OUT OUR WAY

TAKIN' IN THE TOWN.

Nature and Human Nature

Good times are old times, for they have been. Their rough knocks seem softened in memory, hidden partly amid softer touches and carresses. Whatever of melancholy is unavoidable in our reminiscences serves only to temper those experiences of long ago. They are gone forever, yet we have inspirations and admonitions that need never be lost from our memories of the times that have been.

Good times are here and now, for they are. No regret because they have slipped away from us, nor uncertainty because they might never come. There is the joy of living; their moments are ours for the using. Any holdover from the past is mixed in the acting present; any hope for the future is heaven for the lump we hold in our hands. We are to make the most and the best of the times that are here and now.

Good times are coming, for they are yet to be. They are a potentiality. The past was used for better or worse. The present must be used in its swift passing, not in deliberation. But the future may be approached in intelligent anticipation. We can at least shape it in relation to an upward goal. Even if our plans go awry we still will grow by our efforts to govern the times that are yet to be—W. P. BRUCE.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, April 23—Rep. Ben Cathey quitman probably would have little opposition in an election of that state legislature's most unpopular member, if the vote were confined to legislators.

In his report as chairman of a committee investigating relationships between those drawing state pay, he included a record of each representative and senator. Legislators who have been unable to help the Widow Jones' daughter get a job in these hard times, may find it embarrassing in their campaigns for re-election if an opponent looks up the record and shows the legislator's own kin are at the trough.

Cathey presents not only what has happened but detailed for the edification of the legislators what happened under existing conditions. He outlined the child of a state department head being employed in another department. Suppose the youth proved slothful and neglected work. The D. H. gets him on the carpet and threatens dismissal. But he is met with this staggering reply: "I'll fire me. I'll tell Daddy and he'll fire your kinfolks."

Miss Marie Dresden, Texas new relief director, is one expert who does not have a graph on her office wall. Its absence was observed at her first press conference after becoming director. "But there is one being prepared," she said to the disappointment of reporters.

There are 7,000 officers in Texas, including rangers, highway patrolmen, sheriffs, deputies and police, all looking for Clyde Barrow, Bonnie Parker and Raymond Hamilton. Twenty-eight of these are state rangers and 118 highway patrolmen. Cooperating are federal officers. Add to this the underworld individuals that may be willing to earn posted rewards, and it is apparent that the trio either will be caught soon or will keep away from Texas.

Added to it all, officials who have been working on the captures are convinced that Hamilton and Barrow really are no longer working together, but have become outright enemies. One theory is that Clyde was waiting to have a show down with Hamilton near Grapevine when the youth proved slothful and neglected work. The D. H. gets him on the carpet and threatens dismissal. But he is met with this staggering reply: "I'll fire me. I'll tell Daddy and he'll fire your kinfolks."

ALLRED SCORES UTILITY "RULE" IN BROADCAST

FORT WORTH, April 23—Utility regulation, written by the people who pay the bills rather than by corporations which reap the profits, was submitted by Attorney-general James V. Allred last night as a part of his platform for governor.

Warning that such legislation could not be written until lobbying has been curbed, Allred quoted extensively from President Roosevelt, records of the Federal Trade Commission and current newspaper reports to show the "shocking and shameful methods" of privileged corporations in shaping public sentiment and laws to their own ends.

Allred spoke over Radio station WBAP in the second formal address of his campaign.

Anti-Utility Law

"I shall use all my influence," he said, "to get a law passed that is not written by public utility lawyers. If a utilities commission is set up, I will do what I can to see that the utilities do not select our commissioners." He also advocated freedom for all municipalities to resort to municipal ownership, although declaring he believed as a general proposition that utilities should be developed under private ownership.

The laws designed to hamper municipal ownership must be abolished," he said. "I want to see every industry earn a fair return on its investment, but I want also to see Texas built for Texans."

Allred's theme was a paraphrase of a familiar Texas slogan: "Texans, let's rule Texas."

"This is a new battle," he said, "against an ancient foe—a foe often invisible, but whose aggressions have left deep scars upon economic and political democracy. If democracy is not to perish from the earth... we must revive the spirit of simple honesty and fair play."

ROUMANIAN OIL EXPERT STUDIES METHODS HERE

Keeps High Post in NRA Shakeup

DYNAMITE DECORATIONS
HOOD RIVER, Ore., April 23 — Two small boys found some dynamite caps in an old building and divided them equally. One of the lads took his dynamite caps home and was about to hammer them onto the side of a toy wooden boat as decorations when his father took a curious interest in the lad's actions. His investigation before the boy began wielding the hammer saved his son from serious injury.

HOUSTON, April 23.—Because oil wells are drilled at such great depths in Roumania, Nic Stefanescu, official Roumanian representative, is visiting oil shows in the United States to observe latest equipment and methods.

At the Oil Equipment and Engineering exposition here he said the Roumanian fields were as well equipped as those of Texas.

He is chief engineer of the Independent Roumanian de Petroleo, government-supervised company.

The petroleum industry is the largest business in Roumania, he said. The country consumes only 20 per cent of its production, exporting the remainder.

There is no disorder in the fields, Stefanescu told delegates to the exposition here. The government assumed all ownership rights on sub-soil properties in 1924. Property owners now must sell surface rights when oil is discovered.

Taxes on gas-line are high in Roumania. A fourth of the retail price on a gallon of gasoline is for the commodity and the remainder is taxes.

Good equipment is needed, Stefanescu said, for the deep production wells. Recently a well was completed at 2760 meters, approximately 8400 feet, the deepest producer in Europe. Average depth is 6000 feet.

Gas pressure of 3,000 pounds per square inch is not unusual, the engineer said, and at that pressure equipment receives a rigid test.

"One of our wells blew out and caught fire," he recalled. "It blazed for two years and went out."

Stefanescu will be in the United States for three months, securing his information in English, thinking about it in Roumanian, then writing about it in Roumanian and French, the oil language of Europe.

$500,000 in Scrap Metal Is Exported

HOUSTON, April 23.—Houston's scrap metal industry last year exported $500,000 worth of "junk" to a dozen or more countries.

Along the turning basin here are great piles of the rusty iron and steel collected from a radius of 300 miles about Houston. Most of the ships that enter the basin leave with a cargo which includes some of the metal.

Great electro-magnets lift tons of metal from the piles and swing it into the holds of the ships.

Italy, Germany, England, China, Japan and Poland are among the principal importers. The scraps are melted and re-worked under new and patented processes which are said to make the new product as good, and in some instances better than, the original product.

Many an English farmer turns his soil with a plow made from steel railroad rails which once spanned western prairies, and many a Japanese housewife sews with a machine made from metal that once towered above a Texas oil well.

OLD FOLKS LIKE THIS LAXATIVE

Tired, slow-functioning, eliminative organs need the "full" action, prompt, easy movement given by Feen-a-mint, the delightful-tasting chewing gum laxative that contains a laxative ingredient regularly prescribed by physicians. Old folks especially need modern Feen-a-mint, because, by chewing, the laxative is distributed uniformly into the system and this does not shock, irritate, nor strain.

Prompt, thorough-acting Feen-a-mint, pleasant to take, contains no richness to upset your stomach or diet. Work-hardened old folks like Feen-a-mint because its more modern action eliminates any necessity of experiencing that delay that starts poisons seeping into the system. "Delay" is dangerous—chew Feen-a-mint for constipation. 15c and 25c at druggists everywhere.

That campaign will take him into the sparsely populated counties to beat the mesquite for votes. His friends say that Duval county, which polled 2,000 votes last election will have 3,600 this year and most of them will be for the Duke of Duval. Starr county with 800 votes last election is said to be 1,800 strong now and Purr's friends are counting on a 10 to 1 majority. Zapata county is up to 900 from 150 votes two years ago. Jim Hogg county has 1,100 qualified voters as compared to 500 and Brooks county has raised from 500 to 1,300.

Those are the increases the Duke is after.

Purr's name has become a tradition among the Mexicans of his vast district. Among them he is known and revered as Senor Don Padre Parr. Through his long career he has told the Mexicans he would care for them. His word has been as good as an oath and on election days swarmed out of the mesquite by thousands to cast their ballots. Don Padre Parr, or anyone in dors.

Parr always carries his county. In the last election congressional seat, received votes on the first count. His opponent had six.

The eighteen counties in the panhandle 27th district are: Zafra, McMullen, LaSalle, Duval, Jim Hogg, Zapata, Wells, Kennedy, Nueces, Kleberg, lacy, Brooks, Starr, Hidalgo Cameron.
