15 youths ages 12 through 17 are lodged at the ranch-like mountain setting for six to nine months. The co-educational center, however, is licensed to accommodate 36.

"For one reason or another," Patricia Watts, center administrator said of the youth, "they have hang-ups which prevent them functioning as society demands.

The center, operated by a non-profit corporation in Fort Davis, was launched in September 1976 at the Prude Ranch just outside of Fort Davis and was relocated to the Largent Ranch at site of old Blue Mountain School in June 1977.

The center is for "young people who may have had negative experiences with parents, teachers, rules, regulations, laws, controls and authority figures in

Dr. James H. Smith is director of the center. Dr. Richard Fenker, a Texas Christian University psychologist, has been awarded a Carl J. Aldenhover Foundation grant to develop a customized educational program for the DMAC students.

McCAMEY - Bill Little has been named the 1979 camp chairman for the McCamey Salvation Army Service Unit committee, according to Weems Dykes, the Army's service unit chairman here.

Little's assignment will be to select two boys ages 8 to 14 to attend the Army's summer camp at Midlothian July 7-14.

Little is superintendent of the McCamey Independent School District.

Mesquite's uses noted

ANDREWS - Mesquite is not a herb. But the generally grubby, twisted shrub that has claimed West Texas like crab grass does have the medicinal powers of a panacea.

The old mesquite has charms, such as the J. Frank Dobie campfire approach to the mesquite, noted James Roberts, editor-publisher of the Andrews County News.

"No day can be counted entirely lost which begins with the smell of a mesquite fire at dawn and the taste of coffee boiled over it," wrote Dobie.

And Roberts cited some other benefits of mesquites; he found them in a Texas Highways magazine article by Steve Wilson, director of the Museum of the Great Plains in Lawton, Okla.

Here's some of the wonders of mesquite: -Bees gather the pollen from the fragrant mes-quite flowers and make honey -Mesquite pods turn from bitter green to sweet red in July and August and are edible by man and beast. The ripe pods can be boiled, dried and ground into flour for cakes or mush. -In the absence of coffee, dried mesquite leaves and be steeped for making tea. -Mesquite leaves ground into a fine powder can be mixed with water and used as a lotion for sore

-Comanches chewed the leaves to get relief from

-Gum of the mesquite can be used as a healing balm for wounds or sores, as a pottery-mending cement, black dye, tea for diarrhea, aid to digestion and as a candy. -Mesquite sap dissolved in water makes an excellent emollient.

-Old-timers chewed the sap to keep their hearts

Win Brown, a Midland oil broker and county commissioner, is the newest member of the North Texas State University Board of Regents and is assisting in the selection of a president for that university.

Brown was appointed to the NTSU board by Gov. Bill Clements starting May 23. He also is a new member of the Search and Screening Committee charged with finding a new president for the university.

The Midlander — an alumni of NTSU — was appointed to the regents' board by Clements after serving as one of eight regional chairmen for Clements in his election campaign last year. He was in charge of 49 counties from Eastland to

In the selection of a new president, he said he wants to see a person with managerial ability named to the office.

"If we get that one attribute, I believe the academic community will benefit from it.'

Brown said that on the board of regents he may be a maverick. "I have my own ideas, but one thing I've always tried to do is listen. I don't care what a person's point of view is, I will try to make the best judgment," he said.

Brown discourages recall of veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Defense Harold Brown believes veterans should be recalled to military duty only in the direct of emergencies, Pentagon officials said Saturday.

These officials, asking to remain anonymous, said Brown has indicated that such a recall is only the remotest possibility and would be about the last step on a list of possible measures to raise manpower in any crisis.

At the same time, Army Secretary Clifford Alexander said in an interview that it would be "inequitable" to recall veterans before drafting youths who never had served before.

The issue first arose in public in April when John Brinkerhoff, a senior Defense Department manpower official, told a Senate Armed Services subcommittee his office was studying a possible plan to recall veterans. Such a move would offer a short-term solution to reserve shortages and the problem of mobilizing trained manpower to fill out under-strength units, and replace casualties early in a major war, he said.

Though Brown was pictured by defense officials as being opposed to the idea, the secretary wasn't immediately available for comment. As for Alexander, the Army's top civilian official put it this way: "This is not the place you should look first." He did not rule out possible recall of veterans in an "all-out war, when perhaps everybody would want to serve." But the Army secretary said that reaching for veterans is far down on his priority list.

High risk of cancer found in Texas petroleum plants

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Cancer Institute says it has found a highly excessive risk of cancer deaths, including brain cancer, among workers in petroleum refineries and petrochemical plants in

The institute conducted its study to identify those workplaces needing more intensive investigation, but an institute epidemiologist emphasized it is too early to determine if a cause and effect relationship exists between occupational exposure to chemicals and the cancers. However, the findings have produced a sense of urgency among those involved. The Associated Press learned that representatives of the oil industry, the oil workers' union, the cancer institute and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration held a day-long meeting last Wednesday to discuss scientific approaches for further studies "as rapidly as

Dr. Joseph Wagoner, an epidemiologist with OSHA, said: "It indicates to me that we are concerned, collectively enough concerned, to go ahead with further studies.

The cancer risk findings are based on a study of the mortality records of more than 3,000 members of the Oil. Chemical and Atomic Workers Union in more than 200 oil industry plants in Texas over a 30-year period, from 1947 to 1977.

Terry Thomas, the cancer institute epidemiologist who did the statistical work, declined to identify specific companies involved. With the study spread over 30 years, some no longer exist, but she said "some major oil firms" are included among the existing companies.

Ms. Thomas said that although there were, cancer deaths in other operations of the oil industry, the significant results appeared only in the petroleum refineries and petrochemical plants.

"I found increased relative frequency of deaths for stomach cancer, brain and central nervous system cancer, leukemia and multiple myeloma (a bone marrow cancer)," said Ms. Thomas, who works in the occupational studies section of the environmental epidemiology branch at the cancer institute.

The deaths were related to the length of union membership, she added, with all the excessive deaths for those sites confined to men who had been union members for 10 years or more. There was also an increased relative frequency of kidney cancer among workers with 20 years of mem-

Texas farmers complain at heavy May rains

AUSTIN - Texas farmers rarely complain about rainy weather, but May's above average rainfall in many areas of the state has caused delays in planting and in slowing the wheat harvest.

The 1979 wheat harvest, estimated at 114.8 million bushels, is more than double last year's 54 million bushel harvest. Planted acreage is up 2 percent from a year ago. Harvested acreage of 4.1 million acres has increased 52 percent.

'Yields this year are excellent," said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown. "Last year, we had drought conditions across most of the wheat-producing area of the state, but this year our only problems are just the opposite. Wet weather has delayed maturity of the grain on the High Plains and Low Plains and caused lodging in some fields.'

Despite the weather, yield per har vested acre is expected to hit an average of 28 bushels, which would be eight bushels above last year's average and second only to the record yield of 29 bushels in 1973.

The 1979 peach crop is expected to drop 10 percent from a year ago to 750,000 bushels.

Cotton loan rate good

LUBBOCK — The 1979 cotton loan rate at the High Plains warehouse will be 50.35 cents per pound based on a Strict Low Middling inch-and-onesixteenth, 3.5 to 4.9 miconaire. That's 12 points (12 cents) above the national average 1979 loan rate of 50.23 cents announced earlier.

The loan rate at various U.S. warehouse locations is adjusted each year to reflect differences in freight rates from each area to mill sites and ports. Last year's High Plains rate was 10 points above the U.S. avearge.

Discounts on low micronaire cottons are up from five points for 3.3 through 3.4 to 40 points for 2.6 and

Premiums and discounts assigned to the loan program are calculated from spot market quotations for the August-through-April period of the previous marketing year.

> Homes are getting larger and contain more kitchen appliances and other features which add to the cost. Homes built last year averaged 1,700 squae feet. That's up 155 square feet from five years ago. In the five year period, according to the new census report, homes with dishwashers increased from an average of 48% to 78%; seventy two percent of homes now have at least two baths. Air conditioning is in-creasingly being included. More than half, 53%, of the homes built last year offered it.

Fireplaces are also popular. Last year 60% of new homes had at least one fireplace. Only 35% of new homes built five years ago had them. In five years, the proportion of new homes with electric rather than gas or oil heat, increased from 27% to 45% - nearly half.

Today, his state court appeals exhausted, only three days separate Sullivan and another convicted murderer from Florida's electric chair.

Sullivan, 31, and Charles William Proffitt, 33, are scheduled to die at the Florida State Prison near Starke on Wednesday. Unless they can find a federal court to halt the executions, Sullivan will be executed at 7 a.m. and Proffitt will follow a few minutes

"There are no prospects of any more executions in Florida this year," Sullivan told a reporter shortly after Spenkelink was executed at Florida State Prison on May 25. "The next execution will be held in Texas in Spenkelink, a black gag over his mouth and his head shaved, was strapped into the state's huge oaken electric chair at approximately 10 a.m. on May 25.

Twelve minutes later he received a 2,300-volt jolt of electricity and after six minutes was pronounced dead, becoming the first person to be executed against his will in the United

The court may rule on that request sometime Monday. Sullivan was convicted for the April 19, 1973, killing of Homestead restaurant manager Donald Schmidt. Schmidt was abducted and driven to a secluded section of the Everglades, where four shotgun blasts were fired into his head.

Proffitt was convicted for the July 10, 1973, murder of Joel Medgebow, a Tampa high school wrestling coach who was stabbed to death with a breadknife while asleep in his bed-

Proffitt, like Sullivan, had said he doubted he would be executed. "If the governor signs a warrant," he said recently, "I'll have a stay." But he is afraid a stay might not come until shortly before his execution.

"It scares the hell out of me sometimes," Proffitt said, referring to the chance that he will be executed. "It's tense, very close.

Robert C. Byrd announced Saturday that he will fly to Moscow this week to discuss with Soviet leaders the Senate's role in ratifying the new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

Congressional sources, who asked not to be named, said Byrd will feel out Soviet leaders about their reaction to possible reservations and understandings that the Senate might attach to the treaty.

Specifically, the sources said, Byrd plans to ask the Soviets about including in the treaty package an explicit stipulation on the number of so-called Backfire bombers that the Soviets can produce each

U.S. officials have said privately that Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev agreed at the negotiating table in Vienna to limit the number of Backfire bombers produced each year to 30. However, that limit has not been mentioned in the treaty package as published

Byrd told a news conference that he will leave Thursday for the Soviet Union. He said he will meet with Brezhnev and other top Soviet leaders.

consideration. Prior to joining Joslyn, Morrow was field engineer and assistant manager of Lufkin Industries' Permian Basin office in Odessa.

Convention announced

VANCOUVER, British Columbia -Oilwell servicing contractors from the United States and Canada will gather in Vancouver July 23-27 as the Association of Oil Well Servicing Contractors and the Service Rig Group of the Canadian Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors meet in a joint convention.

Convention sessions and committee meetings will be held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Vancouver.

According to John T. Haggin, executive vice president of AOSC, this will be the first combined meeting between U.S. oilwell servicing contractors and their Canadian counter-

Oil industry spokesman Glen E. Nielson, chairman of the board of Husky Oil Co., will be the featured speaker at the joint convention. Special emphasis will be placed on training and safety programs during the joint meetings. In addition, AOSC will elect 1979-80 National officers at the meeting.

Schlesinger to get out Jersey State Energy Commissioner

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) - James R. Schlesinger's reluctance to order oil companies to refine more gasoline has prompted new demands for his resignation and proposals for legislation to give him more authority It has also resulted in an invitation for him to visit New Jersey. Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., challenged the energy secretary Friday to explain his decision not to order oil companies to step up their refinery operations. "I am appalled that the secretary of energy believes that he is powerless to prevent the multinational oil companies from withholding oil," said

And Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said Congress 'wouldn't hesitate" to pass whatever legislation might be needed to guarantee that oil isn't withheld from U.S

Jackson said he didn't want to be critical of the energy secretary. But he said Schlesinger should tell Congress exactly what kind of authority he needs to deal with the current oil

At a news conference Thursday, Schlesinger said he was reluctant to use his allocation authority to force the refining of more gasoline and heating oil for fear of how the industry might respond

He raised the possibility that companies might leave shipments on the high seas or abroad to keep oil out of the clutches of U.S. regulators. Twenty-seven House members called for Schlesinger's resignation Friday while another group introduced a bill to force him to require U.S. refineries to operate at near-ca-

Gohlke line operating

PGP Gas Products, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Perry Gas Companies; Inc., Midland, announced the completion and initial operation of its Gohlke Transmission Line

This new pipeline connects to PGP's Giddings Gathering System and compression stations, and extends south 55 miles to connect to the LoVaca Gohlke Gasoline Plant.

The new transmission line will offer an alternate outlet from the area for gas produced from wells in Lea County and increases PGP's total capacity from the present 20 million cubic feet per day to approximately 50 million cubic feet per day.

With the addition of compression and other facilities, the system can be expanded to a maximum capacity of 100 million cubic feet per day.

The completion of this line represents an investment in the Giddings area of approximately $15 million by PGP, and it is anticipated that an additional $5 million will be invested in the next one to two years.

Forest Oil names Wolfe

Forest Oil Corp. announced that Ben L. Wolfe has been appointed division landman, West Texas Division, in Midland. As Division Landman, Wolfe will be responsible for the Company's land and lease activities in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico. Prior to joining Forest, Wolfe was employed by Belco Petroleum Corp., as district land manager in Midland. Wolfe is active in the Edison PTA and Midland Tennis Association. Also, he is a member of the Permian Basin Landmen's Association, and the American Association of Petroleone of those seeking Schlesigner's ouster, cited "a lack of public and congressional confidence" in the energy secretary's leadership.

And a group of House liberals led by Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., introduced a bill to force Schlesinger to use his existing powers to distribute available crude oil to refineries prepared to use it.

The oil companies are holding us hostage by refusing to refine more crude oil. Energy Secretary Schlesinger is clearly content to be subject to their blackmail," Ottinger said. Deputy Energy Secretary John F. O'Leary told a House subcommittee Friday that "holdbacks are occurring" by refineries. He estimated 20 million barrels of oil are being held in reserve by refiners that could be used to make gasoline and other petroleum products. He said some are holding back for fear Iran may halt exports again. O'Leary told the Commerce subcommittee on energy and power current fuel shortages could last five to 15 years. He endorsed a $2 billion bill to subsidize development of synthetic fuels. "We will have to either do without oil or manufacture our own,'

Synthetic energy bills piling up in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - Having trouble getting gasoline? Sometime in the not-too-distant future you may be able to pull up at a service station and fill up with coal. Although you shouldn't notice any difference in the price at the pump, you may find your tax dollars helping to establish a new U.S. industry.

Well, you won't exactly be getting COAL in your gas tank. Not the lumpy, sooty, shiny black variety at any rate. The product will be gasoline refined from synthetic oil made from dies for firms that make the stuff. OIL SYNTHESIZED from coal - a decades-old technology used by Germany in World War II to help fuel Hitler's tanks - is a clean-burning product that can be easily refined into gasoline, diesel fuel and heating oil.

There won't be any way for the motorist to tell whether the gas he buys comes from coal," said an aide to House Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas, a leading congressional advocate of synthetic fuels.

The price impact at the gas pump will be nonexistent." However, Wright's bill and similar measure before Congress would provide government subsidies to firms producing synthetic fuels.

The subsidary proposed by Wright and Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., would roughly equal the difference between the cost of producing synthetic fuels - now put at from $25 to $35 for a barrel for coal-derived oil - and the world oil price, which now averages about $18. Under the legislation, the government would also promise to buy synthetic fuels, initially for use by the military, that are more expensive than oil produced by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. That would equal a subsidy of roughly $7 to $17 at present prices. There are

42 gallons in each barrel. HOWEVER, NO ONE expects the price of imported oil to remain the same. Under the Wright-Moorhead approach the higher the price of OPEC oil, the smaller the U.S. subsi-was introduced Tuesday in the Senate by a bipartisan group of eight senators led by Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Pete Domenici, R-N.M.

It would make some $75 billion in government loans and grants available for firms producing synthetic fuels. Again, the costs would be shouldered by taxpayers in general and not passed along to motorists through higher fuel prices.

Managers announced

Edward F. Shumaker and Jack E. Hardie have been appointed to the newly-created positions of operations managers in the Southwestern Region of Dowell. Shumaker is based in Midland and Hardie in Oklahoma City.

Shumaker has been the regional engineering manager in Midland since 1977, and Hardie has been district manager the last two years in

A Dowell employee since 1966, Shumaker also has had engineering and supervisory assignments in Utah, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Indiana and Colorado. He received a petroleum engineering degree from Montana School of Mines in 1964.

Hardie started with Dowell in 1953. His career has included management of the Dowell Schlumberger division in Paris, France, before he rejoined Dowell in Hoston in 1975. He received a degree in natural sciences from the University of Oklahoma in 1971.

Richard Murphy said the well hit oil at about 2,300 feet beneath the shallow lake bed. He said extensive tests would be needed to determine whether the discovery can be turned into a profitable commercial field.

He said communications with the remote drilling rig and its base camp were difficult. But he said he talked by radiotelephone to drillers - who have had to contend with freezing winter weather, brine flies and the lake's corrosive salt during the exploration - and "I'm sure there's some very happy people out there.

Murphy said initial pump tests showed the well producing between 480 to 1,512 barrels a day of high-sul fur crude. "There's a lot of it and it was produced on a two-hour test," he said. "All we know is we got it out of the ground and got it in a pretty doggone good volume.

The well is more than five miles offshore and west of the Promontory Mountain Peninsula, about 45 miles northwest of Salt Lake City. It is about 77 miles from the nearest producing oil field, near Coalville, The discovery comes after more than a year of drilling. Amoco has spent $23 million so far on the venture, Murphy said.

Murphy said tests will continue for several weeks while the storage capacity of the barge is increased.

Amoco holds leases with the state of Utah for 609,000 acres beneath the 1,000-square-mile lake. The state currently receives $1 a year per acre for the leases and will receive a 12.5 percent royalty if a producing field

The firm has permits to drill one

The oil discovered Friday probably bly would be piped to Salt Lake City, would require extensive processing in where Amoco and other firms have the field before transportation to re- refineries.

Did you know that a college education can be financed entirely with a First National HELP Loan?

If you're a student hoping to get started in a college or university...or if you've already attended but need some help in continuing your education...then First National's HELP (Higher Education Loan Plan) program may solve some of the financial problems you have in realizing these goals.

HELP is a special service set up by First National to provide low-cost education loans to Midland County residents in need of financial assistance. Any parent, guardian, student or family member, may apply for the loan, and the applicant need only be a resident of the Permian Basin and meet the bank's normal credit requirements. Application may be made at any time, and repayment can be tailored to individual requirements with up to 6 years to repay

The program is flexible...depending upon your personal needs...and it can be tailored to fit a variety of needs. If you need HELP come by and discuss the program with one of our HELP loan officers. We have a brochure detailing the plan and we'll be glad to explain the program and answer your questions. Talk to Bill Milby, Mike Sherrod, or Joe Moreno.

Oil shale struggles

TULSA - The oil-shale industry, a potential source of much-needed new energy in the U.S., is struggling to make a long-awaited start toward commercialization

for start

The proposed $3 per barrel tax credit for oil from shale, now before Congress with President Carter's blessings, may give it the nudge it needs. Oil & Gas Journal reports in its June

But even under the best of conditions - given encouragement by the Government, no road blocks by environmentalists, and favorable economics - the most-optimistic estimates put shale-oil production no TULSA, Okla. -Robert E. Thomas, higher than 75,000-125,000 barrels per

> The one-million-barrel per day mark could be reached by the end of the century - again taking the optimistic view.

These may not sound like much production for a resource reserve that has been touted to amount to 1.8 trillion barrels of recoverable oil in Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming much of it in Colorado's Piceance Creed basin

But the advocates of shale-oil development, while acknowledging that projects require many years to bring on stream, make the telling point that even the one million barrel per day figure for the year 2000 is dependent on starting work in 1979: If another five years passes before the U.S. begins to tap the immense potential of the rich reserves of the American West, the one-million-barrel per day Jackson was named manager of the level wouldn't be realized until 2005, if

Engineers appointed

Rodney J. Hart and Greg L. Hilgemeier have been appointed petroleum engineers in the Oil & Gas Division of The Midland National Bank, it was announced recently by E.H. Blackaller, senior vice president and petroleum engineer. Each joined the bank

Their assignments are to assist in the evaluation of oil and gas and other minerals properties as part of the bank's commercial loan administration program.

Hart is a native Midlander who was graduated from Lee High School in 1974. He was awarded a B.S. degree in Petroleum Engineering at Texas A&M University in 1979. While attending college he worked during the summers for Cities Service Oil Co. as a reservoir engineering assistant. He also worked for the Texas Petroleum Research Committee at Texas A&M. Hart is a member of the Society of Petroleum Engineers and the Texas where M<sub>1</sub> is mass of the club head, V<sub>1</sub> is violence of the swing. Ma is mass of the ball and Va is velocity of the ball. So the harder you hit the ball and the more vicious your swing the farther your ball will go. But you do have to address the ball with full authority and full violence. Then if your ball should come down on a caliche rock and you get a good run, you should be high and sweet in the frog hair in one. With only a snakey putt for a two. Nothing to it. ### New York tourist campaign picture adds painted lake

By DAVID SHAFFER

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - The state Commerce Department is promoting New York's natural beauties with a picture that isn't natural.

The picture is a retouched photograph of a renowned Adirondack mountain view, showing two popular wilderness lakes and a large, third lake which doesn't exist. The "I Love New York" tourism promotion campaign has placed ads featuring the photograph in dozens of major newspapers in New York, other northeastern states and Canada.

Martin Stern, who handles the "I Love New York" account for the state's advertising agency, Wells, Rich, Greene, said last week the pic-with any particular place, and Commerce Commissioner John Dyson said Thursday there was "no intentional misrepresentation. The photograph is a view from a south shoulder of Algonquin Peak, which stands in the heart of the High Peaks region of the Adirondacks and is, at 5,114 feet, the second-highest mountain in the state. The unretouched view from that mountain is one of great beauty, with peaks rolling away to the west and east and a vast, wild forest stretching to the south.

The advertisement photograph shows two hikers gazing out to the southeast from a ridge below the summit of Algonquin. A superimposed caption reads: "I had some things on my mind, but now I can't remember what they were.

Stern confirmed that the advertising photograph shows a view from Algonquin. In the picture, the unique shape of the lower end of Lake Colden, a popular camping spot for backpackers, is visible to the left far below the hikers.

Just below them, to the right of Colden, is the lake called Flowed Land, recognizable by the long, narrow outlet which carries its water to the Opalescent River.

Analysts said late in the week that an increase in the official oil price from $14.55 a barrel to somewhere in the $16-$18 range probably would not surprise investors. Arnold Moskowitz, economist at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., noted in a recent analysis that even a price of $16 would be markedly higher than last year's average of $12.70.

"As a result," he said, "higher prices are likely for raw industrial commodities, manufactured goods and the grains that are internationally traded, as well as for all petroleum-related items - energy, transportation, petrochemicals. "In addition, higher wage costs are probable as workers try to offset purchasing power lost because of higher gasoline and home heating-oil prices. Describing the impending OPEC meeting as "of critical importance to future inflation and real growth, Moskowitz said he would wait until it was over before making any updated forecast for the U.S. economy

"However," he added, "it is clear that the real and psychological impacts of the fuel crisis have been substantial, making a mild recession more likely and a severe recession

The oil situation actually works two ways in the stock market. While at times it has depressed most stocks, it has also attracted heavy activity and some sharp gains in the North American energy issues which stand to benefit from rising prices.

O'Hara blames reaction on misunderstandings

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) - Donald O'Hara says there is indication much of the bad reaction to the gasoline shortage rests on two misunderstandings. O'Hara, president of the National Petroleum Refiners Association, says he reached that conclusion after listening to days of congressional hearing testimony centering on charges there is a conspiracy to reduce refinery runs and hold gasoline in stor-

The first misunderstanding, he said, is a contention a reduction of a few percentage points in refinery utilization represents a reduction in the total amount of product manufac-

The second misunderstanding, he said, centers on a belief an allocation to dealers of 85 percent of last year's supply indicates the refiner is distributing only 85 percent of last year's

In both situations, O'Hara said, one simple fact has been almost completely overlooked

'In the five month period, January-May, U.S. refineries processed more crude oil and manufactured more gasoline than any corresponding five month period in history," O'Hara said in a report to the membership of the trade group that represents practically all of the nation's oil refiners. This would appear to be a central fact in establishing that the 'shortage' is really an inability of refiners to meet the increased demand.'

O'Hara said refining executives and top officials of the Department of Defense have testified total crude runs to refineries have actually been higher than comparable periods in previous year.

He said it appears the misunderstanding that the reduction in refinery percentage utilization has resulted in less gasoline has been encouraged by some who should know

For example, O'Hara continued, A.F. Grospiron, president of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, released an eight-page statement charging the industry was deliberately creating a shortage by reducing refinery runs.

"If Mr. Grospiron's sources were as good as he claims, he would have been aware of the fact gasoline deliveries from refineries were actually higher than last year's levels, in fact they averaged about 50,000 barrelsay more the first five months of the year than in the first five months of 1978, O'Hara said.

In discussing the misunderstanding that refiners are distributing only 85 percent of last year's gasoline total, O'Hara made reference to testimony by Alfred F. Dougherty Jr., director of the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Competition.

In testimony before the House consumer and monetary affairs subcommittee, Dougherty said most major refiners have been allocating substantially less than 100 percent of the 1978 base period supplies to customers and that the Department of Energy reports refners allocated much less gasoline to dealers during the first quarter than during the same 1978 period. "If refiners are making as much gasoline, but selling much less, the refiners' gasoline stocks must be building," Dougherty said. "But DOE and the American Petroleum Institute have reported gasoline-stocks are dropping. Where is the missing gasoline? We are presently unable to answer this question.

Noting that Dougherty used the words "customers" and "dealers" interchangeably, O'Hara said the fact is oil companies are required to supply 5 percent of their sales to the states for the state set asides

"And they are also required to supply priority customers, agriculture for example, before making allocations to dealers," O'Hara said

'These priority orders are estimated to require 10 to 12 percent of the refiners' output. The so-called 'missing' gasoline which he implied is being withheld as a result of a conspiracy is being distributed to customers in accordance with federal and state regulations instead being allocated to dealers."

July 2 deadline for crop reports

By CHARLES W. GREEN
Midland County Extension Agent-Agriculture

Crops generally made excellent progress in the county and area during the past week. The high temperatures reached on several days placed some stress on dryland cotton planted late which was just emerging. Irrigated cotton planted in May is in the 6 to 8-leaf stage and approaching squaring. Ranges are in improved condition after responding to the early June rainfall.

THE COTTON CROP is late over much of the area this year due to lack of planting moisture in May and some weather loss that necessitated replanting. This means that producers need to be concerned about managing the crop to set and save the early fruit to insure adequate maturity time.

A number of studies have been made concerning the fruiting habits of the cotton plant in many areas of the state and the results are similar in any location. A summary of these studies shows that in the absence of insects, weeds or other stress factors, during the first three weeks of blooming 61% of the blooms for the season were produced. The blooms opening during this 21-day period procuded 84.8% of the bolls and 88% of the total cotton yield.

During the following four weeks the remaining 39% of the blooms were formed. These blooms contributed only 15.2% of the bolls for the season and 12% of the total seed cotton yield. On irrigated cotton, water and fertility should be managed to take advantage of the first three weeks of blooming to set and hold the crop at that time.

MIDLAND COUNTY FARMERS have until July 2 to report crops acreages to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. This reminder comes from Minter McReynolds, county executive director, Midland County ASCS. He points out that this must be done to insure eligibility for disaster and deficiency payments for which the producer might later be interested and for the right to participate in commodity loan programs.

BLOSSOM-END ROT is a disease of tomatoes, squash, watermelons and a few other vegetables that occurs primarily in irrigated areas of West and South Texas. It appears as dark, sunken leathery spots on the blossom end of young fruit. The first symptom is a slightly sunken, water-soaked spot.

Blossom-end rot is considered to be a physiological disease caused by fluctuating moisture supply and lack of available calcium. Most West Texas soils are abundantly supplied with calcium and the water contains significant supplies of the element, so it is hard to imagine a calcium deficiency in this area. However, excessive total salts in the soil are frequently associated with blossom-end rot. This can be true even when the measured calcium seems high or at least adequate.

When salt concentration increases in the soil, which can happen with improper watering practices, the effective concentration of calcium salts available to plants decreases more rapidly than that of other soluble salts. This reduces calcium uptake by the plant. In hot, dry weather, soluble salts accumulate in the topsoil from the irrigation and fertilizer. An extra heavy watering should be given periodically to leach these salts on out of the root zone.

Strive to keep the soil moisture as uniform as possible, avoiding both overwatering and underwatering. A two or three inch application about twice a week will usually suffice if the soil is deep and plants are well rooted. Mulching around and underneath vines and plants with straw, clippings, bark, cottonseed hulls, etc. is helpful in cutting down evaporation losses and conserving moisture sup-

'Gas Crunch Special' sign sales booming

HOUSTON (AP) - The boom in removable magnetic signs for commercial vehicles the week before Houston begins odd-even gasoline rationing is just a sign of the times, say local makers of the mobile billboards.

Commercial vehicles are exempt under the plan, and sign shop owners say their phones have been ringing off the wall since Gov. Bill Clements announced the plan to cut down service station lines.

Gloria Simpson, president of Action Marketing Inc., said she's running a sale on the magnetic signs called the "Gas Crunch Special," and reports calls on the signs are up "1,000 percent." Sign shop owners said customers included delivery service companies, real estate companies, a coffee wholesale house and independent building contractors, to name just a few. Other shop owners said inquiries about the magnetic signs were up, and wondered about the motives of the callers. "They all think they can get more gas," said Sam Moore, owner of the Coleman Display Co.

He said Clements should have required decals rather than magnetic signs.

The shop owners tended to agree, however, that the callers represented legitimate businesses, for the most part. The signmakers said the price tends to weed out many impostors with costs ranging from $30 to $60 for a set of two signs.

James Householder, math professor at Humboldt State University in the small Northern California town of Arcata, believes strongly in the Socratic principle that each artist should propagate his own craft. # Professor stirs unusual interest in mathematics

By CHARLES HILLINGER The Los Angeles Times

ARCATA, Calif. - Because Socrates said in the 5th century BC that "it is the duty of every artist and artisan to propagate is craft," thousands of boys and girls in Northern California are being introduced to the wonders of mathematics in a very special way.

Humboldt State University mathematics Professor James Householder, 62, sends problems, puzzles, conundrums and other math things not found in textbooks to elementary and high school classes throughout sparsely populated rural counties in the northern third of the state.

Math teachers send problems they cannot solve to Householder for help.

And every April several hundred students and their math teachers - some from as far as 200 miles away - journey to Humboldt State in this small coastal town for the Redwood Empire Math Tourna-

'Most people go through life missing the wonders of math," insists Householder, who has held the tournament for 20 years. "If I can get kids stimulated and intrigued by math, I feel I haven't let Socrates

Householder is somewhat of a character at the college, where he has appeared in every school play for the past 20 years portraying everything from the pope in "Becket" to a bartender in "On the Road." It's easy to spot the professor. He often is seen ogging in a sweatsuit from class to class. On other occasions he wears a Tyrolean hat or a beret and the Spanish cape he wore in a role he played in

"The cape is most practical," he insists."It's easy to put on, covers the books I carry and also covers my legs in the misty rain that is common to this place most of the year. Scottish, Irish and Dutch by descent, he claims to be a reincarnated ancient Greek, one of Socrates' students of 2,500 years ago in Athens. Householder was a railroad clerk for many years after graduating from high school. He said he was inspired to change his life and return to school at the age of 32 by an acquaintance in the Navy.

"I was an avid reader of westerns and detective story magazies while a seaman in the Navy. Then I met a sailor named Roger Hope who told me I was wasting my time reading that garbage an ought to read great books like "The Canterbury Tales" and Thucydides' "History of the Peloponnesian Wars," Householder said. He said he followed the suggestion "and after seven years of reading the great books I quit my job as a railroad clerk and enrolled in college. Ten and a half years later, in 1959, at the age of 43, he earned his Ph.D. His wife supported him through the long years by working at his old job of railroad clerk. He has been a professor at Humboldt State

Three years ago Householder had a hunch Roger Hope might be living somewhere in California.

"I only knew him for a couple of months in 1942 when we were both stationed at Treasure Island. I wanted to find him and thank him," the professor

He went to a library and started looking through California phone books. After several hours he found a Roger Hope listed in the Fullerton directory. Householder phoned Hope, an attorney. "He had difficulty remembering me at first. But it finally came back. I flew down to L.A., looked him up, thanked him for launching me on my late-in-life career as a university professor, and we had lunch together;" Householder recalled. It wasn't the first time the professor had reached into the past to thank someone who followed Socrates' ancient precept.

In 1962 Householder wrote to the superintendent of schools in Los Angeles to try to track down Marguerite Matthews, his 5th-grade math teacher in the Graham elementary School on Manchester Avenue

"She first introduced me to the wonders of math," he said. "I wanted to thank her by sending her a book had written an introduction to the Statistical

"Of course she was astonished to hear from one of her 5th-grade students 37 years later. And obviously she could not remember me after all that time. But I will never forget her.

"Sometimes it isn't so much what you study, it's whom you meet that turns you on to something that has a profound effect on the rest of your life.'

Somoza's troops press effort to regain control of Managua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - National guard forces dropped bombs from helicopters on Sandinista rebel positions in eastern Managua late Saturday and explosions reverberated in the capital. Long lines of refugees in vehicles and on foot jammed highways leading out of town.

"Our houses are moving when they go off," said a Managua resident not far from one of the eastern slum neighborhoods where the bombs were falling.

A source said the bombs weighed more than 200 pounds each and that 40 to 50 had been assembled on a taxi strip at national guard headquarters at Managua's international airport.

Residents huddled around short wave radios listening to a broadcast from Washington on a Organization of American States debate on Nicaragua. The OAS passed a resolution calling for President Anastasio Somoza's resignation

Radio stations have been censored here for several weeks and did not carry any immediate word on the OAS vote and there was no comment from Somoza.

Thousands streamed out of the capital, riding in cars and trucks or walking. The government radio station had warned of a major assault on the eastern neighborhoods to clear out the rebels.

Red Cross director Miguel Schiebel said the food situation was becoming desperate at Red Cross centers in Managua, where 81,000 persons have sought shelter.

"The hunger is scandalous. There's just no way to feed them," Schiebel said.

He estimated that 20 tons of rice, beans and corn were needed daily and only about 40 percent of the demand was being supplied.

"If things go as they are, the national guard should have complete control of Managua in three or four days," said one source, asking not to be identified. The guerrillas were reported to have captured another provincial town east of Managua. Sources here suggested that the rebels remained confident of overall victory and were marking time, waiting for the OAS decision.

OAS delegates passed the resolution after three days of debates. The majority had rejected U.S. proposals for direct OAS intervention through a peacekeeping force, possibly including American The Sandinistas denounced the U.S. plan as a

Summer vacation, more gas revive 'cruise night' in Los Angeles

By LINDA MILLER

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Now that school is out and Southern California's gas lines are gone, cruising is back, big as ever. Maybe bigger.

Along Van Nuys, Whittier, Hollywood and Sunset boulevards, cars are packed end to end, stoplight to stoplight. Stereos roar a hundred different

Wednesday is the traditional "cruise night" along Van Nuys Boulevard, scene of the movie of the same name. Last week was the first since school let out Monday, and 8,000 young people took to the streets. Twenty-three were arrested, most for Veteran boulevard watcher John Jergensen, a Los Angeles police sergeant, said this year is typical except that girls are more aggressive. They now join in "shooting the moon" or flashing a bare backside from a moving car, and some have added a new twist: dropping their tanktops. "It's the same thing, but now girls are trying to pick up boys and vice versa," he said. "It's only a problem when they don't want to be picked

Beer and marijuana are common, and along side streets many quietly parked vans are mobile houses of ill repute, Jergensen said.

Ninety police officers are assigned to watch over the area, he said. To the cruisers, gas seems to be no problem. And to Jergensen, cruising is not a problem. It's the stopping that worries him

"When they stand around, they get bored and that's when we get broken store fronts and trouble," Jergensen said. "Unfortunately, there are more crimes against the kids than they realize ... rapes and robberies, and kids get beat up. Gangs come down to the boulevard now.'

Gangs have also been a problem along Whittier Boulevard in the East Los Angeles barrio, scene of the controversial gang movie "Boulevard Nights," where cruising is likewise a popular pastime.

East Los Angeles sheriff's Capt. Ken Smith said there were 12 gangrelated murders and more than 100 serious assaults last year along one block between Atlantic Boulevard and Eastern Avenue.

There, the cruisers range in age from 13 to 35, but most are in their late teens and early 20s. Smith said the cruising begins after 10 p.m., usually on weekend nights, and can last until 4 a.m.

"You've got to see it to believe it a little over a mile bumper-to-bumper," Smith said. "It could take you 45 minutes to get through. "To them, the good thing is to get in the inside lane and talk to girls going in the opposite direction.'

In Hollywood, police officer Fred Dahl said Sunset and Hollywood boulevards have also been crowded

Students may take role in educational decisions

Team teaching may take on a new meaning with a system being reviewed for use in Midland's second-

Individually guided education — a program 42 Midland secondary teachers experienced in an eight-day inservice project recently — is based on the premise that students will be more interested in their classwork if they have had a hand in deciding what sink or swim on their own, however, An important part of the program is to give every student a faculty advisor to help him make educational decisions and ease his way through various classes.

The advisor would do many of the same things coaches do now for ath-"Anytime a teacher has a problem in the schools that personally involved with him," according to Maridell Fryar, a Lee High School speech teacher who took the inservice train-

The individually guided concept takes the teacher out of the role of "a fountain of knowledge" and puts him into the role of a learning manager, said Mrs. Fryar. It also give the student a sense of responsibility for his education.

Instead of something "they" make him do, learning is a goal he has set for himself taking into account his own long-term goals and abilities.

Teachers still set objectives, she said but students take a part in determining how those goals will be

Midland College sets preregistration Monday

Preregistration and early counseling for the second summer session at Midland College opens Monday, ac-

Students who plan on attending Midland College during the second summer term are advised to complete their preregistration activities as soon as possible, to assure themselves of the best possible class schedule. After completing preregistration, students receive time permits that allocate specific periods to report for registration. This cuts down on the time spent in registering, MC officials

From 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, preregistration is handled in the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building. From 5: 30 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, preregistration is centered in room 130 of the Science-Faculty

In the clinic portion of the inservice training, for instance, teachers were put into teams. Each team set a goal and determined a number of ways of reaching that goal, each path utilizing several different areas of instruc-

Varied instructional material using math, science, English and social studies activities were designed by teachers in the group to lead the student to the concept to be taught. Students divided themselves into groups based on common interests and learning styles and worked with the appropriate material. An end-of-session by teachers and students participating showed almost universal approval of the program. The benefit of more individual attention from the teachers was one point mentioned in several of the student critiques on the program.

"One of the reason some students seem to throw up their hands and quit trying in school," Mrs. Fryar said, is because they think no one cares about them. Individually guided education is designed to show every student someone cares and to make those students care lowing in their parents' footsteps. Most of the dropouts come from families headed by someone who never finished high school and, similarly, most college students have parents who had some college training, the government's latest compendium of education statistics notes.

"Educational attainment is closely linked to family background," says the report, "The Condition of Educa-tion 1979," which has just been released by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's National Center for Education Statistics.

There are exceptions to that rule. About one in every seven college students come from families headed by someone who never finished high school, and one in nine high school dropouts comes from a family headed by a college graduate.

Hear something really funny today? Why not just file it under 'H'?

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Some people collect stamps. Others collect coins. Sam Levenson collects 4-by-6 inch file.

Levenson has about 200,000 cards neatly filed in his New York City

The cards aren't a hobby, though. The 62-year-old humorist uses them to record the "good, clever, meaning-ful" bits and pieces of humor that he's overheard or read during the past 40

Much of it - not all, since "some of my cards are so old they've turned yellow and I can't read them anymore" - is included in Levenson'slatest book, "You Don't Have To Be in Who's Who To Know What's What."

In the book, his fifth, Levenson says, "What I wanted to do was to look at all the most important institutions-marriage, family, health, happiness-in a humorous way.'

Some examples: Marriage: "Better to have loved your wife than never to have loved at Family: "Give a child an inch and he'll think he's a ruler." Health: "House calls are now made only by burglars." Happiness: "The bluebird of happiness has died of exhaustion in the

The last, Levenson says, is his favorite in the book. "This is an age of fun," he says. "But happiness, ah, happiness. It is not easy to achieve, it is almost painful."

Levenson says his humor comes from VUPs - very unimportant people - as opposed to VIPs.

"I have read endless volumes of quotations by the important people of, the ages," Levenson says. "But there is a second level of humor and I say it is just as meaningful and just as important.

The VUPs are not unimportant." he adds, emphasizing his point with "The woods would be silent if only birds with trained voices did the sing-

Then he dashes off with great glee a few zingers:

"To praise wisdom is great, but you're never too old to learn something stupid.

"It's easy to be wise, just think of something stupid and then say the opposite.

When your memory goes, forget

Levenson says he was raised in a home "where a lot of proverbs were used, so I got a lot of the folk wisdom of the people early and I still have great reverence for it. But I've discovered that proverbs seem to have dropped out of fashion.

'That's because the morality has changed. The one about a bird in the hand doesn't mean much in a civilization where you buy chicken parts. And no one believes the early bird gets the worm, probably not even the

He says he began honing his humor skills while teaching Spanish in high school. "I was a funny teacher. Instead of teaching stuff like 'The blue umbrella is in the red stand in the corner,' I'd use contemporary allusions, like teaching the kids how to ask for a date in Spanish or how to say 'I love you.' It was the same grammar, but alive and meaningful.

Then he began writing funny pieces and reading them at faculty meetings and parties. Stuff like student excuses for being late:

"I'm not late, the bell is early."
"Why didn't I start earlier? It was too late to start early. From there he moved to entertaining organizations and at weddings (Mother to just-married son: "So, you finally earn $60 a week and you give it to a stranger?"), and found himself earning more as a humorist than he did as a teacher.

After 15 years of teaching, Levenson decided to be a full-time humorist. He had his own TV show and did the night club circuit.

Winter's event contributed to fuel shortage

By The Associated Press

Crude oil production in the United States took an unnoticed and unexplained plunge last winter, just when revolution was cutting imports of oil from

At the same time, U.S. refineries were squeezing less gasoline than usual from each barrel of oil. These two developments, which together cost America more gasoline than the widely blamed Iranian cutback, were found in an Associated Press investigation.

-The cutoff of Iranian oil meant a loss of at least 17.5 million barrels of gasoline that otherwise could have gone into motorists' tanks.

-At the same time, the drop in U.S. crude oil production caused a loss of at least 11 million barrels of gasoline

-And 11.5 million barrels of gasoline simply never got produced because domestic refineries were squeezing less gasoline and more heating oil, jet fuel and petrochemicals out of each barrel of crude oil.

Those three factors add up to a loss of some 40 million barrels of gasoline that never reached service stations. That is a four-to five-day supply of gasoline for the entire United States, matching the Energy Department's estimate of the maximum shortage in April and May.

To make matters worse for the average driver, government regulations steered some of the remaining gasoline to state emergency stockpiles and priority users. This may have diverted roughly 46 million barrels of gasoline, raising the shortage to about 20 percent at the service-station pumps.

Interviews with dozens of oil company executives and industry analysts turned up a variety of explana- stations. In April, with even less gasoline to sell, tions for the shortage. But some of those are contradictory and, taken all together, do not explain fully what happened.

Energy Department analyst Frank Verrastro told the AP that department experts only recently no-coming last fall. ticed the domestic crude oil drop, the deepest since 1971, but could not explain it.

"It has declined and then picked back up and it's strange. It may possibly be due to some withholding," Verrastro said, but he later added that this guess was unsupported by evidence and that other causes might explain the dip.

Oil company executives unanimously denied they had deliberately depressed domestic production. Indeed, many said they had not noticed the dip, although it showed up in individual company data that some of them provided.

Groping for explanations, most of them guessed bad weather was to blame; some cited mechanical problems or questioned the statistics. Others rejected the weather theory or just shook their heads in

Analysts say the stage was set for the current shortage in 1977 when U.S. companies built stock piles to record levels in anticipation of a world oil price increase. Then in the fall and winter of 1978, unexpected, record gasoline demand drew these inventories down to near-minimum levels.

But just then, when gasoline stocks are normally rebuilt, both Iranian and U.S. crude oil production plunged and U.S. refineries began producing less gasoline per barrel of oil.

By March, the shrinking gasoline output reached distributors, who began limiting deliveries to service Kenneth W. Haley, an economist for Standard Oil Co.

stations began closing evenings and weekends. In May, panicked motorists began lining up for blocks in the early morning outside stations.

Oil company executives say they first saw trouble

"The beginning of the Iranian problem was in September or October of 1978," said H. Laurence Fuller, president of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana (Amoco). "We had begun to recognize a problem at that time and would have begun to buy crude if we could have gotten our hands on it.

Company officials agree the situation called for all-out domestic production, and yet that too began to Energy Department figures show that in 1978 U.S. crude oil production averaged 8.7 million barrels a day and peaked in October at 8.83 million barrels. But then it sank - down to 8.73 million barrels in November, to 8.65 million in December, to 8.46 million in January and to 8.29 million in February.

Industry analysts forecast a still-unconfirmed rebound to 8.69 million in March and 8.62 million in of California (Chevron).

Annon Card, senior vice president of Texaco Inc. said domestic production would have been expected to rise last winter, "But I don't know what the problems in achieving it were."

"I guess we don't follow production statistics that closely," said Roy Carlson, head of the American Petroleum Institute's production department.

Some oil executives first said figures compiled by the institute, Big Oil's trade association, did not show the dip. But the usually used institute statistics for the period are forecasts based on production figures. And the executives conceded the final Energy Department figures, which reflect actual production or an oftense or a misdemeanor, or wherever in such Code or ordinance wherever in such Code or ordinance of the city an act is prohibited or is made or declared to be unlawful. "I'd be surprised if ours dropped more than normal," Card said. But when a subordinate brought him Texaco's statistics, Card found they also showed a drop.

Bad weather was the most common explanation from oil companies when asked why domestic production dropped at a time when maximum production would have been useful.

They said storms can hamper offshore production; extreme cold can cripple machinery and slow oil movement through pipelines; and heavy rain can bog down trucks hauling oil from some wells on dirt roads.

"You can have production problems during winter weather that you won't have the rest of the year," said James E. Lee, president of Gulf Oil Co.

By The Associated Press

The first weekend of the summer of 1979 lived up to its gasoline forecast Saturday, especially in the Northeast, as the driest ever.

Supplies were reported generally adequate in the Midwest and West. In California, where an odd-even rationing plan has been in effect for almost seven weeks, the only lines were at stations which were selling gasoline at lower prices.

Mile-long lines at gasoline pumps were common, however, in New York and Connecticut. And in Massachusetts, drivers faced with long lines and new restrictions on gas buying opted for another way to handle the short-supply problem they stayed home We haven't had any reports of trouble because there's no one out on the roads," said Sgt. George

A spokesman for Florida Gov. Bob Graham said there were indications of progress in ending the strike by independent gasoline truckers that threw South Florida motorists into turmoil last week.

Later, Graham said National Guard troops drove or escorted tankers carrying 4.7 million gallons of gasoline from terminals in Port Everglades from midafternoon Friday to midafternoon Saturday. He said that under normal conditions, about 5 million gallons of gasoline is delivered from the terminals. National Guard troops dressed in riot gear rode shotgun on gasoline tankers, some commandeered under Graham's order from private firms. The than 1,000 workers Saturday, and company officials blamed the layoffs on their inability to move their products. A third company had laid off 350 workers Friday and other packing houses said they were operating on a day-to-day basis.

Agricultural officials in Nebraska said receipts of cattle at feedlots Friday were only about one-third of normal, the first indication that truckers were disrupting cattle shipping in that area.

California fruit and vegetable growers, who normally truck 90 percent of the state's farm products to other states, warned that if the shutdown continued, the food supply situation would turn critical this Industry critics claim the gasoline situation was created to boost industry profits.

"The industry contrived the shortage in an attempt to force prices higher," concluded a study of the gasoline crisis by the California Public Policy Center, a Los Angeles non-profit research group.

Whatever the cause, the crude oil shortages have forced refineries to run below normal levels. This year, refineries have been running at about 85 percent of capacity compared to a maximum practical figure of about 92 percent.

THE OTHER 2 WHEEL EXPER Give Yourself a Little Vespa or A Not So Little Vespa

A Vespa Moped can take you all over town. You'll never have a parking problem. And you'll have up to 160 miles of fun per gellon. No clutching or shifting, almost no mainte-

Reg.

There's no clutching or shifting with any Vespa moped, so riding this Grande is about as easy as saying "giddy-up". Vespa mopeds mean

Vespa Scooter is the other two-wheel experience. Easy to balance. Quiet. Dependable. You sit inside, with your feet on the floor. It comes in three new models, all the way up to the P200E that's plenty fast for

If you want a vehicle that's legal on the freeway, the new P200E is your not-so-little Vespa. A Vespa's easy-riding on long trips, and easy to care for. Should you have a flat, you'll like the way the wheels come off from the side, the same as a car. This model and the P125X even

The new P150 has an improved unitized body. Like our top new model, the PDOE. This Vespa is sleekly styled and beautifully etticient. It has a revolutionary new front suspension system that gives you a smoother ride, better

Vespa enclosed the engine and ell moving parts. And eliminated the chain between the engine and rear wheel. There's a clean, quiet, dry belt instead. If you hate oil spatters, you'l love your little Vespa-like this Bravo.

Watson retains lead in Canadian Open golf

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) - Although the extremely difficult conditions - whipping winds and biting cold - prevented a score better than 1-over-par 72, front-running Tom Watson retained a 3-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $350,-000 Canadian Open Golf Tourna-

Watson, seeking a fifth title of the season and poised to become the first man to win $400,000 in a single season, put together a 54-hole total of 207, 6 strokes under par. Lee Trevino, who wore two sweaters, a shirt and his pajamas, also had a 72 and was second alone at 210 going singles by Denny Walling and Alan Ashby in the ninth inning rallied Houston to a 3-2 victory over the San Diego Padres Saturday night after the Astros were held to just one hit through seven innings.

Padres, 4-3 in 9th inning HOUSTON (AP) - Pinch-hit RBI

San Diego's Randy Jones lost his 2-0 shutout in the eighth when pinch-hitter Art Howe doubled and Terry Puhl drove in pinch-runner Jimmy Sexton with Houston's first run.

Rollie Fingers, 6-4, relieved Jones and got the loss in the ninth.

Cesar Cedeno led off the Houston ninth with a single, stole second and scored the tying run when Walling delivered his 10th pinch hit in 18 tries® this season.

After Jose Cruz was intentionally walked, Fingers then walked Julio Gonzalez to load the bases. Ashby then came on and poked a single past second base to score Walling with the Houston reliever Tom Dixon, 1-1, was the winner.

Brandiger, Rives, Collison all take triple victories By RICHARD VINCENT son of Hurricane, Karin Werth of Ft.

The second day of the Allison West Texas Invitational swimming meet Saturday at the Alamo Park pool belonged to three people in particular: Mary Ann Brandiger, Chris. Rives and Jeff Collison.

Brandiger, of the Albuquerque Aquatic Club, thrashed all-comers Saturday with a brilliant triple victory. She bagged the girl's 13-14 200 utterfly in a pool record 2:20.54, the 400 individual medley in a pool record 5: 10.87 and the 200 freestyle

NOT TO BE outdone, Rives of the Houston DADS Club also pocketed three events. He copped the boy's 13-14 200 fly, 400 lM and 200 free.

And Collison, of Ft. Worth, also had three victories, two of which came over his main nemesis, Andrew Jordan of the City of Midland Swim Team. Collison stopped Jordan in the 200 IM and 100 free while breezing to the 100 fly title:

In the team chase, the El Monte, Calif., Aquatics Club remained on top after two days with 620.5 points. Still in second and awaiting today's final action are the sprint-heavy Dolphins of Miami, Fla. with 558.5. Coach John Jordan's COM outfit moved up to sixth place from eighth and has 166

Starlit Aquatic of Virginia was third with 235 followed by Ft. Worth with 186, defending champion DADS with 180.5, Dallas with 163, NIKE of Rosemead. Calif., with 160 and Albuquer-

TODAY'S LAST day of action has preliminaries set for 8 a.m. and finals scheduled for 6 p.m. There was also a sizeable group of sun-drenched competition. Michele

Richardson of Hurricane, Ford Pear-

Worth, Judy Baker of the Canadian Dolphins and Matt Gribble of Hurricane all pocketed a pair of triumphs.

Richardson annexed the girl's 10under 100 fly in a pool record 1: 15.10 and took the 100 free. She was pushed in the 100 fly by Susan Mead, a oneperson squad from The Woodlands Swimming Team, who set a state mark of 1:16.87 in the event. Mead also took the 10-under 200 IM.

Pearson romped in the boy's 10under 100 fly and 200 IM while Werth grabbed the girl's 11-12 200 IM and 100 free. Baker, a possible Canadian Olympian in 1980, won the girl's senior 200 fly in a pool record 2: 22.72 and the 400 IM. Gribble was victorious in the 200 fly and the 400 IM.

Also, there was one other recordsetting performance Saturday, Mark Gladson of the Odessa Aquatic Club won the boy's 10-under 100 free in a West Texas best of 1:09.05.

Beside Jordan, who had two second place finishes, several other COM swimmers landed in the money. In the girl's 13-14 50 free, Gretchen Koch was fourth and Lori Thompson sixth. Sid Glenn was fourth in both the boy's senior 400 IM and 200 free while Karl Schmidt was fifth in the boy's 11-12 100 fly. Also, in the girl's senior 400 free relay, the COM A squad was sixth and in the boy's 11-12 400 medley relay, the COM A team was third.

AMONG THE Saturday winners were Gretchen Coombs of EMAC in the girl's 11-12 100 fly, the EMAC girl's 11-12 400 medley relay, the Hurricane boy's 11-12 medley relay, Tammie Graef of DADS in the girl's 13-14 50 free, John Cann of Starlit in the boy's 13-14 50 free, Doris Vollmar of EMAC in the girl's senior 50 free, Helen Collins of EMAC in the girl's senior 200 free, the EMAC A girl's senior 400 free relay, Lee Cassidy of double-winners during Saturday's . Hurricane in the boy's senior 50 free and Gary Davis of the Canadian Dolphins in the boy's senior 200 free.

El Paso ruins Midland's chances for pennant

EL PASO---The Midland Cubs fell to the El Paso Diablos, 10-3 and with the loss Saturday night in Dudley Field, just missed in winning the Western Division pennant in the first half of the Texas League race.

San Antonio shut out Amarillo, 6-0, to clinch the flag even though the Dodgers have one more game today. A loss would still give the Alamo City team the pennant by four percentage

El Paso won the current series 3-2 which is its first series win of the season and it came at the wrong time for the Cubs who had a one-half game lead going into the game.

Back-to-back homers in the second inning by the Diablos and a big five-run fifth ruined the Cubs who were shut out for six innings by Ken Scrom who picked up the victory.

Five singles by the Cubs in the seventh inning gave the Midlanders their three runs, but it wasn't enough. Jesus Alfaro and Eric Grandy had run-scoring singles in the seventh.

Midland returns home Monday to open the second half of the Texas League race with a game with the Amarillo Gold Sox in Cubs Stadium.

Midland used four pitchers, but the Diablos, playing before a crwod of 3,118, pounded out a total of 15 hits in taking the win and the series. Both El Paso and Midland rest today before opening the second half of the season on Monday.

7.050-yard Glen Abbey Golf Club course, which was made even more Australian Jack Newton bogeyed difficult than usual by the winds that three of his last four holes for a 73 that gusted to 25 mph and the temperaleft him at 211. "I played just the way I wanted to tures in the chill 40s. Ben Crenshaw was alone at 213. through the first 13 holes, and then the wheels came off," said Newton, who par, after a 73. Curtis Strange and D.A. Weibring were next at 214. Strange shot a 73 and Weibring had 76. Johnny Miller, with a 75, was at 215, a distant 8 shots back.

Jack Nicklaus, who designed this demanding layout along the banks of Oakville Creek, matched par 71 equalling the best score of the day and was at 216. U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin had the same figures. Defending champion Bruce Lietzke was another stroke back at 217 after a 72.

"It was a very difficult day to play golf," the globe-trotting Newton said. The figures bore him out. The field average was slightly over 76.

"With conditions like this again tomorrow, it will be very difficult for anyone to catch him (Watson) unless they play superbly. You'd have to shoot better than 70 because I can't see him shooting worse than 72 or 73 the way he's putting.'

South All-Stars win

HOUSTON (AP) - Shortstop David Fry of Port Neches-Groves clubbed a three-run home run in the first inning Saturday to lead the South All-Stars to a 5-2 victory over the North in the Texas Schoolboy All-Star baseball

Fry, who hit .418 during the regular season, blasted a 380-foot shot over the left field fence to stake the Rebs to a 3-0 lead.

Rick Luecken of Houston Spring Woods also got the South off to a quick start by pitching three no-hit innings. Luecken, 15-3 last season, got the victory while Gene Segrest of Lubbock Coronado was tagged with the

Lopez in deadlock with Whitworth

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) - Nancy Lopez shot a 4-under-par 68 Saturday to tie veteran Kathy Whitworth for the second-round lead in the $100,000 Lady Keystone Open at Hershey Country Club's West Course.

Lopez, the tour's leading money winner, eagled the 16th hole on her way to a two-round total of 140, 4under par.

Whitworth shot a steady 1-underpar 71 over the 6,400-yard Hershey layout. One shot behind the leaders was Betsy King, who carded a 71

First round co-leader Amy Alcott was next at 142, 2-under par for the tournament after a 74 Saturday. Jerilyn Britz, who also shared the firstround lead, ballooned to 77 and was at 145, five shots off the pace.

Lopez, a member of the Hershey

Country Club and the hometown favorite, got hot on the back nine, where she recorded four birdies and her eagle. She could have been a shot better but she begeyed the 18th hole for the second straight day.

Although there have been some disand stocking of non-native fish into

Texas waters, our Texas fisheries people have done an excellent job on has been that of the striped bass.

Stripers are salt water fish, which were first introduced to fresh water in South Carolina's Santee Cooper reservoir. The stocking came in the 1950s and turned out to be a real boom to the sport fishery. Thirty to 40 pound fish are now caught every year in many of South Carolina's fresh water rivers

The Texas Fisheries department took a cautious stance on the striper program and waited to see if this fish would be a desirable addition to Texas waters. After the South Carolina program proved to be a success,

Stripers were first introduced into

Paige upsets Walker

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) - Don Paige, a senior from Villanova, upset John Walker of New Zealand in the mile Saturday in the inaugural New Jersey Track Classic at Rutgers Stadium before a crowd of 7,000.

Paige, winner of the 800-and 1,500meter titles in the NCAA earlier this month, turned in a personal best of 3 minutes, 54.6 seconds as he overtook the 27-year-old Walker, the mile record-holder, at the head of the stretch and poured it on for a convincing three-yard victory

Walker, the central figure in a controversy that saw Sydney Maree of South Africa, Paige's Villanova teammate, barred from the competition, was clocked in 3:55.2.

Craig Masback, ex-Princeton University standout now with the Oxford Athletic Club, was third in the eightman field with a personal best of 3:55.7. Ross Donoghue of St. John's followed in 3:58.0 and Rod Dixon, another New Zealander, completed the top five in 3:58.4.

Bill Fitzpatrick, director of the meet, announced two hours prior to the running of the mile that Maree was banned by the International Amateur Athletic Federataion and its American affiliate, the Amateur Athletic Union, because he is a native of South Africa and other foreign athletes in the meet were competing for their countries. As a result, the threat of withdrawing the sanction was raised and meet officials elected not to jeopardize other athletes in the 34-event pro-

"I'm very disappointed that Sydney was not able to compete," said the 22-year-old Paige. "This has been going on a long time and politics have no place in athletics. He should have been out here on the track.

"We ran a great mile and he has the best time (3:53.7) in the world this year. It was unfortunate that he had to sit in the stands. It must have hurt him to watch it, but things were out of his grasp.

Jonathan Williams, a relative unknown from Adelphi University, set the pace for the first quarter, clocking 60.7 seconds, and the half, which was timed in 1:58.3, before dropping out.

Steve Lacy of the Tobias Striders then took the lead until Walker made his move at the gun lap, holding the advantage until Paige breezed by him at the head of the stretch "I was very tired in the last 100 meters," Paige said, "but Walker was just as tired, too. I could tell by the way his shoulders were rolling and I was fortunate that he did not come back at me.'

Eamonn Coghlan of Ireland, a Villanova graduate and another figure in the sanctioning dispute, overtook Matt Centrowitz of the University of Oregon in the 5,000 meters in 8:26.25. Centrowitz, edged by two steps, was caught in: 26.82

Mike Tully of UCLA, the world record holder in the pole vault, won his seciality with a stadiumrecord 18 feet, 34 inch. Mike Shine of the New York Pioneers, silver medalist in Montreal in 1976, captured the 400meter intermediate hurdles in 50.5 while Dennis Norris, another New Zealander, won the 1,500 meters in Al Oerter of the New York Athletic Club, who won four straight Olympics in the discus, finishing second with a toss of 204-3, two inches shorter than Art Swarts of the Shore AC.

Evert nabs dramatic net crown

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) -Chris Evert Lloyd saved three match points before winning a dramatic three-hour tennis marathon 7-5, 5-7, 13-11 over Martina Navratilova to win the Eastbourne international grass court title Saturday.

Lloyd's victory, in one of the most thrilling matches ever played in Devonshire Park, was a reversal of last year's exciting final between the two which Navratilova won 9-7 in the third set after saving a match point.

Lloyd said afterward, "The match was the best and closest high quality match I have ever played.

The two top players scarcely made an unforced error between them. In 48 games, they served only one double fault each.

Navratilova's double fault, however, came in the crucial 47th game. With the score tied at 11-11, she first double faulted and then netted a simple volley to give the 24-year-old Lloyd the break she needed.

"At the end, whoever missed a couple of shots was going to lose," Navratilova said.

It was the 22-year-old reigning Wimbledon champion who cracked. But even in defeat she agreed with Lloyd. "It was technically the hardest match I have ever played," she said. "It was so intense.

The crowd of 4,000 was gripped by the emotionally taut encounter that earned the winner $20,000.

But with Wimbledon starting next Monday, both players realized that even this classic duel will soon be forgotten. 'This match will probably be better than Wimbledon," said a tired Navratilova. "But Wimbledon is the one that matters.

Nothing could dampen Lloyd's satisfaction with the longest match she has ever played as a professional.

"We put so much mental and emotional energy into the match," she said. "I felt I was going really well, and in the third set I got overheads I would not even have tried for in another match." The opening set gave no clue of the drama ahead, although both playerssettled down after four straight service breaks to produce some marvel-Lloyd got the vital break to lead 6-5, but it was due more to Navratilova's brief loss of concentration. The Czech-born star overhit three times in succession and netted a forehand to give Lloyd the set. The second set started in different fashion as Navratilova got all her confidence and aggressiveness back. She served strongly and hit some excellent winners on return shots to

Just as she seemed poised to take the set, Lloyd came back to level at 5-5. But the Wimbledon champion got her game together again just in time. She held for 6-5 and then hit two winners off Lloyd's serve for three set

She squandered the first but Lloyd then overhit, and it was one set all. In the final set, Lloyd saved two match points at 5-6 and another at 8-9 during a spell of 11 straight games which went with service.

Then came the decisive 47th game. "With Wimbledon so close, neither of us really wanted a hard match.' Lloyd said. "It just happened that

American LL Tourney opens play Monday

It could be said that Midland's Little League is entering its second season Monday when its marathon double elimination American Little League City Championship Tournament gets underway at Garrett-Brown Park at Holly and Delano Streets.

It may not be as bad as the NBA playoffs, but the tournament could run through Saturday as five teams seek to become the city titlests.

Monday's action begins at 6 p.m. Monday with two games. Western's Mallard Exploration will square off against the North Central Tipperary Braves on the North Field while the Tower League's J. C. Williamson Red will face Eastern's Breakfast Opitmist on the South Field.

The first break in the tournament has already been won by the Mid-City Clayton Williams Indians. The Indians drew the first round bye and will not have to play until Tuesday.

In this tournament, there is a bonus for winning the first game because losers move into the loser's bracket and must face a long climb to a championship

The winner of the Mallard-Tipperary contest will get the break Tuesday since they will draw the bye. The winner of the Williamson-Optimist contest Monday will face the Clayton Williams team Tuesday at 6 p.m. on the North Field. Monday's two losers will square off Tuesday at 6 p.m. on the South Field. The loser in that contest will be eliminated from the tournament.

Two games will also be played on Wednesday and one on Thursday. All games are set for 6 p.m.

By the time Friday rolls around, the tournament will be down to two teams, one with no losses and one with a single setback. The tournament could end Friday if the unbeaten team wins again on Friday, however, the tourney could roll to Saturday if the once beaten team wins, giving both squads one loss apiece in the tournament.

The tournament is open to the public and there is no admission

Amaya wins grass court tennis title

SURBITON, England (AP) — Big Vic Amaya of Holland, Mich., slammed home eight aces and 26 service winners Saturday and beat Mark Edmondson of Australia 6-4, 7-5 in the final of the Debenhams international grass court tennis tournament.

Amaya's hard hitting earned him a first prize of $9,000 and established him as a contender at next week's Wimbledon tournament, where he is

The 6-foot-4 American had only once previously won a major tournament on grass - at Adelaide, Australia, two years ago.

He confessed after the match he is not really happy on grass, even though his power game is so well suited to it. "I don't really like this surface,"

Amaya said, "because mentally itis very difficult to play on. But I believe I am smart enough to know that my game is ideally geared to it." Amaya was seeded No. 5 in this last warm-up event before Wimbledon. He knocked out the top seed, Brian Gottfried, on his way to the final.

Amaya, whose service has been outstanding all week, hit four-aces in

Shine takes major step towards Olympic shot

Shine, silver medalist in the 400meter intermediate hurdles in the 1976 Montreal Olympics, took a major step toward a spot on the 1980 team by winning his specialty Saturday in the inaugural New Jersey Olympic Track Classic at Rutgers Stadium.

The Penn State graduate, now an assistant coach at Army, won the event in 50.5, beating out Adelphi's Randy Clark.

Sydney Maree of South Africa, Villanova University's outstanding miler, was forced to withdraw from the competition because of a threatened boycott by several foreign athletes who were led by John Walker of New Zealand.

Bill Fitzpatrick, chairman of the meet, announced the decision following phone calls between Walker and the New Zealand Amateur Athletic Association.

Fitzpatrick also claims that the International Amateur Athletic Federation and the AAU of the United States would withdraw sanction of the meet and approval of any records. Maree wuld have been allowed to run if he were representing South Africa rathr than a college. The other foreigners all were wearing the colors of their countries.

Shine, running in the second of two sections (final standings were based on times) was disappointed in his performance. Clark was runner-up in 51.1, one-tenth of a second faster than Hal Schwab of the New York AC, former IC4A titlist from Penn.

"Moscow is definitely in my plans," explained Shine, "but I'll never make it with my times in recent meets. The event is not getting any easier.

"You have to be in the 49-second class consistently and I've only broken it twice this year. What I have to do is get hungry again. I'm going to run in Europe and the National Sports Festival in Colorado later this sum-

"In September, I'll have to go back to a sound training program once again. I'm going to do a lot of weight lifting and then compete on the indoor circuit and take it from there.

The 25-year-old Shine, who is giving up his West Point coaching assignment in the spring, stayed out of competition for all of 1977

Segelke finds his future in baseball

R-T Sports Editor

In high school at South San Francisco's El Camino High, Herman Segelke was a 230-pound football tackle without a future. Three years later, the same guy is a svelte 185, over a 6-4 frame, baseball pitcher with a future, although he's discovering that like hitters, pitchers go through slumps, Segelke, plagued by back woes that cost him the first three weeks of the Texas League season after a brief look from the Chicago Cubs in spring training, reeled off five straight wins once he got in the rotation and it looked like he'd quickly surpass his 1978 Midland record of 8-8, if Wichita didn't get in his way.

Then followed three straight losses and Herman discovered the otherside of the coin. Right now, Segelke is 6-3. but overall it has been a rewarding

SURE, HE was disappointed when he didn't stick with the AAA Aeros this spring, "But I figure I can build my confidence with a second year here and Midland isn't really that much farther away from the majors than Wichita," says Segelke with the contentment and peace of mind that comes when you've found the right

At spring training, even though he got in only a couple of innings of runless ball, Chicago pitching coach Mike Roarke "helped me improve my breaking ball a lot and I have a better change up. Both Mike and Barney (Schultz, roving minor league pitching coach) have been a big help. My control is better. Last year I walked 60 in my first six games.

So while waiting for a call from above, Segelke's goals are to "cut down on the bases on balls, it seems like they all score; get my strikeouts. up and have a good year. Maybe if I do, they'll call me up in September."

VINCE SELLARDO, Segelke's high school coach, may have been responsible for influencing Herman toward baseball over football, although Herman once won the Punt, Pass and Kick championship for his age at the 1968 Pro Bowl in the Orange Bowl. He got Herman baseball exposure in the ninth grade and that led to the North Peninsula League in the Bay Area where he played for Vince Zuardo on a team that was composed mostly of pros. In high school, he pitched four one-hitters, two two-hitters and three three-hitters in his final two seasons, but the biggest thrill was the no-hitter against San Mateo. It was his first start of his senior year and came after a 10-month layoff due to tendinitis, "And it came while 20 major league scouts were watch-

Although a Cincinnati fan all his life, Segelke was the Chicago Cubs' No. 1 draft choice (seventh in the nation) in the June 1976 free agent draft, which was a real surprise.

"At Pompano the humidity was 85 degrees and for a 230-pounder, hard to get used to. The weight? I used to be a junk food junkie. Then I fell in love. We are engaged and plan to get married in October.

But back to Pompano, "The lines were 360 and the wind blew in. I didn't give up a homer in 103 innings. This year I've given up 12 homers in 82 innings," groans Segelke. "Still, Midland is a good park to pitch in (especially for a guy who must eventually contend with Wrigley Field). You've got to keep the ball down. You can't have a flat curve and you can't make a mistake, which means you have to concentrate all the time.

A contender for the first half pennant right down to the wire, Segelke Phillips thinks this year's club "is a winner, x-faced two batters in eighth They've been fantastic with their Save Perlman Time 2.41 fielding behind me and always score a lot of runs when I'm pitching. # Big question is who will be No. 2 in NBA draft Monday

NEW YORK (AP) - Who will be No. 2 is the big question as 22 National Basketball Association teams prepare to divide the college crop in Monday's draft.

When the Los Angeles Lakers begin the proceedings at noon, EDT, in the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza Hotel, the No. 1 pick will be Magic Johnson, the passing fancy from Michigan State. The Lakers — who received the top pick from New Orleans in exchange for Gail Goodrich several years ago - have already reached agreement with Johnson on a contract calling for $600,000 a year. But who will be the second player chosen?

The Chicago Bulls own the No. 2 pick in the draft but whether they will will actually be the team making the choice remains in doubt. The Bulls' primary need is a playmaking guard to play alongside 6-foot-7 Reggie

Theus, last year's top pick who had a fine rookie season. But since there does not appear to be a first-rate playmaker among this year's collegians, aside from Johnson, Bulls General Manager Rod Thorn spent much of last week listening to trade offers from teams seeking that prime pick

If the Bulls keep the pick, Thorn said he was leaning toward guard Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas or forward David Greenwood of UCLA, two All-Americans who are highly regarded by the pro scouts. Thorn also listed 7-footer Bill Cartwright of San Fran-

Among the other better backcourtmen are Walter Daniels of Georgia, Lawrence Butler of Idaho State, Terry Duerod of Detroit and two from UCLA -Roy Hamilton and Brad Holland.

Four undergraduates have renounced their collegiate eligibilty to become available in the 10-round draft. They are Magic Johnson, Cliff Robinson, Sly Williams and forward Garcia Hopkins of Morgan State.

As a result of trades, New York and Detroit have three first-round picks each while Los Angeles, New Jersey and Seattle have two apiece.

Cubs return home Monday

The Midland Cubs return home Monday to launch the second half of the Texas League season against the Amarillo Gold Sox, led by league batting leader Tim Flannery and the top runs-batted-in man Joe Hicks.

The Cubs' highlight studded 10-game homestand will include five games against the Gold Sox and a holiday weekend of five games against El Paso, last year's Texas champions.

The Amarillo series will begin Monday with scoreboard dedication night and a concession treat for the fans with hotdogs (Armour) and buns (Rainbo) at 25 cents, and 25 cent Pepsi.

General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., has lined up madcap Max Patkin, baseball's touring funny man, for Tuesday's game and appropriately it will be Reporter-Telegram Family Night, a coupon and $3 admitting the whole family for an evening of laughs as Max goes through his routine during the first half of the game.

The Kiwanis Fireworks Celebration is scheduled for July 3. The game will start at 6:30 p.m. and a 25 to 30 minute fireworks display will follow the game. Kiwanis members are selling advance tickets with proceeds going to fund Kiwanis charities. The game annually attracts one of the season's biggest crowds.

Oklahoma prosecutors anxious to head off additional delays in mass slayings trial

By DAVID EGNER

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Prosecutors impatient to begin a preliminary hearing for Roger Dale Stafford - the man accused in the worst mass murder in Oklahoma history - say they may ask a judge to order a hearing to be held in the next few weeks.

"We're going to insist he (Stafford attorney Garvin Isaacs) get ready pretty soon," to defend Stafford in the murders of six employees found shot to death in an Oklahoma City steakhouse last July 16, said Jim McKinney, Oklahoma County first assistant district attorney.

Isaacs, who recently won an innocent verdict in a nationally publicized trial for the late Gene Leroy Hart on charges of murdering three Girl Scouts, became Stafford's attorney Tuesday. Isaacs replaced Gary Dean and Tony Jack Lyons of Pryor, who resigned from the case when they said Stafford's relatives could not pay them enough money

Contacted by telephone at the University of Houston, where he is lecturing at the National College of Criminal Defense Lawyers, Isaacs said he has "no idea" of when he could be ready for a preliminary

THE OKLAHOMA CITY lawyer said when he completes his lecturing at the end of this week, he will return to Oklahoma City to begin familiarizing himself with the Stafford case.

"I just don't have any comments about any of the facts," in the case until learning more about the case, Isaacs said.

Stafford, a 27-year-old Alabama drifter, is charged with murdering Terri M. Horst, 15, one of the six steakhouse workers whose bullet-riddled bodies were found stacked in the meat locker of a Sirloin Stockade steakhouse in south Oklahoma City after a $1,500 robbery.

Though Stafford is charged with only one of the deaths, McKinney said authorities believe Stafford and his late brother, Harold, 29, were responsible for all six killings. Harold Stafford died in a Tulsa motorcycle accident six days after the steakhouse

"IT WOULD SERVE no useful purpose" to charge Stafford with five additional murder counts, McKinney said. He said prosecutors will be allowed to introduce evidence about all six murders into court proceedings against Stafford.

McKinney said if Stafford is found innocent of the Horst murder, prosecutors could not bring him to trial on any of the other killings.

Stafford's preliminary hearing will be held to determine if he must stand trial on the Horst murder charge.

In addition to the steakhouse murders, Stafford is the prime suspect in the killings of three members of a San Antonio, Texas family near Purcell on June 22, 1978, said Kay Huff, Cleveland County District Attorney.

"I DON'T REALLY see anything but confusion" resulting from filing charges against Stafford before the steakhouse murder case is resolved, Mrs. Huff said:

Mrs. Huff said she might decide to file charges against Stafford after receiving a new report this week on the Purcell killings from the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, but she doubts she will file.

In addition, Stafford is considered the only suspect in the killing a McDonald's restaurant employee, 19year-old Jimmy Berry, in Muscle Shoals, Ala., in 1974, said Muscle Shoals Police Chief Ronald Gene

'If we could come up with the gun (used in the killing) we could charge him," Bowling said.

Stafford was once considered a suspect in the Nov. 22 murders of four Burger Chef employees in Speedway. Ind., but police there no longer be lieve he was involved in the deaths.

IF THE STEAKHOUSE murder case comes to trial, "we're going to demand the death penalty," McKinney said. "I think any jury at all, if they believe in the death penalty, if they find him guilty, would, in my opinion, without any question of any kind would assess the death penal McKinney said he hopes the Stafford preliminary will be held in the next few weeks, and would like the trial to come no later than early November.

"We're ready for jury trial right now," McKinney said. Asked how the entry of Isaacs into the Stafford case would affect the case, McKinney gave a sarcastic reply: "There might be a lot of benefit dinners or ice cream socials to raise something for poor old Roger."

The prosecutor referred to fund raising events held by supporters of Hart to raise money for Hart's de-

Isaacs, 34, charecterized himself as 'a little rough around the edges" and "a country bumpkin lawyer" when he addressed jurors in the Hart trial. But he impressed observers as shrewd and aggressive.

THE FORMER OKLAHOMA County assistant district attorney and first assistant public defender used Hart's preliminary hearing to discover all he could about the prosecution's case. The month-long preliminary was one of the longest in state history.

During Hart's murder trial, Isaacs hired a psychologist to help him question and select jurors. The colorful attorney's courtroom outbursts resulted in his censure and reprimand by the judge in the case.

Hart died of a heart attack not long after his acquittal.

"It's premature to make any kindof decision" on what strategy to pursue at Stafford's preliminary or trial, Issaes said.

"I like trials, that's the business I'm in," Isaacs said, refusing to give a specific reason for taking on the Stafford case. "I don't think publicity has anything to do with it, a lawyer's business is representing people, that's your duty.

ONE OF THE KEY prosecution witnesses against Stafford will be his estranged wife, Verna, 26. Police have kept Mrs. Stafford at secret locations, where they have talked with her extensively, since bringing her here from Chicago March 8.

Officers allege that Mrs. Stafford has connected her husband and his late brother to the steakhouse murders and the Purcell killings

Police said Mrs. Stafford has told them she was the getwaway car driver in the steakhouse massacre and was present at the scene of the killings of the San Antonio family of Air Force Sgt. Melvin Lorenz, 38, his wife Linda, 31, and son Richard, 12, near Purcell. The Lorenz family was driving to North Dakota to attend a funeral at the time of the murders.

Mrs. Stafford has told police she did not participate in the killings. She has not been charged with any crimes. Prosecutors refuse to say if she will eventually face any charges. Prosecutors have other important witnesses besides Mrs. Stafford and have physical evidence linking Stafford to the steakhouse murders, McKinney said, but he refused to be

IN ADDITION TO Miss Horst, the other steakhouse murder victims were: Anthony Tew, 17; David Salsman, 15; David Lindsey, 17; Isaac Freeman, 56; and Louis Zacarias, 43, all of the Oklahoma City area. The execution-style murder of the six steakhouse workers sparked the most massive murder probe in Oklahoma history. Last September, ballistics tests on newly-discovered guns showed that a gun used in the Lorenz triple-murder and a gun stolen from Lorenz were also used in the steakhouse killings. Responding to the link, Oklahoma City police and the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation formed a joint task forced to work fulltime on Tom Heggy said when he announced was telling detectives. March 10 that Stafford would be charged in the steakhouse murders.

A NATIONWIDE MANHUNT for Stafford followed, climaxing three nights later when authorities - acting on a tip from a relative - arrested Stafford at a Chicago YMCA.

"You should have seen the look on his face - he was very startled," said Robert McConnel, a YMCA Security guard who helped arrest the unarmed Stafford. The mass murder suspect offered no resistance.

After his arrest and before a lawyer. bagan representing him, Stafford spent many hours talking with Oklahoma City police detectives, Chief Heggy said. The chief said parts of the talks were helpful to officers, but Chicago.

McKinney refused to say if any of Stafford's remarks will be used as evidence in court proceedings

Stafford pleaded innocent to the Horst murder charge at his arraignment March 17. He was sent to Eastern State Hospital at Vinita, where he underwent 26 days of mental and physical examinations before doctors ruled he was sane and able to stand

While Mrs. Stafford remains in police protective custody at an undisclosed location and her husband of seven years remains in the Oklahoma County Jail awaiting court action, the couple's three children, ages 6 and under, remain in a foster home in

SFO to do Offenbach work

SANTA FE, N.M. — The Santa Fe Opera will open its 23rd annual summer season Saturday night with Jacques Offenbach's sparkling comic opera, "La Grande-Duchesse de Gerolstein.

The opera is sheer delight for a summer evening and is a special favorite with SFO audiences.

The Offenbach confection will also be performed on July 4, 6, 14 and 20, and Aug. 6, 23 and 25. Tickets are available at the opera theater box office as well as at the downtown box office in the Santa Fe Hilton. Tickets may be ordered by writing to the Santa Fe Opera, P.O. Box 2408, Santa Fe, N.M. 87501. Phone orders through MasterCharge or Visa are being accepted between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. each Monday through Saturday. The telephone number is 505-982-

Opening night festivities will be enhanced with the presence of numerous dignitaries, including New Mexico Gov. Bruce King and Mrs. King.

The traditional dancing on the opera terrace under the stars will follow the performance. Waltzes and polkas will be played by the opera orchestra, conducted by John Crosby, founder and general director of the Santa Fe Opera.

"La Grande-Duchesse," a satire on the self importance and general incompetence of Europe's ruling military class in the 18th Century, was first performed during the Paris Exposition in 1867.

It remains one of Offenbach's most engaging creations, poking fun at petty German courts, the romantic urges of Catherine the Great and the various activities of Napoleon III and his court.

In 1887, the great Lillian Russell starred in "La Grande-Duchesse," making her stage entrance in a sleigh, swathed in ermine in the middle of a blinding

The opera was first presented at Santa Fe in 1971. and enjoyed successful revivals in the 1972 and '74

The title role is a marvelous tour de force for a vocal commedienne in the grand tradition, and mezzo-soprano Ann Howard in the current Santa Fe version fits the role perfectly

With a strong voice and impressive amount of energy, she portrays the spoiled and capricious grand duchess with accuracy and verve.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - You can join Eddy Arnold on the radio tonight and, in a sense, "make the world go away.

Arnold, the smooth singer known for songs like "Make the World Go Away," is co-host of an NBC Radio Network show that sets aside stars of today's world while resurrecting some of the best-loved entertainers of old radio.

The show's producers went into the archives to get excerpts of radio. shows by Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Mary Martin, Jimmy Durante, Groucho Marx and others. Arnold and veteran announcer Ed Herlihy narrate the hour-long show around the

'The show will appeal to people who remember this kind of thing," Arnold said in an interview. "To people who have never heard it, they will listen to hear what radio was really

"People are going to perk up and say, 'Is that the way they did it?' During the show, Crosby sings "By the Light of the Silvery Moon" and joins the Andrews Sisters in "Don't Fence Me In." He also sings with Miss Martin and later joins Hope in a comedy routine.

Others on the show include Nelson Eddy, Charles Boyer, Bob Burns, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Al Jolson, Dinah Shore, Spike Jones, Nat King Cole, Victor Borge and Larry Adler.

"I remember all those people," Arnold said. "I loved hearing the jokes and that kind of thing. I thought the show was great."

Arnold does not sing on the show, which will be broadcast at various times tonight, depending on the station carrying it. Now 61, he still is an active performer, doing concerts and singing with symphony orchestras. And he still puts out records, but nothing as successful as his past hits like "Cattle Call," "Bouquet of Roses" and "Any Time.

Museum of Southwest's new director

From wine country, she comes to dry West Texas

By PATSY GORDON Lifestyle Writer

She is "warm, well-organized, energetic, very outgoing," and a

"desert person."
All of these characteristics have been used to describe Joan Hellen, the new director for the Museum of the Southwest. She will officially assume her duties

Ms. Hellen, according to Leila Seal, president of the museum's board of trustees, is the first female director ever hired by the trustees, and may be the only woman director in the area and "maybe statewide."

The new director moved to the Tall City from Davis, Calif., where she has been assistant museum scientist for the Department of Anthropology at the University of California, since 1975. She has MA and AB degrees in anthropology, with a minor in art history.

"I actually was more of a curator-director" instead of museum scientist, said Ms. Hellen, who describes herself as a "desert person."

Ms. Hellen was born and reared in Sonoma, the wine country of California. She has lived in Denver in Southern Colorado and in South Dakota. "I have traveled extensively in the Southwest, so I figured my best het was to live and work there," Joan explained.

Her plans for the Museum of the Southwest are not specific as yet, but she believes "the museum has a lot of potential for development according to policy and to the board of trust-

The policy of the museum, accepted by the trustees April 14, says, "Purpose of the Museum of the Southwest shall be to enable the people of the Southwest to see significance in the features of the land to which they belong, to make the environment more interesting to them and the past more alive, to bring to them a realization of the values of their own cultural inheritance and to stimulate them to observe and consider these things in relation to a broader cultural and historical context."

She mentioned the developing of Lancaster House as a resource and expansion of the Museum in the near future—an architect already is developing plans—with the addition of another building behind the former Fred Turner home.

"I would like to see the Museum become an active resource for the community," explained Ms. Hellen, 30, who succeeded Sam Grove, who left the Museum Jan. 15 after four years service to teach the history of art at the University of Houston.

In discussing qualifications for a museum director, Don Hedgspeth, who has been serving as interim director, said that the new director not only is professionally qualified, "she has empathy for the subject matter areas that the museum focuses on. Her interest primarily is Southwestern, and she has imagination, creativity and enthusiasm."

Mrs. Seal said, "Joan Is warm, well-organized and very outgoing. She's going to be wonderful for Midland and the Museum of the Southwest."

Ms. Hellen has worked with Cynthia Irwin-Williams, noted archaeologist, working pueblo rooms during excavation.

"I'm not only interested in the history of the area (Midiand), but its art," said Ms. Hellen, who has a contemporary art collection of native American pieces.

Ms. Hellen, who seriously thought she could sneak in the back door and quietly go to work, said she is a public person. "I wanted to get out of the university system—its ivory towers were too thick. The public is an untapped resource for information, and the university did not give me an opportunity to work with public situations.

"Midland is exciting for me. There are so many community situations. The people have a lot of energy and I'm also an energy freak."

Her hobbies include fly fishing, snow skiing, swimming, photography, trap shooting and horseback riding, both Western and English. "I wanted to be a cowboy when I grew up—not the kind that wore skirts, but the ones that wore blue jeans."

She also used to hunt while living in Colorado, but "I enjoy photographing the animals more than shooting them."

The new director's professional growth activities include studies in the following: "Legal Problems of Museum Administration," sponsored by the Smithsonian Institute; "Conservation for Small Museums," Berkley Museum of Anthropology; "Scientific Illustration," California Academy of Sciences; art history-art studio at Metropolitan State College at Denver, Colo.; art studio-photography at Napa College at Napa, Calif.; Nikon School of Photography at Monterrey and fashion illustration and design at San Francisco School of Fashion Design.

Her professional affiliations comprise: American Association of Museums, Northern California Registrars Association, Western Regional Conference, American Association of Museums (currently serving the WRC-AAM as the Northern California representative) and the Wheelwright Museum of the American Indian, Santa Fe, N.M.

She also has been an active member in the Society for American Archaeology, Center for Archaeological Research at Dayls and the Society for California Archaeology

Colonels' Ladies just ''keep'em flying''

By WANDA MOUTON Lifestyle Editor

They're called "The Colonels' Ladies" and will do almost any kind of work for a ride in a Warbird, the surviving aircraft from World War II.

"In fact, it's not unusual to see a colonel's lady in the hangar on her back with a can of grease helping with aircraft repair--or standing in the hot sun for a 10 hour stretch selling Warbird gift items," said Van A. Van Wie of Midland, president of the West Texas "Colonels' Ladies" Wing of the Confederate Air Force. She's also a flier.

Her "colonel" is Joe Mabee, who just happens to be Wing Leader for the West Texas group this year. A Midland rancher and oil producer, Mabee is the proud owner of a P-40N Warhawk, a Flying Tiger.

As president of the local Wing, Ms. Van Wie is currently heading a membership drive for the CAF, an organization formed in the midfifties in the hopes of preserving a complete collection of combat aircraft which were flown by all military services of the U.S. in World War II.

Members of the CAF, including several Midlanders, will be flying in the Antique Aircraft and Flying Show today at the Fiesta Del Concho in San Angelo. The action begins at 1 p.m. with aerobatic acts and a performance of the "Tora-Tora-Tora" act, a reenactment of the WWII airfight.

In addition, there will also be flybys of several varieties of aircraft from WWII, including three of the rare P-40s. One of these will be the famous flaming pink Warhawk flown by Sue Parish, a Woman's Army Service Pilot (WASP) in WWII who gained hundreds of hours of flying by the time the war

Also to be seen at the show are TBMs, torpedo bombers; Folding Wing aircraft like that used on aircraft carriers in the war; an AT-6, the primary trainer aircraft for the boys in the war; and a B-17 bomber.

Well in evidence at the show will be "The Colonel's Ladies" from all the squadrons in the 160-colonel wing encompassing Abilene, San Angelo, Lubbock, El Paso, Midland and Odessa.

"We do all the work," said Ms. Van Wie. "Of course, the guys handle the aircraft end of the show, but we have to plan a full schedule of social activities, maintain a full PX of Confederate Air Force souvenirs and sell the gift items at all the shows."

And also there will be the black limousine formerly owned by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis which Mabee picked up at an auction. It has been officially designed as the CAF's West Texas Wing staff car and displays Confederate flags on the antennas and the sounds of "Dixie" in the horn.

Ms. Van Wie has her private pilot's license and, as an interior decorator, has done several aircraft interiors, including Col. Mabee's airplanes.

Most of the other members of the women's organization don't have their license, though several are now in flight training.

Persons do not have to be pilots or own an airplane to be a member of the Confederate Air Force," Ms. Van Wie explained. "All that is required of a person before he can be a member is an interest."

Each colonel is allowed to sponsor one woman as a lady, whether it be a wife or a friend.

Ms. Van Wie enjoys her role as a "colonel's lady."

"It's a fun group," she said. "You see history go by every time one of those antique aircraft go up. I still get cold chills down my back whenever I hear the engines of that P-40 Warbird start up."

The San Angelo airshow is really a warm-up for the Harlingen show which annually attracts crowds of 60,000 to 100,000 people. The event is scheduled for Oct. 4-7 and there the "Colonels Ladies" work with Culpeper's Angels in overseeing the show. The Angels are named in honor of the mythical leader of the Confederate Air Force, Col. Jethro E. Culpeper.

The ladies also support the museum buildings for the permanent protection and display of the antique aircraft and are working on plans for the building of the "Combat Pilot Hall of Fame" as a tribute to the thousands of men and women who build, serviced and flew them.

They all have a love for these bellowing aircraft of a bygone era when America was pulling together. And, like the famous phrase of WWII, they plan to "keep'em flying."

Van A. Van Wie, president of the local "Colonels' Ladies" organization, the women's auxiliary to the Confederate Air Force, perches on the wing of a P-40 Warhawk. She is a flier and interior decorator.

Her sponsor in the CAF is Col. Joe Mabee of Midland who is wing leader of the West Texas Squadron and owner of a Flying Tiger—a Curtiss* P-40N Warhawk.

Gala guests to meet 'Gypsy' cast

Professional actors combine with West Texas talent creating a summer musical company to perform 'Gyspy" and "Damn Yankees" from Thursday through July 21.

Heading the cast are 10 professional players from the Los Angeles area, with the remaining cast members from the Permian Basin.

In cooperation with Southwest Summer Musicals, Inc., a summer stock company, the Midland Symphony Guild will host the gala premiere of "Gypsy" at 7 p.m. Thursday. Immediately after the performance at Midland High School Auditorium, guests are invited to meet the cast at the gala to be held at The First National Bank Plaza.

The occasion honors the musical which gave us favorite lyrics such as "Let Me Entertain You," "Small World," and "Everything is Coming Up Roses." Based on the life of the famous stripper, Gypsy Rose Lee, the play opened on Broadway in 1959 with Ethel Merman portraying Mama Rose. Anyone wishing to attend the gala, please call 683-2606.

Following the gala performance, 'Gypsy" is scheduled for seven additional presentations from Friday through July 1 and July 4-7. "Damn Yankees," a light musical in which a middle-age man sells his soul to the devil to become a great baseball player, will follow from July 12-15 and July 18-21. In true baseball spirit, cast members will perform at the Midland Cubs annual July 3 festivities, performing favorite "Damn Yankees" lyrics as "You've Gotta Have Heart" and "What Lola Wants,

Lola Gets. The two summer musicals will be a major fund-raising project for the Midland Symphony Guild's coming year. Previous benefits for family entertainment include "Evenings With" the new Christy Minstrels, Phyllis Diller, Jack Jones, Ginger

Rogers and designer Bill Blass. Guild members will be assisting the box office at Midland High School Auditorium between the hours of 10:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. daily. The box office number is 682-0296. Tickets are priced at $5.50. Professional cast members include Nanon Tygett of San Diego, Clark Sterling of Los Angeles, Carol Florman of Beverly Hills, Frank Widman of San Francisco and Steve Gurrola. Cathy Sue Pyles and David McFarland, all from the Los Angeles area. Director James Buchanan, who directed a professional production of

Study shows consumers paying too much for beef

WASHINGTON (AP) tion, John Dunning, de- saw the department's A government study of clined comment until he report. middleman costs showed Friday that consumers earlier this spring were charged 9.4 cents a pound more for beef and pork than was justified by rising costs of getting meat from farmers to retail shoppers.

The figures, released by the Agriculture Department, showed that meat packers and retailers, as a general group, boosted their margins above what was actually justified by costs. That resulted in consumers paying 4.3 percent more for beef and 6.5 percent more for pork, the department said.

For example, in April and May the average two-month retail price of U.S. Choice beef was more than $2.29 a pound, measured on an all-cut basis. Pork in the same two months averaged almost $1.54 a pound.

The figures indicated that, based on true costs, beef could have sold for $2.20 a pound and pork could have retailed for slightly more than $1.44 a pound

Although livestock prices declined during the spring, retail prices rose, the report said. A spokesman for the National Independent Meat Packer's Associa-

DEAR ABBY

She wonders who caters his affairs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband of six years has just ended his third affair. After the first two, he chose to stay with me, but after this last affair I'm not sure I want to stay with him.

He refuses to tell me whether these affairs included sex, although it seems impossible to imagine that they did not. I need to know!

The fact that he won't tell me bothers me more than whether he had sex with these women. Do I have the right to know?-ROSITA

DEAR ROSITA: If he said he had an "affair" don't press him for the particulars. It's not an 'affair" unless it's the whole enchilada.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago I married a good-natured, loving, honest, beautiful little woman from a foreign country. We have had to that never was a pro-blem. However, two disorganized and unresolved problems chronically late.

Rollers paint on stucco

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

- Part of the outside of our house is stucco. I intend to paint it soon, using exterior latex masonry paint. Is it possible to use a roller for this job in view of the rough surface of the stucco?

A. — Yes. Use a roller with a thick nap. Be sure the roller is generously laden with paint each time you use it and stroke it well into each section. It might be a good idea to keep a brush handy so that it can be used if you run into any area where the roller does not thoroughly get between the stucco crevices and indentations.

Flowers sold to world

By EARL ARONSON AP Newsfeatures

The world's largest flower-auction center, a mass of color, is so big that some employees travel by bicycle within the structure and tractors haul carloads of blooms in miniature railroad fashion.

Overall, the United Aalsmeer Flower Auction in Holland covers 104 acres, including 60 acres under a single roof. Thousands of carts in organized confusion deliver cut flowers and plants from the sellers to the auction rooms, then to the exporters for shipment around the world. Each day, more than 3,-700 growers bring their products to Aalsmeer where 2,600 registered buyers seek their wares. Many of the flowers are grown in the miles of greenhouses in Aalsmeer and surrounding communities; some come from much further dis-

More than 80 percent of the products are sold for export. In 1977, sales by the cooperative venture totaled about 1.7 billion cut flowers and about 80 million potted plants. The co-op takes a commission of one percent for its expenses. In 1978, the auction reports, there was a turnover of 540 million guilders on cut flowers and 160 million guilders on potted plants. The current rate of exchange is approximately two guilders per $1 of U.S. currency.

The auction begins daily, except Sunday, at 7 a.m., and ends about 11.30 a.m. Within a few hours, generally the same afternoon, the flowers are en route to their destinations by air, truck or railroad.
